WOOD FOR FUEL FOR WINTER USE

Cities and Large Towns Will be Given Coal, First.

While wood can be used for heating purposes in the country, to a greater extent than customary, it can not be anything like generally, used for the reason that country homes as a rule are equipped with coal burning stoves, and cannot easily change to wood burning stoves. Still, many will be able to do this, by making the proper effort, and the time to make such preparations is now.

The use of wood for furnace heating, is possible, though unsatisfactory as compared with coal, and very little wood is ready cut and properly seasoned for use this winter. In case of necessity, however, wood can be made help out greatly, both in the country homes and in the towns.

One thing is sure, there is plenty of fuel wood in this section, waiting to be cut, and better cut than left standing, as it is of no value except for fuel. The country sections, therefore, with a partial supply of coal of some sort, in prospect, in connection with wood, can get along better for heat during the winter than can large cities, and the sections of country where timber is very scarce.

Even if the mines open up, and coal becomes something like easily obtainable, the probability seems to be that under the best conditions possible, anthracite coal is likely to be a scarce article, and high; therefore, those who can supply the winter's heat with wood will be ahead of the game, financially.

It seems to be the plan of the Coal Distribution Board to take care of the cities, first, in the distribution of coal, and to insist that the rural sections use wood, wherever possible. It is pointed out that wood can be used advantageously by farmers at a much less cost and with little more trouble. Hard woods, such as hickory, white oak and black locust, are found in large quantities throughout the State in a ratio of two to one compared with pine woods. The heating value of a cord of black locust is equal to that of a ton of coal when dry.

As dried wood burns much better and has a greater heating value, the forestry board urges that the timber be cut now in readiness for winter use. As an example, they cite that a cord of hickory has the heating value of 1.02 tons of coal when dry, as compared with .70 ton when green.

It is estimated that two cords of wood are used to one ton of coal. With the virtually unanimous cooperation of residents of the rural sections, about 1,000,000 cords of wood would be used in place of the amount of anthracite which would be diverted to city residents.

Not only will the Coal Distribution Committee urge the rural residents to use wood, but when requests are made for coal investigation will follow to ascertain whether wood can be substituted. If they find that the latter can be advantageously used the request for coal will be referred to the State Board of Forestry, which will determine where the substitute fuel can be obtained.

A Very Narrow Escape.

Mary Genevieve Brewer, the niece of Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Hafer, of Taneytown, had a narrow but fortunate escape from more serious accident in Baltimore on Tuesday afternoon, when she was knocked over on the street by a commercial truck. The family, with Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Garner, were in the city for the day, and were ready to return home. While Mr. Hafer stepped for a moment into the L. O. O. F. Temple at Saratoga and Cathedral streets, the others of the party started toward their automobile. They were about to cross Cathedral street, and stopped to await the passing of a Ford car and the truck. The latter suddenly turned out to pass the car, and as quickly as this was noticed the child stepped back, but was caught either by the bumper or fender and thrown to the ground.

Fortunately, none of the wheels passed over the child, but one front wheel struck her right foot, tearing off the shoe and badly bruising the foot. She was taken in a taxi to Mercy Hospital, where her injury was treated. Besides the injury to the foot she received a number of bruises of the head, and smaller bruises about the body. After the examination and treatment at the hospital the party returned home.

Poultry Show Assured.

The Maryland Mid-State Poultry Show will be held, this year, the week of November 14 to 18, under the auspices of the Carroll County Branch of the State Association. The arrangements will be in the hands of a special committee, the full membership of which will be announced after a meeting to be held in the County Agents Office, Westminster, Thursday evening, August 17, at 8 P. M. All interested in this project are urged to be present. The Mid-State Show has established itself as the model poultry exhibition of Maryland, and this year several special features will be introduced which it is expected will add to its value as an educational factor, as well as to the interest of the general public who will visit it.

A SERMON IN STONE.

New Pictures in Marble at the Harrisburg Capitol.

On the occasion of a very recent visit of the Editor to the State Capitol building, at Harrisburg, he was urged by a resident of the city to be sure to see a newly discovered picture of the Christ in a block of polished marble in the floor of the building. Although the imagination must be drawn on to some extent, those artistically inclined can easily trace the resemblance.

The stone is in the floor of a caretaker's corner, in comparative obscurity, and was only recently discovered by one of the workers. Some are inclined to add mystery to the find by advancing the belief that the image is only appearing now, but the probability is that it has always been there—only unobserved. The very humbleness of its location in the midst of surrounding magnificence, of course adds to the sentimental side of the find.

In another corner, nearby, a little more public, there is another marble pictured head in the floor that has been named "Judas." The profile is quite distinct, even to a straggling beard and a pronounced grin, and still another picture requiring more decided exercise of the imagination, is a stone representing Joseph and Mary and child, so named by Capitol attendants.

What may be thought of the marble pictures is likely to be almost as varied as the people themselves; but, there is enough to them to furnish material for a sermon, for those with the ability and inclination to work one up, especially when taken in connection with the history of the construction of the building itself.

Considering the vast amount of the most beautiful marble used in the building, assembled from all parts of the globe, and the fact that the guides point out many objects, such as crowns, butterflies, stars and other more or less recognizable familiar objects, these recently discovered heads may lead to other discoveries of resemblances. Considering the vast cost of the building, it is entitled to yield up a pretty large assortment of valuables along this line.

Hanover Poultry Show.

The Hanover Fair Poultry Show, better known as the Fanciers' Exhibition of America, will be held September 19 to 22, inclusive, with entries closing Saturday September 9th.

The poultry breeders of Maryland have not confined their honors won in the poultry show rooms to Maryland cities and towns, but they seek competition outside the State and at shows where breeders exhibit their fowls from all sections of the United States.

The Hanover Fair Poultry Show, is one of America's greatest, and entries are drawn from almost every State in the Union. Last year, exhibits coming from 23 different States and as far away as California, showing the wide interest demonstrated in this neighboring show of Maryland.

The Hanover management has for years given the exhibitors the very best they can manage and which has included the highest class of judges. This year there is quite a change in the line-up and we find J. H. Drevendst, of Plandome, L. L. N. Y., judging all Wyandottes, Charles H. Shaylor, of Lee, Mass., judging all Plymouth Rocks, D. Lincoln Orr, of Orrs Mills, N. Y., Asiatics with John C. Kriner, D. G. Witmyer and George Fitterer handling the Ornamental and Game Bantam classes.

The management of the poultry department of the Hanover Show advises this paper that they are very anxious to place in the hands of every prospective exhibitor a copy of their premium list and entry blank. C. N. Myers is President of the Hanover show and Jas. T. Huston, manager, Box 286, Hanover, Pa.

An Editor's Farewell.

The editor of a Kansas paper thus bids farewell to his readers: "This is the last issue of our paper. Twenty-five years ago the editor hit town with one dollar in his pocket; tomorrow he quits work with $50,000.00 in the bank. His success is the result of strict sobriety, unimpeachable integrity, the ability to work 20 hours out of the 24, and live upon practically nothing—and the further fact that a wealthy aunt has just died up in Boston and left him $49,999.00."

Notice Against Trespassing.

We start our register against "trespassing" in this issue. The squirrel season opens Sept. 1, and continues until Oct. 15. The cost for the entire season, for each name, is but 25c. and covers the rabbit and partridge season, until Dec. 15.

War on Glaring Lights.

Automobilists who have been breaking the headlight law are to be prosecuted hereafter. This was learned at the offices of the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. Within a few days a State-wide crusade will be begun.

Although the law explicitly states the kind of lights permitted, the length of beam and candle power of lights, the majority of automobiles are said to carry blinding lights, making it impossible for motorists traveling in an opposite direction to see. Dimming lights when passing in opposite directions is said to be an unknown courtesy.—Balt. Sun.

The Coal Situation.

On the whole, while there is no settlement in sight, the coal situation looks somewhat better. It is still held that one will soon follow settlement of the railroad situation, or perhaps before. Movements are apparently being made to reopen a number of soft coal mines.

To some extent, conditions in the soft coal districts interfere with those in the anthracite sections—the one waiting on the other for action. Mine workers claim they have already won the fight, and that the mines will be opened without any reduction in wages. This is said to be the situation at three-fourths of the soft coal mines.

MARYLAND'S BUS LINES.

Cover 1500 Miles for Passenger Service Daily.

An article in the Baltimore Sun, of Tuesday, gives an interesting sketch of the passenger bus service in Maryland. From this can be deduced one of the problems of the Railroads, as the new system means great loss in passenger revenue to them, without considering the perhaps still greater inroads of auto trucks in the freight handling business.

There are lines running daily, that aggregate 1500 miles in the state. There are four lines making daily trips between Baltimore and Frederick, one line between the city and Hagerstown, one running to Westminster, another to Sykesville, one to Laurel and still another between Granite and Woodstock and the city, all carrying hundreds of passengers weekly both ways between these points.

Others not coming directly to the center of the city run between Lombard and Eighteenth streets to Chesapeake Park, Gwynn Oak Junction and Randallstown, Ellicott City and Olney, Tolchester and Chestertown, Lake Shore and Brooklyn, Curtis Bay and Hall's Church, Overlea and Morrell Park, Lakewood avenue and Fayette street and Poplar, Brooklyn and Morris Hill, Westport and Lakeland and Westminster and Reisterstown.

There also is a line from Annapolis to Solomons Island, connecting with the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis Electric Line; one from Rock Hall ferry to Rock Hall, connecting with the ferry from Baltimore; one from Chesapeake City to Elkton, connecting with the Philadelphia boats, and Tolchester to Chestertown.

There are six lines running directly into Washington from different parts of Maryland, including three from Frederick. Cumberland has five direct lines to sections about the city, but Hagerstown has the best-developed system in the State, having nine lines, extending out from the city like spokes of a wheel. In addition to the line to Baltimore they reach Clear Spring, Hancock, Cumberland, Smithsburg, West Virginia State line, Pennsylvania State line via Leitersburg and Mercersburg, Pa.

Frederick has seven lines, including those reaching Baltimore and Washington, which reach Brunswick and Libertytown.

The Eastern Shore has several lines touching Berlin, Snow Hill, Cambridge Denton, Pocomoke City, Easton, East New Market, Preston and Hurluck.

The other lines in the State which are near Baltimore are between Manchester and Greenmont, Westminster and Pennsylvania State line, Thurmont and Pennsylvania State line, Belair and Havre de Grace, Belair and Darlington and Taneytown and Westminster. There are also some short lines in the western part of the State between some of the smaller towns.

Stole Auto Tires.

