NEW ZEALAND IN COMPARISON WITH OTHER LANDS.

An Interesting Sketch of this Little Known Country Here.

How true, and pathetic to the homesick wanderer are the words of our poet, "Home, Home, Sweet, sweet Home; be it ever so humble, there is no place like Home." We have travelled more than round the world several times, and talked with many peoples. We have crossed and recrossed America, Canada, seen something of Tasmania, traversed Australia from south to north and from east to Adelaide; and New Zealand from north to south and from east to west.

Twenty years absence has made many changes here; not only on the faces and forms of men and women, but of nature. We have seen much that is beautiful, made many kind friends, but still I must say, amidst my smiles and my tears, "Home, sweet home, there is no place like home."

But, after all, may there not be more sentiment than reality in this? The man with an objective, and a good wife, can make any place a home, and every home a foretaste of Heaven, if he will. A father one day said to his oldest son; "John, you are a man; you must look round find a girl to your liking, marry, and make a home of your own; that is what I did when I was your age." John replied, "Yes, that was all very well for you, father, but you married mother." Ah, yes, mother once the blushing bride, but now the tender loving mother, and where mother is, there is "Home, sweet Home."

It seems to me we become attached to the home-land, more often because of mother, than from any special advantages the land affords. In our travels many have said to us, "How do you like our country? How does it compare with the United States?" I have had one answer "As I am here now, I may never go back; and if I were there, I might not come here." But since home, I have somewhat changed my mind. As you will see, after all, it is not so much the land of opportunity, as the man who makes his opportunities, or has the initiative to catch them as they pass. We choose our own companions, select our own business, marry our own best girl, hence we make our own environments, rather than our environments making us.

Make no mistake; New Zealand is a glorious country. It is not quite an Eden, but, when you climb to the summit of Mt. Eden, an extinct volcano, and look down upon Auckland, her port and harbor, her church spires her stately public buildings; her beautiful red tiled, semi-detached homes, with green lawns and flowers of all shades in profusion; her shady groves, you often hear the unthought expression "O how beautiful! why it's just like the garden of Eden."

New Zealand is a long, narrow, shaped mountainous strip of beauty. Her streams are inspiring. Her cascades are said to surpass the Niagara Falls in some respects.

The Wanganui River is the famous rowing ground in the North Island, and the Thames in the South Island, where the most famous scullers of the world have dipped their oars. The government is now preparing to harness these falls, and erect mountain streams, and erect electric power plants in both Islands.

Her shores abound in fish, and in her streams sport many speckled beauties. Her mountains pasture multiplied thousands of cattle, sheep, wild hogs, deer, goats, horses, and rabbits are plentiful—but no snakes—though mosquitoes are terrors in some districts. Her mines yield coal, gold, iron ores, building stone. There are some oil wells. Her forests are extensive and her Kauri and Pines seem to pierce the very skies. As they seem to grow all year round, they soon become giants. Gum digging is quite an industry, and diggers make good money. All who are interested can see two grades of gum at the Record office.

Her climate corresponds to the weather here, since March 19 to May 10, 1920. There is but little ice or snow in the North Island, save on the mountain tops. Last winter the snow was over 12 inches deep in the Southern part of South Island. Our coldest point is South, while yours is north.

Stoves are unknown; the heating is done by fire on the open grate. Most of the heat goes up the chimney. I tried to get a little egg stove for 20 years, but failed. The cooking is done on set-in ranges and gas and electric stoves, all up to date—lighting, gas and electricity.

Fruits are grown in large quantities, but the blight and pests are serious menaces to the growers. The Chinese are the principal vegetable gardeners. They do not work fast, but always at it. I heard a man say "They work like the devil and save every penny." They are unlike the Colonial in this. They will ask the highest price, but if they can't get that, they will take what they can get, rather than be idle and lose what they have. The white man asks his price; if he can't get it he "downs tools" and goes on a strike.

Your "wets" tell you all the discontent and social unrest is due to total prohibition. Such is not the case in New Zealand. The worst strike we ever had, was made with the saloon doors wide open, front and back. The Canterbury Plains are well worth seeing; a great sea of (Continued on Fourth Page.)

GAME LAW CHANGES. Hunters Must Wear License Bands on Left Arm.

The greatest step forward that the State Game Department has ever been able to secure in the way of protective legislation, according to State Game Warden E. Lee LeCompte, was the enactment of a law by the Maryland Legislature during its 1920 session providing for a uniform statewide muskrat and other season, opening January 1 and closing March 15.

The law also prohibits the killing of these fur bearing animals by any other means than by trapping or giggering. The law was enacted by marsh land owners, who felt that these animals should be given greater protection. The greatest confusion has hitherto existed in local laws relative to the protection of muskrats and otter.

One of the most striking features of the new game legislation is the requirement that each hunter wear an arm band on his left sleeve while hunting, the number on this band corresponding to the number of the license taken out by the huntsman. The arm band will be furnished the hunter when he takes out his license, and he is compelled to take out a license before he is permitted to hunt. This makes it easier to detect a law violator.

Another important change in the game laws provides for an open season on upland game from November 10 to January 1, inclusive. This law prohibits the killing of ringnecked pheasants at any time during the year. It also provides for the protection of the hen bird of this species and prohibits the sale of quail or ringnecked pheasants except pheasants that are raised in enclosures for propagation.

Other bills protect game preserves and prohibit the killing of any game in enclosures used as game preserves, empowers the Conservation Commission of Maryland to issue permits for the trapping of game birds and game animals to be used in propagation by removing same from one section to another, and prohibit trespassing on all property owned or controlled by the State Game Department under a penalty of $100 fine.

Becoming Monotonous.

Paper price talk in the Record is no doubt becoming monotonous to some of our readers who think (?) they are not interested. Last week, we said newspaper stock was quoted at 12 1/2c in ton lots. We sent in an order, but by that time the price had gone to 14c, and on making complaint, the firm wrote back that we had no kick coming, as the price at the time of writing was 16c. All of this was within less than ten days. What the price may be now, we do not know; and when we will get the 14c paper, is also a "don't know" case.

The question has been asked us—"Why is it that the big dailies have nice white paper, and the country weeklies the yellow stuff?" This is another of the many things we don't know. A protest made by us to a big dealer, recently, as to the poor color and quality of paper, brought us the following reply:

"The standard News at any time is not of the best, and particularly not now. The mills seem to be shipping most any stock, made from any material, so we cannot guarantee the grade of stock."

This does not answer, except as to the one fact. The big city users seem to have an inside track for the best, and the country printer gets what he can when he can—and pays the price he must.

Blue Ridge College Commencement.

The following are the events at Blue Ridge College, prior to, and during, commencement week:

Wednesday, June 2, 10 A. M., commencement exercises. Address by Dr. A. B. Van Ormer, Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa.

Too Much Advertising.

The Record had to decline this week again, about one page of advertising. All advertisers are requested, once more, to bring, or send in, their advertising copy on Monday, each week, as the demand for big space is apt to last for several months. We will do the best we can, without the issue of supplements, which means that we are likely to be unable to accommodate all advertising offered us each week.

Senator France, of Maryland, has announced his "receptive" candidacy for the Republican Presidential nomination, looking to a possible deadlock in the convention. He claims to have been urged on by friends, among them "bankers and business men who believe in the principles" he has advocated in his speeches in the Senate.

TWO CROP REPORTS INDICATE AVERAGE YIELD

Government Report Likely to be Increased Later.

Washington, May 8.—Winter wheat production this year was forecast yesterday at 484,647,000 bushels by the Department of Agriculture, which based its estimates on conditions prevailing May 1. The crop showed a slight improvement from April 1, the forecast of production being 1,030,000 bushels larger than estimated a month ago. Compared with last year's crop, the prospective wheat crop has been reduced 33.8 per-cent.

Abandonment of acreage during the winter was a little greater than in average years, amounting to 11.9 per-cent, or 4,605,000 acres. On the basis of May 1 reports, 34,165,000 acres will be harvested this year, in comparison with nearly 49,000,000 acres last year.

Shortage of labor and a backward spring are believed to have resulted in less abandonment than normally would have taken place, farmers for those reasons allowing fields to stand that otherwise would have been plowed under and planted to other crops.

Work on the farm generally is much behind, owing to the cold and wet spring. Plowing May 1 was only 60.1 per-cent completed, compared with a ten-year average of 71.4 per-cent. Spring planting was 50.2 per-cent finished, while normally it is 59 per-cent done May 1.

Production of rye forecast at 79,789,000 bushels, compared with 88,478,000 last year, and 91,041,000 in 1918. The condition of rye was 85.1 per-cent of a normal compared with 86.8 April 1; 95.4 May 1, last year, and 90.5, the ten-year May 1 average.

The conditions of meadow (hay) lands was 89.4 per-cent, of a normal, the expected hay acreage about 71,752,000 acres and the production forecast 111,831,000 tons, compared with 108,666,000 tons last year. Stocks of hay on farms May 1 were 11,377,000 tons, against 8,559,000 tons last year May 1.

Chicago, May 10.—Underlying developments in the United States seem conspiring against the grain price list. Climatic conditions are much more favorable. The government's wheat estimate of 484,647,000 bushels was about what grain traders expected, but with normal weather they expect an easy addition of 25,000,000 to 30,000,000. The government's estimate a year ago of 900,000,000 shrank 168,000,000 in harvest returns, exceptional damage following an unusual good start.

Improving farm labor conditions come too late for winter wheat acreage, but may make some difference in spring wheat acreage and a decided difference in harvesting efficiency. Announcement of farm labor improvement in these dispatches late last week was based on rather general and quite sudden advices received by the American Steel and Wire Co., after its last weekly crop report had been sent to the printer. Further improvement is indicated and, if it should become notable, all late crop calculations would have to be revised.

Industrial idleness is certainly lowering the average purchasing power, while high cereal prices are the result of poor distribution, not scarcity.

World "Demand," and Home "Price."

"Tobacco smokers abroad are showing a decided preference for cigars over cigarettes, according to export figures given out recently, which show that during February, 6,284,000 more cigars and cheroots were shipped out of the United States than in the same month of the preceding year. On the other hand, 90,169,000 less cigarettes went abroad. The total number of cigars exported was 9,496,000, while cigarettes, 1,339,235,000. However, both cigarette and cigar exports are gaining rapidly, as also is leaf tobacco."

So, here again we have another explanation of "high costs of living" in this country; the big exportation of clothing, shoes, paper, machinery, food supplies of all kinds; and now, the showing for tobacco, cigars and cigarettes. Our manufacturers are trying to supply the world, and what is left we can have if we pay "the price" caused by "the demand," and our government makes no effort to shut down the bars.

No wonder the sentiment "America for Americans" is growing! We are becoming internationalists with a vengeance, and some are making big money out of it—and some are not.

Dedication of the Reformed Church at Keysville.

The program in connection with the dedication of Grace Reformed church at Keysville is as follows:

Sunday evening, May 23, sermon by E. L. Higbee, of Emmitsburg. The morning service will be at 10 o'clock, and the evening service at 7:30.

All are cordially invited to be present at these services.

ARRESTS IN THE BANK CASE. Two Men Have been Identified and are Being Held.

The cashier of the recently robbed Sandy Springs Bank (not Rockville, as we had it last week) has identified a man arrested in Camden, N. J., as the man who forced the bank officials into the vault. The man has also been identified as one of the band observed in a Hudson car after the robbery, and also by a blacksmith as the man who tried to buy a bar of iron at his shop, and attempted to take a shot-gun from an employee.

The man, Adams, Alias Kans, who was arrested at Camden, was indicted for killing Mr. Halliwell and the robbery of the bank, by the Montgomery County Grand Jury, on Saturday.

