

OUR COUNTY ROADS IN BAD CONDITION.

The Ever-present Problem, as seen
by a Practical Observer.

Any one traveling over our country roads at this time of the year, or indeed at any time, must be impressed with the fact that there is something radically wrong with our system of road-making, or else there is a great fault lying at the door of those who are charged with the duty of working our system. We do not want to accuse anyone of willful neglect, so we will lay the blame to the system itself.

It is very plain that in rainy or thawing weather we can not find dirt roads solid, but finding a soft surface temporarily is quite a different thing from finding holes which retain the mud and water, long after other places have dried up. And it is quite different, too, from finding humps and bumps, ruts and chucks, which batter and wreck vehicles and retard travel when the road is entirely dry.

Recently, some of our principal roads have been almost impassable when they ought to have been good. They are far worse than they were ten years ago and if the fault is with our system of road-making, we ought to find the remedy. The last annual statement of the County Commissioners shows that $52,496.93 were spent on the county roads. Now we would be far from even suggesting that any of this was improperly used, but we do believe that from the expenditure of that amount of money we ought to get better results, and we are inclined to place the blame on our long established way of dealing with the roads.

There are just two things necessary if we are to have the kind of roads we ought to have. The first is an intelligent appreciation of the value of good roads everywhere. We firmly believe in the building of so-called permanent roads for our principal highways, but what is even more important than that is to make ordinary roads fairly good everywhere. A few dollars invested in good roads by each tax-payer would come back many times over in the saving of gasoline, automobile repair bills, buggies, wagons, and machinery of every kind that is taken over the roads, and it would come back, too, in the saving of time, which in these days has come to be very valuable. Let us get it into our brains that good roads pay, and that bad roads are a heavy liability to any community. Then, having come to see the value of good roads, we will find a way to secure them.

The second requisite is efficient road supervision. It would be a paying investment to put one man in the county to supervise and manage road repairs for the whole county, providing the man had wide practical knowledge of draining and grading, and combined with that enough business sense to know what is necessary and what is not, and who would never waste a dollar, but would not hesitate to spend one when necessary and advisable.

With many good and honest men at work on the roads, the old system has not secured the best results. Let the County Commissioners try to find a new method that will guarantee the repair and improvement of our roads under the direction of one who CAN, one who WILL, and one who WILL AT THE PROPER TIME. So long as we make roads just when it is convenient, we will never have good roads.

A ROAD USER.

Rocky Ridge Garage Burned.

The Rocky Ridge Garage owned and conducted by Elsworth C. Valentine was totally destroyed by fire Wednesday, which for a time threatened the destruction of adjoining property. Two large army trucks, a Studebaker ambulance, a Buick roadster, and an Indian motorcycle and a large quantity of accessories were destroyed. The loss is estimated at about $10,000, partly covered by insurance.

Several times the residence of Mr. Valentine adjoining, and a stable belonging to Charles Wood caught fire, but quick work prevented damage. All of the contents of the garage, including the office equipment and about $500 worth of accessories, were consumed.

The fire originated from back-firing in one of the large trucks. Workmen had partly dismantled the truck for the purpose of repairing it, and when the engine of the machine was started it immediately back-fired and communicated to the building and other trucks. The cars were in the rear of the building, and on account of the way being blockaded could not be gotten past the dismantled car.

100,000 employees of the leading meat packing concerns have agreed to accept a cut of from 12% and 15 percent in wages, and to a general termination of war-time working agreements. The agreement was reached under the advice of Secretary of Labor Davis, and conferences with Secretaries Hoover and Wallace. Hereafter all mutual differences will be adjusted by the packers and their employees.

CARDINAL GIBBONS DEAD.

One of the Best Beloved Churchmen Gone to Rest.

James Cardinal Gibbons died at the Cathedral residence, in Baltimore on Thursday, at 11:33 A. M., in his 87th year, as a result of a breakdown of the system that occurred last Fall. After his first attack he came to the Shriver home, at Union Mills, thinking the change might benefit him, but while there had a more serious attack from which he partially recovered, and then returned to Baltimore about January 1.

Cardinal was greatly beloved, not only by Catholics, but by many thousands of Protestants, and was the most widely known and influential churchman in this country, and with it all was one of the simplest in his habits, one of the most human in his sympathies, and one of the most approachable.

He was a great builder and organizer, and radiated a genius that was contagious and compelling and drew all to him who knew him well. Men differed with him, religiously, and with many of his views on public questions, but all honored him as a preacher and citizen. Without question he was one of the greatest men this country has known.

The funeral services will be held next Thursday in the Cathedral, and the body will be buried in the crypt under the high altar of the cathedral, where six bishops who preceded him, lie. Masses will be said at the Cathedral each morning, preceding the requiem mass.

Auto Accidents Continue.

Notwithstanding more stringent laws regulating speed, and more care in licensing drivers, accidents and deaths due to motor travel, still continue at an alarming rate. Several years ago, The Record advanced the idea that the only way by which accidents could be reduced, was through limiting the speed power of autos in their manufacture, to not to exceed 25 miles per hour. But, we have never seen any indorsement of such a plan, which is likely considered ridiculous by the average auto owner, notwithstanding the fact that it is the only sure way of reducing accidents.

Give a driver the knowledge of power in his machine, and he will exercise it. Laws limiting speed at 20 or 25 miles, or less, are ineffective. When speed of 30 to 50 miles is present, needing only the turning on of "juice" and opening up, and there will always be found drivers who will "take a chance" at the wrong time—and what happens, is likely to be "unavoidable."

As long as life is held so cheaply, in connection with the excitement of speeding, the death and accident harvest will be large, and the lives and property of the careful, law-abiding users of the roads, will be in jeopardy. Why should not 20 miles an hour be a rapid enough speed, anywhere? Only a few years ago, half that speed was the best that could be had from horses over the average road. Why should the substitution of the motor for the horse bring a reasonable demand for three or four times the former travel speed?

Horses were made go by some—as fast as they could go, and now it is the same with motor vehicles; but, there is neither sense nor justification in the fact.

Mr. Orlando Reese, Jr., Killed.

An automobile wreck occurred on Belvidere Ave., Baltimore, on Saturday night, in which two persons were killed and nine injured. One of those killed was Orlando Reese, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Reese, of Westminster, and the other Miss Margaret Gustin, of Baltimore. Some of the others were quite seriously injured.

Two cars going at fair speed, side-wiped each other in passing, one of the cars containing eleven occupants and is said to have shown but one headlight, which confused the driver of the other car. It is said that the overloaded car contained four persons on the front seat, including the driver, and that this must have interfered with the steering of the car.

The body of Mr. Reese was taken to Westminster, where funeral services were held on Wednesday, from the home of his parents.

Two Large Public Sales.

The sale of personal property belonging to A. H. Young, on March 21, in Uniontown district, was one of the best sales held in this county. One pair of horses brought $545.00, others brought $240.00, $175.00, $150.00, and $100.00; cows brought from $90.00 to $130.00; shoats from $8.00 to $12.00; one sow with pigs sold off, $80.00; a male pig, four months old, $30.00. The farming implements also sold well. The sale lasted four hours, amounted to $5000.00, and was called by J. N. O. Smith. It was one of the sales advertised in full in The Carroll Record.

The largest sale for which the Record did advertising this year, was that held by Jacob Haines, near Uniontown, on Thursday. The sale amounted to $5900., and was called by J. N. O. Smith. Horses sold at from $150.00 to $230.00; pony and cart at $200.00; cows $70.00 to $150.00; hogs sold very high; 25 cows were sold in 30 minutes; notwithstanding the large number of items, and the bad weather, the whole sale was handled in 5 1/2 hours.

Friendship and Business

A business letter received at our office, last week, contained this expression—"Friendship is a great asset in business." Frequently, we hear it the other way—"There is no friendship in business," and those who make most use of it, usually boast of the wisdom of keeping friendship and business separate; that they "treat everybody alike," etc, etc.

Of course, business is business, and not friendship. We do not buy goods at a store, merely because we like the storekeeper; neither do we refrain from buying something we want because we dislike the storekeeper; but, there is no great business without a considerable amount of friendship—or trust and confidence—which amounts to the same thing.

As a matter of fact, the "smart" man in business—the one who always exercises his own judgment—who buys, here, and everywhere, and never makes warm friends of his tradesmen—"gets caught" as often as the fellow who deals regularly with friends in business.

Business friends means what we term "regular customers," and they are mightily appreciated; so much so that a business man injures his own business when he takes advantage of such customers, and where there is a real friendship, advantage-taking is never practiced.

Friendship in business? Certainly there is—and lots of it. The man who says he knows no friends in business, can be depended on not to have much business. He may have some money, but, what is money without friends?

In last week's "The Ready Debater" numerous errors appeared, especially in the last paragraph, which we reproduce as it should have been. The non-essentials in a debate represent one of the meanings of metaphysics—"a fertile field of delusion, propagated by language." They are employed by those who distort themselves, as it were, more or less publicly, for the sake of the enjoyment they get out of it, but in fact add very little to the sum of clarified truth—as we sometimes expressively say, "brass tacks."

PROPOSED SALES TAX.

Seriously Considered as a Revenue Producing Plan.

A strong effort is being made, especially by manufacturers of stamped articles, such as medicines and toilet preparations, to have said stamp taxes repealed, and a tax on general sales of merchandise adopted instead. It is urged that it is unfair to tax a few classes of merchandise, and not others, especially as many of the stamp-taxed articles are no more "luxuries" than hundreds of articles not so taxed.

