

FARMERS TO HOLD INSTITUTES.

Program to be Rendered in County,
Next Week.

In the Farmers' Calendar, you will notice the itinerary of the specialists of the University of Maryland and the County Agents for the week of February 6th, when Farmers' Institutes will be held in several towns in the county.

Mrs. Marian Bell, District Home Demonstration Agent, will speak on "Home Management," and "Inexpensive Time and Labor Saving Equipment."

Miss Rachel Everett, Home Demonstration Agent for the county, will speak on the "Relation of Food to Health."

Dr. Wm. Stone, District Health officer, will be present and give one of his timely health talks which all will enjoy.

Mr. B. E. Carmichael, Animal Husbandry Expert, will discuss the methods of raising swine, and care and feeding of winter steers.

County Agent Fuller will speak on "The Production of Winter Eggs," and "Spring Work on the Poultry Ranch."

Two meetings will be held at each place. One meeting will be held in two sections where possible, one for the men and one for the women. The other meetings will be a joint meeting to discuss problems of interest to both men and women.

Feb. 4—Dairymen's Meeting, Fireman's Hall, Westminster, 1:30 P. M.
Feb. 7—Farmer's Institute, Taneystown, 10 A. M. and 1:30 P. M.

Feb. 8—Farmer's Institute, Sykesville, 10 A. M. and 1:30 P. M.

Feb. 9—Farmer's Institute, Silver Run, 1:30 and 7:30 P. M.

Feb. 10—Sandymount, Farmer's Institute, 10 A. M. and 1:30 P. M.

Feb. 11—Sweet Corn Grower's Meeting, Fireman's Hall, Westminster. This will be an important meeting and every farmer should be present, at 1:30 P. M.

Letter from Beckley, Oregon.

Editor Record:—
I will enclose a check of $1.50 which will renew the Record for one year, as my brother and I would not want to be without the Record, as it gives lots of home news.

Well, we are having real winter out here. On the 19th of this month it was 40° below zero. I think that was the coldest we had this winter so far. We have a little snow, but we have not had much moisture yet this winter. The roads are very good for the time of year. Most everybody is busy killing jack rabbits. One homesteader killed 1800 the last year. I guess that is some rabbits, and there are lots left yet.

Visit to Commencement Exercises.

(For the Record.)

Elmer W. Fleagle, of Harrisburg, visited Detroit, Mich., January 19-27, and attended the commencement exercises at the Eastern High School, where his niece Miss Erma Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lewis (nee Mazura Fleagle) is a student. Miss Lewis took part in the Senior Class play, Tennyson's "Princess." She received four beautiful bouquets, including a gorgeous one of tulips, roses and daffodils from her uncle. The play was a great success, and Miss Lewis was highly complimented on her part and received numerous valuable gifts from the grade room, of which she was house president.

The Commencement exercises held in the Eastern High School auditorium, on the 26th, Mr. Laird, of Albin College, was the speaker. Miss Lewis was one of the few of the graduating class to graduate with high distinction. She will enter the University of Michigan.

Mr. Fleagle feels that his visit to Detroit was well worth his time, and says he would not have missed it for anything.

Philadelphia's Sesqui-Centennial.

Philadelphia is preparing for an immense celebration in 1926 in celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. Those who attended the 100th anniversary, or "the Centennial," in 1876, will realize what a great affair the coming one is likely to be, by comparison with the famous one of 50 years ago. The prospects are that it will eclipse any of the "World's Fairs" ever held anywhere. The cost is already estimated at $30,000,000.

Plans are already being made to place the coming event on an international basis. A strong effort will be made to secure a large National appropriation, and to this end Mayor Moore has already been in conference with President Harding and Secretary Hoover. It will be a great event to look forward to.

There are now 53 Cardinals in Rome—all that will participate in the election of Pope. The first session was held on Thursday, and continuous sessions will be held until a conclusion is reached. It is possible that a delay in the vote may be made, to permit the American Cardinals to arrive, who are now on their way.

BOYS AND GIRLS CLUBS.

Some of the Excellent Results Attained in 1921.

The Poultry Club was the largest club this year. The County Poultry Association donated 27 settings of eggs to boys and girls who would hatch them and return a pullet in payment for the eggs in the fall and exhibit a trio at the fair. Twenty-one was able to do this. This association is planning to carry on the same work this year and any farm boy or girl should make application at once to the County Agent for settings on the same conditions, also that only one breed go to a farm.

The standing for this year is as follows: First, Carroll Rinehart, Union Bridge; second, H. C. Bemiller, Union Mills, and third, Margaret A. Myers, Pleasant Valley.

The pure bred sow pig club was started at Taneystown, in August, through the Taneystown Savings Bank. The return so far: First, Hubert Null, Taneystown; second, Carroll Rinehart, Union Bridge; third, Burton Kephart, Taneystown. The first two bought their pigs direct, eight bought through the Bank. The pigs are all purebred Duroc Jersey and are making good growth with the promise of close competition at the Taneystown Fair, this fall.

The Acre of Corn Club is small but show good gains with high yields. John Myers, Baughman's Valley, produced 95 bushels shelled corn, Reids Yellow Dent; and Hubert Null, Taneystown, produced 74 1/5 bushels of the same variety.

The boys winning first place will receive the short course at the University of Maryland, this summer. The Carroll county Farm Council is back of the Boys' and Girls' Club work, as well as a number of the banks and county farmer's organizations.

Now is the time to register for this year's club work. "Are you on?"

Golden Wedding Celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas H. Clemson, near Union Bridge, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding, on Jan. 24. They now live on a large farm where they began housekeeping and have lived all their married life in the same house. Both Mr. and Mrs. Clemson enjoy very good health. They saved the best of the season's products for the anniversary dinner and had with them for the occasion their children; J. Walter Clemson and Claude C. Clemson, of Frederick; Charles O. Clemson, of Westminster, and Miss Bessie Clemson, also two sisters of Mr. Clemson, Mrs. Emily A. Norris, of Union Bridge, and Mrs. Alice Snader, of New Windsor; Miss Laura A. Clemson, a cousin, the only surviving witness of the wedding, of Clemsonville, Mrs. Claude C. Clemson and Mrs. Charles O. Clemson and baby Mary Clemson, a grand-daughter.

The Clemson family have been residents of Frederick and Carroll Counties since before the Revolutionary War, and yet no one ever knew of a golden wedding in this family before this one. Mrs. Clemson was Mary Elizabeth Cramer, eldest daughter of the late J. Henry Cramer and Elizabeth Stimmler, of near Frederick. Many relatives of Mrs. Clemson live in and around Frederick. The couple have a number of grandchildren.—Frederick News.

The American Legion.

The Mass Meeting, February 17, at 7:30 P. M., Armory building, Westminster, Md., will launch the American Legion Auxiliary. Every woman eligible for membership, should consider it an honor to become a member.

The faculty of Western Maryland College has consented to hold their annual debate at the Armory that night, subject, "Soldiers' Bonus." We will have an orchestra and band. Rev. Chalmers W. Walck will deliver an address on the Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion.

After the big meeting, every community well wisher will attend a short meeting, to determine what will be for the best interests of the community. Every religious order, lodge society, club and organization of any kind, should appoint a committee to attend. You may be sure that something definite will take shape at that meeting, and once started, will go on and grow. It may be a Memorial, a Community building, or a Hospital.

We need men and women of good judgment. You realize that something could be put over, that would be a drag and burden to the community, and this could be done by a serious, conscientious, hard working, community-loving man or woman. We need you that night. You often hear the remark, "They put one over on us—I could not attend the meeting," don't let that be said of you.

Regular post meeting, February 8, at 8 P. M., at the club room.
Carroll Post No. 31, Amer. Legion,
C. C. BEACH, Commander.

A Missouri Synod Lutheran church, in North Tonawanda, N. Y., has given fifty of its members notice to drop their membership in secret societies, or be dropped from the rolls of the church. This is said to be in harmony with a resolution approved by the Missouri Synod.

A 300 pound black bear was shot and killed, near Bittering, Garrett county, this week. The animal was fat and apparently three years old.

SECOND BLIZZARD THROUGHOUT EAST.

Washington Theatre Collapses, and 105 Persons Killed.

The snow and blizzard of last Saturday was the worst recorded in the history of Baltimore. Both street and railway traffic was practically suspended until Sunday afternoon and night, but the public schools were closed on Monday. As the snow fall reached all outlying districts, the milk supply of the city was cut off and did not become normal until Tuesday.

All sorts of experiences prevailed in the city. Many who were down town could not get to their homes in the evening, and all sorts of programs and engagements were broken. The situation in the harbor and bay was simply a case of tie-up.

Throughout the state, and practically throughout the entire east, there was an unusual fall of snow, but it appears to have been at its worst in the vicinity of Baltimore and Washington. In Carroll county, the depth of the snow was not unusual, but the high winds drifted shut the roads.

The Knickerbocker theatre, Washington, collapsed on Saturday night, due to the weight of three feet of snow on the roof. A moving picture program of a very humorous character was being given, when without warning a laughing audience was killed and injured in less than a minute.

Ordinarily the building is filled to its capacity of about 2000, but only about 300 persons were in the audience at the time, on account of blockaded streets.

The killed number 105, while that many more are more or less seriously injured. Most of the victims were Washingtonians, but some were visitors or government employees. Representation Barchfield, of Pittsburgh, was among the killed. Some were instantly killed, while others died before their rescue.

The Knickerbocker was Washington's most aristocratic picture house, and was located in the centre of the most fashionable north-west residential section, at Eighteenth St., and Columbia Road. The house was usually filled at all occasions by wives of Cabinet ministers, Senators, and others of the elite. It was a model playhouse, but was not built with the expectation of ever carrying such a load on its roof. A rigid investigation is being made.

Proceedings of the Orphans' Court.

Monday, Jan. 30, 1922.—Emory C. Ebaugh, administrator of Jeremiah Ebaugh, deceased, reported sale of personal property.

Martha A. Smith, administratrix of James E. Smith, deceased, returned inventory of personal property and money, and received order to sell personal property.
The last will and testament of J. A. P. Garner, deceased, was probated and letters testamentary thereon granted unto Mary E. Garner and Mamie I. Keefer, who received warrant to appraise and order to notify creditors.

Tuesday, Jan. 31, 1922.—Charles W. Koontz, executor of Robert N. Koontz, deceased, settled his first and final account, and order to transfer stock.

Letters of administration on the estate of Jacob Bohnseng, deceased, were granted unto Edward O. Weant, who received order to notify creditors.

Our Dictionary Offer.

For several years, The Record has been wanting to offer a real good, up-to-date, Dictionary to its subscribers, and has investigated a number of editions, not aiming at low price as the first consideration, but as a necessary accompaniment. We now have THE DICTIONARY, without any question, in the WINSTON SIMPLIFIED, an absolutely NEW work (1921) prepared by experts, with over 40,000 words and over 800 illustrations and 824 pages.

THE WINSTON SIMPLIFIED

is typographically perfect printed on fine book paper, handsomely bound in flexible kraft-leather, with gilt titles—not cheap in any particular. It contains all the words in common use, and HUNDREDS OF NEW WORDS recently brought into use by the world war, and all definitions are especially full and comprehensive.

We can not describe it. It must be seen, and tested by comparison—and by those who know. It is the handy Dictionary, bound to be satisfactory, to teachers, students, and for all business and home uses. We recommend it unreservedly, or we would not offer it.

OUR OFFER

Our first idea was to use a Dictionary proposition for the purpose only of gaining NEW subscribers. We still hope that this will result; but fuller consideration has prompted us to offer it to ALL subscribers, in order to avoid any ill-feeling, or charges of favoritism. The book is NOT FOR SALE by us. The offer is NOT one of profit-making, and is strictly limited to NEW and PRESENT subscribers to The Carroll Record, as follows:

- 1 Year's Subscription to Record.....$1.50
- 1 Copy of Dictionary.....$1.50

Combination Cost$3.00

The retail price of the Dictionary is $3.00 net, postage additional. You get it through this offer, at $1.50, mail prepaid. That is all there is to the price question—a saving to subscribers of $1.50 on the book itself.

In other words, subscribers receive the book at its value of $3.00, and a year's subscription to The Record, free of charge; and in addition to this, the assurance of the BEST Dictionary there is, at anything like the cost—and the one with the most NEW WORDS, regardless of size or cost.

