NO ACCIDENT WEEK WILL BE NEXT WEEK A Worthy Movement to Reduce Carelessness and Accidents.

taken up all over the state, and its purpose generally commended. Just one week of no accidents, is of course not the big idea, but NEXT week and EVERY week. In short, it is recog-pired that for the formation of nized that fully three-fourth of all accidents are due to carelessness, of one kind or another, and that the only way to prevent accidents, is to prevent the carelessness cause.

care in taking common precautions, he was awfully afraid of firearms. He the "taking of chances," reckless desire for speed and short cuts, neglect He must have left the house some in making needed repairs, trusting dangerous implements in the hands of persons not fully responsible, are some of the prolific causes of accidents.

A campaign of education-of determination to prevent accidents-is absolutely necessary on the part of all; and lack of due care must be made a greater criminal offense, and and his pocketbook. I then felt that more severe penalties prescribed. The crop of "unavoidable" accident ver-dicts, must be greatly reduced. At meetings held in Frederick and Hagerstown, this week, serious warnings were sounded. Park W. T. Loy, chairman for Frederick and Washington counties, spoke plainly on the needs of the hour. He said in part;

"The automobile has become the real hazard. Not more than one-third of the people of the United States are exposed to accidents, generally speaking, outside of the automobile Every time we step from a house we are exposed to the danger of a motor vehicle.

As an illustration, he pointed out that in 1906 with a few thousand au-tomobiles a total of 374 persons were killed that year, in 1910 the number of automobiles had increased to 400,-000, and 1,681 persons were killed; in 1917 there were 7,500,000 motor vehicles, and 10,500 persons were killed; last year the number of motor vehicles had increased to 9,500,000, and the number of deaths recorded was 12,000.

The speaker urged that such demonstration be launched against accidents during the week as to impress the public with the importance of creating an organization to make a permanent and concerted effort against mishaps.

When I could not find him I looked he must have gone away in his old clothes, which he did."

When asked where he might have secured the revolver, she said they had none in their home, having given the only one they had to a son of hers. Mrs. Shriver later said he seemed not to be himself on Sunday, saying things that did not sound

A BRILLIANT METEOR.

A brilliant meteor, observed by many of our citizens, on Wednesday evening, passed over the southern sky. The Baltimore News says of the demonstration: "Except in speed, it was much like a Fourth of July rocket. It seemed to move much slower than any fireworks and passed across the sky in pale twilight sky, giving an intense green.glare and in a moment had been swallowed in the clouds of mist. The usual haze that hangs over the earth after a hot day softened the outline of the meteor and its tail. A little later in the evening, with a darker background and clearer sky, the sight would have been almost startling. Even at this hour the starting. Even at this hour the green glare on pavements was suffi-cient to attract the attention of those who were not looking up at the time. Huntington Cairns of the Maryland Academy of Sciences was at the tel-escope when the meteor passed. Like others who watch the sky regularly, he is inclined to be conservative. but he is inclined to be conservative, but this he reported to be of "unusual" brillance.

"I am just back from Europe, where I have been making a study of the conditions prevailing in different lands. You will be interested in a short report. Belgium is perhaps making the most rapid recovery of any nation de-vastated by the war. The question

taxation, though, is enormous. Por-tions of Northern France, where land was spoiled by the war, and farms, towns and factories swept away, are still in great need. Germany is making heroic efforts to get on her feet, economically and industrially. The German people are showing a remarkable eagerness to work. In the country places where the people have their own gardens hunger is passing. In the cities it still exists, and the children are all underfed.

2. The obligation is imposed upon all personnel adjutants throughout the army, recruiting officers, and reg-ular officers on duty with the National Guard and Organized Reserves, to aid their less fortunate comrades. Such officers will at once familiarize themselves with the orders and circulars relating to the War Risk Insurance Bureau, in so far as these instructions refer to renewal or conversion of insurance, compensation, medical or dental treatment, hospitalization and vocational training so that intelligent assistance and advice may be afforded ex-service men in regard to their relations with the Bureau.

Upon application from ex-sol-diers, the officers mentioned in par-a graph 2, will furnish blank forms, will assist in the preparation of ap-plications, will carefully examine all papers or instructions on the forms in question and will themselves promptly forward the completed ap-plications or chatements directly to plications or statements directly to the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, Treasury Department, Washington,

Weather and Crops.

The week ending July 12 was warm with a mean temperature about 3.5 degrees above normal. A hot wave prevailed from the 7th. to 10th. Temperatures were seasonable on the 6, 11 and 12. Thunder-showers were general from the 10 to 12. Rainfall from moderate to heavy. Growing crops improved during the week, having been benefitted by the rains of the preceding week. The dry, sunshiny weather prior to the 10 was favorable for the ripening and

PRESIDENT ACTS ON DISARMAMENT. All Nations Invited to Hold Joint Conference in Washington.

President Harding has issued an invitation to the great powers of the world to hold a joint conference in Washington, for the purpose of dis-cussing, and if possible arriving at an agreement, on limiting armament and other expensive preparations for war, in order that the future peace of ance. This order, General Order No. the world may be safeguarded.

Favorable responses are said to have been received from practically all of the first-class powers. The exact details of the proposed inter-national conference have not been made public, but they are assumed to be far-reaching, and to involve the whole subject covered by the League of Nations.

Comment on the action of the President is very favorable, both in this country and in Europe, and it will take its place as a great historical event. England, France and Germany, are apparently very favorable to the proposition.

About the only doubt felt as to the conference, is the attitude of Japan, which as yet is not very fav-orable, and it is believed that her participation will be accompanied with reservations especially so far with reservations, especially so far as the Eastern situation is concerned.

If Japan or any other sovereign power represented at the conference refuses to subscribe to the conclusion of a majority the conference will fail. As has been pointedly stated by officials of this Government, no program or policy adopted by a majority may be imposed upon a minority. The conference can only succeed in its highest purposes by unanimous assent to a plan of action.

While the date for the conference has not been settled upon finally, it is believed here that the other governments will acquiesce in the suggestion that the opening session be held on November 11, Armistice Day. This date will be definitely determined after consulting the convenience of the other powers.

Some County Tax Rates.

The following are a few county tax rates for 1921, that have come to our notice.

Caroline county; rate $1.35, a reduction of 14 cents.

Talbott county; rate $1.39, a re-duction of 16 cents.

Carroll County; rate $1.40; an increase of 15 cents.

Queen Annes County; rate $1.41, a reduction of 21 cents.

Frederick County; rate $1.41, a reduction of 37 cents. Somerset County; rate $1.47, a reduction of 48 cents.

Wicomico County; rate $1.64, the same as last year.

Grain Lost in Threshing.

