FATAL ACCIDENT IN TANEYTOWN.

Painter Killed By Falling From the Creamery Smokestack.

While engaged in painting the 100-ft. smoke stack at the Creamery Plant, about 9 o'clock, this Friday morning, a painter from Hanover, Pa., by the name of Mllton E. Michaels, fell to the roof of the boiler house from the top and was crushed paragrauh, this statement appears; to death. His assistant had just helped to pull him to the top of the stack and then turned away to engage in scraping the lower portion, when almost immediately he heard a clicking noise and saw Michaels

The hook fastening appliance was found broken in one of its parts, which evidently caused the whole appliance to give way.

Mr. Michaels is well-known in Hanover. He was about 50 years of age, and leaves a wife and several children. No inquest was held, as the fatality was clearly an accident. The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of C. O. Fuss & son.

An Interesting Meeting for Women.

One of the most interesting series of meetings for women ever held in Westminster, was enjoyed by the women of the county, last week, in the County Agent's office. It was unfortunate that they were planned during Easter week, and many who wished to attend were prevented on account of other duties.

The program was carried out as planned. Wednesday afternoon was given over to plans and reports of the various clubs. Many activities were reported, such as home conveniences installed, millinery demonstrations given, dress forms made, canning with steam pressure cooker, sewing classes formed, and programs for the year made. One club reported the renting and furnishing of a community room as one of their plans for the year's work. One club reported the mar-velous growth of from 8 to 70 in less than a year's work. In the plans for the coming year, each club is asked to set a goal for the year in whatever activities they take up; clothing, millinery, foods, home management, house furnishing, poultry, or landscape gardening. The work should be a community project and a definite goal reached. It is also urged by Miss Kellar, head of the Work in the state, that each community work on not more than two or three definite projects worth while. The butter making demonstration by Mr. Conover, of the dairy division of the State College, was thoroughly enjoyed. Every process of butter

On Thursday, Mr. Shaw's talk on gardening solicited much favorable comment, and many questions were asked showing that women have many problems along that line. Mrs. Bell gave a demonstration on care of floors showing different samples of woods and linoleum finished in various ways. Some beautiful slides were shown on interior decoration from the House Beautiful magazine.

An intensely interesting talk was given by Miss Margaret Scott Miller, on character interpretation from the standpoint of the mother, and her treatment of her children. The women were so interested they stayed until 6 o'clock, hating to miss a word of her talk. We hope to have some of this work repeated.

Another delightful feature was the exhibit of the sewing class of the Westminster and Eldersburg Club, under direction of Mrs. Guy Nusbaum. On Wednesday evening, lunch was served to the friends who visited the exhibit

The kitchen novelty exhibit was of interest to the housekeepers. It was loaned to us through the courtesy of Hochschild, Kohn & Company and showed many novel features not on sale by local dealers.

IS IT "MUST" OR "IF?" The Bond Issue Statement is not Fully Clear.

In a general way, the joint statement by the County Commissioners and Board of Education, as published in the papers of the county last week, is clearly understandable; but, on one very important and vital point it is not clear, and if the question is to be voted on intelligently, this point needs further light. Doubt rests on the construction to be placed on the words "must," and "if" used in the statement. For instance, in the fifth

"If all the school and road work that must be done within the next five years must be paid by direct levy of taxes within that period, the tax-rate must be so high that it will be an intolerable burden on the people."

It will be noted that the statement does not say, work that ought to be done, nor if the work is done; but, "school and road work that must be done," etc. This would be clear, except for the closing statements, as follows:

cept for the closing statements, as follows;

"If the vote is unfavorable, one of two things must follow, either; First-No school buildings will be erected in the county, and no roads will be improved, and it will be useless for delegations to wait upon, or file petitions with the Commissioners; or Second:—When the Board of Education, in its budget, asks for funds for the erection of school buildings, and when the citizens of the various districts demand road construction, if these demands are to be met, the necessary money must be provided by the taxpayers in the levies of the next few years."

In the first paragraph quoted, the statement is made that the work statement is made that the work "must be done," while the third one says "if these demands are met."

The Record is open-minded on the whole question, but it submits the claim that this "must" and "if" phase of the matter must be cleared up, before an intelligent vote can be had. If there is a must to it—that this Home Demonstration work in the $700,000 for reads and schools is a sure amount that the taxpayers must furnish—then perhaps many will vote for the bond issue who would otherwise vote against it.

