CARROLL COUNTY W.C.T.U. CONVENTION

An Enthusiastic and Well Attended
Event Held In Union Bridge.

The annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held in the M. P. Church, in Union Bridge, Thursday, Sept. 8. At 10:45 A. M., the County President, Mrs. Philena Fenby called the convention to order and announced the hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," with Miss Marie Senseney, at the organ. After the hymn Mrs. Haslup, State President, led in a very comprehensive and fervent prayer. The Bible lesson was the 146 Psalm.

In the absence of Mrs. Blanche Magee, the recording secretary, who has been ill for a long time, Mrs. John Bowers was elected to fill her place. The press superintendent, Mrs. Wm. H. Bennett, was also elected at home, and Mrs. D. F. Shipley was named to fill her place.

The morning session of the convention was given to the hearing of reports from the superintendents of departments, also the county secretaries' and treasurers' reports. These last reports showed a gain of 55 in membership, the largest gain made in any county in the state so far, and the work in the county much in advance of any previous year. The finances are in good condition. After all obligations were met there was left in the treasury a neat little sum toward the entertainment of the State Convention in Westminster, Oct. 4, 5 and 6.

At 12 o'clock, as is the W. C. T. U. custom, Mrs. Haslup conducted a noontide devotional, reading from the 6th Chapter of Galatians, after which a recess until 2 P. M. was taken. The Union Bridge ladies served, for a very nominal sum, a delicious lunch to everyone present. The lunch consisted of hot chicken, cold ham, potato chips, cold slaw, sliced tomatoes, bread, rolls, cake, ice cream and coffee.

The afternoon session was begun with a devotional service conducted by Rev. McCaslin of Finksburg. Mrs. Bowers read the minutes of the morning session, which were adopted. Mrs. Lydia L. Smith welcomed the convention in a very neat and appropriate address, and in closing urged the ladies to seriously consider the fact that by the passage of the 19th Amendment women are now really and truly citizens of this great republic, but the privilege of the ballot has increased their responsibilities many times, and she urged the women to let principle, and not party or politics, govern their actions, and by wise council and judicious judgment prove that they are worthy citizens and by so doing prove to the world that the United States had taken a step forward in the right direction by adding the 19th Amendment to the constitution. Mrs. Emory Ebaugh responded in a very fitting and appropriate way.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Philena Fenby, of Finksburg; Vice-Pres., Mrs. John Harris; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. D. F. Shipley; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Blanche Magee, of Sandyville; Treas., Mrs. Luther Bare, of Westminster.

Perhaps the most entertaining feature of the convention was the exercise given by the Royal Legion under the leadership of Mrs. Gussie Blizard Supt. of Loyal Legion work for the county. Each child who took part deserves special mention and reflected great credit upon Miss Marie Senseney, who trained them. After the children's exercise Mrs. Haslup closed the convention with a plea for each person present to work for law enforcement and to support only such men at the polls who pledged themselves as standing for an enforcement law for Maryland.

The following resolutions were adopted:

No. 1.—In this time of moral and spiritual laxity, when so many are departing from the old landmarks of righteousness, for public office who is opposed to the Volstead enactment. Further, as a liberal Sunday means no Sunday at all, we earnestly protest against the election of any man for State Assembly who advocates a violation of the Christian Sunday.

No. 2.—That we use every possible effort to secure the proper observance of the Lord's day, discouraging the pleasures that interfere with the duties and privileges of the day.

No. 3.—Since women have the suffrage, support as citizens of this great Republic, all those who stand for the enforcement of the 18th Amendment. Each woman should be a committee of one to secure the registration and vote of all the women of the community.

No. 4.—We are impressed with the vital importance of Americanizing the foreign born, and we emphasize the necessity of teaching the responsibilities of citizenship, especially to the mothers.

No. 5.—That we impress the minds of the language; that the evils of using profane and vulgar language be continued, and that we urge the authorities to enforce the cigarette law.

No. 6.—Resolved, that we reaffirm our faith in the cardinal principles of liberty and justice, regardless of sex or creed.

No. 7.—Resolved, that we, the citizens of America, the land we love, consecrate ourselves to the high ideals and sacred duties of the home and country, to the protection of the home and country, and the root-out of the injurious liquor traffic, and have been such a scourge in this and other lands.

No. 8.—We welcome a united call from all the churches of America for disunion, a prayer for universal peace and brotherhood.

THE PRIMARY ELECTION.

The Activity of Candidates brought out only a fair Vote.

While the vote cast was far short of the registered vote, the result must be held as fairly showing party sentiment, so far as primary elections show it.

For both County Clerk and Sheriff, the Republican nominees failed to secure a majority of the votes cast. The Republican "organization" showed a strong grip on party management, by giving Senator Snader a decisive defeat for place on the State Central Committee.

In estimating the returns, one can not help but be impressed with the power the primary law gives to individuals to exercise their privileges under the law, and to force primary elections—placing the expense on the taxpayers—in spite of party organization agreements to the contrary; and there is nothing to be said against their doing so, as the law both permits, and encourages, such contests.

This wasn't a good year for candidates from Westminster, it appears, although the district had plenty of candidates.

John H. Repp (Rep.) for County Commissioner, led the contestants with a clear majority of 1202.

Benj. D. Kemper, Republican, for Sheriff, appears to have been defeated by a plurality of only 4 votes, by Martin.

Joseph B. Boyle, Democrat, for Clerk, came across with a majority of 145 over Cash.

An Expensive Contest.

In Baltimore county, both parties agreed to harmonize contests for county nominations, and several withdrawals enabled both party camps to agree on their full list of nominees, thinking thereby to avoid the expense of holding a primary election.

At almost the last minute, however, a candidate for the sheriffalty, who of course could not be bound by party manager agreements, under the primary law, butted in and forced the holding of an election that cost the county about $15,000. The Towson New Era comments on the fact, as follows:

"Probably no more concrete illustration of one fault in our primary election system could be adduced than the present situation in Baltimore county. When two men can force an election that will cost the county something like $15,000 for the purpose of deciding which one of them shall have the opportunity to be defeated for office, the law that makes such a condition possible is sadly in need of amendment. Some sort of a primary law, we believe, is desired by the people of the State and county, but not this sort.

Regardless of the other merits or demerits of the particular men who are forcing this condition on Baltimore county, it would be weird sort of intelligence that advocated the election of either when each has shown that he cares more for his petty personal political preferment than he does for the rights and interests of the taxpayers.

A modification of the law to such an extent that it shall not be ridiculous, is mandatory."

Among our mail, last Saturday, was received a copy of a Virginia weekly, six columns, four pages, at $1.50 a year. We should like some of our subscribers who object to paying $1.50 a year, take a look at this paper, and make comparison with The Record.

George W. Crum, aged 64 years, former treasurer of Frederick county, and one of the wealthiest citizens of the county, died suddenly from a heart attack, in his automobile, Sunday afternoon, while taking a ride with some friends.

OPPORTUNITY FOR YOUNG MEN

Senator Weller Will make Appointments to Naval Academy.

Senator Weller will have the appointment of two Cadets to the Naval Academy, to fill two vacancies which will occur there in June, 1922. The Senator is a graduate of the Academy, and secured his appointment by competitive examination. He has determined to give the young men of Maryland the same opportunity he had himself. This gives every boy an equal chance without regard to influence, and will also assure to the Government the best material for making future Naval officers.

A competitive examination for these two appointments will be held by the United States Civil Service Commission on October 29, 1921, at Baltimore, Annapolis, Cumberland, Hagerstown, Easton and Salisbury. Any boy who will have passed his sixteenth birthday, and not his twentieth on April 1, 1922, will be eligible to compete. Senator Weller will appoint the two who are certified by the Civil Service Commission as having passed the best examinations.