Hundreds of thousands of bushels of grain are lost to consumption each year on American farms because of mproper adjustment and lack of efficiency in the operation of thrashing machines. The United States Department of Agriculture has given considerable attention to this loss with a view to ascertaining how far improved methods can be economically introduced to adjust waste. It is true, experts point out, that some-times the time and labor involved in checking a small loss is worth more than the saving. Nevertheless ,there are many leaks on almost every thrashing job which might easily be stopped if the farmer or machine operator would spend a few hours in the study of the problem and a few dollars in replacing worn and damaged parts.

Feeding the grain into the machine. adjustment of the cleaner, and other small items go to make up a total that may mean gain or loss. Much grain is wasted by failure to clean up at the end of the setting. The United States Department of Agri-culture has issued Farmers' Bulletin culture has issued Farmers' Bulletin 991, "The Efficient Operation of Thrashing Machines," which contains nuch good advice on this subject. This bulletin may be obtained by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. | burned by lightning.

Postmaster-General Hays, in making the change, is going on the theory that when a person sends a special delivery message he wants the message specially delivered, which is a service that cannot be rendered for a dime. As things are now a messenger gets possibly 100 special delivery letters and starts out with the whole batch, delivering them in the best order he can arrange. The result is that, in most rates. cases, the letters come to their recipients one or several hours after they reach the postoffice.

Frequently it takes longer for a ultimate destination than a letter ebb. sent by ordinary mail, with the result that there is a justified protest from an indignant citizen, who passes the word along that the postal service is going to the dogs. With the Government getting 25 cents it will be possible to send a message with each letter.

Heavy damage was done to crops in Washington county during a series of six storms which swept over that section on Monday afternoon. In many places corn fields were wrecked, wheat strewn all over fields and gardens and vegetables ruined. The first storm, which came shortly after noon, was the most severe. The rainfall was very heavy, and in the Southern section of the county resembled a cloudburst. Hail fell in Coal Likely to Remain High.

Apparently, there is but little hope for reduction in prices of coal, this year, from any action by Congress, as a bill for coal control has been sidetracked in the Senate, for this Congress, unless the unexpected happens. It is just possible that Congress is waiting for the coal opera-tors to show their hand more clearly, this winter, and make price control of coal an easy matter for the next Congress that meets in December.

Realizing the importance of the public's attitude, most coal interests deplore the recent sweeping increase in the price of anthracite. They feel that in placing this heavier burden upon the coal consumer the anthracite operators have placed in the hands of the would-be regulators a powerful argument for Government intervention. Anthracite interests reply that this increase was forced by the Pennsylvania State tax, but since the increase in prices is greater in most places than the amount of the tax, this answer is not wholly

The best judgment in the coal trade is that there will be no material decrease in the price of anthracite coal until there is a reduction in existing freight rates. Secretary Hoover took that view also when he initiated conferences with railroad executives for a voluntary readjustment of coal

Mr. Hoover has failed to get results in that direction, however. The railroad executives insist that they cannot afford to lower the rates on coal special delivery letter to get to its so long as their revenues are at low

Republicans Clear Field.

At a conference of Republican leaders, held in Westminster, on Monday, an effort was made to clear up the situation so far as the contest for nomination for Register of Wills is concerned. We have not learned of the exact methods used, but the re-sult is that Levi D. Maus, of Union-town; M. J. M. Troxell, of Myers, and Edwin M. Mellor, of Freedom, have 'dropped out," leaving Wesley Brooks, of Westminster, and William F Bricker, of Taneytown in the field. A lively contest between the two is Poland and Austria. It is difficult to know just what the exact conditions are all through Russia. The vast peasant population probably has food. In the cities the conditions are horrible beyond description. Hundreds of harvesting of grains, and for haythousands have perished. The Friends making. are doing noble work there, and are just making an appeal to America for clothing.

The Polish Government is gradually getting on its feet, although there is much confusion. The children will need to be fed by America for another year. Much of the recent Hoover Fund is being used in Poland.

The worst conditions outside of Russia are in Vienna and the Slavic states. There the children are still in a half starved condition and make pitiable appeal to us. I met and talked with many from these regions and they told me heart-breaking stories. There are thousands and thousands of orphans. They are gathered in hundreds of hospitals. These hospitals must be supported for a while by us in America. Most of the money from our fund goes to these orphanges. If you could see what your former contributions have accomplished you would hasten to send more and I hope you will when you read this.

The conditions in Armenia unfortunately remain terrible. I am glad to tell you that the Near East Relief Fund (formerly the Armenian Relief) has kept the Armenian nation from starvation. At present it is feeding thousands of children in its orphanages, which are scattered all over Asia Minor.

You will be interested in knowing that a delegation from the Near East Relief Fund (with expenses paid from private sources) of which Rev. Henry Strong Huntington, Associate Editor of The Christian Work, is a member, has just sailed for Constantinople to visit all of these orphanages and to report to the American people the exact situation of these Armenian children, telling you just how your money is being spent. The number of foreign-born farmers was less by 88,502 or 13.2 per-cent. than in 1910. The decrease is largely the result of the war, which led many to return to their native countries. The decrease in the number of Germanborn farmers alone was 81,148.

In these times, when money is not as plenty as it was, it will be much cheaper to keep the lights burning on autos and vehicles, than to "get pinched" for not being so. Economy does not always mean wealth-when it means fines.

Unless we can definitely pick out waste and unnecessary expense in these items, we must "grin and bear" the higher rate; and we must also remember that had all the demands for schools been met, the rate would, have been greatly higher still.

Charitable Impulses.

It is hardly possible for real charity to be over-worked, but it is quite probable that charitable impulses may be. We have several times called attention to our doubt as to the worthiness, and real need, of some of the big efforts, with which we are acquainted, for which the public is asked to subscribe, but it is just as probable that some of our local charities are so-called, rather than real, and their promotion serves to dis- the city delegation in the past has courage those charitably inclined from contributing when the needs of cases are more clearly legitimate.

The Baltimore Municipal Journal is an ardent supporter of greater representation in the legislature, from Baltimore. In its current issue, it cites the regulation figure argument, showing how the city, by comparison with the counties, lacks its just representation, and closes with the following argument, that is meant to be both appealing and convincing. The plea of the Municipal Journal is much like the plan of marrying a man afflicted with bad habits, then reforming him afterwards, by love and moral suasion. Thousands of women have tried out this plan to their permanent sorrow. It sounds well, and means well, but works out disastrously. The safest way is to have repentance and change of habit, before the serious compact is made binding. The Journal says:

"Now, the statement has been made by some of our county women that not generally reflected credit on the State-that the counties fear to put additional power in the hands of the city unless assured that this increas-

But, candidly speaking, can the women deny that this same criticism

American institugons are based on openly and knowingly violated, the end of our democracy is in sight. It was this sense of justice which won the franchise for women.

The question of good women or bad women did not enter into consideration of the Nineteenth Amendment any more than it did in the orito all men, good and bad.