Another suspect, who is believed to be Pat Keady, was arrested in Philadelphia. He was also identified by cashier Miller, and both will be brought to Maryland for trial.

A third suspect, William Bergman, of Philadelphia, has been released from custody, as he could not be identified; besides he proved a satisfactory alibi.

Still After Race Track Gambling.

A bill is before the U. S. Senate to prohibit transmission in interstate commerce, or through the mails, of race track odds or other news. This would place race gambling in the basis of the "lottery" business, and would go a long way toward killing the gambling feature.

Among those urging the legislation were Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, superintendent of the International Reform Bureau; Deets Pickett, research secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals; Representative Randall of California, Prohibitionist; Samuel Wilson, assistant secretary of the New Jersey Anti-saloon League; Howard Clark Barber, superintendent of the Society for Prevention of Crime of New York; and W. S. Lockhart, of the Louisville Churchmen's Federation.

The witnesses said the legislation was necessary to "protect" states where racetrack gambling was prohibited by law. Dr. Crafts declared games in ordinary gambling dens were "petty larceny" compared with race gambling, and charged that the "race gambling monopoly" had defeated legislators and nullified anti-gambling laws.

A Bank Robbery That Failed.

Holding up bank officials at the point of revolvers, robbing the bank then making an automobile get-away, received a set back in East St. Louis, last Friday. Eight men held up the officials of the "Drovers' National Bank, and proceeded in the usual way, but some of the officials had guns, too, which they used, killing one of the robbers and capturing another.

The rest of the gang then fled without any booty, and two of them were wounded by a posse that went in pursuit.

EX-KAISER'S THRONE TO BE SOLD IN NEW YORK

Royal Furnishings to be Sold to Pay Debts.

New York, May 12.—The imperial German throne is to be sold here at auction. Household effects of Kaiser Wilhelm, the kaiserin and other members of the German imperial family, seized from the imperial palaces of Berlin and Munich for unpaid bills after the emperor abdicated and went to Holland, also will be sold under the hammer here, May 22, one of the city's largest art collectors announced today.

Sixty-five pieces are in the imperial collection, which was brought here two weeks ago by the purchaser and importer, Valdemar Povelson. He declared he had considerable difficulty in getting an export permit from the German Government, which was obtained, he said, only after he had promised to buy food with the net proceeds for resale in Germany. Authenticity of the art objects is vouchered for, Mr. Povelson said, by one of Berlin's most reputable art firms.

Three complete salons, with portieres embroidered with German eagles; wall hangings, rugs made to order in the Orient for the former kaiser, and antiques which have belonged to the imperial German and Bavarian families for centuries are said to be included in the collection. Three complete sets of furniture, including one made for the Empress Elizabeth, wife of Frederick Wilhelm IV, the throne room hangings of red plush, embroidered with Prussian eagles, also are advertised for sale.

I. O. O. F. Meet in Westminster.

A monster demonstration of the Carroll County Lodges of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, consisting of Salem Lodge No. 60, of Westminster; Sulphur Springs Lodge No. 30, of New Windsor; Daniel and Jacob Lodge No. 23, of Manchester; Springfield Lodge No. 134, of Sykesville; Taney Lodge No. 28, of Taneytown; St. Stephens Lodge No. 95, of Daniel; Prosperity Lodge No. 58, of Mt. Airy; Mason and Dixon Lodge No. 69, of Harney, assisted by Hamden Lodge No. 124, of Hamden, Mt. Zion Lodge No. 87, of Pikesville, Potomac Lodge No. 130, of Hagerstown, Frederick City Lodge No. 100, of Frederick City and Littlestown Lodge of Littlestown, Pa., will be held on Tuesday, May 18, in Westminster.

This promises to be one of the greatest and most enthusiastic demonstrations of its kind ever held in the State and every Odd Fellow should make a special effort to be present and participate in the parade and assist in making this occasion a success. There is expected to be at least one thousand five hundred Odd Fellows in full regalia and on foot in this parade.

The parade will be in three divisions and each division led by a band of music. The first division will form on Main St., on the east side of the Opera House, facing east, and will be led by the Mayor and City Council. This division will be composed of the Mt. Pleasant Band, Grand Lodge officers, Taney Lodge, Hamden Lodge, Mt. Zion Lodge, Potomac Lodge, Frederick City Lodge and Littlestown Lodge.

The second division headed by the Boy Scout Band, of Westminster, will form on Main St. on the west side of the Opera House and will be composed of Mt. Airy Lodge, Mason & Dixon Lodge, St. Stephens Lodge and Springfield Lodge.

The third division, led by the Oak Orchard Band, will form on the east side of the Opera House. This division will consist of Sulphur Springs Lodge, Salem Lodge and the candidates who are later to receive their degrees at the Armory.

The procession will move promptly at 6:30 o'clock, east on Main St. to Center, up Center to Green, West on Green to Bond, down Bond to Main, west on Main to Pennsylvania Ave., up Pennsylvania Ave. to Union, up Union to Main, east on Main to Longwell, disbanding at the Armory. Immediately after the parade all Odd Fellows will assemble in the auditorium room of the Armory where short addresses will be made by the Grand Lodge officers while the degree teams are getting in readiness.

There will be from one hundred and fifty to two hundred candidates to receive the first, second and third degree of the Order. Taney Lodge No. 28, of Taneytown, will confer the first degree; Prospect Lodge No. 58, of Mt. Airy, will confer the second degree; Sulphur Springs Lodge No. 130, of New Windsor, will confer the third degree.

Immediately after the conferring of the degrees all will proceed to the Firemen's Building where a light luncheon, consisting of sandwiches, coffee, ice cream and cigars will be served. The committee of arrangements would like to suggest that the citizens of the town decorate their homes and places of business suitable for the occasion.

William Howard Taft, who, for an ex-President has kept very much alive, as well as interested in public matters, now speaks highly of Col. Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, Va., as excellently qualified for the vice-presidential nomination on the Republican ticket.

Marriage Licenses.

Clarence Eyer Otto, and Lamora Blanche Hollenbaugh, both of Union Bridge.

$20.00 and $50.00 counterfeit bank notes are in circulation in Baltimore. The notes contain the pictures of Grant and Cleveland, and the green ink on the back is said to have a smeared appearance.

RAMPAGE OF EXTRAVAGANCE. Warning to the People to Watch Prices in Buying.

New York, May 9.—An appeal to the American people to desist from "a rampage of extravagance" was issued tonight by the National Association of Credit Men in the form of a letter sent by J. H. Tregoe, secretary-treasurer, to its members. The letter read:

"The dance of industrial death in which the people of America are now participating should cease before they have to pay the piper.

"This nation is sound fundamentally and this soundness will continue if people will give up their folly, will become diligent, will work as human beings should work during a time of stress and strain, and thus help to bring about a gradual deflation in currency so that the prices may readily recede and that we may eventually be brought to a condition of industrial and financial health.

"Thrift is in our opinion the expression of real patriotism in these days just as it was in the period of war. The people who spend recklessly are losing sight of the nation's traditions; indeed, they endanger that overthrow of our institutions which some low spirits we are harboring among us are secretly plotting to destroy.

"Just as we have expected, the big middle class of our people with fixed income, that least organized portion of our citizens, is feeling seriously the grinding progress of the upper and nether millstones.

"Watch the price, has been our warning for months. Here has been the chief danger point in our situation and we welcome anything that will keep prices from soaring to a point from which violent reaction would inevitably bring on a sudden collapse in our structure."

The Record received no less than three "secret ballot" cards, last week, from the Literary Digest, on which to designate our choice for Presidential candidates. If it is the plan to send to each person on their mailing list, a card on three different days, and these cards are all returned and tabulated, then published as vox populi, how dependable is such a verdict?

Nobody wants either himself, or his business, to be placed in the "unnecessary" class, and thereby springs a big and serious trouble. We can easily make a list of "unnecessaries" for others, but are mighty careful not to include in the list our own interests; but, when others do it for us, we get wrothy, and that starts the trouble. Our "necessaries," as we see them, are just the other thing, to somebody else.

Some see in the lead of silk, an indication of the tumbling down of prices. Silk was about the first article of merchandise to "go up," and it has now taken a very considerable drop "down"—some say, because of a financial crisis in Japan, which compelled the unloading of big stocks, for cash. Whether it be silk, cotton, shoes, or sugar, the whole country will welcome the leader that will bring about sane prices once more. Some of us would be glad to see paper lead the way.

The Distribution of Trouble and Responsibility.

Nearly every man is disposed to think that his job, his trade, his business, is a little harder to manage, and is less profitable, than that of his neighbor, and especially with those with whom he deals in a business way, as a purchaser. The man who gets the outgo money, is always more or less suspected of getting a little too much; and there is always the feeling that the income is worked harder for than others work for the same amount of income.

Mostly, such conclusions are wrong. Every business, trade and job, has its problems, losses and worries—as well as its work. There isn't even much difference in the distribution of work between those who are actively doing something. Some require more muscular strength than others; but, work is not by any means all physical. Many who work in offices and stores, become as tired at the close of the day as the farmer. The shop man, the travelling man, the teacher, the housewife, the professional man, all tax their strength.

Men get these ideas about "their job" because they are intent on it, and do not know, nor think, of the "other fellow's" troubles. They are apt to grow contemptuous, in fact, when their own burdens are measured with the burdens of others, and are ready to become boastful, or complaining, when they are not given "right" in their own contentions; and this is a pretty serious fact when it is studied out to its proper end, because it is just such beliefs that cause discontent and conflict for more money, more leisure, or more of something that they think they justly earn.

If all classes of workers could arrive at a better understanding of the "other fellow's" work and his problems, there would be many less incorrect mental photographs, and more contentment. The work and trouble, in this world is more equally distributed than we know. We often envy a man or woman, who is apparently healthy, happy and prosperous; but, if we knew everything about them—the ailments that don't show, the troubles in secret, we would not exchange places with them; and so it is with the work and profits question.

any particular object, are rarely happy. The most of us make trouble for ourselves, and lots of unnecessary worry, simply because we imagine things—take our ignorant conception of facts, as representing conditions, that, in reality do not exist. We are better off, and less victims of other people, than we ordinarily have any true conception of.

Will It Happen Three Times?

The "third" party most important now is a party that may be made up from both the Republican and Democratic parties as representing the so-called "Progressives" of a few years ago, and the radicals of the present who want no League of Nations, even with "reservations." Such a party is best represented as to leadership, at present, by Senator Johnson, of California, and Senator Borah, of Idaho, who have for followers men of both parties, who claim to see the purest and best "Americanism" in the kind that sees no duty on the part of this country in helping to police the world.

While the leaders, so far, of such a prospective party, are Republicans, it is believed that the party, once formed, would draw largely from the Democratic party, and not represent, solely, a "split" Republican party. If such a third party develops, it will be after the Republican National Convention, and perhaps also after the Democratic Convention.

Senator Johnson is practically sure not to secure the Republican nomination. It is about equally sure that Senator Johnson and his following, will not calmly accept a nominee favoring the League and Treaty with "reservations." Apparently, there is just one contingency that might prevent a "bolt" of the Johnson wing, and that is the nomination of Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, or some man indorsing the Knox position of a separate Peace Treaty without our entry into the League of Nations.

It is almost a sure thing that the Republicans, if united, would have a "walk over" for the Presidency; but, the same conclusion is not by any means sure, should a new party enter the field. Aside from this, there are the Prohibition and Labor issues to be counted on, both of which are far from settled, and both of which include thousands of voters who would break party ties for the sake of voting for "favorable" candidates.

