38 STATES RATIFY NATIONAL PROHIBITION

Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone, 3-R.

Liquor Trade will go to Courts with Slim Chances.

This week, State legislatures had a race to get on the water wagon. All have now passed the constitutional amendment but Minnesota, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Rhode Island and Wisconsin.

There are a number of the States having referendum laws, which re-quire constitutional amendments to be submitted to the people before be-coming effective. These laws, and the courts on one plea or another, will be invoked in order to try to save the liquor business, but there is little chance that the provisions of the amendment will not go into effect within one year; meanwhile, the nation goes dry July 1, next, as a war measure, unless the President rescinds it before that date.

There is some doubt as to the date of the law becoming effective, as some of the States have not yet certified to their action, but Senator Shepard is confident that the date will be on January 16, 1920. A bitter fight will be made but public sentiment appears so unmistakably in favor of prohibition by the Nation, that all efforts in opposition are regarded as mere formalities, sure to be nothing more.

Farm Machinery Repair Week.

The week of March 1st will be "National Farm Equipment Repair Week," throughout the State and Nation, and every farmer in Maryland who owns power farm machinery should make out the list of repairs or new machinery needed as early as possible and place it in his dealers hands for immediate action. In carrying out our 1919 food production program we cannot afford to lose a moment's time after March 1st, and by being thoroughly prepared in this matter of farm machinery, we can avoid many costly delays.

The imperative need for definite action on this question is easily undertood when we consider the vast number of tractors, gas engines, thrash-ing outfits, etc., that must be put in running order before the season's activities begin. The natural tendency is to wait until we need some particular machine befor ordering repairs. As a matter of fact, it is only when we get ready to use the machine that we discover repairs are needed. It is this far too general practice that we must relegate to bygone days if we as producers are to become efficient in the full sense of the word.

A REMINDER. Lest We Forget Our Opportunity For Mercy.

It is pleasing to note how promptly a few people responded to the print. ed appeal for relief in the near East. The call went out on Friday evening, and on Sunday the returns began to come in. No effort has been made to get a report of the total for Taneytown District, as it is expected that most of the offerings will be brought to the various churches next Sunday. Everybody ought to remember that this appeal, like the large drives that went before it, is to be answered at once. Beginning last Sunday and closing next Sunday is the time set for the special effort, and every one ought to have a share in it. The very quietness of the campaign may cause us to forget, so let us act now. Get your offering to one of the stores or banks at once, or get to one of the churches next Sunday and put it on the plate, using the special envelope for the purpose. If you have no printed envelope, use a plain one, marking it "For Relief in the Near East," anl your name. The contributions already in show a fair degree of liberality. They have been left at various places. One church reports 18 contributions for last Sunday. varying from $1.00 $25.00, amounting in all to $51.00. If a large percenage of our citizens will give so as to make from $1.00 up to $5.00 or $10.00 from each home, it will make a satisfactory total. few will doubtless feel able to give in larger amounts, and it is hoped that such will do all that the heart prompts.

ROOSEVELT'S LAST SAY. "League of Nations" Editorial, Dictated on his Death Bed.

Col. Roosevelt's last public opinion, dictated on Friday before his death on Monday, prepared for the Kansas City Star, and which he had intended to go over for possible correction, on Monday, was on the subject of "The League of Nations." He commented on Mr. Wilson's continued neglect to give a clear idea of what he meant to propose, and made the broad comment that 'if too much is attempted the result is either failure, or worse than failure." He said in part:

"The trouble with Mr. Wilson's utterances, so far as they are reported, and utterances of acquiescence in them by European statesmen is that they are still absolutely in the stage of rhetoric, precisely like the 14 points. Some of the 14 points will probably have to be construed as having a mischievous sentence, a smaller number might be construed as being harmless, and one or two even as beneficial, but nobody knows what Mr. Wilson really means by them, and so all talk of adopting them as basis for a peace or league is nonsense and, if the talker is intelligent, it is insincere nonsense to boot. So. Mr. Wilson's recent utterances give us absolutely no clue as to whether he really intends that at this moment we shall admit Russia, Germany, with which, incidentally, we are still waging war; Turkey, China and Mexico into the league on a full equality with ourselves. Mr. Taft has recently defined the purposes of the league and the limitations under which it would act, in a way that enables most of us to say we very heartily agree in principle with his theory, and can, without doubt, come to an agreement on specific details. "Would it not be well to begin with the leage which we actually have in existence, the league of the Allies who have fought through this great war ? Let us at the peace table see that real justice is done as among these Allies and that, while the sternest reparation is demanded from our foes for such horrors as those committed in Belgium, northern France, Armenia and the sinking of the Lusitania, nothing should be done in the spirit of mere vengeance

Then let us agree to extend the privileges of the league as rapidly as they conduct warrants it to other nations, doubtless discriminating between those who would have a guiding part in the league and the weak nations who would be entitled to the privileges of membership but who would not be entitled to a guiding voice in the councils.

Let each nation reserve to itself and for its own discussion and let it clearly set forth questions which are nonjusticiable. Let nothing be done that will interfere with our preparing for our own defense by introducing a system of universal obligatory military training modeled on the Swiss plan." "Finally make it perfectly clear that we do not intend to take a position of an international Meddlesome Matty. The American people do not wish to go into an overseas war unless for a very great cause and where the issue is absolutely plain. Therefore, we do not wish to undertake the responsibility of sending our gallant young men to die in obscure fights in the Balkans or in Central Europe or in a war we do not approve of.

Moreover, the American people no not intend to give up the Monroe Doctrine. Let civilized Europe and Asia introduce some kind of police system in the weak and disorderly countries at their thresholds. But let the United States treat Mexico as our Balkan peninsula and refuse to allow European or Asiatic Powers to interfere on this continent in any way that implies perma-nent or semi-permanent possession. Every one of our allies will with delight grant this request if Presdent Wlson chooses to make it, and it will be a great misfortune if it is not made." "I believe that such an effort made moderately and sanely, but sincerely and with utter scorn for words that are not made good by deeds, will be productive of real and lasting international good."

BONE-DRY LAW UPHELD. GOVERNMENT INSURANCE.

The U.S. Government to Continue in Life Insurance.

It is the evident purpose of the present administration to continue in the Life Insurance business, as circular letters to that effect have been issued to the press by Mr. McAdoo, asking at the same time the support of the press. One of the circulars is addressed "To the Soldiers and Sailors of America," and recites the importance of the continuance of government insurance. It says:

Supreme Court Decides Against Liquors for Personal Use.

Washington, Jan. 13 .- Statutes of 'dry" States permitting persons to import or personally bring in limited amounts of intoxicants for their own were in effect nullified by the socalled "Reed bone-dry" amendment adopted by Congress, the Supreme Court held today in an opinion reversing the Federal Court for the Southern District of West Virginia.