Senator Weller will be glad to furnish any additional information desired, including a form showing the scope and character of the competitive examination, etc. Write him at room 227, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Maj. Hall May Leave Carroll.

Major Hall, Editor of the Sykesville Herald, was recently called to Florida, due to the death of his daughter-in-law. In the last issue of the Herald he expressed himself most beautifully on the death, paying the finest tribute to her who has passed on. It could not well have been more an outpouring of the heart, stating the merits of a good woman. But, the concluding paragraph may mean a great deal more to journalism in Carroll County, and we give it, below, with our expressions of sincere regret, should Major Hall find that his duty calls him to a new, far-away field.

"This tragedy will doubtless bring changes into a number of lives. What it will mean for The Herald and its editor, only the future will disclose. It may mean another separation that will break the tenderest associations. This, too, will be left to God. As I begin to think of returning home, with a heart that is heavy, leaving behind one who will give the motherless children every loving care, for the present at least, a fact that can not be shunted aside, constantly looms before me. These children must have a mother! They can not be separated from the father and his home broken up. He must remain where his profession and his business call him and where he can go to that shrine under the big pine now and then. I can see only a tremendous sacrifice ahead for "Uncle Mort" and his good wife. I rather think the members of The Herald family can hear as distinctly as I can, the call of duty. It comes with the full volume of a thundering diapason. However—we will see. The same God is here that we worship in Sykesville, and if we come to this beautiful peninsula, that reflects His glories in countless ways, it will be in response to His will."

"Lead kindly light; lead Thou me on."

There will be a Woman's meeting held at Fairview, Saturday, Sept. 17, at 2 P. M. The subject will be short cuts in sewing, or fall millinery. Every woman in the vicinity is invited.

Rev. A. G. Null, well known in some portions of this county, has resigned the pastorate of the Elliott City Lutheran Charge, to accept a call to the Church of the Ascension, Baltimore.

FREDERICK COUNTY FARMERS

Want new Legislation on a large Variety of Subjects.

The Frederick County Farmers' Association usually wants a lot of new legislation, and the next session will see no exception to the rule. Among the efforts to be made will be to reduce the number of County Commissioners from five to three members, abolishing the office of second clerk to the Commissioners; requiring the State's Attorney to give legal advice free of charge to all county officials; a State-wide poll tax; abolish the office of County Tax Assessor and provide that the State Tax Commission deal directly with the County Commissioners. Fewer county elections are also advocated. A change in the manner of maintaining the county roads is under consideration. These and other economy measures will be taken up and recommendations made at the next meeting October 1.

In addition to recommendations already made by the association, which will be drafted into bills for the next Legislature, a measure will be considered to prohibit traction engines with creaked wheels from passing over State roads. In many places in different sections of the county the State highways have been damaged by the heavy tractors. Creaks on the wheels cut through the hard surface and in some instances have been known to break the surface, it is said.

Flag Presentation at Littlestown.

Camp No. 386 P. O. S. of A., of Littlestown, presented the public school at that place, last Saturday evening, with a new large flag and an iron pole. The Camp marched from the hall to the school building accompanied by the P. O. S. of A. band. The program was as follows: Rev. H. C. Bergstresser offered prayer; Prof. Roy S. Knouse, on behalf of the school, accepted it; Prof. J. Louis Sowers, of Gettysburg, delivered an address; Geo. F. Dutta was chairman. The camp has been keeping this school in flags, for some years, and has also presented flags to some of the county schools.

Frederick County Candidates.

The following will be the ticket for the two parties at the election on November 8, in Frederick county:

For Clerk of the Court—Eli G. Haugh, Republican; Miss Mary C. Ott, Democrat.

For Register of Wills—Sidney R. Hickman, Republican; Prof. George Edward Smith, Democrat.

For County Commissioners—Warren E. Dudderer, David Oland, and Roger G. Harley, Republicans; Lloyd C. Culler, William H. Hershberger and John W. Holter, Democrats.

For Sheriff—John L. Dutrow, Republican; James A. Jones, Democrat.

For House of Delegates—William B. Cutshall, D. Alton Duderer, Roy L. Leatherman, Claggett E. Ramsburg and William S. Wachtel, Republicans; Miss Felissa Stauffer, Miss Grace Hauver, Jesse L. C. Sunday, Frank M. Stevens and John Kelbaugh, Democrats.

The Democrats are trying the experiment of women candidates for County Clerk, and two candidates for the House of Delegates.

Marriage Licenses.

Roger Samuel Knill and Anna Margaret Mercer, both of Lisbon, Md.

Michael Fringer Robinson, of Baltimore City, and Edna Marie Blizzard, of Westminster.

Arthur L. Stauffer and Thelma A. Staub, both of Hanover.

Edgar William Eyler and Naomi Marie Lovell, both of New Windsor.

The continued Irish resistance to England's concessions now meets with very little sympathy in this country, except from the extremists among the so-called Irish-Americans. The "Irish question," as such, has overstayed its time, and the public is tired of it.

Between the optimistic boosters, who see a big revival of business and prosperity, and the other side that is emphasizing the great unemployment said to exist, there is a wide span—so wide that one is almost forced to conclude that the former are "whistling" to keep up courage, and the latter are willing to capitalize "close" times. The truth likely lies in between, as it often does in many matters under public discussion.

It is held to be a Republican fault, by some, that unemployment in this country has increased from 1,000,000 to 5,000,000 under a Republican administration. Queer ideas develop into political brain-storms and as something wrong, somewhere, is apt to overtake a country every year, the stock of campaign argument is never likely to run out, but awaits capitalization by the seeker after new issues. The severe drought, of this year, in many localities, is another fact that presses for political adaptation.

Take a Chance.

It looks to us as though both capital and labor should "take a chance," and do it—both together—in a friendly constructive way. Capital should be willing to build and manufacture, and labor should come down off its perch and submit to lower wages. The former "taking the chance" of not losing in its venture, and the latter "taking the chance" of not starving, or freezing, by working for less pay.

It would help a lot toward this "chance taking" if a lot of agitator leaders were given a permanent vacation, and if everybody would realize that our case of war sickness can not be cured unless everybody takes his share of the real medicine; and there is just one medicine—labeled "strike"—that will make all of the patients sicker, who take it.

Let everybody get in a good humor, stop howling about the oppression of the other fellow, and make work by offering to do it so that the men who pay for it will not take all "the chance." What we need is a general "chance taking"—a fair one, and no dodging. Wash the slate, forget a lot of imaginary doctrines, be honest, put aside selfishness and "take a chance" for bringing about peace and prosperity.

The war is over. The big profits and big wages are over. Champagne appetites, and silk shirt indulgences are over. It is the "day after" and time to sober up. "Take a chance" at getting a clear head—and go to work.

Children as a Handicap.

All countries considered in the civilized class welcome a healthy increase in population, and point to it as representing safety and prosperity for the future. France is now viewing with dissatisfaction the increase in population in Germany, that is faster than in France. Large families, as a rule, are regarded with more favor than small ones, and President Roosevelt, especially, regarded them with pointed partiality.

However we may regard growth in families—which means children—there is at least no dishonor attached to such growth; but, as a matter of hard fact, children, at times, are regarded as a handicap, and actually objectionable, in the matter of renting dwellings; and in this fact often results not only inconvenience to parents but loss of desirable citizens and workers to towns.

Those who have houses to rent, these days, can as a rule have their choice of tenants, and it very frequently occurs that the possession of children prevents the tendency of otherwise desirable adults. There is a situation here involved that is difficult to overcome, as it has to do with individual rights and preferences on the part of landlords.

