----RUN DOWN BY AUTO. THE BIG BALLOT NEXT TUESDAY

Simple Instructions that Ought to be Followed by All.

There will be 18 candidates to vote for on the ballot, Governor, Comp-troller, Attorney-General Clerk of Court of Appeals, Chief Judge of Fifth Circuit, Sheriff, County Treas-urer, State's Attorney, State Senator, four Mombors House of Delegates four Members House of Delegates, three Judges of Orphans' Court, County Commissioners, and County Surveyor. There is also one amendment, relating to the pay of salary of Judges in Baltimore City, of no great interest to county voters. In order to vote the entire ballot 18 X marks will be required. As the the ballot is long, voting will be correspondingly slow, which makes it important that voters attend to the duty as early as they conveniently can and not postpone coming to the polls until late afternoon or evening.

Those who have difficulty with their eyesight, should be sure to bring their glasses; and nobody, unless very familiar with voting such a large ballot, should attempt to do so without first having studied a sample. The names of all the candidates are in two columns on the ballot, the third column containing nothing but the amendment, which need not be voted for, unless it is desired to do so. Not voting for the amendment will not in-validate the ballot.

On being given a ballot, first be careful to observe how it is folded, mark it carefully, and fold back ex-actly as received. Be so familiar with the ballot, before getting it, that no time need be taken in handling it unnecessarily. Do not tear, nor deface the ballot, in any way. If a mistake is made in making any mark, do not try to correct it by erasing, nor by over-mark-ing. Make the X marks clearly within the squares. If a mistake should be made, ask for another ballot. As the ballot is large—about 18 inches wide and 30 inches long, it will be hard to handle in the narrow booths—the foolish election law makes it so—but, resolve to handle it, and finish the job properly.

Especially when marking the ballot for candidates in the second column, be sure to make the X mark to the right, in the square after the name of candidates and party. The polls open at 6:00 A. M., and close at 7:00 P. M.

Carroll County Firemen.

A delegation of Firemen representing five County Volunteer Compan-ies, Taneytown, Westminster, Lineboro, Manchester and Hampstead, held a second meeting in the Firemen's building, Westminster, and effected a permanent county organizaThomas M. Keefer Dies from a Fractured Skull. Thomas M. Keefer, living near Mayberry, and well known in Taneytown, was run down by a Ford car on the Littlestown and Westminster road near Mt. Pleasant, on Tuesday evening about 5:30, as he and his son were walking home from Westminster. Both were hit by the car, but the son escaped with minor injuries.

They had been to Baltimore to consult an eye specialist for the son's eyes, and arrived in Westminster on an earlier train than they expected, consequently, another son who was to have met them, was not there, and they started to walk toward home. The Ford car was going in the same direction, at a rapid gait, and threw both of them some distance. The injured man was taken to the office of Dr. Wetzel, in Union Mills, and at once hurried to the Gettysburg Hospital, where an operation was performed, but death ensued Wednes-day morning about 9:30.

The driver of the car went on his way, without stopping to render any assistance. His age was 55 years, 11 months, 13 days. He is survived by his wife, and three sons and three daughters, all at home; Pauline, Ruthanna, Nellie, Benjamin, Ralph and Melvin; also by one brother, Edgar Keefer, of Westminster. The body was brought from Gettysburg to the Keefer home, on Wednesday afternoon by C. O. Fuss & Son, undertakers.

Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock this Friday afternoon, by Revs. W. G. Stine and L. F. Murray, at the Church of God, Mayberry.

Auto License Changes.

With an announcement by Gover-nor Ritchie that the tax on automobiles will be but 32 cents instead of 60 cents per horsepower, beginning January 1, next, because of the en-forcement of the two-cent gasoline tax for the upkeep of roads, changes in the old laws were cited at the office of Automobile Commissioner E.

Austin Baughman. Automobile owners who operate pheumatic tired machines will find their license fee cut in half this year. For instance a man operating a 22-horsepower auto will have to pay but $7.04 instead of $13.20 as heretofore. But this is the difference

In past years there was a pro rata rate based on a three months issuance with a refund. Those who applied for funds, and the rate will be the same whether a man purchases his license on January 1 or December 1, according to Assistant Automobile Commissioner D. Marshall Shroder. If a man ower, he can transfer his tags from one car to another by payment take out new tags. for two sets of license tags, but the rates for additional sets drop from $15 to $2. The reduction in the rate for solid tires amount to about 50 percent of what it has been in the past and is on a monthly pro rata real loss. basis. The flat rate of $5 yearly for With the motorcycles still will continue in The Election--Next Tuesday.

The declared affiliation of voters shows the two parties in Carroll County to be nearly equally divided, the balance of power being held by those who "declined" to announce their party affiliation. The result of the election, therefore, will depend largely on getting the vote out-the side most successful in this, being the one likely to win.

