Live Stock Makes Decided Drop in Chicago Market.

pounds on the average, for hogs, and lower prices for beef cattle, are in force at the Chicago stock yards. The average drop on beef cattle ranges from 50c to 75c, and the prospects are for further breaks.

The public has curtailed its buying of pork and beef recently, while live stock receipts are large. The Eastern market failed to act as an emitty gency outlet and the packers virtually withdrew their buyers from all the pens, leaving thousands of hogs and cattle without buyers. Speculators were hit hard.

Live stock men say export busimess has been depressed by the for-eign exchange situation and that this,

Corn and oats have dropped with pork prices, in the Chicago market, but most other prices have as yet been unaffected. The latest report is that a break is due all along the line.

We hear a great deal about this from the "professors," as the greatest of all means of reducing living costs. Certainly, the greater the production of a day's labor, the lower the consumer's cost of the product ought to be; but, to the average non-produc-ing consumer of food, the question is where do we get off?

Another Good Road Enemy.

It may be raising a question before its proper time, but it is likely to be one for early consideration, as to whether the spiked, or sharp cleated wheels of farm tractors, will make desirable additions to wheeled traffic on our streets and public roads. These tractors, while not as damaging to road surfaces as the large traction engines, nevertheless leave their trails very perceptibly on road surfaces; and as tractors for farm use are likely to become quite common, it is sure

PRESIDENT DENIES SHOPMEN'S WHY PREACHERS DON'T STRIKE WAGE DEMANDS

Believes Cost of Living Will Be Lowered Soon.

President Wilson, after consultation with the Director General of Railroads, has denied the demands of railroad shopmen for an advance from 58, 63 and 68 cents, to 85 cents per All persons hunting for squirrels on Monday, or after, will be required to have their license, and the Deputy steady employment—should not be steady employment—should not be compared with prices paid for emergency work, temporarily stimulated by the war. He appealed strongly for patience, and for giving time for the efforts toward reducing the cost of living to work out.

There seems to be some misunder-standing throughout the State, as to that shopmen should be paid for an an hour to the present pay. His main points are included in the following paragraphs, and as they cover the general question of wages and costs, should be carefully read and considered by all. "The substantial argument which the shopmen urge is the very serious increase in the cost of living. This is a very potent argument indeed. But the fact is that the cost of living has certainly reached its peak and probably will be lowered by the efforts which are now everywhere being concerted and carried out. It will certainly be lowered so soon as there are settled conditions of production and of commerce; that is, so soon as the treaty of peace is ratified and in certain basis of calculation as to what their business will be and what the conditions will be under which it must be conducted.

"The demands of the shopmen, and all similar demands are in effect this: That we make increases in wages which are likely to be permanent in order to meet a temporary situation which will last, nobody can certainly tell how long, but in all probability only for a lmited time. Increases in wages will, moreover, certainly result in still further increasing the costs of production and, therefore, the cost of living, and we should only have to go through the same process again. Any substantial increase of wages in leading lines of industry at this time would utterly crush the general cam-paign which the Government is waging with energy, vigor and substantial hope of success to reduce the high cost of living. And the increase in the cost of transportation which necessarily would result from increases in the wages of railroad employes more certainly and more immediately Ulman. A. Eat More Bread.

Mr. Barnes, the federal administrator, has a sensible idea. His statistics show that the American people, as a result of their war-time conservation program, are now using sixty-four pounds of flour per capita per annum, less than we did before the war. Now as wheat products are possibly as cheap as any foods on the market today and there is no longer need for the drastic saving rules of a year or more ago, why not substitute bread and other articles to be made from wheat for the more expensive meats?

Scrutiny of the records show that period. Other figures for July were: Passenger brakemen, $200 or more; passenger engineers, $300; freight conductors, $250, and freight engineers, $375.

These are not actual averages, or unusual earnings. The average earn-$200 and $225 per month; freight conductors, $200 to $225; passenger engineers, $275 per month, and passenger conductors, $225 per month.

Facing The Facts.

The national debt of the United States at the end of the fiscal year 1911-1912, was $1,040,340,000, or $10.40 for each person living in this schemes—oil stocks being prominent schemes—oil stocks being prominent of bosses, who have a right to feel 000.000 population. The national debt of the United States on June 1, 1919, was $25,421,151,270. This means that every person in the U. S. faces a national debt that averages $231.10. If conditions that have become so radically changed by this so greatly increased debt are to become in any wise normal they can come in just one way—the absorption of this bonded debt by the savings of the people. The answer given the Senate Committee by the Governor, W. P. G. Harding. of the Federal Reserve Board, to their query as to what legislation was needed at this time to relieve the financial situation, was: The Federal Reserve Board believes that any currency legislation at this time is unnecessary and undesirable and would suggest that whether viewed from an economic or financial standpoint, the remedy for the present situation is the same: Namely, 'Work and Save."

Mr. Harding is a man of acknowledged ability, with an opportunity of studying from every angle our industrial and financial problems; a study that includes in its scope the finan-cial affairs of the world. The real and true basic principles of the thrift campaign this year is arresting the attention of the American public to the end that it adopt as a habit the ideas and the thoughts of systematic saving. This is the central thought of every plan, the motive of every act. It takes time, patience and the co-operation of every branch of our industrial and financial interests.

The people have got to spend less and save more. The banks occupy a peculiarly important position in spreading this message, because all business revolves about the banks. The people naturally turn to them for advice, and it is right, they should.

The people can save. Uninvested money is dissipated too easily and is wasted too often. LEAGUE AND TREATY NOTES FRANCE BUYS U. S. SUPPLIES. This Country Loses About Two-thirds of the First Cost.

Washington, Aug. 28th.—Sale to France for $400,000,000 of all Ameri-American preachers might take a strike vote and let the country go straight to _____," so stated the Rev. John Roach Straton, tonight.

Yet in Sight.

France for $400,000,000 of all American Expeditionary Forces property in that country, except that withheld for return to the United States and for the use of troops remaining, is provided for in a contract signed with the French Government, the War Department was advised today by its special liquidation commission. Payment will be made in 10-year gold bonds, bearing interest at the rate of 5% from August 1, 1920.