Consequently, the argument that, because Baltimore's delegation to Annapolis is not always what it should be, therefore the city should not have its proper representationis no more valid reasoning than that suffrage should have been refused to the general electorate because some bad men and some bad women would have been liberated in the process.

Give the city-as has been done for the women-what rightfully belongs to it-and then demand that it make proper use of the power that has been conferred upon it.

Then will be the time for all patriotic people, both men and women, in counties and in city, to work together for better representation and for better government for the whole State; for, after all, Baltimore is an integral part of the State, and what affects the State affects the city; and, vice versa what injuries the city injuries the State. We are all loyal citizens of Maryland and, as such, of reading in bed. When going the should work for the betterment of northern circuit as a newly fledged 'Jutsice to every citizen.'"

HUBBY AT THE COOKSTOVE

Some Excellent Reasons Advanced Why Head of the House Should Know How to Prepare Food.

Cooking has been added to the curriculum of male students at Pennsylvania State college. Cooking is somehing that all men should know something about.

Some men should know all about it. Particularly should married men have the necessary knowledge so that in the pinch they can escallop a pan of potatoes or stir up a mess of fluffy biscuits.

There is no telling when the good wife may be absent from home at meal

As time goes on the legitimate reasons for this are growing.

And what is more pleasing to the average wife than to return from the bridge party or the polling place, a trifle late, perhaps, and worried for fear that she'll not be able to have dinner on the dot-what is more pleasing than to be greeted at the door by the man of the house, all uniformed up in a long overall apron, a dab of flour on his beaming countenance, stirring for dear life at a bowl of embryo drop biscuits?

And the teakettle steaming its heart out? And the smell of burning beefsteak permeating the otherwise hopeful atmosphere? Man should know how to cook !-St.

Traveler Tells of Rats Who Used Their Tails as Fishlines to Catch Crabs.

Captain Moncton in his "Experiences of a New Guinea Resident Magistrate," relates, the following incident: "Having landed on an utterly barren island formed of coral rock and destitute of all vegetation, he found it to be the home of an epormous number of rats. There was no trace of other animal life, and it was impossible to imagine how, except by continual preying upon one another, it was possible for these rats to subsist.

"While seated at the water's edge, turning over the problem in his mind, he noticed some of the rats going down to the edge of the reef-lank, hungry-looking creatures they were, with pink, naked tails. He stopped on the point of throwing lumps of coral at them, out of curiosity to see what they meant to do. His curiosity was soon gratified. Rat after rat picked a flattish place and, squatting on the edge, dangled its tail in the water.

"Presently one rat gave a violent leap of a yard, landing well clear of the water, and with a crab clinging to its tail. Turning around, the rat grabbed the crab and devoured it, and then returned to the stone. Other rats were seen repeating the performance."

Congress is spending the hot weather debating tariff revision. Strange to say, the subject is being more coolly discussed than might have been expected, considering the heated debates of old times. Really, there isn't so much to discuss, as "tariff for revenue only" is a present necessity, and "protection" consequently plays a less important part. The U.S. needs the money.

"Tapering Off."

In England they are managing matters differently in the case of rum. The British "thirst" is being "tapered off.'

From 12 noon till 2:30 P. M., the Englishman may have a drink. He gets no liquor, hard or otherwise, before he goes to work in the morning. After his day's work he has another brief chance; from 6 until 10 | ture of all ages and all nations. Peo-

They have also weakened the Britisher's drink. There is 30 per-cent. less kick in all beverages than there who merely call for a "double and soda" instead of the old and familiar "whisky and soda," and it is just here that the Government wins.

The British Government, like many another, needs revenue. It has taxed everything drinkable in the British Isles, and the tax is a heavy one. The more the Britisher takes the more taxes he pays. The "doubleand-soda" man is paying a double tax. If he refuses to "taper off," he must pay the extra penalty thereto attached.

The Government is helping the Englishman to learn moderation in his drinking. It limits his hours at the bar, it weakens his drink and it raises the taxes and catches him coming and going.

The American decided to "break off." The Englishman is trying the "tapering off." But then the Englishman has always been a rather conservative soul .- Phila. Ledger.

"He remonstrated with him," says Sir George Trevelyan, "on the danger of reading in bed, upon which Macaulay replied with immense rapidity of utterance: 'I always read in bed at home; and if I am not afraid of committing parricide and matricide and fraticide. I can hardly be expected to pay any special regard to the lives of the bagmen of Leeds.' And, so saying, he left his hearers staring at one another, and marched off to his room."

Rose Always Loved

The rose has been a favorite from earliest times. So deep a hold has it on the affections of the people that it is often spoken of as the "queen of flowers." It has figured in the literaple in all stations of life yield homage to its beauty of form and color and to its delicious fragrance. It is loved by poor and rich alike. It is grown in the dooryards of the least pretentious cottages, where often the occupants are stinted in food and raiment, as well as on the grounds of large estates, where abound the choicest things that money can buy. It is also grown in immense quantities under glass and, is the most popular winter cut flower for all occasions.

Dinner-Plate Pennies.

Some of the first coins were enormous, the idea apparently being to discourage the greedy from attempting to accumulate and carry around too many of them. There were copper coins as large as dinner plates. This inconvenient style had to give way to the demand for smaller and more convenient forms of currency, and the giant pennies soon dwindled in size to meet the popular demand.

The earliest trace of the use of gold as money is to be found in the pictures of the ancient Egyptians weighing in scales heaps of rings of the precious metals. But there is no actual record that these rings were known as coins with a fixed value.

CLOSE TO HORRIBLE DEATH

Youth Will Long Remember How Near He Was to Being Trampled Under Hoofs of Cattle.

A yarn which may be branded as "pretty fair" comes out of the West, remarks the Philadelphia Ledger.

A young man named Barker had taken his bicycle to make a journey of several hundred miles to inspect some land. In the course of his trip he crossed a large prairie field, broken near the middle by a high transverse ridge.

When he had climbed the ridge and mounted his wheel to proceed he noticed what the rise of ground had obscured-that the field was filled with Texas cattle grazing in little bunches of ten to fifty. Just as he started one of the "long horns" caught sight of him and the bunch followed its leader to investigate. The young man naturally quickened his pace and the cattle took after him.

The trail was straight and level, over his wheel and pedaled for his life. He could hear the bellowing of the cattle and the pounding of their boofs behind him, but he looked neither to right nor left. What should he do when he reached the gate? No matter. All his mind was fixed upon the necessity of keeping ahead. He neared the gate and it was open. He dashed through like a flash of lightning, lost his pedals, struck a rock and was pitched off and lay enseless on the ground.

It had happened that the man who owned the range was visiting it at that moment. He had seen the boy race for life and had opened the gate to let him pass through. Then, with two or three attendants, he rode in and headed off the herd.

they were using had square-cornered blades about fifteen inches long.