The offer is good only until APRIL 1, 1922. It is NOT made for SHORT TERM subscriptions. Mail orders will be filled as rapidly as possible, depending on our stock of the books on hand at time of receiving the order. Present subscribers who are now paid ahead for six months or more, may receive the Dictionary on the payment of $1.50. When sent to the far west or south (over 600 miles) 10c additional must be remitted in all cases.

THE BONUS AND TAXES.

Secretary of Treasury Says New Revenue is Necessary.

Secretary of the Treasury, Mellon, has reiterated his opinion that the soldiers' bonus can not be paid without a vast increase to taxes, and that new sources must be found. Estimates of revenue from special sources are mentioned, as follows:

One cent increase in first-class postage $70,000,000; increased second-class postage to wipe out deficits in that branch of the Postoffice Department $30,000,000; increased cigarette tax, the increase amounting to 50 cents on one thousand, $25,000,000; increased tobacco tax, 2 cents a pound, $5,000,000; increased documentary stamp taxes, $40,000,000; a tax of 2 cents on each bank check, $30,000,000; a license tax of 50 cents a horsepower on automobiles, $100,000,000.

The total estimated return from these taxes was $300,000,000. Mr. Mellon said the bonus would cost $425,000,000 a year for the first two years and told the committee that it could extend the list of taxable sources to make up the deficiency. He made it clear that he was not "recommending" any of the taxes suggested.

The Treasury Secretary opposed a general sales tax on the ground of the cost and difficulty of the Administration.

"I should say that we cannot increase the taxes already in existence," said Mr. Mellon, "as they already are as burdensome as should be borne. We should go further and find some broad class of a commodity on which reasonable taxes would not be too great a burden."

"I think that the use of the foreign debt for this purpose would be impracticable. The foreign debt is a very uncertain proposition and to undertake to use it for this purpose would lead to a great many difficulties. It is problematical whether funds can be obtained in time to meet the bonus."

Coal Company Makes Offer.

The Maryland Coal Company, of Lonaconing, has offered its 300 employees a wage scale reduction of 35 per cent, with promise of full time if the men accept the new scale. The pay will run from 40c to 58c per hour. The Company says it will be impossible to operate the mines in the George Creek region at the old scale, and its mines have been practically closed for the past year. The present Union scale is in effect until March 31.

The Word "Bloc"

We are reading a great deal these days, of the "farmer bloc" in Congress. This word "bloc" does not seem to be a good English word, and is not given in even the newer American dictionaries. It appears as "obsoleto" in Webster's; but in the Encyclopedic (American reprint) "bloc" is given from the French, meaning "In lump, altogether, in mass; without separating one from another." Apparently, the word is an old one, coming back into use via the farmers' effort to gain power through politics.

Forty-two carloads of ice were shipped, last week to Brunswick, Md., from Mt. Lake Park for the use of the B. & O. R. R. this summer.

Senator Kenyon, of Iowa, has been offered, and will accept, an appointment as Federal Judge. This will leave the farmer party in the Senate without a leader—temporarily.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE LEGISLATURE.

Greater Representation for Baltimore Passes Senate.

Numerous resolutions and petitions were read, this week, from citizens and religious organizations, urging action against the race tracks.

Mr. Billingslea, of Carroll, introduced a bill to legalize the action of Commissioners of Carroll County in borrowing sums of money.

A Baltimore delegate introduced a bill in the House, lowering the legal day's work of women from 10 hours to 8 hours, and the work week to 48 hours. Women employed in canning factories, nurses and domestics, are exempted from the act.

Another Baltimore delegate presented a bill requiring Insurance Companies doing business in Maryland to invest in Maryland securities.

Power is given the Governor in the Militia bill now before the General Assembly to order into the National Guard persons liable to service, whenever it shall be necessary to bring the State Guard up to the strength required by the Federal Government.

Both Senate and House were largely engaged, this week, in introducing and forwarding a large number of local bills.

The Senate, on Thursday, passed the greater representation bill for Baltimore, 19 to 7. Senators Snader, Towers, Robb, Robins and Goodell, Republicans, and Brady and Cantwell, Democrats, voted in the negative.

A vigorous protest against the enactment by the Legislature of an enforcement act to back the Volstead act has been filed by a group of Baltimoreans, who have sent their protest to Annapolis, hoping that many others will do likewise.

The effort to repeal the so-called "full-crew" law promises to precipitate one of the biggest fights of the current Legislative session. The opposing forces, the railroads on the one hand and the labor cohorts on the other, are lining up for the fray.

The Senate Committee on Judicial Proceedings has set February 23 as the date for hearing the opposition to the Anti-Saloon League's State prohibition enforcement measures. This delay is contrary to the wishes of the League.

Drastic measures for the punishment of crime have been presented. One provides that any person convicted of robbery or assault with a deadly weapon shall suffer death by hanging at the discretion of the court. In the event the death penalty is not imposed the convicted person shall be sentenced to not less than 10 nor more than 20 years' imprisonment in the Penitentiary. In addition the article taken by robbery or its full value is to be returned. Another bill provides the death penalty for burglary or an imprisonment sentence of from 3 to 10 years with restoration of the thing taken. The measure likewise provides that any person guilty of accessory before the fact shall suffer the full prison sentence.

Coldest Weather of Season.

During the week ending Jan. 24, the coldest weather of the season was experienced in most districts from the central Mississippi Valley and the Lake region westward to the Pacific coast. Much damage was done in California; stock was unfavorably affected in the Rocky Mountain and most Great Plains States; and the low temperature, with insufficient snow cover, damaged winter grains in the western Great Plains and parts of the Mississippi Valley.

The Gulf winter trucking areas escaped freezing weather, but the temperature averaged slightly too high in the extreme Southeast. There was some premature peach and citrus bloom in Florida, and the warm weather was unfavorable for the shipping of truck.

Many fruit and winter crops were injured by the unusually cold weather in California. No damage occurred to green vegetables in Arizona, except in the case of late-planted lettuce. It was too cold for normal plant growth in Texas, but the trucking regions in the extreme southern part escaped damage by frosts and freezing weather. The temperature was not low enough to cause damage to truck crops in central and eastern Gulf districts and they made satisfactory progress generally. The temperature averaged above the normal from the Mississippi River eastward. Unseasonably high temperatures were rather unfavorable for shipment of winter truck from Florida. Much of the potato crop has been planted in Florida under generally favorable weather conditions; melon planting continued.—U. S. Gov. Report.

Transfers of Real Estate.

Robert L. Runkles, et. al. to The Mt. Airy Ice Cream Co., 6 1/2 sq. per, for $8500.00.

Thomas A. Harrison and wife to J. Willard Pickett and wife, 1 acre, for $10.

William D. B. Hepner and wife to Henry W. Clarke and wife, property in Sykesville, for $5.

Annie E. Hawn to Chester A. Stevenson and wife, 8 1/4 acres, for $10.

Philip T. Wentz and wife to Guy S. Wentz and wife, 13 acres, for $2000.

THE TREATY COMPLETED.

Limitation of Armaments Sure to be An Actual Fact.

The world's five principal sea powers, on Wednesday, finally agreed on all the details of limitation of Naval armament. The powers agreeing are America, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

In the separate submarine and poison gas treaty an attempt is made to outlaw submarines as commerce destroyers and to prohibit chemical warfare altogether. The language of the convention follows almost exactly the terms of the Root resolutions adopted by the Armament Committee several weeks ago.

Secretary Hughes presented the naval limitation treaty to the Conference and in a speech of 40 minutes explained its provisions and declared it preserved without vital change the American limitation proposal laid before the opening meeting of the Conference by him on November 12. He was followed by Albert Sarraut, head of the French delegation, who disclaimed for his country the militaristic purposes he said had been attributed to it during the Washington negotiations, and then the roll of the five Powers was called and unanimous approval of the treaty given by nods of the head all around the table.

The submarine and poison gas treaty was read by Elihu Root, author of the proposals on which it was based. The covenant, he said, must rest for fulfillment upon the human public opinion of the world, which he trusted to overthrow the predictions of "the cynical" that the rules laid down would be violated whenever any Power felt like doing so.

Poultry Organization.

To the Poultry Producers of Carroll county; I have resigned as president of the Carroll County Poultry Association, on account of the confusion resulting from my holding the same position with the Maryland State Poultry Association and I would like to take this opportunity to urge upon you the necessity of at once joining the State organization. The future usefulness of the Carroll County Poultry Association depends upon each individual member at once identifying himself with the Maryland State Poultry Association.

I recommend that at the next yearly meeting of the county organization it be reorganized to conform to the plans that will be formulated by the State organization. In the Maryland State Poultry Association this State has one of the best poultry organizations in the entire United States. It gives to the poultrymen a business organization that will be able to cope with every problem that will confront the industry. It is already advertising Maryland bred poultry through the poultry and agricultural press, and at a meeting in Baltimore, Jan. 25, a market bureau was formed for the purpose of handling graded eggs and to collectively purchase supplies for its members.

It is my cherished desire that Carroll county will be the first to organize under this Market Bureau and collectively grade and market strictly fresh table eggs and collectively purchase poultry supplies. This can be done through the re-organization of the Carroll County Poultry Association. The State Association will be prepared to outline the rules and regulations under which this can be done in the next couple weeks, and I hope that old Carroll will lead the van of counties that are sure to fall in line to place strictly fresh table eggs, guaranteed by the Maryland State Poultry Association, on the markets of the State.

I want to set at rest any rumors concerning the financial returns that the officers and board of directors of the State Association are receiving. These men are giving their time and attention to your business without one cent of compensation. They have been paying their own traveling expenses and have not drawn one dollar from the treasury for their personal use. They want to see this organization put on its feet, and they are willing to forget their own personal interests to do so. The least the poultrymen of Carroll County can do is to send at once $2.00 for membership to Mr. Aaron Fell, Bethesda, Md., who is the secretary-treasurer. Remember, under any circumstances, if you hope to benefit through the State Association, you will have to support it to that extent.

The poultry prospect today is the one bright spot in the sky for the farmer of Maryland, if he will take advantage of his opportunities. Back up the Maryland State Poultry Association, and you will find you have a business organization that will stand between you and the world at large.

The biennial report of the Springfield State Hospital, Sykesville, was handed to Governor Ritchie, at Annapolis, on Wednesday. Through prices mounted sky high during the last two years, the institution, through the practice of rigid economy, did not exceed its budget allowance and had a small surplus at the end of the two years.

FEBRUARY 3, 1922

All articles on this page are either original, or properly credited. This has always been a fixed rule with this office, and we suggest the adoption of it by our exchanges.

It would not be at all surprising should an effort be made to hold up, in the Senate, America's entering into the various world agreements being reached in Washington, between representatives of foreign powers and the U. S.—the way the League of Nations went. The effort is almost sure to be made, but, whether it will succeed, is another matter.

A very rigid anti-lynching bill, has passed the House, at Washington. At the outset, it was held to be a strictly partisan measure, aimed at the South, and for a time was hotly debated as such; but at the close, this feature was practically lost sight of, and the vote on its passage showed eight Democrats voting for the bill, and seventeen Republicans against it. It is said that the bill is expected to fail in the Senate.

The bootlegger has many partners and many backers. Some of them indignantly deny that they are either the one, or the other; but, in many instances "actions speak louder than words," and that is the case with the argumentative, hair-splitting, personal liberty justificationists (otherwise more truly known as booze lovers) who day in and day out use intellectually strained efforts to whitewash the law violators, making the two classes partners in fact, if not in name.

Protection to Investors.

The bill before the legislature, having for its object the safe-guarding of investors in stock securities, is an effort in the right direction; but, such a law, in order to be both fair and effective, will require the most careful scrutiny, because, first of all, it should be a strictly honest effort and be impartially construed and applied.

While we are in sympathy with the effort, we are in doubt as to whether such a law can be devised. The difficulty is that in most investments there is always an element of chance. If it were not for this "chance"—if all efforts to raise money were "sure things"—there would be no need to solicit investors. All that money needs, to attract it, is an absolute guarantee of profitable and continuous dividends. Some of the most profitable stocks of today are those that went begging in their infancy, and it looks very much to us as though this must continue to be the case.

