The Suggested Text.

"He that withholdeth corn, the people shall curse him; but blessing shall be upon the head of him that selleth it." Prov. 11:16.

(The above text was suggested for explanation, in the Record of March 19. Replies limited to 400 words will be published.—Ed.)

ANSWER NO. 1.

We understand the word "corn" in the Scriptures covers all the cereals; this includes wheat. The human body is composed of seventeen elements. Sixteen of these are found in wheat. The seventeenth—oxygen—in the air and water. Milk also contains sixteen elements. Wheat, milk, water and air, contain all the elements of the human body, and are therefore the essentials for building the body-

From this, it is plain to see and understand why the "people will curse" the man who withholds their daily bread, for personal gain. We understand the Wise Man is referring to the man who "corners" the markets. The world calls it "shrewd financiering," but God calls it

He says of these exploiters, "Your gold and silver is cankered; and the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire. You have heaped treasure together for the last days."

For the comfort, hope, and strength to endure, He says to the honest toil-"Be patient, therefore, brethren, unto the coming of the Lord. Grudge not one against another brethren, lest ye be condemned; behold, the judge standeth before the door."

From this we understand that we should rather suffer wrong, than resort to force and wrong methods to correct them, and get what is usually termed "our rights." Force may re-press, and the jailman prevent men from committing the external act; but only the grace of God converting the Soul, can make good, hence "Ye must be born anew.'

The law tries to make men good from the outside in. But God's plan is to make them good from the inside out. As a result, Love controls the thought, word and deed, and fulfills the royal law, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor, as thyself."

The man actuated by love will not be an exploiter; neither will he hold back by "fraud," the hire of his laborers; nor withhold the people's bread, and cause them to curse him; but he will "open wide his hand" and the blessing of the people shall be upon his head.

Joseph bought up all the food supplies in Egypt during the seven years of plenty; and sold it back to the people during the seven years of famine. By this wise and legitimate method, he prevented much suffering and saved the peoples alive. Surely, we need a few Josephs in the world today. These are "the last days," and the exploitations of the people's bread is one of "the signs of the times," of "the last days

Remember this. We are coming to judgment. Jesus Christ, who is our Saviour and friend now, will be our judge then. Each one will be judged according to the light he has received; and each will be rewarded according to the deeds done in the body. Let us then live righteously, and suffer wrong, rather than do wrong, to maintain our rights, for our Father knoweth, and the coming of the Lord

A Big Sale Business.

Since February 1, the Record office has done work for 101 public sales up to this time, 85 of which were advertised in full, while many of the whole number also used posters, or cards, and only 13 were represented solely in our sale register. This breaks our record for a sale season's work; and we are glad to say that not a single complaint has been made in any particular, regarding either work or charges, but we have received numerous special compliments on the excellence of the work, and value of the advertising.

We feel that our patrons are entitled to our thanks, publicly, for their business, and we trust that we have returned, to one and all, full value received.

R. R. Accident at Bruceville Bridge.

The afternoon freight south, on Tuesday, met with an accident at the north end of the Bruceville bridge, that resulted in dumping four rear cars down over the embankment. The accident is thought to have been due to the dropping of the brake mechanism on one of the cars. The caboose was stopped by a pile of railroad material and did not go down the bank. The track was considerably torn up, and the mail train south, was blocked here. Nobody was hurt, but the cars were badly wrecked.

The four cars were loaded with coal, feed, printing paper and boxes of merchandise. The cars are all badly damaged and will be hard to remove owing to the difficulties of the

PRICES OF MERCHANDISE.

No Sudden Drop, to Any Great Extent, Need be Expected Soon.

When you read news items that prices are "coming down" on mer-chandise, do not expect big drops, all at once. The fact is, merchandise of all kinds advanced gradually, long before retail prices were advanced, and in many cases, notwithstanding the heighth to which prices have gone, they have still not been advanced to the percent of profit prevailing when prices were low, before the war.

In all probability, prices will never come back to the old level, and nobody wants them to. It is equally probable that not for two or three years will anything like a permanent level be reached, and the more gradually the change is made, the better it will be for the whole country.

We are reading, now, that shoes will likely "come down," this Sum-This may mean more than we think, but in manufacturing, even 25c a pair is a big drop. A few cents a yard, also, in cotton goods, is enough to be talked about, as news, but the retail buyer is not apt to be greatly impressed.

There is the greater possibility, we think, of purchasers being able to get better grade articles for prevailing prices, rather than for the "come down" to be so much noticed in the price itself.

Another thing that must be considered in keeping up prices, is the great change—the great increase—in those who demand the higher-priced goods. The following, clipped from a report on the silk business, illustrates what we mean: "When prices commenced to climb, the old silk customer demand began to decrease, but in its place appeared an entirely new customer trade, composed largely of the wives of laborers, working girls and others who were enjoying the benefits of high wages brought about by war-time conditions.'

The same has been true of meats, shoes, and articles of trade generally. As long as "big money" lasts, the demand will keep up, and so will prices. Ask any butcher, and he will tell you that the class of people who used to buy the cheaper meats, now want the best cuts.

Another fact that must be considered, in connection with prices, is the European demand. Europe will get back, eventually, to helping itself; but for a long while Europe will want to buy from us more than it will have to sell to us, and as long as the balance is that way, our prices at home will stay up.

In this connection, it is a fact that many of our manufacturers and jobbers are competing for European bus-iness, at very small profit, and creat-ing a scarcity here which enables them to make big profits on their home business. They are playing this as a regular game, and we are paying for it.

The labor question, of course, as we have frequently pointed out, largely fixes the selling prices of everything. As long as labor is scarce, and highly paid, we can not look for cheap merchandise. We can not expect to "sell high, and buy cheap," for that s what everybody aims at, and when this is general, it is impossible of accomplishment for the average single

There seems to be this one change in business. The working classes, so-called, are letting up, to some extent, in their purchasing speed and high level. This may be because the Liberty Bond savings-much of which has long since been turned back into cash-is about exhausted, or it may be that better sense is prevailing and that savings bank accounts are receiving more attention; at any rate, the salaried people are buying less, so the big retailers say, and this fact will soon exert a big influence on prices of the higher priced articles.

The way to bring down prices, is to stop paying them. That is, this will hurry prices downward, in addition to the operation of more natural business laws. This is also true of labor. When it is not so greatly wanted, it will become cheaper. Competition for labor, makes it high; competition on the part of labor, for work, makes it low.

The building trade seems likely to be first affected in a downward way. There is a falling off in construction work in the cities, that must soon affect prices of lumber and structural material, as well as labor costs. Bond issues, by States and municipalities, for roads, schools and other construction work, is unquestionably helping to keep up labor costs, by keeping up the demand for labor. Strange as it may seem, while there is a growing tendency toward individual holding-off in this class of work, the taxpayers as a whole, through bond issues, are keeping up liberal spending.

VOTERS COMING INTO STATE STILL UNDER SUSPICION

This Partisan Law Still Remains on Statute Books.

It was hoped, by many, that the more progressive element in the ruling majority in this state was strong enough to rise above the old style of partisanship, and that the "declara-tion of intention" law that requires every voter coming into the state to go before the County Court to make a statement that he intends to become a citizen of the state, would go into the discord at this session.

