

WOMEN ARE NOT ELIGIBLE AS JURORS IN MARYLAND.

State Law Limits Jury Service to Men Only.

The Frederick News is authority for the following, which is likely correct, so far as Maryland is concerned: "Women jurors will not sit in the jury box of the Circuit Court of Frederick county for the present at least, according to Judge Glenn B. Werthington. A State law limits jury service to men only and as long as that law is in force, women will not be allowed to serve as jurors."

This law can only be amended by the State Assembly and as that body does not meet until 1922, and as it alone has the power to grant the newly enfranchised voters the right to sit as jurors, women will have to wait to see what action the Assembly will take in this matter.

This announcement will in all likelihood cause consternation in the ranks of the new voters, many of whom would like to take an active part in the course of justice. Much interest was manifested by women in several court cases recently specially the Sandy Springs case at which trials women thronged the court house room at all sessions. Numbers, in all probability, attended the trials to get acquainted with the procedure of court so that when they would have a chance to sit as jurors, they would go about it like old timers. However the ruling dispels all hope of the women sitting as jurors until at least 1922.

Quite a number of States have changed their statutes, allowing women to act as jurors and already many instances have come to light where a jury has been composed entirely of women. However until the legislature changes the law, jury service will be limited to men only in this State.

Fruit Growers' Second Meeting.

The Carroll County Fruit Growers' Association will hold its second annual meeting in the County Agent's office, Times building, Westminster, Tuesday, Feb. 1, at 1:30 P. M.

The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss co-operative buying of orchard supplies and the possibility of co-operative marketing of fruit this fall. S. B. Shaw, Horticulturist, Univ. of Md., will be present and will talk on "Spraying and Spray Materials."

All persons interested in fruit growing should be a member of this Association. The annual dues are $1.50, which also entitles them to membership in the Md. State Horticultural Society.

Come out and bring your friends along.

DON'T DO IT!

Don't pay to any glib-tongued agent, who is a stranger to you, any money on account of subscription to any magazine, or publication of any kind. This scheme to defraud is so old that one would think nobody could be fooled by it; but, new fables are being born right along. Do not, in fact, pay strange agents, money for any article—the more catching the offer, the more likely you are to be caught.

Recently, a pair of agents took nearly $3000 out of Allegany county for subscriptions to a religious paper—a $1.00 a year proposition. The fellows did not represent the paper, but misrepresented themselves as canvassers for it.

Particularly now, when regular prices are high, these crooked agent solicitors find their game easy to play, by working on the "getting a bargain" desire of people, who appear ready to believe that home dealers are robbing them. Right now, it will be good policy to deal only with people you know.

Carroll County Damage Case.

Frederick, Md., Jan. 26—A verdict for the defendant was rendered yesterday by a jury in the suit of Mrs. Catherine A. Heath against Joseph P. and Cookson T. Yingling for $10,000 damages for alleged injuries caused by an automobile accident.

The cases were removed from Carroll county. The plaintiffs alleged that the automobile in which they were riding collided with a truck of the defendants standing in the road without lights. The defendants contended that the automobile was running at a high rate of speed on the wrong side of the road and said that the front lights on the truck were burning and a lighted lantern was hanging over the rear of the truck.

The suit of George T. Heath for the same amount has been dropped.

Public Sale Advertising.

Sale advertising for this season is beginning earlier than usual, because of the large number of February sales. Beginning with the present issue, sale advertising will be a feature of The Record until the close of the season about April 1. Read The Record for more sale advertising than you are likely to see in any other county paper.

NEAR EAST CONTRIBUTIONS.

List of Amounts So Far Received in Carroll County.

Believing that the people of the county will be interested in the progress of the work for Near East Relief, we make the following statement of contributions:

Piney Creek Brethren, $43.00; Westminster M. E., $25.00; Calvary Luth., $20.65; Linwood Union, $25.00; Western Md. College, $100.00; Greenmount, $61.50; Taneytown Presbyterian, $4.85; Taneytown Lutheran, $60.43; Brandenburg, $30.25; Silver Run Luth., $49.82; Union Bridge Brethren, $60.00; Uniontown M. P., $22.95; Taneytown Luth. Young Men's Class, $25.00; Baust, $25.00.

Other church contributions from Sunday schools or from school and congregation combined are: Carrollton Ch. of God, $5.00; Carrollton Circuit M. E., $16.00; Bethel M. E., New Windsor, $43.40; Stone Chapel, $130.75; St. Benjamin's Ref., $100.00; Uniontown M. P., $234.00; Taneytown Presbyterian, $26.13; Same, C. E., $4.15; Thomas Chapel, $15.25; Taneytown Luth. Club-A, $180.00; Bethel Church, $19.00; Hampstead M. E., $54.25; New Windsor M. E., $250.31; Ascension Parish, $10.00; Mayberry, $15.82; Meadow Branch, $204.25; Finksburg M. P., $110.52; St. Benjamin's Luth., $37.00; Cranberry, $25.00; Taneytown Ref., $31.10; St. Paul's Luth., $5.00; Same C. E., $3.00; Taneytown Luth. Jr. C. E., $5.00; Baust Luth. Miss. Soc., $10.00; St. Paul's Ref., $5.00; Sykesville Episcopal, $30.00; Union Bridge M. P., $48.82; Union Bridge M. E., $42.00; Middleburg M. E., $28.00; Sandymount, $15.00; Messiah Luth., $57.00; Leislers' Luth., $36.00; Manchester Ref., $104.30; Westminster M. P., $177.02; Bachman's Luth., $62.00; Piney Creek Presbyterian, $55.00.

Lodge contributions: Plymouth Lodge, A. F. & A. M., $35.00; Door to Virtue Lodge, A. F. & A. M., $25.00; Monocacy Lodge, A. F. & A. M., $25.00; Prudence Lodge, A. F. & A. M., $10.00; Lebanon Lodge, A. F. & A. M., $5.00; Westminster K. of P., $20.00.

Miscellaneous: Westminster W. C. T. U., $25.00; Carroll County Savings Bank, $20.00; Westminster Realty & Trust Co., $5.00; Taneytown Grain & Supply Co., $5.00; Wesley school, Dist. No. 4, $10.51; Westminster High school, $5.00; New Windsor school, $3.00.

Individual contributions: One of $200.00; one of $50.00; five of $25.00; twenty-four of $10.00; thirty-seven of $5.00; six of $3.00; one of $2.50; twenty-nine of $1.00; ten of $2.00; one of 50 cents.

It is possible that errors and omissions have occurred in the copying of this list, but it is at least very nearly correct. It can be easily seen that while many of the church contributions, and some individual gifts are very commendable, only a small portion of our people have made contributions of any size. The need is continuous. Send in your contribution to the treasurer, J. Pearre Wantz, of Westminster. Get us a club of fifteen—that is fifteen people who will each send $1.00 per month, and send it together. If you have not given a generous contribution, send it now.

The Fellow Who Thinks He Can.

If you think you are beaten, you are; If you think that you dare not, you don't; If you'd like to win, but think you can't,

It's almost a cinch you won't; If you think you'll lose, you've lost; For out in the world you find Success begins with a fellow's will; It's all in the state of mind.

Full many a race is lost Ere even a step is run, And many a coward fails Ere even his work's begun.

Think big, and your deeds will grow; Think small, and you fall behind; Think that you can, and you will; It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you're outclassed, you are; You've got to think high to rise; You've got to be sure of yourself before

You can ever win a prize. Life's battles don't always go To the stronger or faster man; But soon or late the man who wins Is the fellow who thinks he can.

—Trench and Camp.

Many of the big Western flour mills, have reduced wages 15%, besides reducing the number employed.

SUCCESS

It's doing your job the best you can
And being just to your fellowman;
It's making money, but holding friends,
And staying true to your aims and ends;
It's figuring how and learning why,
And looking forward and thinking high,
And dreaming a little and doing much;
It's always keeping in closer touch
With what is finest in word and deed;
It's being thorough, yet making speed;
It's struggling on with a will to win,
But taking loss with a cheerful grin;
It's sharing sorrow and work and mirth
And making better this good old earth;
It's serving, striving through strain and stress
It's doing your noblest—that's success.

DOG UPSET FORD CAR.

Innocent Cause of Accident in Which Two Men Were Hurt.

Selecting just the inopportune moment to cross the road, a pet dog belonging to Jacob King, was the cause of an accident in which Chas. Riley and David Cluck, of Gettysburg, were painfully though not seriously injured on Tuesday afternoon.

The men were passing along the Lincoln Highway 2 miles west of New Oxford, near the farm of Curtis Miller, in a motor car. The dog, unaware of the approaching machine, darted across the road. When the car struck the animal the front wheels were suddenly twisted, and although the car was moving slowly, it overturned twice.

The men, who were cut and bruised and badly shaken up, were later taken to Gettysburg. The automobile was partly wrecked. The dog was seriously injured.

Death of Civil War Veteran.

(For the Record.) Jeremiah Fleagle died at his home in Detroit, Kansas, on Monday, Jan. 10, of cancer of the stomach, in his 83 year. He was the last of the seven sons of the late Daniel Fleagle; namely, Peter, Uriah, Daniel, John, Abraham, Benjamin and Jeremiah. He enlisted from his home near Oregon school house, with his brother, Abraham, at Union Bridge, in the 5th Md. Regt., in the early part of '61, and served three years and nine months in the service. He was wounded once.

After the war he went West, and married a Miss Sarah Fisher, from near McMadden's Mill. He leaves a wife and ten children and 31 grandchildren, to mourn his loss; four boys, Harry F., of Solomon, Kans.; Charles F., of Buckeye, Kans.; Nelson F., of Rockford, Ill.; Jeremiah F., of Saskatchewan, Canada; and six daughters, Mrs. Fred Heiny, of Tallmage, Kan.; Mrs. Jess Crider, of Moonlight, Kan.; Mrs. Robert Pickering, of Abilene, Kan.; Mrs. Ernest Lecron, of Detroit, Kan.; Mrs. Crist Crider, of Junction City, Kan.; Mrs. Ivin Page, of Abilene, Kan.

All the sons-in-law were his pall bearers; was buried on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 12, at Bethel church. Services conducted by Rev. Sheets and Rev. Martin. Mr. F. was sick but a sort time; had a hemorrhage early in the Fall, was up and around on Saturday night, when he fell in the kitchen and from that on he had lost the power of his limbs, and was conscious up to his death. His nephew, Elmer W. Fleagle, of Harrisburg, had been out recently to see him, and found him very well. A good husband and a kind father has gone to his reward.

Game and Fish Laws.

Declaring that the fish laws are in a very deplorable condition, due to the many local laws, E. Lee Le Compte, State game warden, in his annual report states that he recommends the repeal of all laws in this State protecting fish, both commercial and game, by the enactment of one bill, statewide, which would cover all counties.

He estimates that game killed in the State of Maryland during the hunting season of 1920 would amount in dollars and cents to not less than $500,000.

The reports from all sections of the State indicate that there is a decided increase in game, especially in bobwhite, quail, rabbit, grouse and wild turkey, which is due to the protection given them under the migratory bird treaty act, as well as the prohibiting of killing of birds during their migration to the north in the spring, and prohibiting the sale of the same by market hunters.

Opposed to More Sunday Laws.

"Liberty" is the name of a magazine published in Washington, purporting to be "a magazine of religious freedom." The contents of the issue that reached our office, this week, is chiefly directed against Sunday laws; or at least against any further extension, or enforcement, of present laws, and opposes what it terms "religious fanaticism" and the efforts of the Lord's Day Alliance. It apparently subscribes of what is called the declaration of principles of the "Religious Liberty Association."

FARM WAGES IN KENT.

Farmers Organize and Recommend Scale of Wages.

According to an article in the Baltimore Sun, the farmers of Kent county held a meeting at Chestertown, on Tuesday, and after discussing the question of wages to be paid for farm work, arrived at the following conclusions:

"A standard day's work on a farm to be from sun-up to sun-down, laborer to be ready to go to work at sun-up and finish his work at sun-down. The maximum wage for a month laborer to be $25 a month, with board and keep for laborer's horse, or $30 a month with board and no keep for the horse.

The maximum wage for a day laborer for regular farm work to be $1 a day and board.

The maximum wage for a day laborer for special farm work to be $2 a day and board, special farm work to be construed to mean cutting wheat, shocking wheat, threshing wheat, harvesting pay, filling silo and cutting corn.

The wage for husking corn to be 25 cents a barrel, without board.

The maximum wage for a woman's work in a farmhouse kitchen, including washing, to be $15 a month, or $10 a month without washing.