If it was always clear that certain stocks are originated and sold merely as get-rich-quick schemes for dishonest promoters, with nothing back of them but a lot of fine talk and beautifully engraved certificates, and that these could be ferreted out and quickly squelched by law, the matter would be simple, and the duty of the state very plain. But, human powers of divination are limited, and even "wild cat" schemes are not always easy to scent out, from the start.

We know of stocks that were originally subscribed for with the feeling that the money invested was a gift; and of others that paid no dividends for years, yet in both instances proved finally to be of the "giltedge" variety. Some men with brain and inventive genius, get a vision of prospects long before others can conceive of such possibilities, and most of these may lack the necessary capital and must solicit it by the stock plan, or through some sort of loans. A law, therefore, that would block the men with a real vision and true estimate of future accomplishments, would be a hardship and a blow to inventive genius.

We believe that the best that can be done in the way of safeguarding the public, is to first require all companies, or promotion enterprises, to lay all of their cards, face up, on the table, or practically so, by making sworn statements, financial and otherwise, at frequent intervals, to state boards, very much as do the Banks, Building Associations and Insurance Companies; that they be prevented, at all times, from making positive guarantees to prospective purchasers of their stocks. In other words, that the element of chance be never obscured, and that no arguments be used to effect sales, except such as are justified by easily ascertainable facts.

We are not fully informed as to the law before the legislature, but believe that it is meritorious, and possibly well conceived throughout. All "blue sky" laws have a warning tendency, both to promoters and investors, and especially if the present law makes the latter class less gullible, it will accomplish a lot of good, even if it does no more.

Do We Want Still More?

Members of the legislature from Baltimore have so far made a fine beginning toward encouraging the body to increase its number of the Baltimore variety, judging from the character of some of the bills presented by city members.

The bill to require all automobilists to furnish security guaranteeing the payment of damages of from $5000. to $10,000 in case of auto accidents, is one of them.

Another is the bill asking Congress for a resubmission of the Prohibition Amendment to the states.

A bill for Sunday "movies" in Baltimore, is another.

Another is a bill instructing Maryland's delegation in Congress to take all honorable means to have Congress amend the Volstead act so as to permit the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer, and thereby raise the revenue with which to pay the soldiers' bonus.

These are all "made in Baltimore" efforts toward legislation, and there are others along the same general line. Do we want still more of them?

The Farmer "Bloc."

Col. E. M. House, formerly closely connected with President Wilson, and whom many regard as being plentifully endowed with a wonderful degree of broad-gauge divination, is a writer on the staff of the Philadelphia Ledger, covering many of the greater questions of the day. His last effort uses the "farmer bloc" as a text, and his conclusions are, that farmers need a great deal of organization, and a great deal more of fairer treatment than they have been receiving, but that they are not likely to receive it through the "bloc" method of making demands from Congress.

Certainly this plan for farmers has been tried by some other interests, more or less directly, if not by all interests. We do not believe in pure "class legislation," but it is difficult to see how legislation favorable to classes can be secured without going after it. Merely offering suggestions and making individual mild pleas as to what ought to be, does not get one much. It is the class that makes a noise, and backs it with more than mere noise—implied, if not stated, force—that gets what it wants.

And this, is not exactly class legislation. There is a sense in which the word "class" is generic; for all classes are equally citizens of this country, and all equally entitled to fairness on the part of the government of the country. We have the farmer class, the manufacturer class, the miner class, the railroad employee class, and dozens of others; and all of these have the right to present their proper claims and grievances without being considered in the light of demanding a "class" preference.

The "class" charge fits, perhaps, when it is demanded that a "farmer" or "miner" be permitted to draft especially partial legislation for his class, regardless of the just claims of other classes. Our government "of the people" and by and "for the people" demands that no one class be permitted to rule. Just how for this "farmer bloc" may be intended to go, we do not know, but certainly it has a right to go far enough to make its wants known, as long as it respects the equal rights of others.

You Never Can Tell.

Arthur Brisbane, of the Hearst newspapers, whose pen drips about equal parts of hate of England, anti-Japanese venom and a boot-licking adulation for certain American rich men, is all "het up." He has discovered America has a "New Boss—Japan."

By mutual agreement four nations have signed a Treaty of the Pacific wherein they are pledged to cease trying to sink the islands of the sea under a weight of concrete and 18-inch rifles. Ignoring the mutual-agreement part of treaty making, this Japophobe insists we have been

"forbidden" to fortify the Philippines and are about to be "forbidden" to establish fortification on the Island of Guam, property of this country."

Now it is the pet theory and favorite phobe of Hearstiana that some of these bright mornings the old United States of America will rise with the lark and find the Pacific Coast gone and the peaks of the Cordilleras one long row of grinning Japanese faces. It is quite in the manner, of course, for Brisbane to insist that Japan does not want us "to plant any obstacles between her coast and the Coast of California."

For the kind of people who like to read such dark statements—well, this dark Brisbaneism is the kind of thing they would like. The only trouble about it is that it is 13-karat bunk, net f. o. b. Otherwise it is all right.

Let us marvel together, however, at the mingled apprehension and high Olympian confidence wrapped up in this from the Brisbane tripod:

It is inconceivable that President Harding should sign a treaty with such a clause in it.

Maybe so. There are so many "inconceivable" things in this uncertain world. You never can tell.

For instance, here is a curious thing from the realm of the "inconceivable." President Harding called the Washington Conference and has worked and fought for it. The more or less esteemed Hearst papers are busy blackjacking it and sticking their thumbs in its eyes.

One day every Hearst paper in the country loosed a two-column, page one, black-faced, triple-leaded assault on the Conference, making occasion to refer to the whiskered countenance of President Harding's own appointee, Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes, as the doormat upon which Great Britain and Japan wipe their feet.

Next day, or it might have been the next, the head and front of Hearstiana stuck his feet under the table in the White House and broke bread with the President. Can you beat it?

So you can't tell about things "inconceivable." No, you never can tell.—Phila. Ledger.

America's Call to Leadership.

Armaments and wars are but the outward symptoms of imperialism which is the deadly malady from which the world has long and grievously suffered. This last was the final and absolute proof that the clashing rivalries and conflicting ambitions of empires must ever make wars inevitable. Permanent peace cannot be achieved by new deals. It can come only through new ideals, those ideals which have been wrought into the indestructible framework of America and Americanism.

Our Americanism holds that all men everywhere are divinely endowed with the rights of life, liberty, justice, happiness and self-government. This doctrine removes all motive for the conquest of the weak by the strong. Under this doctrine the conqueror by conquest acquires not new opportunities for exploitation, but new responsibilities for the elevation and liberation of the conquered.

Imperialism leads to the selfish assertion and aggrandizement of one nation at the expense of and against the interests of all. Americanism advocates the common protection of all nations and peoples and the common aggrandizement and enrichment of all. It holds that each nation should be free, separate and unbound but that all free and sovereign nations should voluntarily co-operate for the solution of common problems for the good of all. This would be morally right and commercially wise. Imperialism would keep a man ignorant and weak in order to exploit him. Americanism would elevate, educate and strengthen him that he may exercise his unalienable rights, become a producer and trader adding to the world's wealth. Imperialism would exploit and impoverish subject peoples. Americanism would develop and enrich the world.

The more one studies the great truths enunciated in the Declaration of Independence and in the constitution the more apparent becomes the need of their application to the international problems of the present.—Senator Jos. I. France.

CHRISTMAS TREES WILL LAST

Little Danger That in Years to Come the Children Will Be Deprived of Joy.

Don't join any gloom group that may be trying to form a society for the prevention of cruelty to Christmas trees, advises a writer in the Kansas City Star.

The forests are there to be used, and if, as we utilize the trees, we make it possible by replanting for our children and our children's children to have trees, there is no reason for not having Christmas trees as well as all the lumber we need.

That is the way the scientific forester, the man who grows trees like the farmer grows wheat, looks at this matter of Christmas trees.

While there is still some regrettable ruthless cutting of spruce and fir for the Christmas tree market in northern states, many Christmas trees are now a by-product of the forests. There are small trees in every properly managed woodlot that must be sacrificed so that the others may have room to grow. These make fine Christmas trees.

Christmas trees are also being raised in nurseries. Baby spruce and fir trees are planted by man so that the babies and children of man can have Christmas trees in their nurseries. And a Christmas tree is usually between the ages of five and ten years, just about the age of the child who enjoys Christmas most. In the future years, it is expected that nearly all of our Christmas trees will be raised by nurserymen from the forests.

DON'T SWALLOW THEIR YOUNG

Popular Idea Concerning Snakes Is Not Borne Out by the Observations of Scientists.

Snakes don't swallow their young. The ventral scales on a female snake are controlled by a muscle just behind the head. Ordinarily they are horizontal, but when the mother snake scents danger she contracts the muscle on the back of her neck, which immediately brings the scales to a vertical position. This opens a slit under the bottom jaw, and at the same time loosens the abdominal skin, thus forming a pouch. The younger ones dart through the slit and into the pouch, and this is what has led people to think they take refuge in the mother snake's stomach.

It requires careful and skilled dissection to detect the pouch, because the skin shrinks when a snake is killed. When the poison gland is removed it tightens the skin under the neck, and the youngsters can't get into the pouch. In the female snake, between the pharynx and the gullet, there is a peculiar, lid-like valve, and anything passing this valve can't possibly return.

Cat Took Nap in Limousine.

The cat that looked at a king was only slightly more ambitious than a Hyde Park tabby that took possession of a limousine standing by the curb, remarks the Chicago Post. The cat, a bedraggled stray, was pussyfooting through the rain of one of the recent cold days, evidently in search of a comfortable place for a nap. It passed by doorways and flitters as not up to its aristocratic demands, then spied the limousine standing at the curb and promptly decided to move in.

Unfortunately for the cat, the doors of the car were closed. Tabby found this out after a thorough inspection that started at the left side running board, included the top and then the right side running board. Finally the cat tried the front, but the windshield was closed, too. Then tabby picked out a spot on the hood that still retained some heat from the engine, curled up and went to sleep. Tabby held possession until the owner appeared.

Weeds.

What hidden virtue is in these things that it is granted them to sow themselves with the wind, and to grapple the earth with this immitigable stubbornness, and to flourish in spite of obstacles, and never to suffer blight beneath any sun or shade, but always to mock their enemies with the same wicked luxuriance? It is truly a mystery and also a symbol. There is a sort of sacredness about them. Perhaps, if we could penetrate nature's secrets, we should find what we call weeds are more essential to the well being of the world than the most precious fruit or grain. This may be doubted, however, for there is an unmistakable analogy between these wicked weeds and the bad habits and sinful propensities which have overrun the moral world; and we may as well imagine that there is good in one as in the other.—Hawthorne.

Domestic Stuff.

"Oh, goodness gracious mercy, I'm most distracted! I've looked for it everywhere and I simply can't find it!" wailed Mrs. Worrylotte.

"Why don'tcha look where you're sure yuh didn't put it?" inquired Worrylotte, who knew his woman.

HOME TOWN HELPS

BACK TO "OLD HOME TOWN"

To the Returning Man of Affairs, How Many Tender Memories Cluster About It!

For a number of years fall home-comings have been popular in many counties and smaller cities over the country. They are for the most part family reunions, given a wider interest because they attract to the home town or county many friends of yore who might otherwise never meet again. Social occasions are arranged, there are public addresses, special church services, historical reminiscences and various forms of entertainment for the guests from other localities, who left their old home, farms and towns, to meet, let us hope, a larger and more enduring success abroad than they could have done at the old home.

The old town looks small, no doubt, to those who went to the city for their life work; the old farm cramped, to those who now inhabit the wide reaches of the West. But to all the home-comers there are dear places, hallowed by tender memories, to visit—the brook, the ancient sycamore, the beloved hills in the country places; and in the small towns the old home with its multitude of reminiscences.

Homes pass away—into other hands. There is no continuance on earth. Change never ceases its work. Trees die, familiar prospects are marred. Only the skies are unchangeable. So there is a touch of melancholy for all home-comers except the young, because of the ravages of death among relatives and friends. Yet where the old homes are peopled by strangers and their contents distributed among the children, there is one great consolation. It is not the place or the house that is sacred. That is the mere shell set up to protect the family from the weather. The things that were in the house are the objects that the heart is really interested in—the chair that gave comfort to mother; the desk that was father's; the books the gentle and lost sister loved; the intimate possessions of the brother called West; these things touched by vanished hands are the true treasures of the old home, not the building which sheltered them.

