

CARROLL COUNTY FAIR GROUNDS.

Present Fine Appearance. Best
Track in the State.

The Carroll County Fair grounds, that are now rapidly nearing completion for the Fair of September 11-14th, are attracting wide attention for excellence of location, and for what is generally conceded by experts to be the finest half-mile track in the state. The front on the Taneytown-Westminster state road, immediately adjoining east Taneytown, is all that could be desired for easy access, as there is a double drive-way and two ticket windows, and from this front one gets an unobstructed view of the whole ground.

There are fifty acres in the property, about 12 acres of which are in small timber, furnishing a fine background for the fair ground proper, as well as for lunching and strolling by those so inclined. For drainage, and general sanitary conditions, the location could not be better.

The buildings in order, from the front, are a cattle shed 24x200 feet; hog house 24x200 feet; poultry house 34x150 feet; general household exhibits 46x60 ft.; and the grand stand 30x204 feet. This building is the main centre-piece, and for the purpose intended is ideal. It will seat 2400 or 2500 people, and another 1000 can be accommodated in front of it, adjoining the judge's stand.

Just across the track in the enclosed circle is a large platform about 30x50 feet for various free performances, and a dancing floor of smaller proportions will accommodate those who care to indulge in this art. The entire track can easily be seen from any seat on the stand, and its large capacity will be a fine refuge in case of rain.

Across the track, and at the east end of the timber grove, are the 62 horse stables. There are now 12 or 15 track horses there, and attendants are on hand, day and night. Water for the ground comes from two bored wells, the supply from which is pumped into a stand-pipe, and distributed by a pipe-line system.

The entire ground is well lighted by electricity, making night events easily possible. The track is fully enclosed with a double fence. As said before, it is pronounced the best in the state, and looks it. It has the decided advantage of drying quickly after a rain, and is of just the right solidity for fast speed.

About the only things wanting, by Fair time, to add a finished appearance, will be painting, and the complete grading and smoothing of the entire surface of the grounds; but, for a first-year effort, those in charge of the work have done splendidly.

In addition to the buildings named, there are a number of other permanent buildings erected for show rooms and refreshment stands, as well as numerous comfort stations for men and women. The grounds are ample for parking cars, for exhibits and concessions of many kinds, and space under the grand-stand will furnish booths for the display of musical instruments and exhibits of many sorts; and, of course, there is a "mid-way" reservation.

The outlook for an excellent fair is very encouraging. While an enterprise of this magnitude naturally takes time for permanency, and much can be learned only by experience, the smaller fairs held for many years in Ohler's Grove have furnished much of this, and it is expected that while this will be the first fair in the new location, it will show but little of newness or inexperience. Visitors are sure to be impressed with everything they will see, and be surprised at the vast difference between the new and old location and equipment.

Information can be had about the coming fair by addressing H. A. Allison, vice-president, Claudius H. Long, secretary, or John H. Shirk, superintendent of privileges, all at Taneytown. Premium lists can be had free of charge, that also furnish information concerning the racing events.

P. O. S. of A. Expresses Regret.

Rev. L. B. Hafer was given a going away program by the P. O. S. of A., on Thursday night, that was a very enjoyable affair, and one of real profit to all who attended. A number of friends helped the members of the Camp make up the program, the parts of which were as follows:

Two solos by Miss Dorothy Robb, with Miss Hazel Hess at the piano; address by Rev. G. W. Shipley, of the Presbyterian Church; quartets by M. C. Fuss, Raymond Ohler, Loy Hess and John H. Lentz, with Mrs. Lavina Fringer at the piano, Addressed by Rev. W. L. Seabrook and States Attorney Theo. F. Brown, of Westminster; address by Rev. L. B. Hafer expressing his thanks for the many flattering tributes extended to him. He also gave an account of the Jubilee demonstration (75th anniversary) in Philadelphia. Refreshments were served.

LAST CALL FOR CALENDARS.

Our Calendar orders for 1924 will positively be closed September 20th. All orders received after that date—filled at all—will be charged with the cost of expressage from New York.

HELP STRICKEN JAPAN.

The Carroll Record will receive and turn over to the Red Cross, contributions for the stricken Japanese. All amounts will be acknowledged. This offer is made especially for the convenience of those who may not have a better means of contributing. Maryland's quota of a $5,000,000 National fund, is $65,000. Please be very prompt—all contributions should be made within the coming week.

Deciding Game at Westminster.

The last game of the County Baseball League, of the season, between Taneytown and Union Bridge, will be played on the Westminster diamond this Saturday, at 3:00 P. M. As the two teams are a tie for first place, this will be the deciding game, and should attract a large attendance. It was thought best to play this game on neutral grounds.

The League has had an intensely interesting record all season, due to the four teams being so closely matched in strength, and to the efforts of managers to strengthen weak spots regardless of cost, or the residence of players. The teams, in fact, especially for the last half of the season, have had little relation to the home town; and, this practice, once commenced, seemed to demand that it be kept up. The Carroll County League therefore has actually developed into the minor "professional" class, perhaps the equal of The Blue Ridge, or the Eastern Shore Leagues.

The contesting teams, on Saturday, each have a standing of 13 games won and 10 lost, while Westminster stands 13 games won and 11 lost, and New Windsor 8 games won and 16 lost. The full quota of games for each team is 24. This means that Saturday's winner will stand 14 won and 10 lost, while the losing team will stand a tie with Westminster, or 13 to 11, for second place.

No Primaries This Year.

No one thought it worth while to notify The Record of the action of the two parties, last Thursday, in setting the contests for places on the ballots this year, which removes the necessity for holding a primary election. Possibly those who thought of the matter at all, expected "George" to do it.

Anyway, the county has fortunately been spared the expense of an unimportant primary contest, but this escape should not be accepted without an effort to remedy the situation for the future. The demonstration of what may happen prior to any county election, has been clearly made, and it now rests with the taxpayers to focus a sentiment against our present laws that can not be resisted.

Even contests for membership on the State and County Central Committees, may precipitate an expense of approximately $5000, for a deciding primary, in which but a small percentage of all the voters take part, and merely that a few individuals may urge their ambitions for leadership. The law, as it stands, is too ridiculous to consider seriously, but it is a present fact, nevertheless.

Hoffman Orphanage Anniversary.

The 13th. anniversary of the founding of the Hoffman Orphanage of the Reformed Church, was held last Thursday, where more than one thousand persons assembled.

One of the features of the afternoon was the dedication of the east and west entrances to the institution and of the steel flag pole. The stone and brick pillars which form the entrances were donated by John L. Gerber and wife, of York, in memory of his mother Barbara Gerber. The dedication services were in charge of Rev. John Kern McKee, D. D., and the Rev. I. Edward Klingaman. Rev. Robert Lee Bair had charge of the dedication services for the flag pole.

The principal address of the afternoon was delivered by the Rev. Oswin S. Prantz, professor of New Testament Theology in the Reformed Seminary, at Lancaster. The exercises were in charge of the Rev. Dr. A. S. DeChant, of Hanover, president of the board of directors of the institution.

These anniversary exercises conducted each year at the Orphanage, mean a great deal to the children of this institution. It gives them an opportunity to come before the people who are interested in their home, and they are very proud of their ability, which has been developed primarily by this home.

The exercises were attended and the home visited by people from distant states, who were not only surprised but amazed at this wonderful institution that offers a home and care for homeless children.

Women's Club Exhibits.

The Women's Club of Taneytown is planning for an exhibit of work at the Fair, next week. There is so much information and inspiration one may get from the clubs, and our Home Demonstration Agent, that cannot be put on shelves for an exhibit, so you must not be disappointed that our showing will be very unpretentious. Just come in and look it over, and remember that the Demonstration agent belongs to the entire county, and the Women's Club is free to all.

AN EARTHQUAKE HORROR IN JAPAN

Over 250,000 Killed. Fire and Cholera Accompany Disaster.

An earthquake visited Japan, on Sunday night, and brought death and havoc to the country covering about 100 square miles. Fully 250,000 were killed outright, while fire followed and added to the destruction in Tokio and Yokohama, and surrounding territory. There is also an outbreak of cholera to add to the horrors of the situation. President Coolidge has issued a proclamation to the American people, calling for aid, and that for the present, donations be sent to the American National Red Cross, at Washington, or to any of the Red Cross chapters for transmission to Japan.

The U. S. Government, with the means and supplies at its disposal, is rushing relief supplies to the stricken country.

So vast an area of Japan has been devastated by the greatest earthquake in the history of this country that it will be long before the actual loss of life is known. The most reliable estimates of the dead up to the present reach as high as 200,000 to 320,000.

Tokio and Yokohama with surroundings which formed the center of the disturbances, are almost completely in ruins. For two days Tokio was swept by flames and, apart from the loss of life caused directly through the falling of the buildings, thousands have perished in their attempts to make their way through the fire zones and other thousands from exhaustion. Yokohama, Tokio's busy port, is a city destroyed. Probably more complete destruction has been wrought there than in the capital itself, for its great docks were torn asunder, its shipping wrecked, its public buildings and homes leveled to the earth.

All advices received here indicate a succession of earth's disturbances in that area extending for many miles inland and to the north, and everywhere the first destructive forces were augmented by explosions, the bursting of water mains, the overflow of rivers and the terrible overpowering rush of tidal waves.

Details of geographical changes are lacking, but it is reported that new islands have been forced up from the bed of the ocean, while whole sections have disappeared. Rivers are said to have changed their courses and volcanoes are erupting in various districts.

A Camping Trip.

(For The Record.)
I am sending a small item for your columns, requesting its publication. We, Mrs. F., children and myself, have just returned from a two months auto-camping trip to the middle West, visiting relatives in Nebraska. It was quite an experience and not all fun.

We were fortunate enough to avoid all accidents and to see only the pleasing countenance of the law as represented by blue coats and speed cops. So many people have the idea that the auto tourist is the victim of farmers and others from whom he may wish to get supplies. We did not find it so at all. Another impression I would like to correct, so far as it exists, and that is that the auto-camper is a messy lot.

If a camp is unsightly, it is the result of carelessness on the part of its care takers; since they provide no receptacles for unburnable waste, or the situation obtains in one of two other ways. A small percentage of auto-tourists are of the tramp class and often are careless about camp conditions, but in the great majority of cases unsightly camps for which the absent camper are held responsible are the results of a local picnicking party.

For instance, while camping on a Sunday, near Chicago, a dozen or more folks coming in as the tourists were preparing to retire, made things uncomfortable, and left in their train an area of chicken bones, pies, messy papers, etc.

Perhaps it would interest you, or your readers, to know that during the night when the funeral train of the late President Harding passed through Omaha, there was no infraction of the law, not one call for the police, although 40,000 people were massed about the silent union station where engines were changed.

To my notion, many of the farmers of the middle states are land crazy. A Maryland farmer would make his living off of what land grows up in weeds in Nebraska. We met one man who was farming 560 acres with the help of a 16 year old boy. Is there any wonder that the son craves the town life?

After passing through eight or nine states this summer, it seems to me that most of the American people take life too seriously to enjoy it. If we are money mad it is because we are looking for a future day when we can enjoy ourselves with more leisure; but that hour does not come. The man with 400 acres wants 800 to leave to his family so that unlike himself they will not have to work so hard.

J. E. FLEAGLE.

The P. O. S. of A. Band, of Hanover, Pa., won a prize of $100, at the Diamond Jubilee celebration in Philadelphia, for having the most members, 66, in the big parade on Saturday.