It is one of the problems of the times. Children are desirable, and when present, can not be easily disposed of. We should say that there is, however, one important feature that devolves on the parents. They should see to it that their children are "good children;" that they are not nuisances, and that they do not destroy property. There is a big difference—and this "difference" is often the direct fault of careless parents. The ban that landlords often place on children, should result in better mannered children—and parents too.

There is also another desirable result that should grow out of large families—the early acquiring of a home, by purchase. Perhaps the two do not go together, on account of the expense attached; but then, marriage itself should be based on a reasonable financial outlook, and not on all chance. Just "getting married" is perhaps too often a very lightly considered venture, while it is in fact a serious one.

We commonly estimate values from what is called "par" value, or face value of investments that have such a value—as stocks and bonds—meaning the normal amount, or basis, to be eventually redeemed, and on which interest payments are made. When we say "above par" or "below par" we mean that for the time being the level, or equality, of the thing spoken of has been disturbed.

A bond investment—even government bonds—may fluctuate, daily; "above," one day "below" the next. Stocks and bonds are much like grain or cotton; subject to supply and demand, conditions of the money market, and to the numerous conditions that affect market values. Par values are also subject to speculative manipulations; and these fluctuations, due to various causes, do not necessarily stand for the actual appreciation, or depreciation, of investments.

A government bond, for instance, may sell in the market at a heavy discount, and yet be "as good as gold" in the hands of the investor who does not want to immediately realize the full cash capital of his investment. At times, getting cash quickly is attended with a discount, depending entirely on how active is the buying market for the particular sort of investment one has to offer.

The reason why the various war loans, represented by bond issues, are at present selling below par, is because the immense quantity of such bonds issued has temporarily overstocked the bond investment market, that is usually most patronized by those who have surplus money not needed for more active investment.

Business men, as a rule, do not invest heavily in bond or stock securities, for the reason that they figure on making more profit out of the cash, by using it in business. Those who buy bonds, as a rule, are those not so situated as to invest money, industrially or otherwise, hence regard safety and modest returns as the best methods of investment suited to them.

All stock and bond investments are more or less uncertain in their value, as all depend on profit-making ventures, to the many uncertainties business ventures meet, as well as to the character and ability shown in management; hence, when an investment is worth "par" or very nearly so—or perhaps "above par"—we are correspondingly satisfied.

State Fairs.

Richard Spillane, who writes so entertainingly in the Philadelphia Ledger, on "Men and Things," has the following to say on the subject of state fairs:

"State fairs in the Middle West are not what they used to be. Formerly they gave to the agriculturist his great autumn blowout with a train journey, if he lived a considerable distance from the city near which the fair was held, and a visit to the city itself with its sights. Now it is changed. The farmer journeys to the fair in his Tin Lizzie and he and the family camp near the fair grounds. If they want to go to town they step on the gas and go there. Bright lights, movie shows and such are no treat to the farmer today. Every rural town of any size has a movie and the people on the farm know Doug Fairbanks, W. S. Hart, Mary Pickford, et. al., as well as the city folk.

The farmer used to be insular. Not now. He travels. He used to be tied down to the farm, but since he came to know Lizzie the world has widened for him. Merchants of State fair cities say they do not get one-half the patronage out of the gatherings now they did in the old days."

Motor Tripping.

It was formerly considered the height of luxury for people to get out in an automobile and tour around the country. But now many people are doing it in a simple way. Great numbers of them take a camping outfit along and sleep in the open when the weather is good. About all it costs them to see the country is what they pay for gasoline and wear and tear on their little tin lizzie.

It was formerly hard to get decent food at the hotels without paying high prices. Hotel proprietors conceived the idea that anyone who operated an automobile was made of money.

But now that a lot of hard working people get out on the road with their inexpensive cars, many plain and home like places have sprung up to cater to them. A couple of years ago, on a well known motor road, you could see a hundred cars lined up daily at a place where they gave you a good dinner for sixty-five cents. Probably that place has raised its fees now, but they are far under the price of the costly hotel around the corner. A lot of wealthy motorists will go there rather than be soaked.

Some people think only of the number of miles they are covering in a day. They discourse at night about their records of time and the condition of the roads. Such people are driven hard by their own restlessness. They could not be contented to go slowly, but to really enjoy their trips they need a different point of view. A motor journey is hardly worth the time and money unless one returns with a clear idea of the country and an interesting story of his adventures. Those who travel in this way come back with many suggestions of things that could be done here in Frederick to keep our home town in the head of the procession.—Frederick News.

The Key that Unlocked the Door to Long Living.

The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund, well-fed, but thin, spare men, who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age will occasionally eat too much or of some article of food not suited to his constitution, causing indigestion or constipation and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets to move his bowels, and invigorate his stomach. When this is done, there is no reason why the average man should not live to a ripe old age.

Again the Hobo.

We have with us again—the hobo. One Sykesville resident declares two "bo's" sauntered up to his door in one day with a request for a handout. Travelers tell us that the knights of the road are numerous everywhere and that at times they are so plentiful that trainmen are afraid to order them off the freights. Which shows the country has entirely forgotten the old war order to "work or fight," and is getting back to old-time customs.

The situation is said to be so vexing in New York State that the railroads there, have asked officials in all cities and towns along their routes to aid them in their efforts to drive the hoboes off their property. Some of the unshaven and unshorn passengers are declared to be vicious, while train conductors and brakemen have actually been assaulted by them when they were refused free passage.

In many towns throughout the country officials will not lock the hoboes up, because it simply means feeding them for a few days at the expense of the tax-payers, and then sending them on their way refreshed and happy. No community wants the hobo, and each is trying to ship him off to another. The problem has never been solved, and it may never be, but we believe if every town had a few wagon loads of rock dumped on some convenient vacant lot and would invest in a few hammers to be used in breaking it, the tramps would soon learn of the fact and steer away from that town. And there is always a few holes in the street that need filling up, and the rocks could be used nicely for that purpose. If they get too thick in this community it might not be a bad idea to try it.—Sykesville Herald.

No Substitute Offered.

Say what you will about druggists offering something "just as good" because it pays a better profit, the fact still stands that ninety nine out of a hundred druggists recommend Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy when the best medicine for diarrhoea is asked for, and do so because they know from what their customers say of it, that it can be depended upon.

WORK OF ANCIENT BUILDERS

Methods of Thousands of Years Ago Seem Crude Today, but They Were Effective.

Dr. C. S. Fisher of the University of Pennsylvania has recently spent six years at the head of archeological expeditions to Egypt, and among his discoveries were some which help to make the methods of the ancient builders less mysterious. Three thousand years before Christ they were working an alabaster quarry at El Amarna, 11 miles from the Nile and 200 miles above Memphis. From this quarry they transported blocks of alabaster, each many tons in weight, to Memphis in the following manner: They built a road, much as we should build it now, from the quarry to the river bank, with a smooth surface of pounded stone.

The blocks were quarried by means of wooden wedges driven in at intervals along the cleavage line. When soaked with water, the wedges expanded and split off the stone, which was then shaped and dressed with chisels and drills of very hard bronze. The blocks were mounted on sleds and dragged by gangs of slaves the 11 miles to the river, the road being watered, possibly oiled, to make it slippery under the sled runners (they had no wheels). Down the river the blocks were floated on rafts, to be dragged finally to the building sites.

ARE LEARNING ABOUT STARS

Men of Science Beginning to Believe They Know Something Concerning the Subject.

The first successful attempt to measure stellar distances was made in 1838 by Bessel, who determined the parallax of 61 Cygni, a little star of the sixth magnitude which had attracted attention by its great proper motion of five seconds of arc a year. At the beginning of the present century 40 or 50 parallaxes had become known and in recent years progress in measurement has become very rapid. Greenwich observatory reports the determination of the parallaxes of 50 stars a year, while some American observatories are doing even more. American astronomers have in preparation a catalogue giving the parallaxes of 3,000 stars and it is expected that within a very few years the distances of all stars visible to the naked eye in the northern hemisphere will have been made known, as well as those of many fainter stars. The parallaxes are determined by both trigonometric and spectroscopic methods, while a third method can be applied to many double stars.