FOR BOYS CLUB WORK. Farm Boys of Carroll County Receive Prizes.

The Boys' Agricultural Club of Carroll County finished their second year of work in fine style. At the end of the year 1917 only three dem-onstartion books were sent in to the Director of Boys' Club work at the Md. State College. At the close of last year 45 demonstrations were completed and books sent in to the Director. This in its self is evidence enough that the farm boys of Car-roll are awakening to the fact that here is an opportunity not only to win a prize, but to do some actual farm work for themselves. The parents realize the fact that by giving the boy a pig, some ground or some chickens, he becomes more interested in farm work and will stay with him on the farm and not go to the city as so many of our boys have done in the

The Pig Club work consists of raising a pig for six months, starting with a pig about six weeks old. A record is kept of all feed fed, labor and pasture. At the end of the period the pig is weighed. The gain, the cost of grain and the profit is worked out. A history is written by the Club member and the report book filled out and sent to the County Agent. The prize winners for 1918 are: Carroll Rill, Hampstead school, whose report scored 82; Dwight Walker, Mt. Airy school, 58.3; Devries Hering, 57.6. This score is based on the net profit and the history. Fourteen boys re-ported representing 3800 pounds of pork.

The Corn Club work consists of growing and keeping records of one acre of corn. The number of bushels in shelled corn testing 12% moisture which is standard market corn. Marion Prough, Sykesville school, 76.2 bu. of white corn, scored 98.5; Frank Conaway, Mt. Airy school,73.6 bu. white cap, scored 92.6; Clarence Myers, Westminster High school, 70.1 bu. of Reed's yellow dent, scored 87.5. The score is based on the yield, profit, exhibit of ten ears, and the his-Fifteen boys reporting 932 bushels.

The Potato Club work has not kept up to the two former clubs as it should have in this county. This is due largely to the fact that potato raising is not as extensive as corn and hogs, and the lack of good varieties free from disease. One of the main features of the club is to study the growing of potatoes, the diseases and their treatment, so the club has a good goal to reach in 1919. The winners for 1918 are: Maurice Wolfe ners for 1918 are: Maurice Wolfe, Manchester school, 20.5 bu., score 79.5; Irvin Flickinger, Union Mills school, 16 bu., score 69.5; James Reed, 16 bu., score 67. These results were obtained on 1/10 acre plot, and the score was based on yield, profit, ex-hibit of ½ pk., and history. Twelve boys reported 150 bu., averaging 110 bu, per acre bu. per acre.

PEACE CONFERENCE READY FOR BUSINESS. Harmony is not as Apparent as Many Hoped for.

The Peace Conference commenced ts work, this week, devoting its at tention largely to preliminary ques-tions, such as new terms for the armistice, and the representation to be accorded to the various powers. America, England, France, Italy and Japan were given five each, Brazil three, Roumania, Belgium, Serbia, Greece, Canada, Australia, South Africa, India, Poland, China, and Czecho-Slovaki two each, and several smaller countries one each

The first full session will be held on Saturday, and opened by an address by President Poncaire, of France. It is probable that both the English and French language will be used. How decisions will be arrived at will be a matter of great importance, as it is desired, as nearly as possible, to arrive at unanimous verdicts.

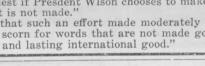

The outlook for concrete results coming rapidly, is not bright. Popu-lar generalities have been applauded, but it is becoming apparent that the many vital questions are so hedged about with conflicting interests that their early and easy settlement is not in sight. The Wilson idea of a League of Nations, and guaranteed peace forever after, must now be met openly with acts, and these are not as easy to arrive at as to theorize about.

The Conference seems to have de-cided that the drafting of the peace pact shall be done in secret session and that only a censored report shall be given of each day's proceedings. This has met with a storm of protest from the press, as it will also from the general public, and there is a possibility of the action being recon-sidered. It has not yet been made public who is responsible for the secrecy proposition:

It is growing apparent that the conference is not going to be a happy family affair, and that there will hardly be any "railroading" of questions through agreed upon by any one combination. It is still hoped that on essentials there may be comparative unity, but on details there promises to be plenty of "scrapping," and even a possiblity of serious disagreements among the major nations.

Soldiers' Mail Returned.

Washington, Jan. 10-From eight to ten carloads of mail for American soldiers are undelivered in France, Second Assistant Postmaster General Praeger told the Senate Postoffice Committee today, and "thousands and probably millions," of letters addressed to the men oversea will arrive in New York soon to be sent to the dead letter office, where an attempt will be made to return them to the writers. Blame for the failure to deliver this mail was placed on the War Depart-ment by Mr. Praeger, who again explained that the army authorities handle all soldiers' mail in France, the Postoffice Department delivering outgoing mail at Hoboken and receiving returning mail at the French ports. Members of the committee sought to ascertain whether there was any delay at French ports in handling mail coming force of experienced mail clerks to France to deliver the mail to the soldiers. "The trouble does not lie at the ports," declared Mr. Praeger. "It lies in the interior. The mail gets tied up somewhere between army headquarters, censors and the ports. Mr. Praeger told the committee that one reason for the confusion in the delivery of mail to soldiers was the failure of the War Department to keep up its index system. This same cause, he declared, also was responsible for the department's delay in sending out allotments to solidiers and in reporting casualties. Another source of delay in delivery of the mail promptly, he added, was the transferring of units of troops from one port to another, but he said this should cause only a few days delay as the mail could readily be for-warded to the moving troops.

A Meteor Shows Itself.

What may have been the flight of an explosive meteor was witnessed last Sunday evening, shortly after six o'clock, causing a light some-thing like a flash of lightning, appearing in the north, or north-east

Most people saw only the light, while others claimed there was a bursting effect and a rumbling noise The visitation attracted a great deal of comment throughout this county. Astronomers say that while such phenomena in January are out of season, no particular interest attaches to them.

A Remarkable Record.

The Baltimore News, last week, gave an interesting sketch of John J. Reese, of Westminster, as the "champion commuter," who for 18 years has travelled over the W. M. R. R., daily from his home in Westminster to the office of the Baltimore County Mutual Insurance Co., in Balti-more. His record is as follows;

Daily ride to and from office, 70 miles

Yearly mileage to and from work, 22,000 miles.

Mileage to and from work for 18 years, 396,000 miles.

Monthly railroad fare $14.08.

Yearly railroad fare, $168.96

Fare paid during 18 years, $3,041.28 Time spent on train daily, 3 hours. Time spent on train yearly, 39 days, 3 hours.

Time on train in 18 years, 704 days 6 hours.

