METHODISTS STRONG FOR MORAL ISSUES.

Give Notice of Continued Efforts for Righteousness.

The Methodist Episcopal Conference, on Monday, adopted a report presented by Rev. Dr. E. L. Watson, that flays the city police, the city press, the politics of the state, and the tendency toward lax morals generally, and urges all Christians to continue more strongly to engage in battle against these forces.

"Violations of the Volstead act are notorious," the report says in part, "disrespect for law prevalent, Maryland maintains an unenviable record for failing to pass any concurrent legislation. The press of Baltimore is a unit in opposition to law legislation and enforcement. One evening paper in its vituperative spleen exceeds its own malodorous record. We realize that our own journalism is morally blind and is an enemy we must face."

"The police, the politics of the State suffer from the baneful control of bosses and, with the exception of one man, the entire city delegation follows their lead. As things now are, no moral legislation has a chance of passing."

"We urge our churches throughout the whole State to oppose the increase of representation of Baltimore in the Legislature by referendum before the electorate at the next election. The city may theoretically deserve larger representation but at present it is misrepresented by men without will or vision of their own. The result will be to put Maryland completely under the heel of the sinister influences already too powerful."

"There is but one thing for the church to do, that is to go forward. The failure of America in this question is unthinkable. To have secured the passage of the Eighteenth amendment and then to lose out through lack of enforcement would be a world calamity. All agencies for sobriety deserve to have our unqualified approval and support. The Anti-Saloon League of Maryland and the District of Columbia have our full commendation for their fidelity and sanity in the conduct of an unpopular and difficult task. We gladly take our share of the insult and obloquy heaped upon these true servants of the commonwealth."

Applied Christianity, and Answer to Prayer.

We are giving the following—incident, we will say—without the knowledge of either of the persons directly interested; not because either of them would want us to do so, but because such examples are worthy of publicity for the good they ought to do, and to show that there is, after all, such a thing as real, applied Christianity still in existence and such a thing as answer to prayer.

During the past few months the Record published several meritorious articles written by Rev. J. Thos. Wilhide, of Toronto, Canada, formerly a resident of this county, nearly forty years ago, but who has since that time been engaged as an independent evangelist in different parts of the world without any denominational connection.

Several of his old schoolmates read these articles and wrote us about them. One of these was John T. Kuhns, of Elsinore, Cal., to whom we replied, telling him of the serious illness of Mrs. Wilhide, and of the desperate straits Mr. Wilhide found himself in among strangers, with funds almost exhausted, and his wife's illness calling for his constant care, causing the entire cessation of his work. Mr. Wilhide is a strong believer in Faith, and in the efficacy of prayer, and had the assurance that in some way God would minister to his needs.

This week, we received a N. Y. Draft for $50.00 from Mr. Kuhns, payable to the order of Mr. Wilhide, the same having been sent to the Record because Mr. Kuhns did not have the street address, in Toronto. We give this to our readers, for their thoughtful consideration, without further comment.

As a finale to the story, in the next mail after forwarding the draft, we received intelligence of Mrs. Wilhide's death. What do our readers suppose will be Mr. Wilhide's feelings when he receives the draft?

April 1 Changes in Address.

We have been trying hard, with the best information we have had, to send The Record to new addresses of subscribers, but many have moved, apparently expecting "somebody" to attend to the matter for them. We will be very glad to have Postmasters and Carriers notify us of other changes that should be made, in order that the delivery of the Record may be made both prompt and easy.

DECLAMATION CONTEST.

Taneytown High Gave a Fine Program
Tuesday Night.

The declamation contest and mixed program given by the Taneytown High School, on Tuesday evening, in the Opera House, attracted a full house, and was very enjoyable. There were fourteen contestants, all of whom made fine demonstrations of ability to memorize, and many of them decided merit in expression and general rendition of their selections.

The judges were Clyde L. Hesson and Misses Eleanor Birnie and Mary Reindollar. The verdict was that Miss Mildred Boston was best entitled to represent the school at the county contest, and that Miss Ethel Sauble was entitled to second honors. The work of the committee was not easy, as there were at least several others whose performance was fine. The program in detail, was as follows:

1. "Curfew Bell," by Ethel Lemmon.
2. "The Old Log School-House," by Laura Angell.
3. "Legend of the Organ Builder," by Helen Smith.
4. "Kentucky Belle," by Vada Smith.
5. "Antony and Cleopatra," by Frances Shoemaker.
6. "The Legend of Bregenz," by Gladys Zepp.
7. "In School Days," by Treva Becker.
8. "Wreck of the Hesperus," by Hazel Hess.
9. "Darius Green and His Flying Machine," by Ethel Sauble.
10. "Sheridan's Ride," by Carl Baumgardner.
11. "The Famine," from Hawthorne, by Mildred Boston.
12. "The Green Mountain Justice," by Olive Ritter.
13. "A Leak in the Dyke," by Janet Crebs.
14. "Horatius at the Bridge," by Norville Shoemaker.

Collection and Singing, by Norville Shoemaker.

Dialogue, by Charles Hesson, Kenneth Gilds, Ralph Baumgardner.

Milk Testing Suggestion.

Milk inspection is of prime necessity. In most of the larger cities laboratories are maintained where bacteria counts and chemical analyses are frequently made on samples collected from retail delivery wagons, stores, and restaurants. But the small cities and towns that can not afford the expense of a tester and laboratory find it hard to give proper supervision to their milk supplies.

The United States Department of Agriculture suggests that a practical way for such cities and towns to insure a safe milk supply, is through the co-operation of two or more adjacent towns in hiring a milk inspector and maintaining a laboratory. The cost of supervising such a plan may be prorated among the different towns on the basis of population, without the expense being burdensome to any one of them. State and Federal authorities are always willing to co-operate in work of this sort.

This plan of town co-operation in milk and dairy inspection has been carried out in different parts of the country, probably the most conspicuous example being the group of towns in northern New Jersey, known as "The Oranges." In these towns the plan has been in use for a number of years with results that have been very satisfactory to all concerned.—U. S. Dep't Agriculture.

Defect in Bonus Bill.

Annapolis, April 5.—A defect which may lead to the throwing out of the $9,000,000 Soldier's Bonus bill passed by the General Assembly was discovered in the measure today by Governor Ritchie and Attorney-General Alexander Armstrong.

Although, under the bill as presented to the Governor for signature, the proposed loan is to be known as the "Maryland Service Loan of 1923," it is provided that the first series of bonds shall be dated August, 1922. The question of adoption or rejection of the bond issue—or, in other words, adoption or rejection of the bonus law—will not be decided under the bill until November, 1922, or three months after the date set in the bill for issuing the first series of bonds.

When this was discovered by the Governor and Attorney-General during their examination today of all bills passed by the Assembly, it was suggested that, as there would be no law until November, 1922—or until the people had voted—there consequently could be no bonds issued legally. In the informal discussion of this question between the Governor and the Attorney-General, it also was suggested that banks and bonding houses would refuse to purchase the bonds, in fear that they had been illegally issued and could not, under the law, be redeemed by the state.—Sun Cor.

No Writing Within Parcels.

Caution is given by postoffice authorities to persons who mail parcels and include in them writing matter. This is a clear violation of the law and subjects the author to a fine of $100. Packages sent by parcel post and containing other writing except the name and address of the sender and addressee, is considered by the government as first class mail, and if any violations are discovered, either of the two must pay the additional charge, classified at first class rates. For example a package sent from York office to Reading was found to be first class mail. At parcel post rates it cost 34 cents to be forwarded to the addressee, and when the discovery was found it cost the addressee $9 to receive the package.—Frederick News.

THE GOVERNMENT IS NOT WORRYING

The Miners' Strike is Largely a Solo Performance.

The government's attitude toward the coal strike is non-committal, and apparently unconcerned, at least for the present. It appears to incline toward the notion that a good long period of idleness may be the best thing for all concerned, and that if it keeps hands-off, some features of the big question may settle themselves.

The government is not going to get excited, nor bluster; but when real necessity appears, it can be depended on to do something, and do it effectively. Congress is less unruffled, but Congress is always more or less "scarred" by unionists, and to try to fix things up, or make a show at doing it, because of the votes they will want in November; but, since the executive branch has not given any cue, Congress finds an opinion of its own hard to make up.

Strikes and labor controversies thrive on public excitement. Whenever a big crowd is watching, and anxious men and their opinions magnify in importance; but when the talking and fighting is largely on the solo order, the thing becomes tiresome and the public loses interest, and just now the government is giving the solo the whole program.

In this attitude, the coal operators may also see a light. The striking miners not being condemned as wholly in the wrong, leaves room for guessing on the part of those who have unquestionably been profiteering in coal, at the expense of consumers—and the miners know that as well as do the consumers. If the government compels the operators, eventually, to play fair, there will in all probability result a great deal less trouble from the miners. So, on the whole, we incline to the belief that the coal strike will eventually—and before long—end in a greatly improved all-around situation.

Frederick County Road Wages.

Announcement was made last Monday by the Board of County Commissioners of Frederick county, of the compensation allowed district road commissioners and other employees for the year 1922. For each hour that the road commissioners shall work they are to be paid 25 cents. All supervisors living over 10 miles from Frederick will be allowed 10 cents per mile for all over that distance in going to the city to settle their accounts once a year.

Following is the schedule of the rate of pay: For road machines and four horses and man driver, per hour, 60 cents; for road machine and five horses and man driver, per hour, 65 cents; for road machine and six horses and man driver, per hour, 70 cents; for a wagon, four horses and man driver, per hour, 60 cents; for a wagon, two horses and man driver, per hour, 40 cents; for a cart, one horse and a man driver, per hour, 35 cents; for a plow or scoop, two horses and a man driver, per hour, 40 cents; for an able-bodied man, per hour, 20 cents; for an able-bodied man working road machine, per hour, 20 cents; for traction engine, 16-horse power or over, fuel, engineer and fireman, per hour $1.50.

We have not seen, or heard of, a like schedule for Carroll county.

P. M. General for Sunday Observance.

Dr. Hubert Work, the new Postmaster General, is an advocate of Sunday observance, and has announced the following as the policy of the P. O. Department.