As less than a month intervenes before the Republican convention at Chicago, these various questions are ceasing to be future probabilities, but are soon to be present emergencies to be met. This is causing Republican sober sentiment to think of eight years ago, and to call for a getting together, and a consequently more serious and conservative estimate of men and issues. There are even some who think Senator Johnson will not be for a third party movement, as he lost out on the proposition, with Col. Roosevelt, and would likely want to avoid such an accident now. He was also partly responsible for the defeat of Mr. Hughes, four years ago.

This is a situation in which good Republican candidates are numerous, but party harmony and cohesion is lacking, and in the Democratic ranks the situation is no better. In fact, about the only hope that party has to elect a successor to President Wilson, is that some sort of chain of circumstances, beyond their control, will develop which will let them win, as was the case both four and eight years ago—something along the indefinite line that "what happens twice will happen three times."

Where Are The "Tramps"?

We are not qualified to differentiate between the "tramp," the "hobo," and the "bum." There is, we believe, a distinction; but when we speak of "tramps" we mean the miscellaneous fellows who call for hand-outs, old hats, or shoes, and who may at times pretend to be a salesman of some sort, or to mend umbrellas—and to the latter we offer any apologies to the few who really make a business of umbrella mending, and do not use it as a blind for some other profession.

So, when we ask—"What has become of the tramps?" we mean to generalize. There is a noticeable absence of the fraternity, and there must be cause for it. Has the professional "Weary Willie" sobered up and gone to work, because of Prohibition enforcement? or has he found honest labor so desirable that he no longer finds it easier and more profitable to "tramp" and beg? Has the closing of saloons made his old route less attractive, and compelled the adoption of the logic that if he can't "licker up" along the line, he might as well do less tramping, and settle down?

There is no question as to his reformation, as a fact, whether it be by desire, or not. The "bum" headquarters in the cities, are doing noticeably less business. The Salvation Army and other agencies that made a specialty of looking after the human derelicts, say this is true. The towns and highways note the loss of this population—and its absence must mean, less drink, and easy money for easy work.

But, the loss in one direction is made up in another. There is more stealing—robberies, burglaries and holdups. Some say, the closing of saloons has made men more desperate; they feel that they have been robbed of a pleasure and "personal privilege," and have shown their resentment by turning to robbery.

An important missing cog in this argument is, that by far the most of our increase in robbery has been through the use of automobiles as accessories, and it is hard to imagine our old-time tramps as auto operators.

The Serious Situation of the Country Weekly.

It is becoming a serious question, both as to how long the country weekly can exist and pay costs of production, and as to what forces are back of the present situation? If it be true that the great demand for paper, the shortage of paper-making materials, etc., is causing the scarcity and enormous cost, that is an honest enough market condition, and the country weekly can have little complaint, unless there is actual discrimination against it in the matter of distribution of the supply of paper.

There is a strong probability that this is just what is taking place. We have heard the talk, for years, on the part of city papers—or at least on the part of those arguing for city papers—that eventually "the country weekly must go," and the city daily take its place, with Rural Delivery as the circulating medium. If given a fair show, and an open field, the country weekly can take care of itself, so far as the city daily is concerned.

But, if there is a movement on foot, as is now charged, to corner the paper output and freeze-out the country weekly, that is another matter. There is hardly any observable disposition manifested, on the part of city papers, to save paper. If anything, Sunday and daily issues are larger than ever, carrying large and profitable advertising contracts; so, why should they care what the cost of paper is—so long as they can get it—or who does not get it?

The city papers would welcome a monopoly of the news dispensing business, and full control of the advertising field. That they never could fill the place supplied by the local papers, need not concern them; but, it does concern hundreds of thousands more people than are now patrons of the city papers, and this concern is perhaps closer to them, in fact, than they imagine.

Right now, every purchaser of a Sunday newspaper is helping to starve his local weekly, because of helping to use up the short paper supply of the country, by buying the four or five sections of advertising pages. The situation is all to the interest of the big papers, whether they are helping to bring it about, or not. At least, they are fighting all propositions that have to do with curtailing the size of papers, or that aim at higher postage rates for carrying. They want no interference with their business, even if that business may result in killing every weekly paper in existence.

Drives and Driven.

The recent so-called "outlaw strike" was but another drive—a drive for higher wages, which is but another name for higher cost of living. There is scarcely an employee in any industry that is not making such a drive. It has come to be the fashion. But who is thinking of the driven?—the multitude of people of small and fixed incomes—the teachers, the preachers, the feeble, the aged, the widow, the crippled? A manufacturer or carrier, whether an individual or a corporation, can raise his prices when his employees "drive" for higher pay; but what of the driven?

Then there are your educational, missionary, benevolent and merciful agencies and institutions—where do they come in? Who thinks of their interests? They are the victims of all these drives for more profit and higher wages, and surely cannot operate on a pre-war basis. Then when in sheer desperation and self-defence they follow the drive method of keeping their heads above the High-Cost-of-Living waters, how the people do bless them for their drives! Why should the driven be denied the right to drive?—The Lutheran.

GRIDDLE CAKES and WAFFLES

From the NEW ROYAL COOK BOOK

THERE is an art in making flapjack pancakes, griddle cakes or waffles, call them what you will. But it is an art very easily and quickly acquired if you follow the right recipes.

Here are some recipes for a variety of breakfast cakes that will make grandmother envious. The secret, of course, is Royal Baking Powder.

Royal Hot Griddle Cakes
2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1 1/2 cups milk
2 tablespoons shortening
Mix and sift dry ingredients; add milk and melted shortening; beat well. Bake on slightly greased hot griddle.

Griddle Cakes with Eggs
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups milk
1 tablespoon shortening
Mix and sift dry ingredients; add beaten eggs, milk and melted shortening; mix well. Bake immediately on hot griddle.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

Buckwheat Cakes
2 cups buckwheat flour
1 cup flour
6 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1 1/2 cups milk or milk and water
1 tablespoon molasses
1 tablespoon shortening
Sift together flours, baking powder and salt; add liquid, molasses and melted shortening; beat three minutes. Bake on hot greased griddle.

Waffles
2 cups flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups milk
2 eggs
1 tablespoon melted shortening
Sift flour, baking powder and salt together; add milk to yolks of eggs; mix thoroughly and add to dry ingredients; add melted shortening and mix in beaten whites of eggs. Bake in well greased hot waffle iron until brown. Serve hot with maple syrup. It should take about 1 1/2 minutes to bake each waffle.

GREEN FEED FOR HEN FLOCK

Providing It Is Relished by Fowls There Probably Is Little Difference in Kind Fed.

Every poultry keeper has a favorite green feed for his flock. Usually it is one that can be supplied with least expense and effort. Providing it is relished by the fowls, there probably is little difference in what kind of green feed is supplied. United States department of agriculture specialists say. Cabbages, turnips and beets are all suitable for this purpose. The larger roots and the cabbages may be suspended by a wire or they may be placed on the floor, in which case it is well to split the turnips or beets lengthwise with a large knife. Potatoes may also be fed and should be cooked. The mangel is excellent for feeding raw.

Clover, cut up and soaked in boiling water, is good when fed with mash, as is clover meal and ground alfalfa. Sprouted oats or other sprouted grains may also be fed and make excellent green feeds, but require considerable labor. As a general thing the flock should have, once a day, about all the green feed it will eat.

RANGE FOR GROWING CHICKS

Quantities of Green Feed, Bugs, Worms and Other Things Obtained in Place of Grain.

Nothing is better for growing chicks than a liberal supply of sour milk. If it can be obtained, it always should be kept before them in an open dish or pan where they can eat and drink it freely. Where sour milk is fed, the amount of beef scrap in the dry mash may be reduced one-half.

Plenty of fresh, clean water is absolutely necessary for all growing chicks. In hot weather, it should be given twice daily and put into fountains or dishes and placed in the shade so as to keep as cool as possible. Clean the water dish thoroughly each day before filling.

An abundance of free range with plenty of shade is necessary if chicks are to grow rapidly and develop into vigorous fowls, says the United States department of agriculture. Growing chicks that have free range obtain quantities of green feed, bugs, worms and other things, therefore requiring less grain, and they are also less liable to sickness or disease. Give your chicks free range whenever possible.

VERMIN ON MATURE POULTRY

Careful Poultryman Will Soon Acquire Habit of Looking for Injurious Insects.

On mature fowls, the lice, or their eggs, can be found between or on the feathers of the fluff, the soft feathers about the thighs and rear part of the body, on the underside of the long wing feathers, on top of the head or among the feathers on the side of the thighs. The careful poultryman gets the habit of looking continually for lice.

ENEMIES OF LITTLE CHICKS

Prevention Is Best Procedure Against Hawks, Crows, Weasels, Cats and Other Pests.

Hawks, crows, rats, foxes, skunks, weasels, cats, and dogs are the most dreaded enemies of the growing chicken and every spring thousands of chicks are destroyed by them. Poultrymen who have given thought and attention to the question of reducing the loss due to these pests, say the best method of procedure is generally prevention.

NO BEST BREED OR VARIETY

Best Plan Is to Select Stock Preferred and Breed Up to High Standard of Quality.

There is no best breed or best variety of fowls. One person will succeed best with a certain breed and his neighbor will prefer a different breed. The best plan is to select the breed or variety that is preferred and, by proper mating, breed it up to a high standard of quality and production.

BABIES HELP PAY FOR WAR

Even Talcum Powder Has Been Levied Upon to Meet Expenditures Due to Slaughter.

The postbellum H. C. L. has hit the babies.

In the Home Sector William G. Shepherd says: "About $3,000,000 will go into Uncle Sam's coffers from the pockets and purses of soda water drinkers in 1920. Folks who like bowling or billiards or pool will give about a million and a half to Uncle Sam. People who play cards will give him two and a quarter millions. Automobiles and motorcycles will bring him in 50 cents a head from the whole 100,000,000 of us. We'll give him about $55,000,000 for going to theaters and movies.

"Every one of the 100,000,000 of us, indeed, will give Uncle Sam an average of two cents a day, directly, for pleasure and conveniences, with baby paying tribute for his talcum powder, mother and sister paying tribute for their perfumes, father paying tribute for his cigarettes and athletic club dues, all the kids paying tribute for the movies and their trips to the corner soda fountain.

"The war did it all, too. We're paying just ten times more to Uncle Sam in internal revenue this year than we did in 1914. We paid so little then—one-tenth of 7½ cents a day—and we paid it so indirectly that few of us realized that there really was such a person in the world as Uncle Sam. At last the old party has found us. Since then a lot of us have fought and died for him. And if he's worth dying for he's worth supporting."

MAY DEVELOP GUM MARKET

Opening of Mesopotamia to Civilization Likely to Add Largely to the World's Supply.

As law and order come into the wild and unsettled mountains of Mesopotamia, especially when new roads and the eventual railway connect the northern Kurdish country around Mosul with the rest of the world, many a now useless tree and shrub will doubtless be put to service as a contributor of gum. The gums of Mesopotamia have many commercial uses, and the unsystematic tapping and trading that now brings the product on pack animals to Sulemanaya, where merchants buy it from the Kurds and sell it again to other merchants in Bagdad, is a mere suggestion of the industry that may be developed by enterprising promoters who may have observed the extent of this natural resource in Mesopotamia and looked further afield than Aleppo and Bagdad for markets. Now that British occupation has opened the land to western ideas, it would not be surprising if the gum industry grew to be a source of considerable national wealth, and an important factor in creating a new Mesopotamia.

Lengthening Life of Silk Stocking.