There must be more than Four Billions of dollars a year raised in taxes to retire the war debt, and it is urged that a general sales tax is the simplest and fairest form for taxation to take.

The advocates of the sales tax recommend (1) a special Federal license on each individual, firm or corporation, and (2) a tax of one-fifth of one percent on the annual gross sales of each concern licensed.

The chief bone of contention is over the question of who shall, in fact, pay the tax. The merchant fears that it may be merely a tax on his profits, and that it will be impossible, in many instances, to add the tax to the selling price, unless it is added in plain sight, in addition to the selling price, and paid by the purchaser.

Evidently, when it is considered that this vast sum must be raised, annually, it is desirable that it be widely distributed, and not be placed on a few, and this idea of a general sales tax has much to recommend it, as a wide-spread tax.

Mexican Quail Distributed.

Four hundred Mexican Quail reached Westminster by express, Monday morning, this week. The Forest and Stream Club, Committee, and Herman M. Dinst, Carroll County Game Warden, looked after them to see that they were properly taken care of and distributed. Only one bird was dead. This is remarkable considering the time they were in the coops enroute.

They were distributed on as fair a basis as possible through the twenty-four men in the various districts throughout Carroll County, and some good results are expected. Reports from many sections of our County state that some of the Mexican Quail distributed last year raised coveys and stayed here all winter. They whistle like our native quail and look somewhat like them, although a little lighter in color, and smaller.

Farmers, why clean up your land so thoroughly? Leave enough bushes, and thicket on your farms to provide cover for the game. This means much to all of us who are interested in the propagation of game.

There will be some Pheasant eggs for distribution in a few weeks. Pheasants from the Game Farm will be distributed about July 1st.

Resolved, That the recent death of Joshua F. Magee, a member of the Board of Education of Carroll County, has come to us a matter of personal loss and to the people of Carroll County, as the removal of a public servant who was ever faithful to his duties, courageous in the discharge of his obligations to the citizens of Carroll County, and the State of Maryland, a strong and able citizen whom we loved as a man and whom the members of this Board held in the highest regard and esteem. In the untimely death of this member of our board, we lose a strong and courageous advocate for better and bigger schools and for better teachers in the public schools of this county.

Resolved, That a copy of this Resolution be spread on the minutes of the meeting of the Board and that a copy of same be sent to the members of the family of the deceased member.

Supt. Unger was authorized to have a retaining wall constructed at Mexico school-house. The Board deemed it advisable to defer consideration of raising the salary schedule for high school teachers for next year until the next regular meeting. Supt. Unger was authorized to secure a speaker for all the commencements in the county.

A delegation representing the Parent-Teachers Association of Union Bridge, appeared before the Board requesting the Board of Education to give them more room for school facilities next year. The committee suggested portable buildings and after careful consideration the Board agreed to the purchase of the same. The Board also decided to place portable buildings at Finksburg, Woodbine, Taylorsville and Mt. Airy.

A resolution adopted by the Parent-Teachers Association at Mt. Airy, was submitted to the Board, but no action was taken.

A committee representing Washington Camp No. 7, P. O. S. of A., of Pleasant Valley, appeared before the Board for the purpose of asking the Board of Education to purchase the building and lot with additional land now used for school purposes at Pleasant Valley; the price for the same being $4000. After some consideration, the Board decided to defer this matter until the meeting in April.

Supt. Unger reported to the Board the cancellation of the lease for the Hall by Trustees of the Washington Camp No. 20 now used for school purposes at Pleasant Gap. The same to take effect on June 3rd, 1921.

The meeting adjourned at 1:10 P. M.

Woman's Short Course.

The annual short course for women, established by our Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Rachel Everrett, will be held on April 6 and 7, in the County Agent's room in the Times Building. Miss Day will be present both days and will give interesting dress-making demonstrations, using one of the Carroll County home-made dress forms. She will be assisted by the Home Demonstration Agent from Frederick. An expert milliner will also give demonstrations. Household engineering is one of the main subjects to be discussed.

Most important of all Miss Venia Kellar, State Home Demonstration Agent, will outline the future community work for Carroll County women. Every woman should arrange to hear Miss Kellar. Full program will be published next week.

GERMAN DISORDER REPORTED GROWING

A Most Serious Situation, but Likely to be Controlled.

Throughout Germany there is a condition of anarchy that is regarded serious, even to the extent of a wide participation, perhaps even a reopening of war activities. The government is taking strong measures, but the strength of the government itself is in doubt. The activities of communists have gone so far as rioting, the use of explosions, and the destruction of property.

This, in connection with the occupation of large portions of Germany by allied troops, the refusal of the government to meet indemnities, the break between Germany and Poland over the territorial lines of Silesia, and the continued war in Russia, all combine to make a situation that may bring very serious consequences.

Martial law has not yet been declared by the German government, the police, so far, having charge of the situation.

Boy Fires Two Barns.

Because he was tired of the surroundings of his home and because he had never seen a real fire, Harry W. Snyder, 17, has confessed to firing two barns near Gettysburg, one of them belonging to a neighbor and another to his own grandfather. He is quoted as saying in his confession that he thought the fires might scare his parents, sufficiently to induce them to move.

George D. Snyder, 19, his brother, is also in jail. It is claimed he dared the younger one of the pair to commit the deeds. The first fire occurred a week ago and consumed the barn of Arthur Shields, together with all the contents, including an automobile.

Two nights later, fire was discovered at the farm of Alexander Collins, the Snyder boy's grandfather, but it was extinguished, the younger boy later telling that he left his bed to start the fire, hurried back to his room and then joined his father in fighting the blaze he himself had started.

Saturday afternoon he piled 50 fodder shocks in the hayloft of the barn and set fire to it. Soon afterward the building was beyond saving. A horse was so badly burned that it had to be shot. Both boys are in the Adams county jail.—Balto. Sun.

Mary A. Spencer, guardian of Helen F. and Mary H. Spencer, infants, settled her fourth account.

Geo. W. Albaugh, of Westminster, while coming down the marble steps in the banking house of Baker, Watts & Co., Baltimore, one day last week, slipped and fell, breaking both bones in his right leg, at the ankle. The accident will confine him to his room for some time.

17,000 Boxes of soap were sent to Russia, this week, by the American Red Star League, of Chicago. The shipment was sent at the solicitation of the Russian government which says typhus and other epidemic diseases are killing hundreds of helpless babies.

All articles on this page are either original, or properly credited. This has always been a fixed rule with this Office, and we suggest the adoption of it by our exchanges.

There is no use in just "blaming" conditions as being wrong and unfair. The thing to do is to stop calling names, and get together in working out fair improvements. There is not so much difference between honest contestants, after all, but before agreements can be reached there must be a spirit of fair co-operation manifested, by and for all concerned.

Mr. Hughes seems likely to shape the foreign policy of this country, and the public in general is satisfied that the big and vastly important problems are in safe and sane hands. Great Britain and France are likely to adopt the American policy, whatever it may be—and it is sure not to be a narrow, or unsound one. The choice of Mr. Harding for Secretary of State has given great confidence, not only to this country, but to the world.

The great question standing in the way of normal business, is the uncertain attitude of union labor, with reference to wage reductions. If conservative councils prevail with labor, the unemployment will largely cease, and business once more settle down to a steady and safe gait. The maintenance of the present excessive wages, in many lines, can not bring peace or safety; and whatever is extreme and arbitrary in union demands, must either be surrendered, or broken.

A Great Service.

Under the heading, "Glad Tidings of Great Joy," the Literary Digest of March 12, 1921, announces the completion of the effort to raise $33,000,000 for the starving children of Europe. It says:

"With grateful hearts we give thanks to Almighty God for a wonderful outpouring of love and generosity by the American people.

Three and a half million innocent children, helpless waifs of the war, were starving, and cold, and stricken with disease. They cried out across the sea, "Save us or we perish!" And the thirty-three million dollars needed to save these little ones from death has now been raised.

Then, after telling how the work was done, it concludes:

"And now a new vision greets the eyes of Americans: Three and a half million of pairs of little arms are stretched out to us across the sea, not in piteous pleading, but in the passionate gratitude of childhood. Three and a half million pairs of eyes are searching our souls, not with the haunting gaze of suffering and death, but brimming over with joy and love and thanksgiving. Three and a half million childish voices are coming to us on the winds from the East, and they are not piercing our ears with bitter cries of pain and want, but are given with laughter and the happy shouts of little ones whose suffering has been soothed away and whose sorrow has been turned into joy. And yet more. In three and a half million young hearts have been planted a love of the American Flag and an understanding of what it means that shall live through the years and grow into a strong bond of fellowship and peace.

The vast sum of money has been given with unfeigned joy and eagerness. Thousands have written to us with real gratitude for the opportunity and privilege of buying for themselves that precious and priceless thing, the life of a child. And many letters and telegrams from organizations and State and city committees have testified that the effort expended in carrying out this campaign has been a blessing to Americans themselves, as they have yielded to the warm glow of loving service and tender solicitude for God's own little children. At this time, therefore, we may lift united voices—those who have received and those who have given—in singing with reverent gladness, "Praise

God From Whom All Blessings Flow!"

This was indeed a great service, as we ordinarily look at such efforts, but why should it be counted great? The American people, for the purpose of saving thousands of lives in Europe and the preservation of some semblance of order there, have given an average of 30 cents each, counting men, women and children. Of course many gave princely gifts, but that only means that the vast majority of Americans had no part in the effort. Within the last five years our government would have considered the expenditure of that sum only an ordinary item of business.

