THE STATE WILL SUP- PLY TREES, AT COST

Suitable Trees Available for Nearly All Purposes.

Having completed a census and classification of trees at the State nursery, College Park, State Forester W. W. Besley has announced that the State Bureau of Forestry is ready to supply young stock to residents of the State for reforestation purposes or for roadside planting. The trees will be sold at cost to all who agree to resell them.

Approximately 15,000 trees in all stages of development are growing in the nursery, and of these 12,000 are large enough to be sold. Most of those available for use this year are suited for roadside planting. Included in this class are Oriental plane, American elm, white ash, black locust, tulip poplar, ginkgo, Norway maple, pin and red oak. These trees range from 5 to 12 feet in height, and are sold at an average price of 50 cents. Mr. Besley particularly recommends the Oriental plane for city planting, since it is resistant to disease, and the black locust for the country, as it does not draw the strength from the soil of the neighboring fields.

For reforesting cut-over and waste land the Bureau urges the use of conifers, because they are easily raised, grow rapidly and are valuable as timber when mature. For this purpose the nursery can furnish Norway spruce, loblolly pine and white pine at prices ranging from 3 to 25 cents each. For planting on badly washed hillside black locust trees are furnished, since they grow quickly and hold the soil.

Desired information will be furnished at the office of the Board of Forestry in the Calvert Building.

Burial of Verl E. C. Snider.

The body of Verl E. C. Snider was brought to Taneytown on the evening train Friday, September 16, and was buried with a brief service at the grave in the Lutheran cemetery on Saturday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock. The services were in charge of the pastor, Rev. L. B. Hafer.

The exact date of his death is not known here, but it was between September 26-30, 1918, and occurred in France. Mr. Snider was a private of the 313th. Infantry. While thus engaged in hospital work he was badly wounded in one of the raids by air upon the hospital. The hospital was attacked on Sept. 26, and Mr. Snider lived only a short time. He was nearly 25 years of age.

Before being called into the service Mr. Snider was a student at Gettysburg College, where he was preparing for the ministry. He held high rank in his classes, and the college honored him by issuing his diploma, conferring the degree of A. B. after his death.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hickman Snider, one sister, Dorothy S. M. Snider, and one brother, Ira E. Snider, all at home.

County Republicans Meet.

The Republican State Central Committee met, on Tuesday, and organized by electing Walter R. Rudy, chairman, the other members being John H. Cunningham, Geo. C. Eichelberger, Dr. G. Lewis Wetzel and Elwood Murray. The appointive members are as follows:

Mrs. Michael Bentz, Woolery's district; Mrs. E. Frank Ely, Freedom; Mrs. H. Scott Rupp, Westminster; Miss Amelia H. Annan, Taneytown and Miss Harriet M. Shunk, New Windsor.

The following were appointed delegates to the State Convention: Walter R. Rudy, William Hesson, George Thomas A. Barnes, Miss Mattie B. Shoemaker, Mrs. Chester R. Hobbs, Mrs. H. Scott Rupp, Mrs. J. Emory, and Mrs. Charles H. Spicer.

Vacancies on the ticket were filled by naming of John D. Ropp, Jr., as candidate for County Surveyor and C. Ray Fogle as candidate for County Treasurer. A call was issued for a meeting of the county central committee and candidates for next Monday to plan for an aggressive campaign.

Dairymen's Association Case.

Some weeks ago the Baltimore papers published articles relative to the action of certain city officials concerning certain alleged practices of Baltimore Dairymen, claiming them to be illegal and subject to indictment by the Grand Jury. As a general reply to this action, and a lengthy article, with request to publish, headed "Resolution passed by the Farmers of Baltimore county, at Mt. Carmel, Sept. 17, 1921."

The article and resolutions are too lengthy for our use. In substance, the resolutions "keenly resent the action of these officials of Baltimore city in holding before the public as conducting the affairs of this Association in a criminal way, and we do hereby pledge them our full support in helping them adopt methods that they may demand and secure that respect and dignity, and attain the just rights and privileges to which this splendid body of Maryland farmers are justly entitled."

THE COUNTY'S DEBT.

Arrangements Proposed to Various County Banks.

The American Sentinel, last week, contained the following article, relative to the sum borrowed by the County Commissioners from certain banks in the county:

"Wednesday the County Commissioners of this county mailed a letter to certain banking institutions of this county stating that inasmuch as the board owed them, all together, the sum of $96,000, during this fiscal year the board would deposit with each bank a sum of money equal to 60 per cent. of the commissioner's indebtedness, the same, to draw interest at 4 per cent. per annum, and to be checked out for school purposes upon a thirty day notice to the bank."

The board also stated that the sum of $71,677.50 which the State Roads Commission on account of the building of the Littlestown road, would, according to a promise, in writing, made by Gov. Ritchie, be included in the budget to be passed by the next Legislature; and that when the same was received by the board it would be paid to the banks together with a sufficient sum to complete the payment of $96,000 to the banks, and thus cancel the indebtedness of the county.

The amounts owed to banks are as follows: First National of Westminster $20,000; Manchester Bank $20,000; The Birnie Trust Company, $10,000; The First National of Hampstead, $10,000. The Hampstead Bank of Carroll County, $15,000; The Skylesville Bank, $10,000 and The Farmers and Mechanics of Westminster, $11,000.

The money to be deposited in the banks will give the institutions the use of the same and thereby relieve the stringent money conditions now prevailing in the county.

Carroll County Farmers' Council.

The Council met in the County Agent's office, Tuesday night. The committees for the county picnic and for stunt night reported, showing that the finances for the county exhibit was growing.

The question of the name of the Council came up for its share in the discussion. It is thought that the word "Farmers' Council" is rather misleading to some and limits the work of the council. The aim of the council is to develop and make better the conditions in Carroll, regardless of the class of people it may affect. Carroll is strictly an agricultural county, so whether the word "Farmer" is in the name or not, the farmer will still reserve a majority of the benefits derived from the workings of the council. It was suggested that "Community" be substituted for "Farmer," making the name "Carroll County Community Council."

Most of the evening was spent in discussing the plans for the County exhibit for this fall. The date has not been set as yet, but it is hoped that it can be held before Christmas. Plans are made for a big county exhibit of both commercial home and farm products.

The Hessian Fly.

It is advisable that precautions be taken against the Hessian fly at all times, since it has been found that many of the eggs from which the flies issue forth may "hold over." This explains why fly outbreaks frequently burst upon an unsuspecting community without warning, even the local entomologists being unaware of their approach, unless unusual precautions be observed.

Hessian fly prevention is simple. In combating the Hessian fly all useful control measures are preventive, that is, if a field of young wheat becomes infested nothing can be done to eradicate the pest, but farmers can in a simple manner prevent infestation.

Early sown wheat is well up when the Hessian fly emerges. We do not understand why it is especially partial to young wheat plants on the leaves of which it lays its eggs. We know this is a fact.

Important facts. The Hessian fly in the northern states, is usually found to appear during the last few days of August and the first few days of Sept. The fly lives only a few days after it appears. If it can find no live wheat above the ground, it dies without laying its eggs.

Preventive measure. Delay sowing wheat until after the flies shall have made their appearance, then they can find no young wheat on which to lay their eggs. Safe sowing dates for Carroll county to avoid damage of fly is from September 25 to October 10.

Yeiser's on Return Trip.

A card from G. W. Yeiser, from Tiguana, Mex., says: "End of our journey. Will now begin our run for home, hoping to arrive at Union Mills about Oct. 10." Mr. and Mrs. Yeiser have been making a tour of the country for several months, in their auto.

Congress Again in Session.

Congress is again in session after a recess of thirty days. The present session is expected to run into the regular session, and will have before it a number of big questions—the tax bill, treaties with Germany, Austria and Hungary, the beer bill, Railroad debt funding, etc., while tariff hearings will follow.

The Home Paper Week.

Somebody has thoughtfully invented a "Subscribe for Your Home Paper Week" and fixed the time as the week of November 7th. to 12th. We think it a fine invention, and hope it will be liberally observed hereabouts.

Why should there not be at least one such week in the year? There is mighty little "boosting" done for the little home paper, to compare with the boosting it continually gives its home neighborhood. It just "gets along" somehow and must always earn its way.

Certainly, some real-boosting in the way of new subscriptions, by the home folks, would be a new experience in the history of the average home weekly—one of the things we speak of as "too good to be true."

Somehow, most people have the mistaken idea that all home papers have easy sailing; they just charge certain prices and rates that the public must pay (and invariably think too high) and that instead of a "boosting," said papers need rather to be held back a little more.

As a matter of real fact, the average country weekly, and the average country church, are in about the same category, financially—neither receive full liberal local support, and very little home missionary work from those most benefitted by their services.

This "Subscribe for your home paper week" is not a strained creation, but deserves to be taken up, everywhere, to gather in non-subscribers by personal effort.

COUNTY BASEBALL LEAGUE.

Steps Being Taken to Form an Eight-Club Schedule.

A well attended meeting of the Westminster Athletic Association, was held at the Hotel Westminster, on Tuesday night, J. Francis Reese presided and J. Albert Mitten, Secretary-treasurer, made the report showing a most successful baseball season.

The suggestion of the chairman that steps be taken at once for the formation of a Carroll County League, for next season, was enthusiastically received. It was the consensus of opinion of those present that the county organization should be an eight team league, although this and other details will have to be determined at a later meeting of representatives of all communities interested.