Altogether it is well to get back to the old home town or the old home farm. It is an experience in life which does not fade. It stirs something in our souls that too seldom finds expression, and it gives play to a really admirable curiosity to learn of the lives of associates in former years. The city man, particularly, loses something worth while when he turns a deaf ear to the invitation of his home town to come back and be a boy again for a few days.—Utica Globe.

CLEANUP SHOULD BE ANNUAL

Public Health as Well as Civic Neatness Is Promoted by Such an Institution.

An annual week for clearing away accumulated rubbish and trash of material origin should be permanent and the customary adjurations to the populace issued by the health department, and the fire department, the two branches of administrative activity which are particularly concerned with civic neatness.

The fire department has perhaps an easier task in educating the people in this regard than has the health department, for it is comparatively easy to instruct even the dullest citizen as to the fire hazard created by accumulations of inflammable rubbish. Every one knows how easily fires originate in trash heaps and the reminder from the fire department is sufficient to start the cleaning-up process.

Not so many people realize the danger to health which arises from permitting waste material to accumulate and gather dirt. The hazard is fully as great as the fire hazard.

Small Town Best.

We rarely hear of a person going hungry or without occupation in a country town. Sleep, which is the great restorer of vigor, is profound and undisturbed during the hours of darkness in the small town, whereas the thunder of traffic and the eternal movements of fellow lodgers in crowded city districts make night hideous and sleep a nightmare.

From a physical and spiritual standpoint humanity in the small town is exempt from many of the misery-producing elements of the large city.

When You Build.

Build your house in a plain, simple manner. Don't worry about style, eliminate all superfluous ornament. If your pocketbook compels you to build a small house, don't try to make it a docket edition of a larger house. Have a good-sized living room instead of a small parlor and a small library. Build it to fit the site, need, purpose and environment.

Worth Knowing.

If you buy about twenty pounds of coarse salt, place it in your cellar and, this winter when the walks and steps are icy and you can't remove it, just strew or sprinkle a little about and on them, you will see the ice crack and it can be removed at once.

DAMAGE DONE BY ICE STORM

Destruction of Trees Is Incomparably the Worst Part of the Wholesale Devastation.

One of the most distressing consequences of an ice storm is the irreparable damage done to trees. The telephone and telegraph poles can be replaced. Wires can be restrung. Train and trolley schedules can be restored. One and all these are inanimate things. But trees are living things and can no more be restored without a lapse of time than any other living thing. It takes a generation to grow a fine tree, remarks a writer in the Worcester Telegram. It takes a decade to line a residential district street with shade, a second decade for that shade to increase and become an asset to the neighborhood; a third decade sees the trees which have grown up with the children become, instead of a subsidiary attraction, the principal one in the neighborhood.

Yet in a single night the careful solitude, the care and nurture of the trees is destroyed. The great limbs which residents have watched grow for years, the towering tops which twenty years before barely came to the porch roof and which for the last ten years have given grateful shade through the summer and autumn are broken, split and sundered. The thirty years have gone for naught.

Other ephemeral things, such as telephone service, trolley schedules and trains will resume their accustomed routine within a day or two after the skies clear.

Only the shattered trunk of the trees untimelessly cut down by the ice will remain as a reminder.

It takes a generation of man to grow a fine tree.

HOW CHARCOAL IS MADE

Method of Burning Is Much the Same, No Matter Where the Process Is Carried On.

The usual method of making or "burning" charcoal is to build up a cone-shaped pile of wood, about twelve feet in height and ten to forty feet in diameter—leaving a central hole or chimney; then to burn it from above downward, and from the outside inward. The trees are cut down in winter and should be fairly dry. The wood is built up with the bark outward, the largest pieces being placed furthest inside, and a covering of turf, or of charcoal dust and soil, is placed over the whole, leaving holes at the sides of the bottom for air. The first three or four days bring out the moisture onto the cover. The openings around the base are then covered, and holes are made about halfway up. When the smoke ceases to issue from these, they are closed and other holes are made below. Tar products, which collect when the charcoal is nearly burned, are removed by means of pipes or gutters. When the air-holes cease to omit flame and smoke they are covered and the pile is allowed to cool for two or three days. Then the charcoal is "drawn," and any pieces still burning are quenched with water or sand.

Seem Larger Near Horizon.

The United States naval observatory says: "The sun and moon seem larger near the horizon because of an optical illusion. The horizon appears to be more distant than the zenith because the eye, in looking toward the horizon, rests upon many objects by the way. The sun or moon near the horizon and at the zenith is seen to be the same object in both positions; but when near the horizon, it seems larger because the distance is apparently greater, the mind unconsciously reasoning that being so much farther away, the sun or moon must be larger in order to look the same.

"The moon at the horizon is really about 4,000 miles more distant from the observer than when nearly overhead; and its apparent diameter, as measured by an astronomical instrument, is actually less by about one-sixtieth."

Old Friends.

The bride's mother had her doubts about the feasibility of letting Pickie, the South Carolina cook, wait on the door during the arrival of wedding guests. True, she made the best sweet potato pies ever, but she knew so little of formal northern customs. However, there seemed no alternative. Pickie ushered the guests quite solemnly and wordlessly in. However, near the last there came a family friend who was a frequent visitor. On opening the door and seeing of all the through the first familiar face, Pickie broke into a loud pean of welcome.

"Come right in, Missus Brown, Ah knows you, 'deed, Ah does. You jes' walk right in. Ah'se mighty glad to see you, Missus Brown, deed Ah is." And Mrs. Brown walked in, the observed of all observers.—Chicago Journal.

Frogs in Rocks and Trees.

Attention may be invited to the astonishing longevity of the popular delusion, to which even educated persons at the present day give credence, that living frogs, toads and other animals are sometimes discovered in hermetically sealed cavities in tree trunks and rocks.

A little reflection shows, from the very nature of things, that such tales are incredible, and that those who vouch for them must be mistaken in their observations, as the most sharp-sighted persons are deceived by the feats of a pestidigitator.

WE would like you to be a partner in the telephone business.

If you become an owner of one or more shares of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company you become a partner in the Bell Telephone System.

An investment in the stock of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company does not depend solely upon the earnings of any one Company in any one State. A stockholder in that Company becomes a part owner in the Nation's telephone service.

The number of shareholders is now over 175,000; an increase of more than 35,000 since January 1, 1921. More than 75,000 of our employees are now making payments for stock purchased by them on an easy payment plan and over 23,000 of these hold shares already paid for.

It would be to the interest of all concerned if every telephone user and every employee also were a shareholder in the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

We believe that there is no stock issued by any corporation which, considering safety and the return on the money, is a more attractive investment than American Telephone and Telegraph Company shares.

The stock can be bought, at the prevailing market price, through any bank or banker in the country. Each share has a par value of $100, a property value of more than $185, can be purchased for about $115 and pays a dividend of $9.00 each year, payable quarterly.

If you can pay for the stock only gradually we are prepared to make arrangements by which you can, through a reliable bank or banker, pay in installments.

We shall be glad to send you, upon application, the full details as to the management, financial position, earnings, and history of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and the details of the means to be taken by you to purchase the stock, either outright or in installments.

BLUE RIDGE COLLEGE.

The Carroll County Sunday School Association will conduct a Young People's Congress, at the College on Saturday, February 4. Beginning with 1 o'clock for registration the afternoon will be devoted to study periods under the direction of Rev. Jos. Cudlipp. The study period will be followed by recreation and a banquet. The evening session at 7:15 will be a public meeting for all those who are interested in the Young People's division. This includes teachers and leaders as well as young people. Rev. Walck, of Westminster, will speak on the subject, "The Challenge." Rev. Cudlipp will also speak. The various Sunday Schools of the county are sending delegates to this conference and it promises to be very well attended.

The Bible Institute and Training School which opened on Monday, is proving an unexpected success. Elder J. W. Lear, of Bethany Bible School, is delivering exceptional addresses on Hebrews, and other portions of the New Testament. Dr. Ellis will speak three times on Sunday. His subjects are as follows: morning sermon, "Why He Came"; afternoon address, "Does It Pay to be Good"; popular lecture in the evening "Behold the Dreamer." Dr. Ellis is vice-president and Professor of Education at Juniata College.

The program for the Bible Institute and Training School for the next week is as follows:

9:20, Monday and Tuesday, Prof. Murphy; Wednesday, Elder Kurtz Miller; Thursday, Dr. F. F. Holsopple.

10:20, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Elder I. S. Long; Thursday, J. M. Henry.

The funeral services of the K. of P.'s was read at the grave and members of the order acted as pallbearers.

He was aged 79 years, 9 months and 25 days. He leaves a wife and four children: W. A. Snider, Jr., of Frederick county; Miss Ruth and Samuel D. at home, and Mrs. Hannah Eckenrode, of this place; and one sister, Mrs. Sallie Slick, Taneytown; also, a number of grand-children and many other friends to mourn his loss. Josiah Wantz was taken seriously ill with acute indigestion, but is better at this writing.

Samuel Harner, who has been confined to his bed for several weeks, is able to be up again.

Guy Haines, of Taneytown, moved to this place, on Tuesday, and will open his store in the near future. On behalf of the citizens of this place and community, we extend Mr. Haines and his family a hearty welcome to our town, hoping that his associations with us may be found pleasant and profitable.

The big snow, on last Saturday and Sunday night, completely closed our roads, but the first thing on Sunday morning was to get through to Taneytown. E. R. Kiser with his big White truck started with 20 men and boys equipped with shovels and down the road they went at about the same rate of speed as they would have gone if the roads were good, and they certainly made the snow fly, we are told that sometimes the snow would be over the top of the machine; but on they went, and it was only a short time until they landed at Mr. Saubler's. All seemed to enjoy the trip. Upon their return they went up to the Pennsylvania line on the Gettysburg road, and down to the Frederick county line on the Emmitsburg road, but were unable to get farther than the Lutheran Church on the Littlestown road, it being one continuous drift from 3 to 4 feet deep clear through to the line.

Jacob Stambaugh died suddenly at his home here, on Thursday night. See death notice in this issue.

J. W. Slagenhau informs us that he had quite an interesting letter from C. W. Hess, a former boy of this place, but for a long time, he has been in the U. S. Railway Mail service.

Messinger—Strevig.

Married at the Lutheran Parsonage, Silver Run, on January 26, by Rev. A. G. Wolf. Mr. S. Jacob Messinger and Miss Emma Grace Strevig, both of Union Mills.

Reindollar—Kerr.

The wedding of Miss Mary King Kerr, daughter of Mrs. Joseph S. Kerr, of Baltimore, to Mr. Edward Eugene Reindollar, Jr., eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Reindollar, of Taneytown, took place on Saturday, Feb. 28, at the home of the bride, 28 Roland Ave., Baltimore. The ceremony was performed at high noon, by Rev. Dr. Theodore C. Foote, rector of St. David's Episcopal Church, Roland Park.

The beautiful rooms were profusely decorated with palms and pink roses, and lighted with soft shaded lights. Sula's Orchestra furnished the music for the occasion, and at the appointed hour, as the strains of the wedding march sounded, Miss Kerr entered the room, on the arm of her uncle, who gave her away, and there in the presence of close friends and relatives, the marriage was solemnized by the beautiful service of the Episcopal church. The bride wore a navy blue tailored gown, embroidered in gray, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Miss Kathleen Kerr, was maid of honor, and only attendant. She wore an afternoon gown of navy blue and carried sweetheart roses. The bestman was Mr. David Reindollar, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served to the guests, after which the bride and groom left amid a perfect volley of confetti, for a honeymoon trip to Atlantic City. Among the handsome gifts was one of $500.00 in gold from Baker-Watts Co., the employers of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Reindollar will be at home to their friends, after March 1st, at 28 Roland Ave., until spring, when they expect to make their home in York, Pa. They have the very best wishes of a host of friends.

CLEAR DALE.

MRS. CHARLOTTE HILL.

Mrs. Charlotte, wife of James F. Hill, Jr., died at her home in Taneytown, on Monday, Jan. 30, after an extended illness, aged 46 years, 9 months, 23 days.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Cook, and is survived by her husband and six children; Clotworthy, Theodore, Robert, Delmar, Elwood and Esther; also by one sister, Mrs. Samuel J. Hill.

Funeral services were held at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, on Thursday morning, by Father Quinn.

MR. WILLIAM A. SNIDER.