WORKMAN'S ARM TORN OFF.

Serious Accident May Result in death of Mr. Shryock.

Caught in a belt and whirled around a shaft, Brook Shryock, residing near Littlestown, had his left arm torn off at the elbow while working at the B. F. Shriver canning factory, that place about 9 o'clock last Thursday night, of last week.

Mr. Shryock, who had been employed as machinist at the Shriver factory for the past two years, was engaged in making some repairs at the time of the accident. It appears he had been having trouble with one of the heavy belts and was standing on a step-ladder making adjustments when his arm was drawn into the belt and whirled around the pulley several times, tearing the member entirely off, and leaving the unfortunate man fall on the moving corn-drag several feet below. Fellow workmen witnessed the accident and pulled the unfortunate man from the drag, he being in an unconscious condition.

The injured man was rushed to Gettysburg Hospital where the arm was amputated. He is in a critical condition. Mr. Shryock is about 50 years of age.

Cleaning With Gasoline.

Apart, from its employment as a vitalizer of all manner of machinery, from the ubiquitous automobile to the panting donkey-engine, gasoline, because of its value in the operation of dry-cleaning, has invaded the home, frequently with disastrous results. Indeed, the death toll from this domestic use is among the longest, as a glance at a random sheaf of state fire marshal reports will prove.

In the plainest of language, gasoline for cleaning purposes has no place in the home. Its fumes are certain to spread out in all directions, and if they come in contact with a lighted cigar, a burning gas-jet, a glowing coal in the fireplace, or even the merest spark, an explosion or fire will take place inevitably, and in the resulting flash of flame, whatever inflammable matter it touches will be fired instantly. When it is realized that a nail in one's shoe striking against a metallic object may produce a spark, and that sparks may even be caused by the friction of rubbing silk while cleaning, the countless opportunities for gasoline vapor to ignite and explode become apparent—and ten cents' worth of the fluid is sufficient to blow up an ordinary dwelling.

But carbon tetrachloride and similar preparations, which usually are obtainable at any druggist's, are safe and altogether satisfactory chemical substitutes. Cleaning with gasoline is tantamount to inviting disaster. This is a safe rule to follow; use only cleaning fluids approved by Underwriters' Laboratories.

There is, of course, but one way to extinguish a gasoline fire and that is to smother it. Since water and gasoline are not miscible, it is foolish to attempt to quench a gasoline blaze in the ordinary way. Unless a fire is of insignificant proportions, water would serve only to scatter the burning liquid. Most effective of smothering agents, because most easily handled, is the chemical fire extinguisher containing carbon tetrachloride, or some foam-producing liquid which will float on the surface of the tank or pool and so cut off the supply of oxygen.

For small gasoline blazes, earth, sand, ashes or sawdust—the latter best, for the reason that it will float—will serve in an emergency. Sometimes a woolen rug or a coat flung over a small fire will put it out instantly. But wherever gasoline is stored or used, whether in large or small quantities, a chemical extinguisher, of a type suited to the hazard, always should be available.

When Lightning Rods are O. K.

The Underwriters' Laboratories, an organization established and maintained by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, is anxious that all farmers of the country thoroughly understand the lightning rod situation as it exists today. These Laboratories have gone into the subject of lightning protection very thoroughly and conclusively demonstrated that properly installed and grounded conductors of proper weight and material will serve as a harmless path to the ground for a flash of lightning.

In order that the farmer may know when he is getting Standard material installed in a Standard manner, Underwriters' Laboratories has arranged to issue an etched aluminum master label for attachment to each building equipped with Standard material installed under their supervision. This is the final stamp of approval for the job and will be issued to the farmer immediately after the installation report has been received and approved by the Laboratories.

Under this plan, it is a comparatively simple matter for farm owners to specify that installation be a master label installation, and that he be guaranteed to receive a master label as evidence of compliance with standard practice by the manufacturer.

Since the Underwriters' Laboratories is organized purely for service, and not for profit, the new arrangement will simply be additional lightning insurance for the farmer. It gives him a practical guarantee that he is getting his money's worth when he buys lightning rod equipment. The main purpose of the Underwriters' Laboratories is to accomplish a reduction of the great annual fire losses in the country.—The Manufacturer, Industrial News.

ITALY AND GREECE FACING WAR

May Disrupt Europe and the League of Nations.

A condition of war prevails between Italy and Greece, due to the murder of Italian officers on Greek territory, for which the Greek government denies responsibility. On a demand for apology and heavy indemnity being refused by Greece, and the submission by the latter of a compromise proposition that was refused by Italy, the latter proceeded to bombard and occupy the island of Corfu, belonging to Greece.

The League of Nations is trying to settle the matter, but indications point to failure, due largely to Italy's refusal to accept the League as arbiter.

Consternation and a deal of sadness prevail everywhere, for it is generally though reluctantly, admitted that the league has been unable to withstand the first great test of its practical use as machinery for regulating differences between nations, since one of its leading members has declined to concede to its competence. Hence there is a growing sentiment among the smaller countries that, if the league covenant applies to them, it apparently does not bind the great powers of Europe.

All the more do they feel convinced of this because the proportions which the Italian and Greek conflict have taken are deemed by them to be unjustified by the original cause of the controversy, serious and regrettable as was the murder of the Italian officers.

But hope is not abandoned; there are stout hearts among the statesmen of the half hundred countries represented at Geneva, who believe in the league and in the ideal of conciliation and arbitration which the league voices, refuse to accept that action of any member, powerful or weak, can succeed in ruining the league as a power for good.

Costs $1.23 to Grow Wheat.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Reports compiled by the Department of Agriculture from 4,000 farmers in all parts of the country show an average production cost in 1922 for wheat of $1.23 a bushel, for corn 66 cents and for oats 53 cents. Against these figures the average sale price realized on the crop was $1.11 a bushel for wheat, 73 cents for corn and 48 cents for oats.

"The cost figures," the department said, in announcing the compilation today, "include charges for the labor of the operator and his family and for use of the land. Where the price received for the product was less than cost, either the farmer did not receive going wages for his time or he did not receive for the use of his land an amount equal to the cash rental value reported."

The department added that it felt the figures "closely approximate the average production costs incurred by farmers throughout the country during the period covered."

Gov. Ritchie Wants Baughman to Resign.

Recently much has been published concerning the resignation of Col. E. Austin Baughman as motor vehicle commissioner of Maryland. Col. Baughman has not been well and has undergone hospital treatment and is now taking a six weeks' rest upon advice of his physicians in the hope of regaining his health.

It is stated upon good authority that Commissioner Baughman has no idea of resigning, but that Gov. Ritchie is said to be rather anxious that he relinquish his post, and if this be true, Col. Baughman will probably resign.

There is no denying the fact that Commissioner Baughman has been one of the most conscientious officials in Maryland. He has endeavored to enforce the automobile laws of the State, and in doing so he has known no one of high or low estate. There has been much criticism, but no one has denied that he sought to enforce the law as he understood it.

It is known that some of the politicians have stated that the continuation of Commissioner Baughman in office would be a millstone about the neck of the Governor, and it is stated that there is a desire in some quarters that he be displaced before the November election. Some politicians have even gone so far as to state that to continue Mr. Baughman in office would cost the Governor 10,000 votes in his campaign for re-election.—Middletown Valley Register.

Proceedings of the Orphans' Court.

Tuesday, Sept. 4th., 1923.—Oliver J. Stonesifer and Mahlon T. Brown, administrators of Mary J. Brown, deceased, settled their first and final account.

Arthur L. Stonesifer, executor of Annie R. Stonesifer, deceased, reported estate of personal property.

Grace L. Brauning, guardian of Dorothy M. Miller, (now Young), ward, settled her first and final account.

The sale of real estate of Annie R. Stonesifer, deceased, was finally ratified by the Court.

THE COAL SITUATION.

Indications of an Early Agreement on the Question.

The efforts of Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, to settle the coal strike, are reported to be meeting with some success, and final conclusions are apt to be reached, this week. It is also a growing conviction that at best the settlement will be only a temporary compromise, and no settlement of the real issues involved.

The big, main question is, how much longer the consuming public is to be used as "the goat" without any representatives around the table? The Pinchot plan, if accepted, will largely pass an increased cost of coal to consumers; and next year, when a Presidential election comes along, the same old contention between operators and miners will likely be up again, for another "compromise."

The operators have accepted the governor's proposals, and it is now up to the miners, who are still holding out for the "check off" and more dollars and cents increase, though they have won a big "slice of a melon," apparently to be cut every year, when demanded.

Judge Urner to Grand Jury.

Calling upon the members of the September court grand jury to remember that all the criminal laws of the state were equally intended to be enforced regardless of personal opinion or inclination, Judge Hammond Urner delivered his charge at the opening of court Monday morning.

In enforcing the law the jury is obeying the will of the people as expressed through their representatives in the Legislature, Judge Urner continued. He urged the jurors not to be influenced by any question they might have as to the expediency of any law, for "it is for the law-making authority to determine as to the propriety of a particular penal statute and when it has been validly enacted the duty of grand juries and courts to enforce it is absolute and imperative."

Larcenies and burglaries, which have recently occurred in the county were especially commended to the consideration of the grand jury by Judge Urner, as were violations of the local option law.

Oregon School Law in the Courts.

Washington, Sept. 6 (Capital News Service).—National Capital educators are intensely interested in the legal test to be made of the Oregon school law. Suit for a test of the constitutionality of the bill, which became law at the general election last November, has been filed in United States District Court by a Catholic Society.

Adopted after a bitter fight in the last Oregon election this law makes it compulsory for all children below high school age to attend the public schools. It has been generally regarded as an effort to drive private schools out of business, and Catholics have looked upon it as aimed especially at their institutions.

Proponents of the law, which included a heavy majority of the citizens of Oregon, maintain that as the institutions of a state are the product of, and live or die by the character of its citizens, the state has a right to say how and by whom its future citizens are to be trained. Opponents of the law see in it an invasion of the rights of the individual to train his child as he pleases.

The test of the constitutionality of the law has been looked for ever since its enactment, and the results of the court action will be most carefully considered by educators and legislators in other states, who are only awaiting a definite pronouncement on the Oregon law before imitating similar legislation in their own jurisdictions.

Woman Commits Suicide.

Mrs. Marguerite G. Kline, aged 23 years, wife of Earl E. Kline, of Ladiesburg, committed suicide on Friday afternoon of last week, by shooting herself in the head with a 22-cal. rifle. Two weeks before, Mrs. Kline attempted suicide by cutting an artery in her left wrist, said to have been due to despondency. She leaves a two months old child.

What next? It is claimed by some that President Harding's death was due to the fact that he abstained from the use of liquors on his Alaskan trip, because he thought it was his duty to do so, following his Denver law enforcement speech, in June. It is claimed that up to that time he used liquor sparingly—and, when he quit, he died. It seems to us that every person dies, after he does something.

President Coolidge is urged to give up the practice of shaking hands with visitors, which has been customary with most of the Presidents. As the number of tourists who come to Washington has greatly increased, it becomes a tremendous task for a President to grasp hands with all these curiosity seekers. It is not the President's business to amuse pleasure seekers.

The Association opposed to Prohibition is endorsing known "wet" candidates for the legislature, lists from several counties having been published, this week. The lists, so far, are only for counties having primary elections—Allegheny, Anne Arundel, Calvert, Prince Georges and Talbot. Lists for counties like Carroll and Frederick, will likely be published later.

