

THE COUNTY FAIR

PREMIUM LIST.

Prizes Offered at the Ohler's Grove, Taneytown Fair.

The Carroll County Agricultural Fair Association have just published their premium list for 1919. It behooves every resident of Carroll county to carefully look over the list and decide how many exhibits he can bring. There is something for every member of the family: Fruits, vegetables, corn, and other grains, canned fruit, canned vegetables, pickles, preserves, jellies, canned meats, fresh and smoked sausage, ham, bacon, lard, under baked goods comes bread, rolls and cakes. Under sewing, button holes, collar and cuff set, hand made undergarments, most practical kitchen apron, most practical tea-towels, best hand-made apron, best patching on article, best darning on article, best and most practical luncheon set, best and most practical sofa pillow, table runner, embroidered child's dress, rag rug, modern home-made quilt, antique home-made quilt, best piece of crochet, best piece of embroidery, best piece of tatting, best knitted article. The following are miscellaneous articles: Best pound of butter, best dozen of eggs (white and brown), best cottage cheese, best quart of vinegar, dried apples, peaches, beans, corn, best container of grape juice, best home-made soap.

The first prizes run all the way from 50c to $2.00. If you wish a price list, call at the County Agent's office, Times Building, Westminster, or you can secure them from any of the Fair Directors. Every district in Carroll county should aim to have three or four hundred exhibits. Entries should not be local entirely, but should include the whole county.

One of the special features at the fair will be Woman's Day, on Wednesday. A program is being arranged with special interest to the women. We hope to have a "Better Baby Contest," conducted on the grounds by competent physicians. We also are making a campaign to secure as many labor saving devices as possible. We hope the local merchants, and anyone interested in a concern which will improve the home, either from a convenient or artistic standpoint, will aim to have such a demonstration at the fair. Another department which we think should be pushed in the county is the Athletic Meet, which will be held on Friday afternoon, at the Taneytown Fair. This will be in charge of the Public Athletic League of Baltimore. Every person, old and young, is asked to take part in the novelty races, as well as the other athletic sports.

Let's make this a fair worthy of its name, and this will be secured if every one takes an interest, feels that it is their fair, and help boost it in every way they can. This fair will be the forerunner of local exhibits, community shows, with a big round-up in Westminster at the close of the year, which we hope will be truly representative of the best work done in this county.—From County Agent.

Keysville Church Remodeling.

Grace Reformed congregation, of Keysville, having bought out the Lutheran interest in the church property, will, on Monday morning, begin extensive repairs and improvements to the building. A new roof will be put on, and the exterior will be considerably changed, by the addition of a bell tower, and vestibule, erected at the front end of the building. A large sweet-toned bell will be placed in the tower.

The entire interior will be renovated and renewed. The making of the improvements will probably require more than a month, during which time the church will be closed.

The laying of the corner stone will take place as soon as the progress of the work makes it possible, probably during the coming week. Further announcement of the corner stone laying service will be made on Sunday.

Taneytown High School.

The Commencement exercises of the Taneytown High School were held in the Opera House, on Wednesday night to a full house. The program was excellently rendered, reflecting great credit on all of the participants, as well as on their instructors. There were four graduates: Miss Mary Rozella Ohler, Misses Bertie Irene and Lillie Mae Snyder, and Loy Elmer Hess.

Dr. Holsopple's address was a pleasing effort, somewhat different from the regulation address to graduates, and abounded in interesting illustrations of the superiority of mind, and persistent application, over mere knowledge. The complete program was as follows:

Music, Orchestra.
Invocation, Rev. S. R. Dowdle.
Song, "Greeting," High School Chorus.
Salutatory Address, Mary Rozella Ohler.
Recitation, "The Nautilus," Bertie Irene Snyder.
Music, Orchestra.
Declaration, "Ambition," Lillie Mae Snyder.
Declaration, "Spartacus," Loy Elmer Hess.
Music, "Valse Impromptu," a la Tyrolienne.
Mrs. Chas. E. Hoop.
Address to the Graduates, "Forward Look,"
Rev. F. F. Holsopple.
President of Blue Ridge College.
Song, "Hall; Queen of the Night,"
High School Chorus.
Awarding of Diplomas,
Supt. M. S. H. Unger.
Music, Benediction, Orchestra.

AN AUTOMOBILE STOLEN.

A Bold Theft in Taneytown, on Tuesday Night.

A nearly new Ford automobile belonging to Miss Elizabeth Crapster, was stolen from the barn of Judson Hill, on Middle street, Taneytown, on Tuesday night. As Miss Crapster was busy, on Wednesday, helping to prepare for the High School commencement, she had no time to use the car, and the theft was not discovered until Wednesday evening. Mr. Hill notified the absence of the car, on Wednesday morning, but supposed Miss Crapster had taken an early drive in it.

The same night about midnight, somebody was observed in the alley at Brendle's and Bowersox's places of business, acting suspiciously, but made off rather hastily. A car was also heard to leave town very rapidly, shortly after this.

It is the commonly expressed conviction that this theft, and others, was by the same persons, who are well informed as to opportunities in Taneytown, and who know the town—perhaps persons who once lived here, and are not now so far away that they cannot get back, by auto, and get far away again by morning.

Washington Camp No. 2, Social.

The P. O. S. of A. held a big summer social in the Opera House, on Thursday night, about 250 members and their guests were present. Excellent music was furnished by the Baust Church orchestra, a new organization. The theme of the evening was "Present-day Opportunities and Responsibilities." L. D. Maus, president of the Camp, presided. The fact was brought out that within the past five months, 46 new members have been added to the roster of the Camp, making the present membership near the 200 mark, with more coming.

Addresses were made by Rev. Paul D. Yoder and Rev. L. B. Hafer, members of the Camp, and by National President, Prof. Wm. J. Heaps, of Baltimore, and Rev. Seth Russell Downie. The main address was by Prof. Heaps, who spoke in his usual and forceful vein on some of the greater dangers confronting this country.

Luncheon and refreshments were served at the close, and in every way the affair was a pronounced success.

School Board vs. County Commissioners.

We have received a very lengthy and interesting communication, signed Theo. F. Brown, attorney for the County Commissioners of Carroll County, which we are unable to publish as news, due to its great length. It recites in detail various disagreements between the School Board and the County Commissioners, involving financial matters, as well as claims and counter-claims made by the two bodies.

The gist of the whole article seems to be contained in this one paragraph: "This is the situation in a nut-shell: Violation of the terms of an agreement containing its own building program has gotten the Board of Education in debt, and it is trying by the tactics employed to get out; it is trying to ratify that which they would not, and could not, under any circumstances, have authorized."

Favors Letting Dead in France.

The British decision, apparently, is to let their dead in France, as the head of the war-graves commission says:

"To attempt to bring home the remains of all who now lie in France alone would be an impossible task. I cannot believe it is desired by the great majority of those most closely concerned. For myself, I would prefer that the remains of those who died fighting should remain in the land where they fell and among those with whom they were fighting and with whom they died."

This opinion may be also intended to make Americans realize the difficulties ahead, in the removal of the American dead from France.

Publicity and Promotion Stuff.

Publicity and promotion stuff—boosting and advertising stuff—until we're tired of it. It comes in long letters, short letters, broad letters and in wrappers—floods of it—and the most of it, goes into the junk. Some of it is "government" stuff, and most of it is "official," of some sort or another, and all of it wants free space—yards and yards of it.

Do we want it? No. Do we use it? Not much of it. Would it be of general interest if it was used? No. What is the chief good of it? To ease the consciences of a lot of unnecessary and highly paid writers, and help them think they earn their pay.

Congress has already passed several bills that cannot go into effect until the President signs them. A rubber stamp cannot be used for this purpose.

A big rumpus occurred in the Senate, on Tuesday, when it was announced on the floor that complete copies of the German treaty had been sent to New York, but none had been sent to the Senate. The Republicans claimed that these copies must have been sent by authority of "our representatives" while the Democrats charged that the "Germans" had sent them, and broken faith once more.

MARYLAND BOYS

ARE NEARLY ALL HOME.

Great Rejoicing and Demonstrations at Landing Places.

Most of the Marylanders in the army service are already home, or in Camp awaiting their discharge. Last week, and early this week, saw the landing of thousands of them, and within a few weeks they will be back in civil life better men and better citizens, because of the stirring experiences they have had, and also better guardians of the liberties and rights of American citizens—more alive to the dangers confronting us as a nation.

Unless peace plans go wrong the war department promises to return the entire American army by August 1, except the army of occupation, that will be composed almost entirely of volunteers. During the month of May 321,400 men were returned.

The number yet remaining in France, May 30, has been given as 773,245, including 6,336 in the Navy, and 18,040 in the Marines.

Newport News has been very much to the forefront as a landing port, and it has been the Mecca for thousands of fathers, mothers and sweethearts, while officials of all kinds have been kept busy in doing honor to the boys, and adding to their welcome. The last contingent to arrive was 1400 men from the transport Paysandu, which was delayed, but docked safely on Monday morning, and re-embarked Tuesday evening, on the Essex, for Baltimore.

Baltimore welcomed the boys with a big parade, on Wednesday afternoon, which was followed by a banquet at the Armory, and on Thursday they went to Camp Meade to be mustered out. This means that all are likely to be in their homes throughout the state, within a week or ten days.

Carroll Countians Attend State College.

The Farmers' Day at the Maryland State College was attended by a large gathering of farmers from all sections of the state. It was estimated that the crowd exceeded six thousand. The Carroll County delegation numbered about 150, some thirty-five cars carried the Carroll banner.

One of the features of the day was the cultivator demonstration. A number of prominent farm implement makers exhibited machines. The tractor cultivators attracted considerable attention as well as did the two row cultivators. The International tractor cultivator, and the Moline were on the job and did good work. The two row horse cultivators made by John Deere, Iron Age, and International proved to the farmers that they were losing considerable time by using small cultivators.

