FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1920.

All articles on this page are either original, or properly credited. This has always been a fixed rule with this Office, and we suggest the adoption of it by our exchanges.

A Denver paper recently offered $25,000 for a cure for the "flu." What this country needs most is a cure for "hyper-theoritis."

Wonder whether Lord Grey is affected with "burning of the ears" about this time? It will be in order now to name a brand of American cigars after him, since he can't be nominated for the Senate.

So, the Dutch will not give up the Kaiser! If they want to make a collection over there, why not send them our Berkman and Goldmans? As we would rather they should go to a country that will not permit their being taken away.

Just why the newspapers should feature such an off-color private family affair as the Spiker case, is unexplainable on any ground that its ventilation will have a good influence. There are always cases of the same general character, varying only in details, about which it is generally conceded that "the least said, the better."

Will somebody try to make it clear to Gompers & Co., that they represent all of the people of the United States, except something over 100,000,000 who are sticking around, mostly in the neighborhood of grub factories—out in the country. Mr. G usually argues about like the Irishman, who wondered why they didn't build the cities out in the country.

What next? "The Board of Temperance Prohibition and Morals" of the M. E. church, has issued an appeal to women "to refrain from the use of tobacco, in the name of the country's welfare." We knew that the women were preparing to enter politics, but we did not know they were so conspicuously advanced in one of the "mannish" habits that attaches to the political game. The fact is, we thought they were mostly "anti" tobacco, while being "pro" suffrage. The good Methodist brethren even go so far as to say that the use of tobacco by women produces more serious results than among men. Perhaps votes for women, may also be in the same class?

Are There "Slackers" Now?

Many charges have been made, both in and out of Congress, that many ex-Army and ex-Navy men are being kept on the pay-rolls, and that jobs are being made for them, as sort of post-war rewards, and that these men render no actual service of value to the country. Perhaps there is not a great deal of truth in these charges, nor in the parallel charges that various war activities are still being kept going, rather than enter into a wholesale "government job" house-cleaning at this time.

Evidence supporting such charges is hard to get, because there is naturally always "somebody higher up" to render expert testimony as to the need of all who are on government pay-rolls, and this testimony is so much in harmony with the wishes of Congressmen, and others, whose chief job is to help care for their "constituents," that it is difficult for the country to secure exact information, and consequently the needed relief—if any is actually due.

We trust that so far as our army and navy boys are concerned, they will not, to any great extent, "loaf on jobs" after serving the country so well, even though they may feel a justification in doing so because of their very poor pay when actually in the service. There is great need, just now, for as high a degree of moral patriotism as when the war was on, and being a "slacker" now, is just as disreputable, in fact, though not so readily punishable, as when the country was recruiting an army.

The whole country needs a brave big army, now, to fight for a readjustment of its own industries. Men who came out of the conflict, able in body, should not permit themselves to be pensioners, unjustifiably, but should as energetically and honestly take up work for "our country," as they did before they became more or less unfit for civilian work and responsibilities, by becoming part of our armed force.

The claim that not more than 1 percent of the boys who left the farms have returned to them, is little short of a dishonorable fact—to be attached to the boys themselves—for they must know, not only how badly the farms back home need them, but how badly the whole country needs them to speed-up food production. If the fact be true, as stated, and there is no greater movement of help "back to the farm" then it is folly for anybody to expect a decrease in the cost of living, but rather the acceptance of the inevitable truth that living cost—so far as food is concerned—is bound to increase.

We do not believe that the 1 percent return argument with reference to farmer soldier boys, is true. We are sure that it is not true of Carroll county; but we are equally sure that too many of our county boys have followed the lure of the cities, and that after a while they will regret it. Perhaps, like children, they must be burned before they will dread fire. Perhaps the whole country must have a wreck, and shaking-up, before the truth becomes clear that only by work shall men live; and that the pursuit of "soft snaps" is merely a game that must have an end—and a disastrous one for many.

Advertising Candidates Free.

There can be little said in favor of the use by a newspaper, of prepared copy, or ready to print plate, concerning the Presidential candidate specially favored by the newspaper. In such case, the editor may feel like "boosting" all he can, and creating all the public sentiment he can, and may be enthusiastic enough to do so without pay; but, it is unfair, just the same, while the use of such propaganda, just to "fill up," and because it is "free" is a tremendously weak and unjustifiable policy.

Several promotion bureaus—perhaps a half dozen—are industriously engaged trying to get free publicity, with which to manufacture public sentiment. "Free," in so far as paying for space is concerned, but costly, in the matter of paying for ready to print plates. Here is where the "barrel" in politics, comes in. Candidates with great wealth can finance such booster schemes, while those in moderate circumstances can not; and the scheme is as unfair on the part of the candidate, as it is on the part of the publisher who "falls for it."

Publishing the cut of a candidate, and a simple biography, may be allowable, as there is a certain amount of news justification in connection with it; but, this is not the extent of the plans of the propagandist, which are quite apt to include boosting efforts, week after week, accompanied with all the ginger and hurrah possible. All such efforts are, in fact, contrary to law, because they represent "advertising," not clearly designated as such—which the law requires.

What's Wrong With Us?

It has well been said that we are a spend-thrift and pleasure-loving people. We certainly throw a good deal of money away every year on non-essentials. A whole lot of it goes for things that do not benefit us in the long run, but we have been at it so long that it is hard to break off from the habit. Some amusements come high, really higher than the cost of living, and we all know that is high enough. We pay our President $75,000 a year, which is right and proper, for the President cannot keep up the dignity of the nation on a less sum. We allow our Congressmen $7,500 per annum, which they allege they earn, but we will not discuss the allegation. I have known some Congressmen who didn't earn the half of it, but I am not going to dub Congressmen non-essentials.