Society Gives Up Smoking.

Smoking has become such a bourgeois habit that many women of the London aristocracy who have been using tobacco are now shunning it, at least in public. Medical men here have warned women frequently since the war about the evil effects of over-indulgence in cigarettes, but it was not until smoking became a bourgeois habit that any difference was noticed in the smoking habits of women of the so-called "upper ten."

At the moment the use of tobacco by women has become abnormal; besides, many tobaccoists are manufacturing small briar pipes for feminine use. This has made the habit too common to please certain figures in society, and, in consequence, they have given up the weed. At some aristocratic garden parties recently few if any women of the elect ventured to smoke openly. So what medical men have been unable to do by their warning is being rapidly accomplished by class pride.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Power From Glacier.

On account of the scarcity of water power in the Bern district of Switzerland, it is proposed to utilize the water from the glaciers in a systematic manner. The Bachlis glacier is the first one selected; and by closing the natural drainage and constructing a masonry dam, the engineers are to form a storage reservoir of 113,000,000 cubic feet capacity. Grindel, which upon the completion of the new dam 492 feet long, 325 feet high by 262 feet wide at the base and 12 feet 6 inches wide at the top, becomes the main storage basin for the entire installation. Two new power stations are to be constructed, developing 120,000 horsepower in one and 90,000 horsepower in the other.

Vivid Obituary.

Died—Aged fifty-six years, six months and thirteen days. He was a mild-mannered pirate, with a mouth for whisky. He came here in the night with another man's wife and joined the church at the first service. He owed several dollars for the paper, a large meat bill and you could hear him pray six blocks. He died singing, "Jesus paid it all," and we think he is right—he never paid anything himself. He was buried in an asbestos casket, and his friends threw palm leaf fans in his grave, as he may need them.—Montpelier (N. D.) Magnet.

Stopping a Hemorrhage.

Dr. F. C. Hilgenberg has a novel method of stopping hemorrhage. Writing in the Beitraege Zur Klinischen Chirurgie (Teubingen) he describes cases in which he cut a piece of muscle from near the site of the hemorrhage, used it as a plug or patch and sewed it into place, always stopping the flow of blood. He thinks there is some chemical action in addition to the mechanical effect.

FARM POULTRY

ARRANGEMENT-OF DUCK FARM

Should Be Located on Light, Sandy Soil, With Convenient Facilities for Watering.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Duck farms are usually located on light, sandy soil, preferably on sloping land, where the droppings will leach freely into the soil, so that the land keeps sweet and clean. The farm should have good shipping facilities to aid both in shipping products and in buying supplies. The arrangement of the buildings should be planned to economize labor and allow for future increase of the equipment.

The incubator cellar should be convenient to the brooder house, the brooder house to the growing house and pens, and these buildings to the killing house. The pens in the houses, the outside yards, and the arrangement of the buildings should be planned so that the ducks may be easily driven from house to house as desired. The feed room or house should be centrally located.

Convenient watering arrangements are essential where large numbers of ducks are kept, as they require a large amount of drinking water, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. While ducks may be kept successfully under very intensive conditions, it is advisable to allow considerable yard space. Double yards, which may be rotated and planted to quick-growing crops, such as oats, wheat and rye, are good for intensive duck farms.

It is advisable to have a pond or stream for the breeding ducks, as they usually give better fertility under these conditions, although on some successful duck farms the ducks are always kept on dry land. The young green ducks on some farms which have a pond are not allowed to go into the water except to bathe and clean their feathers just before marketing. Other growers, however, allow the green ducks free access to ponds or streams until they are marketed.

CHEAP COOP FOR BACK YARD

Inexpensive House Will Prove Entirely Satisfactory Where Small Flock Is Kept.

It is not necessary to spend much money for housing if you are going to keep a small flock of hens in your back yard. Indeed, it is unwise, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. One or two piano cases or a large packing box may often be made into an acceptable home. But whatever you build should be made dry and free from drafts, and have good ventilation. The United States Department of Agriculture has numerous bulletins giving directions for this kind of construction, and any of these are available for the asking, or for a very few cents where a charge is necessary. A card to the division of publications, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., will get you what you need.

EGGS PRESERVED WITH LIME

Will Be Found Quite Satisfactory Where Water Glass Is Difficult to Obtain.

If water glass is not obtainable, lime may be used for preserving eggs, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. It is not considered so good as water glass, as in some instances eggs preserved by this method have tasted slightly of lime, although at other times lime-water has proved entirely satisfactory.

To preserve with lime, dissolve two pounds of unslaked lime in a small quantity of water, and dilute with five gallons of water that has previously been boiled and cooled. Allow the mixture to stand until the lime settles, then pour off and use the clear liquid. Place clean, fresh eggs in a clean earthenware crock or jar, and pour the clear lime-water into the vessel until the eggs are covered. At least two inches of the solution should cover the top layer of eggs.

The Refiner takes on a new Responsibility

REPRESENTATIVES of the automotive and refining industries recently decided that much of the task of instructing motorists as to the proper functioning of automobiles must fall upon the manufacturers of motor fuel and lubricating oils.

The Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) had long before gladly assumed its share of this responsibility. It realized that the automobile builders had little opportunity, after the sale had been made, to advise with those who bought engines, trucks or pleasure cars. Branch service stations furnished their only point of contact with users of their equipment.

Refiners of gasoline, on the other hand, have almost daily dealings with motorists and chauffeurs. Gasoline engines have been so far developed that fuel quality has become almost more of a problem than mechanical perfection in the motor.

Accurate understanding of the many delicate considerations involved in the making of a 100% motor fuel—in quantities sufficient for every demand—has always restrained this company from making claims for "STANDARD" MOTOR GASOLINE which could not be justified immediately by every purchaser of the product.

Our Development Department is constantly studying possible improvements in the quality of our products wherever the improvement in quality seems consistent with complete and dependable uniformity. We are the largest refiners of petroleum products in the world, drawing on practically every section of the Western Hemisphere for crude oil.

Our unhesitating advice to every motorist is to realize the advantages of this research work by using "STANDARD" MOTOR GASOLINE. This course will, in the long run, insure engine efficiency more surely than it can be secured in any other way.

In Remembrance of dear Uncle,

WILLIAM FOGLE, who died Sept. 6, 1921, aged 91 years, 7 Months, 22 Days.

Sad is our home, oh God how dreary, Lonesome, lonesome every spot, Listening for his voice till weary—Weary, for I hear it not.

Yes I miss him, oh I miss him, When I see his vacant chair, And how sad the home without him. For Uncle William is not here.

By his niece, STELLA M. FOGLE.

Lonely the house and the sad the hours, Since my dear Uncle is gone; But a brighter home than ours, In Heaven is now his home.

By his nephew, EDW. FOGLE and WIFE

Gone from us to Heaven, But he turns and waves his hand, Pointing to the glories over us, In that bright and happy land.

Oh, may we meet our Uncle, Where friends no more shall weep, For those who die in Jesus Their death is only sleep.

By his grand-nephew, MELVIN T. HESS and WIFE.

SELECT TREES WITH CARE

Matter Is of Greatest Importance
When They Are Planted Along the Highways.