"No economies are small," says a French proverb, and the professional stocking mender's job is evidence of thrift as understood by the Parisienne. "Here," said one of the craft, "are 30 pairs of silk stockings which have been through my hands more times than I can count, and look at them." They were patched and darned till there was little of the original left, but as Elise remarked, "with boots they still make an effect." Before the war madame paid three half-pence per pair to her mender and provided the thread; now she gives fourpence or fivepence and expects miracles of endurance from the fragile web. Where the mender formerly spent ten minutes she now must devote an hour to some of these stockings, and it is difficult to see how she gets a living. But madame's motto is, "Throw nothing away," and she lives up to it.

Plastic Dressing for Wounds.

Industrial plants are now using the Ambrine treatment for burns, scalds, and all surface wounds which proved very successful for casualties incurred in the world war.

The dressing is a compound of wax and resins, and is solid when cold. It is heated to about 150 degrees Fahrenheit and applied by means of a special atomizer, or it can be generally daubed on with a soft brush. A plastic dressing, impervious to air, is thus formed, which does not adhere to the wound and which promotes the healing process without appreciable contraction. Disfigurement and scars are prevented to a greater extent than was possible under the old methods.

Bold Chinese Bandits.

Bands of kidnapers recently have caused much alarm in Tenchowfu, Shantung, China. Operating in groups of from 30 to 50 they have carried away and held for ransom wealthy Chinese for whom they have obtained as much as $50,000 in some cases. Ten citizens were kidnaped in October. Promises to pay ransoms have been exacted by torture. Troops have been tried to capture the bandits, but have failed. It is believed the kidnapers came from Dalny, crossing the Gulf of Pechili in boats in which they escaped with their captives.

Spanish Licorice Industry.

The manufacture of licorice extract and paste is an important Spanish industry. This is a comparatively new industry, as formerly the root was exported unmanufactured. Over 6,000,000 pounds of the root were exported in 1918 and more than 600,000 pounds of extract and paste.

APOLOGIES TO BR'ER RABBIT

Field Mouse, Not Bunny, Is Anathematized Girdler of Trees, According to Eastern Expert.

An official of the state fish and game commission informs us that we are unjust to the rabbit in ascribing to him all the girdling of fruit trees which has been going on in these parts lately. Our informant says, observes a writer in the Ohio State Journal, that the field mouse is responsible for more than 50 per cent of this damage and we hasten to tender our sincere apologies to the rabbit, whose feelings we would not hurt for the world, and are quick to give the guilty field mouse his just share of censure.

Field mice, it seems have the indefensible habit of burrowing among the roots of small fruit trees in the fall, hollowing out a warm place, as field mice estimate warmth, and spending the winter there. When they get hungry and nothing else is available, they shin up a little way and eat the bark of the tree cunningly making tooth marks almost exactly like rabbits' and thus throwing editors and other experts off the scent. The rabbits are not wholly without sin, but a 49 per cent sinner averages up fairly well with the rest of us. Moreover, the rabbit may easily be foiled in his lapses from grace by placing a piece of rat paper about two feet in height, or a piece of wire netting around the base of each young fruit tree. Perhaps this expedient, like other prohibitory measures, does not build character in the rabbit, but it does in the orchardist. Nothing, we understand, can be done about the field mice unless one stays at the foot of the tree and catches them. They are lost in sin.

DIED TO ESCAPE SUFFERING

Crew of Crippled Hun Submarine Took the Easiest Way Out of a Hopeless Situation.

Admiral Sims in the World's Work tells of the efficiency of the subchaser listening devices. Once when a submarine had been injured and was lying on the bottom in shallow water a grewsome thing was heard. They listened for hours, without hearing a sound; but about 5 o'clock in the afternoon a sharp piercing noise came ringing over the wires. It was a sound that made the listeners' blood run cold.

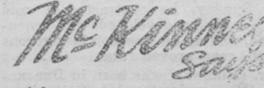

Only one thing in the world could make a sound like that. It was the crack of a revolver. The first report had hardly stilled when another shot was heard; and then there were more in rapid succession. The listeners on two different chasers heard these pistol cracks and counted them; the reports which these men independently made agreed in every detail. In all 25 shots came from the bottom of the sea. As there were from 25 to 30 men in the submarine crew the meaning was all too evident. The larger part of the officers and men, finding themselves shut tightly in their coffin of steel, had resorted to that escape which was not uncommonly availed of by German submarine crews in this hideous war. Nearly all of them had committed suicide.

POULTRY FACTS

PUREBREDS PAY IN POULTRY

Experiment Conducted by North Carolina Station With Flocks of Leghorns.

That the value of purebred males counts as much in poultry raising as in stock raising is shown by the records of three flocks of Leghorns, the data for which have been supplied the United States department of agriculture by the North Carolina experiment station. Flock 1, the egg production of which is included in these records, consisted of common hens; flock 2 was produced by breeding these hens to common males; flock 3 was produced by breeding flock 1 to a rooster from a high-producing hen. The following year the original flock laid 89 eggs a hen; flock 2 laid an average of 88 eggs a hen; and flock 3 laid an average of 136 eggs a hen. This increase of 54 per cent in one year tells very specifically the benefits of using a purebred male. But the percentages alone do not tell the whole story, for a big proportion of the increase came at a season—May and June—when the production of flocks 1 and 2 was relatively low and the prices were good.

Standard Bred Rose-Comb White Leghorn.

HENS BECOME FOND OF EGGS

Habit Usually Formed Through Accidental Breakage—See That Nests Are Darkened.

Fowls become very fond of eggs, once they begin to eat them. This egg-eating usually begins through accident, by eggs being broken. Be careful to see that this does not happen. See that the nests are properly supplied with straw, and have them darkened, so that if an egg is broken the fowls will not be likely to discover it. When egg-eating is discovered among the flock, the best plan is to kill the offending hen.

TURKEYS DEVOUR MANY BUGS

If Given Free Range Fowls Will Readily Find Grasshoppers and Other Insects.

Given plenty of range, turkeys will readily find grasshoppers and other insects, green vegetation, the seeds of weeds and grasses, waste grain and acorns and nuts of various kinds. In this way the cost of raising them is very small and the profits large.

GREEN FEEDS ARE ESSENTIAL

Little Chicks Cannot Eat Too Much, and It Pays to Supply Them With Cut Clover.

Young chicks cannot eat too much bran or green food. It pays to give them as much cut clover as they can eat while they are in the brooder house and allow them plenty of green food on the range as soon as they are able to forage for themselves.

RIGHT PLACE FOR BROODERS

Arrangements Should Be Made to Admit Plenty of Light—Warmth of Spring Needed.

Brooders should always be so placed that they have plenty of light and, if possible, so that they will be reached by the sun. Outdoor brooders are not satisfactory until the warmth of spring takes the snow away and dries the ground.

POULTRY NOTES

Build a cheap house or shelter.

Grow some green crop in the yard.

Don't keep a male bird. Hens lay just as well without a male.

Purchase well-matured pullets rather than hens.

Incubator chicks are just as strong as hen hatched, all else being equal.

Don't expect great success in hatching and raising chicks unless you have had some experience.

Preserve the surplus eggs produced during the spring and summer for use during the fall and winter when eggs are scarce and high in price.

WHY It Is Dangerous to Carry Matches Into Garage

The West Virginia miner who blew himself and family to pieces and tore out one end of his home when he carelessly threw some damp powder into his fireplace to see if it was any good was not much more of a fool than the man who gropes around his garage with matches. One feels just as familiar with the matches as the other did with the powder, but fire and explosives are a bad combination under any circumstances. You may think you know how to handle both without danger, but as soon as you mix carelessness with them the results are almost sure to be fatal.

The motorist has no more right to carry lighted matches in his garage than he would in a powder mill. The destructive potentialities of both are about the same, and under the right conditions the open flame is as dangerous in one place as the other. If your garage is not wired for electric lights, the first investment you should make is to put them in. They are more important than keeping the garage warm in winter, because the latter will merely do the car harm, whereas lack of electric lights will cause you to use matches and that is pretty sure to mean bodily harm to yourself and the rest of the family; perhaps not today or tomorrow, perhaps the very next time you do it. At no time is the danger greater than in winter when the garage is kept snugly closed and the dangerous vapors of gasoline and kerosene have no chance to escape harmlessly into the great outdoors.

But, if you are contemplating suicide, this will no doubt prove valuable, hints Motor Life Magazine, which aims to be helpful in every way possible.

ARE TYRANTS OF THE WILD

Why the Destruction of Fur-Bearing Animals Is Less Cruel Than It Appears.

While the fashions for furs is as imperious as it is now there will be scant reason for saying or writing anything to encourage their wearers. Inclination will be so strong that it will override every consideration except inability to buy them. The exceptions will only put the rule to the test without weakening it.

But many persons with kind hearts and much sympathy for the lower animals may find comfort, none the less, in knowing the greater part of the furs most sought and most valued come from creatures that are themselves extremely destructive and deadly to other forms of animal life. The fur-bearers, as a rule, are fierce slayers of weaker or less courageous and formidable beasts and birds.

How New Photos Are Made.

A snapshot is a photograph taken by a slot machine, and before long these machines may be common features on piers, parades and station platforms. The machine takes your picture, develops it, prints it and delivers it, all in the space of four minutes. This is how it does it. You sit before the machine and drop in your coin. A bell rings and the machine displays this notice: "Now then, turn your head, please, to the right; look at the little cross above the mirror, and smile." Then a lamp lights up the machine. A second warning bell rings, and a new notice appears: "Keep still, please," it says, and you obey. The click of the shutter and the extinguishing of the light inform you that the exposure has been made, but, lest there should be any mistake, a third notice appears, with the following message: "Thank you, the sitting is over, and you can rise from your seat. In four minutes your portrait will be delivered at the bottom of the apparatus." The picture arrives punctually to the second, and if it is not like you that is your fault. The invention is a French one.

Why Tin House Is Probable.

The sound-proof telephone booth is a rarity, but it has been discovered that any booth can be made absolutely sound proof if it is lined with tin. The new idea is applicable in other places where it is desirable to exclude needless sounds, says the Golden Age. One or two layers of tin or aluminum in partitions or between floors are equally effective in shutting out the noise of the neighbor's daughter's piano or the music of the gramophone in the flat above. Family quarrels can be conducted without risk of the neighbors' listening, the dog can bark to his heart's content and the head of the house can indulge in a man's prerogative of relieving himself with unseemly vocal sounds. The tin-lined house would be fire proof or fire resisting. If the tin manufacturers can be vaxed up to the new field for sale of their products and the architects roused to the desirability of getting inexpensive sound-proof effects, the era of the tin house may become a reality.

How to Clean Varnished Paper.

Many kitchens and bathrooms are papered in varnished paper. When soiled this paper can be cleaned and made to look like new if this method is followed: To half a bucketful of water add two tablespoonfuls ammonia. Wash the walls down with this. Then take half a bucketful of clear water and add half a tablespoonful of turpentine. Wash the walls a second time with this, and afterward wipe them as dry as possible. You will find that the paper has a brilliant polish and looks like new.

Don't Buy a Horse Till You Know He is Sound.

The soundness of a horse is one of the first considerations of the buyer and should be of the breeder. If the animal is not sufficiently sound to withstand the use for which he is intended, the logical time to learn of this is before the purchase.

Selection must be based primarily on a thorough, systematic examination; the examination should be based on a clear knowledge of desirable and undesirable qualities.

Not only the presence of unsoundness but also the condition or seriousness of the unsoundness should be noted. Temporary unsoundness should be distinguished from permanent unsoundness. A hurried examination is likely to prove a disappointment.

Observe blemishes, vice, faulty conformation, unsoundness, and general characteristics.

