TAX RATE IS $1.40 SAME AS LAST YEAR

No Appropriation for New School Buildings this Year.

Westminster, June 13, 1922.—The County Commissioners of Carroll County, this afternoon, announced the county levy for the current year. Though most of the counties of the State have found it necessary to increase their levy, Carroll County's levy will remain the same as last year $1.40 on the $100.00, notwithstanding the fact that about 7c more will be levied for school purposes than was levied in 1921.

The principal items of the budget are: For county roads, 10c.

For hard roads and large bridges, 10c.

For schools, 68c.

For elections, 5c.

For new assessment, 3½c.

For county home, care of insane and jail, 7½c.

For certificates of indebtedness and interest on notes and bonds, 27½c.

The Commissioners announced that this levy will provide for and pay off all matured indebtedness of the county, leaving unpaid only the $48,828.00 of lateral road bonds issued last year, which will begin to mature in 1923 in blocks of $5,000 annually until 1933.

The greatest problem to be met was in the appropriation for public schools. In view of the expressed sentiment of the taxpayers, who, at the special election held May 15, by a vote of 5 to 1, defeated the proposed bond issue it was decided by the Board of Education and the County Commissioners in conference, that the former would ask for no appropriation for new buildings. In the budget granted by the commissioners is the sum of $11,360 for eight portable buildings, three for Freedom District, four for Westminster, and one for Taneytown. The increase in the school tax rate over last year is made mandatory by the increase in salaries of teachers in white high schools from $26,108.33 to $45,615.00, and in other costs of control. The total amount asked by the Board of Education in its budget is $258,653.08, and the total amount granted by the County Commissioners is $221,289.08, the raising of which requires a levy of 68c on a taxable property basis of $32,500,000.00.

Cutting Tops Out of Trees.

An expert on tree life, in a recent booklet just issued, says among other things:

"Right here I would like to take the opportunity to condemn the practice of beheading trees. Some folks call it pollarding. It is properly called tree butchery. God put the tops on trees for a purpose. You must have the leaves or there can be no circulation. When you cut the top out of a tree, nature, in her desperate effort to live, forces out the latent buds on the side of the stub. These latent buds are forced into abnormal growth, so that you get a bushy and apparently vigorous top that deceives many people.

But just as sure as fate, unless this cutting back is done by someone with more skill and knowledge than the average tree-patcher possesses and the wounds carefully treated for a period of time, decay will start to work in the exposed and lifeless stub and eat its way down through the limbs and trunk of the tree. Such a tree is doomed to premature death.

The only time when it is excusable to behead a tree is when that tree is doomed anyway and you want to make the cripple look as good as possible as long as it will last. Ordinarily, I should brand the practice as criminal."

Season for Fire and Storm Losses.

The summer season always brings with it unusual danger of loss by fire, storm and hail, to buildings and crops, and these losses appear to increase with the years. It very rarely occurs that anybody is fully covered by insurance, in any of these losses, but fair insurance is a wonderful satisfaction, whether a loss occurs or not, and only those who are poor business men neglect securing protection.

It may not be generally known, but there are more storm than fire losses throughout country sections, though smaller in aggregate financial loss. Without doubt, such losses are increasing, perhaps due to the cutting down of timber tracts, and there are no means of prevention; and yet, over one-half of the property owners who carry fire insurance, do not carry storm insurance, and comparatively few insure against hail.

Prices Coming Down?

Prices are coming down—some of them. Recently, we had occasion to inquire into the present price of electrotyped cuts, listed in a catalogue several years old. The reply came back to us—"just double the printed price, and you will be right." A certain printing press, that ten years ago sold at around $275.00, is now $750.00. Recently, we paid a machinist $25.00 for five hours work in our office—largely "know how" work. Prices are "coming down" all right—if you have lots of cash to "come down" with.

OUR DETROIT LETTER.

Industrial and Other Matters Entertainingly Discussed.

I have been thinking for some time past of trying to write a letter to the Record, to let my friends in Taneytown know that I have not forgotten them; so now with the kind permission of the Editor, I will endeavor to get this thought off my mind. The fact is, that after passing through two attacks or sickness—one in January and the other in March—I had very little ambition to do anything, and had to save what little I had to get through with my daily work at the shop.

I am glad to be able to say that the whole Taneytown colony in Detroit, is now in excellent shape, so far as health is concerned, at least. We all have work, and some of us more than we are looking for. In fact work here is the least thing a man has to worry about, at present, as the shops are all working at full capacity, in direct contrast to a year ago when 100,000 men were idle, and you could not buy a job. I do not know anything about other cities, but Detroit has surely come back, and it is no feverish boom, as was the high production mark of 1920, but a steady—and nearly every one here believes—a permanent condition. There is this difference, that then any kind of a job went through, just so it looked all right, while now everything must be 100%. I can only speak of the work of the shop where the boys and I work, but am certain the same statement applies to all the shops in the city.

Detroit has certainly solved the labor problem, not only for its own residents, but for thousands of men who have come here for work. Experienced men are in great demand, as nearly every automobile factory—as well as those which manufacture parts—are running day and night shifts, and working plenty of overtime besides. Of course, the inexperienced man has a hard time to get settled in a job, as he can rarely make good, and so has to go from one thing to another. A few months ago, you could rent a house or flat almost in any part of the city you wished to live, while there were thousands of "furnished rooms to rent." Now it is almost an impossibility to rent anywhere, and you rarely see a sign of a vacant room. This shows that those who left on account of no work are coming back, together with thousands of others as new houses are going up all over the city, and there seems to be no difficulty in selling them, or renting, if the owners so wish.

The only thing a working man has to complain about now is the fact that wages, which had been lowered in order to bring down the high cost of living, are still down, while everything that a man must have, to live, is about as high in price as before the wage cut. Rents run from $40.00 up to as high as you can pay, and meats and vegetables are still soaring. However, there is a decided tendency to raise wages again, and there are plenty who predict that they will go as high as in the early part of 1921.

I wish to say a word about a statement that I saw in the Record a short time ago, to the effect that not many new automobiles would be purchased this summer. If the Editor could take a drive out along the Grand Boulevard—Detroit's great drive—on a Sunday, and note the number of new cars, I think he would change his mind. One thing is certain the cars are being built, and the manufacturers do not build them only in order to keep the men at work, so I am sure they are being bought.

The fruit farmers out here were more fortunate than you folks in there, as there was practically no damage done by frost, this Spring, our seasons are about a month later than yours, so that the late frosts were past before the buds were advanced enough to be damaged any. So we may look for as large a crop as two years ago, when thousands of bushels of fruit went to waste because the farmers could not handle the crop. This state is a great fruit region, and a good crop is of much value to its people. The apples equal those of the mountains of Maryland, but the peaches, while as large, are not of as fine quality, being mostly of the Alberta variety, which is most too sour for good eating, but is very nice for canning. Strawberries, that is home-raised ones—are just coming in, and are very reasonable, in price, compared with what we hear of the price of Maryland berries.

I notice that the baseball season has started in the old town, with a rush. Things along this line have certainly changed since we left there. A regular field with a grand stand, and all the "trimmings" is something for a fellow to think about, when we remember that a second-class team could not get along a few years ago. Maybe the fact that the team has become so good, is the reason for this prosperity. Anyway I would certainly like to see the boys play, and they have my best wishes for a successful season.

Looking at the result of the recent election, when a vote was taken on the proposed bond issue, it seems to us that the people in there are a little afraid of getting improvements by this method. Perhaps they are not familiar enough with them to endorse them. Out here we have so many that people are not a bit scared of them, but like the lazy man and work, they "can lie down besides them and go to sleep." We have bond

PRESIDENT HARDING DEDICATES STATUE

Francis Scott Key again Highly Honored by Nation.

The author of the "Star Spangled Banner" received perhaps his highest honor, on Wednesday, in the unveiling and dedication of a monument in marble and bronze, at Fort McHenry, Baltimore, marking the spot over which "bombs burst in air, amid rockets red glare" nearly 108 years ago.

President Harding delivered the address, and received a great reception, both in the city and at the Fort. The Sun says:

"Baltimore has seen many Presidents of the United States. But this President was coming upon a mission that went straight to Baltimore's heart. This day he would stand where the 'old defenders' stood, to receive for the whole country a monument that never would be there but for the 'old defenders' and their courage. The 'old defenders' had been Baltimoreans. The monument immortalized a Marylander. The soil it hallowed was Baltimore soil, and the song it sang was Baltimore's own psalm to liberty."

So Baltimore swarmed out to see this President, and wherever he went gave him shouts of greeting and cheers of welcome. Children knew he came to talk of "The Star-Spangled Banner," whose words are burned into their minds with A, B, C and the three R's.

Children rose up at every turn, running, leaping, shouting. Thousands of them filled Carroll Park, hundreds surged through Druid Hill Park, beating the automobile procession from point to point to see him and cheer him again and again.

"This is as great a reception as President Harding has had anywhere in the United States since he has been President—if not a greater one."

"While not primarily so intended, President Harding's fitting address at Fort McHenry is a sufficient answer to those who are disputing the right of 'The Star-Spangled Banner' to be called the national anthem. Whatever its merits as verse, it is a great national song because of its exalted patriotism and because it reflects so well the emotions of a true patriot at a moment of national stress and crisis—the anxiety, the rejoicing, the defiance of the oppressor, the note of thanksgiving. It is, as the President well said, 'the revelation of an American soul aflame,' and therefore it will live in American souls of all generations."

Transfers of Real Estate.

Luther H. Hoffacker and wife to Emory W. Hare and wife, $10 for 24½ sq. per.

Hershell E. Lamotte to Louis Lamotte and wife $10 for 19 acres.

Caroline V. Wantz to William C. Sloop and wife, $200 city lots.

William H. Eckard and wife to Wm. C. Eckard and wife, $1000 for 14 sq. per.

Samuel G. Sterner, Trustee to Wm. G. Hesson and wife, $1 for 15 acres.

Arthur M. Zile and wife to Sykesville Mfg. Co., $2500 for 1 acre.

Charles S. Bond and wife to Jno. W. Brown and wife, $10 for acre.

J. Webster Ebaugh, et. al. to James A. C. Bond, $3000 for 4½ sq. per.

James A. C. Bond to Andrew J. Ebaugh and wife, $3000 for 4½ sq. per.

Jonathan Dorsey and wife to Ella May Shipley, $10 for 3623 sq. ft.

Daylight saving, in Baltimore, has played havoc with the "movie" business, and exhibitors are planning to close every theatre, July 1 for two months, or perhaps longer.

issues for most any thing you can think of—in fact one-third of our taxes are raised by this method every year. And they are sure high enough yet. The new $5,000,000 filter plant, the $3,000,000 Belle Isle bridge, the $4,000,000 Memorial Hall, Hospitals, widening of streets, building and purchasing of the entire street railway system, the building of what is said to be the largest sewer in the United States, at a cost of over $6,000,000, and a dozen other things make our tax rate almost unbearable now, and the end is not in sight by a good bit. So bond issues are the only way out, and the people seem to approve of every one that is proposed.

Speaking of this sewer, I wish your readers could see it, for it is a wonderful sight. It consists of three tunnels, each large enough to run a freight car through, is built of concrete, and is intended to serve the entire east end of the city. The work has been going on, day and night, for over a year, and the end is not near in sight, hundreds of men are employed, together with a large number of "dinky" engines, steam shovels, cement mixers, etc.

By the way, the painters of Taneytown had better look for opposition if some of the former citizens ever move back. B. O. has just brightened up his house, and a mighty good job he and his helpers have made of it. Nearly everybody does their own painting out here, after the first coat, and they paint every two or three years, as paint does not last as long in this climate as in there.

PLENTY OF TEACHERS.

Increase in Salaries brings an Increased Supply.

Large increase in the number of persons desiring to teach in Maryland schools and in the number of teachers qualifying for higher pedagogical rating, was reported Thursday by Wm. J. Holloway, Supervisor of Rural Schools of the State Department of Education.

There were 150 more applicants for teachers' certificates than last year, Mr. Holloway said. While 400 took examinations for teachers' certificates of the second and third grades last spring, this year there were 550.

These increases, which are regarded as tending to supply the shortage of well-trained teachers, Mr. Holloway attributed to less competition from other interests which drew talent away from the educational field during the war period, widespread discussions of the State's program of education during the last two years, and passage by the Legislature of the Education law, with its increases in teachers' salaries.

The Board of Education.

The regular meeting of the Board of Education was called to order in the office of the Board at 10:30, Tuesday, June 6, 1922. All Commissioners were present.

The minutes of the meeting in May were read and approved.

All bills presented to the Board were approved and ordered paid.

Requests for contributions for the purposes indicated from the following schools were presented. The Board contributed $10 to the amount raised in each case, but payment on same was to be deferred until September.

Detour, Rebecca Erb, $12 library; Graceland, Jessie Matthews, $15, library; Reese, George Caples, $45, school equipment; Warfieldsbury, Geneva Spencer, $26.50, school equipment; Westminster, Int., Emory C. Ebaugh, $83.72, school equipment.

Supt. Unger then made the annual appointments of the executive force, whose appointments were duly approved by the Board:

Miss M. Langwick, Rural Supervisor; Miss Gertrude Morgan, Elementary and Music Supervisor; Miss Dorothy Fishel, Supervisor of Physical Training and Attendance; Miss Maye E. Prince, colored Supervisor; Charles Reed, Clerk; Charles O. Clemson, Attorney; Miss Helen E. Ohler, Stenographer.

The request of Miss Mina M. Langwick, Rural Supervisor, for a leave of absence until August 20, was granted by the Board.

A petition of the Union Street colored school community requesting that more adequate school facilities be granted their community was placed before the Board. Their request was duly considered by the Board, but no action was taken.

Supt. Unger was directed to inform Robert W. Carter that the Board would not lease the rooms used for school purposes for another year.

Supt. Unger made a report to the Board on the coal situation. The matter was laid on the table for further consideration.

E. C. Yingling, the repair man, reported his inability to secure workmen at a wage of $2.50 a day. After careful consideration, the Board decided to pay $3.00 a day, but no more.

Upon receipt of the budget from the County Commissioners, the Supt. was authorized in case the amount for the portable buildings was allowed, to take up immediately the contracts for portable buildings, in order that they might be erected in time for the opening of school.

The list of the Teachers' appointments and their respective salaries was presented to the Board and approved.

The meeting was adjourned to meet jointly with the County Commissioners at 2:30 P. M., for an intimate discussion of the various items of the budget asked for by the Board of Education, and to give an opportunity to the County Commissioners to have the various items fully explained. After the joint meeting, the Board adjourned at 4:15 P. M.

Our Supplement, this Week.

The Record is sending out as a supplement, advertising write-ups of a large number of dealers and business concerns of various kinds, that will no doubt interest many of our readers. The Editor desires to say that he had nothing to do with the write-ups, except to publish them, and is not individually responsible for the editorial "we" that is so liberally used in the way of indorsement, nor for any of the statements made. We prefer to let it be known that credit for the work is due to Co-operative Advertising Syndicate, Newark, N. J.

Marriage Licenses.

Tracey B. Angur and Marion L. Hooper, of Hampstead.

William H. Erb and Bertie B. Black both of Union Bridge.

Charles J. Rose and Laura A. Ewen, both of Baltimore.

Walter G. Bell and Grace Abbott, Finksburg.

Ignatius Zorm and Anna Debeline, both of Baltimore.

William L. Miller and Maud M. McCreary, both of Baltimore.

Carroll county has decided to appoint a music supervisor on a full-time basis—the first appointment on this basis to be made in the State.

RAIL UNIONS ARE VOTING TO STRIKE.

Supreme Test to be Made by Organized Labor.

The American Federation of Labor opened a two-weeks convention in Cincinnati, on Monday. The main objects of discussion will be the "open shop," unemployment, wage reductions, court decisions and injunctions affecting labor, the recognition of Soviet Russia, etc.

Samuel Gompers, president, received an ovation from the over 500 delegates. Addressing the convention Mr. Gompers said that organized labor was "not in a mood to have constitutional rights and privileges taken from us by any subtle reasoning or assumption of power, no matter whence it emanates." Labor demands, Mr. Gompers continued, employers meet in conference for settlement of disputes, but, he said, genuine conference was impossible unless both sides meet on equality. Asserting that labor was confronted by foes, Mr. Gompers added that "we do not becloud our minds now and fool ourselves into any fancied security."

The record of organized labor accomplishment in a "year of unusual strife and unusual industrial depression" was laid before the convention. The report declared that American labor during the year not only suffered from the widespread unemployment that existed but was beset by opponents more active and determined than ever.

In addition to strictures on the conduct of employes in numerous cases, the report added explicit and pointed criticism of Congress and of some State legislative bodies, declaring such branches of the Government to be "succumbing to a wave of reaction." Fault was found with the action of some courts, including the Supreme Court, and with what was described as President Harding's "proposal to regulate trade unions."

"It is with no little satisfaction, in view of these circumstances," the report, on the other hand, declared, "that we are able to lay before this convention a report of achievement, a report of solidarity, a report of constructive planning, and a report that can only inadequately portray the militant spirit with which our movement has come through the years. We shall fight with a greater confidence because of the record that has been made."

The report declared that in the direct labor field "workers in a number of industries have been compelled to resort to cessation of work" because "organized employers" were "unwilling to meet workers in conference for negotiation." The most important instance of this policy was declared to be the cause of the existing coal mine strike, although troubles in the textile, garment, printing, granite, and packing-house industries also were cited.

It is expected that before the convention closes, the Supreme Court, the President and Congress, will come in for pointed criticism, and that the lines between unionism and all dissenters from union propaganda, will be more sharply drawn than ever.

Cincinnati, O., June 15.—An overwhelming majority in favor of a strike is being cast by members of 11 shop crafts and maintenance-of-way unions, said a formal statement issued here tonight by heads of the unions affected by recent decisions of the Railroad Labor Board, who added that the decision of members would be complied with by them.

"We would not feel the strike to be the only solution," said the statement. "If the attitude of the management did not block all possibility of the other and better alternative."

The statement criticised wage cuts made by the Railroad Labor Board, declaring "it has so reduced standards that the strike becomes an act of self-preservation."

20 Years of Falling Prices.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 14—"If history repeats itself, we will have an era soon of gradually falling prices, covering two decades or more," said Dr. Frank M. Surface, special assistant to Secretary Herbert Hoover, before the 250 members of the controllers' congress of the National Retail Dry Goods Association here today.

"One of the most important questions today is the relation between labor and capital. Luxuries are not readily given up. There will be readjustment of wages and a long struggle by labor to maintain advantages it has won and capital striving to readjust costs."

Dr. Surface then told the congress that the manufacturing industries' wages amounted to more than 30 per cent of the total value of all raw material.

Frederick city went Democratic, on Wednesday, in the election of Mayor, Tax Collector and five Aldermen. Trouble in the Republican camp is given as the cause, and better organization on the part of the Democrats.

The Union Bridge First National Bank situation seems to be unchanged, so far as the public has been informed, no statement having been authoritatively given out as to the shortage, nor as to the status of deposits.

A COW TESTING MACHINE.

A Remarkable Machine for Recording Experiments.

State College, Pa., June 14.—The "Respiration Calorimeter" in the Institute of Animal Nutrition at the Pennsylvania State College has been so delicately constructed, it was learned today by visiting farmers, that it is capable of measuring not only the decrease in heat given off by a cow as it lies down to rest, but also the increase produced when a restless cow kicks or shoves away a fly with its tail. The calorimeter is in the form of a large air-tight stall, into which air, food and water are sent to sustain the cow under experiment. On the outside are balances for recording the production of heat, gas, and so forth, given off as the result of the various types of food given to the animal.

The machine has been perfected so remarkably that it also records the different degrees of moisture given off by the cow when fed different sorts of grain or hay. Each time the cow lies down during the test, which lasts forty-eight hours, a bell is rung to warn the operator that he should change the tube into which the carbon dioxide given off by the animal is gathered. In this manner changes in excretions of gas are also noted. Through the assistance of this machine, which was designed by the late Dr. Henry P. Armsby, it is possible to measure virtually all changes in an animal as caused by difference in food.—Phila. Ledger.

Carroll County Society of Baltimore.

The officers, past presidents and the chairman of the historical committee of the Carroll County Society of Baltimore City, attended the unveiling of the monument at Fort McHenry, erected to the memory of Francis Scott Key, who was born at Keyville, Carroll county.

The President of the United States considered this event of sufficient importance to attend, and his speech concerning Key and the conditions prevailing at that time was thoroughly enjoyed. The citizens of Carroll county certainly should be proud of the fact that Key was born in what is now Carroll county.

Those attending were: George R. Babylon, Mr. and Mrs. H. Scott Roop, William E. Moore, Willis A. Myers, Mrs. Willis E. Myers, George F. Frock, W. Maurice Routsom, Miss Carrie E. Green, L. H. Dielman, Chas. R. Woods and Mrs. Frances M. Goodwin.

Proceedings of the Orphans' Court.

Monday, June 12, 1922.—Mary E. Neudecker, executrix of George P. Neudecker, deceased, received order to sell stocks, bonds and personal property.

George F. Morelock, executor of Robert H. Bohn, deceased, received order to sell stocks and bonds.

Mary S. Wentz, executrix of Oliver F. B. Wentz, deceased, settled her first and final account.

Tuesday, June 13, 1922.—The last will and testament of Francis A. Crawford, deceased, was duly probated and letters testamentary thereon were granted unto Jesse E. Crawford, who received warrant to appraise and order to notify creditors.

Uriah Bixler, executor of Amanda A. Lemmon, deceased, returned inventory of personal property, debts due and current money, and received order to sell real estate, personal property, stocks and bonds.

Two of a Kind.

A man was arrested in Baltimore, on Wednesday, for openly abusing President Harding, one of his expressions being, "He ought to be shot." The charge against him was for "disorderly conduct on a public street." What of the fellows, who in a more orderly, but none the less public, way, vigorously condemn the President and the Supreme Court? Perhaps that is merely "freedom of speech" and not "disorderly," but just the same, such attacks give encouragement to the "public street" kind.

"Dad and Me."

Old Way.

I left my dad, his farm, his plow, Because my calf became his cow; I left my dad—'twas wrong, of course But my pet colt became his horse, I left my dad to sow and reap, Because my lamb became his sheep. I dropped my hoe and hit New York, Because my pig became his pork; The garden truck I made to grow, Was his to sell and mine to hoe; Believe me, too, I had to hoe— There was no riding down the row.

New Way.

With dad and me it's half and half, The cow I own was once his calf; I'm going to stick right where I am, Because by sheep was once his lamb. I'll stay with dad—he gets my vote, Because my hog was once his shote. No town for me—I'll stick right here, For he's made me a tractor-engineer. It's "even split" with dad and me In a profit-sharing company. We work together from day to day. Believe me boys, it's the only way. —Calgary Herald.

As an addition to the criticised record of the management of the Maryland House of Correction, six prisoners escaped from the institution, early Monday morning. The guards are said to have been asleep.

Profitlessness of Mere Objection.

The political demagogue, and a class of prolific newspaper contributors, are opposed to hard times, high taxes, crop failures, and various other disagreeable things that go to make up the sum of matters constituting public grievances. Well, most people oppose the same things, but mere opposition is profitless, and spouting about them without offering workable remedies in some practical way, is useless. Constitutional "objectors" are merely chronic nuisances, and should be muzzled.

Obstructivism and criticism are the very A. B. C. among matters for discussion, and indicate shallowness of reasoning ability. Place these fellows in the positions of authority and trust that they presume to be able to fill, and they would be absolute failures, simply because they would find conditions and problems to cope with, as to which they are absolutely misinformed, and which their single track minds could not make even a beginning at solving.

The thing that looks easy to the one who sees only the objective side, from the outside, becomes an unsolvable riddle when the inside view is spread before him; and even should he be able to line out a plan suitable to his course of reasoning, it would resolve itself into one that would bring such a widespread storm of protest that his term in office would be limited to a single trial, and that one be regarded as a public misfortune.

Merely not liking a law, or condition, or person, is not justifiable as an argument on which to demand changes. We fall into the habit of "going off half-cocked," as we sometimes say, and there are some who fall in line back of us in the adoption of our wisdom (?) but when confronted with the necessity for producing permissible testimony, we find that mere opinion is not evidence, and our windy exhibition is mere child's play.