Speaker Tydings, even, had introduced a bill, early in the session, to exempt his county (Harford) from the operation of the law. Other counties then asked for the same exemption, and it was believed that a state-wide law would pass; but, when the question came up, an old time partisan argument developed, and not only the state-wide bill, but all of the county exemption bills were defeated, 57

Soft Coal Likely to be Higher.

Government control over the maximum price of soft coal was lifted by President, this week, effective April 1. This is to pave the way for the 27% increase in miners' wages, recommended in the majority report of the Coal Commission, that has not yet been accepted by the mine-workers, represented by the minority re-

The withdrawal of the price limit will permit the mine operators to increase the cost of coal to consumers. The wage decision, if it goes into effect, is to last for two years. 6-hour day and the 5-day week, was not granted. The increase in wages will approximate $200,000,000 a year.

Gov. Sleeper, of Michigan, wants an investigation of the Ford sena-torial campaign by the Federal Government, with as active an investigation as was made in the Newberry case. He says: "Just because a candidate was defeated, is no evidence that his campaign was conducted any more legally than the candidate who succeeded in winning.'

JOHN ROSS KEY DEAD. Grandson of Francis Scott Key, Aged Eighty-two Years.

John Ross Key, grandson of Francis Scott Key, and veteran American artist, died Wednesday night at his home in Baltimore, from heart trouble. He had an attack of influenza a year ago and a month ago suffered a relapse. His wife, Mrs. Ellenore Dutcher Key, was at his bedside at the time of his death.
Mr. Key was 82 years old. He was born in Hagerstown, Md., on July 16, 1838, the son of John Ross Key and Virginia Ringgold Key. His father died several weeks before his birth and he was raised by his grandfather, Francis Scott Key, at his home in Washington. He received his early education at Catholic schools in Washington, and at the age of 14 years entered the United States Coast Survey. There he met James McNeil Whistler and they became close friends.

Mr. Key was a self-made artist, and after several years in the Coast Survey traveled and studied abroad. He won the first prize for his "The Golden Gate of San Francisco" at the Centennial exhibition, which was held in Philadelphia, in 1876. His latest works, "The Trout Stream" and "Summer-time on Chainbridge Road," which he completed at his home on St. Paul street, were exhibited at the Char-coal Club last year. Up until the time of the World War he had made his home in Washington, but the government took over his studio for war offices and he moved to Boston, but had been living in Baltimore for the past two years.

Mr. Key, as a boy, often visited the old Key homestead, at Keysville; and a few years ago, about the time of the erection of the Key monument there, paid his last visit to the spot, and while there gave numerous rem-iniscences of his famous grand-father, Francis Scott Key.

Death of J. Milton Reifsnider.

Mr. John Milton Reifsnider, chairman of the Public Service Commission, and a prominent citizen and attorney of Carroll county, died at an early hour last Friday morning, at the Union Protestant Infirmary, Baltimore. Mr. Reifsnider had been a great sufferer from stomach trouble, and underwent a surgical operation recently, but complications set in and he was in a too greatly weakened condition to recover.

He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Eleanor Fairfax Reifsnider, and the following children: Mrs. Thomas Robins, wife of Col. Robins, U. S. Navy; Mrs. Thomas Clark, wife of Maj. T. S. Clark, U. S. Marine corps; John L. Reifsinder, Jr., of York, Pa.; and Miss Josephine F. Reifsnider.

Mr. Reifsnider was prominently identified with the legal and public interests of Carroll county for many years. He was specially affable and gentlemanly, in addition to possessing great ability, and has made a very large circle of personal friends who will deeply regret his death. He was also prominent in the Masonic fra-

Iglehart, Murray Maynadier, Carroll Poultney, former Mayor James H. Preston, George Robinson, Judge Wm. H. Thomas, Dr. Frank T. Shaw, Jos. W. Smith, Osborne I. Yellott and Admiral Yates Stirling. THE LEGISLATURE SPEEDING UP AS END DRAWS NEAR.

Racing to Continue with Larger Tax to the State.

The increased representation bill for Baltimore city, calling for 2 additional Senators and 12 Delegates was defeated in the Senate, 17 to 8.

Mr. Gorsuch introduced a bill in the House to compel the beneficiaries of free scholarships at the Normal School and at colleges to teach school for at least two years after graduation. Pupils enjoying these scholarships pledge themselves to devote two years to teaching, but, it is claimed that they do not strictly adhere to these pledges. The bill adds a compulsory feature.

The House, by a vote of 61 to 36, passed the Andrews bill creating a racetrack commission, and placing a tax of $6000 a day on the various tracks in the State. The bill contains no referendum, but the Senate will attempt to add this. with the objectionable gambling features will therefore likely continue, only the State will have a bigger "rake off" from the profits of the gamblers.

As amended special payments provided for Anne Arundel, Prince George's and Harford counties and for Havre de Grace, Laurel and Baltimore city have been cut out. Each of the 4-mile tracks pays over to the State $6000 a day for each day racing is conducted. In addition Pimlico turns over to Baltimore county $3000, making its daily payments $9000. Reserved for the tracks is a 15% return on their investments and the difference between this guarantee return and the daily payments also goes into the State Treasury. Days for racing are cut from 112 to 100. Hence the State has a guaranteed minimum return of $600,000 a year from the ponies. The actual returns may go much higher.

The soldiers' bonus bill passed the House, 72 to 7, after a lot of effusive oratory. The bill provides for a direct tax of 3 cents per annum additional to the State tax, in order to provide interest payments and sinking fund on the total sum of $9,000,-000 bond issue to meet the payments provided in the bill.

(The Record acknowledges the strength of some of the arguments used in favor of the bonus of about $150.00 to each of the proposed beneficiaries. The sentiment carried by the bill is alluring; but there is nevertheless, with us, a feeling that the bill attempts to place a money value on services that are above money, and that the acceptance of such a "bonus" is a sort of receipt in full, and will lower the status of our boys, even in their own estimation, should they accept being so "paid off." Speaker Tydings, in announcing that he will not accept his, no doubt voices what will be the action of many.)

A bill by Senator Snader, authorizing the construction of a road from Union Bridge to intersect with Westminster road in Carroll county, passed the Senate. Also a bill authorizing a bond issue for road construction in the county; and a bill authorizing the construction of a road from Patapsco in this county.

The House, on Tuesday, voted themselves extra compensation of $350.00 each, or a total of $35,700. The Speaker has recommended $7.00 per day be the compensation for 1922. Employees are not included in the increase. Whether the increase can be allowed, in view of the compensation fixed by the Constitution, will be for the Attorney General to pass on.

A bill was introduced by Senators Snader, Wolfe and Brady, requiring real property to be transferred to the county assessment books before deeds are received for recording.

Will Regulate Cost of Clothing.

In order to put an end to alleged profiteering in wearing apparel, well as in food commodities, W. H. Bienemann of the Fair Price Commission has issued a schedule regulating the maximum margin over the cost at which any garment can be sold, the schedule to be effective throughout the State. The regulations have been indorsed by the United States Department of Justice at Washington. The Department will also insist that all articles of wearing apparel be marked and the price tagged in plain figures showing the selling price to the public.