The maximum wage for a day's work in the kitchen for a woman to be 75 cents.

When a laborer is from one-half to one hour late his breakfast is to be forfeited.

The chairman was directed to appoint committees in each section of the county to place these recommendations before the farmers for their acceptance or rejection."

Proceedings of the Orphans' Court.

Monday, Jan. 24, 1921.—Letters of administration on the estate of Geo. Ehrhart, deceased, were granted unto John H. Ehrhart, who received an order to notify creditors.

Katherine G. Nice, administratrix of Susie S. Hall, deceased, returned inventories of personal property, real estate and debts, and received an order to sell personal property.

The last will and testament of D. Wellington Meyers, deceased, was admitted to probate and letters testamentary thereon were granted unto Annie Meyers, who received warrant to appraise and an order to notify creditors.

Tuesday, Jan. 25, 1921.—The last will and testament of William R. Steele, deceased, was admitted to probate and letters testamentary thereon were granted unto Elizabeth S. Steele, who received an order to notify creditors.

Emerson C. Barlow, administrator of Laura V. Barlow, deceased, returned inventories of personal property and debts, and received an order to sell personal property.

Letters of administration on the estate of Fredrick Will, deceased, were granted unto Charles E. Will, who received warrant to appraise and an order to notify creditors.

National Editorial Association.

The 36th annual meeting of the National Editorial Association will be held in Florida, March 7 to 25. The convention city is Los Angeles, but the Florida Press Association at a cost of $50,000 has arranged for a tour of the State, taking in Pensacola, Tallahassee, Panama City, Marianna, Jacksonville, Palatka, St. Petersburg, Sanford, Daytona, Palm Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Orlando, Miami, Tampa, and other places.

The tour will take in the orange and grape fruit groves, by special trains and autos, and most of the places visited will supply special banquets and entertainment. The arrangements are being made from the Secretary's office, in St. Paul, Minn. It will be a great jaunt for the editors of the whole country, who are members of the Association, or specially qualify for the trip.

Maryland House Increased.

The result of the 1920 census will increase the size of the Maryland House, three or four members, the uncertainty being over whether the 4313 persons resident at Camp Meade are to be counted. Dorchester county will lose one member, and Harford, Prince Georges, Washington, Wicomico, and perhaps Anne Arundel, will gain one member each.

BETTER BUSINESS NEAR.

April Expected to See Affairs at Nearly Normal.

From a survey of the industrial situation throughout the country, business of most kinds is expected to be back somewhere near normal, about April. This is not the opinion prevailing in any one section, but appears to apply to all, as by that time a readjustment in wages will prevail with a reasonable degree of permanency—or at least not subject to extreme changes.

No one believes that the final level will be reached so soon—perhaps not under two years—but the feeling is that adjustments will be of sufficient permanence to start up business, and keep it going on a safe basis.

Workers pretty generally are agreeing to lower wages. There will be agitation caused by professional strike fomenters, and trouble-makers of various kinds, but sooner or later the force of facts must assert themselves, and necessity rule. There will also be much resistance to losses in stocks of goods of various kinds, in the hands of producers and dealers, but necessity will also eventually bring about their disposal at market prices.

Except in cases of very strongly unionized labor, like the miners, and in the matter of government controlled wages, as of railroad employees, in which the necessities of the public and the influence of politics have large part, the industries of the country show strong signs of running on practically full time within a few months.

Transfers of Real Estate.

Susan R. Bixler et al, to Augustus P. Bervager and wife, 2 lots for $2050.

Chas. E. Garber and wife to Wm. F. Cover and wife, 2 lots for $475.

Jacob E. Sheets and wife to Adam Oscar Hiner, 3 acres for $200.

J. Thos. Gosnell to Sophronia Gorsuch, 23 1/2 acres for $1600.

Ephraim Garner to Julia Lambert, 3 acres for $275.

Albert J. Bemiller and wife to Paul L. Fitzz and wife, 12,960 sq. ft., for $500.

Albert W. Hall to Katherine Nice, lot for $100.

Jacob H. J. Krumrine et al to John Sholl, 12 1/2 acres for $400.

John Sholl to Oliver C. R. Sholl, 12 1/2 acres for $350.

Robert W. Fleagle to Sadie Akers, 14 acres, for $500.

Wm. H. Long to Mary A. Martin, 3 acres for $100.

Marriage Licenses.

Lawrence Hamilton Haines, of Uniontown, and Lottie Virginia Myers, of Pleasant Valley.

William Edward Stambaugh and Ethel May Strawsburg, both of Union Bridge.

Edward Christian Storch and Ella May Mulahay, both of Baltimore city.

Sterling Ezra Blacksten and Lula May Grimes, both of Westminster.

Donald Bennett Mullendore, of Gaplin, and Katherine S. Richardson, of Medford.

"Free Seed" As Usual.

Washington, Jan. 24.—With even more fervor than usual, the House today went through its annual performance and voted for a "free garden seed" amendment to the Agricultural Appropriation bill, although the Agricultural Committee had declined to include the item in the bill as reported. Not only did the House override the committee, after much oratory about the poor farmer and his little hungry children, who will be waiting patiently for the garden seed from Washington, but the House appropriated more this year than last.

For the first time in nearly two-score years the House committee boldly struck the $240,000 seed appropriation from its measure. The House put it back and added $120,000, allowing a total appropriation of $360,000 for the distribution of seed through members of Congress and their franked envelopes. The vote in "committee of the whole" was 83 to 72. Representative Blanton, of Texas, who assailed the item as "wasteful and disgraceful," said he intended to vote a roll-call on final passage of the bill.

Farm Pay at Peak in 1920.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Wage rates for farm labor reached their highest point in the history of this country in 1920, according to figures gathered by the Department of Agriculture and made public today. The average wage rate for labor hired by the month, it was shown, was $45.89, with board, and $64.95 without board; for day labor at harvest, $3.60, with board and $4.36, without board. For day labor other than at harvest, the scale averaged $2.36 with board, and $3.59, without board.

Congress and Prohibition.

We are giving space in this issue, on editorial page, to a rather lengthy article on the above topic, as written by Prof. Wm. James Heaps, of Baltimore, in February issue of Sons of America. Prof. Heaps' article may not suit extremists on either side of the question, but we consider it a very fair and clear exposition of the status of this very much debated question, and we commend it to all who are interested, either way.

ELECTORAL VOTE OF MARYLAND IN A MUDDLE.

An Illustration Showing Danger of Cumbrous System.

The question of whether the electoral vote of Maryland would be counted for Harding, appeared to be in doubt for several days, this week, due to irregularities. It appears that the official messenger whose business it was to deliver the vote to Vice-President Marshall was not only late, but it was defective when received; to the extent that the Vice-President received the vote conditionally—subject to protest.

The exact situation is somewhat mixed, beginning with the meeting of the electors at Annapolis, at which time the electors did not appear to be very well posted as to the importance of their job.

Gov. Ritchie says the muddle is a plain case of "neglect of the Republican electors." "I have never heard," said he, "of a failure of public duty which, in the case of a close election, might be fraught with more serious consequences to the whole nation."

The vote, in proper form, was finally deposited with the Vice-President, in Washington, Wednesday afternoon, two days late, and though the whole procedure is irregular, it is likely that the State's vote will not be thrown out when the canvass is made, February 9, by the House and Senate.

If objection is made, said objection must be sustained by concurrence of both branches of Congress. If only an incident, it nevertheless points to a serious defect in our system of electing Presidents.

There were irregularities in some other states, which led the vice-president to say:

"If I had been disposed to be ugly I could have given some officials worry and trouble, as half of the story of the stupidity of the election officers in some states has not been told. If the Republican leaders were better lawyers than politicians they would not have been guilty of the most stupid and reprehensible blunders in submitting the electoral returns of many of the States. Four years ago there was not a mistake made by a single State."

Harding Cabinet Predicted.

David Lawrence, professional newspaper correspondent, says the Harding cabinet will be made up as follows, and that some of the men named are closing up their present business connections:

Secretary of State—Charles Evans Hughes, of New York.

Secretary of War—John W. Weeks, former Governor of Massachusetts.

Secretary of the Treasury—A. W. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, a Director of the P. R. R.

Secretary of Commerce—Herbert Hoover, all-around economist and business man.

Secretary of Agriculture—Henry Wallace, of Iowa, agricultural expert.

Attorney-General—Harry M. Daugherty, personal friend and adviser of Mr. Harding.

Postmaster General—Will R. Hays, manager of the Republican National Campaign.

This leaves three places open, Navy, Labor and the Interior; and for these the name of ex-Gov. Lowden, of Illinois, is thought to be probable for the Navy.

Farm House Chimneys

All chimneys for farm buildings should start from the ground. Those placed on brackets are unsafe and often increase the rate of insurance. In a properly designed house of moderate size, one or at most two chimneys, each containing several flues, will serve every purpose. If possible a flue should be provided for each stove, as much better drafts are thereby obtained say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The chimney should have a solid foundation of brick or stone, and if of brick, of course, an extra footing should be laid. The exterior walls should be two bricks thick and the division walls one brick thick. In case the chimney is lined with one of the patent fire-clay linings now on the market one brick will prove of sufficient thickness for the exterior walls.

In case it is necessary to carry a stove pipe any considerable distance inside a partition to reach the chimney, a terra cotta thimble should be used, and where a pipe passes completely through a partition it should be protected with a ventilated thimble.

In no case should a stove pipe enter a chimney in a closet or an unused room. The necessity of such makeshifts can usually be avoided.

About 400 men employed in the Western Maryland Railway shops in Hagerstown, will be laid off February 1, according to notices posted at the shops on Wednesday, where all could see them. The wages of the furloughed men now amount to about $68,000 monthly. The furlough affects all departments in the shops, including machinists, helpers, blacksmiths, pipe-fitters, carpenters and apprentices. The action taken in making these cuts is the outcome of conferences between local shop officials and President M. C. Bvers in Baltimore, following a general program of retrenchment, made necessary by the generally prevailing dull business.

All articles on this page are either original, or properly credited. This has always been a fixed rule with this Office, and we suggest the adoption of it by our exchangers.

Mr. Harding is making a very fair ante-inauguration record, and the outlook is that his cabinet, about which there has been so much talk, will pass the gauntlet of critics without serious difficulty.

Soldiers' "memorials" are still being talked of, in many places, and some of the projects will go on in fine style, while others seem likely to end in "talk." Taneytown, fortunately, put its effort through, last Fall, and will finish it up this year.

There are already signs of a big crop of highway tourists—commonly called "tramps"—for the present year. The unfortunate thing is, that while there will be some good hands in the lot, the average farmer will hesitate to take them in, without having a fairly good pedigree to examine, as taking a perfect stranger into a farm home, "off the road," is a risky proposition.

Women in Politics.

As yet, everybody is guessing—and especially candidates for county office—as to the effect votes for women will have, both on candidates and local issues. The past Presidential election was not very enlightening. The participation of women in a Presidential election, was to be expected, and it was good practice for a beginning; but real politics—and by that we mean good government—must have its beginning in State and county affairs, and this requires pretty accurate knowledge of men and local issues, aside from mere party leanings, or party ties.

Women likely have a somewhat more or less notion as to what they are, normally—whether Republican or Democrat—but this has very little bearing on whether they are well equipped to decide, even between local men, as to their qualifications for public office, because, before that can be done, the duties and importance of the offices themselves must be understood.

The women of Carroll county are the equal in intelligence, of women anywhere, so situated. In fact, we believe that they are decidedly above the average; but, it is no disparagement of their ability to say that they can not be expected to at once fall in line, like "old regulars," and do the best that might be, and ought to be, done, as county suffragists.

We do not hold to the opinion of some—although we opposed equal suffrage—that women will not be apt learners. Women are noted for being "good dealers," as a rule, and they can be depended on not to be "taken in" as easily as some suspect. We shall expect some devious reasoning—some new issues, or reasons, not common to men—that will have influence with them, but the women who actually interest themselves seriously in the game, are apt not to go far wrong in their final conclusions.

We have always agreed that "some women" are fully qualified to make much better equipped handlers of the ballot than "some men." And it may be that, taken as a class, their influence over local and State affairs, will be improving, and there should be no sentiment antagonistic to them until they have shown otherwise. In the meantime, they have the men "guessing" at a pretty rapid rate, with no sure answer ready.

A Kick With Point.

There is unquestionably good argument in the claim that there is too much profit in handling farm produce between the farmer and consumer. Admitting that "middle men" are a necessity, that is no reason why they should pile on unnecessary profits; but, even if this be true—and we believe it is—we fail to see how the fact, even if corrected, could materially help the farmers into better prices.