Friday was also Commencement Day. A large class received their diplomas. A number of prominent speakers were present and made inspiring addresses.

The workers in the College and Extension Service deserve much praise for the way they carried on the work through the war and have taken up the reconstruction work. It is up to the Maryland farmers to get back to the College to use every effort and give it all the support they can to make it rank with the leading Agricultural Colleges in the country.

A "Straw Vote" of Soldiers.

A ballot was taken on board the Antigone, while at sea, among officers and men of the 313th Infantry, in order to show their choice for President. The result was as follows:

Hiram Johnson	696
Gen. Leonard A. Wood	242
Gen. John J. Pershing	78
Senator Lodge	155
Woodrow Wilson	626
W. G. McAdoo	184
Champ Clark	299
Newton D. Baker	50

Samuel Compers	68
Eugene V. Debs	170
Wm. Jennings Bryan	45
Scattering Vote	104
Total	2717

The big surprise in the vote was that cast for Senator Johnson, of California, especially as it was cast by Eastern men. The votes for Senator Lodge, who is not even mentioned as a candidate, and for Eugene V. Debs, show an unexplainable trend of the boys' minds.

Editor Hall, is Complimentary.

The Sykesville Herald, in commenting on our little local complaining of the superabundance of "conservatism" in Taneytown, has been kind enough to say:

"The way out of the difficulty for the good people of Taneytown, is simply to get in step with the Record and keep going along. It will get them up to the mark if they will only follow. The Record never lags, itself, and is not 'distressingly conservative' in any department. It sets a live pace for the county papers to follow."

Thanks, Major Hall, but we do not admit that the conclusion is deserved. Sometimes we think—and so do others—that the Record is "too extreme." How opinions differ!

BALTIMORE "WETS" PARADE.

Conflicting Estimates on the Size of the Demonstration.

The Baltimore "wets" had a parade, on Monday, as a protest against prohibition. The Baltimore papers gave the demonstration many complimentary sentences, practically giving it full endorsement, not only as a "great demonstration" but as a justifiable protest against the curtailment of "personal liberty."

It is noticeable that the American boosted the parade up to 25,000, while the Sun could not go better than between "8,000 and 10,000 men and women." The News estimated the number at 5,000; while Dr. Crabbe, of the Anti-saloon League, says by actual count there were 3528 civilians, 99 in uniform, and 193 women—total 3820. He did not count the bands, these having been purely in the nature of hired mourners. Counting these, he says the number might have reached 4500.

Some difference in the figures! Dr. Crabbe says: "The event had been prepared for months. The 'wets' expected a great crowd. They were astounded at the utter failure to make any sort of a showing. When you consider that 1200 saloons were closed from 12 to 5 o'clock (there are persistent bibli who could have enlightened Dr. Crabbe on that point; some of 'em—the saloons, of course—were open), and that the liquor interests were offering money to secure marchers, you can see what a failure the affair really was."

"One man offered a soldier of my acquaintance $5.00 to join in the parade. The soldier refused. Another offered money to a man who said that he would break a chair over the tempter's head if he didn't get out."

"We are highly gratified that, with this use of money and threats—some employers threatened to fine men who didn't parade—only a handful of people were coerced."

The parade was enlivened with many bands, and floats and banners with such mottoes as, "We fought for victory and now fight for beer; Prohibition means starvation—to Hell with both;" "America never took water—why now?" "Our legislators drink wet, talk wet, and vote dry;" "We want our booze to drink;" "Our forefathers fought to give us liberty; shall we let the sob sisters take it away from us now?" and many more like dignified and inspiring (?) inscriptions.

Cattle Prices Lower.

Cattle prices, in the chief markets of the United States have declined from $1.00 to $2.00 per hundred-weight within the past month, and from $1.50 to $3.00 since late in March and early in April. Decreased export demand and army orders, as well as decreased general demand with increased imports from Mexico, are given as the chief causes of the drop.

The increased cost of corn is apparently the only factor at present preventing a greatly increased further drop, notwithstanding efforts of all kinds to keep up prices. The high prices still being paid for labor, is also operating in favor of the maintenance of high prices of meats. The situation, as a whole, seems to be in favor of lower prices for the consumer.

The price of pork still remains at top-notch, and explains in part the high price of corn, as western farmers are marketing their corn through hogs, and are themselves buying corn for feeding purposes. Corn at $1.80 is considered low on the basis of pork at $21.00.

A String of Bomb Plots.

An attempt was made on the life of Attorney General Palmer, in Washington, on Monday night, by exploding a bomb at the front of his home, which badly damaged the building and killed the man who set it off. The Attorney General was not injured.

The home of Judge Albert F. Hayden, at Roxbury, Mass., was severely damaged by an explosion, Sunday night, presumably as a demonstration against his decisions in riot cases.

An attempt was made Monday night, to blow up the home of Mayor Davis, of Cleveland. The house was damaged but nobody injured.

Other explosions took place in Pittsburg, Newton, Mass., Boston, Philadelphia, Patterson, N. J., and New York, indicating an attempt at wide terrorism of the government. All of the explosions were accompanied by the scattering of anarchistic literature.

These outrages have been followed by considerable activity in government departments to bring the perpetrators to justice, and to round-up suspicious gangs and personages. Congress is expected to accept the challenge and to proceed to enact dastic legislation against the curtailment of anarchy—a matter already too long delayed.

Woman Suffrage up to States.

The woman suffrage amendment was passed by the Senate, on Wednesday, 56 to 25, and as it had previously passed in the House, it will now go to the states for ratification. The vote by states will be in the legislatures. The issues will likely appear in the election to be held in this state, this fall.

Rev. John S. Adam, pastor of St. Mary's Reformed church, Silver Run, has been given an increase of $200.00 in salary. Many other large congregations are amply able to follow in this particular.

COUNTY DEMONSTRATION

ON FOURTH OF JULY.

All Districts Invited to Take Part in Victory Celebration.

At a largely attended and very enthusiastic meeting of representatives from all parts of Carroll county held in the Times Building, Westminster, on Tuesday evening, tentative plans were made and a number of committees appointed to make arrangements for the great welcoming, home coming and victory celebration by Carroll county citizens to her soldier boys on July 4th.

Every district is asked to come in as a body with the largest number of people and automobiles possible, bringing with them their own band. It is to be the greatest day Carroll has ever seen, and all other events, large and small are to be sidetracked and Westminster is to be the mecca for all on that day.

The program will begin in the early afternoon with the dedication of the victory trees that have been planted along the Baltimore road by the Women's Civic League. Next will come the great military parade, participated in by every son of Carroll who has been in any branch of the service and returned home by that time. This will end at the Courthouse green, where appropriate exercises will be held.

The soldiers will then be served with supper at the Armory by the Red Cross. In the evening there will probably be a parade of the Firemen and perhaps other civic bodies, followed by a grand illuminated automobile parade that shall eclipse anything of the kind ever seen here. The whole to end up with a display of fireworks.

Emphasis was laid on the fact that the whole effort is to be a county affair, in which each and every section will participate, and not in any sense a Westminster celebration.

Dedication Services at Gettysburg.

When one hundred veterans of the Civil War come to Gettysburg on July first carrying their battle colors and attended by a guard of honor to attend the dedicatory services of the Humphreys, Hayes and Geary monuments it may mark the last Civil War dedication and final large gathering of the Pennsylvania boys of 1863.

Gettysburg is famous for being the most decisive battle in the Civil War, for the great reunion in 1913 and in the past few weeks and in July it will win new distinction by being the spot to mark the end of the Veteran Signal Corps and probably final large gatherings of Civil War comrades in this state.

Events may turn up in the future which will bring the Pennsylvania comrades together but as there are no more monuments to be turned over to the state the Humphreys, Hayes, Geary, dedication will probably go down in history as the last official meeting of Pennsylvania comrades.

These one hundred veterans will be selected by various posts from all sections of the state and their names forwarded to the Adjutant General in Harrisburg who will furnish them with transportation to Gettysburg. Members of the Memorial Commission would have been glad to have invited many more Civil War Veterans to Gettysburg to witness the dedications but an appropriation of $5000 does not permit them to invite more than one hundred.

Colonel Lewis M. Beitler, who is with the Adjutant General's Department in Harrisburg and comrade Samuel P. Town, for many years Adjutant General of the Grand Army of the Republic in the Pennsylvania Department, have been assigned to arrange details for the services at Gettysburg on July first and are actively co-operating with Judge Charles F. McKenna and other members of the Memorial Commission in arranging events to take place on that day.

Governor William C. Sproul's staff and the staff of the Grand Army of the Republic commander are included as guests of the occasion.

Presbyterian Salaries $1200. to $1400.

The Lehigh Presbytery, of Pennsylvania Presbyterian Synod, has passed resolutions that the Presbytery will refuse to install a minister who does not receive a salary of "at least $1200, if single, or $1400.00 and a manse, if married." This is in line with a recommendation of the Pennsylvania Synod. It is further provided that in case churches try to unite and fail to be able to pay the required minimum, the Home Mission Committee will give such aid as seems advisable.

Whooping Cough and Measles.

At a meeting of the Carroll County Board of Health, last week, it was decided that all cases of whooping cough, not confined to the house, must wear an arm band; and that all houses containing measles should be placarded, the same as diphtheria and scarlet fever. This action is in harmony with that of the State Board of Health relating to such cases. The arm bands are to be had through the physicians of the county.

The Senate Committee has unanimously reported in favor of the immediate return of telegraph and telephone lines to private ownership, with the provision that present telephone rates shall continue for 60 days after action by Congress.

THE CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS.

Help Themselves along by Singing While at their Work.

(The following article shows how the U. S. Agricultural Dept. Weekly News Letter puts a sort of halo around farming. If you can imagine the fancy, and adopt it, perhaps all the better. Anyway, this is an "official" production.—Ed. Record.)