The bonds are to be redeemed in gold at Washington on a dollar basis or, at the election of the United States, in francs. The contract cov-ers all "fixed installations," such as docks, wharves, railroads, storage warehouses, barracks and refrigera-tion plants, as well as surplus clothing, subsistence stores, motor equip-ment and munitions.

The original cost of the property involved was estimated by the commission at more than $1,000,000,000, and its present value was placed at $749,000,000. A deduction of 25 per cent. was made to cover the cost of merchandising it, which reduced the value to $562,000,000, but the French Government refused to pay more than $400,000,000. It would require the labor of 40,000 men for from six to eight months to salvage the property, the report said.

Some Labor Is "Loafing."

The charge has frequently been made that labor in the cities, especially, gets such big pay that it can afford to loaf a day or two a week. Baltimore carpenter sends the following, to the Sun, which is no doubt true to a larger extent than many think, and is good argument on the side that "increased production" does not rest on big wages.

"The majority of the carpenters who are employed on jobs in and around Baltimore are 1917 and 1918 models, having learned the trade with a hatchet and saw on war work and have never served their aprenticeship.

They start on Monday morning, looking for Saturday noon, and figuring from day to day just how much they have "got coming" and spend most of the day hiding from the foreman.

Many a man who has served his time, years ago (22 years in my case) is often compelled to "buddy" one of these shoemakers, who doesn't know a sixpenny nail from a four when sent for nails, unless given one as a sample, and doesn't know a crosscut saw from a rip-saw or how properly to use either.

When a conscientious workman faithfully tries to turn out a day's work he is called a "rusher" and is asked if he is "going to a fire."

They seldom, if ever, think of anything but "what time is it?" and are always the first to pick up their rusty entitled to a fair day's work for the wages they pay?"

Wages and Farmers.

While the farmers have been profiting largely by the big prices, nobody blames them for it. It was largely a question of having prosperity forced on them. Oh, yes! the farmers do pay a lot more for things they buy, and all of their income is not velvet; but the fact remains that a subtraction of the sums total, at the end of the year, leaves a very comfortable net gain for them; but, this is aside from the point of the present article.

The country is up in arms against the high cost of living, and it is pretty genrally conceded that as long as the cost of labor is so high, the living costs will stay in their present perch, or go even higher. The desirable thing, therefore, from on of the mainly accepted standpoints, is to reduce labor costs. While this seems to be an economic question-one of supply and demand-it is in fact more truly a political question—it is a question of organized force, backed by votes-votes used in the election of men to Congress.

This organized force is so great that at present there is no antagonistic force equal to it, and there is no prospct in sight of any force in process of formation that will be of sufficient volume to attract the attention of Congressmen, and cause them to call a halt in the labor cost program.

The only force that could easily be marshaled for this purpose, is the farmers of the country. The overcoming of the President's veto of the Daylight saving law, is directly attributable to farmers influence, and shows the power of farmers when they choose to unitedly evercise it. The big question is, whether the farmers are sufficiently interested in lowering labor costs, as to make a demand in that direction? And the second big question is, whether it would "pay' them to do so?

Farmers are large employers of labor, and large purchasers of products of labor, such as farm machinery, automobiles, clothing, shoes, etc. Apparently, it would be greatly to their interest to reduce the manufacturing cost-the labor cost-of such important items. But, may it not be still more pointedly true that the big costs of labor furnishes labor with big money with which to demand large quantities of farm produce, meats, butter, eggs, and the like, and pay fancy prices for them ?

We do not propose to try to analyze the situation, either on the basis of what would "pay" them best, or what they ought to do; but, it is a fact very clear to us that the farmers of the country can make wages topple, whenever they make up their minds to demand of Congress that a stop be placed on strikes, and their accompanying wage increases.

The Conflict Between Classes.

The activity on the part of the Government in fixing retail prices for retailers, throwing out all sorts of intimations that "middle men" are engaged in the "profiteering" business, attacking the high-cost situation from points of least resistance, philosophizing over production and supply and demand, planning for the world-wide continuance of big business at the expense of denuded home markets, and side-stepping all antagonistic laws against unionized labor, will never cure the sufferings of this country from inflated values.

Attacking the big meat concerns, and operating against the storage of food in great quantities, may help some, but it is not the high-cost of food, alone, that is hurting. It is also the high-cost of shoes, clothingeverything produced by factoriesthe extravagant prices paid for labor in the production of everything the what is the outlook? If we can country needs. Even breaking down food prices to a reasonable level, will profit all the more. With meat at half its present cost, and with the products of the farm on the same basis, the general relief so much sought by the non-union and helpless classes, would be hardly half realized.

This country needs a great deal and moralizing over conditions. The actually wanted, for it must be ac- come down. knowledged that ALL are not suffer-

This, in itself, is a bigger question than most people realize. It is THE question. As soon as our Solons discover which is the biggest and most aggressive crowd, they will find ways of bringing about just what this crowd wants.

There are at least three of these sets of people, or crowds, in this country. In a general way they may be designated as (1) Producers with capital; (2) Labor as a force, and (3)

Normally, and in the best of times, the interests of the three are mutual and resaonably harmonious, with just enough conflict to result in healthy competition.

Abnormally, these interests clash and fight, producing warfare between self-interests, and ill-feeling between classes; with the use of force and political threats, and appeals to prejudice, to gain ends.

In the first class we find manufacturers, farmers, the railroads, mine operators, jobbers of merchandise, importers and exporters, and important business generally.

In the second class are employees of railroads, mine workers. steel workers, mechanics of various kinds, and all bodies of workmen operating as large forces in important necessary industries.

men, teachers, salesmen, men engaged in lesser industries and their employees, those incapacitated for hard active work, ordinary laborers, small storekeepers, and the large body of people variously employed in the thousands of avenues of life, as well as the non-producers of the country.

The first and second classes are those enjoying practically all of the inflated prosperity of the country. While their interests may clash severely, they are neverthelss in position to care for themselves-to combat force with force, and to play one necessity against another. It is this conflict within these classes that produces the high costs, and it is largely tween combatants.

Labor, able to enforce its demands, has rather selected the times of greatest necessity on the part of the people, to play its strongest game. It has not suffered more because of the "high cost of living" than has any other class, but has actually done more to increase such costs than any other. (When we speak of labor, we mean the labor that combines and strikes.)