The Raise Less Wheat Advice.

The American Farm Bureau Federation, advises farmers to reduce their acreage of wheat twenty percent, as a means of bettering the agricultural situation. This may be an experiment worth trying; but, it is no more than an experiment. Wheat by another year, may be higher in price—all depending on the crops of the world—or, it may be as low, or lower, than at present. This Farm Federation is entitled to its guess, as well as anybody else, but so far as its advice is concerned, there is no assurance that it will produce desired results, although the argument back of it seems plausible enough.

Less wheat acreage likely means larger acreage of something else. If so, what? And, if there is a greater production of some other crop, will not that crop also fall in price? Every year there is a shortage, and a demand, for some particular crop, and the demand makes the price. If one could pick these items, year after year, and provide for them, he would be both wise and profited. But, there is the "if" in the way, and this same "if" stands for the ever present chance and risk connected with, not only farming, but almost all forms of business and all occupations.

The finite mind, therefore, has its limitations; and, while it is proper enough to try to look into the future, and benefit our occupation, the doing so is mere guess-work, at best, which means that all of the plans of men, and even the advice of specialists, are largely but the expression of desire, rather than the assurance of accomplishment. Farming, like every other industry must expect to have its "ups and downs" and there is practically little else to be done than make up our minds to be satisfied with average returns, year in and year out, for an extended period.

As a matter of fact, farming is no more unprofitable than it was twenty-five years ago, when wheat was along about 60c per bushel, since which time there were many good years, and some lean ones. And in another twenty-five years there will be exactly the same experience. No invention, nor plans, of man, will ever make farming, or any other business, profitable every year, and all the time.

Complaining will do no good. Blaming present conditions on "somebody else," is largely incorrect reasoning. Quitting the farm, is no sure remedy at all. There is just one general thing to do, and that is, do the best one can, taking conditions as they come; and along with this, perfect ourselves in the management of our business, finance our affairs wisely, save up when times are good, and expect the bad times to come, for they surely will. And with it all, preserve an even temper and an optimistic disposition, without getting the idea that the whole world is oppressing us.

The "Good Mixer."

The fellow that stands out prominently in the wanted list, today, is the "good mixer," and unfortunately this excellent quality is often placed first among desirable qualifications, instead of being only a very popular side accomplishment. Being a "good mixer" does not take the place of mental ability, and general right-mindedness; it is merely the quality of personal popularity—the genial smile, the hearty hand-shake, the cheerful talker.

As a second or third qualification, the "good mixer" talent is fine. Many a man of the finest mental calibre and the strongest sense of right, is handicapped by a sternness of manner, or a modesty that does not attract. In order to be a success, one needs to be able, self-confident and affable—he needs "winning ways" in order to make friends easily.

So, it is quite possible for the latter qualification to be strongly developed, and the former almost non-existent; and this accounts for the ease with which strangers often put crooked deals "over," and for unwise purchases and investments due almost entirely to the personality of the individual who uses his "good mixer" qualities to fool victims.

In politics; it has grown to be almost essential that a candidate, to have good chance of winning, must be first of all, personally popular. The Solomons are not in the race with the "mixers"—the jollifiers. The candidate with disordered digestion, but a fine brain, is at a disadvantage when contending against the hearty buck with limited gray matter. All of which means that we need to be on our guard against accepting too readily, this, or any other quality, that may be only of surface importance.

Too Much Speed.

Business, and industry in general in this country, is too much afflicted with the more speed idea. It is a laudable desire, in a way, to want to do more and bigger things every year, but the idea must have its limitations. If all did this, there would be a flood of production. We would exhaust both National and merely individual resources—wear out production in an untimely way.

The fruit trees are a fair illustration. We have plentiful fruit years, and scarce fruit years. Nature takes care of the situation. Plenty of fruit every year would not only shorten the lives of the trees, but result in great waste of fruit. Likewise, the soil can be over-stimulated; the human body over-worked; and the energy of people in every line exerted intemperately.

Most of those who progressively increase their business, and gains, every year, do so at somebody's expense. As the gambler wins, his victim loses. We launch our energy and opportunity against, not the actual needs for greater results so much as against our weaker opponents. We are in a social and industrial warfare among ourselves, more or less heartless; we approach the animal more nearly than we suspect in the degree with which we prey on one another.

We are too much inclined toward getting our feet in the trough, and crowding others out, as though it was the whole aim and end of life to be continually getting more of what we esteem the good things of life—at least of the things that we have an intemperate desire for—and the game isn't worth its cost.

Live and let live, the Golden Rule, honor and clear conscience before worldly success, are all real aims in life too commonly overlooked. As we look down, occasionally, on a confused mass of animals fighting and crowding for feed, so must the great Ruler of the Universe be looking down on us. "What fools these mortals be."

A Citizenship Creed.

This is the creed proposed by the American Bar Association for use during National Constitution week, September 16-22.

"I believe it to be my duty to inform myself on American history, the foundations of our government as embodied in the United States Constitution, and the application of the principles therein contained to present-day problems.

It is my duty as a good American citizen to help form public opinion in the community in which I live in order that all citizens may hold intelligent, just, and humane views on governmental questions and endeavor to have such views embodied in our laws; to cast my ballot in all local, state and national elections and to urge my fellow citizens to do the same; to serve as a juror whenever summoned, and to use my influence in every proper way to the end that lawyers, judges and jurors so conduct the administration of justice as to entitle the law and the courts to popular approval and support.

It is my duty as a patriotic American citizen to be a "Minute Man of the Constitution," ready at all times to defend the long established and cherished institutions of our government against attacks, either from within or without, and to do my part in preserving the blessings of liberty for which my revolutionary forefathers fought and died; that I must maintain continuously a civic consciousness and conscience; that my country needs my active service in times of peace no less than in war; that patriotism must be a constituent part of my religion; that no prouder boast can emanate from my lips than truly to declare, "I am an American citizen."

Loyalty to the Community.

Loyalty is the shibboleth that has opened more avenues to the attainment of hopes and ambitions than anything else. Constant, faithful fidelity will ever merit and receive its reward, and this is equally true in every phase of life. It matters not what your vocation may be or part played in that work, the same loyalty is expected and demanded. The call comes to the laborer with the same insistence as to the executive.

In the home life, loyalty is the sesame which opens and keeps wide the door to happiness and contentment. It assures the cementing of love and affection of parents with each other and with their children.

Imagine what would happen if the employees of a bank, its cashier or file clerk, were to be responsible for the circulation of a report that the institution was short of cash or otherwise in trouble, or of a clerk in a mercantile establishment telling customers that their prices were in excess of what should be charged or that lack of funds was handicapping his employer. The result would be instant dismissal. He would be told to get out and to stay out.

And so we come to Adams County. Your home, the home of your family and friends, of your business and employer. The home that is truly entitled to your loyalty. Are you absolutely loyal to the community, its churches, hospitals, schools, organizations and agencies for the moral and physical betterment of its people and business establishments? You may knock, be disloyal without having meted out to you the fate of the unfaithful employee. You will not be dismissed or told to get out and stay out, but you will receive the righteous condemnation of the good citizens. You will be denied that by them which should be of greater value than gold; their approval and praise.

Let loyalty be your watchword. Disloyalty is dishonor.—Star and Sentinel, Gettysburg.

Coolidge For Law Observance.

President Coolidge, in his address of acceptance of the nomination as Vice-President delivered to the committee who came to notify him of his nomination, said:

"Another source of the gravest public concern has been the reactionary tendency to substitute private will for the public will. Instead of inquiring what the law was and then rendering it full obedience there has been a disposition on the part of some individuals and groups to inquire whether they liked the law and if not to disregard it, seek to over-ride it, suspend it and prevent its execution, sometimes by the method of direct action for the purpose of securing their own selfish ends.

The observance of the law is the greatest solvent of public ills. Men speak of natural rights but I challenge anyone to show where in nature any rights ever existed or were recognized until there were established for their declaration and protection a duly promulgated body of corresponding laws.

The march of civilization has been ever under the protecting aegis of the law. It is the strong defense of the weak, the ever-present refuge of innocence, a mighty fortress of the righteous. One with the law is a majority. While the law is observed the progress of civilization will continue. When such observance ceases chaos and the ancient night of despotism will come again. Liberty goes unsupported or relies in its entirety on the maintenance of order and the execution of the law.

MUST HAVE FINE "FEATHERS"

Modern Girls of Every Degree of Life United in Their Demand for Silks and Furs.

"The modern young man," said a young woman who prides herself on understanding men, "likes to have his wife or fiancée dressed like a million dollars. The married or engaged girl, therefore, must spend more money and attention on her clothes than the girl who is free from such attachments."

Now, what do you think about it? To be sure it is a common failing of us all to like to be seen with well-dressed people. The married man likes his wife to look well dressed because she is pleasant to his own eyes when she is well dressed. It may be also that he feels that his own financial standing will be rated according to the richness with which his wife is dressed.

But really people are not so easily taken in as that. A casual observer may be taken in for a while. But if you have married on a clerk's salary and your wife wears sealskin, people are more apt to think, "How they must skimp and save to buy such clothes."

You are amused when you see the woman who comes to clean and wash wear silk stockings and a fur coat. It is just as amusing to the man higher up to see you or yours dressed in a way not warranted by your income. After all it is a bourgeois trick in the best of us—to ape the modes and manners of millionaires. The fact is we may not especially admire the millionaires at all. Your real hero may be some great scientist or public benefactor, a surgeon, perhaps, who spends his life and fortune to relieve the sufferings of others. Or you may almost worship at the pedestal of some brilliant man of letters, a poet, a musician or an artist. Your ideal of human perfection may be some great-souled preacher who has influenced your life past your own understanding.

And yet a man will make sacrifices to dress his wife like the wife of the ward boss who has made his money in graft, or the millionaire who has devoted all his intellect to building up a great sausage factory.

Now the fact really is that it is always bourgeois to try to be seen abroad in dress of those who are much richer than you. After the French revolution, when rich shopkeepers aped the manners of the aristocracy, philosophers laughed in their sleeves at them. Someone may be laughing at you now.

Pitcher Plants.

The pitcher plants are for the most part found in bogs. The leaves of all of these, while varying in details of structure, are pitcherlike in shape and modified for the purpose of alluring, catching and digesting crawling or flying insects and a few other animals.

Insects, spiders, and the like, are attracted to these plants partly by the brilliant colors of their pitchers and partly by the nectar drops exuded by the honey glands. They move to the lid where the secretion along the outer margin is abundant. From here they step upon the inner surface of the lid and slip the honey on the conducting surface. Upon reaching this surface they waver and slip off and fall into the water detentive region. They find exit impossible on account of the downward projecting hairs. They drown in the water and their bodies are digested by a juice secreted by the glands lining the lower portion of the pitcher cavity.

Running insects such as cockroaches and ants are the principal prey of pitcher plants, but flies and wasps are also caught. A drowned rat was found in one specimen of Nepenthes.—Exchange.

Starts Solar Dispute.

When Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the National Academy of Sciences, announced that the heat of the sun was gradually diminishing and had decreased from 3 to 4 per cent during the last fifteen months, he started a controversy which promises to rage indefinitely. If Doctor Abbot's statement is proved to be correct it means a cold summer, a spoiling of the crops and an unusually severe winter.