Replacements shall be dealt with by an actual averaging of old stock on hand with new purchases when actually placed in stock for sale and at no other time. The inventory of old stock at cost and freight and the invoice of new purchases upon arrival are to be the basis of cost on all replacements.

Senator Truman H. Newberry, of Michigan, and sixteen of his co-de-fendants, were found guilty of criminal conspiracy in the Michigan Senatorial election held in 1918, by the U. S. District Court at Grand Rapids, on the 20th. The case hinged on the charge of excessive expenditure of money as a corruption fund. Senator Newberry will retain his seat in the Senate until the Senate itself acts on the charges filed by his opponent, Henry Ford. He was fined $10,000, and sentenced to two years in prison, and several others received the same sentence. The case will go to the Supreme Court.

PEACE LEAGUE REJECTED.

The Next Move Somewhat in Doubt. Little Interest Shown.

The Peace treaty again failed of ratification by the Senate, last Friday, as it could not command the necessarv two-thirds vote. was 49 for ratification and 35 against, while 12 Senators were paired and did not vote.

The vote for the Treaty was made up of 28 Republicans and 21 Democrats; against, 12 Republicans and 23 Democrats. The Treaty lacked 7 votes for ratification.

Immediately after the vote Senator Lodge offered a resolution proposing to return the treaty to the President with the information that it could not be ratified by the Senate. Senator Hitchcock, administration leader, objected to immediate action on the resolution, but it was adopted, 47 to 37, all of the latter being Democrats. Senator Robinson, Democrat, offered a motion to reconsider the vote but his motion was tabled, 43 to 34.

There has, as yet, been no move-ment made by President Wilson; and the effort to put through a separate resolution announcing peace with Germany and Austria, and leaving the League end of the combination rest, is also being held up. The President could have had ratification "with reservations," had he given the word to his adherents, but he preferred not

New Bridge to Cost $20,000.

The Frederick and Carroll County Commissioners held a joint meeting Wednesday of last week, at the bridge over Double Pipe Creek, near Detour, which was swept away by high water recently, and decided to rebuild at once. It was also decided to repair the Shoemaker bridge over the nocacy river about 4 miles from Taneytown, which was damaged by high water, and ice. Both structures are on the dividing line of the two counties and the expense of rebuilding and repairs will be met jointly by the counties. The Double Pipe Creek bridge will have to be entirely rebuilt. The stream at that point is about 200 feet wide and in places very deep.

Daniel Porman, a bridge builder, of York, Pa., who attended the meeting, was instructed to draw up plans and specifications for a new iron bridge, which will be submitted to the Commissioners at another joint meeting to be held in Westminster. A design will be selected at this meeting and bids will be asked at once for a new bridge. The bids will be opened and the contract awarded at a joint meeting in this city. The new bridge will be an iron structure with a heavy wood or cement floor. It will probably cost from $15,000 to $20,000. Frederick News.

New Primary Law Introduced.

Two bills of importance to the voters in the State were introduced on Wednesday, by Senator Frick. These will revolutionize the method of nom inating candidates for State-wide offices and give to the two leading political parties the authority to decide as to the manner of selecting candidates. One bill provides that a State convention may direct whether nominations shall be made by direct vote or by conventions and its action shall be binding on the governing Delegates to all conventions as well as members of State Central Committees, must, however, be elected by direct vote of the people. a convention has not acted then the State committee shall be given not less than 60 days before the election.

The companion bill repeals the law providing for the unit system of making nominations and directs the Statewide candidates are to be nominated by a mass vote. This does away with the first and second choice provisions in the present law and gives the nomination to the candidate for governor, senator or other aspirant for a place on the ticket who shall have received the greatest number of votes.

In other words, the measures re-store the old laws governing primary elections. The unit system was originated by former Senator Blair Lee, when he was a member of the State Senate, and is believed to have outlived its usefulness. The law, if passed, would not be effective this year, as the primaries are held in May, while the law does not go into effect until June 1.—Balt. American.

The Increase of Crime.

The "wets" are taunting the "drys," that since prohibition has been in force, crime has been increasing. True enough. There has never been known to be so much burglarizing of whiskey storehouses, as within the past six months; nor as much, nor as great variety of "boot-legging" and "moon-shining"; nor of the practice of fraud in selling cold tea, and the like, for the real stuff. That crime has increased, is right.

Many farmers are quitting the job, but just as many are taking it up. This is distinctly encouraging, as the new ones are bringing new strength and energy, and perhaps newer and better methods. The real danger will come when farms are unworked, but we trust that predictions of such a situation will prove unfounded.

It is one of the accompanying features of all combines for the purpose of getting more money, that whenever commodity buyers fix a price, commodity sellers ask a higher | demand. price. The other way around is, that when sellers first fix the price, buyers then offer a lower price. Strange, isn't it, that the two never happen to hit the same mark?

The Peace treaty has again been defeated in the Senate, and the country is not worrying, nor at all excited over it; in fact, comparatively few care anything about it; which proves that when the President decided to "go before the people" for endorsement, and later when he decided to make a National campaign issue of it, he made a poor guess as to public sentiment, and a poor choice of campaign material, and the longer the case has lasted, the poorer his decision appears.

The fight between the interests, and of interests demanding advance alignments, should be made with Natinnal Conventions, and not with candidiates; and even then, such fights are apt to indicate their own selfishness, by demanding sure legislation, rather than dependence on public sentiment for justification. A man would not necessarily be a great President because he favored any one, or more, of a dozen interests. Single track men, indeed, are not the kind of men for the Presidency; and these questionnaires, instead of helping matters toward the main end to be desired, are apt to confuse them and so mix public indorsement as to elect the kind of a man who is not big enough for this big country of ours.

What Are "Normal" Prices?

The question is asked, when will prices get back to normal? Before attempting to answer, we must define what we mean by "normal"? If we mean back to the old low level of five years ago, the answer is-not at Get some of the big questions out any time; at least, not for many years. As Champ Clark Puts It.

In his published memoirs Champ Clark says of the performance of William Jennings Bryan at the Baltimore convention of 1912 that Bryan "violated his instructions and by base and false insinuations-to use no uglier word—robbed me of the nomination to which I was entitled by all the rules of decency, justice, honesty, common sense and fair dealing." It would be interesting to know how the Hon. Champ Clark would have characterized the Baltimore convention doings of the Hon. William Jennings Bryan if Mr. Clark had not restrained himself and had used the uglier word. "Base" and "false" have the real shirtsleeve vigor to them, and they put into the printed record the estimate of one eminent Democrat of another eminent Democrat.

And both these eminent Democrats are likely to be featuring conspicuously in the presidential campaign festivities that are now on. Mr. Bryan is already a declared candidate for the San Francisco nomination. He didn't want to be a candidate-so he has said. But the call came to him from somewhere-he doesn't exactly explain from just what source-and like the dutiful soldier he has responded, here am I, willing to sacrifice myself, willing to make another try for the presidential goal.