Producers, in many cases, have undoubtedly been as heartless as labor. Many concerns enjoying a condition of preparedness at the outset of the war, have surely and without doubt, profiteered outrageously at the expense of the needs of our Nation. They set the example, perhaps, for the same game on the part of labor. But, it would be unfair, because absolutely untrue, to place all profiting producers in this same class. Farmers, for instance, have largely had prosperity forced on them. They have had little or no responsibility for the odium of high food costs, as the markets simply invited them to come in with their products, and "take the money." With this brief review before us, reach the point of honesty in admitting that genuine happiness and peace merely let producers of other items rests in a fraternity of interests among the classes, what must we be

> A Traveling Man's Experience. You may learn something from the following by W. H. Ireland, a traveling salesman of Louisville, Ky. "In the summer of 1888 I had a severe attack of cholera morbus. I gave the hotel porter fifty cents and told him to buy me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy and to take no substitute. I took a double dose of it according to the directions and went to sleep. At 5 o'clock the next morning I was called by my order and took a train for my next stopping place, a well man." -Advertisement

Wanted-Action, Not Excuse!

(For The Record.)
This is not the time for complaint or excuse from officials regarding the getting after and bringing to brook the food profiteers. "The people" are intolerant of such an attitude. What they want is Action-swift, stinging, salutary-action and not side-stepping.

U. S. District Attorneys are making sad mistake as to the temper and sentiment of the citizens of this country, if they go on the assumption (as some seem to be doing) that everybody will be perfectly satisfied with mere explanation relating to lack of men and money to make an effective food probe. In times of real emergency and great National problems capable and courageous men drop, or at least for willing to do? As it is clear that the moment put aside, other matters preaching and moralizing will not and fling themselves straight at the emergency and meet it, throw themequal justice to all, we must then selves bodily into the problem and have governmental action, backed by seek prompt solution. This is precisely what the public everywhere expects of those in charge of the food problem. It is utter nonsense to speak of this foremost question of the hour as a mere matter of "currency. inflation and public panic," as the manner of some is.

Public and private investigations, nose on one's face that there is widespread and wilful profiteering systematically carried on in foodstuffs, through various agencies and manipulations. This is the precise thing the people of this Nation demand ought to and must be ferreted out by men in authority—and right away.

It matters not whether these gentlemen may or may not feel a "personal interest" or sympathy in this vital matter. That's got nothing whatever to do with their plain duty (2) The exportation of food and all imposed by the very conditions they face. To plead, as some have been doing, that they "lack the power under existing statutes to bring any effective action" against those who may be holding up the very necessities of life for higher and yet higher prices, or who are in anywise profiteering, doesn't free their skirts by a long shot.

They can at least turn on the "spot light" and put to work the full force enter into a general boycott of high of their office machinery in a rigid. ruthless search into existing conditions and report their findings fully to the public whose real servants they are or are supposed to be. They "pitiless publicity' which the powers at Washington wisely say will react as a potent factor toward better prices.

If those whose business it is to do this job fail to perform the funetions of their, public trust—there will be some unpleasant comparisons as to results regarding those who "seen their duty and done it" and those who "petered out" in the hour of a long-suffering public's needs-and mayeither light, or fuel, or operated in haps the chagrin that only those feel favor of greater production, or in any who have been "fired" from office out into the cold, dread limbo of oblivion.

Come, gentlemen, let's have some relief from this intolerable gouging, just as soon as possible.

A Great Remedy.

The merits of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy are well known and appreciated, but there is occasionally a man who had no acquaintance with them and should read the following by F. H. Dear, a hotel man at Dupuyer, Mont. "Four years ago I used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy with such wonderful results that I have since recommended it to my friends."—Advertisement

Public Debate and Libel.

The libel suit of Henry Ford against the Chicago Tribune raised many interesting questions as to how far a newspaper can go in criticising political opponents. The libel law is rather vague, and as both parties claim a victory in this case, little new light is thrown on this problem. The newspaper writer as before will have to be governed by his own sense of fairness and decency.

Public debate is always in danger of running to one of two extremes. Some writers are abusive and say things about public men that are grossly unjust But this evil tends to cure itself. Newspapers guilty of such utterances hurt themselves more than anyone else, and they disgust the public. On the other hand, if the libel law were literally or drastically enforced, newspapers would be fearful in engaging in frank discussion. To bring out the truth about public men and office-holders, people must be able to speak with some freedom. If they can't say what they think, discussion will be pale and colorless. Sincere conviction will be suppressed, criticism will be muzzled, and the public will fail to get a clear and accurate view of the fitness and character of public men.

So, although freedom of discussion has its evils, and is often abused, it is dangerous to public interest to hold it down too closely.

In most libel suits this has been the feeling of courts and juries. If they felt that facts were not misstated and if malice was not shown, they were tolerant with expressions of opinion, if these seemed sincere. Suppressing the expression of honest conviction is much like muzzling a good watch dog.-Fred'k News.

An Old Fault Finder.

An irritable and fault-finding disposition is often caused by indigestion. A man with good digestion and bowels that act regularly is usually good natured. When troubled with indigestion or constipation, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. They also cause a gentle movement of the

CONCRETE-LINED FARM RESERVOIR

Precaution Should Be Taken to Prevent Injury by Frost and Settlement.

COBBLESTONES MADE USE OF

To Safeguard Structure It Is Recommended That Completed Earthwork Be Thoroughly Soaked Before Lining Is Laid.

(From the United States Department of Agriculture.) If durable water reservoirs are desired, they may be lined with concrete or built of cobblestones. In form, the concrete-lined type may be either rectangular or circular. A circular reservoir lined with concrete, having a diameter of 134 feet at the bottom, a depth of 8 feet, and a capacity of 2 acre-feet, or 651,658 United States gallons, is somewhat similar in design to one built under the supervision of the office of public roads and rural engineering at Fort Collins, Colo. Precautions are necessary, in order to prevent damage by settlement and frost. If the reservoir is formed partly in excavation and partly in fill, it is difficult to treat each class of material in such a way that both will be equally stable and impervious. If the material in the fill, for instance, settles more than the natural earth, the concrete lining is apt to be ruptured along the division line. Not only uneven settlement in different parts of the earth embankment, but settlement in any one part tends to rupture or otherwise damage concrete lining.