We do not mean to detract from the glory of this achievement. Rather, we wish that all might see that it was the right thing to do, and an easy thing if all help, and that we ought to be ready at any time for a call like this. There is no business that pays such dividends as the business of helpfulness. L. B. H.

Record Your Deeds.

There are many persons who do not seem to understand the importance of the prompt recording of deeds. Just now, when many transfers of property are being made, it is an appropriate time to call attention to this matter.

It is often supposed that the mere possession of a deed is sufficient to give a clear title to property, but such is not the case. There are many situations in which the public record is the controlling matter. Of course, so long as no one contests a man's right, he might reside indefinitely on a piece of land without recording his title, or even without any deed; but some time the property must be sold, or willed, or allowed to descend to heirs without a will, and then it may be too late to remedy a defective title.

There are various ways in which "a cloud on the title," as it is called, may arise, and a man may be in danger of losing his property entirely. We know of a man who bought a home several years ago, and has since bought additional ground, and neither of the deeds have been recorded. Now suppose that by some accident these deeds should be lost or destroyed, how would the owner prove his right to possession, or how could he convey or devise the property to anyone else? The grantors might not be willing, and certainly could not be required, to make new deeds. And suppose that in the time before the loss of the papers the grantors should die, it would be a tedious, difficult and expensive thing to remedy the damage caused by mere neglect.

There are other dangers in holding a deed without recording it. Suppose that Blank sells a house and the purchaser does not have the deed recorded. Then Blank gives a judgment or he is sued for damage on some account or for debt and judgment is given against him. In either case the judgment would cover the house sold as well as any of his remaining property. It is the height of folly to take risks with regard to the title to property for the sake of saving a small amount of cost for a little while.

There are two things to remember in buying property. First, see that the title is right before accepting a deed, and then have the deed recorded at once. L. B. H.

Shall America or Europe Pay Europe's War Debts?

Misguided sentimentalism gone mad finds expression in the suggestion that the debts of foreign governments to the United States should be canceled.

The American government has no moral right to break faith with the American people by giving away money it collected from them with the pledge, that it would be expended in their behalf, not thrown away or given away.

The United States government did not take a ten billion dollar surplus out of the national treasury and lend it to foreign powers; it never had that much money in the treasury. Foreign governments made large purchases of goods and materials in this country on credits guaranteed by the American government. The loans were merely the evidences of the guarantee. The United States, in effect became an indorser of the promissory notes of foreign buyers to American sellers. In order to make this guaranty good and meet the required payments, the United States government raised the money by selling large quantities of bonds to the American people. These bonds represent the debts owing by the United States to those who hold them, and also the debts of foreign governments to the United States. The only question involved in this problem of debt cancellation is whether these debts shall be paid by and in whose behalf they were made, or by the American people.

If these debts are not paid by those who owe them, and to whom the loans performed a service of far greater value than the face of the obligations, then they must be paid by those who do not owe them; they must be levied on the American people; every American family must be taxed five hundred dollars in order that those who made these debts may be enabled to repudiate them.

The war cost the people of the United States some twenty-eight billion dollars directly, and as much more indirectly. We are told by alien propagandists that the war enriched the United States, but the enrichment was mostly on paper and the cost was actual outlay and loss. The war experience was accompanied by a depreciation of the actual volume of American production; the gain was speculative and unsubstantial.

Against war losses the European powers whose debt to us it is claimed our already heavily burdened people should shoulder, have large balance gains. Instead of losing territory and paying indemnities, as they would probably have had to do without the help of our money and military assistance, they have gained territory and imposed indemnities. They have practically eliminated a powerful commercial competitor. They have acquired ships, coal fields, trade opportunities and other substantial advantages. We asked and received nothing. France, Italy, Great Britain and Japan have added millions of square miles to their dominions, while we have had taken away from us even the right to equality of cable privileges in the island of Yap.

Some part of the billions loaned by the American government in Europe are being used today to extend the trade of foreign nations at our own expense. For instance, Great Britain is making loans which involve trade privileges injurious to American prospects of trade expansion in the Orient and in South America. Recently a big Argentine loan was floated in London. We are told that it is our duty as the world's big brother and easy mark to forgive the debts of foreign powers to the United States, in order that they may finance deals which involve the exclusion of American producers from the markets of the world!

The suggestion is made that the United States should accept payment of the debt due us from European powers in due bills on Germany. In other words it is sought to place us in the unpopular position of the cruel creditor of a defeated nation from which we asked nothing by way of indemnity or territorial cession, and thereby to subject our markets to the influx of German-made commodities necessarily accepted in payment of the debt. The Machiavellian ingenuity of this proposal is apparent.

We are being told by alien propagandists and our own brigade of international sibilists that if we do not cancel the debt of Europe to us we will be guilty of perfidy to the allies. We went into the war to save civilization; we poured out our blood and treasure freely without asking remuneration of any kind; we piled up a huge debt the interest on which is greater than was the total cost of conducting our national government before the war; we have been treated selfishly and inconsiderately by our associates in the war despite our decision not to participate in the distribution of the spoils of war, and now we are told that unless we shift the burden of a ten billion debt from the shoulders of those who borrowed the money to the backs of those who loaned it, we will be lacking in the consideration we owe our neighbors.

It is not possible to coin language strong enough to characterize the total lack of consideration for the American people involved in this proposal and the accompanying suggestion that we have failed in our duty unless we fall for it. The alien propagandists are overdoing things. They are the real disseminators of international ill will. They are making the American people believe that there are no lengths to which aliens and internationalists would not go in sacrificing the rights and interests of the American people in behalf of other lands.

No American longer expects gratitude from Europe for what we did in the World War. Numerous incidents connected with the peace conference and the operations of agencies created there prove that we may not even expect reasonable consideration of our rights and interests. But must we, in addition, be the targets of hatred because we do not feel disposed to absolutely strip ourselves in order to demonstrate our altruism? —National Republican.

An Ideal Remedy For Constipation.

It would be hard to find a better remedy for constipation than Chamberlain's Tablets. For the best effect they should be taken immediately after supper. They are easy to take and mild and gentle in effect. —Advertisement

WOULD FERTILIZE THE AIR

Scientist Sees Immense Possibilities in Scheme Which He Claims Is Quite Feasible.

Recently men have undertaken to mine nitrates, or some of the material for nitrates, from the air. There is nitrogen enough in the air, no doubt, to blow civilization off the earth—were that nitrogen concocted into explosives.

Now comes a hopeful German scientist named Riedel, who believes that the air itself may be fertilized to such an extent that plants will bound forth from their seeds like tennis balls. He would fill the air where plants are imbedded with carbon dioxide (carbonic acid gas). Plants love this gas as a fresh-air crank loves the out of doors. They use it ambitiously, but could use more. Man expels it with his breath. Plants take it up and expel oxygen, which man can use. Thus men and plants are mutually helpful. But more carbon dioxide is always a good thing for the vegetable world, and Doctor Riedel proposes to supply more.

He would get his supplies from the blast furnaces, whose great lungs expel this gas. An industry which uses 4,000 tons of coke per day expels 35,000,000 meters of gas, of which about 20 per cent is carbon dioxide. Doctor Riedel has tried fertilizing the air in this way, and his happy plants have flourished amazingly.

PLANET DESTROYED BY HEAT

Possibility That Our Own World May Meet the Same Fate Through the Rays of the Sun.

Worlds, with probably millions of human beings like ourselves, have been destroyed and turned into glowing gas by a stupendous conflagration in the heavens.

The sun to which these worlds belonged must have rushed into a zone of heated gas and have had its atmosphere set on fire.

It was toward the end of last summer that the vast outbreak was first seen, but it was only lately that astronomers realized its awful significance. Now it is known that the star which caught fire had its heat increased by no less an amount than five hundred thousand times in the course of a few days.

Can anyone imagine our own sun filling the sky with its blaze and sending forth a heat hundreds of thousands of times greater than it does at present.

Humanity would be withered as a leaf dropped into a white-hot furnace, and the earth itself would melt with fervent heat.

Yet there are those who predict such a fate as that for our planet.

Glass-Covered Electric Meters.

The use of the glass-covered meter is increasing, and many central station men and manufacturers believe that they will be ordered in greater numbers when deliveries become easier. Companies which are using these meters find that they facilitate the settlement of complaints, especially when a meter is suspected of creeping. Customers prefer a meter that can be seen working. The objections to glass covers have for the most part been overcome. Unevenness of the edge of the cover which might cause a poor fit has been taken care of by a felt gasket, consequently no trouble from this source has been experienced. Condensation, which sometimes appears on the outside of the glass cover is present on the inside of metal covers without being noticed upon inspection of the outside.—Electrical World.

Pittsburghers Will Bore.

After having tried, for a number of years, to get over and around the hills surrounding their city, the residents of Pittsburgh have decided to strike at the heart of the difficulty and go through them. Accordingly tunneling operations have been gotten under way which, when completed, will result in a double-tube bore that will accommodate pedestrian, street car and vehicular traffic, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The estimated cost of the undertaking is between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, and it is expected that two years will be required for its completion. It establishes no precedent, as another bore, made several years ago, has given satisfactory service, although reserved for the use of street cars only.

Gymnastic Dancing Passing.

The waltz of our grandmother's days—but with a fascinating touch of "hesitation"—has come back to our jazz-weary ballrooms. It became all the rage—after much opposition—when the Czar Alexander danced it at Almack's in 1814; and since the Prince of Wales likes it and dances it today a new vogue for the waltz is assured. Dancing evidently is to be less gymnastic and more sentimental. Anxious mothers will not repine. The dreamy waltz was a match maker in their day and perhaps it will be in ours.—London Daily Mail.