On the other hand, if these extra expenditures are optional with the County Commissioners—as the third paragraph quoted seems to indicate then an entirely different face is placed on the whole proposition.

It is also noted that the amounts for roads total only $335,000, while the act as passed calls for $350,000; or $25,000 for Woolery's district instead of $20,000 as published; and $30,000 for Mt. Airy, instead of $20,000 as published. Perhaps an error in preparing the copy for publication.

A Widespread Storm.

The year 1922, so far, has been prolific of wind-storm damage, especially in the South and Southwest, the last visitation being in the middle west, covering several states, mainly in Illinois and Indiana. Hundreds of buildings were wrecked, some of them being carried considerable dis tances. The storm was followed in some localities by hail and floods, thereby adding greatly to the dam-

The latest reports now estimate the damage at millions of dollars, while the death list numbers over thirty and about 500 injured. The storm reached from Kansas to Ohio, travelling eastward. In Ohio, it is feared that great damage has been caused to fruit by frost.

The outlook is that this will be a good year to take out storm insurance on buildings, as wind losses are rapidly growing up toward fire losses; indeed, if it was not for the fire losses in the cities, the aggregate storm loss would more than equal the fire loss, taking the country as a whole.

On Wednesday, Chicago had a sixty-mile wind that uprooted trees and unroofed many buildings and destroyed hundreds of windows and signs. A mounted policeman was blown from his horse, wagons were overturned and automobile tops ripped from machines. Snow flurries and freezing temperature followed the gale.

Fell Out of Automobile.

While David Little, who lives on Wm. E. Burke's place, near Taneytown, was motoring to Gettysburg, last Sunday evening, he in some unexplained way fell out of his machine about a half-mile south of Gettysburg where he was found and taken to the Warner Hospital. He suffered a fractured collar bone and scalp wounds Mr. Little is unable to explain the cause of his mishap, but it is supposed to have been an attack of vertigo.

Fruit Prospects Good.

CONGRESS MUST FINANCE BONUS.

President Will Veto Bill Unless It Provides Revenue.

Congress has been showing a disposition to cater to soldier votes by passing a Bonus bill, then leaving it up to the administration to finance it as best it can. The plan is what is commonly called "passing the buck." President Harding has heretofore suggested that revenue, with which to make the bill effective, be secured by the means of a "sales tax" but this has been strongly objected to, as well as have other specific sources of rev-

He has now served noticed on the Senate, that unless the bill is ac-companied with suitable provisions for financing it, he will veto it; then, in case the bill is passed over the veto, Congress itself wlll be respon-sible. This decision is said to be disconcerting to both Senators and members of the House. There seems to be two ways out of the dilemma of Congress. One is to attach a revenue-raising provision to the pending tariff bill, sine the question has been raised that the bonus bill is not a revenue measure and the Senate is without power to insert revenue legislation therein. The other suggestion is that bonus legislation go over until after June 30, when there is hope that the British pay-ments on that country's debt to the United States will assist in financing the bonus payments.

Pitch Fork and Biting used to Settle | Calvin E. Pickett. a Disagreement.

Gettysburg, April 20—A fist fight, a pitch fork chase, one injury through biting, and numerous other unusual features marked a fight over a bound-ary line in Buchanan Valley according to testimony produced at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Hill, in which two defendants, Frank Clapsaddle, and his son, Charles Clapsaddle, were held in $300 bail each for their appearance at court. The com-plainants in the case were William M. McKendrick and his son, Raphael McKendrick.

The trouble was precipitated by the McKendricks endeavoring to put up a line fence, when the boundary between the two farms was held in dispute. Members of the Clapsaddle family appeared on the scene, Charles Clapsaddle chasing the younger Mc-Kendrick with a pitch fork, and us-ing the implements over the father when he interferred to protect his son. The Clapsaddle's were leaving the scene of the row, it was testified, when an exchange of words brought resentment and occasioned their return for further hostilities.

The two younger men who ured in the pitchfork episode were again matched and Mckendrick alleged he was bitten during this encounter. The fathers then went to it and pummeled each other, all parties concerned showng bruised and battered faces when they appeared ished with data from every source for the hearing.

