MRS. KISER TO BE TRIED ON CHARGE OF MURDER

the May Grand Jury.

wife, Alice R. Kiser, was held at his home in Harney on Monday morning, interment following in the Lutheran cemetery, Taneytown, the services being in charge of Rev. L. B. Hafer.

Mr. Kiser is survived by his wife and one son, Estee R., now in the U. S. Army in France; and by three brothers and one sister, John W. Kiser of Hanover; Edwin Z. Kiser, of Owings Mills; Grant Kiser, in the West, and Mrs. Aaron Zentz, of Bal-

On the request of States's Attorney Seabrook and Attorney E. O. Weant, Drs. Elliot and Benner took Mrs. Kiser to Westminster, last Friday, where she was rearrested on a charge of murder, and by Police Justice Dinst was committed without bail for the action of the May grand jury. Her attorney at once sued out a writ of habeas corpus, and she was brought before Judge Forsythe, who, exercising his discretionary power, admitted her to bail, fixing the amount of bond at $5,000. John H. Cunningham, of Westminster, and Milton A. Koons, of Taneytown, became her bondsmen.

Mrs. Kiser had talked very freely of the shooting, both to her neighbors and to the officers of the law, but under advice of her attorney, now declines to say anything further. It is said that she told a story, much as follows, to the officers, after having named the "other woman" in the case:

I could not stand it any longer, and had to do something. weeks ago, as he sat at a table, I shot at him with a revolver. The ball went through his coat collar and struck his collar button. I told him that the Lord had spared him that time, and that that ought to be a warning; that He might not be so good to him next time, if he kept on running after that woman. He did not run after her; she ran after him. I think she must have put a spell on him, for it did not stop. Yesterday she was in Harney and walked up and down on the other side of the street in front of our house. Mr. Kiser had been loading his truck to get ready his load for Baltimore. He hitched up his horse and buggy. I saw him stand with a strap in both hands, waving it as if making a signal to her, and then

"I thought he had gone with her, for I did not see her afterward. waited for him to come home, and when I heard him put the horse in the stable I took the gun and stood inside the kitchen door. It was partly open. As he came up, I fired. All was still, and I thought maybe I had not hit him and that he had walked away, walked out, I stumbled over him lying there still. I had to do it. I did not know what else to do."

Residents of the county who wish information as to distribution in their districts, will be gladly furnished with all data by any of the above named gentlemen who are very anxious to have the full co-operation of all landowners and residents of the county. All game put out must be fed and cared for by the landowners, as well as protected. This is a good time to start the "protection," by killing off the hawks, crows, weasels, minks and stray house cats. Do not allow the dogs to run at large during the hatching season, and keep the cats out of the fields; this is the housekeepers'

"bit" toward game protection.

STATE ROAD WORK FOR MARYLAND

Expects to Take Advantage of the Gederal Aid Act.

According to a report from the U. S. Department of Labor, the States are going slow in accepting the Government's proposed aid of onehalf the cost of road building for inter-State uses, Maryland being one of such States. Higher taxes, and the necssity for State bond issues, likely operate against the project at this time, in addition to the scarcity and high cost of labor. As much as more roads are desired, the obstacles Here is what will happen to them in the way are at present very seri-

> To judge from the report, while Maryland has submitted six plans for consideration of the Federal Aid Board, and all of them have been approved, not a mile has been constructed so far, and no start has been made under the plans in spite of the fact that $9,355.16 has been paid over to the State from the Federal fund, and the total of the State's allotment is $436,907.90. The estimated cost of the six projects is set down at $922,-437.19. and the total mileage 79.66, for which Federal aid is promised to the amount of $453,050.21.

> State road chairman, Frank H. Zouck, is apparently not greatly concerned about the higher cost and expects to proceed with construction.

He says in part, of the report:

"It will be remembered that last August, when we went to Washington before the Federal Credits Committee for the privilege of issuing bonds for the construction of roads under the act, we were denied the support. The Canning of Meats.

Several inquiries have come to me in regard to the canning of chicken and other meats. The Department of Agriculture does not advocate the canning of these without a steam pressure cooker, because in ordinary canning operations you do not exceed the temperature of 212°. The Emmitsburg Chronicle.

The Emmitsburg Chronicle re-appeared, last week, under new management—that of Wm. H. Shugars, formerly of Westminster, who has had considerable experience as an allaround print shop man. We congratulate Emmitsburg on being placed "on the Map" once more, and suggest to the natives that they do not fail to properly appreciate that fact. There are at least three things about the new Chronicle that we admire; first, that it had the nerve to 'come back" at a time when operating a weekly newspaper plant is full of terrors; second, that in its introductory the issues between patrons third, that the subscription price is third, that the subscription price is common paper for these purposes, we don not know.

TO BRING BODIES HOME Plans Are Being Worked Out by the Navy Department.

Washington, Feb. 9th .- Plans for bringing home the bodies of all officers, sailors and marines now buried in foreign soil are being worked out by the Navy Department, and the act-ual work will be undertaken within the next few months. The wishes of relatives, however, will govern not only as to the return of the bodies, but also as to their final disposition. Those brought home will either be sent forward for private interment or buried in Arlington or other national cemeteries, as the relatives may de-

The Department's announcement today expressed a preference for bringing home all bodies. The Department's statement said that where bodies were brought home for burial in National cemeteries, full military honors would be accorded, and that where private interment was desired, the Navy would prepay all expenses up to delivery of the caskets to relatives, and that the War Risk Insurance Bureau of the Treasury would refund actual burial expenses not exceeding $100 in each case, upon presentation of the claims.

Trucks Damaging State Roads.

Chairman Frank H. Zouck of the State Road Commission has sent to the press of the state a very interesting and convincing article against the use of heavy freight trucks on our state roads, especially of the 5-ton variety, claiming that our roads have not been constructed for freight cars of this capacity, and that they are doing great injury to road beds, and not paying for the privilege.

He claims that the truck interests are strongly organized, and unless curbed will ruin the state's expensive road system. He says in part;
"We have truck and freight lines running from one end of the state to the other in competition with rail-roads, but if the railroads should decide that that freight can be better handled by the use of trucks on our highways, and adopt this method, a great howl would be made by the public that the railroads should pay an adequate compensation for the use of the roads, and that the trucks should be regulated."

"The destruction caused by these trucks will soon show that it would have been better and cheaper for Maryland to have constructed narrow gauge railroads along some of the main highways and allowed them to be used free of charge than to permit these heavy trucks, which are using our roads to destroy them, as they are now doing."

The question is asked, "How far trucks are responsible for the present damaged condition of the roads?" I might cite that the Elkton--Baltimore -Washington road, which has in the past always been maintained in good condition and was the pride of our state and the admiration of every tourist who came into Maryland. In the past year a great number of trucks doing hauling for the government, as well as government owned trucks, used this road, and to repair the damage done by them will cost the state of Maryland a million dollars, revenue received from truck licenses last year did not exceed $25,000. Mr. Zouck admits that the damage has chiefly been done to macadam roads built before the truck came into existence, and that no road of this kind will stand heavy traffic using He suggests that the solid tires. weight of traffic be limited to 3 tons and that license fees be increased.

He points out that public sentiment must be aroused to the point of demanding the preservation of our roads, and the raising of sufficient revenue, aside from direct taxation, from the different classes of vehicles used, in proportion to the damage

For the Fifth Federal Reserve District, of which Richmond is the headquarters, and which comprises Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina, and the District of Columbia, there will be twenty tanks, and while present plans have not been completed it is contemplated to use these tanks along the same lines that were used in the last campaign.

The Director of the Tank Corps of the War Department has assured the Secretary of the Treasury that every co-operation will be given in order to circulate the tanks throughout the country, so that the prospective bond buyers may have an opportunity to district was expected to raise $280, view one of the agencies which helped 000,000. THE CONSTITUTION OF THE PEACE LEAGUE

France Dissatified and Wants More Protection Against Germany.

President Wilson has sent a message to this country, asking that the Senate refrain from discussing the constitution of the League of Nations until after his return and his explanation of the various sections. He is now at sea, and in all probability will address Congress early next week. It is belived that the Senate will not await his return, but that debate unfavorable to the document will begin the last of this week, and that among the objectors will be Pointdexter and Borah, Republicans, and Reed and

Gore, Democrats. Ex-President Taft has already given his reasons for supporting the constitution, and seems to generally favor it throughout. He sees great assurance in the fact that it is indorsed by the five Nations who are to prescribe the terms of peace.