Burbank Native of Massachusetts.

Luther Burbank, the originator of flowers, fruits and vegetables, was born at Lancaster, Mass., March 7, 1849, and began his first experiments on a farm of twenty acres near Lunenburg, Mass., when he was 22 years old. A warmer climate than that of New England being necessary for continuous research, Mr. Burbank moved in 1878 to Santa Rosa, Cal., where he now lives.

EATING YOUR CAKE

You are no doubt familiar with the old saying: "You can't have your cake and eat it, too."

We say you can. The man who invented interest solved that problem. Money in a savings account, money at interest, remains yours, yet earns more money for you right along. Money spent, is like eating the cake. Money on deposit in a reliable Bank, like ours, grows so that you have its earnings to spend and do not need to spend the principal.

DANGER SIGNALS

Headache, colds, nausea, blues, mental depression—these are not only painful and annoying, but they are danger signals.

A great majority of these passing illnesses are due to self-poisoning resulting from constipation. Unless you keep your system free from decaying food waste, you start continuous poisoning inside. Ultimately Bright's disease, rheumatism, gout, diabetes, pernicious anemia, and the like, may result.

Pills, castor oil, laxative waters and salts only force and irritate the bowels, and make constipation a habit. Nujol works on an entirely new principle.

Instead of forcing or irritating the system, it simply softens the food waste. This enables the many tiny muscles in the walls of the intestines, contracting and expanding in their normal way, to squeeze the food waste along so that it passes naturally out of the system.

Nujol thus prevents constipation because it helps Nature maintain easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals—the healthiest habit in the world.

Nujol is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take. Try it.

Nujol is sold by all druggists in sealed bottles only, bearing Nujol Trade Mark. Write Nujol Laboratories, Standard Oil Co., (New Jersey), 59 Broadway, New York, for booklet "Thirty Feet of Danger".

MITES ARE MOST INJURIOUS

Little Insects Suck Blood of Hen and Seriously Affect Her Ability to Lay Eggs.

If the best results are to be expected from the poultry flock, the buildings must not be allowed to become overrun with mites. Mites are more troublesome and more harmful than lice. They do not live upon the birds like the lice, but during the day hide in the cracks and crevices of the roosts and walls of the house, and at night they come out and get upon the fowls. They suck the hen's blood, and if allowed to become plentiful—as they certainly will if not destroyed—will seriously affect her health and consequently her ability to lay eggs.

Mites may be eradicated by a few thorough applications of kerosene or some of the coal-tar products which are sold for this purpose, or crude petroleum, to the interior of the poultry house.

The commercial coal-tar products are more expensive but retain their killing power longer, and they may be cheapened by reducing with an equal part of kerosene. Crude petroleum will spray better if thinned with one part of kerosene to four parts of the crude oil, according to poultry specialists of the United States department of agriculture. Both the crude petroleum and the coal-tar products often contain foreign particles, so should be strained before attempting to spray. One must be sure that the spray reaches all of the cracks and crevices, giving especial attention to the roosts, dropping-boards, and nests, and the treatment should be repeated two or three times at intervals of a week or 10 days.

Open Front House Is Best for Summer—It Is Easy to Keep Clean.

GUINEA FOWLS ARE FAVORED

Hardest of All Domestic Poultry and Great Hustlers—They Keep Away Marauders.

There is no good reason why more guineas should not be kept on the farm. They are just about the hardest of all domestic fowls, and perhaps also the greatest hustlers, yet they seldom do their hustling to the injury of the garden or lawn. While quite domestic in their habits if treated gently, their wild nature leads them to remote parts of the homestead, where they pick up a large part of their living that would be overlooked by any other kind of fowl.

On farms infested with hawks, guineas are very valuable, their vigorous protests against every approach of the foe actually frighten them away. And no strange cat or dog can come on the place without their emphatic protest.

GOOD SHELTER FOR TURKEYS

Plain, Substantial House of Shed-Roof Type, Dry and Ventilated Is Recommended.

A plain, substantial house of the shed-roof type, dry, amply lighted and well ventilated, is the better way for providing shelter for turkeys.

Such a house simplifies the keeping of turkeys, and has many commendable features, for the successful turkey farmer, besides making easy the care and attention necessary at certain seasons of the year.

TURNING EGGS FOR HATCHING

Not Necessary, According to Professor Kaupp, Expert of North Carolina Station.

Turning eggs while saving them for hatching, although generally recommended and practiced by poultry keepers, is believed to be unnecessary. Rather thorough tests conducted by Prof. B. F. Kaupp of North Carolina station show no gain in hatch ability of eggs turned every day over similar lots which were kept undisturbed until placed in the incubator.

FOWLS GET LAZY IN SUMMER

Some Hens Are So Inactive That They Do Not Earn Their Feed During Hot Weather.

As a rule hens do not show great activity during hot weather, but there are some which become so lazy that they are not worth their feeding. Those are the hens that cut down their egg yield. Hot weather is worse for hens than cold weather, for during the winter months a hen with any life in her will busy herself to keep warm.

VALUE OF FEATHERED STOCK

More Poultry Kept on Farms in United States Than All Other Live-stock Combined.

Unusual interest in systematic poultry improvement throughout the country is apparent from reports received by the United States department of agriculture in connection with the "Better Sires—Better Stock" campaign. Figures collected thus far indicate that more poultry is kept on farms in the United States than all other livestock combined, and that a greater proportion of the poultry is of pure blood than any other kind of livestock.

Of the Meat Furnished by the Farm to the Farmer and His Family Poultry Constitutes About 10 Per Cent.

The records also refute the frequent assertion that most livestock raisers take little interest in feathered stock, leaving it largely to the women.

A Connecticut farmer who recently enrolled in the "better sires" movement is an example of the interest of men in improved poultry. He listed 30 cattle and 1,939 poultry—all of pure breeding. No other breeding stock was kept on the farm.

SWIMMING HOLE FOR DUCKS

While Not Considered Essential for Growing Fowls, It Is Wise to Provide This Feature.

While water to swim in is no longer regarded as essential for duck growing, the fowls enjoy this feature so much that we have always considered it wise to provide a small swimming hole for them. However, in raising young ducks for market they will fatten sooner without swimming. However, they must have all the water they want to drink and it should be deep enough for them to immerse their heads in.

GET AFTER LICE VIGOROUSLY

Peculiar Fact That Vermin Will Infest Some Fowls in Flocks While Others Go Free.

If one of a promising flock seems to make slower progress in growth, has a dull looking plumage and pale face—look for lice. It is queer how lice will infest some birds in a flock while others seem practically free from it. Unless you get after them vigorously, they will certainly stunt the bird.

POULTRY NOTES

- Select vigorous birds.
- Grow your own poultry feed.
- Supply an abundance of fresh water.
- Don't allow growing chicks to crowd.
- Goslings do not need feed until they are 24 to 36 hours old.
- Dispose of the male birds not later than June 1. Market a better quality of eggs.
- Young turkeys do not bring out of the shell so much unused yolk as do young chickens, hence they must be fed earlier.
- The heavier breeds, such as Rocks and Reds, and Orpingtons, will not take the perches as readily as Leghorns and Anconas.
- In the rearing of chicks the essential thing is to keep them growing right along from the moment they are hatched to the period of maturity.

TO THE REPUBLICAN VOTERS OF CARROLL CO.:

I hereby announce that I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Carroll County, and will submit my candidacy to the Republican Voters of this County at the Primary Election to be held September next. If nominated and elected to this office I promise a full and faithful discharge of the duties.

Two years ago I was a candidate for this nomination, but in the interest of harmony I withdrew from the contest. I therefore feel that I am entitled to favorable consideration at this time.

Very respectfully submitted,

JOHN H. BOWMAN,

In Loving Remembrance of my dear father GEORGE E. WEISHAAR, who died 1 year ago, March 24, 1920.

Farwell dear father a sad farewell The loss to us no tongue can tell. A faithful father both true and kind. A better one you could not find.

The home seems sad and lonely. Every spot so desolate and drear. We listen for the voice of our dear father That we never again shall hear.

The flowers we place upon your grave. May wither and decay. But love for you who sleep beneath. Will never fade away.

By his daughter, MRS. WALTER HILFERBRICK.

In Loving Remembrance of my dear mother, MRS. LUCINDA ANGELL, who passed away 5 years ago, March 22nd., 1916.

Just a thought of remembrance. That's a memory fond and true. Just a thought of affection. And a heartache still for you.

In that grand celestial city. Tell me will you love us still. Can earth's love ties there be broken. Which were wrought by Heavenly skill?

'Tis not the tears of the moment shed. That tells how we loved the soul that fled. 'Tis the silent tears through the years wept. And fond remembrance silently kept.

By her daughter, MRS. MYRTLE MYERLY.

In Sad but Loving Remembrance of our dear parents, WILLIAM H. AND ELIZABETH CLUTS, who departed from this life, 7 years ago.

Mourn them not, they're safely anchored. Angels' led them all the way. Rich in mercy, Jesus called them. To the land of endless day.

BY THE FAMILY.

Tribute of Regret.

The Reindollar Company hereby publicly manifests its deepest regret on the death of its honored President, Mr. Edward E. Reindollar, in whose removal not only this Company, but the entire community, loses one of its most valued friends and co-workers.

Mr. Reindollar was not only the founder of the Company that bears his name, but was its first and only President; and it was largely due to his efforts and business ability, early in the operations of the Company, that enabled it to steadily grow and become firmly grounded as one of the leading enterprises of this community.