Of course, the poets and writers of light opera are all wrong when they try to make out that farming is a business wherein the jovial harvesters join hands with the merry villagers and dance around a Maypole, singing roundelays. They are taking too literally Shakespeare's observation that "All the world's a stage." There is something about routing out the cows in the morning before sunup, and something about piloting a plow through heavy soil and salty sweat, that does not conduce to song.

But there are farm songs, and farming songs. The country heard a lot of them last fall when volunteer helpers went out from the cities to help meet the situation created by heavy yields and few harvesters. Most of that singing was done on the way to and from the fields, but it was pretty good singing, anyway. And then there are songs heard mostly at farm bureau meetings and the like. All that is necessary to prove that farmers can sing when they want to is to hear a dozen or a hundred of them join in this using the tune of "Old Black Joe":

Gone are the days when my farm returned no pay,
Gone are the folks who used to call me "Jay."
Gone are my debts for the better crops I grow,
I hear my neighbors' voices calling, "Farm Bureau."

Then listen to this deep-throated chorus:
I'm coming, I'm coming, for my bank is full of dough,
I hear my neighbors' voices calling, "Farm Bureau."

Youth, however, is the springtime of life, and springtime is the season when the human family, and the birds and the locusts and the organ grinders, seem most disposed to make a more or less harmonious noise. Therefore, it is among the farm youth in the springtime of life that you will find the most singing of and at their daily tasks. The boys' and girls' clubs, organized under the direction of the United States Department of Agriculture and the State Agricultural Colleges, have more songs than you can shake a stick at. And how they can sing 'em!

Imagine that you are sitting in the shade of an old apple tree in the green fields of Virginia or Maryland, my Maryland, or some place like that. Down the road comes a bunch of garden club boys and girls, with spades and rakes on their shoulders and the light of achievement in their eyes. They are singing, and the strains are the same as in that "Over There" song that went from Broadway to Chateau-Thierry and back again. Listen:

Johnnie, get your hoe, get your hoe, get your hoe,
Mary, dig your row, dig your row, dig your row,
Down to business, girls and boys,
Learn to know the gardener's joys.
Uncle Sam's in need—pull the weed, plant a seed,
While the sunbeams lurk, do not shirk, get to work.
All the lads must spade the ground:
All the girls must lustle 'round!
All together in the chorus:
Over there, over there,
Send a word, send a word, over there,
That the lads are hoeing, the girls are sowing,
The crops are growing everywhere,
Each a garden must prepare;
Do your bit so that all of us can share
With the boys, with the boys,
Who will not come back 'till it's over, over there!

Their fresh young voices—ah, if all vegetables were as fresh—die away in the distance. But from over the hill another group of boys approaches. You know they are pig club boys, for to the tune of "Row, Row, Row Your Boat" they are singing—

Grow, grow, grow a pig
Fatter every day,
Merrily, merrily, cheerily, cheerily:
Half our work is play.

And here comes some rosy-cheeked girls, all dressed up in white aprons and snowy caps, and everything—they catch what the boys are singing, and they reply:

Can, can, all you can;
Cut and put it away,
Merrily, merrily, cheerily, cheerily:
Half our work is play.

Close behind them are some sewing-club girls, and now they are singing: Sew, sew, sew a seam;
Sew the time away;
Merrily, merrily, cheerily, cheerily:
Half our work is play.

And over in that field, can those children be the Little Bo-Peeps and Little Boy Blues of today?

No; nothing Mother Goose-like about them; nothing but the sheep—and their song:

Little Bo-Peep,
Come follow your sheep;
And you do it too,
Little Boy Blue.

So it goes, with you in the shade of the old apple tree, listening to the club boys and the club girls as they tell in song the merits of their respective avocations. And then, just like a show, they all troop back again, and, like the grand chorus in an opera, to a tune you recognize, this rises:

There were club boys on the hillside,
There were club boys on the plain,
And the country found them ready
At the call for meat and grain.
Let none forget their service
As the club boys pass along,
For, although the war is over,
They are singing still this song.
The chorus comes like a cataract—
Keep the home cow milking,
And the club corn sifting,
Tell the idle boys and girls
To work for home.
There's a club pig growing,
While the grain we're sowing—
Boost the club work night and day,
Till we "Live at Home."

Work for returned soldiers seems to be dropping out of sight, as a problem. In reality, it never was much more than an imaginary one. Men who are worth anything, will have no difficulty in getting work, and will not want anybody to hunt jobs for them. Good soldiers will easily be able to manage their own affairs. The other kind—well, there always were loafers, and work slackers, and always will be.

Who can possibly imagine imperialistic Germany's feelings in being forced to accept the humiliating peace terms offered to it? No wonder there are counter claims and pleas. The world has never witnessed such a complete down-fall of power, and especially of a power that presumed to think of dominating the whole world. No more, the great Kaiser! Vanished, is German Kultur!

The Republican "organization" in this State, will be riding to a fall, unless it comes down from its perch of taking credit to itself for all the so-called Republican victories that have been pulled off in the State in recent campaigns, and has therefore sole authority and right to pick a gubernatorial candidate this year, without any "butting in." The same thing that has afflicted the Democracy in this State—too much "bossism"—seems to have infected the G. O. P.

Germany has stolen a march on President Wilson, and Premiers George and Clemenceau, by printing and selling the exact text of the peace treaty, which the trio has been keeping secret from the allied countries. It is supposed that some of these "made in Germany" copies are on their way to this country. It is both said that Germany is trying to secure sympathy, through showing how harsh the terms are; and to make trouble in the allied countries, by showing the people how weak they are in some respects.

Coercion Will Fail.

A number of attempts at pressure have been made, from time to time, to coerce the Senate into approving the League of Nations propositions, the most recent being the attitude of Secretary Daniels, of the Navy, and the strong intimation that the President will likely be a candidate for Third term in case the Senate rejects the treaty. These attempts, if intended to be coercive, are poorly conceived and are likely to have a result exactly the opposite from that desired.

Ex-President Taft, while continuing his boosting propaganda, is doing so from a different angle, forecasting "postponement of peace," rather than more dire results, should the Treaty fail in the Senate; while strong party backers of the President are arguing, more or less indefinitely, that the Treaty and the League are all right, even though none of them know the exact terms of the pact they are endorsing.

The Senate will not be stampeded, nor coerced, by any of these influences. After a complete and authoritative presentation of the whole proposition is made public—which has not yet been done—the Senate will take it into consideration and pass judgment on it, openly, and not in the half secret way it has so far been handled. Even the President's intimation of running for another term, seems to be a welcome proposition to his opponents, rather than otherwise.

Estimates Required.

A printer, who seems to have been irritated by numerous requests for "bids" on work before he could land jobs, is credited with having inserted the following notice in his paper, stating that he would shortly be in need of a shirt, pair of shoes and a hat, and asked each merchant to furnish him with estimates, as follows:

"One shirt with and without collar; also in one two and three colors. Estimate each way.

One pair of shoes. Estimate for two colors, black or brown. Also give prices, whether high or Oxford and laced or buttoned.

One hat, soft or derby (estimate for black, brown, green and grey, with and without band, size to be determined later.)"

He then goes on to say that as he is about to place this large order, he will give special consideration to the merchant who makes him the most reasonable bid. There isn't much in this exhibition of sarcasm, as there is nothing particularly wrong with first soliciting estimates on printing, unless the practice is carried to extremes, and to the point of business "littleness," indicating general distrust of everybody.

The Record never objects to giving approximate estimates on work, whether the job be large or small. When we cannot estimate to the exact cent, we say so, and if customers are not willing to trust, to a certain extent, to our honesty, they have the privilege of doing what they please in the matter. Contract work, very often, is apt to be unsatisfactory, owing to the impossibility of figuring exactly on costs, and the quality of the finished product may be skimmed, in some way, in order to force "coming out right" on a bad deal.

Usually, those who are always exact dealers on bids, are known as such, and their trade is not much sought after. Honest work is entitled to return an honest profit, and most business men operate on that principle, caring little who gets the business that stands for a lot of work, and no profit. Doing business for "glory," just to accommodate a "tight wad," is practiced only by those in business who have little sound business sense.

County and District "Quotas."

While the war is over, the need for relief of want and suffering is not; therefore, the well-to-do and charitably disposed should continue to help the various organizations engaged in relief work, even to the point of special efforts and appeals. While this is true, we do not believe in the continuance of the plan of fixing "quotas" for counties and districts, naming the amounts each are expected to give, or suffer the odium of falling behind.

To us, this looks like a "hold-up," and a plan that may, in course of time, be overdone by the too zealous who may not always be as wise as they might be in planning their benefactions. So far, there is no complaint that relief and charitable agencies are taking too wide a range, and there has evidently been well directed wisdom back of most, if not all, efforts.

However, we are inclined to take the position that unless great care is manifested many people may too easily place themselves in the needy and dependent classes, and play on the world-wide generosity of the American people, instead of hustling for themselves. At any rate, we do not believe greatly in districting, and calculating, on how much can be raised, then campaigning to prize it out of the pockets of those who perhaps are able enough to give, but who do not have the voluntary spirit.

We do not mean to make any defense of the penurious, who are woefully lacking in the extent of their desire to help the needy, but we do feel that before these districting campaigns are launched, hereafter, they should have back of them careful inspection and reassuring official indorsement, and not be left to the whims of emotionalists, nor to those who have started in on the war-relief business, and think they must continue it indefinitely as a steady occupation.

Germany Likely to be Resentful.

Nothing seems clearer in Paris today than that whether Germany signs or refuses to sign the treaty, more than sixty millions of people will remain sullen, hostile and resentful over a period of from fifteen to thirty years by external pressure—literally compelled to work for nations they have wronged, and actually deprived of a large fraction of those resources on which modern Germany was built.

That these millions of people will accept it in the future except as their incapacity for resistance makes resistance impossible, cannot be believed. If the United States and Great Britain withdraw their guarantee to France, nothing seems more certain than that Germany will seek to escape the burden of costs of this war by a new attack. Austria deprived of her Czech provinces and becomes an insignificant state, Hungary reduced to the condition of Portugal, Bulgaria shorn of all her hopes, will remain ready allies of the Germans for a long period of time, while the certain survival of Italian-Jugoslav hostility will provide further material.

