

MILLIONS WANTED ON MARYLAND ROADS

Estimates Made for the Next Two Years Extensions.

Nearly $11,000,000—to be exact, $10,900,000—will be required for road construction and maintenance in Maryland for the two-year period beginning October 1, 1922—that is, for the state's fiscal years of 1923 and 1924. Such is the estimate by John N. Mackall, chairman of the State Roads Commission.

Federal, state and county funds will be represented in this amount. Federal funds, which will be used for construction, will of course come from federal appropriation. They will be matched dollar for dollar with state money. County funds, to be used in construction, will also be matched on the 50-50 basis by state money.

Money for maintenance will be supplied from the receipts of the Motor Vehicle Commissioner's office.

For the fiscal year of 1923 the Roads Commission's requisition may thus be itemized:

Maintenance (from Motor Vehicle Com.'s receipts), $2,100,000
Construction:
Bond issue .... $1,500,000
From budget .. 100,000
$1,600,000
From counties .. 750,000
Federal aid..... 850,000
3,200,000

Total for 1923.....$5,300,000
For the fiscal year of 1924 the items will be identical, except that $2,400,000 will be asked for maintenance, making the total for that year $5,600,000, or the aggregate for the two years, $10,900,000.

In addition a bond issue for bridge construction will be asked for 1923. The amount of the proposed issue has not been decided; it will probably be for several hundred thousand dollars.

The position taken by the Roads Commission is that the net receipts from the Motor Vehicle Commissioner's office—money which comes from motorists—should be devoted entirely to road maintenance and that none of it should be diverted into the state treasury to be used for other purposes.

Parent-Teacher Associations.

We have received a very lengthy communication from Mrs. J. Pearre Wantz, Westminster, county chairman of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, reciting in detail various activities, largely with reference to the formation of Parent-Teacher Associations in Carroll County, giving the names of those actively engaged in the work, together with some of the things accomplished.

Parent-Teacher Associations are operating at the Charles Carroll School; at New Windsor, Mt. Airy, Union Bridge, Westminster, Sykesville and Hampstead. The closing paragraphs are as follows: "What is the matter with the patrons of the schools of Taneytown, Manchester and Uniontown? If we could only get some interested people to start such associations in these three places about all the large centers of our county would then have a school association."

We have a State Parent-Teacher Association and also a National Parent-Teacher Association and by being affiliated with the larger organizations, helps to complete the links in the larger chains and thereby makes a stronger united work for all, and for our nation."

Warm Weather Causes Food Loss of $16,045 in Baltimore.

The inspectors of Baltimore's food supplies, as sold in the stores and markets were kept busy this week, on account of the warm spell, condemning food, chiefly game and poultry. This is done to prevent disease and to keep a check on dealers who are apt to sell, whether their wares are eatable or not. The items condemned were:

Rabbits, 16,800 pounds, estimated value $4,203.50
Turkeys, 13,650 pounds, estimated value $6,190.00
Oysters, 8,850 pounds, estimated value $2,361.00
Chickens, 1,280 pounds, estimated value $640.00
Fish, 3,600 pounds, estimated value $600.
Opossums, estimated value $50.
Total, 43,580 pounds, value $16,045.10.

These items were saturated with kerosene, and burned. The lot represented the seizures since last Saturday morning.

New Subscribers Received.

The Record has been receiving an encouraging number of new subscribers, during the past few weeks; but, so far as we can determine, the "Subscribe for your Home Paper Week" was one of the well-meant efforts, that failed. But, perhaps our friends are holding back to make Christmas Gifts of The Record? One week is as good as another, for us.

WANTED! WANTED! WANTED!

Read this Article, and then Profit by the Reading.

There are lots of our readers losing time, money and opportunity, every week, by not making greater use of our "Special Notice" department. Instead of about a column of space, it should cover two or three columns, and this opinion is not advanced for our own profit, but as the result of actual known facts, covering over twenty-seven years of experience and observation.

Last February and March The Record advertised about 100 sales of personal property, and during the other ten months of the year, about 100 more. At these sales thousands of articles were sold. Somebody, from somewhere, wanted every article. This is the condition every week in the year. Why wait for a public sale?

This week, a man advertised for a "man and wife" to work on a stocked farm. There were five inquiries. The help was secured at a cost of 15 cents. But, the most important fact is that there are four other "man and wife" who want positions. Why not advertise for them?

Our "Special" column is made up largely of "Help Wanted," "For Sale," "Notice," "Lost" and "Found." Why should "Help" wait to be advertised for? and why should those who want to buy something, wait until somebody advertises it?

Everywhere, pieces of unused but serviceable machinery are standing around in the way in somebody's barn or shed. Everywhere, attics are being filled with unused furniture. Why not advertise and sell these articles instead of letting them grow into less value?

Do you want a situation, now or in the Spring? Why wait until somebody hears of it, indirectly? Why not advertise your wants? The city papers are full of "situations wanted" by all classes of help and mechanics.

A lot of people accumulate a mass of stuff of one kind or another, and perhaps once in a lifetime—maybe after death—a public sale is made, at which time many of the articles have simply "rotted out" or become "out of date" due to the ravages of time. These articles could all have been sold, if advertised separately, when in their best condition.

Remember, there is always a purchaser, somewhere, for everything. There is always somebody who wants help. No matter what it is, there is always a market for it. Why not tell the most people of your "wants" or your "For sales," by advertising? The Record is read, every week, by fully four times as many people as subscribe for it. These people are scattered over miles and miles of distance from Taneytown. See the point? If you do, you see the point and value of advertising. The best business men do it, everywhere; and a man need not be a store-keeper to be a good "business man."

New Clerks in Court House.

The assistants in the Clerk's Office, and in the office of Register of Wills, are reported to have been named, as follows:

First deputy in the Clerk's Office, Mr. Shipley; second, Levi D. Maus; third, C. M. Copenhagen, and Mr. Earhart. In the Orphans' Court, E. Ray Fogle and J. E. Lippy, the latter a present assistant.

The new officials expect to qualify and take charge of their duties, December 1.

Advice that is Rarely Taken.

There is never much use in advising that Christmas purchases be made very early, as it seems part of the joys of the season to fuss and skimish around in the few last days for "gifts." No doubt this year will be like many others, in that respect; still, there are always a few who realize the happy feeling that the job is finished and off their mind, weeks before the day arrives, and we believe the number of wise ones is growing.

Nearly every household ought to have enough preparing to do in the way of baking and "getting ready" for Christmas, not to be worried over running to stores in the last week, and perhaps then be disappointed in not getting what they want—or in trying to find out what they want to get.

Christmas is coming, just as surely as anything can be, on December 25, 1921, whether we be ready for it, or not.

Answer to Problem in Addition.

One correct answer was received to the problem in addition, from J. R. Galt, New Windsor, who gave it like this:  $29 + 67 + 3 + 4 + 8 + 5 + 10 = 100$ . Another correct answer, not sent in by anybody, is  $50\frac{1}{2} + 49\frac{3}{8} + 76 = 100$ .

Several other "near" answers were received, showing ingenuity, but all required double additions and two totals to make 100.

Election Expenses in Carroll.

The Supervisors of Election have submitted to the Carroll County Commissioners their account of expenses in the recent election. The total expense was $9,138.42. The cost of advertising and printing in the county papers was $1,184; the cost of ballots tally sheets and poll books $1,296 and attorney's fee $100.

THE ANTI-BEER BILL PASSES SENATE.

And President Harding Promptly
Makes it the Law.

The anti-beer Bill, that nullifies the present regulations permitting beer to be prescribed as a "medicine" passed the Senate, on Friday last, 56 to 22. As the Bill had previously passed the House's action placed the measure up to the President, Senator France voted for, and Senator Weller against the Bill. President Harding signed the bill, on Wednesday, quickly setting at rest all speculation as to what he would do with it.

In the opinion of "wets" however, the fight on medicinal beer, about which centered their hopes against prohibition, has not ended. They expect to contest the constitutionality of the bill on the grounds the Eighteenth Amendment prohibited the manufacture and sale of liquor for beverage purposes, but not for medicinal purposes.

In addition to prohibition prescription of beer as medicine the bill limits prescriptions of vinous liquors by physicians to not more than one-fourth a gallon for each ten days and the number of prescriptions to 100 in ninety days. It gives the prohibition commissioner broad powers to prohibit manufacture of patent medicines used for beverage purposes because of their alcoholic content. It regulates importation of liquors for non-beverage purposes and gives the courts of Hawaii and the Virgin Islands jurisdiction to enforce the national prohibition act.

The bill also requires a warrant whenever a private residence is to be searched.

Letter from Florida.

Maj. A. M. Hall, writing to the Sykesville Herald, from Apopka, Florida, says in part;

"Tourists are now pouring into Florida by train and automobile every hour. Thousands of them camp here through the winter months, living in the open all the time. The coast city hotels, magnificent in their appointments, size and attractiveness are already well filled with people of wealth who have come to loll in the warm sunshine and motor under the palms and through the orange groves. They are a great asset for Florida. They spend millions here. Each city has its quota. Hundreds of people of moderate means find accommodations in the smaller towns. Every little municipality has its camping ground for tourists and invites them to come. We came through one beautiful little town that is so considerate of the tourists that it gives up its beautiful Court House plaza for their use. The tourists are good spenders and all lines of business get a share.

Some of these people come here for their health, others to invest in orange groves and others just to see. I met one man who said he came here from Mississippi to spend a winter and he fell so violently in love with Florida that he has been here for 39 years. Folks up home have many mistaken notions about Florida. There are those who believe it to be a land of swamps, snakes, alligators and fevers. Nothing could be further from the truth.

There are some swamps, of course, as there are elsewhere. There are beautiful little fresh water lakes everywhere (there are about 5,000 in the State and 1,200 in this county where we are) but they are not filled with snakes nor alligators, but with trout and other fine fish. At rare intervals you meet with a rattlesnake or a moccasin, but you find these in Maryland also, and quite as many. There are some alligators in aquariums as there are in the North, but I have not seen any of these reptiles crawling about the lakes down here, waiting to devour some human prowler. There are no fevers here. Another terror, more fearsome than alligators, snakes or fevers, is also absent, and this is the coal bin!"

Middletown's Soldiers' Memorial.

Middletown, Frederick county, has commenced work on a $50,000 Soldiers' Memorial building. When completed it will be one of the finest memorials in the state. The building will be of buff brick, and will contain an auditorium that will seat 600 persons.

In front will be rooms for use of the American Legion, Public Library and town officials. A large room will be set aside for the use of lodges public events, dances, banquets, etc. Emory L. Coblenz and Charles M. Shank subscribed $25,000 toward the memorial.

Calendars for 1923.

The Record office, last week, finished up the largest Calendar business ever handled by it, nearly all of the lots being of much finer quality than in other years. Samples for 1923—a more extensive line than ever—and at lower prices than for 1922—will be on hand about January 1. Look this line over, place your orders at home, and save money at the same time, instead of buying from foreigners, who sell at higher prices and require purchaser to pay delivery charges.

TWO PROPOSED LAWS.