Amicable settlement of the difficulties has been made, the defendants agreeing to pay the costs and physicians's bill presented by the complainants. The two families then agreed to have the line between the farms surveyed and to share the expense.—Littlestown Independent.

The Coal Situation.

Slightly increased demand and higher prices are outstanding characteristics of the bituminous market. Low volatile grades from Western Pennsylvania of Pool 9 quality are quoted at from $2.75 to $3.00 for spot. Good gas coals are quoted at the same figures but are scarce. Low sulphur, high volatile grades are moving at $3 to $3.25.

Operators ascribe the advances principally to the activity of steel makers. Demand from this source has receded slightly this week.

Cement mills are buying steadily and a few public utilities are placing orders instead of using their stocks. Otherwise the market is dull, as no general industrial demand has devel-

Operators are closely watching strike developments believing that this week will determine whether nonunion miners intend to strike in sympathy with the organized miners. Workers in mines of one of the largest operators in western Pennsylvania returned yesterday.

The public continues apathetic toward anthracite. Inquiries are few. Domestic stocks at the mines are limited to occasional meager piles of egg and pea. Operators report only sporadic inquiries from retailers. Comparatively few orders for steam sizes have been placed, but producers are hopeful of an active market for these grades if the bituminous strike continues. Buckwheat is the only size generally available.—Phila. Ledger.

GENEVA CONFERENCE BREEDS DANGER.

The Geneva Conference between the European powers is not a harmonious gathering, like the one held at Washington. There has been wrangling and lack of unity from the outset. There has been a French policy, a British policy, and a Russian and German policy, apparently unreconcilable, with a very strong feeling of an antagonistic character between France, and Russia and Germany.

The announcement of a separate treaty, or agreement, between Germany and Russia, has been the great disturbing event of the week; and this is all the more serious because Russia has the largest standing army in Europe today.

All of the countries appear to be bent on collecting rather than on paying, war claims; but England, France, Italy and Japan and other powers are standing well together against the German-Russian alliance.

The allies decided, on Tuesday, that Germany, having made her own treaty with Russia, shall have no further representation in the conference, and that they will continue the entering the war. Hurried work is well under the war. Hurried work is well under the war. conference, no matter what action Germany and Russia may take.

The situation in general is regarded as very serious, some even going so far as to predict another war in the near future. The more conservative, however, say that a war of any consequence is impossible, for years, and that the present situation is a war of strenuous diplomacy, and will eventually be straightened out. But, is also recognized that almost any thing can happen, and very soon, owing to the extent of bad feeling that

The Corn Pack Situation.

An article in Wednesday's Sun, from Westminster, on the canning situation, has the following to say of the corn situation in Carroll Coun-

"Here in Carroll county the packers are inclined to pursue a conservative course. Yet they think this year will be decidedly better than last season, Of course, this is a corn-packing territory, but they can't find encouragement, they say, in selling a case of corn for 77 cents that cost 85 1-3 William D. Last year Carroll county packed 300,000 cases of corn and it is expected the pack will go to 500,000 cases this time. It means a lot to the grower. Last year he received $400,000, and at the agreed price of $10 a ton this year, the rural man should receive three-quarters of a million dollars for his corn crop, while Carroll county laborers will pocket $500,000. #### The Bond Issue.

The Record will pursue a neutral policy with reference to the Bond issue for Schools and Roads. The whole matter has been placed before the voters, perhaps as fully as can be done, and it is for them to decide. It is simply a school and road building proposition, on the instalment plan, involving the payment, eventually, of principal and interest, provided by taxation.

It should not be voted "for," merely for local reasons, nor should it be issue. There is a strong tendency on the part of some to vote "against" such propositions, because they do not the managing editor so desires. feel that they will receive any benefit, but this is not a justifiable reasononly a purely selfish one.

Crop Insurance.

Considerable agitation has been made recently by farmers, and others, for the insurance of growing crops by the government. As a matter of fact the government can give not better terms for insurance of any sort than can stock concerns; induced, the government variety is apt to be more expensively operated than the private, and this excess of cost must be indirectly paid by the taxpayers in some way, even if for the time being quietly taken out of the government's Crop insurance s not a new idea, but has occupied the attention of insurance epxerts, for years. All insurance, at best, is a form of gambling, or chance taking. The company, in consideration of a certain premium it stands for the coal operator propaid, merely bets that-it will not be required to pay a loss, or not many of them, and not in the aggregate in excess of its gross premium income. The insured lets the insurer take the chance, on his own offer.