Doctor Abbot should speak with authority, since he has been continuously engaged in the study of solar radiation since 1895, when he joined the staff of the Smithsonian Astronomical observatory. During this period he has conducted several expeditions to study solar eclipses and has made frequent journeys abroad to confer with foreign scientists. He was born in Wilton, N. H., in 1872.—New York Herald.

Historic Square Threatened.

Kensington square, in London, dating from the days of William III, is threatened by a commercial invasion. To provide a garage for commercial vehicles, it is proposed to raze one of the old houses on the north side. Addison, Steele, Talleyrand and John Stuart Mill are numbered among the prominent personages that at one time lived in this charming spot. Distinguished artists and others are protesting against the step, which would irretrievably damage the historic square.

All Liable for War Service.

According to the opinion of the War department, every able-minded American is already included in the reserve forces of the army, unless attached or assigned to one of the three other elements of the system of national defense, namely, the regular army, the National Guard or the United States navy.

Bulletin Has Back-Yard Egg-Making in Nutshell

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A small flock of hens instead of a large garbage can means a sizeable balance on the side of thrift. In a nutshell, that is the essence contained in the 20 pages of Farmers' Bulletin 1381, Back-Yard Poultry Keeping, just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. It is a revision of a former bulletin and contains many new suggestions and conveniences that will be useful to flock owners in villages, small towns and suburbs.

Various uses are now made of the table waste collected from homes in towns and suburbs, but practically the only use that may be made of it on the premises is as feed for chickens, and this use, according to the bulletin, can be made very profitable if the birds are given good housing and care. It is assumed that each hen in her pullet year will produce at least ten dozen eggs, a reasonable requirement of only one egg every three days. The size of the back-yard flock seldom should go below ten hens. Ten birds laying eggs at the specified rate will produce 100 dozen in a year, which at the conservative price of 40 cents a dozen will make the flock income $40 a year.

The bulletin is really a handbook designed to answer any question that may come up in the mind of the owner of a small flock. It covers such subjects as the kind of fowls to keep, the size of the flock, procuring stock, housing, arrangement and sanitation of yards, feeding, lice and mites, hatching and raising chicks, culling the hens, preserving eggs, and practical pointers.

Plans and bills of materials are given for making houses of low cost and houses that will fit various conditions. Details are given on interior equipment such as roosts, dropping boards, nest boxes and coops for broody hens. It is suggested, for instance, that an orange box can be made into two good nests simply by nailing a narrow strip of board along one side to hold in the straw. The advantages of a double yard are discussed, and one paragraph tells of the value of a mulberry tree in supplying succulent feed for three weeks. There is a description of an interesting device for providing fresh green feed by growing oats through 3/4-inch mesh poultry wire stretched on a frame a short distance from the ground to keep the hens from killing out the plants.

Copies of the bulletin may be obtained, as long as the supply lasts, by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Whitewash for Chicken House Easily Prepared

A whitewash that disinfects, kills mites and brightens the poultry house is made as follows: Slake five quarts of rock lime with hot water to about the consistency of cream. To this add one pint of crude carbolic acid or zeno-leum, and one quart of kerosene. Stir thoroughly and dilute with twice its own volume of water. Apply with either spray pump or whitewash brush. When properly prepared, this solution serves three purposes: the zeno-leum acts as a disinfectant, killing the germs; the kerosene penetrates the wood, destroying the mites, and the lime whitens the walls, making the building sweet and light.

Strain More Important Than Breed of Chickens

There is no "best breed" of chickens. Breed does not play half the part that strain does. Pick a strain that has a record behind it, either for eggs or fancy—whatever you desire—buy directly from the principal breeder of that strain, or from stock direct from his strain and buy as good stock as you can afford.

There is no danger of getting the hen house too clean.

Water deep enough to dip the head in up to the eyes must always be given when the ducklings eat.

Oats, rye and new corn have never given good satisfaction for fattening poultry.

Stint in the feed bucket means stint in the egg basket or milk bucket. Grass won't do everything.

Feed all poultry regularly. Indifferent feeding methods never pay. Regular hours for feeding, proper feeds and the right amounts are required.

Water for swimming purposes may not be absolutely necessary to geese and ducks but they certainly appreciate it when it is provided.

Diarrhea in young poultry kills thousands every year. While this is a germ disease, improper feeding and care can do a great deal to bring it about.

WORLD STILL RULED BY MAN

Masculine Mind Continues to Be a Factor in Things That Are Really Worth While.

Those who either rejoice or lament—as the case may be—over the supposed fact that this is the woman's age, that the male has been entirely superseded, we commend a study of the following figures given out by an Eastern sociologist that bear on this debatable subject, says the Los Angeles Times.

Of the thousands upon thousands of sermons preached in this country last Sunday women preached not more than 170.

Of the pleas made in all the courts in the United States only one in every 190 is made by a woman.

Of all the newspaper editorials not more than one in thirty is written by a woman.

It is estimated that 95 per cent of the successful inventions and of "opinion-making ideas" still emanate from masculine minds.

So, according to Mrs. Gillman, the well-known educator, we continue to live in a man-made world.

On the other hand, 90 per cent of the education of our children is in feminine care and in the whole country 11,000,000 women are earning their living independent of masculine support.

Man still appears to be the chief factor in molding public sentiment. Perhaps, however, this is but another case where the hands are the hands of Esau, but the voice is the voice of Jacob.

LEARNED MUCH OF INTEREST

British Attempt to Reach Summit of Mount Everest Was Not Altogether a Failure.

Although the 1922 British expedition to Mount Everest failed in its principal aim, which was to reach the top of the highest mountain in the world, it did succeed in finding out a number of things of much interest to scientific men. These things are now being made known in various scientific journals.

Certain brave little plants, such as edelweiss, were found blossoming at a height of nearly 20,000 feet. Wild animals and birds, such as mountain sheep, ravens and rock doves, unacquainted with human beings, showed no fear of them at all, readily eating from the climbers' hands. These wild sheep, ravens and doves, together with wolves, foxes, rabbits, rats, mice and condors, with a few other birds, were found at an altitude as high as 20,000 feet, and occasionally even a thousand or more feet higher. Condors were observed flying high above the mountain's north summit, 24,000 feet above sea level, where the atmosphere was only one-third as dense as at sea level.

Some naturalists have proposed the theory that life on the earth must have begun first on mountain summits, for these summits might be considered as the first parts of the earth to be cool enough for the existence of living things. Geologists point out, however, that many of our highest mountains were formed since those earlier geological epochs in the rocks of which plant and animal foods have been found.

Vandals Destroying Carthage.

Vandals strip Carthage of her time-honored ruins, and it is feared these imposing remains of an older civilization will soon disappear altogether. In 1862 Thomas Reid, an Englishman, in imitation of Lord Elgin tore down the hot baths of Antonin in order to send their columns to London. This act aroused the indignation of the civilized world. But the French have done even more. They have destroyed the magnificent marble staircase of a hundred and twenty steps which led to the Platea Nova, taken down the small pillars, transformed the splendid cemetery of officials into a tillable field and converted the wall of Theodosius into road-building material. At present the ruins of buildings and monuments of bygone days are not very numerous, and each year, according to Doctor Carton, corresponding member of the academy of inscriptions, five or six thousand cubic meters of stone are taken away.

Mushrooms Endanger Building.

On account of large mushrooms of the poisonous type known as Phellium cryptarium having elected to exist on the large wooden beams of the Versailles chateau it is reported that the building is in danger and immediate repairs must be made if one wing is to be saved. Hereafter all windows are to be kept open for three hours daily in an attempt to exterminate the mushrooms, which it is said spread with great rapidity and eat their way right through the woodwork. Phellium cryptarium mushrooms, which hate fresh air and sunlight, were recently discovered in an old schoolhouse in Etampes where they caused the building to collapse. —Scientific American.

Electrical Appliances Modern.

An interesting fact in regard to the development of electrical appliances has just come to light. It seems that about 1902, Reginald Trautschold, M. E., of the Society for Electrical Development, demonstrated to Louis Sherry at his famous cafe in New York city the first electrically-operated dishwasher probably ever used on Fifth Avenue. Curiously enough at that time the Sherry cafe stood on the spot now occupied by the offices of the Society for Electrical Development.

I am too busy to construct an advertisement this week, so I am going to let the newspaper-man reprint one of the typewritten rules that hang framed, on the walls of our office, it is—

Our Interpretation of the Golden Rule.

If and when we believe we cannot help your case we will tell you so. The untarnished name of Straight Chiropractic, the friendship of our patients and a clear conscience is worth more to us than all the money that will ever come in over these thresholds.

DRS. CHARLESWORTH,

Chiropractors.

P. S.

There are two types of cases from which we will not accept money, they are:

First: If upon thorough consultation and analysis, we think your case cannot be helped, we will refuse both the case and the fee.

Second: Where patients will not co-operate with us fully by taking their adjustments regularly on the days specified or who will not leave off the taking of drugs as all drugs, regardless of what they may be, are harmful or useless. Under either of these conditions your case will be dismissed and your money refunded.

In no event do we make a charge for a consultation and an analysis, whether we accept your case or not.

Could Dr. Thacher Make Fairer Offer Than This?

If Dr. Thacher had come to Taneytown and offered to write a prescription that had been thoroughly tested in cases of indigestion, constipation, lack of nerve energy, impoverished, and impure blood, rheumatism and a general rundown condition of the system, could anything be fairer than a standing guarantee to return your money unless you got complete satisfaction and relief.

This, in effect, is what the Dr. Thacher Laboratories have done in offering Dr. Thacher's celebrated prescription to those who are literally suffering for the need of a nourishing, strength-building tonic. Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is an ideal summer tonic, because it is purely vegetable, pleasant to take and well suited to the delicate stomach. It has helped thousands of men, women and children to improve appetite, strengthen digestion, overcome constipation, tone the torpid liver and bowels and send purer and healthier blood coursing through the veins, bringing back that delightful feeling of health, strength and "pep."

Take a delicious tablespoonful after the next meal. Notice in less than two days how much better you eat, sleep and feel. Keep it up for a week or 10 days; the cost is only a trifle and you wouldn't trade your restored health and energy for any price. Sold under this standing guarantee by Robt. S. McKinney, Druggist.

Early Molting Hens Are Poor Paying Proposition

What is the trouble with the poultry business? Why are fewer hens kept this year? Is the poultry business going backward? All these questions, and many more like them, have been asked recently.

What is the trouble with the poultry business? Would not any other business fail if it were conducted as the poultry business is conducted? Every female kept is not necessarily a good money maker. Some hens never lay. Some lay a few eggs. But it takes a hen that lays a good quantity of eggs to pay for her feed and return a fair profit above labor, interest, etc.

It has been proved beyond doubt that early molting hens are poor producers. Hens that begin to shed their feathers in July and August seldom start to lay before the latter part of January or the early part of February. Many poultrymen realize the necessity of culling out their poor producers in order to stay in the poultry business.

With the present prices of feed, it is absolutely essential that only the best hens be kept. One farmer last year selected from 500 laying hens 104 that he considered poor producers. No trap nests were used, but the hens were examined from external characteristics. These 104 hens were put in a house by themselves. The following day they laid four eggs.

The flock was again tested and the four layers were selected, leaving an even hundred unproductive hens. They were carefully watched for several weeks and did not lay an egg. At last they were sold. Similar instances prove that the selection of poultry pays. Why not save the tremendous amount of feed fed the poor hens and put it into better stock or human food?