The Senate will not be called on to act upon the question now, in its unfinished condition, but it seems probable that the incomplete draft has 450,000,000 bushels. This leaves 360,been prepared in order to draw out public opinion, and that it will be per- Up to the end of November we had

Fifth District's War Loan Record.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 16.—Figures were announced today at the headquarters of the War Loan Organization here giving the total and per capita subscriptions of each of the States of the Fifth Federal Reserve District in the four Liberty Loan campaigns. The records are of interest, not only as showing what the trict has done, but afford irrefutable proof of its tremendous resources.

In the four Government war loans this district was asked to raise $710,-It went "over the top" every time, piling up a grand total sub-scription of $849,474,300, the average amount lent the Government being $22.64 for every man, woman and child in the district. In each of the four loans, the District of Columbia, by reason of its great proportionate financial strength, led in per capita subscription, in one of the campaigns -the third-more than doubling the allotment fixed by the Treasury Department.

When the first Liberty Loan was was offered, the Government asked this district to subscribe $100,000,000. The people responded with a total of ine people responded with a total of $109,738,350. The average per capita subscription of the district was $11.93. Maryland's per capita was $26.22; the District of Columbia's $49.15; Virginia's, $12.06; West Virginia's, $9.80; North Carolina's, $3.92; South Carolina's, $2.74 South Carolina's, $3.74. In every subsequent loan the five States and the District of Columbia exceeded these figures.

In the second loan the average per capita subscription for the district was $21.75, more than $200,000,000 being raised. This third loan campaign in the district resulted in a total subscription of $186,259,050 with an average per capita subscription of $20.16, the district's apportionment being $130,000,000 which was thus exceeded by more than $56,-

New records were established in the Fourth Liberty Loan drive. making an average per capita of $36.63. Though the last bond issue was for $6,000,000,000, it barely made a dent in the investment resources of the country, and particularly in this district where prosperity has been so pronounced.

WILL BEG US TO EAT WHEAT A Grain Man Forsees Enormous Surplus Without a Market.

Wheat, it seems, has the Government cornered. The farmer is about to have his day, and the Food Administrtation, which all through the war months has pleaded "Save wheat," is likely soon to shout from the housetops and from the billboardes throughout the land, "Eat wheat! Eat it in soups, use it in flour, use it in every possible way."

Wheat, in a word, is now the most plentiful food in the world. Argentina has a supply that has been accumulating through more than three years. Australia likewise. India has its hoard accumulated for want of ships to remove it. And now the United States promises a tremendous crop.
In the United States we had a crop this year of about 915,000,000 bushels. The need for seed, which in a general way amounts to about 10°, is 100,000,-000 bushels. At the rate we have been consuming flour-a rate very much below the pre-war normal consumption, we shall likely use about 450,000,000 bushels in this country. We were down to a basis of 400,000,-000 bushels in November, and it is to be doubted if we shall increase our annual consumption much more than fected on the President's return to France, which will likely be about the Middle of March.

Op to the end of November we had exported aproximately 100,000,000 bushels of wheat and flour. The Government has now bought for export fiddle of March.

The constitution of the League is 65,000,000 bushels. That leaves openly criticised, as not giving the desired security. They state that the framers practically admit their inability to prevent a recurrence of war, and that the articles represent only a "pious desire" in that direction.

And the years have gone when the United States has the only world supply. It has not been possible to get wheat to Europe except from America. The result is that the Australian and Argentine and other lesser crops accumulated, and now Europe, and even the United States is beginning. even the United States, is beginning to draw on those accumulated crops. The withdrawals are not large as yet,

So it looks as if this year America will have a surplus without taking into consideration at all the coming crop. That is why it now seems like-

Premier Clemenceau Warns.

Premier Clemenceau, of France, has made an extended public state-ment to the world through the Asso-ciated Press, that is very clear, comprehensive and appealing. He says that while the war has been won; while Germany has been largely disduct of our own home affairs which armed and beaten, there has rather may be objected to by the majority been only a lull in the storm, that may break out again unless the present conference makes the continued to be known objectors to the present | warmly praised the American troops form of League, and it is claimed and American friendship. He said in

> "The friendship between our peoles which has subsisted I tury and a half is a very beautiful thing. The like of it has never existed for the same length of time between any other two peoples. This cordiality, cemented by our contact during the war, must endure in closer measure hereafter. To this end our > minds must meet. "Recent disclosures have enabled us to look deeper into the purposes of the enemy than we could heretofore. It was not purely a dream of military domination on the part of Prussia It was a definite, calculated conspiracy to exterminate France, as well industrially and commercially as in a military sense. In this effort the German bankers and manufacturers joined their General Staff. The exposures of Dr. Muehlon, of the Krupp Works, and of Kurt Eisner at the Berne Socialist Conference make this

"And this fact explains many of the activities of the German army which we were not able to understand. We can now see why they stole the machinery from our factories, why they destroyed the coal mines of Lens, why there was all the wanton devastation of French territory, even when they were in retreat. It was thought to be a part of their tactics of military frightfulness. Instead ,we can see now that it was a part of their deliberate commercial design.

"With the British Army demobilized, the American Army back home and France isolated, there might be a danger of a reopening of the military debate by Germany which might embarrass us were it not for the assurance which President Wilson gave us in the Chamber of Deputies the other day that under the operation of the League of Nations, 'whenever France or any other free people is threatened the whole world will be ready to vindicate its liberty,' so that 'there never shall be any doubt or waiting or surmise. This has given us great solace. And so we bid the departing American soldiers 'godspeed' and a happy return to their peaceful firesides.

The American Printer says: Won't somebody please tell the authorities at Washington that the war is over, so that they quit spending money like a man who has just inherited a fortune from a maiden aunt. Printers have troubles enough without being burdened with unnecessary taxes.' There are others besides printers, who feel the same way about it. It is not the necessary, but the big unnecessary, that hurts most in the tax bill.

The appropriation of millions for the government to spend in public work, like road building, is not conducive to starting the general "build a building" plan that is so urgently recommended for the rehabilitation of the country. Because why? Simply, the continuance of government-fixed wages. As long as Uncle Sam hands out jobs at extravagant wages, the general public will not "be in it," because the G. P. can't tax anybody to pay their expense costs. The sooner our Uncle goes out of business, the sooner general business will right it-

The Happy Medium in Governmental Expenditures.

During this time of great public expenditures and high taxes, one is perhaps too ready to jump to the conclusion that there should be practiced a great deal more of economy. That all public expenditures, great or small, whether National, State, county or municipal, should be "cut to the bone" until after the country recovers from the present unusual financial it causes it to die for want of anyre apt to believe there is no justi-

This great question, however, like all other great questions, can not properly be viewed from a single stand-point. Even with our own private matters, our rigid economies would turn out disastrously, if generally employed. A few men in every state, or community, can profit by holding fast to what they get and spending as little as possible-by selling, and not buying-but if the buyers would all adopt the same plan, there would be no sellers, and the whole country's business would come to a practical standstill.

The idea of one-sided economy is largely the idea underlying the opposition to a protective tariff. We want to buy cheaply, from the whole world, and sell high, forgetting that those who profit by the higher prices and wages connected with protection are our best customers. In other words, in opening up the world to our buying needs, we virtually close our home markets to our selling needs. We advocate a one-sided reciprocity. The same principle is involved to a considerable extent, in public expenditures. With "business as usual," with public work going on, with the general employment of labor, we retain a profitable home market for our jority voting power. It is a well produce and can afford to pay the higher taxes caused by the higher public expenditures. This is the argument, now, in favor of the road legislation pending before Congress, as well as the justification for many other large expenditures—that they their action. It may be strengthwill give employment for our return- ened, or weakened by amendments. It ing soldiers and prevent business stagnation and financial panics.

While this standpoint has its dedecided merits, it can unquestionably be overdone. Just now, we think there is great danger that it may be overdone, especially because even our | States for instance—to it, which would best financiers have lost their bearings and their calculations on income only way, perhaps, to make effective, and expenditures for the next few the most desired thing for the whole years. We seem to have gotten into the habit of spending, and can't stop-or are afraid to stop.

Generally speaking, it is much better and wiser to be liberal than closefisted. A community of "tight wads" is not fit to live in or do business in; but it is just as true to say the same of a spend-thrift community. The happy medium, therefore, is a community of generous, broad-minded, "live and let live" people, who are neither too close, nor too wasteful; and what is true of communities and individuals, is equally true of the Nation and and business, or corporate bodies of Those who look beneath the surface of things generally, can not help but be impressed with the seriousness of world-wide situation as it has to do with industry and the various classes of mankind in their relation to government, peace and order. What this country needs, just now, more than anything else is a firm and fearless governmental policy against Social and industrial "mad dogs." The sentiment that has prevailed of ignoring anarchists, and the like by letting them talk their heads empty, may have reached its limit. Getting Rid of Colds.