Just now, I am told, a movie actor is getting a million a year and another half of that enormous sum. A baseball star is paid more than we pay the Chief Justice of our Supreme Court, and a cartoonist commands a bigger salary than the commander of our armies. What is the matter with us, anyhow? Are we going pleasure mad? The other day a prize hog sold for $85,000, a sum that would have saved thousands of children from starvation. An $85,000 hog may be good for breeding purposes, but he makes no better sausages than a common porker, probably not as good.

On the other hand, our school teachers are poorly paid; some of our best ministers have to subsist on meagre salaries and the essentials of life. Such a religion and education, are kicked into the shade by the non-essentials. It costs more to buy a race horse now-a-days than it does to build a church or a school house. We are literally throwing our money at the birds. And a great deal of that money comes out of the pockets of the moderate classes and, knowing this, the said moderate classes keep dropping their hard-earned cash into the rat hole, to the gratification of the "rat." I fear it will be a long time before a halt will be called upon our foolish extravagance.

We are not going to learn wisdom until we are at the end of the string. When a woman pays $85,000 for a cloak, as one did the other day, we will have to wait a long while before all the fools are under the ground. I am not saying that those who have the money have no right to spend it, but it sets a poor example to the less wealthy of us. It is usual for the poor to ape the rich, and when the rich set the example, they will have followers. Some people never learn retrenchment. They have no idea what retrenchment means. I fancy the Prodigal Son belonging to this class, and he called a halt on himself when it was too late.

I don't mean that we should stint ourselves until we become misers, but we should keep out of the catalogue of fools. We chase too many rain-bows and never find the proverbial bag of gold at the end of any of them. What inspiration is there in a movie actor who draws a million a year for his fantastic quips? He evidently thinks that the people like to be humbugged, and he seems to have been built for that special purpose. It is said that the Emperor Caligula of Rome fed his horse gilded oats. Probably the wretch could stand it, but the cost of the provender came off of his overtaxed subjects. The millions that the rich are throwing away on needless luxuries are filched from the pockets of the under-classes. And you and I are paying our share of it, Mr. Reader. The vast sums made by the contractors during the late war came from the purses of the tax-payers of American. We were robbed right and left and not one of the thieves has been brought to justice.

Where all this extravagance is going to end, the Lord knows. We talk of the high cost of living and yet we go on and patronize the men who are keeping it up, robbing us in broad daylight. The other day one of these sharks asked me 10c for an apple that didn't cost him 3c. I could have gotten along very well without the apple, but it looked rosy and red, and so I bought it. I should have kicked myself afterward, but I didn't, and I know that profiteer laughed to think how he pulled the wool over my eyes. I mistook the grocer for an object of charity.

Benjamin Franklin was the great apostle of Thrift. He believed in the doctrine that a "penny saved is a penny earned," and practiced it all his life. While he didn't die rich, he lived comfortably and had no cares to trouble him. He chased no rain-bows. A little in a Savings Bank grows all the time. We don't have to be extravagant to be happy. Another thing. There were 68,000 girls missing in the United States last year. Why? Extravagance can account for a large per cent. of this number and the mistakes of their parents in raising them, can account for many more. When children are educated to thrift and industry, the pitiable number will visibly decrease. But why pursue the subject? To get down to brass tacks, when we cease to spend our money for that which is not bread, we will become a people who will be fit to inhabit this earth. And not until then.—Harbaugh, in Middletown Register.

For the Children.
Too much care cannot be exercised in selecting a cough medicine for children. It should be pleasant to take, contain no harmful drug and most effectual in curing their coughs and colds. Long experience has shown that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets these conditions. It is a favorite with many mothers.

Only Cure Work.

The only cure for the ills of the four years of fighting is work. Doubling everybody's pay and halving everybody's working day will not solve the problem. It merely boosts prices. Idleness is a luxury for which society is taxed, whether it wills it or not. Raising wages to meet the higher cost of living is like chasing oneself round a post. One merely winds himself without getting anywhere.
Man has never yet been able to lift himself by his own bootstraps. When the world is short on production of every essential commodity the problem will not be solved by curtailing production. Hard work, intelligent application to humdrum duties, the delivery of a full day's labor for a day's pay, on the one hand; economy in personal and public expenditures, thrift in the handling of one's funds, elimination of extravagance, on the other had—that is what the world needs do to be saved industrially.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Periodic Bilious Attacks.
Persons subject to periodic bilious attacks will observe that their appetite fails them just before an attack. That is, they do not really crave food but eat because it is meal time. If they will eat only a light meal and no meat, then take two of Chamberlain's Tablets the attack may be avoided.

Counting it only dollars and cents, how much did that last cold cost you? A man may not always stop work when he has a cold, but perhaps it would be better if he did. John Baumgardner and sister, Mary, of near Emmitsburg, spent Sunday with their sister, Mrs. Russell Ohler.

HARNEY.

Mrs. Dr. F. T. Elliot is slightly improved at present, and has with her during her illness her mother, Mrs. B. F. Carson, of Connellsville, Pa., and her sister, Mrs. F. A. McIntire, of Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

Mrs. Chas. Mayers, of Littlestown, spent a few days with her brother, Dr. F. T. Elliot.

John Sentz moved to his new home, on Thursday.

Those on the sick list are Mr. and Mrs. Truman Bowers, Chas. Engle, and Mrs. F. T. Elliot.

Misses Esther Fleagle and Elsie Leatherman went to Hanover, to work.

Chronic Constipation.

There are people who never have a movement of the bowels without it is produced by a cathartic. Most of them have brought that condition on themselves by the use of mineral waters and strong cathartics that take too much water out of the system and aggravate the disease they are meant to relieve. A mild laxative tonic like Chamberlain's Tablets affords a gentle movement of the bowels that you hardly realize has been produced by a medicine, and their use is not so likely to be followed by constipation.

CARD OF THANKS.

I hereby extend my heartfelt thanks to all friends and neighbors who so kindly rendered their condolences during the illness and following the death of my wife, WM. M. OHLER, JR.