Certainly, there must be a great deal of aggravation connected with the knowledge of city retail prices in restaurants, and this naturally leads to the thought that the farmer does not "get his share," but the fact remains that it is the "market price," and not the consumers paying price, that the farmer must take, and that after all it should be the city consumer that should do the most kicking over final charges.

Indirectly, the farmer perhaps feels some of the high retail costs of food, that must be contained in the wage scale paid to help that works in the factories making merchandise that the farmer must buy. We doubt, however, whether it is the high cost of food that regulates the price of labor, but that it is rather the big pay for labor that causes city folks to pay the big prices for food and other living expenses. It is the working classes, rather than the others, that have been buying the silks, furs, expensive shoes and clothing.

However, the relationship between all classes of workers and consumers is so close, all depending to some extent on each other, that one class can hardly "profiteer" without the cost of it being distributed throughout most other classes.

Europe vs. America.

If we are to believe only a very small portion of what we hear of the distress and destitution in almost all of the countries of Europe, the people of, this country, of all classes should be profoundly thankful that they have the privilege and blessing of living in the United States, and should stop growling and worrying over "the times."

Business, and our various occupations, may not be going along just as we would like to have them go; but, so far as we are able to observe, there is not a single country in Europe where all conditions are as favorable as they are here, or where the people as a whole have not a great many more serious problems to face than we have.

No matter in what line of industry, the United States is especially favored. Our farmers, and all classes of workers, would find a tremendous difference, if they were trying to live, across the big pond. Their troubles would be very real, instead of being only very much in their minds. Our troubles here are largely because of the fact that we did not take care of our gains while we were making them. Over there, they had no gains during the war—always losses, and losses still.

Lack of purchasing power; lack of money with which to start up industrial operations; many of the people with homes and lands in ruins; no credit for borrowing, food high in price and scarce. We can have only a very indistinct idea of conditions; but ought to have enough to be tremendously well satisfied that we are escaping old world conditions.

Bad Cold and Cough Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Several years ago, C. D. Glass, Gardiner, Me., contracted a severe cold and cough. He tried various medicines but instead of getting well he kept adding to it by contracting fresh colds. Nothing he had taken for it was of any permanent benefit until a druggist advised him to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He says: "I was completely cured by this remedy and have since always turned to it when I had a cold and soon find relief."

Tramp Is Coming Back.

The tramp, who almost disappeared during the war, is returning to the highways of the country and the cheap lodgings of the towns.

By report, the new tramp, although as shiftless and as homeless as ever, is better dressed than the old tramp was, and since he cannot get whiskey has generally a more respectable air. The increase in the number of those who wander in search of work—or to avoid it—raises the old question of how to prevent vagrancy. Some authorities advocate farm labor colonies.

At any rate, there should be some place where men with neither means nor inclination to support themselves could be put to productive work. The more vagrants the more criminals.—From the Youth's Companion.

For a Persistent Cough.

Some years ago H. P. Burbage, a student at law in Greenville, S. C., had been troubled for a long while with a persistent cough which he says "greatly alarmed me, causing me to fear that I was in the first stage of consumption." Having seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised, he concluded to try it. "I soon felt a remarkable change and after using two bottles of the small size was permanently cured."

CONGRESS AND PROHIBITION.

The Law, Its Enforcement, and Possible Amendment.

By Prof. Wm. James Heaps, Baltimore, in February Sons of America.

The enforcement of National prohibition is the duty of the police power of the State and Nation; proper legislation to establish that power is the duty of the legislative bodies, and the Congress of the United States—the Senators and Representatives—are elected to that task.

Much stuff that was given out during the heat of the campaign, was bunk, and not highly creditable to either side.

In dry territory, many candidates, wet in thought and act, soft pedaled with their constituents; in wet territory the opposite was true—many candidates, bone dry in practice, proclaimed trumpet-like, their wetness, and the poor dupes who desired to "wet their whistle," and the grafting guys who hoped for the return of their profiteering saloon business, came across with money and votes, expecting, of course, the quid pro quo, after election.

No matter what their personal or private convictions, our Congressmen know that prohibition is the law of the land, made so by constitutional amendment, regularly passed by an overwhelming majority, sealed and delivered by court decree, after fair and impartial trial.

A Congressman-elect is sent to our legislative halls, because he is so delegated by the majority of participating voters in his district, who have by their act shown sufficient civic pride and interest to take part in the election, and he should remember that his first duty is to his state and nation, and his second to his constituents, and his last and least duty, to himself.

He is elected by the people of his district to be a Congressman of the United States, not a Congressman of any particular people or district. If he remembers this, and keeps his eye single to this purpose, he will be a success; if he forgets it, he must perforce thereof, be a failure.

Now, there are many things besides the prohibition amendment that will demand the attention of Congress, but there is no one thing of more far-reaching importance than proper legislation on this subject, and because promises were exacted and made it is the duty of Congress to get busy at an early date after organizing, and with proper and impartial committees, who will make honest investigations, and then legislate for the best interests of all the people.

Laws must be passed to strengthen, not weaken, this prohibition amendment—to give it force and effect, not to make it a laughing stock or stumbling block.

Congressmen must remember that the people, not themselves, enacted the Constitution, and that they created this document for the guidance of Congress in its legislation on the points at issue, and that any legislation that they pass, contrary to the provisions of the Constitution, is but a waste of time and money to do so.

The Eighteenth Amendment is on our statute books to remain the supreme law of the land until regularly repealed, in the same manner as it was enacted, and it must be so legislated upon that force is given to it, not weakness.

Whether the Volstead Act is the best law to uphold the amendment, or whether some other act is necessary, is a matter for Congress to determine, but whatever Congress does, it must legislate to uphold the Eighteenth Amendment.

The essential principle of the Eighteenth Amendment is that alcoholic and intoxicating liquors cannot now, in the United States, be manufactured and sold for beverage purposes. The question for Congress to keep in mind is the manufacture and sale for beverage of ALL alcoholic stimulants that are intoxicating. The SALE and INTOXICATING features are the crux of the whole matter.

If Congress collectively, and the individual members as such, will bear these simple facts in mind, they can easily affect such legislative compromises that the law will be greatly strengthened, while the rights of the individuals as such, will not of necessity be trampled upon.

But, first of all, Congress must understand that it will but waste its own time and the people's money, if any attempt is made by legislative enactment to legalize the manufacture and sale of beers and light wines—meaning, of course, beer from 3 to 5%, and wines from 10 to 15% alcoholic strength. These ARE intoxicating; science teaches it, and common sense knows it, so why waste time and thought and money upon their enactment?

Of course, Congressmen from those centres that have recently been soaking wet, and who received their election by virtue of that sentiment, will consume a few hours of the law-makers' time while making speeches for home consumption which they will later "frank" in bales to the "boys" back home, to prove that they have kept the faith.

We would not deny them this right, or privilege, but to save time as far as possible, it might be a good thing for all such to request "leave to print" and let it go at that. Of course, the same thing can be said with equal force of the promoters of prohibition, for few indeed will have anything NEW to offer on either side.

Let what time must be used in debate be confined to getting at the best interpretation of the amendment, and correct legislation that will interpret that amendment.

The writer is neither a dry nor a wet crank; he has been a scientific prohibitionist all his life, but has never been a tee-totaler. Wines and liquors were considered a part of the "home necessities" from his earliest childhood, and at that early day he was sent to one of the town's grog shops with "orders" for liquor, ranging in amounts from a half pint up to a gallon or more (in those days whiskey was given as a part of the daily rations to the harvest hands in the field). The particular saloonist to whom he was sent was notorious for the fact that though he sold, legally and illegally (for he sold against the Sunday laws when profitable and hastened Monday morning to the county-seat, 20 miles away, to pay the $50.00 fine, before he could be presented to the grand jury) yet this man never let a drop pass his own lips.

And this brings us to the point, that after all, the crux of the whole matter is the "easy money" that is in the business, and that is why there lingers with us the fight—not so much because people want liquor, but because the men who were in the business want it because they can make more money thus than in some honest endeavor.

Now, whiskey is a good thing, or it is not; it is either needed for medicine, or it is not needed, and I am not prepared to hazard an answer to this important question; but I shall offer a suggestion in the matter before through, and offer it as one means by which the greatest good may be done.

All legislation, to be most effective, must be in the nature of compromise, hence neither those who are ultra dry, or ultra wet should expect the enforcement of their hard and fast rules. The greatest possible good to the whole, with the least necessary harm or inconvenience, should be the rule.

When prohibition was about to become effective, the affluent stocked up. J. Pierpont Morgan carted away, at fancy prices, thousands of dollars worth of old wine from one of the cellars of Maryland, and doubtless did likewise from other States. He is but an example. Others did the same, so that the private stock of the plutocrat is practically inexhaustible.

But this stock does no particular harm, neither does the other stock in the thousands of other cellars do any particular harm. It is merely kept for banquet and State occasions, and adds its mite of cheer to the passing hour.

While he keeps it as "private stock" and uses it only for private modest, if he need be, the Volstead Act could be so amended as to protect the holder in his home rights, while at the same time such drastic punishment should be prescribed that no one could desire, or afford, to break the faith.

If it is right for the wealthy to have his private stock, it should be equally right (and he should be protector in that right) for the mere citizen who desires it to be permitted to make his own cider and wines for his own family and guests, and their exclusive use, when in his own household.

The profit is in the sale and barter, and this should not be tolerated, if for beverage purposes. Let penalties be prescribed that are so drastic that violation of its provisions will not be attempted. The present boot-legging is a menace, and often a murderer, and the official, State or municipal, who refuses, is equally culpable.

It is difficult, I realize, to draw the line between private rights and private and public wrongs, but I would have Congress at once do its duty in this matter.

They should legislate so as to enforce and make effective the prohibition amendment as far as manufacture and sale of all intoxicants for beverage purposes are concerned, and all sales and purchases for said purposes should subject the guilty to condign punishment, the vendor as well as the vendee being equally culpable; but the home, except for cause, and then only with specific search warrant, should be considered a man's castle, and not subject to entrance by any without specific legal authority.

Now, as to the manufacture of whiskey, that is a subject of moment, and needs the careful scrutiny of Congress, with the best thought obtainable on the matter. If whiskey is needed as a medicine, the government should at once confiscate all stock in bond, pay for it its reasonable value (not the present inflated value) and should dispense as required, and at sufficient profit, to reimburse the government for all cost of maintaining the dispensary. Furthermore, if after careful investigation it is found absolutely necessary to have whiskey, Congress should so legislate that government owned, controlled and run distilleries, should be conducted—not that I believe in government ownership, for I do not, but as a safeguard and protection to the American people.

Before such steps are taken, Congress should have the American Medical and Pharmaceutical Associations meet and pass upon this particular question of the necessity of whiskey as a medicine, then Congress should enact laws accordingly; but if the Associations jointly decide that whiskey and alcohols are not medical necessities, then Congress should immediately confiscate all whiskeys and pay for it at lowest actual cost price, in all bonded warehouses, and have same converted into industrial alcohol.

This issue is a mighty big one, and needs the best thought of the Nation to settle it; but it should be settled, and at once, and be forever thereafter banished from the field of American politics.

The destinies of America are too great to be allowed to become subservient to the whims of temperance cranks or whiskey fanatics, and the Congress of these United States is the body to settle that question, once and for all time.

MITES CAUSE OF SCALY LEG
Application of Crude Petroleum to Legs With Brush or Dipping Is Best Treatment.

Two species of itch mites attack fowls, one of which is the cause of scaly leg. While this mite commonly remains on the feet, burrowing through the scales and causing their enlargement, it also attacks the comb and the neck. A crust of loose tissue is formed above the burrows, and intense itching results from this mite habit. When scaly leg is left untreated the feet of the birds often become badly distorted, and in some cases the fowl can scarcely walk or get to the perch. Sometimes terminal joints of the toes are lost.

As the mites are transferred from one bird to another, scaly-leg fowls should be treated promptly and should not be introduced among clean birds. Investigations made under the supervision of the United States Department of Agriculture show that carbolineum or crude petroleum used on the roosts doubtless will aid in preventing the spread of the scaly-leg mite from one fowl to another. Applying crude petroleum to the legs with a brush or dipping the legs into this oil is very effective. One application usually is sufficient, but if the scales are not largely shed off after a lapse of 30 days the treatment should be repeated. Kerosene oil is applied by some farmers in the same way, but is less effective than crude oil. In using either, care should be taken not to get the oil on the upper part of the leg or on the feathers. A less severe but more laborious treatment consists of soaking the feet in warm soap-suds until the scales are loosened and then greasing the feet and legs with sulphur and lard, or lard containing 6 per cent crude carbolic acid.