Compulsory Voting, and a Tax on Gasoline for Automobiles.

At least two new laws, state-wide in their effect, are proposed for the coming session of the legislature, and it is safe to predict that both will meet with strong objection.

One is a law providing for compulsory voting. It is strongly urged that as voting is a great gift, and privilege, it should be generally used, not only because it is a privilege, but because it is a duty. It is proposed to require voting from all who are qualified, except in cases in which non-voting is clearly excusable for urgent reasons. The law will be strongly urged by Labor Unionists, and others.

The second is a tax on gasoline, per gallon, used in motor vehicles, in addition to the horse-power tax now imposed. It will be urged that this would be unfair, as a double tax, and that it will be difficult to enforce because of the many uses for which gasoline is purchased. Those favoring the law, however, say the roads must have more revenue, and the proper place to get it is from those who wear out the roads most, and that this can best be determined by the use of gasoline for power.

Such a tax is now in force in fifteen states, and is said to work admirably. All gasoline engines not used in motor vehicles on highways, would be exempt.

Proceedings of Court.

The grand jury for Carroll county was discharged last Friday afternoon after having been in session for four days. Twenty-three indictments were found. Most of the indictments are for minor larcenies and nonsupport of wives and children. Two are for keeping gaming tables.

The jury recommended "that the County Commissioners find a means of securing evidence against violation of the liquor law, as it is evident from our experience that such evidence cannot be obtained from persons who participate in its violation."

The extra session of Congress adjourned on Wednesday, after passing the Tax revision bill, and will reconvene in regular session Dec. 5.

FRENCH ATTITUDE GIVES CONCERN.

Strongly in Favor of Maintaining a Large Army.

The speech of M. Briand, chief of the French delegation, delivered the first of this week, has easily been the big theme for discussion in Disarmament circles. It was a clear statement of the French attitude concerning the need for the maintenance in France of a big standing army. It was a recital of the ever-present fear that after the rehabilitation of Germany, another war will follow, and France, having no water barrier between her and the enemy, would again bear the brunt of loss, even should help come, as in the last war.

The speech is variously regarded. There is but one opinion as to its force and eloquence, and to its openheartedness. It unquestionably laid bare the heart of France, and very few believe that there was any dissimulation in it. Possibly too strenuous in picturing future European troubles; but, France came near death twice, and has a right to go to extremes to prevent a third opportunity.

It must be admitted, however, that the speech has stirred up doubt as to the outcome of the parley. The insistence on the maintenance by France, of a big army, gives opportunity for pessimism and will result in the spread of Pro-German propaganda, and there are even those who hint that France is aiming for a pretext to over-run Germany.

It is generally regarded that the next steps will be the most important. Up to this time, agreement has been made to broad principles; now comes the delicate task of agreeing on actual facts—to details. The Hughes disarmament plan is under criticism by other Naval experts, and "jockeying" is to be expected on the part of other countries to get as much of the "inside track" as possible. The politeness of the affair is over, and next comes the business details.

Work is being prosecuted rapidly. There is no expectation of the parley being a long drawn out one, and very little time will be taken up with tedious talk and haggling. Very likely the whole affair will be over before Christmas; and, while there is some feeling of seriousness and pessimism, natural to so great an object, there is strong hope that the agreements to be reached will be vastly worth while, and in full harmony with the inception of the effort.

Even France must now feel that the Briand address has drawn from both Britain and the United States all the indorsement France can hope for, and that the carefully worded responses of Mr. Balfour and Mr. Hughes contain a warning to Germany that will be well worth heeding by that country. The fact is, Mr. Briand said nothing new in his fears, and in the recital of unsettled conditions in Europe, which also means that critics of the French attitude can have nothing new to present.

Another important feature of the week was the presentation to the conference of a series of resolutions by Mr. Root, for the guidance of the committee in its discussions on China.

These resolutions were agreed to by the three principal parties—Great Britain, Japan and America, as well as others—and they served officially to commit the delegates to a line of discussion on China, which is, in a general sense, the line of discussion desired by the United States. These resolutions committed the delegates to respect the integrity of China in full; to give China free rein for governmental rehabilitation; to observe the principle of the open door; "to refrain from taking advantage of the present conditions in order to seek special rights or privileges" inimical to the rights of citizens of friendly states.

Proceedings of the Orphans' Court.

Monday, Nov. 21, 1921—Letters of administration on the estate of Elmer N. Yost, deceased, were granted unto M. Agatha Yost, who received warrant to appraise and an order to notify creditors.

James N. Dorsey, guardian of Frank A. Dorsey, settled his second and final account.

The last will and testament of David J. W. Earhart, deceased, was admitted to probate and letters of administration w. a. were granted unto Calvin E. Bankert and Jacob R. L. Wink, who received warrant to appraise and an order to notify creditors.

The last will and testament of Jacob F. Elgin, deceased, was admitted to probate and letters testamentary thereon were granted unto Mary E. Elgin and John H. Elgin, who received warrant to appraise and an order to notify creditors.

William C. Bish, executor of Joel Bish, deceased, settled his first and final account.

Tuesday, Nov. 22, 1921—Lydia E. Brown, administratrix of David H. personal property and settled her first and final account.

Senator Watson, of Georgia, made a vicious attack on Henry Ford, on Monday, in a heated debate in the Senate over the Newberry case, in which he declared the government paid Ford large sums for materials never delivered—the amount being about $5,000,000.

CORN FOR FUEL.

Cheaper than Coal in Many Sections of the Country.

Secretary Wallace, of the Department of Agriculture recently published a table showing the relative value of corn and coal for fuel purposes. He said:

"Ear corn at 20 cents a bushel is equal in fuel value to a fair grade of western soft coal at approximately $10 a ton. In districts where corn is very cheap now the coal is usually of a rather poor grade and is selling at high prices. Under such conditions it will pay both farmers and people in country towns to use corn instead of coal."

From this it is easy to figure that corn at 30 cents a bushel is equal to coal at $15.00 a ton, and other corn prices in like proportion. He further says:

"The drier the corn the higher its fuel value. It can be burned either on the ear or shelled but better on the ear."

"In times past, when corn was very cheap, it has been burned as fuel, in the United States, but mostly on the farms. In Argentina both corn and small grain are sometimes burned as fuel, not alone on the farms but in power plants. Undoubtedly large quantities of corn will be burned on western farms this winter unless the prices should materially advance. The farmer will find the corn cheaper fuel than coal, and in addition will save the cost of hauling the corn to town and hauling the coal back. People in the country towns will probably find it will pay them to buy ear corn for their furnaces and heating stoves unless coal should decrease considerably in price or corn should advance."

Water Saves Heat.

The average house owner burns too much coal, principally because he does not know how to regulate his heater.

The satisfactory and efficient heating of homes requires that the chimney or flue be of proper size and in the proper place; that the proper heating equipment be installed correctly; that the plant be understood thoroughly and operated so that it gives the most heat from the fuel consumed; that the house be constructed so that the heat is held in; that the air be kept moist; and that enough fresh air be admitted either continuously or from time to time to avoid the discomfort or unhealthful conditions due to accumulation of carbonic acid gasses.

The best and highest priced heater improperly installed may give less satisfaction than the poorest and cheapest put in correctly. Practically all heating plants have four dampers. A draft damper in the door of the ash pit is opened to admit air through the fire, which causes it to burn rapidly. A check damper located in the smoke pipe is opened to admit cold air into the flue, thus interfering with the draft and retarding the burning of fuel in the heater. The damper located in the feed door is used for the same purpose. Through it cold air is admitted directly over the fire, and if opened wide, it acts as a check. When regulated properly it admits just sufficient air to supplement that admitted through the draft damper and causes more perfect combustion of the fuel. The smoke pipe damper is located between the furnace and the check draft, and can be used to control the draft above the fuel in windy weather or at night.—Dep't Agriculture.

Concrete Mixing Experiments.

Experiments to determine just what kinds of materials are best for concrete, and in what proportions to mix them so that they will wear in a road, are being made by engineers of the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture. An apparatus will be used that consists of heavy steel wheels which, guided by a mechanical arrangement, roll continuously back and forth over the pavement.

More than 40 different sections of concrete pavement, each 10 feet long, will be laid. Materials from many different parts of the country are being shipped to the Government Experimental Farm at Arlington, Va., near Washington. They will be mixed with varying quantities of cement and water to determine which is best. Experience has shown that there is a measurable amount of wear of the surface of a concrete road each year.

CHRISTMAS ADVERTISING.

Space will be very much in demand during December. All advertisers are requested to make arrangements, on Monday or Tuesday, each week, for all extra space desired; otherwise, we may not be able to meet the demand.

The Rev. Milton Whitener, pastor of Redeemer's Reformed church, Littlestown, for the past six years has presented his resignation to that congregation to accept a call to the Reformed church, at High Point, North Carolina. The Rev. Mr. Whitener and family will leave Littlestown on or about December 1.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has sent out notices that hog cholera is reported to exist on the premises of Mrs. William Stone, near Hampstead, and advises the usual precautionary measures, as the disease is very contagious.

Our School Officials Should be Elected.

It is a fact of record, and rating, that the states that have elected school officials stand at the head of the list in excellence. This may be due to other causes than the election instead of appointment, of officials, but we think it quite reasonable to assume that where officials are elected greater interest is shown in schools, and the people feel closer to them.

The only states now having the old appointive system are in the South—including Maryland—and it is these states that bring up the tail end of educational status. The northern, middle-western and western states, are way in the lead, and all have some plan or other of election. The fact is significant.

Why then should Maryland follow the non-progressive crowd? Is it lack of public interest? Is it a holding fast to political patronage for partisan purposes? Is it a feeling that because we have the appointive system, it is too difficult to try to get rid of?

As an item of expense, our schools are at the top of the list. In Carroll County, 60c of the present $1.40 tax rate, is for schools, while another 32½c goes to pay interest on county school warrants. We therefore have a hot contest over the election of County Commissioners who spend only 47½c of the total $1.40; but rest quietly over the expenditure of 92½c by officials whom we do not elect.

The non-election of school officials appears to be the single exception in which we can not hold officials personally accountable, in the sense that they can be "voted out" when they are not responsive to public sentiment. The Governor appoints the State Superintendent, also the county Boards, and these appoint the County Superintendent and the local trustees.

The idea back of the system likely was to "keep the schools out of politics," but the very safety of government rests "in politics," and in the fact that the people elect, and are responsible for, the officials elected. If we want to keep "out of politics" why not also have the County Commissioners appointed? No, we want "government by the people," and not government by one man, nor by Boards and Superintendents removed from direct accounting to the tax-payers.

The Harding Plan.

What is claimed to be a careful and earnest analysis of the American plan of disarmament, is, that it is neither President Harding's nor Secretary Hughes' proposition, but one carefully drawn, after four months surveys of all the Navies of the world, by the U. S. Navy Department. It is a plan backed by expert knowledge, agreed to in detail by President Harding and Mr. Hughes, the Cabinet, and by at least a largely representative number of Senators of both parties.