DIED.

MRS. ANNA KATHERINE KOONS. Mrs. Anna Katherine, wife of Mr. Edward Koons, of near Baust Church, died on Sunday evening, Feb. 8, 1920, from pneumonia, aged 45 years. Mrs. Kiser was a son of the late William Kiser, of Taneytown district, and will be remembered by many. He was a brother of the late J. Frank Kiser, of Harney; and John W. Kiser, living in Hanover. He went west, from Taneytown, when quite a young man. A sister, Mrs. Aaron Zentz, lives in Baltimore.

In Sad but Loving Remembrance of my dear husband, DAVID A. VAUGHN, who died February 7th., 1917.

Call not back, the dear departed. Anchored safe where storms are o'er, On the border land I left him. Soon to meet and part no more. When I leave this world of care, We shall find our missing there, In our Father's mansion fair. BY HIS WIFE.

Making Rabbits Profitable. The biological survey has frequently been called upon to help western farmers in coping with the rabbit pest. In view of the probable economic value of rabbit meat and fur in the coming few years, the energies of the farmers and ranchmen will be directed to the conservation of this important resource.

Already a number of establishments for collecting, dressing, canning and shipping rabbit meat are in operation in western centers. As in Australia the transition of the wild rabbit in this country from its status as a pest to a source of profit is assured, it is believed.—Thrift Magazine.

How Fish Aided Solomon. According to the Koran of Mahomet King Solomon recovered his throne by a fish restoring him the talisman ring by virtue of which he held dominion over all the devils.

Still more ancient is the recovery of Sakuntala's ring by a fish, which thus enabled King Dasyanta to marry the lady of his love. From the fancy of the Aryan poet has descended an immense progeny of treasure-retrieving fishes, and the ring of Sakuntala, like the magic circlet of the Persian story, has begotten innumerable rings exactly like itself.

Extemporizing. "That meeting of actors led to some confused discussion." "Yes," replied Mr. Stormington Barnes. "After all, it is best to call in an author now and then to help out with the dialogue."

The Trouble. "I told you so! I warned you that you could not believe half he said." "Oh, I knew that before. The trouble was that I believed the wrong half."

120,000 STAND IN BREAD LINE

More Than 1,000,000 Face Death Is Message Brought by Miss Dakesian.

Imagine a bread line of 120,000 famished people waiting for twenty-four hours a day for the dole of food that is the sole barrier between them and death from starvation. That is the situation in Alexandropol, a city in Russian Armenia, according to Miss Hermine Dakesian, a pretty Armenian girl, one of the survivors of four years of the horrors of Turkish massacres and deportations. Saved by an American woman, she has come to this country and entered Oberlin College.

MISS HERMINE DAKESIAN.

With her came fourteen other Armenian girls in charge of Miss Adelaide S. Dwight, a Near East Relief worker, who has been instrumental in helping to save hundreds of thousands of their people from death by starvation. Miss Dwight, who is not given to exaggeration and has seen conditions at first hand, says more than a million people are facing death by starvation in Armenia and will perish unless America aids.

Herself an eyewitness to the slaughter of hundreds of helpless women and children by the Turks and a victim of the deportations, Miss Dakesian, an unusually pretty girl, says there is untold suffering in Armenia and Syria. She praises the efforts of the Near East Relief, formerly the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, to save as many of these people as possible. At Erivan, the capital of the Armenian republic, one hot meal is given out daily, and by this relief alone the city's death rate has been cut from a thousand daily to an average of twenty. At Alexandropol, where the refugees from Turkish Armenia were driven by thousands, the situation is appalling, Miss Dakesian says. It is to avert these wholesale deaths that Near East Relief is making a nation-wide appeal for funds.

BOY SCOUTS IN YOUNG ARMENIA

Strangest Troop of All in Constantinople Being Made Into Good Citizens.

American Boy Scout training is aiding prominently in the rehabilitation of hundreds of little Armenian boy refugees from the Turkish massacres, who have been organized into a scout troop in Constantinople as the solution of one of the most troublesome problems that confronted the Near East Relief workers in that city.

Hounded and driven for four years, having seen their parents and relatives slaughtered or worse by Turks and Kurds and themselves forced to beg, steal or do almost anything to eke out the barest existence, these boys had completely lost their moral sense when they finally found refuge in the Near East Relief orphanages.

The boys had been clad in rags for so long that they had forgotten how to take care of clothes. This was a tragedy when the Near East Relief had need of every pair of shoes and of every suit of clothes for new boys constantly coming in.

Then the boys were organized as Boy Scouts and given their uniforms. They began to be careful of their school clothes as well as of their uniforms.

They had been so often hungry they had come to steal without compunction. When they first entered the orphanages they continued to steal. One boy stole a purse from his American teacher. For two or three weeks after he became a Boy Scout he was obviously uneasy. One day he came to her with the purse in his hand.

"I don't want to give it back," he said reluctantly. "But I have to. I'm a Boy Scout now."

To form more scout troops to transform these little unfortunates into good citizens, is one of the reasons why the Near East Relief, 1 Madison avenue, New York city, is making its appeal for funds.

Can I Make Cider and Vinegar Under the Prohibition Law?

Because there is a lot of misunderstanding regarding what one can do under the Prohibition Law, known as the Volstead Law, the following questions are answered, and the answers are based on the law itself:

CAN I MAKE APPLE, PEAR OR ANY OTHER FRUIT CIDER?
Yes. (Section 3 of Law.)

CAN I KEEP THIS CIDER UNTIL IT BECOMES HARD OR INTOXICATING FOR BEVERAGE USE FOR MYSELF AND FRIENDS?
No. (Section 3).