Mr. Reese says he rises about 5 o'clock, in time to take the 6.21 train for Baltimore; is at his office about these seven chief nations which were 8:00 o'clock, and leaves work in time in conflict are greater than the develfor the 4:20 train home. He was never in a wreck of any consequence, but of course met with delays.

Receipts From Hunters' Licenses.

The State Game Warden has issued a detailed statement showing the number of hunters' licenses issued in each county, with the amount of rev-enue therefrom. The total for the State is the rather surprising sum of $63.676.

Carroll county issued 1478 licenses at $1.00; 48, at $5.00, and 3 at $10.00, making a total of $1748. There appears to have been certain issuing fees deducted, making the total turn-ed over to the State $60,799.45, in addition to which there were likely fines for violation of the laws.

For the whole State there were 39,746 licenses at $1.00; 3008 at $5.00, and 889 at $10.00.

War Cost $167,000,000,000.

New York, Jan. 12 .- The total indebtedness of the seven great nations which were chiefly engaged in carrying forward the great war increas-ed in four years from $27,000,000,000 to more than $194,000,000,000, accord ing to a statement issued by the Me-chanics and Metals' National Bank, while the total indebtedness of the nations of the world has increased to more than $200,000,000,000. The bank's compilations show that Great Britain and Germany have the heaviest debts of any of the belligerents that France comes third and Austria-Hungary, Russia and United States and Italy follow in order.

According to the bank's estimate the securities now outstanding against oped wealth of any single nation of the world other than the United States. These securities represent a sum six times as large as all of the bank deposits of the United States, 12 times as large as all gold and silver mined since the beginning of the world and 20 times as large as the value of the annual foreign trade of this country.

"The privilege of continuing your Government insurance is a valuable right given to you as part of the compensation for your heroic and tri-umphant services. If you permit the insurance to lapse, you lose that right, and you will never be able to regain it. But if you keep up your present insurance-by the regular payment of premiums-you will be able to change it into a standard Government policy, without medical examination. Meantime you can keep up your present insurance at substantially the same low rate. The Government will write ordinary life insurance, twentypayment life, endowment maturing at age of 62, and other usual forms of insurance. This will be Government insurance-at Government rates.' While the statement is issued to "The soldiers and sailors,' ' it also says "The Government will write ordinary life insurance, etc." It is not clear, therefore, whether it is the purpose of the administration to limit its insurance to present "sol-diers and sailors," or whether it means to go into the regular life in-surance business. If the latter, then this is a plain case of the Government going into what has always been considered "private business," and it seems to us that before doing so the whole matter requires more discussion and more legislation. If it can operate life insurance, why not fire insurance, banking, or any other line of general business ?

Home With 8-inch Scar.

Herman S. Beck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Beck, of Mt. Airy, formerly of Berrett district, has been visiting his parents on a short furlough, this week. He recently arrived at Camp Meade from a hospital in France, where he had been for some time recovering from a severe shrapnel wound. He is feeling fine at present. He declares that he has had a wonderful experience which he would not sell at any price, but he would not care to see any more of the horrors of war. His parents and friends were glad to welcome the young men home again, and hope that he may soon be permanently relieved from military duty. He carries an 8-inch scar on his body as a result of the to prevent manufacture or sale of inwound .- Sykesville Herald.

"For your protection Uncle Sam opinion, in which Justice Clarke conment was not an interstate commerce regulatory measure, but a direct meddling with State affairs and as such purely beyond the power of the Federal Government.

> The case came up on an appeal of the Government from the lower court decision dismissing proceedings brought against Dan Hill for carry ing a quart of liquor into West Virginia for his personal use as permitted by the State law. The trial court held that such transportation did not come within the meaning of the Reed amendment, which, it held, was intended to apply only to actual shipments of liquor. The Supreme Court remainded the case for retrial.

In rendering the majority opinion Justice Day said:

"In view of the authority of Congress over the subject matter and the enactment of previous legislation embodied in the Wilson and Webb-Kenyon laws we have no question that Congress enacted this statute because of its belief that in States prohibiting the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, the facilities of interstate com-merce should be denied to the introduction of intoxicants by means of Interstate Commerce, except for the limited purposes permitted in the statute which have nothing to do with liquor when used as a beverage.

"That the State saw fit to permit the introduction of liquor for personal use in limited quantity in nowise interferes with the authority of Congress, acting under its plenary power over Interstate Commerce, to make the prohibition against interstate shipment contained in this act."

Justice McReynolds said, in dissenting: "The Reed amendment in no proper sense regulates interstate commerce, but is a direct intermeddling with the State's interna' affairs. Whether regarded as reward or punshment for wisdom or folly in enacting limited prohibition, the amend-ment so construed I think goes beyond Federal power; and to hold otherwise open possibilities for partial and sectional legislation which may destroy proper control of their own affairs by the several states. If Congress may deny liquor to those who live in a State simply because its manufacture is not permitted there, why may not this be done for any suggested reason, namely, because the roads are bad or men are hanged for murder or coals are dug. Where is the limit ? The Reed amendment, as now construed, is a Congressional fiat imposing more complete prohibition wherever the State has assumed toxicants.

Hop-growing Killed.

The hop-growing business of the United States has been practically killed. It had already declined 62% in the three years from 1915 to 1918, and the 1919 production will be very small. In 1915 the pounds grown are estimated at about 53,000,000, which amount was reduced to 20,000,000 in 1918. With beer manufacture prohibited, the use for hops will be comparatively small. The States affected are chiefly New York, California, Oregon and Washington. As there were imports, as well as exports, the continuance of beer-making in other countries will not help the hop industry here.

The Baptist laymen of this country have made formal announcement of a campaign for raising $6,000,000 as victory fund to "insure spiritual Democracy at home, and for reconstrutcion work abroad." The work will be denominational in character. and Nation wide, a part of the plan including work among the Baptist church in France.

Abusing the U.S. Uniform.

It is beginning to be apparent that the privilege of wearing the U.S. uniform after being discharged from the service, is being misused. The many lodging houses and lunch places maintained in the large cities-mainly by charitable ladies—are being vic-timized, in two ways—by those who wear the uniform but were never in the service, and by those who were in the service but are unfairly seeking free entertainment, and often loans of money, instead of getting back into employment.

The Secretary of the Treasury has just placed an additional sum of $100,000,000 to the credit of Italy, making the total of the American loans to that country for war expenses, $1,310,000,000 and our total oans to all of the Allies, $8,585,-523.702.

Judging from reports of the Mexican situation, Uncle Sam may yet be compelled to go over and spank the whole crowd, before they will behave.

the Star-Spangled Banner ! ca "Tis Oh, long may it wave O'er the land of the free, and the home of the brave."