The easiest and quickest way to get rid of a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This preparation has been in use for many years and its value fully proven. No matter what remedy you use, however, care must be taken not to contract a second cold before you have recovered from the first one, and there is serious danger of this. A man of middle age or older should go to bed and stay in bed until fully recovered. It is better to stay in bed three days at the start than three weeks later on.

For Real Success in Business.

It is an old story that the surplus seed of the cotton crop, which now brings hundreds of millions of dollars yearly to the South, formerly was cast into the rivers, burned or destroyed because it was not supposed to be of value.

Some one made a list recently of the uses to which cottonseed, through its oil, its hull, the particles of lint that adhere to it, and its residue generally, is put. It enters into more than 140 employments and every year it is finding a broader and a broader field and is found of greater utiliv to

WINTER TRAVEL IN ALASKA

Archdeacon Stuck Tells of Some of the Sufferings to Be Encountered in the Frozen North.

Archdeacon Stuck, already famous for his ascent of Mount McKinley, made a remarkable journey into Alaska last winter.

His route extended around the whole arctic coast of Alaska, beginning at the west side, and thence inland to Fort Yukon. He was received everywhere with cordial hospitality by the Eskimos. Two weeks were spent at Point Barrow, where the traveler had an opportunity of studying the largest Eskimo village in Alaska under winter conditions. During the subsequent journey of 225 miles to Flaxman island the party saw only one human being and were housed only

The archdeacon describes it as "the barrenest, most desolate, most forsaken coast I have ever seen in my life; flat as this paper on which I write, the frozen land merging indistinguishably into the frozen sea; nothing but a stick of driftwood here and there, half buried in the indented snow, gives evidence of the shore."

For two weeks the travelers had to face a bitterly cold northeast wind, and the faces of all were continuously frozen. The heaviest task of all was the journey over the winter's unbroken snow to Fort Yukon. On this inland trip Stefansson and his party were encountered and escorted to Fort Yukon, where Stefansson, who was seriously ill, received medical at-

AIRPLANES IN GREAT WAR

Fokkers Must Be Credited With Remarkable Work That Contributed to Victory of Civilization.

The Fokker series is interesting. First, there was the monoplane Fokker, so long a menace at the front. Then they tried the little triplane Fokker, a weird-looking machine, whose specialty was climbing high and diving down on the foe. Unfortunately in the dive the top plane had a way of coming off. It was in a Fokker triplane that the "Red Devil" Baron von Richthofen came to grief, and you can see the engine of his machine, a 110 La Rhone, copied from a French rotary engine.

The last type of Fokker-and a very good one-is the D7 biplane, all metal except for the wings, with a high-power engine and a tremendous climber. The specimen on show belonged to Richthofen's circus. You can follow the attempts of the Germans to win security by armoring their machines, but armoring did not pay, owing to the weight and clumsiness.

Late in 1918 an extraordinary machine was brought down, made entirely of metal, with wings of some kind of aluminum alloy, and a brass seat for the pilot-the whole thing a marvel of bold inventiveness.

How Fast Shot Travels.

When standing within a few yards of a gun's muzzle at the time of discharge, a person would be amazingly astonished were he only able to see he shot go whizzing hy. in instantaneous photography prove that the shot not only spread out, cometlike, as they fly, but they string out, one behind another at a much greater distance than they spread.

Thus, with a cylinder gun, when the shot of a charge reaches a target that is 40 yards away, the last shot is lagging full ten yards behind. Even a chokebore gun shot will lag behind eight yards in 40. This accounts for the wide swath that is mowed in a flock of ducks on which a charge of shot falls just right. About 5 per cent only of the shot, according to the most reliable deductions from experiments, arrive simultaneously at the target aimed at, the others lagging in the ratio named above.

Largest Motor Vessel. The British twin-screw Diesel en-

It is of 10,000 tons deadweight, and has two sets of engines, constructed by Messrs. Harland & Wolff at their Glasgow works. These give a total horse power of 6,600, which figures represent a very marked progress in this type of vessel.

CU-UPERATIVE CREDIT UNION IS ADVOCATED

Handy for Farmer Who Is Operating on Small Scale.

Many Know Too Little About Financial Transactions and Do Not Receive Affirmative Attention and Sympathy of Bankers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A system of personal-credit unions. especially for the benefit of farmers whose financial circumstances and scale of operations make it difficult for them to secure accommodations through ordinary channels, is recommended in the annual report of the secretary of agriculture.

"The men I have especially in mind," says the secretary, "are those whose operations are on a small scale and who are not, in most cases, intimately in touch with banking machinery, who know too little about financial operations and whose cases usually do not receive the affirmative attention and sympathy of the banker. Such farmers would be much benefited by a membership in co-operative credit associations or unions.

"Of course there are still other farmers whose standards of living and productive ability are low, who usually cultivate the less satisfactory lands, who might not be received for the present into such associations. This class peculiarly excites interest and sympathy, but it is difficult to see how immediately any concrete financial arrangement will reach it. The great things that can be done for this element of our farming population are the things that agricultural agencies are doing for all classes but must do for it with peculiar zeal. The approach to the solution of its difficulty is an educational one, involving better farming, marketing, schools, health arrangements and more sympathetic aid from the merchant and the banker. If the business men of the towns and cities primarily dependent on the rural districts realize that the salvation of their communities depends on the development of the back country and will give their organizing ability to the solution of the problem in support of the plans of the organized agricultural agencies responsible for leadership much headway will be made.

"The foundation for effective work in this direction is the successful promotion of co-operative associations among farmers, not only for better finance but also for better production, distribution and higher living conditions. These activities are of primary importance. At the same time, it is recognized that such co-operation cannot be forced upon a community but must be a growth resulting from the volunteer, intelligent effort of the farmers themselves."

The conclusion up to the present, says the secretary, seems to be that the field is one primarily for the states to occupy through sound legislation. Under laws adopted in five states 125 personal-credit associations have been organized, but the larger percentage of them have been formed by wage earners in urban centers.

"The attempt to develop strictly rural credit bodies has met with somewhat more success in North Carolina than elsewhere," the report states. "In this state the work of promoting and supervising such organizations was placed in charge of an official in the division of markets and rural organization of the state college of agriculture. The law of this state was enacted in 1915, and at present 18 credit unions, all of them rural, are in operation. It is noteworthy that the North Carolina law makes special provision for educational and demonstrational activities."

PREPARE FOR ICE HARVEST

Time to Get Out Saws, Tongs, Etc., and Inspect Them Carefully for Winter Use.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It's time to make final preparations for cutting ice. Get out the ice tools, the saws, tongs and iron bar. Look them over carefully and see that they are in tip-top condition. Sharpen the saws and see that the handles are all right. Repoint the tongs and bar if they need it. Clean them up and be all ready to make the ice slivers fly when the ice is thick.

Did you ever try co-operation in ice harvesting? It works like a charm. Get one or two of your neighbors to go into such a scheme. One pond or stream and one set of tools will answer for all. It's just like a mid-winter picnic, for "many hands make light work."

Better make sure, also, that you have on hand plenty of dry, clean sawdust or whatever insulating material you are going to use. Wet sawdust is a poor insulator and wastes ice. How about it; is everything ready?

Cutworm Killing.

Cutworms which pass the winter as partially-grown larvae are generally starved out by fall plowing, as their food is turned under. White grubs are destroyed more easily by deep, fall plowing because this insect burrows nearly to the plow-depth line during October, and being turned up at that time cannot hibernate again before winter sets in.

Czecho-Slovakia Could at Once Take Rank as Eighth World Power, Asserts Writer.

We are told the Czecho-Slovak state will be a small one, and as a result its existence will be precarious, assuming the world shall remain in any thing like its present condition of international disorganization, Charles Pergler writes in Asia Magazine. In the first place, as modern states go, the new state will not be a small one, having a population of about 12,000,000, and the area of the new state will be about 50,000 English square miles. When we recollect that Belgium has 11,373 square miles, it is seen at a glance that the new state can hardly be classed as small. Moreover, the belief in the necessity of large states, rife in certain circles of economic and political theorists, and largely based upon certain teachings of Karl Marx, is one of the superstitions that periodically appear, in order to be abandoned upon a sober second thought.

The theory that small states and nations cannot succeed is not borne out by history. Even prior to the war there were in Europe 27 states, and the great majority of these were small. There were only six of the socalled great powers: Russia, Germany, Austria-Hungary, England, France and Italy. Portugal, Denmark, Switzerland, Bulgaria, Belgium, Norway, Serbia, Greece, Holland, Sweden, Montenegro and Turkey are all, or were, smaller than the state we are attempting to describe. The latter will hold in Europe the eighth place, only England, Poland, France, Italy, Spain and Russia being larger.