Common blemishes are scars from old wounds, poll evil, scratches, shoe boils, and small ruptures.

Common vices are halter pulling, cribbing, kicking, stall walking, weaving, and biting.

Common faults of conformation are straight shoulders, crooked, weak, or improperly set legs, ewe neck, long, weak back, and drooping croup.

Common unsoundnesses are splints, thoroughpin, spavin, curb, extreme fistula, ringbone, side bones, extreme atrophy of muscles, contracted tendons, and broken wind.

General characteristics include fleshing, temperament, quality, color, and age.

In final selection, look for the good qualities and weigh them against the defects.

Write to the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for a copy of Farmers' Bulletin 779, "How to Select a Sound Horse."

MARRIED

OTTO—HOLLENBAUGH.
Clarence E. Otto and Miss Lamora B. Hollenbaugh, both of Union Bridge, were united in marriage on May 12, at the Lutheran Parsonage, Union Bridge. Rev. W. O. Ibach, officiated.

SHAUM—WISOTZKEY.
Mr. Francis E. Shaum, of Taneytown, and Miss Helen E. Wisotzkey, of Littlestown, were married May 5, 1920, at St. Joseph's church, Taneytown, by Rev. Father Quinn. After spending some time in Baltimore, Philadelphia, New Jersey and Delaware, they returned on Saturday evening to the groom's home, where many of their friends called.

DAVIDSON—ROWAN.
A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the St. Joan of Arc Cathedral, Philadelphia, on Wednesday, April 28, 1920, at 3 o'clock, sharp, when Miss Mary Rowan, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rowan of Ferban, Kings Co., Ireland, and Mr. Benjamin Davidson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Davidson, of Philadelphia, formerly of Mayberry, Carroll Co., were united in marriage.

The attendants were Mrs. Elizabeth Rowan and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Davidson, Mrs. Rose Rowan, mother of the bride and Mr. Thomas Rowan, brother of the bride.

The bride was attired in a white georgette dress, with hat and gloves to match, while the groom wore the conventional black, the bride carrying a bouquet of white roses. After the ceremony a reception was held at the groom's home. The groom has purchased himself a home on West Moreland St., where they will make their future home.

DIED.
Obituaries, poetry and resolutions, charged for at the rate of five cents per line. The regular death notices published free.

MR. JESSE F. BILLMYER.
Mr. Jesse F. Billmyer died at his home in Uniontown, May 9, 1920, aged 74 years, 6 months, 11 days. He had not been well for some time, but was only real ill the last week. He is survived by his widow, one son, Clarence L., and a daughter, Mrs. Mervin Powers, of Baltimore. He was a faithful member of the Church of God; having led the choir for many years.

He taught school in the neighborhood since he was 19, retiring a few years ago, and was also magistrate of the district for a long time, and held other positions of trust.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon, at the Bethel, his pastor Rev. V. K. Betts had charge of the services, and was assisted by Rev. J. H. Gonso.

He was a charter member of the L. O. M., and they held services at the grave. Six of the members acted as bearers: Snader Devilbiss, H. T. Erb, Guy M. Cookson, Geo. Slonaker, E. C. Caylor, and Wm. Messler. Interment in the Hill cemetery.

REV. CHAS. E. REINEWALD, D. D.
Rev. Charles E. Reinewald, aged 59 years, and for 28 years pastor of the Emmitsburg Lutheran church, died at the parsonage there, last Saturday. After conducting services, last Sunday, he contracted a cold which quickly developed into pneumonia, and as he was not in vigorous health, soon proved fatal.

Dr. Reinewald was born in Duncannon, Pa., and attended Gettysburg College and Seminary. His first charge was in Braddock, Pa., where he remained four years, receiving the call to Emmitsburg in 1892. He served one year as President of the Maryland Synod, and was well known and active in all of the work of the Lutheran church. He was rather retiring in disposition, but was greatly beloved as pastor and friend.

He is survived by his widow, one brother in Philadelphia, and three sisters in Gettysburg, Pa.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon, from his church, interment following in the Gettysburg cemetery. The bearers were members of his church council. The services were in charge of Rev. J. A. Singmaster, D. D., President of Gettysburg Theological Seminary, Rev. U. S. G. Rupp, D. D., President Maryland Synod, and Rev. Luther Kuhlman, D. D. A large number of ministers were in the audience, the church being filled to its extreme capacity.

IN MEMORIAM.
Jennie E. Weant, nee Koons, who departed this life, 6 months ago, Nov. 11, 1919.

When the birds sang in the Spring-time,
And the flowers bloomed in the dale;
And the brooklet rippled softly,
As it wandered in the vale;
When your eyes with love-light sparkled,
Like the dew-drops in the Sun,
And your cheeks were like the roses,
It was then, my heart you won.

It was in the warm mid-Summer,
That I pledged you to be mine;
Sweetly do I yet remember
How our hearts with love entwined.
When the harvest moon was waning,
The blossoms too were gone and past,
Of the flowers, few were fading—
Love unfailing filled my breast.

Three decades and five have gone since Then dear,
And I love you still the same;
Like old the fire rekindles
When I think of your sweet name,
Jennie dear, I love you still,
Love's still burning in my heart,
There is none your place can fill,
In my poor-lone-aching heart.

Love still lingers in my heart dear,
Sweetly as in the days of yore;
And my love is just as tender,
That you've crossed to the other shore,
When the violets are blooming,
And the Spring-birds have come again,
I will think of you, dear heart,
In the Home-land, free from pain.

Your loving husband,
J. FRANK WEANT.

golden grain. Sheep raising and dairying are the principal industries. Many are coming to the North Island, milder climate and better conditions; still the prettiest girls we saw were in Christ church, and one asked us if all the Americans said "I guess?"

In the North Island the cattle are never sheetered. Milk cows out in the open all year round. Now you can do your own figuring and see how much more hard work the dairyman does here than there, and pay for it beside. I would never farm, or dairy again, in a zero climate. Wellington is the capital city, but Auckland surpasses it on almost every line. The Wellington city council took over the milk supply to ensure pure milk, but we saw but little improvement. One man was arrested for watering the milk, but the evidence failed to convict. At last the delivery boy owned up that he had "poured the milk into the water," but swore "he did not put the water into the milk." Dried milk is much used and meets the need.

On some stations in some districts the cattle, sheep and hogs are much diseased. A veterinary surgeon told me that one-half that came to the killing pens were more or less diseased. I saw one exceptionally bad lot of sheep slaughtered. Now, just a little secret—the carcasses were run off on four tracks. No. 1 were unfit—made into phosphate; No. 2 potted meats—the manager said "I never eat potted meat;" No. 3 "What you buy in the meat shops;" No. 4 exported—take your choice.

Our public school buildings are usually up to date. A fine staff of teachers; some of the best were jailed two years because they would not fight. The schools are well attended, and while the Bible unfortunately is not made the standard text book; any denomination can give free lectures at certain hours and the teachers will be present to insure order and attention.

We contend the public school teacher, next to the mother, is the most important person in the land in moulding the character of the child, and "the way the twig is bent the tree is inclined." They deserve more consideration and better pay from the government. The governor should demand the highest moral character, good health and power to impart for "teachers are born, not made" in the schools. On the other hand, a wise people would make it well worth while, for upon the condition of the teacher depends largely the physical, mental and moral character of the child, and the child makes the man, and the man makes the nation of fits or unfits.

We lost total prohibition by a few thousand votes, but we will win. Strikes are very common. I asked a man once what he struck about? he said "I don't know." It seems to me they are about as sensible in many cases as the little boy who was crying lustily, then stopped, and after a few minutes cried harder than ever. His father in desperation said, "Well George what in the world are you crying for now." Between his sobs and tears he said "I'm crying, now cause I forgot what I was crying about a while ago."

The kitchen and the cook are fast dying out, if we are to judge by the increasing number of lounge bars, and light refreshment rooms. Just before we left, nearly every one had begun to serve up hot cooked dinners. Lolly (candy) and ice cream and saloons are doing a rushing trade—and we have the open saloon too.

We are sorry to say the styles and misfits are just about the same. The dresses are cut low and high, and don't fit in the middle. The club feet of China are no more unsightly, and not so destructive to the general health of the women, their comfort, and the future of the race, as the high-heeled shoes are to the style, poise, beauty, comfort, health, happiness of our women. Read Isaiah 3—about "the daughters of Zion."

Rotorno is one of the most interesting, unique and uncanny places in the world. Its hot and cold springs and boiling mud puddles and spouting geysers are well worth seeing. The pink and white terraces, the finest in the world, were blown up and completely destroyed.

The Maoris are the native land owners, but like all other countries, the white man robbed him, but the government is, in a measure, righting the wrongs of the vandals. They are a kindly people, subject to education and civilization, but being inclined to the phlegmatic and great eaters, are not too fond of hard work. We have two Maoris in Parliament, and some very able ministers. We visited the Maori college for girls, at Nahier where one of our Maori girls is now being educated. It will rank with the best white schools.

On the whole, the people of New Zealand are a fine blooded stock and fairly prosperous. The wages are high, but not so high as in Vancouver. The death rate is about the lowest. The general health fair, but there, like here, the people are overfed, and under nourished; and they can not buy their beauty nor health in the shop. While the people are kind and hospitable, there is something lacking in the "come in and take dinner with us" spirit, so manifest among us in this section, especially.

I love my home land, but comparing climates, conditions, politics, cost of living, everything, with all other places we have been we believe we speak the truth when we say, New Zealand is the garden spot of the world, just now.

In memory of
ROY S. DUTTKER.

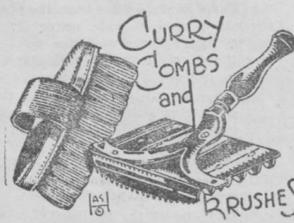

The month of May is here,
The saddest of the year;
He is gone, our dear loved one,
From the cold earth away.

To us thy memory's ever dear,
It is sad and yet it is sweet;
Sad to recall the pleasure past,
And sweet to know to meet.

Oh, Roy, we miss you everywhere,
And we cannot help but mourn,
When we see your empty chair,
And know that you are gone.

'Twas Said-

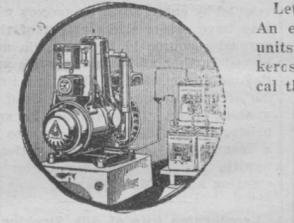

"Optimists are right, provided they are not unreasonable and excessive," said a fusion leader at a fusion luncheon in New York. "The optimism of our opponents," he went on, "reminds me of Smith. A druggist said to Smith, one night at the lodge: 'There's a movement on foot to make drugs cheaper.' 'Good!' said Smith, 'Good! That will bring sickness within the reach of all!'"

ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS State Scholarships in Engineering Courses

Entrance Examinations for the Department of Engineering, as well as for the College of Arts and Sciences, will be held in the Civil Engineering Building, Homewood, Monday-Saturday, June 21-26, 1920, beginning at 9 A. M., each day, under the auspices of the College Entrance Examination Board.

Applications for Scholarships in the Department of Engineering, established under the provisions of the Laws of Maryland, Chapter 90, 1912, will now be received. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship, a competitive examination must be taken Friday, Sept. 17, 1920, beginning at 9 A. M. Appointments will be made soon thereafter.

Each Legislative District of Baltimore City and each county of the State, with the exception of Cecil, Harford, Queen Anne's, Talbot and Worcester counties, will be entitled to one or more scholarships for the year 1920-1921, in addition to those which have already been assigned. In the five counties mentioned above, all the available scholarships have been awarded.