In other words, while we have passed a just sentence upon the Germans, moderate in its territorial demands, inferior to our deserts in the economic field, we have no less imposed a sentence from the consequences of which the German will seek—directly possibly, indirectly certainly to escape. For him to join the League of Nations now would be to accept a period of economic servitude extending for fifteen years at the minimum, and involving transfer of the larger part of his earnings to nations he has wronged. The time may come, after Germany has discharged her obligations, when German entry into League of Nations loyally and unreservedly may be possible; but until that time comes the League of Nations means exactly as much as the United States, Great Britain, and France—the three great liberal powers of the world—choose to make it mean.

And in a very real sense this League of Nations, which Europe has accepted (so far as it is accepted at all) under our leadership, will remain what we choose to make it. President Wilson has seen this clearly, and has made his pledge to France accordingly. If we withdraw our material as well as our moral support, I do not think there is anybody in Paris who believes that the League of Nations will endure. On the other hand, if we, intimately associated with the English, stand surely pledged to support France against new German aggression, that aggression will in all human possibility be avoided. —From "Issues of the Peace Conference," by Frank H. Simonds, in the American Review of Reviews for June 1919.

Cut This Out and Take It With You.

A man often forgets the exact name of the article he wishes to purchase, and as a last resort takes something else instead. That is always disappointing and unsatisfactory. The safe way is to cut this out and take it with you so as to make sure of getting Chamberlain's Tablets. You will find nothing quite so satisfactory for constipation and indigestion.

FILIPINO PROVERBS.

By George Bocobo, Member of the Philippine Mission, and Dean, College of Law, University of the Philippines.

Washington, May 31.—The longing of the Filipino people for independence is nourished by a very deep and earnest desire to develop their own individuality as a nation. When the Spaniards came, the Filipinos already had a culture of their own. Almost every Filipino could read and write. Although Spanish civilization has greatly influenced the Filipinos, and although the young generation is being educated in American ideas, yet Filipino culture remains at bottom indigenous. It is the unfolding of this soul of the Filipino race that justifies the long-standing fight of my people for freedom.

Indicative of the existence of Filipino national genius are the purely Filipino songs, legends and proverbs which have been handed down by word of mouth from generation to generation. I have picked the following Filipino proverbs at random from my collection of several hundred which were obtained from actual conversation with Filipinos, mostly old men. I have translated them from the Philippine languages as closely as possible, thus preserving not only the sense but also the mode of expression. Lord Bacon said: "The genius, wit, and spirit of a nation are discovered in its proverbs." Knowledge of Filipino proverbs therefore gives an insight into the psychology of the Filipino race.

Thrift—Easy earning means quick spending.

Truth—A liar loves to take an oath.

Woman's Honor—Wherever I fall, there I stand.

The Filipinos are not a hermit nation. They have taken from the West whatever they thought was good for them and suitable to their conditions. But above these outside influences they want their national genius to rise and reach higher levels of perfection. It is thus, and only thus, that they can fulfill whatever destiny Providence has set for them, and contribute their own culture to the general progress of mankind. A chance to do so is what they wish when they plead for independence.

Americans Can Fight.

One result of the world war and the part played in it by the American nation is probably not realized by our people, but it nevertheless will work a very great change in the mental attitude of the rest of the world toward us and will be of very real value to us in our dealings with distant communities and international problems. This is the vastly enhanced estimate which other nations will now have of American ability to make war anywhere in the world when that grim necessity is placed upon her.

They never would have believed it without the actual demonstration. Neither our Allies nor our enemies believed it. It is not only that, in the language of the poster, "they thought we would not fight," but they thought we could not fight. They regarded us as an unmilitary nation—whatever that may be—and their theory was that "an unmilitary nation" could not achieve military efficiency swiftly enough to get into a fight which was already in progress.

It is a curious thing; but they imagined us a self-incapacitated mixture of dollar-materialism and mystic idealism. They said that we would not fight because it would not "pay"; and at the same time credited us with being "conscientious objectors" to fighting because "war was barbaric." That is, we were both too ignoble and too noble to fight. But they know better now.

The mental attitude of the world toward us was shown very luminously during the Spanish War. They well knew that Spain was a decrepit "has-been" in the fighting game. Any first-class Power in Europe would have felt almost ashamed to hit so feeble and yet so stately a wreck of former greatness. Yet when we approached war with her there was real doubt in Europe whether we might not fail. They remembered that the Spanish army had good stout human material in it, and they knew so little of our naval strength at that time that those not fully informed imagined that when it came to action the Spanish ships might hold their own. They had the magic prestige of being European.

Of course, when it was all over and done they added up gunpower and weight of armament and talked about latent resources and came to the comfortable conclusion that only the expected had happened, and that we had really done nothing worth mentioning. But that there should ever have been doubt about the matter shows where Europe rated us as a fighting power. That we should have "acquired merit" in a military sense from defeating Spain indicates how far down the hill we stood when we began that operation.—Phila. Ledger.

ESTABLISHMENT AND CARE FOR SHELTER BELTS OF NORTHERN GREAT PLAINS AREA

A Well-Cared-For Planting Which Will Soon Be Large Enough to Furnish Protection From the North Winds.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When shelter belts are planted on the plains of the Northwest it is necessary, in order to get the trees well established, to cultivate them to keep down all grass and weeds until the trees are well started and are large enough to shade the ground.

One summer's growth of Russian thistles or western wheat grass may kill a previously healthy shelter belt of two or three years' standing, they add. Artificial mulching of shelter-belt trees with straw, manure or any similar material is not recommended, nor is pruning, except to remove dead wood, and in cases where trees have made an abnormal low, bushy growth.

The trees should be cultivated with a one-horse cultivator until about the middle of August to keep down weeds, particularly the western wheat grass, often called "blue stem." This grass will form sod in one season of growth, on newly broken ground, and if not removed as soon as it starts is very difficult to kill. If allowed to spread, plowing, which is not the proper treatment for the shelter belt, will be necessary. After cultivation is discontinued hand hoeing is necessary to control the Russian thistle, tumbling mustard, and other quick growing large weeds. These weeds not only use needed soil moisture, but cause further trouble by disseminating seed.

Artificial mulching may be harmful in many ways, such as furnishing harbors for mice, introducing weed seeds, and increasing danger from fires. When trees become too large and close together for cultivation, the falling leaves will form their own mulch, which is the natural forest condition under which the trees will best thrive.

Don't Prune Trees.

A thick, dense growth is the only proper method of growing a shelter belt, and this is best obtained by not pruning the trees. Unpruned trees furnish shade from the hot sun and dry wind, their bushy tops furnish better protection from sun scald, and they will soon shade the ground. Under exceptional conditions, however, pruning is justified. Dead wood, of course, should be removed. Young trees that have been frozen to the ground for a few years in succession will become too bushy at the base. To increase their height, and to stimulate an upward growth, it is necessary to cut the branches, except one at the ground close to the trunk. Allow the remaining branch to become the leader of the new trunk, and do not prune the branches that it sends out.

Animal Pests.

Jack rabbits are the worst animal pests with which the grower of trees in the northern great plains area has to contend. They especially prefer elm and ash, but will cut the poplar and willow branches which protrude from the snow in the winter. These destructive animals can be controlled by poison bait, which is also effective in killing mice and other rodents. Poisoned oats, poisoned alfalfa leaves and strychnine washes are best for this purpose. When poisoned bait is being used, care should be taken to fence out all stock, which is a good practice at all times when the trees are getting started, for the stock will often cause serious injury by eating the branches and leaves.

Fighting Insect Foes.

In caring for the shelter belt it is often necessary to employ the same methods that are used by fruit growers in combating insect enemies. Spraying with lead arsenate will control the poplar beetles, which cause destructive results to the foliage and subsequent death of many kinds of trees used in shelter-belt plantings. To be more effective the spraying should be done when the leaves are about half grown, but if a heavy reappearance of the beetles occurs it will be necessary to repeat the treatment. The lead arsenate spray also controls the large green wormlike larvae of certain moths which are common and very destructive to the foliage of poplar and box elders, and which sometimes appear in such numbers as to eat all the leaves on a young tree in a short time. Leaf miners, leaf-cutter bees, and blister beetles are also common to shelter-belt trees and are controlled by poison sprays.

Trees in this section have only a few serious diseases, among which are canker, which affects poplars, and a disease of willows, which turns the branches black. The first-named disease appears as a swelling on the side of the trunk or at a crotch. As it advances the center parts of the affected wood die and the bark breaks away, and if the canker girdles the tree it

BEYOND ALL MEED OF PRAISE

Impossible to Form Words That Will Do Even Simple Justice to American Mothers.

Just before the war the "cellar mother" was spoken of with understanding (in America), if not with laughing sympathy—the woman who decoyed husband and sons into the cellar, and then sat on the door, resolved that no mankind of hers should engage in such a fool business as war!

Many of the mothers who so spoke had made the schoolmaster's life a burden by their nervous telephoning when Ned or Harry went to school; yet when the country demanded it and their boys were ten years dearer, they gave them to the war without a sign of anything but pride, Lucy H. M. Soulsby writes in the Atlantic.

They had never been trained, like English mothers, to live through ordinary life with a boy in danger on some frontier firing line; but they learned heroism and nerve when the need came.

The American mother learned daily self-denial, too; the most extravagant of nations learned thrift in food conservation; and the most set in her ways of any woman on earth, the New England house mother, altered those ways in that most unalterable part of her house, the kitchen, where everything had been "thus and so" for generations.

And this thrift and adaptability were not drawn out of her by the needs of her own men, but by a quick imaginative sympathy, which bridged 3,000 miles of ocean and felt, with all Sir Philip Sidney's chivalry, for the stranger of alien race, "whose necessity was greater than hers."