As to Champ Clark—he is not an openly declared candidate, but, beyond question, he is a dark horse potentiality in Democratic presidential politics. Very likely the ex-Speaker of the House will be a delegate to the 1920 Democratic convention. Mr Bryan will probably also be there, even though he be in the candidate class. According to advance indications the San Francisco meet will be inaugurated with explosive potentialities ready for the touchoff.-Balto.

Signs on Some of the Most Noted Havana Streets Reflect a Transplanted Aristocracy.

There are many curiously named streets in Havana, but perhaps the interest of the tourist is no other way so piquantly excited as when he sees the name O'Reilly attached to one of the old thoroughfares. The cognomen surely has no suggestion of Castilian origin, remarks the New York Evening

Despite the name, the man for whom O'Reilly street, or to give it its Cuban title, Calle O'Reilly, is called, was a Spanish subject bearing the title of count, and he was one of the first of the long line of captains general who ruled Cuba for a period of 80 years. His ancestors left their native heath after the battle of the Boyne, migrating to Spain, where they were ennobled for services to the

Although an aristocrat, the first O'Reilly was not averse to becoming a moneymaker. He engaged in the not very poetic monopoly of delivering beef from the slaughter houses to the various markets, which monopoly was handed down for several generations from father to son.

O'Donnell is another Irish name inscribed on street signs and it is written in great letters on the lighthouse of Moro castle, which lighthouse O'Donnell was instrumental in building. O'Farrell is an Irish-Spanish name connected with the governmental and commercial life of Cuba of the past, as is also that of O'Lawlor. These men had titled prefixes which were bestowed because of military or civil service, or which they bought outright after the custom of the time.

Dying Millionaire Had What Might Be Called a "Rehearsal" in His Bedroom.

When Mr. Parker Mason, a shrewd and level-headed millionaire of the United States, was on the point of dying a few years ago he conceived the quaint idea of having a rehearsal of his own funeral service in his bedroom. He called in a Presbyterian minister, and a few members of the church choir, and the full service was rehearsed in his presence and that of his family and a number of his friends. The clergyman preached an eloquent and touching sermon on the virtues and charities of the dying man, and the choir sang appropriate hymns. At the conclusion of the service, which the millionaire had followed with the closest interest and attention, he warmly complimented both clergyman and choir on their performance, and after dismissing them sent for an undertaker and made the necessary arrangements with him and had a personal interview with the pall-bearers. He died ten hours later, and was buried with the same service to which he had listened when alive.—Montreal Herald.

Where the Fault Lay.

As the Irish police recruit strolled along on his first turn of night duty, loud yells of "Fire" rent the air. He bolted quickly to the spot, and found hanging out of an upstairs window.
"Help! Help!" he yelled. "If I

Guns on Airplanes.

One of the inventions of the great war was the art of shooting a machine gun through the propeller of an airplane without danger of hitting the propeller blades. The French aviator, Roland Garros, was reported to be the first man to employ this device, which was used by hundreds of air fighters throughout the war. Before that time the machine gun was mounted above the aviator so as to fire over the propeller blades. Machine guns may also be mounted in a revolving turret or in the rear of the airplane. The Browning machine gun will fire 20,000 shots at the rate of 600 per minute.

BREEDING PAYS IN POULTRY

Records of Three Flocks of Leghorns Show Specifically Value of Purebred Males.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

That the value of purebred males counts as much in poultry raising as in stock raising is shown by the records of three flocks of Leghorns, the data for which have been supplied the United States department of agriculture by the North Carolina experiment. station. Flock 1, the egg production of which is included in these records, consisted of common hens; flock 2 was produced by breeding these hens to common males; flock 3 was produced by breeding flock 1 to a rooster from a high-producing hen. The following year the original flock laid 89 eggs a hen; flock 2 laid an average of 88 eggs a hen; and flock 3 laid an average of 136 eggs a hen. This increase of 54 per cent in one year tells very specifically the benefits of using a purebred male. But the percentages alone do not tell the whole story, for a big proportion of the increase came at a season-May and June-when the production of flocks 1 and 2 was relatively low and the prices were good.

In One Demonstration in lowa County 609 Hens Out of Flock of 1,548 Were Discarded.

In poultry culling demonstrations held on the farms of the farm bureau members in Emmet county, Iowa, records kept for eleven flocks showed 609 hens were culled out of a total of 1,548 in the flocks, according to the United States department of agriculture. The average number of eggs culling was 401.5, and the average a day before culling was 2.6; after culling, 3.5. The average number of eggs laid a day by 363 of the culled hens which were not immediately sold was 14.4.

WASHING WILL INJURE EGGS

Gelatinous Film of Shell That Keeps Out Air and Germs Is Removed-Keep Nests Clean.

Eggs should not be washed as this removes the gelatinous film of the shell that keeps out air and germs. The nests should be kept clean so that the eggs will have no chance to become soiled, as removing dirt by washing will allow molds and germs to enter the egg and hasten its spoiling.-Extension Division, North Dakota Agricultural College.

Corn is very fattening, and overuse is frequent with poultry, causing the hens to fatten instead of laying eggs.

As grass makes up the bulk of feed for geese, it is doubtful whether it pays to raise them unless good grass range is available during the summer.

The hen that has free range on a farm in summer finds these same things and that is one reason why neglected farm flocks lay well in summer and very poorly at other times.

A well-kept flock of hens means a steady income-enough to keep you in spending money while you are waiting for the crops to grow.

The results found by experiment seem to prove the contention of some Leghorn breeders that their birds are light eaters in comparison with some other breeds.

Frost on the walls of the house indicates too much moisture in the air and shows the need of more ventilation, unless the house is overcrowded, in which case the stock should be thinned out.

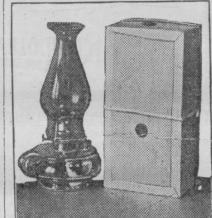

TESTING EGGS FOR HATCHING

Satisfactory Candler May Be Made With Shoe Box Large Enough to Cover Lamp.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

An egg, whether impregnated or not, has a small grayish spot on the surface of the yolk known as the germinal spot. As soon as a fertile egg is placed under a hen or in an incubator development begins. All eggs should be tested at least twice during the period of incubation, preferably on the seventh and fourteenth days, and the infertile eggs and dead germs removed. White eggs can be tested on the fourth or fifth day, while the development in eggs having brown shells often can not be seen by the use of an ordinary egg tester until the seventh day. Dead germs soon decay and give off a bad odor if allowed to remain under the hen. Infertile eggs make good feed for young chickens and are often used in the home for culinary purposes. Most incubator companies furnish testing chimneys with their machines, which will fit ordinary lamps. Electric or gas lamps may be used in a box with a hole slightly smaller than an egg cut in the side of the box and at the same level as the light. They may also be tested by sunlight or daylight, using a shutter or curtain with a small hole in it for the light to shine through.

A good homemade egg tester, or candler, can be made with a large shoe box, or any box that is large enough to go over a lamp, by removing the end and cutting a hole a little larger than the size of a quarter in the bottom of the box, so that when it is set over a kerosene lamp the hole in the bottom will be opposite the blaze. The infertile egg, when held before the small number of eggs laid a day by the 939 hole, with the lamp lighted inside the mixed hens left after culling was 346.6. All infertile eggs should be removed at the first test. The eggs containing strong, living embryos are dark and well filled up on the fourteenth day, and show a clear, sharp, distinct line of demarcation between the air cell and the growing embryo, while dead germs show only partial development, and lack this clear, distinct outline.