The other itch mite, commonly called the depilating mite, is a very small creature which burrows into the skin near the base of the feathers. The intense itching sometimes causes the fowls to pull their feathers until they are almost naked. Dipping of all fowls of an infested flock in a tub of water containing about two ounces of flowers of sulphur and one-half ounce of laundry soap to each gallon of water will give complete control. The fowls should be completely submerged and the feathers ruffled so all parts of the body will be reached by the liquid. Care should be taken to keep the dip stirred during treatment so as to keep the sulphur in suspension. In case a flock has lice as well as the depilating mite, three-fourths ounce or one heaping tablespoonful of sodium fluoride should be added to each gallon of water in the foregoing mixture.

GIVE CHICKENS EARLY FEED

Excellent Plan to Have Some Grain Scattered in Litter Ready for Their Breakfast.

If there is a reasonable amount of litter on the floor and the house is rat-proof, it is a practical plan to feed so that there will be some grain left in the litter overnight. This will be an inducement to the hens to get to work as soon as it is daylight. That's one practical and inexpensive method of prolonging the day. As a rule, hens like to go to the perches rather early in the evening on cold days, but they will be down at dawn if they know that they will find something to eat. See to it that some grain is there in the litter ready for them. This is an easier and pleasanter method than getting around to do the feeding before daylight. If the hens loaf on the perches until broad daylight one of two things is wrong: Either the house is too dark or the hens are overfed. Either condition is readily corrected and it will be dollars in your pocket to do so.

FARM POULTRY

PROPER MARKETING OF EGGS

Much of Animal Loss Can Be Prevented By Use of Purebred Stock and Better Care.

It is estimated that the annual production of poultry and eggs in the United States is in excess of $600,000,000—the value of the hay or the wheat crop—and it is also estimated that there is a total loss of nearly 8 per cent of the eggs marketed.

This great loss is due largely to improper handling between the farm and the market. Many farmers look upon eggs as a by-product, and the returns as so much clear gain. The hens forage for a living, and the eggs are gathered when convenient and kept almost anywhere. Such carelessness and a combination of mongrel stock, dirty nests, stolen nests of broody hens, unconfined males, late-maturing pullets, and other undesirable conditions explain why the product includes a high percentage of small, cracked, dirty, stale, heated, and even rotten eggs.

Occasionally the accumulations of all these kinds of eggs are taken to the country merchants and exchanged for merchandise. The merchant usually buys these eggs "case count," paying the same price for all kinds and sizes, provided they are eggs with an unbroken shell. Small production results in small or infrequent shipments.

Many of these losses, the United States Department of Agriculture says, can be prevented by selecting pure breeds that lay more or larger eggs, such as the Leghorns, Wyandottes, Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, Orpingtons, etc.; giving better care, food, and shelter; with dry, clean, vermin-proof nests; confining males except in breeding season; collecting eggs frequently, especially in hot or muggy weather; storing eggs in a dry, clean, cool place; using small and dirty eggs at home; marketing frequently, with protection at all times from heat; selling for cash on a basis of size and quality, "loss off" instead of "case count"; using an attractive package; and combining shipments as a matter of economy.

MIXTURES TO KILL INSECTS

Combination of Gasoline, Crude Carbolic Acid and Plaster Paris Is Effective.

A satisfactory home-made mixture to kill lice on poultry consists of three parts of gasoline and one part of crude carbolic acid with as much plaster of paris as the liquids will moisten.

The material is allowed to dry a few hours and then placed in airtight containers. The mixture has been tried out at the Ohio experiment station.

The powder should not be mixed or placed near a flame. It is necessary to hold the fowl while dusting in order to work the dust into the feathers thoroughly. Ten pounds of the mixture will treat 250 mature birds.

Mercurial ointment or "blue butter" has been found valuable for killing head lice frequently found on little chicks. Mercurial ointment is a stiff substance, and should be mixed with one or two parts vaseline to apply it easily.

A bit of the mixture the size of a pea applied with the tip of the finger and rubbed into the feathers about the head will destroy the lice. It should not be used too freely.

BEST ARRANGEMENT OF HENS

Erroneous to Mate Male With Too Many Females for Fertile Eggs and Strong Chicks.

Avoid the error of mating a male with too many females. One male to six or eight females of the American breeds, or 10 or 12 of the Mediterranean, will give a higher percentage of fertile eggs and more vigorous chickens than if half as many males are used.

PUT TURKEYS IN CONDITION

Fowls Should Not Be Confined Except for Short Period Just Before Marketing.

Turkeys ought not to be confined for any length of time just for a short time prior to marketing. If fed liberally while they have a free run, they can be kept in condition for marketing within ten days.

DOG HATER CALLED DOWN

Writer in New York Newspaper Says Some Harsh Things About Enemies of the Canine Race.

A story calculated to make dog haters grit their teeth finds its way into print, remarks the New York Tribune. An East side collie awakened his master, told him things were not as they should be, and then secured a prompt turning in of a fire alarm, which saved many lives.

At rare intervals a case of rabies develops. With this as a basis the dog hater has secured a code whose severity is such that once in a while it naturally breaks down some dog's nervous system. Leashed and wearing a mask or jaw straps, man's best friend is denied a normal life. If his patience exhausted and his temper frayed, he bites anything, no matter whether by accident or with ample justification, he is thrown into jail without trial. Not satisfied with this, there is a constant outcry for a practical extermination of the species, with only enough left to provide raw material for vivisectionists.

Yet if a score were kept showing in one column the number of human lives man's devoted servitor has saved and in another the number in anywise lost through him, the disproportion in favor of the dog would be great. A dogless civilization would be one wherein life insurance rates would be raised.

The psychology of the dog hater has never been satisfactorily explained. He exists—that is all we know about him. He can scarcely be said to take pleasure in his malignancy, for he is gloomy and somber, yet he stubbornly clings to his frenzy, putting in time inventing calumnies which one look into a dog's honest and loyal eyes sufficiently refute.

FATHER OF MODERN SPINNING

Invention of Samuel Crompton, Englishman, of Immense Importance to the Western World.

At one time muslins were imported from India for the reason that English spinners were unable to produce yarn fine enough for the manufacture of such delicate fabrics.

The invention of Arkwright, by which spinning with rollers was used, and Hargreaves, with his spinning jenny, led the way for Crompton to combine both of those inventions in his mule, thereby enabling spinners to draw out long threads in large numbers to more tenacity than had ever been done by the East Indians.

This invention enabled Lancashire to assume the first place as cotton spinner to the world. Samuel Crompton was born December 3, 1753, at Firwood. He came of the farming class and had rather a good education. On the death of his father his mother carried on the farm and set Samuel to spinning at home. Five years after his majority he completed his mule, "his mind endeavoring that time being in continual endeavor to realize a more perfect principle of spinning."

This he did at the expense of every shilling he had; and he gave his invention to the world, but in such a way that he gained no credit. Years afterward his statue was erected in Bolton.—Chicago Journal.

Make Your Mind Your Klondike.

Every man has a rich mine of precious ores if he wants to work it. The other day the news went out that great oil fields had been discovered in Klondike, the land famous for gold. The papers say men are rushing to stake claims as they did in the palmy days of the gold craze, and there will be many who will part with all they have and make their way to what promises to be a quick fortune. In the last rush the way to Dawson City had many a ghastly group of bleaching bones when the snows of winter melted away. The chances are this present craze will duplicate the scene. Only a few of the many make money. It will ever be thus as long as men try to win by chance the riches that usually come by toil.—Grit.

Fever Present in Mental Disease.

Doctor Bond in the Boston Medical Journal adds a new item to medical knowledge of mental disease. In 71 mental patients, fevers, slight or severe, transitory or chronic, occurred in over 50 per cent, a surprising result for consecutive cases. The diagnoses varied and show that fever occurred in imbecility, epilepsy, arteriosclerotic dementia, general paralysis, dementia praecox and maniac depressive psychoses. Of 19 maniac depressive insanity patients, 13 had fever and 6 did not. Of 19 dementia praecox patients, 8 had fever and 11 did not, this being the only disease in which normal temperatures were found more often than the reverse.

"Old Colony" Dinner.

That cranberries belong to the traditional Pilgrim dinner is shown by the menu of the "decent repast" served at the first "Celebration of the Landing of our Forefathers," which was observed December 22, 1769. This day was celebrated by the Old Colony club of Plymouth with a procession and a dinner consisting of a large baked Indian whortleberry pudding, a dish of caquetach (succatash); a dish of clams; a dish of oysters and dish of codfish; a haunch of venison roasted by the first jack brought into the colony; a dish of fowl; cranberry tarts, a dish of frost fish and bials, an apple pie, a course of cheese made in the old colony.

HOW TO USE MARSHMALLOWS.

A meringue which has a half dozen marshmallows added to the top just as it goes in to brown has an indefinable flavor that pleases the palate.

The appearance and flavor of many an otherwise common dish is enhanced by the addition of a few marshmallows.

An apple pie made of thickened, sweetened and spiced apple sauce put into a baked shell and served with a covering of marshmallows, browned as a meringue, is delicious.

Cream pie is greatly improved by the addition of a few marshmallows added just before spreading the meringue.

Corn starch pudding, chocolate pudding, are both improved by the addition of a handful of marshmallows. Chocolate pie is especially good covered with marshmallows instead of a meringue.

Fudge, cream candy and boiled icing stay creamy and moist much longer if marshmallows are added to them. Drop them into the hot mixture and beat as usual; if the marshmallows are fresh they will melt at once.

Plain cookies, vanilla wafers or crackers are transformed into toothsome little cakes by topping them with a marshmallow and setting into the oven to melt and brown a little.

Hot chocolate or cocoa are both improved by one or two marshmallows dropped into the cup just as it is served.

Gingerbread or sponge cake cut in two while hot and filled with marshmallows, put together and placed in the oven until they melt, makes a most delectable dessert.

Dates and prunes stuffed with chopped nuts and minced marshmallows make a good confection.

Mixed in the salad dressing with whipped cream, a fruit salad is greatly improved. If mixed with the fresh fruit and allowed to stand several hours the marshmallows are softened and the flavor is better.

MAINTAIN QUALITY OF EGGS

Handling and Treatment Given After Being Laid Have Much Influence on Worth.

An egg is never any better in quality than just at the moment it is laid in a clean nest. What happens to it after it has been well borne is what gives it character and reputation. For instance, an egg that has been harvested and placed in a hot kitchen near decaying vegetable matter will soon "take on" deterioration, while a good quality egg placed in cold storage for several months will possess quality, though far from being freshly laid. It is the handling and treatment of eggs after being laid that has everything to do with the maintenance of quality. As matters average, March or April laid eggs, properly stored, possess a quality equal to many so-called fresh eggs produced during the hot days of summer, and particularly if the latter are not handled just right. Environment is of quite as much importance as age. More depends on the human factor than the hen. Birds well fed and in sanitary surroundings lay good eggs; it is the care and attention given them while in transit to the ultimate consumer that largely influences quality.

TURKEYS BEST AS SIDE LINE

Most Profitable for Those Who Are Favorably Situated—Amply Range Is Essential.

Turkey raising as ordinarily engaged in is a side line upon the general farm. For those who are favorably situated for raising turkeys, a more profitable side line can hardly be found. Plenty of range is essential to success.

PROVIDE FOWLS WITH TEETH

Fine Gravel or Coarser Part of Ground Limestone Will Supply Grit Needed by Hens.

Give your hens teeth so they can get the most out of the feed. Fine gravel or the coarser part of the ground limestone used for acid soils will supply the grit needed for use in the crop. The limestone will help supply needed lime.

Broad Human Sympathy.

"Some of your remarks do not appeal to the brainy men of your community," admonished the friend. "I make it a rule," rejoined Senator Sorghum, "not to cater to any select element. For every man in my community who can be classed as brainy there may, for all we know, be two or three who can't."

MUNICIPAL CARE OF TREES

As Much a Function of Civic Control as Any Modern Necessity, Says a Writer.

Simple and practical information with which the ideal of "the city beautiful" may be brought nearer realization is contained in a bulletin, "Street Trees," prepared by a horticulturist of the United States Department of Agriculture. With very few exceptions, the bulletin points out, the tree growth of the streets of the average American town or city is ragged and unkempt.