"In view of the attitude of a religious people, supported as it is by tradition and good usage, together with our belief that there is more to this life than its duration, the Postmaster-General would urge postal employees to encourage the sentiment found in all communities for Sabbath observance."

"Where it has been the custom at the smaller offices to open the post-office on Sundays and postmasters feel that such custom may properly be abrogated, due notice should be given to the patrons of the postmaster's intention. Likewise, where postmasters feel that some Sunday service is a public necessity it should be reduced to minimum and proper advertisement given."

Corporation Election, Union Bridge.

The largest vote was polled at the corporation election, held in Union Bridge, April 3, 1922, that has been polled for many years, much interest being taken. Thomas Gaither was re-elected Mayor by an overwhelming majority. Councilmen elected Dr. T. H. Legg, Dr. E. E. Hobbs, Charles Selby, Thomas R. Hesson and Earl Shriner.

Marriage License.

David Laughlin and Anna Micheal both of Hanover.
Marshall A. Waltz and Lottie Barnes, both of Carroll County.
John E. McColley and Lillian I. Boswell, both of Catonsville.
Dewey Lichter and Tressie L. Boswell, both of Catonsville.

Somebody has figured out that President Harding shook hands with over 150,000 people, during the past year.

TESTING PUPILS IN SCHOOLS.

Measuring the Achievement of Children by Standard Tests.

School Principals and teachers in the larger schools of Carroll County have during the last two weeks been studying the achievement of their pupils in reading and arithmetic, as a result of standard educational tests in those subjects which were given to all the pupils in Grades 3 to 7 inclusive in the following schools: Westminster, Sykesville, Mt. Airy, Hampstead, Manchester, Taneytown, Charles, Carroll, Union Bridge, New Windsor, Park Hall, Mt. Pleasant, Deer Park, Middleburg, and Linwood. The tests were given by Miss Simpson, of the State Department of Education, and Miss Langvick, Supervisor of the County schools.

A day was spent by these officials in each of the graded schools. Tests were given in the afternoon, school was dismissed at 12 o'clock, and in the afternoon, for four or five hours, the answer papers were scored by the teachers and carefully studied for the purpose of finding out particular types made by the pupils. The results were then shown in the form of graphs, comparing the performance of the Carroll county children in reading and arithmetic in each grade with the performance of children throughout the United States, these particular tests having been given to hundreds of thousands of school children. Two schools, Manchester and New Windsor, were found to be above standard practically throughout; certain classes in other schools were at or above standard, while some classes were below in one or both subjects.

Tables were also made showing the amount of over-ages in each school and age-standards of performance were indicated as well as grade-standards. For instance, a class might be up to the standard for the grade, but might not be doing the type of work it should be doing when the age of the pupils is taken into consideration. The amount of over-ages in each class was discussed with the teachers, and possible means of improving the situation were suggested.

Today, all of the teachers concerned met at the High School in Westminster for a second conference, when fundamental principles involved in the teaching of reading and arithmetic were reviewed, and definite suggestions were made to improve methods of teaching those subjects.

Mr. Unger, Superintendent of schools, discussed the findings of the tests with the teachers, calling attention to the strength and weakness revealed, and designated types of work that could be done between now and the end of school.

A demonstration lesson illustrating several good procedures for conducting a reading lesson was taught to a fifth grade class by Miss Langvick and observed by the teachers.

Through its bureau of educational measurements, the State Department of Education is co-operating with the County Superintendent, supervisor and teachers in studying the achievement of school children throughout Maryland in the "Three R's" for the purpose of improving methods of teaching those subjects, and of determining in which subject the school is weak, so that more pressure may be put on that particular subject in the classroom. An important phase of this work is the study of causes for retardation in order to see what provision can be made for retarded pupils who cannot make progress in the regular courses of instruction.

The tests revealed the fact that there is lack of sufficient reading material in the schools. It is impossible to make fluent readers out of pupils unless they have plenty of reading material. It has not been possible heretofore to supply the schools with a sufficient amount of this supplementary material, nor with the drill cards in arithmetic on account of the expense and insufficient funds.

The general results nevertheless show that the schools of Carroll compare favorably with the schools of the neighboring counties, and with concentrated effort in individual cases the Carroll county norm of elementary work will be up to the general standard of the country.

Surgery with a pen knife recently saved the life of a two-year-old boy in Cincinnati. The child had strangled on a peanut and the physician, realizing that death would ensue before he could obtain his surgical instruments, slit open the boy's throat and incised the trachea just below where the peanut was lodged, permitting the passage of air. Later, the peanut was removed and the child recovered.

PRESENT RACING BILL ANOTHER TWO YEARS

Soldiers' Bonus to be Voted on by the People.

The House, on Friday, defeated concurrence in the Norris racing bill, by a vote of 53 to 47. This results in letting the present (Burke) racing bill stand, as for the past two years.

The Senate, on Saturday night, passed the House bill permitting persons who have studied pharmacy in night schools, to be eligible to take State Board examinations. This bill was opposed strongly by day schools giving such courses.

The House amended the Havre de Grace bridge purchase bill, passed by the Senate authorizing the state to purchase the bridge for $890,000. The amendment provides that this shall be the maximum amount paid, but leaving purchase at a lower price, optional with a special commission. The debate over the amendment brought out such charges that the state was being committed to a "steal" by the Senate bill, in the interests of present owners.

The Budget bill was finally passed, as agreed upon by House and Senate. The appropriations and provisions for the state debt aggregate about $33,000,000.

The state Soldiers' bonus bill came through, on Monday, subject to a referendum. It provides for creating a state debt to pay a bonus to soldiers, not exceeding $9,000,000. The bill provides that each soldier, sailor or marine, who served in the late war, shall receive $10.00 a month for each month he was in the service, prior to the armistice, with 25 per cent additional for overseas duty.

The bill providing for a referendum in regard to any law concerning the manufacture or sale of liquor, was killed in the House.

The state tax rate for the next two years, was fixed at 30 cents.

The following amendments, or referendums, will come before the voters of the state for approval, before becoming law.

The bill providing for greater representation for Baltimore in the legislature.

The bill providing for elections every two years, instead of every year as at present.

The Soldiers' Bonus, providing for a state debt not to exceed $9,000,000. And the Carroll County School and road bill, providing for a Bond issue of $700,000.

There may be others, in addition to the above. At any rate, this legislation has left to the voters a number of important questions to decide, in the way of referendum, and bond issues. Nearly every city and county has its bond issue—simply another form of buying on credit on the installment plan, carrying in interest payments before the ultimate retirement of the debt, perhaps more than the debt itself. These, and the referendum propositions, should be very carefully considered before voting time.

Sweet Corn Growers.

The growers of Sweet Corn in Carroll held a meeting last Saturday in the Fireman's Hall. Although there was not a large attendance the sections of the county interested in sweet corn growing were represented.

A general discussion as to the methods and yields of the growing corn for canning, took up the afternoon. A number of farmers reported on the cost of growing an acre of sweet corn, which averaged about $13.00 per ton at a yield of three tons per acre. This is above the average yield, which is between two and two and a half tons. Although labor is cheaper it is still scarce on the farm. Fertilizer is slightly lower than when the farmers received $20.00 per ton. There are very few farmers in Carroll, at the present time, that can afford to sell a $13.00 article for $10.00.

A resolution was passed that it was the sentiment of the association that the farmer could not afford to sell sweet corn for less than $15.00 per ton, and that the grower should not be in a hurry to contract for less than that amount at the present time.

Responsible for Theatre Collapse.

Washington, April 3.—Five of the nine men held by the coroner's jury as responsible for the collapse January 28 of the Knickerbocker Theatre, with the loss of 98 lives, were indicted today by the Grand Jury on a charge of manslaughter. The other four were exonerated.

Those indicted are: Reginald W. Geare, architect; John Howard Ford, who revised the original plans for the roof; Donald Wallace, general foreman for the contractors; Richard G. Fletcher, foreman for the firm which had the sub-contract for cement and mason work, and Julian R. Dowman, assistant building inspector during the theatre's construction.

The five men are charged with causing the death of Mary E. Atkinson, over whose body the inquest was held, and the 97 others.

The Dearborn Independent has an article, this week, showing that the town of Wallingford, Conn., built a town hall in 1889, on a bond issue of $40,000, that has cost, up to date $295,298, with interest compounded, and the building is out of date.

ANNUAL C. E. CONVENTION

Will Convene at Smallwood Church,
Tuesday, June 8th.

At an executive meeting of the Carroll County Christian Endeavor Union, held Saturday last, Tuesday, June 6, was the date selected for holding the annual county convention, which will convene at Smallwood, the Deer Park M. P. Society being the hosts. A strong and interesting program is being prepared, and it is hoped to make the convention the best yet.

By an announcement in the March 30 issue of the Christian Endeavor World, the Carroll County C. E. Union stands second in the National Publicity contest. The contest closes June 30. The high standing of the Union in this contest is due to the generous space devoted each week to the cause of Christian Endeavor by the press of the county.

State President George J. Ritterbusch, State Jr. Superintendent Geo. R. Smith, Mr. E. F. Fells, representing the Md. Endeavorer, and Field Secretary Carroll W. Wright attended the jubilee celebration of Deer Park Society last Sunday evening, the occasion being the placing of the gold seal, the first one in the state, on the Four-Square chart, by the Field Secretary. Short addresses were made by each press correspondent.

Building Costs Coming Down.

A building expert has figured out that building costs have dropped to only 71 per cent above the cost of 1914. That in 1914 a frame dwelling that cost $5,529, and cost $12,815 in 1920, can now be built for $9,502. These are city costs. With lower freight rates, and some further reductions in labor costs, it is possible that the costs can be further cut this year, as the wholesale prices of material are but 50 per cent above the pre-war period. How this figuring compares with present costs in the country, we are unable to state.

A national horseshoe pitchers' magazine is being published at Wilmington, Ohio, with Raymond B. Howard as editor and C. Ervin Sturm as business manager. It is the only publication of the kind in the United States and is called the Horseshoe World.

Although still at large, Harvey Gartrell will likely be indicted for the murder of Miss Jenkins, at the home of Geo. W. Hess, at Buckeysville, five weeks ago. The Grand Jury is to meet in special session, this Saturday, to consider this and one other murder case, that of Mrs. Cecilia Picketts, near Lewistown.

FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1922.

All articles on this page are either original, or properly credited. This has always been a fixed rule with this office, and we suggest the adoption of it by our exchanges.

We read almost every day of "stills" and "mash" being found, as well as of the quantities of "boot leg," but rarely see any mention of what is done with the operators of the stills. Are the newspapers suppressing the penalties, or are there none to suppress?

When our orators spread-eagle over the "g-r-a-n-d old state of Maryland" they must keep their minds off such remembrances as the Norris and Burke race-track gambling privilege sales, or they are apt to spoil the full euphoniousness of the word "grand."

The "Open" Season for Automobile Game.

With the coming of April, the highways—especially the state improved ones—will become seasonably extra dangerous for all travellers, and road users generally. As has been demonstrated by experience and statistics, it is the open stretches of good road that are most dangerous, rather than the curves and other points clearly marked with "Danger" signs. And it is also a matter of history and statistics, that familiarity with the operation of motor vehicles, increases rather than decreases, accidents.

There is something about the very feeling of expertness in driving a motor vehicle, that encourages the taking of chances; and the knowledge of speed and power possessed by a machine, but inspires the driver to exercise it, in a more or less lordly way. Neither laws, nor regulations, nor fines, have as yet made the highways anything like safe for travel, business, or pedestrians and children—and especially not for old people.

As the situation stands, the most careful drivers are at the mercy of the fools and chance-takers—not to mention those driving under the influence of "bootleg"—and we are not aware of any new legislation that may have a tendency to make conditions better. The fact is, legislation cannot supply all auto drivers with good sense; and as long as machines are built for high speed, that speed will be exercised, law or no law.

As cars grow older, they become more dangerous, even with reasonably careful operation; and it goes without saying that not nearly as many new cars are going to be sold in 1922 as have been sold in the recent past years. So, the "open season" for this year promises to be more fruitful of fatalities and accidents than any preceding year; and as the partly worn out cars increase, the wrecks may also be naturally expected to increase.

The 100 Per-cent Pure Fool.

Men who drink bootleg booze, deliberately commit suicide on the instalment plan, and are not "beating" prohibition, nearly so much as they are beating their natural expectancy for the graveyard, in all probability, by many years.

This world is full of all sorts of fools, but hardly any to equal those who let appetite for drink take them by the bootleg route to death; hurrying them away from wife and children, and from the many engagements of this life; and largely because they want to demonstrate that even the constitution of the United States can not take away their "personal liberty" to drink themselves to early death, if they elect to do so. It is a case of losing by winning—of exercising defiance, at the cost of life—and it is a 100 per-cent pure fool who does it.

There will be lots of deaths chronicled within the next few years, without the true cause being published. Some newspapers will conceal the bootleg route, from choice, as the telling of it will hardly square with their present attitude against the prohibitory laws, for it is a clean case of fact that opposing prohibition, means boosting the boot-leg business; and to advertise that "the wages of sin is death" does not look just right as part of the "wet" argument.

Let some of the automobile fatalities—late at night, especially—be looked into thoroughly, and they will be found to be due to couraging with the use of illicit booze; and "twenty years old," or "bottled in bond" labels, will not neutralize the sure death character of the stuff that "liberty" allows victims to indulge in. Undertakers, and granite and marble workers, have the prospect of an abnormally prosperous business in the next few years, putting away 100 percent fools.

"More to Life Than its Duration."

The new Postmaster General, Dr. Hubert Work, has announced the policy of his department to be in favor of Sunday observance, as much as possible, stating that "there is more to life than its duration." No doubt this will be regarded by some of our "wide-open" reformers as official interference with "personal liberty," but that such a note is sounded by one high in authority must be taken as a reassuring sign that old-fashioned respect for God's laws has not entirely disappeared from the higher places, nor from those who ought to regard their responsibility as moulders of public sentiment.

Puritanical as it may sound, and sneer as the ultra liberals may, the Postmaster General's statement that "there is more to life than its duration" should be more seriously taken by those who preach and practice as though life ended with its follies, and that there is no back-fire to violation of the ten commandments.

High moral standards, and the teachings of the Book of Books, are fast disappearing from the public press, and from the actions of those in governmental authority; but, just the same, those who now have paymasters who put up current collateral for all sorts of immoral propaganda, will find, when the "more to life" comes, that the same paymasters' coin will be rank counterfeit.

Inconsistency in Game Laws.

Rabbits are considered a nuisance, therefore there is little objection to their being killed, and on this rests chiefly, the desirability of an "open season" for game. But, why import Kansas rabbits, as proposed, merely for the benefit of sportsmen? As a matter of fact, sport hunters perhaps do more damage to property than rabbits.

The partridge crop, also, is propagated, each year, by bringing in new blood; not in order to increase the number of valuable insectivorous birds, but in reality to furnish "sports." Game that is detrimental to trees and crops should be killed off, like rats, at any time; and the game that is beneficial, should be protected by law at all times.

Preventative Medicine.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventative measures. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. Pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, often follows a cold or attack of the grip. The cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the pneumonia germ. The longer the cold hangs on, the greater the danger. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the first indication of a cold appears so as to get rid of it with the least possible delay. It is folly to risk an attack of pneumonia when this remedy may be obtained for a trifle.

Costs Less to Live in United States.

The United States is the cheapest country in the world in which to live, it is shown in price reports from all parts of the globe received by the Federal Reserve Board.

Necessities—food, shelter and clothing—are nearer to prewar levels in this country than in any other country, the reports show. Taxes are lowest, in comparison with the size of the population, and wages, despite the wholesale readjustments, are highest. American families have a larger average income and need to spend less in proportion to maintain life than the average family of any other country.

Business men and bankers of the United States who universally demanded and put into effect economic readjustment and deflation are given credit for the advantage of the United States over other countries.

The general level of retail prices of necessities in the United States is approximately 50 per-cent higher than in prewar period, the official reports show.

In France it cost 219 per-cent more to live during January than during 1914, according to the reports. In England retail prices of principal commodities showed an increase of 92 per-cent over the prewar year. Swedish retail prices were reported as 90 per-cent higher, while in Berlin the comparison showed an increase of 1,900 percent over the prewar year. Swedish uary the cost of living was 25 percent higher than in December.

In other parts of the world similarly large increases in prices over 1913 are recorded.

Readjustment to normal conditions has proceeded more swiftly and with less economic suffering in this country than in any other section of the globe, it is explained.

At the same time economic depression is passing more quickly here than elsewhere.—The National Republican.

Farmers Crop Insurance.

There was a saying a few years ago that unless the railroads prospered the country could not do well. In recent years this did not always work out, as the country did very well at times when things were going very ill with the carriers. Abnormal circumstances made such an anomaly possible but did not, in the main, disprove the statement that the public in general could not reasonably expect to prosper unless the all-important business of transportation was likewise prospering, as the latter conditions is the only one under which the roads can give adequate service.

We have also learned in the last few years that when agriculture becomes depressed the rest of the country follows suit, and the obviousness of the connection has become generally realized. While agriculture is unquestionably on the road to better days and better methods, some farm troubles are not easily remedied because they are inherent to the pursuit.

One handicap is the farmer's uncertainty of his crops owing to weather conditions and ravages by insects. The natural question is: Why doesn't he insure his crops? He has been doing that for years in some sections against hail damaging the growing wheat. And in some years the insurance companies pay out many million dollars in losses. But it is not easy to provide insurance protection against loss from every source.

A blanket policy of that nature would not look good to the average insurance company; it would be more like a gamble with fate than anything else. How would a policy of that kind seem on cotton, with the boll weevil sure to be on hand? Then consider the probable premium on that kind of a policy.

There is already discussion of this matter and several plans have been suggested. Government insurance is one of them, but this is not likely to get very far, with the increasing feeling throughout that Government paternalism is already much overdone. Co-operative insurance by the farmers themselves is another plan, but so far the methods proposed are much too complicated.

Meanwhile, the interest taken in the matter is another instance of the growing public consciousness that the elemental and essential policies and principles of commercial life should be in the main, with necessary amendments, find similar use and practice in the world of agriculture.—Archer Wall Douglas, in Phila. Ledger.

A Farmer Cured of Rheumatism.

"A man living on a farm near here came in a short time ago completely doubled up with rheumatism. I handed him a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment and told him to use it freely," says C. P. Rayder, Patten Mills, N. Y. "A few days later he walked into the store as straight as a string and handed me a dollar saying, give me another bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment; I want it in the house all the time for it cured me."

OPPORTUNITY WAS TOO GOOD

How Justice Story Got a Laugh at the Expense of Two Highly Distinguished Americans.

President John Quincy Adams was one of those uncomfortable persons who are up at work by some ungodly hour of the morning, and he was just a bit vain about it—that is, as vain as a good Puritan ever allowed himself to get. But still everybody knew that the President got up at five and worked straight through to eleven. He was paying a visit to Harvard college one time when Justice Story of the Supreme court was delivering a series of lectures to the newly organized law school, and President Willard of Harvard, another early riser, took him over to hear the justice.

Now, Story was a notorious bon vivant; he got up late and in other ways acted like a civilized person. He began his lecture with the President of the United States seated at his right and the president of Harvard at his left. It was a drowsy afternoon along in May. Pretty soon he heard a titter from the audience and looking out of the corner of his eye, what did he see but the President of the United States sound asleep. Then he looked over to the other side. Sure enough, Willard had also succumbed and was nodding away.

With a twinkle in his eye Story turned to the boys and remarked: "Gentlemen, behold the ghastly results of intemperate rising!"

"Army" Tests for Collegians.

That the results of regular academic tests do not clash with the results of psychological tests, but accord with them, is shown by comparison of the grades made by Penn state college students in both kinds of examinations. For the last two years freshmen have been given the army, Thurstone and Binet-Simon tests and these results compared later with their academic ratings. Invariably those students who made low averages in the psychological tests were low in their college work. Of 67 students dismissed on account of poor scholarship last year the average for the army "alpha" test was 118, while the general average of the students is 131. Of the three types of psychological tests tried the results of the army test have proved to be the best indication of the grade of work a student will do in college.

Brazilian Air Lines.