The candidate makers will now need to revise their prognostications, and some who were previously overshadowed, may now take renewed hope of getting their "hat in the ring."

The death of Col. Roosevelt illustrates the fact that it is often necessary for a man to make the "supreme sacrifice" in order to receive "honor to whom honor is due," and perhaps honors that are only half sincere, as Praise, like flowers, often well. comes too late to be taken at full value.

A cartoon in the papers, last week, showing a donkey loaded with the "cost of peace," that is heavier than the "cost of war" burden that had just been dropped, was very suggestive of present conditions. It was suggestive of the thorn that attends the rose, and of truth that we rarely get anything worth while without paying for it, in some way, sooner or later.

is worth having under cover of government.

This propaganda, when over emphasized, may create opposition to the very thing we claim it stands for -established government. When we appeal so directly and personally to the power and sovereignty of the masses, we are appealing also to the very lowest stratas of "the people"to what we sometimes call "the rabble."

If our exaltation of majority rule -of the popular will-could always be heard, and acted on, by the intelligent, honest, peace loving, industrious people, we could not have too much of it. But, we are just as apt to over-act and over-plead, and start something that ought not be started -disrespect for authority and control, and encourage "the people" to hold ideas of their rights and power entirely antagonistic to law and order

There has been already too much of that species of demagogism in this country that has influenced men to array themselves against capital; to place on the motto, "In union there is strength," a meaning never intended; to encourage selfishness to make a power of itself and go into politics to have its interests accomplished.

There is, in this country, and in all countries, a considerable element that is, at heart, against government. Under the liberality of our boasted rule of "the people," these elements are equal factors at the ballot box with our best citizens, and there are always crafty designing leaders offering to make these undesirables their followers, and thereby create issues not desired by the more conservative and safe elements.

This danger is especially at the front in Europe today. The very strength of the propaganda to create a world-wide Democracy, expressed among peoples not half so well qualified as are the people of the United States for self-government, may defeat its own purpose. It may start a movement that will place the dregs of humanity on top, and in power; and we can readily imagine such a possibility, for the reason that the most of the lawless agitators-the most of our discontent in social, political and business affairs-have been fomented and led by foreigners-by the few who have strayed over to us.

Much as we may spread-eagle about our freedom, our rule by "the people," we may yet have cause to remember that after all we are very young as a Nation, and that safety in our freedom has been a gradual growth, kept reasonably pure because of its pre-Conservation has had a backset in ponderance of native Americanism, public affairs, for a long time. for a living-but, the real "living" will be forty or fifty miles away.

Whoever thinks this is a sketch of fancy, is asleep. If the details are not yet quite all in the picture, they are coming, and will come faster with encouragement. When the boys get back from France they will enliven the procession, and the unconverted and only half-awake "old-timers" will make the biggest mistake of their lives if they stand in the way.

The Roosevelt Funeral.

The funeral of Col. Roosevelt was marked by brevity and plainness, and the probability is that it was all in harmony with his own wishes. To many, no doubt, such a funeral for such a man seems inharmonious and disappointing; but, on the other hand it is largely the precedent followed for men of high-standing in this country, at least to the extent that it is considered very bad taste to make anything like a parade, or show, of such occasions.

While funeral customs are not set on fixed lines, it seems nevertheless position needs to be only decent and ican. solemn in order to comply with the actual needs.

The Espionage Convictions.

When the espionage law was passed it was enacted for use and the courts have put it to use and it is effective. The Chicago convictions give evidence of its usefulness. It has been sustained. It is not going to change its flag of trade mark. None of the tenets of a group of men with minds diseased by real or fancied oppression of their rights in European countries can cause it to alter its political scheme one iota. The conviction of the men who have been given full trial will be read in the light of the newer determination of the nation. In the last public expression of Mr.

ods of exterminating these pests by trapping and poisoning, which the individual farmer as well as the community can employ, are told in Farmers' Bulletin 932, recently published by the United States department of agriculture.

Any farmer may, by care and industry, free his own premises of harmful rodents, but he is helpless to prevent an early recurrence of the trouble unless he can secure the active co-operation of his neighbors. The department of agriculture urges, therefore, that whenever possible the destruction of these pests be a community undertaking. In the past, individual efforts often supplemented by the payment of bounties by state, county or township have been only partially successful in reducing rodent depredations. In many western counties the amount paid out in a single year for bounties on pocket gophers and ground squirrels, would, if wisely expended in poisoning operations such as have been practiced under government supervision on public lands, secure the destruction of nearly every such animal in the county and make unnecessary much further outlay for the pur-

A few of the rodents which inhabit the United States are not classed as injurious as they live in deserts, nountains or swamps and rarely come in contact with cultivated crops. Some are valuable because they feed largely upon insects, some because they produce fur and others because they are useful as human food. Of the injurious species all are native to this country with the exception of four-the house mouse and three kinds of rats -but these four cause approximately two thirds of all the damage. Field mice, kangaroo rats, pocket gophers, ground squirrels, prairie dogs, woodchucks, and rabbits are among the most destructive of the native species.

Too much attention cannot be given to the preparation of the field for leguminous crops. In a well-prepared seedbed the young plants get the best start and the necessary bacteria will thrive. Sour soils hinder and often entirely prevent the development of the beneficial soil organisms. To remedy this condition an application of lime is necessary. Any kind of lime may be used to advantage, but usually finely ground limestone is applied.

When a field is known to contain the bacteria suitable for a certain legume crop-for example, alfalfa-shown by the presence of numerous nodules upon the roots of alfalfa plants growing there, the soil is desirable for the inoculation of other fields upon which alfalfa is to be sown for the first time. Such soil, well sifted, can readily be applied to the new field through the fertilizer attachment on a drill. Two hundred pounds or more of sifted field soil will be sufficient for an acre and is best applied through the hoes. Broadcasting the soil by hand will require a larger quantity and is best done in the early morning, late evening, or on cloudy days, as the sun's rays are injurious to the bacteria in the thin layer of inoculated soil thus exposed to it. The field should be immediately harrowed after broadcasting the soil. Transferring field soil from any considerable distance is expensive and subject to the danger of introducing troublesome weeds, insects and plant diseases.

Nitrate For Farmers.

The Secretary of Agriculture has announced that under the authority of the food-control act and subsequent legislation, the Department of Agriculture during the coming season will offer nitrate of soda for sale to farmers for fertilizer use. The nitrate will be sold for cash at cost. The price to the farmers will be $81.00 a ton, free on board cars at the loading point or port. In addition, the farmer will have to pay the freight charges to unloading point and any incidental expenses that he may himself incur in connection with the delivery of the nitrate.