FIGHTERS GOT THEIR "EATS"

How American Soldiers at the Front Were Supplied by the Commissary With Food.

The service of supply of the American army receives a lion's share of praise for our victory. Needs of men in the trenches and on the fighting line were well cared for. Hot meals were served to them to an extent unprecedented in any other war. Under barrage fire and gas attacks, however, hot food could not be carried forward. To meet this difficulty sealed containers were provided, each holding | many places abroad, furnishing amusesufficient food for 25 men for a day. These containers were absolutely air tight to prevent poisoning of food by gas. They contained a dry, hard corn bread, corned beef, corned-beef hash, roast beef, salmon, sardines, salt, sugar and coffee soluble in cold water, together with the necessary can openers. Each container weighed 107 pounds and was cleverly camouflaged for its trip to the firing line. An emergency ration similar to the "iron ration" of the British army was provided for the Americans. This was the ration they carried over the top and used only in dire extremity. It consists of ground meat and wheat pressed into a cake, and a block of sweet chocolate. The cake can be eaten dry or stirred into cold water. One cake boiled four minutes in three pints of water makes a nourishing soup, in one pint of water an acceptable porridge. The S. O. S. relied upon its mighty accumulation of foods from America for everything except fresh vegetables. It was almost inde pendent in this respect, however, for 16,000,000 pounds of dehydrated vegetables were contracted for in the United States.-Thomas F. Logan in

Praise "Stars and Stripes."

Newspaper men, magazine men, literati and, in fact, everyone in America interested in catching the spirit of the Yank invasion of Europe, should by all means read copies of that great voice of the American expeditionary forces, the Stars and Stripes. Letters from pals and relatives paint little intimate tableaux of the extraordinary life of the Yankees in France. but a few copies of the Stars and Stripes can rear an atmosphere which hundreds of excellent letters could not begin to comprise. The editors, by their work, show that they are regular fellows. They have the viewpoint of the buck private, as well as that of the gray-haired executive with the silver stars on the shoulders.-The Quill.

Wiping Out Wild Beasts.

One of the efforts of the state government of Arizona and the federal government in their campaign for the eradication of predatory animals, which cause large losses in range stock, is the employment of skilled hunters. Thirteen are now in the employ of the state and federal governments.

Other men are exterminating rodents which destroy ranges.

One of the hunters within two months has killed 11 mountain lions. Another killed 55 coyotes within a month.

No "Can't" in Banking.

The vice president of a big San Francisco bank remarked recently that they had run their business without any bank after the fire of 1906, without any money before the issue of clearing-house certificates in 1907 and without any men in the war-time influenza epidemic of 1918, offering further proof, if proof be needed, of the resourcefulness of bankers.-Pacific

UPHELD MORALE OF ARMY.

Gave $1,400,000 in Free Canteen Supplies to American Doughboys.

LL of the ammunition used during the three days' battle of Gettysburg would have lasted on the Western Front in the world war just seven minutes. The supplies used by Sherman on his three months' march to the sea would have been consumed by the Allied Army in ten

This statement, made recently by an American officer, a veteran of the Spanish war, who later rendered service in the Mexican campaign and with our armies in France, should convey some idea of the gigantic contest which terminated in a glorious victory for allied forces over the Teutons. But there were other mighty tasks connected with the winning of the titanic struggle for the preservation of civilization, additional to furnishing the necessary men, munitions and supplies. One of these, and far from the least important, was the care of American soldiers and sailors when not actually engaged in their war time duties, that the morale of men in khaki and blue should be maintained at the very highest possible point.

Back in those days when the war clouds had spread over practically all Europe and it was obvious that the United States soon would be compelled to take a great part in the struggle the Young Men's Christian Association began to make its plans for the care of the Americans who would be called to the colors. The tentative program included the placing of recre ation centers in all home camps and at ment aplenty for the idle moments of the men of our forces and many other things essential to a successful welfare program. This was much, but when the storm finally broke and the President sent forth the call which plunged the United States into the struggle, the Y. M. C. A., at the request of General Pershing, took over the canteen service for the American Expeditionary Force. At that time it was agreed that goods were to be sold at the several "Y" centers at the purchase cost price, plus cost of transportation, and if any profits should arise the "Y" would use them exclusively for the men in the army. There have been criticisms to the effect that the Y. M. C. A. operated these canteens at a profit. These charges, oft repeated, are utterly untrue.

Free Canteen Supplies.

Naturally, in consequence of war-inflated transportation charges, supplies in the canteens had to be sold at a rate higher than charged in this country. The following from a recent statemer by William Sloane, Chairman of the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A., indicates the true state of affairs. He said: "Free distribution of canteen supplies to American soldiers by the Y. M. C. A. to a value of $1,-400,000 and a loss on operation of post exchanges overseas, exclusive of the soldiers' stores in Great Britain, amounting to $332,181, has been reported by E. C. Carter, Chief 'Y' Sec retary in Paris. This total of nearly $1,750,000, which does not include the post exchange department for November and December, is the most emphatic answer the Y. M. C. A. can make to the charges of profiteering. In neither of these items, however, does the magnitude of the 'Y' free service appear. There is no mention of the free use of athletic supplies valued at over $1,000,000; no mention of $600,00 item for stationery furnished the soldiers who wrote home upon it more than 14,000,000 letters; no mention of the gigantic entertainment programs."

It should be kept in mind that the Y. M. C. A., at the request of the army authorities, was put up against a practically impossible proposition. It was asked to take charge of a great business spending $100,000,000 a year. Most of the trained secretaries never had had experience in any line at all similar to canteen work. It was a task akin to that of taking a group of men out of the streets and assigning to them the problem of operating a great rail-

Adverse Criticism Dwindling.

However, adverse criticism has been relatively small and is dwindling daily as the real facts are understood. As one war correspondent, recently returned from Europe, stated the other day: "When most of the soldiers get home they, no doubt, will tell the real story of the self-sacrificing, earnest service by the 'Y' men who toiled long hours under great difficulties and frequent danger. Most of them asked for front line service, and they paid a heavy price in killed and wounded. In spite of all difficulties the 'Y' brought the home touch to the soldiers. The people of this country appreciate more than ever the true worth of Dr. John R. Mott, head of the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A., who, patient under unfair criticism, has directed his forces to a successful termination of the greatest philanthropic task in the world's his

French Children Play Baseball

That "baseball follows the flag" is a statement long accepted as a fact by the sport lovers of America. In truth, the national pastime of the United States has found favor in every country in which it has been played by our men-at-arms. The picture shows a group of French "kiddies" coached by a "Y" secretary and encouraged by some of Uncle Sam's doughboys, taking a first lesson in baseball. From July to December of last year the Y. M. C. A. shipped 11,223 cases of atheletic goods, valued at $1,248,854, for the use of the American fighting forces in France.

Nation Stands Alone in the World, Seemingly With No One to Mourn for Her.

One cannot help wondering what could have been the emotions of the German agents in Spain when they read the dispatch sent by King Alfonso to President Poincare. Those agents have worked hard through all these years of the war and spent money lavishly to make and keep Spain the friend of Germany. They can claim with some show of truth to have kept her neutral, but now, in the day of Germany's humiliation, she gets no sympathy from the Spanish king. Instead, he telegraphs to the French president enthusiastic congratulations on the victory of the allies, and calls the result achieved the reaching of "the end of this glorious epic of the French army and nation, which have shown us all," he adds, "what bravery and patriotism mean."

Alfonso says "us all," and no Spaniard protests, so they must join not only in the king's felicitation of Germany's enemy but also in the implied denial that Germany has shown anybody what bravery and patriotism mean. Another failure, therefore, must be scored against German diplomacy and propaganda. Is it the hundredth of the thousandth?-New York Times.

SAW HUMOR OF THE SITUATION

Commanding Officer, Dreaded as a Martinet, Proved He Was Not Altogether a "Bear."

There is a certain major-general in the A. E. F. who is a great stickler for discipline and military forms. Most generals are that, but this one is a regular martinet. The soldier who fails to salute and to "snap it out" when the general is around is in for an extended spell of that intensive form of culinary labor known as "kitchen police," or for something worse. One afternoon the general was driving along when his car met a soldier on foot. The enlisted man stared hard at the vehicle and its august passenger, but made no move to extend the required courtesy.

The general was indignant. He ordered his driver to stop and hailed the plodding private in his best military voice "What do you mean by failing to salute me?" he roared. "I beg your pardon, sir, but I didn't know you were a general," apologized the soldier, standing at attention. "You didn't know I was a general, eh? Well, didn't you see those two stars on my car? Don't you know what two stars mean?" "Yes, sir, I know what they mean. They mean that you have two sons in the army," said the "buck." The general told this story himself that evening at the staff mess and now his aids and the other staff officers know that he isn't such a "bear" as they had thought him.—Exchange.