> Must Be Kept Dry, as Dampness Is Fatal to Both Young and Old Fowls-Also Keep Clean.

Poultry houses may be built with or without floors. In either case they should be dry, as damp floors make damp litters, and dampness is fatal to both fowls and chicks. If the house is on dry, sandy soil, a dirt floor is usually quite satisfactory, but as a rule it is more damp than board or cement floors, according to the United States department of agriculture. Dirt floors should be scraped and new soil put in two or three times a year to keep them sanitary. If board floors are used they should be both tight and smooth so far as to make them dry and easy to clean. If possible they should be eight or ten inches from the ground to allow a circulation of air and to prevent rats from harboring under them.

DUCKLINGS THRIVE ON MASH

Mixture of Cornmeal, Ground Peas, Bran and Middlings Is Fine for Young Fowls.

Growing ducklings thrive best on a feed composed of equal parts by measure of cornmeal, ground peas, bran and middlings, all made into a thick mash either with scalding hot water or milk. The mash is improved by adding short-cut green grass, clover or some other green stuff, and a few handfuls of coarse sand.

WELL OF MIRACULOUS POWER

Waters in Cornish Town of Liskeard Are Reported to Confer Pecullar Benefits.

In Cornwall, near the town of Liskeard, is an ancient well, formerly supposed to be possessed of miraculous powers. It is the well of Saint Keyne, a pious virgin of the fifth century. According to the story, firmly believed in by all good Cornish folk, the blessed damsel laid a spell upon the cooling waters of the spring and thereafter all who drank of it became the masters of their own households, were they men or women.

After the death of Saint Keyne the tiny spring became the most visited spot in Cornwall. Every young married couple included it in their wedding trip. The poet Southey tells of an unusually foresighted bride who carried a bottle of the magic water to the church, forestalling her unfortunate husband. The men of Cornwall themselves, however, boast that they have refused to avail themselves of the blessings of the spring; that they are willing to submit to the rule of their wives.

The precious waters, by the side of a dusty highway, are protected by a tiny springhouse of stone, built by the Cornish folk of other days who were not ashamed to believe in the power of their spring. Their descendants have permitted the tiny building to crumble in neglect, forgotten by the roadside. Five huge trees curl their roots protectingly about the fallen masonry two oaks, two ash and the elm of tradition. They are of the same species, but are not the identical trees of the songs and poems. These ancient guardians of the holy well were blown down in a storm some 200 or 300 years ago. The trees of today were planted by a worthy Cornish squire early in the eighteenth century. -"Niksah," in Chicago Daily News.

HAVE HIGH MILITARY TITLE

Three Men Hold Commissions From Uncle Sam as Full Generals in His Armies.

This is the first time in the history of the United States that the nation has had three full generals at the same time. Of course, we have a number bearing the prefixes of lieutenant, major or brigadier-general, but they do not wear four-starred shoulder straps. The three fortunate leaders are Tasker H. Bliss, Peyton C. March, chief of staff, and John J. Pershing, commander of the American forces in France. Only these four have preceded them as holders of the highest rank: George Washington, Ulysses S. Grant, William Tecumseh Sherman and Philip H. Sheridan.

The capture of Vicksburg on the Fourth of July, 1863, won Grant the title of major-general. The victory at Chattanooga in the following November caused him to be made lieutenant; general and commander in chief. In July, 1866, congress rewarded the hero with the rank of general when he was only 44 years old. Just before his inauguration as president in March, 1869, he resigned from the army and was succeeded as general by William Tecumseh Sherman. In 1883 Sherman resigned as commander in chief of the army, and was succeeded by "Little Phil" Sheridan, who three years later was advanced to lieutenant-general. then made a full general just before his death in 1888 .- Carl Schurz Low-

In Need of Repair.

Many years ago I attended a wedding in Cripple Creek, Colo., writes a correspondent of Chicago Tribune. All was progressing gayly until the bridegroom was called upon to produce the ring. In vain he felt in his trousers pocket; nothing could be found except a hole through which the ring had evidently fallen into his boot. He glared helplessly around the assembled guests.

"Take off your boot," ordered his prospective mother-in-law. The young miner hesitated, the suspense and silence were painful. "Take off your boot," again came in strident tones, as the old lady crowded forward in a threatening manner.

The young fellow reluctantly pulled off his boot, the ring was found-also a huge hole in the stocking through which five toes protruded. A painful silence ensued-but again the efficient old lady saved the day by remarking: "Sam, it's high time you mere mar-

Electric Transmission. How different it is now, in the transmission of electric power, from what it was, say, 25 years ago, when there had to be relay stations for the trolleys every ten miles or so. For example, in California, physical connection of three large hydro-electric systems has been made by means of which power generated near the California-Oregon line is transmitted continuously for a distance of 300 miles to the San Francisco bay region. Experts were wont to say in the nineties that nothing like this could be done. But it is being done, and experts are now proclaiming that other and greater things contemplated in electric power transmission are impossible. Time will perhaps show that they are not.

The zinc sulphide in most cases gives out in

UNDAUNTED TWINS

By CORONA REMINGTON

"Help! Help! Oh, anybody, help!" Constance Maynert stood on tiptoe and, straining every muscle, tried her best to reach it, but she missed the mark by fully six inches.

"Help! Help!" she creamed again as she stamped her foot and attempted once more to span the distance.

On the verge of hysterics, half laughing and half weeping, she struggled and twisted and turned and pivoted endlessly.

"If I ever get my hands on you!" she threatened, clenching her fists and shaking them in midair; but her words brought forth only echoes from the big silent house.

The girl listened to the sounds outside—a machine went gliding past, then a street car and a truck; but, of course, they could not hear her. At last a car pulled up to the curbing and stopped. Constance shut her eyes tight and put all her force in her next scream. With electric rapidity thumping foot-teps rushed on the porch and a heavy bulk threw itself against the door. It was locked and refused to yield. Fearing her rescuer might escape, Constance repeated her supplications with renewed vigor. In a frenzy her deliverer hurled a flower pot through one of the big plate glass windows and followed on its heels. A second later he stood petrified before her. "Tom!" she exclaimed.

"For the love of Mike!" ejaculated the young man, his face relaxing. "I thought you were bound, gagged and strangled with three daggers stuck through you."

"I didn't yell like it, did I?" "Fact, but who ever played such a trick on you?' asked Tom, beginning to laugh. "If you laugh I'll kill you when I get loose," threatened the girl.

"But how did it happen?" he inquired again.

"I-I washed my hair this morning and braided it up to dry and those twip cousins of mine caught me and tied my plait to the chandelier for a joke. Then they bolted and I have been screaming ever since, but there was no one to hear me, as Aunt Flossy's uptown. You'd think Ralph and Jack were grammar school kids instead of college men.

"Hurry up and untie me, then tell me what you are doing here."

"I must insist on telling you first," he answered, "and I've got you where I want you now. I came here to ask you for the fortieth time to marry me. You know you're going to do it in the end, so why keep me dangling any longer? I'll untie you when you've said 'yes,' then we'll cook up some scheme to avenge ourselves on the twins."