For many years it has been a custom with most people to plant trees without regard to the ultimate purpose they would serve. Little thought has been given as to the most suitable varieties for planting or that there might be sections along the roadway where it would be of advantage to cut the existing trees, and in this way make the roadside scenery more interesting and attractive. A closer study of the problem, however, shows that there are two distinct types of roadside scenery. The first may be said to be where the trees, shrubs, buildings and other objects that border the highway form the element of the picture, with the roadway as a central feature. Many places along the roadside have no inducements whatever as to special attractiveness, and in fact, the scenery may be of decidedly monotonous character. It is in such a place that one may feel at liberty to plant according to the so-called closed type.

The second type can be used where the wide meadows, fields and distant landscape compose the picture, with the roadside trees as frames. Examples of this type may be found in many sections of the state, where beautiful vistas could be enhanced by the presence of suitable shade trees. In many cases, trees along the highway form screens so as to break up the long stretches of views along openings here and there which make more attractive the roadside scenery.

ECONOMIC VALUE OF BEAUTY

Good Points Made by Governor Lake of Connecticut in Arbor and Bird Day Proclamation.

Governor Lake of Connecticut in his proclamation appointing Arbor and Bird day made some excellent points. He recommended that all citizens, but particularly the teachers and pupils in schools, observe the day and add:

"Let the pupils of our schools be taught that the planting and care of shade trees, the protection of birds and their eggs, is not only an economic measure, but contributes to the beauty of our state and the enjoyment of our homes. I further recommend the formation of town and village improvement associations to encourage tree-planting and bird protection and to exercise interested care over matters relating to the scenic beauty of our towns and cities. Well-kept roads, streets and lawns enhance the value of property and promote the general welfare of towns and villages."

Observe especially the last sentence: "Well-kept roads, streets and lawns enhance the value of property and promote the general welfare of towns and villages."

Here is official recognition of the economic value of beauty. Common experience shows that Governor Lake is right. If every community continues its clean-up until every lawn is well kept and every building tidy and painted, won't the tendency be to increase property values?—Exchange.

City Planning in Schools.

"We have city planning courses in all of the schools," D. D. Plunkerton, president of the Kansas City board of education says. "We call them courses in civics. These courses deal with every phase of civil government and especial attention is given to civic beauty. Even young children are given instruction in civics. In the lower grades we use a primer which covers all the activities of a city in a comprehensive way. A good example of this type of primer is the one used by Walter Giddingham, principal of Humboldt school."

In this primer there are some of the questions asked:

Is your neighborhood supplied with beautiful lawns and flower beds?

Are the alleys and yards kept clean?

Do the children take pride in keeping the school yard clean?

How does the improvement of your property help the neighborhood?

What conditions in your neighborhood might be improved?

Within His Rights.

"Is Mr. Grumpson a confirmed pessimist?"

"I don't think so. I've seen him pet newboys on the head and give dimes to beggars."

"But how does he conduct himself in a traffic jam?"

"He seethes a little, but not enough to attract the attention of a traffic policeman."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Under City Management Plan.

Five cities of more than 100,000 population are now being administered under the city management plan—Akron, Dayton, Grand Rapids, Norfolk and Nashville. Cleveland and Kansas City are agitating the question of city management government.

Innovation in Pennsylvania.

Two second-class cities of Pennsylvania, Scranton and Pittsburgh, are empowered by law to adopt a system of separate assessment on land and on improvements, making the heavier burden come on the land.

MOVIE TOWN AIDS HOUSING

Fake Belgian Village, at a Little More Cost, Provides for a Score of Families.

Even the movies have their utilitarian uses, it seems. In some sections of the country they seem in a fair way to help solve our housing problems. At least they did so in a Westchester town not long ago.

The scene—the movie scene, that is—was a Belgian village, and with the accustomed profligacy of the picture producers the entire village must needs be built. The intent and purpose of the director was to build the houses of board and paper-mache, and then destroy them all when the picture was completed. Certain residents of the town, however, were possessed with foresight, says the New York Sun. The township was suffering from building restriction, and some one figured that the movie men could build their village of slightly more substantial material at a comparatively little increased cost. The proposition was put to the director, who agreed to let the town supply him with materials and labor on a proportionate basis.

As a result the town has added nearly twenty new houses and twenty new families have moved in, paying the township only slightly more than the property was worth. The township taxes the houses, the housing situation is relieved, the movie men have vanished and everybody is happy.

TO RESTORE WORLD WONDER

Mexican Government Will Remove Debris Covering Great Pyramids
of the Sun and Moon.

Not only are the two great pyramids, those of the sun and the moon, situated near San Juan de Teotihuacan, Mex., to be restored to their original lines, but the Mexican government has made an appropriation for excavating and reconstructing the ruins of the great buried city surrounding the pyramids, which flourished more than 4,000 years ago. During the last four years immediately preceding the revolutionary period, considerable work had been done in the matter of clearing away the accumulation of debris that covered the pyramid of the sun, and it stands forth today as one of the greatest wonders of the world, according to archeologists. This pyramid is three times as large as the great Cheops pyramid near Cairo, Egypt, and in its construction giant blocks of stone were used. It is 1,400 feet square at the bottom. In height it is only 200 feet, and but for this fact would be one of the most imposing structures ever made by man, it is stated. The pyramid of the sun is smaller than the one of the moon.

Paying Fines As You Go.

Some useful things have occasionally come out of the turmoil in Central Europe. One of the best plans of which we have heard is a new fining system which is used in Prague. The police carry receipts for fines for various sums in their pockets, and present them for immediate payment to hilarious citizens who break the peace by singing or playing on musical instruments on the streets at the wrong time, or where the volume of harmony is too great. This tends to allow the citizens of this old city to get some much needed rest. This system has worked so well and has become so popular that it was extended to traffic violations as well. It would certainly be a great convenience if we could adjust minor infractions such as a smoking automobile, or failure to keep automobile lamps lighted, without having recourse to the police or traffic courts.—Scientific American.

New Zealand Pageant Lesson.

The pageant has apparently taken its place in the educational methods of New Zealand, judging by the successful enactment of the battle of Oraku on the very ground where Rewi Maniapoto hurled his defiance at the Pakeha, or white men; Ka whawhai tonu matou! (We will fight on for ever and ever.)

Dressed to represent the Maori tribesmen, school children from Te Awamutu bravely defended the native Pa, until the white troops, also young New Zealanders, drove them away in rout. Before the charging troops could reach the spot where their fire had mown down the "Maoris," the latter introduced an unheeded effect by jumping to their feet and fleeing after their comrades.

Porcelain Coin a Luther Memorial.

Eisenach—the German town in whose castle Luther was kept in hiding after his return from the Diet of Worms in 1521 and where he finished his translation of the New Testament—has celebrated this year's 400th anniversary of those events by the issue of a 1-mark piece in porcelain and especial paper notes of half that value. There are several varieties of the notes. Some show the town of Eisenach in the middle ages, some the "Wartburg," the famous castle where Luther took refuge, and others "Junker Jorg" (the name under which the famous reformer passed during his seclusion) at work upon his translation of the Bible.—Manchester Guardian.

Asphalt Lake Renews Itself.

The Trinidad asphalt "lake" is so hard and solid that it bears the weight of a narrow-gauge railway. The asphalt is dug out in large lumps with a mattock. The holes thus made gradually fill up and in a week all traces of digging have disappeared.

HOW

DEATH VALLEY VOYAGERS HAVE LOST THEIR LIVES.
—Death valley has a reputation for destroying the hopes of man largely because man is by nature a selfish being, according to John Stanton of Boise City, Okla., who claims that most of the human beings who perish in that arid tract of territory owe their destruction to the individuals who go before them.

"Death valley presents a picture of the two sides of human nature," said Mr. Stanton. "It shows on one side the good, the beautiful and the true, while on the other hand it depicts the most despicable trait in humanity—selfishness. For instance, one of the reasons why most of the voyagers in Death valley come to grief is because they cannot find water holes. There are men who know where these water holes are—men who have discovered them and men who erect signs to point the way to them. But after these real human beings have gone to all the trouble of erecting the signs, putting directions on them as best they can, the selfish travelers come along and, needing the signs for firewood, destroy them."