His name, alone, was a valued asset of our Company. He was highly appreciated by an exceptionally wide circle of friends, who knew him for his honesty, integrity, charity, and his standing as a man of character; and it is the loss of all these virtues, in a wider sense, as well as his personal relations with our Company's business affairs, that calls for this public, but imperfect, tribute.

Big Plans for Co-operation.

The farmers have been hard hit in the last year or so. Now they are giving serious consideration to economic long delayed. Co-operative marketing plans will be considered by conventions of wheat growers, fruit men and stock raisers in Chicago within the next month or two which, if successful, will go a long way toward stabilizing the American farm.

The grain men hope to consolidate the hundreds of farmer-owned co-operative elevators, create a national sales organization and control the marketing of wheat so there will be no glutting at the points of concentration and no such wildness and riotous speculation as heretofore characteristic of the trade. It is hoped that with consolidation of present organizations it will not be difficult to draw the bulk of grain growers into the national group.

The livestock people propose to develop a national cattle marketing plan that will free them from the irregularities and hazards of present methods, and the fruit men hope to get together on lines somewhat like those of the grain people.

In addition to the marketing system all three groups are working on methods for co-operative purchasing of farmers' supplies of every kind and character. If this co-operate purchasing idea blossoms into a reality the organization may buy the whole output of some factories that produce goods needful to farmers and sell to the agriculturists at cost, plus the society's expense in the operation.

Denmark, England and various other European countries have co-operative organizations that have been wonderfully successful. That of Denmark is the best managed and most remarkable of all, perhaps. The American never has been much for co-operative buying or co-operative marketing, but, if he ever is to start, the present is a good time.—Phila. Ledger.

IN THE SPRING TAKE GUDE'S PEPTO-MANGAN

Restores the Quality of Blood. Drives out Impurities. Builds up the Red Corpuscles.

IMPROVES THE COMPLEXION A Standby Among Physicians for 30 Years. In Tablet as Well as Liquid Form

You notice complexions in the Spring. People who have plenty of rich red blood have lips a deep, rosy red, eyes bright and clear. Good complexions are based on the solid foundation of good blood, with plenty of red corpuscles. When blood becomes clogged with impurities, when the red corpuscles are not absorbing enough oxygen from the lungs and distributing it to the cells throughout the body, good complexions fade. Not only that, but you feel tired and exhausted all the time. Your shoulders droop and you lounge around and lean against anything handy. You lack energy because your blood is weak and thin—not enough red corpuscles.

People call it "Spring Fever." Call it what you will, it is bad blood. It weakens powers of resistance.

If you feel that way you should take that exceptionally good blood tonic, Gude's Pepto-Mangan, for a while. It will make rich red blood. For thirty years it has been a standby among physicians. It will help you to build up this Spring. All that comes from having good blood with plenty of red corpuscles will come to you.

When you go to your druggist's be sure to get the genuine Gude's Pepto-Mangan with the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package. It is sold in both liquid and tablet form. Both have the same medicinal value.

'Twas Said

A little girl walked into a confectionery store, placed a nickel on the counter, and called for an ice cream cone. "Ice cream cones are seven cents, little girl," the fizz clerk announced. "Well, then, give me a soda pop." "Six cents." "Got any root beer?" "Yep, six cents too." The little girl sighed disappointedly and started out, leaving her nickel on the counter. "Here, little girl, you're leaving your nickel," the clerk called to her. "Oh, that's all right," the child shouted back. "It's no good to me—it won't buy anything."

The little girl had good reason to be disgusted with the nickel, because it would not buy what she wanted. However your money goes a long way here—when you buy hardware and household needs here, you can be sure that you are getting full value, and that the goods will give lasting service.

Mayor Bunks With Hoboes.

The experience of Mayor Peters, of Boston, investigating that city's care of the homeless, will be of general interest. The story is told in the following associated press dispatch, dated Wednesday of this week:

"It was a weary and a tattered Mayor of Boston who came to City Hall today. Mayor Andrew Peters, seeking to learn at first hand unemployment conditions and how the city is meeting them, spent the night incognito at Wayfarers' Lodge, where the city shelters the homeless and feeds them in the morning.

In a room with 40 unfortunates he lay on a municipal bed and said he slept fairly well. He was routed out at 5 o'clock and sent to the woodpile. After four hours there it was decided he had earned his breakfast and, with the oatmeal, bread and coffee eaten, he went to City Hall. The figure with frayed coat and faded hat was halted at the door of the Mayor's office and it was not until his secretary saw him that he was released and admitted.

Mussed-up raincoat, muddy boots, old brown suit and faded flannel shirt, with a faded handkerchief as a neckpiece, had effectually disguised the former Congressman and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

The Mayor threw his weather-beaten hat on the glass-topped table, dropped into a restful armchair and remarked to his staff that it was the first really comfortable minute he had had since he entered Wayfarers' Lodge last night at 10 o'clock.

Chopping wood is certainly an excellent way to get up an appetite, he added. It seemed a long time before we could stop work and go in for breakfast.

As a whole the Wayfarers' Lodge is to be congratulated on the way it is run. The quarters are well kept and clean. The men I saw at the lodge were strong, able-bodied, able to work and, I assume, willing to work.

I saw absolutely no signs of drink or dissipation. I am most anxious to help to get employment for these men.

I went up to the superintendent of the lodge, whom I have met there before, and, wishing to make some pleasant remark, asked him if he did not know a good many of the people who came in there. He gave me a cold eye and said, 'I don't have to know any one, I don't want to.' He was at the door when I left and I said that I would come back some time and that I hoped he would remember me."

Council Formed for Americanization.

Washington, March 15.—Representatives of nearly eighty civic and patriotic organizations engaged in Americanization work, meeting here today, organized the National American Council.

The objects of the new organization were declared to be the co-ordination of the work and plans of the various organizations engaged in patriotic and civic activities, the obtaining of the co-operation of the public, elimination of duplication and waste and minimization of financial appeals for support. The constitution adopted by the council limits its activities to the promotion of education for patriotism and good citizenship, and specifically forbids it entering economic, industrial, sectarian or partisan political fields.

Dr. David Jayne Hill, formerly ambassador to Germany, as presiding officer of the conference, said those engaged in the Americanization work must confine their efforts to the United States and have nothing to do with foreign governments.

Col. Frank W. Galbraith, Jr., commander of the American Legion, declared there was "never a time" when Americanization work was more needed. "Un-American and disloyal propaganda is being openly preached, some of it inspired by foreign sources and some in the interest of foreign governments," he said.

A united effort is necessary to "see that hyphenated Americanism doesn't raise its head once more," H. J. Ryan, chairman of the Americanization commission of the American Legion, said.

Colin H. Livingstone, president of the Boy Scouts, said groups of foreigners must be prevented "from using us as battleguards" for their interests, otherwise "we are liable to disintegrate into groups fighting for foreign governments." The object of Americanization, he added, should be "to make Americans in love with their own country."

Livingstone Phillips, president of the League of Foreign-born Citizens, suggested the government have prospective immigrants examined at ports on the other side.

Tests.

Former Ambassador Walter Hines Page was formerly one of the editors of World's Work and, like all editors, was obliged to refuse a great many stories. A lady once wrote him: "Sir: You sent back last week a story of mine. I know that you did not read the story. For as a test I had pasted together pages 18, 19 and 20, and the story came back with these pages still pasted; and so I know you are a fraud and turn down stories without reading them."

Mr. Page wrote back: "Madam: At breakfast when I open an egg I don't have to eat the whole egg to discover it is bad."—Writer's Monthly.

Never Thought of That

By R. RAY BAKER

Agatha Woods put down the "Weekly Gazette," and when she resumed her knitting her fingers trembled. Harriet, her sharp-eyed sister, gaunt and sunburned from working in the fields with the men, regarded her from drooping lids.

"Any particular news, Aggie?" she asked, bending over to mend a basket handle. "I ain't had time to read the paper this week."

Agatha shook her head. "Nothing very much," she returned slowly, then she added swiftly as if afraid her natural reticence would withhold it, "Nathan Storm's home again."

Harriet picked up her mended basket and a painful blush stained her comely face. "I know it—the men told me. I'm going now. We want to get the hay in before it rains."

"What can I do?" called Agatha from the doorstep. "Have supper ready when the storm breaks," was Harriet's reply.

"That's so easy," sighed Agatha. "Harriet always gives me the easy load. I wonder if she sent Nathan away because her duty was to stay by me?"

She busied herself about the evening meal while distant thunder growled along the horizon. She made a huge strawberry shortcake, prepared ice cold tea, cut slices of delicious pink ham, baked biscuits and brought out a great plate of ginger cookies. When the table was ready with its snowy cloth and lavender sprigged china she sat down and resumed her knitting, and with knitting came thoughts of Nathan Storm.

He and Harriet had loved, and because young Agatha had flirted with Nathan, Harriet had felt it her duty to give up Nathan to her little sister. But Nathan refused to be given up, nor did he want any one but Harriet herself, then a beautiful, brown, Hebe-

"He Did Bring Something Back!"

like young woman, Harriet was firm in duty to Agatha, stern in upholding her trust to her dead parents, and so Nathan went away.

Twenty years had passed away. Agatha was a delicate woman, working about the house in happy contentment; Harriet took the man's part and managed the farm. They were now well-to-do and had never missed the happiness that marriage brings in its wake.

"I must make them happy this time," Agatha mused, and a worried frown came over her placid face. "Harriet's got to marry him now! I will miss her, though—it will be lonesome enough in the old place—maybe they would like to live here and I could go to the old ladies' home—Ananda Petty is there—and she would be real good company for me."