Tom sat down and examined a book. "Say when you're ready and don't forget we're going to get back at the twins."

Constance's deep blue eyes grew almost black with anger.

"I just hate you!" she stormed. Tom went over to her and took her hands, which she pettishly tried to wrench away. "Constance," he said, suddenly grown solemn, "you can't look me in the eye and say that-you know you In reply she wept out her tears on his shoulder. "I guess we'll have to be engaged now," she said a few minutes later, her plat still suspended from the chandelier, "because I always said I'd never let anybody but my fiance k-kiss me.' Tom promptly did it again, then untied her braid. "I'll do what I can to help you get back at the twins this time, but I'll always love them," declared Tom. "What'll we do to snare them?" inquired the girl.

He thought a few seconds. "That smashed window looks spectacular," he commented. "Shall we try to frighten them a whole lot or just a little?"

"Oh, lots and lots," was the eager

The big touring car ate up the white road in front of it with remarkable speed, and they reached their destination long before sunset. As soon as the first excitement was over, Mrs. Maynert handed Tom a telegram.

"It arrived just before you did," she explained. "See, they addressed it care of me; so it must be some one who knew you were going to be here this afternoon."

Ripping open the envelope, he read: "Dear Black Hand-Congratulations, old man! We were standing upstairs in the hall when you did it. PAYS TO HAVE CAMEL LORE

Sure Passport to Confidence of Arabs, as Evidenced by Experience of English Archaeologist.

One way to popularity with Arabs, it appears, is the acquirement of expert acquaintance with the camel, its character, habits, personal appearance, and history. Such knowledge, to be sure, is not a complete equipment for winning the confidence of Arabs, but, according to Lowell Thomas, describing, in Asia magazine, the ascendancy that an English archaeolisgist, now known to the world as Coionel Lawrence, gained over the deseft tribes, it is a great help. Mr. Thomas, incidentally, has learned a good deal about the "ship of the desert" himself, and whoever reads his article will be that much better prepared to enjoy the menagerie of next summer's traveling circus, even if he never has occasion to "talk camel" with a surprised and delighted Arab. The finest breeds of camel, one learns, come from central Arabia, where there are six different species, none of which has more than one hump. And another name for this one-humped camel is "dromedary," which comes from the language of the Greeks, camel that runs." By his hump, moreover, shall ye know a camel, and this useful part of him should be of hard, fatless muscle. Nor should your camel be either too fat or too thin. Long legs are desirable and a small waist. Over good ground a first-class Arabian dromedary can trot as fast as 22 miles an hour, canter up to 28 miles, and gallop at 32. But for a whole day's journey seven miles an hour is his reasonable gait, and if you are starting on a journey of some hundreds of miles it is best to be patient and keep your camel at a walk. On one occasion, however, when speed was necessary, Colonel Lawrence did 300 miles in three days on camel

LATENT POWER IN THE ATOM

Enormous Force That No Doubt Will Some Day Become Available to Mankind's Use.

Only a few years ago it was the teaching that the atom was the smallest division of matter, and today scientists are discussing the possibility of the race learning how to use the force which would become available with the unlocking of the latent atomic power.

Prof. W. A. Noyes discussed the relations between atoms and electrons, which form a part of atoms, in his address upon being awarded the Willard Gibbs medal, and stated that electrons probably rotate. This would make the atom a sort of miniature universe in which its nucleus would correspond to a sun and the electrons to the revolv-

Sir Oliver Lodge, in a recent address, also spoke of the latent atomic power which he considers so very great that it would be disastrous to have it become available to men before a moral plane high enough to prevent its abuse has been reached. He thought that a way to release this great power is not beyond the possible and some day it may supply a satisfactory substitute for that now obtained when molecules, made up of atoms, are shattered by combustion of fuel or other chemical processes.-Scientific American.

HOW NATIVES OF SOUTH SEA ISLANDS TAKE SEA MONSTERS AND CRABS.

-South sea islanders are adept at fishing, the inhabitants going out in frail canoes outside the reefs where sharks usually live and catch monsters that measure from 3 to 15 feet in length. Sometimes the boats are capsized, and as the shark charges the man in the water the man dives under it and rips open its stomach. The sharks are very cunning, however, and generally a dozen of them attack a man at once, tearing him to pieces.

The fish traps used in the South sea islands are many and ingenious. Square traps are made by the natives of Washington islands from bamboo, held together by coir string. The circular entrance of a trap runs about three-quarters of the length of the trap and narrows gradually. Bait is placed beyond its end, the fish swimming in and passing out of the circular tube into the larger confines of the trap.

The crab trap used by the Solomon islanders consists of a small net, inside which is placed a medium sized clam shell, which is lowered to the bottom of the lagoon, opening automatically as it strikes the bottom. When a crab enters the net, the mouth of which is kept open by the extended shell, the watching fisherman pulls on the string, thereby closing the shell with the crab in it.

DOES AWAY WITH WRINKLES

How French Specialist, by Simple Operation, Creates a Skin That Is Permanently Smooth.

Obliteration of wrinkles in the forehead is effected by Dr. Julien Bourget of Paris, by making a curved incision on either side, a few centimeters from the median line and at the junction of the forehead and hairy scalp, removing a crescent-shaped piece of skin, convex above, and closing the wound with intradermal sutures.

Wrinkles in the temporal region, starting at the outer corner of the eye, and extending outward in a fanshaped figure, are removed by spreading out the external margin or base of the triangle. An angular incision is made in the area forming the border of the temporal and frontal regions, and resection of a corresponding angular piece of skin, followed by intradermal suturing, gives the desired

How to Avoid Deafness.

Keep yourself from getting deaf, or improve your hearing if deafness has begun, by "ear drill." That, at any rate, is the advice of Dr. J. Madison Tawlor. Here is the result of an experiment he made: "I inaugurated a series of movements that were designed to restore elasticity to the tissues of the neck, the jaws and the ear structures. The patient was then sixty-nine years of age; now is eightyseven. After a month of these exercises there was a 30 per cent improvement of the hearing." Yawning has long been recognized as a means of aiding the muscles of the throat and chest. The act can be induced by deep breathing and suggestion. It has an acknowledged place in the avoidance of deafness."

How East Indians Catch Fish.

The fisheries of India scarcely differ from those of China, the deep-sea work done by the natives being practically confined to the pearl oyster. But a river fish greatly sought after by native anglers is the tupsee, or bartah. known by Europeans as the mango fish, from its yellowish color. It is not unlike our perch and always commands a high price, partly on account of its toothsomeness, but especially because its air bladder yields isin-

How One Physician Proves Death.

Doctor Icard of Marseilles publishes a new test for death. This is based upon the fact that the body fluids are alkaline in life, but are acid threequarters of an hour after death. Therefore he compresses a fold of skin with a forceps and expresses a drop or two of serum. Ordinary test paper will show after five or ten minutes whether this is alkaline or acid.

How Ireland Is Prospering.

The total extent of land under crops in Ireland in 1918 was 5,711,127 acres, compared with 5,570,592 acres in 1917 and 4,806,575 acres in 1916. As the harvest was a heavy one and the crop was saved under fairly good conlitions, the unusually high prices put farmers in a prosperous position.