"Just for the satisfaction of a moment, the utility that comes from a kindling fire which could be built with a little more effort if the parties were to search for the firewood without using the guideposts, some people jeopardize the lives of those who follow them. That is the story of Death valley. The place has many tragedies to its record, but one-half if not more of them could have been averted if human nature had kept itself in control; if selfishness were not such a strong trait. Death valley isn't half so dangerous to mankind as these men."

GOT ITS NAME FROM STREAM

How New York's Famous "Maiden Lane" Received Nomenclature That Is World Famous.

Maiden lane, the home of the jewelry and diamond business in New York, and known over the world for that fact, received its name before it was a street. It took it from a very pretty little stream that ran across that part of the city. It was the custom in that day, before the time of wringers and washing machines, for the young women to do the family washing.

The clothes were carried here and the day spent in cleansing them in what is described as a rippling brook. Some of the men who have dug into New York's early history profess to have discovered that it was also a place where the young men of the time repaired, being pretty certain of getting a chance to talk with the girls.

The stream was outside the city as it existed at that time, most of it being behind the big wooden wall that Peter Stuyvesant had built, so that in order to get to Maiden lane it was necessary to go out through the gate with the family wash. There is nothing to show that Monday was then the popular washday with families, as it is now and was later. But it is likely the Dutch began to get things to rights early in the week, and it probably was Monday that saw the greatest gathering of maidens along the little stream, washing and rinsing clothes.

How We Got Word "Fluke."

The word "fluke" traces its direct ancestry to the Anglo-Saxon word "floc," which is first cousin to the Icelandic "floki." There are several kinds of flukes. There is the fish commonly designated in high priced restaurants as "flet of sole." There is the broad portion of an anchor, the part that does the business of digging into the mud and holding the boat. And there is the happy chance by which a player wins a game.

There is so strong a resemblance in shape between the business end of an anchor and the fish called a fluke that the application of the word to the anchor is perfectly logical.

There is also so strong a resemblance between the awkwardness of the fish called a fluke and the awkwardness of a player who makes a billiard shot by an accident, that such a shot can quite appropriately be described as a "fluke."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

How Word "Hussy" Came.

Did it ever occur to you that there is no reproach necessarily implied in the use of the word "hussy"? Well, there isn't, on the authority of the dictionary.

"Hussy" is a corruption of "huswife," an abbreviation corresponding to the word "hubby" for husband. Huswife, in its turn, is another form of housewife.

Of course the corruption or abbreviation of "housewife" originally carried the meaning of endearment or familiar appellation.

But the word has traveled a long way—and it has traveled downward—in the course of the centuries. So in its modern meaning, actual or implied—the word "hussy" is not recommended for use, even under provocation.

For "hussy," as now used, means "a pert, forward girl; a jade; a jilt." So there you are.—Milwaukee Journal.

WHY

Ireland Is World's Chief Linen-
Producing Center

The antiquity of linen is greater than that of any other textile. Its use dates back at least to the Pharaohs. In Ireland, the hand-spinning and hand-weaving of linen were carried on in cottage and castle for centuries before the introduction of the power loom raised an occupation of the home to the position of a great staple industry. So far back as the Fifteenth century linen was mentioned as one of the principal branches of trade in the country and linen was exported from Belfast from the earliest days of the port. Through many phases of history the industry was fostered, but it was not until after the discontinuance of the linen board in 1830 that any attempt was made to introduce machinery. By 1850 between 3,000 and 4,000 power looms were at work. Then came the American Civil war and with Lancashire unable to get cotton an enormous demand for linen was created. In 1870 close to 15,000 power looms were weaving linens and the industry was firmly established. In 1912 the number of looms had increased to 36,942 and the number of flax spindles in Ireland was 924,817.

Today Ireland is the chief linen producing center of the world. This position is insured partly by the climate of the northeast province, which is ideal for the manufacture of linen, but an equally important factor is the hereditary skill of the linen workers throughout Ulster. In the days of Charles I premiums were offered to induce skilled workers from France and the Netherlands to settle in Ireland and Irish workers were sent to the continent to acquire knowledge of the best methods of manufacture. Families brought from Brabant, from France and Jersey settled, it is said, in Carrick on Belfast Lough and their skill has been handed down through generation after generation.

FOUNDATION OF ALL SUCCESS

Why It Is Imperative That Youth
Shall Fully Realize the Necessity for Thrift.

The young man who is ambitious for success in business should understand first of all the value of thrift. It is not through the flash of genius or the magic of good luck that permanent and substantial success is brought about. But rather there is a combination of elements of which thrift is the fundamental and most important. Delve as deeply as we may into the annals of any notable and permanent business success, and we shall find that thrift is the framework of the structure, writes S. W. Strauss, president of the American Society of Thrift.

This is a lesson that every young man in America today who is striving to get ahead in a business way should learn. He must have courage, initiative and a restless aggressiveness. He must have good judgment, equilibrium and patience. He must have the quality of hard work and the fortitude to stand knocks and blows. And at the very heart and core of all his activities there must be thrift.—The Thrift Magazine.

Why "Pot-Luck."

When a man offers a spur-of-the-moment invitation to "come home with me and take pot-luck," he is understood as meaning that no special preparation has been made for the guest, but that the repast will be whatever chances be in the house.

But there was a time when "pot-luck" was actually dished out of a pot, and when the guest took his chance of getting either a good meal or a very slim one. In the old days—and the practice is still in force in some parts of Europe—nothing came amiss to the family cooking-pot suspended from the pot-hook in the center of the fireplace. Everything edible was thrown into it, and, to "keep the pot boiling," the fire was seldom, if ever, allowed to go out. When meal-time came, persons fished for themselves, and whatever they happened to find was their "pot-luck."

Why Slight Shock May Be Fatal.

It is astonishing how slight an electric shock may cause death. Dana, Pierce, vice president of the American Society of Safety Engineers, states that "there are some well authenticated cases of fatal shock from a voltage of 110, the usual lamp circuit voltage. The danger is believed to be small to persons in fair physical condition unless the contact made with the circuit is extremely good and is long continued."

"A voltage of 220 is, of course, more dangerous. At 440 volts and over the hazard becomes very real and anything over 600 or 1,000 volts must be treated with respect and constant caution. It is not possible to say where real danger begins, nor is it necessary, at least over 150 volts."

Why the Breakers Roared.

"I've been down here at the beach two weeks," she remarked, "and my hands aren't tanned a bit. Funny, isn't it?"

"Oh, I don't know," replied her summer beau. "they've been in the shade of my sheltering palms most of the time."—Boston Transcript.

Why He Need Not Worry.

"That lady has dropped her lace handkerchief. Pick it up."

"I hesitate to do so. It may be her petticoat."

"You're safe in picking it up. Ladies don't wear petticoats."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D.
Teacher of English Bible in the Moody
Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 18

ABSTINENCE FOR SAKE OF OTHERS (TEMPERANCE LESSON).

LESSON TEXT—I Cor. 10:23-33; 2:16, 17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God.—I Cor. 10:31.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Rom. 12:1; 14:1-2; 15:1, 2; 1 Cor. 6:9-20; 9:19-27.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Clean, Strong Body.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Presenting One's Body as a Living Sacrifice.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The True Meaning of Temperance.

The occasion of this teaching was the uncertainty as to the right attitude toward "things sacrificed unto idols." This problem was most vital while the Christians were in the midst of the heathen, and with some modifications no less vital still. In mingling with society many perplexing questions arise, such as amusements, way of spending Sunday, enjoyment of luxuries, owning stock in certain corporations, etc. Our lesson contains principles adequate for our guidance in all these problems.