Increase production and increase efficiency, by keeping the late molters. Hatch in September and thus increase the meat and egg supply of the country. Fall hatching of chickens will pay. Pullets from these hatches will take the place of the early molters disposed of. Breed only from the late molters. Selection is a big step toward greater poultry efficiency and to a more profitable poultry business.

Increasing Demand for Disliked Guinea Fowls

Guinea fowls, which have suffered unpopularity with farmers because of pronounced propensities for noise-making during the sleeping hours of humans, are likely to rise above this objection in view of a steadily increasing demand for their delicious flesh, in the opinion of a poultry specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture. Guinea-fowl raising now is a profitable side line on eastern farms and may offer opportunities to the commercial poultryman in a few cases. In Farmers' Bulletin 858, "The Guinea Fowl," the specialist discusses the guinea business from the starting of a flock to marketing the produce, which is largely meat.

Colony House System of Poultry Raising Favored

One of the many advantages of the colony house system of poultry raising is that the birds have ample opportunity to find animal food, such as bugs, worms, grasshoppers, etc. This is a very necessary part of the diet if you are raising poultry for the eggs they will produce. If you have movable houses for the flock, place them near fields likely to harbor destructive insects; this will protect the crop and at the same time provide the necessary animal food.

Outline of Good Ration for Growing Ducklings

A good ration for ducklings consists of one part bran, one part cornmeal, one part ground crackers or stale bread made into a mash. Then 10 per cent beef scrap is added, as well as fine green food and a little sand. Be sure that the bread is not moldy and that all other ground grains are of good quality.

POULTRY NOTES

The hen is the only thing on the farm that can make money by "just laying around."

Paint the outside of the hen house; make it look as though it belonged to somebody.

Much loss could be prevented if those engaged in the poultry business were to examine their flocks regularly for indications of disease of any character.

The white chicks that are somewhat dirty in color at time of hatching are the birds which turn out to be the best breeders at maturity.

Provide as much water per day as the poultry will drink. Keep all drinking vessels clean and scald them out frequently.

Don't overlook the value of feeding gritty substances to the poultry frequently. This performs the same mission for poultry that teeth do for men and animals.

PLANT SOME KIND OF TREE

Duty of Every Citizen Who Can, to Contribute to the Wealth of the Country.

At last the people are beginning to realize the vital need of tree planting and are attacking the problem in a practical way. Massachusetts will plant 2,000,000 spruces and pines this year on waste lands near towns. Lake county, Illinois, reports 100 per cent tree planting for the schools. All over the country trees are being planted, and none too soon, as it takes from twenty to fifty years to grow trees that are of much use for manufacturing purposes. Our forests are being devastated so rapidly that in a few more years lumber will be too costly for common use unless millions of trees are planted each year. Trees have much to do with health, beauty and rainfall and it is time that every family in this country planted at least one tree each year. Every farm family should plant at least 20 trees a year.

The kind of trees to plant must be determined by the locality. Certain trees will grow best on certain kinds of ground. Almost every home needs more fruit trees. Many homes can be greatly benefited by planting evergreen trees both for beauty and to serve as a windbreak. Soft maples grow quickly and make good shade trees.—From the Pathfinder.

CHEAP CHIMNEYS A MISTAKE

Authorities Have Shown Enormous Fire Loss Caused Annually by Inferior Construction.

More than $12,000,000 annually is the loss from fires throughout the United States caused by defective and improperly constructed chimneys, according to the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Building a chimney in the proper way seems a simple matter, but this stupendous sum is the loss every year due to ignorance or willful neglect of men in the building industry who do work on chimneys. The principal object in building a chimney is to prevent the flames and sparks from entering other parts of the structure from the chimney.

Too many Americans evidently endeavor to save the cost of flue lining, metal lath and other fire construction, and frequently the building burns down in consequence. When building a smaller home be sure the chimneys are properly constructed.

City Trees.

Trees in the city have a harder fight for foothold than do the dogs; both are out of their natural surroundings, and some of the dogs get more continual care and protection than most of the trees. The tale of an allanhus tree, planted when it was only 18 inches high in a back yard in 1894, has lately got into the police courts. In time the tree, grown old and crooked, broke down a partition fence and then died, partly on adjoining property. The fact that the trespassing tree was dead did not make the removal of the stark old offender any easier to tenants in the adjoining properties, who wrangled and disputed; and suit for damages is now threatened for the bold spirit who hired men to chop it down. Even in the country many persons do not like trees too near a house; in the city, trees in back yards are almost extinct—like the back yards.—New York World.

Two Houses to a Lot.

The high cost of building has been responsible for many radical changes in newly erected houses. This is most noticeable in the suburbs.

Real estate, like everything else, costs more, but the wily architect has evolved a system to keep it within reason. He has designed houses to be built facing each other with a common driveway instead of fronting on the street. This allows two houses to be built on a lot that would formerly have been required for only one, says the New York Sun and Globe.

Of course it has largely eliminated privacy, but what does that matter in these days of housing shortage?

City Project Pays.

Los Angeles has purchased a thousand-acre farm and disposes of its garbage by irrigation. The sewage is treated, then used with the water for irrigation. Five hundred and fifty acres are now under cultivation and exceptionally large yields of potatoes have been produced. It is said that the sale of the water for irrigation will pay for the plant and leave a profit for the city.

Preserve Existing Beauty.

Everywhere the desire is genuine to improve and beautify and ennoble the places we live in, and it would be encouraging if, in the prevailing eagerness to create beauty, the need of preserving the beauty that already exists was not overlooked.

Civic Music Commission.

Winston-Salem, N. C., has created a civic music commission and has appropriated funds for its maintenance. A summer school of music and public concerts was carried on.

CORRESPONDENCE

Latest Items of Local News Furnished
By Our Regular Staff of Writers

All communications for this department must be signed by the author; nor for publication, but as an evidence that the items contributed are legitimate and correct. Items based on mere rumor, or such as are likely to give offense, are not wanted.

We desire correspondence to reach our office on Thursday, if at all possible. If it will be necessary, therefore, for most letters to be mailed on Wednesday, or by Fast Mail, west, on W. M. K. R., Thursday morning. Letters mailed on Thursday evening may not reach us in time.

MAYBERRY.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hotson have returned to their Summer home, near Mayberry, from Baltimore.

Miss Helen Crushong has returned home again, after visiting Dr. N. I. Wantz and wife, of Taneytown.

Mrs. Henry Crushong spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Keefe and family, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Crushon and children, Katherine, Abram, Edward, Henry and Mrs. Henry Crushong, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson, of Bark Hill.

The following spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Crushong: Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Heltibridge, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Unger, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Keefe, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crushong, Mr. Paul Hymiller, Mrs. Henry Crushong, Misses Ruthanna Keefe, Pauline Keefe, Obel Bortner, Katherine Crushong, Ruth Heltibridge, Nellie Keefe, Helen Crushong, Messrs Benjamin Keefe, Charles Crushong, Melvin Keefe, Kemp Hymiller, Alfred Heltibridge, Abram Crushong, Edward Crushong, Henry Crushong, Paul Eckard. All having a good time together.

Benjamin Keefe, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Noah Arter.

William Flickinger had a narrow escape on Tuesday night, when he ran into Ellis Crushong's team. Mr. Flickinger, who was riding a bicycle, fell in between the two horses and landed under the saddle horse. He was slightly hurt.

HARNEY.

John Thompson and wife, and Jos. Thompson, of Reading, Pa., and John McSherry and family, of Littlestown, Pa., spent Sunday and Monday with their parents, John J. Thompson and wife, of this place.

Mrs. Lizzie Snider and daughter, Louella, moved to Gettysburg, Thursday last week. We are sorry to lose good people, and our best wishes go with them to their new home.

The Lutheran festival, on Wednesday evening, was well attended.

Our public school opened on Tuesday with 34 pupils. The small number is caused by an epidemic of whooping cough in this community. T. W. Null is principal and Miss Mary Rohr, of Hagerstown, assistant. Miss Rohr comes to our town well recommended, and we hope that she will be successful in her labors among the smaller children, and that the time spent in our midst may be pleasant and profitable.

Our town is well represented at the Shriver Cannery at Littlestown and all seem to like the work; but we are afraid that they will not be able to stand the long hours that they are compelled to work—from 7 A. M. until 10 o'clock at night—then drive home, arriving about 11 o'clock, and getting up in the morning again at 5 o'clock, in order to get to work again at 7 o'clock, is a little more than should be expected of young people. We have always thought that 10 hours was about long enough for good health.

KEYSVILLE.

Maurice Hopper, wife and family, of Baltimore, spent the week-end at Gordon Stonesifer's. Misses Mary and Catherine Hopper are spending the week at the same place.

Mrs. Margaret Shorb, of Rocky Ridge, is visiting the family of Peter Wilhide.

Quite a number of folks from this community visited Hoffman Orphanage, last week.

Ralph Hummer and wife, of Rocky Hill, were visitors at C. W. Young's, on Sunday.

John Deberry, wife and family, of Ladiesburg, spent Tuesday with the former's father, John Deberry, Sr.

Roscoe Kiser, of Baltimore, visited his parents, James Kiser and wife, over Sunday.

Little Miss Mildred Baumgardner, of Taneytown, is spending the week at the home of her grand-parents, Peter Baumgardner's.

Marlin Stonesifer, wife and family, of Frederick Co.; Mrs. Robert Hockensmith; Mrs. Clara Whisler and two sons, of Charlestown, W. Va., spent Sunday evening at Maurice Hahn's.

Miss Anna Weibrecht and brother, David, of Frostburg, were guests of Miss Olive Ritter, over the week-end.

A sale of potted plants will be held at the festival, Saturday evening. There will be some very fine plants; among these will be a handsome poinsetta.

BRIDGEPORT.

Mrs. E. F. Ohler, of Emmitsburg, spent a few days last week with her son, Russell Ohler and family, and brother, H. W. Baker and family.

Mrs. J. L. Cornell, of Baltimore, spent the week-end at "Meadow Brook Farm."

Jacob Stambaugh, wife and family, Harry Baker, wife and daughter, Mrs. J. L. Cornell and son, Harold, all spent Sunday at Pen-Mar.

Miss Pauline Baker, spent Monday and Tuesday in Frederick, attending Teachers' meetings.

Communion, this Sunday morning, at Tom's Creek Church. Services by the pastor, Rev. W. S. Jones.

MELROSE.

The Brethren Sunday School held Children's-day Service in their meeting house here on Sunday morning. One of the largest crowds ever seen there listened to the program, which was well rendered.

There are peaches, both large and small. Every peach tree of any size is full of the delicious fruit, even to the breaking of the branches. Mrs. Henry Yingling gave your correspondent a sample peach from one of two trees growing in their orchard. Upon putting it on the scales we found that this immense peach weighed 9 ounces, and measured 9 inches in circumference.

Recently, in conversation with one of the neighbors about "speeding," the verdict was "we must run fast to get out of the other fellow's way."

There is a movement on foot to light our little town with electricity. It is said that the company will run three wires through here to Pleasant Hill, Pa., if there are enough subscribers who are interested along this route.

There was a large crowd at the P. O. S. of A. festival near Sherman's, on Saturday night. One of the big features of the picnic, never seen here before, was a cornetist who played two cornets at the same time. He was a member of the York band that played for the picnic.

Roland Buchman, tenant on the farm west of town, owned by a U. B. minister living in Virginia, planted about ten acres in potatoes as an experiment in the spring. He informed your correspondent, on Monday, if the potatoes all yield as well as the few he has already dug, his crop will total at least six hundred bushels.