One of Many Romances of the Great Receiving Room at Ellis Island.

By HAROLD CARTER.

Dr. Sergius O'Flanahan, stationed at his post in the great receiving room at Ellis island, examining immigrants for trachoma, let his hands fall upon his apron and gasped. He found himself staring into a sweet face upturned twinkled with fun and then suddenly to his and into two blue eyes that clouded with sorrow.

"Nora Mulcahy!" he muttered. "Glory be! I guess there's nothing the matter with your eyes, Nora. How did you get here?'

"Whist! You're holding up the line, Sergius," said Nora. "I'll see you afta erward at the place they're sending me to, unless they won't let me go

Then she was gone and Sergius O'Flanahan was resuming his daily prosaic task of examining eyes. He looked into several hundred pairs that morning, but none of these affected him in the least like the blue eyes of Nora Mulcahy, his former sweet-

"Mulcahy?" asked the official to whom he applied. He turned to his register. "That little Irish girl? They're holding her in the detention room until her man comes. He was to have met her. They won't let her in If he doesn't come.'

So Sergius found her in the detention room, her eyes piteously red, her face white, her lips trembling. At the sight of him a faint smile came to her lips, and presently she was twinkling with laughter again. Nora was never sad for more than a few minutes to

"Sure, Nora, this is a bad business," said the young doctor, sitting down beside her. "I hear you're to be

"That I am," answered Nora, looking sidewise at him

"It's a bad business," said O'Flana han again. "Who is it, Nora darlin'?" "You mustn't call me that, Sergius, nor squeeze my hand," said Nora primly. "I wouldn't have thought if of you, Doctor O'Flanahan."

"I'm not squeezing it, Nora; I'm just holding it," said Sergius, and, as she made no protest, he continued holding it. "Who is the lucky man?" he continued. "Is it Piggy Mac

"Now do you think that I'd be after marrying MacShane?" cried Nora in dignantly. "No, indeed it isn't."

"Then it's Terry MacBride; bad luck to him," cried Sergius. "I knew he'd get you, Nora, if you didn't take care. Is it MacBride?"

"No, it isn't MacBride," said Nors faintly. "And please—please don's ask me. You'd be so jealous."

"Then I know who it is for sure," said the young doctor. "It's Ellis O'Flaherty. Ellis, who always boasted that he'd get you and went to Chicago four years ago and made his pile fattening pigs."

"And what if he does fatten pigs Sergius O'Flanahan?" exclaimed Nora indignantly. "He's worth his ter thousand dollars today, is Ellis, if he's worth a penny. Mind you," she added 'I'm not saying that it is Ellis

"I know it's Ellis," answered Ser gius O'Flanahan gloomily. "I knew he'd get you. He always beat me oul of everything. Do you remember when he won the pig at the fair by staying on the mule when I got pitched into the mud? He was al ways great on pigs, Ellis was. Ah Nora, if only you hadn't turned me down when I asked you, before I left the Old Sod to walk a lonely wander er over the earth. Twice I asked you and each time you said no." "Twice!" exclaimed Nora. "Why, Ellis asked me seven times before he sailed and wrote me five times after ward. Why didn't you try me again, Sergius?" she continued softly.

The young doctor edged closer to ward her. "You'd-you'd have taken me, Nora?" he whispered.

Then he saw that the tears stood in her eyes again. He clasped her in his arms, and she did not resist but

"Nora, is it too late?" he asket asthore. And all the years I've been in America I've been seeing your sweet face before me night and day, darlin'. And when I wrote you from Newark, when I had my last job there, I was sure you'd come out to me, but you didn't even answer me. Wouldn't you rather take a fine, rising young doctor with a government Job than old Ellis O'Flaherty, with his ten thousand dollars and his pigsticking?"

Nora was smiling up at him as she lay in his arms.

"Yes, Sergius, darling, I'd like to," she whispered. "But now-now that I've come out to marry I'm afraid it's too late. He may be here any mooff with the doctor? If only I'd known you were here. How long have you the centerpiece. been at Ellis island, Sergius?"

square the folks here. They can't hold you so long as you've got some means of support. And I can support you, Nora, yes, even if I lose my place in consequence. And I guess a woman's always privileged to change her mind.'

"And what about Ellis, Sergius?" inquired Nora demurely. "It is Ellis, then?"

"I'm not saying it's Ellis," Nora protested.

Sergius O'Flanahan snapped his fingers. "Nora," he said, "you always were a tease. If I'd had a grain of sense in the old days I'd have captured you and carried you to the priest and made you marry me before you knew what I was doing to you. But it isn't too late yet. And as for Ellis, a man who lets a chance like you slip through his fingers isn't worth the having. Now I've got you and I'm going to keep you. Come along and see the commissioner.'

He led her out of the detention room, along the corridor, and up the stairs to the room in which the offices of the commissioner are situated. He paused at the door.

"I'd like to see you a minute, sir,"

"Come in, O'Flanahan," the commissioner answered. "Let the lady come in. By the way, here's a telegram just come for you. I held it here, knowing you'd be up for the board meet ing. You'd better open it."

JUDGE WILLING TO PLEASE

Protesting Prisoner Escaped With Light Sentence After He Had Put Up an Argument.

Judges were very considerate in the old days. Lord Brampton, in his "Reminiscences," relates a story illustrating this:

Baron Martin, a famous English jurist of the old school, whose native leniency and sense of fun often placed him at the mercy of the very men he was trying, was once about to sentence an old offender charged with a petty theft.

"Look," said the baron, with an assumption of severity; "I hardly know what to do, but you can take six months."

"I can't take that, my lord; it's too much," said the prisoner, respectfully but firmly. "I can't take it Your lordship sees I didn't steal very much, after all."

The baron indulged in one of his low, chuckling laughs before reply-

"Well, that's very true; ye didn't steal much," he said. "Well, then, ye can take four months. Will that do-four months?"

"Nay, my lord, but I can't take that, either," was the reply. "Then tak' three."

"That's nearer the mark, my lord," the prisoner said, approvingly. "But I'd rather you made it two, if you will

"Verra well, then, tak' two," said the judge, with the air of one who is pleased to have done the right thing "And mind, don't come again. If you do I'll give yer-well, it all de-

Forty and a Bittock.

The novelist, Barrie, has given a new phrase, a Scottish phrase which may be adopted into the English language. It is to take the place of the awkwardly polite terms of "a woman of uncertain age," or "on the wrong side of forty," or "of years of discretion." His phrase is "forty and a bittock." A "bittock" is Scotch for a bit more or a short distance. It may mean five years or twenty years. In the case of Madame Yale, Lillian Russell or that woman of imperishable youth, Sarah Bernhardt, it might mean even more years beyond forty. | fective when worn on dark hats.

How to Overcome the Perplexing Task of Putting the Straight Material in Place.

Have you often been troubled in putting straight lace on a curved edge? You have been if you have ever tried putting cluny, for instance, on the outside edge of a big round centerpiece.

This is an easy way to overcome the difficulty. Roll the lace in a little tight roll. Wind it tightly about the center with a stout thread. Then dip the straight edge in water to about half the width of the lace. Let it dry they've sent a telegram to the man and you will find a piece of lace ready shaped to your liking. You see what happens is that the straight edge, bement. And how would I look, walking ing wetted, shrinks, and so can be easily adjusted to the curved edge of

If you have any new table linenor cotton, mayhap-to hem, try this method. Trim such edges as need trimming and then run them through "Nora, asthore," whispered Serthe machine hemmer, with a fine gius, "it isn't too late. I think I can needle, unthreaded. This will crease the hems with perfect evenness and will also punch holes through the fabric with the unthreaded needle. Then you can turn the hem back and overhand the hems through the little holes with the least expenditure of effort.

Remember in many heavy materials that must be laid in plaits and then pressed that pins can be used to fasten the plaits into position until they are pressed. Then, as you press, take out the pins and press the material into position. You can do this with less marking than basting thread heavy enough to hold the fabric makes. Of course if you want to you can use the heavy basting thread and snip it and pull it as you go along.

METAL AND COTTON THREAD

Combination Is Effective and Affords Charming Variations; Suggestions for the Needlewoman.

There is an increasing vogue for combining metal thread with silk, wool, or cotton embroidery. It is tremendously effective and capable of such charming variations. Here are some suggestions for the needleworker who is interested in the unusual.

Say, suppose, you have some "solid" work in silk, cotton or wool. You don't know how very effective it can be made by an outlining in either gold or silver The doctor tore open the envelope thread. The idea can be further carried out by adding French knot centers to the flowers of the same.