Concrete for Lining.

A concrete suitable for lining should contain an ample percentage of good cement in order to make it watertight. A mixture of 1 part by volume of cement, 2 parts of sand and 4 parts of gravel or broken rock is recommended. A measured volume of sand is dumped on the mixing platform, half as much cement is added to it and both ingredients are mixed dry until the mixture is of one color. It is then moistened and worked into a soft mortar, and the rock or gravel, having been previously moistened, is added. The mortar and rock or gravel then are turned over with shovels at least twice or until the entire mass is thoroughly mixed. The concrete should be sufficiently moist at this stage so that when shoveled into a wheelbarrow or other means of conveyance it will assume a water-level on top. At the same time it should not be so wet as to flow readily.

The thickness of the lining needed depends upon the severity of the climate, the care and skill used in preparing the foundation, the character of the concrete and other factors.

Reservoirs Built of Cobblestones.

Many small reservoirs have been built in southern California to store water pumped from wells over night for use in irrigation the following day. In the Pomona valley, which includes an area of valley land comprising something like 67 square miles, of which about one-third is irrigated, there were in 1912 over 50 of these reservoirs owned and operated by individual orchardists or by small groups of orchardists co-operatively. In the preparation of much of the land for citrus orchards on the benches of this valley large quantities of cobblestones are removed and dumped into ravines or piled up in long rectangular walls. Years ago some one conceived the idea of making use of this rock to give stability to reservoir walls, and out of this conception has been developed a more or less distinct type of farm reservoir. This type consists in the main of a wall of cobblestone masonry laid in cement mortar in which a small amount of lime is incorporated, a concrete floor and an earth embankment around the exterior.

From an engineering standpoint the crucial tests of a reservoir may be said to be such features as efficiency, durability, first cost, and maintenance.

The Whole Secret of A Better Tire

Simply a Matter of the Maker's Policies

This you will realize - once you try a Brunswick-that a super-tire is possible only when the name certifies that the maker is following the highest standards.

For tire making is chiefly a matter of standards and policies-cost plus care. Any maker can build a good tire if he cares to pay perfection's price.

All men know Brunswick standards, for Brunswick products have been famous for 74 years.

Formulas, fabrics and standards vary vastly in cost. Reinforcements, plies and thickness are a matter of expense. And these variations affect endurance. It rests with the maker how far he wishes to go-how much he can afford to give.

For there are no secrets nor patents to hold one back.

To ascertain what each maker offers one must analyze and test some 200 tires—as our laboratories have done.

Then it is a matter of combining the best features and building according to the highest standards.

Once you try a Brunswick you will understand how we have built model tires, regardless of factory

Yet Brunswick Tires cost you the same as other like-type tires. Our saving is on selling cost, through our nation-wide organization.

We realize that you expect more from Brunswicks, and we assure you that you get it. ONE Brunswick will tell you the story.

And then you'll want ALL Brunswicks. No other tire, you'll agree, gives so much for your money.

STEERED BY SIXTH SENSE

Exploits of Blindfolded Norwegian Have Proved a Puzzle to Expert Danish Scientists.

Scientists in Denmark are puzzled by a Norwegian, one Emil Knudsen, who, although blindfolded and carefully watched, steered a steamer through the intricate channels of the harbor of Copenhagen, keeping a true course and adroitly dodging other vessels. He explains this by claiming the possession of a "sixth sense."

Knudsen is a man of middle age. When he came to Denmark from Christiania, he became at once an object of interest to both scientist and layman. He was put through many experiments by one of the leading nerve specialists of Europe, and as a result the specialist suggested the trip into the harbor. Knudsen said that he could guide himself anywhere without using his eyes, and a steamer was chartered to put him to a supreme test. Knudsen had no knowledge of the harbor. He requested that a person knowing the channel should hold two finger-tips against the side of his head. Professor Fridenreich consented to this, and himself pressed two finger-tips against Knudsen's temples. The man handled the wheel without) a sign of nervousness or uncertainty. It was impossible for him to see, yet he took more than a dozen sharp corners and followed a zigzag course throughout. All the scientists who witnessed the demonstration said that Knudsen possesses a mysterious power that actually may be a sixth sense. Hunger Helps Diabetics.

During the course of the world war, as the blockade and unfavorable internal conditions were gradually cutting down the rations of the central empires, it was frequently noted in German newspapers that, at all events, the food shortage had some redeeming features, chief of which was its beneficial effects upon sufferers from diabetes.

In corroboration of this assertion, now comes Professor Rosenfeld of Breslau with an article in a recent number of the Zentralblatt fur Innere Medizin, showing how the number of deaths from diabetes was reduced during the war. In Berlin such deaths in 1918 totaled 177 against 264 in 1917, 331 in 1916, 383 in 1915, 467 in 1914 and 409 in 1913; in Munich they were 77, 73, 82, 101, 104 and 105 for the same years, and in Breslau they were 51, 72, 78, 113, 115 and 100.

Cut Metal With Smooth Disks.

Not so very long ago the discovery was made that metals could be sawed easier and quicker with rapidly revolving smooth disks of steel than with toothed circular saws. It was found that the cutting was done by the heat generated by the friction of the edge of the disk against the metal. The metal is melted at the point of contact while the steel of the disk, being cooled by the air, does not reach the melting point. The disks need no sharpening and do not wear out so quickly as the toothed saws heretofore used for cutting metal. The faster the disk revolves, the greater the amount of heat generated and the quicker the job .- Popular Science Monthly.

EXPLAINS NATURE OF THIRST

Doctor Cannon of Harvard University Shows Where Popular Conception Has Been Wrong.

The popular conception of thirst, according to a well-known medical journal, is a lessened water content of the body, a condition in which the entire organism suffers, but Dr. W. B. Cannon of Harvard university, considers it a purely local phenomenon. "According to him, the pre-eminent factor is the relative drying of the mucosa of the mouth and pharynx. This may result either from excessive use of the passage for breathing, as in prolonged speaking or singing, or It may be caused by deficient salivary secretion. The latter, according to Cannon, represents true thirst depending on the fact that the salivary glands, which keep the buccal and pharyngeal mucosa moist, require water for their action."