That of a suburb or small village is, not much better unless it has been under adequate municipal control and the plantings of a given street have been confined to a single kind of tree. Those modern necessities, the telephone, telegraph, electric light and trolley car, each have shared in the mutilation and destruction of good trees. Too few municipalities realize, however, that these modern facilities can be provided without impairing the beauty of shade trees, says the writer. One means of preventing injury is more general use of alleys for public utility wires. Faulty pruning has also caused much deformity.

Providing shade on city streets is as much a municipal function as providing lights on sidewalks, says the publication, and therefore should be undertaken by public officials. Negative control by requiring permits for planting, pruning and removal is a little better than no control. Probably the most satisfactory supervision is through an unpaid commission of three or five members—men who should be appointed to long terms, since it takes two or three years for a commissioner to realize the needs and scope of the work, according to the bulletin.

Even a good board charged with the care of street trees can accomplish little without liberal funds. These may be provided by appropriation from the general tax fund or direct assessment against property owners, collectible with their taxes. In any event, the minimum appropriation provided should be sufficient to carry on properly the work already begun.

CANADIAN CITY TAKES LEAD

Toronto Tackles Its Housing Problem in a Way That Shows She Means Business.

Toronto, Ont., is showing initiative in the housing problem, declares the Christian Science Monitor. Not only is she appointing a commission to study the question, in approved fashion, but she is planning to build 500 houses for sale or rent, and to give loans up to 50 per cent to those who wish to build. Her scheme is restricted to prospective purchasers who have been bona fide residents of the city for the last two years.

It is apparent that Toronto is not satisfied with the handling of the problem by private interests, and her dissatisfaction is echoed practically all over the world. Profiteering landlords have waxed rich, during the housing shortage, at the expense of the rent payer. To allow them to continue to do so would be to encourage injustice. Toronto has taken note of this condition and intends to put a check upon it. In her efforts she will be watched by other municipalities, who may now look to her for a way out of one of their most perplexing tangles.

Plant Trees in Fall.

Fall planting of trees and shrubs is usually more successful than spring planting. The question is debatable in some localities, but in many fall is the best time.

In the fall we have a longer period of favorable weather, the sap or life of the plant has stopped flowing and has become dormant for the season, while in the spring the sap is just beginning to flow and the plant is starting its growth for the season, and transplanting will at this time disturb the roots and growth, and materially retard the successful development of the plant.

Fall planting permits the tree or shrub to firmly establish itself, so that the April showers and early spring sun can begin to draw the sap up from the roots, and the minute fibrous root hairs having close contact with the soil can immediately take in moisture from the soil. It is this circulation of moisture that means the successful development of the plant.

Town Hospitality.

Hospitality has a broader meaning than that which the individual home delights to show the friend or visitor. A community can practice it in like manner and be known as a town where real kindness and consideration are shown visitors, strangers and newcomers. It takes such little trouble to make those who come to us feel that they are welcome.—Morgantown News-Herald.

Benefits of Home Owning.

The general gain to the city from home-owning is incalculable. It means more intelligent interest in public affairs, lower taxes, better training of the young, more comfort in life—in a word, all the good things that a real home implies.

HIGH HONORS PAID JUDGES

Imposing Ceremonies That Used to Mark Their Coming to the Various County Assizes.

The stately ceremonies which have attended the coming of an English judge to the county assizes, three times in each year, may be accounted for by the fact that the judge, on these occasions, represented the king, and for the time being was accorded courtesies not very different from those which would be offered the king himself.

In the quaint old city of Chester, which all traveling Americans know better, perhaps, than any city of England outside of London; it was the custom, before railroads were known, for the high sheriff of the county to meet the incoming judge with a body of men, armed with javelins, at the border of the county which he was leaving, in order to conduct him in safety to the place in which he was to reside during the term of the Cheshire court. This came to be a very imposing ceremony. On one occasion, 60 years ago, the office of high sheriff was filled by a baronet, who awaited the judge at the county borders with 18 javelin men, 40 servants, 100 tenants, his entire family (filling stately carriages), trumpeters in two detachments, two prominent editors in their carriages, and several of the county gentry.—Helen Marshall Pratt in St. Nicholas.

MUST TAKE TIME TO THINK

Scientist Explains Why Men Who Do Great Things Have to Have Abundant Leisure.

It was said by Helmholtz, on his seventeenth birthday, according to Dr. Graham Lusk, in an address printed in Science, that a great idea had never come to him when he was at his desk, nor when he was tired, nor after taking a glass of wine, but usually when he was walking in the garden musing of other things. Dr. Lusk goes on:

"The scientist must have leisure to think over the problems which offer and he must have a certain discrimination in order to distinguish between the things which are worth doing and those which are not. To do this requires a certain delay in action in order that plans may be matured. The individual who can not be happy unless he is at work at full power all the time is much less likely to accomplish successful scientific work than he who will not commence a research until he has satisfied himself that it is worth doing. It is not to be denied that this essential qualification of scientific life is frequently regarded with scorn by the busy practitioner of medicine, who gives himself no time either for thought or study."—Scientific American.

Taking the Joy Out of Rejoiced.

He was sitting in the lobby of the high-priced hotel. The high prices started in the ground floor and got lower as they went up. But no matter. Suddenly a face caught his eye just as his face caught an eye. A woman darted from the throng of by-passers. "Wife!" he chirped, pressing her form to him.

"Husband!" she smirked. "Ah, let us go away, dear; let bygones be bygones. Let us forget everything." Just then the hotel clerk approached. "Before you two decide to forget everything," interposed the horrid, smolous creature, "allow me to remind your husband that there is $35 room rent and $15 taxicab fare charged against him. After that is paid, ah, then, bless you, my children."

Matter of Gender.

The bell of a Scottish church was giving out a very poor tone and a committee was appointed to inquire as to what was wrong and to report on the best means of putting it right. After an examination the members were divided in their opinion and the kirk officer, who was in attendance with the keys, was asked his view. "Fine. A ken what's wrang wi' the bell," he remarked; "it's a she-yin"—meaning that it was of the feminine gender. Pressed to explain, he added: "It's tongue owre lang—it's needin' to be clipped!" And this turned out to be really the fault. The tongue had become loosened to the extent of an inch or so, and was overlapping the curve at the rim, and therefore not striking truly.

Keep Cool.

Conduct is the outward evidence of inward impulses. Impatience within is sure to make a sputtering grouch without. Things don't just happen. They are usually the product of a long train of circumstances. To be fair one should get out of patience with the whole series if you get fussed at all. But you don't. You just stew about the one thing that causes the explosion. When you have learned to be patient and wait you will have the power of changing many a problem that causes others all sorts of trouble. And it isn't a bit harder to do when you get the habit than it is to make a show of yourself. And it's a lot more comforting after the fuss is over.—Exchange.

Some Quarantine!

A physician was calling at a house where a child had the scarlet fever. "You keep the patient away from the rest of the children, I suppose," he remarked. "Oh, yes, indeed," was the mother's reply. "I don't let him come near the others except for meals."—Boston Evening Transcript.

PLEASANT VALLEY.

We see that Union Bridge is engaged in an effort to raise a certain amount of money for their excellent band. Well, we have an excellent band at Pleasant Valley and we can boast that it is a P. O. S. of A. band, and that the members belong to the P. O. S. of A. and that the Lodge will stand by it, for they all realize that a town without a band is a dead one. Members of the band, and members of the order, stick to your band for there was music in heaven on eternity's morn when Earth's firm foundation was laid.

Aaron Leister and Mrs. G. Albert Starnier are among those on the sick list.

The coming Bible Institute and Training School promises to be well attended by representatives from the various churches of Maryland. A strong program will be offered. Following are some of the men who will appear on the program: Dr. Holtsapple, of Hagerstown; Dr. Resser, of Washington, D. C.; Elder W. B. Stover, returned missionary from India; Elder E. B. Hoff, of Bethany Bible School; Elder Ezra Flory, Field Secretary of the General Sunday School Board, and Prof. Ober, President of Elizabethtown College.

Two of the most exciting and fastest basket ball games ever staged in the College gymnasium, were played last Friday and Saturday night. The games were exciting for two reasons: First, they were hard fought games; second, our boys played as they never played before. The first game was with Juniata College and the second with Davis and Elkins. Both visiting teams were sure to win and had made up their minds that the games would be a walk-over. When the final whistle blew their prophecy of a walk-over was fulfilled, but our boys did the walking, the scores were B. R. C., 27 and Juniata, 19; and B. R. C., 30 and Davis and Elkins, 27.

His body will be brought to Mr. Smith's, on Saturday, and funeral held in the Lutheran church, Union Bridge, Sunday, 1:00 P. M., sermon by Rev. C. H. Dobson, of the M. P. church. Burial by the side of his first wife, in Mt. View cemetery.

MR. HIRAM LINCOLN WITHEROW.

Mr. Hiram Lincoln Witherow died Jan. 21, at his home near Harney, in the 57th year of his age. He had been an invalid for more than six years, suffering from tuberculosis of the spine. He was the youngest son of the late Joseph W., and Lydia Ann Witherow, and spent his whole life in this neighborhood, making scores of friends by his unfeeling kindness and courtesy to every one with whom he came in contact.

Mr. Witherow was a man of the highest christian character and through his long illness of almost constant and often of intense pain, his cheerfulness and patience was a source of wonder to those around him.

Besides his widow he is survived by three sons, Ralph H., of Rochester, N. Y.; John W., of Harrisburg, and Ira L., at home, and the following brothers and sisters, John W., of Denver, Colo.; Wm. W., of Washington, D. C.; J. Washington, of Taneytown; Mrs. Agnes Phillips, Littlestown; Mrs. H. L. Hays, Marion, Ind.; Mrs. W. G. Harner, Mrs. D. A. Stull, Mrs. Flem Hoffman, and Miss Sarah Witherow of Harney.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon by Rev. Young, from the Lutheran Church, Harney, of which the deceased was a charter member, serving faithfully for a number of years on the council.

Now the laborer's task is o'er:
Now the battle day is past:
Now upon the farther shore
Lands the voyager at last.

There the tears of earth are dried:
There its hidden things are clear:
There the work of life is tried
By a juster Judge than here.

"Earth to earth, and dust to dust," Calmly now the words we say
Left behind we wait in trust
For the resurrection day.

Father, in Thy gracious keeping Leave we now Thy servant sleeping.

KEYSVILLE.

Joseph Reithmuller and wife, of Lansdowne spent a few days this week with his uncle, Wm. H. Devilbiss and family.

Mrs. Grier Keiholtz was called this week, to the bedside of her father, Oliver Newcomer of Taneytown, who is seriously ill of pneumonia.

Calvin Valentine and Peter Wilhide made a business trip to Hanover, Tuesday.

Miss Dora Devilbiss has returned home after visiting her aunts the Misses Devilbiss, of Walkersville.

Mrs. Van Fossen, of Woodsboro, is spending some time with her son, Charles Van Fossen and wife.

Eggs From Japan.

New York, Jan. 21.—Twenty-three cars of eggs from Japan have just been received in the large eastern markets. January 7, twenty-eight cars of eggs were sent from Vancouver, and of this cargo four cars were Pacific coast whites, one car contained dried eggs and the balance of the shipment was the stock from the Orient. About 12,500 cases of the shipment were billed for London, 8300 Chinese and 1525 cases Japanese for New York and 1000 cases for Montreal.

Inspections made by local dealers showed that the cases were in excellent condition and the quality of the eggs good.

The Tasty Pretzel

Pretzels were originally made for children, and the word comes from the Latin "pretiola," meaning a small reward. Early Christian priests taught little children to say their prayers and as a reward offered a small cake in pretzel form. The arms were folded over to form a knot in the pretzel, indicating folded arms or the attitude of prayer, so that children might remember the reason for the gift.

With the coming of prohibition it was thought the pretzel would be heard of no more, but such is not the case. People have always been in the habit of linking beer with pretzels, and it was thought that one could hardly get along without the other, although thousands of children, who, by the way, do not know the taste of beer and probably never will, are the largest consumers of the pretzel.

Statistics show that the pretzel output today is larger than before the passing of beer, for which the increasing use of confectionery of all kinds is largely responsible. In a great many sections of the country today pretzels are being served in all ice cream parlors, and this custom will no doubt become general within the near future. Practically every school lunch room in Philadelphia has the pretzel on the bill of fare, as it is very nutritious and appetizing.

A recent innovation, and quite a successful one, is the chocolate covered pretzel. This takes the place of the richer, more indigestible candy, and is delicious. It bids fair to become very popular with all who have a sweet tooth.

Several years ago The R. L. Dollings Company, specialists in the Preferred Stocks of Supervised Industries, financed a concern which was then producing about 80% of all the machine-made pretzels in the United States, with factories in various large cities of the country. Today, this plant makes more pretzels than all other pretzel bakers in the United States and Canada combined. In addition, it is one of the largest producers of ice cream cones in the country.