Where the embroidery is done entirely in outline, and particularly if it be the heavy wool or cotton kind, couching in metal is a mighty successful addition. In fact, if the wool or cotton embroidery isn't already done, try couching it on with the metallic stuff and just see if it isn't vastly more decorative.

Another suggestion for introducing the metal is to "whip stitch" the other thread with it. Wool whipped on the bias, spiral effect is the most fascinating thing ever.

ATTRACTIVE COATEE OF MOLE

All the way from France comes this extremely chic coatee with gray velvet vest. With it is worn a small triangular hat of mole, ornamented by silver flowers.

Narrow Ribbons on Hats. Not only are narrow ribbons—usually half an inch to an inch wide-being used more or less in making hats for women, but on both popular-priced and expensive models gold or silver ribbons of the same widths are employed as trimmings. Either they are drawn around the crown and finished off in soft bows or streamers or they are fashioned into flowers laid flat on the brims or around the crown. Frock May Be Made of White Chiffon or Other Material.

Garment Is Trimmed Very Simply With Rows of Inch-Wide Glossy Ribbon in Color.

The little dance dress shown in the sketch may be made of white chiffon, net georgette or silk tissue, and it is trimmed very simply with rows of inch-wide glossy ribbon in color. Rainbow colors may be selected for the ribbon, two or three of these dainty pale shades being used with very good effect. If desired, the fabric of the gown may also be in color, and the frock be a genuine rainbow affair.

A foundation of sheer silk should be used for the dress, and it may be made a slipover by running an elastic in at the waistline. Two or three ribbon straps hold it in place over the shoulder, and a ribbon girdle with long ends circles the waist.

A dress of this kind is easy to make and may be very inexpensive. Spending a great deal of money on a dance. or evening dress is never really necessary and at present it is poor taste. There will be few formal evening functions during the coming winter season, and the simple dances scheduled call for simple costuming.

An allover lace dress is always pretty, and many lace dresses are being featured for the coming season. Extreme simplicity is the rule in designing these frocks. Frequently the bodice is merely a wide girdle of silk or satin topped by a frill or yoke of lace and with short lace sleeves. The skirt may be a single length of lace, or it may be formed of two or three lace flounces. A ribbon sash or girdle finishes the dress.

Ribbon trimming is extremely popular this season. Plain bands of ribbon are used on frocks for both daytime and evening wear, and ribbon flowers, bowknots, etc., appear on innumerable evening dresses of sheer materials.

Very narrow "baby" ribbon is often knitted to form cuffs and collar for a street suit or frock, and the knitted ribbon sweater has been worn for months. During the summer it was merely a sweater, now it appears as a sleeveless vest to be worn underneath the suit jacket.

Place your order with us now for that Ford car you want, in order to insure yourself of the earliest possible delivery. RUNABOUT, TOURING CAR, COUPE, SEDAN or ONE-TON TRUCK. Production is coming through in limited quantities at present. It takes some time to turn the big factory back from 100 per cent Government work to 100 per cent production of Ford cars. So first come, first served. The demand is big from every part of the country, and the Ford Motor Company will be impartial in the effort to serve fairly every one of the great army of Ford dealers. This means that for some time to come we are not going to have enough cars to supply our trade, so, as above stated, those who place their orders first will have first delivery. Probably in no other line of human activity is there a greater utility than the Ford Car. That's why it is so well named The Universal Car." It serves everybody, both for bus-

SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—The value of intercessory prayer.

Less than six weeks have elapsed since Israel took the oath of allegiance to Jehovah. In less than forty days they flagrantly break the first and second commandments.

I. The Golden Calf (32:1-6).

1. Moses' delay (v. 1) This they interpreted to mean that their leader had either lost his way in the darkness or had perished in the fire that hovered over the mount.

2. The people's demand (v. 1). They demanded of Aaron that he make them a god to go before them. Their profession of allegiance to God collapsed as soon as the strong personality of their leader was no longer felt.

3. Aaron's cowardly compliance (vv. 2-4). He was an eloquent man, but lacked moral courage. Many today can talk fluently, but vacillate before the real issues of life. In order to gain time with the rebels he demanded that they cast off their jewelry and bring it to him. Perhaps he thought that their love for it would cause them to forego their demands, but they cheerfully gave up their jewelry for a false god. Aaron, like many compromising men of this age, opened a door which he could not shut.

4. Wanton revelry (vv. 5, 6). Seeing their disposition, Aaron erected an altar and proclaimed a fast unto Jehovah. He no doubt wished them to worship the Lord through the image, but he had made a god for them and it was a very short step to the heathen orgies connected with idolatrous

II. God's Burning Wrath (32:7-10). God's nature is such that he cannot tolerate a rival. No gods shall be before his face. The rival must be removed or the people must be consumed with divine wrath. God does not own them as his people, for they had cast him off.

III. The Mediation of Moses (32:11-

The declaration of a divine purpose to destroy the Israelites did not deter Moses from making intercession for them. What was his threefold plea?

(vv. 11, 12, 13). Moses knew full well that the people deserved to die, therefore he could not plead any merit on their part. His plea was based wholly on God's purpose for Israel. Through his intercession God relents.

IV. Judgment Faile (32:15-35). 1. Moses broke the tables of testimony (vv. 15-19) emblematic of the breach of their covenant with God. 2. Moses destroyed the image (v. 20) and made the people drink of the water which contained its dust, thus making them to experience in a physical

3. Moses showed Aaron that he was inexcusable for his part in the disgraceful affair (vv. 21-24).

sense the bitterness which results from

4. Moses called for those who would take a stand for the Lord to gird their swords and slay all who stood out in rebellion. The tribe of Levi ranged themselves on his side and became the instrument by which God chastened his people (vv. 25-29).

5. Moses confessed the great sin of the people and begged that God would forgive them. He was willing to suffor the punishment himself, if possible, and let the people go free. The Lord declared to him in answer that every man should bear his own sin (vv. 30-

V. The Covenant Renewed (38:1-4-8).

1. Moses' commission renewed (Ch. 33).

2. The second tables of the law given (34:1-9). In the giving of these tables he reiterated God's justice, but The Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering and abundant in goodand truth, keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, and that will by no means clear the guilty; visiting the inighity of the fathers upon the children, and upon the children's children, into the third and fourth generation."

What to Pray For. Oh, do not pray for easy lives. Pray to be stronger men. Do not pray for tasks equal to your powers. Pray for powers equal to your tasks. Then the doing of your work shall be no miracle. But you shall be a miracle. Every day you shall wonder at Yourself, at the richness of life which has some to you by the grace of God.—Phillips Brooks.

February 23 Christianity and the Toilers of Japan Matt. 28:16-20

We can expect the power of our risen Lord to be with us according to the measure of our loyalty to His program. Christ has a program and power to realize it. Shall we fall in line and march with Him?

Japan has 3,000,000 fishermen who supply her people with sea food. They are a hardy race, poor, industrious, as worth winning as the fishermen of

Dr. Sidney Gulick says: factories keep long hours. Most of the cotton-mills run day and night. In a small silk-weaving factory the hours were from 5 in the morning till 9 at night, seven days a week.

Christianity and commerce have made working men in Japan wish for better houses, better food, and more money. The effect on material interests has been more widespread than on spiritual. Although the number of Christians in Japan is relatively small the quality of the Christians is much superior to that of some other

Dr. Augustus H. Strong, President emeritus of Rochester Theological Seminary, in his recent book, "A Tour of the Missions," gives the following informing sketch of a visit to a rural church in Japan, and an example of a country pastor's efforts in establishing a self-supporting work which we should like to see reproduced in all the fields. He writes:

"We wished to see mission work in country field, and we begged Mrs. Fisher to go with us to Kanagawa, a suburb of Yokohama, where an educated milkman is pastor, and where the Mary Colby school of Christian girls attends the worship of his church. The reverence and sincerity of the service impressed us. The warmth and abandon of the singing shame our western quartet choirs. Here is a pastor who prefers to supplement his meager salary by selling milk on week days, rather than give up the satisfaction of seeing his church entirely self-supporting. It seemed to me the model of a good ministry, and the prophecy of the New Testament churches in Japan, manned and financed and governed by the Japanese themselves. So long as we of the West furnish both the preachers and their salaries, the Japanese will not learn to depend upon their own administration or their own giving, and we will not have churches organized on correct principles and so rooted in the soil that they can stand the shocks of time and endlessly propagate the gospel. May the little one in Kanagwa 'become a thousand'!"

Defense of Rhythm in Poetry.