Last Saturday evening, Charles March, of Hanover, and Miss Edna G. Sauble, of our town, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. May happiness and success ever attend them throughout life.

KEYMAR.

Charles Knott and family, formerly of Bruceville, but now living in York, motored to their old town, Monday, and spent the day in fishing, which they all enjoyed.

R. P. Dorsey, of Baltimore, had his car stolen about six weeks ago. The car was heard from 10 days ago, and located in Reading, Pa.

Brick layers will finish the brick work on Upton Mehring's new house, this week.

C. E. Valentine, Augustus Bloom, Edward Wachter and John Leakin, motored to Boiling Springs, Harrisburg and Hershey, last Sunday, and all expressed themselves as having a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Forrest, of this place, accompanied by Mrs. C. E. Dern, of Taneytown, motored to Baltimore, last Sunday, to see the former's daughter, and Miss Lola accompanied them home, and returned to Baltimore on Monday evening.

Miss Irene Davis, of Midline, Md., and Miss Mary Repp, of Middleburg, visited at the home of Edw. Haugh, last Sunday.

Miss Maggie Mehring and Miss Mattie Simpson, of Bruceville, spent last Friday in Frederick.

H. S. Dorsey and sister, and Mrs. M. G. Barr, entertained at their home Sunday last, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Davis son Ernest, Jr., and daughter, Elizabeth, of Baltimore, and R. W. Galt and wife, of this place.

The Bruceville school opened on Tuesday with 20 scholars and Miss Esther Bach, teacher.

There will be preaching at Mt. Zion (Haugh's) Church, Sunday morning, at 10:30 by their pastor, Rev. Dr. R. S. Patterson. As there has been no preaching for six weeks, the church ought to be filled. The Rev. was on his vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Hartsock, of Johnsville, spent Sunday at the home of John Leakin; and Oliver Leakin, of Akron, Ohio, is spending some time with the Leakin family.

Robert L. Koons, Baltimore, spent from Saturday until Tuesday with his aunt, Mrs. Sarah Koons, this place.

Reunion Held on Lawn.

(For the Record.)

There was a reunion held in honor of Mrs. Wm. F. Six, at her home near Detour, on Sunday, Sept. 2nd. Mrs. Six being 76 years old, still does her daily tasks on the farm. She has ten great-grand-children, twenty-nine grand-children, and ten children living.

Those present were: Mrs. Wm. F. Six, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. Six, Mr. John Six, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Six and family, Ruth, William, Newton, Jr., and Agnes; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Six and family, Charles, Marlin, Catherine, Carroll, Lillie and Marion; Mr. and Mrs. Ark Six and son, Donald; Earsie Six and son, Roscoe; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Adams and family, William, Paul, Catherine, LeRoy, Roland and Helen; Mr. Marlin Six, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Six and family, Paul and Mildred; Mr. and Mrs. Russell English and son, Richard; Mr. and Mrs. William Albaugh and daughter, Christina; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clabaugh and son, Arthur; Mrs. Valley Myers and daughter, Dorothy, Miss Anna Hiner.

The day was enjoyed by all. Lunch was served on the lawn.

I DON'T.

Most motorists are blooming fools, They trifle with the traffic rules. I don't.

No man should try to get the drop On any seasoned traffic cop, Nor fail to heed his sign to stop. I don't.

A man should never drive too fast, Or brag about the cars he's passed. I don't.

For Saffety First should be his creed, There really isn't any need To drive a car at reckless speed. I don't.

A man should never lose his bean When piloting a gas-machine. I don't.

On city street or open road, A man should never break the code, Nor fellow-farers incommode. I don't.

He should not scare equestrians, Nor chase the poor pedestrians. I don't.

In fact, I have no car to run, I'm shy the coin to purchase one, You'd think I wouldn't have much fun I don't.

Result of Voting Contest.

(For the Record.)

When the voting box was opened, last Saturday evening, it was found that seventeen different names were chosen. There were votes for porch boxes, and votes for window boxes, votes for hanging baskets, and for yards. The final count revealed that 5, the largest number of ballots for any one person, awarded the honor to Mrs. Harry L. Baumgardner. Mrs. Calvin T. Fringer and Miss Clara Wilhide each receiving 4.

So many people said "how can one decide which is the prettiest of all the lovely yards," and then—sad is the tale, they forgot to vote at all. Another year, let us plan for a contest when we plant our gardens, and perhaps we can, by working together, award a prize.

MR. WILLIAM T. HAUGH.

Mr. William T. Haugh formerly of Taneytown, familiarly known as "Tol" died at his home in Waynesboro, Pa., on Wednesday, aged 76 years. He was born in Taneytown, one of the sons of "Squire" Haugh, and removed to Waynesboro about 25 years ago. He was a brother of the late Jesse H. Haugh, and of Mrs. Fannie (Steiner) Buckwalter, the latter now living at Britt, Iowa.

He was a machinist and blacksmith by trade, and was a skilled mechanic. He is survived by nine children: Frank and Harry Haugh, Baltimore; Motter Haugh, Mannington, W. Va.; G. S. Haugh, Philadelphia; Mrs. R. Q. Tarbutton, Samuel Haugh, Edgar Haugh, Oliver Haugh and Miss Mary Haugh, Waynesboro. He is also survived by 47 grandchildren.

FORMALITY DONE AWAY WITH

Some Difference Between Mid-Victorian Courting and the Method Accepted as Proper Today.

When the mid-Victorian young man desired to have a young woman accompany him to a party he would first call on the mother. Something like this would ensue:

"Mrs. Brown, I should like to take your daughter, Alice, to a party. May I have the pleasure of her company?"

"Who is giving the party, may I ask?"

"Mrs. Jones, in honor of Hilda's eighteenth birthday."

"Have you asked Alice?"

"Oh, Mrs. Brown, I wouldn't think of doing that before asking your permission first."

"That was very proper. I shall speak to Alice's father tonight. I am quite sure, however, that we shall give our consent."

"O, thank you, Mrs. Brown."

"Alice will write you tonight. I shall ask her aunt Matilda if she will be good enough to chaperon Alice."

"O, thank you, Mrs. Brown. Well, good-by, Mrs. Brown. I shall look tomorrow for Alice's letter."

But nowadays the arrangements are made somewhat differently. A young man decides to take in a musical show. He consults his little red book, and chooses one from an eligible dozen or more to accompany him. He calls her on the phone and informs her of his plans.

Then he says, "What do yuh saw, kld?"

And she replies, "O, boy, lead me to it!"

Then he says, "Attrababy!"—New York Sun.

GARDEN OF EDEN IN CHINA.

Logical Reason for its Location There Has Been Advanced by Government Surgeon.

If the theory of evolution is not a fact, Adam, according to Dr. Charles Stiles, government surgeon, noted zoologist, scientist and discoverer of hookworm germs, must have survived for 930 years all the germs which afflict men today; the Garden of Eden must have been in China, and Noah must have taken the germs in and out of his ark as easily as he did the larger forms of life. If it is to be conceded that those germs were originally created in some form other than as disease germs, the theory of evolution stands admitted.

"Since disease germs are dependent for their existence on animals and plants in which they cause disease, it is clear that these germs could not have been created or existed prior to the creation of their victims," Doctor Stiles declares. "A challenge of this deduction would be an admission that the germs were not created as they are today, but that they later evolved into disease germs; but this would be an admission of evolution."

Admitting that Adam survived these, Doctor Stiles says, it must be deduced that the Garden of Eden was in China, because that is the only place where man is known to survive many diseases with which the human body is afflicted.

Cause for Doubt.

There was an all-round good-for-nothing man who died, and at his funeral the minister delivered a most beautiful address, eulogizing the departed in the most glowing manner, praising his splendid qualities as a fine type of man, a good husband and kind parent.

About this time the widow, who was seated well up in front, spoke to her little daughter by her side, and said, "My dear, go look into the coffin and see if it is your father."—Boston Transcript.

Had Been Misinformed.

Lord Littledough (who has got old Coldkash in a corner at the club)—Mr. Coldkash, your daughter is the idol of my life, the one hope and aim of my existence. Might I hope that some day I may be permitted to call her wife?

Mr. Coldkash (astonished)—But, my dear sir, I have no daughter. Lord Littledough—Oh! pardon me; somebody told me that you had. Let's have a drink.

THE SOFT SNAP

DON'T look for a soft snap. If you find you are in one, get out of it as soon as you can.

A man with a soft snap doesn't have to work. And he stands as much chance to get along without work as a tree stands to bear fruit or give shade without growing.

If you've ever been around an office you know what becomes of the chaps who hold soft snaps. They stay right where they are while other men who have to work go ahead of them.

Rich men's sons who succeed do so in spite of their wealth, not because of it. And there is a far smaller percentage of them who amount to anything than there is of poor men's sons.

Go over the list of the Presidents of the United States and you will find that not one of them had a soft snap in his youth.

They got where they were because they had to work hard when they were boys, and the habit of hard work stuck in after years.

An arm or a leg injured so that it cannot be used soon gets feeble and worthless.

A mind that is not used, deteriorates just as quickly.

The man who is looking for a soft snap in life is really looking for hard luck, although he may not know it. And if he finds the one he will be absolutely certain to find the other.

A soft snap means opportunity for idleness, idleness at best means lack of any further mental or physical development. It is likely to mean more than that, for it is the man with nothing good to do that finds something bad to do, and gets into trouble. Seekers of soft snaps are very plentiful. It is fortunate that so few of them find what they are after.

The hardest worked wage slave is better off than the man in a soft snap. He may be able to advance—he always can by working and thinking to better himself.

But the man with a soft snap will never get anywhere but into jail or the poorhouse, unless somebody else gives him the money to live.

And a man who does not make his living by his own efforts is altogether too useless to live.

CARROLL COUNTY LEAGUE BASE BALL

STANDING OF CLUBS.

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Taneytown	13	10	.565
Union Bridge	13	10	.565
Westminster	13	11	.542
New Windsor	8	16	.333

The above standing includes the "forfeited" game—New Windsor to Union Bridge; also the 5-inning game, of Wednesday, between Union Bridge and Taneytown.

The Last Game.

Taneytown and Union Bridge will play at Westminster, Saturday afternoon, at 3:00 o'clock, the last League game of the season, for the championship of the county.

Taneytown 5—New Windsor 0.

Taneytown and New Windsor played a very peaceful, lady-like game, on Saturday. It was a game without thrills; mostly a pitcher's engagement, with Mr. Patterson taking the most honors. New Windsor made a bad break in the fourth, when a throw to second left in two unearned runs, to which two more were added on hits. The game abounded in excellent fielding on both sides, and only a single error on each side. Strobel pitched a good game for New Windsor, not being hit hard, but was a little wild. Fisher was the star batter, with two singles and a triple.

Taneytown 2—Union Bridge 0.

A game was played on Wednesday, between Taneytown and Union Bridge, on the ground of the former, that was accompanied by protest on the part of Union Bridge. Rain had fallen intermittently during the afternoon, but the ground was not in as bad condition as might have been expected. Near 5 o'clock, conditions improved, and Taneytown insisted on playing. Umpires Brockman and Stump were present, agreed and officiated.

The infield was dried up by burning gasoline on it, and was in fair shape. As part of the Union Bridge team had gone home, Hassan and Austin, who had formerly played with Taneytown but were not engaged by Taneytown for this game, played with Union Bridge.

That "Forfeited" Game.