WHY =

Underground Workers Are Superstitious

Underground workers in coal and other mines are full of superstitions, some of which are extremely weird. Darkness means mystery, and imagination has created various hobgoblins that are commonly believed to lurk in such subterranean places.

For instance, there is the "ladder dwarf," a hunchbacked demon with a large head and enormously long and powerful arm. His favorite trick is to climb the ladders in mines and, as he passes the rungs, to kick them out one

In Germany the mines are haunted by two supernatural beings called Nickel and Kobold-the former being benevolently disposed and the latter evilly mischievous. They are the gnomes who fill or empty the lodes. Nickel, if properly propitiated, will reproduce metal-bearing ores as fast as they are Kobold, on the other hand, will steal away the metal from the lodes. He blows out the miners' lamps and, if he catches a man alone he may drag him about by the nose or hair. If he has a special grouch against an individual miner he will throw him down a ladder or crush him beneath a downfall of rock.

To gain the good-will of these formidable goblins the miners leave bread, cake and even money in odd places. And as a special means of appeasing them, two metals, nickel and cobalt, have been named after them.

HAVE NO BUSINESS SCRUPLES

Why Firms That Have Dealings With the Wily Jap Must Be Keenly Alert and Watchful.

A British firm once contracted to deliver a piece of machinery in Tokyo, but because of some unavoidable delay was unable to live up to its contract. Fearing lest the Japanese consignees should make efforts to collect the money indemnity due them for nondelivery, according to the Living Age, the Japanese agent of the British firm sent to the home office a suggestion for avoiding payment. Mr. Eis the English agent of the same firm, also stationed in Japan:

"Regarding the matter of escaping penalty for nondelivery of machine, there is a way to creep around same by diplomat. We must make a statement of big strike occur in our factory (of course big untrue). Please address my firm in inclosed form of letter and believe this will avoid penalty of case. As Mr. E- is a most religious and competent man and also heavily upright and godly, it fears me that useless apply for his signature. Please attach name by Yokohama office making forge, but no cause to fear prison happening, as this is often operated by other merchants of highest in-

"It is highest unfortunate Mr. Eso godlike and excessive awkward for business purpose. I think much better add little serpentlike wisdom to upright manhood and so found a good business edifice."

In these few sentences, concludes the Living Age, lies all the wisdom of the East applied to all the wisdom of the West

Why Few Travel in Afghanistan. Even in recent years there have never averaged annually more than five to ten Europeans in Afghanistan. A European or American who wishes to enter the country must have a permit, or firman, signed by the army, asserting that the bearer be allowed to proceed through the country unmolested, and that a bodyguard, pack animals and tents will be supplied for the road. Upon the presentation of this firman to the secretary of state for India, a permit is granted allowing India, a permit is granted allowing the bearer to pass the frontier, but at Sale and Exchange Stables the same time the recipient is required to sign a paper stating that he understands that the British Indian government takes no responsibility either for him or his business. A British subject receives no more protection than any other national. A. C. Jewett writes in Asia.

Why Introspection Is Good. When you build to endure you must do it in the light of your limitations. Only the few are satisfied that they know it all. There are more who need the prod of circumstances to force them into a use of their powers. The wise man knows better than anyone else the limits of his power Accordingly he husbands his resources and measures well his possibilities before he attempts the impossible. Yet he is ever ready to acknowledge the great when he sees it. It's better far to acknowledge your own shortcomings and then strive to rise above

LESSON FOR MARCH 28

REVIEW: THE LIFE WORK OF PETER AND JOHN.

SELECTION FOR READING-Rev. 21:

GOLDEN TEXT-Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world—Matt. 28:19, 20.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—John 1:42; 21:15-24; I Peter 1:3; I John 1:1-4.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Two Stories About Peter (Acts 8:1-16; 12:1-17).

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter and John Winning Others to Christ (material of last ning Others to Christ (material of last quarter).

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC
—Peter and John Compared and Con-

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC —Contribution of Peter and John to Christian History.

The review of the quarter's lessons can be profitably made to center in the service of Peter and John, or perhaps better, the activity and power of the risen and ascended Christ manifest in the service of Peter and John. Lesson 1. Peter Preaches at Pentacost (Acts 2). Peter proves that Jesus Christ arose from the dead, ascended on high and poured forth the Holy Spirit upon the church; the evidence of it was the unusual behavior of the disciples.

Lesson 2. Peter and John Heal a Lame Man (Acts 3).

This remarkable miracle wrought in the name of Jesus Christ proved that though the Jews had crucified him, he was now alive and continued his work through the disciples.

Lesson 3. Peter and John Witnessing of the Risen Christ Before the Sanhedrin (Acts 4).

As a result the Sanhedrin took knowledge that they had been with Jesus, that is, his life and work were being reproduced in and through them. Being with Christ will: 1. Give an experimental knowledge of him, so that the life will remind one of Jesus. 2. Take away the fear of man. Peter, who a little while ago quailed before a Jewish maid, is undaunted before the august sanhedrin. 3. Open a man's lips. Peter said: "We cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard." What the heart feels, the mouth must speak out.

Lesson 4. The Risen Christ Vindicating His Church (Acts 1:5-16).

He passed judgment upon Ananias and Sapphira for their hypocritical pretense of generosity. The living Christ knows the intents of the heart; nothing can be concealed from him.

Lesson 5. The Living Christ Saving Men and Women in Samaria (Acts 8:4-25). His sanction of the preaching of the Gospel by Philip in Samaria is shown by the outpouring of the Holy Spirit. Peter and John were sent by the mother church to confirm the work.

Leson 6. The Living Christ Healing the Sick and Raising the Dead (Acts 9:32-43).

That Christ is alive is proved by the vanquishing of the dreadful malady of palsy and the retenanting of a corpse by the departed soul. Nothing like this had been known since the days of Christ.

Lesson 7. The Risen Christ Revealing Himself to a Gentile (Acts 10).

Peter testifies to Cornellus that Jesus Christ died for sin and is to be the judge of the quick and the dead, and that everyone who believes on him will receive remission of sins.

Leson 8. Peter Is Delivered From Prison Through the Living Christ Sending His Angel to Open the Doors (Acts 12:1-19).

The church prayed for Peter's deliverance and the prison was opened. All power is given him in heaven and in earth; there is nothing too hard for the living Christ.

Lesson 9. Peter Shows the Resurrected Christ as the Head of the Church (I Peter 2:15; 11-25).

Because Christ is alive, those who are joined to him by faith grow. Because of the contact with him they are able to maintain seemly behavior in the various relations of life.

Lesson 10. Christ Is the Revealer of God's Love (I John 4:7-21).

The proof that Christ is alive is the love of God in the hearts of those who have been born again. Lesson 11. Christ Is Alive Because He .Is Walking in the Midst of the Churches (Rev. 1:4-18). Lesson 12. In heaven, the crucified, risen and glorified Christ will be the center of worship. All glory and honor are ascribed to him because of his marvelous work of redemption.

Chicago, Ill.