President Harding, instead of personally presenting the proposition, commissioned Secretary Hughes for the task, and in so doing virtually eliminated himself as the leading figure, in what promises to be one of the world's greatest events, but many see in it statesmanship of the highest order. The President has not withdrawn himself from further participation, but is an active figure in the power represented by Secretary Hughes, in close touch with him, and both in complete harmony.

When other questions come up—for instance, limitation of land forces—it is claimed that the same plan will be pursued; exact expert information from our Army organization; conferences with Senators and others, and a concrete proposition representing the United States, without any effort toward personal domination or personal glorification.

Comparisons draw themselves between the Harding and the Wilson plans of putting over big international agreements. Perhaps it is quite clear that the one suggested the other, and that the weakness of the Wilson plan made it clear that it should be avoided in the present case. At any rate, it seems generally conceded that the President is much stronger in the present case than was Mr. Wilson in the League of Nations, and that the disarmament proceedings are more likely to succeed because of the present policy.

There is also the vast difference, that the conference is not likely to attempt to accomplish too much at one stroke. That it will make a material beginning toward establishing peace in the world, and not try to invent, at once, a code of action covering all Nations and all questions, for all time. While this plan may not be fully satisfying to peace extremists, it promises to meet the natural order of accomplishment, and the experience of the world that great inventions are always a gradual development and are never perfected in any one machine.

"No Receipt Required."

Quite a number of business men are using a rubber stamp "No Receipt Required" when remitting for a bill, while others write the message on the bill returned with check. The old custom of demanding and giving receipts, is going into disuse, and rightly so, especially since the payment of bills is so widely made by check. A receipt returned means a paper to file away, and perhaps to lose, while the cancelled check paying a bill always comes back to the bank, and to the maker of it.

A vast amount of money is absolutely wasted, each year, in postage for mailing receipts for checks—often for very trifling amounts—and this is all the more true because the maker of the check can write on the face of it the exact article, or date of bill, it is intended to pay.

The demanding of a receipt is often a ridiculous procedure, because it may represent payment of a bill of long standing—a long time credit—for which, when paid, the payee demands a receipt at once, showing lack of trust on both sides of the transaction.

Payments in cash are unquestionably entitled to a receipt, even when there are witnesses to payment; but, check payments are entirely different, for in the most of such cases an additional paper receipt is merely duplicating the receipt itself, as well as adding to the expense of business.

Optimism Prevails.

This country—the world, in fact—is beginning to believe that something very material and lasting may come out of the Disarmament Conference at Washington. The best thinkers and planners for peace had about become discouraged, after weighing the scheming and cupidity of Nations for more greater extension of territory—more business; but, the heart of the Nations—the common people who have the fighting to do, and the terrible loss to sustain—may be making their wishes felt, against war.

It is far too early to make positive predictions, and far too soon to say that major wars have yet been put off, for any particular term of years; but the sentiment in that direction is growing, and that will likely increase in power with the very confidence now existing.

The New York Herald puts the situation strongly, in these words:

"While half the world still wondering whether such good news as the Hughes program could be true, wondering whether anything in international relations nowadays could be so sudden, simple and unselfish, Great Britain reached out to grasp at once this great opportunity. The announcement that Mr. Balfour will 'accept in principle' should end any doubt that may linger in the mind of a world which has been fooled by mirages so often in the last three years. And, with Great Britain accepting our solution of the armament problem, there should be no hesitation on the part of those nations which, in embracing the proposal of the United States, will give up comparatively little gain and comparatively much."

When we speak of it as a proposal of the United States, we mean that, while it came from the mind and the lips of Secretary Hughes, as the spokesman of President Harding's Administration, it comes from the heart of this country. If there were an election today upon the question of ratifying the Hughes program the opposition would not carry a single State; probably not a single county. For America, while itself startled for a moment at the splendid audacity of the program, immediately realized that the Secretary of State had with one bold stroke crystallized what had been in the American mind and heart. Not since the world heard, three years ago, that the day and hour of the armistice had been fixed has there been such a sweep of joy. The optimism in Washington," said a witty diplomat on Sunday, "is terrifying." He could have found that same optimism is every corner of America. He will find it, too, in every continent of the world when the people of that continent realize that the challenge of the United States must be taken up by the other powers. Why should not the world be optimistic when it sees America, through Mr. Hughes, accomplishing more in half an hour toward the elimination of bloodshed than has ever been accomplished in all the dawning hours of The Hague Tribunal or the League of Nations?"

A Fool's a Fool.

There is nothing in the world that will make a fool of a man quicker and more effectually than possession of more money than he knows what to do with, particularly in the case of a man whose acquisition of wealth has been very rapid. In such a case a millstone tied to his neck and thrown into the sea prior to the possession of undue wealth would have been mercy itself," says the Higgins, Tex., News.

We beg leave to differ. It isn't the money that makes a fool of the man who gets it. He was a fool before he got it, but was not in a position to disclose his folly so publicly. The rich man who gives monkey dinners, the rich woman who has her shoe heels set with diamonds, and their prodigal son who spends his substance on the leeches that infest the land of riotous living—these are not fools because they are rich. They would have been fools in any case.

The poor man who earns $50 for which he has no immediate pressing need, and devotes it to foolishness, is just as silly as the newly arrived millionaire who splurges conspicuously that he may be talked of or gaped at. A Chicago young man joined a robbery party and obtained $45,000 in cash as his share of the loot. The others were apprehended and imprisoned, but he made his escape, carrying a young woman with him. He bought airships, automobiles and other spectacular luxuries, besides furberelous for his sweetheart. Soon his money was gone, and now he is in jail, sans liberty, sans cash, sans sweetheart, sans everything.—Dallas (Tex.) News.

What China Wants.

China wants the century-old yoke of the "foreign devil" taken off, her leg shackles removed and her handcuffs unlocked. The Chinese delegation to Washington, in this day of sudden international frankness, has dared greatly. It wants to be a nation again for it is tired of being a field where the Yellow Man plows and sows and the White Man and the Brown Man reap. China wants to be a country again and not a road to riches for aliens. In this it will find world sympathy and, it may be, strong help.

We are ready to get out of China, but then we never have penetrated quite so far as have some of our white brethren and brown friends. There are indications that Great Britain is considering the liquidation, in part, anyway, of her Chinese adventure. Japan is anxious that the world shall forget there was ever such an unfortunate occurrence as the Twenty-one Demands. Nor is Tokio expected to make any great outcry about Shantung.

What the Chinese want is a clean sweep of the "foreign devils," brown and white. The Mongol and the Manchu and the old, old Chinese are all tired of being a stepchild of the Occident and a part of the Orient. They would throw the Japanese out of Mongolia and Manchuria, as well as Shantung. They want the English out of Wei-hai-wei, Mrs. Bay and Kowloon, out of and away from the Asiatic mainland. They want the French, the Portuguese and the Belgian concessionaires to pack their trunks and be on their way.

In brief, China wants the full political, economic and territorial sovereignty that belongs to a sovereign nation handed back to her. Whether she can handle it, or keep it and take care of it after it is given back, is another matter, and one that the Conference finally must decide.—Phila. Ledger.

How Better Than Pills?

The question has been asked. In what way are Chamberlain's Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is, they are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then, they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion.

NO ADDED TO VOCABULARY

Gabriele D'Annunzio Is Credited With Making Important Additions to the Italian Language.

Commander Gabriele D'Annunzio has become a corner of words. Aside from having a special d'Annunzio Dictionary compiled and published by some enterprising Italian publishers to assist his leaders in knowing the meaning of words not found in the ordinary dictionaries, the premier Italian poet and adventurer lets very few weeks pass without promulgating some new addition to the Italian vocabulary.

The former dictator of Fiume is in a quiet retreat. Various pilgrimages are made to him by men who were adventurers with him in the Quarnero enterprise. Some of them asked him for a new name for cognac. He said: "There is but one name for cognac and that is 'arzenite,' which signifies that it is the very force of the wine."

He inquired how the people of Florence were taking his suggestion that the name of Florence be changed from the present Italian name of Firenze to Fiorenza, meaning "a city of flowers." The pilgrims stated the people of the town welcomed the idea and may adopt his proposal.

The poet is doing a little literary work while there are no more Fiume fields to conquer.

BUS' STREET CORNER SAFEST

Logical Reason Why There Are Few Accidents Where the Traffic Is the Heaviest.

"You must have lots of accidents here," said a friend of Traffic Commissioner Harriss the other day as they were passing one of the most congested corners of the city. "I'm not surprised either," he added as he saw a large touring car come suddenly to a halt less than half a foot from a passing pedestrian.

The commissioner shook his head. "That's where you're wrong," he replied. "Not only are there not more but there are actually less accidents here in proportion to the amount of traffic that goes by than almost any other place in New York. If you'll think a minute you'll see the reason for it, too. Where the street is more or less quiet and deserted a person crossing the road is less apt to look for approaching vehicles. Where they are always passing, however, he is always on the lookout. The theory works both ways. While the pedestrian keeps a close watch on the stream of traffic, the automobile driver also keeps tab on the continuous file of pedestrians in his way. On a comparatively quiet street both pedestrians and cars are exceptions and accidents are bound to occur."—New York Sun.

Still Powerful Ruler.

With an area of 245,000 square miles, Afghanistan is, next to Tibet, the largest country in the world that is virtually closed to the citizens of other nations. But political life at waxy, alert Kabul is in sharp contrast to the meditative seclusion and classic aloofness of the pious lamas at Lhasa. Amir Amanullah Khan, through his agents in India and elsewhere, is in close touch with the world's current events; and, as the last remaining independent ruler of a Moslem country, now that the power of the caliph at Stamboul is broken, he wields a far-reaching influence throughout the Mohammedan world; also, because his land happens to lie just as it does on the map of the world, it is plain that for a long time to come he will be an active force in the political destinies of middle Asia. Like Menelik of Abyssinia, Queen Lil of the Hawaiian islands, or the last of the Fiji kings, the Amir, remote and obscure as his kingdom is, stands out in his time as a picturesque world figure.

Scots "Fish" With Swimmers.

Over in canny Scotland they "fish" with swimmers, that is with students who are learning to swim.

Swimming instructors have various methods for teaching their pupils, but none is more novel than that used by some of the Scotch. These instructors have a rope and pulley arrangement by which the pupil is suspended at the end of the rope in the water. The instructor holds the other end of the rope and can raise or lower the pupil in the water.

In his other hand the instructor has a long pole with which he prods the pupil at various times to correct the movements of the arms and legs. Should the instructor lose his grip on the rope what would happen to the pupil can be imagined. But supposing, with that pole in his hand, the instructor loses his temper? The field of conjecture is open.—Cleveland News-Leader.

Improbable Story Beginnings.

Heckenicker had been in the dance place for over three hours, but still, he had not tired of the jazz music. When Landeck presented his check at the paying teller's window, the man in the cage did not count the money more than once.

Svenska objected to her boy friends spending money on her.

Roquefort had just returned from the dentist, who refused to accept the regular fee because he had inflicted so much pain upon his patient.

"No," said the insurance agent, "I was not 'just' in the neighborhood, but I came uptown especially to see you."—Milton Lane in the New York Sun.