The secretary was instructed to invite two representatives each from Taneytown, Mt. Airy, Hampstead, Manchester, New Windsor, Union Bridge, Woodbine, Sykesville, Mechanicsville and Patapsco, to attend a meeting at an early date to formulate plans for the organization of the league. J. Francis Reese and Russell Mowen were named as Westminster's representatives to attend this meeting.

Roam Whitehurst, Theodore F. Brown and William L. Sabrook were named as a committee to arrange for an entertainment for the benefit of the association. A committee composed of Herbert Cover, Ned Duncan, Joseph W. Smith, Jr., and Walter Hook, was appointed to confer with Captain Emig and Lieutenant Elderdice, of Co. H., as to the work of the association in the coming basketball season.

For Infested Stored Wheat.

Reports are being made that wheat in bins is badly infested with worms and insects. These can be destroyed by the use of carbon disulphide, the gas of which is deadly to all insects. However, it is highly explosive, so that smoking can not be permitted while it is being used. It is a liquid which vaporizes easily, the resulting gas being heavier than air sinks through the grain, killing the insects, but not injuring the wheat.

Make the room as near airtight as possible, and use one pound of carbon disulphide to each 100 cubic feet of space. The liquid may be placed in pans on the surface of the wheat, but better results will be obtained by half burying gunny sacks in the grain then pouring the carbon disulphide on them. While not necessary, it is better to cover the top of the bins with a tarpaulin or blanket.

As this gas is poisonous to human beings, one should leave the room as soon as possible after applying the liquid. Keep the room closed from 36 to 60 hours, and always ventilate thoroughly before re-entering.

Republican Senator Elected.

H. O. Burson, Republican, was elected U. S. Senator in New Mexico, on Tuesday, in a triangular contest. The Democrats had hoped to regain a Senator, as showing public discontent with the record of the Harding administration. The election of Burson, by a large majority, with an independent Republican candidate in the field, was a surprise to both Republicans and Democrats.

TO STUDY UNEMPLOYMENT.

National Conference to Assist the Recovery of Business.

The National conference on unemployment, called by President Harding to meet in Washington next Monday, will be expected to take definite steps to assist the recovery of business as the best means of solving the problem of the jobless. That the Administration is convinced it would be unwise to attempt generally what might be temporary, or palliative remedies for the situation, serious as it is in some industrial centers, was made plain by Secretary Hoover in announcing the purposes, methods of procedure and personnel of the conference.

Mr. Hoover asserted the President was opposed to the consideration of any plan by the conference which would smack of a government "dole" for the unemployed, either directly or indirectly in the form of ill-advised and wholesale "public improvements."

The names of thirty-eight members of the conference who have accepted the presidential invitation were announced by Mr. Hoover. He will be chairman of the meeting, and the sessions of the conference will be open. The membership thus far determined upon probably will be augmented by several persons, who have been invited to participate, but whose acceptances have not been received.

Secretary Davis, of the Department of Labor, who will be a member of the conference, is preparing a new survey of the unemployment situation, which will be presented to the gathering along with the data compiled by the experts on the advisory committee.

Chosen with the regard to efficient consideration of the unemployment problem as a whole and with an eye to geographical representation, the personnel of the conference bears little relation to the so-called group method of selection. Organized labor will find itself with seven representatives, two Mayors of large cities will be in attendance and organizations of business men will be liberally represented. The names of three women, one of them a trades union official, appear in the list announced today, but it is understood several other women will be announced before the lists are closed.

Tests for Postmasters.

Washington, Sept. 11.—An examination of the applicants to fill the position of postmaster at a number of towns and villages throughout Maryland will be held on October 8 by the Civil Service Commission at the request of the Postmaster General. Following is the list of postoffices at which open competitive examinations will be held on the date mentioned: Cecilton, Clear Spring, Cordova, Deer Park, Forest Hill, Galena, Girdletree, Hebron, Hillsboro, Kitzmiller, Mardella Springs, Maryland, Mountain Lake Park, Overlea, Parkton, Poolesville, Queenstown, Sharpsburg, Stockton, Vienna and Westover.

It is expected that appointments will be made as the result of this examination unless it is found "in the interest of the service to fill any vacancy by reinstatement, transfer or promotion."

The Maryland-Delaware Editorial Association will meet at Easton, Md., next Monday and Tuesday. The event promises to be well attended, and one of more than usual interest to the craft.

STATE DEMOCRATS MAKE PLEDGES.

Larger Representation for City, and Direct Primaries.

The Democratic State Convention met in Baltimore, on Tuesday, and determined party policies for the coming campaign. As was expected, all was not easy sailing but the various differences were straightened out, leaving net results comparatively plain and free from doubt.

The central plank of the convention was Gov. Ritchie's reorganization plans, which involve the greater representation plan for the city, at Annapolis—a constitutional amendment granting two additional Senators and 12 more delegates. The 40 per cent representation power for the city in the whole legislature, was voted down, largely by county delegates.

The platform put the party on record as opposing any changes in the primary election laws which would take the initial nominating step away from the party's voters. It recorded its unqualified indorsement of the fewer elections plan of the Reorganization Commission's sub-committee. It pledged itself to secure the removal of all legal bars existing between women and public office and restriction which prevent women from serving on juries.

A plank calling for a state prohibition enforcement act was lost—not a single vote being cast for it. The convention ratified the nomination of William S. Gordy, Jr., of Wicomico county, for State Comptroller and it re-elected Dr. J. Hubert Wade chairman of the State Central Committee for two more years. Former Representative Carville D. Benson, was the convention's temporary and permanent chairman, and William C. Walsh, of Cumberland, and Miss Lillian Forwood, of Harford county, its secretaries. Emory L. Coblenz, of Frederick, was chairman of the committee on resolutions. Miss Forwood's selection by Dr. Wade marked the elevation of a woman to a convention office for the first time in the history of the party in Maryland.

Knowledge in Marketing Timber

Woodland owners often sell their timber without having a sufficient knowledge of its market value to protect their interests, and suffer in consequence. Losses can be avoided only by a careful and thorough study of all available markets. The following steps may be of assistance in acquiring a knowledge of the sale value of timber, says the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Take advantage of the experience of neighbors who have recently sold timber or have otherwise informed themselves in regard to good markets and current prices.

Apply to the State forester, the county agricultural agent, or any other available public official or personal agency for sources of information and advice regarding possible markets and timber prices.

Employ the services of some reliable man who has made a special study of market prices of logs and lumber. The saving gained thereby, unless the owner has had much experience along that line, may amount to from 10 to 40 times the cost of the examination.

Get into touch through correspondence with outside buyers and thus awaken competition among as many prospective purchasers as possible. A live effort along this line will often bring about an open market for standing timber. Determine the value of the material by reference to current market prices and the total cost of putting it on the market.

Wasting Coal.

Much of modern engineering science is devoted to preventing waste. Salvatory processes are now applied to many things that used to be thrown away. Slag, culm, sawdust, gasoline, cottonseed, nutshells the bark of trees, are examples that at once suggest themselves. Now Sir John Cadman, addressing the Institution of Mining Engineers, reminds the world forcefully how much is wasted when coal is burned for fuel before its valuable by-products have been drawn off.

The present and prospective value of products of coal tar—the oily liquid which collects when illuminating gas is manufactured from soft coal—is beyond computation. In the crude form coal tar is used as a preservative of timber, in making tanned paper and for protective paint. From distillation we obtain naphtha and benzene, naphthalene, carbolic acid, creosote oil and the long list of dyestuffs, of which we owe the first to W. H. Perkin, in 1856. Even the pitch that remains after distillation is of great value for asphalt, varnish, roofing paper and a binding cement for briquettes of soft-coal dust.

"To burn coal is to squander it," says this eminent authority; and with the facts in full view to the chemist in every day's experience, it is easy to see what he means. In an era that preaches economy so vociferously and practices it semi-occasionally the world's coal-bin is a good place to begin to curtail extravagance.—Phila. Ledger.

All articles on this page are either original, or properly credited. This has always been a fixed rule with this office, and we suggest the adoption of it by our exchange.

Some of our scientists are talking about the waste of coal, as though householders take pleasure in "showing off" in this direction for the pleasure of paying coal bills. No doubt some who do the "firing," but not the "paying," waste coal; but then, this same class wastes other things. How may we get rid of unfaithful stewards?

The Ku Klux Klan is charged with being very versatile in its objects; that it is Anti-Negro in the South, anti-Catholic in the West, and Anti-Jewish in the North, and presumably pro-white American supremacy everywhere. The order is reported to be growing, and is becoming considerably talked about. Whatever it may be, it looks to us to be a good thing to keep out of.

The whipping post, for wife-beaters, has been revived in Baltimore. While this looks like a return to something like prison cruelties, there is nothing about it to suggest sympathy for criminals of this low-down sort. If it is true that the average criminal is a big coward when it comes to physical pain, then a sound thrashing in prospect may exercise a beneficial influence.

The city of Chicago has brought suit against the Chicago Tribune for $10,000,000, practically the total value of the Tribune's plant. The charge is that the paper injured the financial credit of the city in making certain charges of mismanagement, and that it did so for political interests, rather than in the public interest. The case is an unusual one, and will be hard fought by both sides.

Why should we longer celebrate, as a state holiday, "Old Defenders Day"? It seems to us as though we are straining a good many points to find holidays; and it especially seems foolish, at this late date, to perpetuate the memory of "Old Defenders Day" when so doing seems to be a slap at our present close friendship with England. There are some things that it pays big nations to forget, and we believe this day to be one of them.