"The digging was hard and slow, and one of the workmen suggested to the boss that if he would grind off the corners of the shovels they would cut into the earth more easily and the day's output would be bigger.

"The boss ridiculed the idea, but the workman later on persuaded an ironmonger in Sheffield to make him a couple of dozen round-cornered shovels as an experiment. These shovels were submitted to the scoffing boss for trial. The boss reported at the end of a week that his diggers were all turning up 10 or 15 minutes ahead of time in the morning so as to get hold of one of the new round shovels.

"The boss, the ironmonger and the workman-inventor patented the new shovel between them and proceeded to manufacture it in a small way. In a few years they were all millionaires."

Childish Imagination.

Species That Are Common in England Are Not to Be Found in the Emerald Isle.

One of the curious features of wild life in Ireland is the absence of some of the birds best known in England. The nightingale, for instance, is never found in Ireland, while the woodwarbler, the redstart, all the species of woodpecker, the wryneck, the nuthatch and several other kinds are so rare that they are unknown to the great majority of the people. There seems to be no very obvious reason for the absence of these birds. It may, perhaps, be found in the lines of migration along which the birds travel, for most of those mentioned above are Over 100,000 volumes and almost as not resident in Britain all the year. The Cleaning of Grain.

While equipment for cleaning and frequently improves the quality of This coming Sunday will be Home-coming day at the U. B. Church, of this place. We are informed that a large number of invitations have been sent out to those who in by-gone days belorged to the advector in poor coming day at the U. B. Church, of the grain and increases its market value, says specialists of the Bureau of Markets, United States Depart-ment of Agriculture. Some/fimes grain comes to the elevator in poor condition, often being dirty, dusty, or disposed of advantageously.

Moreover, grain containing impurities, foreign matter, or a high moisture content is quite likely to become hot in transit, which greatly reduces its value and frequently results in serious financial loss. If the elevator is not provided with suitable equipment for this process, such grain must be shipped in the condition in which it is received.

The farmer should not place all re-sponsibility for cleaning grain on the elevator, it is believed. It should be remembered that elevator managers do not pay grain prices for the dirt and water found in a farmer's grain. The price should be established by taking into consideration the necessary expense of placing the grain in marketable condition. The farmer who delivers clean, dry, sound grain should receive a permium over the price paid to the more careless farmer who delivers grain of inferior quality, specialists say.

Many hotels and restaurants in the large cities are eager to secure prime young guineas, and they are often served at banquets and club dinners as a special delicacy. When well cooked, guineas are attractive in appearance, although darker than common fowls. The flesh of young birds is tender and of especially fine flavor, resembling that of wild game. Like all other fowl, old guineas are very likely to be tough and rather dry.

A few of the large poultry raisers, particularly those who are within easy reach of the large Eastern markets, make a practice of raising a hundred or so guineas each year, but the great majority of guineas are raised in small flocks of from 10 to 25 upon farms in the Middle West and in the South.

Domesticated guinea fowl are of three varieties-Pearl, White and Lavender. The Pearl is by far the most popular. It has a purplish-gray plumage regularly dotted or "pearled" with white and is so handsome that, frequently the feathers are used for ornamental purposes.

Guinea hens usually begin laying in April or May, those in the South laying earlier than those in the North. A short time before the opening of the laying period the hens with their mates begin searching for suitable nesting places among the weeds and brush along the fences or in the fields. In this search the male takes as active an interest as his mate, and when a suitable location is found both help to dig out the nest and make it into suitable shape.

Each day as the hen goes to the nest to lay the male accompanies her and remains nearby until she comes off. Should anyone approach he shrieks in warning and thus betrays the where-

Also she may readily miss him, for he gives out only a faint glow that flickers near his tail.

Why "Near" and "Off" Horse.

Why India Is Losing Cattle.

A census of the cattle of India shows that all the herds have been decreased during the last few years. The reason is that there was a famine of fodder during which it was impossible to get food for the cattle in some districts and it was scarce all over the country.

Why Known as "Dunning."

Because in the reign of Henry VIII there lived a bailiff named Dun, who gained a great reputation for making persons pay their debts. When every method of getting payment had been tried without success, Dun was put to work, and "dunned him" became the popular advice as a last resort.

Why Called "Bridegroom."

Because in primitive days the newly wedded man had to wait upon the bride and serve at her table upon his wedding day, and thus was a "groom" on this occasion.

Why "Regatta."

Water entertainments are called regattas from the Italian word "regata," meaning a boat race. "Regata" is probably an abbreviated form of "remigata," meaning the act of row-

"I think you're horrid!"

Natalie Wells seemed on the verge of tears. The big man sitting beside her on the sofa in front of the comfortable fireplace in the Wells home grinned wickedly and almost chuckled. The sound of his suppressed mirth seemed to make Natalie more angry than ever.

"I don't see why you act so mean, Jimmie Bates!" she exclaimed vigorously. "I think you're just trying to make it harder for-for me. You know perfectly well that you ought to propose to me tonight-you told me you would, and I was all ready to be proposed to-look-I have my prettiest dress on in your honor! And I told dad that I thought you would-say something. And he---- " she paused. Jimmie's grin became wider. "Yes?" he said encouragingly. "What did he say?"

"He--he said he hoped you would, and that he hoped that I'd have sense enough to take you. And now you won't !"

Jimmie, accustomed as he was to the manners of the modern maid, was somewhat taken aback by this outburst of frankness. Everybody in the little town of Carey knew that he and Natalie had been going about together for a long time, and everybody said of them that it was only a question of time till they would announce their engagement. Jimmie had fallen in love with Natalie over a year ago, and it boys and girls were bidden over to the Wells' house for a watch night party, to begin at 11 o'clock. It was then half-past ten. Inside of the half hour some twenty of Carey's young people were gathered under the hospitable roof of Mr. Wells, laughing, chatting and making merry. The clock hands moved along-half-past eleven, a quarter of twelve, ten minutes of-Jimmie rose.

"Ladies and gentlemen-" "Hear, hear! Jimmie's going to make a speech !"

"We are assembled-(good)-for the purpose of seeing the New Year in and also seeing the old year out-(hooray, Jimmie, you're positively eloquent), but we are also assembled because this is the last ten minutes of leap year. I beg to announce to the assembled mob the engagement of-" His next words were lost in the torrent of congratulations that followed. Every one knew what he meant and all wished the couple the best, for there were no more popular people in Carey than Jimmie and Natalie.

"I didn't !" A wave of the hand to enforce silence. "I took advantage of the fact that this would be her last chance for four years to get me, and made her pro-

A swift leap and Natalie's hand was on his mouth. "I didn't, I didn't!" she cried, laughing. "I made him-" Jimmie's hand abruptly cut short the revelation. And before the laughing crowd could say another word the great clock in the hall boomed out twelve solemn strokes, and without a babel of noises ushered in the New Year. There was silence for a moment in the Wells' house.