There is not in sight, a walk-over for either side, but the chances favor such candidates as will have a big home vote, which may mean a mixed result. So far as mere party enthusiasm is concerned, there seems to be little of it on either side; but, this should not interfere with one's exercise of the privilege of the ballot-neither that, nor being too busy.

The Record, as usual, will have "sample ballots" on hand for the inspection of all who care to look them over before voting. It is always a good plan to familiarize ourselves with the names, and their arrangement, before going into the voting booth.

Next Tuesday, Nov. 6, is Election Day. Make it your day, in which to exercise your efforts toward the best possible government.

COUNTY FAIR NOT WANTED.

The Adams County Independent editorially professes to be very well satisfied that Adams County has no central County Fair, but inclines toward the effectiveness, as well as economy, of Community fairs several of which are held, annually, in the county. The Independent says in part; "It is the general feeling of careful business men and observant citizens in other lines that the typical county fair such as those conducted at York, Hanover and Frederick are not without their abuses; that these big fairs really miss the main idea, and develop into anything but a real agricultural exhibit. Efforts to stop gambling and to remove objectionable shows have in many instances been productive of good results, but the average person who attends one of these fairs goes for the purpose of watching the races, seeing the free shows in front of the grandstand, and possibly taking in some of the freak stunts on the side. Called an agricultural fair, it degenerates into little short of a refined carnival with some racing on the side. Gasoline is selling in Southern Cal-ifornia at from 6c to 13c, and in Oregon and Washington at from 12c to 14c. The reason of this is, California has knocked the bottom out of the oil capable of producing 1,000,000 barrels per day. California is now yielding more crude oil than Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas, three of the great petroleum regions of the United States and the bulk of this California oil is be-ing produced in Los Angeles and Or-ange counties,two of the coastal counties which, until a few years ago, were chiefly devoted to citrus fruit growing and diversified farming. There, within a radius of 35 miles and so situated that a complete tour of them by auto in a single day is im-possible, lies three great petroleum fields which have made world history in the last year, and another field which is reported to be destined to replace the Huntington Beach field in its declining years. This is Torrance, a field which, in 15 months, has put 40 wells on production, with a total of 128 producing, drilling or building

In less than eight months the oil fields of Southern California, some of which reared their 120-foot derricks above bearing orange groves valued at from $2,000 to $5,000 per acre, have caused the petroleum capital of the world to rise within two miles of tidewater at Los Angeles harbor; have put the Panama Canal on a paying basis after the world's general maritime trade failed to do so; have provided the United States Shipping Board with a mark for perhaps $40,-All this is accomplished without the have knocked the bottom out of the FREDERICK MUST PAY. For Children Sent to Schools in Carroll County.

Although Frederick county has been "slow" in paying for the tuition of children from this county who have been attending border schools Fred-erick county, Dr. Albert S. Cook, state superintendent of education has informed the superintendent of Carroll county schools that these children can not be barred from school, as the Car-roll county board of education has warned officials of Frederick county they would be.

The question of barring Frederick county children in the vicinity of Mt. Airy and Union Bridge from attend-ing schools at these points has result-ed from the failure of Frederick county to pay a balance of $4,656.49 for tuition for the 1922-23 school year The original bill was $8,656.49, $4,000 having been paid by the Fred-erick county school board. Because of an inadequate school levy, say school officials, the balance has been unpaid.

elementary grades are attending bor-der schools of Carroll county, at Mt. Airy and Union Bridge. Carroll county's per capita charge has been $133, which is considerably higher than the per capita cost in Frederick county.

This year Frederick county school officials have put a bus into service running from near Union Bridge to Liberty. Each day 28 pupils, who had been attending border schools are transported to the Liberty high school and elementary school. The cost of operating this bus is about $100 per month, or about $1,000 for the school year, as against the $3,700 charged by Carroll county authorities.

The situation at Mt. Airy is different. About 80 Frederick county children reside in that place a part of which is in Carroll county. The most convenient school is in the Carroll county section of Mt. Airy. These are attending the Carroll county school and their tuition will be paid by this county.

In discussing the question Thurs-day night, Superintendent Palmer said that the state superintendent had decided that children living near the Carroll county schools can attend those schools and their tuition must be paid by the county in which they live. If these children live near Frederick county high or elementary schools, they are expected to attend the schools of this county. Otherwise various family heads must pay for the tuition of their children.

In all probability Frederick county officials will make some arrangements soon to clear up the 1922-23 indebtedness .- Frederick News.