It is estimated that 700,000 world-war veterans are idle. Why? Some were no doubt idle, from choice, before entering the service, and more are no doubt idle from the same cause, now. We do not get very sympathetic over the statement, somehow, and it is not through lack of respect for the boys; but, a good soldier, it seems to us, should have enough spirit and pride in him to go to work, and if he wants work badly enough the most of them can find it.

"Problem" and "Hope."

Pretty generally throughout the country the women's vote, this fall, is regarded as a "problem," and as a hope, for "votes for women" as a political quantity has not yet settled itself sufficiently for estimating, and the probability is that it is going to remain more or less an aggravating uncertainty for the party political forecasters.

Women as voters have not shown any wide enthusiasm for the exercise of their new power. They have not taken to politics as ducks to water, which means that the serious side of politics and legislative matters do not appeal to them temperamentally. For the strong minded ones—those who are insistent on the old "women's rights" idea—the situation is different; but, the majority of women are not built that way, mentally.

It has yet to be demonstrated that "votes for women" will benefit the country. The uncertainty connected with their voting, merely, is not so important, but their actuating motives are important—the mind back of the vote—and until these have had numerous demonstrations the country must wait for the settlement of the greater question, the value of their votes.

It is at least a hopeful sign that women themselves are not eager to troop into political matters, pell-mell.

As yet, they are not strong for holding political office, as most of the women candidates on the tickets this fall have been invited by the men, thinking thereby to corral the women vote and beat the other party's candidate, largely in cases in which, without such help, the election of the opposing candidate would be practically assured.

However, in such cases there is also a demonstration needed; as it has not yet been shown that women are apt to vote for women, nor that men in the same party will solidly vote for women in their party. There are men so opposed to women voting, that they are apt to cast their votes against them at the polls.

So, the influence of women in election returns must remain, for a while at least, a "hope" in some cases, and a "problem" in others. We believe, as we always have, that "votes for women" was launched on a too extensive scale, at one dose, and that it would have been very much better to have tried the experiment, first, in purely local elections, and on questions easily comprehended by women, and interesting to them.

Three Cent Postage Opposition.

The opposition to three-cent postage is too purely selfish to be taken seriously, as it appears that it will be, by Congress. Of course, it is one of the very plainest forms of taxation, and there is no dodging it; it would hit some large firms pretty severely, but it is quite probable that the smaller users of the mails are raising the biggest kick—perhaps largely those who pay little or no taxes of any kind.

If three-cent letter postage will bring in a big revenue, it should be adopted. It is not so long ago that we survived the purple stamps, and the whole country could easily stand several years of them again. There appears to be a lot of people in this country who would like to see the war debt paid—providing somebody else pays it—and the opponents of three-cent postage may largely be in this class.

The trouble about raising revenue, is, that Congressmen are too sensitive to kicking on the part of their constituents, and lack the courage to do the practical, effective things, in spite of kicks. Of course, nobody wants higher postage expense, nor taxes of any kind, but along with war, and debt, we must take things we do not want, whether we like it or not.

Government without taxation, would be merely equivalent to enjoying benefits without paying for them. Free fire insurance, free freight carrying, free transportation, free medical services, free rents, would apparently be very acceptable; but, such thoughts are pure "bug house," and the people who are inclined to agitate for such doctrines would not be satisfied if they enjoyed them.

The catching idea with Congress seems to be to find revenue without anybody knowing it, or taking it from those not able to put up a serious howl, or in various ways getting it from sources that are not popular enough in this country to have a defensive following—such as getting it from Germany. A very nice proposition, but, the debt will never be financed that way.

Newspaper Publicity.

The Record is as careful as it is possible to be, within our information, relative to everything it publishes—advertising and reading matter—as it desires to pursue a conservative and fair policy, always. The offer of advertising business, for the "pay" that is in it, does not wholly count with us, and we frequently decline offers that do not seem to us to be fully desirable.

This does not mean that we never make mistakes—only, that we take care not to make them. We do not guarantee the full honesty of any advertisement, because so doing would be impossible, and the same is true of a great deal of reading matter. We neither have the facilities, nor the time, to investigate the status of all that appears. No newspaper could possibly do this.

Therefore, in a large measure, the reading public must always be on its guard against what it reads. We always endeavor to steer clear of violation of libel laws—just what these may be, if any one knows positively—and to avoid the publication of mere opinions and rumors; and even when privileged articles are offered us, we try to avoid them when their publication is at all closely connected with doubt.

Without question, the bad must often be told with the good, in order to exercise a sentiment for the general good; and this means, often, the publication of matters that a newspaper prefers to avoid. It is quite impossible to publish, week after week, only the pleasant and natural happenings of life, for there is always a continuous current of wrong-doing that must be given publicity, and when warnings must be sounded for the protection of the unwary.

No Substitute Offered.

Say what you will about druggists offering something "just as good" because it pays a better profit, the fact still stands that ninety nine out of a hundred druggists recommend Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy when the best medicine for diarrhoea is asked for, and do so because they know from what their customers say of it, that it can be depended upon.

—Advertisement

An Advertising Expert Says.

"Just remember that the public doesn't care a tinker's darn about you, the condition of your exchequer, what jail you were in last, or whether you stutter or have a harelip. All it wants to know is what you have and what you want for it, and you must keep ever before them the name of your product and a reminder of its excellent quality.

"Advertising will make friends and customers. It will introduce, familiarize and consummate the first sale or two, but the quality must be there if the customer is to become a repeater, and it is the repeater that pays the freight."

The man who is in any kind of business and who expects to get stupendous and spectacular results from one-time advertising, or from a spurt once in a while of publicity, is expecting a miracle which will not happen. Occasionally surprising results will be gained from a first advertisement, but if this is the case the advertising itself has been particularly cleverly done, great emphasis has been placed upon some unusual or outstanding talking point, the advertising has been well placed and made very appealing to the eye. More often than not, however, advertising has to be continuous and confidence built up, in an establishment as to quality, fair treatment, and all that sort of thing. It is the establishment of confidence and good will which brings the stream of customers who are repeaters, and these are the ones upon whom the real profit is made.

The Key that Unlocked the Door to Long Living.

The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund, well-fed, but thin, spare men, who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age will occasionally eat too much or of some article of food not suited to his constitution, causing indigestion or constipation and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets to move his bowels, and invigorate his stomach. When this is done, there is no reason why the average man should not live to a ripe old age.

Popular Stories for Some City Newspapers.

One of the best stories for certain city papers is about the Englishman, or Frenchman, who comes to this country and finds so much "wetness" here—such a remarkable absence of prohibition—really surprising, don't you know. One of the latest, is, that this country is "wetter than Scotland." Well then, what is the use to want present laws repealed? Why should the country have "wet" laws, when it is "wetter" under "dry" laws?

Another good story is about the "wet minister;" the sort that "rush for permits" to make wine, and who preach the old "personal rights" interference, and who claim that Scripturally it is decreed that "for the stomach's sake" wine is a standard medicine.

Still another is that the commission of horrible crimes is due to the use of "boot-leg" hootch, in place of the pure article, and that light wines do not excite to bestiality, like the hard stuff does.

But, the regular stand-bys are the stories of how the "blockades" are successfully run, how easily liquor store-houses are robbed, how "boot-legging" flourishes so that there is now more liquor consumed than before prohibition, and with the changes on "home brew" experiments, the burglarizing of "private stocks," etc.

Verily, the field is wide and productive, showing how prohibition does not prohibit, and that sooner or later the eighteenth amendment must be reconsidered and wiped out. Go to it.

REVIVAL OF CLASSIC GREEK

Western Newspaper Welcomes Possibility of Its Becoming, in Time, a World Language.

Were one to judge from the fuss made from time to time, one would suppose there was real need of an international language. In the golden age of the English language the great queen addressed the ambassador at her court in Latin, and all diplomatic conversation and correspondence of Europe was in Latin. Erasmus, the great scholar and writer, who visited the court of Elizabeth's father, Henry VIII, wrote Latin works that produced an effect comparable to that produced by the writings of Voltaire two centuries later.

Much pains have been expended in fabricating artificial language, such as Esperanto, to serve as the medium of communication. But such constructions have no chance of practical adoption, nor could they answer as well as actual language whether dead like Latin or living like English.

There is a language, however, which is gradually becoming again a living one, and which as a world language would be ideal. The Greek universities and Greek men of culture, including Venizelos himself, are engaged in an attempt to restore classical purity and perfection to modern Greek. It is said that the endeavor is by no means vain, and that gradually the ancient model is being approached. We may yet have the speech of Pericles, the written language of Plato, employed in social intercourse and commercial transactions, in contracts, in courts of law, in houses of assembly.—Minneapolis Journal.

ALWAYS A WELCOME VISITOR

Occasionally Late, but Once Every Month She Was at the Door to Receive Him.

She waited patiently for his arrival, feeling that he wouldn't disappoint her. Sometimes he was a little early—sometimes a little late, but eventually he would come, bringing with him something dear to her heart.

Once every month for four years he had been a welcome visitor. How well she knew his voice—his smile—his cheery whistle!

At times when he passed the house without as much as a glance, she understood and made no effort to attract his attention. If he appeared distant now and then, she did not grieve, knowing the day would come—a week, two weeks perhaps—when he would walk fearlessly up the walk with a smile and a cheery word of greeting.