"Well, I don't care who did the proposing," said one of the girls. "I'm glad you two have settled it at last." "Oh, never mind. I'm glad, too," replied Jimmie. "But if you must know the truth, Natalie-" "Don't listen to him. He said-" "Happy New Year!"

It was the voice of Mrs. Wells at the door. The young people rose to welcome her. She went on. "It's 1921, and a new year for all of us. And I'm sure we're all very glad to hear this good news-though we have known about it for longer than either of them. And it doesn't matter who did propose-does it?"

"Not at all !" they should. "Just so they're engaged at last-definitely." And to this day it is a mystery in Carey as to just what happened in the last hour of leap year.

JAPANESE ART AT ITS BEST Pennsylvania Museum Has Rare Specimen of Dramatic Mask, Made

Many Centuries Ago.

A dramatic mask, which experts say is one of the finest examples of ancient Japanese art, has been accidentally discovered in the Pennsylvania museum in Memorial hall, Fairmount park, Philadelphia, where no particular value had been attached to it.

The mask dates from the Fujiwara period extending from 894 to 1195 A. D. It was brought to the Pennsylvania museum by John T. Morris, who purchased it on one of his trips to the Orient. The museum exhibited the relic without realizing its value until recently a careful and exhaustive study was made of Japanese art.

WHY =

American Actresses Win Popularity in Europe

Those persons who believe nothing but a pretty face is necessary to make you a popular movie star should read what film producers in England and France are up against in their search for young women who can make good in motion pictures, May Stranathan writes in the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

They claim there are just as many pretty girls in England and France as there are in America—though doubtless this is an exaggeration-but they admit their pretty girls do not screen as well as those of America. They frankly acknowledge the reason is lack of brains. These producers say brains are necessary to success as a movie actress.

Rene Navarre, French actor and would-be film producer who aspires to make his film city at Nice the rival of the one at Los Angeles, after which it is modeled, says he has tried hundreds of beautiful French women and girls, but they have failed miserably before the camera because of lack of the quick intelligence necessary to catch the point of a pose. In despair, he says the only thing to do is to start an academy for the training of camerastars.

Miss Violet Hopkins, one of the few English girls who have made a success in motion pictures, attributes the success of the American girl to her ambition, thoroughness, her willingness to work hard and her study of types, not only of to-day, but in literature, including history and poetry. So the American girl scores again.

CHEERFULNESS AS AN ASSET

Why Mirth Has Been Called "God's Medicine" by Those Capable of Appreciating It.

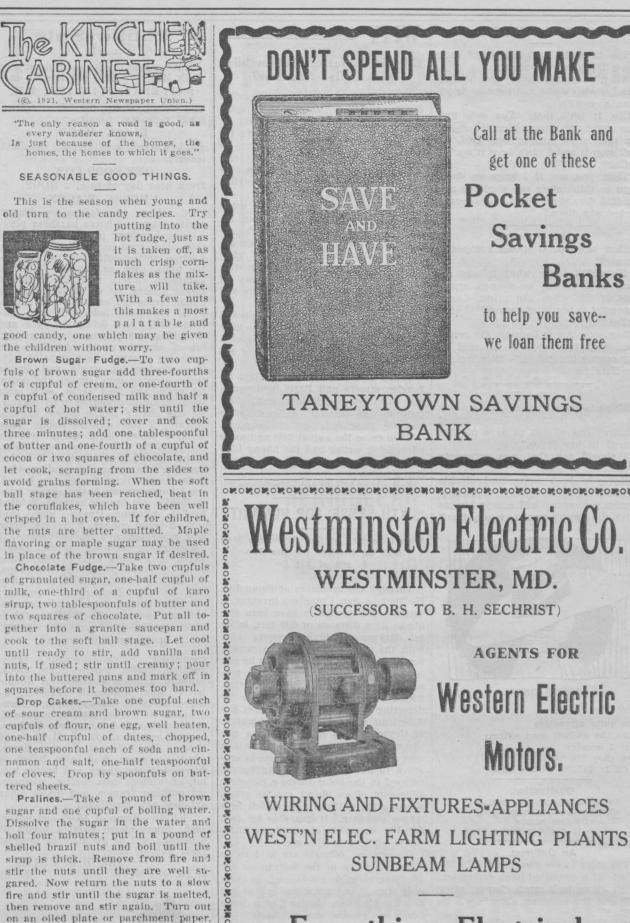

Mirth has been called God's medicine. There are few persons who cannot testify to the saving value of a smile. There is a story told of a man who received a wire while on a business trip that his business had been wiped out by fire. The depression which followed this news threatened for a time his mental balance, and he even gave serious thought to taking his own life.

While in this dangerous mood he received a letter from his daughter, a girl of nine, which read: "Dear Daddy-I went down to see your store that was burned and it looked awfully pretty all covered with ice. Love and kisses from Helen."

The man laughed and the day was saved. That glint of humor was like a ray of sunshine in a dark cell. The spirit of the man was released from the prison of his gloom.

Lincoln on the day that he read to his cabinet the emancipation proclamation opened that important meeting by reading from Artemus Ward. When rebuked by one of his serious-minded cabinet officers for having called them into an important session to hear such nonsense, Lincoln replied : "Why don't you laugh, gentlemen? If J couldn't laugh I would die."

was pretty clear that she had returned his sentiments.

But a spirit of coquetry had made her keep him "on the fence" for a long time, and he had fallen into the habit of telling her in advance that he was going to propose; she would invariably reply: "We'll see!" And when he did propose she always replied: "I can't say yes. You must wait." In Carey it was a standing toke, for everybody realized that Natalle was simply teasing Jimmie in the best spirit in the world. As she herself said to her girl friends: "I think Jimmie's the best man I know, but it's such fun to tease him-he takes it in such fine spirit!" Jimmie himself liked the teasing, sure of Natalle as he was

On this particular night he had warned her as usual; and now he refused to say a word. Natalie even went so far as to hint that she would make a definite answer this time, but Jimmie grinned seraphically and declined to bite. And now Natalie was on the verge of tears. Her love for Jimmie was so sincere that when the tables were turned on her she found herself wondering. "Does he really love me?" And she wanted to hear, as never before, the words of Jimmie's proposal.

Jimmie sank in the cushions a little farther.

"I say, Nat," he said, breaking the uncomfortable silence, "why don't you propose to me? I've never been proposed to in my life-and tonight's the last night of leap year.

This was true. The 31st of December was upon them, and but a few hours remained of the year during which it had been the privilege of damsels to make known their feelings to the men of their choice. But Natalle put the offer aside with scorn.

"As if I'd propose to you, Jimmie Bates! Why, we've been engaged for ever so long-without saying anything—" a deep blush dyed her cheeks -"but you've got to do the proposing."

"But I've proposed so often, and you've never said 'yes,'" said Jimmie plaintively.