The plan used in the sale and distribution of the nitrate will follow in a general way last year's plan. "Genghis Khan destroyed it." If a monument still wears some vestige of its former grandeur "Tamerlane erected it." Everywhere is carried down from generation to generation memories of Genghis Khan, the destroyer, and Tamerlane, the upbuilder. It is to Tamerlane, who reigned at the end of the fourteenth century, that Samarkand owes its most beautiful monuments, Elsie F. Weil writes in Asia Magazine. With his exploits he inspired the imagination of countless poets of as many nations, including Christopher Marlowe, for he was a great sovereign and organizer as well as a mighty conqueror. When Tamerlane returned to his capital after vanquishing most of Asia he was determined to make it the loveliest city in the world. To Persia, Mesopotamia, India and China he sent for the most celebrated artisans, ordering them here to create their masterpieces. Byzantine, Persian and Arabic influences in art were all melted into a perfect harmony-greens and blues mellowing into each other like the sea and the sky-a vast and reverend chorus of beauty.

Her aunt had consented to take Bertha to the country for a two-week stay, but had flatly refused her small niece's entreaties to take Dodo, the doggie, along. Upon returning from their trip Bertha missed the welcoming bark of her favorite and anxiously inquired, "Where is Dodo?" Taking her by the hand, her mother led her to a padded basket which held the proud young mother, Dodo, and her seven two-day-old puppies. Clapping her hands gleefully, Bertha ran back to her aunt and panted excitedly: "Oh, auntie, come quick and see! Dodo has got seven of the sweetest little twins.'

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Maj. Cecil Spencer, V. C., did not open his morning paper until his nurse had left the room and closed the door behind her. He disliked tumbling with one hand and dragging sympathy from observing eyes. His other arm was pinioned close to his side with many bandages. However, the young officer smiled, for there were others in the big London hospital suffering far greater damage than he.

Nevertheless it was a bit awkward unfolding the sheets of the "Daily Glass," and it was some time before the wounded hero got as far as the center section with its array of photographs.

Suddenly his blue eyes became steely with wrath. Two spots of flame leaped into the clear pallor of his cheeks.

His own photograph was looking back at him from the very middle of the "Daily Glass," and as a heading above in bold type were the words, "Interesting Engagement." Below were the usual lines so frequent in the English papers about a marriage having been arranged between so-and-so and thus-and-thus. The photograph of a lovely girl was coupled with his own, but Major Spencer was far too incensed at the stupidity of the press to cast so much as a glance at the feminine victim or the mistake.

His wrath was rising to a wonderful height when a troop of fellow officers, bandaged as to feet, arms, eyes or head, came in with loud congratulations, each carryng a copy of the "Daily Glass." The young V. C. took the unmerciful chaffing good naturedly and tried to explain that it was an error.

In consequence of the mistake, an hour or two later saw the waiting room of the "Daily Glass" a whirlpool, atmospherically, of various emotions. Major Spencer was the first to arrive. The expression in his eyes was flinty. He was reflecting on the score and Beth Davis looked directly into Mildred Carter's eyes and the two girls smiled. Miss Carter, too, had recognized the features of the Red Cross nurse as having appeared in the morning paper.

"Our photographs seem to have been all mixed up," said Beth Davis with a it through in 24 hours. This cannot soft laugh, and with a view to arousing the wrath-bound major, she raised her ficulty in finding one. It is a sign of voice a trifle. "I have been most frightfully annoyed by it."

Mildred Carter smiled. "It is stupid to have been published as merely engaged when you have been winning all sorts of honors." she said, in some feminine way divining the other's purpose in regard to the young major whom she had quickly glanced at.

"It isn't losing my laurels that I mind," Beth told her, "but I have been | When I left New York I believed I swamped by telegrams and notes of congratulation and there will be heaps more from America. thrilling happiness that had cheered many a wounded soldier.

Mildred Carter laughed too, and Captain Royce joined in. "My word," he with the hymnals and the prayer books said, "you do believe in a number of strings.

"It is only self-preservation," said Beth. "You officers are so faithless when we are out of your sight that I want to be sure of one in case the other finds greater happiness elsewhere."

Beth's quick glance and perhaps her intuition told her that the wrath in Major Spencer's blue eyes was grudgingly giving way to curiosity. This small success inspired her to still further victory, and she sent a steady, irritatingly amused glance into his eyes. The effect was all that she desired. He swiftly averted his face, but not before a brilliant spot had come to the pale cheeks.

"This appalling fickleness of heart is apparently completely balanced by your wonderful steadiness of nerve," laughed Captain Royce, with keen admiration topping the amusement in his | and Ishmael-and a thousand others, voice. "Don't speak of it," Beth Davis said quickly, and her voice held the soothing music that had seemed far removed from her laughter of a second ago. "I am keeping it all away from my thoughts for the two weeks I have in England before going back."

"I envy you getting back so soon." It was Major Spencer who spoke. "It will be another two months for mehealing up these bally wounds." He had forgotten himself, his reason for being in the Daily Glass office and all things in his interest in the great war.

"You're not going back again!" put in Beth, quickly. "You've done all one man can do-it should not be permitted! You cannot go through that fire again—

"You are going through it again," he replied, swiftly; "you, too, have done your bit-"

One Lives Its Story There and Does Not Doubt Its Truth, Remarks a Visitor.

To add a touch of completeness to the Sabbath-like calm which prevailed on the ship I read the Bible. Becoming intensely interested, I tried to read be done. Incidentally, I had some difthe times, I am afraid, that one never gets a Bible any more as a going-away present when one starts off on a long journey. Though I might better say, perhaps, that it was sign of unintelligence on my part that I did not think to carry with me one of several that were bestowed upon me in godlier days.

I was going to Bagdad, was I not? was. I was on my way to the land of the two rivers; the land of the Garden of Eden, of the "Cradle of the World." It is the land not only of Adam and Eve and Cain and Abel, but the land as well of Noah and Father Abraham; the land of Babylonia, She laughed again with a curiously where Daniel dwelt in captivity with the children of Israel and was delivered from the den of lions.

> I found a Bible, finally, hidden away in a little wainscot cupboard of the little library, and, while I intended merely to get the stories of Babylon and of Ur of the Chaldees, I became engrossed in the story of the Children of Israel and followed it all the way through. Then I had to read the prophets, and having pondered over their prophesies, I was tempted to reexamine the fulfilment of them. And afterward I was very glad I did. It refreshed my memory of many things I had thought little about since the days of my youth.

> In Mesopotamia you live the story of the Bible and you do not wonder in the least if it is true; you know it is. You become as definitely acquainted with Daniel and Ezra; yes, and with Adam and Eve and Cain and Abel and Noah and Abraham and Hagar and Ishmael-especially Hagar down to us through the ages in tradition and picture they are exact prototypes of the men who now inhabit that ancient land.-From "The War in the Cradle of the World," by Eleanor Franklin Egan.