Mr. William Ambrose Snider, a well known resident of Harney, died at his home, on Sunday, Jan. 28, after a long illness, aged 79 years, 9 months and 25 days. Mr. Snider was a retired farmer and was an unusually industrious and active man until recent years.

He is survived by his wife and four children; William and Samuel, Mrs. DeLaney Eckenrode, and Miss Ruth; also by one sister, Mrs. Sarah Slick. Funeral services were held at the home, on Wednesday morning, by his pastor, Rev. L. B. Hafer, and Rev. Young, of Mt. Joy. Interment was made in the Lutheran cemetery, Harney. Services were also held at the grave by Taneytown Lodge K. of P., of which he was a member.

MR. JACOB STAMBAUGH.

Mr. Jacob Stambaugh died at his home in Harney, on Thursday night, Feb. 2, aged 78 years, 2 months, 21 days. He had been complaining for a week or more, but was not confined to bed. Death was due to a sudden heart attack. He was a retired farmer.

He is survived by his wife and the following children: Mrs. Harry B. Ohler, Taneytown; Mrs. James Birely, Bridgeport; Mrs. Clifford Hahn, Harney; Jacob M., of Toms Creek; John T., of Kump; Charles and Grover C., of Harney; and Harry, of near Kump; also by one sister, Mrs. Moses P. Baumgardner, and by 20 grand-children.

Funeral services will be held Sunday morning, meeting at the house at 10 o'clock. Services in the Lutheran Church, Harney, and interment in the Lutheran cemetery.

WILLIS E. FISHER.

Willis E. Fisher, one of the best-known retired citizens of Frederick, died at his home, Sunday afternoon from paralysis, 66 years old. He complained of being unwell Friday morning and went to bed. At that time he was not considered seriously ill. The same evening he was stricken, and did not rally.

Mr. Fisher was a son of the late Abraham Fisher and spent most of his active life on the farm of his father. Later he came to Frederick and for some years had been leading a retired life. He was a member of Grace Reformed Church and Sunday School and took an active interest in religious matters. Besides his wife, formerly Miss Mary E. Reifsnyder, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. C. E. Schildknecht, one son A. E. Fisher, and four grand-children. He is also survived by three brothers, John, Newton and Charles A., and one sister, Mrs. Alice J. Davis, all in the West.

In Sad but Loving Remembrance of our dear boy,

DAVID H. A. SELL, who departed this life one year ago, February 4th, 1921.

One year we have grieved since we have saw his dear face. Or heard his sweet voice in our home; And we wait in our tears in devotion and love, Until we meet him with Jesus in Heaven above.

In his youth, like a bud in its fragrance and bloom, Death bore him away to the sad silent tomb, And left us in sorrow and grief and in tears, That cannot be faced by the passage of years.

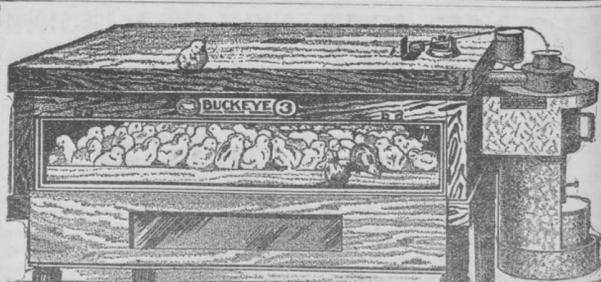

As we stand by his grave where in peaceful repose, His precious dust rests like a sweet stricken rose, We know that his soul is in heaven above, Pure and spotless, with Jesus and the angels of love.

By his devoted parents, MR. and MRS. OSCAR D. SELL.

CARD OF THANKS.

Our most sincere thanks are hereby extended to all friends and neighbors for their kind assistance during the illness, and after the death of my wife.

BUCKEYE
The Best Incubator Made

"Built up to a standard --not down to a price"

You'll find it in the plants of the biggest breeders in the country--and you'll find it in the piano box coops of beginners just starting. Endorsed by all Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations.

Anybody can hatch chicks with a Buckeye. It operates automatically and can't go wrong. You get a chick from every hatchable egg. That's why poultrymen think "Buckeye" when they say "Incubator."

Look at this Guarantee

The Buckeye Incubator is guaranteed to hatch more chicks and better chickens than any other incubator, regardless of price, or we take it back.

The fame of this guarantee has traveled from sea to sea. Over half a million "Buckeyes" are in use by big and little breeders and over 2000 leading dealers sell it.

Come in and get a copy of our wonderfully convincing book, "The Verdict of the User." We'll give it free and show you the Buckeye.

A Note by Wordsworth.

Treasures are never exhausted; only, sometimes, there is a painful dearth of treasure seekers.

Not long ago a book buyer, rummaging in a second hand store at Oxford, unearthed a copy of Coleridge's Biographia Literaria, which he bought for $4.31. A little later, examining his purchase at his hotel, he found on a blank page some notes initialed "W." Reference to the Bodleian library revealed that the notes were by Wordsworth. He sold the book back to the dealer the same day for £12 ($60)—which to the true book lover will be the only painful part of the story.

A curious illustration of the enhanced value that an autograph gives a book is to be found in a volume that turned up at Dobell's, London, not long since. It cost Thomas Gray 1s 9d (34 cents) which the poet no doubt thought dear enough. He wrote his name in it, however, and now it fetches £4.10 ($22.50).—From the Living Age.

Civilization Four Thousand Years Ago.

Excavation at Knossos, Pnetos, and other sites in Crete has not merely established the existence of a people whose form of civilization was the earliest in Europe, but has shown much about their daily life, games, amusements; their art, religion, writing—though hardly yet their language; their physical characteristics, dress, and the houses they lived in. A huge palace has been unearthed at Knossos. It has a drainage system that an eminent Italian archeologist has described as "absolutely English," and that certainly anticipates the hydraulic engineering of the Nineteenth century. The men of science engaged in the work estimate the age of their discoveries at 4000 years.

Foolish Striving for Too Much. It is well for one not to try to do too much each day. To do too many things with ease and to let the rest go without qualms or misgivings of any type will brighten many days in many lives.

Railroads Ask Repeal of Burdensome Law

SO-CALLED FULL CREW REGULATION IS COSTLY TO THE PUBLIC

TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF MARYLAND:

The undersigned Railroad Companies, all operating in the State of Maryland, join in a petition to your honorable body to act favorably on Senate Bill No. 74 introduced by Hon. Walter Mitchell which repeals the so-called full crew law enacted in 1908. This burdensome and wholly unnecessary law requires railroads to man all freight trains of 30 or more cars with crews of six men; viz: 1 Engineer, 1 Fireman, 1 Conductor and 2 Brakemen and 1 Flagman (3 Brakemen). This crew comprises one more Brakeman than the railroads need.

The petitioners respectfully urge the abolition of this extra Brakeman.

BECAUSE, the employment of this useless Brakeman is an unnecessary burden on the railroads and therefore, on the public, which after all "pays the bill." In 1919 the cost was $14,000, in 1920 $490,500, in 1921 (a year of business depression) $307,292, a total, during the past three years of $1,131,792. During the last few years this law has cost the Railroads operating in Maryland approximately TWO AND ONE-HALF MILLION DOLLARS, without a single cent in return compensation.

BECAUSE, the extra Brakeman is not needed in the operation of trains. The Federal Government requires automatic couplers and air brakes on all cars and prohibits the use of hand brakes on trains. Two brakemen are sufficient. Then why a third Brakeman?

BECAUSE, the railroads are vitally interested in BEAUTY REIGNS.

"There was a stir in court when the fair defendant got on the witness stand."

"I suppose the gentlemen of the jury slicked down their hair and fumbled with their neckties?"

"Not only that, but one bailiff whispered to another bailiff that if he had known such a queen was to be about the premises he would have had his trousers pressed for the first time in seven years at the imminent risk of making his wife suspect he was leading a double life."

Non-Essential Problem. "There are always some new problems to solve."

Duly Warned. "Really, I consider you highly presumptuous in putting your arm about my waist!"

Shock of His Life. "Sutor—Mr. Perkins, I have courted your daughter for fifteen years."

Mistake in Terms. "Going to the party, Jack?" "No, I haven't any lady."

Basis of Success. Reporter—And what is your recipe for running a successful business?

Though Not Always Visible. "Come, come, don't be too hard on Wilkins. He has his faults, but there's one good thing about him."

Shifting Attention. "You never mention some of those old theories of yours which once agitated the public. Have you changed your mind?"

Domestic Amenities. "I was a fool to marry you!" sobbed Mrs. Winks.

Quite Otherwise. He thought he'd surely made a hit when for his photograph she prayed—"Out when this calls," she wrote on it and gave it to her maid.

Safe Way. "I wish I could manage my wife. How do you go about it, Brown?" "All you need is firmness. I usually go into the parlor, lock the door and manage her through the keyhole."

The Limit. McTavish—What's this, stewed fruit? His Wife—Ay. Dinna ye like it? "Indeed I do; but what ha' ye done with the rice we left yesterday?"—Answers.

Life as I See It. We speak of a pleasant man as being agreeable. Literally, he agrees with us. I suppose that is the whole story.

NO. 5358 EQUITY In the Circuit Court for Carroll County.

ALFRED D. LEASON, Plaintiff vs. ANNA LEASON, Defendant.

The object of this suit is to procure for the plaintiff a divorce a vinculo matrimonii from Anna Leason, defendant, as well as general relief. The bill states that on the 25th day of October, 1916, they were married by Rev. J. Walter Englar, a minister of the Gospel of the Church of the Brethren, at New Windsor, Carroll County, Maryland, and that they lived together as man and wife in New Windsor, Carroll County, Maryland, until some time during the month of May, 1918, when the defendant abandoned and deserted the plaintiff and has since said last mentioned date ceased to live with him, and has resided separate and apart from the plaintiff. That the plaintiff is and has been a resident of Carroll County, Maryland, for the past three years. That the conduct of the plaintiff towards his said wife was always kind, affectionate and above reproach and that his wife some time during the month of May, 1918, without just cause or reason abandoned and deserted the plaintiff, and that she has lived separate and apart from him since said date, and that such abandonment by the defendant of the plaintiff has continued uninterruptedly for more than 3 years, and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. That they have had no children born to them as a result of said marriage. That the defendant is a resident of the State of Virginia, and a non-resident of the State of Maryland. It is thereupon, this 1st day of February, A. D. 1922, ordered by the Circuit Court for Carroll County, sitting as a Court of Equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Carroll County for four successive weeks before the 6th day of March, 1922, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning her to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 22nd day of March, next, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed. EDWIN M. MELLOR, JR., Clerk of the Circuit Court for Carroll County.

The Oldest Man in the World

Just part of a skull, two molar teeth and a thigh bone! Pieced together they made—what? One of the most perplexing mysteries in the study of human history. Were these the remains of an ape-like man who lived 500,000 years ago? Scientists believe that they were; they call him the "Dawn Man," and out of the record embedded in the rocks they have reconstructed the conditions of his life. How he killed his food and the raw flesh from the bones; how he married and fought and died! How little by little he clawed and clubbed his way up to mastery over the beasts. It is a fascinating, gripping story, but it is only one of a thousand stories that stir your blood in this greatest book of modern times. H. G. WELLS' "Outline of History" Now Offered You at One-Third the Original Price A history that goes back 100,000,000 years—that traces man's rude beginnings 500,000 years ago—that follows him down through the ages to the Babylon of Nebuchadnezzar, the Egypt of Cleopatra, the France of Napoleon, the America of today, through the great War and on into the future United States of the World—that gives ALL history as one story—this is Wells' "Outline of History." Not only the history of the world, but the science of the world; the outstanding literature of the world; the philosophy of the world—a vast panorama unveiled before your eyes by the most graphic word painter of modern times. And The Review of Reviews Too Wells begins with the dawn of time; before there were men; before there were even reptiles. In broad, magnificent strokes he paints the picture, bringing you straight down to 1922. Alexander the Great passes on the screen; and Nero; and Charlemagne and Napoleon; and Pericles and Genghis Khan; Constantine and Albar; Gulliver and Marco Polo. Never a dull moment. Never a paragraph that is not crystal clear. And where Wells stops the Review of Reviews takes up the story. It is the history of the past; the Review of Reviews records and interprets the history of the world today. It is fitting that these two should be yoked together. By yoking them we are able to offer you an educational course such as you get at no school in the land. Send No Money Merely clip and mail the coupon below. Your copy of Wells' will go forward immediately, on approval. But do it now! You may never have another chance! Review of Reviews Co., 30 Irving Pl. For full cash with order, send only $5.50

A Business Proposition

By A. W. PEACH

© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"So I think a man in choosing a wife should go at it as he would a business proposition; then he is on solid ground and not up in the clouds from which he may tumble later on with a bump. I have studied a list of available girls and have decided that your daughter is the one, Mr. Mattison. Have I your permission to lay the matter before her?"