The salivary glands occupy a strategic position in relation to a surface that tends to become dry by the passage of air over it. "Thus," Cannon concludes, "the diminishing action of the salivary glands becomes a delicate indicator of the bodily demand for

CARD OF THANKS.

Merchants and Advertising.

During the past ten years a great many small towns have been on the down grade, from a commercial standpoint, owing to the inroads made on their business interests by the large cities, the mail order houses, farmers' unions and other forms of outside competition. Many a country merchant blames the automobile for tak-ing his business away from him, but it is quite likely the automobile could be made to bring trade to him as readily as it is made to take it elsewhere. The fact is that the country merchant, like most of us, will blame everybody and everything for his condition be fore he will begin to lay the fault to himself.

There is a store in a city of less than 1,200 inhabitants, in the state of Ohio, which in the year 1916 sold over $400,000 worth of merchandise. It is the biggest country store in the United States and it has made its town one of the most important trading points in the state of Ohio. Yet that town has no better surrounding trade territory than any other town of 1,200. It was done simply by modern merchandising and advertising.

The merchant in the country town has as good a chance to sell merchandise as anyone in the world if he will only sell it; but a great many country merchants have allowed modern methods to leave them away in the rear of the progress parade and have laid down and let some one else do the selling. In this connection it is safe to say that in the trade territory of nearly every small town outside competition is doing more advertising, twice over, than the local merchant. The only way the country town can successfully meet this competition is by using the same tactics. In short, the only remedy for a town that is going down hill is modern merchandising, and scientific, systematic and persistent advertising, says the Clarion

Season

There are several excellent reasons why painting should be done now. Don't let it go until Spring.

The wood is dry now, after the Summer season and in much better condition for painting—
Summer creates leaks and cracks that should be sealed with paint

For the Information of the Public

As there has been much mis-information and more mis-representation directed at the school situation of Carroll County, it is due the public that the facts, and only facts, should be given by the gentlemen who are appointed to administrately and only facts.

the facts, and only facts, should be given by the gentlemen who are appointed to administer the school affairs.

1.—The County Commissioners accepted a budget of $138,664.16 to be levied for school purposes for 1918-1919. As the taxable basis was $26,600,000, if you multiply that sum by 52 cents you will get approximately that amount. Hence the school tax rate was 52 cents for that year, out of a total tax rate of 82 cents, assessed on the county.

2.—For 1919-1920 the Board of Education has been granted $144,500 on which to administer the schools, which is at the rate of 55 cents, an increase of 3 cents, out of a total tax rate of $1.23 assessed on the county.

3.—The county tax rate is at the rate of $1.23, or 41 cents higher than last year. Now, as the County Commissioners refused to take over the School Board debt of $35,000, it follows that the increase tax is not to be blamed upon the School Administration.

School Board debt of $35,000, it follows that the increase tax is not to be blamed upon the School Administration.

4.—Where did the school debt come from? In 1916 the Board inherited a debt of $17,196.15, on account of the Mt. Airy building and unsettled matters pertaining thereto. The new law which went into force that same year caused various additional items of expense not forseen, when the budget was made out for that year:

(a)—The attendance was increased by nearly 900 children over the previous year. This required additional teaching service and furniture to the extent of $7000.

to the extent of $7000.

(b)—As Taneytown was made an approved high school by the State Board, it was necessary to make enlargements to the extent of $5000. $3800.00 of which was not in the budget.

Board, it was necessary to make enlargements to the extent of $5000.
$3800.00 of which was not in the budget.

(c)—School conditions were so congested and had been for many years, that it was found necessary to build a school at Deep Run, which cost $3500, also not provided for in the budget.

5.—That a new school bulding was needed at Hampstead, there was no doubt. $24,000 was allowed in the budget for the purpose, but at a joint meeting of the two Boards the plans and costs were placed before the Boards and the fact pointed out that with wartime prices it would cost not less than $30,000, and probably much more. The President of the Board of County Commissioners, with the consent of the others then and there authorized the Board of Education to go ahead with the construction, and the County Commissioners promised "to see it through." On the strength of this gentlemen's agreement, the Board of Education went ahead with the work. Now, when the bill is presented, they repudiate their word and agreement, and leave the Board of Education with a loan of $35,000 to meet.

6.—In March, 1919, before we were aware that we could not rely upon the word of the majority of the members of the Board of County Commissioners, we sent a committee composed of Commissioner Feeser and Supt. Unger to arrange for the funds to begin the construction of the Myers Building. Again we were told to borrow the money, and go ahead, and when the levy came in they would meet our obligations. The agreement was that they would rinsh us $20,000 a year to build these necessary new buildings. When in June we asked for the $20,000 in the budget, it was cut to $16,000, after the plans had been accepted and the material bought, and the work three months under way.

7.—We immediately stopped work on the Myers Building, and presented under way.

7.—We immediately stopped work on the Myers Building, and presented the bill for the expenses so far incurred; they have refused to honor the ac-

8.—During the past 3 years a sum of money amounting to nearly $4800 has been held back from the amounts allowed in the budget by the County Commissioners to pay for bonds issued in 1900, and accrued interest. This with the items mentioned above, account for the school debt. While Mt. Airy items were paid off by us, it caused deficits in other directions and could only be met by contracting the loans.

items were paid off by us, it caused deficits in other directions and could only be met by contracting the loans.

9.—It has been charged that Hampstead is too large. It will have three unused rooms this coming year, but by the time all the high school classes are organized, it will be entirely occupied. The Mt. Airy building which was built in 1915 is already too small and will soon need enlargements.

10.—It is charged the Hampstead building cost too much. In Hanover, Pa., there is a new building about the same size which was completed before the war, and cost $85,000. The Hampstead building cost $51,000, and was built in war times. The wonder is, that we were able to get it up as cheaply as we have. It is also charged that it is not complete. It will not require an expenditure of more than $300 to complete it.

11.—In Sykesville there is a 4-room building, but an enrollment of children large enough to fill 7 rooms, and when all the classes of the high school are organized, in another year, 3 more rooms will be needed.

dren large enough to fill 7 rooms, and when all the classes of the high school are organized, in another year, 3 more rooms will be needed.