"Well, I-I've never said 'no,' have 1?" retorted Natalie.

Jimmie was silent for a moment. defense with great caution. Then he brightened with a great idea. "Listen, Nat," he began, and Nat listened.

The majority of the great Japanese feudal families have masks made by great craftsmen, but few of these antedate the seventeenth century. The mask in the museum bears the face of a deity, probably, Amida, who appears in two of the "No" dramas. It is lacquered over wood, but the gold leaf from the surface has almost worn away. In the forehead is set a crystal backed by some red material to give it color. The carefully plaited hair is made of dried lacquer, a fact which twelve years ago would have determined its age as prior to the Tenth century, regardless of its style. Today, however, forgers have expertly employed the same kind of lacquer in a manner that deceives the most expert judges.

"Masks are now being forged in Japan to deceive the very elect," said Director Warner. "Even the fact that it came to us in 1902 would not entirely preclude the forgery theory, though that evil trade has achieved its great success since then. The most skeptical student is therefore convinced that we have here a real example of great rarity and undeniable beauty.

"The five-pointed lacquered leather crown is an unusual feature and may not be contemporary with the wood. On it are three circles and two half circles of red, on which are drawn in gold Sanskrit characters. Of these the center character and probably the most significant cannot be made out except that it seems to be the Sanskrit "A," representing Amida.

"The red on the background is painted with mitsudaso-the true oil paint so rarely used in the East except on earlier sculpture."

Women May Resent Kissing.

The German courts have a ruling that permits any woman kissed against her will to "retaliate as she sees fit." One judge, however, giving the opinion that the injured lady was justified in soundly boxing the offender's ears "should not do so with the fist of an Amazon," for if the retaliation was excessive, she lost her right to take legal action, and the man might take action against her. The ladies were instructed to use their right of self-

J. S. MYERS Why Cattle Are "Mavericks."

Sam Maverick migrated from Massachusetts to Texas in the early days of the great West and entered upon the business of raising cattle. He purchased several herds and put them out to roam the range. Whether from ignorance or from implicit faith in the honesty of the neighbors, it never occurred to Mr. Maverick that it might be wise to put his brand upon his stock.

At round-up time, whenever a cowboy found an unbranded animal, he would cry: "There's a Maverick."

And, generally being of the unregenerate type, he would use his own brand on his find. The name Maverick soon began to be generally applied and to acquire a distinct metaphorical meaning; and when men had opinions which were vague and undecided, they were declared by Westerners of the old days to hold "Maverick views."

Why Knock on Wood

Because there was at one time a general belief that trees and humanity were allied in close bonds of union, and that certain trees had healing qualities. It was customary for a person afflicted with disease to take a woolen string of three colors, and with his right hand the his left loosely to the limb of a tree, then slip it out and hasten homeward without casting a glance back, the belief being that the disease was transferred to the tree by touching it. Thus from a tree it has become common practice to touch any article of wood to ward off misfortune

Why Peanuts Are Good Food. More than 2,000,000 acres in this country were planted with peanuts last year. The demand for them is increasing by leaps and bounds. They are one of the most nutritious foods known to man, one pound of them (shelled) containing nearly half a pound of fat and a quarter of a pound of protein, both high-grade and readily digestible. For running the body machine they are three times as efficient as an equal weight of beef and five times as efficient as an equal weight of eggs.

Why Stars Twinkle.

Because their light passes through variously heated and moving currents of air which act as a refractor. Much twinkling foretells bad weather, because it denotes that these aerial currents are more disturbed than usual.

LESSON FOR JULY 17 THE CONVERSION OF SAUL.

LESSON TEXT-Acts 9:1-19a. GOLDEN TEXT-This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief .- I Tim. 1:15. REFERENCE MATERIAL-Acts 22:1-21: 26:1-23.

PRIMARY TOPIC-Learning to Obey Jesus. JUNIOR TOPIC-Saul Becomes a Christian

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC -The Pharises Becomes a Christian. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC -A Study of Paul's Conversion

I. Saul's Burning Hatred or Jesus (vv. 1, 2).

Saul knew full well that unless the movement set on foot by Jesus was stopped it would supersede Judaism, but he was entirely ignorant of the genius of Christianity. Christianity thrives on persecution. Prosperity may ruin the church, but persecution THE REAL PROPERTY OF THE PROPE never.

The noble display of faith by Stephen in sealing his testimony with his blood did not soften Saul's spirit, but rather intensified his hatred for Jesus and His disciples. It made him more determined than ever to stamp out this Nazarene heresy. The intensity of his madness and the extent of its operations are best set forth in his own words (see Acts 22: 4 and Acts 26:10-12). He obtained authority from the chief priests to carry on this murderous work.

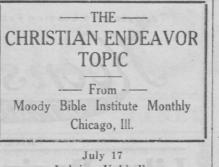

II. Saul Kicking Against the Pricks (vv. 3-9). The figure here is that of the eastern ox-driver following the ox with a sharp iron fixed to the end of a pole. The animal is prodded on with this instrument and if it is refractory it klcks against this sharp iron and injures itself. This is a picture of Saul as he was madly fighting against Jesus.

1. A light from heaven (vv. 3, 4a). The time had come for the Lord to interfere. Saul is stricken with blindness and falls to the earth. This physical demonstration accentuated the workings of his conscience which doubtless were going on, quickened by the Holy Spirit as He used Stephen's testimony.

2. A voice from heaven (vv. 4b, 5). This was the Lord's voice calling Saul by name and asking, "Why persecutest thou me?" This moved Saul to inquire, "Who art thou, Lord?" The answer came, "I am Jesus whom thou persecutest," as if to say persecution of the church is persecution of Jesus.

3. "What wilt thou have me to do?" (v. 6)). The dictator is now willing to be dictated to. The Lord told him to go into the city where information hitch in it somewhere. Dobbin, would be given him as to what he must do.

4. Saul entering Damascus (vv. 7-9). The haughty persecutor goe

Judging Unkindly Matthew 7:1-5

The Sermon on the Mount has suffered much from misterpretation and misapplication. Sometimes one hears another say, "The Sermon on the Mount is my gospel." As a matter of fact, the Sermon on the Mount is not a gospel proclamation. The word "gospel" means "good news" not good advice. This sermon is filled with good advice. It is the divine standard of requirement for saints, but it is not a gracious provision for sinners. The late Dr. Weston, in referring to the Sermon on the Mount well said, "At the beginning of His career, Christ paints a picture of the person who is to be the product of His work." Our Scripture lesson has a word of warning against unkind judgment, fault finding, and unjust criticism. Beware of it; it creates darkness in ourselves if we allow the habit to gain control. While we must never be indifferent to moral distinction, yet we must not carry an open pocket judgment seat.