The storm broke just as the last load of hay rolled into the great barn like a triumphal chariot, and Agatha flew to put the last touches to the evening meal. Soon the hay-makers would come in, hot and tired, to dash themselves with cool water in the shed room, dry themselves on the fresh towels and then eat like hungry wolves. This supper was to celebrate the last of the hay making.

Harriet's eyebrows went up at sight of the daintily spread table, but as the workers were all neighbors and friends she was glad that Agatha had made a little feast of it. All the time she was eating one thought was dawning through Harriet's busy brain. "Next hay making time I'll be in the old ladies' home and Nathan will be managing the farm while Agatha waits for him—I'll miss not having her waiting for me—she won't miss me, she'll have Nathan."

The two sisters did not eat much—they talked about the hay and about the storm, which was very severe. Harriet got up and lighted the swinging lamp over the table and pulled down the window shades. "I expect Nathan will put in electric lights," she thought as she sat down again. One of the men was speaking and a familiar name caught her attention. "Nathan Storm's home again," he informed them.

"Yes?" said Agatha politely, and Harriet nodded in her brisk way.

"Is he going to stay home now?" asked Harriet.

"I guess so—he's going to work at the shipyard. Says he'll settle down as soon as he can find a house to live in. Nathan asked after you, folks," he nodded at Agatha.

"We went to school with him," said Harriet stiffly.

"Singin' school?" chuckled Adam Smith. "Little red schoolhouse," choked Agatha, feeling sorry for her sister. "He didn't seem to make any great success out of life," went on Adam, helping himself to another cookie. "Isn't much money, but he did bring something back!"

"What was that?" asked Harriet, feeling sorry for Agatha.

"A wife and seven children—keep him hustlin' for their bread and butter—well, good-night, Harriet and Agatha—this has been a grand supper, the best I have ever eaten!"

"Wait till next year—we'll have the biggest harvest supper and ask all the folks around," declared Harriet as she and her sister stood in the doorway and watched the workers wending their way down the road. The storm was over and the smell of the wet earth was pleasant. Then they turned and faced each other with guilty eyes.

"Nathan here with a wife," breathed Agatha simply.

"And seven children," added Harriet.

"We'll have to see them every day, Harriet."

"Expect they'll overrun the neighborhood, but we haven't got to worry about 'em, except to hand them flowers over the fence," said the stern Harriet with a wonderful smile lighting her strong features.

"And apples," added Agatha, then with a little burst of affection she put her arms around her stronger sister. "I'm so glad, Harry!"

"Glad? When I was worried because I thought you'd be marrying Nathan and going off and leaving me!"

"And I thought the same of you!" The sisters whom romance had passed by kissed each other joyfully and a great peace and happiness settled down over the old house where two women had just learned that an old flame had burned out, and that the haying storm had blown even the ashes away.

CREATURES OF PAST AGES

Remarkable Prehistoric Monsters That Can Be Identified Only by Their Fossilized Bones.

What geologists term the Oligocene formations contain the fossil bones of a great variety of strange extinct animals. These strata are among the most widespread and most regularly distributed of the Tertiary sedimentary rock formations of the Great plains and cover a vast area in Nebraska and Wyoming.

The lower Oligocene beds, which are believed to be over a million years old, are often called Titanotherium beds because they contain great quantities of the bones of extinct mammals of that name. They were clumsy brutes of elephantine size, according to the United States geological survey, Department of the Interior, having on the front of the skull a pair of great bony protuberances which, although hornlike in form, were probably not sheathed in horn. The head was long and large and of fantastic shape. In its thick, heavy body and short, massive legs the titanotherium resembled the modern rhinoceros. It was doubtless a sluggish, stupid beast, for its brain was small in comparison with the size of its body. The brain cavity was only a few inches in diameter and was surrounded by thick bone, as if to withstand shocks in battle. The titanotheres were the most formidable animals of the time, and though, so far as known, there were then no carnivores capable of doing them serious harm, yet they seem to have disappeared suddenly from North America.

The animals of Oligocene time seem to have been abundant as well as varied in kind. Among the characteristic animals of this epoch were primitive forms of rhinoceroses, peccaries, ruminants, camels, insectivores and opossums. Some of the flesh eaters of the preceding Eocene epoch had developed into true carnivores, including many forms of both doglike and catlike animals. The saber-toothed tiger, one of the most formidable enemies of primitive man, first appeared in the Oligocene epoch.

The horses whose history began with the diminutive four-toed Eohippus continued in the Oligocene, in which they were represented by many three-toed forms that were about as large as sheep. Hoglike animals were rather numerous, and although many of them were smaller than the modern swine, some of them were very large. One of these was a formidable beast with curious protuberances on its head, the use of which is not known. Rhinoceroses similar to those now found in Africa and India lived in western America, and other rhinoceros-like animals were abundant.

WILL LONG REMEMBER VISIT

Inhabitants of Old Providence Island Astounded by the Appearance of American Seaplanes.

One wonders what the inhabitants of Old Providence island thought when seven American seaplanes, with that rending clamor of motor that marks these powerful devices, swooped down on her tiny harbor. The report of the seven fliers is epic in its simplicity.

"Some of them seemed scared," said they. "They had never seen an airplane before."

Life in Old Providence, as it appeared to the marooned sea fliers, is primitive in its simplicity. The island itself is four miles long, lying in the midst of the Caribbean sea at a distance of 280 miles from Colon. In its center a wooded eminence rises to what seemed the majestic height of 1,100 feet.

The harbor is too tiny and too shallow to permit the entrance of big ships, and so the island's only connection with the outside world is through the semi-occasional visits of a little yawl, which carries freight and passengers each way. Sometimes the yawl gets to Old Providence once in three weeks. Sometimes it doesn't. Its schedule depends on freights, the whim of its master, the winds, the conveniences of the day.

"Usually it brings the mails," said the Old Providentials. "Sometimes it doesn't."

FINDS SECRET OF HIS ORIGIN

Natives of Guam Enlighten Marine; Disagree With the Theories Put Forward by Darwin.

The theory that he had sprung from some remote protoplasmic organism, that his twenty-times-great-grandfather was a wire-haired baboon in the wilds of Abyssinia and other near-Darwinian monstrosities, were all regarded by Sergeant John Burrows of the marine corps as so much "bunk." Still, his mind was never at rest.

The sergeant re-enlisted after the war and was ordered to Guam.

The other day a letter was received at the marine corps recruiting headquarters. It came from Sergeant Burrows in Guam.

"At last," he stated, "I have discovered where my ancestors have come from."

The sergeant explained that natives of the island had enlightened him. In accounting for the origin of man, they said that everything in the world was derived from a certain rock on the island of Guam, which first became human, then a stone, and gave birth to all men. From this island men were scattered all over the world. They forgot their language and "talked like fools without understanding one another nor knowing what was said."—Portland Oregonian.

Wealth and Happiness.

Much of the anxiety and care of these days is needless and springs from an overemphasis of the amount of property needed for happiness. Everything in our country tends to stimulate men toward excessive ambition. Our climate is rich in oxygen, and is an irritant to work. The undeveloped resources of our land appeal to cupidity—even at a time when we begin to realize that these treasures should be conserved for our descendants. The stories of successful men are exploited with endless variations in magazines that teach the art of getting on instead of getting up. Little by little young men feel that it is a disgrace to live modestly. Avarice is a virus in the blood. Undue ambition is poisoning the springs of contentment. Youth has forgotten Cervantes' warnings not "to fly too high toward the sun lest the flame consume the wings."—Newell Dwight Hillis.

How Many Presidents?

Percentages intrigue our fancy. So when we read that "55 per cent of our presidents have been college men" we wonder how many that was. Twenty-seven men have held the office, and on that basis 14.85 were college men. But Mr. Harding may be included and that would indicate that 15.4 were college men. The fractions grow worse; it looks as though someone were being insulted. There is a further possibility; some folks reckon Grover Cleveland as the twenty-second and the twenty-fourth president. This duality of Mr. Cleveland would make Mr. Harding the twenty-ninth President. It's a strange thing that in so important a matter, men cannot agree on how many presidents the country has had. And when one comes to fractional Presidents, the task of the percentage gatherer proves hopeless.—Milwaukee Journal.

Power in Palm Oil

We have thought of palm oil in such peaceful connections as soap stock and massage creams, but had never associated it with those devilish stuffs, gasoline, benzol and the joyride. But oil is oil and chemistry plays strange tricks, and the time may be near when not only the fatty juice of the palm kernel, but even the oil of the succulent peanut may speed the driver in the place of petrol.

"May be near?" What do we say? That time is actually here, and today off in darkest Africa automobiles are being operated successfully and cheaply with their tanks filled with palm oil. And also in Belgium the same fluid is being used, in an experimental way, and is proving even more successful than its first advocates imagined. —New Orleans Times-Picayune.

LATINS FAVOR THE AIRPLANE

South America Wild Over Flying, According to Opera Singer Just Returned From Tour.

South America has caught the aerial fever hard, according to Madam Grace Fjorde, just returned from a grand opera circuit of the Latin-American republics.

"In Lima, where I sang in the palace at a concert arranged by President Leguia, I learned the rich young men of Peru all own airplanes in which they daily fly out and back from the capital city to their haciendas," she said. "The President's son told me he shortly intended to make a flight to the United States, crossing Ecuador, the Panama canal, the Central American republics and Mexico. Events like the opera and bull fights, and even offerings of the shops, are advertised by dodgers, dropped from flying machines."