Chief of Police Crabbs, of Hanover, Wednesday morning arrested Earl Sheely and Lloyd Boose, of Mt. Joy Township, Adams County, Pa., on a warrant issued last Saturday by Squire Charles H. Mayers, Littlestown charging them with feloniously entering the garage of Hobson D. Crouse of the same Township, and taking five new Fisk tires therefrom, valued at $66. The men after being given a preliminary hearing before Squire Mayers, in Littlestown, were committed to the Adams county jail to await the action of court.

When found Wednesday morning, the men were in bed at the home of David J. Harris, near Littlestown, where they were staying. After giving the young men a grilling they admitted their guilt and led the chief to a hog pen on the property of William Brown, in Carroll County, Md., under which they had secreted the tires. No one lives on this place.—Hanover Record.

New Edition of Cook Book.

The Record has just finished 1000 copies of the Seventh Edition of "Choice Maryland Cookery," published for the ladies of St. Paul Lutheran Church, Uniontown. The book is larger than the old one, containing some new recipes, but is mainly the same as the former editions that have had such a remarkable sale.

The book can be had from Mrs. Harry B. Fogle, Uniontown; Miss Lizzie T. Birely, Middleburg; or at The Record office; 30c by mail, or 25c if called for.

Chemists are working on experiments for removing the ink from old magazines and newspapers, in order that the stock may be used over again for white paper. A number of tests show that the ink can be removed, but the question of cost may stand in the way.

TRAGEDY IN FREDERICK

Policeman Killed, and Two Deputies Wounded.

William A. Stultz, of Frederick, shot and wounded two deputies as they came to his home to make a levy for a debt, on Wednesday, and later shot and killed policeman John Adams who came to the assistance of the deputies. It appears that Stultz owed a Westminster physician a small amount for several years, with accumulated interest amounted to about $30.00 and it was to satisfy this debt that the deputies acted.

Later, by the assistance of an attorney who was called by Stultz, over the phone, he was placed under arrest, and on account of lynching being feared, he was hurried by a back way to Baltimore.

Recently Stultz was released from jail, having served 40 days on a "bootleg" sentence. He threatened to kill Judge Worthington, States Attorney Anders and Sheriff Jones at the time, but his threat was not seriously regarded.

State's Attorney Aaron R. Andrews has requested the judges of the Circuit Court to recall the February Grand Jury immediately for the purpose of indicting Stultz for the murder of Officer John Adams. The court now has the request under consideration.

Proceedings of the Orphans' Court.

Monday, Aug. 7, 1922—James M. Shriver and James S. Kernan, executors of B. F. Shriver, deceased, received order to sell stocks and bonds. Adella Weetenkamp, administratrix of John H. Weetenkamp, deceased, settled her first and final account. Benjamin E. and John C. Haines, executors of Margaret Ann Haines, deceased, settled their second and final account.

Tuesday, Aug. 8, 1922—Joseph U. Baker, administrator of James Watts, deceased, reported sale of leasehold property, which the Court immediately ratified.

Mary E. Shafer, executor of C. Virginia Mathias, deceased, settled her final account.

Lizzie M. Mathias, administratrix of d. b. n. c. t. a., of Jeremiah Mathias, deceased, settled her first and final account.

Ada F. Wilson and Margaret E. V. Wilson, executrices of William T. Wilson, deceased, returned inventories of personal property, leasehold estate, current money and debts due, and received order of court to sell stocks.

Much Damaged Wheat.

Thousands of dollars damage to the wheat crop of Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia and parts of Ohio, was done by the excessive rains of July, according to officials acquainted with the situation. This, it was stated, does not mean that the crop is a failure, but it does mean that wheat has deteriorated in quality and that considerable further damage is possible unless a dry spell sets in.

Ungraded wheat on the floor of the Chamber of Commerce, Baltimore on Tuesday, according to James B. Hespe, secretary-treasurer of the body, brought as low as 40 cents a bushel, the lowest quotation in several years. The range was from 40 cents for ungraded to $1.13 for No. 22 red garlicky.

Of 65,981 bushels of new wheat sold only 30,000 bushels were graded, the others being wet and more or less damaged. This latter will have to be dried before placing in elevators for shipment to mills and abroad, which adds to the expense of handling it.

Uncertain weather conditions also have affected the receipts at the Baltimore market, said Mr. Hessong, especially by boat from nearby points. Thus far only 439,000 bushels have been accounted for, when the receipts from such sources last year for the same period totaled 709,405 bushels.

Ordinarily the harvesting season in Maryland is over by the middle of July, it was explained. This year, however, the rains delayed thrashing, and while little sprouting in the shocks has been noted, the grain arriving in Baltimore is of such wetness that there is danger of heating. Coming into market in this shape, the wheat brings much lower prices than if it were dry, which means a loss to the farmers.

Ohio Primary Election.

Carmi A. Thomson, Republican candidate for nomination for Governor of Ohio, and Samuel D. Fess, candidate for U. S. Senator, were nominated by big majorities. Both are "dry" candidates, and strong Harding administrationists. The Democratic candidate for Governor is A. V. Donohue, liberal on Prohibition, and Mr. Pomerene, for Senator, who voted against the 18th Amendment. The liquor issue, therefore, will be very prominent at the November election.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

A Large Amount of Business Transacted at Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Board of Education was called at 6.30 P. M., in the office of the Board on Wednesday, August 2, 1922. Commissioner Glover was absent. At the reading and approval of the minutes, the regular order of business was taken up.

The vacant scholarships were awarded as follows: Western Maryland County Scholarships, Marie Blocher, Hampstead; Irma G. Lawyer, of Myers; George N. Shower, Manchester; Robert McKinney, Berrett. St. Mary's Seminary, Julia Walsh, Westminster. Maryland Instituted, Ella M. Lee, of Hampstead.

In case there is another vacancy at the Maryland Institute, Miss Dorothy E. Hoff is to receive the appointment.

The Board authorized Supt. Unger to reinstate William Shamer in the teaching service of Carroll County. Mr. Shamer's appointment had been disapproved by the Board in the June meeting.

The Board considered favorably the suggestion of the Superintendent to construct a garage suitable for the storage of all cars in the county service, on the Graceham school lot. The Supt. was authorized to secure bids for the construction of the same until next meeting of the Board.

Pres. Wantz and Supt. Unger was appointed as a committee to distribute the Insurance on the Portable buildings and repairs at Mechanicsville.

Supt. Unger was authorized to get bids for floor oil.

The Supt. reported the purchase and distribution of furniture and blackboards to meet the increased school population, and the deterioration in property.

The Supt. took great pleasure in reporting to the Board the results of the contract which he negotiated a year ago, and which received the approval of the Department of Education with the counties of Baltimore, Howard and Frederick, with respect to these counties carrying their proportionate share of the expense of the border schools in Carroll county, and in the counties where children from both counties attend. Heretofore the total amount of tuition received from these counties under the old system amounted to less than $2500, while the cost to Carroll for teaching several hundred children belonging to the other counties was excessive. Under the new contract the total amount of tuition to Carroll county from the other counties is as follows:

Baltimore $1087.02

Howard 2236.85

Frederick 7026.44

$10350.32

from this must be deducted the charge of these respective counties against Carroll, for children attending their schools.

The application of the following persons for pensions was approved by the Board; Jacob Farver, S. I. Hoffacker and J. Albert Angell.

Requests for contributions to local funds raised for school purposes were presented to the Board which contributed $10 to the amount already raised in each case; Linwood, Vivian Englar, $10; Pipe Creek, Bessie Mering, $10.

It was decided that the date for opening the schools of Carroll county be fixed on Tuesday, September 5.

A delegation representing the Priestland community appeared before the Board showing that they have a sufficient number of children to justify opening the Priestland school, in September. After careful consideration, the Board decided to open the school.

The request for opening the Good Hope school was laid before the Board, and it was decided that the school would be re-opened in September.

The Board directed Supt. Unger to secure the services of a competent builder to have the Westminster High school building inspected for safety.

Charles Hersh and John G. Warner were appointed as trustees to the Wentz's school.

In order to guarantee an inexpensive and permanent drainage system for the Carroll school, where the grounds are now being graded by the community, the following resolution was passed:

"Resolved, That the Board of Education accept from Albert J. Beniller and Willie M. Beniller, his wife, their offer of a right-of-way forever over the lands of the said grantors in Myers District, Carroll county, Maryland, as the ingress and egress from and to the Westminster-Littlestown turnpike being an approach and roadway entrance from said turnpike to the Charles Carroll school lot, in Myers District, which is the land conveyed by the said grantors to the Board of Education by deed, dated November 16, 1918, and Recorded among the Land Records of Carroll County in Liber E. O. C. No. 133, Folio 277, etc. The said right-of-way entrance being 21 ft. on the front, or turnpike side and extending back along the third line to the east, to the beginning of the fourth line in said deed, then 12 ft. south by east parallel with said turnpike, then to said turnpike place of beginning."

Supt. Unger reported to the Board that Mr. E. L. Cross had been appointed as principal of the Hampstead school. Mr. Cross comes to us from the State of Delaware, where he has been a public school principal for a number of years, and principal of the Delaware Conference Academy, and Supt. of New Castle county. He was also Editor of the Delaware School Journal. Mr. Cross has made a record as a school man in the State of Delaware.

W. H. Collins, a graduate of Bucknell University of the College of Engineering, is to be principal of the Mechanicsville school.

RAILROAD STRIKE STILL IN FORCE.

No Settlement in Sight. Congress May Take Action.

The Railroad and mine strike situation remains much the same as last week. President Harding, early in the week, made a final appeal that work be resumed, and that the seniority question be left to the Labor Board to settle. This plan has been attacked, both by the Railroad Executives and the Union leaders. Final rejection of this proposition is expected to be made today, in Washington, where a Union leader conference has been called.

The President has left it be known that when the House of Representatives meets, next week, he will present a message asking for special legislation with which to handle the situation, and will insist that this be given the right of way, at once. The exact character of the proposed legislation has not been stated.

President Harding now has come to the point of believing that appeal to the consciousness of the warring factions in the rail and coal strikes having availed nothing, legislative coercion is the only course left to the Government to prevent actual hardship among the great masses of the American people.

It has been insisted time and again by various members of the Harding Cabinet that the President had ample extra legal power to take over coal mines and railroads in the interest of the public, but it appears most likely that the President wishes to have Congress share with him responsibility for so drastic a step. The President has let it become known he would risk impeachment proceedings in the discharge of what he believed to be his duty to the public.

The desire of the President is for laws with "teeth" in them to enable the executive branch of the Government to deal effectively with such issues as have been presented to him in the coal and rail strikes.

A general conference is now being held in Washington, on the result of which, action by Congress will depend, and the government is awaiting these developments.

Prizes to Farm Boys and Girls.

College Park, Aug. 8—Announcement of special prizes to be awarded to farm boys and girls in contests at the Timonium State Fair, September 4 to 9, has just been made by P. W. Chichester, assistant State Boys' Club agent for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

The contests will be under the direction of the Extension Service and will be open to agricultural club members who are sons and daughters of bona fide farmers.