In the sale of cones and pretzels the strongest co-operation prevails between this company and that of the Dollings ice cream financing referred to in our story last week. The dealers who handle the ice cream of the one plant also handle the cones and pretzels of the other. This is one instance of the co-operative spirit which exists between various Dollings industries, and which not only makes for the progress of the industries themselves but strengthens the safety of the investment for our customers.

Just recently the Dollings Company added another smaller pretzel plant, which works directly under the supervision of the larger concern, to its list of supervised industries. New, automatic machinery is being installed, the plant is being enlarged and rapid strides are being made in the growth of its business.

As in the case with every Dollings industry, these two pretzel manufacturing plants have been thoroughly investigated by The R. L. Dollings Company. They are highly recommended to the public as a safe and profitable investment, and are backed by The Dollings Company and its guarantee to safeguard its customers' interests. The R. L. Dollings Company emphasizes the idea that good and efficient management is the chief assurance of safety, and its dominant thought is that it is a trustee in charge of its customers' funds and must leave nothing undone that will contribute to and assure the continued stability and prosperity of every enterprise financed by it.

The continuous and steady growth of every Dollings industry manifests the desirability of just such an Investment Plan as that of The R. L. Dollings Company. The man or woman with $100 and upward to invest, who cannot afford to speculate with this money, should know more of The Dollings "Plan." Communicate TODAY with

His Dream Girl

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Stanford Weston sat propped up among the big pillows of his couch. Saunders, his man, was carrying out the tray with its tempting dishes but half touched. For a convalescing typhoid patient, Stanford did not have at all the customary appetite.

"I say, Saunders," he halted the man querulously, "did either of my nurses have big gray eyes and hair sort of—well, crinkly and sunshiny, and did she wear a little hat with a blue feather?"

Saunders had stopped abruptly, tray poised. "No, sir," he said. "No, sir, I should say not, sir."

"All right," replied Stanford wearily, and Saunders went out.

"It's queer," went on the young man to himself; "every time I shut my eyes I see her, and when I sleep I dream about her. Must be a vision caused by my illness, but as long as she isn't real, why, I wish she'd keep out of it, keep out of my dreams!" he hummed whimsically.

When young Weston's father had died, the son had shut up the big house. With Saunders, he had taken rooms where he might be near his friend, Jack Darling, who was expected back from a photographic expedition in Chile. Before Jack's return he was stricken with typhoid fever.

Now he was slowly getting well, but the days seemed long and even Saunders' faithful presence at times irritated the invalid. On such occasions, he took refuge with his Dream Girl, as he had named her.

Big gray eyes, and crinkly, sunshiny hair—the description exactly fitted Persis Meredith, who at the very instant Stanford was putting his questions to Saunders was sitting in her small bare room, gazing disconsolately at a picture in her hand.

"Well, it's back to Milton for me and all my dreams over. Back to uncle and aunt, and, I suppose, back to you, John. You sneered at my wanting to try my wings in the city, and I guess you were right. But who'd ever think I would have fallen in love with a married man!" and Persis crumpled up the picture of a plain-featured youth and threw it into the basket.

Then, after mopping her eyes with her handkerchief and dabbing her pretty nose with a bit of powder, she put on a shabby jacket, mended gloves, and a little hat with a blue feather.

Just as Persis was passing young Weston's apartment, the door opened and Saunders came out, leaving the door just enough ajar for a pair of listless eyes gazing from the inner room to catch a glimpse of the blue feather of his dreams.

With a sudden strength in his voice, Stanford shouted: "Hi, there, Saunders, won't you ask Miss Blue Feather to humor an invalid and call on him a moment?"

Persis had stopped short at the first words, and a flush of color dyed her cheeks. "Oh, Saunders," she whispered, "does he know I came to see him when he was so sick?"

"No, miss," said Saunders. "Leastways, he speaks of some one that looks like you, but he sort of thinks it was one of the nurses. I didn't forget you made me promise not to tell."

"Oh, what shall I do now?" asked Persis.

"Well," said Saunders. "If I could advise, miss, he's awfully down—and it couldn't do any harm—"

"No," said Persis with sudden resolution. "It won't do any harm for I am going away for good."

"I'm sorry to hear that, miss," said Saunders. "I'll tell him you're coming."

When, a few minutes later, Persis found herself seated beside the boyish figure of the man whose brow she had gently touched when he was calling in delirium, she was at a loss. Would he remember her?

Evidently not, she thought, as she listened to his first words.

"I hope you'll excuse my impertinence, Miss—"

"Meredith," supplied Persis. "Meredith, but either I must have known you before or somebody marvelously like you. I was afraid I would never see you if I let you go."

"No, you wouldn't have, Mr. Weston, for I am going away," replied Persis, a note of sadness creeping into her voice as she thought how happy she had been, even if she was only making just enough with her drawings to pay her way.

Stanford's face fell. To long incessantly for the Girl of his Dreams, to have her materialize miraculously, and then to lose her! Impossible! But he only said, dully, "Must you?"

"Yes," answered Persis, smoothing out one of her worn gloves, "I've got to go back home."

"And is there somebody back home?" he asked, the sudden flare of jealousy which seized him making him forget how little right he had to ask such a question.

"Yes—in a way there is, a somebody who doesn't altogether approve of me! But enough about me. Are you better?"

Slowly in Stanford's mind was growing the realization of where he had seen this girl. Ignoring her question in his eagerness, "Aren't you the person who sent me stuff to eat and sat by me sometimes?" he demanded.

Taken unaware, Persis could only blush and drop her eyes. Then she murmured, "But any one would have done the same, I am sure. You seemed so alone—and one day I heard you calling for some one and I knew you were delirious and might think I were she—the one you were calling—"

The likable face of the youth opposite grew tender. "Do you know," he said, "I think you made me well. But since you've stopped coming, I haven't wanted to get better. I thought you were a Dream Girl and I spent all my time thinking of my dream. I know it can't seem to you as if we were anything more than strangers, but—oh, don't go home just yet. Stay and let me see you occasionally. Let me teach you to—like me a little, so that some day you might become in very truth my—my Dream Girl!"

But Persis had risen and stood facing him indignantly. "Why, you're married, Mr. Weston!" she said, with emphasis.

Stanford looked at her in amazement. "What in thunder makes you think that?" he asked.

"Why," said Persis, "when you were delirious you talked over and over about your—wife. You called her 'Gracie,' and once you said: 'I'll be glad when you come home, darling.'"

Weston, to Persis' utter confusion, threw his head back and laughed the first good laugh he had had for many a day. "Excuse me, Miss Meredith, but poor old Gracie—six foot two inches, and a beard a yard long, judging by his last picture from Chile. Why, we were roommates at college, and when the boys found his last name was Darling they immediately tacked the name of Gracie in front of it and Gracie has been ever since. As for the wife part, it's what a fellow always calls his roommate."

"I understand now, of course," said Persis. "But the mistake was a natural one!"

"Of course, it was, little—I mean, Miss Meredith," assented Stanford, gently, "but now that everything is straightened out, won't you give me at least a chance to prove myself, first, your very good friend, and then some day, more than that?"

Persis raised her soft eyes to the true brown ones of the man opposite her. Would she ever dare tell him that, married though she thought he was, she had fallen in love with him and, thinking her love hopeless, was running away home?

But Stanford was urging her again. "Don't you think dreams ever come true?"

A great wave of happiness swept through her. But all she said was: "I'm sure they do, sometimes!"

FAILED TO SEE REAL POINT

Or Possibly Sir Thomas More Did Not Want to Heed Rebuke Aimed at Ecclesiastic.

Bishop Latimer, the Protestant reformer of 500 years ago, had a way of relating stories in the pulpit by way of illustrating his text. He told one about Sir Thomas More which he described as "a merry toy." Master More was sent in commission into Kent to try and find out the cause of the shelving of the Goodwin sands that blocked the haven of Sandwich. Having called a meeting of men of experience he asked them what could be done in the matter.

Among the company was one who More thought was likely to know the cause of the trouble. The man admitted that no one knew more than he did about the coast.

"Forsouth, sor," quoth he, "I hold that Tenterden steeple is the cause of Goodwin sands. I remember the building of Tenterden steeple and before that there was in no manner of speaking any flats or sand that stopped the haven, so I find the steeple is the cause of the destroying and decay of Sandwich haven."

Nevertheless, More missed the point. The man was, of course, referring to the old story that the abbot of St. Augustine, Canterbury, had taken the money provided for making good the sea wall, and expended it on building the steeple. As a consequence of this, the sea forced its way through the protections to Earl Godwine's island, so causing the inundations of 1069.

USE OF TREES AND SHRUBS

Effectively Employed, They Are of Importance in Improving Appearance of House.

It sometimes happens that barns are necessarily of greater size than the dwelling, and so have the appearance of being more important. Yet the building of chief importance always is the home. That fact can be made plain by manifesting special regard for the appearance of the house. Trees and shrubs will hide the encroaching but necessary service buildings and emphasize the true center

EASY TO GROW GRASS LAWN

Perfect Greensward May Be Quickly Realized by the Use of Novel English Method.

It is proverbially a slow business getting a good grass lawn in a garden, but a new English idea makes it possible to secure a fine stretch of verdure just as one would buy a carpet at the stores. Grass seed is sown thickly on strong canvas and, when this is thickly covered with growth it is ready for making the lawn.

The site is well prepared, being made perfectly level, and special attention is given to getting the soil so that it is a favorable rooting medium for the little plants. Then the grass mats are put down on sections, these being closely fitted together. As time goes on the roots push down through the canvas and, in this way, establish a permanent lawn. Ultimately the material will rot. The value of this lies in the fact that an immediate effect can be secured. It is quite easy to have a splendid grass lawn in a situation where, a few hours before there was nothing of the kind. Thereafter the grass will go on improving and the little plants speedily take a hold on the soil.—Scientific American.

Trees Beyond Valuation.

Ten million dollars' damage annually is done to the shade trees and hardy shrubs of the country by shade tree insects, according to estimates made by the bureau of entomology, United States Department of Agriculture.

It is very difficult to estimate the money value of the shade trees and shrubs of the country, but a very conservative estimate would place their value at $1,000,000,000. These figures were reached after extensive correspondence with the forestry and other authorities of states and municipalities. A more definite census is aimed at, but the figures are taken as dependable for general purposes. They are based on the value of trees to cities, parks and private property, and have no reference to the bare intrinsic value of wood or lumber. An old oak tree which, because of its condition is not worth $2 for lumber, may add $500 to the value of the city lot on which it is located.

City Has Right Idea.

A campaign to beautify school surroundings has been started by the architectural-engineering department of the public schools. About $35,000 will be spent this year, it is announced.

A. D. Weeks, director of the department, says that from a landscape standpoint Detroit schools rank poorly in comparison with eastern cities though they compare favorably in architecture.

In the past, work of this sort has been largely assumed by the pupils who performed the labor and bore the expense.—Detroit Free Press.

HOW

COMMON SUPERSTITIONS ATTAINED THEIR VOGUE

—Many superstitions are supposed to have originated from theories based on the workings of the subconscious mind, or some deductions arrived at by observing old sages who knew how to put two and two together.

Giving a knife to a friend, says the philosopher, was considered a likely way to break off a friendship because it denoted some subconscious but sinister thought on the part of the giver.

He doped out the bad luck that was supposed to follow a fellow who walked under a ladder in this wise: If a fellow is so lazy he takes the chance of walking under a ladder instead of going around, he's likely to meet with an accident before long.

Picking up a pin, he says, is a thrifty habit, and the man who picks it up is both saving and observant, and so likely to have success in whatever he does.

As for the innocent $2 bill, it got its reputation when some careless shopper first handed it out by mistake for a $1 bill, and didn't get the right change. And the poor $2 bill, that really is as nice as any of the Long Green family, has been regarded with a cold and suspicious eye.

The bride who drops her ring shows she is either careless or indifferent to her husband, says the philosopher, so can you wonder that their married life isn't going to be smooth?

And here the dusty old hander out of information leaves us with something to think about.

"The custom of the wedding ring, now that we are on the subject," he tells us with his driest smile, "dates back to the savage tribes. This, one of our most respected customs, had its origin, too, in one of the earliest superstitious rites."

PROVED HUNGER BEST SAUCE

How English King Restored Appetite to High Liver, and Incidentally Collected a Fee.