TURKEYS FOR THANKSGIVING

Six Weeks in November and December Constitute Duration of Market for Big Birds.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The American public demands turkey for Thanksgiving, and gets it usually if it is humanly possible. On no other festival of the year do the people of this country feel it necessary to have any one kind of meat, but Thanksgiving without turkey is like Hamlet without the ghost to most Americans. Many serve turkey at Christmas and New Year's also, but after the holiday season is past the demand for turkeys is usually small. This makes the marketing season for turkeys very short, running as it does from the middle of November to the latter part of December.

In sections where turkeys are grown in large numbers, as in Texas, dressing plants have been built by poultry dealers, who buy the birds alive and dress them for the various city markets. In such cases practically all the turkey raisers sell to these dealers, who often send buyers out into the country to gather up a drove of several hundred birds by stopping at each farm as they pass, weighing whatever turkeys the farmer may have to sell, and adding them to those already collected.

Turkeys to be killed and dressed on the farm should first be deprived of feed for 24 hours, but given plenty of fresh, clean water in order to clean the crop and intestines of all feed. When ready to kill, the bird should be hung up by the feet; holding the bird in one hand, a sharp, narrow-bladed knife is used to sever the veins in the throat by making a small cut inside the mouth on the right side of the throat, at the base of the skull. After making this cut and bleeding begins, the knife is thrust up through the groove in the roof of the mouth and into the brain at the back part of the skull. The bird gives a peculiar squawk, the feathers are loosened by a quivering of the muscles, and death is instantaneous.

In dry-picking, the feathers should be plucked immediately, and if the bird has been properly stuck they come out very easily. The tail and large wing feathers are removed first, after which the body feathers are pulled out. When the turkeys are to be marketed locally or are to be shipped but a short distance, they are cooled to a temperature of about 35 degrees Fahrenheit by hanging in the open air, provided the weather is cold enough; otherwise they are plunged into ice water and kept there until thoroughly cooled.

After cooling they are packed undrawn in boxes or barrels. It is inadvisable for the producer without proper refrigerating facilities to ship dressed turkeys, as losses from improper cooling and from their being exposed to warm weather during transit are liable to occur. Aside from this it is seldom profitable to ship turkeys any great distance except in carload lots; when this is done the turkeys are cooled to 32 degrees Fahrenheit, packed in boxes or barrels, and shipped in refrigerator cars.

YOUNG FOWLS BEST LAYERS

Seldom Pays to Keep Hens for Laying After They Are Past Two Years of Age.

There are people who have the right variety of fowls, who house and feed them properly, and yet who cannot obtain eggs early in the winter because their fowls are too old. It is seldom that it pays to keep hens for laying after they are two and a half years old; not that they will not give a profit, but because younger fowls will give a greater profit.

MAKE PROFIT OUT OF FOWLS

Farmer Should Keep Hens in Pink of Condition by Giving Good Care and Proper Feed.

Farmers should not endeavor to raise hens under natural conditions. For a hen raised that way is a liability rather than an asset. To make a profit out of hens a farmer should keep them in the pink of condition. This can only be done by giving extra good care and plenty of proper feed.

CHRISTMAS BEST FOR GEESE

These Fowls Require Little Care and Attention Compared With Returns They Bring.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Roast goose and apple sauce!

Christmas in many homes is incomplete without them, and for that reason the best season in which to market the goose is the latter part of December, although there is a limited demand all the year.

Goose raising is not so extensively engaged in as duck raising, the conditions under which they can be successfully raised being almost entirely different from those necessary for successful duck raising. The duck, being smaller, can be raised in a more limited space than can the goose, the latter needing free range and water, while the former has been proved to do well without water.

While the goose cannot profitably be raised in as large numbers as the duck, still it cannot justly be termed unprofitable. There are many places on a farm that are worthless for cultivation that could be utilized with excellent results for goose raising. Fields that have streams, branches, or unused springs on them could be turned to good advantage by making them into goose pastures. A goose on range will gather the largest portion of its food, consisting of grasses, insects, and other animal and vegetable matter to be found in the fields and brooks.

Young geese are fattened by placing them in a pen, not too large, so that they will not exercise too much, and by feeding them once a day all they will eat up clean of a moist mash made of one-half shorts and two-thirds cornmeal, and two feeds daily of corn with some oats or barley. While fattening young geese they should be kept as quiet as possible; no excitement whatever should disturb them. Poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture say. When feeding, approach them quietly, and do not frighten them. At ten weeks of age, or when the tips of the wings reach the tail, they are ready for market, if they have been heavily fed, and should weigh between eight and ten pounds. Most young geese from general farms are sold when they are from five to eight months old.

When young goslings are to be dressed for market, they are first stuck in the roof of the mouth with a long-bladed knife and then stunned by hitting them a sharp, quick blow on the head. For dry picking the picker uses a box in front of him about the height of the knees, holding the bird with the left hand and clamping the feet and wings together; he places the head of the bird against the box and holds it in place with the knee. Pick the feathers from the body of the bird, then dampen the right hand and brush the body to remove the down. Leave about two inches of feathers on the neck, and also leave feathers on the wings at the first joint. Lay the wings against the body of the birds and tie a string around to hold in position. Place the birds, when picked, in cold water for an hour or so to plump them; if they are in the water too long they are liable to bleach and become water-soaked. They are then iced up in barrels ready to ship to market.

Any margin over market prices received for breeding stock is pure profit, and the demand, especially for hatching eggs, comes at a time when the egg baskets are easily filled.

Be on the lookout for dampness in the poultry houses. Where freezing is common, close-built houses are very apt to show condensation of moisture on ceiling and walls. Too large a number of birds in a house will also cause this.

In either hen-hatched or incubator-hatched flocks, there are likely to be some backward, slow-growing, slow-feathering chicks. If the hatch is in the brooder, separate these backward chicks, and give them to a hen, or put them with a younger batch. A turkey hen that has no family is an asset to the farmer.

The Gasoline That Delivers the Goods

Delivery service, with its innumerable stops and starts, puts motor fuel to a severe test, especially in cold weather. Unless the gasoline is quick firing, valuable time is frittered away every time the motor has to be started. The alternative of allowing it to idle every time a call is made means wasting a lot of gasoline.

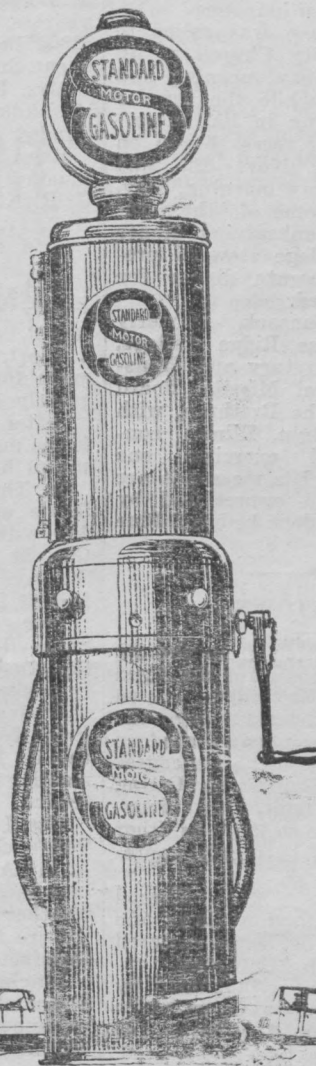

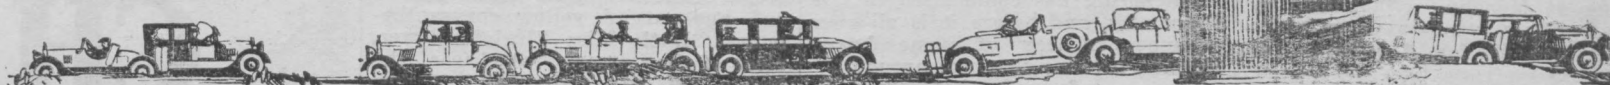

But there are other qualities that are desirable in gasoline besides the "pep" that proper volatility assures. There must be sturdy pulling power for heavy grades, combined with big mileage per gallon. The motor fuel must burn up so completely that there is practically no half-burned residue to foul the moving parts of the motor and dilute the lubricating oil.

These properties of a well balanced motor fuel are all possessed by "Standard" Motor Gasoline. It is an improved article which leads other gasolines in every important quality that makes for efficient and economical operation.

Work with your engine, not against it. Give it "Standard" Motor Gasoline for power and Polarine Oil for lubrication.

McKinley Coffman, one of the student ministers preached in the Methodist Church, of New Windsor, in the absence of the regular pastor, the Rev. Wm. Parrish.

Blue Ridge celebrated Armistice Day by having four of her orators deliver before the student body, orations fitting to the occasion. These young men have delivered these orations in quite a few of the churches in neighboring towns and the surrounding community.

Our student body is still increasing in numbers. Two new students enrolled this week, Miss Carrie Showalter of Westover, and Mr. Gordon Stupp of Gaithersburg.

Prof. John J. John was called to the Washington City Church to fill the pulpit, on Sunday morning and evening, Nov. 20, while the regular pastor was preaching in Baltimore.

The Thanksgiving recess began on Wednesday evening, Nov. 23, and will close on Monday morning, Nov. 28, at 8 o'clock. Some of the students ate their Thanksgiving dinner at home. The College steward prepared a very elaborate dinner for those who remained.

Elder C. D. Bonsack, formerly connected with Blue Ridge College, but now acting Secretary and Treasurer of the General Mission Board of the Church of the Brethren, with headquarters at Elgin, Illinois, conducted our chapel exercises one morning last week. His messages are always helpful and appreciated by the faculty and student body of Blue Ridge.

On Monday evening, the automobile owned by Raymond Long, burned up, on the hill below the warehouse. He was on his way home from Frederick, and coming up the hill he noticed smoke about the seat, and when he lifted the seat it was all ablaze.

HAMPSTEAD.

Seldom has a community been more shocked than when the news came Monday morning, that Bertie, the 14 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Bankert, was so badly burned, that she had only a few hours to live. Dr. Jacob Sherman was hurriedly summoned and did all that could be done to alleviate the pain, but she died at 3 P. M.

A slow fire in the range caused her to pour coal oil in the stove; the can exploded, and in an instant she was a burning torch. She ran screaming to the barn, where her parents were. The father tore the burning clothes from her, badly burning his hands, but the entire body was burned. The greatest sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Bankert. Funeral services were held Thursday morning in Bachman's cemetery, Rev. Reinecke officiating.

Jeremiah Yingling familiarly known as "Uncle Jerry" had an attack of acute Bright's. He first became blind, then fell in an unconscious state, until Tuesday morning when he passed away, aged 69 years. He is survived by one brother, Henry Yingling and one sister, Mrs. Amos Leese.

HARNEY.

Perhaps we are a little late, but simply wish to say that our public school, on Armistice Day, rendered a short, but very appropriate, program for the occasion, which was greatly enjoyed by those who heard it, after which was given a treat to fudge made by the larger girls at the school house.