Finding the ways for the greatest good for the greatest number, is a man's sized job. It requires careful study, wide investigation, helpful co-operation and constructive criticism. It is like inventing a piece of machinery; likely to require improvement on improvement the reshaping of small details, perhaps the discarding of some original ideas, and even then absolute perfection may not be reached for the handling of all cases.

So, let us be wise in not being too off-hand with our knocking. The things that appear so obviously bad to us may have their good points, once we know them better. Things are not always just as they seem to be, and those who have done so poorly, as we think, may in reality be much better men, in fact, than we credit them with being—all of which merely means that near-sightedness and astigmatism may affect the mind as well as the eye.

Give Mental Calibre a Show.

Shall I say "wet," or "dry?" is the big question confronting all would-be candidates for the Senate and House, in Maryland, and workable "strategies" are in demand. In our humble judgment, this Volstead act business ought to be considered as settled, except perhaps for very minor repairs, and the voters be left to pick candidates because of their outstanding qualifications for general legislative work.

A narrow-gauge—whether "wet" or "dry"—may easily be a misfit in congress, and the placing of arbitrary insistence on a made-to-order rubber stamp candidate, places a mighty low estimate on the importance of National legislation jobs. We believe it would be good plan for both parties to go together and agree to nominate candidates who will say nothing, either way, but who are of the calibre and standing that is entitled to public confidence.

It is fully as bad to have candidates opposed because of their attitude on unionism. A man may have the record of a vote or two, or have made an expression or two, on some particular phase of the labor question without either disqualifying him for fairness and good judgment, and without making him non-representative of his constituency. No man should be sent to Congress to represent any hard and fast policy, or any one particular interest, occupation or moral issue. The "people" of a state, or district, are bigger than any one selfish class—or ought to be.

It is perhaps too much to expect closely organized classes to vote unselfishly, but it is to be hoped that the country still contains enough good sense to give the unorganized classes a square deal even if party lines must be broken down to do it.

Leadership Does Not Hold.

The makers of the new tariff law are finding new rivers to cross. There was a time, in the old days when parties divided almost unanimously over "protection," and "tariff for revenue," when all the leaders had to do was hold a few "caucuses" and "hearings" and produce a "party" tariff bill, then force it to vote after a vast expenditure of campaign argument and eloquence, and the party in power would put its bill across with a hurrah.

The same party solidarity does not now exist. The "fences" are not nearly so strong. The "bloes" and objecting interests do not so easily conclude trades and compromises. The party papers are not so standard. Independence, rebellion, lack of co-operation—call it what you will—there is a present condition of public mind that stands for lack of loyalty to party leaders and organizations that makes "tariff tinkering" anything but the formal affair it once was.

A prominent Republican newspaper in New York openly says it is in favor of protection of American industries but not "damn fool protection." There is the situation in an expressive nutshell. Neither men nor newspapers hesitate to assert independence of leadership. It is said that the country is suffering from "lack of leaders" in Congress. Not so. There are more leaders than ever, but the crowd that refuses to be led, has increased more rapidly.

The Third Element of Selfishness.

As was to be expected, following the recent decisions of the U. S. Labor Board and that of the U. S. Supreme Court, on their face in opposition to union labor, both President Harding and the Supreme Court have been classed as labor's enemy; and in general, the decision of the Supreme Court that labor organizations, whether incorporated or not, are suable for damages, has invoked wide interest and comment, some favorable and some otherwise.

In case the decisions may cause a great strike of railroad employees in the near future, the whole country may easily be confronted by an extremely serious situation, the extent of which no one can with safety foretell. The result may be government control and operation of railroads, or in some other way the force of government in settling disputes between operators and employees, arbitrarily.

Neither of these alternatives is desirable; but it seems to be coming to the point—if not already at hand—that when these two principals fail to agree, the power of government is all that is left to depend on. When fighting between desperate combatants interferes with the interests, peace and safety, of non-combatants, the constitutional privileges of the latter are invaded, and must be safeguarded. If not, then anarchy is present.

It is sincerely to be hoped that wise counsels will prevail, and that the present revolutionary situation may dissolve. In some way, the voice of the majority should be heard; not merely the voice of the majority of workers, or employers, but the voice of the whole people; not merely the voice of political hay-makers, or professional agitators, or of captains of industry, but the greater voice of the whole people from whom all of the above, in one way or another, receive their financial profit.

There is the third element of selfishness to be considered, and it has so far been keeping wonderfully quiet. Let it be heard now.

A Dead Issue.

From time to time, upholders of liquor traffic attempt to extract comfort from the results of elections held in various part of the country.

Recently a supreme attempt was made to interpret the result of a congressional by-election in New York State as indicating a pronounced swing toward legislative tempering of the prohibition enforcement law. In a Republican district, the Republican nominee was returned to Congress by a greatly reduced majority. It happened that in this instance the Democratic nominee had made opposition to the prohibition law a point in his platform. There were several other factors in the election, a reduced vote, disgust over congressional do-nothingness, the aftermaths of financial depression, and the usual local group vote alignments.

But anti-prohibitionists ignored all other factors and loudly ascribed the reduced Republican majority to dissatisfaction with prohibition.

A few weeks later, however, the primary election in Indiana was held and anti-prohibitionists remained discreetly silent over the election. Samuel M. Ralston was nominated for Senator by the Democrats by an overwhelming majority. One of his opponents had made the campaign solely on the anti-prohibition issue, and had been snowed under so badly that it was not worth while to count the votes. In several of the congressional nominations, other anti-prohibition aspirants had fared badly.

The truth of the matter is that the public will not consider prohibition as a live issue. Even those persons who profess the belief that the prohibition measure was a mistake refuse to let any worry over its passage interfere with their 1922 digestion. Prohibition as a fundamental policy is settled, and the politician who tries to urge its repeal is arguing an issue as dead as slavery.—Dearborn Independent.

Why Suffer from Rheumatism?

Do you know that nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply rheumatism of the muscles or chronic rheumatism, neither of which require any internal treatment? The pain may be relieved by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, which makes sleep and rest possible, and that certainly means a great deal to any one afflicted with rheumatism.

World Tariffs Change.

Every civilized nation since the war has been seeking new sources of income to meet expenses. Old tariffs have been revised all over the world, and new ones have been devised. "Practically all the post-war tariff legislation," says Thomas O. Marvin, chairman of the United States Tariff Commission, "has reflected an intent to develop domestic industries and strengthen economic defenses. Adjustments have been made on a wider scale and more expeditiously in other countries than in the United States."

The most notable instance is the Safeguarding of Industries Act, adopted by the British Parliament, which went into effect October 1st, 1921, and which imposed a duty of 33 1-3 percent, affecting 6000 articles. India's new schedules, effective March 1, further increased the customs duties which were advanced in 1917. Australia and Canada also have revised their tariffs upward.

France has doubled some of its pre-war rates, and increased others from five to ten times. Belgium has made several tariff revision since 1920, and certain specific duties are now from five to six times greater than before the war. Italy adopted a new general tariff in June, 1921, and Spain increased duties about 50 percent last year.

Japan enacted emergency measures in 1920 and 1921 to safeguard her industries until a general tariff revision could be made. Germany last October increased from 900 to 1900 per cent the premium when gold duties are payable in paper currency. This was further increased to 3900 percent last November, or forty times the previous rate. Austria's new tariff is 900 times the pre-war rate for luxuries and 250 times the pre-war rate for other articles.

Most tariffs in Latin-American countries are on an ad valorem basis, which has enabled them to be increased expeditiously by adding a sufficient percentage to any group or groups of articles.

Although most American exports are sold "free on board" the shipping port in this country, or "cost, insurance and freight" the port of entry abroad, the foreign demand for such goods is materially affected by increased duties and profitable markets are made barren on comparatively short notice. It is, therefore, more necessary than ever before for American merchants and manufacturers to keep close watch of pending tariff legislation all over the world, to make the necessary adjustments in their business and to develop new fields for their products.—Phila. Ledger.

Newspaper Humor.

The humor of the country press is the real American humor because it is the humor of the mass—of the 90 percent of the people who inhabit the United States, rural or city.

The humor of the city press, such humor as you see in the columnists' columns, is cynical—it is wit, not humor at all. It does not appeal even in the cities—only to the higher brows whose somewhat better education than the masses makes them crave the peppers and highly flavored sauces of journalistic literature.

The cynics who write city newspaper "columns" and who run city newspaper editorial pages think that the quiet, quaint, chuckling humor of the country press is ridiculous and they occasionally reprint a bit of it with the same cynicism that they use in everything else they do.

"The American Press" likes the humor of the country press and would rather have one ounce of it than a ton of the city wit. We enjoy its quaintness because it is human—and American—not inhuman and foreign, like your Sun Dial, Linotype and the others of the city press.—American Press.

The Home of the Soul.

In old times, it was believed that the seat of the soul was the stomach, most likely for the reason that a man is never so completely used up as when his stomach is out of order. For the cure of ordinary stomach troubles, there is nothing so prompt and satisfactory as Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter.

MANY AND VARIED TASTES

Wide Variety of Things Considered Desirable Good for Import and Export Business.

"What a good thing it is," remarked Anne, "that we do not all have the same tastes. It would be a frightfully uninteresting world if we all had the same tastes and thought the same things, and all wanted to do just exactly what our neighbor did at the same time she was doing it."

Mother laughed. "That is very true," she said, "but your experience is with the little part of the world about you. It is this difference in taste all the world over that makes for the import and export business. Trade depends upon such differences for its success. Indeed, I think the world would have stopped going round long ago if we all thought and did and liked the same things."

"The other day I read an article on 'How Folks Differ.' Here are some of the things it said: 'We chew gum, the Hindoo takes to lime, the Patagonian finds contentment in a bit of guano. The children of this country delight in candy, those of Africa like rock salt. A Frenchman considers fried frogs a rare delicacy, while an Eskimo Indian thinks there is nothing more delicious than a stewed candle. But the South Sea islander differs from them all; his fancy dish is a fresh boiled missionary, with the green cotton umbrella added for spice.'—Milwaukee Sentinel.

THREE 'GOOD MEN AND TRUE'

Lawyer's Characterization of Town Officials Really a Masterpiece of Summing Up.

There dwelt down East a quaint old character, "Lawyer Hopkins," whose notion of the divine origin and character of justice was certainly modern in its practicality. He occasionally practiced law in a small way and in a manner peculiarly his own.

On one occasion a flock of sheep disappeared and their heads were found in a flour barrel in the barn of a certain man, who was thereupon arrested and tried for sheep stealing. Lawyer Hopkins, in conducting the defense, maintained that the sheep were not stolen, but had strayed away, as was common in the spring.

The prosecuting attorney said: "Yes, I know sheep do stray away this time of year, but they do not usually leave their heads in flour barrels in the haymow."

Hopkins went to a neighboring town to settle the case with the selectmen, but failed and gave this report, characterizing the three town officials:

"Mr. A will do nothing wrong if he knows it; Mr. B will do nothing at all if he knows it and Mr. C will do nothing right if he knows it."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Balancing of Trees.

There has been offered a very interesting suggestion concerning the utility of a tree of the irregular arrangement of its branches. Watching a large plane tree during a gale, an observer noted that while one great limb swayed in one direction, another swayed the opposite way, and although all the branches were plunging and bending before the blast, they did not move in unison, or all at once in the same direction. But for the peculiarity in the motion of the branches, it is thought, the tree could not have escaped uprooting; and the investigator suggests that this kind of balancing serves in general to protect large trees, white oaks and beeches, which have their branches unsymmetrically placed, from being overturned by high winds.—Washington Star.

SUCCESS IN HATCHING EGGS

Care and Attention to Detail Are What Makes One Man Succeed Where Another Fails.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Between making or losing money in raising chickens there is only a narrow margin. Contrary to many persons' ideas, no magic road leads to success in this work. Care and attention to detail are what make one man succeed while another one with similar equipment fails.

The following suggestions on incubation are given by poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture:

Have everything ready beforehand, and start your hatching operations early in the year.

A well-ventilated cellar is the best place to operate the incubator.

The machine should be operated according to the manufacturer's directions.

See that the incubator is running steadily at the desired temperature before filling it with eggs. Do not add eggs to a machine during incubation.

Turn the eggs twice daily after the second and through the eighteenth day. Cool the eggs once daily, according to the weather, from the seventh through the eighteenth day.

Turn the eggs before caring for the lamp.

Attend to the machine carefully at regular hours.

Keep the lamp and wick clean.

Test the eggs on the seventh and fourteenth days.

Do not open the machine after the Care is the keynote of success in hatching eggs.

eighteenth day until the chickens are hatched.

Eggs saved for hatching purposes should not be subjected to high or low temperatures.

In cold weather place from 10 to 13 eggs under the hen; in warm weather from 13 to 15.

Always try the hen on china or nest eggs before setting good eggs.

Given proper care and attention, the hen is the most valuable incubator for the farmer.

Use insect powder freely to exterminate lice when necessary.

February, March, April, and May are the best months for hatching, depending on the section of the country.

If several hens are set in one room, it is desirable to confine them to their nests.

Straw and hay make good nesting material.

Broody hens should be moved to the permanent sitting nest at night.

While corn is a good feed for sitting hens, water, grit, and dust baths should also be provided.

All eggs should be tested by the seventh day, which often makes it possible to reset some of the hens.

Which Hens to Keep

Strong, healthy, vigorous hens with short, neat heads and strong beaks.

The hens with long, deep, rectangular bodies and parallel top and bottom lines.

The hens with large, bright eyes, active appearance and short, well-worn toe nails.

The hens with dusty, worn feathers, especially worn tail feathers, but having a bright, healthy look.

The hens that molt late and those that molt rapidly.

The noisy, happy, friendly hens.

The early risers and those late to roost.

The vigorous hens with the faded beaks and shanks.

The hens with the thin pelvic bones spread wide apart.

The early-hatched, well-grown pullets.

Large, strong, active, quick-maturing cockerels of desired variety type and high-producing mothers.

MARKET FOR YOUNG GUINEAS

Best Season Is During Latter Part of Summer and Fall—Sell Best With Feathers On.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The marketing season for guinea fowl is during the latter part of summer, and throughout the fall. At this time the demand in the city markets is for young birds weighing from one to two pounds each. At about two and one-half months old guineas weigh from one to one and one-half pounds, and at this size they begin reaching the markets in August. As the season advances the demand is for heavier birds.

The usual practice in marketing game birds is to place them on the market unplucked, and in most markets guineas are sold this way. They appear more attractive with feathers on, and sell more readily. Dressed, the small size and dark color of the skin are likely to prejudice the prospective customer who may be unfamiliar with the bird's excellent eating qualities. For hotel and restaurant trade, however, guineas should be dressed in the same way as common fowl. Better ask the dealer, before shipping, whether he wants the feathers on or off.

The Department of Agriculture has learned that if the feathers are to be left on the birds all that is necessary in preparing for market is to bleed them by severing the principal blood vessels of the neck, allowing them to hang head downward until bleeding is complete.

If the feathers are to be removed, it should be done by dry picking. When the brain is pierced after severing the blood vessels in the neck the feathers are loosened by a convulsive movement of the muscles and can be removed easily.

TO AVOID POULTRY DISEASES

Health of Fowls Depends Almost Entirely Upon Clean Quarters and Right Feed.

Many people who raise poultry spend money for remedies for ailments in their flock which they could prevent if they would realize that the health of poultry depends almost entirely upon clean quarters and proper feeding.

Few poultry diseases are caused by anything but lack of precaution. A leaky roof causes damp litter. Lack of litter under roosts causes a damp and foul house under a good roof. Cracks in the floor or sides mean drafts. Lack of clean scratch litter means lack of exercise and reduced vigor.

Lack of balanced rations means a tendency towards digestive troubles. No grit helps to keep feed from being properly digested. Too tight quarters cause them to become damp, foul-smelling and unhealthy. Lack of ventilation causes poultry to lose in vitality. Colds are caused by dusty houses and exposure to moisture and cold.

Put your eggs in cold storage via the waterglass route.

Keep the baby chicks hungry at all times. Never feed too much.

Pinches of sodium fluoride in the feathers will rid a hen of lice.

Scatter air-slaked lime freely about the houses and yards; it will go a long way towards preventing disease.

Alfalfa meal and wheat bran are, perhaps, the most common "bases" for chick growing mash and they are hard to excel.

Alfalfa meal should be in all mash rations and it will pay to encourage the chicks or fowls to eat as much of it as possible. It makes for greater capacity.

Don't sell the hens because the price of eggs is low and prices for the hens high. Keep plenty of hens to lay eggs for home use and to sell next winter when prices are up.

Moline Plow Company Reorganizes

(Reprinted from "The Eastern Dealer.")

Under date of May 11, 1922, the Moline Plow Company, of Moline, Ill., issued the following statement of their reorganization.

"Announcement of the completion of reorganization of the Moline Plow Company was made here today. New plans for the company and its subsidiaries, chief of which will be the Stephens Motor Car Company, were ratified.

"The new company was launched with $16,000,000 of current assets and with all current indebtedness cleared from its books, except accrued and current expenses and $70,000 of current accounts.

"The most striking feature of the reorganization is the conversion of $25,000,000 of indebtedness into $12,500,000 of twenty-year debentures and $12,500,000 of first preferred stock—$7,500,000 of old first preferred stock was converted into $7,500,000 of new second preferred stock.

"The financial house cleaning was done with unusual thoroughness.

"The assets are net after writing inventories and plants to rock bottom, and ample provision for liquidating all unprofitable departments and obsolete and slow-moving inventories, for possible losses on receivables, and for any reasonable contingency of further readjustments of the business or declines in value.

"A vigorous policy of readjustment and conduct of the business was presented by the management and ratified by the directors, the most significant feature of which is the plan of the president to modernize and improve the system of implement sales and distribution. This promises lower prices on implements to the farmer.

"The officers elected are: Frank O. Wetmore, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, chairman of the Board; George N. Peek, president; H. S. Johnson, executive vice-president; R. W. Lea, vice-president and manager of the Stephens Motor Car Company; F. W. Edlin, vice-president and sales manager; C. B. Rose, vice-president in charge of tractor works; H. B. Dinneen, vice-president in charge of implement manufacturing; L. C. Shonts, secretary; L. C. Blanding, assistant secretary; F. J. Hoernigman and John Hammerich, assistant treasurers. The following were elected directors: F. O. Wetmore, G. N. Peek, H. S. Johnson, John E. Blunt, Jr., Merchants Loan and Trust Company, Chicago; C. P. Coffin, Illinois Steel Company, Chicago; Herman Waldeck, Continental and Commercial National Bank, Chicago; S. A. Mitchell, Mercantile Trust Company, St. Louis, Mo.; C. T. Jaffy, First National Bank, Minneapolis, Minn.; Rumsey W. Scott, Chemical National Bank, New York City; J. Herndon Smith, St. Louis, Mo.; F. F. Winans, National City Company, Chicago; Henry R. Johnston, Chatham and Phoenix National Bank, New York City; R. I. Barr, Chase National Bank, New York City; Horace Fortescue, Philadelphia National Bank, Philadelphia; H. H. Cleveland, Rock Island, Ill.

"The plan adopted seems the surest means of safeguarding all interests. It has re-established the company in a strong financial position, with ample capital, reserves for all contingencies, and no current indebtedness. The good will of the business is great, as is indicated by the unanimity of all concerned in reaching an agreement. A great improvement and simplification of the line has taken place during the last year. The company's house is in order to take full advantage of the improvement in the implement and automobile business, which seems inevitable.

"The Stephens Motor Car Company is placed in an equally sound position. The investment in plant and equipment is unusually low, and the assured standing of the company will now give ample assurance to everyone interested in the Stephens automobile. The Company has taken over the poppet valve motor business of the R. and V. Engineering Company, and will manufacture an automobile engine as well as an engine for tractors and trucks, for sale to other manufacturers.

"George N. Peek, president, has great faith in the future of the company.

"The new company is dedicated to a policy on improvement in implement distribution," said Mr. Peek. "Implement sales to farmers have been on a system suited to frontier development before good roads, the parcel post, the automobile. We have had too many small dealers at cross roads, and not enough strong distributors in natural trade centers—too much factory canvassing, small shipments and too long terms. Too large a part of the price of the implement to the farmer represented the cost of getting it to him.

"Our new plan means larger volume and territory per dealer, more carload factory shipments, shorter terms, less factory sales effort, and as a consequence, larger discounts for farmer and dealer. It cuts out the wastes of distribution. It means more prosperous dealers and less cost in getting implements from factory to farm. It will make local financing more attractive than financing by the company. It will leave more of the profit of sales in the community where it is achieved. It will pull business by attractive discounts rather than push people into buying by weight of sales force.

"Farmers and dealers alike have been demanding these changes for a good many years and it gratifies me greatly to head this old and respected company.

WHY Ducks Are Enabled to Shed Water From Their Backs

"Like water off a duck's back" is a phrase that we often use, for a duck's back is the most perfect waterproof in the world.

Land birds are soon saturated by a heavy shower of rain. You may see them afterwards fluffing out their feathers so that sun and wind may dry them. But no drop of water can penetrate the plumage of any aquatic bird. Gulls, ducks, grebes, and cormorants dive after food on the bleakest days without getting either wet or cold.

These birds are provided with a natural mackintosh in the shape of a covering of feathers which fit tightly one on top of the other. But their plumage would not remain waterproof if they did not look after it carefully. Every feather must be greased at least once a day if it is to turn the water.

Watch a duck after its bath and you will see the process. The beak is pushed hard into the roots of the feathers, and then brought up to their very tips. Diving birds are provided with special glands which supply the beak with all the grease it needs.

SAYS ANIMALS DO REMEMBER

Why Old Idea Is Wrong Is Proved by Incidents Related by English Writer.

I have read an article in which a trapper denies that animals have a real memory, says a writer in the Times. He admitted that most of them knew enough to avoid a trap after an experience or two with it, but contended that this was merely a manifestation of the self-preservation instinct.

The same man cited an instance—not at all unfamiliar—of a dog's refusing to hunt with a man who had kicked him. He said that this too was only the instinct of all living creatures to avoid injury.

Animals do have memory—at least some of them do. The trapper's theory would not explain those many evidences of recollection wherein self-preservation plays no part. I once carried a fox-terrier into the house after he had been well-nigh killed by an automobile. His master had just moved into the apartment house, and I had never seen the dog before that day. We moved away two days later, and I did not see the terrier for over four months. Then one day I passed the house—or was about to do so—when out came that dog, wagging his stubby tail. He jumped all over me, in joyful recognition—and memory.

An amusing story, significant on this subject, is told by my father. As a boy he lived on a farm, and was always a close student of animal nature. The mare he usually drove was old and fat, and would never go faster than a walk unless urged. There were two roads to town, one branching off from the other and a little shorter. It had been Old Maud's custom to take this road, of her own volition, until on one occasion a vicious dog barked at her and snapped at her legs. After that the driver had to be on his guard; Maud would speed up when about 50 yards from the turn-off and try to get by it before she could be restrained. This showed not only memory, but a sense for planning.

Why Mirrors Become Clouded.

"These wintry and rainy days are sure tough for me," said the elevator man in an office building.

"How's that?" asked the casual passenger.

"Look at those mirrors on each side of the car," directed the elevator man. "I have to wipe them off about every five minutes. On cold days the feminine nose gets red, and on rainy days—well, the rain washes the powder off their noses. What's the result? Every carload I take up crowds over near these mirrors, takes out the old powder puff and starts dolly. There's a bunch of them, you see, and by the time I reach the top floor the mirrors are so clouded with powder they don't reflect a thing."

"Except possibly feminine vanity," observed the casual passenger.

Why Malamute Dogs Are Scarce.

Malamute dogs, the half-wolf, half-canine animals known as huskies, are selling in the North at $100 apiece and up, according to returned hunters and prospectors. When the North is snow-bound and lakes and rivers are locked with ice against navigation, travel is almost exclusively by dog sled. The lowest price at which dogs can be obtained is $100 each, according to advice. First-class animals, such as crack "mushers" prize themselves on keeping, are hard to get at any price, and when obtainable cost several hundred dollars, or as much as a good horse in the South. Scarcity of dogs, it is said, is due to the neglect of breeding stock by the Indians.