Judgment of others should have in view their deliverance from evil rather than their condemnation. This tendency to condemn may be the beam in our own eye which must first be removed, before we can deal with the mote in our brother's eye. Moreover the law of supply and demand is sure; if you judge others with the tendency to condemn them, they will do so with you. "With what judg-ment ye judge, ye shall be judged, and with what measure ye meet, it shall be measured to you again." Shout, and the echo comes back, fire a gun, and it kicks. As we would be judged, so let us judge.

It would be well to read 1 Corinthians 13 in considering this topic of school-directed home garden work will judging unkindly. No matter what we have in the way of gifts and graces, if we have not love we have nothing.

The Catch.

A New England spinster was much enamored of a neighboring farmer, but the affection was not returned. One day, starting on one of his weekly visits to town, the maiden came rushing out, crying:

Yoo-hoo, Mr. Simpkins, do you mind taking me with you?"

The farmer considered warily and finally allowed her to climb in. In vain the lady tried every topic of conversation without eliciting response and finally in desperation fell back on the passing bits of scenery. Going by the minister's house, she cried: "Oh, Mr. Simpkins, what a beautiful hitching post Paster Watson has."

"Gol durn," cried the other cracking his whip. "I knowed there was a giddap. Ma'am, that's fer hosses only."-American Legion Weekly.

STRONG PLEA FOR GARDENS

United States Commissioner of Education Urges That Last Year's Good Work Continue.

Last year more than 2,000,000 boys and girls in cities, large towns and industrial villages in the United States cultivated gardens under school direction, and supervision and produced many millions of dollars' worth of vegetables and small fruits to be consumed where produced without cost for transportation and handling and without loss from deterioration on the markets. There were many thousands of boys and girls who produced more than $50 each in what would otherwise have been idle time, and thousands of acres of land that would have lain idle if it had not been cultivated by the boys and girls yielded more than $500 an acre.

The educational value to the children was far greater than the value of the food products. That value included health, physical vigor, habits of industry, knowledge of plant life and of the phenomena and forces of nature, and the beginning of the understanding of the fundamental moral principle that every one should gladly contribute to his own support by his own labor.

"The United States bureau of education will not be able to follow up this work this year as fully as it has for several years past," writes P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, "but I hope the interest of children, teachers, superintendents and school boards will not lag and that the time will soon come when this be recognized as a necessity and an essential part of the education of children in all cities, towns and industrial villages."

FOR BOYCOTT OF BILLBOARD

Speaker Advocates Strenuous Action Against What Is Generally Recognized as a Nuisance.

Declaring the automobile has made the billboard a countrywide problem, E. T. Hartman of Boston, member of the Massachusetts Civic league, addressing a meeting of the American Civic association, said that there is no best law or method for dealing with the problem presented by the defacement of both the city and the country by outdoor advertising.

The public, he said, can bring remedies to bear when it chooses to make the effort. He suggested that one effective method would be to withhold patronage from persons and firms employing this method of publicity, and said this would settle the whole problem in a year.

FOR MARRIAGE MARKET .-In Egypt a quaint wedding custom is the visit paid by the bride and her friends to the bath. The progress to it partakes of the nature of a procession, headed by Arab musicians, with tambourines, flutes and other instruments. The bride is usually seated on a camel and covered with a sort of tepee from the top of which the greatest palm leaves obtainable are projected. Over the door of the bathhouse a handkerchief is hung to denote that only women may enter. After the bride and her friends have bathed, they abandon themselves to the enjoyment of the entertainment provided by the musicians, story tellers and sing-

Among the Moors, girls are fattened for the marriage market much as the poultry farmer treats his livestock. The staple food of the women is bread, and it is chiefly with this that they are fattened. Long-shaped pellets of it are constantly forced down their throats for a period of about three weeks before their marriage.

The bride has to be put through a strange ordeal. She is placed in an ill-ventilated wooden cage, usually whitewashed, and is taken in it in procession through the streets to the bridegroom's dwelling. After a two weeks honeymoon the discarded box is placed on the roof of the house in a prominent position, so that all may see it. This is an official intimation that the newly wedded pair are ready to receive friends.

How Missouri Got Its Now Generally Used Nickname of the "Show-Me" State.

An early-day custom in Missouri regarding marriages is said to be responsible for the famous expression, "I'm from Missouri; you've got to show me."

A good many years ago the marriage laws in Missouri were so loose that any one could get married without answering many questions. In 1881 a law was passed making it a misdemeanor for a minister or a justice to marry persons not having a state license. It also set the age of marriageable women at eighteen. If the applicant for a license did not know the age of his bride-elect he had to show her to the license clerk and let him judge her age. When the applicant went after the girl she naturally asked why she had to go along to get the license. When told that the law required her exhibition, she remarked: "Oh, you've got to show me?" This occurred many times during the first year or so of the law's enforcement and became a byword. Thus Missouri became known as the humbly into Damascus led by his attendants. For the space of three days he remained in blindness and fasting. What went on in his soul In those days no mortal can know, but we may be assured that he, like the Lord in the wilderness, was too deep in meditation and prayer to desire food. Doubtless in this time he got hold of the truths which he later proclaimed to the world; for his conversion was the basal fact of his theology.

III. Ananias Sent to Saul (vv. 10-19a).

Here appears upon the scene a hitherto unknown disciple.

1. Ananias' vision (vv. 10-12). In this vision the Lord appeared and instructed him to go to Saul. He gave him the name of the street and Saul's host, and informed him that Saul was now a praying man and that he had prepared Saul by the vision for the coming of Ananias.

2. Ananias' fear and hesitancy (vv. 13-16). He knew of Saul's mission and the authority by which he came. The Lord encouraged him to go, assuring him that Saul is no longer an enemy, but a chosen vessel to bear His name before the Gentiles, kings, and the children of Israel.

3. Ananias' obedience (v. 17). His fears being removed, Ananias went to the house where Saul was staying, put his hands on him and affectionately addressed him as "brother." The savage persecutor is now a brother in Christ. He informed Saul that the Lord had sent him with a twofold mission: (1) "That thou mightest receive thy sight;" (2) "Be filled with the Holy Spirit." He received sight forthwith. It is not said as to whether he received the Holy Ghost then, but his life's work proves that he did. 1. Saul baptized (vv. 18, 19a). After Saul received his sight Ananias baptized him.

God Gives Light and Strength.

Give yourself to God's perfect love to work out His perfect will. For all He means you to do, He will surely give light and strength. The throne of the Lamb is surely proof that there is no surer way for us to riches and honor than through His poverty .---Rev. Andrew Murray.

One Thing After Another. It is many years since man was to be cured of all his ills by the removal of a largely superfluous appendix. When the magic of that operation began to pall pyorrhea became the chief criminal and the substitution of "dentures" for the unruly teeth of nature the elixir of life. But man's health was still indifferent, and the discovery of the "dead tooth" in all its peril promised a pathway to centenarian vigor. Passing by monkey glands, we now come to the nerve centers of the spine as the seat of all trouble and to a delicate combination of osteopathy and massage as the infallible recipe for perfect health .-- London Express.