BUYER IS GUILTY WITH THE SELLER. Judge Morris so Decides, in Illegal

Liquor Cases,

Carroll countains who buy liquor from boot-leggers or obtain it from other illegal sources, will be equally guilty with the seller in the future, according to a ruling handed down Monday, of last week, by Judge Hugh M. Morris, in the United States District Court. The announcement came at the opening of the Court, when the jurist declared that, under the statutes of the United States, one is equally milter with the other than the status guilty with the other.

Heretofore activities of the authorites have been directed against those who illegally sell or dispense intoxi-cating liquors, but under the new ruling those who buy wet goods will be equally guilty of violating the law.

unpaid. Approximately 108 Frederick coun-ty school children in high school and The ruling was based on Section 37 of the Criminal Code, which provides that in case of a conspiracy of two or more to commit an offense against the United States, all are liable for the acts of the one; and each shall be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned for not more than two years, or both.

Fires Originating from Fuel.

There is no more prolific source of originating fires, than woodsheds, coal bins, woodpiles, or even heaps of loose coal

Fires are caused by coalbins by lack of proper ventilation which frequently produces explosions from accumulated gases.

Spontaneous combustion is more to be feared from recently mined coal than from that which has been out of the mine for some time.

All this applies to storing soft coal. Alternate wetting and drying of coal that is received wet should be avoided.

A few general suggestions and precautions for preventing fires in storage of wood will suffice. Fuel wood should be neatly piled up without large air spaces between the sticks, which causes fire to spread.

The ground around the woodpiles and in the aisles between should be kept clean of rubbish, shavings and old newspapers. Wherever wood or coal are stored there should be easy access to hydrant service and if piled in the house, hose and nozzle should be convenient.

Potomac Synod Reformed Church.

At the Potomac Synod of the Re-At the Potomac Synod of the Re-formed Church, held at Frederick, last week. the report on the shate of the church showed that the synod had 195 ministers, 9 licentiates, 317 con-gragations, 53,000 communicants, 20,000 unconfirmed members, 1,700 infort heating during the year 290 infant baptisms during the year, 389 adult baptisms, 1,773 persons con-firmed, 928 by certificates, 492 renewal of profession, 292 Sunday Schools, 57,000 Sunday School members, $114,-

The officers elected were: President Dr. E. M. Bush, Hampstead; Vice-President, Frank C. Shaffer, Westmin-ster; Secretary, H. T. Wentz, Line-boro; and Treasurer, Walter A. Bower Taneytown.

Westminster was selected as the place to hold the first meeting in 1924. An effort will be made by the officers of the association to enroll all the Volunteer Fire Companies of the county as members.

An executive committee was named by the association and given full pow-ers to make an effort in trying to secure annual financial aid from the county authorities.

Dealers will still have to pay $25 immense overhead to contend with and about the only loss they can have comes from the weather, and this generally has been favorable. Insurthis ance provides ample protection if they want it and there is no reason why there should be any showing a

With these things in mind it is not surprising that our Adams county folk have been slow to adopt the idea of one fair for the whole county. Things are fine just as they are, so why give up a certainty for some-thing which is decidedly uncertain. Our neighbors have good fairs for those who like that kind of thing. We can patronize them without great effort or expense. Establishment of an Adams county fair would keep many from these other places, and they, in turn, would take many of our people. As it now is, all enjoy success.

Poultry Show Prizes.

A cash prize of $50 for expenses to the Madison Square Garden poultry show will be won by some member of the Boys and Girls Poultry Clubs, of Maryland, during the week of the Baltimore Poultry Show, to be held at the Fifth Regiment Armory, Dec. 4 to 8.

This prize, and second, third and fourth prizes, which include expenses to Club Week at College Park, Maryland, are offered by the Baltimore and Ohio Railrod for the best pens exhib-ited by a member of the Boys and Girls Poultry Clubs from the counties in Maryland, where pure bred eggs were distributed by the railroad company. Trust Company resources of Maryand on June 30, last, aggregated $204,171,871, according to "Trust Companies of the United States" for 1923 just issued by the United States Mortgage & Trust Company, of New York

The total figures for the Middle Atlantic States were $6,770,666,537, a gain of $713,782,177 over last year. The total figures for the country were $14,441,460,650 as compared with $12,-739,620,733 in 1922, an increase of $1,701,839,917.

Commenting on the excellent showing of Trust Companies as above set forth, John W. Platten, President of the United States Mortgage & Trust Company, says; "These figures speakforthemselves.

They also testify in no uncertain manner to the growing popularity and added appreciation of the helpful service being rendered by the Trust Companies to their respective communities throughout the United States. Such concrete evidence of confidence can only lead to an ever widening and deepening influence on the part of these institutions." - -----

The American Outclassed.

The American truth teller was in form. "Talking of ants," he said, "we've got 'em as big as crabs out West. I've seen 'em fight with long horns, which they use as lances, charging each other like savages."