Why the Turkey Died.

Mr. Smart did not allow his debtors much time to discharge their liabilities, and he had the effrontery to call on a customer for the collection of a bill on Christmas day. "I have called," he began, "to ascertain when you intend to pay me the cash you owe?" "Well, sir," replied the debtor, who was enjoying his Christmas dinner, "I am at the end of my resources; in fact, I have nothing to pay anyone, and I can see grim poverty staring me in the face."

"That being so, I fail to see why you should be enjoying the luxury of a turkey," added the creditor angrily. "Alas," said the debtor mournfully, "I couldn't afford its keep."

SHOULD BE LITERARY SHRINE

Room in London Where Rudyard Kipling, Thirty Years Ago, Wrote "The Light That Failed."

Thirty years make few changes in a London street, and Villiers street running down to the Thames past the smoke-smudged walls of Charing Cross railway station is much the same as when Rudyard Kipling lived in Number 19, the Embankment chambers, and struggled for recognition from the London editors, says Arthur Bartlett Maurice in "Literary Pilgrimages" in the New York Herald.

The third-floor rooms in the Embankment chambers where Kipling worked in his early twenties are the scene of nearly all the stories with a London background that he has written.

"For example, 'The Light That Failed.' The rooms shared by Torpenhow and Dick Helder were Kipling's own rooms. From the doorway of No. 19 poor Dick, stricken with blindness, groped down to the water's edge for the sense of the Thames' damp and the feel of the ships that wafted to his nostrils the pungent smells of the East. Lying across that doorway, Torpenhow first for Bessie Broke, the little street girl from 'south 'o the river,' who fell in love with him, and who fell in on Dick for his in revenge herself away the reference by scribble. On a table in the Melancholia, the of the Kipling rooms in the Embankment chambers, Charlie of 'The Finest Story in the World,' scrawled the words, meaningless to him, that told of the agony of the galley slave. The very table once had being. Kipling had been burning the midnight oil and generally overworking himself. On the table he had graven the words: 'Oft was I weary when I toiled at thee—the motto which the galley slave carved upon his oar.'

HAS GRUDGE AGAINST RADIO

One Person at Least Who Cannot See Anything in the Latest Popular Amusement.

"I'm through with Greenwich Village for good," the out-of-towner told her city cousin. "It was false to me in my hour of need. Furthermore, I'm haunted by wireles."

"You don't say so!"

"At home I led a terribly conventional life. It was boring, but I managed to endure it. My brother is a rather clever talker, you know, and we were the best of pals—until he took up wireless telephony."

"So that's why you came to town so suddenly!"

"It is! My life was just one continuous discussion of radiophones, PDQ stations, antennae and wot not! But the thing I hated most was my brother's enchantment with the nightly radio concerts. Every time we settled down for a chat and he promised to reform from his wireless craze, he'd get word that there was a concert in Newark and off he'd dash to his wireless telephone."—New York Times.

Under His Hat.

The Woman and the man from out of town were theater-bound, and at 8 o'clock both discovered that neither knew the street on which the particular theater was located.

"Let's go to a newsstand and get an evening paper," suggested the man.

"Let's ask a policeman," suggested the Woman.

"Oh, that looks so out-of-townish," said the man, but as a big policeman hove into view the man went up to him to get the information.

"Lord love you," said the jovial policeman, "I can't keep all the theaters in my head any more than you can, but I do keep them in my hat." Then, winking amiably, he removed said hat, or cap, to be correct, and extracted a tiny guide book which revealed, after a turning of numerous pages, the desired address.—Exchange.

America's Oldest Bell.

In the court house at Barnstable, Mass., is an old bell, cracked and silent, which may be, and probably is, the oldest bell in the United States. So thinks Alfred Crocker of Barnstable county.

The date 1675 is still plainly visible in a photograph recently printed. By this date, however, the old bell had seen nearly a quarter of a century of life in England before it came to America and began calling worshippers together in the church at Sandwich Town.

Gratitude bought the bell in England, for it came as a gift from Mrs. Peter Adolph, whose husband, Captain Adolph, was lost in the wreck of his vessel on the Massachusetts coast in 1697 despite the efforts of the people of Sandwich.—Boston Transcript.

Travel Lore.

The Woman Who Sees had spring longings for a sea trip as she passed a department gay with travel literature.

A bright-looking boy was temporarily in charge. "Have you a booklet that outlines a trip including Jamaica?" the Woman asked. He looked helplessly about and said, "Jamaica? Where's Jamaica, lady? The only one I know is Jamaica ginger."—Exchange.

Key Chain That Stretches.

There are times when the user of a key ring and chain wishes the chain were longer. With one such as this, those wishes will come true, for the chain is made of coiled piano wire and with stretch a considerable distance.—M. J. Hunting in Scientific American.

No Mementoes.

An actor was stopped one day by a pretty girl, who pinned a yellow chrysanthemum in his button hole, gave him a dazzling smile and hurried off without a word.

The actor went on his way, and that evening he received a note from the girl, reminding him of the afternoon's romantic episode and asking him to send her two seats as a memento of the occasion.

The actor, with a grim smile, snatched up a postcard and wrote the pretty girl these lines:

"I should be delighted to send you the seats you ask for as a memento, but on personal investigation at the theater I find that they are all nailed down."—Kansas City Star.

Not Custodians.

At the town meeting of a small place "up country" a citizen made a motion that was seconded in an astonishing way.

"Mr. Moderator," he said, "I move that the town set aside money for three cuspidors to be stationed at proper places."

At that an old fellow in the rear of the hall who was hard of hearing rose stiffly to his feet. "I second the motion," he said, "and I move that Jack Davis be made one of 'em!"—Youth's Companion.

MARRIED

BIRNIE—BIGGS.

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Chapman Biggs, daughter of Mrs. Brooke I. Jamison, of Emmitsburg, Md., and Mr. Clotworthy Birnie, of Washington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. ## Weather and Crops.

Sunshiny for the week ending, Tuesday, June 13—The weather was warm and humid, with heavy, local thunder-showers until Sunday, the 11; cooler, pleasant weather followed.

The weather of the week was favorable for plant growth, although heavy, local rains interfered with farming operations and also caused some local damage to crops and property. Crops and grasses made good growth, and continue in good to excellent condition generally.

Wheat and rye are filling out nicely, and are ripening rapidly. Oats continue to make good progress, and are now heading in southern counties.

Corn is an excellent stand, and its cultivation continues.

Early potatoes are now blooming, except in Western Maryland. Gardens and truck continue to do well.

Cutting of peas continues on the Eastern Shore and has begun in southern and north-central Maryland. Peas are blooming in Western Maryland.

Picking of strawberries is coming to a close on the Eastern Shore and continues in southern and north-central Maryland. Strawberries are ripening in Western Maryland.

A bulletin issued by John S. Dennee, Agricultural Statistician, College Park, Md., June 10, 1922, states: "About 1,265,000 bushels of apples are in prospect in Maryland, against 225,000 last season, and in Delaware about 599,000 bushels are forecast against 68,000 last year."

Keep the Mind Healthy.

If you would be healthy, look to your thoughts. The health stream, if polluted at all, is polluted at the fountainhead—in the thought, in the ideal. You cannot hold ill-health thoughts, disease thought in mind, without having them pictured in the body. The thought will be expressed in the body somewhere, and its quality will determine the results—sound or unsound, healthful or unhealthful. There can be no harmony, ease in the body with disease in the mind. Never affirm or repeat or think about your health what you do not wish to be true.—Exchange.

Sufficient Enlightenment.

"What do you understand by the term, 'an enlightened voter?'" "So far as I am concerned," said the chronic office seeker, "an enlightened voter is a constituent who shakes me fervently by the hand and tells me that if his vote will keep me in public life I'll never live to see the prefix 'ex' printed before my name."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Mystery of the Trees.

One of the most puzzling questions in botany is, "Why or how does water rise to the top of a tree?"

Various explanations of the phenomenon have been proposed, but none is regarded as altogether satisfactory. One investigator attacked the problem by means of interesting and novel experiments. For instance, he constructed an artificial tree of plaster of paris and found that water moved upward in it more than forty feet high. Yet he was unable to base any definite conclusion upon the results that he obtained. The water travels a large part of the way in a film, between bubbles on one side and the wall of the conducting vessel on the other. But the physical properties of the film are yet unknown.

Westminster Dining Room

AT 37 E. MAIN ST., WESTMINSTER, IS KNOWN AS "THE ALL AMERICAN RESTAURANT" AND IS HEADQUARTERS FOR PEOPLE FROM THE SURROUNDING TERRITORY WHEN IN WESTMINSTER—UNDER THE POPULAR DIRECTION OF MR. J. E. SMITH, WHO IS WELL KNOWN OVER THE COUNTY AND OFFERS THE PUBLIC THE MOST ACCOMMODATING SERVICE IN AMERICAN AND MARYLAND COOKING.

Can you beat it? Not anywhere in this part of the country. Yes, we mean this well known, above-mentioned restaurant. In traveling over the country you will find nothing in greater profusion than poor restaurants and cafes. This is why it is indeed refreshing to go to such an up-to-date establishment as this one. It is unsurpassed either in quality of food, attractiveness of surroundings or accommodation of service. When the proprietor went into business, it was with the idea that a good, modern cafe would be appreciated by the local and traveling public. That this principle was well founded is proven by the success he has attained. Here you will find everything pure and wholesome and deliciously appetizing. The service is equally satisfactory whether your order be large or small, and you will be made to feel that your trade is desired and appreciated by the management. There is not a more attractively furnished cafe in this part of the state than this one and there is no one that has attained a greater measure of popularity. There is none in which the service and cuisine are more pleasantly satisfactory.

The social and business life of this section of the state would not be complete without this famous restaurant which is a center for parties and a meeting place of autoists because of the excellent accommodations, the rare quality of the food and the most excellent service.

The proprietor and manager is a man who dispenses the most prodigal hospitality and there is nothing left undone to make you feel at home and that your presence is desired.

We are pleased in this review to compliment the proprietor upon the high character of the establishment which is rendering a much needed and highly appreciated service to the public, and to say that the people will always find there the delicacies of the season and a pleasant host. We commend this place to all our readers.

Harvey E. Tressler

With Modern Planing Mill At Kingsdale Features General Planing Mill Work—Make Anything To Order—Have One Of The Most Modernly Equipped Planing Mills In This Part Of The Country—Under The Direction Of Mr. Tressler, Himself, Who Is An Authority On This Class Of Work—Large Patronage Over The County—Large Supply Of Rough Lumber In Oak.

This part of the state has produced no one firm that has been more beneficial to its continued progress and development than this well known lumber and planing mill concern. It has been buzzing with activity in the relief of the housing shortage and thus has been a beneficial factor in the life of the community.

They have one of the most modernly equipped planing mills in this part of the country and in fact they have practically every piece of wood working machinery used in a furniture factory and more. The scope of their operation is of such a character that they are able to make most anything to specifications that could be desired in the building trade line.

The planing mill is in charge of an authority on interior work. In the making of sash, doors and all forms of mill work the greatest accuracy is practiced and they are able to get up anything you desire or will furnish you with both ideas and the goods. Their work has gone into some of the largest buildings in this part of the state.

Service is a feature of their yards. When you order whether in person or by phone you will find that you will get exactly what you order in good time and you will not be bothered by having to send it back or be inconvenienced in any way.

In making this review of our return to normalcy we desire to compliment the management of this institution upon the position the establishment occupies in the business world and to refer it to our readers when desiring to transact business with efficiency, courtesy and service.

AT WESTMINSTER IS THE DISTRIBUTOR IN THIS TERRITORY FOR THE FAMOUS SILENT NASH PASSENGER CARS AND TRUCKS—THEY ARE AUTHORITIES ON PLEASURE CARS AND TRANSPORTATION PROBLEMS. OPERATING A COMPLETE SERVICE DEPARTMENT THAT COVERS ALL FEATURES OF THE BUSINESS—CARS AND TRUCKS FOR IMMEDIATE DELIVERY—HAVE LARGEST LINE OF USED CARS IN THIS PART OF THE STATE—ALSO THE DISTRIBUTOR FOR THE FAMOUS DELCO FARM LIGHTING PLANTS.

This is one of the modern and up-to-date automobile establishments of this section and enjoys a large patronage.

The people of this section of the state have come to understand that this is one of the highly efficient automobile establishments of this part of the country and that it is operated by men who have had a wide and practical experience in the automobile business. They are the distributors for Nash cars and trucks. The Nash leaves nothing to be desired by the discriminating motor car purchaser. It is beyond question one of the most popular cars on the market combining mechanical efficiency with harmonious lines and distinctive appearance and has won the favor of thousands of pleased purchasers. One would assume that the Nash truck would above all else be dependable and those who have put this well known truck to the test have not been disappointed. It is designed for greatest efficiency and there is little wonder that it is in such great demand.

The Nash trucks are made to meet the demands of all classes of transportation and in sizes for the retail merchant, the farmer and heavy hauling. They are of the most correct design and are manufactured on a large scale that insures the customers of the best of service in all ways.

Performance is the final test of a truck's worth and the fact that such buyers as Morris & Company, The Standard Oil Company, The Palmolive Company and the American Steel Foundries are finding Nash trucks satisfactory should be unusually convincing.

They are representatives in this territory for the famous Delco-Light farm electric lighting plant. This is the wonderful product of some of the country's greatest scientific minds and is a compact light plant in itself, carrying as many lights as you desire and more than sufficient for either the large country estate or town residence. It also provides sufficient power to operate a water system—electric iron—runs the churn—cream separator or washing machine. This firm is the dealer for this well known product and is thoroughly conversant with every feature of the business. By consultation with them you can secure a plant for your home, your farm, your factory or your store which will provide at minimum cost the most efficient light and power service that could be desired.

We are glad in this edition to point with pride to the high standing and excellent reputation of efficiency that this firm has attained in the electrical world of this part of the state.

COMPILATION MADE REVEALS ENTERPRISE OF BUSINESS MEN, WHO MADE THIS ONE OF THE MOST PROGRESSIVE SUB-DIVISIONS OF THE GREATEST STATE IN THE UNION TODAY.

"Getting Back To Normalcy"

THIS SECTION IS MOST GENEROUSLY ENDOWED, LIVE BUSINESS MEN, BEAUTIFUL SCENERY AND FINANCIAL RESOURCES.

In Accord With The Spirit Of The Times

BUSINESS INTERESTS ARE FOUND ON THE EVE OF THE MOST EXTENSIVE TRADE IN THEIR CAREER.

Rich in soil, picturesque topography, well watered, with transportation facilities unsurpassed, Taneytown and vicinity can lay claim to the title, "The Garden Spot of Maryland." It lies in one of the greatest states in the Union, in a fertile section as is out of doors anywhere on earth, and its people are prosperous, happy and contented. The experiences of the pioneers who lighted civilization's first fires in this land and who hewed their home from the primeval forests that covered the country, have been the subjects of continued interest to all students of American history, through the many years that have elapsed since the landing of our forefathers.

With the enthusiastic aid and co-operation of our citizens, industries and business houses of this section we are sending a message of pluck, enterprise and achievement. It is our answer to the universal inquiry, the persistent question that is asked: "How is Taneytown and vicinity doing?"

Our motto is "Full Steam Ahead" and back of this motto, which is in practical effect, is the solid foundation of progress, with safety and conservation. Our county has great enthusiasm and great vision, but it has never in its splendid record of achievements deceived itself. Today it faces the future not by standing still, but by the inspiring spectacle of looking up and marching on, confident of power and strength, of the great ship of prosperity. An advancing army refuses to retreat. This section neither needs or wants any trenches, but a broad plain, beyond which is the great dawn of the rising sun of prosperity, progress and happiness. We are not alone seeking commercial success, material progress and financial solidity, but a great deal more. We seek civic beauty, safety and the best fields for the joy of living, the inspiration of helpfulness, the enthusiasm of an unselfish public service, and an unbounded and ever-increasing devotion to the public welfare.

Again, every department of civic and social life has kept step in the march of confidence and progress. The homes of the county are more beautiful than ever; the civic helpfulness and public spirit which have made the county famous are more active and better organized and more productive and more helpful than ever before.

We have everything that other progressive American communities have and more. It has a heart; a great pulsating organism, always keeping step, in fact a little in advance of the sordid material march to bigger things. It is the heart of ambition and enthusiasm that, like stirring music, inspires and quickens the step of the rank and file. This is one of the big reasons why she today, neither boastful nor assuming false modesty, proclaims her achievements, her powerful position, her respectful self-confidence, her pride in the structure that she has created in "The Garden Spot of Maryland," armed as she has been with a great faith, a strong arm and a vision both clear and true.

And this is not an idle question. Today it stands on the solid rock of conservative progress, perhaps stronger than any other community in this section of the United States. Our financial institutions have been pillars of strength and confidence, with a clean record from top to bottom through the smashing blows of financial depression and war. Can any section in the United States surpass our record?

In reviewing the business firms in this edition we desire to impress upon the public that they are strictly in accord with the times and are getting back to normalcy. Business men are down to the rock bottom in prices and thus are rendering the public the most efficient service. The business men of this community have been energetic in their efforts to give the public the benefit of low prices and did not wait for the prices to reach the bottom, but have anticipated conditions and placed their stocks at the disposal of the people at remarkable reductions.

In reading the "Normalcy Edition" we wish to direct your special attention to the news articles concerning the various business, professional and manufacturing concerns. These have been written by competent newspaper men who have endeavored in preparing the articles to impress upon the minds of the readers the value of the service and goods offered in the county. No man has written an article about himself or his business, and we wish to urge that you read these carefully.

While the publisher is of a rather philanthropic nature, the expense of this edition has been mostly paid by the business men and firms whose names appear, as paper, ink and all material used in the production of the edition compels the same publisher to adopt a rather semi-philanthropic course.

---note the columns of any newspaper. Are the advertising firms not the leading firms in their respective lines?

WITH MODERN FURNITURE AND UNDERTAKING ESTABLISHMENT AT LITTLESTOWN CONDUCT AN ESTABLISHMENT THAT HAS BEEN PROMINENT IN THE PROFESSIONAL LIFE OF THIS PART OF THE COUNTRY FOR 110 YEARS, FORMERLY CONDUCTED BY J. H. ELINE—HAVE MOST MODERN EQUIPMENT IN UNDERTAKING DEPARTMENT AND A LARGE TRADE IN THE STORE.

You can judge the progress of civilization in any community by the advancement that has been made in the care and respect for the deeds of the ones that have passed on. This institution has witnessed the marvelous advances that have been made in the science and profession of the embalmer and funeral director and thus are thoroughly up-to-date.

They have been called upon to conduct funeral services in many of the leading families in the county and the hundreds of funerals under their direction have been noted for the distinction of their marked professional ability and unusual attainments, giving the occasion that air of solemnity that according to our ideas of civilization should prevail in the time of sorrow.

Special aptitude for one's work is a prime requisite in the success of any business or profession.

Many years' experience in ministering to afflicted families—uninterrupted devotion to the care of the dead; the adoption of modern sanitary methods to protect the living and a thorough knowledge of disinfection have made the service ideal. They have expanded along lines of education and scientific service to the public. New springs of action, more comprehensive methods, higher ideals, have raised this model service to the dignity and respect which it commands today, and this new strength has come by the exercise of distinct functions under the stimulus of a conscious dignity and import and by the adaptation to the changing conditions and requirements of society.

When they first started in business they decided that the best would be none too good for their customers, and they have conducted their large establishment on this policy ever since. They are prepared to furnish your home complete, and their stock includes the moderate or the more expensive designs, whichever you desire. They can furnish you a setting of any period and their ability to fit you in the furniture line is only limited by the various styles turned out by the American manufacturer today. If you are contemplating the furnishing of a room complete or if it is only one or two pieces that you want you will be able to find the right thing here.

It is quite proper that in this edition we give prominent mention to this progressive professional firm and we wish to compliment them upon the success they have attained and the very commendable and satisfactory service that they are rendering to their increasing clientele.

With Farm Implement Establishment At Littlestown Is Headquarters For The Famous International Tractors And Farm Implements, a Line That Is Always To Be Reckoned With In The Selection Of Implements—Prices Of Tractors Greatly Reduced—Has A Large Patronage.

In this entire part of the state there is not an establishment that surpasses that of this well known dealer in point of the diversity of articles carried for the farmer. He handles farm implements of all kinds, farm machinery and farm supplies. During the time that he has been in business he has built a wonderfully large trade from this and adjoining counties and it is safe to assert that the name and business is probably better known among the farmers of this section of the state than that of any other similar establishment in the nearby towns and cities.

He is prepared for proper handling of the goods and the display of the stock to the advantage of their patrons. All the implements and supplies are of the latest pattern and include all of the most recently improved inventions and improvements. The stock is composed of goods of standard quality, brands of implements and farm machinery known throughout the world as the best on the market. Men are in charge who are courteous and accommodating and who will be pleased to demonstrate to any farmer who desires to drop into this favorite trading place and keep up on the late models of farm implements and supplies.

This is the day and age when it is the duty of every man to see that he gets a maximum return from every acre of his land, and in order to do this it is necessary that he use modern and scientific methods. This man has provided a line of the latest and most scientific farm implements and farm machinery for the farmers of this and adjoining counties and these are offered at prices so reasonable as to increase food production in this part of the country.

We wish to compliment them upon the valuable service which is being furnished the people of this community and to give them a place among those concerns in this section which are aiding in the progress and prosperity of this community.

WITH SALES AND SERVICE AT THE PALACE GARAGE AT WESTMINSTER IS THE DISTRIBUTOR FOR THE HUDSON AND ESSEX AUTOS AND OFFERS THE PUBLIC ALL THE NEW MODELS, INCLUDING THE FAMOUS ESSEX COACH WHICH WAS THE SENSATION OF THE AUTO SHOWS—THE HUDSON AND ESSEX HAVE THE BEST SERVICE STATIONS IN UNITED STATES AND CANADA AND THE PALACE GARAGE GIVES THE SAME HIGH CLASS SERVICE TWENTY-FOUR HOURS A DAY.

This is one of the modern and up-to-date sales organizations of this section of the state and it has won wide and well merited popularity. The fact that the proprietor is an automobile man of wide experience himself makes it a safe place to transact business.

The Hudson, which is one of the classiest cars manufactured today, represents the acme of modern automobile construction. With an enviable record as regards tire and gasoline mileage for a car in its class, also proper weight gives this popular car the lead in high class motor cars. Not only has this wonderful car triumphed on the speedway, but in the congested city, and upon the broad highway. It has at all times been the peer of its class. It is not a new automobile but has been manufactured for years and has withstood the competition and the severe tests of time. One of the greatest compliments that could be paid this car is the fact that it has many imitators in the various designs that have been pioneers and leaders. It is made in all models and will suit the needs of either business or pleasure.

The Essex is sensationally popular being a high class car in the various models and colors that is sold at a most reasonable price. In order to appreciate an Essex you must get a demonstration and ride in one.

The new models of the Hudson and Essex in the coach design are the sensations of the day, getting a closed car a small amount over the open car. They are meeting with the approval of the public and once more show the advanced coach building that has made this organization famous.

When he selected these cars to handle in this territory, he evidenced the fact that he knows the automobile business and is familiar with real true value in motor cars. They have become famous throughout the world. We are pleased to refer this establishment to all of our readers.

WITH MODERN CANNING FACTORY AT TANEYTOWN ARE AIDING IN THE PROGRESS OF DIVERSIFIED FARMING IN THE COUNTY BY FURNISHING THE FARMERS WITH AN EXCELLENT MARKET—THEY BRING MUCH TRADE ACTIVITY TO THE COUNTY—THEIR PRODUCTS ARE RECOGNIZED AS STANDARDS IN THE PACKING LINE.

There is no one industry more worthy of extended mention in this review than this well known institution. Under direction of men thoroughly conversant with every feature of the business it is not strange that it has become one of the most important industrial assets of the community.

The products of this factory are shipped to all parts of the country, bringing much trade activity to the community. Foreign money is thus brought into town, paid out in wages, deposited in the banks, spent with the merchants and finally finds its way into the pockets of the many.