When a poet discards rhythm he is discarding perhaps the most powerful single artifice of poetry which is at his disposal—the particular artifice, moreables the poet to obtain a psychic conhypnosis over him. Rhythm is persuasive. It is the very stuff of life. It is not surprising, therefore, that things can be said in rhythm which otherwise cannot be said at all; paraphrase a fine passage of poetry into prose and in the dishevelment the ghost will have escaped. A good many champions of free verse would perhaps dispute this. They would fall back on the theory that, at any rate, certain moods more colloquial and less intense than those of the highest type of poetry, and less colloquial and more intense than those of the highest type of prose, could find their aptest expression in this form, which lies halfway between .-Conrad Atkin in the Dial.

Helping One Another.

We do far more than we think to steady one another's principles, to hold one another up. A thought of the boy who must not be allowed to inherit a dishonored name has held many a man in the hour of temptation. The remembrance of wife and child has barred the way to many a wrong transaction.

The quiet courage of every day. that does its best hour by hour and accepts as part of the day's work the losses and penalties that steadfastly doing right must often bring-this is the highest courage of all. Many people add unnecessarily to their own anxiety by assuming cares that do not belong to them-which form no real part of their duty or their work. Some of these burdens are pure creations of one's own excited or morbid imagination, while others appertain to the life or duty of others and not to us .- Exchange.

Carrot and Radish Seed.

California is the largest producer of carrot seed. Sacramento and Yolo counties rank first, with San Joaquin, Contra Costa, Santa Clara and San Benito counties ranking as minor producers. In the production of radish seed the situation is reversed, the coast counties of California producing the bulk of the crop, and the river district being unimportant as a producer. It is also grown in the Pacific Northwest. Beet seed is grown in both the river and coast districts of California, but is probably grown more extensively around Sacramento than in any other portion of the state. Lettuce seed is grown almost exclusively near the coast sections of California.

Y. W. C. A. WORKER IS BIG SISTER

Industrial Woman's Service Club Brings Home to Girls in New Factory Community.

BLUE TRIANGLE MEANS CHEER

Club Stands for Hot Lunches, Clean Towels, Comfortable Cots, Parties, Games and Recreation to Girl Workers.

Katherine Holland Brown.

Y name is May Isabel Carnahan. I am eighteen years old, and I work in a big factory in Michigan. More than four hundred other girls work there too. I don't aim to tell you about our jobs. You can read about our work in the labor department reports. But I do aim to tell you about our Big Sister and of the things she has done for us. "To begin with, our factory town isn't a town at all. It's a huge barn of buildings stuck down in the country nineteen miles from nowhere. There is a railroad siding, a station the size of a dry goods box, seven farmhouses and one general store and postoffice combined—it's pretty near as big as a hot tamale stand. And that's all. No Main street, no banks nor stores, no ice-cream parlors, not one solitary movie show, in all those nineteen miles. Lonesome? It's the ragged edge of desolation, that's what it is.

"I was one of the first carload of forty girls that was shipped up from Chicago. The factory was swarming with workmen putting in the machinery, and we girls couldn't begin work for a day or so, so we began hunting places to eat and sleep. That was a trifle that the employment folks hadn't thought of. The workmen were sleeping and eating in the cars that had brought them there, backed on the siding. Our only chance for beds and food was with those seven farmhouses, so we marched straight to the farmers' wives and asked for board and room.

Farmers' Wives Hospitable. "I will say that those women were kind and hospitable. They fixed it up between them to feed us forty girls, and they gave us good food too. But for rooms, that was the question. They could each spare one room. That meant sleep five or six in a room. But right then along came the boss of the factory and told us the machinery was ready and he'd expect us girls to work double shifts, night and day.

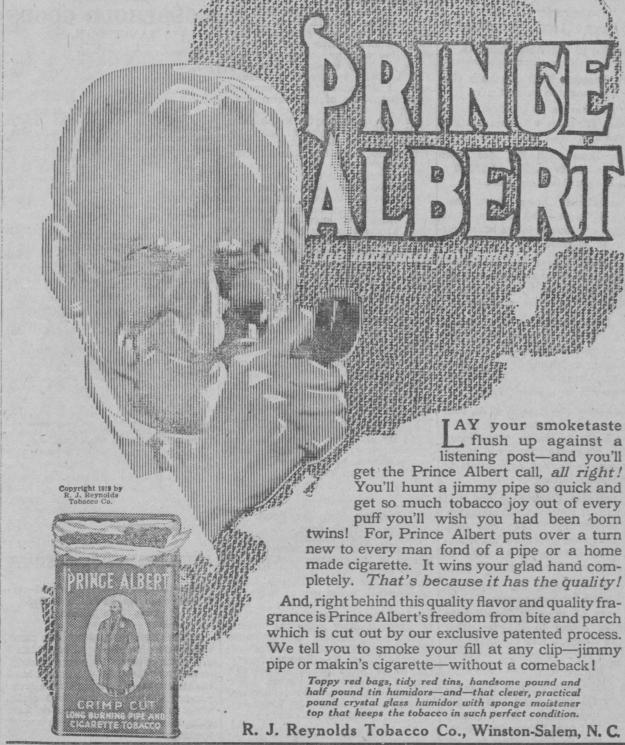

"He wanted to make use of every minute, you see. But that gave us our chance as to sleeping. We fixed it up with the farm folks that we'd work double shifts and sleep double shifts

"So we planned it. Three girls would use a room from eight at night till six the next morning. Then they'd hustle over to the factory, and the three girls who'd been working all night would take the room and sleep till afternoon. It wasn't any luxuriover, which, more than any other, en- ous slumber, believe me. The farm women had so few sheets and pillow trol over his reader, to exert a sort of cases that most of us went without. on blackberry bushes. As to soapwell, the general store kept vellow bar soap, that kind that is so full of rosin you could use it to calk a ship. But we made out till the next three carloads of girls came rolling in. Then we went 'most distracted. Those poor girls had to sleep in tents and in the cars that the workmen had abandoned by this time, and they were lucky if they got a straw tick and a blanket. By this time it had turned raw cold, and maybe you know what late autumn nights in Michigan feel like. To cap the climax the farm folks cut down on food, and for a week it was potatoes and beans and mighty few beans at that.

Along Came a Miracle,

"But, right when we were about ready to quit our jobs and beat it for home, along came a miracle. Two quiet, businesslike women climbed down from the eastbound train one morning. With them came eight workmen, a carload of scantling and tar paper, another carload of cots and blankets and pillows and sheets and towels-brand new blankets and beds -think of the glory of that !- and bushels of dishes and rolls of oilcloth and enough burlap to carpet the country. You won't believe me when I tell you that in ten days their workmen had a scantling-and-tar-paper shack put up and burlap tacked over the walls, and the Y. W. C. A. secretary and her helper had set up board tables and coffee kettles and were serving us the grandest hot lunches every day. And back behind the burlap screens were set those rows of clean cots, with plane cloth or overalls or munitions or canned goods you'll find a Y. W. C. A. secretary working harder than anybody else to make the girls comfortable and to keep them happy and well. Sometimes they haven't money enough to get all that we really need. But alit do its level best for us. Do you wonder that we girl workers have learned to call the Y. W. C. A. our Big Sister -the very best Big Sister of all?

BUMBLE BEE BUSY WORKER

Only Severe Cold Weather Induces Insect to Take a Rest From Its Labors.

If one were born a bumble bee, his idea of life success would be 40 acres of red clover waist high, in full June bloom and fragrance all the year through and forever. What one bumble bee could do with 40 acres of clover no bee nor mortal ever knew; but the bee, if human wise, would want all that and more. Invade his flowery honey farm at the height of the season, and he puts out no restraining hand. There is no padlock on his gate. The whole field is a-hum with polyglot plunderers coming from everywhere to carry away the very goods that are gold to the bumble bee. But he puts up no defense. He makes no vicious counter-And towels were scarce as diamonds offensive, as the yellow-jacket might. If you search for him here you find him diligently prospecting with his honey pump humming a barytone solo as he works, loads of pollen strapped to his running board, his tonneau bulging with joy fodder. He is having the time of his life.

When the 40 acres of red clover is a wilderness of dry stubble under a scorching July sun, and his millions in clover are swept away by the hand of the strong, this bumble bee will not be found hanging by a spiderweb to a fence-row fireweed, a bankrupi suicide. Not he. In this fence cor ner left by the mower, clad in his velvet suit of black and yellow, even now he is working over the dump of a goldenrod mine, and gold is shining from his pants pockets. Moreover, he has a fair swig left in his honey jug and he is still humming his song of high June. As the season goes down the steep slope toward chilly weather, the bumble bee does not dig his reluctant heels into the sod, lag sullenly back and turn a regretful eye over his shoulder, with his heart in the lost red clover. He takes the small sweets of poverty as he did the rich sea of June honey.