Prussian Professor Peeved.

The number of women entering German universities increased from 3,693 to 6,527 last winter. The number at the University of Berlin alone grew from 880 to 1,322. Professor von Wilamowitz-Mollendorf of the University of Berlin, and his colleagues, do not like this development, and he had no hesitation about speaking energetically and sarcastically about it in the Prussian parliament. It seems that although the Berlin professors still begin their lectures with "Gentlemen," their hearers are almost exclusively women. The speech in question was an argument for lowering the university standards for men while using the utmost severity towards women who wish to learn Wilamowitz sarcastically observed that the universities have been turned into girls' schools and that a very considerable number of the women in attendance were nothing but little girls in short frocks. These girls get into the university by reason of certificates which, Wilamowitz says, have no value whatever. He adds that the result is to reduce the Berlin professors to the grade and duondary schools. Never Take Your Troubles to Bed. I know a man who is aging very rapidly from his business and family worries. I frequently travel morning and evening to and from the city with him, and instead of looking fresh and reinvenated in the morning he actually looks older and more careworn than he did the night before. This is because he takes his troubles to bed with him and falls asleep worried and depressed. Instead of practicing mental chemistry and neutralizing or driving them out by the peace thought, the harmony and love thoughts, he lets these vicious mental devils, which are playing such havoc in his life, work all night in his brain. And, of course, they poison his blood, deplete his vitality and cut wrinkles deeper and deeper every night."-From "Love's Way," by Orison Swett Marden.

more of telegrams and messages of congratulations that had flooded his hospital room following the announcement of the engagement with which the paper had credited him.

The two other occupants of the waiting room were a young officer in the flying corps and his fiancee. They were chatting pleasantly and had not observed Major Spencer nor connected him in any way with the error of printing over their own photographs. Instead of the couple being announced as engaged, the girl, Mildred Carter, was given the distinction of having been decorated by the king of the Belgians for bravery in attending the wounded under heavy fire, while young Captain Royce was given the honor of the V. C. and recovering from severe wounds.

The door swung open to admit a fourth warrior. Her complaint against the "Daily Glass" was, however, of the smiling variety.

It is not difficult to recognize the American girl in London. This fourth comer into the office had the charming independence of manner, the eyes aglow with interest in life and the smile seemingly ever poised on red lips and ready to offer itself in greeting. The uniform of the Red Cross nurse was wonderfully attractive as Beth Davis wore it.

She sat down in the only remaining chair and with American frankness of glance, took inventory of her companions. Naturally it was the major whom she first observed. Her quick eyes sent sympathy for the four wounds indicated by the tiny gold bits of braid on his cuff and the blue band on his arm. Her eyes then traveled to the pale face and a quick glace of recognition sprang into them. She knew that Major Spencer was in the waiting room for the same purpose that she herself was there-to correct the error over his photograph.

She then glanced at the other two persons and she soon guessed the entire situation. This second officer had no blue band and no tiny gold braids and the girl had no uniform on, so most certainly they were the engaged cou-

Captain Royce laughed.

"I say," he suggested, "remember you two are engaged and already you're wrangling over who gets to the fight first again. What do you say to all four going out to lunch now and coming back later to correct the Daily ties of fourth-form masters in the sec-Glass headlines?"

All four seemed to think it a most happy suggestion. There was a V. C. hero to toast and a Red Cross nurse to do more toasting for.

"I hope we all have our ration cards," said Mildred Carter as she and Beth led the way from the newspaper office, the khaki-clad men following. Major Spencer, however, was already annoyed that he was not walking beside Beth Davis. He had made up his mind that she was to take up the path of life with him and that she was to forget the French and the American officers and hold only one British one in her heart.

"Our trip to the Daily Glass office has turned out most beautifully, hasn't it?" Mildred Carter said. "I like Major Spencer, now that he is no longer annoyed at being engaged-to you." Beth blushed swiftly, then laughed heartily. The greatest love in the world was opening its arm for her and firmly inclosing her.

Mildred smiled knowingly. "Interesting engagement," she commented inwardly.

THE PASSOVER.

LESSON TEXT-Exodus 12:1-36. GOLDEN TEXT-For even Christ our passover was sacrificed for us. I Corinthians 5:7.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL-Psalms 105: $6-38; Matthew 26:26-29; Hebrews 11:28. I. The Passover Instituted (12:1-23). 1. The time set (v. 2). With the institution of the Passover came a change in the order of time. The common year was rolling on as usual, but with reference to his chosen people the order is interrupted and everything is made to date from this. This signifles that redemption is the first step in real life. "Old things have passed away, all things have become new." Before this the man was dead in trespass and sin; now he has arisen to walk in newness of life. All before redemption counts for naught. The world thinks that real life ends when one accepts Christ, but this is a grave mistake. It is the beginning of real life.

2. The lamb set apart (v. 3). This previous setting apart of the lamb typifies the foreordination of Christ to be our Saviour. Redemption was not an afterthought of God (I Peter 1:18-20). This lamb must be a male without blemish, indicating that it must be both representative and perfect.

3. The lamb was killed by the whole congregation (v. 6). This shows that It was not for the individual only, but for the entire assembly. The setting apart of the lamb was not sufficient, it must be killed, for "without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sins." The lamb might have been tied to the door of the Israelites that night, but there would have been no salvation, notwithstanding its perfection. Had Christ's spotless life continued till the present time and his matchless teaching gone on without interruption, not a single soul would have been saved, for "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die It abideth alone." (John 12:24).

4. The blood of the slain lamb was to be placed upon the sideposts and lintels of the door (v. 7). It was not sprinkled upon the threshold, as it must not be trampled under foot (Hebrews 10:29). When the destroyer passed through the land he passed over the houses where the door posts were sprinkled with blood. This blood was the evidence that a substitute had been offered for them. They could rest absolutely secure, because the matter had been settled according to divine arrangement. The blood was the ground of peace. The assurance is not when you feel your sins are pardoned, but "when I see the blood I will pass over you."

January 19 Our Relation to God—Repenting Mark 1:14-20

The Bible asserts and assumes that man is a fallen being. He was made in the image of God but has lost his actual moral resemblance. The im-age is broken, defaced, defiled. Being wrong at the center he is naturally wrong at the circumference. Hence, the word repent is the primary word in the call of God to the soul. To-gether with faith it constitutes the primary message in the evangel of Christ.

Repentance is not merely sorrow for sin growing out of fear of the consequences involved, but something far It is a change of purpose, a leeper. turning from sin. This change may, or may not be preceded, accompanied, or followed by great sorrow. The main matter in repentance is the change itself. "They turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God, and to wait for His Son from This indicates repentance heaven." -change of purpose. The operation of faith is also in view. There is a giving up of old ideas and possessions and a taking hold of new ideas and ssessions.