And this chance-taking, or insurance, has covered a very wide range of risks, and especially on such classin which there is a fair chance of estimating possibilities, and thereby arriving at approximately safe premiums. Many of these ventures in insurance, are, at the outset, mere experiments. Rates become something like standard, only after actual experience covering a period of years.

So, the crop insurance question, due to its wide liability to suffer all sorts of dangers, has as yet not been tried to any considerable extent, and where it has been tried, the premiums have been almost prohibitive, due to the abnormal amount of chance assured by the insuring company.

The nearest approach to crop insurance is the present pretty general plan of hail insurance. In some sections, insurance is given against rain and floods; but anything like general crop insurance against all contingencies, depends on too many factors to be widespread-except perhaps as a government venture, and a very unwise one we think it would be, because it would be unfair to the very large percentage of people who would help to pay the losses, who are not more than very indirectly interested in crops.

pretty extensively, the rates varying greatly according to sections of country. The rates appear high, but it is yet to be demonstrated that they are too high. Some companies have had favorable experience, and some have not, which makes it clear that rates are mere guess-work, and profits dependent on the unforeseen events of long crop growing seasons.

The Newspapers' Plea.

Taking the news as it comes, whether good, bad or indifferent, is the course of most newspapers. The publication of all sorts of happpenings is justified, on the ground that the publisher is not responsible for occurrences; has nothing to do with penings, and that as a duty to the moral and law-abiding, must publish even the worst sort of events, going no further that the giving of actual

This course is justfied in law, even if not always justifiable as a decent policy. That some newspapers appear to make a specialty of featuring criminal occurrences, and especially those having to do with family relations and social derelictions, goes without saying. It is also true that certain classes of law violations are often double-headed and given prominent place, largely in an attempt to justify policy of a particular pub-

"check-off" system, which means that paymasters deduct from the miners' wages his union dues and assessments and pays the same over to the treasurer of the union, who, in turn, pays it out to strikers who operate against the interests of the firm first collecting the "check-off." In other words, viding part of the system for the injury of his own business.

The check off question is one of the main bones of contention in the present coal situation. The unions evidently know that with the collection of dues from wages, before they are paid, is a surer thing for the union than trusting to the miners after they receive their pay. But, it looks very much like "rubbing it in" on the operators, and we think their objections to the plan justifiable.

Our Great Coal Problem.

The present coal strike serves to project into the foreground for thought and discussion America's great coal problem, second only to America's vast unsolved railroad

Coal is a basic necessity. Without coal, or coal oil, for heating, for lighting, for industries, for transportation, social disorganization, decay and death itself would follow.

So we must have coal and the counttry is rich in coal. We have something like 10,000 operable coal mines and there are countless thousands of coal deposits throughout the country not yet uncovered.

The question is not one of shortage of this great resource, but rather one of marketing it. The present deadlock of operators and miners is due in large part to the nature of coal operating, to natural conditions.

The cost of producing coal in the Hail insurance is being tried out 10,000 operable coal mines of the country, principally bituminous, varies widely and this is the crux of the whole coal problem. In one mine $1.00 will do as much work, produce as much coal, as perhaps $5.00 will produce in another mine.

If the cost of production, measured in man power, were the same in all mines the wage scale of miners would be relatively simple. And so, too, if erators would be relatively simple.

The source of the coal doesn't conthree to five times as much to mine criminalities, nor with salacious hap- | coal in one mine as it does in another makes no difference to him.

This means that the expensive mine to operate must sell its coal at the price the easily operated mine gets-must do this or go out of business. Conversely, if the lean mine gets a satisfactory price for its coal the fat mine is getting an exorbitant price for its coal, considered in respect of a fair profit, and the American peaple should not be compelled to pay more than a fair profit.

Inasmuch as there are not enough fat mines to supply the country's needs with coal, it follows that the lean mines must be operated or there asmuch as owners of coal mines do not and cannot operate them at a loss, it follows that in the finality it comes back with the plea-what else is the lean mines, in the main that

It couldn't be otherwise under the present scattered holdings of coal mines. Moreover, the lean mine is responsible for much of the trouble with the coal miners. Put to it to its own pages to suit its inclination, meet the competition of the easily been one manifestation of this determlean mines, face to face with the nescopic range of the cost to the fat through its troubles; if hot heads sucmines, naturally seek a more favorable arrangement with their miners than that obtaining with the highly City Times. profitable mines. This leads to the non-unionizing of mines.