Artistic Chinese Work.

Little jade trees growing sturdily in bowls of the rarest cloisonne and bear. ing upon the intricately carved branches, clustered close to the cool green of the jade leaves, wonder fruits of coral and amber and delicately wrought blossoms of the translucent white jade, might be a memory of the Arabian Nights and Aladdin's lamp.

They might be, but they are not. They are tributes to the infinite patience and skill of the Chinese artisan in semi-precious stones, and the zeal of the collector who buys with American gold the treasures of the Far East and gloatingly carries them back across the Pacific for the delight of a three or four years, and there are luxury loving people.

They are expensive, but they represent not only the toil of years but the expression of the artist's soul.

Gloving the Tongue.

A glove for the tongue has been patented by an inventor of Indiana. It is called a "tongue shield," and is designed to enable the wearer to escape the unpleasantness of castor oil or other bad-tasting medicines. The contrivance might be said to have the shape of a miniature slipper without any heel portion, but when placed over the tongue is inverted. The tongue is inserted into the "toe" part and the back part of the "sole" extends over the top of the tongue toward the throat. The device is made of thin rubber, so as to be liquid proof, and is so constructed as to fit the tongue snugly without discomfort. When medicine is taken it passes into the throat without affecting the sense of lines of defense. taste, so that all unpleasantness is obviated.

MAKE FENCE ATTRACTIVE

A few morning glories or cardinal climber vines will cover that bare or unsightly fence and make it attractive.

Memorial for Heroic Dead.

The prince of Wales has brought back with him from the Antipodes a very beautiful conception of a form of memorial for the soldiers who have fallen in the great war.

He approached Ballarat, the great gold mining city in the Australian colony of Victoria by means of a broad avenue, some fifteen miles long, lined on either side by trees, which are flourishing, and that bid ere long to form a sort of foliage domed roof for the entire thoroughfare.

Each tree, planted within the last about five thousand of them, commemorates a Ballarat boy who gave his life for the empire at the front in France, on the peninsula of Gallipoli and in Palestine. Each of the trees bears the name of the soldier lad whose supreme sacrifice it is designed to recall to his kith and kin at Ballarat-London Mail.

Fight Well Worth Waging.

It pays the community to make a battle for tree treasures. It is a fight which should employ many different tactics and arms. First, perhaps, should be the selection for city planting of trees that are most nearly immune to the more dangerous pests. Next is good care, and the fostering of birds which do so much to check insect plagues. Finally comes scraping and spraying to get rid of the enemies which, like the oyster shell scale, have broken through the other

How You Can Be Transparent. A liquid that renders flesh invisible or transparent has been invented.

If a hand or arm is immersed in this liquid its flesh will disappear almost entirely from view; the bones, however, will be visible, as under X-rays. The mixture makes the flesh of your hand transparent because it has the same index of light refraction as the flesh. The light rays passing through the liquid are not bent, or refracted, when they pass through the flesh, though they are bent by the bones, which have a different index of refraction.

Different parts of the body have different indices or refraction; any part can be made to disappear by submerging it in the proper liquid. But not all parts at once, so the magic cloak of invisibility is still to be discovered.

How Films Aid in Education.

More than 500 motion picture films, dealing with more than 115 subjects, are now being circulated by the United States Department of Agriculture. A recent one, photographed largely from a drop of water, represents the origin and spread of rhubarb blight, a disease that brings great loss to the truck farmer. Besides the organisms and their spread, the film includes field scenes, the symptoms of the blight, and methods of eradication. This is one of the few series of pictures photographed largely through the miscroscope, thus showing objects invisible to the naked eye.

How to Keep Young.

For the preservation of youthfulness a placid temper should be assiduously cultivated by every woman who values the youthful appearance of her face and skin. A worrying temper is most ageing. It makes a woman of thirty look more than forty. It adds years-in appearance-to her age. It is a powerful foe to the magic of youth and often makes daughter look older than her mother, because the daughter is a persistent worrier over small trifles, while the mother has become a philosopher.

How "Cold Shoulder" Originated. This expression, now common, arose out of the custom once prevalent in France of serving to a guest who had outstayed his or her welcome a cold shoulder of mutton instead of a hot roast, as a hint for them to go.

Taneytown Baseball Notes.

Taneytown defeated the Hanover Wire Cloth team on the home ground, last Saturday afternoon, 7 to 4. was an interesting, but not specially good game, the weather being too hot for snappy playing. Taneytown had a bad sixth inning, permitting Hanover to make three unearned runs Bonsack's pitching was markedly superior to that of the two opposing pitchers. Notwithstanding the intense heat, and no seating accommodations, a fair crowd was present. A game was played on the home ground, on Wednesday, with Fairfield, the score being 20 to 2 in favor of Taneytown. The visitors put up a poor game, and were especially weak in the pitching department. New Oxford will be in Taneytown, Saturday afternoon, for the rubber, each team having won a game. New Oxford has a real ball team and a good game can be expected.

S. McKinney's. Citizens of Taneytown district will no doubt want to show their friends, at a distance, this piece of work, as it is a very creditable one.

Work has commenced on relaying the side-walk on west side of Baltimore St., from J W. Witherow's to the Railroad crossing. The work south of the railroad is rapidly nearing completion.

an exhibition of slowness that will Quarterly Conference, conducted by soon be coined into a proverb. Hardly anybody can remember how long the poles have been planted, and the wires strung. The ungliness of the poles, especially on the side streets, is emphasized by the little value they have so far carried.

Taneytown has been the centre of an extremely dry area, for about five weeks. On the east and south only a few miles off, there were heavy showers, within the past two weeks, every few days, but none on the north and west. This particular section, including Harney and Keysville neighborhoods, has suffered more than perhaps any other section in the state.

Mrs. Francis Milton Yount, of Taneytown, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Eleanor Sadler Yount, to Arthur Leonard Gleason, of Montclair, N. J. Mr. Gleason, is the son of the late George Gere and Louisa Leonard Gleason, of Montclair, and is connected with the Park-Union Foreign Banking Corporation, in New York. No date has been set for the wedding-Montclair, N. J. Herald.

Dr. F. H. Seiss has purchased a home in Takoma Park, on the Maryland side, one square from the D. C. line. The property is a very desirable one, as well as the location itself, and will easily permit of the practice of his profession, either in Washington, the District, or State. It is only three blocks from the Walter Reid Hospital. The purchase likely means that the Dr. will not relocate in Taneytown, as some have been thinking in frames and mountings. probable.

Sunday morning the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered. The Preparatory Service will be held to-morrow (Saturday) at 2 o'clock. There will be no evening service on account of the union service in the Reformed church.