Repentance is not merely an act once for all, but a permanent disposition of soul leading to watchfulness and prayer. It is produced sometimes by fear, as in Acts 5:11-14; sometimes a sense of God's goodness (Rom 2:4). It is also presented as a saving grace leading to life (Acts 11:18) Through repentance and faith the sinner is brought into right relations with God.

When a new age or a new work of grace is to begin, the first word of exhortation is "repent." This is seen exhortation is "repent." This is seen in the case of John, and of the Lord Jesus and of the apostles. Matthew 3:2, 4:17; Acts 2:38; 3:19. It will be so again when Israel is restored. Zachariah 12:10.

Some illustrations of repentance will be found in the following Scrip-The Israelites, Judges 10: 15, tures: 16; David, 2 Samuel 12:13; Nineveh, Jonah 3:5-10; The Prodigal Son. Luke 15:17-19; The Publican, Luke 18:13.

Order of Fools, Founded in 1381, Was Not by Any Means What Its Name Would Indicate.

On November 12, 1381, the association known as The Order of Fools was said to have been founded by Adolphus, count of Cleves, under the title, "D'Order Van't Geeken Gesellschap." Though bearing a designation savoring too strongly of contempt, the members of this order were composed of noblemen and gentlemen of the highest rank and renown, who in this way formed themselves into a body for humane and charitable purposes. They were in no way connected with the Feast of Fools and similar absurdities of medieval times. They were not dissimilar to the Odd Fellows, For-

NO DIMMING YANKEE SPIRIT

Soldier in Midst of Stern Duties of War Found Time to Play Little Jokes on Dad.

The Yankee spirit in the midst of the carnage and travails of war is exemplified in a letter written two weeks before the signing of the armistice to Edwin C. Brandenburg, former president of the Washington board of trade, by his son, Sett, Milton F. Brandenburg, who has been in France a year. Dark forebodings flashed through the mind of the father as he read through the epistle until he came to the last sentence. The letter reads:

"I dislike very much to have to write this letter to you, but the time has come when I must ask your advice on a matter of great importance to me, the complication of which has caused me nights of restlessness and many a day of anxiety.

"You will understand when I tell you that many a happy home has been wrecked, and in fact even human lives upset by similar troubles, and that is why I haven't written you about it before, but now I feel that you should know at once, as it means such a great deal to me.

"Even though I am in France, I dare not communicate the state of my mind to any of my friends here, so go to you. I know I am asking a good deal of you, but your loyalty more than warrants it and I am going to ask you and expect you to tell me from deep down in your big heart if you think that Jeff will ever be as tall as Mutt?"

For the first time in the history of the Church of England in China, a Chinese bishop, in the person of the Venerable Archdeacon T. C. Shen, has been consecrated. The ceremony took place in the Church of Our Savior, Dixwell road, Shanghai, before a number of distinguished guests. The rites followed the ordinal of the churches of the Anglican communion.

The new bishop was presented in due form by Doctor Molony, bishop of Chekiang, and Doctor Norris, bishop of North China, who were assisted by Doctor Graves, the presiding bishop, in the laying of the hands. Bishops Roots and Huntington of the American church, Bishop Iliff of the Church of England and Bishop White of the Canadian church. A little village exists on the Cape of Shima, in Japan, the name of which in Japanese means "the Settlement of Nymphs." Woman in this village is the predominant partner. The chief industry is pearl fishing, and it is the women who are the fishers. The men stay at home and do the housework. From the age of four girls are taught to dive, and the craft has always been jealously kept in the women's hands.

Recently some of the men became discontented and started to practice

8-10). This denotes fellowship. Judgment must precede feasting. The eating of unleavened bread signifies that no sin is connected or allowed in fellowship with Christ. All who have entered into the power of the cross will put away sin.

6. They ate the passover ready for action (v. 11). The loins being girt about, betokens separation from sin and preparation and readiness for service. The feet being shod indicates their willingness to leave the land. The staff in the hand indicates their nature as pilgrims leaning upon a support outside of themselves. They were to leave behind them the place of death and darkness and march toward the promised land.

7. The uncircumcised denied participation in the feast (vv. 43-49). Circumcision was typical of regeneration. The significance of the requirement is that only those who have become new creatures by the power of the cross have a right to sit at the Passover feast.

II. The Significance of the Passover (12:24-28).

It was a memorial institution, calling to mind the deliverance of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage-God's interposition on their behalf, freeing them from their oppression. This was to be taught to their children when they came into the land, from generation to generation.

III. The Awful Judgment (12:29, 30). That night the destroyer passed through Egypt and slew the first born in every home where the blood was not found. An awful cry went up from Egypt that night.

IV. The Great Deliverance (12:31-36).

So mighty was this stroke that Pharaoh called for Moses in the night and requested him to be gone with his flocks and herds.

Inward Liberty.

No good action will hinder thee, if thou be inwardly free from inordinate affection. If thou intend and seek nothing else but the will of God and the good of thy neighbor, thou shalt thoroughly enjoy inward liberty .--Thomas a Kempis.

discussed.

One spring while plowing for potatoes I was followed around the lot by a flock of blackbirds, and out of curiosity I watched them to see what they were after and found that they were gathering up every grub in sight, and there were lots of them, writes correspondent of the Rural New Yorker. A neighbor's boy came over where I was at work, and on seeing the birds started to drive them off. I stopped him and showed him what they were doing. He thought that it would pay me to feed the birds so as to keep them on the job. There were enough grubs in sight to have spoiled a good lot of potatoes. Yesterday (August 29) I pulled up a hill and found a grub and where he had eaten out one-quarter of the inside of a potato.

Windsor Castle.

Windsor castle is near the town of Windsor, in Berkshire, England, 23 miles from London. Windsor is one of the most ancient towns in England, dating from the early middle ages. The castle was erected by William the Conqueror. It was originally the site of a Roman settlement and has figured in English history in many picturesque and tragic ways. Many of the kings of England are buried beneath the royal chapel at Windsor, including King Edward VII, who was buried there in May, 1910. The castle, surrounded by spacious and magnificent grounds, has been the chief residence of English sovereigns for many centuries.

diving with the idea of themselves becoming pearl fishers. The women, dreading the intensified competition, ordered the men to discontinue their diving, and as the men refused a boycott was declared against them. The sexes have been at war ever since, and finally the women expelled all the men from their homes and undertook in their clumsy, inexpert fashion to do the housework for themselves. The men have petitioned parliament for their rights.

Dreadful Malady.

"Seasickness," said Lieut. Sydnor Harrison, the novelist, "is a dreadful thing. It will unman even the doughboy.