Mr. Mattison leaned back in his deep library chair and gazed through his bushy brows at the frank, open features of the man opposite him. The older man smiled inwardly as he remarked openly: "Mr. Andrews, I do not object to your laying the matter before Edna. I know enough of you to know that as far as character is concerned and the ability to give a girl a good home, you are all right. As to making a business proposition of the matter of a wife, why, I have my doubts. I would like to see you try."

When Andrews' tall, muscular figure had vanished down the walk from the pleasant Mattison home, Mr. Mattison sent for Edna. She came in, rosy from some outdoor recreation, her brown eyes sparkling, her bright hair holding still the imprisoned sunlight. "Sit down, Ted; I must put you 'wise,' as you say it, to something," her father announced.

"A secret—good!" she answered. "You bet it is. Andrews has been here, and he—well, he has a business proposition," Mattison began, and went on to outline Andrews' idea of a love affair.

Edna listened with grave eyes that at the same time were seething with amusement. "So I am the party of the second part?" she queried. "What an idea! Go out to win a girl as you would buy a sack of potatoes!"

A Delightful Spot.

"Andrews is simply out of his element, that's all. He was an orphan, grew up in one of those schools, and has been fighting his way up in business; so he doesn't know."

"I should think he didn't! Well, I'll teach him!"

"Now, lass, be good to him. You are the girl he selected from a long list, after he had gone over the points of each one. Anyway, don't be too hard on him, but a bit of education might help."

"I think so. You keep a weather-eye out, dad, and see what happens."

Andrews came the next day in his car. Edna was ready for him, ready for what she thought would be a highly entertaining afternoon with a new kind of male. She discovered immediately that he would need a lot of educating.

He took her to the home he had bought, a delightful spot commanding a view of the river and the sea. As they finished their stroll about, he paused and said simply: "I wish to offer you this home, Miss Mattison, and—"

"And yourself with it?" she questioned.

"Of course," he replied, a bit puzzled. "As to my character and business, your father has all the facts, though I will go over them if you wish."

"He does need educating," she exclaimed to herself. "Yes, but you left something out of your proposition—a commodity called 'love.' Doesn't that enter in?"

"That is a minor matter, and will follow in due course."

"Is it?" she demanded, a little angry. "It is important to me. I want to be wooed and won—and loved."

He looked at her quietly, and she saw a new light in his eyes, dim and far-burning; and suddenly it came over her that he was desirable—clean and fine in character, of the type who are true to one woman until the hills give up their dead.

"Look," she said gently, "I want you to come to a little good time at my home tonight. Now, don't say you won't."

He came, looking the quiet strength that was in him. Puzzled and awkward at first, he thawed out. One of the men who evidently knew something of him led him to tell stories of the lumber camps of the far North, where his business called him each year. They were fascinating tales. All in all, it was an interesting evening, and she knew that part of his education had begun.

She saw to it that it continued. She drew him from his business into her pastimes. She discovered a deep bubbling stream of quiet fun in him; she saw that he was getting more and more in love with her—but he didn't know it! Now and then she caught some of her flirtatious friends trying to play with him, attracted by his grave masculine air of assurance and command, but they gave him up. She smiled as she watched, and gradually, though she fought it, she felt a feeling of possession; he belonged to her. The realization amused and sobered her in turn.

Then he came one evening unexpectedly with the news that business called him North. As she faced him she saw in his eyes a great hunger for her that stilled every bit of mischief in her.

Suddenly, as he talked, he put his arms on her shoulder: "Edna, before I go, I must have your word that when I return—you—will marry me!"

"As a business proposition?" she asked gently.

His expression changed. "Don't, please. I was a fool. I didn't know then. I do now. I want you—want you—love you!"

With a sudden strength that frightened her he drew her to him, and in his eyes she saw the intense fire, white and holy, of the love that awakened hearts of strength can show. "Tell me, Edna, tell me!"

She relaxed in his arms, a sense of peace and content upon her. She nodded for answer, and his lips, firm but gentle, rested on hers.

When he had gone she found herself in a bit of daze.

Her father appeared in the doorway. "Caleb has just told me, honey. Is it a business proposition?"

She hugged him greedily. "It is—and a lot more!"

"CONJURING" MADE FINE ART

Apparently There is No Limit to the Credulity of the Natives of South Africa.

Negroes that were brought to America as slaves used to relate stories of conjurer negroes in Africa who could walk behind anybody and pick up their tracks and put them in a bag with poisonous spiders, toadfrogs, tree-frogs, devils' horses—great big grasshoppers with red and black wings. Then doodlebugs and grub-worms would be put in, and cat's fur and a piece of leather-wing bat's wing, and thousand-legged worms and lizards' tails and scorpions.

When the conjurer's bag was completed it was buried under the eaves of the house where the victim of the conjurer lived. The terrifying pains would soon make themselves manifest, and in the veins, the stomach and the bowels of the unfortunate person the vermin and insects would hold high carnival. The victim was doomed. No doctor could relieve him. Only by propitiating the conjurer was there any hope. This could sometimes be done by giving presents to the conjurer. The poor conjured wretch was avoided by all his acquaintances. People did not like to walk on the side of the road where the doomed man lived. When the "conjurer" was getting off, the vermin and insects would sometimes be heard jumping out and falling down kerflop on the ground.

Eleanor C. Gibbs relates this story in the Atlantic Monthly as one told to her by an old negro woman who was brought from Africa and who declared she knew these things to be true from personal experience.

Chances of Marriage.

There have been compiled the following statistics regarding a woman's chances of marriage at varying periods of life. Between the ages of fifteen and nineteen, there is a wedding for only one in every seventy-two women; between twenty and twenty-four, the chance is one in every thirteen; between twenty-five and thirty, one woman in every eight finds a husband. Those who remain spinsters between the ages of thirty and thirty-four will find the chance only one in twenty-four; while from thirty-five to thirty-nine the chance is one in twenty-eight. At forty to forty-four the odds are fifty-six to one against the husband-hunter, and between forty-five and fifty the chance is at one hundred and eight to one.

Mnemonics.

"Here is a wonderful book on how to train the memory," said the private secretary.

"I don't want anything to do with it," protested Senator Sorghum. "After having made speeches on all kinds of subjects for 15 or 20 years I am more interested in something that will teach people to forget."

The Way of It.

"Well, Peachy is going to be married again," said Heloise of the rapid fire restaurant.

"Why—gee!" returned Claudine of the same establishment. "She ain't never been married, has she?"

"No, but she's been 'going to be' a whole lot of times."—Kansas City Star.

CRITICISM WELCOMED

"Why did you give up that fine chance to be a motion picture star in a wild west scenario?"

"I don't want no advantages," answered Cactus Joe. "I want to be a regular star or nothin'. If any of the boys in the audience don't happen to like my performin' I want him to have a chance to hand me his opinion right across the footlights; me, of course, havin' the same opportunities fur defendin' my art."

The Source of Supply.

"I wonder what's the matter with the poets?" remarked the editor of the Chiggeville Clarion.

"I thought they pestered the life out of you by sending in contributions."

"They do, but I've run out of stamps and I have a dozen important letters to mail."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Relief.

"Thank the Lord that's over," said Jones, as he got up from his knees. "I appreciate your kindness, Miss Edith."

"My kindness, in refusing you?"

"Yeah. I either had to save board money by marrying you or theater money by getting the mitten."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

The Sense of Humor.
"Have women a sense of humor?" "Of course, we have," replied Miss Cayenne, "but we don't dare display it in the presence of gentlemen. The proper ambition of every woman is to persuade some man to take her seriously."

Dominant Influence.

NOT REALLY WOMAN'S FAULT

Time-Honored Joke That She Is Always Late for an Appointment Is Explained.

"The Woman's Side of the Story" this should be called. From time in the beginning the haughty male has inveighed against the once so much meeker half, and above all for her habit of being late. She was never late occasionally or off and on, or even most of the time. You could always count upon her being late. Some said it depended on the promptness with which you arrived, her tardiness being proportioned thereto.

But these were slanders ever. No, she was late without exception. And she had her reasons.

"Man's natural habitat," says Genevieve, "is the street corner, the curbstone club. Woman's is the home. Man stares. Woman is stared at. Man blanches. Woman blushes. A man can stand on the curb for an hour or more without embarrassment. But a woman is conspicuous, no matter where she is and a veritable cynosure when alone. In fact, I don't think it's too much to say that nothing is noticed so quickly as an attractive and unescorted woman. That is why, when she makes an engagement to meet you at a stated place, she is sure to be at least fifteen minutes late. It is all due to her dread of being compelled to wait—and be stared at. Oh, of course, we love to be admired. But that's different. And safer."

FEW WALKERS IN AUSTRALIA

In That Respect Country is Much Like Our Own West of Some Years Ago.

There was once a gay French humorist, Max O'Rell, who arrived in Australia on a hot day and straightway declared that the chief occupation of the people was holding up lamp posts. The abhorrence which pursued that Parisian would pale beside the indignation which would overwhelm the man who dared to declare that the Australian is conservative, and this in spite of the persistence of the galvanized iron roofs of early Queensland, the determination with which the black bowler bat still clings to progressive heads in Pitt or George street, Sydney, and the universal rule from Cooktown to Kalgoorlie of the good old roast beef.

All of which is intended to prepare us for the story retold in the Sydney Morning Herald, the widest read and most conservative journal in all Australasia, of the young Englishman in Rolf Bolderwood's novel who was invited to visit a New South Wales station seventy years ago, and innocently resolved to walk part of the way and see the country. After many unhappy misunderstandings reflecting on his right to be at large, the visitor borrows a horse and becomes respectable. That story would be in keeping today, with the exception that the motorcar and the airplane would have partly replaced the horse.

How Black Cats Got Bad Repute.

The origin of the superstitious aversion to black cats is believed to date back 900 years to the Sevens mountains district of France. At that time one William, abbot of a monastery beside the river Herault, and before then a warrior in the Crusades, decided to build a bridge across the swift, mountain stream. But as fast as the foundations for the piers were put down they were swept away by the torrent. He persisted for a long time and finally decided that his lack of success was due to interference by the devil.

He is supposed then to have invoked the Evil One and made a compact with him by the terms of which the abbot would complete the bridge, but the first animal to cross it would belong thereafter to the devil. So it came about, and the first animal to cross the bridge was a black cat.

Fly Has Natural Trap.

A peculiar traplike appendage, called a mask, enables the young dragon fly to capture the mosquito wriggler on which it feeds. The mask consists of a jointed, articulated arm that is attached to the under side of the head. At the extremity of this arm is the mask proper, which consists of two folding parts like hands, each of which is provided with a row of small sharp teeth on its outer edge.

When a tiny insect passes within reach of the young dragon fly it suddenly thrusts out the mask, grasps the insect within it and backs it into the mouth. When this organ is not in use it folds back over the head, covering it like a mask.

The young dragon fly lives in ponds and streams; and as it is very slow-moving, this trap is its salvation.

Sweet Odors.

Sweet and aromatic odors have always been in request among mankind. Eastern nations especially have ever been noted for their intense love of perfumes. Some years ago Professor Tyndall showed that sweet and aromatic odors were cooling to rooms.—In other words, their presence bars out heat-rays of the sun, allowing those of light chiefly to enter. An ether-spray of perfume, kept up for a few minutes in a summer room too hotly heated by the sun, has almost a magical effect in cooling its atmosphere, for the reason assigned by Doctor Tyndall. It has just been discovered that odors and perfumes are also an antiseptic—that is to say, protective against epidemic diseases in a very high degree.

Why Some People are Poor.

Their ideas are larger than their purses.
They do not keep account of their expenditures.
They are easy dupes of schemers and promoters.
They reverse the maxim, "Duty before pleasure."
They do not consider it worth while to save nickels and dimes.
They try to do what others expect them to do, not what they can afford.