It was customary to divide the animal offered in sacrifice into three parts. One part was consumed on the altar, another part was given to the priest, and the third part was kept by the party bringing the offering. The priest's part was frequently sold in the markets. The part which the offerer kept was sometimes eaten at home and sometimes in the court of the temple. The Christian who bought meat in the market was liable to get meat which had been dedicated to the idol god. Then, too, one would be invited to eat socially at the table of someone who had kept his portion of his offering and now set it before his guests. Some with adequate knowledge had no scruples about it; others with less knowledge thought it sinful. The one who has knowledge should bear with the weak one, and at the same time should seek to teach his brother the truth so as to set him free from bondage of superstition. The glory of God should control in all things.

I. "All Things Are Lawful for Me" (v. 23).

This declaration is limited, of course, by things which are right in themselves. It is not true that a Christian is free to do those things which are wrong. The Christian can only indulge in "lawful things" as they are expedient and unto edification. As individual Christians we have liberty to do many things which because of their influence on our fellow Christians we should abstain from.

Even with one's self that which is not edifying should be ruled out.

II. "Let No Man Seek His Own" (v. 24).

The Christian is under the control of love. The controlling principle of love is unselfishness. The one dominated by love considers the other's interests rather than his own.

III. "Eat the Food Set Before You" (vv. 25-30).

It is not incumbent upon us to be on the hunt for occasions of the conscience either of ourselves or others. Exercise your freedom in the enjoyment of all right things which the Lord places before you, but as soon as it is brought to your attention that certain things are to the disadvantage of others, you should desist; that is, exercise self-control.

IV. "Do All to the Glory of God" (v. 31).

This is the grand and supreme rule of life for the Christian. The Christian is not at liberty to do that upon which he could not ask the blessing of God. In our eating, employments and pleasures, we should have as our transcendent aim God's glory. How could one ask God's blessing upon the intoxicating cup, dancing, gambling, theatergoing, Sunday desecration, luxurious extravagance, etc?

V. "Give No Occasion for Anyone to Stumble" (v. 32).

We should so live that no one can ever say that we have been the occasion of their downfall.

VI. Follow the Example of Jesus Christ (11:1).

Christ through love gave up all for the sake of others. He did not please himself. Everyone, therefore, who is a Christian should imitate Him.

VII. The Christian's Body is the Temple of the Holy Ghost (3:16, 17).

This great truth is true of the Church as a body, but that which is true of the body is true of the individual composing the body; so the point in this Scripture is the serious consequence of defiling the body.

To Do Our Best.

God hides some ideal in every human soul. At some time in our life we feel a trembling, fearful longing to do some good thing. Life finds its noblest spring of excellence in this hidden impulse to do our best.—Robert Collyer.

Patches.

No man seweth a piece of new cloth on an old garment; else the new piece that filleth it up taketh away from the old, and the rent is made worse.—Mark 2:21.

Sins of the Tongue
James 3:1-12

The sins of the tongue are due to the sin of the heart. Out of the heart proceed deceitful, lying, impatient and bitter words. An unregenerate and unsubdued heart, like an impure fountain, sends forth impure things.

Our Scripture lesson clearly teaches that "The tongue can no man tame." Nevertheless, the tongue can be tamed. The law cannot tame it, human methods cannot rule it, religious rites and ceremonies cannot control it, nothing merely human can bring it into subjection, but that which is impossible with man, is possible with God. When we are really willing to "Let go and let God"—grace prevails and victory comes.

Victory over the sins of the tongue and the habit of gracious speech is greatly to be desired. It magnifies Christ as a present Saviour. It is a testimony to the divine indwelling. So many people fail in the control of the tongue in spite of earnest effort to bridle it, that when one does find the way of victory, others are assured that the divine power is in operation in that life.

Control of the tongue makes the life consistent. Blessing and bitterness ought not to proceed from the tongue that has named His name and called Christ Lord. In the world of nature, trees bring forth after their kind. An apple tree bears apples only so; so in Christian life there must not be two kinds of fruit. Otherwise the testimony of that life is contradictory rather than consistent.

Victory over the sins of the tongue increases our influence and power for good. If the Christian speaks angry or bitter words under provocation, his testimony is seriously impaired. No one cares to listen to his counsel or advice. But when under testing and pressure, the tongue is controlled because of the divine grace in the heart, then when words of faith and hope are spoken, listeners are persuaded concerning their reality. For these reasons, and for many others, victory over the sins of the tongue is absolutely essential to an effective Christian life. And victory can be obtained through Him who is able to subdue all things unto Himself. It is the old, old story—"Not I, but Christ."

BY-PRODUCTS OF LITERATURE

Authoress, Planning African Trip, Certainly Is Overlooking Nothing That Can Be Made Useful.

Using the by-products is the most characteristic feature of distinctly modern industry. How thoroughly this principle has been applied to literature comes out in an interview with a charming and able Chicago novelist who is taking her five-year-old daughter into Africa gorilla hunting with Carl Akeley's party.

The author in question will make the trip to collect local color, the basic material in the fiction industry. The first product will be a novel, with a movie to follow. But not all the local color which an African trip is bound to yield can be used in a novel, so the author plans to work over the waste in a travel book, which will find a ready sale to that small but choice public which has wearied of fiction. The third and rather special product will be the story of her small daughter's reaction to the adventure, which is expected to make another interesting book.

Each of the three books is a separate product of the basic local color; each will satisfy a certain special need and reach a public of its own. Between the fiction readers, the armchair travelers and the students of the child-mind, this author pretty well covers the book-buying classes. Considering how little daughter will probably react when she sights her first gorilla, the "child reactions" book may fairly be called "utilizing the squeal."—Chicago News.

KNOWS RIGHT TIME TO FISH

Man's Many Friends Have Furnished Him Just the Particular Dope, and the Rest Is Easy.

"I have the accurate dope now on just when to go fishing at the lakes," said a man who expects to take a vacation soon.

"I talked to a man last week and he said if I wished to do any good, to fish from 12 midnight to six in the morning. He used frogs and spatted for bass and caught lots of bass and also bluegills at that time. Besides it isn't hot then."

"Talked to a man Monday and he told me just when to catch them. I learned from him that the time to fish was between sundown and 12 midnight. He caught lots of bass and bluegills and crappies at that time."

"Talked to another man and he told me the best time to fish was from sunup until about 10 o'clock, and from 4 p. m. until dark."

"There was another neighbor of mine who gave me good advice. He never fishes after dark, but says he never paid any attention to the heat and that he always caught as many fish in the middle of the day as he did early in the morning or in the cool of the evening."

"So you see, I know just when to do my fishing."

ROMANCE OF RIVER LIGHTS

Flashlight Messages Fly Between Gobs on the Hudson and Girls Ashore in New York.

Sitting in their apartment windows on warm summer nights trying to get cool, many girls along Riverside drive amuse themselves by "blinking" messages by flashlight to the sailors on the navy craft anchored in the Hudson, the New York Sun states.

"Oh, I wish I had something to read," was the message which some quarter-master was blinking away aimlessly the other night when:

"What do you like—romance, love, mystery, sea adventure or detective stories?" came the barely discernible twinkle from the eleventh floor window of a big apartment house in the 90s.

"Romance," flashed back the gob. "Real stuff."

And then the first chapter of a wonderful romance was blinked off and the second chapter was being enjoyed when the mist and fog descended on the river.

"Sorry, but can't read any longer tonight," blinked the gob, who already had met the young woman of the blinker romance, which is taking a serious turn.

"You wait and see," predicts one young lady who is intercepting the messages each night. "Those messages are endearing and, oh, well, what girl wouldn't enjoy being courted so romantically?"