After today she would never look for him again. At least his appearance would never again cause the delightful little heart throbs that were now agitating her.

At last she saw him. Her arms were outstretched to receive—the last War Risk Bureau allotment check, which the postman handed to her with a smile.—The Leatherneck.

Obesity Undesirable.

Are you fat? Be on your guard if you are. Doctor Joslin of Boston has gathered striking statistics that show an undeniable association of obesity and diabetes, the condition in which sugar, the most common of food fuels, is not properly metabolized or stored in the body. There are in this country alone more than half a million diabetics. "The penalty of taking too much alcohol is well known, and a drunkard is looked upon with pity or contempt," says Doctor Joslin. "Rarely, persons who become fat deserve pity, because of a real tendency to put on weight despite moderate eating, but most of them should be placed in somewhat the same category as the alcoholic. In 999 cases out of 1,000 being fat implies too much food or too little exercise, or both combined."—Science Service.

Stone Mountain.

Stone mountain, on whose granite wall is to be sculptured a memorial to the Confederacy, is 16 miles from Atlanta, Ga. It will be the largest monument in the world. The space covered will be about eight hundred feet high and fifteen hundred feet wide.

The project first attracted attention in 1915, when Mrs. C. Helen Plane, then eighty-eight years of age, a leader of Southern women, sent for Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, to come to Georgia, to consider the feasibility of a great sculptural monument to the Confederacy on the wall of the mountain. Mr. Borglum made a careful study of several plans. The plan adopted represents an army marching into battle. It will comprise portraits of all the Confederate leaders.

Bulgarians Reduce Alphabet.

Simplification of the Bulgarian orthography by eliminating three letters of the alphabet, recently ordered by the cabinet council, has just been put into effect. The censorship, still existing here, will enforce the new spelling in all publications.

These three letters are remnants of the old Slav tongue. They do not exist in the Serbian language and they recently were ordered stricken from the Russian alphabet by the soviet ministry of public instruction. Their principal spelling is taken in some quarters to be an effort toward closer relations with the Serbs.

GUINEAS FAVOR FREE RANGE
Fowls Can Be Depended Upon to Pick Up Considerable Portion of Their Food.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Most guinea raisers allow their breeding stock free range of the entire farm at all times, and this helps to keep the birds strong and vigorous. During the winter the breeders should have been fed a grain mixture of corn, wheat and oats twice a day, and where no green feed was available, vegetables, such as potatoes, turnips, beets and cabbage. Animal feed is essential to best results and can be supplied by feeding meat scrap or skimmed milk. Given free range, where the supply of natural feed during the winter and early spring are ample, as it usually is in the southern portion of the United States, the guineas can be left to pick up a considerable part of their feed, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Free access to grit, charcoal, and oyster shell is necessary throughout the breeding season. Avoid having the breeders too fat, but keep them in good, firm flesh.

Like quail and most other wild birds, guinea fowls in their wild state mate in pairs, and this tendency prevails among domesticated guineas, also, provided the males and females are equal in number. As the breeding season approaches, one pair after another separates from the remainder of the flock and ranges off in the fields in search of a suitable nesting place. Once mated this way, the male usually remains with his mate throughout the laying season, standing guard somewhere near the nest while the hen is laying, and ready to warn her of any approaching danger.

However, it is not necessary to mate them in pairs under domestic conditions to secure fertile eggs, and most breeders keep but one male for every three or four females. When mated in this way the hens are more apt to lay near home, and several usually lay in the same nest, thus making it much easier to find the nests and gather the eggs.

While guineas can be kept in the best breeding condition upon free range, still they can be confined, if necessary, and satisfactory results obtained. One extensive guinea raiser has confined as many as 45 hens and 15 males in an acre pen throughout the breeding and laying season and been successful. This pen is inclosed with a wire fence five feet high, and the birds are prevented from flying over by clipping the flight feathers of one wing. Within the pen is a grass pasture with bushes here and there where the hens make their nests by scratching out a bowl-shaped hollow in the ground. The winters being severe, a roosting shed is provided, having a cleated board reaching from the floor to the roosts for the wing-clipped birds to walk up.

Guineas Can Be Confined if Necessary, But They Do Best When Given Free Range.

GEES GOOD GRAZING STOCK

Fowls Play Important Part in Utilizing Waste Grain About Stables and Feeding Pens.

Geese have an important part in the endless war on waste. They are in a class with chickens in utilizing waste grain about stables and feeding pens. In a larger measure than chickens or any other kind of poultry they are a grazing stock, getting their living in large part from the ordinary grasses of the pastures, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. When it is considered that the demand for geese is steady, and extended over almost the whole year, not confined to holidays, as in the case of turkeys, that geese excel all other poultry as producers of fat, the importance of geese in the poultry scheme is realized.

STUDY DEMANDS OF MARKETS

Poultryman Should Learn How, Where and When to Dispose of Products to Advantage.

A large part of the profit in poultry keeping often depends upon the proper marketing of the products, and the producer should study the market demands as to how, where and when to dispose of the products to the best advantage.

"Standard" Motor Gasoline has remarkable pulling Power

GASOLINE that delivers full power and maximum mileage is not the product of chance but of the choice of crude stocks, skillful refining and constant research.

Gasoline properties are determined by a large number of factors. It is only by the closest study that the exceptional pulling power of the improved "Standard" Motor Gasoline is obtained. Our Development Department not only devotes a large share of its work to refining processes, but is also constantly checking up the actual performance of "Standard" Motor Gasoline in various types of motors, in the laboratory and out on the road. The power obtainable from gasoline depends largely on its burning properties, on how much of it fires and how much fails to ignite, thus lowering the explosive force of the whole mixture. The composition of "Standard" Motor Gasoline is positively predetermined with a view to insuring its complete combustion at motor temperatures.

Thousands of critical motorists have given this "Standard" Motor Gasoline a thorough test under all sorts of conditions. They say that it supplies an unusually even, smooth flow of power, and gives exceptional mileage.

"Standard" Motor Gasoline is on sale wherever you see the familiar "S. O." sign. It is the cheapest gasoline per mile you can find.

It is hoped, by his many friends here, that he will speedily recover.

We have been wondering for some time what has become of our State Road. The road from Taneytown to the Mason and Dixon line is almost entirely worn out, and something must soon be done. We think that, perhaps, our people have been keeping quiet too long, and believe that the time has about come when it is necessary to push the matter a little stronger, because such a road as we have is a disgrace to the fair name of Carroll Co., and our Commissioners should urge the construction of this short link, and then complete the most direct route from Washington to Gettysburg.

Bake Your Foods in Glassware.

The pleasing, efficient and modern way of baking and roasting meats, vegetables, puddings and other foods.

Good cooks who use this splendid baking glassware, prefer it because of its transparency which enables them to see all sides of the food as it bakes and prevents burning. They save dishwashing too, because they can be served directly from the oven to the table. A fine lot of the genuine Pyrex ovenware just received.

'Twas Said-

A little fellow who had just felt the hard side of a slipper turned to his mother for consolation.

"Mother," he asked, "did grandpa thrash father when he was a little boy?"

"Yes," answered his mother, impressively.

"And did his father thrash him when he was little?"

"Yes."

"And did his father thrash him?"

"Yes."

A pause.

A Birthday Party.

(For The Record.)

A very enjoyable birthday surprise party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lansing, on Friday evening, in honor of Mr. Lansing's 47th birthday. It was a complete surprise, as he had walked to one of the neighbors, and when he returned the guests had assembled in his home and he did not even think of his birthday, until he was asked: "How old are you today?" The evening was spent in games, graphophone, vocal and instrumental music. All departed for their home at a late hour wishing Mr. Lansing, to live to see 47 more birthdays.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. John Catzandafner, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra McGee, Mr. and Mrs. William Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Null, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Wiles, Mr. and Mrs. John Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Caylor, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shirk, Mr. and Mrs. James Weishaar, Mr. and Mrs. George Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Selby, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Devilliss; Mrs. Samuel King, Mrs. Amelia Crabb, Mrs. Ardell Robinson; Misses Pearl Crabb, Lola Crouse, Mary King, Ruth Crabb, Eleanor Fleming, Ester Crouse, Edna Coleman, Helena Null, Pauline Lansing, Geneva Yealy, Frances Crabb, Mary Smith, Margaret King, Sallie Crabb, Annie Miller, Helen King, Edna Angel, Marie Bollinger, Ethel Lansing, Verna Bankard; Messrs John Miller, Roland Long, Charles Caylor, Lenard Baker, George Glenen, Fern Wright, Vernon Caylor, Americus Wiles, Raymond Wright, Marlin Crabb, Edward Zepp, Clarence Helwig, Galen Wright, Edward Smith, Ervin Crabb, Evan Smith, Johnnie Selby, Norman Lansing, Lloyd Bankard, Charles Baker, Grover Bankard, Norman Coleman, Junior Devilliss, Hobart Shirk, Albert Shirk, Ezra Robinson, Junior Graham, Lester Baust, Charles Bollinger.

A Pronounced Success.

The uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the relief and cure of bowel complaints, both for children and adults, has brought it into almost universal use, so that it is practically without a rival and as everyone who has used it knows, it is without an equal.

Beauty Not Matter of Expense. Beautiful grounds need not be expensive. The loveliest flowers and plants that ever grew are found in the woods and along the banks of streams, in fence corners, and in fields and shady nooks. They are yours for the digging. What is rarer or prettier than a bed of wild violets and ferns in a shady spot near the house? Plant generously of perennials, so that they will bloom and grow year after year with little time and attention and give stability to your landscape effects.