The State-wide dairy cattle judging contest, which for the past two years has been a feature of the Timonium Fair and which was responsible for the development of the prize winning team recently sent to Europe, is scheduled again this year. Competition will be keener, however, than in former years, according to preliminary reports received by Mr. Chichester.

Counties not represented before which will have teams in the contest this year are Allegany, Baltimore, Howard and Montgomery. Prizes for the teams taking first, second and third places consist of a silver cup, a bronze plaque and a bronze medal. In addition the individual prize range from a first prize of $20 to a fourth prize of $5 for the best work in judging any of the four breeds—Jerseys, Guernseys, Holsteins and Ayrshires. Four bull calves are also offered in this contest as sweepstakes prizes for the individuals making the best records in all four breeds.

The prize trip to the National Dairy Show for the winning team is not being offered this year by the Timonium Fair officials but Louis McLane Merriam, of Cockeysville, former president of the fair association, is heading a movement to raise the necessary funds for this trip from the livestock growers of Maryland. Thus far $65 in cash has been received and an additional $60 has been promised, according to Mr. Chichester.

Other contests at the Timonium Fair in which the club members will compete will be exhibits of pure bred dairy calves, pigs and poultry for which substantial prizes are being offered in all classes.

Would Amend Volstead Act.

John W. Garrett, Republican candidate for Senator, has issued the following statement defining his position on the Volstead act:

"I am opposed to the return of the saloon, but I favor amendment of the Volstead act so as to permit the manufacture, transportation and sale of light wines and beer, including cider and home made wines."

Marriage Licenses.

Leslie W. Rubbell and Grace V. Emerich, of Baltimore.

Spencer J. Mullinix and Elizabeth E. Pool, Woodbine.

Wilbur W. Naill and Esther Farver, Westminster.

The population of France is decreasing at the rate of 200,000 a year, a fact that is giving the nation great concern.

What Squire Jim Wanted

By MARTHA M. WILLIAMS

© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

If you know the thing you want, there's always the chance of getting it by hook or crook or odd chance. But if you don't know—well, there is quite another story, as Squire Jim Lewis, poor gentleman, was to prove. He did not lack either possession or occupation. Contrariwise, he suffered an embarrassment of riches—a big farm, full-stocked with the best of everything that walked, wallowed, flew and ate, a fine substantial house, cram-full of plenishings as fine, a good name, money in bank and expectations. There did seem nothing left a reasonable man to sigh for.

Yet—there was. Just what, he did not know, acutely as he was conscious of a dully aching void. Aunt Keziah, who kept house for him, said shrewdly she didn't know what Jimmy needed wust—to get a wife or religion. Religion would be safest—you could always backslide if the collar galled—and there you were. Divorces cost money—besides, folks remembered them so long. Worst risk, though, was of things not going that far. S'pose Jimmy tied up with a woman who tried to make him eat by the books—cold bread and health-truck for breakfast—and no pie whatever, no time at all?

It galled Jimmy, even groused him, this puzzle with no answer. The answer was not a woman—that was the surest thing he knew. Notwithstanding, he was no woman-hater, rather one who cherished a vast, vague respect for the whole sex—so vast and vague it chilled warmer feelings.

Athwart this bewilderment flashed, rainbow wise, a human rainbow, by name Lyle Grayson. Not in any safe, conventional way, either, but by the conjunction of deep mud, a stalled car and a perfectly beautiful young man—so beautifully spotless he seemed out of place, packing a glass shade for protection. Titularly he was driving, but the girl beside him had evidently been smudged, one bare wrist deeply scratched, her eyes pools of adoration mixed with concern. She hailed Squire Jim alertly at sight, asking help in the first words. Need of it was too clear to require explanation. "Come here and make this car go through your red mud," she all but demanded. "It's—it's new to us; we're strangers, you know."

"Honeymooners," the squire was somehow bold enough to answer. The girl smiled deliciously, saying with frank pleasure: "Not yet, but soon—provided you get us out."

"Pretty deep," the rescuer commented, dismounting at the edge of the puddle. "If you had drove spang through the middle you might a-made it safe—it's the deepest and stickiest by that far bank."

"Never mind about that—the thing is to get through it—somehow," the girl said, impatiently. "We're quite helpless. Arthur—my fiancé—never tried to elope nor run a car until this morning."

"He ought to be game for wadin' in red mud," Squire Jim commented. "I won't let him," Lyle said sweetly. "He hasn't any other clothes along—you don't think he wants to be married looking like a hod-carrier?"

"Wouldn't care how I looked—if I got my girl," Squire Jim countered, thereby amazing himself. Somehow this girl had melted things inside—he had lost his sense of futility—life was no longer sapless, but teeming with high adventure. He was in mud half-high deep, in spite of wearing his second best suit. But that didn't matter—nothing mattered except to hear further that bewitching voice. It said: "Oh, thank you so much!" as he stopped to test the full depth and stiffness of the mud. "Lightening load's the only chance," he said, looking up. "Hand out your traps—I'll take 'em to dry land—then come back for you."

"Oh, we can never get out of the car," Lyle exclaimed in dismay. "At least I can't—have to drive, you know. But if you think you can manage with Arthur—not let him fall—there she stopped perforce—the squire had somehow yanked her from her seat, and was carrying her over to the firm roadside. As he sat her down he said, masterfully over his shoulder: "Arthur, be ready—long time I reckon since you rode pick-a-back." Arthur rose up, outblushing the reddest rose, made as though to plunge in the mud, but stopped short at his sweetheart's cry: "If you do that all is off between us."

So there was excuse for the ride he took, wishing the while he might strangle his steed. But as his feet touched earth a new terror beset him—over the hedge, half flying, hat awry, burst a tall, muscular woman, her eyes stormy, but her cheeks stained with tears. She had seen the transfer of Arthur. Instantly she clutched him, crying loudly. "I am in time, thank God. I turned back, finding you had not reached the minister. Heaven guided me across fields to find and save you."

"Here, I want the straight of this!" Squire Jim demanded. Holding Arthur tight, the newcomer answered: "The straight is—merely that I am saving my son from an adventuress. She ran off with him in her car this morning. By help of providence I have foiled her. My boy is under age. She shall not ruin his life. I had rather see him dead than her husband. You are, I suppose, her tool."

"Not so you'd notice it," was the retort. "Never saw either of the two till half an hour back. But if I'm a judge of small matters, she," nodding at Lyle, "is the luckiest one. Can't think how she ever took a shine to Arthur—unless she's so young she still hankers after toys." Arthur tried to spring at the squire's throat—majestic mamma restrained him, saying: "We will not stay here to bandy words with a ruffian. Come, my son—I left the car a little way back on the main road. I do hope you left nothing of value in that car," glancing scornfully at the stalled roadster. "We will not, however, stop to investigate—even though you should have lost your purse."

"I have the license—if that's what you're concerned about," Lyle cried, springing to her feet. She had crouched, cowering upon the grass-bank—now she faced Arthur, mute but with entreating eyes. He could not meet their gaze—turning, he muttered something that sounded like: "We must wait;" then went dutifully along with his natural protector. Lyle watched them disappear, the entreaty dying slowly from her glance. When they had vanished she turned to Squire Jim, trying to laugh and speak saucily—but broke down utterly and flung herself prone upon the grass, her body shaken pitifully with hard, dry sobs. He let her be for five minutes, busying himself the while with the car. Empty, he managed to drive it clear and halt it some little distance beyond its owner.

She sat up at the sound of it, her face burning, and said breathlessly: "I want to get away—to hide from all the world. Tell me where to go."

"Instead, I'll show you," said Squire Jim, handing her into the car. It took them miles on miles till in early afternoon it halted in front of a peaceful gray house, neither big nor little, with flowers in the yard, a gray cat on the steps, and a pretty faded woman rocking on the porch. To her Squire Jim said unsteadily: "Mary—I know what I want—you. This child has shown me a woman's worth. She is hurt—I've brought her to you for shelter and healing. Will you help to pay what we owe her?"

Very tenderly Mary Elliott murmured: "Yes."

TO EXTREMES IN PHILOSOPHY

Great Sages Held Widely Different Views Concerning Life and All Connected Therewith.

Heraclitus, "the naturalist," a Greek sage of Ephesus, who lived about 500, B. C., was called the "weeping philosopher" because of the grim solemnity of his bearing and the utter hopelessness of his views of human life. He was, in fact, a champion pessimist. "He was the first to note," says James Wood, "how everything throughout the universe is in constant flux, and nothing permanent but in transition, from being to nothing and from nothing to being; from life to death and from death to life; that nothing is; that everything becomes; that the truth of being is becoming, that no one, nothing, is exempt from this law, the law symbolized by the fable of the Phoenix in the fire." "The Laughing Philosopher" was a name given to the Greek sage, Democritus of Abdera, in Thrace, who lived between 460 and 357, B. C., because of his satire at the expense of the human race. He showed much flippancy in discussing human life and viewed with supreme contempt the aspirations of man. "He laughed or jeered at the feeble powers of man," says Dr. Brewer, "so wholly in the powers of fate that nothing he did or said was uncontrolled." This ancient philosopher advanced a theory of the formation of the universe by atoms in motion, which was later developed by Epicurus and Lucretius.

Portia's Grab Settled.

What shall Portia wear when she is called to the English bar? Five learned judges have been puzzling over the question and have decided that she shall wear just what her brother barristers in England do. There is a safety clause in the decision, however, for it has been decreed that their gowns shall be plain black or very dark, to prevent the appearance of a woman barrister in mauve or pink, and also that skirts are to be "not shorter than the gown." The ordinary wig, which completely conceals the hair, is to be worn so that the task of ascertaining whether counsel is he or she may at times become a little bit complicated.

Old-Time Buildings.

Lancian, the archeologist, has shown that in the Rome of the Caesars trouble was experienced with high buildings. A law was passed restricting the height of fronts to 60 feet. In order to evade it, builders adopted the practice of carrying up the rear portions several stories more. Other laws bearing on the heights of buildings were passed in old times. There was a tendency to diminish the height of stories as the buildings increased in size, and a height of 130 feet was probably attained. It is believed that the ceilings were so low that a man could not stand upright in the rooms.

Utilitarian.

"There appears to be no longer a place in politics for the silver-tongued orator," "No," replied Senator Sorghum; "people have developed great commercial discernment these days. They see no reason why a man should waste impassioned eloquence when he isn't trying to sell something."