EASY WAY TO GET MONEY

Indianapolis Youngster Preferred Good Time at Lawn Fete to Possession of Two Teeth.

This young man of eight years has been suffering the loss of his first teeth, and his mother has had him in the dentist chair several times. As the teeth show an inclination to part company with the boy, the dentist's bill is running up. Until last week the boy positively refused to permit his mother to pull his teeth. She told him finally that he could pull them and she would give him 50 cents for each one. He thought it over and decided to pull two loose ones himself. It was easy and he got $1.

A lawn fete was to be given in the neighborhood the other night, and the boy wished to go. The day before the affair was scheduled he brought four teeth to his mother and demanded $2. His mother was shocked, examined the teeth and found they were sound and would have lasted a long time. The youngster said he needed the money, as he expected to attend the lawn fete. He got it.—Indianapolis News.

Mud Pie Census.

Doctor Russell, who tells us that in a spoonful of good arable land there are more living organisms than there are people in the United Kingdom, has probably not wasted his time making an accurate count, but there is no doubt he is well within the mark, observes the London Chronicle.

A French bacteriologist recently caught his little son playing with a mud pie, and, borrowing a small portion of the mixture, carefully analyzed it in his laboratory. He found it teeming with microbes, but only took a census of the harmful varieties.

He found when he had finished his labor that the little bit of the "pie" he dealt with contained the following germs: Diphtheria, 1,800,000; measles, 2,450,000; smallpox, 900,000; lockjaw, 3,600,000; dysentery, 900,000; pneumonia, 505,000; tuberculosis, 620,000. And the total of nearly 11 million was only a percentage of the organisms in the delicacy.

Vacuum Plays Havoc With Boiler.

The usually imperceptible force of atmospheric pressure often reveals itself by some unexpected and peculiar tricks. One of the latest of its pranks was to crumple the shell of a heavy steel boiler in use near Okmulgee, Okla. The steam within the boiler had been allowed to cool, and in cooling condensed. All of the boiler fittings were so tight that no air could get into the boiler to take the place of the steam, which was now very much reduced in volume, and a vacuum was thus created in the shell. The result was that the pressure of the outside air crushed the boiler shell.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Auto Matches Jewels.

For the benefit of your wife, you might tell her that, if she wants it, many of the automobile manufacturers will have her 1921 car match her jewels. This is a fad in many sections of the East, where amethyst, garnet, topaz, sapphire and other colors are used in the upholstery, tops and the body made to correspond. In this way your wife will know that her jewels harmonize with the car. Of course, if she hasn't the jewels, she can order the car as she wants it, and then buy the jewels to match.—Chicago Tribune.

Playing Safe.

The firm of Hansen & Fransen was started in war-time and did very well for a couple of years. But last year things were on the downward grade, and the other day, when the two partners had finished making up their none too good record for the year, Hansen said, "This would make any one thoughtful. Now that the good times are over, how about a little honest business?"

"No, thanks," said Fransen. "I never indulge in experiments."—Houston Post.

Handling Your Telephone Call

YOU may use the telephone only occasionally, but when that occasion arises you like to know that your call will be put through without difficulty.

In order that this may be done, there is always at your service a complete telephone system and a corps of trained employees.

The telephone that you see before you is a very small part of the telephone system—one of the finger tips, as it were. More than 60 per cent. of the telephone plant is located outside of the central office and the subscriber's premises.

Millions of dollars in telephone plant are hidden under the city streets and strung out along the country roads. When you talk over a telephone line you have thousands of dollars' worth of equipment at your exclusive service.

It is the unseen telephone plant that enables you to send your voice where you will.

For the "can't sleep" citizen of Taneytown, this about demonstrates his problem. Let (a) represent his wakeful inclination, plus (b) the first night freight, plus (c) the second night freight, multiplied by the (d) mosquitoes, and you have the net result.

He was riding the horse at a rather rapid gait, and in making the turn into Mill Ave., the horse slipped on the concrete crossing and fell on the boy, breaking his right leg above the knee. He was taken to Gettysburg Hospital for the proper setting of the fracture.

The Hanover Record says: "Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Creager and three children, of Lebanon, spent a few hours on Saturday with Mr. Creager's mother, Mrs. John S. Bower, 413 E. Walnut St. The family traveling in a Ford Sedan, are enroute from their former home to Miami, Florida, where they expect to make their future home. They are camping along the route as they go, carrying an outfit on the running boards. They expect to cover the 1600 miles until next Sunday evening."

While engaged in threshing wheat, on Thursday, at Wm. H. Flickinger's, a small package of matches, neatly tied together, was discovered placed between the sheaves. Mr. Flickinger is of the opinion that they had not been there long, and that their object was to cause a fire. As will be seen elsewhere, he is offering a reward in the case.

John W. Mehring, of Great Bend, Kansas, with his wife, is visiting friends in this vicinity this week. Mr. Mehring was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Mehring, who many years ago lived and kept store where the Eckenrode building now stands. His mother and two sisters still live, and reside at Uniontown. Mr. Mehring left this community 26 years ago, and since that has made only occasional visits here. He is wholesale and retail oil merchant, and handles various oils on a large scale.

A family affair that caused some public excitement, occurred last Saturday night in front of N. B. Hagan's grocery. The facts, in brief, are as follows. Mr. and Mrs. William H. Sell, who have not been living together for some time, have a little boy, Harry, about five years of age who for several years has lived with his grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Shirk, and is reported to have recently been adopted by them. The mother is reported to be living in Buffalo, N. Y., while the father has been in the west. On Saturday evening, Mr. Sell unexpectedly appeared and tried to take possession of his son when Mr. and Mrs. Shirk and the boy were about to leave for home but was unsuccessful in the attempt. There was more or less of disorder, but nobody was hurt. It is said that the legal status of the case will now be determined.

Silos Require Attention.

Silos, to give the best service, need attention every year, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Stave silos need the hoops tightened occasionally, and the guy wires should be looked over and made taut. The roof should not be allowed to become leaky, and any defective places in the sides should be repaired. It is advisable also to look well to the foundation.

Before the silo is filled the first time it should be painted on the inside with raw coal tar thinned with gasoline. Every two or three years a fresh coat of this paint should be put on. If practicable, a coat of paint on the outside to harmonize with the surrounding buildings will make the place more attractive.

Taneytown Baseball Notes.

Taneytown defeated Arendtsville, last Saturday, on the grounds of the latter, in a good game, score 4 to 2. Both teams played a strong game, as the score indicates.

Taneytown won a hard fought game in Emmitsburg, on Wednesday afternoon, score 3 to 2. Our boys say that the umpiring was against them, and that the score should have been a shut-out, and with more tallies than 3. Emmitsburg was loaded up with imported material, but the pitching of Schaeffer was too much for them.

This Saturday afternoon, on the home ground, a "double-header" is advertised with the Wrightsville, Pa., team, when a strong effort will be made by the locals to get even for the two games lost to the visitors one of which was the gift of several errors. The first game will be called at 1:30.

As the season will soon close, the local managers would be glad to have returns, on Saturday; not only to help bring the club through financially, this season, but to lend encouragement toward next season's arrangements.

Help for Corn Cutting.

County Agent Fuller has received a number of applications from farmers for help to cut corn. Those who wish to secure work should get in touch with the County Agent. There are also several places where tenants are wanted.

The farmers of the county, especially those feeding stock, should plant more barley. All barley should be treated with formaldehyde before sowing, as this will kill the smut spores and give an increased yield of nice, bright grain which is one of the best feeds the Maryland farmer can grow.

A Pronounced Success.

The uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the relief and cure of bowel complaints, both for children and adults, has brought it into almost universal use, so that it is practically without a rival and as everyone who has used it knows, it is without an equal.