MEN SET IN "HIGH PLACES."

Those Only Admirable Who Remain Affable and Generous to Those of Lower Levels.

Speaking of the Mount Everest expedition, Sir Francis Younghusband says: "At great heights men get very nervous and irritable. At 16,000 feet they begin to lose patience with one another, and the higher they climb the deeper they hate."

There is a moral in that for men seeking high altitudes in our common human life.

May it never be said of them with truth: "The higher they climb the deeper they hate."

It is a fine thing to find a man who goes upward to great heights without losing his head, his nervous equipoise, his self-control. It is an inspiration to us who plod and drudge along at the lower levels to find him generous, amiable, affable, ready to meet all comers and faithful to his friends.

On the other hand, it is deplorable to come upon a man who wins his way to eminence of any sort, and in that lofty station, instead of looking to the sky and a superior Power, looks down upon "the common herd" and thinks—and tells—how great he is in comparison with them.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Hints to Young Authors.

John Augustus Scribble wearily opened the envelope that brought back from its twentieth journey his "Ode on a Crushed Caterpillar."

There dropped upon the floor this letter from the regretful editor:

"Hint 1—Borrow half

WIT and HUMOR

How Much in Dollars?
Mrs. Breathless—Why don't you consult the great English specialist, Doctor Starver? He claims that his patients have lost ten pounds a week under his treatment.
Mrs. Woody-Slimmer—That was when he was practicing in England.

Proper Recognition.
"It is remarkable that so many women should be working," said Mr. Morridge.
"Women have always worked," replied his wife. "The principal difference just now is that they are working away from home and getting paid for it!"

Food Monopolist.
"This ought to make life easy from now on," remarked Noah as the ark landed.
"To what do you refer?" inquired Japhet.
"Our monopoly of eggs, butter, milk, beet, et cetera, with not a soul on earth to start an investigation."

Misplaced Formula.
The floor walker smiled courteously as the package-laden woman was about to depart. "Come again," he said, bowing politely.
"Yes," replied the woman over her shoulder, "and you must come and see us."

Won His Bet.
Farmer—Yes, I read every one of those speeches you printed in the Congressional Record.
Senator—Did they benefit you?
Farmer—Yes, sir; I won the $2 Zeb Perkins bet that it couldn't be done.

SERIOUS PROBLEM

"I suppose you are going to buy your wife a very handsome birthday present?"
"I don't know what to do about it. If I deplete the family funds to buy Helen something worthy of her I deprive her of the pleasure of spending the money."

Another Game.
At playing cards I feel compelled to say I've earned no glory. But oh, the lovely hands I've held in a conservatory.

A Hold-Up.
"Here's a quarter, Willie; now you keep away from that keyhole tonight when George calls."
"Dat'll fix me alright, but it'll cost you a quarter apiece to keep the rest of the gang away."

Just Wait On.
"Will you tell your sister the young millionaire she met at the bench is here?"
"She knows it. She says a patient waiter is no loser, and she saw you waiting on a table today."

He Knew.
"Did Mr. and Mrs. Henpeck accept the compromise?"
"Yes; they agreed to it with one voice."
"Ah! I see. Mrs. Henpeck's voice."

His Dread.
Bronson—Did you enjoy your daughter's commencement essay?
Woodson—Yes; only it kind of discourages me to think of what I've got to talk up to when conversation starts in the family circle.

Sure Thing.
Kidder—There are two things that never attract much attention.
Katherine—What are they?
Kidder—A man at his own wedding and a musician at a women's reception.

Advance.
Myrtle—Is she up in society?
Marion—Yes; she used to do her hair, and now she coifs it.

Vice Versa.
"When the town doctor began to practice on me he said I was all in."
"How were you when he finished?"
"All out."

HOME TOWN HELPS

TO A MAN'S TOWN

What should a man boost more for than his town—
The place that shelters all his life holds dear,
Perchance, his grandfathers' ashes and the tales
That old tradition couples with his name?
What should a man be prouder of than just
The harbor of his neighbors and his friends,
The place where smiles of greeting start his day
And mark its close. His town is this and more.

It has been wisely said of man that he has two homes. One is where he sits and reads
When evening's come and where his children are;
The other one is that which makes him safe,
Assures him protection with his friends,
A home that keeps his home—and that's his town.
One is his heart's desire. He plans for it
And works and saves, then works and saves some more
That he may have it; and the other one gives him the first one and makes it secure—
What should a man boost more for than his town?
—J. R. Adams in Interurban Labor Journal, South Bend, Indiana.

UNITE TO BEAUTIFY HOMES

Example Set by Women of New Mexico Might Well Be Copied in Almost All the States.

In one of the dry-farming countries in New Mexico the women have shown their interest in improving the surroundings of their ranch homes by making home beautification a project in the county program of work. Through the assistance of the home demonstration agent, co-operating with the United States Department of Agriculture, these women, during 1920, bought, planted and cared for 1,800 rose bushes which were planted in 21 home gardens. The roses include varieties which had never been tried before in that section of the country.

Some of the varieties which made the best growth are Red Radiance, Crimson Queen, Lady Battersea, Madam Cochet, Sunburst, Old Gold, Dorothy Perkins, and Gold of Ophir. The roses were planted in well-fertilized soil and were protected from the winds until growth was well established. In the fall the bushes are protected by turning a small nail keg without a bottom over them and filling in with earth and manure. The beauty and fragrance of these roses tend to weld the people more closely to their ranch homes and thus make for more permanent agriculture.

Hybrid Tea Rose.

In this connection it is well to remember that there is no section of the country where roses cannot be made to thrive, with care.

Small Town's Many Advantages.
The small town rules America, because, instead of being a place of hotels, restaurants and amusements, it is a place for normal living—where men walk home to lunch from their place of business and mow their own front lawns and weed their backyard gardens and bid their neighbors across either fence the time of day; where they not only live in today, but remember yesterday and plan for tomorrow; where families and communities retain, cherish and transmit traditions, there beats the heart of America.—Dodge County (Minn.) Star.

Sanitation Always Pays.
Some people say that sanitation doesn't pay. Well, it doesn't pay doctors and grave diggers, says the United States public health service. Be sanitary; seek health before you need it.

Take Care of the Trees.
A city without trees is a desolate place. Yet any city which does not guard its trees will some day be without them.

Keep Everything in Repair.
Holes in the street are warnings against more holes. So are holes in the graveyard. Repairs in time will delay both.

attached an automobile-tire dust-cap, which is pierced with many holes about as small as the point of a pin. This cap fits down to the shoulder of the coupling.—Popular Science Monthly.

Advancement Everywhere.

The national agencies engaged in rural social work are reported as beginning to co-operate in their programs. The rural church is grappling with its peculiar problem in a dynamic manner. The rural home is being reconstructed in a new and encouraging way as a center of all social organization. Rural government and legislation are undergoing a far-reaching change. Country communities are thinking about country planning and art as integral parts of community life. Road building in country districts is proceeding with unprecedented rapidity, and the country life movement is on the verge of an international understanding.—Exchange.

SEES NEED OF "CITY BOOK"

Writer Points Out How Information of Great Value to Community Could Be Spread.

What are the "points" of cities? How shall we compare one with another, and, allowing for geographic, climatic and economic limitations, describe the curve of possible ascent for the one we love best? Here is where we must establish standards.

Vaguely we recognize these types in our common reference to a "factory town," a "mining town" or a "county seat" and so on. But, as to a factory town or any other kind that we want to know about and improve, how does it compare with others?

We need a little book on "What Is a City?" It should be a cheap little book that everybody can buy, a simple little book that everybody can understand, a sort of civic primer.

Suppose we live, as so many of us do, in an ordinary, medium-sized town. Our "city book" should inform us that a normal town, with the number of inhabitants our town has, should have such and such functions, adding to the simple requirements of the small village those other and more varied functions which the larger population of our town requires and can support. Such a list, for our ordinary medium-sized town, might run somewhat as follows:

Smithy, store, postoffice, school, church, dressmaker, milliner, barber, drug store, moving pictures, court house, jail, fire company, hotel, hall.

These are not placed in any dogmatic order of importance, or arranged with great care.

A "pattern town" should be described suggesting the income that should be derived from legitimate taxation of its number of citizens, and showing just what advantages a town with such an income deserves and requires.—Charlotte Perkins Gilman in the Century Magazine.

Massachusetts Town Has Shown What Can Be Done When Management Is Intelligent.

In contrast with the situation at Block Island, where the town came near bankruptcy, is that of Middleton, Mass.

The entire permanent debt of Middleton at the present time is $7,000, of which $1,600 is due in notes which will soon be paid, leaving a balance of $5,400. Here is what the town has to show for the amount and may be timely:

First, and one of the most important, are excellent schools. There is also a fine, free public library, well equipped with the best of books. There is public water with good hydrant service and with which a large portion of the townspeople can be supplied. Electric lights are in all the central streets and a large number of homes are equipped with them. There are good railroad accommodations. Two new bridges have been built over the Ipswich river. The improvements, with the exception of the schools, have all been made during the last 20 years, and are all paid for with the exception of $5,400.

In addition to the above the state and county have expended on the streets in town, under the small town act, for macadam roads, $150,000.—Boston Globe.

City Library and Farmer.