"They don't compare with the ants I saw in the Far East," said an inoffensive individual nearby. "The na-tives have trained them as beasts of burden. One of 'em could trail a ton load for miles with ease. They worked willingly, but occasionally they turned on their attendants and killed them.

Liability, or Asset-Which?

The indorsement of Mr. Armstrong, for Governor, by the Ku Klux Klan, may be a liability, instead of an asset at the election on November 6. Mr. Armstrong has said he had nothing to do with the indorsement, and did not seek it, but has not said that he does not want it, as that would aparently be poor politics-and yet, unless he does so, the colored brethren are apt to vote for Ritchie, if the following editorial from last week's issue of the ad in it cost $8,000 for one time-an Baltimore Afro-American is any ad warning the women of this country guide.

SIOUX FURNISH PLACE NAMES

Distinction Accorded to Great Tribes Which Long Opposed the Advance of White Settlers.

With the possible exception of the much less generally known Ojibway, the Sioux is the largest tribe of American Indians north of Mexico, says a bulletin of the National Geographical society.

The unforgettable names and the dramatic incidents that the history of the Sioux has yielded are sufficient alone to give them a prominent place whenever Indians are the subject of thought. Red Cloud, Crazy Horse, Rain-in-the-Face, and the redoubtable Sitting Bull were Sioux. The Sioux have had a greater hand at furnishing our best-known geographic names than any other division of Indians. Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, Omaha, Arkansas, Kansas, Iowa and Missouri are a few examples, most of them the names of Siouan sub-tribes.

The Sioux call themselves "Dakotas." "Sioux" is a contraction of a French corruption of an Ojibway word meaning "little snakes" or "enemies." Until comparatively recently the Sioux have been consistent enemies of the new Americans. They assisted the English both during the American Revolutionary war and the War of 1812, and practicaly every advance westward which the white settlers have since made has been vigorously contested by the Sioux.

THOUSANDS JOINED IN LAUGH

Sound in Theater Described as a "Sort of Chaotic Shriek, Not in the Least Human."

It happened at a performance of "Israel in Egypt" during the Handel festival of 1859. The queen was present, and Costa, the conductor, conceived the happy idea that the audience should join with chorus and orchestra in the performance of the national anthem, in honor of her majesty, which feature he proposed to introduce with sonorous roll of drums.

The idea was all right, but the final hitch came when the drummer could not hear what Costa said, and the latter tried to convey his meaning by guttural vocal sounds, while he beat an imaginary drum with his baton! Chorus and orchestra gazed at these unseemly antics at a loss, and then someone tittered.

It was catching; and in less than a moment, five thousand people were helpless with laughter. The infection spread to the audience, and all sense of decorum fled as the laughter swelled from five, to thirty-two thousand voices.

"It was a sort of chaotic shriek, not in the least human, but worth hearing for once," wrote a spectator of the scene.

Thankful for Typewriter.

We wonder now how folks ever got along without an instrument which produces legible manuscript. It may in time reduce the knowledge of chirography to the mere matter of penning one's own name, but how much time it has saved already from deciphering illegible writing is beyond computation. The typewriter makes for speed, but the greatest boon it conferred has been in removing the need for the scrawl with the pen.

Steel Traps and Personal Liberty.

Prohibiting the use of steel traps for catching fur-bearing animals, is the object of an effort of the American World Humane Society. It is urging all states to pass laws against the use of any trap that does not kill instantly. It is claimed that near half of the animals caught in steel traps, die a lingering death from torture.

In this same connection, it is urged by many that the "fashionableness" of furs for ladies wearing apparelespecially when unnecessary for actual warmth-should be discouraged by all, who are humanely inclined.

However, as this would likely be held as an interference with "personal liberty," such a suggestion is not likely to have much weight. Perhaps laws against the use of steel traps might help, but there again comes in interference with "personal liberty" in the way of business.

What Fixes the Price?

There is no use in asking why some things are high in price, and others low. The answer "is as old as the hills." It is simply because the demand for things largely fixes the price, and it always will do so. Go into any question of prices now prevailing, and this will answer the question.

Brick-layers, plasterers, expert machinists, workers of all kinds in the strenuous physical labor line, or in trades requiring an apprenticeship preparation, are getting big wages, because there are not enough men engaged in such lines to make their services easy to be had. Being a comparatively small number, and many wanting their services, enables them to "get the price."

Ministers and Physicians, are in demand, exceeding the supply. Why? Because of the long time and great expense required to fit them for their professions, and the few willing to make the necessary preparation, and It hails Gov. Ritchie as a hero for take the chance of profiting by it.

ied silence of candidate Armstrong and his associates on the Klan sub-D ject indicates that the Klan is not only against Ritchie, but for Armstrong

That settles it so far as everyy honest and decent Negro vote is concerned. For unless there is forthcoming an unmistakable, straight from the shoulder repudiation of Klan support on the part of the Republican leaders, only such candidates on this ticket that personally show their colors can hope to get the support of any selfrespecting colored voter.