Brazilian senators have reported favorably upon a bill proposing the establishment of two aviation lines between Rio de Janeiro and Porto Alegre, which are to be started before September of 1922. According to the United States naval attaché in Rio de Janeiro, one of the routes will be laid along the coast, carried out by hydroplanes and maintained and directed by the ministry of marine; the other will traverse the interior of the country to the west of the coast range of mountains and will be continued by airplanes under the direction of the ministry of war. The routes will pass through the most important political, industrial and commercial centers, wherever possible.

Retrieved That Gold Piece.

While in the station in Brussels in Belgium, my friend was intent upon getting tickets for the Waterloo battlefield. Not being able to talk much French and trying to speak her best, she in her excitement dropped a $5 gold piece without noticing it. It slipped quietly down her dress. A Frenchman stood within reach of the window, and at once planted his foot upon it. As my friend turned from the window I was nonplussed what to do to recover the coin. I yielded to the impulse of the moment, as I had to act quickly. Stooping I took the man by the trouser leg, gave the leg a quick lift, and so reclaimed our coin. All looked surprised, not a word was spoken, my friend and I were in possession of the coin, and the Frenchman was outwitted.—Chicago Journal.

INTEREST IN LAMONA BREED

White-Egg-Laying General Purpose Fowl Developed by Department of Agriculture.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The Lamona, the new white-egg-laying general-purpose fowl originated and being developed by the United States Department of Agriculture, made its first public appearance at the Madison Square Garden poultry show, held in New York from January 25 to 30, where 15 of the birds were shown in the open classes. In addition to the Lamona, and other government-bred fowls of standard breeds, the department put on an extensive exhibit consisting of models of poultry houses, a display of feathers of the standard breeds, appliances such as feed hoppers, brood coops, and a fattening battery. A series of panels, made up of photographs, charts, and placards, showed the more important standard breeds, the feeding of hens for egg production, the preparation of birds for exhibition, the advantages of early hatching, the improvement resulting from the use of a high quality sire, capons and caponizing, culling the farm flock, and the pedigree breeding of poultry.

A number of department representatives took part in the program of the show and gave information to the visitors concerning the educational exhibit. They reported an extraordinary interest on the part of the public and various poultry breeders in the Lamona breed, many persons desiring to obtain breeding birds. The department believes it necessary to perfect them still more as regards certain characteristics, and it is not likely that any will be for sale during the coming year.

GRADING EGGS IS ESSENTIAL

Ungraded, Unstandardized Product Is More or Less of an Uncertain Quantity.

When pullets begin laying, their eggs are not up to standard weight. Therefore, grading eggs is essential, not only from the producers' standpoint but from the buyers', for an ungraded, unstandardized egg is more or less of an uncertain quantity. The marketing of such a product is never advised since it puts an unnecessary handicap on the buyer who never knows what quality he will receive. The buyer in order to protect himself against loss must pay a correspondingly low price. Fresh eggs should be graded by size to meet the requirements of the market. The first grade of eggs ordinarily consists of clean, fresh, reasonably full, strong, sweet eggs with an average weight of 46 pounds net per standard 30 dozen case or over 24 ounces to the dozen. The second grade must weigh 44 pounds or more net, per 30 dozen case. The third grade must weigh 41 pounds or more net per 30 dozen case. They also make a grade of pullets' eggs which weigh 34 pounds or more net for 30 dozen or 16 ounces per dozen.

Apoplexy and egg-bound are almost always the result of excessive fatness among the hens.

The young chick drinks a great deal of water and plenty of it is necessary for its health and development.

The first food the chick should receive after being removed from the nest or incubator is clean, fresh water with the chill removed.

Don't feed any more mash at one time than the fowls will eat up perfectly clean. To allow more is not only wasteful but promotes unsanitary conditions.

Variety in rations is one of the most important things connected with good feeding. Sometimes even a faulty ration will give fair results because of the variety that enters into it.

Don't expect the fowls to find grit for themselves. No matter how much range they may have it is best to keep grit, charcoal, oyster shells, etc., constantly before them.

Accumulated moisture in the poultry house and an overcrowded condition are directly responsible for the colds and roup which weaken the vitality of the birds, causing them to easily succumb to other diseases.

PIGMIES OF POULTRY WORLD

Bantam Breeds Have Distinct Utility Value for Egg Production for Family Use.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The Bantam breeds gained their popularity as ornamental fowl and as playthings for children and grown-ups, but, says the United States Department of Agriculture, they have also a distinct utility value for egg production for family use. There is also a good demand for eggs for hatching and for breeding stock of good quality. Because of their small size these pigmy breeds often have the advantage over larger fowls where only a very small space is available for the flock. They are easy for children to handle, and the ownership of a few Bantams often is the beginning of a real interest in poultry raising.

The various breeds of Bantams, their characteristics, and methods of management are discussed in Farmers' Bulletin 1251, The Bantam Breeds and Varieties, the fifth of a series on Standard Varieties of Chickens. The various breeds, says the bulletin, have not been raised with the idea of egg production and, as a result, the average is not very high, probably around 175 eggs in a year. The eggs vary in size, as do the different Bantam breeds, ranging from 12 ounces a dozen to 18 or 20 ounces. The color of the eggs runs from white to dark brown. Some of the breeds have a tendency to lay for a fairly long period, but the Brahmas, Cochins and Silkies are apt to be broody. Since many of these kinds have been developed from the larger standard breeds they have many of the same characteristics.

Reports collected from Bantam breeders show that the average hen will eat from 25 to 35 pounds of feed in a year, which is about one-half as much as a hen of the Mediterranean breeds or one-third as much as a hen of the larger breeds would eat.

A copy of the bulletin may be obtained free by addressing the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C.

FIND HIDDEN TURKEY NESTS

When Confined in Pen Until Late in Day, Laying Hen Will Go Straight to Her Eggs.

A quick and easy way to find stolen nests of turkeys is to confine the birds from early morning to late afternoon. The laying hens will then go straight to their nests to lay the eggs which they are holding, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. When turkey hens have free range they nest usually in obscure places and often wander a half mile or more from home before they find a nesting place that suits them.

If attractive nesting places are prepared about the barnyard, the turkeys sometimes lay in them. Such nests are easily made from boxes or barrels, or by scooping out a little earth in the shape of a shallow bowl, piling brush round it to satisfy the hen's desire for seclusion. The nest most preferred by turkeys consists of a barrel laid on its side, in which straw or hay is placed. When confined in a breeding pen several turkey hens may lay in the same nest, but on free range each bird usually makes her own nest. Turkeys do not range far during cold weather. In the north, where the laying season often begins when there is still snow on the ground, the hens are more likely to select their nests near home.

LEAKY POULTRY HOUSE ROOF

More Annoyance From Damp Quarters in Spring Than in Winter on Account of Rain.

There is usually more annoyance from leaky poultry house roofs in the spring than in the winter, because more rain occurs. Also, in winter, ice and snow may remain for weeks on a roof without melting, and really assist to protect against the winds; but in spring any leaky places will be openings for heating rains. Roofs should be repaired at once, if there are any cracks or leaks at all or the result will be damp quarters and the flock will probably be ravaged by colds and roup.

Eckenrode moved from the Store property, now occupied by Guy Haines, to his property on Emmitsburg St., vacated by Legore.

In spite of hard times, every person seems to have gotten over April 1st, without much trouble.

If our County Commissioners are wise, they will urge the building of at least part of the road from Taneytown to Harney. We think that we are deserving of it and if we fail to get it, we want to know why; and at the proper time we mean to act accordingly, and it will be a bump that will be felt.

BLUE RIDGE COLLEGE.

The powerful Blue Ridge baseball nine crushed the team representing the Army and Navy School, of Baltimore, on Saturday. The final score for seven innings was 22-6. The game was played under bad weather conditions. The wind was high, making effective pitching impossible. Snyder started the game for Blue Ridge, and after he had located the plate the opposite team was helpless before his slants. Our star moundsman Peters, took up the burden in the fifth inning, and merely toyed with the batters for two innings. The outstanding features of the game were the fine defensive work of Smith and Markell, and the terrific slugging of Hitchcock, Stup, Dunn, Smith and Otto. The ground being soft, it ran into a hill and turned over, wrecking it. One machine landed in a field on Wm. Mehrling's farm, and the other on the Walden farm in the field encircled by the race track. The pilot was taken to the wrecked machine in an auto; then returned and left a few minutes after 4 o'clock.

In Loving Remembrance of our Dear Husband and Father, W. H. MOSER, who departed this life one year ago, April 5, 1921.

Silently the shades of the evening, Gather round our lonely door; Silently brings before us, That dear face we can see no more.

He wore a crown of patience, Through the years he labored on, And the hands that rest forever, Are the hands that made our home.

And now our dear father is sleeping, So free from all sorrow and pain, Oh, blame us not for weeping, For we have no father now.

By his wife, and two daughters, NELLIE and MAUD.

Our dear father is sleeping so free from all pain, Oh, wake him not, sweet spirit, to suffer again, He slumbers so sweetly, oh, let him sleep on, His troubles all ended, his sorrows all gone.

We know where you have gone, father, For heaven you had so well prepared, We too, you have taught us to prepare, So we shall meet you again up there.

By his Loving Daughter, MRS. DAISY DINTERMAN and FAMILY.

You have gone from us, dear father, To your Saviour good and true, You have won the heavenly glory, Which is for us to do.

We cannot understand why we must part, From those we love so well; But God, who doeth all things well, Will some day make it clear.

By his Loving Son, JOHN MOSER and FAMILY.

He has crossed the shining river, And has gained that radiant shore, Where no heart with grief can quiver; Where all parting scenes are o'er.

One long year, oh can it be, That our dear father and grandpa, no more see, His footsteps and voice we were always glad to hear, But now since they are silent, we shed many a tear.

By his Daughter, MRS. EMORY VALENTINE and CHILDREN.

Didn't Need To.

Congresswoman Robertson, of Oklahoma, was talking about women in politics.

Woman lacks political training as yet," she said, "but there's no reason why, in time, she shouldn't do as well in politics as man does."

"Certainly in replying to hecklers she will do well. I remember stopping one still October evening to listen to a woman preaching some new creed to others from a soapbox."

"Say! a rough shouted to her, 'Say, you look cold, baby! Why don't you turn your collar up, like me?'"