How pleasant relations are maintained between the farmers in the region of Stockton, Cal., and the attendants at the city library of that place, and how the farmers draw heavily upon the facilities of the library to their pleasure and profit, is told in a bulletin of the Department of Agriculture. The library sends out traveling libraries to communities, and it also encourages the country residents to make direct use of the main library. There are 30 communities and 22 school districts that are receiving county free library service from Stockton, and the main library has a direct country circulation of 6,281 volumes.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Photographing From Airplane.

In view of the facility with which objects many feet under water can be photographed from an airplane it is possible that the navigation of such a river as the Mississippi, with its shifting bars, may hereafter be made safe by monthly or weekly mapping from the air. In earthquake regions, such as southern Italy and Japan, the changing coast lines, shallows and safe harbors can easily be photographed from the air after each fresh shock, thus keeping navigation open and safeguarding the lives of mariners.

Calgary Insures Employees.

Group Insurance to the amount of $1,500,000 has been taken out by the city of Calgary to cover employees in case of death, sickness, accident, or any other cause. Calgary is at present the largest city in Canada providing this form of protection for employees. A feature of the group plan is that many otherwise uninsurable persons are thus included.

BENEFIT OF "LIGHT BATHS"

Rheumatism and Neuritis Yield to Treatment in Which Purple Rays Play Big Part.

The usefulness of "sun baths" for health has long been recognized. Unlimited sunshine has much to do with the beneficial effect of a vacation at the seashore.

Nowadays this matter is better understood than it used to be, and it is known that the heat rays of the sun have nothing to do with the physical benefit obtained from such exposure. It is the chemical rays in the sunbeam—particularly the ultra-violet rays—that do the good work.

Electric light is rich in these rays, and many cures of rheumatism and neuritis have been accomplished by exposing the affected part of the body to a powerful incandescent lamp, its rays concentrated by a hemispherical reflector. For curative purposes physicians have turned to useful account a sort of cabinet lined with such lamps, into which the patient, lying on a padded board, could be slid.

The newest method employs a quartz lamp containing mercury vapor, through which the electric current is passed. Quartz has the advantage of being extraordinarily transparent to ultra-violet rays.

Such a lamp, made in the shape of a tube of small diameter, can be introduced into the nasal passages for the treatment of catarrh or into the throat for the cure of infected tonsils, thus saving the patient an operation.—Philadelphia Ledger.

DON'T FAVOR WEDDING RINGS

Men Dislike Them, but Most Women Insist on the Gold Symbols of Matrimony.

"When I marry, I won't insist on my husband wearing a wedding ring, as people might think he was henpecked," said a pretty miss to a friend recently. According to a jeweler, 86 out of 100 brides do insist, however, says the Milwaukee Journal.

"During the month of May most of the newly engaged drop in for their rings. Occasionally the young man, after selecting a ring for the girl, tells the clerk that he doesn't want any for himself.

"The girl will look at him quickly and say: 'Oh, yes, you do, John dear,' and he buys one. In the majority of cases a plain gold band is selected, but lately a few carved and engraved rings have been sold."

This, of course, does not prove that men wear the rings. A certain young man, on leaving the house in the morning, places his ring in his vest pocket. When leaving the car, on returning home, it is again slipped on his finger. In this way both wife and hubby are perfectly satisfied.

Newspaper Advertising.

Newspaper reading is a universal daily habit; newspaper advertising reaches each day virtually all who buy.

Newspaper advertising is the life blood of local trade because it touches all consumer sources in every community.

Newspaper advertising cuts selling costs because it entails no waste in locality of circulation.

Newspaper advertising insures quick, thorough and economical dealer distribution and dealer good will.

Newspaper advertising enables manufacturers to tell where their products may be bought.

Newspaper advertising can be started or stopped over night.

Newspaper advertising enables manufacturers to check advertising results and costs in every market they enter.

Newspaper advertising costs less than any other kind.—From the Fourth Estate.

Every House Numbered in India.

Numbering houses is an important preliminary to census-taking in India. Nearly 12 months in advance of the census date all the villages in the empire are scheduled, and every house is numbered. In some provinces the census authorities determine in advance the size of the number and specify the proportion of red ochre and oil, or other ingredients, forming the substance with which the number is to be painted.

Racial prejudices have to be considered. In Hyderabad objection is made to tar because of the color, while in other districts the natives consider red ochre unlucky, and if it is used they erase the figures. In the case of huts made of leaves, and also when objection is made on account of caste restrictions to the numbering of houses by enumerators, the numbers are painted on bits of tin, tiles, or pots, and are usually treated with great respect by the natives.

"Burying the Hatchet."

The origin of the synonym for forgetting old quarrels, "Let's bury the hatchet," is traced to an ancient custom of the North American Indians. After indulging in the most ruthless warfare, tribes would assemble at what they believed to be the "call of peace." This, it was supposed, was uttered by the Great Spirit, and in the course of a great council and amidst singular ceremonies, they would smoke the calumet, or pipe of peace, and bury their tomahawks under a mound erected in the center of the smoking circle.

This was equal to an agreement that all enmity was at an end, and the spirit of peace had settled on the camps.

SUFFER WHILE ON SHIPBOARD

Many People Really in Agony During Trip Made on Comparatively Calm Waters.

Sir George Trevelyan tells of crossing the English channel once in bad weather and that during the whole passage his companion stood on deck slowly reciting poetry with emphasis and gesticulation. His companion had explained that this singular practice had been recommended to him as a preventive against seasickness. When they reached France he told Trevelyan that he had nearly got to the end of his English poetry, and if the crossing had been longer he would have had to begin on other languages. Darwin suffered terribly from seasickness during the whole of his early voyage on the Beagle, and never quite recovered from the evil effects of this experience. His bad health during the rest of his life has been attributed to the shocks thus caused to his constitution.

Another distinguished victim of seasickness was General Gordon. During a voyage to Capetown from Mauritius in 1882 he described his suffering and misery as "far more severe than he had ever during his lifetime experienced, either at home or abroad." Very often he repeated his determination to go on shore at the very first port the vessel reached, and one morning, after a sleepless night of sickness, he called the captain to the side of his berth, and offered him £50 if he would make for land with all possible speed.

MYSTERY FOR MANY YEARS

Fascination in Stories Told of the "Lost" Son of the Unfortunate Marie Antoinette.

One of the several personages who cropped up to claim the French throne as the lost dauphin after the guillotining of Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette, was an American, one Eleonor Williams, a missionary among the Indians.

Williams produced alleged evidence showing that he had been brought from France as a child of 10 years and placed in the keeping of an Indian halfbreed at Ticonderoga, N. Y.

The American "dauphin" never attempted to gain official recognition, but his followers put out a flood of literature. Several new books on Williams and his claims have been published quite recently.

The question of the lost dauphin has had France guessing for more than 100 years, or from that day in 1795 when the mutilated body of a boy, 10, ostensibly the dauphin, was taken from the Temple prison in Paris. But half of France refused to believe. So every so often, in after years, when a claimant arose styling himself the heir to the throne, there were always plenty to welcome him. There are said to have been about 40 "lost dauphins" in the 50 years following the death of Louis and Marie Antoinette.

Kept Young by Love of Music.

Francois Gossec, peer of any of the Eighteenth century French composers, worked vigorously and enthusiastically at his music to the time of his death. Even at seventy-eight, he had the freshness of youth not only in his habits, but also in the music which he wrote.

As an instance of how tenaciously he treasured life and the juvenile spirit, when asked to attend the funeral of his friend, Mehul, his jocose reply was: "No, excuse me; I should be giving Death a hint to take me."

When he was well past four-score years, he daily hobbled to the Opera Comique. One day he fainted in the street.

"Where do you wish to be taken?" someone asked, as his consciousness returned.

Quickly recovering his usual spirits, he naively replied, "To the Opera Comique."

Give Credit to Egyptian.

No one knows who wrote the first book, but the claim is made that the world's first great work came from the pen of an Egyptian named Athotes. It was a history of his own nation written in 2112 B. C. The Latins, who excelled in literature long before any of their neighbors, had thought of the publishing business, were gallant enough to ascribe the inspiration to Europa, daughter of Agenor, king of Phoenicia, who lived in 1494 B. C. Just what they wrote under her influence in those days is not recorded. It is certain that Cadmus brought Phoenician letters into Greece in 1483 B. C., and there is enough evidence of published books during these early days to lead one to the conclusion that writing as a business or an art dates back into the earlier era of Egyptian and Phoenician civilization.

The Old, Old Story.

Six of them were engaged in a friendly game of nickel ante. They had been playing for only about two hours and the evening was yet young, when Jones suddenly pushed back his chair and declared:

"Gee whiz, fellows! I just happened to remember I promised my wife I'd be home by 11 o'clock. I'll have to leave right now."

The members of the game were old-timers, though, and the sudden awakening of Jones' conscience didn't fool anybody. Roberts voiced the sentiment of the crowd:

"Gee, Jonesy, old boy, I didn't know you was that much winner!"

HAVE OLD CAVEMAN INSTINCT

Lovers, in the Orient, Primitive in Their Methods of Demonstrating Affection.

There are all sorts of ways of expressing affection. The Mainichi, a Japanese journal, reports the case of a policeman at Hiroshima, who fell in love with a restaurant maid, and when she seemed cold endeavored to convince her of his passion, and mayhap light an answering flame by thrusting her in the calf of her leg with his official sword. He might go further and issue a manual on how to make love, suggests our contemporary. The case of the policeman in question is doubtless a survival of atavism, being a relic of the good old days in the paleolithic age, when the cave man was wont to demonstrate his affection for his affinity by occasional raps on the damsel's head with a bludgeon, says the Shanghai Times.