12.—In Union Bridge the sanitary conditions are so unfit that the State Board of Health has refused to permit us to open the school unless the same is remedied, by the construction of new chemical toilet building, properly equipped. As the Board was not given the necessary $1500 it cannot proceed with the construction, as will be shown in the statement below. The school population is so large in Union Bridge that three more rooms are needed now, and more will be wanted by another year.

and more will be wanted by another year.

13.—A study of the following statement will show why the Board of Education cannot continue to build new buildings, or repair old ones.

If anyone can show the Board of Education how to pay bills of $53,200.00 with $19,413.36, we would be pleased to hear from them.

14.—In answer to the above, it will be asked, what do you propose to do with the monies received from the State, amounting to aproximately $53,000.

That is easy to answer. A part of this money is distributed by law as follows:

Salaries of the Executive force, High School Principals, Colored Industrial Purposes, Manual Training, Agricultural Project Work, Text Books, ets., the balance, amounting to $34,000.00 will be used by the Board to pay off the loan of $35,000.00 and interest, which the County Commissioners refused to assume after they had given their word to do so.

15.—Why is there a shortage of teachers for our rural schools? There are many reasons. Here are some:

(1)—We cannot pay more for salaries than we receive. Our salaries for Elementary teachers range from $450 to $725 a year, depending upon grade of certificate and the years of service.

(2)—Salaries in Baltimore county range from $725 to $1050 and even they have 15 vacancies.

(3)—Teachers object to teaching in the country for many reasons: Uncomfortable home surroundings, too much nagging from the community, too many grades in the school to do efficient work, poor school equipment, etc.

(4)—There is an actual shortage of teachers throughout the U. S., as reported by the National Bureau of Education, and therefore teachers will accept only what they consider the desirable appointments.

16.—In consequence of this shortage of teachers, 30 schools will have no teachers, and the schools that are open will be over-crowded. There is only one graded school building in the county large enough to receive the increase in school poulation this year, and that is the new building at Hampsteed.

one graded school building in the county large enough to receive the increase in school poulation this year, and that is the new building at Hampstead.

17.—In Westminster, for lack of space, it will be necessary to allow children in certain grades, only half day schooling. This will also apply to

18.—The heating plant in the Graceland Building, Westminster is so in-adequate that the little children are exposed to an in-door temperature of less than 50°, and in consequence, ventilation is bad. In these crowded conditions, children are menaced with disease, and their health seriously endangered. New buildings are absolutely necessary at Westminster, Sykesville and Union Bridge.

19.—In reply to the criticism that the Board of Education has not rendered an account of the cost of the Hampstead building, we wish to say that the accounts and transactions of the Board of Education are open to all persons who desire to examine them. The County Commissioners and their legal adviser have this opportunity. The Hampstead account was kept as a separate account. An account will be rendered to the public, as usual, in the annual report of all school affairs.

20.—The accounts have been audited annually by a competent auditor, certified thereto by the State Superintendent, and the County Treasurer, Martin D. Hess, was also requested to help audit the account, but refused, and the affairs of the Board have, in addition, been examined by agents of the Maryland Casualty Co., within the pst two months, on account of their responsibility as bondsmen for officers' and workmen's compensation, liability, etc., and these great bonding companies state that they find our affars correct etc., and these great bonding companies state that they find our affars correct 8-29-3t in every particular.

21.—The Board of Education is guided by the following principles: It is trying to re-organize an old worn-out school machinery, and place it upon a modern basis. It believes that $35,000.00 spent for a new, adequate well-equipped scientific school building, is worth more to the county than a mile of concrete road, at the same price.

It believes that the education of the next generation is the best insurance

It believes that the education of the next generation is the best insurance that the public can have for the protection of property and life.

It has no corporate interest in the political ambition of anyone, neither does it propose to allow the schools to be used for political purposes, if it is within its power to prevent.

In all its actions, it has put forth every effort for efficiency and economy, and we stand ready at all times to do for the people of Carroll county everything that is just and right, and if any citizen has any suggestion to offer, we will cladly hear him. will gladly hear him.

MANY TREES GO TO WASTE

Federal Official Points Out What Might Be Gained by Proper Utilization of Paper.

The amount of waste paper collected in all of Great Britain was about 1,000 tons a week in 1914. By 1918 this had been increased to 6,000 tons per week, or an increase of approximately 500 per cent, said H. L. Baldensperger, chief of the waste reclamation service, United States department of commerce, in a speech to the Federation of Women's Clubs.

"Waste material is the protector of our natural resources. Waste paper, utilized in the manufacture of other paper material, serves as a substitute for wood pulp. It requires eight trees of mature growth to produce a ton of paper pulp. Every ton of waste paper which can be substituted will save eight trees for other uses. In our urban centers we send annually to the dump approximately 13 tons of usable waste material for every 1,000 inhabitants, and 20 per cent of this tonnage is made up of waste paper.

"Based upon the approximation of the present population of our country, we are sending annually to the dump at least 150,000 tons of waste paper, or twice as much paper as was collected in all of Great Britain in 1918. This amount represents the substituted power for at least 1,200,000 trees of mature growth."

NEVER-FAILING DEATH TEST

Discovery of French Physician That is Acknowledged to Be of Highest Importance.

Uncertainty as to whether a person be alive or dead is especially great on the battlefield, and prompt decision in such cases is far more important than in civil life. Dr. A. Terson has just recommended to the French Academy of Medicine a new test, those already known having proved insufficient. The best of these latter has been the injection of fluorescein, as devised by Icard. But even this is uncertain, for in some cases men who are still alive do not show the green coloration of the whites of their eyes following injection, which the test is supposed to produce.

Doctor Terson recommends placing In the eye a minute quantity of a 33 per cent solution of dionin (ethyl-morphine), glycerin. If death has already taken place, nothing happens, but if the man has the slightest trace of life still in him the white of his eyes will immediately turn purplish-red and swell, but this inflammation will disappear rapidly and leave no ill effect.

Test of Sanity.