From a June millionaire's estate he has fallen to the fortune of an autumn tramp, taking a handout from a belated weed and begging a night's lodging in the last bloom of a wayside hollyhock. But he still retains his well-brushed suit, his good deep bary. tone and his memories of June.

were set those rows of clean cots, with enough cover to keep you warm the coldest night that ever blew, and a towel apiece for every single girl. Do you wonder that we all felt, as one girl put it, 'I'll wager the Fritz-Carleton has nothing on this!'

America's Tin Industry.

While the United States has attained a commanding position in the tin plate export trade, it by no means equals that which England had before the war. Data show that while our exports of tin plate have grown from 57,800 tons in 1913 to more than 233,000 tons in 1913 to more than 233,000 tons in 1917, they even now are less than 50 per cent of England's before the war, and only 35 per cent more than that country's present exports.

Will this country ever have a tin in dustry of its own? asks the Philadelphia Inquirer. The American tin-melting industry is still in the childhood stage. CHARLES W. COPENHAVER, administratrix.

Mrs. Theodore M. Buffington is visiting her daughter, in Baltimore.

We still have a lot of "free seeds" on hand, for those who have not yet received any.

Mrs. James Hill Sr., has been granted a county pension of $10.00 a year-a very deserving case.

Some already know about when they will "move," this Spring. At any time convenient, let us have your change in address.

New sales appear in The Record, this week and other new ones will appear for several weeks. Sale news is important, at this time of the year.

The C. E. Society of the Lutheran church will have a social, Feb. 28th. Each member will have the privilege of bringing a friend, and also those who attend regularly are invited. The program will be given at 7:30.

Members of the P. O. S. of A., both Taneytown and Harney, are invited to the Lutheran church, this Sunday evening, where the Pastor will preach a sermon, by request, appropriate to Washington's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Zepp, and Miss Elizabeth Mitten, of Washington, spent several days in town, this week. They were accompanied back to Washington, on Wednesday, by John E. Buffington and Miss Maggie Hape.

The Record force, last week, was glad to extend its press service for the first issue of the new Emmitsburg Chronicle, owing to the fact that Manager Shugars was unable to get his large press in running order in time for the issue.

The first severe thunder and lightning, for the year, came last Friday evening, accompanied by a heavy down-pour of rain, lasting for over an hour. Such demonstrations in February are unusual, even for a section accustomed to weather freaks.

The P. O. S. of A. Camp has presented flags to the schools at Mayberry, Clear View and the Ridge. These flags were promised quite a while ago, and the Camp does not mean to present any more in the near future, at present prices.

The unbuilt State Road link between Bridgeport and Emmitsburg has been in a fearful condition all mints between Farney: Bible School at 1:30, and in a fearful condition all winter, and should be one of the first unfinished road jobs to be completed this spring. This link should be closely kept in mind by those most interested, and if the work is not commenced when the conditions are fit, prompt action should be taken.

Mrs. James H. Demmitt has reived two handsome souvenir silk handkerchiefs, from her son, Carl, who is near Verdun, in France. One is embroidered "To my mother," and the other "To my sister," and both are bright and dainty, nicely embroidered. He is well, and like the rest of the boys anxious to come back to the United States, and home.

Knights of Pythias Hold Special Meeting.

Taneytown Lodge No. 36, K. of P. held a public meeting in the Lodge Hall, on Tuesday evening. Among those present were a considerable group of the wives and lady friends of the members, and a number of others not members of the Lodge.

The occasion for the meeting was a visit of the Grand Officers, who addressed the meeting, making a program of speeches of a high order. The list of speakers included John R. Hopwood, Grand Chancellor; Rev. James S. Webster, M. D., Grand Vice Chancellor; James M. Hendrix, Grand Keeper of Records and Seals; Harry W. Nice Past Grand Chancellor, and assistant State's Attorney of Balti-more, who was accompanied by Mrs. Nice; and Hon. Frank F. Luthardt. Judge of the Juvenile Court of Baltimore, and a member of high standing in the Order.

The program was interspersed with music by the orchestra. Light re-freshments were served at the close of the meeting, which ended in a period of real sociability.

Did You Forget Your Purse?

Of the subscriptions given in the United War Work Campaign, in November, about 20, amounting to $92, have been entirely neglected, though at least half was due Dec. 2, and the next payment, one-fourth, was due Jan. 15. The final payment is due on or before March 1. The district on or before March 1. The district made a fine record in the Red Cross fund last Summer, and we hope these 20 will help to keep up that record The Red Cross subscriptions amounted to over $2400, and every penny of it has been paid. Wedding Anniversary.

On February 14, St. Valentine's day, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Shirk, at their hospitable residence, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary, known as the silver wedding. They were unit-ed in the Holy Bonds of matrimony, Feb. 14, 1894, by Rev. G. W. Baughman, at Uniontown, Md. Four children were born of this union, three living and one dead. They are Mrs. Edna Sell, of Akron, O.; Ralph Shirk, of Norfolk, Va.; Bruce, at home; and Robert H., who died in August, 1901.

It seems incredible that 25 years have elapsed since we were boys and girls together; but time is fleeting.

The friends and guests began to arrive, some a little late, but none too late to partake of the sumptuous repast which they knew was awaiting them at the noon-day hour, of which the hostess is an adept at preparing. The feast over, the guests repaired to the parlor and engaged in conversation and music, vocal and instrumental, until 3:30 o'clock, when we were again invited to the dining-room, where we found the table again loaded with all the delicacies to satisfy the inner man, to which all did ample justice. supper over, we again entered the parlor and viewed the presents, which were both handsome and useful, consisting of various articles of silverware and money The time had arrived to say goodbye, which we did after thanking the host and hostess for the pleasures of the day, which were thoroughly enjoyed by all. Wishing the host and hostess many more years of health and happiness, prosperity and festive occasions of this kind.

In Trinity Lutheran church next Sunday morning, a special service in the interest of Foreign Missions will be held. There will be special exercises and a brief address by the pastor or front. on the topic, "Jesus Shall Reign." In the evening at 7:30, the pastor will preach a sermon appropriate to Washington's birthday, by request of the local Camp of P. O. S. of A., which will meet at 7 o'clock, to attend in a body. The Harney Camp is especially invited, and a general invitation is given to the public.

The "Wind-Month."

November was styled by the ancient Ohio & Kentucky Horses Saxons as wind-month, from the gales which are so prevalent at this season of the year, and which made them beach their boats and cease almost entirely from maritime operations. It bore also the name of the bloody month, from the circumstance of its being customary to slaughter great numbers of cattle, to be salted for the winter. November is the eleventh month of the year, although its name would indicate that it was the ninth month. This is accounted for by the change from the old calendar, which began in March and not in January, as our present calendar does.

How Britain Saved the Babies, Great Britain has adopted drastic measures to provide milk for her bables, according to J. C. Welliver in the National Geographic Magazine. "If the adult patron of a public eating house," he says, "buys and drinks a glass of milk as a beverage, he is liable to a fine of $25, and the proprietor subjects himself to a like penalty." The result has been that "the death rate among infants under five years old has been about one-half the rate in prewar times. For the first time in the modern history of Britain there has been milk enough for all the babies, and good milk."

APRON DRAPERIES ARE SMART

Tablier Is Really Only a Panel-Arrangement to Be Much in Evidence This Winter.

Apron draperies appear on so many things that they may be considered a distinct fashion. They may be short or long and they may or may not have the slightest connection with the dress proper. It is as if one had really added an apron of brocade or marquisette or satin to the dress one is wearing.

Sometimes they begin at the neck and hang straight down well below the hips and are caught in only with the narrowest of string belts. Again a hem is folded back on the bottom of the drapery, as in a peasant's apron and bright-hued embroidery is added in criss-cross stitches.

In effect the tablier is really only a panel such as appeared on summer frocks. As this arrangement is to be much in evidence this winter it is well to note that any sort of fabric can be used to develop it. With velvet the gold and silver brocades, with a banding of fur, are very smart. As Baust Church—Sunday school at 1:30 P. M., and preaching service at 2:30 with sermon by Rev. L. B. Hafer, basquelike plainness of the Civil war. the apron tunic may begin at the collar as a waistcoat, spreading out at the waistline, from which it falls free. Now and then the tunic tablier buttons in the back or again it is set in quite

Yep, It'll Do the Rest.

"Dear me," observed Mrs. Languid, lazily, as she settled herself in her steamer chair and gazed leisurely about her through her one-hoss lorgnette. "How wonderfully convenient these ocean steamers are, to be sure! Why, we won't even be troubled to punish little Algernon when he is naughty. All we'll have to do is to lay him across a coil of rope in one of those spanking breezes we read so much about."