The submagistrate of Chowghat in India has just disposed of an unusually interesting case in which two Nair women of Guruvayur, mother and daughter, charged three Nair youths with having removed a portion of the roof of the complainants' house and dropped a carcass of a crocodile through the aperture into the room in which the younger woman slept. The motive alleged was revenge, because overtures of the accused had been rejected. An accidental would have taken laudanum or a Japanese swain would have committed harakiri. The Indian, however, showed an originality of conception worthy of a better object. Just imagine your feelings were you to see the dainty form of a hippopotamus issuing from your ceiling!

AND SHE DIDN'T SAY GOODBYE

Naturally Aviator Was a Little Astonished at Way His Passenger Had Left Him.

An airman had been taking up passengers for short trips, and by the time his last trip came was absolutely fed up by being asked silly questions.

He told his passengers, two ladies, that on no account were they to speak to him; that he could not talk and give his attention to his machine and that they must keep silent.

Up they went, and the airman quite enjoyed himself. He looped the loop and practiced all sort of stunts to his own satisfaction with no interruption from his passengers until he felt a touch on his arm.

"What is it?" he said impatiently.

"I'm so sorry to trouble you," said a voice behind, "and I know I oughtn't to speak. I do apologize sincerely, but I can't help it. I thought perhaps you ought to know Annie's gone."

Genius and Success.

Genius is only the power of making continuous efforts. The line between failure and success is so fine that we scarcely know when we pass it; so fine that we are often on the line and do not know it. How many a man has thrown up his hands at a time when a little more effort, a little more patience, would have achieved success! As the tide goes clear out, so it comes clear in. In business sometimes prospects may seem darkest when really they are on the turn. A little more persistence, a little more effort, and what seemed hopeless failure may turn to glorious success. There is no failure except in no longer trying. There is no defeat except from within; no really insurmountable barrier save our own inherent weakness of purpose.—Elbert Hubbard.

Used Noah's Ark Plans.

No secret seems to have been made of the method of construction adopted by Noah in building his ark. On the contrary, the specifications are given in detail in the Bible. Imitations of it have been attempted now and then in recent times. Thus, in the year 1609, a Dutch merchant named Peter Pansen built at Hoorn a ship on the same model, though not of corresponding size. It was 120 feet long, 20 feet broad and 12 feet deep. The vessel was found to be remarkably well-adapted for freightage, and it is said would hold one-third more lading than other ships of like size without requiring more hands to work it. Much more recently several so-called "fleuten," or floats, were built after the model of the ark in Denmark.

Not Realism.

Hawkins (an art critic)—That picture of Regent street is a marvelously fine piece of work, Larkins.

Larkins (who knows nothing about art)—I call it wretched.

Hawkins—Why?

Larkins—As far as you can see up the street there isn't one woman looking back to see what another has on. The artist never lived in the town.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

Where They Differ.

Miss Gushington—Do you believe that when a man and woman are married they have the same thoughts?

Mr. Hardfax—Nope. The woman always thinks she'd have done better if she'd married someone else. The man thinks he'd have been better off if he hadn't married at all.

Unqualified.

Flubb—How did Dudley manage to escape jury duty?

Dubb—His wife was drawn on the same panel, and he convinced the judge they could never agree on anything.—American Legion Weekly.

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 25

REVIEW.

GOLDEN TEXT—As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially them who are of the household of faith.—Gal. 6:10.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Gal. 6:1-10.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Stories of Paul.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Serving Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Living for Jesus.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Sacrificing for Jesus.

Two methods may profitably be employed in the review of the lessons of the Quarter. First, a biographical sketch of the Apostle Paul, such as his birth, home training, education, conversation, teaching and missionary work. Second, the leading teachings of the lessons, which may be made prominent by summarizing the facts of each lesson and stating the most vital teaching thereof. The first method can be used in reviewing the lessons in all departments and grades, and can be easily adapted by any teacher. The second method will be preferred by many in the senior and adult classes.

The following is given by way of suggestion:

Lesson 1. Paul was born at Tarsus, of Hebrew parentage. Being brought up in a pious home, he was thoroughly imbued with the spirit of devotion to the Scriptures. He was educated at Jerusalem under the tutelage of Gamaliel. The chief text book was the Bible. In addition to his religious training he was taught a trade which came in very useful later, enabling him to support himself while preaching the gospel.

Lesson 2. In Paul's training as a Pharisee, he was taught to love his own nation, to love God's law, and to be zealous toward God, that is, to have a passion for God and His work.

Lesson 3. Paul's burning hatred of Jesus incited him to endeavor to stamp out the Nazarene heresy. While on the way to Damascus, with authority to arrest and imprison the believers, men and women, he was stricken with blindness and fell to the earth, and Jesus spoke to him from heaven, saying, "Why persecutest thou me?" In response to the heavenly instruction he went to Damascus where Ananias baptized him, and he received his sight and was filled with the Holy Spirit.

Lesson 4. Paul straightway preached Christ in the synagogue. Like everyone who is really converted he began to tell of the newly found Saviour. After a lengthy sojourn in Arabia he visited Jerusalem where he was befriended by Barnabas when suspected by the disciples.

Lesson 5. When the religious awakening at Antioch had come to the attention of the Jerusalem church, Barnabas was sent to inspect it, and seeing help was needed he brought Paul from Tarsus to be his helper.

Lesson 6. After teaching a year at Antioch, the Spirit moved the church to send forth Barnabas and Paul to evangelize the heathen. The church sent her best men.

Lesson 7. As Paul and Barnabas were preaching at Iconium, an attempt was made to worship them as gods. Their efforts were frustrated by the tact of Paul. Soon after this Paul was stoned, showing that satanic worship can soon be turned into satanic hate.

Lesson 8. Paul's preaching the grace of God to the heathen brought on a controversy in the church at Antioch. The question in dispute was: "Shall Gentiles be required to keep the Mosaic law as a condition of salvation?" The decision was in favor of Paul, and so Paul and Barnabas were free to begin their second missionary journey.

Lesson 9. The Spirit forbade Paul to tarry longer in the provinces of Asia preaching the Gospel, and by a vision of a man from Macedonia pleading for help, he was called into Europe.

Lesson 10. The casting out of a demon from a young woman resulted in landing Paul and Silas in jail. They were miraculously delivered and the jailer was converted.

Lesson 11. Being driven out from Thessalonica and Berea, Paul went to Athens where he preached the gospel on Mars' Hill. The result of his preaching here was that some mocked, some procrastinated, and some believed.

Lesson 12. Paul in this lesson sets forth the grand principles which should govern the believer's life, the sum and substance of which is: "Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God."

The Name of Jesus.

Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name: that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow; and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.—Philippians 2:9-11.

Trust in God.

Trust in God for great things. With your five loaves and two fishes He will show you a way to feed thousands.—Horace Bushnell.

Missionary Results in South America
Psalms 2:1-8

The second Psalm which is given for our Scripture lesson has no direct bearing on the topic. It is a kingdom psalm and relates to that time when the kingdom of Christ shall be established and He shall reign in righteousness.

The following quotations will provide items of interest concerning missionary work in South America. "Thousands of the aboriginal Indians of South America have never seen a white man, never heard the name of God, and the outside world to them is a blank. They are at the bottom of the scale of civilization, but the missionaries are reaching some of them."

"The South American religion is the one religion on earth that has no sacred book for the people. Even the priests are ignorant of the Bible. People are hungering for the Word."

"While the Roman churches have held the undisputed right of way for nearly three centuries, the conditions prevailing are distressing. First: there is an appalling illiteracy. For example, Argentine Republic 50%; Chile 60%; Bolivia 80%; Brazil 95%; Guatemala 95%. Compare this with the United States. The most illiterate state in the Union is Louisiana, due to the vast number of Negroes in the population. But the illiteracy of Louisiana is only 16%. Second: there is a wide-spread immorality. Third: almost universal infidelity among the educated classes. The men and women of Latin America are unable to sanction the gross superstition and soulless ritualism of the Roman Church and while nominally, they hold membership in the church, agnosticism prevails among them."

"For one hundred years and more, Latin America has viewed with distrust the United States of America, but within the last ten years, relations have greatly improved and the importance of the work of the Protestant missionary is more fully appreciated by the leading Latin Americans than ever before. Captain Allen Gardiner, hero and martyr, brought the gospel to Tierra del Fuego. He died without seeing any result, but today the harvest is springing up."

"Only one person out of six hundred in Latin America belongs to an evangelical church. Thirty-one missionary societies are at work in the various republics of South America with a total foreign staff of 2,200, which includes the wives of the missionaries."

The hour of our supreme opportunity has come. Latin America must have the chance to know the Christ of the Gospels in His power to illumine, to cleanse and to free the souls of men.

UNLIKE THE OLD-TIME DUEL

Recent Affair of Honor in Paris Actually Appears to Have Been Carefully "Chaperoned."

Not long ago a quarrel broke out between a subprefect and the secretary general of the prefecture in a department of the west. Feeling ran so high that blows were exchanged. Exchanged? No, not quite. The word isn't quite exact. If they had really been exchanged, both the enemies might have thrown up the sponge. But there was bestowal of slaps by one of the functionaries and simple reception without return by the other. That was serious! Only blood could adequately wash the offended cheek!