In the case of a very brutal murder, anger at the deed will sometimes causa a jury to reject the clearest evidence that the perpetrator was insane. The late Lord Kingsburgh, better known as Sir J. H. A. Macdonald (formerly lord justice clerk of Scotland), whose death was announced a short time ago, could give a striking example. I once week they were penniless, and came to not only convicted, but added a rider affirming that the prisoner was sane. The man was hopelessly mad. The doctors sent to see him were satisfied of out. A crucial test applied was that while one of them put his finger lightly on the pulse, the other suddenly said: 'By the by, Miller, when is it you are to be hanged?' There was not a tremor or a change of countenance or acceleration of the pulse, and, looking up, he said, quite simply, 'I think It's Tuesday week, if I'm not mistak-

1918 Cement Output Low.

Complete statistics of the output of hydraulic cement in 1918 compiled under the direction of Ernest F. Burchard of the United States geological survey, indicate a marked decrease from the output in 1917 and show that the production of Portland and other cements in 1918 was the lowest since

The decrease in output was the effect of the war restrictions imposed by the government upon fuel supplies, transportation facilities, labor and private construction in general.

Scotland Turning to Peace.

In Scotland the progress from war to peace is proceeding at an active pace. One firm is now specializing in the manufacture of internal combustion engines suitable for fishing boats, a class of machinery mainly imported before the war. In the northeast a munition factory has turned to the manufacture of chocolate-making machinery, an industry formerly claimed by Germany, while in Glasgow toy making has superseded war material and gives employment to numbers of discharged soldiers.

A Little Talk About Surplus

'Royal Cord'

"SURPLUS" IS MORE THAN A RAINY-DAY FUND. IT IS AN EVIDENCE OF GOOD MANAGEMENT

In the case of a Bank, a railroad, or a business institution, a large surplus means that the mangement is wise enough not to distribute all the profits in the form of dividends, but to reserve a portion for future use-it may be for emergencies, or it may be simply to invest in material, real estate, or something else requiring capital, and the possession of a surplus renders it unnecessary to borrow the money.

Every individual ought to have a surplus in the form of a savings account. It is exactly the same with the individual as with the corporation-his surplus indicates that his personal expenses have been kept so well within his income that there is something left over. It also shows that he has not used it all up in "dividends" of pleasure, but like a wise business man has "salted" some of it down for the

For State Senator for Carroll County

To the Voters of Carroll County:

Owing to the many demands made by my friends over the county, regardless of political affiliation, I hereby announce my candidacy for election to the State Senate, subject to the Republican Primaries.

In making this announcement, I refer the people of my county to my past record, both in the House and in the Senate of Maryland. Thanking the people of my county for the honors they have conferred upon me, by twice electing me to the House, and one term in the Senate, I again appeal to you for your support.

If nominated at the coming Primary and elected in November, I promise to discharge the many duties of my office for the best interests, both for the people of my county and the State of Maryland. For these reasons, and many others, which I will make public later, I again appeal to you for your support.

SELF CONTROL (Temperance).

LESSON TEXT-Daniel 1:8-21. GOLDEN TEXT-Every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in ADDITIONAL MATERIAL Romans 14:

JUNIOR TOPIC—The story of a boy who became a strong man.

INTERMEDIATE TOPIC — Learning self-mastery.
SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—Self-control the secret of success.

It is somewhat strange that the lesson committee should select this Scripture as a temperance lesson, for it says nothing about temperance as ordinarily understood. Total abstinence from intoxicating liquor should be the law of every Christian's life, but it is not so taught in this Scrip-

I. Daniel Tested (vv. 5-7). Daniel, while a tender youth, was torn from home ties and made a captive in a foreign land to be trained for service at the royal court. In order to be of the largest service it was necessary that he be brought to love the king and nation, and be detached from his own people and religion. To accomplish this they-

1. Appointed him a daily provision of the king's meat and wine (v. 5). This was for a twofold purpose: (1) To gain the good will of Daniel and his friends. Such recognition would encourage them to give themselves up to the king's service. (2) To supply them with food deemed suitable for their physical and mental develop-To partake of the food offered was against Daniel's religion. His conscience would not allow him to partake thereof. Doubtless the meat and wine had connection with heathen

2. Changed name (v. 7). The object of this was to obliterate mational and religious connection, and to identify them with the heathen Daniel, which means "God people. Daniel, which means "God is my Judge," was changed to Belteshazzar, meaning Bel's prince; Hananiah, which means "The gift of Jehovah," to Shadrach, meaning illumined by the sun god Rak; Mishael. which means "Who is as God," to Meshach, meaning who is like the goddess Sheshach; Azariah, which means "Jehovah is our help," to Abed-nego, meaning the servant of Nego. Behind this change of names was the attempt of Satan to wipe from the minds of these young men the name of the true God and to cause them to lose their place of separation. II. Daniel Standing the Test (vv.

Though a captive in a foreign land, Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the king's meat and wine. His home training was such that in this trying nou he had the decision of character to stand firm for his conviction. He obeyed the dictates of his conscience. While unflinchingly loyal to God he did not lose his gentlemanly courtesy. He requested to be tested ten days in the food which the law of his God allowed, agreeing to abide by the results. Loyalty to God and conscience need not interfere with gentlemanly behavior.

III. Daniel's Reward (vv. 15-21).

1. Physical health (v. 15). Godly and temperate living pays. The king's meat and wine would have been very palatable, but to have partaken would have been a compromise with his conscience. The exercise of self-control in this matter kept his conscience pure, and also improved his physical health.

2. Mental growth (vv. 17-20). He was ten times the superior of his as-mociates. 3. Socially (v. 19). He stood before the king. He not only was next to the king, but became president of the college of wise men, and prime minister of the empire, continuing through several dynasties (v. 21).

4. Spiritually (v. 17). God rewealed to him Nebuchadnezzar's dream and gave him visions stretching across the history of the world.

The secret of Daniel's success was (1) conscientiousness; (2) loyalty to God; (3) decision of character; (4) prayerfulness; (5) diligence; (6) cour-

Our Heavenly Father.

All of heaven and all of earth cannot contain God. There is something of himself left for the hearts of men. Just as the water which spills out of the full bucket is as good as any of the water in the bucket, so that part of God which dwells in the hearts of men is just as much of God as that of himself which dwells in heaven.

Living Influence. Whatever definitions men have given of religion, I find none so accurately descriptive of it as this; that it is such a belief of the Bible as maintains a living influence on the heart and life.—Cecil.

Result of Christian Temper. Peace is the proper result of the Christian temper. It is the great kindness which our religion doth us, that it brings us to a settledness of mind, and a consistency within ourselves .-Bishop Patrick.

August 31 The Christian Challenge to Life Service.