Our comments last week with reference to a "forfeited" game—New Windsor to Union Bridge—were entirely "unofficial," and were suggested by numerous reports picked up through the use of editorial license. Whether the game was yet to be played, or stand forfeited, was in our judgment wholly a matter to be decided by League managers, and we simply withheld entering the game in the standing until such decision was clearly made. We had no other motive, nor interest, in the matter. The Westminster Times apparently took the same view of the case, as its published standing of the clubs was the same as ours.

Last Friday night the Manager of the Union Bridge Club called the Editor of the Record over the phone, inquiring as to our authority, for withholding the game from the standing of clubs, when he was given the information stated above. On Monday of this week, a letter was received at this office from the Union Bridge manager that amounted to an ultimatum, stating that unless the "forfeited" game was credited to Union Bridge, that club would disband, on Tuesday, and play no more games. This letter is given on this page, without further comment.

We presume the terms of this letter were complied with, as a game between Union Bridge and Taneytown, was played on Wednesday. Whether the game in question was properly a game to be "forfeited," or whether it was more properly a game "postponed," due to rain, in the absence of a specific agreement in such cases, is largely a matter of opinion and point of view.

Base Ball Notes.

Union Bridge won from Westminster, last Saturday, at Union Bridge, by the score of 9 to 1.

Westminster won from New Windsor, on Monday, at Westminster, by the score of 4 to 2.

It is hardly worth stating, but it is the fact nevertheless that The Record largely publishes its own baseball comments, on its own responsibility. It does not represent the "official" authority—if any exists—that decides "forfeits" or "protests." We merely try to report situations, and not to decide them.

It is unfortunate that rain again, on Wednesday, caused a complicated situation, with contention and more or less ill-feeling, all of it due to the tense situation because of the closeness of the race, a condition that has prevailed largely during the latter half of the season's games.

The rain, of Wednesday, hit the attendance revenue of the Taneytown club a hard blow, as the biggest crowd of the season would otherwise have been present. Westminster alone expected to send a big delegation of "fans."

Taneytown will play exhibition games during Fair week as follows; on Wednesday, with Woodsboro, and on Thursday, with Westminster, the games to be called about 3:30.

From Manager of Union Bridge Base Ball Club.

Union Bridge, Md., Sept. 1, 1923. The Taneytown Baseball Club, Taneytown, Md.
The New Windsor Baseball Club, New Windsor, Md.
The Westminster Baseball Club, Westminster, Md.
Gentlemen:

With regard to the August 22nd, forfeited game between New Windsor and Union Bridge due to the inability of the New Windsor Club to send its team upon the field—even though Union Bridge had agreed to wait for them until 5 P. M., if necessary, it has just come to our attention that while the New Windsor Club fully acknowledges this forfeiture, there is apparently an inclination on the part of the Taneytown and Westminster Clubs to dispute the said forfeiture.

There is absolutely no basis upon which this forfeiture can be questioned from a spirit of fairness and sportsmanship as everything possible was done by our Club to avoid the forfeit. We paid all expenses of the game, including the Umpire's fee, and were willing to have our team go on the field and go through the usual formalities of a forfeiture, but took this matter up with Westminster by phone and suggested the uselessness of letting the Umpire come further than Westminster, unless such a formal procedure was absolutely required by the so-called League. Westminster, through Mr. Bonsack, agreed that this was not necessary under the circumstances and we then suggested that the Umpire be stopped at Westminster, used in that game if desired, and we would pay the Umpire, which was done.

Under the circumstances we are greatly surprised to hear that Westminster has raised any question regarding this matter, for the reason that that Club is entirely familiar with the actual facts, although there is some excuse for the Taneytown Club, in that so far as we know, they may not be acquainted with the facts pertaining to this game.

The Union Bridge Baseball Club hereby gives notice to the remaining Clubs in the so-called Carroll County League that the Union Bridge Club positively refuses to be a party to any game where such unsportsmanlike methods are obviously in effect, and, therefore, unless this matter is settled in a satisfactory manner to the Union Bridge Club, meaning only that the standing of our Club before playing the game of September 1st, is acknowledged by the other Clubs to be—12 games won and 9 games lost, the Union Bridge Club is through with Carroll County League Baseball after playing the game of September 1st, 1923.

Unless hearing favorably from the remaining Clubs by not later than Tuesday noon of the 4th, instant, we will disband our team.

Very Truly Yours,
The Union Bridge Baseball Club.
W. C. THOMPSON.

MR. PEACOCK'S LESSON

WHEN Mr. Peacock came to the big farm to live he was greatly disappointed. He did not like at all the barnyard fowl or Mr. Dog or any of the animals. The only time he was happy was when he was on the lawn in front of the big house with his tail spread and thought he was being admired.

One day he decided that the reason the barnyard folk did not seem to admire him was because they were jealous of his beauty. "Poor things," he said to himself. "I really should pity instead of disliking those ugly creatures."

Up in a tree by the stone wall sat Tommy Blue Jay, who is handsome himself and thinks no one else quite so fine. He dearly loves to "scrap"

"Remember, 'Handsome Is That Hand-some Does.'" with his neighbors and does not bear a very good name with his kind.

Tommy Blue Jay cannot sing at all, but he tries to drown the sweet songs of other birds with his harsh screams and shrieks.

This day he spied Mr. Peacock in the barnyard. "Hello," said Tommy. "How long have you been here? Never saw you before."

Mr. Peacock glanced up and then he spread his beautiful tail and walked nearer to the stone wall.

For once Tommy Blue Jay was speechless. He had never seen anything so handsome as Mr. Peacock's plumage. Tommy looked him all over from the top of his handsome head

SUMMER BEVERAGES

THERE is no reason why iced drinks of summer should not be served with straws or why these straws should not be used, but there is every reason why you should not abuse them.

Undoubtedly lemonade or any other cool drink served with chopped ice is difficult to drink and it is really better to use the straws. Two straws are usually served, preferably placed beside the glass on the service plate

Amid the Forget-Me-Nots

By CLARA C. HOLMES

(©, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"What have ye got there in that basket, Bula?"
The girl's face turned crimson; she did not answer.

"Up to some underhanded affair, eh? Where did ye get them weeds?"
"They came from Mrs. Doubleday's garden, father."

"I won't have any more weeds from anybody's garden; haven't I got white-weed an' bouncl'n' bet an' goldenglow all over the farm already? Ye march that bluegrass straight back. After this—hear me?—after this, I warn ye to keep away from them Doubledays."

The girl obediently retraced her steps to Meadow road. She climbed upon the meadow fence and sat there.

"I will not take back these forget-me-nots. Harold gave them to me. What a cruel world this is!" she cried.

"I know! I can take the flowers over to the brookside and transplant them under the willows."

She was busy with her plants when she heard her name softly called. She glanced up.

"Oh, it's you, Harold. Father wouldn't let me have the flowers."

"I've just seen your father, Bula; he has forbidden me to meet you again. He seems to think my friendship will hurt you. Oh, Bula! I cannot submit to this ignominy! I'm going away for good."

"Father's ideas are not mine, Harold; you are not to blame because your father got in prison for life."

"The primary law includes the innocent. I had better go where I can build my own reputation."

Her eyes filled with tears. "You can't write the letters, because father would intercept them," she warned.

Taking her hands, he looked earnestly into her trustful eyes.

"I think my mother has good judgment," he began, frankly. "I—I have been talking matters over with her."

"Well, This is a Delight!"

She thinks if I go, you will forget because you are young, and you have the bright, wide world before you. Some time you may appreciate my not having doomed you to share in my family's disrepute."

"I don't want to forget you, Harold, unless you yourself don't care."

"I do care, sweetheart," he cried, grasping her to him. "I do care, and I'm tearing myself away. Dearest, dearest girl, good-by!"

She did not see him disappear into the thicket. Her eyes were blinded with tears.

The next day Annie, Bula's cousin and helper, came rushing home from a neighborhood call.

"Bula, Harold Doubleday's gone! He enlisted in the American marine!"

The information was news to Bula, but she answered quietly: "He told me he intended to go away."

"I never, never will forgive Uncle Walter," stormed Annie. "When Harold came here yesterday to say good-by, your father raved at him and ordered him off the premises!"

"Harold is displaying good sense, Annie; he was handicapped living here."

"He should have been helped," retorted Annie. "He is a fine fellow, and his mother is a beautiful woman."

Bula despatched the loquacious Annie about her work. Indeed, with the care of the household, the oversight of the vegetable garden, and the ducks and hens, Bula had little time in which to grieve in loneliness. In the short days of winter she was occupied with the family sewing. The following April the great war came. Early in the year following the armistice, Bula's father died.

"What will you do now?" Annie asked, gazing curiously at the mistress of the big Meadowbrook farm.

"I will reserve enough for a vegetable and flower garden, and dispose of the rest of the land."

table and flower garden, and dispose of the rest of the land."

Indeed a wild fancy obsessed Bula's mind—a desire to possess the flowers she had been so sternly denied.

"Will you stay with me, Annie, and tend store? We can have a flower shop out on the boulevard."

Annie possessed a bookful of ideas; she waxed eloquent.

There was no irresolution in Bula. With the assistance of a carpenter and a gardener the flower shop idea at once became an actuality. A roadside field was ornamented with trellises, arches and mounds; and by summer these were radiant with familiar as well as rare flowers.

One morning Bula wandered through her flower Eden. She was curiously restless. The insect pests disheartened her and Annie's chatter bored. She gave in to the impulse to get away from the garden.

"I'm going to the brookside, Annie, to gather watergrass. It has spread and run yards and yards. I've a wonderful bed of forget-me-nots there."

Dew sparkled on the green. Birds sang joyfully. It was a perfect June day.

"It makes my heart ache to come here," Bula mused. "How cruelly practical he was! I hope I never shall see that heartless man again!"

"Well, this is a delight!"

"How do you do, Lieutenant Doubleday," she greeted coldly.

"It's oddly coincidental that I should come here. But I must say I'm glad," he repeated.

"I thought you were stationed on the Pacific coast," she ventured.

"I am; I'm on furlough."

"Don't you like the West?"

"Yes, but it's lonesome out there."

"That seems incredible." She laughed cynically.

"Why? I've always been thinking of you, Bula."

"In that dazzling uniform you should not have been lonely."

"Here is our seat still—under the willows," he suggested.

"I must go home."

"I've come all the way from the coast in order to see you again."

"I've ceased to care now, Lieutenant Doubleday."

"You can care again, Bula, can't you?"

"Have you changed your old opinion?"

"Yes, since my promotion. Is a man responsible for the spirit of his ancestors?"

"Surely not."

He grasped her hands. "Can you forgive me for an unintentional unkindness?"

"I'll be friendly."

Impulsively he clasped her in his arms.

"You said we'd begin again," she murmured, struggling to free herself.

"We'll begin, dear, where we left off."

Surrendering to his unyielding arms, she finished the story for him with a tearful smile. "Here amid forget-me-nots, Harold."

CHOSE NEW BREEDING PLACE

Periodic Migration of Pearl Oysters Caused Alarm Which Proved to Be Unfounded.

Ceylon today is perhaps best known for its tea. But in days gone by it had a more romantic claim to fame—it was the home of the most renowned pearl fisheries in the world.

Fifteen years ago the pearl oysters, which were a source of great wealth to the island, made one of their periodic mysterious disappearances.