"Well, you see," baby answered sweetly from her soapbox—"well, you see, I've got a clean neck."—Los Angeles Times.

"I Acknowledge the Corn."

Half a dozen congressmen were good-naturedly discussing almost everything from tariff to turnips and from treaties to treating, when one of them happened to use the old expression, "I acknowledge the corn."

"I wonder how the phrase originated," inquired Fred Purnell, of Indiana.

"Oh, that's easy," replied Napoleon Tinch, representative from the Medicine Lodge district of Kansas. "That phrase, if my memory serves me correctly, originated away back in the year 1828—almost a hundred years ago. Andy Stewart, a member of Congress from Pennsylvania, made a lambasting sort of a speech in which he declared that the states of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky sent their hay stacks, cornfields and fodder to Philadelphia and New York to be sold. Whereupon Representative Charles A. Wickliffe, of Kentucky, called him to account, declaring that those states did not send any such things as hay stacks, cornfields and fodder to Philadelphia and New York for sale."

"Well, what do you send?" asked Stewart. "Why, horses, mules, cattle and hogs," snapped Wickliffe. Then Stewart came back at him with: "Well, what makes your horses, mules, cattle and hogs? You feed $100 worth of hay to a horse. You just get on the back of your haystack and ride it off to some market. How is it with your cattle? You simply make one of them carry $50 worth of grass or hay to an Eastern market. How many bushels of corn does it take to fatten a hog? You feed that corn to a hog and then drive it to market." At this point, according to the old records of Congress, Wickliffe jumped to his feet and said, "Mr. Speaker, I acknowledge the corn."—National Republican.

Are You a Cog?

1. Co-operation. A cog is not a thing-in-itself. It exists for others, and others exist for it. A cog believes in team work. Are you a cog?

2. Helping others. A cog passes its energy on to another cog. All it gets from its neighbor behind it tries to pass on to a needy fellow beside him. Are you a cog?

3. One Who Fits. A cog ceases to function if it is a misfit. It must fit perfectly into the scheme of things, must sacrifice ornamentation, self-gratification, everything which would prevent a perfect fit into the whole. Are you a cog?

4. Push. A cog is chock full of push. Every helpful impetus it receives it pushes on to its neighbor. Are you a cog?

5. Modesty. A cog is a booster, but not a boaster. It isn't showy, or loud-mouthed, doesn't do the peacock stunt. A cog does the helpful thing and forgets about it. Are you a cog?

6. Work. A cog asks no office, or honor, or fame, or glory. Its insistent demand is an eloquent sermon. "Give me a chance to help another cog!" Are you a cog?

7. Strength. See those broad shoulders and rounded, bulging muscles, that solid brace—no wiggle or wobble for Mr. Cog—he keeps things steady. Are you a cog?

8. Readiness. Always in training and always stripped for action. Mr. Cog never overrears or overdrinks or overindulges in any way; he is ever ready for the job ahead of him. Are you a cog?

9. Service. A score of other lessons could be named, but they are all epitomized in the word "service." Every bit of a cog's surface is a working surface. A cog is 100 per cent. useful, 100 per cent. serviceable, 100 per cent. unselfish. Are you a cog?—The Rotarian.

Ha! Ha! April Fool

By LILY MOORE

©, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"Say, pop, we've thought of more'n a dozen ways to April fool 'em. Can you tell us some more?"

"Eh, what's that? No, I'm busy, but you boys go slow now; don't do anything to hurt or annoy folks; remember, Benny," warned Mr. Miles, without looking up to see what they were up to.

"He's busy; you sign his name; he won't care," declared his eight-year-old son, so Harold Brown, the co-conspirator, wrote the letter and signed Mr. John Miles, as Benny directed.

Mr. Miles was usually aroused to attention by snatches of conversation: "Say, Ben, what'd you do if your pop brought you a step-mother some day?"

"Aw, I'd not stand it; I'd run away. No woman could boss me around like Skinny Smith's stepmother does him. I'd tell pop so, too," declared Benny largely.

"You an' your pop must have an awful time here; everything you want—"

"Y-e-s," hesitated Benny. He had been warned that day if he brought a dog into the house again his father would have to pay damages. "Yes, mostly, but a feller can't do much but girl-baby play in this sort of place; dasset play the Victrola only when the cross old hens—"

"Benjamin!" exclaimed his father, "are you speaking of the ladies across the hall? Have you forgotten how good they were when you were sick?"

Mr. Miles sympathized with Benny as much as he dared and do a father's judicial duty. So when the boys asked permission to go outdoors he granted it without asking where, merely saying that Benny must be back promptly in an hour. So they posted their April fool letters.

Two that were to cause consternation in two households were to Miss Charity Marchand, who lived at the edge of town in a beautiful cottage, surrounded on all sides by a stone wall covered with vines and flanked with rows of evergreens. The iron gates in front were screened so very few children ever saw inside her inclosure.

John Was Vindicated.

She was destined to receive at least two letters on the first day of April. One signed by John Miles, asking her to marry him, the other simply said: "Ha! ha! April fool." Each was delivered according to schedule.

When the first arrived Miss Marchand read it over and over, then opened a secret drawer in her desk and drew forth another letter signed John Miles, dated almost ten years earlier. Only two people knew that John Miles had proposed to Charity Marchand for the letter had been many years on its way. When first delivered at the Marchand home it was thrown on an old walnut secretary and dropping behind the sliding top remained there till a second hand furniture dealer found it and sent it to its owner.

All those years Charity thought herself jilted, and John, sure that he was flouted, married another. The letter only reached her within the week and she made up her mind that no one should ever know.

Now, however, she was supremely happy. John was vindicated, she would write him at once, though she did think he might have made this proposal more like his first, which was to his "Darling Chatty," reciting his love. He asked her to meet him that evening at church as he would be too late to call for her. She did not go to church but waited for him to call. What a tangled web life was to be sure!

She drew her writing materials to her, and in her sweet and modest way told him how the old letter had arrived, also his second proposal. She supposed he had forgotten her, but if he would come that evening they would talk things over and see if they still cared for each other, as they once had. She would not risk it to the mail, but called a messenger and soon her reply was in John Miles' hand.

"Any answer?" he asked mechanically.

"No, sir, I guess not; Miss Marchand didn't say so," replied the boy.

"Miss Marchand!" Mr. Miles waved him away and opened the letter. He read it over, spread the two dainty sheets on his desk, bending over them as if solving a puzzle. Benny and Harold's conversation came to mind. "Benny!" he called. His momentary rage was chased away by a happy smile—should Benny be chastised or canonized?

"What did you boys do with your April foolishness? Write any letters?"

"A few," admitted Benny, searching his father's non-committal face.

"Why, pop?"

"To Miss Marchand?" asked his father, with an effort smothering his desire to laugh like a boy, "and who else?"

"That's all we signed your name to 'cept the washwoman, tellin' her she'd lost our shirts, but I called her on the phone and told her April fool."

Miss Marchand knows by now that it was only April fool for she's got the other one," explained Benny casually. His father gripped him by the shoulders and, in a voice that made Benny tremble, demanded, "What other letter?"

"Why the one that said 'Ha! Ha! April fool!'" whimpered Benny.

John Miles never punished in haste. He pushed Benny out of his room and shut the door. "Of all the imps of Satan commend me to a boy! Poor, dear Chatty—I wonder if I can beat the postman out there?" Seizing his hat he hurried out, stumbling over the penitent, frightened Benny. Hesitating an instant he took his hand, "Come, son, we've got to undo the mischief you young rascals did."

On the way out Benny was left to his anxious thoughts. Arrived at their destination, he was told to sit on a bench in the yard till called, and his father insistently rang the bell. To the maid, who denied him admission, declaring that Miss Marchand could see no one, he said, "Please tell Miss Marchand it is John Miles and I shall remain till I see her."

After a cruel wait a little rustle announced her coming. He sprang up, advancing to meet her. She had been crying. "Ah," he said, pityingly, "you poor darling; then you did get that horrible letter," and despite her efforts to prevent it he took her in his arms and she sobbed on his shoulder.

"I was so—so ashamed—John, to think I was in such a hurry to accept," and she hid her face, crying piteously. He petted her, kissing the tumbled hair. The blundering years fell away; they were young. He assured her that he was only waiting these five years to get enough courage to ask her and the imps of boys precipitated the matter. "The culprit is out of doors, sweetheart, what shall we do with him?"

"The Angel! Bring him in!" declared Chatty happily.

So Benny was called in and presented to Miss Marchand, his friend, the lady with whom he might live some day if they grew to like each other. Then he was taken into the yard and introduced to more pets than he had ever seen together. A wonderful cocker spaniel, kittens, chickens and a real talking parrot.

"Say, pop," Benny whispered, long after he had been told to go to sleep and not utter another sound till morning, "don't you suppose we could move out there tomorrow. Sattidy—there's no school."

"What, and be bossed by a step-mother?" chuckled his father.

"Aw, shucks, pop, she ain't a step-mother, she's nice enough to be a feller's real mother if she had a chance. An' ain't she pretty?" Sighing contentedly, he dropped off to sleep, to dream of the happy days they were all to have in the Marchand cottage.

MOUNTAINS FLOAT ON EARTH

Scientific Research Has Proved Fact Which Will Be a Surprise to Many Readers.

Mountains float. Cubic yard for cubic yard, mountains weigh less, not more, than the valleys. The mountains are held up by the lighter material of the earth's crust flowing under them. This has been proved by researches conducted by the division of geodesy of the coast and geodetic survey.

It has been found that the earth's crust is about sixty miles in thickness and near that depth, probably below, the material of the earth is yielding to forces which act for long times.

The earth's crust floats on this yielding material. If the earth's crust were cut into blocks by vertical planes, with the base of each block at a depth of 60 miles below sea level, and the area of the bases of the blocks were the same and as large as 100 miles square, these blocks would weigh the same.

There is no tendency for the mountain masses to break down through the earth's crust, as they are not extra loads. They are like the portions of icebergs projecting out of water, which are held up by the ice which is below or in the water. The iceberg floats and so does the mountain.

The Stumbling Block.

"I wish we could take that pretty boulevard apartment," declared Mrs. Moderne after a wearisome hunt for a new home. "It's a shame that children and dogs aren't allowed."