"Jesus is the world's only Saviour. He alone can bring order out of so-cial revolution. He alone can dem-ocratize industry. He alone can destroy racial hatreds. He alone can perfect peace. Civilization ultimatum is Christ or chaos * * *

The supreme business of the church is to reveal Christ, to introduce Christ to the world. Here will the church be judged. By the success with which she demonstrates this program will it be measured for or against her." These are the words of Dr. Daniel A. Poling in a sermon reported by the Christian Herald.

reported by the Christian Herald.

To bring Christ to the world is undoubtedly the task of the church, and the only task. Bringing the world to Christ is another matter which the biblical revelation of God nowhere requires of us. The world will ultimately be brought to Christ for every knee shall bow and every tongue conknee shall bow and every tongue con-fess that Jesus Christ is Lord, but that will not come to pass in this present age which extends from Christ's first coming to His second. This age will close in judgment, preparatory to the deliver of His will second. Kingdom and the doing of His will on earth as in heaven.

America's need of Christ is appall-

America's need of Christ is appallingly great. Under a surface of civilized veneer, there is a deep-seated moral corruption which nothing can displace except the regenerating power of God. Only as one becomes a partaker of the divine nature can he escape the corruption that is in the world through lust (2 Pet. 1: 4). This corruption may be covered by civilized. corruption may be covered by civilized agencies and restrained by civil law, but its power can be overcome only by a translation out of the kingdom of darkness into the Kingdom of the Son of His love (Col. 1:13; Acts

In Chicago, the second largest city in America, crime increased last year 46 per-cent over the preceding year. The leading newspaper of the city reports that crime has been at the rate of fourteen "jobs" a day. This city is not worse than others in its moral tone. The facts presented simply indicate conditions such as exist everywhere. Another indication of this existing corruption will be seen from the following recent clipping taken from the same newspaper:

Rev. Dr. M. P. Boynton of the Woodlawn Baptist Church went to the theater the other night. Here are a few of the things he told his congregation yesterday about his visit: 'The vilest dances now known in America were shown in their extrements. America were shown in their extremities and glamored with music and light. Dancing that was not permitted ten years ago in the redlight district of Chicago can be seen in any number of the show places in Chicago. The costuming of the chorus was the limit. That sort of thing has gone just as far as it can go this side of nudity. Anybody who would say he attended that show just to hear the music would be a plain liar. This was at one of the supposed highmometer that night was at zero, yet that theater was comfortably filled. It was estimated that there were $3,000 worth of seats occupied. The audience was three-fourths There were a number of children. Some of the boys and girls were not over 15 years of age. I have never listened to a more insidiously filthy play. It is almost unbelievable that such a double suggestion can be made in public and receive applause and awaken laughter. A literal and true description of the performance could not be sent through the mails."

These things together with many others that may be cited enable us to see clearly how great is our country' need of the saving power of our Lord Jesus Christ.

S5 PER MONTH FEEDS ORPHAN

Cleveland H. Dodge Shows What Near East Relief Can Do in Efficient Purchasing.

Buying in wholesale lots and under the most favorable market conditions. Near East Relief of 1 Madison avenue, New York city, with representatives in every state of the Union, has been able to baffle the high cost of living so far as relief supplies for the suffering millions of the Near East are concerned.

Cleveland H. Dodge, treasurer, in a statement shows that the committee is able to provide food for the suffering people of the Near East at prices much lower than the average charge here. A donation of $5 per month will provide food for one orphan, $10 per month provides not only food, but also clothes and shelter for one orphan, and for $15 per month attendance at school is assured to each orphan in addition to food, clothing and shelter.

In the appeal for funds to save the starving remnants of the Armenians and other western Asia peoples, Near East Relief is inviting the American public to "adopt" an orphan at the rates given here. Over 250,000 homeless children are in need of help in the Near East. Women's organizations, lodges, churches and social clubs are responding to the appeal by adopting quotas of orphans for support over a definite period.

This picture, painted especially for the Near East Relief by M. Leone Bracker, vividly portrays what words fail to express-the horrible suffering of the women and children of Armenia and adjacent countries. Peace has blessed Europe and America for more than a year but in Western Asia conditions more frightful than any war time experiences of the martyred populations of Belgium and France still exist. Thousands of women and children escaped massacre by the Turkish soldiers only to face the terrible agonies of death by starvation. At the present time it is estimated that 1,250,000 adults and fully 250,000 orphaned children are completely destitute and in imminent danger of death by starvation and exposure.

The Near East Relief, 1 Madison Avenue, New York, is at present the only organization giving aid to these suffering people and lack of funds still prevents the reaching of more than a small part of the stricken people.

SAVED FROM HAREM

Armenian Girls Rescued from Turks Being Taken to Near East Relief Home.

The three pretty Armenian girls in the auto are taking a real "joy ride," joyful having another meaning from that generally associated with auto riding here. They have been rescued from the harem of a Turk after four years of shameful servitude and are being taken to one of the Near East Relief rescue homes. No wonder they are smiling for the first time since their captivity. The Near East Relief is caring for many thousands of these girls until they can find their relatives. Also it is working to save 250,000 orphans and over a million adults from starvation this winter. That is why it is making a nation wide appeal for funds to carry on its noble work.

"Before and After" in the Near East

"AFTER." From misery to comfort and self-respect in five days' time, simply through the magic of an American ten dollar bill, is a transformation that is being wrought daily in Western Asia by the Near East Relief of 1 Madison Avenue, New York City. The group of five Armenian children shown in two pictures here have reason to bless the American donor of that ten dollar bill. With this money, the expert workers of Near East Relief in Armenia were able to rid the poor children of their loathesome rags and to clothe them with new garments of alaja cloth, woven in a Near East Relief Industrial plant and sewed into garments by the mother of the children. The mother was also paid a small fee for her services in making the garments. This was a lucky family. There are thousands of others not so lucky in the Near East, simply because of a lack of other ten dollar bills. Near East Relief is asking the American people to contribute funds to save the starving in the Bible lands. It is estimated that over 1,250,000 adults are in desperate need, and 250,000 children are orphans and must be cared for. For the sum of $180 a year Near East Relief can not only feed and clothe and shelter an orphan child, but can also give a course in education towards ultimate self-support and independence. Many of these orphans are being "adopted" by Americans, who are providing funds for the support of one or more over a given period.

The Ellicott City Times very pointedly says that people passing through that place in automobiles get the impression that it is "a dead town" because of the disgraceful condition of its main street. St. Paul's had the privilege of hearing Dr. Downie when he so graciously brought his congregation to our church and preached during the pastor's recent illness."

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Bower removed to Hanover, on Wednesday. Young Lady Killed by Mail Truck.

Miss Anna Seylar, aged 23 years, was instantly killed on the Lincoln Highway, near Gettysburg, on Thursday morning, by being struck by a government mail truck.

With her father, Louis Seylar, she was taking a 4-horse wagon, loaded with household goods, to their new home west of Gettysburg. Miss Seylar was walking by the side of the wagon drawing the brakes. One truck passed her safely, but the rear part of a second truck struck Miss Seylar. A coroner's jury exhonorated the driver of the machine.

The girl's father did not know anything had happened until the truck stopped and he looked back to see his daughter's lifeless body lying in the