They secured their witnesses, named the day and bought themselves swords. But the prefect found out about it. At first he tried to effect a reconciliation between the two foes. Vain effort! Then he tried to use his authority to forbid their fighting. Useless threat! They offered him two heroic resignations to win the right to get themselves killed.

"Well, then, have your confounded throats cut, if you want to!" he cried. "But you shall assist at the combat and I'll hold you responsible for the lives of both of them," he said to the chief clerk of the prefecture. "If anybody gets hurt I shall discharge you!"

The chief clerk obeyed without a murmur. He chaperoned the encounter with a huge sword in his hand, and whenever a blow seemed dangerous, he warned off the murderous weapon. In the end they made it up, and the prefect was content.—From Le Crie, Paris.

Beirut's Housing Problem.

The return of many Syrians from North and South America, the presence of the French army of occupation, civil officers, European commercial travelers, tourists and refugees have together caused an unprecedented housing shortage in Beirut which is becoming a serious problem. The local government has attempted to control the rents by a decree, but the upward trend continues.

The several hotels deserving of mention can accommodate only about 250 persons in all. The city, with a population of 190,000, has no first-class hotel.—Commerce Reports.

WHY

Fear Is Chief Obstacle to Progress of Mankind

J. S. Knox of Cleveland, lecturer and writer on personal efficiency, in discussing salesmanship recently, declared:

"You have just three things to offer to the world—brains, character and muscle. Which are you going to offer? If you offer brains, you are a 'chin-upper.' If you offer nothing but muscle, you are a 'chin-downer.' What can you sell for a price—your best, your second best, or your worst? Brains come high, but unless you have something better to offer than mere brains you are headed straight for the penitentiary. Character, in combination with brains, correctly trained, is the best-paid product in the world."

"What do you regard as the chief obstacle to success?" he was asked.

"Fear!" he exclaimed emphatically. "Fear and ignorance. Fear is the great foe of the race. It robs us of the best there is in life. If we submit to fear, it will hold us down in poverty, misery, despair."

"Knowledge is the antidote for fear, as surely as light is the antidote for darkness. Courage and self-confidence are the results of knowledge. Success is not so much a matter of brain as it is of getting the right facts and learning how to use them. There is no such thing in life as an opportunity for any man unless he is ready for it. You can create opportunities by developing your native powers, by gathering practical information and ideas."

"America's greatest tragedy and greatest loss is due to lack of education. If a man doubled the use of his brain power the world would be tremendously benefited, as well as the man himself. The great American desert is not located west of the Mississippi river, but under the hat of the average man, because he uses only a small percentage of his native talent."—Leslie's.

TASK IS BEYOND SCIENTISTS

Why It Is Improbable That Mankind Will Ever Be Able to See a Molecule.

Shall we ever be able to get a microscope so powerful that it will show us a molecule? Science believes not. While the ultra-microscope enables us to detect an object as small as a five-millionth part of an inch in diameter—that is, the 25-million-millionth of a square inch—a molecule of hydrogen is only one-thirtieth of this.

The principle of the ultra-microscope is simply that, instead of directing a powerful beam of light into the microscope through the liquid to be examined, it is sent horizontally into the liquid at right angles to the line of vision—from the side. Then, if the liquid is optically empty—if it has no floating particles—there is nothing to reflect the light, and the field of vision appears quite dark.

If, on the other hand, tiny particles are present in the liquid, the light is reflected, and the minute points of light stand out against the dark background, making the particles visible.

Why Fatigue Is Dangerous.

For fatigue can be quite a dangerous and costly luxury where many workers are employed. It is found that it bears quite pointedly on the rate of production, and hence its cost, and on the accident and illness curves and on many other elements that enter into industrial efficiency.

Surprising variations in the fatigue caused by different kinds of work and among workers in the same kind of employment have been found.

In lathe machine work operations in a munition factory it was found the average fall of strength from morning until knocking off time was 28.67 per cent. The average for other work in the same factory was as low as 24.52 per cent. There was much wider variation among individuals.—Milwaukee Journal.

Why Newfoundland Is Important.

One importance of Newfoundland is its geographical position. St. John's, the chief port and capital of the country, is 1,000 miles nearer England than is New York. In fact, it is only 1,466 miles from the coast of Ireland, so greatly does the Atlantic shrink off the coast of Newfoundland. That is why this unique country has had the distinction of receiving the first trans-Atlantic wireless message at St. John's in 1901; and also why the first nonstop trans-Atlantic airplane flight started from the same vicinity. The Cape Race light is the first greeting from America to ships on the northern route from Europe, and it is the last to flash godspeed to east-bound vessels. Newfoundland is verily the stepping stone between America and Europe.—World's Work.

Why Cultivation Is Imperative.

A scientific reason for the value of cultivation or tith in agriculture has been suggested by an interesting capillary phenomenon reported in Germany. A block of plaster of paris or other porous material was moistened with salt solution, and on drying it was found that evaporation withdrew the salt, depositing it at the surface. Hoing or stirring the soil facilitates evaporation by exposing a greater total surface. Jerome Alexander, in Science, concludes that the rising of the subsurface water brings to roots soluble substances serving as plant food, and that the capillary rise of water also explains the curious fact that cultivation in dry weather tends to furnish moisture to the growing crop.

Disappointed.

"So you went into the country to get 'atmosphere?' How did you like it?"
"Disappointed. Couldn't find a farmer who had a horse named Dobbin, and never heard one of them say 'By heck!'"

Very Rich.

The Governess—I'm afraid your little daughter will never learn to spell.
Mrs. Newriche—It won't make any difference. When she grows up she'll have money enough to employ a secretary.

Misunderstanding.

Mrs. Wiggs—Ain't it goin' to be awful when the soldiers get back?
Mrs. Figs—Whatever do you mean?
Mrs. Wiggs—Why, they say the boys will all come home demoralized.

Remember The Girl

HUNDREDS of young women are busy in our many central offices in Maryland, putting up telephone connections. Day after day, and night after night, the work goes on. The little lights on the switchboard never cease to blink.

Many of these calls are of the gravest importance. Some are comparatively trivial. But each call must be answered and completed as it comes in. There is no way to pick out and speed up the important ones. Business calls, social calls—they all demand the operator's attention.

The operator is giving loyal and cheerful service and anything that you may do to help her give you better service will be appreciated.

A sufferer who lives close to a railroad yard in the suburbs wrote the following to the railroad company complaining about the racket made by a switch engine: "Gentlemen: Why is it that your switch engine has to ding and dong and fizz and spit and bang and hiss and pant and grate and grind and puff and bump and chug and hoot and toot and whistle and wheeze and jar and jerk and howl and snarl and puff and growl and thump and boom and clash and jolt and screech and snort and snarl and slam and throb and roar and rattle and yell and smoke and smell and shriek like—all night long?"—Boston Globe.

Just A Little.

"I want a shave," said the determined looking man, as he climbed into the barbers' chair. "I don't want a hair-cut nor a shampoo. Neither do I want any bay rum, witch hazel, hair tonic, hot towels or face massage. I don't want the manicure lady to hold my hand, nor the bootblack to fondle my feet. I just want a plain shave with no trimmings. Do you understand that?" "Yes sir," said the barber. "Will you have some lather on your face sir?"—New York Sun.

Taneytown Baseball Notes.

The Emmitsburg Chronicle, last week, gave an account of a game won from Woodsboro by Emmitsburg on Saturday, but had not a word to say about its 3 to 2 defeat by Taneytown, on Wednesday. Perhaps it will give this game space this week? Why the delay?

The rain, last Saturday afternoon, likely robbed the home club of a victory over Wrightsville, Pa., as the score stood 5 to 3 in favor of Taneytown when the game was called in the third inning with the home club at the bat, and only one man out. The ground was very wet due to a heavy rain before the game, but the second shower made it impossible to continue. Our boys wanted this game, to help even things up with the visitors, and were evidently going after it hard.

Barbed-Wire Fence Phones.

There are still many rural homes that do not have telephones, and, as at present, economy in all lines is imperative, interest is reviving in the "barbed-wire system," which was more or less common in parts of the West 20 years ago.

In Carson County, S. Dak., the county agricultural agent has assisted farmers to install such a system at an average cost of material per farmer of less than $20. Carson County is 87 miles long and very sparsely settled, although the agricultural lands are fenced. Standard telephone lines appeared to be too expensive, yet there was a great need of facilitating communication. The county agent furnished information regarding the cost of installing the line, using procelain nail knobs for insulation, which cost about $5 per mile. These knobs work satisfactorily when the barbed wire is tied to them with a short piece of wire.

In order further to reduce the cost some farmers tried pieces of rubber cut from automobile inner tubes as insulators. Pieces of the tubing 1 1/2 inches square were wound around the barbed wire and fastened to the post with staples. The county agent reports that this insulation is giving satisfaction, although, of course, the rubber will deteriorate in time.

The farmers were able to obtain secondhand phones at from $5 to $20 each, and 50 cents bought a lightning arrester, so that the total cost per farmer was nominal.

Each farmer has his own special ring, so there is no expense for a central. It is possible with a system like this to connect various parts of the farm or distant barns with the house, or the tenant house with the farm home, at a very low cost. While such a system leaves much to be desired in the way of service, it meets an emergency and can be made to answer, pending the coming of times when conditions will warrant a more expensive and more satisfactory system.