WHY Discharge of Oil Waste Into Water Should Be Stopped

The ever-increasing practice of discharging oil and tar wastes into streams and harbors, and its effect on fish and fish industries, is strikingly set forth in a pamphlet issued by the bureau of fisheries. The fatal contamination that results from poisonous substances rejected by gas plants and petroleum distilleries, or dumped from tankers and oil-burning ships, must result in huge losses of food products and money. First it should be distinctly understood that the presence of a minute quantity of poison is sufficient to kill. For example, the American sunfish, though highly resistant to poisons, will die in about an hour in water four to five parts per million of phenanthrene or naphthalene, or five parts per million of hydrogen sulphide, or seven parts per million of ammonia; and, of course, very much weaker solutions will kill if the fish are exposed to them for several days.

Aside from this direct toxic effect, such pollution repels the fish from approaching shore at the only time when they might be caught; sickens or kills bottom-dwelling species such as oysters; kills, by suffocation, floating eggs and delicate larvae; destroys minute plants and animals on which the larvae and adult fish subsist; affects aquatic life by diminishing the aeration of the water, and destroys spawning grounds. Even petroleum products that contain no poisonous substance soluble in water may, by agitation, form a deadly emulsion that will kill in five minutes. Tarrd roads also send their poisonous washings into the smaller streams. Remedial measures may be found in the commercial recovery of oils from drainage water, in the prevention of gashouse and refinery pollution with an increased use of wastes, and in regulations forbidding the dumping of oil from ships in harbors or near spawning grounds and feeding areas.—Scientific American.

ALL IN SCHEME OF NATURE

Why Human Beings and Lower Animals Have Lobes Is Explained by Scientists.

What we commonly call the ear—that is, the external part—is little more than a "telephone receiver," as it were, to the inner or true ear, with which all hearing is done. Of this "receiver" the lobes form an essential and necessary part. In Nature's wonderful way they are made to serve a very important purpose in keeping the drum of the ear properly stretched. Many waves of sound would be lost to the real ear were it not for the lobe.

The lobes of hunted animals, such as the hare or stag, point backward, and of hunting animals, such as the dog, forward. Originally, it is believed, our human lobes were movable, but, as with the advance of civilization, man had to depend less and less upon his sense of hearing for protection against danger, the muscles connected with our lobes fell into disuse and resulted in the lobes becoming practically a fixed part of our hearing machine.

How Atmosphere Affects Stars.

Atmospheric changes have a very marked effect upon the twinkling of the stars. For example, it is found to increase as the temperature falls and as the barometer rises. An experience of nearly forty years, says a writer in Conquest, showed M. Montigny that with the quantity of moisture in the air the twinkling of the stars increased so markedly as to serve for a useful prognostic of rain. Cyclonic conditions generally are found to promote it, whilst it is extremely sensitive to magnetic disturbances. Humboldt on one occasion in the tropics found that the stars shone with a mild and planetary light; their scintillation was scarcely sensible at the horizon. This, it is apparent, was due to the great homogeneity of the atmosphere, whereby the extremely fine pencil of light from the stars was not interfered with by unequally dense strata.

Why Granny Was Pleased.

That even a public survey may possess a humorous aspect is evidenced by a story told by a westerner.

It appears that the boundary line between portions of Illinois and Indiana was long in dispute and that at length the government authorized a survey, which was duly executed. The old homestead of Granny Garver, one of the early settlers, was found to lie in Illinois, about eleven feet from the Indiana side. Granny expressed herself as much pleased, remarking that she had "heard tell Injanny was a powerful unhealthy state."

Why No Rule for Sleep.

A London doctor who has given the matter some extended investigation has come to the conclusion that there is no rule to be followed about hours of sleep, and there is no reason, he says, why a woman should have more sleep than a man.

One person gets as much benefit out of a habitual five hours' sound sleep as many another derives from eight or nine hours' lighter slumber, for quality of sleep is as important as quantity, a point that is often overlooked.

Why He Had to Move On

"Look here, you," said the town sergeant of Plunkville, "you don't work and had better move on to some other burg."

"There ain't no law you can arrest me under."

"Never mind that. This is clean up creek."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Quality

You can buy tires that cost more and tires that cost less than Goodrich Silvertown Cords.

But when you come to the only cost you are really interested in—final cost—you can find no greater economy than through the use of Silvertown Cords.

Their ability to withstand continual hard driving and their uniformly high mileage make them the greatest tire value that can be obtained.

Come in and get our prices and service story regarding Silvertowns the next time you are in need of a tire.

In Memory of my Dear Grandmother, MRS. SARAH GILBERT, who departed this life 3 years ago, August 9, 1919.

I often sit and think of you. When I am all alone. For memory is the only thing That grief can call its own.

Some may think I have forgotten And my wounded heart is healed But they little know the sorrow That in my heart's concealed.

You are not dead to me dear grandma. But as a star unseen I feel that you are near me Though death intrudes between By her granddaughter,

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend sincere thanks to friends and neighbors for their kind assistance during the illness and death of our mother, Mrs. Louisa Buffington.

THE VALUE OF BIRDS.

The United States Department of Agriculture has reckoned that birds save the farmers of the country $400,000,000 a year—in other words, if it were not for the birds, insects would destroy nearly half a billion dollars worth of farm products each year.

The following table gives some idea of the value of birds in destroying insects:

Insect	Number of Bird Enemies
Wireworms	168
Leaf hoppers	120
Cutworms	98
Clover root borers	85
Bill bugs	67
White grubs	67
Boll weevils	66
Chestnut weevils	64
Horseflies	49
Gipsy moths	46
Alfalfa weevils	45
Army worms	43
Tent caterpillars	43
Cotton worms	41
Locusts	38
Codling moths	36
Corn root caterpillars	31
Brown-tail moths	28
Cucumber beetles	25
Clover weevils	25
Potato beetles	25
Chinch bug	24
Rice weevils	21

If there is a place on the farm that will do for a bird refuge, give it to your bird friends. Prepare houses and nesting-places for them. Feed them during the winter, if necessary. Keep out all hunters, and prevent all disturbing influences as much as you can.

A bird refuge will furnish interesting work for the young folks, and will pay many times over the slight effort expended. The birds are our friends—help them and protect them.

Church Talk.

"Which reaches you the quicker," asked the clergyman, "sight or sound?"

"Sound, sir," answered Tommy smartly.

"No, Tommy, that's not the right answer. Sight reaches us first. If you watch a band playing a good way off you'll see the drummer hit the drum a second or so before you hear the sound of it."

"Yes, sir, but sometimes sound goes reach you first."

"Can you give me an example?"

"Yes, sir. The new church hall. Dad said this morning that we had been hearing about it for the last ten years, and wouldn't see it for the next twenty!"—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

gineering, has been made principal of the Manchester school. Mr. Collins is a man without school experience, but has a splendid record at the University, and has specialized in vocational training.

The Supt. announced to the Board that Miss Langick's appointment was cancelled in view of the fact that she failed to accept the appointment within the proper time, and Miss Lula Crim, of Paducah, Ky., a graduate of Peabody College, and a post-graduate of the same Institution, Nashville, Tenn., instructor in the Southwestern Louisiana Summer school, has been appointed to the position of elementary supervisor.

The Board after considering the various bids made for cars for the Supervisors, instructed the Supt. to accept the bids of Klee & Hoff, and the Harbaugh Bros. for Maxwell and Dodge cars respectively. A committee was also appointed to purchase for the repair department a three-quarter or ton truck to bring about more efficient service in that department.

The bid of William H. Saylor for reconstruction of the Mechanicsville school building for the sum of $2059 was approved. The work is in progress and will be completed by the opening of school. This is to provide in this school three additional rooms for the purpose of affording some high school facilities at this place, and relieve the congestion at Westminster.

In order to avoid congestion in the high school department of the various high schools of the county, the Board under its authority in the law to organize districts for school purposes, has organized high school districts as follows:

Taneytown district, to be included within a line beginning at the Monocacy, through to Keysville, and along Pipe Creek to Weishaar's mill. From this point along the road to Mayberry and through it to the stone road and from this point through Marker's Mill, along the Piney Creek road to within a mile of the Pennsylvania railway, and from thence to the Pennsylvania line east of Kingsdale.

(Other districts lines were defined.—Ed.)

This districting is to be understood is not to be rigid along the district lines, so that, a child located along any of these lines may have the option of attending in either district, subject to the interpretation of the principals of the two schools involved acting jointly.

A high school principal is to be furnished with a map of the county showing these districts, which is to be placed in a conspicuous place in the school office for the determination of such questions as may be raised under this ruling of the Board.

The Board adjourned at 10 P. M.

State Game Regulations.

The Acts of 1922, Chapter 301, provides for an open season on squirrels, September 1st, to October 15, closed until November 10, on which day it opens for the second time and closes January 1. The open season for Doves also opens September 1. The Bag Limit on Squirrels and Doves is 25 each per day.

The State Game Department has about 700 Deputy Game Wardens scattered throughout the State, who have been instructed to rigidly enforce the law and we sincerely trust that persons who are allowed the privilege to hunt Squirrels and Doves in September will not molest other species of game in any manner, thereby avoiding the embarrassment of being prosecuted for violation of the Game Laws of this State. To avoid the usual rush which always occurs prior to the opening season for the killing of game, the Clerks of Courts who are empowered to issue hunting licenses, would appreciate the favor very much if the sportsmen would secure their licenses as early as possible and avoid the last minute rush.

Each hunter at the time he purchases a license will be furnished free, a tag, which must be worn on outer garment between shoulders while hunting. License must be in possession and tag in full display, while hunting. Penalty for each offense $15.00 and costs.

'Twas Said—

A man was sitting on the beach one afternoon quite near a young widow and her little daughter. The child came over to him, and asked: "Please, sir, are you married?"

The man laughed, and said that he was not. Whereupon the little girl turned around and called to her mother:

"Ma, he ain't married. What else do you want to know about him?"

A great many people hesitate to walk into a store to ask a question about the article of merchandise they are interested in, but no one need hesitate to come in here to ask questions for we are always ready and about them.

HARMONIOUS CONSISTENCY

"What is the meaning of 'consistency'?"

"Consistency, my son, has to do with the fitness of things."

"I don't know just what you mean."

"I will give you an example."

"Yes, sir—"

"A freckle-faced girl in a polka-dot dress, leading a coach dog."

If She Were Teacher.

Little Girl—If I was a teacher I'd make everybody behave.

Aunt—How would you accomplish that?

Little Girl—Very easily. When girls was bad I'd tell them they didn't look pretty; and when little boys was bad I'd make them sit with the girls; and when big boys was bad I wouldn't let them sit with the girls.

Taking His Time!

Assistant—Is this a Persian or a Turkish rug?

Storekeeper—Who has been asking about it?

Assistant—A lady who wants a Persian rug.

Shopkeeper—Why, of course, it's a Persian rug—tell her that it's very rare.

A Convenient Affliction.

"I'd do something for that cough if I were you, old man."