By doing business in a progressive and straightforward manner, this firm has won the patronage and confidence of the surrounding country and are conspicuous figures in the commercial and industrial life of this section. The community is more prosperous and progressive by reason of their modern methods and superior products and we are pleased to have them with us.

By the obtaining the products to be canned here at home they offer an excellent market for the farmers where they can obtain the cash as soon as the products are delivered at the factory. They furnish employment for labor and thus are a great benefit to the community as all the money is left at home.

In making this review of the onward progress of this part of the country we are glad to call to the attention of the people the advantages accruing to the public by the location of this industry here, the high quality of the products and the commanding position they occupy in the packing world, excelling as they do in their especial field of endeavor.

WITH EXTENSIVE HARDWARE ESTABLISHMENT AT TANEYTOWN ARE KNOWN AS "LEADING HARDWARE DEALERS" AND FEATURE A MOST COMPLETE LINE OF SHELF HARDWARE, FARM SUPPLIES, COOKING UTENSILS, GARDEN SEEDS AND MANUFACTURE THE FAMOUS "REIN-O-LA" LINE OF POULTRY FEEDS—HAVE A LARGE PATR

This huge and commodious store is headquarters for all classes of hardware, modern cooking utensils and supplies of every description and farm supplies. So large is the stock and so comprehensive it draws trade for miles around.

It is comfortably housed in a very modern building where every convenience for the handling of the large stock has been provided both for the convenience of the force and the accommodation of the public. To convey an idea of the mammoth stock of this concern we might go on for a long time, and still omit some very important items. Suffice to say, however, that here you will find everything you would expect to find in a modern store and hundreds of other articles that we could not call to mind off-hand.

The hardware department includes a full line of shelf hardware, tools, cutlery, and those many little accessories that go to make up the stock of a modern hardware store.

Their builders' supply department also carries a large stock and is a most popular headquarters for contractors and all interested in building. The stock is of the highest quality and is offered at the most reasonable prices.

Their department for the manufacture of the famous "Rein-O-La" is running full time as the fame of these poultry feeds are spreading far and wide and many shipments are made to distant points.

One of the features of the service is the accommodating policy of the management. They are well read on all the latest phases of the business and stand ready and willing to give you any information you desire. They are courteous and ready to serve you in this manner and your asking of questions incurs no obligations.

The management is most progressive and prominent in the business world of the community and we wish to compliment them.

TOMMY KIT'S DREAM.

MRS. TABBY felt highly insulted one morning when she went into the barn and found five traps placed near holes where the mice lived. "The very idea," said Mrs. Tabby to her four kittens, "just as if I could not attend to this without these traps around."

"Children, I want you to pay strict attention to what I say, for you are now old enough to help, and it may be that I have given more time to playing with you than to my work. Now you must help. I want each of you to watch near one of these traps and when a mouse runs out of its home don't let him get into the trap—CATCH HIM."

After telling her children this, Mrs. Tabby sat down to watch near the fifth trap herself and soon all were so busy watching for a mouse that they forgot each other.

Tommy Kit, however, grew tired of watching and after staring hard a long time at the hole he was to watch he grew sleepy and, curling up on the floor, soon was fast asleep.

Tommy Kit had the mouse on his mind, though, and so he dreamed about mice, and in his dream he thought two fat mice ran out of the hole he was set to watch. Up jumped Tommy Kit and pounced upon them, catching a mouse in each paw.

"I guess none of the others will be as smart as I am," dreamed Tommy Kit. "I'll run right off to mother and show her what a smart son she has."

"CLICK!" Tommy Kit opened his eyes and there in the trap was a mouse, and at the sound his brothers and mother turned and looked. Tommy felt very much ashamed, for there was not a mouse in the other four traps.

"Why did you let him get past you?" scolded his mother. "Your brothers have each caught one. I am ashamed that a child of mine should be so stupid."

"But I did catch two," said Tommy Kit, not quite sure he had dreamed it. "I had one in each paw when the trap clicked. I could not catch three, mother, now could I, for I have only two front paws?"

"Two mice at the same time!" exclaimed his mother.

Tommy Kit was now wide awake. "I—I guess I dreamed it," he said. "I dreamed I caught two mice, one in each paw, and I was just going to show them to you when the trap clicked."

Mrs. Tabby quickly boxed her son on the ear. "You fell asleep, did you?" she said. "Now you sit here and catch two mice before you get a drop of milk."

Off trotted Mrs. Tabby with her other children, while Tommy sat sadly watching the hole. Out ran three mice and Tommy ran after them. He caught one and then seeing the other hiding behind a barrel he quickly went after that, while a third was so frightened he ran right into the trap. "I could not help it mother," exclaimed Tommy Kit, as he proudly displayed the mice.

"That is all traps are good for," said Mrs. Tabby, "to catch the third mouse while you are chasing two, and now you children must catch two mice and drive the third into a trap. We will soon clear this place and be rid of these insulting traps as well."

But it was not long before all the kittens were sprawled out in the sun fast asleep, for they had cleared the mice from the barn; but Tommy, if he had any more dreams, did not tell them to his mother.

LADY IN THE MOON

EVELYN B. HAMPDEN.

© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

One month had elapsed since Aunt Cynthia's favorite nephew had come to live in her attractive home.

The apartment house in which she dwelt was a duplicate of those on either side, so it happened that when rushing forth to catch a car one morning Oliver collided with a girl turning to hurry up the step.

"I beg your pardon," he ejaculated. For an instant he looked into a pair of laughing eyes, then the girl vanished. Oliver gazed at the door which had closed behind her, while his car with clanging bell rolled past.

"The Fair Unknown," as Oliver dubbed her, was most elusive, and cautious inquiry of his aunt failed to elicit any information except that the people were strangers.

Nevertheless the fates were kind to him. Occasionally the familiar garnet suit was observed at a distance; various times he saw it disappear into the neighboring doorway and once he actually met "The Fair Unknown" face to face.

A swift glance of amused recollection was all he got, but Oliver was satisfied.

"She remembers me at any rate," he chuckled, and decided to risk a casual hint which, dropped for Aunt Cynthia's benefit, might hasten the call she intended to make some time.

This plan was unnecessary, however, for his aunt greeted him with, "I've called on our new neighbors."

"New neighbors," scoffed male impudence, "you said they had been here two months."

"Fine people; very old family," Oliver, wisely refraining from comment, picked up the newspaper.

"Listen to this," he began, "partial eclipse of moon tonight. Good opportunity to view the lady in the moon."

"Here's where your humble servant hies roofward this very night to hunt for that lunar goddess."

"Haven't you ever found her?" inquired his aunt.

"Found her? Bless me, I've never looked for her. Most people talk of a man in the moon, you know. How does this female look?"

"She has a lovely face," replied Aunt Cynthia, rising to answer the 'phone.

Later, Oliver, armed with a pair of field glasses, was wandering about on the flat roof of the building he called home.

Turning to examine the structure on his left, he noticed a shaft of light streaming before him. He wheeled about, raising the glasses as he did so, and saw, not the anticipated full moon, but a feminine form silhouetted against that luminary. She also held a pair of glasses to her eyes and was peering down at him from the height above.

A minute of tense silence ensued, then Oliver shattered the spell.

"I say," he drawled, lowering his glasses, "are you the lady in the moon?"

A silvery peal of laughter answered. "I say," queried a tantalizing voice from the opposite roof, "are you the man in the moon?"

This time the laugh was deep-throated and masculine and a voice matching it begged: "Please, may I come over? We seem to be kindred spirits."

"Or kindred owls," came twinkling across the intervening space.

Oliver waited. Presently she spoke, her tone this time suggesting hesitation.

"I think you may come over a moment," she deliberated, "if you can get here."

Soon they were chatting easily.

The night was clear, with a delicious tingle in the atmosphere, and although the stars blinked their astonishment and the moon beamed understandingly, the nocturnal tete-a-tete continued.

Finally, the girl exclaimed in surprise:

"The eclipse!" she cried. "Look, the moon is half covered; only the lady is visible!"

Oliver looked and saw clearly the luminous face.

"Queer I never discovered that sooner," he marvelled. "How plain it is!"

His companion moved toward the horizontal trap door.

"Must you go?" he protested, following.

"Yes, my mother will be wondering if I have fallen off the roof."

Oliver lifted the door.

"When and where can we get properly introduced?"

"Well, mother expects to return your aunt's call soon, and—"

"Yes."

She was half way down the stairs.

"Real soon?" urged Oliver.

Another merry "Yes" was her reply. When about to close the trap he suddenly stooped.

"Say," he called, "what's your name?"

"Juliet," came laughingly from below.

Shortly afterward he entered his aunt's living room.

"What luck?" smiled that amiable lady. "Did you find your moon girl?"

"I sure did," was the jubilant response. "She's a dear!"

To avoid further questions, which might prove embarrassing, he placed the glasses on the table and turned to leave the room.

"Most people look for the man, you know," Aunt Cynthia teased.

"Yes, and sometimes they find him, too," grinned six feet of nephew from the doorway.

THE ARM CHAIR.

"I can't help thinking," said the Arm Chair, "that people are very lazy. I could write a verse about it and my verse would be like this:

"Folks are very lazy, the old arm chair thinks so, They're always resting, always sitting and never want to go. They say how tired they're feeling and they lean against me too, I should really think they'd sometimes have something else to do."

"But they do a great deal else," said the Desk Chair. "When they sit upon me they are always working. They're writing letters or paying bills or doing lessons or something or other. When they sit back in you they aren't supposed to be working. They are supposed to be resting."

"It seems to me they do a great deal of it," said the Arm Chair.

"I think people are lazy too," said the Couch. "I really agree with the Arm Chair. 'People are always lolling about. They are always resting.'"

"I agree with the Desk Chair," said the Straight Back Chair by the table. "People come in turn and sit upon me and they are always working here at the table in some way or other."

"Of course," said the Table, "they're always working. They have their sewing, their mending, their lessons, their work to do. Sometimes they read, of course, and while reading isn't work, it isn't laziness."

"It's something very pleasant to do, very pleasant indeed! But they're not lazy."

"I don't think they're lazy, either," said the Table Lamp. "I'm lighted every evening and people gather about me and they are all doing different things and they're not lazy at all."

"I don't think they're lazy," said the Pen Holder.

"Neither do I," said the Pencil. "I don't think so at all."

"I think they're lazy," said a Sofa Cushion.

"So do I," said another Sofa Cushion. "I most certainly think they are!"

"I agree with the Arm Chair," said a Footstool. "I think people are lazy."

"You are all talking very absurdly," said a little Browline "who came into the room."

"Some of you think the people are lazy and some of you don't. But none of you seem to realize that when the people are resting they are resting after work which they have done, and that they must rest too.

"It doesn't mean that people are lazy because they like you, Arm Chair."

"It doesn't mean that they are lazy because they like you, Couch."

"It doesn't mean that they are lazy because they like either of you two Sofa Cushions."

"It doesn't mean that they are lazy because of any of you. They like to have you help them rest, that is all."

"So you mustn't start talking in this way, for it's not right at all."

"The Fire-Place doesn't think people are lazy because on the cool days they gather about the Fire-Place."

"That shows that the Fire-Place has good sense."

"The Fire likes to burn brightly for the people and allows the Fire-Place to come and play in it and have their games and their frolics and their good times and the people can watch the fires playing."

"The people don't know just what the-fairies are doing, and whether the Blue Flame Fairies are giving the ball for the Red Flame Fairies or whether it is the other way around, but they know that they're having a good time and that the Fire and the Fire-Place is glad to give them a good time and have them enjoy themselves."

"You're getting to be a regular old gossip, Couch. And so are you two Sofa Cushions. And so are you, Arm Chair. You are trying to make out that people are lazy just because you want to talk and because you've never done anything at all in your furniture lives and are spending your time idly talking about people."

"You're not supposed to do anything hard, but do not give way to the bad habit of talking about people simply because you have nothing to do. If you do that, the Brownies will have to come and change you into Kitchen Stoves and Radiators so you will have to do some real work."

"I'm sorry," said the Arm Chair, "I really wasn't nice at all, for I started the whole talk."

J. Elmer Myers

WITH HEADQUARTERS AT WEST MINSTER IS AN EXTENSIVE BUYER OF ALL KINDS OF LIVE STOCK, PAYING THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICES—MR. MYERS IS AN AUTHORITY ON STOCK RAISING AND WILL GLADLY GIVE ALL INFORMATION AS TO WHAT TO RAISE TO MAKE THE MOST MONEY—C. & P. PHONE 824-F6—MARKET QUOTATIONS AT ANY TIME.

Mr. J. Elmer Myers has materially aided in the development of this section of the state and has especially been instrumental in aiding the progress of diversified farming in this community.

He furnishes the farmer with a most advantageous market for live stock of all kinds and therefore operates an institution of great economical value to the public. His prices are far more favorable than would be secured by the people if they had to ship elsewhere for it is a well known fact that this man pays the top of the market at all times.

One of the recognized principles of farming along scientific lines today is the raising of all kinds of live stock. It is because of the excellent service and the desirable market afforded by such houses as that operated by this well known dealer that this feature is receiving more attention from the farmer of today and progress along this line is particularly noticeable in this community.

where the producer knows that he will receive the highest price for his live stock.

Another feature of the very satisfactory service of this popular house is the courtesy and accommodation which marks his dealings with the farmer. The establishment is under the direction of a conscientious and competent business man and he has associated with him only such assistants as he can depend upon to render the most courteous and magnanimous service. He is always ready and willing to give you the latest quotations and those wishing to market their stock to the best advantage will do well to get in touch with this well known house.

We are pleased to compliment him and to give him in this review the prominent position that his progressive and reliable policies have merited. We assure our readers that at this establishment they will receive the best of treatment and the highest market prices.

Rosenstock's Popular Priced Store

CONDUCTS AT 6 WEST MAIN ST., WESTMINSTER, WHAT IS KNOWN AS "THE POPULAR PRICED STORE," BEING ONE OF THE POPULAR MERCHANDISE ESTABLISHMENTS OF THE COUNTY, FEATURING THE LATEST FABRICS IN DRY GOODS, MEN'S, WOMEN'S AND CHILDREN'S SHOES, MEN'S AND BOYS' CLOTHING AND FLOOR COVERINGS—UNDER THE DIRECTION OF MERCHANTS WHO ARE THOROUGHLY ABREAST OF THE TIMES.

It is with a feeling of satisfaction that the customers enter this well known establishment. Realizing that the service and quality extended this year will be considered when the next season approaches, this well known house has chosen its stock with a view to giving its customers the greatest value possible. When it comes to ready-made clothing they have lines which are so complete as to styles, cloth and prices that the most particular can find something suitable. But the success of a dealer in this line rests not alone with the price which he pays for his garments. He must be an efficient buyer, well versed in the styles of the day and with a knowledge of the demands of his customers. It is this feature of the trade that has made this store so popular with the young men of this section.

This establishment has been honored by being selected as the home of high class ready-to-wear clothing. This famous line of ready-to-wear has been for years recognized over the country as one of the standard lines of the day. Their garments are made of excellent materials, correctly tailored and have that pep and dash that gives the wearer the cast of a gentleman.

The shoe department is one of the features of the store and here you will find this famous line of shoes, which are known the country over. They carry a full line and are able to give all styles and models.

In the way of dry goods they carry a complete line of staple dry goods that is very complete and is priced to meet the demands of the day.

They maintain a large department for rugs, carpets and draperies in charge of an expert who can give you excellent ideas upon selections in this line that will aid in harmonious room settings.

It has always been the endeavor of this store to secure a fair and honest profit, but their business principles never permit an exorbitant one. They have provided the trade with a line of representative goods, a stock in which you can have every confidence and articles of dress that renders the character of your attire individual. They offer at most reasonable prices and when the quality of the material is considered we will say that they are extremely low in prices.

The management are well known and prominent men and have always aided in booming the home interests. They are well known in every corner of the county as progressive business men and authorities upon men's wear.

WITH OFFICES AT E. MAIN ST., WESTMINSTER, ARE FUNERAL DIRECTORS OF DISTINCTION AND RENOWN, WHO HAVE A COMPLETE MOTOR EQUIPMENT AND OFFER THE PUBLIC THE MOST MODERN SERVICE—ARE CALLED MANY MILES FROM HIS HOME CITY.

It is eminently fitting in this review that we devote conspicuous space to the well merited tribute to the efficient and conscientious work that has won for this well known professional firm a prominent place as one of the most modern funeral directors in this section. There is no vocation requiring for its successful prosecution a greater natural aptitude than that of the modern funeral director, and this particularly applies to this well known representative of this valued profession. Through untiring efforts and commendable methods they have progressed from a modest beginning until today they possess a clientele that extends over many miles of territory.

As is generally known they are recognized as among the most proficient and conscientious firms in this line in this section and this distinction is well merited as the excellent service that they have rendered in the practice of their profession will testify. It may be truly said that no one in this section engaged in the arduous profession of which they are able exponents have given their profession closer study or is better equipped from every standpoint to carry out all of the work attendant upon their calling. They have been for years one of the most progressive funeral directing firms in this vicinity and consequently they have a large clientele.

It is needless to say that they have prepared to serve the people with excellent and satisfactory equipment. Their parlors and outside equipment are distinctively metropolitan. They are very conscientious members of their profession.

It is eminently fitting in this comprehensive review of our prosperity to give due mention to the activities of this concern, for it is one of the best conducted and most substantial enterprises of the county.

Dr. E. C. Royer

WITH OFFICES AT 7 PARK AVE., WESTMINSTER, ON TUESDAYS AND SATURDAYS IS ONE OF THE PROMINENT PROFESSIONAL MEN OF THIS SECTION WHOSE WORK AS A DOCTOR OF CHIROPRACTIC HAS WON A LARGE CLIENTELE—ONE OF THE WELL KNOWN AND HIGHLY REGARDED PROFESSIONAL MEN OF THIS SECTION OF MARYLAND WITH EXCELLENT PROFESSIONAL & GENERAL EDUCATION AND HAS A LARGE CLIENTELE.

Science has progressed perhaps more rapidly during the last decade than in any previous period of the world's history, and one of the sciences that has been brought to a high degree of perfection is that science and art of chiropractic.

We are fortunately represented in this profession here in this county by this well known chiropractor who is a close student of the times, and during the term of service in the profession has kept thoroughly abreast of the times by reading, study and wide research.

He is a graduate of a well known college of chiropractic, one of the best schools in the profession.

He has received a general and special education, preparing to a marked degree for the work that the profession embraces.

The principle of chiropractic is to remove the cause. When that is removed the effect is automatically removed. It does not depend upon guess work or uncertain experimenting.

Your health depends upon whether the vertebrae of the spine is pressing on nerves and shutting off their forces.

People from all over this section come for consultation and have chiropractic spinal adjustments made that invariably result in a very beneficial manner. These people are of high standing in the communities in which they live and in this edition we are glad to compliment him upon the excellent standing he has attained in the profession and upon the high character of his work.

Littlestown National Bank

AT LITTLESTOWN OCCUPY THEIR OWN HOME WHICH IS ONE OF THE FINEST BANKING HOUSES IN THIS PART OF THE COUNTRY AND HAS GREATLY AIDED IN THE PROGRESS OF THE COMMUNITY BY THE FURNISHING OF A MOST COMPREHENSIVE BANKING SERVICE—UNDER THE DIRECTION OF MEN OF BROAD FINANCIAL ABILITY.

One of the best and most reliable banks in the community is this well known institution, and it is a striking example of substantial and conservative progress. Its officers have been many years in the service of the people in local financial matters, being most efficient bankers in point of service in the county, and the wide experience thus gained has added to the growth of the community and to the attractiveness of its service to the people.

Familiar with the needs and demands of the general public in this section of the country by reason of their long identification with the banking activities of the county, it is not strange that the institution which they head has become one of the most popular of the reliable and conservative financial depositories of this section.

This institution is a United States, state, county and city depository, showing in what esteem it is held by the various officers and its thousands of depositors show its popularity with the general public.

This bank is also a member of the Federal Reserve.

A general banking business is transacted and money is loaned at reasonable rate on the proper collateral. All classes of accounts are solicited and proper treatment is assured all, rich and poor alike.

It is comfortably housed and convenient and arranged for the safe guarding of the moneys. Taken all in all it is an institution in which the people have felt at home for many years and to which they have pointed with pride.

At the head of the Littlestown National Bank are: Geo. S. Kump, president, and W. R. Jones, vice president and cashier.

We are pleased to compliment them and direct our readers attention to this bank as one of the features of the community's financial efficiency.

Fisher Motor Co.

At Westminster Conducts A Modern Automobile Institution And Handles The Famous Fordson Tractor, The Best There Is On The Market, And A Tractor That Is Being Used As A Standard Throughout The Nation—Home Of The Ford Car And Truck And Maintaining An Excellent Garage And Is The Headquarters For Genuine Ford Supplies, Oils, Gasoline, Accessories And Storage.

In the return to normalcy there is no one institution in the county that contributed more as an important factor than this well known automobile house. Placing the prices of their cars at below the lowest price ever recorded on these products they are meeting with the approval of the public and have a patronage that is ever increasing.

The Ford products including the touring car, the closed car, the roadster, the commercial car and the famous Fordson tractor have proven their worth by years of continuous use. The public does not continue to purchase year after year products that are not value received. These products have answered the test of time and their great popularity has grown. What would our country be placed then far in the van of progress without these products? Take them out of service tonight and it would be as great a calamity to the community as the railroads to stop running. Take the tractor off the farms and food production would decrease to an appreciable extent.

In the way of parts you will find that this auto sales has every part for all the cars, trucks and tractors and thus are able to render complete service. These are genuine Ford parts from the manufacturer and not the cheap and worthless imitations that cause trouble by not being accurate and the give the purchaser no end of trouble.

When it comes to the Ford service and machine shop at this establishment they have followed the advice of the factory and have installed every piece of machinery necessary for the complete rebuilding of the Ford, commercial car and tractor and in their employ are mechanics and auto engineers who understand every detail of the construction and mechanism of the Ford line. They will not only give you painstaking and accurate service, but are prepared to give you quick and rapid service which is so essential in this age of rapid transit.

In making this review of the return to normalcy there is no one institution that is more worthy of extended mention and we desire to call the attention of our readers to the reduction in prices to rock bottom, the excellent service and the necessity of placing the order

BY ACCIDENT.

"Thank goodness," said President D. R. Motion of Tuskegee, "the German government has got rid of Secretary Solf! Solf was a member of the old regime, and the old regime never told the truth except by accident."

"Solf and his gang remind me of Mrs. Malapropos. Mrs. Malapropos came out of the picture theater dressed in her best, the other afternoon, to find it raining cats and dogs. 'She had no umbrella, and, as she set off for home in the downpour, she exclaimed: 'Pshaw, how irritating this is!'"

Extremes Meet.

Friend—The newspaper critics certainly gave your new play the frosty mitt.

Playwright—Yes, but the audience gave it a warm reception.

Friend—Is that so?

Playwright—It is. They roasted it so fiercely during the third act we had to run down the asbestos curtain.

His Errand.

"Just heard of a man who returned to his wife after an absence of twenty years."

"What excuse did he give for staying away all that time?"

"Said he couldn't get the sample matched."

Had All the Varieties.

Dinks—I heard that you had a piece of each of the fifteen kinds of pie at the Thanksgiving feast?

Winks—Very likely I did. I know that now I'm having about fifteen different kinds of indigestion.

Cityman—How many servants do you keep?
Suburbanite—About one out of twelve.

WHY

Women Preachers Want More Women Preachers.

When its doctrines are expounded by women preachers men will be more eager to attend church, according to Miss M. Madeline Southard, president to the International Association of Women Preachers. Speaking at the convention of the association at the Jackson Boulevard Christian church, Chicago, Miss Southard accused men preachers of "feminizing the church." She gave Frances Willard as her authority for the claim that women preachers were needed to interest men in the work of the church.

"One still hears occasionally that the ordination of women will feminize the church," said Miss Southard. "But that is impossible, for a men-monopoly of the pulpit has already accomplished it."