It is either this lower wage or close down the mines. And this is just what the men, many of whom have their homes at the mines, do not want. just what the country does not want, both in the interest of the men and with proper consideration for the whole coal problem of the nation .-N. Y. Herald.

The Dry Mash System for feeding hens is fully indorsed by us. We have advocated it, have manufactured and advertised it for ten years. The fact that it costs what ails the country. They are at last learning the lesson that prosperity cannot be made by fiat of some law making body.

But one thing they are insisting on an answer to-why is there such a difference between the price of an article to the consumer and the price received by the producer? The West and the Middle West want to know why the price of farm products could go down so rapidly and why the price of manufactured products has held so close to the war time level. There is a very strong movement among the men who produce to learn the reason for this condition and they are not satisfied with worn out platitudes they want something tangible somewill be a shortage of coal. It is the American way to take every question into politics, and doubtless the Fall elections, will hinge largely on business conditions, but the unrest that is so evident is not political-it goes far deeper. It is stirring the people to the bottom and as the questions are asked, so will an answer be found. The Farm Bloc has worked mines, the operators of the ination to better conditions. There will be others. Days of sadness still come over me, Years of sorrow silently flow; And memory keeps my loved ones near me Though Heaven claimed them long ago.

Just thought of sweet remembrance; Just a memory fond and true; Just the love and sweet devotion, Of the ones who think of you.

Yet again we hope to meet them. When the day of life is fled; When in Heaven with joy we will greet them,

SCORE ONE MORE FOR NAVY

Damaged Replica of Old Vessel, It Is Believed, Can Be Repaired by Sailors.

Percy C. Madeira, Philadelphia coal magnate, has joined the ranks of those who have taken up the fad of collecting ship models. Madeira's experience with the first model he bought, a replica of the American clipper ship Southern Cross, was an interesting one, according to the New York Sun. This miniature ship, 30 inches long, the coal operator obtained recently through an agent at Nantucket, who considered the purchaser lucky in getting a genuine model at a reasonable figure.

The model, with all masts and other spars in place and with rigging. blocks, boats, etc., as they should be, was a handsome picture when it was packed for shipment at Nantucket.

But when the fragile model reached Madeira's home it came out of the packing case nearly wrecked. It had been poorly packed and roughly handled on the trip. Madeira looked at the mass of broken spars and wreckage and said things about the packer and also the agent at Nantucket. He figured the model little better than matchwood and that it never could be

He reckoned, however, without the United States navy. He happened to tell his troubles to a naval officer stationed at League island and soon afterward the officer rang the coal magnate up and said he thought he had a man who could repair the

GET LINE ON HIS CHARACTER

New Fad Among the Girls Is to Have Man Friend's Handwriting Read by Graphologist.

The latest fad of the girls is to have the handwriting of their favorite man friend read by a graphologist. Neat little packets of masculine notes, curiously enough readdressed in a femihine hand, have been received by handwriting experts, who will tell your character from a few characteristic lines. The inmost secrets of the character tendencies of the unsuspecting man upon whom you are wondering whether to center your affections or not are disclosed to you through this novel means.

"It's so exciting that I simply can't wait till I get a note from every man I meet," confessed one debutante. "One letter will do in a pinch, but most handwriting fortune tellers prefer to have several, written at long intervals apart, submitted as samples. But, goodness me! nowadays friendships don't always last that long. There are only two things dangerous to the game -- one is that the man may get suspicious and stop writing, or, worst of all, he may get his own letters back from the graphologist by mistake. For this reason always be sure to remove all traces of name and address from your original letter."-Chicago Journal.

Oh, So That's It!

We are shortly promised stockings that will button up, and this recalls the old query: "Why is it that a wo-man always buttons her clothes up in the reverse fashion from a man?" If it were a fact that all women were left handed, and consequently found it easier to do things in this way, it would be understandable. But they are not.

A Mere Male thing offers me this explanation: "Probably, it is because all women are imitative. They intend in future to oust men from the earth entirely. Wherefore they stand in front of the glass, and endeavor to create in it a reflection as much like a man as possible. But looking glasses always show things reversed, and woman, not being able to realize this, always does things backward." So that's that !-- London Opinion.