CAN I KEEP CIDER UNTIL IT TURNS INTO VINEGAR AND USE THE VINEGAR FOR MY OWN CONSUMPTION OR TO SELL?
Yes, provided a permit is obtained from the Prohibition Commissioner, which permit will be issued upon request and for which no charge will be made.

CAN I MAKE SWEET CIDER TO SELL WITHOUT SECURING A PERMIT?
Yes.

CAN I MAKE AND USE CIDER WITHOUT OBTAINING A PERMIT AND USE AND SELL THE SAME IF I ADD TO IT BENZOATE OF SODA OR OTHER SUBSTANCES WHICH WILL PREVENT A FERMENTATION?
Yes.

CAN WHISKEY (DISTILLED SPIRITS, ALCOHOL, RUM, BRANDY, ETC.) BE USED OR BOUGHT OR SOLD FOR MEDICINAL PURPOSES?
Yes.

IF I OWN WHISKEY OR OTHER INTOXICATING LIQUORS, CAN I KEEP THE SAME ON MY PREMISES FOR MY OWN USE AND FOR THAT OF MY BONAFIDE GUESTS?
Yes, provided it is consumed on the premises.

CAN MY HOME BE SEARCHED AT ANY TIME TO SEE IF I HAVE ANY LIQUOR STORED ON MY PREMISES?
No, unless it is proven that you have been selling intoxicating liquors in which case the same right to search homes is in effect as the right to search anyone's house if stolen goods are thought to be hidden in it, but, in the case of liquor, it must first be proven that you have sold it before search can be made.

IF THE LEGISLATURE OF MARYLAND DOES NOT PASS A LAW PROVIDING FOR THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE PROHIBITION ACT, WHAT WILL HAPPEN?
The Government will enforce the law, with the aid of special officers to be appointed by them and upon conviction the guilty parties are subject to a sentence to the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta or Leavenworth.

IF MARYLAND SHOULD PASS A LAW ENFORCING THE PROHIBITION LAW, WHAT WOULD BE THE CONDITION?
The regular state authorities, such as the police, sheriffs, and constables would enforce the law and the case could be tried in our local courts instead of in the Federal Courts and the punishment would be the same as that of any offense against any law in the State.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF THE MARYLAND LEGISLATURE PASSED THE 5 PER CENT. BEER LAW?
Nothing would happen except to make the State and the 1920 Legislature look ridiculous for passing a law which would be unconstitutional, and which the Government officials would entirely ignore, by prosecuting those who manufacture 5 per cent. beer against the provisions of an Act of Congress.

CARROLL RECORD

THE LADY OF THE CARDS

By FLORA A. MONTY

(© 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
A look of quickening interest brightened the middle-aged face of Andrew Graves as a long gray envelope slipped from the pile of letters through which he was glancing.

He tore it open eagerly and drew out a card on which was a water-color sketch of a woman's head. The faintest odor of apple blossoms clung to the interesting trifle.

Graves studied it intently. It was the fifth he had received that week. Beginning Monday morning, one had arrived each day in the first pile of mail brought to his desk. When the first one came he had been but slightly concerned. The second made him curious, and the third had aroused a deep desire to learn their source. The face appealed to him, rousing vaguely some dormant and disconnected memories of his youth.

Opening a drawer in his desk, he took out the ones he had received earlier in the week. Spreading the cards in a row, he made them the objects of his most attentive consideration. The same face was sketched on all, but each represented a different expression and pose. No word of any kind accompanied them.

He settled back in his chair and sat in quiet thought for some moments. The perfume rising to him recalled the early days of his boyhood, the happiest of which were spent in the old orchard at springtime, when the trees were laden with the fragrant pink and white blossoms. And always the lady of the cards seemed to be with him, romping with the group of children who were his companions.

His usually disciplined mind revolted from its training many times throughout the day, and the hour of closing found him poring over the mysterious pictures once again.

He finally glanced toward the window and the evidence of coming twilight swept away his dreams and reminded him of things to be done before he could keep a dinner engagement that night. He reluctantly arose, replaced the cards in the envelopes and laid them carefully away in the drawer, then hurriedly left the office. Throughout the evening he had a sense of disappointment. It was as if he had been very near a pleasant discovery and had been suddenly drawn back.

Before he left his hostess said: "I had hoped to have you meet an artist this evening, Mr. Graves. She is an unusually clever woman. At the last moment she was detained."

Andrew Graves frowned. "Perhaps I am fortunate, Mrs. Bowers. Really, since my new home is in process of building, I've been pestered at all times of the day and night by artists who want to do the decorations for that American room of mine. I've taken to refusing to see any of them. I'll look up my own," and he turned abruptly away.

As his car was speeding homeward there flashed into his mind an idea, preposterous, perhaps, but insistent. It connected the cards in the gray envelopes with the artist who had failed to appear. He leaned forward, half yielding to an impulse to go back and demand her name from Mrs. Bowers. Then he decided to go on home, secretly ashamed of himself for allowing his head to be turned by a pretty picture.

But the idea remained and kept first place in his thoughts, with the result that Saturday morning found him at his desk a full hour earlier than he had been for years. Impatiently he ran over his letters. No gray envelope was there! He was chagrined. To have gone so far out of his usual routine as to get down at that hour and then be fooled! He looked his mail over again, but with the same result.

The morning was full of trouble for all the force of employees. Nothing suited, and Tommy, the office boy, dropped his jaunty bearing whenever he carried a card to his employer.

The tenth caller had been turned away despite the urgency of his errand. Tommy once more entered the sanctum. Graves looked up angrily. "Didn't I tell you," he began, but suddenly stopped as his eyes noted the gray envelope the boy carried. "Where did you get that?" he demanded. "Lady outside, sir, sent it in." "A lady! Send her in at once." He opened the envelope the boy handed him. The same face was on the card it enclosed, but somehow the expression was almost triumphant.