This is a matter in which there can be no equivocation. The importance of party lines fades into insignificance in comparison to the principle of law and order involved and the fact that for any reason a candidate should cringe and waiver before these cowardly assassins of constituted authority, makes it all the more imperative that every Negro vote available be registered against it election day.

Now that the issue is clear cut; now that a vote may mean either an endorsement or repudiation of the Ku Klux Klan, this phase of the campaign is bound to be the dominant thought in the minds of colored voters."

If we remember rightly, the Afro-American has been pretty hard to satisfy, in recent years, that it pays colored voters to vote the Republican ticket; and it is our impression that this paper was for Jackson, (Dem.) for Mayor, instead of Broening (Rep.) and has at various times suggested that the Negro vote "split up" between the two parties-a suggestion by the way, that meets with the approval of a good many white Republicans.

But, there is something to be said in favor of the position of the Afro-American, with reference to the Ku Klux. No one-white or colored-can be expected to lie down with open enemies, and make no protest. If the K. K. represents open antagonism to Catholics, Jews and Negroes, these must be expected to fight back; and, such being the case, we again repeat that the indorsement of Armstrong by this organization may be more a liability than an asset.

Fish Meal.

Experiments with fish meal as a food for domestic animals have been made abroad, and it has been found that pigs and cattle eat it with relish. In Norway the meal is made from cod and herring. The codfish are dried first in the air and then in an oven, and afterward ground into meal. They make a highly nutritious food. Herring are boiled and placed under pressure before being ground.

In England and Scotland fish meal is made from the waste parts of all kinds of fish, first steamed and then dried and ground. This meal usually contains from 55 to 65 per cent of albuminoids, 3 to 6 per cent of fats and 14 to 18 per cent of calcium phosphate.

Searching Ocean's Depths.

The latest invention in nautical devices now in use on a pilot boat is a machine which throws a beam of light to the sea bottom allowing the depth of the water below the ship to be gauged. Soundings may thus be done away with. The invention may be usefully employed by the big liners in entering shallow water. The searchlight is worked through a hole in the lower part of the ship, while an observation window is placed nearby through which the beam of light may be seen. A mirror is set at the end of a long observation tube running vertically through the ship to the bridge.

Cause for Grief.

The little boy with the rather grubby face was crying lustily in the street when a kind old lady, who happened to be passing, stopped and asked him the cause of his grief. "Boo, hoo! 'Cause I've lost a penny,' was the tearful rejoinder. "Mother gave it to me and I can't find it anywhere."

"Ah, never mind," said the kind old soul, as she took her purse out of her pocket. "Here's another penny for you."

The child instantly stopped his howling and took the penny in his grimy hand. The old lady passed on, but she had not gone far when she heard howls louder than ever coming from the boy. Retracing her steps she asked the reason of his renewed lamentations.

"I'm crying 'cause-'cause if I hadn't lost that first penny I should have had two now!"

Pays to Market Spring Cockerels at Two Pounds

With the present price of feeds, says the Ohio Agricultural college, farmers cannot afford to keep their spring-hatched cockerels until the holiday season to sell them. After a growing cockerel reaches 11/2 to 2 pounds it is an inefficient consumer of feed for meat production.

The price of cockerels is always higher during the spring and summer months than in the fall when many farmers dispose of their surplus cockerels. The slump in price is due to two causes: (1) The large size cockerel is less desirable on the table. (2) The cockerel must compete on the market with the surplus hens, with a resulting slump in price.

In case the cockerels are kept until fall they should be crate fattened, as they will then bring a premium on the market. The birds should be confined in a small coop or fattening battery and fed twice a day on the following ration: 70 pounds of corn meal, 80 pounds high grade shorts or middlings, and 10 pounds of wheat bran. This should be mixed with sufficient sour skim milk or butter milk to make a mixture of the consistency of a thick cream

The birds should be starved 12 hours after putting in the crate and then fed all they will clean up of the above feed in 10 minutes.

The amount of feed fed can be gradualy increased until two full feeds a day have been supplied. No water should be given during the feeding Deriod

A gain of 25 to 40 per cent can be made in 12 to 14 days.