SOON WILL BE OF THE PAST

Georgia Wild Cows Seem to Have Served Their Purpose, and Are Fast Disappearing.

The piney woods cow, long a chum of the razorback hog, is fading from the Georgia landscape. It is a poignant thought. She is one of the last links that binds Georgia to the past. Thousands of her roamed over the great plantations that would now be condemned as undemocratic. She was usually red and white—a "pided" cow—inclined to have a poor figure, hump-backed and somewhat knock-kneed, and her eyes were closely situated, in the manner which psychologists shake their heads over, because it indicates the criminal bent. But upon the piney woods cow Georgia in the old days depended entirely for milk and butter. Many planters had hundreds of them, but they all ran wild, and one of the spring sports was to round them up and mark them. If a choice specimen should be captured, she was hard to feed, being unaccustomed to civilized fodder, for piney woods cows eat grass in summer and souse their heads up to the eyes in ponds in the winter, looking for water grass and moss. They always have a forlorn air. Many of them still dwell on the islands of Banks' mill pond, which covers thousands of acres, and butchers of Valdosta hunt them with horses and dogs.—New York Post.

At Last!

There are few cyclists who, when compelled to execute repairs to inner tubes by the roadside, have not longed for unpuncturable tires. This desideratum now seems to have become an accomplished fact in Sweden, where the shortage of rubber has caused great efforts to be made to find a satisfactory substitute for the pneumatic tire. The new device consists of a thin strip of hardened steel supported on the rim by springs, the combination being said to give results comparable with those obtained by the use of rubber. Skidding is prevented by the sharp edge of the steel tread, while such tires are, of course, quite unpuncturable. Whether the new device will survive when rubber again becomes plentiful is perhaps doubtful, but as a war-time measure it has proved very useful.—From Chambers' Journal.

The Sugar Shortage.

Colonel House at a Paris reception was talking about the French sugar shortage.

"The French sugar ration is a pound a month—if you get it," he said. "Usually you don't get it, and then you buy your sugar clandestinely. The price is 80 or 90 cents a pound."

"After enduring the French sugar shortage for a month or two," the colonel ended, "you think very longingly of the peace-time plenty soon to come, and you appreciate as never before the wonderful beauty of the dear old hymn, 'In the sweet by-and-by.'"

Reading by Ear.

A new invention for the blind enables them to read with their ears. It is a machine called an octophone, by means of which flashes of light from the letters as they are printed cause certain sounds, easily distinguishable by the initiated.

The sounds vary with the shapes of the letters, and very high resistance telephones transmit these to the ears of the blind person, "reading" with highly satisfactory results.

Early Rising.

"Do you remember how we used to scold Josh about oversleeping before he went into the army?" said Mrs. Cornsattel.

"Yes," replied the farmer; "that's why we can't say a word when he gets up at daylight and accompanies the

From the Ames, Iowa, Intelligence.

When a man comes to you all doubled up with pain and declares he will die in your presence unless you procure him a drink of whiskey, send him to a doctor or else give him a dose of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. There is a mistaken notion among a whole lot of people that booze is the best remedy for colic and stomach ache.

The Discovery of America.

A school boy in London turned this in as a composition on Christopher Columbus:

"Columbus was a man who could make an egg stand on end without crushing it. The King of Spain sent for him and asked him:

"Can you discover America?"

"Yes," Columbus answered, "if you will give me a boat."

He got his boat and sailed in the direction that he believed America was. The sailors mutinied and insisted there was no such place as America, but presently the pilot came to him and said:

"Columbus, land is in sight."

"Well, it's America," Columbus said.

When the boat neared the shore, Columbus saw a group of natives.

"Is this America?" he asked them.

"Yes," they replied.

"I suppose you are Indians?" Columbus went on.

"Yes," the chief answered, "and are you Christopher Columbus?"

"I am."

The Indian chief turned then to his companions and said:

"The jig is up. We are discovered at last."—Pele-Mele, Paris.

I gave them a trial and they were such a help to me that I bought a package, and I can truthfully say that I have not had a similar attack since," writes Wm. B. Wisler, Douglassville, Pa.

Thresher School.

The men who have threshing rigs will be given an opportunity to go to school for one day only. The Farm Machinery specialist, F. A. Wirt, of the Maryland State College, will conduct a one day school for the benefit of the threshers of Carroll County and neighboring counties, in Westminster, June 18th.

The farmers will find it not only interesting but profitable to be present. As much as fifteen bushels was saved per day last year when proper methods were used. As threshing is done on a contract plan per bushel this was profitable to thresherman as well as the farmers. Everybody interested should make every effort to be present.

LESSON FOR JUNE 8

Obedience.

LESSON TEXTS—Gen. 12:1-4; John 14:21-24; Matt. 7:18-23.
GOLDEN TEXT—Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you.—John 15:14.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Deut. 4:1-10; 1 Sam. 15:22, 23; Matt. 6:19; Acts 4:19, 20; 1 John 3:16-24.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Showing Our Love to God by Obedience.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Abraham's Obedience and Its Rewards.

INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—When to Obey and How.

SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—Obedience a Test of Discipleship.

I. A Notable Example of Obedience (Gen. 12:1-4).

At the command of God Abraham went out not knowing whither he went (Heb. 11:8). His was not the obedience of convenience or prudence. To separate from home and kindred and take up the life of a pilgrim was not easy. Abraham did not stop to ask why, or what he would get out of it. The obedience that asks why is not obedience at all.

II. The Motive of Obedience (John 14:21-24).

The grand incentive of obedience is love to God. The obedience that is the result of fear or the hope of reward is not true obedience, therefore has not the approval of God. Only the child who reverences his father and affectionately strives to obey him enjoys his loving favor. The obedience which springs out of a heart of love issues in a life of joy and friendship with God (John 15:10-14).

III. The Solemn Obligation of Obedience (Matt. 7:16-29).

1. Warnings against false prophets (vv. 15-20).

(1) Their real existence. Ever since God has had a people false prophets and teachers have appeared among them. This need not surprise us, for Christ predicted that such should be the case.

(2) Their nature (v. 15). (a) Hypocritical. The devil does his most successful work by masquerading as an angel of light (II Cor. 7:14, 15). His ministers appear in this way and turn people from the narrow to the broad way. (b) This is suggested by their being "ravening wolves." It is when the wolf is in sheep's clothing that he does his most destructive work. The enemies of Christ posing as his ministers are most destructive.

(3) The unfailing test (vv. 16-18). Their fruits. If one gives sufficient time for development the fruit can be discerned. Every tree bears its own kind of fruit. Nature is inexorable in her law as to this. You may search the universe in vain for an exception. It is equally true in the spiritual world. There is a vital connection between the faith of a heart and the fruit of a life. That which comes out in the conduct was first in the heart. A right heart is essential to right conduct. Give the false teachers sufficient time and observe closely and you will find that their lives will prove the teaching.

(4) Their end (v. 19). All false teachers shall finally be punished by being cast into the fire. Although God bears long he will see to it that this wickedness does not go on forever.

2. The dangers of empty profession (vv. 21-23).

Calling Christ "Lord" will not answer for disobedience to his will. One may even be a Sunday school teacher or preacher, and even perform many mighty works, as casting out devils and healing the sick and yet hear the awful declaration of Jesus Christ, "I never knew you," "depart from me."

3. The one and only safe way (vv. 24-29).

(1) Hear the sayings of Christ. To do this, one must prayerfully attend to reading the Word of God and meditate upon the same.

(2) Do what Christ commands. Hearing and doing the teachings of Christ is building upon solid rock. Such building can never be destroyed by flood and storm. Hearing and not doing Christ's sayings is building upon the sand which in time of the storm of God's wrath and judgment will be utterly destroyed. Obedience must follow hearing Christ.

The Need of God.

People are asking in these days of upheaval and chaos, "What is wrong with the world." It needs God; it needs the religion of Jesus Christ and it needs that religion practically embodied in the lives of men. We see it in the lives of these men of the gospel. We need men like that multiplied many-fold in every church. We need men like that multiplied ten thousandfold in our land.

Rejoice!

O God, animate us to cheerfulness! May we have a joyful sense of our blessings, learn to look on the bright circumstances of our lot, and maintain a perpetual contentedness.—Channing.

Every Want Supplied.

Precious to us, O Lord, is the death of thy saints, which makes us heirs of so great a wealth: which leaves us furnished with so great variety of examples, that every want is abundantly supplied.—John Austin.

HOW TO USE RAW ROCK PHOSPHATE

May Be Used Profitably as Reinforcement to Stable Manure or Plowing Under.

PROFITABLE AS PLANT FOOD

When Immediate Results Are Desired
Acid Phosphate Is Preferable—
Raw Rock Is Used as Absorbent in Dairy Barns.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

As a cheap and satisfactory source of phosphoric acid, raw rock phosphate merits extensive use on farms in localities where the material is available. Nowadays when all commercial fertilizers are abnormally expensive is the time to make liberal use of raw rock as a re-enforcement of stable manure, as a material to be distributed and plowed under with green cover crops and as a profitable plant food for direct application to soils that are rich in organic matter.

The relative unpopularity of raw rock phosphate in the past has resulted from incomplete and unsatisfactory experimental work. Recently the farm use of raw rock has expanded to 91,000 tons annually, worth approximately $750,000.

Of course when immediate results are desired, the more costly acid phosphate is preferable as its plant food is readily soluble and suitable for rush order use. Raw rock phosphate, although it contains twice as much phosphoric acid as the average acid phosphate, slowly releases its stores of food for crop use. It costs about $6.50 a ton in carload lots now at the mines. For practical results, it is essential that the raw rock be finely ground to the extent that 90 per cent of the material will pass through a sieve having 100 meshes to the linear inch.

How to Spread.

Where the raw rock phosphate is used as a re-enforcement for stable manure, it may be spread at the rate of 50 to 60 pounds over each ton of manure as it is hauled from the barn or stable yard to the fields. A much better practice, however, is to compost the rock with the manure for a period of a month or more before spreading on the fields. On account of its admirable absorptive qualities the raw rock is used as an absorbent in dairy stables. The common practice is to spread about a pint of the material daily behind each cow in the stable.