"Frances Willard said, concerning this, 'Men have been preaching for 2,000 years and a large majority of the converts have been women. Suppose that women should share the preaching power, might it not be reasonably supposed that the majority of the converts under their administration would be men?'"

"We women who preach invite a comparison of the number of strong, thoughtful men in our audiences with the number found in the average audience."

Miss Southard quoted from St. Peter, Paul, and Luke as authorizing women to preach and to prophesy. She declared that men sought to bar women from the pulpit for selfish reasons.

"Men, even clergymen, never get excited when women scrub their office floors or wash their soiled clothes for a livelihood," she said. "It is only when women approach the more remunerative or more desirable vocations that lively fears of the disruption of the home are expressed."

"Since the preacher's quest is the discovery and the development of personality, women's training has preeminently fitted her for it. Through the ages man was busy with wars and the hunt of material and commercial values, while the woman was consigned all developing human personalities through the most critical years. This child-care has peculiarly fitted her, when educated along all lines, to understand and deal with the grown-up children of church and community."

AIN'T NATURE JUST GRAND?

Why the Sky Is Blue and Fish Make No Noise Going Through Water.

Why is the sky blue? Not one person in a hundred could give a satisfactory answer to the question. And yet the explanation, as given by Prof. W. H. Bragg, at the Royal Institution, is quite simple.

The blue sky, he explained, is due to the interception by particles in the atmosphere of the blue rays which form a part of the white light of the sun. The parts of white light conveyed by longer red and yellow light waves manage to jump the many substances in the atmosphere and are seen only at sunrise and sunset.

The professor illustrated his meaning by showing a disk of light on the screen which, passing through a bowl of water, became gradually redder as the water got cloudier, till at last, after an imitation of the sun in a November fog, it faded away.

Professor Bragg has also revealed some of the mysteries of sound. If you put a stick in a revolving bowl of water, it sets up little whirlpools behind it. In the same way, the wind rushing past trees forms whirlwinds on a small scale, and these cause those sounds so admirably described by the imitative word "soughing." Similar sounds are set up by telegraph wires.

Why is it that fishes make no disturbance when swimming through the water, although there is a rushing noise when a stone is flung in?

This is explained by the fact that in the latter case, it is the filling of the cavity that is made, rather than the mere impact, which causes the noise, whereas the body of the fish is so shaped that when it moves through the water it leaves no such cavity behind it and therefore there is no disturbance.

Why "Red Sea."

The Red sea is really red in spots—the color being due to the prevalence of a minute bright red plant, a kind of seaweed. This plant is said to be so small that 25,000,000 can live and thrive within a single cubic inch of water. Therefore, instead of being mottled with red, the sea appears in many cases to be scarlet in shade. A red dye, which tradition says was used hundreds of years ago, is made from this weed, but, in the places where it is not found, the waters of the Red sea are as blue or green as those of any other body of water.

Why Dogs Bark.

It is a curious fact that dogs bark only when they are in association with man. The dog in a state of nature merely growls, howls, or whines. Possibly the act of barking is a dog's attempt at speech; it would certainly seem like it sometimes; as, for instance, when a pet dog sees you carrying food, he will bark as his way of asking for some.

Another dog, which is in the habit of going to bed at sundown, will bark to tell you he is ready when the time comes.

James M. Stoner

WITH RESIDENCE PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE ON LITTLESTOWN PIKE, WESTMINSTER, IS A FUNERAL DIRECTOR WHO OFFERS QUALITY, ECONOMY AND SERVICE, DAY OR NIGHT AND HAS THE BEST OF AUTO EQUIPMENT—A PROFESSIONAL MAN WHO IS CALLED MANY MILES FROM HIS HOME CITY.

In all the professions there are men who stand preeminently at the front because of their inherent natural ability combined with a thorough knowledge of the profession in which they are engaged and their ability to study each individual attainment and give it a touch that is not "just ordinary." Such is the position of this well known funeral director in the professional world of this part of the nation.

It is needless to say that he has prepared himself in the most approved and modern manner with auto funeral equipment and today is at the head of one of the most modern and reliable undertaking establishments in this section of the county.

During the time that he has been identified with the professional life of the community he has kept in touch with all that is new and progressive not only in the way of equipment, but is thoroughly abreast of the times relative to the latest scientific ideas on embalming. Through professional work of the highest order he has merited the success he has achieved, for, as is generally known, he has conducted some of the largest funerals of this section of the state most satisfactorily and conscientiously. Courteous and efficient to a marked degree, he has won the confidence and heartfelt commendation of many clients who have found great satisfaction in being relieved of the many troublesome and vexatious details in the time of sorrow, by reason of his comprehensive and diplomatic service.

We wish, in attempting to set forth most pertinent features of our on-ward progress, to give prominent mention to the modern equipment and admirable work which has won for this well known and time tried funeral director the prominent position which he has merited and to compliment him as a professional and business man who is thoroughly abreast of the times.

Westminster Electric Co.

WITH MODERN ELECTRICAL STORE AT 30 W. MAIN ST., WESTMINSTER, ARE RELIEVING THE LADIES OF THE SURROUNDING TERRITORY OF MUCH OF THE DRUDGERY OF HOUSEWORK BY FURNISHING A COMPLETE LINE OF THE LATEST WESTERN ELECTRIC APPLIANCES—HAVE AN EXCELLENT CONTRACT DEPARTMENT—LET THEM HELP YOU WITH YOUR PLANS AND THEY WILL ADD THE MANY LITTLE CONVENIENCES THAT MAKE LIFE WORTH WHILE.

This modern house is doing quite a bit towards the modernization of the homes of the country, being prepared to render complete service in the way of modern washing and ironing machines and vacuum cleaners and carry a large assortment from which to choose. They specialize in this branch of the service and the proprietor is an authority on the latest improvements in these lines and any lady who desires to modernize her home should consult with them.

In this establishment you will find a complete stock of up-to-date electrical fixtures. They carry a line of everything used in this work, and also a large stock of appliances that are saving both of time, expense and labor.

The contracting department is one of the features of the modernization of the county, they being prepared to estimate and furnish plans as well as to put a large force of competent men on the job and finish the work with the specifications as well as conforming to all laws and the rules of the underwriters so that it will pass inspection and be fire proof. Those of our readers who desire work of this nature executed should avail themselves of the services of this firm, and at all times we can assure them of reliable work, while the charges are always right. We compliment them upon the well merited progress and the increasing patronage.

It is the popular and efficient house which handles standard products. The manager is one of the progressive and well known business men of the community and a steady booster for all things that promise public improvement.

We are glad to congratulate them upon their great success and believe that the people should consult them upon the various phases of the work their institution embraces.

The Palace Garage

AT 60 AND 64 E. MAIN ST., WESTMINSTER IS UNDER THE ABLE DIRECTION OF THE HARBAUGH SONS, H. V. AND E. W. HARBAUGH, WHO FEATURE STORAGE, REPAIRING AND ACCESSORIES AND ARE THE SALES AND SERVICE FOR THE HUPMOBILE, "THE FAMILY CAR," AND THE DODGE BROS. MOTOR CARS—THEY HAVE ALL MODELS FOR DELIVERY AT PRICES THAT DENOTE REAL AND TRUE VALUE—TWENTY-FOUR HOUR SERVICE.

Here is a well known garage handling well known cars, evidencing the fact that they know the automobile business and real auto values and all so proving that the manufacturer of the cars knows a live and progressive local representative.

Dodge Brothers Motor Cars are known throughout the world and have won fame and well merited praise in many lands. This car has been officially recognized by Uncle Sam, it being the only car of its size and type so recognized by the government as the official government car. The war is over now and Dodge Brothers Motor Cars return with an enviable record and no need of any comment from us.

The Dodge truck is of the best and gives excellent satisfaction. If you are thinking of a truck be sure and get a demonstration of the Dodge. It has proven its efficiency for all classes of work, both for commercial, industrial and farm purposes.

In the famous Hupmobile is offering a car at a reasonable price a motor car that has been described by thousands of enthusiastic purchasers as "The Car Superior." But this by no means tells you all about this car. One of the most desirable features of this popular four cylinder car is the fact that there is no other automobile on the market that has triumphed over it in hill climbing contests.

In the very complete repair department they employ only able and efficient workmen and these machinists are furnished with the latest and most scientific modern machinery for the repairing and complete rebuilding of cars. No matter what may be wrong with your car they are prepared to take care of it and turn it out in first class shape.

The management has proven their knowledge of the business by their selection and we might add that their service is on a par with the quality of the cars they offer.

An English rider, coming to a river he was unfamiliar with, asked a youngster he saw playing on the bank if it was deep. "No," replied the boy, and the rider started to cross, but soon found that he and his horse had to swim for their lives.

When finally he reached the other side he turned and shouted, "I thought you said it wasn't deep."

"It aren't," was the reply. "It only takes granddaddy's ducks up to their middles."

The Fettle Chemical Co.

AT EMMITSBURG TRANSACT AN EXTENSIVE BUSINESS OVER THE COUNTRY, THEIR PRODUCT "FETTLE" BEING MANUFACTURED BY ONE OF THE LARGEST MANUFACTURING CHEMISTS IN THE UNITED STATES AND IS USED IN HOSPITALS, SANITARIUMS AND INSTITUTIONS OVER THE WORLD—A PRODUCT THAT IS BRINGING RELIEF TO THOUSANDS AND MUCH TRADE ACTIVITY TO EMMITSBURG AND SURROUNDING TERRITORY.

The Fettle Chemical Co. of Emmitsburg is an institution that is rapidly spreading out, its product, "Fettle," going to all parts of the country and has become recognized as a standard by physicians and the people generally.

The prescription for "Fettle" was the result of wide research on the part of an able physician, who during the course of his practice treated many cases of stomach disorders and gave much study to the subject. After much preparation he wrote this prescription which has been used so widely and had given such beneficial results.

"Fettle" is an ethical and efficacious medicinal preparation that stops indigestion, counteracts stomach disorders, relieves distress occasioned by over-eating, creates a healthy appetite, and promotes gastric secretion, relieves sick headache, overcomes dizziness, hiccoughs, car and sea sickness and stops cramps.

The efforts of The Fettle Chemical Co. have been devoted to the placing of this prescription before the public. Otherwise it might have remained a secret and the world would not have received the great benefits that have been derived. With the carrying on of this important work they have earned for themselves that well merited commercial success that is due any institution that renders a great service to humanity.

In making this review of our progress we are glad to compliment The Fettle Chemical Co. upon the leading position they occupy in the business world and call the attention of our readers to the remarkable strides they are making.

Cecil C. Rotering

WITH STORE AT EMMITSBURG HAS AN EXTENSIVE TRADE IN DRY GOODS, NOTIONS, LINENS, SILKS, WOMEN'S AND CHILDREN'S READY-TO-WEAR AND SPECIALTIES AND CARRIES STANDARD LINES OF GOODS WHICH INSURE THE PUBLIC GOOD QUALITY AT REASONABLE PRICES—MR. ROTERING IS A MERCHANT OF UNUSUAL ABILITY WHO ENJOYS A LARGE PATRONAGE.

In making this review we wish to direct your special attention to this well known firm which has taken out insurance against the possibility of furnishing any of its patrons with other than the very best grade of goods on the market today. The public has come to understand that at this establishment they can not only secure the latest in style, but the highest in quality for it handles representative stock, goods of national reputation and therefore their patrons know that they can get the same quality right here that could be secured anywhere and at the same price.

Here you will find famous standard goods of which the names are household words throughout the country. Every patron of this store is assured of standard quality, exclusive style and a price consistent with the conditions of the market and standard whether you buy in this store or in the foremost establishment of the world's greatest metropolis.

The maker of advertised, trademarked goods must toe the quality line. He alone is responsible for the fit and wear of his product. He knows it, and he knows that everybody else knows. He could not recede from the standard he has set himself, even if he did, his business would recede as well.

This store sells standard, "advertised" goods of known quality. And therefore it is not surprising that this large establishment is one of the features of the commercial efficiency of this section of the country. The management is of the progressive business men and among the prominent citizens of the county. In this normalcy edition we are pleased to compliment them and to suggest to our readers that this establishment is a most desirable panacea for the merchandising ills of the day.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

IN THE ZOO.

"Not only," said the Buffalo Leader, "are there real buffaloes in this zoo, but in this park there are statues of buffaloes."

"Statues are made to look like real people who have been famous, and so when they have statues of buffaloes it means that buffaloes have been famous."

"They have these statues near our part of the park, too."

"They have statues of us," said the Lion.

"Some of them are outside of our building," said the Lioness.

"There are at least two there," added the Lion. "Roar, roar, there are at least two."

"How many animals there are in the park," said the Rocky Mountain Sheep. "Yes, this is a big zoo park, a very big zoo park. And it is so beautiful, too."

"There are members of the Zebra family and of the different Deer families here, and some of the Japanese Deer family. Old Mr. Hippo and his brother is here."

"There are two fine big Bactrian Camels here. They are proud, indeed, of their two humps. Each one has two humps. And they say that is the way of their family."

"There are Mute Swans and Trumpeters, and they have a beautiful time swimming about among the leaves in the water. The leaves are beginning to fall, you see," ended the Rocky Mountain Sheep.

"I see," said his mate. "The leaves are beginning to fall because it is fall," she added. "That's a joke."

"Oh, very well," said his mate. "I'll think up a better joke next time. What other animals are here in this park zoo?"

"There are many turtles and crocodiles, giraffes and oh, so many, many buffaloes."

"There are plants and trees, too, of interest in the park."

"I heard some people in the zoo talk of a sight-seeing trip they had taken and they had gone out into the country to see some of the wonderful old sights about. And they had seen chickens and hens wherever they had gone!"

"There is the Orang-Utan in the zoo who is a great favorite. The children love him. He came from Borneo, which is many, many miles away, across an ocean or so, and all that sort of thing."

"What do you mean by 'all that sort of thing'?" asked his mate. "Do tell me."

"I don't know much about geography," said the Rocky Mountain Sheep, "except where I came from, and so I end off my sentence like that, with just a wave of the foot, to pass off what I don't know."

"I see," said his mate. "But you seem to know a lot about the creatures here in the zoo."

"Yes," said the Rocky Mountain Sheep, "and I listen to what is being said."

"A Wave of the Foot."

ing said. One can become very wise, I've heard, by paying attention."

"Do you want to become very wise?" asked his mate.

"Oh, I might as well," said the Rocky Mountain Sheep, "as long as I don't have to pay anything extra for it."

"But you don't have to pay for anything," his mate said, "so why do you speak of something which you don't have to pay anything extra for?"

"Just a way I have of talking," said the Rocky Mountain Sheep.

"I will tell you more that I've heard about the Orang-Utan. He used to live in a nest-like platform in a tree where he could rest and sleep and enjoy life."

"He used to live on fruit, mainly, and maybe he still does, for all I know. I've never been in the monkey house, though I've heard of the bananas he has eaten and of how he has teased some of the children who've come to visit him by throwing the skins of the bananas at them!"

"That's a real joke, now, Mrs. Rocky Mountain Sheep."

"He used to live with his family over there, and other families used to live in the tree tops, too. Though sometimes an Orang-Utan is quite happy to be alone."

"You've certainly told me a lot," said Mrs. Rocky Mountain Sheep. "You must certainly have given me a great deal of information. And though I may never use my knowledge it is pleasant to feel that I have tucked away in my Rocky Mountain Sheep head!"

ALL JOKING ASIDE

By MISS ETHEL I. STETSON

© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Dear Ben:

Here is a piece of corking luck for you. On Wednesday a rare and fair little cousin of mine is traveling to the big city. There's a long wait due her at Belcherton. Circumstances prevent my trotting along at her side. If you'll make the stop-over one-half as enjoyable for her as she will make it for you, I won't have to thank you for the courtesy. The gratitude will be all on your side.

A. SANBY.

Benjamin Frale read this letter, considered and despatched a brief reply: "Have cousin wear rose. Will be properly entertained. Don't worry. (Signed) 'B. F.'"

On Wednesday morning at the Campford depot, Allan Sanby assisted a dainty, white-haired little woman with her bag and wraps.

"Now, don't be flustered, Cousin Anne. Just get off at Belcherton, wave your rose and the best looker in the city will rush to your side. That's Ben Frale."

As the train pulled out, leaving Sanby on the platform, he reflected:

"That's a good one on Ben, besides saving me from a darn tedious trip. I don't know—this fetching and carrying for an old woman is getting my goat. If it wasn't for Marjorie I believe I'd quit, money or no money. Marjorie! She's some blossoming flower! If I had Cousin Anne's money I'd marry her right off the reel. I'm not so keen on having the old dame croak, but it's a blasted shame she can't loosen up and give a fellow a start, I'll say."

"Gee! Ben will be sore, spending half a day with old Cousin Anne and losing a couple of clients, probably. Just as well, though; he's too keen on work anyway."

Extract from letter written to Allan Sanby by his Cousin Anne, June 12, 19—:

"I found your Benjamin Frale most enjoyable. I did feel nervous, not having traveled alone for so long. But immediately I got off at Belcherton, Mr. Frale took me in hand. He is really delightful. I shall not return as soon as planned, because Mr. F. is coming on to New York for a few days and he has kindly offered to take me about some."

"By gosh! Ben's sure put one over on me. His little motto used to be 'The harder you dig, the brighter you'll find the gold.' That chap's buckled up against hard luck and he thinks he sees some gold bright enough to suit him without too hard digging. Well, he can go on one better. I can't marry my Cousin Anne, but he can. I'll cook him some way."

Extracts from letter written to Miss Marjorie Walden by Allan Sanby, June 13, 19—:

"There's a young chap, a lawyer, Benjamin Frale by name, lives over in Belcherton. He's trying to do me out of the old lady's fortune. He's some smart guy, too. Marjorie, as an old friend of mine, won't you go over and persuade him, as only you can, to do the right thing by me?"

Marjorie Walden was an intelligent young woman. Consequently she understood human nature as expressed in the person of Allan Sanby. Also she had a deep sense of humor and a love for adventure.

"I'm trusting everything to you?" was the sentence with which Allan had closed his letter to Marjorie. Upon the day following its receipt Marjorie went to Belcherton, and on the day following that Allan Sanby received this telegram:

"Married. Meet Mr. Frale and me at the 5:15 train. (Signed) Cousin Anne."

Sanby acted much like a fisherman's catch, gasping and flopping. At the depot he had himself enough in mind to be surprised at the appearance of a distinguished elderly gentleman, who took entire charge of Cousin Anne. "My husband. I believe he has a nephew who was a college chum of yours."

Later it was made even clearer to Allan Sanby that his place as fetcher and carrier had been quite usurped, and in contradiction to his attitude of a few days previously, the knowledge made him feel ill.

"Ben's played a low-down trick, sending his uncle to meet Cousin Anne. Got to overlook everything though; he's the only fellow I know who'll let me have a cool thousand or two. Marjorie's old man isn't too badly off. I'll blow over to her burg. The sweet flower. She always fell for me."

Late that evening Allan Sanby despatched this telegram to Benjamin Frale:

"All joking aside, meet me at 9:30 tomorrow sure."

At midnight he received this telegraphic reply: "Impossible. Marjorie and I start honeymoon tomorrow, all joking aside. (Signed) 'B. FRALE.'"

W. D. SHOEMAKER, WHO CONDUCTS THE SALES AND SERVICE FOR THE PAIGE, DODGE, STUDEBAKER AND HUPMOBILE AND CAN DELIVER ANY OF THESE CARS AT NORMAL PRICES.

An automobile owner is not satisfied to entrust the care of his machine into the hands of a man in whom he does not have confidence. To achieve success in the business of operating a garage one must be thoroughly conversant with every feature of the auto game. That is why this garage has a patronage that is ever increasing. The people of this community have come to know that it is right there with the goods when it comes to the automobile, and that they know the business from top to bottom.

When you leave a car at their place you can rest assured that it will be given expert and scientific attention. It makes no difference whether you want it taken apart and put together again or whether you merely want the tank filled with gasoline, expert men will handle the former and the latter office will be performed by men who are careful and honest.

A special feature is the repair and parts department. It is always a most attractive feature when the local dealer can furnish what you wish in this line and at the present time the transportation facilities are so poor that it is essential that a repair and parts service be complete. That is why they carry a huge stock at this establishment.

There is probably no other shop in the state which is better prepared to serve auto owners. We do not exaggerate in the least when we state they are prepared to build an auto complete at this establishment. They and their men are experts and when it comes to auto parts, auto repairing and overhauling, accessories or anything that pertaining to the auto the best place around here is this well known and highly efficient establishment. They are experts when it comes to starting, lighting and ignition work. This means that no matter what car you may be driving. In a word, this garage is one of the strictly up-to-date and highly efficient auto inns of this section and the proprietor is a prominent citizen. What you would expect of such a progressive establishment you will find here. And let us assure you that the charges will be moderate and the service satisfactory.

The management and assistants are business men of high standing in this community and prominent in the commercial life of the community. They are boosters for the county and in this edition, embracing as it does the most salient features of a community's progress, it is eminently fitting and proper that we direct your attention to the establishment as one of the most important features of the efficiency of the city.

Westminster Coca-Cola Bottling Co.

ON EAST MAIN ST., WESTMINSTER IS THE LEADING BOTTLING WORKS OF THIS PART OF THE STATE, FEATURING EXCELLENT SERVICE TO THE TRADE IN COCA COLA, WARDS ORANGE CRUSH, WARDS LEMON CRUSH, WARDS LIME CRUSH, CHERRY BLOSSOM AND A FULL LINE OF SODA WATERS.

This well known bottling works is deserving of more than passing notice in this review of the onward progress of the community, as they are perhaps the largest producers of beverages in this section of the state, their brand being a standard of quality and so recognized by the trade for a radius of many miles.

Experienced in the manufacture of such goods and realizing the popular demand for pure and wholesome refreshments, the manager has gone farther than the pure food law requires and turns out a product that is entirely free from impurities as well as being delicious and wholesome.

The demand for the products of this bottling works is rapidly increasing through the county. It is indeed pleasing to be able to secure their brand.

In this modern plant the bottle is hardly touched by human hands until it is ready to put in the cases for delivery. The plant is a credit to the community and is open at all times to the inspection of the public, and the public is cordially invited. Few cities many times larger can boast of such a modern and scientifically equipped bottling works.

The brand is very popular about the county, being handled by nearly all first-class retail dealers. The public should look at the label before drinking any soft drink, and demand their goods.

We are pleased to point with pride to the establishment of this firm and to commend them in the class of goods that they are furnishing to the trade, and assure everyone that when they order this brand they will get the very best.

Geo. R. Sauble

WITH FARMERS HEADQUARTERS IN TANEYTOWN FEATURES THE FAMOUS MOLINE LINE OF IMPLEMENTS, HEADED BY THE MOLINE UNIVERSAL POWER PLANT AND THUS HAS STANDARD LINES OF TRACTORS AND IMPLEMENTS THAT HAVE GREATLY AIDED IN THE INCREASE OF FOOD PRODUCTION IN THIS PART OF THE NATION—MR. SAUBLE IS AN AUTHORITY ON MODERN IMPLEMENTS.

This is one of the firms of this section of our great state that has anticipated the needs and demands of the people of this section and the establishment of this company is one of the busiest spots in this section and the business has grown to large proportions and the demand is far surpassing even their largest expectations, this firm still specializes in rendering individual service to every patron. Courtous and efficient to a marked degree the manager has surrounded himself with employees who, like himself, are thoroughly conversant with every feature of the business, and as a result the work moves along at a most rapid and highly satisfactory manner.

In making this review of the onward progress of this section of the country we wish to compliment Mr. Geo. R. Sauble upon the admirable manner in which the business of this valued institution is operated; upon the progressive and public spirited policies. We wish to refer this establishment to all of our readers as one of the distinctive features of the commercial and agricultural efficiency of this part of the state and as headquarters for high-grade implements for every purpose.

With Floral Establishment At Westminster Enjoys A Large Patronage From The Surrounding Towns And Countryside, Featuring A Comprehensive Service In Flowers And Floral Emblems, Special Designs, Cut Flowers, Vegetable And Flower Plants.

There is no other one establishment more worthy of prominent mention in this edition than that of this popular flower shop.