"A doughboy on a transport bound for France, was seasick. His corporal, to get him out on deck in the fresh air, roused him from his seasick stupor one morning and said:

"'Come on, Jack! Up with you! We've been torpedoed and the ship'll sink in ten minutes.'

"'Ten minutes?' groaned the doughboy. Then he added with a great gulp:

"'Can't you hurry her on a bit, corp?'

Y. M. C. A. Casualties.

To carry on its work with the A. E. F. the Y. M. C. A. has had more than three thousand secretaries in Europe, supplemented by more than one thousand French civilians. These have been operating about fifteen hundred huts and stations in the sectors held by American and French troops. Up to August 1 there had been more than fifty casualties, eleven of whom were killed while on duty, according to the Atlantic Monthly. Of the ministers engaged in the work four have met death while serving at the front and many others have been permanently injured.

Clemenceau's Message.

When in Octobes M. Clemenceau received a Roumanian delegation he was asked, after a few minutes' conversation, by one of the delegates to send a message to the Roumanians who had fought so gallantly and suffered so terribly in the allied cause. The French premier's message was as pithy as it was expressive. "I rise," he said, "in the presence of your delegation; I take my hat off to the Roumanian people; I put it on again in face of the Roumanian government."

AN OPEN LETTER.

Fellow-townsmen and Neighborhoodfolk:-Upon several occasions,-one of quite recent occurence,-the need of sufficient hose for adequate fire-protection has been brought perilously near the heart and hearth of every one of us. The Taneytown Fire Com-pany has been seeking to meet this very real necessity in a fair and full manner. Discussion has led to an exhaustive examination of the situaton and the formulation of a plan of realization.

Those living in the outskirts of town will soon be approached to lend financial assistance in securing enough hose for their special protection. Naturally, this means the purchase of additional hose-but the investment will prove worth every dollar spent.

The Committee also intends canvassing the homes and businesshouses of town to enlist their co-operation in purchasing new hose to re-place lengths of the old, or nearly outworn, unless we elect to choose calamity

Pledge cards will be left at every house, within a few days, to be called for by your committee in person. Go where you will, you will find few, if any, companies that have ask-ed as little of its town-folk as have our own fire-fighters. No community worthy, the page hasilates a moment worthy the name hesitates a moment to freely equip and fully maintain its fire company. Surely this communi-ty, so fortunate in the personnel of its firemen's organization, will not go on record as being totally unresponsive to the appeal to be shortly made, and thus lay the ax at the root of its own safety and peace of mind. Every dollar given will mean many dollars saved. Your committee (for it is your committee), therefore asks for, and confidently expects, your prompt and hearty co-operation to the last far-thing in completely remedying the alarmingly unceessary condition facing each home in and about Taney-Your willing servants, THE COMMITTEE. town.

The bottoms represent the original firing end of the shell, with cap, and are marked "75C."

Note of an appeal for books to be given to the soldiers in our Camps. appears in the annual report of the Taneytown Library Association in the columns of this issue of The Record. It is hoped there will be a generous response to this worthy appeal by the largest possible number of our people, but let the books be of such a character as young men find pleasure and profit in reading. Be prompt, so that those responsible for shipment may not be unnecessarily delayed.

> > Public Library Meeting.

The Taneytown Library Association has just closed the fifth year of its most useful and commendable career. Though far below its friends' fondest ambition as to the number of subscribers, it has nonetheless ably met and is quietly satisfying one of the highest needs of the community. Those in charge of its up-keep and functions are deserving of unstinted praise for their unceasing efforts to "hold the fort" against all forms of discouragement and disinterestedness. The Librarian and her assistants most cordially encourage weekly Saturday afternoon and evening visits to the rooms on the second floor of the Municipal Building, that all may become acquainted with the books and needs of the Library. At the Association's annual meeting, Saturday afternoon, Jan. 11th.. 1919, the Treasurer's report, for the year just ending, showed— Amount in bank, Jan 1, '18...... Deposits during the year..... .. $ 1.30 .. 37.10

One hundred and seventy-three discarded books of good fiction—a gift from the Pratt Library of Baltimore-were also put in circulation and are loaned free. It is hoped many will take full advantage of this feature of the Li-brary. The Library's book-list will be augmented again this year by the well-known volumes of the Maryland State Free Travelling Library.

The officers and members of the Advisory Board for the year, as then elected, are: Pres., Rev. Seth R. Downie; Vice-Pres., Rev. L. B. Hafer; Sec'y and Librarian, Miss Anna Galt; Treas., Miss Clara Brining; Board Members additional: Misses M. L. Baindellar, Fliga P. Birnie and Mrs Reindollar, Eliza R. Birnie and Mrs. Margaret Nulton.

Unanimous action was taken urging that an appeal through the Carroll Record be made for gift books suitable for distribution among the soldiers in the Camps. All such books should be left at the Library rooms as soon as is convenient so that early shipment may be promptly made.

Subscriptions to War Work Overdue.

Attention is called to the fact that no payments have been made on a con-siderable number of pledges given in the United War Work Campaign in November. Most of the pledges were paid cash. The total, including $341.00 from the Victory Boys and Girls, was $2,906.32. The number of pledges on which no payments have been made is 27, amounting to $125.75. One pedge partially paid adds $6.00 to the amount due. The second payment, one-fourth, was due January 15, making three-fourths now due. Better settle the whole matter now.

the plays better and the business that the Columbia Stock Co. is doing in Westminster, is enormous; standing room almost every night.

Now if that's the case here, we think that you had better get a sea-son ticket, for the season tickets will be taken care of, and besides you save 25c. The prices this season will remain the same-15c for children, and 25c for adults, and the war tax, which will be 2c on the 15c ticket, making it 17c; and 3c on the 25c, making it 28c. The war tax on the season tickets will be 13c, making a season ticket $1.38.

Taneytown is the only town that the Columbia Stock Co. shows at such low prices, but they have always charged these prices, and it was thought best this year to let them remain, hoping that the people in Taneytown will appreciate this and pa-tronize the show liberally. The same guarantors will handle the business as last year, so when you are patron-izing the Columbia Stock Co., you are helping your own enterprising merchants and others that were instrumental in providing Taneytown with good, clean amusement.

The plays will be announced from the stage. The opening play will be a dandy, four-act comedy drama: "A Fool of Fortune." Lots of comedy and sensation. The feature play, Fri-day night, will be "The Natural Law," the greatest play ever written. Sat-urday night, "The Sweetest Girl in Dixie." These two plays made such a hit in Westminster. Don't fail to get your season ticket. There may be a raise in prices for "The Natural Law," but the season tickets will not be asked to pay any more. Don't forget, next week is the week ! COMMITTEE.