In 1919 it was discovered that they were returning to their banks on the Gulf of Mannar, the narrow strip of water that divides Ceylon from India. Unfortunately, as it seemed at first, they were depositing themselves on sand.

Past history had shown that the pearl oyster never lived to a fishable age unless it settled on rock, but those responsible for the care of the oyster banks were not disheartened.

They believed that the oysters on the sand would breed, and, as there were numerous rocky areas in the vicinity, there was every chance of a fair proportion of the spats, or young oysters, depositing themselves on more favorable ground.

And such has proved to be the case. Today there are countless millions of young and thriving pearl oysters on the rocky areas in the Gulf of Mannar.

NOISE.

Quietest place in the world is a laboratory at University of Utrecht, Netherlands. Walls are insulated so that no sound can get in from the outside.

In this absolutely noiseless room, important experiments are being carried on by scientists studying the effect of noise on human nerves and brain.

A person, entering this stillness, has a peculiar sensation in the ears, then a feeling of terror. Noise, which is making a nervous wreck of civilized man, has become such a part of us that its total absence strikes fear to the heart. Deaf people are not affected this way, for the vibrations of sound reach them through their other senses.

Misunderstood Phrase.

"I don't care a dam" is a phrase that was recently the cause of a member being called to order in the house of parliament. A recent writer explains that "dam" is an old Indian name for a coin current in the Eighteenth century and worth twopence. There is a passage in "Wellington's Dispatches" which quotes a letter written by Colonel Wellesley (as he was then), who describes a certain officer's opinion as "not worth a twopenny dam."

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

OUR TONGUES

IN THOSE dear intimacies in the sacred environs of home, in legislative halls, in the tragedies of love and war, in our business relations with one another and in all the affairs of life, the tongue plays the leading role. And this it continues to do from the moment it frames its first word until it ceases to function and the curtain goes down on the final act.

It is the most potential power for good or evil, capable of filling hearts with the utmost joy or breaking them beyond repair.

To suffer day after day under the lash of a tongue that is continuously upbraiding, that cracks and snaps upon the slightest provocation, and often without any provocation at all, is a punishment which sensitive mortals cannot long endure without wishing for an early return to the dust.

In the house of nagging tongues, happiness rests on a precarious base, liable at any moment to topple over and break to pieces.

Marriage under such conditions is not an Arcadia, but a land of terror where a few cruel words may sweep a home from its comfortable foundation.

Husbands and wives are amiable and kindly enough until mischievous tongues break loose and open hostilities. Then there is too much heat in the air for endurance.

In the torrid temperature both lose their self-respect and the war is on until the verbal fight ends between the contestants in the open divorce court.

But the tongues whose tragedies are seldom told are those inarticulate members that neither praise nor censure.

Often a heart is hungry, but miserly tongues starve it to death.

An affectionate wife waits years for a word of love or admiration.

She waits months and years for it, but it never is spoken.

Losing hope, she fades away as a rose in the chill winds of autumn. And this is equally true of husbands whose homes are perpetually icy in the repelling atmosphere of wives who have forgotten the old love story and lounge like mutes at their own fire-side.

Bestow smiles and encouraging words while the days are yours.

Tell your wives and husbands that you love them. Tell them often and see their faces brighten. Experience each day the same ecstatic joy that was yours when the wedding march was singing.

ART

By GRACE E. HALL

SLY elves steal in and paint the flowers

With gorgeous hues in still night hours, Their brushes wondrous fine;

The dew a crystal drop imparts To linger prisoned in the hearts

Like magic wine.

The tints of mystic mountain haze, The pastel tones of twilight rays

All re-appear—

The Autumn's bronze and yellow gold Within some flower's heart unfold,

When Spring is here.

We pause and quaff the incense rare That blossoms toss upon the air,

Drink deep the gift, Ere earth again receives her own,

As petals fall and lose their tone, And in the soft winds drift.

But oh, the wonder of such art! The mystery within the heart

Of each sweet flower!

The elfin artists paint with care— We see their skilled touch everywhere

In blossoming woodland bower.

He is a great swimmer and a champ among the Hollywood golfers.

YOUR HAND How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm

MONEY IN THE HAND

WEALTH that is gained by the subject not in trade or business, but in the pursuit of professional or artistic life, is indicated in the hand in various ways. The principal sign is a star on the Mount of Apollo, which lies at the base of the finger of Apollo, the third or ring finger. This is the finger of artistic achievement. If the Mount of Mercury, lying at the base of the finger of Mercury or little finger, has two deep, vertical, parallel lines, it is a good sign of money acquired either in business or in some professional pursuit, especially in drugs or medicines. This is considered a very good sign in the hand of a man of medicine.

For the professional man or woman, or the artist of either sex, these signs of success and wealth appear in the artistic or professional hand; that is, the hand that is conical and artistic, or in the hand that is pointed or psychic.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"MAVERICK"

USED on the Western plains as a term for unbranded or ownerless cattle, the term "maverick" owes its birth to a man named Sam Maverick, a native of Massachusetts who settled in Texas in the middle of the last century and entered the business of stock-raising.

Because he believed in the honesty of his neighbors and also because, on humanitarian grounds, he did not approve of branding his cattle with a red-hot iron, the calves born on the Maverick ranch were allowed to run wild and unbranded. As a result, the less honest cattle-men would add these animals to their own herds, placing their distinguishing mark upon the flank in the approved manner.

In time the expression became current "Unbranded." It must belong to Maverick, and the term spread throughout the cattle country, gradually extending its meaning until it was used to signify anyone who refused to recognize a master, a man who was broad in his views and owed allegiance to no one.

Impoverished by the lack of care of his cattle, Maverick died a number of years ago—but his name usually appears at least once in every Western story which has any claims to atmosphere.

TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Brief Items of Local News of Special Interest to Our Home Readers.

Misses Sallie Fowler and Faith Lightner, of Baltimore, were visitors at G. Walter Wilt's this week.

George Mitten, of Washington, was a visitor at Roy B. Garner's, over Sunday. Miss Elizabeth Mitten is a visitor in the same home.

Misses Ethel Sauerhammer and Beulah Englar, returned to their schools at Lansdowne, Pa., and New Brunswick, N. J., the first of this week.

The Hafer family removed to Chambersburg, Pa., on Monday, where they will live, temporarily. Their furniture is still occupying the parsonage.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Allison and daughters, Evelyn and Dorothy, and son, Samuel, of Selins Grove, Pa., were week-end visitors of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Allison.

Mrs. Ida B. Koontz has been visiting here, for the past ten days. She will make her home, for the winter, at State College, Penna. Her son, Frank, is here, and will accompany her to State College.

Mrs. H. M. Clabaugh, and Helen Lamberton and daughter, Isabel, of Washington, and George W. Clabaugh, of Omaha, are occupying Antrim for the month of September. Mr. Lamberton was with them over Sunday.

(For the Record.) Last Sunday evening Norman Lawrence, wife and family, entertained Miss Helen; Allen Feeser, wife and son, John, and Raymond Perry, of Taneytown, and Miss Annie Koontz, of Baltimore.

William Ash and William Hoagland of New York City, left their homes in the city, Saturday morning, on an attempt to hike to the latter's grandfather's, D. W. Garner. Arriving in Hanover the same day and in Taneytown, on Sunday.

Union Bridge according to The Pilot, commenced on Tuesday to gather up rubbish, such as tin cans, etc., placed at convenient points. This is a proper action that Taneytown should follow. We assume that the idea is to make weekly gatherings.

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Baumgardner and son, Elwood, and Miss Annie Baumgardner, visited Mr. and Mrs. Edward Adelsberger, at Philadelphia, from Saturday until Monday. On Sunday, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Adelsberger, the day was pleasantly spent at Atlantic City.

Next week, is Fair week. The indications are that with good weather conditions prevailing, a highly successful event will result. Exhibitors and others directly interested, should get busy and keep busy, making the best possible use of every hour remaining for preparation.

(For the Record.) The Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lockner and family, of Mount Pleasant, were: Jacob Hess, wife and son, Charles, of near Oregon School-house; Mrs. Miles and friend, of Hanover; Walter Bowers, wife and daughters, Edith, Catherine and Emma, of near Black's School-house.

The Cannery had a blockade, on Tuesday, there being as many as 120 wagons of corn waiting to be unloaded at one time. The situation is said to have been partly caused by the cutting machinery not working properly, and also because the early and late plantings are coming in at one time. The congestion has continued all week to some extent.

Very few sales have been registered at our office, for next Spring, but we know that many dates have been taken. So, not for our interest, but for the interest of those having dates fixed, it would be wise to let our office have their day, as so doing may prevent somebody selecting the same day in the same neighborhood. We are having inquiries every week that we can not answer.

J. W. Witherow met with a mishap, on Tuesday evening, that came near costing his life. He was riding horseback down the hill to the cannery factory, when the horse suddenly stumbled and fell with great force, pinning Mr. Witherow underneath. Help was fortunately near at hand, and a physician summoned. Mr. Witherow was unconscious for quite a while, and was at first thought to be dead. His life was perhaps saved by the fact that he wore, that prevented fatal concussion of the brain. He was also considerably injured in one foot, and his body, due to the horse falling on him.

Roy Baker, who is at Frederick Hospital, is reported to be getting better.

Miss Nan Buffington, of Baltimore, is visiting at the home of Mrs. Laura Reindollar.

Mrs. George P. Eyler, of Nevada, was a recent visitor of her brother, D. J. Hesson.

"No Trespassing" Cards at 10c each, or 3 for 25 cents, can be had at The Record Office.

D. M. Mehning's handsome brick bungalow, is now receiving its interior finishing touches.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Shoemaker, of Yonkers, N. Y., spent some time with John Byers and wife.

Solomon Wantz's new home is one of the growing improvements in the progressive "east end" extension.

Miss Esther Angell, near Taneytown, is spending several days with her friend, Miss Minnie Byers, of near Littlestown.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Baker and son, Carson, of Connellsville, Pa., were week-end guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Elliot. Mrs. Baker is a sister of Mrs. Elliot.

The opening of the game season again calls for the exercise of good sense and decent conduct on the part of hunters, with full regard for individual rights, as well as for provisions of law.

William T. Haugh (To) died at his home in Waynesboro, on Wednesday. He was a former resident of Taneytown, and one of the longest time subscribers to The Record. (See regular death notice.)

An article was received this Friday morning, too late to place in type, giving an account of a surprise party on Tuesday evening, in honor of Mr. Geary Angell, attended by about 65 guests. A very enjoyable time was spent, and refreshments served.

During Fair week, on next Wednesday, Taneytown baseball team will play a game with Woodsboro, and on Thursday, with Westminster, the games to be called at 3:30. Turn out and give our team a big benefit, as well as see two good games—perhaps the last of the season.

Our High School opened on Tuesday, with the following teaching staff: Prof. J. L. Hunsberger, Rev. Guy P. Bready, Misses Dorothy Robb, Josephine Evans, Emma L. Leaver, Naomi Royer, Estella Essig, Mrs. G. May Fouke and Harry Ecker. About 180 attended on the first day.

Those who spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Frock, of near Kump, were: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Foreman and daughters, Mildred and Dorothy, Mrs. Sargent Bankard, son and daughter, David and Dorothy, of Taneytown; Mr. and Mrs. Reno Biddinger and daughters, Gwendolyn and Helen, and Mr. and Mrs. George Otto and sons, Elmer, Delmar and Chester, and daughters, Geraldine and Charlotte, of Union Bridge; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Frock, of Ladiesburg.