"That cough, my dear boy, is indispensable. Whenever a life insurance agent calls to see me I turn it on and he never stays longer than three minutes."—Boston Evening Transcript.

SOME CONSOLATION

"Am I the first man you ever kissed?"

"You're among the first."

About Troubles.

Troubles come, Right well I know! But remember Troubles go.

In the Agrarian Bloc.

"What has been your previous business experience?"

"As field manager."

"For whom?"

"For Farmer Si Cornotssel, just outside of town. I managed his field hands for him two summers hand running."—Farm Life.

In That Sense.

Heck—Your wife is certainly a remarkable woman.

Peck—Think so?

Heck—Indeed I do. Don't you?

Peck—Well, she certainly is able to make more remarks than any other woman I know.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Repetitive.

Pinker—I think that Reginald is a four-flusher.

Tunn—Well, I know that he's a second-story man.

"You don't say so?"

"Yes; he has never told an original one."

Negligible Qualities.

"Do you believe that spirits come back to this earth?"

"I don't see why they should do so," replied Senator Sorghum. "They don't need money and they haven't any votes."

That Settles It.

"I have bad news for you, Clarence."

"So?"

"Yes. I visited a fortune teller's this afternoon, and she told me that I am going to marry a handsome man."

Might Be Interested.

"My brother," said the pious person, "do you ever turn your thoughts to the River Jordan?"

"No, I don't," said the brisk promoter. "Has it any power possibilities?"

Not So Awful.

First Actress—Wouldn't it be awful if the earth stopped revolving and threw us into space?

Second Actress—I wouldn't care if it threw us into newspaper space.

ON THE JOB

Willis—How is the efficiency expert coming on at your office?

Gillis—Fine. He was such a success for the boss that we employees hired him for a week.

"Did he make good?"

"Did he? He showed us a new way to beat the time clock, taught us a lot of brand-new excuses for being late and how to hook the boss' cigars without being caught."—Life.

The Ruse.

"Is that an interesting book you are reading?" asked the garrulous traveler.

"Why, yes," said the crafty old gentleman, carefully concealing the title of the best seller he had in his hand. "This is a book on relativity. Now, if you have an hour or two to spare, I'll explain the theory to you, so—"

But even as he spoke the garrulous traveler rose from his seat and fled to the smoker.

Loads of Time Yet.

"Well, Harry," remarked Uncle cheerfully, as he came upon the small boy of the house busy in the front room, "good boy this morning, I hope?"

Harry regarded the clock and perceived it was just 11:30.

"I don't know yet, uncle," he said doubtfully. "There's half an hour more."

THE EXPLANATION

"Brown doesn't strike me as literary, yet he declares that he never feels so comfortable as when he is snugly settled in his library."

"Oh, that's not surprising. His bookcase is a folding bed."

A Sensible Name.

They chose a name for the baby fair, "Archie," he was called. So when he's old and shy of hair They can call him Archibald.

The Bride Shops.

"What is this stuff?"

"The dealer calls it limburger cheese."

"I should have thought its odor would have deterred you from bringing it into our happy home."

"He suggested it over the telephone, dear."

Assistance Not Appreciated.

Lady of the House—And you are going to leave me, Lena! I who have been so nice to you! Haven't I always done at least half of your work?

Lena—Yes, that's true, Mrs. Daly, but you have never done the work so that it satisfied me.

Positively Vulgar.

"When did you first begin to suspect that the gentleman burglar was not as polished as he seemed?"

"Shortly after we became acquainted," said the eminent parlor detective. "Whenever the subject was mentioned he referred to the police conveyance as the 'wagon.'"

Sure Enough.

"What in the world are you staring at that married couple so intently for?" asked one young woman of another on the train.

"Oh!" said the other girl with a start and a sigh. "It's so natural for us girls to contemplate matrimony, you know."

Donetz Basin Coal Fields.

The Donetz basin, in southern Russia, is the most important of the coal fields of that country, according to the commerce reports of the United States Department of Commerce. During the month of March, 1921, it furnished 530,430 long tons. The output of the region was about 60 per cent of the production of all soviet Russia and about 75 per cent of the production of soviet Russia in Europe. In July, 1921, production had dropped to 161,320 tons.

Can Senator France Explain Satisfactorily to YOU His Reason For This?

(From Baltimore Sun, March 6, 1919)

"COST STATE $3,500,000

"Senator France's Filibuster Killed Maryland Appropriation.

"Washington, March 5, 1919.—In his filibustering activities during the last days of the session in Congress, Senator France talked to death over $3,500,000 of appropriations for Federal public works and the maintenance of Governmental institutions in Maryland. Practically $2,000,000 of this sum was to have been expended in the construction of permanent buildings at Baltimore, Annapolis, Hagerstown, Cumberland, Easton, Elkton, Ellicott City and Laurel, so that every section of the state is made to suffer, and the congressmen from every district had their efforts brought to naught by the efforts of Mr. France."

The New International Manure Spreader is a Money Maker.

The basis of profitable farming is a fertile soil. In farming, as in other businesses, there are poor years and good ones, but the farmer who keeps up the productivity of his soil will forge ahead.

No method of maintaining soil fertility has proved so efficient as the proper application of barnyard manure. It is a foresighted policy to build up crop yields with an International roller bearing manure spreader. Put manure on your fields finely, evenly, uniformly, and economically; the extra fertility will in a short time pay for the International spreader.

Note again these features in International construction; 1. Roller bearings at seven points. 2. Power delivered from both wheels. 3. Double ratchet drive with six feed speeds. 4. Short-turn axle—no pole whipping. 5. Rear wheels track front wheels. 6. Tight bottom. 7. Two beaters and wide-spread spiral. 8. All-steel main frame.

You cannot afford this year to pass up an opportunity to save all the manure and use its fertility in making your farm more productive. See us about the new International manure spreader at your first opportunity.

Mouse Wore Diamond.

Some women may be afraid of some mice, but when a mouse gets civilized and swaggers enough to run around wearing diamonds—well, the heroine of this story tells it, and responsibility begins and ends with her.

Miss Genevieve Allen of New York, head of the abandonment bureau of District Attorney Swan's office, returned from a vacation in Maine to find a mouse cavorting on the floor of her office with a diamond gleaming from its tail.

Miss Allen realizing, perhaps, that she could never get away with the story without something resembling proof, caught that mouse. Whether she did it with gas, hypnotism or a depth bomb may never be known, but she got close enough to extract a diamond earring from the mouse's tail though she let the mouse get away without attempting to arrest it for burglary. The earring was turned over to Acting District Attorney Banton.

The Wishing Ring

By LILY WANDEL

© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"Oh, Mack, I simply refuse to be bored by its history! Tell it to Uncle Paul, who shuts himself in the stuffy old library and thinks I should be happy in this old, lonesome country place!"

"Here, hold out your thumb! There isn't it a gem? I got it in one of the old temples of Rajputana, and it is supposed to have the most amazing power. The saying is that a chaste maiden need only turn the ring three times around her finger and wish for the man of her dreams and he will appear."

"Mack O'Dale! You perfectly silly man!" but her eyes flamed with interest. "You surely have been in India too long. We have a new maid, a sentimental thing. I'll let her test the ring!"

"Be sure to tell her to close her eyes when she makes the wish," warned Mack gravely. "Good-by. I'll see you at dinner, Arline."

Bottomless mysteries and impregnable secrets were linked in the mystic charms of India, Arline had been told. Had thresome old Mack O'Dale captured something in that land of mysticism that had escaped the victims of the occult? She had not been so genuinely excited for years.

"I wonder," she mused, "if this would be a good place to try it, right here on the lawn, with not a soul in sight." Very great was her desire for her wish to come true, but subconsciously she had no faith in the power of the ring.

She closed her eyes and, wishing for the ideal man, turned the ring quickly three times around her little thumb, and then half afraid, opened her eyes. Before her lay the green lawn, the flowering bushes, a bit of the country turnpike, and the path leading to the house—and not a soul in sight. She laughed the bitter mirth of disappointment, tinged with real anger toward Mack when, without the slightest warning, a young man strode around the side of the house, a stranger, tall, brown and handsome, a modern Adonis.

Arline gasped, her heart pounding. He came directly toward her with a decisive military stride, his chin tilted imperiously and smoldering black eyes. She had not had a definite picture of the man of her dreams, but now she knew that not even in her fondest fancy she could improve on this man. He had come!

"I beg your pardon!" spoke the Adonis as soon as he came near enough. "Am I intruding?"

"I have been expecting you," answered Arline softly.

"What? That's remarkable—you see, I was trying to ask my brakes and something made me stop right here and—"

Arline came closer; she felt justified in doing so. "It is quite unexplainable, I know. I used to ridicule these things—the unseen, you know."

He smiled the most wonderful smile. "I believe I stalled the engine, but imagine my surprise when I looked up and saw this house—I was born here!"

"Wonderful!" breathed Arline, clasping her hands tightly together to relieve herself of the tremendous emotion that filled her.

"I know it," agreed the young man with enthusiasm. "I just had to get out—I wanted to ask permission to go over the place. I wonder—"

Arline shyly put her fingers on his coat sleeve. "Let us show you everything—come!" It was almost a caress.

"Will you? That's mighty good of you, but just wait a moment," Arline looked up inquiringly, hardly able to keep her lips from pursing invitingly. "I'll just skip back to the car," declared the young man genially, "and get my wife; she'd love to see it, too."

Arline's fingers fell away as if she had been burnt. She managed to mutter something appropriate and then fled. Almost panic-stricken she ran in through the garden into the orchard, and close to the hedge that separated the grounds from the public road she flung herself upon the grass and burst into angry sobs.

In a couple of minutes she sat up, wiped her tears away and smiled.

"It was just accidental, his coming. Mack's foolish old ring is not worth wearing, but—" she considered it with a giggle, "shall I try it again, just for fun, just to prove that it is a fake?" And straightway she closed her eyes, wished and turned the ring three times.

She opened them and looked into the merriest pair of blue eyes she had ever seen. They belonged to somebody on the other side of the hedge.

"Hello, there," said the owner of the merry eyes, who also had a jolly voice, "I've been looking for somebody to talk to—are you the goose girl or the milkmaid?"

"No," answered Arline saucily, "I'm tending the apple trees—here's my switch to chase naughty boys away from bothering them!"

"Oh, I'm not interested in trees," he laughed, "but couldn't you leave them for a few moments and come for a ride?"

She jumped up, her eyes aflame, ready for romance and adventure.

"Come on, hurry!" begged the young man, "just a spin while the boss and his wife are looking over this place!"

Arline's mouth dropped ever so slightly as she turned abruptly away. It was humiliating to have almost fallen in love with a chauffeur!