Mummy's Wisdom.

"Mummy, may I have that chocolate you promised me now?"

"Bless the child! Didn't I tell you you shouldn't have any at all if you didn't keep quiet?" "Yes. mummy."

"Well, the longer you keep quiet the sooner you'll get it."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Fashion's Pilgrimage Begins.

What the fashions, both feminine and masculine, will be in North America next May may be known now by anyone who is in Buenos Aires. A news letter from the South American metropolis announces that all the spring styles from Paris, and London, too, are to be seen in the shops there and on the streets. The straw hat of 1922 is there, beginning its march northward, arriving at Havana in January or February, New Orleans and Palm Beach by March, Atlanta and Charleston in April, and the rest of the continent in May.

All the fashionable world in Buenos Aires can furnish advance information on fabrics, colors and modes, and an enterprising correspondent or two could very well supply interesting pointers to the curious in the midst of our north snowdrifts.

I. Uzziah Made King (vv. 1-5). 1. His Age (v. 1). He became king

"Jehovah is able," or "Made strong of Jehovah."

3. His Character (v. 4). He did that which was right in the sight of

4. His Prosperity (v. 5). He definitely sought God while Zechariah lived, and because he sought him God made him to prosper as long as he continued to seek him. He, like Joash

II. Uzziah's Achievement (vv. 6-15). 1. He Built Eloth (v. 2). This was a port on the Red sea which had been lost to Judah. No doubt it was the aim of the father to get possession of this port, so the son makes its restoration his first duty. It was an important trading point and the commercial interests of the nation would be greatly increased by its possession.

2. He Had Military Success (vv. 6-8). (1) He conquered the Philistines (v. 6). After subduing them he dismantled their fortified cities and made the Ammonites across the Jor-dan pay tribute (v. 8). the victory that overcometh the world even our faith." dan pay tribute (v. 8).

In the regions south and west of Jerusalem he built towers which served a threefold purpose, namely: observation, defense and shelter for his cattle. This enabled him to carry on his stock-raising enterprises.

5. His Army (vv. 11-15). It numbered 807,500. It was thoroughly equipped and drilled. God was with him, and his fame spread far and wide. The his fame spread far and wide. The edy may be obtained for a trifle.

The prosperity bestowed upon him by the Lord was too much for himhis heart was lifted up with pride. This is always so unless counteracted by divine grace. In his pride he presumptuously intruded into the priest's This act was not because of forgetfulness, but of deliberate purpose. Azariah and eighty other priests made him angry. This act was a trespass against God.

IV. Uzziah's Punishment (vv. 19-

While raging in his wrath and about to burn incense he was smitten with leprosy, a dreadful, incurable and unclean disease. This judgment came upon him as a consequence of his overweening pride and vanity. He was thrust out of the sanctuary-excluded from God's house. Indeed, his own conscience smote him, and he hurriedly went out because he knew that the Lord had smitten him. He not only was excluded from the place of worship, but was dethroned. His son Jotham was made regent. His judgment was:

1. Sudden. The Lord smote him while attired as priest, with censer in hand. Frequently God's judgments are speedy. 2. Severe. The leprosy broke forth upon his forehead. The judgment befell Miriam for speaking against Moses (Num. 12:10). and Gehazi for lying to Elisha (II Kings 5:27). Great sins demand severe punishment. 3. Conspicuous. Azariah and all the priests looked up and beheld the leprosy (v. 20). The spot on Uzziah's forehead proclaimed him as the object of God's wrath. How many today are bearing about the marks of sin-God's judgment! 4. Humiliating. He was henceforth unclean-cut off from the congregation. This is what sin always does. 5. Fatal. It ended in death. "The wages of sin is death" (Rom. 6:23).

NEW YORK HINT OF VENICE

Reservoir Is Beautiful Spot, With Stately Homes That Seem to Arise From the Water.

What the Brooklyn bridge is to the resident of Brooklyn the reservoir is to the middle uptown New Yorker-a refreshing and beautiful place for a brisk walk, says the New York Sun.