Not content with providing the trade with the ordinary service as is usually offered in an establishment of this kind, it has provided a stock and service of the highest character which would compare very favorably with that of the most extensive and artistic dealers in the largest cities.

It is a well established fact in this section that this establishment offers the trade a choice from the most artistic and attractive lines of flowers found anywhere. In fact, with a comprehensive knowledge of harmonious combinations and arrangements that stamp them as true artists in this work, they have won no little distinction because of the eminently satisfactory and high grade flowers provided for the convenience of the public.

In the matter of special designs for weddings, receptions, all kinds of social functions, and for the various other occasions, this flower shop has just about been made headquarters in this section and the fact that prompt and satisfactory attention is given mail and phone orders brings large patronage in this department.

No matter what the occasion may be that demands flowers or no matter upon how short a notice you make your demands, you will be pleased both with the high grade stock and eminently satisfactory service you will receive from the floral establishment. We are pleased to compliment it upon its success and the leading position the establishment occupies in this section of the state.

J. Price Robertson

With General Merchandise Store At Keymar Carries Extensive Lines Of Groceries, Dry Goods, Queensware, Crockery, Kitchen Utensils And General Merchandise And Has A Large Patronage.

This is one of the large trading centers of this section and is headquarters of thousands of people each year. Because of the limitation of space we will not attempt even a brief review of the large stock of this concern at this time, but such would not be necessary. This establishment has established an enviable reputation for goods of quality, extent of stock and reasonableness of prices that draws trade not only from its home city but from the surrounding country for quite a distance.

To think of selecting purchases without visiting this establishment is simply out of the question for the people in a large territory adjacent. It is a modern and up-to-date establishment, keeping pace with the rapidly changing fashions. Buying in such quantities that it is able to make unusual price concessions, it has retained and increased its trade by the very courteous and gentlemanly treatment that it has accorded every customer no matter how small the purchase might be. Whatever it is in need, this is the store to make your purchases. It is one of the oldest and most reliable, yet progressive and modern stores in this section of the state.

We are pleased in this business review to point to this establishment as one of the distinctive features of the commercial efficiency of the community and an institution that is of great value to the people. We recommend it to our readers who are bothered by the present season of high prices as a panacea for the merchandising ills of the day.

Wehler & King

WITH MODERN DRUG STORE ON MAIN STREET IN WESTMINSTER IS KNOWN AS THE "REXALL STORE," HANDLING A COMPLETE LINE OF THE REXALL PRODUCTS, FEATURING ACCURATE PRESCRIPTION WORK, AND THE HOME OF SODA, CANDIES AND CIGARS—A STORE THAT HAS A LARGE PATRONAGE FROM THE ADJOINING COUNTRYSIDE.

During the time that they've been in business the proprietors of this well known drug store has built for it a reputation for being among the reliable yet progressive business houses of the county. When one visits a drug store he likes to know that he will find a pharmacist in charge who is both efficient and conscientious. At this establishment the people have long since learned that they will find one of the most efficient pharmacists and that they will receive only pure and wholesome drugs properly compounded.

The firm of Wehler & King is a copartnership formed July, 1920.

Randolph Wehler, Sr. partner, is a graduate of Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, registered in Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and District of Columbia, with 30 years experience in Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., and West Virginia stores.

Melvin L. King, junior partner, is an enterprising young hustler, now tutoring for taking course in pharmacy in University of Maryland and fitting himself for scientific knowledge of chemistry, pharmacy and the allied branches necessary to equip himself for usefulness and become expert in his business.

They have established a state wide reputation for honest merchandising and fair prices. Back of this reputation stands the standard merchandise of Rexall remedies, purest drugs and chemicals and first aid needs for which they are distributors in this locality.

These are the products of the greatest organization of drug store and toilet goods manufacturers in the world with large laboratories in Boston, St. Louis, Toronto, Can., and Liverpool, Eng., and their goods are known and sold in the best drug shops throughout the world.

The soda fountain is doing one of the largest soda business in the county and justly so because it is pronounced one of the best equipped and sanitary fountains in the state. The public is invited to inspect the operating and conducting of the fountain in detail.

The candy is mostly a line of select high grade goods manufactured for drug stores only and has established a reputation for best quality for price over all others.

Their toilet goods is the largest line of domestic, imported and exclusive goods carried outside of large city stores.

They have a reputation established for all popular and exclusive brands of cigars and cigarettes sold in perfect condition.

The great success of this store is due to the business ability of the proprietors who have displayed more than ordinary ability in the conduct of the establishment. They are of the business men who have assisted in making the rest of the state sit up and take notice of their home community. We are pleased in this review to direct your special attention to this store upon the satisfactory service to all of the local and visiting people, for it has come to be recognized as one of the strictly up-to-date drug stores in this section of the state and a feature of the business life of the community.

'LEIDY'

A PROGRESSIVE WESTMINSTER CONCERN UNDER ABLE DIRECTION WHICH NOT ONLY SAFEGUARDS THE PUBLIC HEALTH BY THE PROMPT REMOVAL OF DEAD STOCK, BUT TURNS THE CARCASS INTO HIGH GRADE FERTILIZER AND TANKAGE BY THE MOST MODERN SANITARY PROCESS AND RETURNS IT TO THE PEOPLE AT MOST REASONABLE PRICES—PAYS SPECIAL CASH PRICE FOR OLD OR DISABLED HORSES DELIVERED TO THE PLANT—ALSO EXTENSIVE DEALER IN HIDES AND TALLOW—PLANT UNDER THE ABLE DIRECTION OF FRANK LEIDY, JR.

While it is of the greatest importance that the most strict legal regulations as regards sanitation be observed, many communities are placed at a disadvantage in the enforcement of these requirements because they have no industry which is devoted to the conservation of the public health exclusively. In this respect we are fortunate, and in the taking up of this phase of our onward progress we wish to direct your attention especially to the above firm.

Because of the prompt and satisfactory service which this well known company offers the public in the removal of dead stock and the able and efficient manner in which this enterprise is operated, this concern has won the confidence and the liberal support of the people. While the death of live stock is an incident always to be regretted, the immediate removal of the carcass is always desirable, and should be accomplished at the earliest possible moment. No matter how far from town you may live, you need only inform this popular firm and dismiss the matter from your mind, for they have won the enthusiastic commendation of many farmers and stockmen thruout the community by the promptness exercised in the responding to calls, having not only the most modern large auto trucks for the removal of carcasses, but the most dependable.

The plant is one of the most modern in the country and is strictly up-to-date in every particular. Every modern device and all scientifically correct machinery for the complete sanitation of the establishment has been provided by this concern and it is a well established fact that the plant represents the very last word in modern scientific equipment. The company is in close touch with the state board of health, from which board it has often received many compliments, and is at all times willing and anxious to carry out any suggestions made by this body.

The head of this thriving and important industry is one of the prominent men of this community who is aiding in no little degree the progress and prosperity of this section. He is thoroughly conversant with every feature of the enterprise over which he has direction and he is a steady booster for his home community. We wish to compliment him and his associates upon the enviable success of his enterprise and the admirable manner in which it is operated for the benefit of the people.

WITH MODERN JEWELRY STORE IN LITTELTOWN IS AN AUTHORITY ON JEWELRY AND WATCHES, HAVING HAD WORLD WIDE EXPERIENCE—FEATURES A COMPLETE REPAIRING DEPARTMENT AND HIS STORE IS HEADQUARTERS FOR THE FAMOUS VICTROLA AND RECORDS—STEP IN HERE AND HEAR THE OPERA STARS SING THE SELECTIONS THAT HAVE MADE THEM FAMOUS—MR. SCHUTZ IS THE SUCCESSOR OF GEO. Z. GITT, AND ENJOYS A LARGE PATRONAGE FROM THE TERRITORY FOR MANY MILES AROUND.

This is one of the most progressive establishments in the community and is meriting the large patronage it is receiving. Whatever you may wish in diamonds, watches and jewelry you will find that they have provided in this store a choice assortment from which to make your selections. As regards quality, you may rest assured that whatever you purchase here will be priced at a most reasonable figure for this establishment is in charge not only of a reliable business man, but one who has a wide experience in this field and knows the business from the ground up.

This jewelry store abounds in ideal articles for excellent wedding and birthday gifts, party favors, in fact, is equipped to supply its patrons at all times of the year with the most suitable gifts for both young and old.

This store has made quite a study of the latest vogue in the jewelry of the ladies of the period and is familiar with the prevailing styles in both this country and Europe. It is incumbent upon every well dressed lady to have her jewelry as modern and stylish as her wearing apparel. Any lady who does not keep up with the times should consult him, as he will be able to add much to the charm and personality by fitting you out with that which is modern and attractive. He has the finest creations of the modern jewelry makers' art in these lines which are made a specialty of by this store.

They offer the genuine Victrola. There is only one Victrola. Many have imitated this superior product, but the Victrola has won its right to a distinctive class of its own. This popular talking machine not only faultlessly reproduces the work of both individual artist and musical organization but it offers exclusively the greatest artists in each particular field of music. These artists have chosen the Victrola as a means of bringing their charm to the public because they know that the Victrola reigns supreme in the talking machine field.

Mr. Schutz is a man of world wide experience in the watch and jewelry trade, being formerly a watch salesman and made thirty trips to Europe since 1901. The people of this territory are fortunate to have in their midst a man who is an authority on the lines he handles. Being familiar with the world market in jewelry he is in touch with the best manufacturers and gets the very best prices. It is highly interesting to drop in at this store and get in touch with Mr. Schutz and talk with him on his voyages and experiences in European travel and business.

Miller's Quality First Store

Union Bridge Is Under The Direction Of Mr. J. T. Miller, Who Is Merchant Of Marked Ability And Features Quality Goods In Dry Goods, Fancy Notions, Men's And Women's Ready-to-Wear, Millinery, Shoes And Specialties.

Shopping tour of the community cannot be complete without doing business here. This is one of the leading stores of this section considered by wholesale firms of the largest buyers in this state, and consequently the unusual advantages of the merchants of this class. Stock is purchased in large lots as a result they are able to give an extraordinary service in class goods at very reasonable present day who realizes that the profits are to be made from quick turnovers. They offer the goods at low prices because they buy in large quantities and in the right market, and they are satisfied with small profit on each sale. This store has a reputation for exclusive lines, superior quality and magnanimous service that is responsible for its ever-growing patronage. The management insists that every patron be satisfied and this means that many patrons have made this store their headquarters for years. That they are honest and straightforward goes without saying and that they have won the patronage of thousands of customers through their merchandising policy is proof of the wisdom of their system.

It is a pleasure for us to direct your attention to this store as the important features of the county's commercial efficiency.

This very modern store is carrying an excellent line of dry goods, notions, men's and women's ready-to-wear, millinery and shoes, materials with style and quality at a price that will suit you. This establishment is one of the largest stores in the community. It draws trade not only from the county but from the country for many miles around. The manager is a business man of the

WITH SALES AND SERVICE ON EAST MAIN ST., WESTMINSTER, ARE THE DISTRIBUTORS FOR THE STUDEBAKER AND THE MAXWELL AUTOS AND THE FAMOUS RAY STORAGE BATTERIES—HAVE ALL MODELS OF CARS AND A BATTERY FOR EVERY CAR—EXCELLENT SERVICE IN BOTH DEPARTMENTS.

A notable example of substantial progress in the automobile circles of the county is the career of this firm, who have served the people for the past several years and last year placed many cars in the county. It has given the best of satisfaction and their ever increasing popularity is a tribute to their true worth.

The popular Maxwell truly can be said to represent modern motor car economy. With an enviable record as regards gasoline mileage it is none the less famous for tire economy. It presents a most attractive appearance, and because it is dependable under all circumstances it is a great favorite for either business or pleasure purposes.

The Maxwell is one of the lowest priced, completely equipped automobiles on the market. It has top, self-starter, demountable rims and all other modern equipment and is sold at a most attractive figure.

The Studebaker might aptly be termed "America's Car Beautiful," because of its harmonious and distinctive lines and superb finish. While it offers the luxury in cars selling for a much higher price it also possesses a reputation for dependable performance that is the envy of the motor car industry. Master designers have been responsible for the continued and wide spread popularity of this popular car and it is not strange that the car is in such demand and has taken the country by storm.

This remarkable light weight six-cylinder car combines all that we believe the critical owner expects in an automobile. It was built up to that expectation. And because it is manufacturer complete in the Studebaker plant with middlemen's profits eliminated—Studebaker is able to offer it today at the new low price.

At all driving speeds the Light-Six is remarkably free from vibration. Its powerful 40-horse power motor is an exclusive Studebaker design—built complete in Studebaker factories. The flexibility—the power—and the economy (18 to 22 miles to the gallon) of the Light-Six motor are qualities not to be found in the average six-cylinder car.

You can have the advantage of this motor's wonderful gasoline economy and the satisfaction of its smoothness of operation only by owning a Studebaker Light-Six.

The Ray battery gives an unconditional two-year guarantee against repairs, freezing, buckling, sulphating, neglect, shortcircuiting, and a new battery free should one fail with no adjustments and no arguments.

It has never before been possible to back any battery with such a guarantee. The fact that we can put such a guarantee back of the Ray is conclusive evidence that the Lavier Formula plate represents the greatest advance in battery construction since the invention of the first wet cell motor car battery.

This guarantee gives you positive assurance that the first cost of your Ray battery will be the only expense directly chargeable to your battery for at least two years (except, possibly, an occasional recharge)—of continuous, uninterrupted satisfactory service from your battery for two years from date of purchase from the service station—at least two years. With ordinary care, it should serve you longer.

The battery department at this place is one of the features of their very complete service. They are prepared for all the work that this department entails with the very latest of scientific equipment and specialize in the repairing, charging and complete rebuilding of all makes of batteries.

They are courteous and accommodating, and will be pleased to give you the best of service and attention at any time. In making this review of our onward progress we wish to compliment them upon the efficiency of their service, the progressiveness of their dealings and their popularity with the people of this section of the state.

AT WESTMINSTER IS AN EXTENSIVE MANUFACTURER OF THE CREAM WITH THAT "MOREISH TASTE", WHICH HAS WIDE DISTRIBUTION AND SALE OVER THIS PART OF THE STATE—IT IS DELICIOUSLY DIFFERENT FROM THE ORDINARY ICE CREAMS AND MANUFACTURED OUT OF THE VERY BEST OF MATERIALS UNDER MOST SANITARY CONDITION—AN INSTITUTION THAT IS IN THE VAN OF PROGRESS—EVEN DURING THE WAR USED NO SUBSTITUTES.

With the development of the ice cream industry from its infancy only a few years ago there have come many and varied changes. The contest for supremacy was first developed along the line of furnishing ice cream of any old kind, just so it was sold at a cheap price. This era has passed away and the managers of this large industry are largely instrumental for this change in policy in this part of the state.

Realizing that the public taste has been developed to such an extent that it had become epicurean relative to ice cream they set about the establishment of an institution that was thoroughly modern and in keeping with the demands of the day. They purchased and installed the very latest of equipment for the correct freezing and keeping of ices and ice creams and then organized their factory along the most sanitary lines. With this foundation they purchased only the very purest of ingredients and consequently their brand of ice cream and ices is the very best that can be secured on the market. It is sold in sealight containers and every precaution is taken for its richness, purity and safety of delivery so that whether you buy it at your favorite grill or in a wholesale quantity you are assured that it will always be found in the best of condition.

This popular firm conducts a large business and is a leader in its line in this section and the plant is a model one and is open at all times for the inspection of the public, which it cordially invites. A visit to this factory will prove a revelation as regards what a man can do in the way of maintaining a strictly clean, sanitary and healthful ice cream plant by the use of modern scientific methods and machinery. It only employs the best of people, who follow instructions along the lines of sanitary production and turn out only high grade products.

During the latter days of the war the public became careless about foods on account of their high price and scarcity, but with the return of the country to normalcy great care is being exercised by the discriminating; only purest of foods are being selected as their favorite brands. This tendency of public favor has made "Moreish Taste Ice Cream" so popular and in ordering you should be discriminating and go to the grill with the sign of "Moreish Taste Ice Cream."

With Modern Hardware Establishment At Main And Liberty Sts. In Westminster Is Headquarters For Shelf And Builders Hardware, Paints, Red Cross Ranges, Pipeless Furnaces, Plumbing And Heating Contract Department.

It is without doubt necessary that an immense stock of goods be carried by the hardware dealer who wishes to be successful and keep pace with the demands of his customers. In this present day of hurry and rush the patron demands that his call for a nail or a screw be given the same careful attention as though he were buying a bill of hardware.

At this popular establishment particular attention is given this feature. They will be pleased to welcome all patrons. As the store has a stock that comprises thousands of very necessary articles, it can readily be seen that hundreds of people are continually visiting this store.

The goods carried have been found to always be of the very best quality consistent with the price at which each article is sold, and here you will find standard makes of the world's best manufacturers.

In the way of paints, varnishes, and painters' supplies the stock is large and most complete. No matter what you may desire in the way of paints, you will find a most complete stock at this store.

In the builders' hardware department you will find all kinds of builders' supplies, including standard lines.

They have made a deep study of the system of modern heating and understand the scientific part of modern heating. They can tell by looking at your plans or building how large a plant should be used, where the registers should be placed and how much fuel will be required to keep your building at summer heat all the time.

The management is in the hands of most progressive business people who always take an active interest in the progress and development of the home community, being ready and willing at all times to lend personal assistance to all propositions that promise public improvement. In making this review of the onward progress of the community we are pleased to compliment them and to refer the establishment to all of our readers. If you are bothered by the present season of high prices we suggest that you will find a visit to this store a revelation in possible economy.

Frank M. Snader

Conducts At Frizelburg One Of The Progressive General Merchandise Stores Of The County, Featuring A Complete Line Of Groceries, Dry Goods, Queensware And Crockery And Offers The Public The Most Courteous Service.

Lucky indeed are the people of Frizelburg and all the surrounding country to have in their midst and at their beck and call the very extensive and efficient establishment of Frank M. Snader. This large general store, which approximates a department store in point of diversity of articles carried, is replete with full lines and the departments vie with each other in their efforts to serve the people.

Frank M. Snader's store is one of the leading trading centers of this part of the state and has long been known as headquarters for thousands of people in and around Frizelburg. Space limitations at this time prevents even a short review of the large varied stock of this concern, but such detailed reference is not necessary. The reputation of this establishment for goods of quality, extent of stock and reasonableness of prices draws trade not only from Frizelburg, but from all the territory for miles around.

This store is a great booster for the city and whatever it is in the dry goods, notions and specialties, that you desire you should see them. It is one of the most important mercantile institutions in this section of the state and brings to town every year thousands of dollars that otherwise might be diverted to other trade centers. It is safe that their name and business is today better known among the people of this part of the state than any of the institutions of like character in nearby towns. It merits your confidence and merits the most liberal patronage from the people all over that section.

The manager is one of the county's progressive business men and the success he has attained is not a result of luck, but of the service he has rendered the people by giving them the best at very reasonable prices and making most of his profit off the principle of buying in large quantities and saving the discounts.

Geiman's Garage

CONDUCTS AT WESTMINSTER ONE OF THE VERY MODERN GARAGES OF THIS PART OF MARYLAND AND IS THE DISTRIBUTOR FOR THE OVERLAND AND THE WILLYS-KNIGHT AND THE PAIGE AND IS NOW SHOWING THE VERY LATEST MODELS AT PRICES THAT ARE DISTINCTLY NORMAL—UNDER THE DIRECTION OF D. R. GEIMAN & SON, WHO ARE THOROUGHLY FAMILIAR WITH THE AUTOS OF THE DAY.

This prominent auto inn is attracting the attention, admiration and trade of autoists from all over this section of the country.

The new series of Overland is rugged as ever, economical as ever, comfortable as ever, electric started, electric lights, demountable rims, three speed transmission, all steel body and baked enamel finish. The Overland Four last year assumed a position of leadership in advanced automobile building and with the new improvements this year retains its place in the van of progress.

The Willys-Knight is true to its name and is a knight of the highway, taking rank with the leading autos both of this continent and Europe. It has everything that every high class car in the way of appointments, and is sold at prices that defy competition. The famous sleeve valve motor improves with use, is amazingly free from care and cost while the gasoline mileage averages above 20 miles per gallon. Its smooth performance is a source of lasting satisfaction.

The Paige has aptly been termed "The Most Beautiful Car In America" for it is an automobile of distinctive and harmonious lines and of prepossessing appearance. Aristocratic and elegant it is nonetheless efficient for it is a product of master engineers as well as master designers and has merited its enviable and wide-spread popularity.

The manager is an accommodating salesman who will be pleased to demonstrate the advantages of this wonderful car. In making this view of our onward progress we wish to compliment him upon the efficiency of his service, the straightforwardness of his dealings and the wonderful value of the car which he has chosen to offer the people of this section of the state.

We take pleasure in this business review in directing your attention to this firm and the well known fact which they are distributing so extensively. WITH MODERN MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS AT WESTMINSTER IS A PROMINENT AND WELL KNOWN PRODUCER OF HIGH GRADE MONUMENTAL WORK, EQUIPPED IN THE MOST MODERN MANNER AND ENJOYING A LARGE PATRONAGE FROM ALL SURROUNDING COUNTRY, HE BEING AN AUTHORITY ON HIGH CLASS MEMORIALS—HAS ONE OF THE LARGEST STOCKS OF FINISHED MEMORIALS IN MARYLAND, HAVING 300 IN STOCK TO SELECT FROM.

This time-tried industry for years did considerable to advertise the community by the general excellence of the work turned out, which has embraced in its scope all that is artistic and enduring in high grade monumental work. It may well be said that few of our manufacturing industries have maintained during the flow of passing years a higher standard, for this representative industry has a wide reputation as regards the most modern creations of the monument maker's art. This monument works is not only a manufacturer, but an importer, of high-grade monumental work, including the far-famed marble of Italy, the enduring granite of Sweden, and these are supplemented by the finest products of our American quarries. It carries one of the largest lines of finished monuments in this section of the state. The plant is complete in all essentials and is fitted up with all the necessary appliances for turning out the most artistic work. All carving, tracing and lettering is done with pneumatic tools while skilled workmen are kept busy constantly finishing the work in hand, the work being one of the most interesting industrial enterprise. The facilities are of the best, as they are in direct communication with the leading sources of supply, all stone being shipped direct to them from the various quarries, thus eliminating the middleman's profit and giving the patrons the benefit thereof on all work executed. As a designer this work has achieved a well merited reputation, the designs being original, artistic, and they are ready at a time to submit designs for all classes of work in the line as well as to fully execute to the letter any special design which may be submitted to them. In this review we cannot fail to give this model industry extended mention as the management regarded as among our most valuable citizens, whose identification with industry has proved of value to the progress of our community. We wish to suggest that when in need of anything in this line, our readers cannot do better than to see them.

CONDUCT AT KEYMAR ONE OF THE LEADING FIRMS OF CARROL COUNTY, FEATURING A COMPLETE SERVICE IN LUMBER AND BUILDING SUPPLIES—THEY CONDUCT AN EFFICIENT TRACT DEPARTMENT AND ACCEPT CONTRACTS FOR ANY KIND OF BUILDINGS—A FIRM THAT HAS BEEN RESPONSIBLE FOR THE UPBUILDING OF THE SURROUNDING TERRITORY.

One of the essential features of any house, store, or other structure is that it will stand the wear of years. The same is true of the reputation of any business firm, and that is why this concern enjoys an ever-increasing volume of business and popularity.

At the outset it realized that a satisfied customer is the best influence for more business, and it determined to build for this establishment a reputation that would be the envy of the lumber and building material trade. That it has succeeded is evidenced by the large amount of patronage that it now receives and the amount of territory that its activities cover. With a knowledge of their business that always breeds success, they have gone into the world's largest markets and have purchased their supplies of the best quality and in quantities.

Therefore the people of the territory for many miles around are offered at very reasonable rates lumber and building materials of every description and of the very best grade. We will not attempt to detail the very large stock that they carry. Suffice it to say that this establishment compares favorably with the best and most up-to-date establishments of the metropolitan centers in point of extent of stock, quality of work and material and the general excellence of everything in the field of the lumber business.