"Well, we might arrange to have Teddy put into a home or asylum of some sort," suggested Mr. Moderne.

"Yes, I imagine that might easily be arranged. But what about Fido and Tootsie?"—Detroit Free Press.

SHIPS THAT FATTEN SAILORS

Modern "Tankers" Are Now Blamed for Added Weight Taken On by the Seamen.

Shipping experts continue to argue regarding the advantages of oil fuel over coal. At present the question is occupying the attention of medical men.

The adverse effect of oil fuel upon such surfaces as steel, canvas, rope and other shipping accessories are now widely known; ships' doctors are now divided on the question as to whether it is harmful or beneficial in its effect upon sailors, a writer in London "Tit-Bits" states.

Sailors on oil-fed vessels are fatter and plumper than those who work on coal-fed ships. Some naval surgeons declare that the fattening effect is produced by the slight fumes exuded by the dormant oil fuel; others ridicule the suggestion, and maintain that the former are fat simply because they have less work to do.

"Coaling ship" is one of the finest exercises in the world for reducing superfluous flesh. It is hard work that has to be maintained at high speed all day. Ships vie with each other in getting their coal aboard in record time, and even after the operation is finished the sailors still have a few more ounces of avoirdupois to work off in cleaning up the mess below decks. Usually three days are occupied in cleaning a vessel after a bout of "coal ship." On the other hand, oil-fuel ships perform the task in about three hours.

Doctors are asking themselves: "Is the fat a healthy fat, or an injurious parasitic growth?" If a hammock is splashed with oil fuel, all the scrubbing and boiling in the world will not prevent a hole from appearing in it; and if it eats through double-ply canvas, what will oil fuel accomplish in the case of human beings?

"Tanker" hands are noticing that after two or three voyages they begin to put on flesh.

FAMED FOR ITS MARASCHINO

Dalmatian Town of Sebenico Really Has Little Right to Other Claims to Honors.

Sebenico vainly boasts of being the Roman colony Siscum, where Claudius quartered his veterans, and so styles itself in public inscriptions and Latin documents. But Siscum stood farther south, near Salona, at a spot still marked by Roman remains.

It is to be feared that Sebenico had a sadly ignoble origin, says the Manchester Guardian. The name is said to be derived from a word that means the fort from whence bandits watched the sea for ships which they attacked and plundered. The little Dalmatian pirates' lair remained quite unknown until selected in the early Middle ages by Croatian kings for their favorite residence. Apart from possession of a picturesque land-locked harbor, the only cathedral in the world built entirely of stone and metal, and the ancestral house of the Orsini, Sebenico has few claims to distinction. However, by some people Sebenico will always be held in high honor for being the place where they make maraschino, an insidious liquor distilled from small black cherries.

The Wrong Saint.

Childhood's propensity for getting names mixed was well illustrated a Sunday morning or two ago when little Richard, on the way to Sunday school with his mother and sister, met another little boy afflicted with St. Vitus' dance.

Richard was deeply impressed by the incident and asked his mother what was the matter with the little boy.

"Poor child," the sympathetic mother replied. "He has St. Vitus' dance."

Back at home, Richard rushed in to tell his father of the incidents of the morning and closed with the remark:

"And—and we saw a poor little boy who jerked all over. He had the Ritcomb Riley."

Only Fat Girls in His Office.

"I have found one employer whose 'bug' in hiring folks for his office is worse than the idea against bobbed heads and short skirts," lamented a young woman who was weary with hunting work.

"And what's that?"

"He won't hire any one—male or female—unless he has a fat, healthy, well-fed, well-cared-for look. I was talking to the girl who lets applicants in to see the boss. She was real sweet and kind and she told me I might as well not go in. I asked her why, and she confided to me that I was too pale, too delicate looking. This girl thinks it is just because he is known as an old tightwad and is selfish, and he doesn't want it said of him that even his office people look pinched and pale and ill-treated."—New York Sun.

A Day Dream.

"That was a smooth stock salesman in here just now."

"He was, indeed," said Mr. Dubwaite. "He hadn't been talking five minutes before I saw myself stepping briskly into a bank to deposit a few hundred thousand dollars, then strolling around to my tailor to order a winter outfit of a dozen suits and making an engagement with a friend of mine in the motor business to look at the fall styles in limousines."

"What happened next?"

"Oh, I woke up, glancing hastily about to see if I was still sitting in the little old office and wished him 'good morning.'"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

NEW DANCE HAS MADE HIT

Gothamites Take to Importation From London, Though It Seems Rather a Childish Pastime.

There's a new dance stunt in town. It's the balloon dance and it's from dear old London, don't you know. It's a bit of all right, too.

A few nights ago it was introduced at the Rendezvous—one of Broadway's most exclusive supper clubs. And it made a tremendous hit, says the New York World.

A toy balloon is tied to the ankle of each dancer of the fair sex and the idea is to get through a close-fitting foxglove to a toddle with the balloon still intact. That is the girl's idea.

The idea of the men dancers is to break as many balloons as possible without stepping out of the dance. On a crowded floor the balloons have about as much chance as a snowball in—well, a warmer place than New York. However, a prize is offered to the woman who can emerge from the maze of the dance with her balloon still flying.

One young lady at the Rendezvous actually won the prize. But the popping of the colored spheres reminded one of the popping of champagne corks.

Anyway, it's a great boon for the balloon manufacturers. For the dance floors of the average toddle sanctuary are so small that the only way to keep off one's partner's balloon is to step on her feet—and that is not very popular with the fair sex.

RETURNING TO SWORD PLAY

New York Children in Their Games, Seem to Have Abandoned "Modern Warfare."

Playwrights and theatrical producers predict the return of the costume play and the swashbucklin' melodrama. But the youngsters of New York seem to have realized this prophecy in their games.

Wooden swords, umbrella rib daggers and crossbows have supplanted dummy rifles and barrel stave artillery pieces that were popularized by the World war.

Sword play, with hickory rapiers and fragile crate-cover cutlasses seem to have asserted a romantic appeal over infantry charges and vocal "bing! bangs!" The vacant lot is no longer no man's land, but a rock-strewn heath or a tin can infested moor, where Frankie and Johnny would "do each other in mortal combat as Spaniard and Dutchman in the lowlands."

There is more realism in the sword than in the pistol, with which one must say "Bang!" "Bang!" Rock piles have become castles after the fashion of the Arthurian legends and lance-armed knights guard drawbridges of planks or old doors over imitation moats.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

One of Great City's Tragedies.

An old-time tragedy of the Central Markets, Paris, has been recalled by the death at an advanced age of a once rich woman, who for many years made a poor living there overturning garbage cans and selling anything of value she might be able to find there-in. Her name was unknown, and for nearly half a century she was merely called "Princess." Fifty years ago it was fashionable for persons of high society in Paris to pass a riotous night in the cafes and stalls of the market. On one occasion a fashionable woman, one of a gay party, was robbed of money and jewels, presumably by her escort. Left penniless, she refused, for reasons easily surmised, to communicate with her husband or her family in central France. Instead she sought employment and gradually fell into extreme poverty. She got her nickname owing to her invariable habit, when asked about her former life, of replying: "Ask no questions; I am a princess from a far country."

Smiling Porches.

More houses are being built with inclosed porches than ever before; you may walk down long streets of dear little homes whose porches smile at you through tiny panes of glass. You pass medium-sized places with grounds, comfortable houses set back from the road, and large mansions—in every one somewhere you catch the glimpse of an enclosed porch-room. Old-fashioned houses follow suit, and back of the rounded Colonial pillars are fitted small-paneled glass partitions that inclose the porch as efficaciously as though it had been built that way in the beginning. In the summer these are lifted out, leaving the porch as before.—The Designer.

Canada Pushing Honey Industry.

It is expected that Ontario's honey crop next season will be marketed largely on the co-operative system, as a result of the activities of the committee appointed recently by the Ontario Bee Keepers' association, and with the assistance of the Ontario government. The honey will be graded and have a registered brand for the protection of consumers. Each package will have a distinguishing number, by which it can be traced back to the producer.

Snails in London Restaurants.

English officers who served in France during the war acquired in many cases a taste for frogs' legs and snails, hitherto unknown to London menus. When they returned home they demanded the same tidbits in London and now both frogs' legs and snails are conveyed daily from France to London by airplane. Some of the London restaurants are doing an enormous business in serving these two articles of food.

Why Some People are Poor.

Their ideas are larger than their purses.

They do not keep account of their expenditures.

They are easy dupes of schemers and promoters.

They reverse the maxim, "Duty before pleasure."

They do not consider it worth while to save nickels and dimes.

They try to do what others expect them to do, not what they can afford.

LESSON FOR APRIL 9

THE LORD PRESERVES JOASH

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 11:1-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord preserveth all them that love Him.—Psalm 145:20.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—II Kings 11:1-20; II Chron. 23:1-24; Matt. 23:35.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God Takes Care of a Boy.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How a Boy Became King.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Boy Saved for a Great Career.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Secret of Personal and National Safety.

Joash, viewed in the light of his ancestors, was a poor prospect for a king. His grandmother was the wicked Athaliah and his great grandparents were Ahab and Jezebel. There was enough bad blood in his veins to assure his doom. Despite this fact, he brought about some noble reforms and turned the people back to God.

I. Athaliah Usurps the Throne (vv. 1-3).

1. Her attempt to destroy the seed royal (vv. 1). In order to remove any rival claimant to the throne she tried to kill all the royal male children.

2. Joash preserved by Jehoshabea (vv. 2, 3). Though Athaliah was keen-eyed she was checkmated by another woman. Her fatal omission was not to get rid of the women too. This woman, the wife of the priest, stole away the child and hid him in the bedchamber for six years. God had promised that through the Davidic line the Messiah should come. In order that this line be unbroken Joash must be preserved. No purpose of God can fail.

II. Joash Crowned King (vv. 4-12).
1. Jehoiada's preparations (vv. 4-11). The high priest and his wife were intelligent and strong characters. As the high priest, Jehoiada felt that it was his duty to thwart the heathen project of Athaliah. Doubtless his co-operation with his wife made possible the saving of Joash.