In the darkened drawing room she cried out her rage and mortification on the davenport. Something pressed cuttingly against her hot cheek. She took her hands away from her face; it was the thumb ring. "The cruellest kind of a joke!" she whispered, "when I'm famished for romance! Humbug! Fraud!" Then a gleam of decision came in her eyes. "I'll show you up, you old horrid ring! I'll try you out here, right in the house—nothing short of absolute magic will make a man appear. Uncle is away and Mack is in the village. Now!"

ready for the crucial test. This will end it, this pagan stuff!" She twisted the ring with closed eyes, wishing, waited a moment and looked. Nobody appeared, absolute silence reigned.

She smiled, relieved, but disappointed. Then, creak, creak, creak!

Terrified she waited, her eyes fixed on the door. Slowly it opened and there stood—Mack!

Arline did not know how it happened, but she was in his arms warmly cuddled against his rough coat. "I did not go to the village anyway," he explained. "I was afraid that you might try out the ring and—"

"I did," she laughed happily, contentedly, "and you are the result!"

"The ring brought us happiness," suggested Mack. "Shall it be your engagement ring?"

Arline smiled. "I do not care for the mystic, an ordinary diamond will do."

ASSOCIATE PIG WITH DEVIL

Thousands of Highlanders Now Living Have Refused to Eat Pork in Any Form.

Among the ancient "geasa" or taboos in Scotland none was of greater interest than the "geas" which prohibited the eating of pork. Thousands of living Highlanders refused either to keep pigs or to eat pork in any form. They despised pork as keenly as did the Hindus, the Jews, and the modern Greeks of northern Arcadia.

The pig was often associated with the devil. Fishermen refused to put to sea if, when walking toward their boats, they met a pig or a hare.

One of the names which the Gaelic-speaking people of Scotland had for the devil was "the black pig." When the devil appeared in human form he had usually a horse's hoof, but also sometimes a pig's foot. He was in the habit of visiting young people who played cards, which were, notoriously, the "devil's books."

Although the pig was generally associated with the devil there was Highland evidence that it might as a supernatural being be, like the fairies, of assistance to mankind. It could assume a bird form. The devil-pig and the god-pig were met with on the sculptured stones of Scotland.

Culturing Rubber Trees.

An interesting parallel has been drawn between the different varieties of rubber trees in the tropics and those of maple trees in this country.

Out of about 1,000 varieties of trees, all of which produce more or less rubber sap, only forty or fifty have been found whose product is considered commercially valuable. When a would-be cultivator of rubber goes to a tropical country and sets out a plantation of rubber trees which the natives know do not belong to the right variety, he causes amused comment, such as would be excited by a South American who came to the United States and bored holes in soft maples with the expectation of obtaining sugar sap. Experience has shown that excellent rubber trees transplanted from their native habitat to other regions having apparently identical soil and climate may flourish in growth, yet lose their producing power. Rubber culture requires great expert knowledge. —Philadelphia Ledger.

"NEW-WOMAN" IDEA IN CHINA

Modern Agitators Work Along Lines That Would Rid Orient of "Clinging Vines."

About the only thing of modern times to which China has not laid claim as being so old in that country that it was outworn and discarded centuries ago, is the new woman with a magazine of her very own, published in the interest of her development. This publication, observes the Pittsburgh Dispatch, called the New Woman, boldly states as its object the reform of the old society to give a more honorable place to women, and the new woman is described as "a joyous being, of honest occupation, complete personality, free, independent and mutually helpful."

Yet the new woman of China comes in for some criticism, for among the things she is exhorted to cultivate are plain living and dressing, which, the writer goes on to say, was the rule in old China, but that now women wish to keep up with the styles and wear jewels. They are reminded that the chief thing about good dressing is to wear clean clothing. Another admonition to the new woman of China which might indicate she is prone to err, just like the new woman of any other land, is that she put far away from her the desire for empty glory of "face."

In other respects the things commended for the new woman seem to be along the same lines as in other lands—the cultivation of strength of will to go outside the home and mingle with others and take part in public affairs, and to discard the clinging-vine habit of looking to the men for everything.

HAY FEVERITES MADE TOWN

Chance Discovery Had Great Effect on the Building Up of Petoskey, Mich.

A most unwelcome visitor is hay fever. With its advent a vast army of hay feverites move northward; some to the Maine woods, some to Mackinac Island and points farther north, and many to Petoskey, Mich., or its immediate vicinity, which seems to be a most popular camping ground for sufferers from the "hay."

We met a real old lady there a few summers ago, who told us that she believed she was the first person to discover that the Petoskey atmosphere had a curative effect on hay fever; she was a sufferer with that disease herself and more than fifty years ago, she said, she and her husband were en route by boat from Chicago to a point much farther north when they were driven by a violent storm into the bay at Petoskey, where they remained for two or three days, during which time she noticed that she was entirely free from hay fever.

At that time the medical profession was giving hay fever an extensive study, so when this lady and her husband returned to Chicago they related their experience and suggested that as Petoskey was so accessible to Chicago, the hay feverites form a colony and try out the place the next summer, which they did. They found Petoskey a straggling Indian village, with positively no accommodations for visitors, but as time went on and people continued to go there each year for hay fever, it gradually grew into a flourishing up-to-date town with several thousand inhabitants.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Harassing Wheat Pests.

Plant pests cause the loss of millions of bushels of wheat in the United States, and if all the wheat now destroyed annually by these pests could be saved and made into flour the United States Department of Agriculture says it would add approximately 29,463,700 barrels to the yearly output of the nation. The annual production of wheat in this country for the four-year period 1916 to 1919, inclusive, was 783,849,500 bushels. The annual loss from disease during this period was 147,318,600 bushels. While it is not possible entirely to eliminate wheat disease, it is possible to much reduce the toll. One branch of investigation in the bureau of plant industry is to work out the preventive measures for the diseases of all cereal crops.

Tree Saved by Washington.

An oak whose life Washington saved in 1791 is still flourishing on the Hampton plantation, Santee river, South Carolina, and has been nominated for a place in the Hall of Fame for trees with a history that is being compiled by the American Forestry association. The nomination is made by J. Danforth Bush of Wilmington, Del., who informs the association that the best of care is given the famous tree by Col. Henry Rutledge, the owner of the plantation. The beautiful old home was built by Daniel Horry, a French Huguenot, about 1750. Washington persuaded Mrs. Horry to abandon her plan to cut down the tree.

Puritan's Well Uncovered.

An old well, now dry, which is believed to have belonged to Gov. John Endicott of the Massachusetts bay colony, was discovered recently when a policeman kicked a brick loose in the sidewalk on Tremont Row in the downtown district of Boston.

The sidewalk slipped in for several feet and investigation showed the well about ten feet and partly filled. Historians said the well was of the type used by the Puritans. Governor Endicott, in 1635, occupied an estate in the vicinity.

DISDAINED KNIFE AND FORK

"Swell" Fooled Both Men Who Made Bets as to His Manner of Eating Breakfast.

Tex Rickard said to a group of correspondents the other day:

"It isn't only scrappers that make bad mistakes in etiquette. I was eating breakfast in one of the swell New York restaurants one morning when a fat man came in.

"He's one of the biggest swells in the town," says my friend. 'Watch him.'"

"The fat man—he was dressed like a prince—ordered two portions of ham and eggs, two of country sausage, two of buckwheat cakes and maple sirup, and, along with all that, mush and milk, lamb chops, liver and bacon, fried potatoes, oatmeal and corned beef hash.

"All these things were brought to him together, and he dumped them into a big soup dish and proceeded to cut them up and mix them round well.

"Hanged if that ain't the worst sight I've ever seen," I said to my friend. 'I'll bet you three to one, George, he eats it with his knife.'

"No, no," says George. 'He's a big swell, I tell you. I bet he eats it with his fork.'

Mr. Rickard shook his head gloomily. "We both lost," he said. "He ate it with a ladle."

Alarming Symptoms.

"I'm worried about my boy," said Mr. Cobles.

"What's the trouble?"

"He's dropping into poetry."

"Oh, well, maybe he'll outgrow it."

"I'm afraid not. If he were in love or sick an' off his feed I could understand why he might write th' kind of stuff I hear him readin' to mother an' th' kitchen girl, but so far as I know he's gone into that sort of thing without any justification whatever." —Birmingham Age-Herald.

LESSON FOR AUGUST 13

ESTHER SAVES HER PEOPLE

LESSON TEXT—Esther 3:1-6:22.
GOLDEN TEXT—The righteous cry, and the Lord heareth, and delivereth them out of all their trouble.—Psalm 34:17.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—Matt. 20:20-22; Rom. 5:6-10; 12:1, 2.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Brave Young
Queen.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Esther, the Brave
Queen.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC
—A Heroine Worthy of Imitation.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC
—Rendering Sacrificial Service.

I. Haman's Wicked Plot Against the Jews (3:1-4:3).

1. The occasion of (ch. 3). Mordecai refused to bow down to Haman whom the king had elevated to the place of prime minister and commanded that reverence should be shown him by all the princes and servants. In order to get rid of Mordecai Haman formulated a scheme and secured the king's endorsement to destroy all the Jews.

2. Fasting and mourning among the Jews (4:1-3). In their distress they sought the Lord. They did that which all those who believe in God had a right to do (Jas. 5:13).

II. Haman Checkmated (4:4-7:10).

1. Plot made known to Esther (vv.
4-8). Mordecai appeared before the king's gate clothed in sackcloth. This condition was reported to Esther by her maids and chamberlains. Upon his refusal to put away mourning Esther sent Hatach, her special attendant, to find out the cause of it.

2. Message to Esther (v. 8). This was in the form of a charge that she go unto the king and make request for her people.

3. Esther's hesitancy (vv. 9-12).
This was on the ground of a certain law which made it a capital offense for anyone to come into the king's presence unbidden unless the king should extend clemency by holding out the golden scepter. The fact that Esther had not been called to come in for thirty days would seem that the queen was in disfavor.

4. Mordecai presses her obligation (vv. 14, 15). (1) Her own life was involved (v. 13). She might meet death if she went to the king unbidden, but most certainly she would meet death if she made no effort to avert the danger. Being in the king's house would not save her, for the decree had been made against the race of which she was a part. Her silence on this occasion would mean death. (2) She was not God's last resort (v. 14). He argues that deliverance would come from another source. God's work goes on and His purposes are fulfilled regardless of the decisions of men. (3) Reminds her that she had probably been raised up for this very work (v. 14). Every one has been born and prepared for some definite work.
God's providence brings us into the particular circumstances where we can most definitely do His will.