Matthew 4:18-22
Peter, Andrew, James and John were engaged in their ordinary occupations when Jesus called them. The record of their response is very simple-"they straightway left their nets and followed him;" "And they immediaely left the ship and their father, and followed him." They turned from everything that might have hindered the fulfillment of the divine purpose in their lives. And this is the condition necessary in order to meet the Chirstian challenge to life service—the turning from all that would hinder the fulfillment of the divine purpose in and through us.

For this we need a right mind and a right will, a right mind to understand God's purpose and a right will to submit our lives altogether to Him. The power of God is pledged to those who embrace His purpose, and yield to His will. This constitutes proper adjustment, which is the condition of power. Neither one of itself will suffice. If we know the purpose of God, but withhold the consent of the will to that purpose, we are refusing the Christian challenge to life service. If on the other hand we are yielded to If on the other hand we are yielded to God but perplexed and confused in regard to His purpose for us, we shall find ourselves unable to enter into a life service. In His complete work, the Spirit will bring both of these matters before us—the discernment of His purpose, and the acceptance of His will.

His will.

For the four men who were called in our Scripture lesson, "following Him" was something of a venture. They did not see all the way to the end of the journey. This is not necessary. They did see the first step and by faith they took that step. It was a launching out into the unknown, but with faith in Him who called them. They accepted the challenge to life They accepted the challenge to life service with the understanding and the heart and the whole world has been blessed thereby. They followed, and He made them to become fishers

How Freak of the Rio Grande Caused Texan Farmer to Move Into , Carranza's Land.

One of the most remarkable cases of kidnaping ever known in the lower border region of Texas has come to the attention of the United States and Mexican authorities.

Jose Cantu, a peaceful land owner and valley farmer, who has lived all his life in Texas, was bodily transferred to Mexico by a recent rise in the Rio Grande. Along with him went 400 acres of his most productive land and many head of live stock.

Under past decisions of the international boundary commission the center of the bed of the Rio Grande is the dividing line between the United States and Mexico. This shifting of the course of the erratic river places Mr. Cantu and much of his property on the Mexico side of the stream and, according to the Mexican authorities, he is now amenable to the laws and taxes of that country. Upon Mr. Cantu's transplanted farm are a number of homes of employees who were also American voters until the river changed its course.

For several years the Rio Grande had been threatening to divert its bed to a new route. With each succeeding flood it cut a deeper channel until it has now practically abandoned its old bed and is flowing through the farm of Mr. Cantu, with more than 400 acres of his cultivated land on the Mexican side.

To further complicate matters the Mexican customs authorities are insisting that Mr. Cantu shall pay duty on his live stock and other property that have found their way to that country by no consent of his. A. P. Corbin, consulting engineer of the international boundary commission, has found that the stream changed its bed at other places but without involving the transfer of much real estate from one country to the other.-Hidalgo (Tex.) Correspondence in New York Sun.

BEATINGS OF HUMAN HEART

How Man's Primary Organ Might Be Utilized, If One Could Only Discover Method.

It is an astounding fact that the average heart beats 36,000,000 of strikes every twelve months, working, resting, or sleeping. In that period it does work sufficient to fire with their present velocity a dozen of the largest projectiles that were used in the war, or to lift a light cruiser clean out of the water, says London Tit-Bits. If such is the energy of a single man's heart, what is the aggregate force of 3,000,000 men in heartbeats? If it were concentrated into one explosion it would be sufficient to destroy utterly the Kiel canal.

Such an explosion, operating in a moment of time, has never been engineered by man, although nature has exceeded it many times in volcanic ener-

To put it another way, the hearts of 3,000,000 men force a broad river of blue, 900 feet wide and 6 feet deep over a course of seven miles in a single hour, and in the course of a day as far as from Liverpool to Edinburgh, and in a week as far as from Paris to Constantinople!

HOW SCIENTISTS KNOW WHAT ELEMENTS MAKE UP SUN AND STARS. -When you read in a scientific book that the sun is made of certain substances, that the stars Aldebaran, Sirius, Capella, etc., are made of other substances, you wonder how this can be known with such certainty; for nobody has ever been there to see. Nevertheless our knowledge of the com-position of the sun and stars is almost as certain as that of the elements that go to make up our own earth. And it is all due to the spectroscope.

Isabel M. Lewis of the United States naval observatory tells in Electrical Experimenter just how it is done. When a ray of sunlight passes through a a spectroscope (which consists essentially of a glass prism or chain of prisms), it is broken up into its component parts, which arrange themselves like a rainbow, violet, indigo, blue, green, yellow, orange, red, and these colors are crossed by many fine dark lines called Frauenhofer or absorption lines. The shortest wave lengths are in the violet and the longest in the red; below the red are the infra-red rays, invisible to the naked eye but capable of being photographed on specially sensitized plates. An incandescent body under high pressure gives up a band of pure color unbroken by cross lines. If, however, cooler gases are between us and the source of the continuous spectrum they absorb from the light beyond just those rays of which they themselves consist, and as a result the band of color is crossed by dark lines. Every chemical element has its own lines in the spectrum, always in the same So it is easy to identify the element merely by observing the position of the Frauenhofer or absorption line in the spectrum. If the intervening gases be hotter than the source of light, the lines they make on the spectrum will be bright instead of dark, but their position will be unchanged.

SENSATIONS IN LOST LIMBS

Why Persons Who Have Suffered Amputation Should Experience These Is Hard to Reason.

It is a fact, perhaps unfamiliar to the average reader, that the illusion of "phantom limbs"—to borrow a felicitous expression from Dr. Weir Mitchell -far from being rare or exceptional, is almost universal among persons who have undergone an amputation. Among ninety cases, including a great variety of amputations, Mitchell found only four in which there had never been an illusion of this kind.

One of the best discussions of this topic is that given by Weir Mitchell in his book, "Injuries of Nerves," published in 1872. The literature, however, goes back to the sixteenth century, when the phenomenon was well described by Ambroise Pare. In recent times Doctor Charcot has given some prominence to the subject.

The fact that a great deal has been written on this subject does not, by any means, imply that it is widely familiar. We confess, says the Scientific American, to being consumed with curiosity to know why the great war has not brought forth a flood of stories concerning pains and other sensations in missing limbs.