(1) Secured the aid of the military leaders (v. 4). He knew somehow that these men were not loyal to Athaliah. (2) Bound them under solemn oath (v. 4). He took an oath of them in the house of the Lord. Honest men will stand by their word. (3) Excited their spirit of patriotism (v. 4). He gave them a sight of the king's son. This, no doubt, was a great surprise. Now having seen the heir to the throne they would risk everything, even their lives, in order to set him on the throne. (4) Co-ordinates all matters (vv. 5-11). The soldiers were divided into companies and arms were distributed to them. Each group was assigned to specific duties.

2. The coronation (v. 12). (1) The king's son brought forth. This was a great day in Jerusalem. After six years of usurpation, the people all the while supposing that all the heirs to the throne were dead, now to gaze upon the king's son would be a notable event. (2) Put the crown upon him. This was the formal induction into office. (3) Gave him the testimony. This was a copy of the law, showing that the king was to rule according to the law of God. The act of putting the law upon his head showed that the king himself would be under the control of the law. (4) Made him king. This shows that he was made king by the choice of the people. (5) Anointed him. They poured oil upon his head. This was the usual method of consecrating prophets, priests and kings. (6) Clapped their hands. This was a token of joy.

III. Athaliah Slain (vv. 13-17).
1. The noise of the coronation of Joash brought Athaliah to the temple (v. 15). Up to this time she thought her place on the throne was secure and that her heathen religion had free course.

2. Her dismay (v. 14). Upon her arrival at the temple she saw the king wearing the crown and surrounded by the guards, so that she could do nothing. In her despair she exclaimed: "Treason, treason!" How prone wicked men and women are to cry out as though they had been wronged when their wicked plots and conspiracies are exposed and thwarted!

3. Athaliah executed (vv. 15, 16). The orders were that she should not be killed in the temple. They led her out by the way of the horses' entrance to the king's palace and slew her. What a tragic end for the sinner! Sin can only prosper for a time.

IV. Worship of the True God (vv. 17, 18).
Joash was seven years old when he was made king. The high priest made a covenant between the Lord, the king and the people that they would be the Lord's people. In carrying out this covenant they broke down the temple of Baal and slew the priest of Baal.

The Way to God.

Prayer carries us halfway to God, fasting brings us to the door of His palace, and alms-giving procures us admission.—Koran.

The Saddest Thing.

The saddest thing that can befall a soul is when it loses faith in God and woman.—Alexander Smith.

Hope and Joy.

A propensity to hope and joy is real riches; one to fear and sorrow, real poverty.—Hume.

The Master's Invitation
Luke 14:16-24; John 3:16

In order to make this meeting a success, the members of the society should search for the various invitations of Christ in the Gospel narratives. With the aid of a Bible concordance this can be made an interesting and profitable study. Look up the passages containing the word of invitation "Come," and classify these into groups under several headings such as invitations to rest, to follow, to serve, and so on. Then memorize one or two of the best as they appeal to you, and be prepared to present them at the proper time.

Notice in our Scripture lesson the prevalence of excuses. These are as prevalent and common today. Now as then the call of God, the invitation of grace, the beckoning of the Holy Spirit and the counsel of our best friends are frequently avoided and evaded by many miserable excuses, and by the effort to justify oneself in the gratifying of some personal desire even at the expense of eternal life. Those who were invited refused to come, but the invitation did not cease to be issued. If the Jews turned away, the Gentiles heard and turned to God. If favored America will not hear and come, Africa and the islands of the sea will.

What shall be said of those who make excuses? The master of the house being angry said, "None of these men which were bidden shall taste of my supper." This means the rejection of those who had rejected the gracious invitation. It means condemnation to those who thought to justify themselves through excuse-making. "The marriage supper of the Lamb" is no mere rhetorical phrase. It stands for something blessedly real, but the excuse-makers will not be there to participate. For then there will be only darkness of despair. "Now is the day of salvation," all things are now ready. The sacrifice has been offered, the atonement has been made, "Jesus has died and there is remission." Come then as you are, and come now. This is the Master's invitation.

The Dry Mash System for feeding hens is fully indorsed by us. We have advocated it, have manufactured and advertised it for ten years. Keep Rein-o-la Dry Mash before your hens all the time and give them a small mess of Rein-o-la Scratch Feed morning and evening and you cannot fail to get eggs. This is the system with the least work and brings the greatest results. Modern methods bring modern returns. Give it a trial, $2.50 per 100 lbs.—Reindollar Bros. & Co. 3-3-1f Advertisement

On the Jump.

"I reckon you had a right lively time in Kansas City?" insinuated an acquaintance.

"Tolable," replied Gabe Gosnell of Grudge, "but nothing like what I probably would have had if I wasn't considerably lively on my feet. You see, up in Kay See, if you meet a respectable-looking man after four o'clock in the afternoon anywhere the least bit off to one side, he's a holdup and robs you."

"And if you meet one that don't look respectable, he's a plain-clothes policeman, and pounds you because he thinks you're a holdup. So I was practically on the keen jump all the time I was there, dodging one or the other."—Kansas City Star.

Would Have Helped Somel

Nick Slick, the latest acquisition to the town, had done the "heavy" in no half-hearted fashion.

Smart, and glib of speech, he had found the townspeople of Little Litville very simple folk and easy game.

He had obtained credit right and left, and then he had flown gently away, without ever disturbing the dust or the pile of unpaid bills in his lodgings.

"By gosh!" muttered Wilkins, the grocer, who was hard hit by the defaulter, "if I'd known he didn't intend paying, I'd have charged him double, I would!"—London Tit-Bits.

VITALITY! VITALITY! VITALITY!

You Must Have it to Keep your Job, your Friends,
Your Happiness.

Thousands of thoughtless people needlessly let themselves run down in health. The day comes when, with a terrible shock, they suddenly realize that they are permanently broken in health. For your own sake keep well. If you feel weak or run down or do not sleep well or are nervous and have a poor color, don't wait until it is too late. Gude's Pepto-Mangan taken with your meals for a few weeks will restore your good health, give you renewed strength and vitality for your daily work. The healthy life is the only happy life—do not let it slip from you. For thirty years Gude's Pepto-Mangan has been helping people who were run-down back to good health. It was made famous by the medical profession. Sold by druggists in both liquid and tablet form.

PROFITABLE DEAL IN FOXES

Treasury of the United States Benefited and the Value of the Breed Increased.

In the spring of 1921 the bureau of biological survey directed attention to the fact that the blue foxes on some of the Aleutian Islands are deteriorating through inbreeding, and that there was a desire on the part of the natives and others to secure animals from the Pribilof Islands for restocking purposes.

In order to assist in building up the blue fox industry of the Aleutians, where climatic conditions appear to be favorable, the introduction of new blood from the Pribilofs was accordingly undertaken by the bureau of fisheries, and eight live blue foxes were placed aboard the coast guard cutter Bear at St. George island September 15, 1921. One pair went to L. A. Lavigne, lessee of Unalga island; one pair to the Unalaska Native Brotherhood, lessees of Avatanak island, and two pairs to N. E. Bolshakin, lessee of Kavalga and other islands. The purchasers supplied shipping cases and transportation was at their risk.

All the foxes were received at Unalaska in good order and were promptly placed on the islands under lease to the various persons concerned. The price charged for each animal was $88.12, this being the average realized for Pribilof blue fox skins at the sale at St. Louis February 21, 1921. The amount received for the eight foxes was $704.96; $5 was allowed natives of the Pribilof Islands for each fox secured, and the net proceeds, amounting to $694.96, were turned into the treasury of the United States.—Fisheries Service Bulletin.

SOME MERIT IN SUGGESTION

World Would Certainly Be More Colorful if Woman Would Dress as This Article Desires.

"If some women are so anxious to dress like men why don't they imitate the masculine styles of a lovelier day and age than the present one?" asked an elderly artist the other day.

He pointed out the lack of beauty of the existent garb for man and then he recalled the silken dandies of Shakespeare's day.

"And wouldn't the women of today look nice in those attires?" he asked. "The imitation shirts and the stiff collars that the women flaunt set me crazy, let alone the cuffs and tortoise shell glasses, and now I even hear they're thinking of wearing bloomers and trousers."

"Well, let them revive the fashions of old when a tailor knew how to dress a man. Let them wear the silken knee-breeches and the silken coats, heaped high in the front with frilly stocks and fringed with lacy cuffs. And then—ah! the accompanying white silk stockings would be rather delightful. And that would solve the short-skirt controversy."

Calls Paderewski a Giant.

No one can ever realize how hard Paderewski worked for his results. Sometimes one hears of the great heroism of the pianist who practices six or seven hours a day. Time and again I have known Paderewski to keep on working until three and four in the morning, often working fourteen to sixteen hours a day.

Of course, only a physical giant could have accomplished this, and indeed such was Paderewski. His endurance and strength were enormous. When I was playing with him at Erard's he insisted upon having a chair that was especially heavy.

This very physical power gave Paderewski an enormous range of tone color possibilities. Indeed, if it had not been for his enormous endurance he could never have accomplished the work which gave him a seat at the peace conference as the foremost citizen of Poland.—Harold Bauer in Etude.

Petroleum Statistics.

The American Petroleum Institute's analysis of official petroleum statistics for December, 1921, shows an excess of domestic production and imports over indicated total consumption, including exports amounting to 14,087,539 barrels for the month, or at the annual rate of 165,869,505 barrels. In December, 1920, there was an excess of production over consumption of 7,113,051 barrels. In November, 1921, there was an excess of production over consumption amounting to 9,801,908 barrels.

Exports totaled 5,791,007 barrels in December, 1921; 5,657,466 barrels in November, and 7,922,603 barrels in December, 1920.

New Cape Breton Salt Bed.

The first rock salt deposit ever found in Cape Breton has been made near Whycocomagh, Victoria county, where a thin upper vein of a salt bed has been pierced at a depth of 120 feet below the ground's surface. A number of natural springs rich in salt have also been discovered and a company of Cape Breton has been incorporated for the purpose of developing the salt production industry in the district.

Immense Demand for Furs.

Several hundred thousand pelts, including polar, grizzly and black bear skins, coyotes, buffalo, silver, red, cross fox skins, muskrat, beaver, sable, mink, were received by a fur company at Montreal to be sold at its winter sale. Shipments were received from all parts of Canada, as well as from Russia, Labrador, United States and Patagonia.