King Henry VIII liked to stroll about in disguise, and on one of these wandering excursions came to the abbey of Reading, where he declared himself a member of the king's guard, and asked for food. He was served with the best the monks had, and among the dishes was a great roast of beef which the royal visitor attacked with gusto and ate until the abbot blinked in wonder.

"I'd give a hundred pounds," he cried, "could I eat like that instead of nibbling at a chicken wing. My stomach is squeaky." The king departed without identifying himself to the monks, and the very next day the abbot was taken to the Tower and locked in a cell with naught but a bit of bread and water. Several days passed, and then the guards appeared with the information that the abbot was to be freed, and he was conducted to a room where a roast beef was sitting on a table. He was almost starved from his long dieting and he swallowed the last bit of the smoking roast. Out jumped Henry from behind a curtain. "Ah ha," cried the king, "I've cured you, and now down with my hundred pounds or back you go to the Tower." The money was paid and the abbot departed rejoicing.

How Poinsettias Are Forced.

To get poinsettias ready for the market by Christmas is a problem that has worried florists ever since the bright red flowerlike leaves of this beautiful plant took their place as a favorite holiday decoration.

The problem has been reduced to a practical solution through the work of Dr. W. W. Garner, tobacco specialist, and H. H. Allard, plant physiologist of the United States Department of Agriculture, who discovered the possibility of advancing or retarding the growth of plants by controlling the period of light each day. Where the light period is shortened the plants reach maturity much sooner than where they are given the natural length of day. In the greenhouses on the department's experimental farm at Arlington, Va., it has been found possible to bring poinsettias into full form as early as August by shortening the daily exposure to light.

How to Prevent Windows Steaming.

This may be prevented either by putting something on the glass to which the water vapor will not adhere, by improving the ventilation or by heating the air near the window so that the steam does not condense on the window. A solution of glycerine in alcohol rubbed over the window on the inside is said to prevent steaming and freezing, while ammonia and various acids are also used in the same way. A double sash on the window is the best preventive in cold weather.

The Correct Term.

"What do you do?"
"I follow the races."
"Follow?"
"Follow is the term. I'm never ahead of them."

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 2:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed is he that

2:13.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Matt. 20:
29-34; Luke 19:29-40; John 12:12-19; I Pet.
3:15.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Story of a Wonderful Procession.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Wonderful Procession.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC
—Honoring Christ in Our Lives.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC
—The Lordship of Jesus: Its Meaning for Us.

I. The Preparation (vv. 1-6).

1. The sending of the disciples for the ass (vv. 1-3). He told them just where to go to find it and told them how to answer the inquiry of the one who owned it. This shows how perfectly our Lord knows our ways. God uses unlikely and apparently insignif-cant things in the accomplishment of his purposes.

2. The fulfillment of prophecy (vv.
4, 5). Some five hundred years before this Zechariah had made this prediction. If the predictions of His first coming were thus literally fulfilled there is no alternative but to believe that those of His second coming will be literally fulfilled. The prediction of Zechariah 14:3-11 will be just as literal as that of Zechariah 9:9.

3. The obedience of the disciples
(v. 6). The request may have seemed strange and unreasonable, but they fully obeyed. True disciples will render full and glad obedience no matter how strange the command may seem.

II. The Entrance of the King (vv.
7-11).

1. The disciples put their garments upon the ass and set the Lord upon them (v. 7). This act showed that they recognized Him as their King (II Kings 9:13).

2. The multitude. Some spread their garments in the way; others who had no garments to spare cut down branches and did the same with them, which was just as acceptable to Him.
To give what we have and to do what we can is all that He demands of us.
3. The city shaken (vv. 10, 11). This was a stirring time, but one more stirring is coming. That will be when the Lord comes in power and glory.

III. The King Rejected (vv. 12-17).

The immediate occasion of this rejection was the cleansing of the temple. A like cleansing had been made some two years before (John 2:13-17), but the worldlings had gone back to their old trade.

IV. The Nation Rejected by the King (vv. 18-46).

Having in this official presentation shown their unwillingness to receive Christ, He turns from them and by parables makes known their awful condition.

1. The barren fig tree cursed (vv.
18-22). It was on the morrow after His official presentation as Jesus was returning from Jerusalem that He observed the unfruitful fig tree. Because of hunger He sought for figs, and finding none He caused to fall upon it a withering curse. This fig tree full of leaves but barren of fruit is a type of Israel. With its leaves it gave a show of life, but being destitute of fruit it had no right to en-cumber the ground.

2. The parable of the two sons (vv.
23-32). Both sons were told by the father to work in the vineyard. The one, like the prodigal publican, refused outright to obey, but afterward repented and went. The other pretended willingness to obey, but in reality did not. The first one represents the publicans and harlots; the second,
the self-righteous, proud pharisees, priests and elders. The Lord declared that the publicans and harlots would go into the kingdom before them.

3. The parable of the householder
(vv. 33-46).

(1) The householder. This was God himself. (2) The vineyard. This means Israel (see Isa. 5:1-7; Jer. 2:21; Ps. 80:8). The Lord went to particular pains to gather out this nation and make it separate, bestowing peculiar favors upon it. This vineyard so well kept and provided for did not bear fruit. (3) The husbandmen.
These were the spiritual guides, the rulers and teachers of Israel, the members of the sanhedrin. (4) The servants sent for the fruits of the vineyard. These were the various prophets whom God sent to the nation. The maltreatment and rejection of the prophets is fully set forth in the Scriptures. They were beaten and killed. (5) The Son. He is the Lord Jesus Christ, God's only and beloved Son. He came into their midst.

They That Deny.

They that deny a God destroy man's nobility, for certainly man is of kin to the beasts by his body, and, if he be not of kin to God by his spirit, he is a base and ignoble creature.— Bacon.

The Kingdom of God.

The kingdom of God is not a business set up in rivalry with worldly business, but a divine law regulating and a divine temper pervading the pursuits of worldly business.—Doctor Martineau.

Christian Endeavor Accomplishments and Possibilities
Philippians 3:7-14

There are three prominent points in this chapter. They all relate to the Christian believer. First there is the believer's position, then the believer's progress, and after that the believer's prize.

The position of the believer is seen in verse 9 and is indicated by the two words "in him." This expression suggests the peculiar and unique position which the Christian believer occupies. He is "in Christ" and consequently has place and part in the new creation which began with the resurrection of Christ from the dead (2 Cor. 5:17). Standing in Christ, the believer has not his own righteousness, or any store of merit through law-keeping, but rather, has the righteousness which comes through faith in Christ, the righteousness which is God's gift to personal faith in Christ, the righteousness which is God's gift to personal faith in His son. The complement of this is found in the words, "Christ in you." Galatians 2:20 makes both parts of this great truth clear.

The believer's progress is seen in verses 12-14. No matter what has been accomplished by believers individually or collectively, there is always something better in the future.
The future possibilities are always greater than past achievements. Our young people's societies should ever keep this in view and appropriate the words of verses 13, 14 as a watchword and a standard. "This one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before." I press onward. This is the only antidote for deterioration or backsliding. The word "press" in verse 14 indicates intensity of effort, not merely wishing, but resolutely willing.

The objective before the apostles was to apprehend that for which Christ had apprehended him. He had done this in part, but had not yet fully attained. This is a worthy ambition for any Christian believer or Christian society. What was the purpose of God in bringing the young people's societies into existence? Has that purpose been fulfilled? Have we yet attained? In part, yes; in fullness, no. We believe that the purpose of God in the special work of the young people's societies was and is the building up of the body of Christ through inward development and outward growth, the growth that is attained through the real conversion of other young people to God. Through Christian fellowship and instruction, through study of the best methods,
young people ought to be so strengthened and made intelligent in the Christian faith, that they can go out and win others as Andrew won his brother, and as Philip won Nathaniel. Only in this way shall we ever fulfill the purpose of Christ.

In these days when social activities are multiplied and when the call of God is unheard because of the many confused voices and sounds round about us, we need to get back to the great underlying principles of the work of our Christian societies. Patrick Henry once said that the republic would be saved only by a constant recurrence to fundamental principles. This is equally true in the purpose and work of our young people's societies.

The Christian believer's prize is seen in the last two verses of the chapter.

Up a Tree.

While in Africa recently Mr. A. S.
Le Souef, director of the Taronga zoo (Sydney), saw plenty of elephants, which were destructive to the crops put in by the natives of the Uganda country. He also observed the body of a small antelope about 14 feet up a tree. The carcass of the antelope had been put in this position for safe keeping, by leopards. "These members of the cat family are handsome, and extremely active," says Mr.
Le Souef. "They play about in clear places in the forest, tear up the ground, and spring far up the trees.
They are most active, but they do not readily attack humanity, unless it be a child at evening, and they are hungry. The beauty of their fur makes them desirable for a zoo and for rugs, but the number that may be killed is limited. I saw the beautiful Colobus monkey, which, in spite of its stunning black-and-white coloring, was difficult to observe among the juniper trees from whose branches hung long pieces of lichen."

No Man's a Hero to His Wife.

While the fire that destroyed the four-story Stillman department store in Muncie recently was at its height an excited woman called police headquarters, saying that her husband, a workman, was supposed to be repairing the roof on the Stillman building and she feared he might have perished in the flames. A policeman who investigated found that the man in question not only had escaped but had helped to save a woman clerk who was in danger. The officer informed the wife of this, thinking she would not only be relieved but proud of the husband. Instead she snapped back:
"What was my husband doing on the roof with a woman?"—Indianapolis News.

GOOD POINTS IN TRADITION

Much of Value to the World, If the Idea Is Not Carried to an Extreme.

The effects of tradition are neither wholly good nor bad. To begin with, nothing that is human can be summed up like that; in this world there are neither black demons nor stainless, saints—ours is a plebeian population.

At bottom I should like to speak evil of tradition, because I am a modern;
if I wanted to open a shop, I should not paint upon its front, "Founded in 1776," but rather, "Reorganized in 1920." I see tradition rather as a black spirit that hovers behind us, prompting us to do things because our forefathers did them, preventing us from examining these things in the light of our common sense. I dislike the past. I feel that the railway improves on the stage coach, that we wash more thoroughly than our grandparents, and that we write better novels than ever did Thackeray.

Only, when these aversions have been set down, I am forced to acknowledge that when I do meet a man who does not too loudly proclaim his traditional impulses, and yet is following them out—well, I rather like him. I detest the insolence of the aristocratic young officer, but I like his clothes and the way he has his hair cut. I dislike the grand lady who talks about the "lower classes," but she is a rather charming woman to meet. It's very awkward. Why can't people exam-plify three centuries of culture and be modern all the same?

I suppose that tradition is a good thing, like whisky, if one does not have too much of it. (I do not want to open in an American magazine such a painful question, as this; I suppose that my readers, while reserving their views on spirits, are modern enough to consider that on tradition we might go dry.)

America has had its share of that fine tradition, its sense of duty, its sense of justice, its courage, through the Pilgrim Fathers, through the hardy English stock which hunted savages out of the rich lands between the coasts of two oceans. Likewise we cannot do without the American tradition of openness to every idea and to every device.

The world needs the harsh Scottish tradition, its leaning toward education for its own sake; it needs the tradition of Japanese courage, of German thoroughness, of French lucidity. Our traditions may become old men of the sea that we bear on aching shoulders;
the soldier's pack is heavy, but yet it contains things that the soldier must have.—W. L. George in Harper's Magazine.

A Convex Canal.

How the shape of the earth became a matter for the decision of an English court of law is told in the Springfield Republican. The plaintiff, named Hamden, held the opinion that the earth was not round. He issued an advertisement in which he challenged philosophers, divines and scientific men to prove the contrary from Scripture, reason or fact. He deposited $2,500 in a bank, to be forfeited to anyone who could prove to the satisfaction of any intelligent referee that there was such a thing as a convex railway, canal, or lake.

The challenge was accepted by the late Alfred Russell Wallace, who ranked with Darwin as a scientific man, and who proved to the satisfaction of the referee that the curvature of the Bedford level canal, between Whitney bridge and Welsh's dam (six miles), was five feet, more or less. He received the money.

The plaintiff was a "poor loser." He brought an action and recovered his deposit on the ground that the whole affair was a wager, and was therefore illegal.

Special Vest for Gems.

"Jewelers' vests for sale." The sign hits you in the eye as you walk along John street. You ask the merchant tallor "What's a jeweler's vest?" and he shows you one and explains it thus:
"You see, it's a long, sleeveless
'skeleton' garment made of black drill.
It's longer than an ordinary waistcoat or vest and is worn between the regular vest and the coat. On the inside of the vest, on each side, is a deep pocket, with a flap and a button to close the flap.