On Thursday of last week, Misses Bruce and Ruth Harner, spent the day with Geo. M. Ott and wife, and Geo. M. Ott and wife, spent last Sunday afternoon visiting at Ray Hahn's.

Irving Ridinger, who was taken to Sykesville, a short time ago, suffering from a nervous break, has entirely recovered and is home again.

Revival services have been in progress for the past several weeks, at the U. B. Church of this place. The meetings have been fairly well attended.

The bridal party started on a trip to Baltimore, Washington and Philadelphia. They expect to make their home in Lancaster, Pa.

RIFFLE—OHLER.

Among the Thanksgiving Day events was a very pretty home wedding at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Birnie S. Ohler, when their daughter, Elva A. Ohler was united in marriage with Mr. Clyde W. Riffle, son of Mr. Charles Riffle, of Taneytown district. The ceremony was in the evening at 5:30 and was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. L. B. Hafer. The bride's attendants were her sister, Miss Alta V. Ohler as maid of honor, and Misses Luella G. Riffle and Marguerite A. Staley as bridesmaids. Two little cousins of the bride, Misses Charlotte and Orpha King were flower girls. The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. J. Frank King. The groom's bestman was Mr. Edgar C. King, a cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Clarence King played the wedding march and the accompaniment for Mrs. W. D. Stouffer, who sang effectively, "O Promise Me," before the ceremony. The bride was gowned in white satin with silver trimmings, and wore a veil arranged with orange blossoms. The maid of honor was dressed in satin of peach and silver shade. The bride's maid wore old rose crepe de chene. The bride and attendants carried sprays of large white chrysanthemums. The groom was attired in blue serge.

After the ceremony a bountiful wedding supper was served to a large number of guests who witnessed the ceremony. The parlor was tastefully decorated for the occasion. They will reside for a while at the bride's home after which they will take up their residence in a new bungalow, near Littlestown.

The marriage which was solemnized at 2 o'clock, by Rev. L. B. Hafer, was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of bridal satin with pearl trimmings. Her tulle veil was arranged with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Mrs. Earle Harshman, of Waynesboro, was matron of honor, and wore a gown of white georgette over pink, and black picture hat, and carried white chrysanthemums. Miss Ruthellen Myers, of Uniontown, was bridesmaid, and wore a gown of blue crepe de chene and a black picture hat, and carried yellow chrysanthemums. Little Miss Virginia Bower, niece of the groom, who was the flower girl, was attired in a dainty dress of pink organdie and carried a basket of rosebuds.

The wedding march was skillfully rendered by Mrs. Charles E. Roop. The church was artistically decorated by Mrs. Cora Stouffer, florist, of New Windsor. Mr. Earle Harshman, of Waynesboro, Penna., was best man and Mr. George Devilbiss, of New Windsor was groom's man. The ushers were: Mr. Robert Maust, of Blue Ridge College, Mr. C. ## Twas Said

A weebe-gone-looking traveler in a small Georgia town approached the ancient colored man who operated the one-car ferry across the dinky stream and accosted him with "Uncle, I'm broke, and I got to get across the river. Will you trust me for it?" "Fare's only 3 cents, boss."

"I know it, but I haven't got the 3 cents."

Uncle Mose placidly resumed his pipe. "Boss," he decided, "ef you ain't got 3 cents you won't be no better off on dat side de ribber dan't you" is on dis."

Used to See Them.

A girl, a great lover of nature, went to the seashore for a holiday and approaching a typical fisherman, said:

"Ah, sir, how well you must know the face of nature, and know it in all its moods! Have you ever seen the sun sinking in such a glare of glory that it swallows up the horizon with fire? Have you not seen the mist gliding down the hill-top like a spectre? Have you never," she went on impassionately, "seen the moon struggling to shake off the grip of the ragged, rugged storm-clouds?"

"No, Miss," responded the fisherman; "I used to see them things but not since prohibition."

WITH THE FUNNY MEN

Plain People.

"Now," said the mistress, "tell me about people you have worked for."
"I don't believe you'd be interested in hearing about them, ma'am," said the newly engaged cook. "All the people I've worked for owned flivvers and led a beautiful home life. Somehow scandals and flivvers don't go together."

The Judge's Little Joke.

"Your honor, my husband neglects me shamefully and loses all his money betting on horse races and playing the market."
"What is your husband's profession other than gambling?"
"He's a high diver, your honor."
"Ah, I see. Your diver is a plunger."

Too Valuable.

"What has become of the clerk with the big diamonds?"
"Had to let him go," replied the landlord. "He got to be too valuable. The guests began to take offense because he suspected everybody who wanted to talk to him of being a burglar or a kidnaper."

It Was Both.

"What do you think of Uncle Peter leaving all his money for a grand mausoleum over his remains?" said one needy relative.
"Awful," said the other; "it's just a willful waste."
"Huh! I call it a wasteful will."

A Limit Reached.

"Does your wife give you any suggestions about how to vote?"
"No," replied Mr. Meekton. "Henrietta says she's beginning to think she's got enough authority without trying to be a political boss."

Domestic T. N. T.

"You must not let your wife get so excited."
"Goodness gracious, doctor, if I tried to stop her from getting excited she'd get so excited she'd raise the roof."

SWEET INNOCENCE

Mrs. Youngbride—"I'll take a few of those beets if they are live ones."
Clerk—Lives ones, ma'am?
O yes, I must have live ones. I heard my husband say he has no use for dead beets.

Did You Wake?

A wind crept home in his stocking feet When the hour was late and wee,
But though he wanted to be discreet He slipped on a squeaky tree.

The Main Thing.

"Do you suppose your grateful constituents will erect a monument to your memory after you are gone?"
"I don't know," said Senator Snorts-worth thoughtfully, "but I would be willing to dispense with a monument if my grateful constituents would guarantee that when I die I'd have a congressional funeral."

An Approval.

"Do you approve of the classics?"
"I do," replied Senator Sorghum. "The classics should be studied, the same as campaign platforms. They have their improving influences, even if you don't manage to remember much of what was in 'em."

Headwork.

"Did you say my head was solid ivory?"
"Mebbe I did," replied Mr. Erastus Pinkley, "but don't you make no more reaches like you had a razor, unless you want to get it in a museum as carved ivory."

Mean Allusion.

"Ma, what were the prehistoric times?"
"They were the times, my child, when Miss Primleigh and her friends faintd gracefully away every time anybody needed their help."

His Stellar Role.

Young Thing (gushingly)—And are there any other stars in your company?
Ham Actor (grandly)—Stars, dear lady? We are all stars. But there is only one Betelgeuse.

Curious.

Jones—I saw a lot of ladies waiting by the church on the sea front.
James—Oh, what were they waiting for?
"To see the tied go out!"

Looks and Lucr.

Rich Wife—I got my good looks from my mother.
Husband (who gets small allowance)—Then your stinginess is evidently inherited.

ARE SYMBOLS OF AFFECTION

Nicknames Never Bestowed on Those Who Prove Unpopular or Are Unduly Dignified.

The selection of a name for the baby is a very important matter in most households, and of course it should be considered sufficiently to insure the poor helpless mite of humanity having a label that it will not be ashamed to sign the rest of its life. Any good plain English name will do that. But a matter even more important and not so easily disposed of is that of the nickname. What names will this young person acquire as he goes through life? That depends largely on himself and the kind of associates he has. The very last thing to be wished for him is that he should never be nicknamed. Usually the only people who are never nicknamed are either very unpopular or very dignified, though there are exceptions. But the nickname is a sort of expression of affection, and those who accumulate many as they go through life should regard them as insignia of friendship and hence of honor. The final word on nicknames was written many years ago by Oliver Wendell Holmes:

When fades at length our lingering day,
Who cares what pompous tombstones say?
Read on the hearts that love us still,
"Alie jacet Joe; hic jacet Bill!"
—Ohio State Journal

WORLD HAS CHANGED LITTLE

Electioneering Methods in Old Pompeii Much Like Those in Vogue in Our Own Time.

Archeologists have uncovered at Pompeii a barroom singularly reminiscent of the neater sort of drinking places that were to be found in American cities before the days of prohibition, and they have found the dried lees of the liquor in the jars.

The outside walls of the saloon are covered with appeals to the voters of the city to "Vote for Lollus for duumvir." The duumvir was a sort of selectman or half mayor, an official whose powers or perquisites made the office one that was much coveted. The election notices are everywhere to be found on the walls of Pompeii, usually in red paint, sometimes in black. They seem to have been the customary means of notifying the citizens of nominations that had been made.

The crafts seem to have acted in place of party caucuses. "The barbers nominate Trebins for aedile," says one placard. "All the goldsmiths nominate C. Cuspius Pansa for aedile," says another. Sometimes a man is referred to as v. b., which means vir bonus, or a good man. One is certified as "an honest young man." Of another it is said that "he will save the people's money."

Dumb Animals Pay Taxes.

It will be surprising to some people to learn that all income-tax payers are not human beings, and that some of the Canadian government's income is derived from pet animals whose human owners and beneficiaries provided for their future comfort by an endowment. Such is the case at London, Ont., where several such pets are annual contributors to the city's coffers. One large dog in that city receives an annual income that many small families would appreciate, due to the fact that the animal's legacy was a large one and grew from year to year by the accretionary process. Gold bonds, deposited in trust, keep him in comfort and also yield a small return to the city tax office in income levy. A beautiful Persian cat, now sleepily rounding out a life of adventure, also receives an income left by an eccentric master. There is a parrot, too. All these are contributors, though some one else has to fill out the tax form for them. There are doubtless many such animals in other countries.

Horseshoe Myth Universal.

The horseshoe in its most primitive form is of great antiquity. An old and very popular superstition, almost universally prevalent among peasant ascribes to the horseshoe (especially to one which has been found in the road by chance) the power of barring the passage of witches. For this purpose the shoe is nailed to the door of the threshold, and Hone in his "Year Book" says, "Nailing of horseshoes seems to have been practiced as well to keep witches in as to keep them out. In Monmouth street, London, many horseshoes nailed to the thresholds, were to be seen in 1797; in 1813 Sir Henry Ellis counted seventeen horseshoes in that street, but in 1852 only eleven remained. The great Nelson was of a superstitious turn, and having great faith in the luck of a horseshoe had one nailed to the mast of the "Victory."

Meridian of Greenwich.

The meridian of Greenwich is generally accepted as the starting line from which to reckon longitude and time all over the earth. But objections are, from time to time, raised against the universal adoption of the Greenwich meridian for such purposes. Recently Italian savants have emphasized these objections by pointing out that on the meridian of Greenwich clouds and bad weather are frequent, interfering with astronomical observations. They suggest that the civilized world should agree to adopt the meridian of Jerusalem as a common reference line, because there the skies are clearer, and the possibility of making Palestine neutral territory would eliminate political objections.

The Hen Has It On Ma.