5. Esther meets the call of duty
(4:15-5:3). (1) Preparation by fasting (v. 16). She instructed Mordecai to gather together all the Jews in Shushan and fast for her for three days and nights. She with her maids did the same. (2) Went into the presence of the king (5:1-3). Having made the decision to do her duty regardless of consequences, after due preparation by fasting and prayer, she presented herself in royal apparel in the presence of the king. She decided that the best thing she could do was to lay her life on the altar. "If I perish, I perish" ought to be our watchword when face to face with duty. (3) King's promise to Esther (v. 3). He assured her that her desire would be granted even to the half of his kingdom.

6. Haman hanged (5:4-7:10).
Esther was shrewd as well as courageous. She invited the king and his prime minister to a banquet. At this banquet she proposed another for the following day, at which time she promised to make known to the king her request. Haman went home jubilant, but that night something occurred which turned the tide. The king discovered that no reward had been granted Mordecai for having saved his life. Haman is compelled to exalt Mordecai, and at the second feast the queen revealed his wicked treachery and he is ordered hanged on the gallows which he had prepared for Mordecai.

III. The Jews Delivered (chs. 8, 9).
Haman was dead, but the decree against the Jews still stood. Esther pleaded that it be reversed. While it could not be reversed, through her influence another decree was sent out which in a large measure counteracted the first. The Jews everywhere were granted the privilege to defend themselves and destroy their enemies.

Pride and Humility
James 4:6-10

"God resisteth the proud." That of itself ought to be a sufficient warning and safeguard against pride. It is a painful matter, and sometimes disastrous as well, to be resisted by human power, but who shall say what is involved in the words, "God resisteth the proud?" Pride is offensive to God.
It is an assertion of self-will against the divine will. It is the parent of envy, jealousy, ill-will, injustice and every hateful thing. "Every one that is proud in heart is an abomination unto the Lord" (Prov. 16:5). In the seventh verse of our Scripture lesson there is an injunction given to "resist the devil" who fell through pride (1 Tim. 3:6). He asserted his will against the will of the Lord. (See Isa. 14:12-14). Here is the essential thing in pride, it wants its own way, not only with man but with God.

Pride manifests itself in many and various ways—ostentation, desire to make a show and receive admiration and praise—contempt of others, boastfulness, arrogance. It is an ugly thing which loves none but itself and is loved by none but itself.

The great preventive to, and the great antidote for pride is the beautiful and positive grace of humility.
To the cultivation of this the Scripture insistently calls us. "God giveth grace to the humble." This grace creates an atmosphere in which kindness, pity, generosity and love grow and flourish. Submit yourselves therefore to God." Yield to Him in the providential circumstances of life as they arise. "Let the peace of God rule in your heart." "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly." This is the way of submission to God. It produces a beautiful life, one in which the uplifting power of God is in force according to the promise of verse 10.
The careful reading of Romans
12:3; Galatians 5:22; Ephesians 4:1-3, and 1 Peter 5:5-8, will be of value in the preparation of this theme for the young people's meeting. Against the sin of pride the New Testament constantly warns, and carefully guards the child of God.

Facial Reconstruction.
The possibilities conjured up in the most prosaic imagination by even a casual summary of happenings at the eleventh annual congress of the American College of Surgeons, held in Philadelphia recently, make an appeal of outstanding general interest, says W.
A. McGarry in the Scientific American. Perhaps the most amazing single item was the war-born work in facial reconstruction. But at first glance the building of a human face seems a phenomenal achievement, its importance to the whole public dwindle perceptibly in comparison to some other traits that daring surgeons are blazing with encouraging success in sections of the human body almost uncharted, so far as the knife of the operator is concerned.

The brain, for instance, has been approached by the most skillful surgeons, even in recent years, with hesitancy. Intra-cranial operations have been a last resort. By actual operations at the recent congress it was demonstrated not only that this condition no longer exists, but that the specialist in brain surgery is now as sure of his ground as the bonesetter.
In the presence of famous surgeons from many countries of Europe and South America, one surgeon, working by the light of a tiny electric bulb inserted into the hole which he had cut in the patient's skull, performed an operation consuming more than two hours.

Battlefield Newspapers Live.
The flourishing, if somewhat erratic French battlefield press has not entirely disappeared since the armistice, says a Reuter dispatch from Paris in the Westminster Gazette. The former French editors of trench journals have banded themselves together and formed "a friendly society of newspapers of the front." They still publish a joint paper, little known because it is not on sale to the general public, called the Ex-press du Front.

In the last number of this journal, which appears in as erratic a manner as did its predecessors when they had to bow to the exigencies of a day's hard shelling or night counter attack, appears a notice to readers: "Never grow anxious when the Ex-press is late." It reads, "It is signaled once a month, but it has to go slowly because it has to beware of the level crossings."

Beautiful Lake of Atitlan.

A great lake in western Guatemala, seldom visited by travelers from the United States, is described in the Panama Magazine by Dr. Alfred P. Maudslay, the British geographer. This is the Lake of Atitlan, situated in what Dr. Maudsley describes as "one of the most beautiful and least known regions on the American continent." The Indians in the neighborhood of the lake are the descendants of the Quiches, Cachiquels and Zutugils, and still retain many of their old customs.
At one time these three tribes are said to have formed a powerful confederacy, but they were at war with one another at the time of the arrival of the Spaniards, and all three were easily subdued in detail by Pedro de Alvarado, the headstrong lieutenant of Hernando Cortes.

JAP GIRLS GET INTO LINE

Increasing Physical Activity and Independence Are Regarded as of Particular Significance.

A new freedom in physical movement is discernible if not obvious in feminine Japan. It can be noted on the street in the little girls' play. Always they have had the most varied line of games and were fairly active, but nothing so unladylike as jumping over a stick, a sort of pole vault without the pole. Now this is not unusual in the larger towns, and surprisingly high do these wooden clogged, kimonoed, pig-tailed youngsters jump, and with much abandon.

In the girls' schools there is much more activity than even three years ago of the kind that past generations of American mothers called tomboyishness, and increasing interest in tennis and basketball. Also it is not unbecoming now for maiden or matron to hold up her head in line with her spine, and frankly look on at this world and all its incumbrances. Formerly it was almost the great unpardonable not to carry the head slightly forward, with eyes downcast. This attitude of humiliation is now becoming fearfully old-fashioned.

Foreign teachers of long experience say that the change in this respect is striking in the classroom. Students when reciting now look up squarely at the instructor instead of at their knees as formerly. As this is not a taught thing, but the reflex of a change within, vital enough to overcome teaching and inherited tendency, it is significant.

Another change, trifling, but a straw that shows the direction and velocity of the current, is the growing habit of man and wife to walk side by side on the street instead of my lady pigeon-toeing along about a pace in the rear of her lord.—Scribner's Magazine.

TRUE DA VINCI IN LOUVRE?

Museum Director Scoffs at Theory That Famous Painting Has Been Brought to America.

Artists and friends of the Louvre museum may reassure themselves.
The original of Leonardo da Vinci's painting, "La Belle Ferronniere," hangs in the museum and is not in America. This on the authority of D'Estournelles de Constant, director of national museums.

"This is an old story," said the director. "It is not the first time that the authenticity of our masterpieces has been questioned by foreign collectors. There seems to be no way of putting a stop to the habit."

"The painting entered among our collections under the title of 'La Belle Feronniere' was certainly from the brush of Leonardo da Vinci himself.
It was among the art treasures of Francis I and, in 1642, Pere Dan, the king's minister of finances, identified it as the portrait of the duchess of Mantua. Certain historians, on the other hand, have maintained that it was that of Lucrezia Crivelli. It is generally conceded today that the picture represents La Belle Ferronniere, one of Francis I's favorites."

"Whoever it may represent, however, the painting had always hung in the private apartments of the king
until it was transferred to the Louvre.
Its authenticity might possibly have been questioned had it been stolen at any time. But no such misadventure ever occurred to it."—From Le Petit Paris. (Translated for the Kansas City Star.)

Bans the Merry-Go-Round.

Verily the most capacious of music critics must confess that when the overture of "Poet and Peasant" is hooted out by the steam callopie of a merry-go-round it carries to the juvenile ear a more vital inspiration than could a Philharmonic feast in Carnegie hall or a whole opera at the Metropolitan. Imagine, then, the grief of Tarsos Polycrone at the refusal of Mayor Scott of New Rochelle to license him to operate a $30,000 merry-go-round on a lot that he and his two brothers have bought at the entrance to Hudson park.

Supreme Court Justice Platt of White Plains will decide whether the gorgeous merry-go-round planned by the Polycrone brothers shall be sanctioned or not, for the indignant trio has applied to him for a writ of mandamus to compel Mayor Scott to issue a license.—New York Sun.

Fishing Fleet Reduced One-Half.

Heavy toll exacted by storms threatens to ruin the fishing industry of Newfoundland. A movement now is on foot to induce the legislature to offer heavy bounties for the building of schooners. It is reported.

During 1921 42 stout fishing schooners dropped into Davy Jones' locker, and 1922 already has a lengthy list of losses. The entire Newfoundland fleet today is not more than half that of 1900. The number of schooners between 30 and 65 tons in service today is about 500, as against from 1,000 to 1,500 in the closing days of the Nineteenth century.

Triumph for Old-Timer.

The little red schoolhouse won a victory over the present day educational institution, with its domestic science and vocational training courses, during an old-fashioned spelling bee held in Bucyrus, Ohio, when Mrs. E. B.
Finley, eighty-seven, spelled down 25
graduates of high schools and colleges in a contest lasting over three hours.
Renaissance, vertiginous, rendezvous and fortissimo were the words that spelled defeat for her opponents, and then Mrs. Finley became so excited she dropped out with "tuberculosis."

CHRONICS—BOTH WAYS.

There are chronic "mail order house" buyers, just as there are chronics in everything else. Some folks never get enough of taking chances, and there is the pleasure of "getting mail" and seeing what is in it—about like opening "prize packages."

And there are, and always will be the go-away crowd, that goes because it can—and likes it. But, there is a way of reducing both crowds, and that is in advertising, and making buying at home more attractive.

Invite folks in an attractive way, and some, at least, will accept the invitation. Just "keeping store" isn't enough. Sugar and coffee—muslin and calico—coal oil and nails—can always be depended on to be in stock;
but, tell folks about the other things in stock they don't know about.

Almost everybody, nowadays, wants their patronage to be appreciated, and the advertising storekeeper shows his appreciation of trade, and his desire for more of it.

Some local dealers complain more than others about the mail order business, and there is a reason for it—some stores deserve more business than others, and get it.

Whenever one has something to sell that he can't load up and take to a warehouse and get the market price for, it is up to him to hunt for customers. Some think the other way, and expect customers to do all the hunting.

Both sellers and buyers do a lot of foolish things, and make a lot of mistakes, largely because they lack full confidence between each other.

TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Brief Items of Local News of Special Interest to Our Home Readers.

Hubert Null, of near town, spent the past week at College Park.