The reservoir, particularly the upper one, with a path on the brink, is a place of romance. Across the water rise stately houses; they seem almost on the edge of the water, like the houses of Venice. Sometimes the water is a sheet of ice. One day it seemed like a stretch of gray taffeta, with inserts of blue crepe where the wind rippled the patches of water that remained. Close to the shore broken bits of ice tinkled continually against a stretch of solid ice, with the sound of sleigh bells.

But in summer there is another

But there is one point at a certain hour that lifts you out of New York, out of America, out of the world. The point is the western stretch of the southern side. The hour is sunset. The magic is produced by the fountain, a thin, high sweep of spray painted with rainbow shades by the setting sun. Up goes the stream, swirling into a gigantic feather in the gentle hands of the breeze. Suddenly the rainbow appears, to vanish as the wind swings the spray in another direction, to reappear again for a few breath-catching seconds. The spray sweeps here and there, covering you for an instant. The sun leaves it for a moment and the fountain becomes a bridal veil. Out comes the sun and the fountain flashes into glory.

SMALL BIRDS FALCON'S PREY

Peregrine, Like the Pirate He Is, Takes Toll From Weaker Creatures of the Air.

It was reported recently that in the eyrie of a peregrine, a vicious bird, the rings of 22 racing pigeons were found. The peregrine falcon often kills birds which are unfortunate enough to cross its path. Peewits and other birds that frequent the coast are relentlessly pursued by this hawk, and another prey is the golden plover, but this bird affords the hawk a good chase before it is caught.

The peregrine catches its prey by protruding its strong legs and talons to their fullest extent when within a few feet of the quarry. Then for a moment its wings are almost closed, and the next the prize is seized and carried off. If, however, the object is too heavy to be lifted from the ground it is forced along sometimes a hundred yards on the ground, and killed and devoured on the spot. The nest of the peregrine is usually placed on the face of some precipitous cliff, resting on a shelf of rock or tuft of vegetation, and consists of a mass of sticks and coarse stems of grass and ferns.

"Blood Money."

"Blood Money" was the name applied in the Middle ages and well into the more modern period to the money paid for bloodshed. It might be either the compensation paid by a manslayer to the nearest relatives of the victim, to secure himself and his kin from vengeance, or the money paid as a reward for bringing about the death of another, directly or through evidence. It was once common among the Scandinavian and Teutonic peoples, who called this money payment wergild. The price varied with the nature of the crime and the rank of the victim. Certain crimes, such as the slaying of a sleeping person, could not be compensated by a money payment; such criminals were declared outlaws and could be slain with impunity. The term is now often applied to the reward or bribe paid for giving up a criminal to justice.

Original Playing Cards.

The original pack of cards was a quiver of arrows. Playing cards are regarded as derived from the divinatory use of the arrow away back in the cradle of civilization-China or India, says Stewart Culin, the archaeologist. The ancients played games with marked arrows, and the Museum of Archeology, University of Pennsylvania, has several specimens of these primitive playing cards.

Ancient Chinese and Corean cards are long and narrow, and by their design and name show unmistakably that they are conventionalized shaftments of arrows, retaining in their suit marks the same symbolism as that of the quiver of arrows from which they were derived. The old Corean and Chinese name for playing cards is "fighting tablets."

Was Just "Checking Up."

One morning a negro sauntered into the office of a white friend. "Goodmawnin', Mr. Withrow. Kin I use yo' phone a minute?" he asked. "Why, certainly, Sam." Sam called his number, and after a few minutes' wait, said: "Is this Mrs. Whiteside? Well, I seen in de papeh where you-all wanted a good cullud man. Is you still wantin' one? Then the man youse got is puffectly satisfactory, and you doesn't connemplate makin' no change soon? All right, ma'am. Good-by." Mr. Withrow called to Sam as he left the phone, "Now that's too bad, Sam, that the place is filled." "Oh, dat's all right, Mr. Withrow, I'se de nigger what's got de job, but I'se jest a-wantin' to check up."-From the Argonaut.

Taneytown should have, as nearly as possible, a voluntary baseball team unpaid; and the locals should then insist on playing only like teams, truly representative of the places they pretend to be from. Padded up teams, with hired or borrowed players, do not represent honest sport among amateurs. But, at the close of the season, the local team should be given a "benefit" game, or performance of some sort, as a financial reward for their services, and as something to look forward to. In our opinion, not more than two players should be allowed in any game, who are not locals.