Where a green cover crop, such as cowpeas or soy beans, is to be turned under, it is a valuable practice to spread about 1,000 pounds of raw-rock phosphate an acre over the green stuff before the plowing is begun. Products are developed during the decomposition of the organic matter which are efficient in liberating the plant food that is slowly available in the raw rock. Where the raw-rock phosphate is applied in half-ton doses an acre to a soil that is very rich in organic matter the same beneficial results are slowly notable as obtained where the fertilizer is turned under with the green crop.

Best Form of Acid.

The presence of decaying organic matter in the soil increases the effectiveness of raw, ground rock phosphates due probably both to greater bacterial activity and the higher content of carbon dioxide in such soils. From a similar standpoint, the effectiveness of raw rock phosphate is usually increased after remaining in the soil for a year or more. Most crops respond more quickly to applications of acid phosphate than to bone, basic slag or raw-rock phosphate. Accordingly, where the early stimulation and quick maturity of the crop are the main considerations, acid phosphate is probably the best form of phosphoric acid to apply.

The question of whether increases in yield ordinarily can be produced more economically by applications of soluble or relatively insoluble phosphates, must be considered in a measure an individual problem for each farmer, since it depends on a number of factors of which the most important are the nature of the soil, the crop system employed, the price of the various phosphates in each particular locality and the length of the growing season.

The Best Breed.

No one question comes to the extension poultryman more often than "Which is the best breed?" and the only justifiable answer, and the one we have made hundreds of times, is, "There is no best breed."

NO REASON FOR MONOPOLY

If Whales Are to Be Used for Dairy
Purposes, Let Whole Country
In on It.

An official of the state agricultural department of Oregon recommends the cultivation of the whale for milking purposes, says an article in Thrift Magazine. Enough whales could be raised right in Puget sound, he says, to supply the United States with all the milk she needs. The female whale is a generous creature and gives a barrel of the lactical fluid at one milking.

This is a timely suggestion, but why keep all the whales in Puget sound? Would not such a plan be selfish, sort of and monopolistic? If we are going to be truly democratic in this country, let's be so in the matter of whales. Let every farmer-keep his own whale. What would be more inspiring than to see the happy husbandman arise while the King of Day was still lurking bashfully behind the eastern horizon, grab the family milch barrel and hurry out behind the barn to give old Flossie, the family whale, her morning milkin'? In the spring when the little whalelets begin to show up, think of the gross annual output of poetry that would be inspired in the breasts of our literati. It would be a rank and infamous injustice to let Puget sound have a monopoly of the national supply of dairy whales.

That Black Cat Stuff.

"Superstition is certainly a funny thing," observed the almost philosopher. "Take, for instance, the fellow who is scared to see a black cat run across his path. 'He'll argue that there is nothin' supernatural about him and a black cat happening to be near the same place at the same time. An' when it comes right down to tacks there is really nothin' supernatural about a black cat any way you figger it, he'll say—just an excess of black pigment in the coloring matter of the cat's hair, and, besides that, maybe one out of six or eight cats is black. 'He reasons, too, that a black cat's duty probably calls it across the street about the time he happens along. About the time he gets it all figured out a coal-colored feline darts out of the alley just ahead of him and makes a bee line for the other side of the street and that fellow jest about loops the loop trying to head that cat off.'—Indianapolis Star.

Birds Destroy Caterpillars.

When the buds open in spring, broods of tiny, hungry caterpillars emerge, only to be preyed upon by the constantly increasing flights of birds that peer, swing, flutter, or hop from twig to twig through all the woods. At this time these caterpillars are not at all noticeable, and are very difficult to find; still, the great majority of them are readily found and eaten by birds, and therefore never become apparent to ordinary observation. As summer comes and the caterpillars grow in size, each brood is reduced in number, until, as they approach full size, a band which erstwhile numbered hundreds of little crawlers has shrunk to a score or two, a "baker's dozen," or even less. When the survivors pupate they are still attacked by birds, and the moths or butterflies as they emerge, and try their wings are pursued by their swifter feathered enemies.

Blarney Stone Tradition.

The Blarney stone inscription is getting dim. It reads: "Cormach MacCarthy: fortis me fieri facit, A.D. 1449." The tradition about the stone is, of course, that when the Spaniards were urging the Irish chieftains to harass the English, one Cormach MacDermot Carthy, who held the castle, had concluded an armistice with the lord president on condition of surrendering it to an English garrison. Carthy put off his lordship day after day with fair promises and false pretexts, until the latter became the laughing stock of his acquaintances, and the former's honeyed and delusive speeches were stamped with the title of Blarney.

Tonall Proves A Great Medicine To Build Up After Effects of "Flu"

"I had the Flu," and after the effects of it, I needed a Tonic," says A. C. Clauser, of 28 Moss street, Reading, Pa., a well-known and popular merchant.

"I think it has wonderful merits as a Tonic. The small amount of alcohol in Tonall shows it is no beverage, but the roots, herbs and barks and berries which are printed on the label, tells everyone just what it contained in the formula. No one need be afraid of Tonall. It is good for man, woman or child.

This testimonial was given February 26, 1919.
Tonall is sold at McKinney's Drug Store, Taneytown.

How Foods are preserved— Why Food odors do not mix—

Not an ounce of ice will be wasted, if you have the right kind of a Refrigerator.

Up to a few years ago, we did not know that it was the fault of the Refrigerator we had, when the ice melted rapidly; when food became moist and spoiled, and when people were sometimes made ill because the foods were tainted.

Now we know better. You will be thoroughly convinced, we assure you, if you will take the trouble to come to our Store, that we have a Refrigerator here (The Famous AUTOMATIC) that saves a great deal of ice, because of its Eight Protecting Walls; that has a constant, automatic circulation of pure, cold, dry air, so that foods cannot spoil.

You will see why food odors will not mix in this Refrigerator—your milk will never taste of onions, etc. You will see and hear many things about how the good Refrigerator of today should be and is built. And, you are always welcome here, as you know.

A Change of Boarding Places

By S. B. HACKLEY

(Copyright, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Let's go past Miss Cecil's house! O fawver, why not?"

Ned Duncan, strolling along quiet, palm-bordered Marvin street, in the cool dusk, made himself smile at the elf that dragged on his long fine hands, but he turned back before they reached the corner on which was the rented cottage of Cecilia Reeves, the woman he loved.

Cecilia, a young milliner who took four college-girl roomers to help out on her income, bent her yellow head lower over her heliotrope bed as she caught sight of his retreat. She had meant to give them some flowers when they passed. She knew he loved the heliotrope. Had she offended him? she wondered.

While she puzzled, with a hurt heart, Driscoll was saying to himself: "I must keep away—I must not see her any more. The woman I marry must love my child—she must love my little Babs!"

In the fourth year of Barbara's life with him, the baby with the rogulish black eyes had come to them. Then the next year Barbara died, and the baby, an elfish, whimsical, lovable thing, had tumbled up somehow, under his widowed care, and three years of his old cousin's somewhat grumpy housekeeping and nursing.

Then the old cousin had remarried, and he had shut up the bungalow with its crown of purple blossom-covered bougainvillea, and he and the child had boarded since then, somewhat to Babs' disadvantage, he thought sometimes. Then he had fallen in love with Cecilia Reeves.

He had thought she was the "mother kind" of girl (Babs loved her) until lately. Since the evening before, he was certain she was not. Then he had decided he couldn't ask her to marry him. Not that he was certain she would marry him if he did ask her, but he couldn't, anyway.

His landlady of the last month had been Miss Reeves' friend until Driscoll and little Barbara came to her boarding house, and it occurred to her that her quiet boarder, who had something to do with the management of the city waterworks system, would be an ideal second husband. Then after the evening Cecilia came to take dinner with her and her "prize boarder" walked home with her, Mrs. Akers was no longer Cecil's friend.

Somehow in the last week she had made the impression on Driscoll that Cecil didn't like children. He had come home a little earlier than usual the evening before and started to the kitchen.

"I wonder Ned keeps that child since his wife died and he has no one to care for her," he heard Cecil's soft clear voice. "I am going to try to persuade him to let me find a place for her in a home!"

Driscoll felt as though something had struck him. He turned and went upstairs. She—she didn't want him to keep little Babs—she cared so little for his baby she would persuade him to send her to a home!

The child dropped the doll Mrs. Akers had bought her that day and sprang into his arms. He kissed the eager little face over and over.

"Oh, Cecil—girl—did you think that you could persuade me to do a conscienceless thing like that?" he thought as Babs ran downstairs to tell Mrs. Akers "fawver" had come.

Mrs. Akers was already aware of the fact. She had heard his step in the back hall; she knew he had heard Cecil's last remark.

"Was Miss Reeves here just now when I came in?" Driscoll asked at dinner. "I thought I heard her voice."

Mrs. Akers' red lips flashed a smile. "Oh, you eavesdropper! I hope we weren't saying anything bad. Oh, yes, we—Cecil was saying something about Babs, wasn't she?"

As Driscoll lifted the child to her chair Mrs. Akers, noting his set lips, felt that she had scored. Who was to tell him that Cecilia had been speaking of old Ned Mount, a destitute cripple who persisted in keeping his tiny orphaned grandchild in dirt and squalor? Not she!

That evening when the little girl slept Driscoll got out that other Barbara's picture, a thing he did not often do—much as he had loved her—since he had come to love Cecilia.

"The house of the heart has many chambers, Barbara, dear," he said to the picture, "and I wanted to put that other girl in the one alongside the one in which you stay, but oh, Barbara—Barbara—I love her! But she doesn't love the child—I don't ask her to come, Barbara!"

The evening after she saw Driscoll turn away from her gate, Cecilia went to the theater with Lucien Glover, a faithful admirer whom she particularly detested, and sat near Driscoll.