Under the provisions of the Act of Assembly, the County and City Scholarships in the department of Engineering are awarded only to deserving students whose financial circumstances are such that they are unable to obtain an education in Engineering unless free tuition be granted to them. The scholarships entitle the holders to free tuition, free use of text-books, and exemption from all regular fees. One of the scholarships in each county and each Legislative District of the City carries also the sum of $200. The expense of attendance for those who do not receive scholarships is not greater than at other Maryland institutions.

Scholarships may be awarded to graduates of Loyola College, St. John's College, Washington College, Western Maryland College, Maryland Agricultural College, Mt. St. Mary's College, Rock Hill College. One scholarship will be awarded "At Large." Applicants should address The Registrar, The Johns Hopkins University for blank forms of application and for catalogues giving information as to examinations, award of scholarships, and courses of instruction. The next session begins Tuesday, Sept. 28, 1920. 5-14-20

HANOVER, PA.

FIFTY-EIGHT FIFTY

By R. RAY BAKER

(© 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

It did not look like a good investment that Hilda Caruthers had made. No, Hilda had not taken a fliter in copper, oil or motors. She had simply bought a dress.

Clothes being a necessity, the purchase of a dress when one is needed is an investment. But Hilda was fairly well supplied with wearing apparel that was pretty enough, but suited only to everyday wear.

The reason the dress in question did not look like a good investment was that she wanted it for one special occasion, and it cost $58.50 of the $60 she had in the bank.

It seemed like downright foolishness but she just had to go to Anne's wedding, and as Anne's wedding was to be an event of stellar social importance common clothes would be out of place.

Anne was the best girl friend Hilda ever had. They had been chums in school and had been together so much they were taken for sisters, and even began to feel that way themselves.

In their senior year at high school the two girls became separated when Anne's parents moved with her to a near-by city. However, the two girls corresponded regularly and were as good friends as ever, spending most of their vacation periods together.

Hilda was graduated from high school, took a business course and became a bookkeeper in a department store. Anne took a position as stenographer in a broker's office.

Three years later came the surprising news from Anne:

"I'm going to marry a millionaire!"

It seemed that Anne's employer fell in love with her and she with him, and there could be only one natural result. In the midst of preparations for the wedding the Moorehouse home burned to the ground, and plans were upset for a short time.

Then Anne got the idea she would like to be married in the little church she used to attend in her old home town; so the two families most concerned motored thither.

It was to be an elaborate function, and consequently when Hilda received an invitation she knew it behooved her to adorn herself suitably for the occasion.

The wedding was set for eleven o'clock in the morning, and at nine Hilda set out afoot for the church. It had been raining hard, but had cleared off, and the sun was shining brightly.

Two blocks from the church she stopped at a corner to let a big coupe roll past. The machine was closer to her than she had calculated as she stood on the walk, and the rear wheel churned up a sea of mud and hurled a tidal wave at Hilda.

As the auto vanished round a corner a block away the girl stood and with her fists rubbed wet dirt out of her eyes and looked down at her dress to see that it was ruined.

Hilda realized that as far as her presence was concerned the wedding might have been on Mars. She simply could not attend in that mud-bespattered costume. There was only one thing to do—retrace her steps, take off the $58.50 worth of ruined goods and spend the day in misery in her room.

As she walked dolefully toward her home, trying vainly to brush the clinging mud from her, a feeling of rage gradually rose within her. She remembered how she had seen a young man driving the coupe, and she recalled that he had smiled at her as he drenched her with mud.

For a moment the smiling face had attracted her and she had wished that she might know the young man. Now she had the same longing, but for a different reason. She would like to present him with a slice of her mind.

Fretting and fuming, Hilda wended her way homeward, while the wedding guests crowded the church, and the bride-to-be, with the assistance of a maid, got into her gown in her room at the hotel, and the groom-to-be sat in his room with his father and smoked black cigars to steady his nerves.

In the midst of these preparations the telephone in Anne's room summoned her, and when she turned from the instrument she displayed excitement.

"Get mother," she ordered the maid. "Gwendolin has had a nervous collapse and can't act as bridesmaid. Anybody would think she was going to be married, instead of her cousin. I was afraid she'd do something like that, she's so high-strung. Mother insisted on having her, though. Now maybe she'll consent to get word to Hilda this late, and if she'll consent to playing second fiddle."

So Mrs. Moorehouse fluttered onto the scene, and when she had been made acquainted with the situation she fluttered to the young man who was about to become her son-in-law. The latter's brother, who was to act as best man, had just driven up in his machine.

"Fred," directed the prospective groom, "take a run up to the church and yank Hilda Caruthers out of the audience and bring her here. She can wear one of Anne's dresses."

"I don't know her," Fred objected. "Mrs. Moorehouse fluttered back to her daughter and returned with a picture of Hilda. Fred's face took on a queer, elated expression as he studied it.

"That's funny," he remarked. "I passed that girl just a little while ago on a corner a few blocks from here."

He went away, muttering. "The real funny part of it is, though, that she struck my eye and I nearly ran over an ice wagon, because I was looking back at her."

Fred was unable to find Hilda among the guests assembled at the church. He asked the church ushers and they stated positively that Miss Caruthers had not arrived. So he got her address and went to her home.

Hilda had entered her room and was on the point of taking off the mud-ruined dress when her aunt called her. Hilda's parents had died within a year of each other shortly after Anne moved from the city, and she was living with her uncle and aunt.

"There's a young man here to see you on important business," said the aunt. "He wants you for bridesmaid at the wedding. He's the brother of the groom."

Hilda began to unfasten her dress. "I won't change," she decided suddenly. "I'll just show them that I did have a good dress, even if it is ruined now."

When she saw Fred her feeling of anger returned, but the smile with which he greeted her made it impossible for her to harbor her wrath. So she smiled in return and said:

"You're to blame for this mud. Your old car did it, and that's the reason I'm not at the church now."

"Never mind," he returned. "Come along in the car, and I'll apologize on the way. They'll fix you up at the hotel."

But Fred did not take the shortest way. Instead he drove several blocks in the wrong direction. The truth is he was captivated by Hilda—well, you can't get around it. There is such a thing as love at first sight, and mud can't alter it.

At the hotel the bridal party waited in vain for the bridesmaid and best man.

Mrs. Moorehouse was all adutter and was for telephoning the police and the hospitals to ascertain whether there had been an accident. The mother of the prospective groom was little more composed, while the two fathers held an excited conference and the young man who was to become a husband smoked black cigars and dug his finger nails into the palms of his hands.

For half an hour the bridal party waited, and the assemblage at the church grew restless, and some of it left. The tension at the hotel ended when Anne was called to the phone.

"This is Fred," said the voice on the wire. "Say, I forgot all about your wedding, I was so interested in your friend Hilda. You'll pardon me, but I couldn't help taking her for a ride, and we had a mishap. Oh, we didn't get hurt, but we got pretty well acquainted. We'll be right up to the hotel. Better get those clothes ready for Hilda, because she's going to be your attendant, all right; but what's more interesting to me—there's going to be a double wedding."

HISTORIC RELICS IN BOSTON

Painters' Arms and the Boston Stone Have Been Preserved in Building Erected in 1652.

Two mementoes of the colonial period, the Painters' arms and the Boston stone, are set in the wall of an old building in the north end of Boston, a historic quarter which has changed little with passing time. This building, erected in 1652 by Thomas Marshall, became, in 1692, the property of Thomas Child, the painter, who erected his arms over the doorway nine years later, testifying to a partnership in business between the painter and his wife, for the initials which embellish the carved board, "C. T. K.", are interpreted as standing for "Child, Thomas and Katherine." The date, 1701, appears finely graven in wood, and showing the striking design which was conceived to advertise the talents of the "painter stainer," as Child was referred to. The Painters' arms has an artistic as well as a historic value.

Thomas Child and his wife were also responsible for the Boston stone. The round grinding stone was found in 1737 by Joseph Howe, who bought the site of the colonial paint shop, while he was cleaning up the yard. The stone was covered with paint, and a little inquiry proved conclusively that it was the means Thomas Child had used to grind his colors.

James Davis, who bought the property in 1835, set both the Boston stone and the Painters' arms into the wall of his new building. His heirs have the same regard for these relics that he had, and have seen to it that both stone and sign are protected as symbols of the industry which flourished on the site 200 years ago.

Considerable Pelting.

While motoring with a party of friends in the far West our car crashed through a wooden railing on a high embankment along a drive near the Oregon river.

The car ran 50 feet down the bank and landed in the midst of a picnic party which was just beginning to have a feast. The big car dashed among the picnickers, made them scatter, and demolished the spread.

We congratulated ourselves that the car had not turned over and tried to explain matters, offering to pay for all damages, but the picnickers, none of whom understood English, assaulted us with the mangled remains of their banquet.

We hurried away and found ourselves considerably disfigured by the pies, cakes, pickles, jelly, chicken and broken dishes with which we were pelted.—Exchange.

Tintinnabulating Tambourines Doomed to Minor Salvation Role

TAMBOURINES AT SALVATION ARMY HEADQUARTERS, NEW YORK CITY

THE America of the old fashioned Americans is gone; it's all ended. Some still cling to primrose hopes, but with the recent announcement that the Salvation Army lassies have given up their tambourines for street collecting—pshaw! What's the use?

It started with the buffaloes. Some New York traveling men, dressed in the latest spring styles, ventured out West. The buffaloes took one squint, lay down on their spinal cords, closed their eyes, groaned and died.

And then there came about the passing of another beloved American institution—the front yard. Home life hasn't been the same since. With the advent of skyscraper tenements and flats front yards vanished. Now the heads of households when they come home at night worn out with arguing golf at the office all day have to sit on the front doorsteps or go to the movies.

Suspenders have gone too. And gone are 50 cent Sunday table d'hote dinners, and family surreys, and all-day suckers.

And now the time honored role of the Salvation Army lassie's tintinnabulating tambourine is doomed. You will find these once popular musical collection boxes piled up by the hundreds at Salvation Army headquarters.

The lassies, heartened by the country's approval of their overseas war service, have found it unnecessary to waste effort in tambourine solicitations, and they devote the time thus saved to actual slum work and general service to all distressed humanity. So they've called off the year-round tambourine collecting and appeal to the nation annually for financial approval. The 1920 Appeal is scheduled for May 10th to 20th.

The lassies will still beat the tambourines in the Salvation Army praise services, however. They quote a number of Psalms as authority. Here is Psalm 149, 3:

"Let them sing praises unto Him with the timbrel and harp."

The "timbrel" is the ancients' name for the modern Salvation Army tambourine. Well, goodbye, old tambourine. We'll miss your cheering tinkle and the acknowledging smile of your mistress, but you did your bit.

Beat Drum—Spent Night in Prison

BY hitting a big bass drum just one resounding whack for which she spent a night in jail, a resolute black eyed girl changed the police classification of Salvation Army drumming from "petty nuisance" to "music."

That was twenty-two years ago, and the black eyes have grown more gentle in years of service for the poor since those battling days, but they still twinkle when the story is told.

It was Mrs. Adam Gifford, wife of the colonel now commanding the New England forces of the Salvation Army, who wielded the drumstick and struck defiance at the Pennsylvania blue coated policeman of the town where she and her husband were then stationed.

Irate citizens had complained bitterly of the Salvation Army and its street corner meetings and musical services, but particularly of the bass drums of the band. Night after night the drums had been confiscated by the police, but to no effect. Finally a police order went out to "arrest anyone attempting to beat a drum."

Following this Colonel Gifford in an effort to test the constitutionality of the order advertised that upon a certain evening a monster meeting would be held and that upon that occasion Mrs. Gifford would beat the drum.