They maintain a contract department, accepting contracts for any kind of buildings, including foundations, plumbing, painting, etc. They are prepared to furnish drawings, specifications and estimates. No being too large or too small. They have executed many contracts throughout this section, which stand as monuments to their ability and example of their expert workmanship.

The reputation that this establishment has for stock of quality for straightforward dealing is bringing thousands of dollars to town that would go to some other trade center were this establishment not located here. It may be truly said that this establishment is a valuable asset to the county, and in this edition, which calls to mind our onward progress we wish to direct your special attention to their commendable activity as one of the distinct features of our business and industrial efficiency.

Littlestown Savings Institution

OF LITTLESTOWN IS A FINANCIAL INSTITUTION THAT HAS AIDED IN THE UPBUILDING OF THE COMMUNITY, AFFORDING THE PUBLIC EVERY FACILITY OF THE MOST METROPOLITAN SAVINGS INSTITUTION—TRANSACTS AN EXTENSIVE BUSINESS BY MAIL—PAYS FOUR PERCENT ON DEPOSITS, WHICH ARE INVESTED ONLY IN FIRST CLASS SECURITIES—UNDER THE DIRECTION OF MEN OF GREAT FINANCIAL ABILITY—OCCUPIES ITS OWN HOME—HAS A CAPITAL OF $50,000, SURPLUS OF $170,000 AND UNDIVIDED PROFITS OF $45,000, WHILE THE TOTAL RESOURCES ARE $1,700,000—HAS THE LARGEST SURPLUS OF ANY BANK IN THIS SECTION.

This bank has proven to be a great convenience to the people of this section generally as it renders a metropolitan service in all financial matters. It is one of the important and essential features of the organization of the community which has given added impetus to the growth and development of the city and community. It has materially assisted in the building of the county and has become indispensable to the community.

It occupies a commodious home which is one of the imposing structures of the city and the interior is furnished with the latest banking furniture of the period and is arranged both for the convenience of the officers and for the benefit of the public. Its safes and vaults are fire and burglar-proof and in keeping with some of the most up-to-date banks in the country.

It is a legally designated place for savings and pays four percent. Its investments are guarded by state laws. One dollar will start an account in this institution. It has always been known as strong, safe and conservative and its history of long and continued successful service to the people in every walk of life makes it an attractive institution. Having served the people of this section of the county as their financial depository for many years, it is not strange that this bank has been known as one of the reliable institutions that exercises good influence upon the commercial and industrial life of this community.

One of the very distinctive features of the excellent service rendered by this banking house is its modern department for banking by mail, thus affording the people of all the surrounding territory the very best of banking accommodations right at their very door.

They have greatly aided in the building of the home life of the county as they have pointed the way to many by which they have secured homes and are now enjoying the possession and aiding in the progress of the nation.

At the head of this institution are S. S. Mehring, president; M. N. Weller, first vice president; O. A. Hain, second vice president; I. S. Bruggard, treasurer, and H. G. Bloch, assistant treasurer.

The officers are among the county's best known men of affairs who have been intimately associated with the progress of this county. This comprehensive review of our onward progress we can not fail to compliment them upon their successful efforts in giving the community financial institution of the character and stability of this bank, which represents safety, service and progress.

GIVE CARE TO SHRUBBERY

Good Idea to Note How Dame Nature Has Arranged Growth to the Best Advantage.

In a state of nature, shrubs that grow in masses or thickets stand close together, intermingle their branches from the time they spring up as seedlings and make their growth wholly upward from an early age, since the light is shut off from them on all sides by their crowding neighbors. Thus, all run to height save those on the outermost edge of such mass.

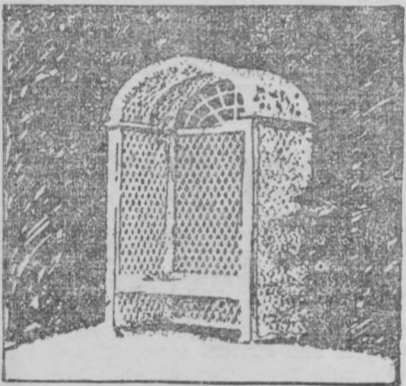

To arrange a planting that will at once conform to this that Nature produces, shrubs that grow erect and "to the top" must be used for background, with low-growing, spreading, and even drooping kinds planted against them. Yet the mistake of a monotonous, evenly graded bank of green extending from the turf upward everywhere is to be avoided, for this is truly fearful in its artificiality.

The proper way to assemble a shrubbery is to cluster the individual shrubs loosely and irregularly, grouping them by kinds, in the main, but invariably scattering the kinds together at the edges of each group; and further scattering one or two of any dominant kind here and there throughout the entire mass. Or, to express it in formula: All varietal clusters should give way on their edges to the neighboring variety, so that a friendly intermingling shall prevail, to a considerable degree in some places down to almost none at all in others; for all the world as daisies and buttercups intermingle in a meadow.

GARDEN SEAT THAT INVITES

Makes for Delightful Hours Out of Doors During the Long Days of Summer.

The embowered garden seat entices one to pause and rest, and while away many delightful hours out of doors in peaceful seclusion. It is also another excuse for more graceful climbing vines and flowers.

Ideal Seat for Garden.

peaceful seclusion. It is also another excuse for more graceful climbing vines and flowers.

Bungalow Vs. Two-Family.

Put a two-family house on the usual size lot and the neighborhood at once takes on a different look. A bungalow, probably costing less than half, on the same lot would preserve the character of the neighborhood. But if the town, in seeking to maintain its suburban characteristics, zones out the two-family structure, is it within its constitutional rights or does it unreasonably infringe the rights of the property owner?

There is a very nice question here, the right of the neighborhood as against the investment right of a single property owner, and complicated by the constant likelihood of operation by the real-estate speculators. Probably it is the last that make most of the trouble. It would be quite an intricate calculation to say whether the maintained value of the neighborhood would in case of resale compensate the individual bungalow builder for what he might have earned by building a two-family house and renting one floor.—Newark Evening News.

Planting the Lawn Shrubbery.

It is an axiom of good design that a lawn that is broad, sweeping and picturesque shall be planted in a broad, sweeping, picturesque manner. Straight lines must never show anywhere, either as boundaries at the foundations of buildings or as drives or walks. The effect to be created is of a broad, open glade in the midst of the forest—or at least in the midst of dense and secluded growth. If the impression of actual forest background is impossible, on every side should be vistas of swirling masses of shrubbery suggestive of the shores of a bay or any small body of water—shrubbery that looks to have been pushed back and piled against the heavier background material to make a clear space where the turf may grow.

To Study City Planning.

About thirty of the large cities of California, if the extension division of the University of California and the Real Estate association of that state carry through their joint plan, will have the benefit of a unique series of conferences on city planning that was begun nearly a year ago in Los Angeles, where the regional problems of the vicinity offered an especially fruitful basis for discussion. Another course, aided by local experts, was given in Oakland.

DIGNITY NOT YET ATTAINED

Latest Arrival Evidently Had to Wait Before Her Age Could Be Matter of Notice.

The open season for park diversions being at hand, the Man Who Likes the Outdoors took a seat on a park bench and awaited events. Men, women, children and even dogs and cats respond to him without conscious effort on his part, so there was nothing surprising about it when a little girl walked up to him and climbed upon the bench at his side.

"My name is Frances," she said fearfully. "What's yours?"

Before the M. W. L. O. had time to reply another smaller child ran up and began pulling Frances' dress, so he asked:

"Is this your little sister?"

"Yes," replied Frances. "Her name is Minnie. That is our daddy over there on the bench," and she indicated him with a wave of her hand.

"How old are you?" the M. W. L. O. asked.

"I'm six," Frances answered proudly, then, with a slight touch of disdain, she added, nodding toward the little Minnie, "she's only three."

The M. W. L. O. looked at the two little girls and was about to ask another question when Frances said, this time somewhat confidentially:

"I've got another sister at home."

"Oh, have you?" the M. W. L. O. responded. "Is she older than you?"

The little girl made an expressive gesture.

"She hasn't any age," she said in a matter of fact way, "she's just born."

PECULIAR MAY DAY SPORTS

Diversions in "Merrie England" That Went Out With the Rise of Puritanical Ideas.

In London in olden times the chimney sweeps had a May day celebration of their own. They gathered in small bands, fantastically dressed, usually with a woman smartly dressed and glittering with spangles. One strange figure in the group, a man concealed in a frame of herbs and flowers, called "Jack in the Green." All these persons strolled the streets, stopping to dance to the tune of a fife and a drum and collect pennies from the onlookers. This chimney sweep observance of the day was the last of the May day celebrations of the sort in England.

As a part of the old English celebration of May day there was a distinct set of sports meant to represent the adventures of the legendary Robin Hood and known as the "Robin Hood games." Most of the characters mentioned in the Robin Hood legend were portrayed in these games and there were archery and quarter staff contests.

In Puritan times in England, May poles were uprooted and the May day customs came into disuse.

Solved the Difficulty.

A prominent "movie" director says that there is at least one advantage in the income tax.

"We were casting for a picture, and we wanted a particular man for a certain part. This man had evidently forgotten that common sense has entered the motion picture field, because he insisted upon the most exorbitant salary that could be imagined."

"Negotiations were apparently over and the discussion became general. Finally this actor complained bitterly of the amount that he had had to pay in income tax. We did some quick mental figuring and found that the return he had made to the government was about a half of what he should have made had he received the salary that he insisted he had been getting."

"I'll tell you what I'll do," I said; "I'll give you the same salary that you told the government you got."

Cub Yricks.

He had been a newspaper reporter long enough to consider himself well past the "cub" stage.

It was 2 a. m., barely an hour before press time, when the phone bell rang. Replacing the receiver after a few excited "Whats?" and "Whens?" he grabbed his raincoat, and, telling the city editor there was a big train wreck on the W. & N., rushed out.

Breathless, he grabbed at the bridge watchman, ten minutes later.

"Where's 85? Yuh sink?"

"Where's what? Did crazy?" asked the watchman.

"I'm from the Clarion; we got a report train 85 ran off the bridge."

"It did. It does every morning about this time. Whaddya think—this bridge goes everywhere with the train?"—Everybody's Magazine.

New Yorkers Get Lost in City.

Many of the life-long residents of New York know little of the city's rapidly expanding transportation system. They are acquainted with those minor sections they use daily, but if they have occasion to travel to unaccustomed quarters they are as puzzled as the stranger. It is usually the newcomer, the resident of a few months or years, who even pretends to know the subways or the streets of any considerable section of the town.—New York Sun.

Porch Swings Automatic Refrigerators Save Foods Porch Rockers

Refrigerators are not bought these days as they used to be, when all we wanted to know was whether an "ice box" was "big enough" to hold all the things we wished to chuck into it.

Today we are modern. We want to know if a refrigerator is or is NOT an "ice-cater"; we want to know if our foods will keep COLD, sweet and wholesome for the entire family; we want to know that we are getting not only the most scientifically-built but the BEST-built, and the MOST-ECONOMICAL refrigerator on the market. Also we want a "good-looking" refrigerator.

That's why we recommend The Automatic

We are also Agents for the Famous White Frost, the all-white round Refrigerator. We also handle two lower priced lines—four lines in all—so you can buy just what you want, to suit your purse.

The Blue Teapot

By JESSIE DOUGLAS

© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"I would be willing," said Polly, "to go out on the road and drag some one in."

Polly stood in the very center of the room and looked about her.

The room deserved no such despairing glances. Long, low, with sunshine sifting in through swiss curtains, it held ten painted tables with squares of snowy linen, a blue teapot on each inviting table. Flowers on the mantel, polished candelabra, a rustic wood box, a great dish of rose-cheeked apples with a blue printed card that said "Take one"—it carried out the best tradition of the tea room.

This was its opening day, the hour was four and Polly had not had one customer.

"It's back to school for yours in the fall, Miss Parker," Polly addressed herself sadly, with four dozen pimento cheese sandwiches under one arm and a pile of cinnamon toast under the other.

"Why don't you ask that hungry-looking young man next door to come in and help you clear up?" Miss Lucinda Parker asked from the doorway. "Eat up you mean, Auntie?" Polly asked.

Miss Lucinda nodded. Wearily Polly wended her way across the road to the white house with the blue blinds. She heard the click-click of a typewriter as she approached.

"Would you—" Polly began timidly. "Would I? I'd do anything on earth that would let me leave my hero in the third act," the young man supplied.

Their Eyes Met.

mented. "Never, never," he said, emphatically, "write serials for any one. It's the worst life without exception."

"But not," interrupted Polly with assurance, "as bad as keeping a tea room!"

"Why," the young man said seriously, "I thought you said you loved it; that it was the only thing you wanted to do!"

Polly looked at the young man with quiet scorn. His bright gray eyes, his lean cheeks, his clever mouth—nothing escaped her careful scrutiny.

"That was last night," Polly said slowly. "I only want you," she explained, "to eat up ten lettuce and mayonnaise sandwiches, ten pimento, ten walnut and cream cheese, fifteen nut bread and a home-made cake."

"I think I'm equal to the task," the young man said, with twinkling eyes. "If you had lived for the last three weeks on canned salmon, canned tuna fish, canned sardines and canned cherries, you would, too."

"You sound like a grocer's catalogue," Polly offered.

"That's just what I am. You see—" But they had entered the little tea room, outside of which the sign of "The Blue Teapot," painted by Polly's unaccustomed hand, tipped unsteadily in the breeze.

"Do I sit at each of the tables in turn rather like a progressive dinner of my college days or—" he laughed up at Polly, but he saw with dismay that her lip was quivering and one tear had splashed on her white little cheek.

"Poor kid! It's pretty tough for her," he thought as she made a dash for the kitchen. "Didn't think it meant so much to her, this tea room business."

But he gave a shout of delight when she came back with a heaped plate of sandwiches and a great platter of cake. "It is good, isn't it?" she begged as she saw the pile diminish steadily.

"Good! The best ever! What you ought to be is some man's wife instead of cooking for an unappreciative bunch of—"

Polly giggled. "Why don't you marry me then?" she asked on the end of her gurgles.

He looked up and met her eyes, gray fire and gray mist meeting; he saw the blush that slowly mounted to the brown tendrils of her hair, the smile that slowly died on her lips.

"I didn't mean it, of course!" Polly said angrily.

Conversation died. The young man ate on thoughtfully; through out bread and cream cheese.

angel cake he made increasing progress. When two forsaken sandwiches and some crumbs of icing were all that remained he leaned back in his chair and called, "Polly!"

"My name," said Polly, appearing from the kitchen, "Is Miss Parker, except to my friends." "I don't care to be one of those," he smiled, "but I should like to be your husband."

"How can you?" Polly said. "I don't think it's anything to joke about." "I'm not joking," the young man cried, springing to his feet, "I should never have dared to ask you if the tea room had succeeded, but now that it's failed—"

"I've only known you a month—"

They both turned. A man entered the room, pushing back his cap and smiling apologetically. "My wife and the children and the nurse and the chauffeur would like some tea," he explained. "Sandwiches and plenty of cake and milk for the children."

"Oh, but," Polly wailed, "I haven't a thing except this and this," and she pointed to the two straggling sandwiches and a crumb of angel cake.

"I thought this was a tea room," he said, testily, "but I see my mistake," and he glared angrily at young Tarrant.

Polly collapsed on a chair as he turned and John Tarrant saw the quivering of her shoulders and heard her suppressed sobs.

"There, darling, there," he begged "it doesn't make any difference after all; you'll never have to be insulted by a rude old codger nor wait on their chauffeurs. I didn't tell you before, but I had a big offer this morning from a publisher and we can go on our honeymoon around the world on it."

Polly lifted dry eyes and pink cheeks.

"I was only laughing to think how I was going to fill you up after we're—"

"Polly!" he cried. Their eyes met across the table, and hers, full of a new, glorifying light, fell first.

"I can't make love the way I can make my heroes do it," he said whimsically, "but I know I'm going to keep that sign of the teapot always and we'll hang it over our hearth."

"I always told you, Polly, the way to a man's heart was through his stomach," Aunt Lucinda said quietly from the kitchen doorway, "and if I do say it, my angel cake is known through the county."

But Polly and John, looking into each other's eyes, knew better.

SOUTH CHAMPION IN GHOSTS

Town in Dixie Considered Comparatively Unimportant Without a Haunted House or Graveyard.

The growing popularity of ghosts has inspired many public-spirited citizens in the ghost belt of the South to assert the claims of that section as the haunt of a superior class of ghosts, old and reliable, of gentle birth and breeding, well worthy of investigation by psychic research sleuths and other professional ghost hunters from the north, the New York Sun states.

It is proposed to hold a public meeting at some point in the Potomac valley, not far from Washington, and to have local committees appointed to perfect arrangements for the proper exploitation of southern ghosts, which it is felt have not hitherto received adequate attention from skeptical New York investigators.

These committees will be expected not only to smooth the path for visiting scientists and chroniclers, but also to protect the interests of old family and community ghosts in haunted houses, churchyards or wherever they hang out. They are expected to guarantee that the psychic sleuths shall treat all wraiths encountered by them with respect and consideration, and that no unoffending phantom shall be driven from his or her haunts and compelled to seek another neighborhood in search of ghostly peace of mind.

Made Even Mother Weep.

A woman, when she was injured in falling on account of a defective street, was accompanied by her daughter, and excused the latter's absence from the trial by stating that she was "afflicted." Counsel for both parties assumed that the term applied to her mental condition, and counsel for the woman drew such a pathetic picture of the daughter's infirmity, in arguing his case, that the mother was moved to tears. Defendant's counsel learned after the verdict that the daughter was mentally acute, and that she was "afflicted" by being blind in one eye. He moved for a new trial because the mistaken conclusions of her counsel had so visibly affected plaintiff's emotions as to seriously prejudice defendant with the jury. The Supreme court of South Carolina concurred in the trial court's ruling refusing the motion.—From the Dock-et.

Run by Moonlight.

Among the most curious motors ever invented is one devised by A. R. Bennett and intended for delicate experiments in heat measurement. It is so sensitive that it begins to revolve the moment it is exposed to daylight, even when the sun is hidden; and in clear weather it will work all night, being affected even by the radiant heat of moonlight. The motive power is due to convection currents set up inside the glass shade with which the instrument is covered. While the glass is not warmed by the radiant heat of daylight or moonlight passing through it, the metal surfaces of the motor are, and the minute differences of temperature thus produced suffice to start convection currents.

HAS SEEN GREAT CHANGES

Venerable Cigar Store Indian Witness of Remarkable Period of the Earth's Progress.

An Indian girl who has stood on sentinel duty in front of a cigar store in Bellefontaine for almost half a century has witnessed other women adopt the customs of the original Americans of painting their faces. But the Indian maiden never used a lipstick, says the correspondent of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Folks who graduated from Bellefontaine high school 30 years ago and who have seen a life-size figure in wood of an American Indian standing in front of a cigar store in West Columbus avenue since their earliest remembrance, express wonder today at the good state of preservation of this representative of the first Americans.

How old she is is not thoroughly established. W. E. Stokes, owner of the cigar store where the Indian makes her headquarters, recalls that the Indian was already in Bellefontaine when Albert Bodey came there in 1876 and engaged in the tobacco business. A visitor in Bellefontaine last summer told Mr. Stokes, who is the successor in business of Mr. Bodey, that his father was the only man in the United States who ever made these once popular tobacco store signs and that from the style of this figure he estimated this one was manufactured during the '60s. The cost at that time, he said, was $400.

In all the time the Indian has stood on guard in Bellefontaine she has moved but once. That was from one side of the street to the other.

But while she has remained stationary the world has moved on. There were no telephones, no electric lights, no street cars in Bellefontaine when she first began sentinel duty. Automobiles were not thought of and she was an object of much concern to shy horses who happened to be hitched in front of the store where her gaudy paint attracted attention.

In that early day Indians were the only human beings who painted their faces. While this Indian has been on duty she has seen popular taste in smokes change from "two-fers" to cigarettes. She has witnessed the once despised cigarette come into its own—even into the mouths of prominent people, including long-whiskered granddads and fair debutantes. She has seen the plug and fine cut tobacco have a rival in "scrap."

She has seen the sidewalk where she stands swept by the long trains of dresses and now she witnesses the flappers who wear their skirts well above the tops of their high shoes.

How Royalty Once Dined.

Occasionally we find moderation among royalty. Catherine II of Russia did not care for elaborate cooking. Her favorite dish was salted cucumber and boiled beef; her pet drink, water and gooseberry sirup. Have you a little gooseberry bush in your back yard? Charles XII of Sweden was often satisfied with bread and butter and Joseph II of Austria with omelets and hard bread.

But do you know what the Polish King Stanislaus did? asks "O'Dair" in the Milwaukee Sentinel. He ordered his geese to be plucked alive and then whipped to death! Richard the Second employed 2,000 cooks. Henry VIII was once so pleased with the flavor of a new pudding that he gave the inventor a manor. More startling facts! The household expenditure of James I was £100,000 a year. The Danish King Hardicanute was so great a gourmand that he was called "Swine Mouth." The duchess of Orleans tells us that often she saw Louis XIV eat four plates of soup, a whole pheasant, a partridge, a plate of salad, mutton hashed with garlic, two slices of ham, a dish of pastry, in addition to fruit and sweetmeats. But Stanislaus had nothing on former Emperor Wenceslaus, who once punished a cook who sent him an ill-dressed capon by roasting him on a spit before his own fire.

The Charm of Bad Acting.

And what is the secret of the paradox? The secret, very simply, is that bad acting often enchants, by virtue of its very artlessness, where highly proficient acting leaves one cold. Acting that lacks sound artistic design is, in this, much like some ugly old easy chair. It has much of the cozy ease and agreeable friendliness that a beautiful, stiff Sheraton lacks.

If acting is an art at all, it is the baby art. And, like a baby, sophistication is, or should be, relevantly a stranger to it. Acting that is polished to the last degree is like a butler—distinguishedly lifeless. Mankind is itself a bad and fitful actor. Imitations of mankind upon the stage should have all of mankind's flaws, weaknesses, crudities and mistakes.—George Jean Nathan in Judge.

Should Be Ashamed of Himself.

At the time of the Indianapolis rate case hearing Frank Wampler was placed on the witness stand. That evening the Indianapolis News came out with the heading, "Wampler on Stand in Phone Hearing."

Robert, the young son of French Ragsdale, secretary of the chamber of commerce, Frankfort, Ind., read this aloud to his father, and then expressed himself as follows: "What's the guy standing around at the phone listenin' for?"—Indianapolis News.

Amended Quotation.

"All the world's a stage," quoted the constituent.

"It's more like a screen," said Senator Sorghum. "The camera men have been so enterprising that some of us statesmen begin to look like motion picture actors."

WHY

Minutes and Hours Came to Be Computed at Sixty

"Sixty seconds make a minute, 60 minutes make an hour." You used to say that as often as you did "10 mills make a cent, 10 cents make a dime and 10 dimes make a dollar."

It is believed, in fact, certain learned men have said it has been proved that the scheme of dividing the hour into 60 parts and the minute into 60 parts was invented or devised by the ancient Babylonians long centuries before the Christian era. It is one of the ways of counting time which has gone unchanged during the past 5,000 or 10,000 years.

Along with the decimal system in ancient Babylon there was the sexagesimal system based upon the count by sixties and originating in the discovery that there is no number which has so many divisions as 60, for it can be divided without a remainder by 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 10, 12, 15, 20 and 30.

Babylonians divided the sun's path into 24 parasangs, a parasang being about four and a half miles. The astronomers of that time in Babylon compared the progress of the sun during one hour to the progress that would be made by a good walker in the same length of time, each going about one parasang, or four and one-half miles. Thus the whole course of the sun, so the wise astronomers of Babylon thought, was 24 parasangs or 360 degrees or 24 hours, and each parasang or hour was divided into 60 parts, which we call minutes.

The story is that Hipparchus, the Greek philosopher, who lived a century and a half before Christ, introduced the Babylonian hour into Europe and we have counted the time of day in seconds, minutes and hours ever since.

MATTER OF SELF-PROTECTION

Why Signatures in the Form of a Round "Robin" Were at One Time Advisable.

The most generally accepted belief is that the practice of signing a protest or petition in a circle (now known as a "round robin") originated in France, where, as protests from subordinates were regarded by government officials as little less than mutiny, there was a natural desire to keep the order of signing secret.