Driscoll, moody and unhappy, pretended interest in the play, but he had but one thought. Glover had no right to buy her her favorite Richmond roses—he himself had done that so long!

Two weeks later came the day of the annual rose carnival. Little Babs, wild with excitement, went to see the parade in the care of Mrs. Akers. That lady, engrossed in the conversation of a gossiping friend, gave the restless child but scant attention.

Seeing Cecil seated above her, the little girl climbed to her and leaned confidingly against her. Cecil squeezed the plump little body to her, and kissed the witching little face.

"Fawver won't bring me to see you any more," she whispered; "he fink you don't like little girls!" Cecil's head grew hot. Had Elsie Akers put that and other ideas in his head?

Little Babs danced away, but in less than five minutes Cecil heard her scream of terror. She sprang to her feet.

"My baby! My baby! Where are you?" Then she saw the child—her light dress blazing. Somebody had dropped a piece of burning paper. A mist swam before Cecil's eyes, but she shook it away and flung her tan woolen cape around the child.

"It's all out—the little girl isn't hurt!" she heard somebody saying. Then everything grew dark before her.

That evening Cecil, waited on like a queen by her four college girls, frowned a little when the doorbell rang.

"If it's that Lucien Glover," she told them, "tell him I'm asleep, anything—only send him away."

But it was Driscoll that came in. He started to take her hands, but seeing the bandages, turned very white.

Cecil smiled tremulously in his troubled face. "Don't feel bad," she told him, "my hands are only blistered a trifle. The doctor says they'll be healed in just a little while. How is my—how is Babs?"

"I left her asleep," he answered. "She isn't hurt at all. She begged me to bring her to you."

"I suppose," she held up her head, "you told her I didn't like little girls. What have you heard me say, Ned Driscoll, to make you think me that kind of woman?"

He colored hotly, but he told her, and of Mrs. Akers' subsequent remark. With flaming face Cecil explained.

"I'm ashamed," he said presently, standing before her, full of contrition. "Oh, Cecil, I'm ashamed to tell you what I did in my heart! Forgive me. I need—"

Her eyes twinkled. "I think you need a change of boarding place!"

"No," he said, "I need to be in my own home with the girl of my heart; but when I think what you must have thought of me these unhappy two weeks, I'm afraid—"

"What's two weeks?" She leaned toward him. "Oh, Ned, what's two weeks out of a lifetime?"

Then, very carefully, so as not to hurt the blistered hands, he took her in his arms.

SOME OLD-TIME BIG CATTLE

One English Ox, History Shows, Weighed 3,700 Pounds, Another 4,340 Pounds.

With all the modern improvement in breeds of live stock it may be doubted whether there is living today a steer or ox equal in size to some of the fat cattle of olden times.

In 1845 there was disposed of by raffle at Pratt's Old London Inn, in Taunton, England, a giant ox of the Devon breed that stood 19 hands high and weighed 3,700 pounds. But this one was not in it with the Durham ox which earned a modest fortune for its owner, John Day, and brought the now famous Shorthorn cattle into high repute a little more than a century ago.

A writer in the Mark Lane Express described this extraordinary animal as having weighed when two years old 3,520 pounds, and when slaughtered at eight years old his carcass dressed 2,478 pounds, while his live weight at that time was stated to have been 4,340 pounds. He girthed 11 feet 1 inch just behind the shoulders. His owner exhibited him six years through England and Scotland, having a van for his conveyance about the country. It was in 1807 that Day's ox dislocated his hip and had to be killed.

Favorite, the sire of this bovine wonder, was made famous by the prodigious size and remarkably fine form of the steer. When Charles Colling of Darlington, who is regarded as the founder of the Shorthorn breed, sold all his cattle at auction in 1810, Comet, a six-year-old bull by Favorite, brought $5,000, and six cows by him, some of them eleven years old, made an average of $720, which was unheard of in those days and for many years afterward.

Storm Stops Hanging.

An eighteenth century execution on Kensington common was stopped for a time owing to a strange cause. On August 19, 1763, two days before the date of the execution, a heavy fog came over London, accompanied by thunder and lightning and torrents of rain.

These conditions lasted for nearly 48 hours, and many people believed that the last day had arrived. When the time fixed for the execution arrived the assembled crowd cried shame on the sheriff for hanging a man when the world was coming to an end.

As he persisted in his preparations, they burst through the barriers and stopped the proceedings, shouting that the culprit might as well wait a few minutes, when the grand summons would come for all.

The sheriff had to obtain the assistance of a force of soldiers before the execution could be carried out.—London Chronicle.

All Was Not Lost.

"General," cried the orderly, riding up in great excitement, "your left wing is gone!"

"Then it is no longer possible to fly," replied the general thoughtfully. "However, we should not forget that our legs are left."

Thereupon he led the way.—Boston Transcript.

LEGEND OF CHRISTMAS ROSE

Story Merely Beautiful Imagery, but Beautiful Flower Really Does Bloom in Winter.

There is much beauty and pathos in the legend of the Christmas rose, which comes down to us by way of both Italy and England. It concerns a little girl—Madelon, a flower seller, according to the English version; a shepherd's daughter, according to Italian sources. She desired to see the strange little king and followed the shepherds to Bethlehem, foot-sore and weary. "But she forgot all her trouble in the joy of seeing the mother and the child," says Mr. Jackson. "She stood entranced by the sight. She saw the rich gifts the wise men had brought. She saw the humble gifts of the shepherds, the loaf of barley bread, the home-made cheese, the fleece of a lamb, white and soft, fit to wrap around the baby's limbs this cold winter night. She was seized by childhood's native spirit of generosity. She, too, must give of her best. The best she ever had to give was flowers. But there are no flowers now, for it is winter, nor has she a farthing of money with which to buy anything else. She looked down at her little sun-browned hands, and a great sob arose in her throat. To have the impulse of love, without the means of expressing it, is real pain, and Madelon burst into tears. Her tears brought an instant response from the Guardian Angel Gabriel, who took her by the hand and touched the ground with his stick, when, lo, rich flowers sprang up on every side. Yes, there really are Christmas roses. They bloom in mid-winter, under a blanket of snow, and their petals never wither. It is true, only the legend tells it in the form of poetry, that is all."

OCEAN HAS KEPT ITS SECRET

No One Knows What Became of the Steamer President, Missing Since March, 1841.

The first steamer to be reported missing was the President, which sailed away from New York as long ago as March, 1841. Perhaps it was because big steamers were then marvels in the eyes of the people of both the old and the new world that the whole public of America and of Europe thought of nothing but the missing liner over a period of many weeks. Ship after ship arrived which had started after the President and still no tidings of the missing ship came to hand.

On April 13—unlucky day—a letter was received by one of the family of a passenger of the President, saying that the missing ship had been driven to Madeira with a damaged rudder. Flags were hoisted and there was joy on both sides of the Atlantic, but, alas! it was all a cruel hoax.

Since the ill-starred day when the President left New York there have been many missing ships, and the story of the old American liner has been repeated again and again, with perhaps a slight variation in detail. Some mysteries, although never actually solved, give us something on which to found a theory. The ship which sailed away with a cargo of railway metals, matches and gunpowder, and was afterward reported "missing," may have sunk, but Sherlock Holmes would probably have thought otherwise.

Not Much Wasted Nowadays.

Tin and copper are not wasted, although thrown away by one who has no further use for them. Detinning processes enable manufacturers to recover most of the tin and use it over again, and copper is almost as good when resmelted as when first taken from the mine.

Even the bones which come from our tables are not wasted. Bones are of value for glue making, and they are persistently gathered up and sold to the glue factories. Millions of pounds of glue are made yearly from bones. Heretofore the trouble has been to find a perfectly waterproof glue or cement which would hold the particles together under the effects of water; but today cement is used which is absolutely waterproof.—Leslie's Weekly.

Authorship Not Determined.

"The more I see of human nature, the more I love dogs." The common phrasing of this cynicism is: "The more I see of men the better I like dogs." This has proved the despair of the industrious folk who run quotable passages down to their source. Because the sentiment is somewhat sardonic it has been attributed to the French and credited to Victor Hugo and Georges Sand, but the attribution has never been satisfactorily fortified by the citation of chapter and verse. The authorship remains a problem, and when it was proposed here some years ago the curious scholarship of those who are alert to answer these questions failed to shed any light.

Greatness.

He alone is worthy of the appellation (great) who either does great things, or teaches how they may be done, or describes them with a suitable majesty when they have been done; but those only are great things which tend to render life more happy, which increase the innocent enjoyments and comforts of existence, or which pave the way to a state of future bliss more permanent and more pure.

By a certain fate great acts and great eloquence have most commonly gone hand in hand, equaling and honoring each other in the same ages.—Milton.

Through the Looking Glass

By EVELYN NESBIT

Have you ever seen a chicken fly? Or a waddling duck look longingly into the sky and try her wings?

Try as they may, they cannot reach the clouds. They cannot do what every saucy sparrow and every black crow can do.

All of which goes to prove that if you are a chicken don't try to be a sparrow. And if you are a duck, don't try to be a crow. A chicken cannot even be a duck. The chicken has this fact brought forcibly to mind every time it tries to swim.

It is good to have ambitions, but nature has imposed certain limitations on every human being. You cannot have Mary Jones' nose, no matter how much you despise your own button of a nose. You console yourself with the fact that Mary Jones could not have your beautiful curls and your sweet disposition if she angled after them for a century.

It is waste of time for a woman to long to be a sparrow if she is a duck. Let her make the most of her duck-like qualities, and she will beat the sparrow anyway.

Be as ambitious as you can be. Ambition is the axle grease that makes the world go round. But misdirected ambition is like pride—it "goeth before a fall." It fills the world with grumpy, discontented fools, who do not realize how well off they are.

LINEN TEA CLOTHS CHARMING

Table Spread Combined With Filet Crochet on Quaint Mahogany Furniture is Greatly Admired.