As he studied it the caller entered, and he started to his feet. He stared, but justifiably, for there was the lady of the cards, and the scent of apple blossoms was filling the room. She was tall and slender, and wore a gown of silvery gray. There was a touch of pink about it that matched the bloom of her cheeks.

"You have come," he said simply. "I felt that you must."

"Then the advertisement was successful?" A momentary gleam of mirth sparkled in the brown eyes.

"The advertisement? Oh, the gray envelopes—the cards? What do they mean? But be seated, please. I am rude." He was plainly bewildered.

"I am an artist, Mr. Graves. I have attempted to see you before, but you were never at leisure, so I adopted the card method of getting you acquainted with my work. I hoped I might secure an interview that way."

"You are wonderfully clever," he said slowly, in undisguised admiration. "You have gained your purpose. I shall be glad to give you a commission."

The lady in gray said nothing, but her smile took him back to the days of his boyhood.

"I want some landscapes, not in oil, but in your charming water colors. I want them to embody certain things." And in a softened voice he described his old home, the apple orchard and the spring by the roadside. "I do not expect them to be absolutely true to life as it was then. But it was my childhood home. Let your work be a type. Do with them as you like. Somehow I feel sure you can make exactly what I want."

"Thank you, Mr. Graves. I shall not disappoint you." And she was gone before he realized that he did not know her name or place of residence.

The next month was interminably long. There was no word from his artist, nor could he learn one thing about her. Mrs. Bowers, though besieged with inquiries, refused an answer.

At last, one day, another gray envelope came in the mail, and the hands that opened it trembled in their eagerness. Another card was in it, this time of a little girl of fourteen, with big brown eyes and waving hair. With a throb he recognized her as the little playmate of his early days who had always been with him in the orchard.

Just beneath the picture was written, "Call at 11 Grey terrace."

Exactly thirty minutes later Andrew Graves was ringing the bell at 11 Grey terrace. No one was in the room where he was shown to wait, but, hung against one wall were half a dozen daintily executed sketches of his old farm home, clear and true as the hand of mortal could make.

Hungry he gazed at them, and then turned to find the artist at his side. Without a word he took her in his arms and kissed her. She made no effort to release herself.

"Maris, I know you now! My little girl sweetheart! My sweetheart forever! Will you come to me when the apple blossoms are here again?" And she said that she would.

Weathercock Long in Use.

Weathercocks seem to date from early times. According to Duncange, the cock was originally devised as an emblem of clerical vigilance. The large tail of the cock was adapted to turn with the wind.

Many churches have for a vane the emblem of the saints to whom they are dedicated. St. Peter's, Cornhill, London, is surmounted with a key, St. Peter having the keys of heaven and hell.

St. Laurence has for a vane a gridiron, and St. Laurence at Norwich has the gridiron with the holy martyr extended upon the bars. A gilt ship in full sail is the vane upon St. Mildred's church in the Poultry.

St. Michael's, Queenshithe, has a ship, the hull of which will hold a bushel of grain, referring to the former traffic in corn at the hithe.

Many Holidays in December.

December, taking the world over, is a month of bank and public holidays. No less than 20 of the 31 days of the month are recognized somewhere as occasions for church fetes or cessation of business in celebration of local or national events.

Christmas, of course, is more widely observed as a holiday than any other, but even it is not recognized everywhere. Non-Christian peoples pay no attention to it, and in countries where the Greek Catholic church prevails, the old style Julian calendar is used, so that, while Christmas is observed as a church festival, it comes about two weeks later than in countries that use the Gregorian calendar.

The Ombu Tree.

The ombu tree on the South American pampas, says W. H. Hudson in Far Away and Long Ago, is a very singular tree, indeed, and being the only representative of tree vegetation natural to the soil, on these level plains, and having also many curious superstitions connected with it, it is a romance in itself. It belongs to the rare Phytolacca family, and has an immense girth—forty or fifty feet in some cases; at the same time the wood is so soft and spongy that it can be cut into with a knife, and is utterly unfit for firewood, for when cut it refuses to dry, but simply rots away like a ripe watermelon.

BETTER CHICKENS IN SOUTH

Propitious Climate Enables Owner to Produce Eggs to Better Advantage—Some Obstacles.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Increased interest in poultry raising in the general farming sections of the South, with purchase of much better stock, is reported by a specialist of the United States department of agriculture who recently investigated the status and activities of Old Mother Hen in Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. Producers are working not only to supply the home market but eggs are also being shipped from Mississippi, Alabama and Texas to Memphis, St. Louis, New York and other marketing centers.

The advantages of the South for poultry keeping are manifold, and include a propitious climate, which enables the flock owner to produce eggs to better advantage during the winter season, while he also can make use of simpler and cheaper houses than can his northern associates. Furthermore the favorable weather conditions in the South promote the feeding of green stuff to the hens practically the year around.

There are certain disadvantages, too, such as prevalence of insect pests, including mites, lice, and in some sections mosquitoes and stick-tight fleas, as well as the blue bug in parts of Texas. Furthermore southern markets are not high-paying consumers of locally produced eggs. This is particularly true in the resort section of Florida, where for many years the trade has been accustomed to import its eggs from the North and West. It does not readily transfer this business to local producers. In addition the southern market for eggs is usually "spotted," due to fluctuations in the tourist traffic.

During the heat of summer egg losses in the South aggregate a considerable sum, largely due to the development of fertile eggs. It is essential that southern producers exert every effort to produce and market only infertile eggs in order to control this source of loss. A common opinion prevails that the leghorns are particularly adapted to southern conditions, but according to the experience of the specialists of the United States department of agriculture southern poultrymen realize just as satisfactory results—and in many instances more favorable returns—from the maintenance of the heavier, general-purpose birds.