The most noted "Round Robin" in the English language is probably one that originated at a dinner in the house of Sir Joshua Reynolds. Among those attending were Edmund Burke, Edward Gibbon and others famous in the world of letters, all of whom were friends or acquaintances of Oliver Goldsmith.

The epitaph written for the poet by Doctor Johnson became a topic of discussion, and various changes were suggested. These, it was agreed, should be submitted for the doctor's consideration. When the question arose as to who should propose them to him it was suggested that a "round robin" was the best means of solving the difficulty. Despite his fiery disposition, Doctor Johnson, it is said, accepted the "robin" in the spirit in which it was intended.

Why Gloves Were Important.

In 1083, when the earl of Shrewsbury promised to build an abbey at Shrewsbury, he publicly laid his glove upon the altar of the monastery church in token of his sincerity. In 1574 the queen of Navarre hesitated about going on a visit to Paris, but decided to go when the king of France sent her a pair of gloves. When she was swept away by the events leading up to the massacre of St. Bartholomew, it was considered an act of the blackest treachery, as gloves had been sent to reassure her. As men became more enlightened and learned to read and write, signing one's name to a promise took the place of all this sort of thing. But there is one curious survival even now. Not many annual fairs are held nowadays, but when they are, it is no unusual thing to see a great glove publicly exhibited. This is a token that the king has granted a license for the fair to be held and so long as it lasts the glove remains where everybody can see it.—Christian Science Monitor.

Why Dough Is Kneaded.

If bread should be baked out of un-kneaded dough, or without yeast or baking-powder, it would turn into a hard, indigestible mass. Kneading makes bread or cake spongelike in structure—that is, full of holes; for the process entraps particles of air, which expand during baking and puff up the dough. In the case of baking-powder, the addition of water causes the tartaric acid in the powder to act on the baking soda (sodium acid carbonate) to generate bubbles of carbon dioxide inside the dough. These, too, expand upon baking, filling the cake with numerous holes. The yeast, as it lives and grows in the dough, gives off carbon dioxide. The result on the dough is the same as before.—Popular Science Monthly.

Why One Should Read Lamb.

So you ask me again why you should read Lamb, and I answer: first, because he has always something to say and conveys his thought "without smothering it in blankets"; second, because in antique fancy, quip, oddity, whimsical jest, humor, wit and irony, rare gifts all, he is a supreme master; third, because his limitations and tragedies were, like ours, many, but his courage in facing them, unlike ours, was cheerful and invincible. . . . and, fourth, because he has taken the lonely and familiar for his subjects and sheds fresh and beautiful light upon them.—S. F. R. Maile.

"Gallows Hill."

Formerly in each county in England there were a number of such hills, relics of which still exist in spots. Tyburn, the historic place of execution outside the limits of London, was situated on a hill, nearby which the Marble arch of Hyde park now stands. On the Surrey downs near Hind head and the Devil's Punch-Bowl there is another marked by a gibbet cross, and in 1786 a memorial tablet bearing the following legend was erected there.

"Erected in destestation of a barbarous Murder Committed here on an unknown Sailor; Sept. 24, 1786, by Edwd. Longdon, Michl. Casey & Jas. Marshall, Who were all taken the same day, And hung in Chains near this place."—Literary Digest.

Privilege of Nobility.

Lord Denbigh, whose coat-of-arms displays, appropriately enough, three carving knives, is nominally head-carver to the king of England. Similarly, Lord Abergavenny, grand steward of the pantry; Lord Rothes, stirrup holder; Lord Winchester, cup bearer; while the duke of Newcastle is privileged to give support to the sovereign's arm when fatigued by the burden of the scepter.

To the bishop of Durham and Bath belongs the right of the bestowal of the royal person if the king succumb to faintness. Custom, too, requires that the archbishop of Canterbury shall prepare a bowl of soup should his Britannic majesty require it.

Why Some People are Poor.

Their ideas are larger than their purses.

They do not keep account of their expenditures.

They are easy dupes of schemers and promoters.

They reverse the maxim, "Duty before pleasure."

They do not consider it worth while to save nickels and dimes.

They try to do what others expect them to do, not what they can afford.

"Yes Sir!
Rumely Ideal
Saved Me Money!"

"Save the FIFTH BUSHEL and you save your profit," is a slogan every man who raises grain should have in mind when he thinks of threshing.

It takes four out of every five bushels you thresh, on the average, to pay the cost of producing the crop. The fifth bushel is the PROFIT BUSHEL. When your separator lets grain get into the straw-stack IT IS LOSING GRAIN FROM YOUR PROFIT BUSHEL. That means money lost.

Thresh your own with the Rumely Ideal—the separator that is eighty years old in experience and years ahead in grain-saving and efficiency. Known everywhere for great capacity, fast, clean work, easy operation, long life and freedom from repairs.

Come in. Look at this famous separator that "Saves all the grain." Let us show you why we and hundreds of other implement men and farmers put our faith behind it.

LESSON FOR JUNE 18

THE DOWNFALL OF JUDAH

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 24:1-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be not deceived: God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.—Gal. 6:7.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—Deut. 28:15-19, 25, 38, 37; II Chron. 36:11-23; Luke 19:41-44.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God Punishing Disobedient People.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Capture of Jerusalem.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Nation That Disobeyed God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Results of National Disobedience to God.

Zedekiah was made king of Judah by the king of Babylon (24:17), but in spite of this kindness and the word of the Lord spoken to him by Jeremiah (Jer. 38:17, 18; cf. Jer. 52:3), he rebelled against the king of Babylon. He relied upon the help of Egypt, but all that Egypt could do was to cause temporary interruption of the siege of Jerusalem.

I. The Siege of Jerusalem (vv. 1-3).

1. Time of (vv. 1, 2). It began on the tenth day of the tenth month of the ninth year of Zedekiah's reign and lasted about eighteen months. The tenth month according to the Jewish calendar corresponds to our December-January, as their calendar year began about the middle of March. The reason the exact time is given is that this was to be an event of great importance to the Jews in their exile.

2. The Method (v. 1). Nebuchadnezzar came in person with a large army and encamped against Jerusalem and built forts against it round about. It is thought that siege walls were built around the city, shutting it in. On the tops of these walls forts were built from which missiles of destruction could be hurled by their engines of war against the city. With the city shut in its fall was only a question of time.

3. The Famine (v. 3). It is estimated that one-third of the people of Jerusalem died of starvation.

II. Zedekiah's Flight and Fate (vv. 4-7).

1. "The City was Broken Up" (v. 4). The Chaldeans had succeeded in making an opening in the wall so large that they could make their way into the city in spite of all that the Hebrews could do. Resistance was carried on to the bitter end.

2. Zedekiah's Flight (v. 4). The king with his men of war fled by night toward the plain. His object, no doubt, was to cross the Jordan at Jericho and hide in the mountains east of Jordan.

3. Zedekiah's Fate (vv. 5-7). (1) He was overtaken in the plains of Jericho (v. 5). When his flight was discovered the Chaldean army pursued and captured him. (2) He was brought to the king of Babylon at Riblah (v. 6). Riblah was a town north of Damascus. It was the king's headquarters from which he directed his armies against Tyre and Jerusalem. Before Nebuchadnezzar, Zedekiah was tried as a criminal. (3) His fate (v. 7). His sons were slain in his sight; his eyes were put out; he was bound with fetters of brass; and they carried him to Babylon where he remained prisoner until the day of his death (Jer. 52:11).

III. Jerusalem Destroyed (vv. 8-10).

The dismantling of the city was delayed a month, perhaps awaiting instructions from Nebuchadnezzar, who was at Riblah. 1. They Burnt the House of the Lord (v. 9). This was the sacred temple built by Solomon with additions and modifications. Before burning it they plundered it of all its sacred contents. 2. Burnt the King's House (v. 9). This was doubtless the palace built by Solomon. 3. Burnt All the Houses of Jerusalem (v. 9). The implication is that the common houses were left for the people (v. 12).

4. They Broke Down the Walls of Jerusalem. The aim was to render the walls useless as a means of defense.

IV. The Disposition of the People (vv. 11, 12).

1. Carried Them into Captivity (v. 11). The people who were left in the city and those who had deserted to the Babylonians were carried to Babylon; all such as would be of use in Babylon.

2. The Poorest of the Land Were Left (v. 12). The people who would not likely make any trouble were left as vine-dressers and husbandmen. Doubtless they were looking forward to colonization by foreign peoples. The object in leaving these people was that the country might be ready for their coming. Over these people Gedaliah was appointed as governor, with headquarters at Mizpah.

To the Thief.

Let him that stole, steal no more; but rather let him labor, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have to give to him that needeth.—Ephesians 4:28.

The Greatness of God's Mercy.

Remember me, O my God, and spare me according to the greatness of thy mercy.—Nehemiah 12:22.

No Peace for Them.

There is no peace, saith the Lord, unto the wicked.—Isaiah 48:22.

Cultivating Contentment
Philippians 4:10-20

The first four verses of our Scripture lesson have a direct bearing upon the topic. These verses should be carefully studied and if possible memorized. A comparison of the Authorized and Revised Versions in the rendering of verse 11 will be found suggestive of truth concerning contentment. "I have learned," says the apostle, "in whatsoever state I am, therein (not therewith) to be content." As long as he must remain in a certain condition he would practice contentment, though he would not stay in that condition longer than necessary. If in the prison at Philippi, he would be content and sing, but this did not prevent him leaving the prison as soon as possible.

While living amid certain trying conditions or in a certain state, we too must cultivate contentment, believing in God and his power to save. Then when the door is opened, leading to more favorable conditions we shall look back over the trying experiences without regret or consciousness of failure because of distrust. God can always make a path through the Red Sea when the time comes. Paul had learned this, consequently he could wait and be content under all conditions, whether favorable or adverse, believing that the will of God was finding its fulfillment in his varied experiences.

Contentment under all the changing conditions of life is an evidence of strength, strength in the inner man. From whence comes this strength (v. 13)? Here is the secret of rest and of power. The indwelling Christ is sufficient for all things, even for contentment of heart amid vexing and perplexing conditions. Only by his indwelling power can this grace be cultivated and made to blossom as a beautiful flower in the garden of the soul.

FOOD VALUE OF NUTS LARGE

According to Writer in English Magazine, There Can Be No Better Article of Diet.

Nut crackers are not considered a necessary equipment of the ordinary household dining table. The dietary value of nuts not being fully recognized, this implement is rarely required nowadays.

Yet there is no better form of diet than nuts, declares a writer in London Answers. The family table which consigns them to the catalogue of the indigestibles is "an unconscionable time a-dying." A child's taste, however, is often the best criterion of a food's value, and all children love nuts, even as do monkeys.

We should consume nuts all the year round, eating, say, a certain quantity daily, chewing them methodically.

If children had as free access to the nut crop as have monkeys there would be fewer digestive weaklings. This applies to grownups as well.

If nuts disagree, even with the most delicate, it is because they are partaken of at the wrong time. When consumed between meals they are almost certain to disagree, as they will also if eaten after a heavy meal of other food or insufficiently masticated.

The proper time to eat nuts is just at the beginning of meals. Then they fill the mouth with a copious flow of saliva which will assist in emulsifying the fats stored in this important food.

In cold weather they are invaluable, assisting greatly in maintaining the bodily heat. Nothing, therefore, can compare with them as a morning diet for children and a small saucerful will not be too large a supply.

First Jews in Virginia.

Jews first settled in the South in Richmond, Va., more than 130 years ago. In 1791 the first synagogue was established there. In the same year the members purchased a plot of land as a burial ground to be used for the Jewish residents of Richmond, and Jews were buried there until 1816.

For a long time the congregation prospered. But in 1840 a change occurred in the fortunes of the synagogue. It was in that year that a large influx of German Jews came to America. They worshiped according to the German ritual. A number of its members left the original synagogue to establish another congregation. The then new congregation, Beth Ahaba, is still in existence. The name of the original congregation was Beth Shalom.

Lantern for New Year.

As the new year sweeps round the world from the one hundred and eightieth meridian of longitude, it gets a bright if silent welcome from the little village of Weldon, near Kettering, in Northamptonshire. There on the tower of the parish church stands a lantern 15 feet high. Erected about 200 years ago, the lantern was lighted on winter nights to guide travelers through the dark forest of Rockingham. The railway and improved roads have abolished the forest dangers, and now the lantern is lighted only once a year, on New Year's eve, to welcome in the New Year.

WAS STRONG CITY

Excavations Show That Jericho Was Well Defended.

Remarkable Resemblance Between Its Fortifications and Those Disccovered by Schliemann at Troy.

Few excavations of recent times have had results of more interesting nature than those on the site of ancient Jericho, which lies to the east of Jerusalem and but a few miles north of the Dead sea. They have revealed that the Jews had every right to be proud of their capture of the Canaanite fortress, which was most remarkable in its day for strength against an attacking army, says the Curander.

Ten years ago there stood at a distance of a mile and a half from the modern Jericho a huge oval mound, known as Tell es Sultan, about 400 yards long by 180 yards at its greatest breadth, and rising from 40 to 50 feet above the level of the surrounding plain, with a few smaller mounds standing on the top.

Professor Sellin began work on this, aided by the Austro-Hungarian government. He unearthed a tremendous surrounding wall and part of the interior of the town, including the citadel within the northern end of the oval. The outer wall proved to consist of three parts. The lowest section was a solid natural rock foundation, with a few feet of loam and gravel on it. On this was built a stone wall about 13 feet high, the two lower courses being of enormous blocks. In some cases as large as 6 feet by 3, while in the subsequent ones the stones grow gradually less in size. The stone wall itself also diminishes in thickness as it ascends, being 8 feet at its base. The top section is of mud brick which reaches now to a height of about 8 feet, but may originally have been considerably higher. Towers of mud brick project at intervals around the whole inclosure.

Such a fortification must indeed have been difficult to capture, especially as in the central tier of the wall the spaces between the blocks were filled with smaller stones as a protection against the besiegers' tools. The builders were very skillful craftsmen. Those who have examined both the remains of Jericho and Troy find strong resemblances between the walls just described and those of the "second city" discovered by Professor Schliemann at Troy, and it is suggested that the architects had something in common or learned from the same masters.

The citadel at Jericho is hardly less interesting than the outer fortifications. Its walls are built in much the same way, but they are double, with a space of 11 to 12 feet behind them. Two towers rise at the two northern angles. Within is "a perfect warren of small houses," with only a single thoroughfare among them, as is the case with many eastern bazaars of today. These houses, of which one is in a very fair state of preservation, seem to be later in date than the city walls and to belong to the period after the Jewish capture of the place.

The Canaanites, between the Seventh and Fourteenth centuries B. C., erected the walls and probably the greater part, if not all, of the citadel; but the Jews, while utilizing the shell, remodeled the interior.

A thorough examination of the finds, however, deduced but little as to the history of Jericho after its fall before the army of Joshua. Two interesting points came out—one, that much Egyptian pottery was in use; the other, that under the floors of some of the houses were earthenware jars, containing the bodies of infants.

The sand which composed the mound of Tell es Sultan has had an excellent preservative effect, and now that much of it has been cleared away it is possible to realize vividly how imposing a place Jericho must have once looked from the plain for miles around.

Shakespeare and Petrarch.

Printing had not been invented in Petrarch's day, and it was nearly a hundred years later, in 1740, that a very fine first edition was brought out in Venice, in Roman letters on 180 leaves. One of these has just been sold in London for £270 ($1,350). Historically interesting and of beautiful workmanship as it is, it lacks the artistic splendor of the illuminated manuscript set with miniatures, like precious stones, which was sold for £700 ($35,000) in the first Thompson-Yates sale, belonging to an earlier century. The interest of Petrarch is twofold. He was not merely among the greatest luminaries of medieval Europe, he was an inexhaustible mine for the later genius of Shakespeare; and it was upon the translations in English and French of the Petrarchian sonnet that Shakespeare modeled his own.

Grasshopper Feet.

Adult human beings are rarely seen to skip and hop. It is, however, a form of exercise in which children are wont to indulge. Encouragement of this form of exercise is offered by the novel invention of a woman, May C. Southgate, of New York. It is a pair of mechanical grasshoppers to be worn on the feet. The grasshoppers, of giant size, are put on like a pair of shoes, and fastened by straps and buckles to the child's feet. They have legs of spring steel terminating in rings which hold rubber feet. A child equipped with these grasshoppers can hop, skip or jump much quicker, while the rubber feet lessen the shock of alighting. Manufacturer, Son-In-L.

TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Brief Items of Local News of Special Interest to Our Home Readers.

Miss Lena Angell is on a visit to Ansville, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. M. Buffington, left, on Wednesday, for a two week's visit at Lancaster, York and Harrisburg.

Miss Laura Angell was taken to Frederick Hospital, on Thursday, where her tonsils were successfully removed.

Pea growers commenced cutting and hauling their crop to the cannery on Monday. The yield is reported to be very satisfactory.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Lentz returned from their wedding trip, on Tuesday, and are now "at home" at their residence on Fairview Ave.

J. W. Witherow's hail damage on field peas was adjusted, this week, the loss being mutually agreed on at $36.00 per acre, or a 40% loss on $60.00 per acre.

Rev. and Mrs. Guy P. Bready, spent several days in Lancaster, Pa., this week. Mr. Bready attended the banquet of the Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity, of which he is a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Birnie, Miss Eleanor Birnie and W. Wallace Rein-dollar, attended the Birnie-Biggs wedding, in Baltimore, on Wednesday, an account of which is given in this issue.

Next Wednesday, the 21st. the Taneytown club will play in Westminster, at 2 o'clock, and a second game will be played at 4 o'clock, between Westminster and the American Chain Club, of York.

Wm. W. Witherow who has been spending the past year in the west, has returned, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. J. E. Berceaw and grand-daughter, who expects to spend some time here visiting relatives.

This office filled an order this week, for 1500 copies of Prof. Heaps' address on Prohibition, as published in The Record. The address will be circulated by the Mt. Zion W. C. T. U., at the suggestion of Miss Maggie Mehning.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Flickinger entertained on Monday, June 12, Mrs. Deborah Flickinger, Ruthana and Eldon Flickinger, of Copperville; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Warner and family, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Philip Warehime and Miss Rosie Warner, of Baltimore.

J. Walter Englar, of New Windsor, left Taneytown last Friday evening for the annual meeting of the Church of the Brethren, in Indiana, and before his return will visit a brother, in Chicago, and the International Sunday School Convention, in Kansas City.

Those who spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Emory Flickinger, were: Mr. and Mrs. Philip Warehime, Miss Rose Warner, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Warner and daughters, Laura and Alice, of Philadelphia; Wesley Auman, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Flickinger.

A meeting will be held in the Firemen's building, next Tuesday, June 22, at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing a Woman's Club. Miss Rachel Everett will be present and give a demonstration in millinery work. A cordial invitation is extended to women of Taneytown district.

The rain last Sunday evening, that looked so threatening here, but which passed overhead, had its greatest violence in New York City, where over 80 lost their lives, then continued in this direction doing more or less damage along the way. Hail fell at a number of places. In the vicinity of Hanover, Pa., considerable damage was done to growing crops.

Geo. W. Clabaugh, of Omaha, Neb., is here on a visit to relatives. He made the trip in his car, running about 275 miles per day, and encountered only small mishaps, but enough to make the trip memorable. He says the roads west of Chicago, and especially through Iowa, are unimproved. One day's run was from Dayton, Ohio, to Frostburg.

Rev. Seth Russell Downie, of Frostburg, state chaplain of the Firemen's Association, opened the convention, last week, with prayer, and made the opening address of welcome to the city. Dr. Downie has for a long time taken active interest in Fire Association matters. He was very glad to see the "Taneytown boys" but was kept so busy with his duties that he did not see a great deal of them.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Elliot, of Baltimore county, were recent visitors to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Elliot.

Bernard Arnold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Arnold and Miss Agatha Stricker, will be married at an early date, the banns having been announced in St. Joseph's church, last Sunday.

Ex-Comptroller H. A. McMullen, of Cumberland, made a short call at The Record office, on Thursday. He was one of an auto party on their way to Mt. St. Mary's via Baltimore. Mr. McMullen is being quietly mentioned as a possible candidate for U. S. Senator.

With a little more sure batting, the Taneytown baseball club will beat its fine record of last year. The boys knock 'em all over the lot, in practice—but, after the game starts, it's different. Is it a case of nervous tension, or what? Perhaps the thing to cultivate is just natural confidence, and avoid getting so highly keyed-up over game situations.

Taneytown 3—Hanover 2.

The game between Taneytown and Hanover Wirecloth, last Saturday, was perhaps the closest and snappiest that will be seen on the home ground, this season. The Hanover team came reinforced with a former Blue Ridge pitcher and short stop, and an all-around strong team. The battery and field work was fine on both sides, the few errors made being of the unimportant variety. It was a good game throughout and was in doubt to the end.

Bonsack for the home team struck out nine men, gave only one base on balls, and held Hanover down to five scattered hits. The home team secured the same number of hits, but only three struck out, while three reached first on balls. The score as follows:

Taneytown 0-0-0-1-0-2-0-0-x=3

Taneytown 3—Union Bridge 0.

Taneytown shut out Union Bridge, on Wednesday, in a three tally score. The game was not as interesting as the score indicates, but in some respects was slow and tiresome, and was really won in the third by Fuss's hard liner past first, scoring Small, as it is questionable whether the second run was earned, while the third was clearly due to errors by the visitors. Bonsack started in wild and continued a tendency in that direction throughout the game, but as usual steadied in close quarters and prevented scoring—once with the bases filled and twice with two on.

Both teams fielded sharply, until the latter half of the game when the visitors made several costly fumbles. Bonsack had 13 strike-outs, and Martin 5. Taneytown 2 errors, Union Bridge 6. Da Lucca, for Union Bridge made a 3-base hit. Taneytown had 7 left on bases, and Union Bridge 10. The score follows:

Concert and Singing at Mt. Union Church.

Next Sunday night, June 18, at 8 o'clock, there will be given a singing school concert, at Mt. Union church. The event will represent a union concert by Mt. Union, Bark Hill, Middleburg, Detour, Keysville and New Midway classes, under the direction of Prof. H. C. Roop, teacher, postponed on account of the rain on the 11th. There will likely be 75 voices in the concert. Admission will be free.

Prizes for Agricultural Club Boys and Girls.

College Park, June 14.—Boys and girls in eleven counties of the State who are members of the agricultural clubs conducted by the University of Maryland Extension Service in co-operation with the United States Department of Agriculture, will be given the opportunity this year to compete for two prizes of $100 each offered by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company through its Commercial Development Department.

The prizes will be awarded to one boy and one girl in accordance with rules which have been drawn up by E. G. Jenkins, State Boys' Club Agent, and Miss Adice S. Jones, assistant State Girls' Club Agent, and will be available to boys and girls engaged in club work in any of the counties through which the Baltimore and Ohio runs. These counties are: Cecil, Harford, Baltimore, Prince George's, Montgomery, Howard, Garrett, Frederick, Washington, Carroll and Allegany. Age limits of contestants have been fixed at from 14 to 20 years inclusive.

The boys and girls who compete for the prizes will have to be nominated by the county or home demonstration agents in their respective counties, and receive the endorsement of at least two citizens. Rating of the contestants will be based upon the interest in, and results obtained from, club work.

The prizes will be formally turned over to Extension Service during club week at the University of Maryland in August and will be awarded at the close of the club year in November. The prizes are to be used to help pay the expenses of a course at the University of Maryland for the winning boy or girl or to finance an educational trip.

T. B. SYMONS, Director.

A Tragedy Recipe.

Take one reckless, natural born fool; two or three big drinks of bad liquor; a fast high-powered motor car.

Soak the fool in the liquor, place in the car and let him go. After due time, remove from wreckage, place in black, satin lined box and garnish with flowers.—Walton (Ga.) News.

Couldn't Wait So Long.

A retail dealer in leather goods, doing business in Baltimore, wrote to a firm in southern Massachusetts ordering a carload of merchandise. The firm wired him: "Cannot ship your order until last consignment is paid for." "Unable to wait so long," telegraphed the merchant, "Cancel the order."