LESSON FOR FEBRUARY 5

ELIJAH TAKEN UP INTO HEAVEN

LESSON TEXT.—II Kings, 2:1-15.
GOLDEN TEXT.—Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.—Rev. 2:10.
REFERENCE MATERIAL.—Mark 9:2-8;
I Tim. 4:1-8.
PRIMARY TOPIC.—God Takes Elijah to Heaven.
JUNIOR TOPIC.—Elijah Taken Up Into Heaven.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC
—Jehovah's Champion Exalted.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC
—Divine Approval of Faithful Service.

I. God Reveals to Elijah His Approaching Rapture (v. 1).
It was made known to Elijah that he was to go to heaven by a whirlwind. There is a striking correspondence between his life and his home-going. Much of his life was characterized with the rush of the storm, so God chose to take him home to himself in the whirlwind. As a reward for his faithfulness, God lifted the prophet over death into heaven. Elijah did not choose the time of his home-going, but was ready.

II. Elijah's Closing Ministry (vv.
2-8).
Knowing that the time of his home-going was near, he did not change his manner or method of life, but thoughtfully and calmly pursued his customary duties.

1. Visits the schools of the prophets
(v. 2-8). At the Lord's direction he went to give his farewell counsels to the young students whom he had been training and upon whom the future of the nation politically and religiously so largely depended. He made regular rounds in visitation and instruction. Schools were located at Gilgal, Bethel and Jericho. His educational work shows him to have been not merely an iconoclast, but a statesman of a high order.

2. Trains Elisha to be his successor
(vv. 2-8). There was a real friendship between Elijah and Elisha, though the one was old and the other young.
Elisha came into the life of Elijah in the field when Elijah called him from the plow (I Kings 19:19-21).
Elisha clung to his master to the very last in spite of three urgent requests for him to remain behind. These tests were somewhat like those of the Master with Peter (John 21:15-17).
The great object was to get him ready to take up the work which Elijah was to lay down. The order of progress of the journey indicates, says Scofield, "the experience of every child of God who enters into a vital experience of God's best. That walk began at Gilgal. The typical significance of Gilgal cannot be mistaken by any reader of Joshua. Gilgal was the place where a redeemed people rolled away
the reproach of Egypt (Josh. 5:1-11).
"The next stage was Bethel—house
of God—the place of vision, of spiritual insight, for Bethel was the place where Jehovah gave Jacob the great ladder vision (Gen. 28:1-19). He must go on from Bethel to Jordan.
Jordan stands for the New Testament truth, crucified with Christ. There, on the resurrection side of Jordan,
the gift of power awaited the prophet."

III. Elijah's Rapture (vv. 9-11).
1. Elisha's request of Elijah (v. 9).
The walk of Elisha with Elijah from Gilgal to Jordan had prepared him for the final question of Elijah before his rapture. Elisha now knew that it was safe to allow Elisha to choose for himself. Elisha made a noble request
—did not ask for riches, honor or position. He supremely desired the qualifications which would enable him to worthily succeed Elijah. Curiously enough, however, Elisha performed twice as many miracles as Elijah.

2. The condition of receiving was steadfastness and perseverance (v.
10). He must have faith in the invisible life in order to have power for public ministry.

3. Elijah's rapture (v. 11). It seems that he went to heaven in a chariot of fire enveloped by the whirlwind. Elijah underwent that change which all believers shall experience at the appearing of Christ (I Cor. 15:51, 52).

IV. The Spirit of Elijah Upon
Elisha (vv. 12-15).
1. Elisha's cry (v. 12). He cried after Elijah, "The chariot of Israel and the horsemen thereof!" This shows the value of a godly man to his country. It implies that Elijah was the true national defense. God-liness and character are more important than armies and navies.

2. Elisha uses the power (vv. 13, 14). He had faith to put the power to test.

3. The spirit of Elijah on Elisha (v.
15). This was confirmed by the sons of the prophets.

A prophecy of Christ.
And the angel of the Lord protested unto Joshua, saying, Hear now, O Joshua the high priest, thou, and thy fellows that sit before thee: for, behold, I will bring forth my servant the branch. In that day, saith the Lord of hosts, shall ye call every man his neighbor under the vine and under the fig tree.—Zechariah 3:8-10.

Suffering.
There is no suffering in the world but ultimately comes to be endured
by God.—A. T. Quiller Couch.

THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC

From — Moody Bible Institute Monthly
Chicago, Ill.

February 5
Christian Endeavor Around the World

The purpose of God for His redeemed people, whether in their individual or corporate capacity, is a very simple one. It is expressed in the opening words of our Psalm, "Let the redeemed of the Lord say so." "Simple enough, yet sufficient, for it pleases God by this simple agency of "say so" to save them that believe.
This is the argument of the apostle in 1 Corinthians 1:21-24, where we are taught that the world in its wisdom knows not God. This world of humankind knows some things about God (Rom. 1:20), but it does not know Him in a saving and transforming way. In the midst of this ignorance it pleases God, through the simplicity of preaching, which is the
"say so" of the redeemed, to save them that believe. For this very reason the redeemed of the Lord must "say so." That is, the distinctive mission of our Christian young people, and the measure in which they are true to this mission will determine the measure of real success all over the world.

What is the essential content of that "say so" to which the redeemed are called? It is the same as that given by our Lord in His parting word to the redeemed of His own day. "Ye shall be my witnesses * * * unto the uttermost parts." Our witness is to Him and His saving work. Has He saved you from the guilt and penalty of sin? Then, "say so." Is He saving you day by day from the power of sin? Then, "say so." Is He coming some day to save you from the power of sin? Then, "say so." Is He coming some day to save you from the very presence of sin? Then be not ashamed to "say so." Do you know the peace of God that passeth understanding, and the joy of acceptance in Christ, and the hope of coming glory? Then tell it out and "say so," for it pleases God by the simplicity of this very method to save them that believe. It is the power of God unto salvation, and,
when backed by the power of a holy,
happy Christian life, it will be effective in producing results. Not all will heed your testimony. It is still true that some require a sign and others, in the pride of intellectual conceit, seek after wisdom, but like the great soldier of the Cross, let us continue to proclaim "Christ crucified," for this is "the power of God and the wisdom of God."

A Judicious Inquiry.
A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade, says he has often heard druggists ask a customer,
who wished to buy a cough medicine,
whether it was for a child or an adult and if for a child, they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger
from it and that it always cures.
There is not the least danger in giving it and for colds, croup and whooping cough it is unsurpassed.

Strange Moon Rays.
Pusilex, the distinguished selenographer of the Paris observatory, some time ago reached the conclusion that the curious rays or bands extending in straight lines away from many lunar craters, such as the celebrated Tycho, are produced by the deposition of volcanic ashes carried to great distances by the winds that happened to prevail when the eruption occurred.
He accounts for the relative narrowness of these bands, which are never more than thirty miles broad, although their length are sometimes many hundred miles, by supposing that only the central axis of the deposit has remained, the less dense borders
having been destroyed by the denud-ing forces of the air when the moon
had a considerable atmosphere.

Careful Shopper.
The Wife—"I'm becoming a regular business woman, my dear. I bought forty pairs of silk stockings reduced from 40 to 30 francs and with the 400 francs I saved I got myself that duck little hat I envied so much."—Paris Le Rire.

Who does not want red lips, a good, clear, healthy complexion and bright, flashing eyes?
Some people have such wonderfully good health nothing seems to hurt them. Others could so easily have fine color and more strength and vigor if they would help nature with Gude's Pepto-Mangan. It is a splendid iron tonic that physicians have prescribed for thirty years. It is not an experiment. It is not merely a temporary help, because it makes plenty of red blood and as everybody knows, red blood is the only sure foundation of permanent health and strength. Get Pepto-Mangan of your druggist—and take it a few weeks and see how much better you feel and look. Sold in liquid and tablet form.

FEAR CALLED WORST ENEMY

Its Banishment From Among the Human Race Would Be Wonderful Step in Evolution.

The greatest enemy of the human race is fear.
If we could banish fear in all its forms it would mean more to civilization than any previous step in evolution. Health would be immeasurably improved; much unhappiness would be wiped out; efficiency would be greatly increased, and success would be the rule. With the removal of fear would come real human brotherhood. True democracy would begin.

If you are not as well, as happy, as efficient or as successful as you would like to be, you may find the why in your fears.
"As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he"—physically, in disposition and in circumstances. Fear-thought is toxic, destructive and harmful. Some forms of fear-thought are worry, hatred, jealousy, despair, anger, melancholy, discouragement, depression, confusion,
negativeness, nervousness, fretfulness,
self-consciousness, lack of self-confidence and foreboding.

Fear of failure is also caused by not thinking well enough of oneself. To banish this and all other forms of fear, one needs another kind of thinking. Replace fear-thoughts with faith-thoughts and systematically cultivate the new line of thinking until it gets to be a habit.

Take a mental inventory today! Seek out your hidden mental weaknesses and expose them to the light of fearless analysis. Get to work upon your fears and run them out. Flood your whole mental region with faith.
Repeat daily and the results will amaze you.—Forbes' Magazine.

RESTORED MAHAN TO HEALTH

Invitation to Admiral Responsible for Marvelously Quick Recovery of Famous Sailor.

A retired naval officer tells a story of a visit made by an American fleet to British waters. Admiral Erben was in command, with the late Capt. Alfred T. Mahan, the writer on naval affairs, as his flag captain.

One morning, it appears, Captain Mahan came to his admiral with an invitation he had received to dine with a duke.

"I can't accept this," said Captain Mahan, "as they forgot to invite you."
"I should say you couldn't," growled
the admiral. "I'll answer for you."

Whereupon the admiral wrote: "Admiral Erben, United States navy, regrets that Captain Mahan, his flag captain, cannot accept the invitation of the duke of Blank. Captain Mahan is on the sick list."

An hour or so later a messenger from the duke returned with invitations for the admiral and the captain. This time the admiral wrote:
"Admiral Erben accepts with pleasure the invitation for Captain Mahan and himself. He wishes also to advise the duke of Blank that he has taken Captain Mahan off the sick list."
—Everybody's Magazine.

Monster Goldfish.
In his notes in the Birmingham Post
"Pelican" has recently dealt with an extraordinary fish caught by a Coventry angler, Mr. A. G. Kendrick. This fish is "a golden carp, weighing only two ounces short of 14 pounds, measuring 27 1/2 inches in length, 2 1/4 inches

in girth, five inches in thickness, having scales two inches long and teeth (now extracted) over an inch in length." It was caught in a pool on the Walvey estate of the Coventry Cooperative society, and as its captor was fishing with an eight-ounce rod and 3x gut it gave a fight which lasted 45 minutes. That it was a golden carp and not an ordinary bronze specimen
there seems no doubt—"simply a blaze of red and gold," is Mr. Kendrick's description of it. Certainly we have never come across such a fish or heard of one. The biggest goldfish we remember were in a pond in Kent years ago, some of which may have run to as much as three pounds, but not more.

NO LONGER WEAPON OF WAR

The Mace Today Is, However, in All Countries a Recognized Symbol of Authority.

In the days of old armory the mace was a military implement used for dealing heavy blows. It was frequen-ly carried by horse-soldiers at the saddle bow, where it was suspended by a thong which passed through the upper part of the handle; this thong was wound around the wrist to prevent its loss by the force of a blow.
It could be conveniently wielded with one hand and had many forms. The head was of ten spikes, and sometimes consisted of six, eight or more radiating blades, grouped around a central spike, all of steel. In England during the time of the Plantagenets
the mace was used in battles and tournaments, and was superseded by the pistol in the time of Elizabeth.
The ornamental maces of parliament,
the universities, and the city corporations may be traced to the Twelfth and Thirteenth centuries. The house of commons has possessed no less than three maces, and that of the lord mayor of London dates from 1735. In the congress of the United States the sergeant-at-arms has a small silver mace.

At the present day the mace is regarded as a scepter or staff of office.
Maces are borne before or by officials of various ranks in many countries, as a symbol of authority, or badge of office, and the mace on the table of the British house of lords or of commons represents the authority of the house.

FEW MAPS ARE TRUTHFUL

In Fact, Only Those on Globes Are Able Accurately to Portray Extensive Areas.