Madam Fjorde is the first woman to fly over Lima. She went up with Captain Moore, an American, who is the head of the Curtiss Flying school there.

The sister continent Brazil comes naturally to the art of flying and is the home of Santos Dumont, the pioneer aviator. In a few weeks Fred Lewisohn, New York banker, who owns extensive platinum properties in the upper mountain ranges beyond Benneventura, in the republic of Colombia, expects to lead an expedition in a several thousand mile flight over the Andes. This aerial excursion will start from Panama and use a plane equipped for nine passengers. Engineers, photographers and writers will be in the party.

PART OF BUILDING STANDING

Famous Colonnade Row, in New York, Erected in 1838, Has Not Entirely Disappeared.

On the menu card of a restaurant in New York this is printed: "With these historic walls were sheltered Dickens, Bryant, Washington Irving, a President of the United States (John Tyler) and many other distinguished patrons." The statement is not exaggerated. Part of Colonnade row, a beautiful structure erected nearly a century ago, still stands, and Joseph Conte's restaurant occupies the greater part of it.

Colonnade row and the building occupied for years by the Author's League of America, at Seventeenth street and Irving place, are all that remain of Washington Irving's residence in Manhattan, for long ago passed the house on William street where he was born, and the house near the Battery, where he lived immediately after his return in 1832 from seventeen years of wandering in Europe.

Colonnade row, originally known as La Grange terrace, was built in 1838. The buildings earned their sobriquet on account of the facade pillars, architecturally most attractive, that adorn the structures.

Paulding, Halleck, Cooper and other writers of the period frequented the place. Poe was too poor to be in the then fashionable neighborhood. John Tyler lived at 430 Lafayette street, in "the row," and events attending his wedding took place there.—New York Sun.

Not Easily Discouraged.

The prize-winner, so far as hopefulness is concerned, has been discovered down on Broad street, New York, where a large office is maintained by a company which quite openly admits that they have not done a single bit of business in three years.

The firm is an importing and exporting one, whose sole commerce before 1917 was with Russia, and since the defection of that country the office has been maintained, and the wage paid to the force in hopes of some arrangement being made so that trade relations can be reopened. So far nothing has happened, and the head of the firm has gone to Russia to try and help things along. Meanwhile the office is opened each day and the forecasts around reading the papers and like Dickens' famous Mr. Micawber "waiting for something to turn up."

Prospects of Medical Study in China.

Recent reports state that in all China there are found to be fewer than 2,000 physicians. What a small proportion of the population of 400,000,000 Chinese people can receive scientific treatment in case of illness or injury. In an effort to ascertain the exact number of students looking toward medicine, a survey has recently been made of the middle schools of China. In 153 of the institutions reporting, there are 36,095 students, and of these 1,153 stated that they were planning to study medicine. Since this is only about 20 per cent of all middle schools, the total number who may enter on the study of medicine will be considerably larger.

New Rembrandt Found.

An early Rembrandt, the authenticity of which is vouched for by several well-known experts, has been discovered in a little town in the Harz. The picture, which is said to have been painted in the year 1630 or 1631, is executed upon an octagonal oak panel measuring twenty-two inches in height by sixteen inches in width. The subject is an old man of distinguished appearance. The picture is still in its original pine wood frame overlaid with horn, which is declared by one expert to have been specially made according to Rembrandt's instructions.—Berlin Correspondence of London Times.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Living Happily With Others.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC
—Marks of a True Christian.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC
—The Christian's Standard of Character.

I. In His Relation to God (v. 1, 2).
He is dedicated to God. He conscientiously presents his entire being to God.

1. The basis of this dedication (v. 1).
"The mercies of God." The grand reason for the dedication of ourselves to God is because we are recipients of the mercies of God.

2. The nature of the dedication
(v. 1).

(1) An act of the free will. Those who voluntarily present themselves to God, He consecrates to His Service.
(2) It embraces the whole man (v. 1).
By "bodies" is meant the entire personality—body, soul and spirit (1 Thess. 5:23). The inner life expresses itself through the body. (3) It is a living sacrifice (v. 1). In the Old Testament the victim was slain before being placed upon the altar, but in our case God wants our bodies as living instruments of service. (4) It is for rational service (v. 1). The logical outcome of our union with Christ is an intelligent service for Him.

3. The obligation of the one dedicated to the Lord (v. 2). It is nonconformity to this world. The one who has handed himself over to the Lord will not be fashioned by this evil, devil-governed age (1 John 5:19).

II. In His Relation to His Fellow
Christians (vv. 9-13).

1. Love without hypocrisy (v. 9).
We should not merely pretend to love people while hating them in our hearts.

2. Abhor the evil and cleave to the good (v. 9). God's children must be like Him. God hates wickedness of all sorts, so His children will have the same attitude towards sin that He has.

3. Be kindly affectioned one to another (v. 10). This is to be a brotherly love, namely, that which passes between those who are of one blood—
members of the same family.

4. In honor preferring one another
(v. 10). This is most difficult. It is natural to claim the best places for ourselves. Christ pleased not Himself.

5. Be not slothful in business (v. 11).
This hardly refers to secular affairs, but rather to the church life
which was to be characterized by zeal —energy and warmth, being regarded as service to the Lord.

6. Rejoicing in hope (v. 12). Affliction shall surely come to the Christian. In all trials the Christian should be filled with hope of future glory.

7. Patient in Tribulation (v. 12).
This blessed hope will make possible
a life of patience.

8. Continuing in prayer (v. 12). Only by constant and persistent prayer shall we be able to live above our circumstances and fix our hope upon Him whose coming shall bring deliverance
from all our trials and transform us into His glorious likeness.

9. Distributing to the necessity of saints—given to hospitality (v. 13). It is obligatory to Christians to divide their wages with fellow Christians who are destitute (Eph. 4:28).

III. In His Relation to Unbelievers
(vv. 14-21).

1. Do good for evil (v. 14). We are to bless those who persecute us. The natural man pays back in the same coin, but the renewed man responds
in kindness and good deeds.

2. Be sympathetic (v. 15). We should rejoice with those who rejoice and weep with those who weep. Christ entered into the joys of the wedding
at Cana, and wept with Mary and Martha.

3. Find points of agreement (v. 16).
We should seek for points of agreement in all things, instead of being vain in our own conceits.

4. Live honestly before all men (v. 17).
We should so live that our characters may attract others to Christ.

5. Live in peace (v. 18). We should exhaust every means to bring about reconciliation. If the other party will not yield, we should see to it that it is not our fault.

6. Be not vindictive (v. 19-21). Instead of rendering eye for eye and tooth for tooth, we should heap coals
of fire upon our enemies by deeds of kindness.

Lessons from the First Easter
Mark 16:1-20

"If any man be in Christ Jesus, he is a new creature. Old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new" (2 Cor. 5:17). This is the first, and abiding, lesson of the Easter time. When our Lord was raised from the dead, a new creation began. Into that new creation, every true believer enters. He is severed from the old, and brought into the new by a spiritual union with Christ in His death and resurrection. According to Galatians 6:15 nothing avails but this. There is no salvation apart from it. Through this union
we become dead to self, crucified to the world, and alive in Christ. This is the Christian's position, privilege and power. Other lessons cluster around this or issue from it, but this is central and supreme, and also the source of perennial joy.

The lessons of the first Easter as summed up in our Scripture lesson
are:

First, the lesson of devotion (vv.
1-4). Loving hearts can rise early in the morning for service to their Lord. We may not bring spices to anoint the dead body, but we can bring the incense of praise, adoration and intercession. Difficulties challenge devotion, but spiritual forces ally themselves with it, and the stones of difficulty are rolled away. Go forward in the continuous action of faith, and "leave the miracle to him."
We may wonder and question with one another concerning the removal of obstacles but "all things are possible to him that believeth."

Second, the abundant evidences given to the devoted disciples (vv. 5-8).
They saw, they heard, they were commanded to tell others. Amazement, trembling and fear possessed them at first, but under accumulating evidence faith prevailed. Our Lord appeared eleven times to His disciples during the space of forty days after His resurrection. The result was absolute conviction and the removal of all doubts. It is not different with disciples now. He manifests Himself in many and various ways. There is the assurance of faith, the assurance of understanding, and the assurance of hope for all disciples. "If any man willeth to do his will, he shall know."

Third, a warning against unbelief
(vv. 9-14). Unbelief is the product of "hardness of heart," the hardness that refuses credible evidence from others and insists upon walking by sight rather than by faith. This attitude and spirit is offensive to Christ,
and is rebuked by Him.

Fourth, we have the disciples commissioned to make Christ known (vv.
15-18). "Go ye" is the command of the risen One. He has conquered—
"go ye" and make it known.

"In my name" indicates the realm of mastery over the adverse forces mentioned in verses 17, 18. Into this realm we are brought by our spiritual union with Christ. ((See 1 Cor. 12 13.) The signs mentioned here are not specific gifts for the preacher, but evidence of a new life and power in them that believe.

Fifth, they went forth "after the Lord had spoken" and restored their faith (vv. 19, 20). The one supreme qualification for ministry and missions is the fulness of faith. To this faith the risen Lord responds. "They went forth, the Lord working with them."

She States It Mildly.

While suffering with a severe attack
of the grip and threatened with pneumonia, Mrs. Annie H. Cooley, of Middlefield, Conn., began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and was very much benefited by its use. The pains in the chest soon disappeared, the cough became loose, expectoration easy and in a short time she was as well as ever. Mrs. Cooley says she cannot speak too highly in praise of this remedy.