Geese Will Bring Very

Good Margin of Profit "One who has not had the pleasure to watch a little gosling pop out of the shell and see it grow to maturity would be surprised to knew in how short a time it is done. At first it is a little downy fellow, weighing not over four ounces; a round, fluffy little 'ball of wool. The wing feathers and breast feathers start to grow first. They will continue to have a downy appearance until they become two or three months eld and then the feathers will begin to replace the down. During their growth they will generally average an additional pound for each month. From a commercial stand point the geese will bring a very good margin of profit, for the cost of feed ing them is very small where they car range upon vegetation. The demand at the markets for these fowls dur ing the holidays is much greater than the supply, and the prices at which this product sells at this period should be a good inducement to those who have the facilities to raise more management. One of the first things to be learned is that the goldfish in its natural habitat is accustomed to plenty of shade. They need this because their eyelids are poorly developed or entirely absent.

STOWN STOWN GOLDFISH NEED ABUN-DANCE OF AIR TO LIVE.— People who do not have good luck with goldfish frequently owe their lack of success to mismanagement.

sent. Therefore, when fish are put into transparent globes which admit all the light there is and from all directions at once the fish cannot cover their eyes and cannot find a shady place in which to rest or hide.

~~~~~ Stones and other small ob-jects, such as water plants, can be put in the bowl in such posi-tions as to make a little shade between and under some of them.

The activity of live goldfish in glass globes, so thoughtlessly ad-mired by their owners, is a fren-zied activity, a vain effort to find relief from glare find relief from glare.

find relief from glare. The other fact is that there is air in the water where fish live in nature. Aerated water is a necessity of life for fish. Water in globes is still and free from air. The fish swim about with gaping mouths, gasping for breath and actually smothering for want of air for want of air.

Persons who enjoy seeing gold-fish in globes will do well to consider these facts.

MADE THE FIRST PORCELAIN

For Centuries Chinaware Was Manufactured Solely in the Celestial Empire.

For centuries the transparent porcelain which we call, or should call, "china," was manufactured only in the celestial empire.

So superior was it to the ordinary earthenware that on its first introduction into Europe various attempts, all more or less unsuccessful, were made to imitate it. The true porcelain, however, could only be made in China. owing to the fact that a particular clay used in its composition was supposed to be found in China alone.

Then it was found that we, too, had our own banks of that particular clay, and our own porcelain works commenced.

The word "china" still survives, though it has largely lost its old meaning, and we loosely describe as "china" a good deal of stuff that is really ordinary earthenware.

Radio Is Taught in Sleep.

Teaching the novice how to send and receive radio code messages more speedily by giving him instructions while he sleeps, is a method recently adopted and said to be proving successful at a naval air training station. Before retiring at night, the student puts an ordinary head-set of telephone receivers over his ears. All night long skilled operators send messages, usually ten words a minute in excess of the student's capacity. The next day in his conscious hours, it is reported, the beginner is able to transcribe communications at the speed they came to him during his sleep, and to send code words faster than the day before. Some committed to memory passages of literature flashed to them while they slept .- Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Born in Glasgow, Scotland, of Welsh parentage, is the proud claim of David Powell, well-known star in motion pictures. Before entering the "movies" he had had several years of stage experience. He is distinguished as one of the best leading men of the day and has achieved world-wide reputation for his ability as an actor, his finesse, intelligence and general air of good breeding.

THE UNWELCOME RAP

TN PERFECT fairness anyone has a perfect right to ring your front bell or knock at your door. An agent who comes to try to sell you flavoring extract may annoy you if he comes to call you to the door in the midst of a busy round of housework or when you are receiving callers, but he has really committed no offense. You owe him at least a definite but courteous refusal to buy.

There is always an effective way to dismiss an unwelcome caller without being rude. There are ways of rebuking admittance as effective as slamming the door in an intruder's face. If an agent comes and you feel that he is taking an undue length of time in stating the object of his call, you are entitled to interrupt him and ask courteously: "Will you please tell me briefly what I can do for you? I am very busy."

"I am sorry but I do not wish any." is a very definite but courteous way of dismissing the would-be sales person or you may add: "To detain you would only be wasting your time as well as my own, as I cannot make any purchases."

Sometimes housewives listen for half an hour to the glib speech of a persistent agent and then when at last he agent goes without having mad any sales they blame, not themselves for having detained the agent and wasted their own time, but the agent. Now no agent ever really remains to take your time unless he feels that there is at least a chance of your purchasing his goods. And there is always a way politely to convince even the most brazen of agents that you will not possibly buy. It is never the part of kindness to yield to the request that you listen to an agent's sales talk when you know that there is not a chance of your ultimate purchase. #### COVETOUS SPIRIT