As anticipated, a record breaking crowd was turned out. The police reserves were called upon to quell the riots which might ensue. At a given signal Mrs. Gifford gave the drum a resounding thump and the meeting was under way. Immediately the frail little Salvation Army lassie was placed under arrest and escorted by a crowd of amused but sympathetic onlookers to the patrol wagon and thence to the local jail, where she spent the night.

The case was taken before the supreme court of the state, where eventually the contention of the "Army" was sustained.

Following the decision the entire corps, led by Colonel Gifford, marched to the city hall to demand the drums that had been confiscated by the police. Twenty-eight of the offending "prisoners" were released in the custody of the corps. From that date to the present none of the meetings of the Salvation Army has been disturbed by the police. Furthermore, the precedent established, has been maintained in nearly every state in the Union.

LESSON FOR MAY 16

VICTORY UNDER SAMUEL.

LESSON TEXT—1 Sam. 7:2-14.
GOLDEN TEXT—Prepare your hearts unto the Lord and serve him.—1 Sam. 7:3.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—1 Sam. 6:19-7:1; 8:1-3.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Boy Who Became a Useful Man.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Great Leader Praying.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC
—Victory Through Prayer.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC
—Qualifications for Leadership.

In our last lesson we saw Israel's overwhelming defeat and the capture of the ark by the Philistines. While they triumphed over Israel, they did not triumph over Israel's God. Through the presence of the ark God was working among the Philistines.
Note:

1. The ark at Ashdod (5:1-6). It was placed in the heathen temple alongside of Dagon, with the expectation that the ark would be destroyed, showing that Dagon was mightier than God,
but Dagon was humiliated and broken.
Besides this the people were afflicted with emerods, or hemorrhoids, showing the hand of the living God upon them in judgment.

2. The ark at Gath (5:7-9). Here immediately the same dreadful disease broke out that had afflicted the Ashdodites, accompanied with great mortality. They then carried the ark to Ekron.

3. The ark at Ekron (5:10-12). At Ekron the destruction was still more awful. Many were slain and the rest were smitten with emerods so that their cry went up to heaven. The contest was decisively in favor of God.
Upon the advice of the lords of the Philistines the ark was returned to Israel. This was done in such a way as to show conclusively that the hand of God was upon them in judgment.

1. Samuel Calls Israel to Repentance
(7:2-4).

Some twenty years have now elapsed since Israel was humiliated by the Philistines, during which time Israel "lamented after the Lord." We know not why Samuel had not been heard from through all these years. Doubtless he continued to exercise the prophetic office during this time, but now he is appointed to the office of judge, also. He asked the people to turn to the Lord with all their hearts,
the proof of which would be:

1. To put away their idolatrous worship. This was really gross licentious-ness under the guise of religion.

2. To direct their hearts unto the Lord and serve him only. He assures them that deliverance would come as soon as this was sincerely complied with.

11. Israel Assembled at Mizpeh (vv.
5, 6).

This was for the purpose of confessing their sins.

1. They poured water before the Lord. This symbolized their need of cleansing and the pouring out of their hearts in penitence before the Lord.

2. They fasted and publicly confessed their sins.

III. The Philistines Attack Israel.
(v. 7).

The assembly of Israel at Mizpeh alarmed the Philistines. They interpreted the gathering as a preparation to attack them, so they thought to frustrate Israel's attack upon them by attacking them first; or perhaps they recognized that the return of the people to the Lord meant a return to power and decided to attack them while unprepared.

IV. The Intercession of Samuel. (vv.
8, 9).

The Israelites urged Samuel to pray to God for them. Instead of trusting to the ark for deliverance they now looked to God. Samuel accompanied his intercession with a burnt offering, showing that he looked for acceptance
in the sacrifice of another, even Christ, through whose offering a way of access was opened unto God.

V. The Victory Over the Philistines
(vv. 10, 11).

This was the result of God's interposition. "The Lord thundered with a great thunder on that day and discomfited them." The men of Israel followed up this advantage to such complete victory that the Philistines did not come back to power during the days of Samuel. The Lord will fight our battles if we put our trust in him;
no enemy can stand before the Almighty.

VI. A Memorial of Deliverance (vv.
12-14).

Samuel set up a stone between Miz-peh and Shen and called it Ebenezer, which means "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us." Since God has interposed in our behalf and wrought deliverance for us, it is proper that a memorial be set up which will commemorate it.

Our Conduct.

"Conduct is three-fourths of life."
What we have to do, as Christian men, is to bring the great principles of the gospel to bear upon our small duties, and day by day to feel that, because we say we have faith in Jesus Christ, therefore we are bound to cultivate all manner of holiness and purity.—Dr.
Maclaren.

nyson.

Religion Pays
I Corinthians 3:18-23.

A proviso needs to be added to this topic. Religion pays—on certain conditions.

First, it must be the true religion—
the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ,
a divinely revealed religion, not a system of philosophy or thought, even though it be called "new thought." If a false religion grips the life, it does not pay. It impoverishes, defiles and destroys. This is not only true of the gross forms of religion, such as prevail in lands where Christ is not known, but in the more refined forms of religion, such as exist in evangelical or so-called Christian lands. It is a very serious thing to be misled in religious matters. Only the truth sets free. Error and falsity bind and hinder, dwarf and destroy. Christ Himself is the Truth, He alone sets free. Ideas do not save, God saves and He saves those only who accept His Son to be their personal Saviour from sin.

Again religion pays if we go in for it wholeheartedly. Mr. Moody once said that many people had just enough religion to make them miserable. Observation and experience verify this.
Of all the people that came out of Egypt, only two entered the promised land—Joshua and Caleb. They entered because they had "another spirit" and "wholly followed the Lord their God."

A certain man had a wife who was very fond of painting. For a long time the husband could never see any beauty in her paintings; they all looked like a daub to him. One day his eyes troubled him and he went to see an oculist. The man looked in amazement at him and said, "You have what we call a short eye and a long eye, and that makes everything blur. He gave him some glasses that just fitted him and enabled him to see clearly. Then the man understood why it was that his wife was so carried away with art, and he went and built an art gallery and fitted it full of beautiful things because everything looked so different after he had his eyes straightened. There are lots of people who have a long eye and a short eye, and they make miserable work of their Christian life. They keep one eye on the eternal city and the other eye on the plains of Sodom, and like Lot of old-time, they have a miserable experience and lose out in the end.

A truly religious life lived in the spirit of devotion and wholeheartedness is of the utmost profit, having promise of the life that now is and of that which is to come.

Pastoral Admonition, Gently Conveyed,
Should Have Been Enough for Even Choir Boys.

The pastor of a small parish in a New Jersey town was known far and wide about the countryside for his quaint ways and eccentric habits. He had a small choir which he augmented on special occasions with boys from the neighborhood. These recruits were sometimes unruly and he did not always find it easy to hold them within the proper bounds.

In the course of a Christmas morning sermon several choir boys began to eat peanuts surreptitiously and the crackling of the shells was plainly audible to the congregation. At first the rector paid no attention to them,
but finally they got on his nerves.
Pausing after an impassioned outburst of oratory, he fixed his gaze sternly upon them and thus addressed them in reproving tones:

"Boys—you choir boys, I mean. If you must eat peanuts in church, please, oh, please, do not crunch the shells,"
then turning again to the congregation,
he resumed his discourse.

Maine Liquor Laws.

"Maine law" was the name given, in the state of Maine to an act "to prohibit drinking houses and tipping shops." It was passed in May, 1851; received the signature of the governor on June 2 and was first enforced at Bangor on July 4 of the same year.
This law was re-enacted, in all its parts, in 1858, and was made more stringent in 1867 and again in 1870. It was so amended in 1872 as to bring cider and wine from grapes grown in the state within the prohibition. In 1884 an amendment was added to the constitution prohibiting forever the sale of intoxicating liquors within the limits of the state. Since 1851 the expression "Maine law" has been used colloquially to denote any state enactment prohibiting the sale of intoxicating drinks.—Boston Globe.

What Becomes of Old Cars?

It has generally been assumed that when an automobile begins to show its age, it gravitates to the rural districts, but the observing traveler knows that the average farmer likes a new car as well as the city man; it is evident that the fate of used cars, and the reason for the comparatively strong price maintained on them, must be sought in other directions.

Many second-hand cars are bought by small tradesmen, who convert them to commercial uses; but by far the larger number return to their makers, or to the various branches, where they are dissected for the many parts that,
with a little cleaning, can be used again, thus freeing the shops from the necessity of turning out quantities of parts for replacement stock.

A CALL TO THE YOUNG WOMEN OF MARYLAND

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE CEN-TENARY BEING CELEBRATED IN BALTIMORE THIS WEEK.

Under The Auspices Of The Maryland
State Association Of Graduate Nurses.

GRADUATE NURSES ARE ALL HELPING.

Through emphasizing the life work of Florence Nightingale and her wonderful contribution toward alleviating suffering by her nursing and her revolutionizing of the care of the sick, the Maryland State Association of Graduate Nurses, in the celebration this week of the centenary of this remarkable woman is hoping to stir up such interest throughout the state in the nursing profession as will react toward increasing the number of young women who will take up this profession as their life work. Wednesday, May 12th, is the anniversary of Florence Nightingale's birth and it is on this date that the celebration is to take place. It will be held in Baltimore and representatives of the nursing profession in every county of the state as well as of the various nursing institutions of the city will participate.

Throughout the counties the superintendents of the hospitals and training schools, are taking a keen interest in the celebration and in the effort to pay fitting tribute to the memory of the "first trained nurse," while at the same time bringing home to the young women of their neighborhoods the advantages as well as the opportunity for real service to humanity to be found in nursing.

The Graduate Nurses' Association has sent out invitations very generally for the celebration which takes place in the Associate Congregational Church, Preston street and Maryland avenue. Dr. William H. Welch will preside. Dr. Howard A. Kelly will make the address and other members of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland are to participate, in addition to the members of the nurses' organizations. The church is to be decorated for the occasion, and a feature of the observance will be the showing of lantern pictures of scenes and incidents in the life of Florence Nightingale and in the life and duties of nurses.

In charge of the arrangements is a committee representing the Nurses Association, the officers of which are:
Miss E. M. Lawler, of Johns Hopkins
Hospital, president; Miss Jane E.
Nash, Church Home and Infirmary, and Miss Eleanor Evans, Union Protestant Infirmary, vice-presidents; Miss Sarah F. Martin, secretary, and Miss Bernice V. Connor, treasurer.

The graduating classes—the graduates—the Public Health Nurses—Army Nurses and as many other nursing groups as we may have from the schools of nursing throughout the state will attend in uniform and form in procession, which will be one of the most interesting features of the celebration.

The idea of those in charge of the arrangements for the celebration is that both the training schools and the nursing organizations need primarily a better public understanding of their work. The training schools throughout Maryland have a second vital interest which is particularly important at the present time—which is to bring before the public "Nursing as a Profession", and to urge young women to see the opportunities in the field of nursing.

It is felt that the returns from the Nightingale centenary can scarcely fail to be considerable, both in the shape of a public better informed concerning the work of Schools of Nursing and Nursing organizations, and therefore more responsive to appeals for larger numbers of desirable recruits to the training schools.

Florence Nightingale was born at Florence, Italy. At the age of thirty-two she began her nursing career, studying hospitals and nursing methods in Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium and Italy, and was appointed superintendent of a private hospital in London in 1853. At the outbreak of the Crimean War she was selected by Sir Sidney Herbert, Secretary of War, to superintend hospitals at the front.
In October, 1854, she went to the Crimea taking charge of 38 nurses. In two months she had transformed the hospital, secured supplies, established sanitation, and reduced the deathrate from forty-two to two per cent.
She returned to England at the end of the war, July, 1856.