Do you know what a map is? It sounds like a foolish question. You will probably contend that every schoolboy knows. If pressed for a definition you will probably say "a map is a drawing which exactly represents a portion of the earth's surface, the distances between the points upon the map being proportionate to distance between the points upon the earth represented" or some similar explanation.

But this is only partly true, writes
C. H. Clandy in the Scientific American. There is only one kind of map in existence which will truthfully fit
such a definition, and that is a map made upon a globe. No flat map, large or small, "exactly represents" any portion of the earth's surface, and only on a globe are the distances between all points truly proportional to distances between points on the earth represented.

In other words all flat maps are distorted. All flat maps tell only a part of the truth. All flat maps to some extent misrepresent the facts.

This is not due to any lack of moral sense on the part of the map makers.
They can't help it. The nature of a globe is such that there is no process
by which its surface can be flattened out without tearing, stretching, cutting or compressing. And the earth is a globe (slightly flattened at the poles).

Regarding Old Landmarks.

This stern age smiles indulgently at loves of fables, but it is quick to demand obedience to sane conduct and diligence to business. It's ready to enjoy the poetry of life, but insists that the poet meet the obligations of life as he writes.
Timid souls cling to the parental hearth and decree by the old landmarks. We need these custodians of what has been. They help hold steady the restless youth who chafe under the restraint of the commonplace. They contribute to the world who strive to hold it true to the old landmarks.

The cult of genius and inspiration uniformly disregard the old landmarks.
In following the gleam of things to be they pass over the things that have been. In sober meditation they often tarry at the shrine of the past.
When the spirit moves they pass over every bound in the wild dash for great attainment.—Grit.

FEW MINUTES' DELAY FATAL

Interesting to Recall Incident That in All Probability Changed the History of England.

One of the most famous instances in history of the fatality of delay has been immortalized by Thackeray in "The Four Georges." This was in 1775, when Edinburgh castle might have fallen to King James had not a party of his adherents stopped at a tavern to drink his health—and were as a result
two hours too late at the rendezvous,
under the castle walls.

In Lord Mahon's history the narrative of the landlady of one inn is quoted where eighteen Jacobites lingered drinking the king's health, or,
as the landlady facetiously said, "powdering their hair." The feeling of the country was such that had Edinburgh castle fallen—and it was likely enough—the whole country might have risen to drive out the unpopular Hanoverians. Thackeray sketches the scenes that might have resulted—the tumultuous welcome, with the arch-traitor Marlborough weeping and all the bishops kneeling in the mud, and,
in a few years' time, mass being said at St. Paul's. All this might have been, Thackeray points out, but for that little puff of powder which the Scottish conspirators stopped for on the way to capture the castle.

"Sabbath Day's Journey."

"A Sabbath day's journey" was the distance that the law of the Jews (evidently also of the early Christians) permitted one to walk on Sunday.
In Acts 1:12, the Sabbath day's journey is placed at the distance of Mount Olivet from Jerusalem.
Any one could walk the distance from the city around the suburbs, and by the rule of the Levites this distance was fixed at a circumference the radius of which was 2,000 cubits.
The Talmud places the Sabbath day's journey at twelve miles.—London Tit-Bits.

FOUND MANY PEDAL DEFECTS

Investigators Discovered Bad Condition of Affairs Among New York School Children.

The board of health of New York city has recently made a special study of the feet of the children in one of the public schools with a view to obtaining some idea of the prevalence of pedal defects among young boys and girls.

The examinations, made by orthopedic surgeons, appeared to show that such defects are much commoner than has been supposed. The number of children examined was 356. Seven per cent of the boys and 6 per cent of the girls were found to have deformed toes. Six per cent of the boys and 15 per cent of the girls had "flat foot."
Forty-seven per cent of the boys and 74 per cent of the girls had "weak feet." Ten per cent of the boys and 17 per cent of the girls had ingrowing toenails. The feet of 39 per cent of the boys and 26 per cent of the girls revealed corns or other excres-cences. Twenty-one per cent of the boys and 2 per cent of the girls walked with their toes turned in.
Most of these troubles were of a character admitting of correction and cure, with proper treatment. If neglected, said the surgeons, some of them might cripple and impair the efficiency of the children affected.

The surgeons recommended that all growing children be examined for such defects and that those affected be watched and treated, in order that later in life they may be "foot-sound."

BELONG TO PREHISTORIC DAY

Bones of Whales Possibly Ten Thousand Years Old Recently Unearthed on English Farm.

The skeletons of two whales, dating back, it is supposed, 10,000 to 12,000 years, were found by two workmen
on a farm near Peterborough, according to the Westminster Gazette. Some of the teeth and bones were submitted to Doctor Garrod of Alconbury hill, Huntingdonshire, and he, in company with two zoological experts, visited the farm and obtained all the bones,
with the result that one of the whales
has been set up.

The whales were lying side by side under the peat, and just embedded in the clay. On the whole the bones are in good condition, and those that have been taken out carefully are scarcely broken. Unfortunately, the skulls are damaged.

It is believed that many thousand years ago these whales, and perhaps others, swam up a creek when the wash came further inland, and got caught at the top of a spring tide in a place where they were unable to turn.

Another theory has been advanced, though it is rather far-fetched. Some years ago a prehistoric boat was dug up in the same field, and the suggestion has been made that the crew of the boat was hunting the whales
at the particular period.

Transposing the Terms.

A western jury had been called upon to decide a dispute over the ownership of some cattle which the defendant had been accused of stealing. It soon became apparent to all that he was innocent, and the jury was out but a few minutes.

"Judge," replied the foreman to the usual question from the court, "we find the plaintiff guilty."

"This court is trying the defendant, not the plaintiff," interposed the judge. There was a hasty consultation in the jury box, at the close of which the foreman rose again.

"Judge," he declared, "we find the defendant not guilty. Howsoever, judge, it 'pears like to us we been trying the wrong man."

Useful Fireplace.

At the Evanston (Ill.) headquarters of the Boy Scouts, a fireplace has been constructed for the study of geology and physiography, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. At the base are shown the different kinds of materials, in their relative positions, that make up the strata of the earth.
At the top, many different specimens of ore are shown. Models of a lake bed, and of a river bed, are also built into the fireplace, which is ornamental as well as useful, and it is asserted that the fireplace is the only one of its kind in the country.

New York Imports of Gems.

The diamonds and pearls entering this port annually would be worth literally about 30 cents to every person in the United States. The value of the cut and uncut gems entering last October was $3,440,710. In addition to the real thing imitation gems to the value of $42,723 entered during the same month.

Sixty Years a Golf Player.

Deputy Surgeon General Cooper of Norwood Park, England, who is ninety-three years old, has been playing golf for more than 60 years. The venerable medico, who is still working to correct a slice, played his first round on the historic St. Andrews course 'way back in 1858.—The Argon-

Reform.

"When you entered politics you announced yourself as a reformer."
"I am still a reformer," protested Senator Sorghum. "But I am obliged to be discreet, owing to differences of opinion as to which particular style of reform is entitled to precedence in public attention."

Making Sales By Telephone

SOME months ago the manager of a South Bend corporation which handles Goodrich tires decided to try the telephone as an out-of-town salesman. The results were a revelation.

He talked personally to twenty-nine car owners; to eight of them he sold tires, and others promised to call at his place of business.

More than twenty-five per cent. of the prospects called were actually sold. A sales letter which would produce such results would be considered a miracle.

Why not make your telephone a productive salesman? It pays.

It doesn't cost much to telephone out-of-town and there are special reduced rates on Station-to-Station calls after 8.30 P. M.

Consult your directory or ask the operator for rates to the different points.

Disasters like that at Washington are not likely to happen in small towns; but just the same it is always wise to look out for roofs heavily loaded with snow, and to get it off when it first falls. Snow and ice slides are always very dangerous to users of sidewalks.

Blizzard No. 2 came along last Saturday and Saturday night, drifting shut the roads and acting in the generally disgraceful manner common to blizzards. All in all there was not an unusual fall of snow, but its erratic treatment by the wind made plenty of trouble for users of the public highways.

The annual business meeting of the Taneytown Public Library was held Jan. 21, 1922. The following officers were elected for the year; Pres., Rev. L. B. Hafer; Vice-Pres., Rev. G. W. Buy it at Home.

Here is a little story that has been going the rounds, and it tells the story of buying away from home, from mail order houses, so well that we think you ought to read it: If you have read it, perhaps it would be well to refresh your memory.

The other day in Oklahoma a man went into a hardware store to buy a saw. He found the kind he wanted and asked the price. It was $1.65, the dealer said.

"Good gracious," replied the shopper, "I can buy the same saw exactly from Sears-Sawbuck, the catalogue house, for $1.35."

"That's less than I paid for it," replied the dealer, "but I will meet catalogue competition, so I'll make you that saw for $1.35 also."

"All right," said the customer, "send it to my house and charge it to my account."

"Not on your life," replied the dealer. "No charge account on this. The mail order house doesn't trust you. I am simply meeting their price and terms. Fork over the cash."

The customer complied.

"Now 2 cents more for postage, and 5 cents for the money order," said the dealer.

"What?"

"Certainly, you have to send a letter and a money order to a mail order house, you know."

The customer, inwardly raving, handed over the money.

"Now 25 cents for expressage," said the dealer, still holding out his hand.

"Well, I'll be—" said the customer. But he paid it, saying, "Now hand me that saw and I'll take it home myself and be rid of this foolery."

"Hand it to you. Where do you think you are? You're in Oklahoma and I'm in Chicago. You'll have to wait two weeks for that saw."

Whereupon the dealer hung the saw on the peg, and put the money in the cash drawer.

"That makes $1.67," he said. "It has cost you 2 cents more and taken two weeks longer to get it than if you had bought it from your local hardware store in the first place."

Chamberlain's Tablets For Indigestion and Constipation.

"The nicest and pleasantest medicine I have used for indigestion and constipation is Chamberlain's Tablets," writes Melard F. Craig, Middle Grove, N. Y. They work like a charm and do not gripe or leave any unpleasant effect.

CARD OF THANKS.

I wish to extend my sincere thanks to all my friends who so kindly remembered me with cards and good things to eat, during my stay at the Frederick City Hospital.

JAMES BOYD.

They Appeal to Our Sympathies.

The bilious and dyspeptic are constant sufferers and appeal to our sympathies. Many such, however, have been completely restored to health by the use of Chamberlain's Tablets. These tablets strengthen the stomach, invigorate the liver and improve the digestion. They also cause a gentle movement of the bowels. When you have any trouble with your stomach, give them a trial.

Feed the Birds.

At this time of the year, previous to severe cold weather or heavy snows it is always necessary to call the attention of the public to the necessity of feeding the birds. A State may do a great deal in the way of restocking depleted covers, but more can be gained by saving what we have than by purchasing at great expense large quantities of birds. It is only necessary for farmers and sportsmen and bird lovers to divert a little time a small amount of grain to save many birds throughout the State of Maryland, and have large numbers of quail and other valuable birds. A shelter provided for them to protect them from the snow or a place scrapped bare in the snow and feed scattered thereon will accomplish a great amount of good and the Conservation Commission of Maryland urgently requests all those who are interested to do what they can, if there is any cold weather or snow during the coming months, to save the birds.

The following little verse has been issued by Miss Gertrude Knevels, Secretary of the Forest Hills Gardens Audubon Society, as a Christmas card. It is passed on in this manner so that you will help us to feed the birds:

How big your nest is, neighbor man,
How beautiful your fare,
While small birds in the wind and snow
Are starving everywhere.

Some scattered crumbs, a little seed,
A drop of water, too,
And we will sing our gratitude,
Big Brother man, to you.

Our birds are valuable—will you help them thereby benefiting yourselves?

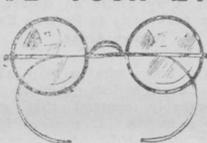

E. LEE LE'COMPTE,
State Game Warden.

Finding the South.

If you ever find yourself at a loss to know the points of the compass, just take your watch. Point the hour hand toward the sun. Twelve o'clock on your watch, stands, roughly speaking, for the south. A point half way between the hour hand and the figure 12 on your watch, will be due south. This simple thing has helped many a traveler who has found himself in the woods without a compass.

SAVE YOUR EYES

Have your eyes examined properly by a competent Optometrist. A pair of eye-glasses are worthless unless they correct your sight and remove headache. Don't trust your eyes to men that travel from place to place. Have them examined by a man you know.