MOLINE

The Universal Farm Power Plant

3-2 PLOW CAPACITY

The Moline is a 3-2 plow tractor that does all belt and field work, including cultivating, with ONE MAN. It is the correct farm power unit.

Records of performance made by owners with this tractor show that it eliminates an average of 4.7 horses per farm and saves on the yearly cost of crop production. That much money saved is just that much money made, in addition to the regular profit made from crop income.

If you want to make a profitable investment in farm power, come in and look at the MOLINE. And remember that—

If desired you can use the "drag behind" or horse-drawn implements you now have with the Moline tractor the same as with other types of tractors.

This Tractor is reduced to $1000.00 including Plows, Self-starter and Electric Lights.

Moline 3000-lb. Truck: it will pay you to get prices and have it demonstrated before buying.

All kinds of Moline Machinery on hand. It will pay you to get prices on Manure Spreaders and all Machinery, before buying elsewhere.

The MOLINE is unique in the tractor field —

AGENT,

SPECIALIZE ON CHINCH BUGS

Particular Reason Why Farmers Should Act to Protect the Bobwhite Quail From Hunters.

Every shot fired this season at the bobwhites that are wintering in your fields is a shot at your pocketbook, says Farm and Ranch. Quails destroy millions of hibernating bugs that would otherwise awake in the spring to fall hungrily upon the product of field and garden.

"While you fight the chinch bug, redouble your efforts to increase bobwhite quails," says A. C. Burill of the Missouri College of Agriculture. "They are said to eat from 500 to 1,000 chinch bugs at a meal, and their stomachs crave another meal every two hours. At least, this is the usual rate of digestion in most insect-eating birds. Quails are the only wild birds which specialize on chinch bugs in the winter season."

To protect the bobwhite the most effective plan is for several farmers co-operatively to publish a notice in the county papers forbidding hunters to shoot quails on their premises. This has been done successfully in several Missouri communities. Many county papers are running such notices properly drawn up by a lawyer and kept standing in the paper throughout the hunting season. In such cases the publishers will add the name of any farmer in the county and keep it there for, say, 50 cents for the season.

Protect the quails; they will fight your bug battles for you—winter and summer.—Our Dumb Animals.

Signs of Splendor.

In a Richmond household a negro woman by the name of Clarissa comes in occasionally to help for the day. She had been clearing the dinner table one day after a plentiful repast, which, among other delicacies, included a huge watermelon, and as she passed through the doorway carrying in each hand a well-filled can of the glistening melon rind, she rolled her eyes at the lady of the house and asked:

"Scuse me, Mis' Alice, but would yo' all mind ef I carried home one of dem cans?"

"No, Clarissa," was the reply, "but what on earth do you want with it? You don't keep pigs or chickens, do you?"

"Lawd, no, Mis' Alice, I don't keep no animals. What I wants to do is jes to make dem neighbors of mine jealous. Dey don't never have slich garbage as dis a-settin' outside dere front steps!"—Harper's Magazine.

International 8-16

A Two-Plow Tractor That PULLS Two Plows And THEN SOME

Performance of the International 8-16 in hundreds of competitive tests on farms proves that this Tractor can and does pull its rated load—regardless of soil conditions. Working alongside of some so-called 2-plow Tractors, the International has repeatedly outperformed them.

International owners say—"I use it on farm land where other Tractors wouldn't go"—"I have used an International 8-16 for three years and it is the best all round Tractor that I have seen"—"We purchased an International 8-16 because it excelled other 2-plow Tractors in power, equipment, safety and ease of operation."

This proved performance is one of the reasons why we are justified in saying that the International 8-16 is the greatest 2-plow Tractor value ever offered.

Mrs. Samuel S. Lambert, of near town, died this Friday morning, from the result of a paralytic stroke last Sunday.

Taneytown gave the last two travelling shows a decidedly frosty reception—the last being practically a freeze-out.

As the first of April came on Saturday, this year, Monday and Tuesday of this week were the chief "moving" days.

Geo. W. Baumgardner, who spent a portion of the winter in Texas, and the last few weeks in Baltimore has returned to town.

Services have been held, nightly, at the U. B. Church, this week. The renovated church has been generally admired, all of the work being harmonious and in good taste.

(For the Record.)
Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hahn, son, Roger, and daughter, Chloris, of Detour, visited Milton Fogle and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Bentz, at New Midway, on Sunday.

George Overholtzer, Jeremiah D. Overholtzer and wife, returned from their Western trip on Sunday evening, and were entertained at the home of F. E. Crouse until Monday.

There are thirty applicants for membership on the Emmitsburg baseball team, all willing to play without salary. Many of these will be tried out in practice, and the regular team made up later.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stultz, entertained, on Sunday, at their home, the following: Mrs. Angel, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Marshall, Miss Merrell Marshall, Donald Long, of Baltimore city, and Malcolm Stultz, of Westminster.

The new frame portion of the old stone hotel property, to be moved to its new location adjoining the Baumgardner bakery, displaces Knight's jewelry store, that for the time being will be in the Central Hotel building.

An airplane made an unscheduled landing on the farm of R. H. Alexander, on last Monday, and was so badly disabled that it had to be shipped back home to Virginia. The three occupants were not greatly injured. They are said to have been on their way to Gettysburg.

(For the Record.)
A birthday dinner was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Valentine, on Sunday, April 2, it being Mrs. Valentine's 63rd birthday. The center of the table was decorated with a beautiful birthday cake covered with candy and 63 lighted candles.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Fox, of Littlestown, visited some of their old friends here, last Sunday. They removed to Altoona, Pa., on Monday, where they will make their future home. Mr. Fox has been on the P. R. R. retired list for six months or more.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hawk were given a dinner at the home of Mr. Hawk, by his mother, last Sunday. Those present in addition to the groom and bride, were Mrs. Kate Hawk, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hawk, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hawk, and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Conover.

Nominations for Burgess and Commissioners will be made on Friday evening, April 14, and the usual calm prevails. We rather incline toward the idea that double the number of candidates ought to be nominated, but if satisfaction comes with a single set, why have a fight just for the excitement of the thing?

On account of the continued failure of the gas plant to produce sufficient revenue to meet operating expenses, the Burgess and Commissioners at their last meeting, increased the cost of gas to consumers from $1.25 per 100 ft., to $1.50 per 100, to go into effect this April 1. This is the second increase, the old rate having been $1.00 per 100 feet.

Don't forget the Candy and Cake sale, by the Jr. C. E., in front of, or in, the Record office, this Saturday afternoon.

Chas. B. Schwartz died at Springfield Hospital, Thursday night. Funeral services will be held in Hanover, at 2 o'clock, on Monday. This information was received by phone, this Friday morning, without any further particulars.

Tenebra is a burial service for the slain Christ. At this service the lights are gradually extinguished, symbolic of the desertion of Christ by his disciples and friends until one candle alone remains alight—typical of Christ. This candle is hidden behind the altar, thus representing the death of Christ. Meanwhile the convulsions of nature over the death of its God are commemorated by a slight noise. Then the risen Christ is represented by restoring the lit candle to its place. During the service Psalms and lessons from Isaiah are chanted.

What's Time to Hogs?

Congressman Frank Crowther, of the Schenectady, New York, district tells a good story about Martin Littleton, the famous New York lawyer, being invited to deliver an address before a Chamber of Commerce somewhere in New Jersey. The program, as usual, was top-heavy with local orators who didn't know how or when to stop. Finally a lay preacher was introduced who seemed to forget that there was anyone else on earth. He orated and spread-eagled until Littleton, the last man on the program, had but 11 minutes left to catch his train for home.

When introduced he abandoned his prepared speech and told this appropriate story: "Last autumn I was autoing through the South, and while adjusting some tire trouble, a man came by with a drove of at least a thousand hogs. I never saw so many hogs at one time in my life. My curiosity was aroused and I inquired where he was taking them. He replied that he was driving them down the road 'a right smart piece' to graze them on acorns for several months. I told him we fattened differently up our way, that we penned them up and gave them all the corn they could eat for several weeks when they were ready to be killed, thus saying much time. He lazily replied, 'Oh, thunder, mister, what's time to a hog!'"

Home-Makers Week.

About 500 invitations have been sent out to women of the county to attend the Home-makers' Week, at Westminster, April 21-24. If you did not receive one it means not that you are not invited but that you are not a member of the Home-makers' Clubs of the county. Any and every woman is invited. The program was in last week's issue, and if you desire another, call at the County Agent's office. You are especially invited to the meeting Wednesday afternoon, as it is full of good things. Miss Venia Kellar, Mrs. Marion Bell are known to many women of the county, and Miss Jones, who has charge of the Girls' Club Work of the state, should be heard by every rural woman who has a daughter. Our county nurse, Miss Hayman, will tell of her plans for the county.

Of course, you all want to see the exhibit of the sewing class, in the office across from the County Agent's office. This exhibit will be open Wednesday evening, Thursday and Friday. Also Hochschild, Kohn's exhibit of kitchen novelties.

Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Bell, who has spent much time in home management study, has worked out an exhibit showing the effects of stains, wax, oils, etc., on the various woods. Also the different methods of caring for woods of all kinds. If you are interested in renewing old floors or finishing new ones, hear her talk on Thursday afternoon, April 13. Mr. Shaw, who is a specialist on gardens and fruits will help the women along those lines.

No one wishes to miss the butter-making demonstration, or Miss Gminder, of the Dairy Council, of Baltimore, Friday morning, who will talk on the relation of milk to health and show slides entitled "Perfect Children."

In the afternoon of Friday, Miss Margaret Scott Miller, a former graduate of Western Maryland College, and now connected with the Vocational Guidance Institute, will talk on character reading and show how tendencies towards certain vocations can be shown.

We will close by a lecture on home furnishings, illustrated by colored slides. The committee has gone to much trouble and expense to secure these and you will be sorry if you miss them.

Don't forget the big community meeting at the Armory on Thursday April 21, at 7:30 P. M. Stone Chapel Community Orchestra will furnish music. Free moving pictures will be shown. Dr. Bomberger and prominent local speakers will be present.

Mr. Jones, of the Henry Watson Aid Society will tell of their work at the woman's meeting on Thursday afternoon.