Surgeons of Today Must Be Good Carpenters.

We have wondered at the skill of surgeons in grafting pieces of skin from a frog's leg or from a human body upon the skinless injury caused by a burn or other accident.

But the marvels of modern surgery
do not end there. "Bone" grafting is an art that demands the skill of a specialist in the most remarkable kind of "carpentry."

Electrically driven circular saws in the hands of a bone carpenter can now be used to slot, splice, and alter
a fractured part of one's skeleton.
Sometimes a part of the broken bone is neatly shaped and slid down into a slot cut into a part of the fractured member. Screws of steel, silver, ivory, or screws made out of the patient's own skeleton, are used to hold these jointed pieces firmly in place.

One curious result of these ingenious attempts is that of repairing an injured jaw. A piece of bone removed from the edge of a broken hip-bone was found to serve splendidly
when properly fitted into a man's broken jaw. This man today literally chews his food with his hip-bone—an anomalous situation indeed!

Never before in the world's history was there such an opportunity for bone carpentry as that offered by the war. The knowledge thus gained was Lost Sunday Dinner by Mistake.

Changing cars in midseason ended
as disastrously for a real estate dealer as changing horses in midstream. The dealer has ridden for several years in a car of rather ancient vintage. Recently he bought a new car of the same
make.

Saturday night he drove his new car to the city market. He parked it beside an old car. He bought a bushel of apples, a big roast and a week's supply of vegetables.

Probably it was force of habit, his friends say in explaining the consequences. He placed his purchases in the old car. Then he returned to the store to add further to his supply. On returning he discovered his mistake.
The old car had been driven away,
carrying his Sunday dinner and his week's supply of vegetables.—Kansas City Star.

A 400-Pound Shark on a Rod.

James A. Thomson of Auckland writes: "In February, along with three friends, I had four weeks' sea fishing in the Bay of Islands. We caught a number of good kingfish up to 65 pounds, besides whapuka up to 80 pounds, and landed one big Moka shark, which piece of luck fell to my
rod. He was a great fighter, 9 feet 3 inches long, and weighing a little over 400 pounds. Unlike the brown and other sharks, he comes right out of the water when hooked and jumps sometimes twice his own length perpendicularly—a great fighter."—Correspondence of the Field.

Expected a Feed.

Tampering with signs has long been a favorite amusement with young people. To remove the fourth letter from "manicure," for example so that it reads "man cure," tickles their sense of humor. The latest case we heard of is where a little boy at a public gathering was greatly disappointed because no refreshments were served. He insisted to his mother that a feed was promised, and as they passed the bulletin board in going out he pointed out that promise. Some mischievous urchin had removed the "S" from "Seats free."—

Emperor's Dessert Service Sold.

A French dessert dish of gilt plate,
double thread and shell pattern, consisting of two sugar sifters, four spoons, a pair of sugar tongs, twenty-four small spoons, twenty-four forks
and knives with porcelain handles,
formerly the property of the Emperor Napoleon, and bearing the imperial cipher of the bee, was sold in a London auction house not long ago. The service was the property of a nobleman whose name is not revealed.

Why Colds Are Dangerous.

It is the serious diseases that colds
lead to that makes them dangerous.
They prepare the system for the reception and development of the germs
of influenza, pneumonia, tuberculosis, diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough and measles. You are much more likely to contract these diseases when you have a cold. For that reason you should get rid of every cold as quickly as possible.
Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will help you. It is widely known as a cure for bad colds.

WILD DOGS CAUSE PROBLEM

Threaten to Wipe Out the Sheep Industry in Some Breeding Districts
in Australia.

Wild dogs are presenting a serious problem in Australia, according to a Central News dispatch in the London Westminster Gazette. The correspondent at Broken Hill, New South Wales,
says that unless immediate measures to protect the flocks of sheep are taken, they will have to be replaced by cattle in the districts north of Broken Hill.

The seriousness of the situation is described by John Dunne, president of the West Darling Pastoralists' association, who states that, although there has been a good season, pastoralists in the Darling River district and north as far as the Queensland border are faced with one of the greatest problems
within the memory of settlers in that part of the country.

"Reports are coming to hand from all parts of the district," he added, "of the enormous losses incurred owing to the prevalence of wild dogs. Already country which before the drought was admirable sheep country, is now stocked with cattle, and likely to continue to be stocked unless the dog nuisance is successfully dealt with."

Last year the western vermin board was formed at Wilcannia and the government then in power granted $250,- 000 for fencing in the western division against wild dogs, but owing to a change of government since that time
none of the money has been forthcoming and the wild dogs have now come right into the western division and are creating havoc among the flocks.

Cause for Terror.

"A couple of months ago," related
the landlord of the Petunia tavern,
"this town was afflicted by a 'Jack the Kisser,' who grabbed girls and women in the dark corners, and hugged and kissed 'em like a maniac.
Altogether he manipulated some forty-nine ladies that way."

"I presume such outrages cause a veritable reign of terror among the feminine portion of the population?"
replied a guest.

"It did so. Why, for quite a spell
after the scoundrel had quit his diabolical capers entirely Miss Lucretia Lanks, Miss Arabella Flutters, Miss Twiny Thynn, and several other old maids, were roaming around unlit
streets and lingering in dark corners
every night, in terror of missing their chances, and it is whispered that they haven't entirely quit terroring, even yet!"—Kansas City Star.

Egg Proved Effective Weapon.

She was tall and exceedingly thin and when she emerged from the exit
of the building where she is employed in taking dictation she carried in her hand a bag of fresh eggs.

The product of the henry was no
more fresh than are some members of the mashers' club that is wont to frequent that corner and as she passed
one young man he ogled her and salluted her with "Hello Slim."

Turning square around in her tracks
the girl took an egg from the sack
and with an aim that would do credit
to a baseball pitcher she patted him
with it in the very middle of his back.

Then she went on her way unconcerned over the merriment resulting from the little episode.—Tulsa World.

Monday was a record-breaker for a hot March day, the mercury ranging around 85° in the afternoon, while Sunday was only a few degrees behind. On these two days, many fruit trees came out in full bloom. On Tuesday a cold wave came, and at night, a white frost, which fortunately did little damage.

Mrs. Harding is Economical.

Washington, March 13.—The new mistress of the White House has made a decision which will save an economically bent government at least $10,000—not much, of course, in these days when millions rather than thousands are units of Uncle Sam's expenditures, but a sizeable sum for all that. Mrs. Harding has made up her mind that it is her duty to get along with the old furniture of the private apartments, supplementing this with belongings brought from her former home in Wyoming avenue, and from the house in Marion.

The spirit of her resolve, rather than the actual amount in dollars to be saved, is the interesting thing. Saving should begin at home, Mrs. Harding thinks, and it is the place of the First Lady of the Land, she believes to set an example in thrift to other housewives. Holding that opinion, she has refused to take advantage of the willingness of the Appropriations Committee of the House to be more than liberal in providing for the refurnishing and upkeep of the President's home.

To Whom it may Concern

The undersigned citizens of Taneytown, viewing with great concern the scarcity of dwellings in Taneytown, and the urgent need of more of them to accommodate workers needed in the town and vicinity, feel that public and co-operative action should be taken to relieve the situation; and to that end invite all citizens of town and vicinity interested in the subject to attend a meeting in the Opera House, Friday evening, April 8, at 8 o'clock for the purpose of discussing the advisability of forming an incorporated Real Estate Company, with Capital Stock, for the purpose of buying, building and owning such Real Estate in the town as will help to permanently relieve the scarcity of dwellings for tenants.

"THE UPPER ROOM"

Mr. Frank L. Holbein will present the Baltimore Passion Players in "The Upper Room," a Religious play, in the Taneytown Opera House, this Saturday night, March 26. See display ad. in this issue. The following is a synopsis of the play:

PROLOGUE.
The presentation of the Characters and the events most intimately associated with the Holy Passion and death of Our Lord, is indeed a fitting manner in which to close the Lenten Season.

Tonight we set forth the incidents which occurred in the Upper Room immediately after the Last Supper was partaken.

ACT I.
Holy Thursday evening. (The Upper Room.) Samuel is seen on the balcony, listening to the receding voice of the Master. Samuel tells Achaz that the Master and his disciples have gone to Gethsemane, and then narrates all that transpired at the table, from the changing of the bread and wine to the flight of the traitor, Judas. The City guards are heard passing and Samuel is sent to follow them. Joseph of Aramathea enters, bringing with him the repentant Magdalene. They are almost immediately followed by Mary, the Mother of Christ. Samuel returns and describes the seizure of our Lord in the Garden.

ACT II.
The dawn of Good Friday. (The Upper Room.) Samuel recounts to Achaz the trial of Christ before Pilate. Mary, The Virgin Mother enters and goes out on the balcony to pray. Judas returns to the scene of his crime. Samuel beseeches him to turn to the Mother of the Man whom he has betrayed for forgiveness. The despair of Judas, Magdalene returns from the trial of Christ, frantic with grief, and not seeing Mary in the balcony, describes his sufferings. John comes to take Mary to the place he has prepared, that she may speak to her son. A great noise is heard in the street. It is the passing of Christ on His way to Calvary.

ACT III.
Good Friday Afternoon. (The Upper Room.) After the crucifixion, Samuel relates dreams and inspired tells of our adoption by the Blessed Mother. Peter overcome with sorrow enters and seeks forgiveness of the Blessed Virgin. Others arrive bearing the precious instruments of the Passion, the nails, the crown, the cup and the lance. Veronica brings the veil which bears the impression of the face of