NO OTHER prompting within the human breast is quite so mischievous or tantalizing to the tranquility of the mind as the sordid coveting of things beyond our reach and means. Its effect is seldom productive of satisfactory pleasure.

And no other motion is so unproductive of results, except of the kind that divests us of our sunny disposition, which we stand and deliver without a word of protest.

An odd phase of the covetous spirit is that it generally sets its affections on objects of no substantial worth. The fine, ennobling things which develop strength of character are often : overlooked in the exciting chase for the ephemeral, which grows hotter as the pursuit is continued.

Friendship is ruthlessly brushed aside. Hearts are broken. Reason loses its balance in an excitation of feeling. Talents are neglected or wrapped in a napkin and hidden. As the tide of years sweeps us on, we become impelled by a sort of fanaticism whose power we are unable to resist.

Daily we sink a little lower from an existence of independence to a state of mere servitude, controlled in every thought and act by the fervent spirit of covetousness

It is a natural inclination which manifests itself when, as children, we covet the toys of our playmates. But that is not all. It sometimes compels us to appropriate the playthings and impudently to claim them as our own. Then comes the merited punishment. Having grown up in such an atmosphere we cannot at once escape its miasmal influence, though the most of us finally succeed in doing so.

There are some humans, however, in whose blood the fever never quite subsides, causing them intense suffering all their lives.

They prefer to covet gorgeous pearls and gowns, or great estates and yachts, each according to one's sex and particular fancy.

There's a sort of morbid pleasure in imagined ownership in which even the avowed indifferent like slyly to indulge.

In this temptation to covetous indulgence lies the peril to our happiness. But as happiness is elusive as dreams, and inconstant as flirts, we who have the fire of youth in our veins sometimes deliberately rush into the game and take our chances!

Ducks Grow Quickly and Excel in Laying Ability

In considering the possibilities of the poultry industry, the heavy egg production and quick maturing qualities of the duck should not be overlooked. Ducks will lay more eggs than chickens and will, if properly fed and handled, weigh six pounds each at nine to ten weeks of age.

Unlike chickens, ducks may be housed in very inexpensive houses. One Indiana woman who a few years ago sold over $1,100 worth of ducks in a year, housed them in rail pens covered with straw, at a cost of less than $10 for the entire flock. However, their pens must be well bedded with clean, dry straw, as a duck with cold feet will not lay. A well-drained location should be chosen for duck pens, as low, damp ground soon becomes unsanitary.

In duck raising, as in all other branches of the poultry industry, it is wisest to start with a small number of birds or eggs, learning as you proceed, rather than to plunge in to "make or break," which to the beginner usually means break. A large, well-matured drake mated to five to seven thrifty ducks will produce 60 to 100 ducks, which is about as many as the small poultryman or farmer's wife can care for successfully.

Unless the brooding quarters are warm, ducks should not be hatched too early, as the loss from chilling and cramps will offset the gains from an early market.

Feeding Young Turkeys

Is Not Difficult Task F'eeding young turkeys is about the same as feeding young chicks, and as a first feed for the poult they may be given stale bread, soaked in milk and squeezed dry, to a crumbly state, and mixed with finely chopped hard-boiled eggs, cracker crumbs and dandelions.

Feed them the food frequently, every two hours for the first couple of days, after which they should be given grain feed of wheat, oats and barley, equal parts, ground together and sufficiently fine for them at this tender

After the poults have reached two weeks in age, feed them a mash of equal parts of cornmeal and the ground grain feed, moistened with sweet milk, to which should be added a small amount of finely cut meat, and feed at least three times daily, if confined in runs, or twice daily, mornings and evenings, when allowed to range. Grit is necessary, and a liberal supply should always be near at hand. Charcoal is excellent for the poults, and at times some should be used in their food.

SOURCE OF FAMILIAR SAYINGS

"Kicking the Bucket," for Instance, Can Be Traced to Days of California Gold Rush.

The expression, "a pig in a poke," originated in Northampton market, when some wags put a cat in a bag or poke and sold it as a pig to a countryman. When the buyer opened the bag, out jumped the cat. This also gave rise to the expression, "letting the cat out of the bag."

"Kicking the bucket" is a phrase that owes its conception to the days of the great gold rush to California and Australia in 1849-51, says London Tit-Bits. Many unfortunate seekers after gold, losing their all in an unavailing effort to find the precious "dust," committed suicide. The suicide tied a rope to a beam in his hut. Then, standing on an upturned bucket, he would adjust the other end of the rope round his neck. When all was ready he simply kicked the bucket from under his feet.

"Worth a Jew's eye," probably came from the fact that King John extorted large sums of money from Jews under threats of mutilation. All the teeth of one Jew in Bristol were extracted to satisfy the king's rapacity.

From a corruption of the Anglo-Saxon we get the phrase, "as mad as a hatter." It has nothing to do with a "hatter," really. The word "mad" in Anglo-Saxon meant furious, angry, or even venomous, and "atter" meant an "adder or viper." Thus the whole expression really means "as venomous as an adder.'

NIAGARA FALLS NOT HIGHEST