A number of failures in the poultry business on the part of newcomers in Florida, who embarked in specialized production of poultry products, are explained by the fact that most of them were unfamiliar with local conditions and started on too extensive a scale. A beginner in chicken raising in a new locality should always start on a small scale and expand his operations as he learns more about local conditions and as his returns from the business justify. For the man who is experienced in poultry raising and who will adapt himself to new conditions readily and not take excessive risks, and who is supplied with plenty of working capital the southern states apparently offer a fair opportunity.

WHITE-SHELLED EGG LAYERS

Fowls of Mediterranean Breeds Best Suited for This Purpose—Classed as Nonsitters.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Poultry of the Mediterranean or egg breeds are best suited for the production of white-shelled eggs. Representatives of this class are bred largely for the production of eggs rather than for meat production. Among the popular breeds of this class are: Leghorn, Minorca, Ancona, and Andalusian. One of the outstanding characteristics of the egg breeds is the fact that they are classed as nonsitters. That is, as a rule, they do not become broody and hatch their eggs. When fowls of this class are kept artificial incubation and brooding are usually employed.

MORE AND BETTER CHICKENS

Owner of Common Mongrel Flock Will Soon Apologize for Its Existence—Keep Pure-Breds.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It will not be long before the owner of a common mongrel flock will apologize for its existence. This is the opinion of the poultry-extension worker of the United States department of agriculture who is a leader in the campaign for more and better poultry on farms in south and southwestern Arkansas. In many parts of Arkansas the importance of better poultry and more efficient management is being recognized by progressive business men, commercial organizations, bankers and others and they are active in their moral and financial support in co-operating with the government and state extension forces in their efforts to convince the farmer that standard-bred poultry properly managed is a paying industry, and that the old barnyard mongrel hen must get out of the way for standard-bred, uniform flocks.

The county agent of Drew county has placed 50 pens of one male and four females each of pure-bred Banded Plymouth Rock and Rhode Island Reds on 50 farms, in charge of a boy and girl poultry-club member. The Monticello Chamber of Commerce and the banks of Monticello have advanced the money to purchase these pure-bred fowls and have assisted in their distribution. In addition to the 50 pens of chickens, over 100 sittings of pure-bred hatching eggs have been secured for the club boys and girls. The farm and home demonstration agents of Ashley, Union and Desha counties are busy with poultry-club work on farms and in the organization of poultry clubs. In each of these counties an effort is being made to double last year's poultry-club enrollments.

On March 12 the Southwestern Arkansas Poultry association was organized at Magnolia with 18 charter members. It is reported that practically every business man in the town will become a member and lend his influence and support for more and better poultry. Plans have been made to hold the state poultry show at Magnolia November 25 to 28, where the finest aristocrats of the barnyard will be on display competing for the coveted American Poultry association gold medal offered to only one association in each state.

KEEPING POULTRY IN TOWNS

Especially in Suburbs of Large Cities Families Should Keep Small Flocks of Hens.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When conditions render it feasible small flocks of poultry should be kept by families in villages, towns and especially in the suburbs of large cities. The need for this extension of poultry raising is particularly great where consumption exceeds production, as in the northeastern states. Through utilization of table waste, scraps and other refuse as poultry feed much wholesome food in the form of eggs and poultry for home use may be produced at relatively low cost.

STRONG BIRDS FOR BREEDING

Comb, Face and Wattles Should Be Bright Red—Eyes Bright and Prominent.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Fowls for breeding purposes should be strong, healthy, vigorous birds. The comb, face and wattles should be of a bright red color, eyes bright and fairly prominent, head comparatively broad and short and not long or crow-shaped, legs set well apart and straight, plumage clean and smooth.

LESSON FOR FEBRUARY 15

PETER AND CORNELIUS.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 10.
GOLDEN TEXT—The same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon him.—
Rom. 10:12.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Acts 15:
1-25; Gal. 2:1-21.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Love for Everybody.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Wins a Roman Captain.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC
—The Overcoming of Prejudice.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC
—Significance of the Conversion of Cornelius.

The conversion of Cornelius broke down the "middle wall of partition"
between the Jews and Gentiles (Eph.
2:4).

1. Cornelius (vv. 1, 2).

1. His official position (v. 1). He was a Roman officer over a company of 100 soldiers, perhaps of about the same rank as a captain in the American army.

2. His character (v. 2). (1) A devout, pious man. His heart was filled with godly fear. (2) He was a praying man; he observed the Jewish hour of prayer. (3) He was charitable; he gave much alms. (4) He was respected by his family.

The Lord chose Cornelius for the transition of the Gospel to the Gentiles because of his character and position. No Jew could find any fault with him. He was a good man, but not a saved man.

II. The Supernatural Preparation for the Transition of the Gospel to the Gentiles (vv. 3-35).

1. Two visions were given. (1) The vision of Cornelius (vv. 3-8). While engaged in prayer an angel of God instructed him to send to Joppa for Peter, who would tell him what to do. The angel told him that Peter lodged with Simon, a tanner, to show Cornelius that Peter was not the strictest Jew. The calling of a tanner was regarded as unclean by the strict Jews, and the tanners were commanded to dwell apart. Cornelius sent at once for Peter. He was living up to the best light he had, so he received more. (2) The vision of Peter (vv.
9-16). This took place while Peter was praying (v. 9). If one would receive visions from God, let him pray to God; for the heavens are open to those who pray. He saw a certain vessel containing clean and unclean animals let down from heaven, and heard the command: "Rise, Peter;
kill, and eat." Peter protested that he had never eaten any unclean thing.
God replied: "What God hath cleansed, call not thou common." This vessel let down from heaven and taken back indicated that both Jew and Gentile were accepted on high.

2. Messengers from Cornelius (vv.
17-22). Peter was greatly perplexed over what he had seen, but not for long; for messengers from Cornelius made inquiry at the gate for him. The spirit informed Peter of the matter
and bade him go, nothing doubting.