The coal-oil light's a burning bright; (It will, sometimes, when it feels right);
Pa sets there reading, slick as sin, The last poultry bulletin;
Then, half to Ma, and half to me, Pa ups and speaks: "I see," says he, "As how correct illumination Will make hens lay like all Creation; guess I'll have the henhouse wired."
Ma stops and peers and sews away, Does Ma, and then I hear her say; "I wish I was a blamed old hen; Maybe they'd wire the homestead, then!"
—Cuyahoga Co., (O.) Farm Bureau News.

Doing His Best.

Sandy Shiftit had been paying $4 a week for his board. His appetite constantly increased until finally his landlady saw that she must either sell out and quit or raise her boarder's rate. One day after watching him feverishly devour plateful after plateful, she plucked up courage and said:
"Mr. Shiftit I shall have to raise your board to $5."
Sandy looked up with a start.
"Oh, Mrs. Small, don't!" said he in a tone of consternation. "It's as much as I can do now to eat $4.00 worth!"

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for colds, croup and whooping cough for almost half a century and has constantly grown in favor and popularity as its good qualities became better known. It is the standard and main reliance for these diseases in thousands of homes. The facts that it can always be depended upon and is safe and pleasant to take are greatly in its favor when it is wanted for children.

Diagnosis.

"I hear that Tawkins is going to give De Smart a pretty fat fee."
"What for?"
"Because when the doc was called to attend Mrs. Tawkins for a slight nervous trouble he told her she had an acute attack of inflammatory verbosity. He then recommended absolute quiet as the only means of averting cacophony loquendi. She's scared dumb."—Boston Transcript.

Disappointed in Charles.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "I am sorry about the way you acted at the baseball game."
"You refer to the fact that I threw a couple of oranges at the umpire?"
"Yes. It was inexcusable. You not only destroyed some perfectly good fruit, but you missed him both times."

Long Distance Call.

"Where is your friend, Scatterwits, going in such a hurry?"
"To attend a seance given by a noted spiritualist."
"He's crazy."
"I agree with you. He told me he had a date with Helen of Troy."

NO CHANCE FOR HASH

"Why is it we never have hash any more?"
"Because we never have anything left over from which hash can be made."

The Bud.

She used to wear a long skirt— The proper thing, no doubt— But now she wears a short one— She's slowly coming out.

Unreasonable Woman.

Bill Sikes (leaning over bed)—Fork out every penny you've got or I'll—Hubby (half awake)—Look here, Maria, this is coming it too strong. Didn't I give you all I had when I came home?—Ideas.

IN AFRICA

Pelican—There goes Hippo on the way to the Jungleville mask ball. But why all those spots painted on his hide.
Parrot—Oh, that is his ball costume. He's going as a giraffe.

Unsimplied Spelling.

He asked her, "Will you marry me?"
In the same old ardent way.
She answered, "No, sir, I will not,"
But she spelt "not" with a "K!"

FOR SAFETY IN AIR TRAVEL

Elaborate Devices That Are Under Consideration by British Experts in Aviation.

Three new fog devices to overcome the drawbacks of mist and fogs to air-men are stated to be under discussion by British authorities. The first consists of the "laying along the route traversed by the airway of a powerfully charged electrical cable. This automatically sends up into the air a constant series of signals." By keeping his machine in such a position that the strength of the signals is kept constant the airman is assured that he is flying along the cable line. The second makes for safety in landing when the ground is not visible, and consists of a wire, with a weight attached, which is lowered from beneath the machine; when the weight touches the earth the airman learns that it is time to "flatten out" his machine. The third is called the "artificial horizon." It is "a gyroscopic instrument which shows an artificial horizon line always in front of the pilot and enables him to detect instantly when his machine is heeling over too much sideways in its relation to the real horizon, which is temporarily invisible. A tiny model airplane poised above the artificial horizon line mimics precisely the movements of his own machine."—Scientific American.

HAS MADE NEW PROFESSION

Philadelphia Woman Makes Excellent Living Arranging Details for Amateur Entertainments.

A pin-money career, for one Philadelphia woman, was the outcome of her refusal to drill some children for an Easter program. On previous occasions she had "thrust upon her" the responsibility of planning and preparing various kinds of entertainments, home-talent plays, cantatas, etc., for different organizations. As this work required much time and strength, she was offered remuneration for her services and accepted the money. Now she has work ahead in that line all the year round. She assumes the responsibility of miscellaneous programs, plays, etc., for all ages, for Sunday schools, lodges, clubs, etc. She arranges time and place of practice, and assigns parts to each one in drills, plays, dialogues, cantata, solo, duet, quartette, chorus, etc. Superintendents in the schools often call on her to help in such lines, and various organizations of the city. Much of the work, as the practicing, is done in her own home. She receives from 20 to 40 cents an hour. Free-will offerings from a church organization have also been generous, as the manner of paying her.

Ductless Glands in College.

Ductless glands, said to be responsible for epilepsy, feeble-mindedness, cancer and other diseases, will be the subject of special study at the University of Pennsylvania. A chair in endocrinology, the branch of medical science dealing with ductless glands, has been endowed at the university, and it is said to be the first ever established in the world. Experiments will be conducted at the ear, eye, nose and throat hospitals of Philadelphia, the various clinics under control of the university medical school and other places.

So important do the physicians of the American Therapeutic society regard this step that the chairman of the society's council was instructed to appoint a committee to formulate a curriculum for the teaching of endocrinology to graduates and post-graduates in every medical school in the United States.

Comforting.

A Hoosier minister's wife was getting ready to go to the hospital for an operation. Her husband and children had been solicitous of her all day, everything around the house had been very quiet until late that evening, when she heard the seven-year-old twins quarreling. She asked her husband to see what it was about, and he summoned them into the room to give them a lecture on worrying their mother.

"It was all your fault, daddy," Flora retorted.

Floyd nodded his head and the minister asked what he had done. Imagine the feeling when Floyd replied: "Mr. Long said he didn't see where you would get another wife if mother died, and I said you would want Miss E. and Flora said you would want her Sunday school teacher because you called her your helping hand all the time."—Indianapolis News.

Stopped at Last.

As little Harry came in the back door, he was saying to himself, "Well, I got the best of him that time." His mother happened to be in the kitchen. "Harry, have you and the neighbor boy been fighting again?" she asked.

Harry was quick to reply: "Not this time. You know when he was over here last week we made a kite and you made, me let him take it home with him. Yesterday we made a birdhouse and he got to take it home. So today we dug holes and he didn't take them home with him."

Flights of the Future.

"Do you believe the automobile is the last word in transportation?"
"No," replied the far-sighted citizen. "Some of these days we are all going to wear wings outdoors and hang 'em up on the hatrack in the hall when we are not going anywhere in particular."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The Right Twin for Jerry

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD.

© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"That's my ultimatum, Jerry," said Jerry's father slowly, and the finality of his tone lent emphasis to his words. "I'm tired of your devil-may-care ways and the wild crowd of young people you travel with. Cut it out, my son, find a girl like your mother, marry her and settle down. Or else get out and shift for yourself!"

Young Jerry Cowlins slumped in his chair, looked moodily up at his father towering over him. "Harsh words, dad!" he said soberly.

"That may be," growled his parent, "but I mean them nevertheless. You've been no good to me or to yourself since you got out of college. Tearing around in that car of yours, smashing speed limits, fox trotting all night—Lord, Jerry, when I was your age—" he paused in exasperation as a mental picture passed before his eyes of himself at twenty-three, an industrious husband and father.

"I know, dad, but the times—"

"The times be changed!" ejaculated the older man. "They are overworked nowadays as an excuse for any foolery. What you need is a wife and a home to give you a sense of responsibility. Only, mind you, I have no use for the sort of girl you seem to fancy. Surely, somewhere, there's a girl who isn't all speed fiend, jazz, cigarette devotee, fashion plate—"

Jerry winced. Was his father visualizing Becky Lenox, to whom at least some of those terms applied? Becky Lenox, with whom he was frightfully in love!

"Tell you what I'll do, Jerry. Marry the sort of girl I would welcome as my daughter-in-law, and I'll furnish your home for a wedding present, settle on you now what would likely come to you on my death and take you into the business as junior partner. I'm that anxious to have you make a success of your life!"

Jerry rose impulsively. "I—I—thank you, dad," he said. "I'll think it over."

But as he turned away to dress for the Lenox dance at the Lawn club his heart was heavy within him. Becky was a little peach, but never in all the world would she meet his father's old-fashioned requirements. Yes, dad belonged to a bygone generation to whom a love for the prevailing style of all else, he fell right in with Becky's scheme; nor did he worry about the intended deception of his father. Once married to Becky his father would surely capitulate to her charms and forgive the trick played upon him.

"If father approves of your sister, we'll elope. How about it, dear?" And Becky whispered "Yes," as would have most any girl held close in the arms of a nice youth like Jerry.

With characteristic energy Jerry put in motion at once the wheels of his plan. Told his father he was engaged to one of the Lenox twins and invited him out to supper with them to meet her. Sure he'd be surprised at the sort of girl she was.

Bess, under heaven knows what inducements from Becky, agreed to help matters along, and did her best to be entertaining. Ably she denounced the evils of modern existence, punctuating her remarks with pertinent allusions to ancient civilizations, theories of Kant, and sordid conditions abroad. Jerry's father sat as one absorbed and when Jerry finally led her away to a play down in the village, he gazed after them with an expression in his eyes which would vaguely have bothered Jerry.

It was late that evening when Jerry, figuratively mopping his brow, deposited his companion at the door of the Lenox home. He was anxious to get back to his father and learn the verdict.

But as he turned away, the door opened softly behind him. The next moment Becky herself was in his arms. "Oh, Jerry," she moaned, "I've spent the most awful day. I've had nothing to do but think how we weren't being fair to your father, and he is just right about not wanting you to marry a flyaway creature like me, and I'm sick of this jazy life, anyhow. I'm going to settle down and—oh, you didn't turn around and fall in love with Bess?"

"Why, my little sweetheart!" Jerry drew her close. "Your sister is a fine girl, and all that, but as for loving her instead of you! As for father—we'll tell him all about it and take the consequences!"

But when Jerry reached home he got the surprise of his life.

"Jerry, my boy," said his father, "I take back all I said about the crowd you travel with. Good Lord, Schopenhauer—law of Malthus—Aztec verbs. Thunderation, boy, how will you stand it? Couldn't you have picked out a happy medium?"

And Jerry, laughing, settled down to explain that he had.

SADNESS IN AMERICAN FACE

Peculiarity Almost Invariably Commented On by Visitors Here From Other Nations.

We are a sad race at best, if the views of observant foreigners are to be accepted at par. Every time a stranger from a strange land comes to America with sufficient reputation in one field or another to warrant an interview, something like this occurs:

"What is the thing that strikes you most forcibly regarding Americans, professor?" asks a chorus of ship news reporters.

"The extreme seriousness of men, the fixed expression of gravity, their sad look," responds the interviewed one.

Not once in a year, but a hundred times, this response greets the questioners. There must be something back of it.

Here in America, creditor of all the world, of wealth a plethora, of resources no limit, of power proved in peace and war, cock of the walk, unfettered in any political sense, with the "freedom to worship God" as the individual may please guaranteed under the Constitution, and yet characterized by the visage of sorrow!