"Jewelers wear them to carry the wallets in which they keep diamonds and other precious stones. They consider the pockets safer than those in the ordinary garments because the wallets do not bulge out the pockets so much. They wear the vests in going on their rounds on John street and Maiden lane and elsewhere in the jewelry district. I have known jewelers to carry as much as $100,000 worth of diamonds in one of these vests."—
New York Sun.

Still Indignant.

It was the day before the great G.
A. R. parade and the teacher of a class of six-year-olds was trying to acquaint the children with the significance of some of the festivities.

The children, evidently rich in experiences of the recent war, interrupted rather freely so that little progress in the lesson was made.

Finally one little fellow piped out,
"Yes, Miss —, my uncle —" and here the teacher stopped him. Putting a hand on each cheek she said:
"Yes, dear, but you tell us that story later, won't you?"

"Taint no story, either," said he, indignantly, "my uncle was, too, shot through the leg by the Germans, and I know it."—Indianapolis News.

HAS FALLEN LOW

Berlin's Famous Brandenburger
Thor a Byword.

Once Known Throughout the World as the Shrine of German Militarism,
It Is Now a Joke.

One of the most striking physical signs of the demilitarization of Germany is in the degradation of the famous Brandenburger Thor, Germany's arch of triumph, at the head of Unter den Linden, writes Guy Hickok in the Brooklyn Eagle.

Pre-war visitors to Berlin will remember this arch as the very shrine of German militarism and Kaiserliche authority.

No one but his imperial majesty was allowed to drive through the center arch. A platoon of the smartest soldiers in the German army was quartered there, ever ready to snap into the most epileptic rigidity at the approach of any high ranking officer.

Drums rolled at the arch many times
a day—whenever such an officer loomed in sight—and burst into a perfect fever of thumping and stuttering when the all highest drove by. Ordinary folk had to leave the sidewalk to pass the guard at the gate.

Now every shabby cab driver, pushcart man, boy bicyclist or news vender makes it a point to go through the center arch and none other.

There is no platoon of soldiers of any sort on guard.

A thousand generals—if there were that many—might amble through without creating a stir.

There are no drums to thump.
One poor youth of the security police, not over well informed, stands on a block of stone, with not an atom of pomp in him.

No one in Berlin is so humble as to do him honor. No one thinks of leaving the sidewalk for him. In fact he has to have a fence in front of himself to keep from being pushed aside by civilians.

If he tried to exercise the authority of a New York policeman he would be mobbbed. He assumes no control over street traffic or anything else. He merely stands.

Occasionally, but very seldom, a civilian stops to ask him the way to somewhere, and he digs out his little street directory and gives his answer meekly, embarrassed at having attracted attention.

The once proud arch itself is plastered with tattered white placards as big and as plentiful as our American wartime Liberty loan posters. But the words and the purpose of the placards are quite different. They are there, not to increase military strength, but to reduce it. They are part of the German government's attempt to obey the disarmament conditions of the Versailles treaty and the big letters on them read:
"Deliver Up Your Weapons."

The smaller letters explain that the government must turn over to the entente the rifles that the soldiers took home with them when the army fell to pieces after the armistice, and offer a premium for early surrender.

The Brandenburger Thor, used as an instrument for the weakening of German militarism, is as complete a reversal of purposes as if our own Statute of Liberty were fitted inside with prison cells for editors who insist on a free press.

Usual Effect.

Doctor—What was the most confusing case you ever tried?
Judge—A case of champagne. I didn't get half way through it before I was all muddled up.

A New Clerk.

"I want to buy a walking stick," he said. "An ebony one, please."
"Yes, sir," said the pretty girl behind the counter. "What color?"
Tit-Bits.

YOU CAN'T DODGE IT

Once in Awhile Your Blood Clogs and Your Vitality Runs Down

THEN TAKE PEPTO-MANGAN

You'll Pick Up Again Quickly with Plenty of Red Blood
Corpuscles

Physicians nowadays take a blood test when you are run down. They count the red corpuscles in your blood. If these are too few they give you a tonic for your blood. It happens right along. They are always on the lookout for indications of weak blood.

Why? Because they know when your blood is weak your resistance to disease is low. Your vitality and energy quickly run down.

You can tell when your blood is weak. You look pale, feel tired. You are not all, but you don't feel right.
You don't want to do things. That is the time to take the well-known tonic, Pepto-Mangan.

Pepto-Mangan builds red blood corpuscles. Physicians have prescribed it for thirty years.

Pepto-Mangan is sold in liquid and tablet form. The medicinal value is exactly the same. Take either kind you prefer. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan — "Gude's."
The full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," should be on the package.

THE OPTIMIST

Buy Direct From the Manufacturer

We've heard some weird "Munchausen" Tales, Tremendous stock and clearing sales.
The Mills were loaded to the guards
With piles of goods (ten million yards.)
This one was broke and that one flat,
And no one knew where he was at.
Each busy bee passed on some rumor,
Business was in a sulky humor
The truth to tell we've had our dose
Of overalls and patched old clothes,
Of profiteers and cost inflation,
Of financing the whole creation.
Of spending cash like drunken sailors,
For autos and for custom tailors,
And now we're coming to our senses
As the New Year again commences.
So let's begin to get in shape
To find the goods our folk to drape.
A hundred million people's wants
Will take some cloth to make their pants.
And women, too, still wear some clothes,
The very few—the Good Lord knows—
Easter again will soon be here
And cloaks and suits and skirts be wanted.
So let me whisper in your ear
Get busy now and don't be daunted
By tales of woe and ruin hoary Peddled by Pessimists affrighted.

TANEYTOWN LOCAL COLUMN

Brief Items of Local News of Special Interest to Our Home Readers.

Mrs. N. D. Feeser, of York St., is seriously ill with double pneumonia.

Robert A. Stott, of New York, visited his home folks, over last Sunday.

Electric light linemen commenced stringing the wires in town, on Monday.

Oliver G. Newcomer is quite ill, at his home on Middle St., from double pneumonia.

Mrs. Guy A. Ourand, of Washington, is with her home folks here, on a week's vacation.

Mrs. John M. Hoagland and daughter, Anna, of New York, are spending the week at D. W. Garner's.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Garner, of Baltimore, spent last Sunday in town, visiting at Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sell's.

Mrs. Elmer S. Hess has returned home from Franklin Square Hospital, where she had been for an operation.

George S. and Clayton H. Bollinger and son, Martin, of Spring Grove, Pa., spent Saturday last with T. M. Buffington and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Reaver and children, Eugene Rufus and Lillie, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Nusbaum, last Sunday.

The local division, N. C. R., has introduced economy by laying off the track hands, on Saturdays, until further notice. Applied to the entire division, this will mean a big saving, each month, in pay checks.

John Ecker, of Washington State, whose parents live in New Windsor, visited at Mrs. J. Henry Lambert's over Sunday, and called on relatives in town, on Monday. He recently sold his fruit ranch in Washington, but is going back again to make another investment in land on the Pacific Coast.

Robert W. Resser, of Littlestown, writing from the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, gives the facts about a remarkable pumpkin grown by a Mr. Simpson, of Hobart, Pa. The pumpkin was nearly solid, and weighed 23 lbs. In length it was 14 inches, width 9 1/4 inches, and contained 41 seeds.

The editor of the Record is entitled to attend the meeting of the National Editorial Association, that will be held in Florida, March 7th to 25th, the convention city being St. Augustine, but the event covers all of the points of interest in the State. The Florida local committees expect to spend about $100,000 on the event.

The editor of the Record received a letter on Jan. 21, that was plainly addressed to Taneytown, Md., post-marked Pittsburg, Dec. 18. It was marked in pencil "missent" but—where, or why? does not appear. Fortunately, the message of the letter was merely social, but it serves to point that our mail service is anything but sure and prompt.

A bazaar and supper for the benefit of the Taneytown Volunteer Fire Company will be held in the Firemen's Building, Tuesday evening, Feb. 22, Washington's birthday. The soliciting committee will canvas the town soon. It is hoped the donations may be ample, and that this very worthy enterprise may have the support and encouragement of the people. Further information later.

The East-End Improvement Society held a meeting at Norman Baumgardner's, Tuesday evening, one at Harry Baumgardner's Wednesday evening, and will hold another, this Friday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, at which all the members are requested to be present, at the home of D. W. Garner. There will be present Wm. Little, of Honey-Brook, Pa., who contemplates building a fine home; also Mr. Schliffer, Manager of the Electric Light Plant, of Union Bridge, and others.

David Hafer, the father of Rev. L. B. Hafer, died at his late residence in Chambersburg, Pa., on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Hafer was informed a week ago of the critical illness of his father and visited him last week, returning to Taneytown on Saturday. On Wednesday morning of this week he was informed that the aged father had become worse, and left immediately for Chambersburg. He reached the home about half hour before the father's death. Mr. Hafer was aged 84 years. Funeral services will be held this Saturday morning. See church notices for information as to Sunday services.

St. Mary's Industrial School.

An effort is being made to raise $2,000,000 with which to rebuild St. Mary's Industrial School, that was destroyed by fire. At the time of the fire there were 904 boys in the school, in age from 8 to 20 years. They came from 33 States, and almost all denominations were represented. A circular letter issued in behalf of the effort, says:

"St. Mary's is absolutely interdenominational in its functioning; therefore His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons and Bishop Corrigan appeal to all regardless of creed to support this most worthy cause.

All who love little children will be solicited. If each one will do his and her part, the great total will be reached. Help the helpless little children. They have faith in you. When you give to St. Mary's, you honor yourself. The potentialities of childhood are America's greatest asset. The boys of today are the men of tomorrow.

"The giving is made easy. The pledges will extend one year. Liberty Bonds will be accepted at face value."

"WOMEN IN THE POLITICS OF AMERICA."

As was stated in a local in last issue, Taneytown is to be favored with a Lecture on the above topic, on Thursday evening, February 17, in the Opera House, by Hon. Gabriel H. Moyer, Deputy Auditor General of the State of Pennsylvania. The topic will be of timely interest to all, and especially to women voters. Mr. Moyer is fully acquainted with "the game of politics" as it is played, and will have a lot of things to say as to individual responsibility for good government.

We think the committee made a mistake in making the admission charge to this event, only 25 cents. However, the main thing is to have the Opera House packed, and 25 cents admission ought to do it. If possible, ladies should have front seats, and we believe it will be wise for patrons to come as soon as the doors are open—7:30 o'clock. The performance will begin at 8:00 o'clock, sharp.

No one will be admitted during the performance of any of the musical numbers that will precede the lecture, but will be asked to stand at the door, so as not to interfere with the performers, nor with the enjoyment of those in the audience who come in time.

His Suggestion.

A Hoosier traveling man had a hotel room next to one occupied by two teachers during the recent teachers' convention. He was very tired and turned in early. But hardly had he closed his eyes when the two teachers came in from the evening session. They discussed it, one of them particularly being endowed with a voice commonly termed strident.

Finally they finished with the subject and he, thinking they were through with the conversation for the night, turned over again and once more began to think of slumbering. But after a little pause the loud talking began on another theme, namely, "The hard life of a teacher." After she had discussed it from all angles she said: "If I only knew where I could succeed I would leave the teaching profession. Now, what could I really do as well as I can teach school?"

Before the second teacher could answer her, the long-suffering man rose to the occasion. "Madam," he shouted through the wall, "you could be an auctioneer."—Indianapolis News.

$2,000,000 Worth of Tusks.

The largest collection of African elephant tusks ever seen in Europe is now lying on the piers of the East Indian Docks. More than 20,000 elephants contributed their tusks to this consignment. The largest tusk was priced by experts at $500. The estimated value of the collection is about $2,000,000.

In due course it will be converted into backs of hair brushes, combs and various other toilet knickknacks or into small statuettes, knife and fork handles and billiard balls.

Ivory dealers say the best for any purpose is obtained from Cameroon; next in order come the ivory from the Congo, Gaba and Ambriz. By way of Zanzibar the tusks are brought to Bombay for transhipment to Europe and the United States.

Up to within recent years the record length of tusk, presented to George V. on his marriage, was 8 ft 7 1/2 in.; but Messrs Rowland & Ward, Piccadilly dealers, have recently received one measuring 11 ft, 5 in.

In the recount of votes for Senator, in Michigan, Mr. Ford has gained 2642 votes from 1841 of the 2232 voting precincts. As Senator Newberry had a plurality of about 7,500, it is hardly probable that the Ford vote can increase sufficiently to overcome the lead. Wayne county, including Detroit, which was Ford's stronghold, is yet to be counted.