3. The meeting of Cornelius and Peter (vv. 23-33). (1) Peter took six witnesses along (v. 23). He had the good judgment to know that on a matter of so great importance he must have witnesses. This was proved at the Jerusalem council in the consideration of the question of the reception of the Gentiles into the church (11:1-18). (2) Cornelius waiting for Peter
(v. 24). He called together his kinsmen and near friends. (3) Cornelius about to worship Peter (vv. 25, 26).
Peter repudiated this act and protested that he was but a man. The true man of God not only dislikes, but refuses to be worshipped. (4) The reciprocal explanation (vv. 27-33). Peter explained to him how God had taken from him his Jewish prejudice and asked that Cornelius state the purpose of his having sent for him.
Cornelius explained how God had appeared unto him and instructed him
to send for Peter.

III. Peter's Sermon (vv. 34-43).
1. The introduction (vv. 34, 35). He showed that God is no respecter of persons, but that in every nation those who fear God and work righteousness
are accepted of him.

2. The discourse (vv. 36-43). In the discourse he touches briefly upon the mission of Jesus, showing that by means of his baptism and anointing
with the Holy Spirit he was qualified for his work as mediator. He then exhibited the work of Christ (1)
in his life (vv. 36-39), (2) in his death
(v. 39), (3) in his resurrection (vv.
40, 41).

IV. The Holy Spirit Poured Out
(vv. 44-48).

This was a new Pentecost. As the Gospel was entering upon its widest embrace the Spirit came in new power.

Power of Faith.

Christianity has its best exponents in the lives of the saints. It is only when our creeds pass into the iron of the blood that they become vital and organic. Faith is not transmuted into character has lost its power.—C. L.
Thompson.

No Man is Useless.

So long as we love, we serve; so long as we are loved by others we are indispensable; no man is useless while he has a friend.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

What Prayer Will Accomplish
Psalm 34:1-22

Prayer changes things. This is proven both in history and experience. To quote the words of our Scripture lesson—"I sought the Lord and he heard me and delivered me from all my fears. This poor man cried and the Lord heard him and saved him out of all his troubles."
Prayer is greatly needed just now.
The present adverse conditions
throughout the world, industrial, social, political and religious, can be overcome only by a thoroughgoing
and wide-spread revival brought down
from heaven through believing prayer. Apart from this there is no remedy. Christian people who believe this with all their hearts are giving themselves to prayer. The church of God must be revived. Its witness must be restored. This is the present and imperative need, and prayer is the divinely appointed means to attain this end.

No topic could be more opportune
than this one for the present hour.
Let the leader of this meeting make a careful and prayerful preparation.
If possible, get a copy of the Christian Herald for December 27, 1919,
and read on page 1354 "The Scriptural Awakenings of the Past and the Lessons They Teach." You will find this full of facts bearing on the topic.
Then write to the Silver Publishing Co., Dept. H, Pittsburgh, Pa., for as many copies as you can use, of a little book on prayer written by J. H.
McConkey. These will be sent to you free of charge. Give them to the members of your society one week before this topic is presented. Here is an opportunity for you to make a real contribution to the prayer life of your church and the society, and thus promote the spiritual revival that must come to the church of Christ if the witness of the church is to be recovered or retained.

The words of the late Andrew Murray are pertinent and powerful at this point: "The honor to which God calls us as intercessors is simply inconceivable. All heaven is waiting for the prayers of His church to bring down the blessings that are stored up there for us, and that God is longing to bestow." * * * If ministers and Christians could but be brought to realize that God has actually made the coming of His Kingdom and the pouring down of blessing, so that there shall not be room to receive it, dependent on our faithfulness in prayer, they surely would begin to feel that prayer is, in very deed, the highest expression of our allegiance to God and the chief power that we can exercise in bringing Christ's salvation to men."

For further Scripture on the matter of prayer see Matthew 7:7-8, Luke 18:1, John 15:7, 1 Timothy 2:1-6, 1
John 3:21-22, and 1 John 5:14-15

CHURCH COUNCIL
ENDORSES N. E. R.

Federal Body Says No More Compelling Need in All the World.

Departing from custom, the Federal Council of Churches has endorsed the work being done by Near East Relief, 1 Madison Avenue, New York City, the former committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief which has essayed the task of caring for 1,250,- 000 starving people in Western Asia.

Resolutions adopted by the executive committee, as announced by Charles S.
Macfarland, general secretary, are as follows:

"Your committee recommends that prayers be offered in all our churches for the suffering children throughout the world, especially those who are in distress and peril as the result of the war.

"They further recommend that we reaffirm and emphasize our interest and co-operation in the plans of 'Near East Relief.' We know of no need in the world that is more compelling than that of the Armenian, Syrian and other peoples in the Levant who have already received and must still receive the generous sympathy of the American people."

Why Moses Forbade Pork.

Presumably the reason Moses had for forbidding pork to the Israelites was that the eating of pig-meat was proved accountable for the disease
now called "trichinosis."

That dreadful malady is rare nowadays because we cook our pork thoroughly, and any "trichinae" that it may contain are killed by the heat.

Not until recently, however, has it come to be known that trichinosis is really a disease of the rat. Pig-sties are usually haunted by those four-footed vermin, which the pigs often kill and eat, thereby becoming infected.

The pig, however, serves merely as an "intermediate host" for the parasite, which, when taken alive into the human body, proceeds to multiply at a fabulous rate, the tiny wormlike organisms invading the tissues with serious and oftentimes fatal results.

WAR NURSE FROM ARMENIA ASKS
AMERICA'S AID

Soldier Husband and Battlefield
Baby Touring Country With Her for Near East Relief.

A mother, father and daughter, the latter born in a tattered Red Cross tent in the icy Caucasus while guns
roared all around and Turkish shells, ignoring the mercy emblem, burst near it, are touring America in behalf of their native Armenia. They are General Mezrop Nevtun Azgapatian, his

LADY ANNE AZGAPETIAN.

wife, Lady Anne, and Irene Esther Araxie Azgapatian, whose baby eyes opened upon scenes of horror and later
through them saw much of the sufferings of the people of Armenia.