They tell us this so frequently, these citizens of the older and alleged unhappier world, that there must be truth in it. But why?

The man of "liberal views" in matters of self-control will tell you that it is the puritanical element which furnishes the air of sadness to a whole people; the placidly pious will assert that it is the strained expression of the pleasure-seekers seared with the earmarks of indulgence; the poor will tell you that it is the rich distorting their countenances in agony over their effort to grasp yet more of worldly riches, and the well-to-do will say that it is the poor but ambitious expressing in a scowl their unrequited yearning for what they have not.

The old adage says: "One may smile and smile and be a villain." But why can one not smile and smile and be an American?—Baltimore American.

Wife Must Die With Husband.

When a native dies at Arowi, Australia, his wife is killed. Her arms are pinioned by two other married women, who sit on her legs. A strong rope from plaited fibres is placed round her neck and drawn taut by four men, two on each side, until the blood oozes from the nose and mouth. At this juncture a man places one hand underneath the victim's chin, and the other on the top of her head, and twists the head until the neck is broken. The belief is held that unless the wife is killed the man will not reach the Arrowi equivalent for Heaven, but if both die they immediately go there.

How Could the Poor Boob Know?

MARRIAGE IN THE ANDAMANS

Life Convicts Pick Brides Sight Unseen, but Women Are Allowed Three Choices.

Those of you who talk cynically of the lottery of marriage should ponder awhile on the pleasant little customs of the Andaman Isles, that delightful little colony where "lifers" from British India are sent. I have just been reading about them. Certainly, by comparison, a wedding over here is a thousand-to-three odds-on chance. Look on this story:

Every Saturday morning, in those delightful Andamans, all women who wish to be married—and you can bet your life there are always many candidates for matrimony—are heavily veiled and paraded round a square. Then prisoners, qualified by good conduct for the privilege of getting married—I know certain cynically minded folk who would aver that the punishment for bad conduct must be too appalling to contemplate—stand looking on, judging as best as they can of the merits of the candidates.

But when once you've made your choice the thing is done! The veil is removed and, in the words of the ancient song, "You've got to have it whether you like it or not." Always, providing, of course, that the lady is equally willing. For to her is accorded the option of two refusals, though the third time she's got to accept.—London Mail.

OIL FROM FOSSIL SEA FISH

Substance Highly Valued for Its Curative Properties Obtained From Centuries-Old Deposits.

In certain parts of the world mining for fish is a very profitable occupation.

Many thousands of years ago the oceans covered large portions of the world which now are dry land. The whole face of the globe has altered, for you may now find high mountains in places where formerly there were plains or even great seas.

As the mountains were heaved up by subterranean explosions, the waters receded, leaving behind the remains of countless millions of their inhabitants. That is why we find in Switzerland enormous deposits of fossil sea-fish hundreds of miles away from the sea.

These fossils retain the oil that was present in the bodies of living fish thousands of years ago. Matured by its immense age, this oil has extraordinary curative properties when used in the treatment of chilblains and certain forms of skin disease.

The fossils are dug out, often from considerable distances beneath the soil, and the oil known as ichthyol is distilled from them. It is extremely valuable, for a great quantity of fossil fish is needed before a pint of oil can be produced.

Horseshoe Superstition.

A well-known writer of curious histories says of the horseshoe: "It was the custom long ago to place in every church and home an image of its patron saint. Around the head of this image was carved a halo or glory, as we see it painted in all old pictures. Sometimes it was a piece of polished metal. The halo often remained after the figure of the saint had disappeared and was fastened at the door as a substitute for the image itself. Soon these pieces of semi-circular metal became articles of sale in the shops, presently taking the shape of the horseshoe; they finally became the symbol of that protection which the saint was thought to give, and thus originated the charm implied to the horseshoe. This myth is poetical. There is, however, a more prosaic account for the reason that the horseshoe is so often deemed to possess the virtues of an amulet. It is said that the shoe naturally reminds one of the horse, the noblest of domesticated animals, and was first hung up indoors and out that men might always have in sight, and thus in mind, a symbol of the creature who has been man's most efficient helper in advancing his civilization."

A Paradise.

Hawaii is in many ways literally an island paradise. Scarcely anywhere else in the world may one roam through tropical jungles with never a thought of poisonous insects or snakes. Such creatures do not exist in these fair islands. Even poison ivy and similar plants are unknown. And though in the edge of the tropics, Hawaii has a cooler temperature by ten degrees than any other land in the same latitudes. Moreover, one may change his climate at will by a journey of a few miles; for the northern half of each island, swept by the trade winds, is rainy and heavily wooded, while just over the mountain ridge is a drier, warmer region.—National Geographic Society Bulletin.

Power in Silence.

The proper value of the power of silence is probably best expressed in the Scriptural reference to the various convulsions of nature, the wind and the earthquake, followed by the still small voice. Coming down to a more recent period and a less renowned authority, we are reminded of the man who advised his son to keep his mouth shut so that people would not know he was a fool. This advice is still good for the great majority. Astronomy is said to be one of the best means of teaching the individual his relative unimportance in the universe of matter, but to be left alone, far from any human habitation, in a vast silence, will probably accomplish the same.

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 27

PAUL'S VOYAGE AND SHIPWRECK

LESSON TEXT—Acts 27:1-44.
GOLDEN TEXT—I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day.—II Tim. 1:12.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—II Cor.
11:23-28; Phil. 4:12, 13.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Story of a Shipwreck.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul in a Shipwreck.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC
—Storm and Shipwreck.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC
—Paul's Power Over Men.

I. A Stormy Voyage (vv. 1-20).

1. The ship. A ship of Alexandria sailing from Myra to Italy.
2. The company. Two of Paul's friends, Aristarchus and Luke, are permitted to go with him. Besides these three there were 273 in the ship
(v. 7).

3. The storm. The ship made little headway on account of unfavorable winds. Paul advised that they winter in Fair Havens (vv. 9-12), but his advice was unheeded. The gentle south wind deceived them, so they loosed from Crete, only to be soon overtaken by the tempestuous wind, called Euroclodon. They did everything possible to save the ship. They took up the boat which was towed behind;
they bound great cables around the ship to strengthen it for the storm;
they lightened the ship by bringing down from the masts and rigging everything that was superfluous; and finally, the cargo and tackling of the ship itself were thrown overboard. All this seemed to be of no avail, so that all hope of being saved was removed.
It seemed that wicked men and material forces were combined to prevent the great apostle from reaching Rome. However, this is only apparent, for these very experiences were overruled by God to bring good cheer and salvation to many on the way.
We should remember that tempestuous winds, as well as the soft breezes, await God's faithful ones. The presence of storms does not prove that we are going the wrong way.

II. Paul's Serene Faith (vv. 21-26).

To a man who did not know God,
the failure of the sun and stars to shine for many days, the fading of all hope, was natural; but to the man of faith, hope still burns brightly. God is just as near to His own in the midst of a stormy sea as in their quiet homes.

Note Paul's behavior:

1. His rebuke for their failure to heed his advice at Fair Havens (v.
21). This was not a mere taunt, but a reference to the wisdom of his former advice urging them to give him a more respectable hearing.

2. Bids them be of good cheer (v.
22). He inspired them with hope.

3. He promises them safety (v. 22).
Though the ship would go to pieces,
every man's life would be saved.

4. The source of his information
(vv. 23, 24). The angel of God had revealed it unto him.

5. The reason of Paul's calm faith
(v. 23). "Whose I am and whom I serve."

III. The Ship's Crew All Safe on Land (vv. 27-44).

This was exactly as the Lord had said. We can rest assured that all God has spoken shall come to pass, even though there be a broken ship,
brutal soldiers and a perishing crew.
Aside from the fulfillment of God's promise, the most important part of this section is the splendid sanity which characterizes Paul's action on the way. Two things especially mark his sanctified common sense.

1. His vigilance had detected that the sailors had planned to escape. He knew how much they would be needed presently, and at once took steps to prevent their escape. He went straight to the man in charge and said,
"Except these abide in the ship, ye cannot be saved." He practiced the truth that genuine reliance upon God is the all-powerful incentive to human action. God's decrees always include the means for their accomplishment.

2. He knew that the famishing condition of the people was not the most favorable for the physical struggle which was soon to be undergone by them when they must struggle through the water to the shore. So he gets them to take a substantial breakfast.
He had the good sense to look after that which was necessary. It was no time to talk to these men about their souls, for their bodies needed the main attention. His prayer for that meal had more effect upon the people than his preaching would have had. Let us learn from this the divine method of administration, namely, God over-ruling while man trusts Him and acts.
A vigorous faith manifests itself in reasonable action.

Peopled the Holy City.

And the rulers of the people dwelt at Jerusalem; the rest of the people also cast lots, to bring one of ten to dwell in Jerusalem, the holy city, and nine parts to dwell in other cities.
And the people blessed all men, that willingly offered themselves to dwell at Jerusalem.—Nehemiah, 11:1 and 2.

At War Against the Soul.

Dear loved, I beseech you as strangers and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts, which war against the soul.—I Peter 2:11.

Christian Progress Among the Immigrants (Home Missionary Meeting)

Isaiah 43:1-7

The extent of our foreign population may be seen by figures taken from the recent census of two of our cities, Chicago and Detroit. The foreign population dwelling in Chicago
may be divided as follows: Germans, 399,977; Poles, 231,346; Swedes, 118,000; Italians, 108,000; Bohemians, 102,000; Lithuanians, 250,000;
Austrians, 58,000; Hungarians, 32,
000; Hollanders, 17,000; Russians,
16,600; Croatsians, 7,000; Roumanians,
10,000; Greeks, 9,000.

Detroit has a similar experience—
Germans, 150,000; Poles, 125,000;
Jews, 40,000; Hungarians and Magyars, 30,000; Roumanians, 28,000;
Russians, 28,000; Italians, 40,000;
Czecho-Slovaks, 15,000; Greeks 8,
000; Syrians, 12,000; and Turks (Kurds), 2,000. There is also a colony of Brazilians and large groups from other South American states.

Christian progress among immigrants is determined largely by an ever increasing knowledge of God and His ways as recorded in His Word. The American Bible Society is doing a great work in promoting this knowledge. The following is taken from the Bible Society record:

"The problem and the importance of assimilating the foreign elements into the body politic here in America is fortunately and increasingly engaging the attention of the Christian public. It is not a matter of language. It is not a matter of implanting political ideas and ideals.
The fundamental factor is to be found in the spiritual truths contained in, and revealed by, the Word of God. Without them true assimilation cannot be accomplished. Without them the influx of foreigners threatens the very life of the republic."

"More and more widely must statesmen, financial, industrial, and commercial leaders, as well as educators, philanthropists and social workers realize that it is a matter of character, not of circumstances, of tongue or politics, which must form the backbone and the safeguard of our nation. The American Bible Society, in supplying and circulating the Scriptures, is therefore rendering a truly incalculable service to our country."

Hailstorms.