Miss Carrie Mourer, of New York, is visiting Robert W. Clingan and family.

Mrs. Jacob Snare, of Middleburg, visited Mrs. Martin L. Buffington, on Thursday.

Robert R. Fair, of Baltimore, spent several days here, this week, visiting his mother.

D. Thomas Reindollar, of Baltimore, is visiting his brother, Norman R., and family.

Joseph Douglass, of Baltimore, well known here, is critically ill at his Walbrook home.

Miss Mary Hesson is visiting friends in Quakertown, Penn., near Philadelphia.

Tobias Reid is critically ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Arkansas Fink, near Harney.

Curvin Hoke and wife, of York, Pa., spent Saturday and Sunday with J. A. Thomson and wife.

Miss Mary Reindollar returned home, on Tuesday, from a visit to Mrs. Oscar B. Thomas, in Baltimore.

The street lights now "come on" at 7:30; Fall is just around the corner; then old winter—and no coal in sight.

Miss Ethel Ohler is spending some time with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hiltbrich, in Baltimore.

Miss Ada R. Englar spent several days the first of this week, visiting her friend, Miss Pauline Fuss, near Union Bridge.

Rev. David F. Hafer, wife and son, of Phillipsburg, N. J., visited his brother, Rev. L. B. Hafer and family, on Friday of last week.

Miss Percy Adelaide Shriver and Miss Annie McLaughlin are spending a few weeks with Mrs. Charles McFadden, at Andalusia, Pa.

Edward Hahn and wife, of Pleasant Valley, and Emory C. Ebaugh and wife, of Carrollton, visited Mrs. Jesse Myers and family, on Sunday.

Mrs. James Demmitt received word, on Tuesday morning, of the death of her father, Mr. Josephus Shriver, at his home 68 South 30th. St., Camden, N. J.

Dr. and Mrs. Cranston, daughter, Maybelle and son, Clyde, of New London, Ohio, recently visited at Bassett Shoemaker's. Mrs. Cranston is a cousin of Mrs. Shoemaker.

Union Bridge has a plan on foot to employ a night patrolman, for the business section of the town; a portion of the cost to be raised by subscription and the remainder to be paid by the town.

Dr. F. T. Elliot and P. B. Englar, spent from Friday until Monday on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Elliot, near York Springs, Pa., and as a side trip took in some of the sights of Harrisburg.

Mary, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Baker, near Otter Dale, was operated on at a physician's office, in Union Bridge, for adenoids and tonsils, last Sunday, and returned home the same evening. She is getting along all right.

Mrs. Maurice Bachtel and three children, Donald, Dorothy and Thelma; Misses Oneida and Gladys Bachtel, Edward Dutterer and Paul Fickinger, all of Littlestown, spent Friday of last week with Curtis Baker and family, of near town.

The attention of farmers, and others, is invited to an article on "Wood for Fuel" in this issue, and to the importance of getting ready, now, to supply themselves, as well as others, with wood for use this winter. There is plenty of fuel timber in this section not only for home use, but for sale to others.

Mrs. Rebecca, wife of Samuel Galt, of Copperville, was operated on at Frederick Hospital, on Wednesday. A large cyst was drained of about two gallons of liquid, and hopes are entertained that the operation may give permanent relief. Local anaesthetics were used. At last report, the patient was doing well.

Radio outfits have reached Taneytown. Charles Hesson is installing one, and another is on exhibition at S. C. Ott's store. An altogether wonderful invention, considering everything, but as yet not fully perfect. The one at Ott's store is connected with broad-casting stations at Pittsburgh, and Schenectady, N. Y.

Misses Blanche and Miriam Arthur, of York, are visiting Mrs. John Hockensmith.

This Saturday afternoon, the New Windsor club plays here, and a good game is sure.

Edward Fleagle, of Yonkers, N. Y., visited his sister, Mrs. Edw. Winters, and other relatives, this week.

Don't forget the candy sale, at the Firemen's building, Saturday afternoon and evening, for the benefit of Near East sufferers.

The Willing Workers of Grace Reformed Church, held a picnic in Flickinger's grove, along Pipe Creek, on Thursday afternoon.

The Record received a copy of the Willoughby (Ohio) Republican, perhaps containing an article, or item, of interest to this neighborhood, but as it was not marked, we were unable to make note of it. All papers sent us for a special purpose, should be plainly marked.

Basehoar Family Reunion.

The third annual reunion of the Basehoar family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Mehring, on York St., Taneytown, on Thursday. All of the guests arrived by 12 o'clock, and after partaking of a splendid dinner prepared under a large awning on the lawn, the entire family was invited into the parlors, where, after family worship, some excellent addresses were made, among which was one by Rev. I. M. Lau, who spoke of the importance of family reunions; how they renew many memories, and brighten up friendly and family ties, keeping all more united, though separated; and how all look forward to a like occasion a year hence. The following were present: D. W. Garner and wife, Mrs. Vallie Hoagland, Robert, William and Anna Hoagland; D. M. Mehring and wife, Wilbur B. Mehring, Harold Mehring and wife, Richard and Idonah Mehring; Norman R. Baumgardner and wife, and daughter, Mildred; Chas. H. Basehoar and wife, and Clyde Basehoar; Rev. Irvin M. Lau and wife, and Irvin Lau, Jr.; Rev. Gould Wickey and wife and Catherine Wickey; A. Calvin Basehoar and wife; Dr. Curtis S. Basehoar and wife, William and Augustus Basehoar; Dr. C. M. Benner and wife, and Robert Benner.

The reunion, next year will be held at the home of A. Calvin Basehoar and wife, near Gettysburg, Pa.

Property Owned by Negroes.

In 60 years negroes in the United States have acquired 22,000,000 acres of land, as working farmers, and not as speculators. They own 600,000 homes and 45,000 churches and operate 78 banks, 100 insurance companies, besides 70,000 business enterprises of various kinds, with a capital of $150,000,000. Illiteracy has been reduced to 26 percent, due to the fact that there are more than 400 normal schools and colleges for negro teachers.

Ladybugs congregated after the first frost in the Rocky Mountains, entering rocky crevasses where they become dormant. The bugs are then gathered and put into boxes until early spring, when they are sold to orchardists to prey upon aphids and other plant life.

THE SEASON'S SCORE

Taneytown Won, 15 — Lost, 4

Taneytown 10—New Windsor 2.

Taneytown visited New Windsor, last Saturday, and added another game to its collection, by the comfortable score of 10 to 2. Bonsack had the fun of pitching against his home town boys, and mowed them down in great shape, while the Taneytown team took very kindly to the curves and slants of Metzger. The visitors played a steady, better all around game than the locals, and won easily.

Taneytown 3—Union Bridge 5.

Union Bridge won from Taneytown, at Union Bridge, on Wednesday, 5 to 3. The umpiring on balls and strikes appeared to favor Union Bridge; but Taneytown lost because of errors, and the failure to accept several fielding chances. Lucas, of Baltimore, pitched for Union Bridge, and Shaeffer, for Taneytown. Battery honors were equal, 9 strike outs for each, and each had 5 safe hits, while Taneytown had 7 errors to 1 for Union Bridge. The score was:
Taneytown 0-1-0-0-0-0-0-2-0-3
Union Bridge 1-1-0-0-0-0-0-2-x-5

The 3rd. Thursday in August.

(For The Record.)

Years ago, before automobiles tore madly over cement roads, when one thought of churches in smaller groups than Presbyteries and Conferences, and it was not essential to go to Pen-Mar, or Braddock, for a reunion; when everybody in the family expected to go to church every Sunday, there used to be the dear old custom of a church family picnic.

Baskets were packed with fried chicken, and ham, and biscuits and Maryland biscuits, potato chips, pickles and lovely big chocolate and coconut cakes, and maybe, a box of caramel. Coffee was made over a fireplace of stones—and such coffee! And often it required a carriage, a spring wagon and perhaps a buggy to transport all of one household.

Three or four families of relatives, or maybe friends, would spread their tablecloths together on the ground, then carriage seats and shawls were put around for the older folk; the rest sat on the warm ground. No matter how many there were in these families, there was always room to bring in others who might happen along. By this arrangement, friends and relatives who had not seen each other for quite a while, had a real opportunity for a real visit.

Such was the picnic held in the grove by Piney Creek Presbyterian Church, in the days when Emmitsburg, Piney Creek and Taneytown, were all in one charge, under the same pastor. The spectacular part of the day was when the most grown up young people from Emmitsburg rode gaily in the red band wagon, someone sitting with the driver, blowing the post horn to announce their arrival. The date was always the third Thursday in August, and the place Piney Creek Church.

This year, there will be a revival of this old picnic, on the 17th. of Aug. which will be the third Thursday, the same old date; but this time not an all day affair—just the afternoon, with supper in the grove. Everybody pass the word along, and tell your friends to come too. A. G.

Prosperity for Farmers.

Unquestionably, the strike of the present—as well as those of the past two years that have been continuous—present somewhere—have greatly retarded production, which means retarding lower prices for manufacturers of all kinds. As long as these unsettled conditions remain, there can be no material downward selling prices, in anything like their proper proportion.

As farm produce is not greatly affected by unionism and strikes, consequently the drop in produce has been unshared, which places farmers at a decided disadvantage, being compelled to sell largely at low prices, and to buy largely at high prices—or at prices not commensurate with those they receive.

This condition is bound to remain until costs of production are reduced, and production itself is speeded up. The farmers, therefore, should be unanimous against strikes, and every other condition that stands in the way of unrestrained, natural business activity.

Immense Potato Crop.

The white potato crop of the Maryland-Delaware-Virginia Peninsula has been a record-breaker this year, according to data compiled by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The movement for the present season has been practically completed. To date it consists of 16, 019 carloads, an increase of 10 percent, over the previous high record made last year.

Comparatively little of the crop seems to go to Baltimore, the bulk of it going to the markets of the Philadelphia, New York and New England districts and to the Central Western region between Pittsburgh, Chicago and St. Louis. Nearly 20 percent of the entire crop this year went to New England.

The Pennsylvania Railroad reports that though the crop has been the heaviest ever known the car supply has been adequate. About 8000 box cars were required to handle the crop, each car averaging about two round trips between shipping point and market. July 12 was the heaviest day for shipments this year, the Pennsylvania that day carrying 661 carloads away from the Peninsula farms.—American.

Welsh Coal at New York.

New York, Aug. 8.—The first large cargo, 10,000 tons, of foreign mined coal to reach New York as the result of efforts to stave off a fuel famine among public utility corporations was brought in today by the Italian steamer Cherchas from Barry, Wales.

From now on a steady stream of British mined coal will arrive at this port, it was announced, eliminating the possibility of a fuel famine among transportation, light and power works which have purchased most of the tonnage now en route to America.