The family are making their tour under auspices of the Near East Relief,
the big organization which has saved
hundreds of thousands of the people
in that part of the world from death
by hunger and cold and is soon to open a nation wide campaign for funds to complete the work of saving the survivors, more than a half million of whom must perish unless aid comes to them soon. America is their only hope.

General Azgapatian served gallantly
in the Russian armies in the Caucasus against the Turks. His wife, who accompanied him to the front, did noble work for the wounded and sick, and it was while in this service that her baby was born in a hospital tent during a battle. An army blanket swung from two poles in one corner of the tent was the baby's crib during the rest of that terrible winter campaign. With the collapse of the Russian armies after the Bolshevik revolution the Azgapatians returned to Armenia for a brief spell and did their best to alleviate the suffering they found on every hand.

But with a Turkish price on his head
the father finally made his way with his family through Russia to Finland and then to this country. What they tell of conditions and needs in Armenia
is first hand evidence.
In the Caucasus, Armenia, Syria,
Turkey and Persia are more than 250,- 000 orphans, helpless little victims of war, massacre and deportation, and for the great majority the only bar between them and absolute starvation
is a bowl of hot bean soup every day.
This soup is supplied by the Near East Relief now making an appeal to the American people for sufficient funds to increase this dole and to provide these suffering little ones with clothing and give them an education that will help them to become self-supporting. It is estimated that more than 1,500,000 in Western Asia will die of starvation unless American aid is continued.

Suspicious.

Husband (at dinner)—By George,
this is a regular banquet. Finest spread I've sat down to in an age.
What's up? Do you expect company?

Wife—No, but I think the cook does.

Gertie—Would you say that she is good looking?

Maude—That depends.

Gertie—On what?

Maude—On whether I was speaking

Answers.

Prospective Sincere.

"Is there any such thing as a sinecure these days?"

"I'm afraid there's going to be a few such things if the coal shortage isn't called off. A friend of mine just got a job as ash collector."

The Proof.

"The new doctor who came here to vaccinate the children must have been in the army."

"What makes you think so?"

"As soon as he had them lined up before him he said, 'Present arms.'"

Strategy.

"Gee, but it's late! Will your wife get up and let you in when you get home?"

"I'll make her. I'll scratch on the door and whine, and she'll think her dog's been locked out."

The Affinity.

"A fashionable hairdresser and an advertising agent ought to make a good pair."

"Why so?"

"Because she wears puffs and he puffs wa..."

How Chemist Has Put Coal to Work.

The chemist has endowed coal with a multiple indispensability to civilization. In addition to its utilization in its primal state as the cheapest available source of heat upon which all industry and human comfort depend, it is the raw material of the coal-tar chemical industry which ranges in its growing amplitude from the by-product coke oven and the production of industrial fuel and illuminating gas, ammonia and fertilizer,
to the manufacture of dyes, pharmaceuticals, photographic chemicals,
motor fuels and industrial solvents.

How Canada Honors Heroes.

The names of the 60,000 Canadians killed in the world war will be inscribed on the walls of a church which will be erected in Notre Dame de Grace, a suburb of Montreal. The church will be used by the combined congregations of the Anglican Church of the Good Shepherd and Trinity church.

How Expression Originated.

There have been many explanations made as to the origin of the expression, "I'm From Missouri, You've Got to Show Me." One of the latest was made by a Kansas City man,
which according to the Kansas City
Star, was as follows:

The marriage laws in Missouri in the early days were so loose that anyone could get married without answering many questions. In 1831 a law was passed making it a misdemeanor
for a minister or a justice to marry persons not having a state license. It also set the age of marriageable women at eighteen years. If the applicant for a license did not know the age of the bride-elect he had to produce her to the license clerk and let him judge her age. When the applicant went after the girl she naturally asked why
she had to go along to get the license.
When told that the law required her exhibition she remarked: "Oh, you've got to show me, have you." This occurred many times during the first year or so of the law's enforcement

and became a byword.

Thus Missouri became known as the
"show me" state.

How "Lost Workers" Are Traced.

Patterned after investigations made in America by Joseph H. Willits of Philadelphia, England is now making inquiry into the subject of "lost workers"—men and women who disappear.

Captain Greenwood, for the government, has finished an investigation in 16 munition factories employing more than 40,000 woman workers. Two thousand left because of ill health and 8,000 gave no reason when they quit,
being divided in these classifications:

To get married, moving from the district, required at home, wages insufficient, and other employment.

"There is no panacea for disease,
but there is one promising remedy, namely, organized welfare work. In the factories where there are organized welfare departments the wastage unaccounted for is below the average."

The Velvet tin
is twice as big
as shown here

There's a World of Solid Comfort In the Rich, Red Tin

YES, sir, we mean that same warm red and gold tin that smiles a welcoming "Howdy" to you in every tobacco store. Know what those colors mean?

The red is for the friendly warmth, the mellow cheeriness, that Velvet puts into your old pipe. And the gold is where the Kentucky sunshine, that ripens
good old Velvet, has just sort of soaked through.

Remember what Velvet Joe
said about it?

"You've met canned meat and canned music. Ever see any tinned sunshine? Well, look into any Velvet tin."

And think this over:

We don't have to hide Velvet's taste or smell with a lot of this, that and the other thing. Because Velvet has naturally what pipe smokers want—real simon-pure tobacco taste and fragrance. It's just good, honest Kentucky leaf, made still more friendly and mellow by two years' ageing in wooden hogsheads. Just good tobacco. That's all. But it's mighty near enough for the man who wants a pipeful of tobacco and not a box of bon bons.

The picture of a pipe on the tin needn't keep you
from rolling a jim-dandy cigarette with Velvet.

How's the Velvet holding out in your old red tin?