It was from this beginning that Florence Nightingale went forward to her wonderful life of organization and teaching which finds its ultimate fruit in the day to day nursing in the hospitals and sick rooms of the world today; and has its echo in the praises and blessings which the countless number of sufferers as well as the soldiers of the Wars of more modern times shower upon the followers of the "Lady with a lamp."

She died in 1910, at the age of ninety years.

"Honor to those whose words or deeds
Thus help us in our daily needs,
And by their overflow
Raise us from what is low."

COUNTY QUOTAS
ARE ANNOUNCED

Salvation Army Appeal For Home Service Funds Start In Maryland Monday.

The Salvation Army appeal for funds with which to carry on its home service here in Maryland, will be made next Monday, May 11. Every county in the State has been organized and has its county chairman, treasurer, teams and workers, all on their toes and ready to put the appeal across.

Honorable Franklin K. Lane, former Secretary of the Interior, is chairman of the national appeal committee. In Maryland Governor Ritchie is state chairman for the men's division, with Mrs. J. Charles Linthicum, chairman of the women's section.

Cardinal Gibbons, Bishop John Gardner Murray, General John J. Pershing, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, the Secretary of War, Newton D. Baker, and the Secretary of the Navy, Josephus Daniels, are among the thousands of prominent men of the country who have heartily endorsed the Salvation Army and who ask the people of the country to give as freely to this appeal as the Salvationists have given of the time and labors, both before, during and after the war.

The Maryland General Assembly, at its session this year, passed resolutions endorsing the Salvation Army's work at home and on the battlefield.

The quotas asked of the different counties in Maryland are as follows:
Allegany (Cumberland), $33,500
(Bldg.); (Frostburg), $4,150.

- Calvert, $1,150.
- Caroline, $2,950.
- Carroll, $3,450.
- Cecil, $2,500.
- Charles, $1,750.
- Dorchester, $3,200.
- Frederick, $5,000.
- Garrett, $2,300.
- Hartford, $2,850.
- Howard, $1,750.
- Kent, $1,750.
- Montgomery, $3,450.
- Prince George's, $3,700.
- Queen Anne's, $1,750.
- St. Mary's, $1,740.
- Somerset, $2,850.
- Talbot, $1,850.
- Washington, $5,500.
- Wicomico, $2,850.
- Worcester, $2,300.

Salvation Army officials hope not only to continue all their present humanitarian activities, but to widen the scope of many of them. If the answer falls short, the plans for expansion and extension must be abandoned and the present work perhaps curtailed.

Only a small portion of the Army's work is self-supporting. The rescue homes for unfortunate women; the hospitals, including the maternity hospitals which care for thousands of mothers of the poorer classes; the slum settlements which are such bright spots in the squalor of the tenement districts, demand constant financial aid. The fresh air camps, the prison work, and the founding homes are supported wholly from the Home Service fund. The evangelical work, the bureaus which yearly give away great amounts of food, clothing and supplies to those in dire need, as well as many other activities and institutions of the Salvationists, derive their means of existence from the same source.

The name of the fund indicates the purpose for which subscriptions are sought. It is to make possible the Home Service of the Army in America, to insure the continuation of its labors
in the communities of America.

Profit With Safety

¶ In our childhood story books we learned of the little boy who searched for the pot of gold at the foot of the Rainbow.

¶ Today the country is flooded with offerings which picture in glowing terms the enormous returns which should accrue and yet in actual fact are often as elusive as the Rainbow's Gold.

¶ Any good investment should have three essential factors:

- First SAFETY
- Second PROFIT
- Third MARKET VALUE

¶ The securities sold by The R. L. Dollings Company are safe because they finance only going staple industries which are willing to come under their supervision and control after a most searching investigation by the Service Department.

¶ The securities of The R. L. Dollings Company are profitable in that the return to the investor is Seven Per Cent., paid semi-annually.

¶ The securities sold by The R. L. Dollings Company are non-speculative, hence the market value does not fluctuate.

The continued cold, for Springtime, raises the question whether there will be a Spring, this year?

Chas. E. Angell and Wm. Hefflin, of Baltimore, spent Sunday with Harvey Stultz and family, on Uniontown Ave.

Dr. Harvey Fouke, of Baltimore, who is unwell, came to Taneytown, last week, to try to recuperate his health.

Rev. G. Wilbur Shipley, the new Presbyterian pastor, expects to be here Saturday evening, for the Sunday services.

George Benner and sister, Miss Lulu, of Libertytown, brother and sister of Dr. C. M. Benner, visited the latter, over Sunday.

J. Whitfield Buffington, wife and daughter, of Washington, have been visiting their relatives in town and vicinity, the past week.

Joseph Douglas, who recently underwent a very serious surgical operation at a Baltimore hospital, is reported to be getting better.

Rev. W. G. Minnick, of Baltimore, paid the Record office a brief visit, on Tuesday. He attended Dr. Reinwald's funeral, in Emmitsburg.

William W. Witherow, who makes his home with his son, Charles, in Washington, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Thurlow W. Null, of Harney.

Mrs. A. V. Cashman, who is at the Church Home and Infirmary following a surgical operation, is getting along fine, and will likely be home within ten days.

One of the old-time visitors—wedding cake—came to the Editor's office this week, from the Shaum home. We were quite surprised, and forgot to say, "thank you!"

Saturday is not the best day in the week for street cleaning, but a pretty good job was done, nevertheless, last Saturday, on Baltimore St., which is now relieved of a few tons of dirt.

Rev. Wm. E. Wheeler, of St. Louis, thinks he and the Mrs. are becoming "checker experts," as they have "moved" again—the second time in about three months—this time to 5115 Bates Ave.

Rev. D. J. Wolf, of Apollo, Pa., spent Wednesday night in town. He is looking well, and was on his return from Washington and Frederick, where he was engaged in special church work.

B. Walter Crapster has been named to canvass Taneytown district for members for the American Legion. A meeting was held in Westminster, Wednesday night, in the interest of a drive for members.

The four-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Bankard broke her right arm badly, last Saturday, and was taken to Frederick Hospital in order to get proper adjustment. She is home again and getting along nicely.

Attention is called to the entertainment, next Friday night, May 21, for the benefit of the Soldier's Memorial fund. This should call for a crowded house; not only because the program itself will be a good one, but because of the worthiness of a local object.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Boyd entertained, last Sunday, at their home; John D. Ohler and bride, Thomas Fox and wife, John Shorb and wife, Joseph Fox and wife, William Anders wife and daughter, Beulah; Harry Deberry and wife, Miss Carrie Fox, Roy Moore and Upton Austian.

Preliminary arrangements have been made to hold Decoration Day services in Taneytown on Sunday afternoon, May 30th. A committee made up from the several Lodges will have charge of the details, notice of which will be given later. There will be a program in one of the churches, followed by a parade to the cemeteries and the decoration of graves by the children.

St. Joseph's Supper and Bazar.

(For the record.)
The supper and bazaar held at the Opera House in the interest of St. Joseph's Catholic Church was a glorious success. The glory accruing redounds no less to the broad-minded and liberal people of Taneytown than to the actual workers. The Young People's Club takes this opportunity to express its sincere gratitude to their fellowtownsmen who regarded neither creed nor politics in their laudable efforts to carry the affair to success.

Although the supper was a delight the fancy table a dream, the confectionery table most tempting, they did not furnish the diversion of the evening. Our children supplied us with a very pleasing entertainment. That was the surprise that we promised and these present conceded that it was a most agreeable one. Our children did well. This was due entirely to the efforts of the good Sisters who are devoting their lives to our little ones. It was they who drew up the whole program and trained the youngsters. The program follows, "It is Home where Mother Dwells," a song, rendered by Misses Margaret Smith, Ruth Sanders and Rita Shaum and Masters Vincent Arnold and Joseph Kuhns; another song, "Papa Can't Find Me," Misses Margaret Shaum and Helen Smith; a comedy skit "Handy Andy" with Master Allen Sanders playing the title role and Master Vincent Arnold the employer. The entertainment was brought to close with a rather clever rendition of a quack doctor song by Master Joseph Kuhns.

A Treat for Our Citizens.

The two great entertainers, R. H. Hendershot, the original "Drummer Boy of the Rappahannock," and his son H. B. Hendershot, one of the most wonderful drummers and fifers in the world, assisted by local talent, will be at the Taneytown Opera House, Friday, May 21, at 8 P. M.

The proceeds of this unique entertainment will be for the benefit of the Soldiers' Memorial Fund of Taneytown district, and because of its object, as well as for the program itself, the building should be filled.

Mr. J. Hendershot enlisted in the U. S. Army as drummer boy in the 9th Michigan Infantry, in 1861, before he was 11 years old. He and his son have a world-wide reputation as entertainers, and have appeared, during the years since the war, before thousands of audiences. His imitation and explanation of an engine, and his imitation of a battle, are alone worth more than the price of admission, which is 35c for adults, and 20c for children.

Visitors to Europe, Beware!

Persons visiting continental Europe are having queer experiences owing to the scarcity of gold and silver. France does not permit any one to take coins of either of those metals out of the country, but insists that the person who is departing surrender them and take French notes instead at the normal rate of exchange.

A British peer had an experience at Boulogne that illustrates to what absurd lengths some of the officials go in their efforts to enforce the regulation.

The peer had a fine gold watch when he entered France. He still wore it when he sought to return, but the official demanded that His Lordship surrender the watch and also the chain. The peer protested vigorously. "It belongs to me," he shouted vehemently. "I brought it with me and I'll take it back."

"It is gold and all gold must be surrendered," the official declared. "Is there to be no exception?" inquired His Lordship.

"None whatever," was the reply. "How about these, then?" the peer asked, opening his mouth and showing his gold-filled teeth.

The Frenchman smiled and decided to pass the Englishman's gold, teeth, gold watch, gold chain and all. Americans going abroad had better beware.

The Foolish Rich.

Sometime ago we noted that a school girl under age found it impossible to live on an inheritance annuity of $6000 and made out a budget of needs almost double that amount. The news was widely commented on in the press. A good cure for her luxurious tastes would have been to take her out of school and teach her the delightful and invigorating benefits of scrubbing floors, washing dishes and cooking meals. Imagine the women toilers of the country reading her grievances against a wealthy estate because she could not live on an income sufficient to support several good sized families! How it would set the microbes of Bolshevism on fire in their bosoms!

And now we are told of a widow who pleads in court for an allowance of $15,000 per annum from an estate to keep her two boys in comfort, claiming that $12,000 is insufficient. Let the toilers of the country read this and similar inflated ideas of indulgence, and what must be the outcome? Surely something must happen to cure this epicurean insanity, or Bolshevism will spread like wildfire. Something will happen—a panic.—The Lutheran.

DISEASE CARRIED BY INSECTS

Small Creatures Not Only Offensive, but Constitute a Positive Menace to Health.

The role of insects in the transmission of diseases is becoming more prominent each year, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The fly, the mosquito, the flea and the "cootie" have come to represent not merely offensive nuisances to man, but also positive menaces to his health. The habits of these insects have therefore become of interest to the medical investigator and the sanitary expert no less than to the entomologist.

It has been definitely determined that the last named of these disease carriers is sensitive to temperatures that approach the body temperature of man. Owing to the high temperature of the body in summer, they wander out on ordinary garments. For the same reason they wander away from persons in fever. It is recorded that persons leaving a temperate climate for the tropics may become freed from these pests.

It has also been found that black clothing may repel them, for the reason that it absorbs more heat rays than lighter colors. Perspiration, induced by warm clothing will also hasten the exodus, since the "cootie" does not tolerate excessive moisture.