The starting point of a hailstorm is a layer of air laden with water-vapor.
This passes rapidly through varying degrees of temperature, which first freeze the particles of water and then melt them and re-freeze them, adding other particles as the journey continues. Hailstones, in falling, are sometimes carried below the central part of the storm which gave birth to them, through successive layers of rain or snow, which, accounts for the fact that the resultant stone is formed of a number of distinct coatings, like the skins of an onion. It frequently happens that a considerable quantity of this frozen vapor is whirled by the action of the storm into the center of the tornado. Then, when the force ceases abruptly or the particles become too heavy to be supported by the wind, they fall to the earth in an almost solid mass. The connection between hailstorms and thunderstorms is because of the rapidly shifting degrees of temperature which accompany the latter—a fact which also explains why hailstorms occur usually in the spring or summer, when the majority of thunderstorms take place.

No Use for It.

"What's the matter, old chap?
Didn't she return your love?"
"That's just the trouble. She returned it and told me to give it to some other girl!"—Boston Transcript.

DESPAIR LURKS IN WEAK BLOOD.

Guide's Pepto-Mangan,
the Blood-Builder,
Arouses Dull Faculties.

Many a man and many a woman feels all out of sorts from thin, weakened blood. The least little thing gone wrong throws them into a wild form of despondency. Instead of bracing up and meeting ordinary difficulties, they are downed. Nerves are on edge. Appetite lags. Sleep is restless. They are weak and tired and dull. Poor blood works its havoc till the will loses its power. Few people who fall into habits of worry and despondency realize that most of their troubles are due to lack of endurance —to blood that has become weakened by overwork or straining.

Healthy men and women with rich, red blood see things brightly. They tackle life with zest and go along smilingly, full of eagerness and endurance.

Guide's Pepto-Mangan taken steadily restores the blood to its natural richness. It actually makes red corpuscles, the tiny particles in blood which make it red. Druggists have Guide's Pepto-Mangan in liquid and tablet form.

A Clew.
"The evidence seems to show," said
the detective, "that the thief wore rubbers and walked backwards."
"Then we must look out for a man with receding gums," remarked the wag of the force.

Expected.
"That couple have just come back from their wedding trip dead broke."
"Well, it is only natural for a honeymoon to come to its last quarter."

A LITERARY MAN.
"Didn't Peggy marry a literary man?"
"Dear me, no; he's a magazine writer."

Queer.
Her name was Short, his name was Long.
They married; now you see She's always Long, and he's always short—
How can such queer things be?

Beyond Their Means.
Her Husband—Why don't you make a cottage pudding once in a while?
Mrs. Junebride—Why, I thought we couldn't afford cottage puddings with rents so awfully high.

Sharpness Demonstrated.
Nell—He actually told me I was dull.
Dora—I suppose you convinced him of the contrary.
Nell—Certainly. I've cut him ever since.

"DE CENSOS, SHE EES CRAZE"

Jean Baptiste Tells the World Why the Population of Quebec Seems Immobile.

The old habitant of Quebec, who will be depressingly amazed to discover that the census man gives that province a bare 2,345,678 of a population, will trot out his decennial explanation in extenuation:

"Sacre nom de bleu," Jean Baptiste will splutter, "de censos man he come to me on de farm and he say: 'Jean Baptiste, how many lil' boy and lil' girl you got dis tam by you?' An' w'en I say, takken' ma tam', so's not forget:

"Dere's Jeanne—Marie—Rosine—
Angelique — Sophie — Josette — dat's de lil' girl —

"And dere's Polemique—Telesphore — Hippolyte — Belzemire — Horsemidas—Alphonse—dat's de lil' boy.

"Dat maudit censos man, he write down lak' great beeg fool:

"Jean Baptiste: Oae girl: Jeanne Marie Rosine Angelique Sophie Josette. One boy: Polemique, Telesphore Hippolyte Belzemire Horsemidas Alphonse.

"So dere you see how it come Canadaw got so few population! Me wit' six lil' boy and six lil' girl—and he put down only one of each kin'. Sacre nom de bleu if dar is not a danne censult for a brave habitant. Why, leetle girl for Jean Baptiste. And after dat we nevalre get less 'an tweens at de one tam'. And de censos man he write down: One boy, one girl!"

INDIANS IN THE WORLD WAR

Ten Thousand Fullblooded Redskins Lie With American Dead in France.

How many people in this country were aware before they read a recent cable from London that 10,000 full-blooded Indians lie with the American dead in France? Honor of a conspicuous sort has been done to almost every class and group and race that contributed in any way to the allied victory before the world was reminded of the singular part played in the war by those Americans who may properly be called 100 per cent. The United States and all its people owe a debt to Dr. Joseph K. Dixon, of this city, and to the founder of the Wanamaker historical expeditions for the part they played in bringing recognition formally to the American Indian. Haig, Foch and Pershing found these tribesmen deserving of a place with the noblest soldiers of all time. They were cool, dispassionate fighters, invariably brave and marvelous as marksmen. Most of them were volunteers. The Indian in France may yet live in a great American epic.
He never knew complete freedom, yet he went out to fight for it until he died.—Philadelphia Evening Ledger.

Recovering Art Treasures.

Czecho-Slovakia is the latest of the states to begin the recovery of art and historical objects awarded under the treaty of St. Germain and now in the palaces and museums of Vienna. A commission has just been appointed for that purpose.

These comprise, among other things, the almost priceless documents, historical memoirs, maps and other material which Thaulaw von Rosenthal removed from Prague by order of the Empress Maria Theresa. Then there are the valuable documents originally contained in the Royal Aulic chancellery of Bohemia and the Aulic Chamber of Accounts of Bohemia, as well as the works of art formerly in the royal chateau of Prague and other castles of the Hapsburgs located in what is now Czecho-Slovakia and which were removed to Vienna during the reigns of Emperors Matthias, Ferdinand II, Charles VI (about 1788-1837) and Francis Joseph I.

"St. Napoleon."

Saint Napoleon sounds somewhat strange to ears of English-speaking persons, but it is nevertheless a fact.
At the heyday of his fame, Bonaparte discovered that it would be well for him, and the Napoleonic dynasty which he hoped to found, that a name-patron should find prominence in French history. With obliging zeal his ecclesiastical supporters managed to trace an obscure faithful one Ne-opolis, who had been martyred in Alexandria. Upon his memory the aureole was placed; the French bishops received a pastoral letter from their cardinal chief; and Pius VII called St.
Napoleon into being. His day was the emperor's birthday, August 15, and upon it the dual event was celebrated.

Wearing Out Clubs.

He had taken up golf, and after playing a week he went to buy some new clubs.

"Did you break the ones I sold you about a week ago?" asked the club dealer.

"No, I didn't break any of 'em," was the reply, "but I took so many shots with 'em that they're worn out!"—Yonkers Statesman.

A Lowdown Trick.

Mrs. Lamb—I see you're not speaking to Mrs. Fox.

Mrs. Wolf—I should say not! She told me her cook was a treasure and I found the cook dirty, lazy, incompetent and dishonest after I'd doubled her wages to get her away from Mrs.
Fox.

What Is The Telephone Company?

It is an organization of 3084 Maryland men and women banded together to give the people of Maryland the best telephone service brains and energy and effort can make possible.

These people—many of whom have dedicated their lives to this service—are nearly all natives of this State.
They are citizens of your cities and towns—they are your neighbors and friends.

The telephone is a regulated utility; the price of our service is controlled by state regulation. Our revenues being regulated, our expenses must be held in proportion.
At no time during recent years, did our wages keep pace with those of other industries.

That condition still exists. But in spite of this limitation and the exacting requirements of war and reconstruction, Maryland's telephone people are now giving you a higher grade of service than at any time in the history of the system.

Roop and Miss Clara Hockensmith, in the Lutheran church, in the afternoon; and the supper in St. Joseph's Hall, in the evening.

The Red Cross membership campaign is reported to be lagging. This is an effort that should not require much solicitation. It is the one big movement for the relief of suffering that should represent an annual voluntary donation from all who can possibly spare a dollar. All of the dollars left at the Record office, for this object will be turned over to one of the solicitors. "Come across" and help! This is home work—and relief work wherever needed.

The play "And Along Came Ted" rendered in the Opera House, on Wednesday evening, by the Monastery Players under the management of Frank L. Holbein, was up to the expectations of its promoters, and the audience enjoyed it hugely. The play was full of humor and excitement from beginning to end, and there was not a weak spot in the cast. ### Trust Company Resources.

An increase of $6,265,771, in the volume of Trust Company resources for Maryland is shown by "Trust Companies of the United States," for 1921, just published by the United States Mortgage & Trust Company, of New York. Maryland's Trust Companies had, at the close of business June 30, 1921, assets aggregating $174,904,387, as compared with $168,638,615, last year.

In commenting on Trust Company conditions during the past year, John W. Platten, President of the United States Mortgage & Trust Company says:

"No stronger evidence of the stability of Trust Companies has been forthcoming during their entire history than was demonstrated during the past year in connection with their banking operations. The year ending June 30, 1921, covered by the latest returns as given in the 1921 edition of "Trust Companies of the United States," was one of tremendous recession of prices and values attended by reduction of bank loans, contraction of credit and rapid falling off of deposits.

"Notwithstanding these adverse conditions the resources of the Trust Companies of the United States, as of June 30, 1921, amounted to $12,323,430,000 for the 2390 companies reporting, a decrease for the year of only $128,000,000.

"This situation, coupled with the fact that a substantial increase is shown in all branches of fiduciary business, is extremely gratifying, and affords further and convincing proof of the recognition by both corporations and individuals of the value of Trust Company service."

Proper Care of Paint Brushes.

Brushes for applying stain, varnish, paint, and oil are manufactured in various sizes and quantities. In general, a wide brush of good quality will be found most convenient and economical, and if properly cared for can be used over and over again. It is pointed out in Farmers' Bulletin 1219, Floors and Floor Coverings, recently issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

A varnish-brush may be kept in the varnish in which it is used or, in case of shellac varnish, in alcohol; but brushes used in oil paint and oil stain, unless they are to be used again within a few days, should be thoroughly washed in turpentine or kerosene, rinsed in gasoline or benzine, washed again in warm soapsuds, thoroughly shaken, and hung up to dry with the bristles down. Paint-brushes that are to be used again the next day may simply be wrapped in several thicknesses of paper, or they may be kept for several days with the bristles submerged in turpentine or kerosene. If kerosene is used, the brush must be shaken and rinsed in turpentine before it is put into paint again. Brushes used in water stain may be washed and rinsed in clear water.

The Irish Potato.

The above name is a misnomer for the potato is really a native of America. It was discovered in the year of 1588 by Europeans and first used by them as an article of food. It is found growing wild in various parts of South America. It is used as food all over the world. The reason it was called the Irish potato is because it was adopted as one of the chief articles of food by the Irish people, and is one of the principal food products of Ireland. The potato famine in Ireland in 1845-46 resulted in many deaths from starvation and caused many of the Irish to emigrate to America. The population of Ireland has decreased from 8,000,000 in 1845 to less than 4,500,000 in 1921.

Forty automobiles were stolen in Philadelphia last Sunday, the largest number ever reported for a single twenty-four hours.