A linen tea cloth combined with filet crochet on a quaint old mahogany table was recently the subject of comment and praise at an afternoon tea and the hostess said: "My store of linen was small—just a roll or two—but it was homespun by my two grandmothers. Both these dear ladies loved to tell tales of their early days. One had spun her linen in New England and the other in Old England, and I determined to enhance my heirlooms with my own handiwork."

"This tea table cover has only a 12-inch square of linen in its center, but the filet lace is broad enough to make it seem of considerable size. The lace motif is the crown and scepter in honor of my British ancestry. Another cover I value is made from the ends of an old homespun sheet. I re-entwined it on the under side with fine stitching before I made it into a dinner cloth. It has some insets of filet and wherever it had to be cut or punched I strengthened the linen by running a little embroidery stitch around it. This made-over linen has been re-created in odd moments and is a treasure to me, and I know my daughters will appreciate it and add to it as I have done."

Furniture Cleaner.

To save time and labor while doing housecleaning try putting some olive oil in a pan of lukewarm water which has been made slightly soapy with a pure soap. Use this to wash furniture, then polish with a dry soft cloth. Woodwork, leather and all will look like new, for the olive oil feeds, while the soapy water cleans, and there are no injurious chemicals to eat the varnish.

Conditions Necessary for World Peace.

Micah 4:1-5.

"The last days," or as in R. V., "the latter days," were regarded by the Jews as the days of Messiah. All time preceding Messiah's reign was summed up in the phrase "these days."

The Scripture lesson for this topic carries us forward to the days of Messiah, that period of which the Hebrew prophets spoke and wrote, as the goal of human history on the earth. It is the same period that our Lord referred to in Matthew 19:28, and that Peter made reference to in Acts 3:19-21. Our divine Lord called this period by the name of "the regeneration." Peter uses the descriptive terms, "the times of refreshing" when Jesus Christ shall again be sent from Heaven, and, "the times of restitution," when all things shall be fulfilled "which God hath spoken of by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began."

The fulfillment of these promises are the necessary conditions for world peace. The Prince of Peace was rejected when He came to the world nineteen centuries ago. Since His rejection there has been no permanent peace, nor will there be until He comes again.

These are days of opportunity, the greatest of which is "to believe God." Abraham is "the father of them that believe." He is the pattern of faith. His life is summed up in three words—"Abraham believed God."

Let us copy his example. It may cost something, nevertheless "let God be true" as in Romans 3:4. The return of Christ necessitated by such promises, as found in Luke 1:32, 33, Acts 1:11, 2 Thessalonians 1:7-10, Revelation 1:7, is the supreme condition for world peace. All other conditions will accompany this supreme one.

It will be possible to have a world peace through a powerful world police even now. And this is much better than war. But Micah 4:1-5 cannot in this way find fulfillment. On the contrary there will be much to "make afraid." It would be like living near the crater of a volcano with an eruption liable at any time. This is a poor sort of world peace yet it is the best man can do.

A real peace involves peace with God as in Romans 5:1, and the peace of God as in Philippians 4:7. This can be wrought about only by the power of the gospel taught and lived by Spirit-filled men and women. Acts 1:8-11 gives us our program for this age. Stand by it, for the power of God is pledged to those who accept the program of God.

POOR POSITION.

Alfred A. Knoff, the Russian authority, said in his New York office:

"It's no use being pessimistic about Russia. Russia has simply got to go through these throes of hers in order to become sane and healthy. They're the throes of seasickness, and to turn away from them with pessimistic horror and disgust is to be as unreasonable as the little schoolboy."

"A little schoolboy refused to play during the recess. He sat with a discontented look on a hard rock."

"Why aren't you playing, Harold?" said another little boy.

"Huh! Catch me playin'!" he replied. "If I played the time would go too fast."

Ample Proof.

"What makes you think the man in the moon is single?" asked the chap in the ticket window, who was pleasantly carrying on a conversation with a friend while the line waited.

"Why, no married man could stay away all night for years and years as he does," replied the other fellow.

Charitable to Skinfint.

"Old Skinfint is a terrible tightwad, isn't he?" asked our mutual friend Smith.

"Yes, I suppose you would call him that," returned Smith, "but you got to give him credit for keeping his money at home and making it mind its own business."

Jap Islands Made in a Hurry.

It is said in the Ainu folklore that the island of Yezo, in Japan, was made by two deities, a male and a female, who were the deputies of the Creator. The female had the west coast allotted to her as her portion of work, and to the male deity were assigned the south and eastern parts.

They vied with each other in their tasks to see which should get through first. But as the goddess was proceeding with her work she happened to meet the sister of Oionino and instead of attending to her duties, stopped to have a chat with her, as is the general custom among women when they meet.

While they were thus talking the time sped until the male deity, continuing to work away, nearly finished his portion. Looking up and seeing this, the female became very much surprised and frightened, and in order to hasten matters did her work hurriedly and in a slovenly manner. Hence it is that the west coast of Yezo is so rough and dangerous.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS

State Scholarships in Engineering Courses

Entrance Examinations for the Department of Engineering, as well as for the College of Arts and Sciences, will be held in Gilman Hall, Homewood, Monday-Saturday, June 16-21, 1919, beginning at 9 A. M. each day, under the auspices of the College Entrance Examination Board.

Applications for Scholarships in the Department of Engineering, established under the provisions of the Laws of Maryland, Chapter 90, 1912, will now be received. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship, a competitive examination must be taken Friday, Sept. 19, 1919, beginning at 9 A. M. Appointments will be made soon after.

Each Legislative District of Baltimore City and each county of the State, with the exception of Harford, Howard, Queen Anne's, and Somerset Counties, will be entitled to one or more scholarships for the year 1919-1920, in addition to those which have already been assigned. In the four counties mentioned above, all the available scholarships have been awarded.

Under the provisions of the Act of Assembly, the County and City Scholarships in the department of Engineering are awarded only to deserving students whose financial circumstances are such that they are unable to obtain an education in Engineering unless free tuition be granted to them. The scholarships entitle the holder to free tuition, free use of text-books, and exemption from all regular fees. One of the scholarships in each county and each Legislative District of the City carries also the sum of $200. The expense of attendance for those who do not receive scholarships is not greater than at other Maryland institutions.

Scholarships may be awarded to graduates of Loyola College, St. John's College, Washington College, Western Maryland College, Maryland Agricultural College, Mt. St. Mary's College, Rock Hill College.

Two scholarships will be awarded "At Large."

Applicants should address The Registrar, The Johns Hopkins University for blank forms of application and for catalogues giving information as to examinations, award of scholarships, and courses of instruction. The next session begins Tuesday, September 30, 1919. 5-16-4t

NO. 5145 EQUITY.

In the Circuit Court for Carroll County:

ELIZABETH GETTY, Plaintiff,

vs.

MILTON G. GETTY, Defendant.
The object of this suit is to procure a divorce a vinculo matrimonii for the plaintiff, Elizabeth Getty, from Milton G. Getty, defendant.

The bill states that on the 19th day of July, A. D. 1908, they were married by Rev. John J. John, a Minister of the Gospel of the Church of the Brethren, in Carroll County, Maryland, and that they lived together in Carroll County, Maryland, until the 7th of June, 1912, when the defendant abandoned and deserted the plaintiff, and has since said 7th day of June, 1912, ceased to live with her, and has resided separate and apart from the plaintiff. That the conduct of the plaintiff towards her said husband, was always kind, affectionate and above reproach, and that her husband, on the said 7th day of June, 1912, without just cause or reason abandoned and deserted the plaintiff and that he declared his intention to live with the plaintiff no longer, and has lived separate and apart from her since the said 7th day of June, 1912, and that such abandonment by the defendant of the plaintiff has continued uninterruptedly for more than three years, and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation.

That they have had no children born to them as a result of said marriage.

That the plaintiff is and has been a resident of Carroll County, Maryland, for the past twelve years.

That the defendant is a resident of the State of Utah, and a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon, this 28th day of May, A. D. 1919, ordered by the Circuit Court for Carroll County, sitting as a Court of Equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper, published in said Carroll County, once a week for four successive weeks before the 30th day of June, 1919, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 17th day of July, next, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Last Saturday morning the fly-wheel of the dough break, at the Baumgardner bakery, while running at high speed, flew into fragments. Several of the pieces struck Charles Crebs on one leg, injuring it severely, while others bombarded the interior of the building, fortunately doing no further personal damage. It is thought that a board was so placed as to come in contact with the wheel, causing it to break.

The first annual Memorial service of the Taneytown Fire Company, held at the Presbyterian church, last Sunday evening, was well attended. About twenty members of the Westminster Company were present, and there was a good turn out of the local company. Oscar D. Gilbert, President of the State Firemen's Association, made a short address and read the resolutions of the State Association setting aside the first Sunday in June as a memorial day. Rev. Downie's address was a fine tribute to the fraternity and its calling, and was generally appreciated.

There is said to be a tremendous increase of women who smoke cigarettes, not only in Europe but in this country. This is said to be due largely to women assuming men's work and men's apparel, during the war, therefore, they are adopting masculine habits. This may be true, in part, but we have never yet seen a man wear knee pants with but one leg—when he had two legs.

Memorial Day in Taneytown.

Memorial Day in Taneytown was more than the usual event, notwithstanding the extreme heat, especially the parade feature of it. The band headed the parade; then two bands with veterans of the Civil War; another with veterans of the Spanish-American war; twenty-two of the khaki-clad boys just returned; members of the P. O. S. of A., Odd Fellows and K. of P., and a large body of school boys and girls. Eight members of the P. O. S. of A., from Westminster and Uniontown helped to swell the line, the whole making quite a lengthy and creditable parade.

The decoration of the graves in the three cemeteries, was followed by appropriate addresses by the ministers of the town on the lawn in front of the Reformed church. As is usually the case, large numbers of fraternalists, and others, who should have participated, stood around and looked on. The flower offerings were much larger than usual.