Wonderful Scenic Masterpiece Is Eclipsed by Some of the World's Other Great Waterways.

Niagara falls are generally looked upon as the most wonderful falls in the world, and the popular impression is that they are also the highest in the world.

But as a matter of fact, the Gersoppa falls in the Western Ghats of South India are, speaking roughly, three times the height of Niagara falls, and surpass also the famous Sutherland falls in New Zealand, the great falls of Kaietur in British Guinea and the famous Victoria falls on the Zambesi river. They are on the Sharavati river in the North Kanava district of Bombay, and occur at a point about twenty miles from the river's mouth, where it plunges into a narrow gorge on its way to the Indian ocean.

The cliff over which the Gersoppa or Jog falls leap is 830 feet high. When there is only a moderate amount of water in the river it is broken into four distinct falls, and the largest, called the Rajah, has an unbroken drop of over 500 feet before it touches a rock. Straight from an overhanging ledge it leaps into the chasm in what may be called a gigantic spout, so far from the precipice behind it that the sun shines in between and the shadow of the water may be seen on the rock at some distance to the side of the fall. The pool beneath it is 132 feet deep.

Green Feed Is Valuable for Its Mineral Matter

Green feed is valuable, not only for Its succulence, which makes it palatable to poultry, but also because if contains mineral matter, including nutritive constituents, necessary to sus tain life, promote growth, and assure reproduction. Foremost among these constituents are the vitamines, the absence of which from any ration, whether for humans, animals or birds, will ultimately prove fatal.

Therefore it behooves every poultry keeper, whether backyarder, specialist or farmer, to make provision for an ample supply of green feed in some form, and in view of the shortness of our growing season, and the late spring experienced this year, no time should be lost.

Poultry Notes

Ducks should be fed wet mashes, principally. * * *

Wheat, oats and barley are the best of small grains for poultry.

If your hens do not produce more than ninety eggs each a year they are not making a profit.

The early chick is stronger, more able to overcome obstacles than his later-hatched brother. Bugs, worms and green feed supplement his diet. * * *

Cleanliness is essential in raising chickens. See that all houses and coops are thoroughly disinfected before the chicks are placed in them.

Young ducks seldom thrive on whole grains of any kind, and leg weakness, the worst foe of successful duck raising, is sure to result from improperly balanced rations. * * *

Minorcas are not considered very good winter layers in cold climates but make good summer layers. They lay very large, white shelled eggs. * * *

It is of extreme importance that poultry have access to plenty of coarse grit, as well as oyster shell and charcoal.

* * * Turkeys must have freedom as much as possible and free range in summer if they are to do well. They will do well on the same rations as chickens.

How East Indians Store Hay.

There is practiced in Kasimir, India, a novel method of putting fodder up for winter use. The country lies in a valley among the Himalayas. The chief industry of the people consists of raising fine wool and in making this into fabrics which have carried the name of the country all over the world. A curious custom in some places is that of hanging quantities of hay up among the branches of trees. Why this is done is more than the stranger can guess and he is much puzzled until some native informs him that in winter the snow lies five and six yards in depth and that the supplies of hay, which as he now looks at them seem only as if intended for giraffes, are then easily reached by the flocks of sheep which abound

An Italian company has for some time been profitably exploiting the steam of subterranean origin continually being belched out of the fissures in the earth in the volcanic region of Tuscany. In the vicinity the necessary plant has been erected, turbine engines installed, and electricity generated, which is supplied to many towns in Tuscany, and as far as Follonica, on the coast, a distance of over 50 miles. The steam is carried through pipes to tubular boilers, where its heat turns pure water into steam, which operates the engines connected with the generating plant. The current is transformed to high voltages for longdistance transmission, and is subsequently lowered and distributed by subsidiary companies.

How X-Ray Has Been Developed. According to competent medical authority, new developments in X-ray movies have been achieved by the use of a new method of sensitizing the photographic plate so as to record new wave lengths never before photographed.

CARRIAGE AND MOTIONS OF THE HANDS

WHEN the hands hang limply at the side, and are heavy, thick and fat, you may deduce therefrom, generally, that the intellect of the possessor will be likewise heavy and 'fat." All is density, and there is no use trying to raise the possessor of such a hand out of the depths of materialism. "When you read his or her hand," says one authority, "if you attempt a keen analysis, he will blankly stare at you. No use trying to lift him out of his trough of materialism. It can't be done. He wants to know his brother's name, whether he is married, how many children, how long he will live, whether he will be rich, and you cannot lift him above this plane." Lastly, we have the cautious person who enters your room with an air of investigation and with the hands carried behind the back, where they are clasped. This person is timid and well-meaning, but suspicious of the value and merits and standing of palmistry. You must deal gently with him; he is open to conviction, but must be led and cannot be driven. #### Playing the Game.

"I've got to do something to trengthen my hand in this political game," remarked Senator Sorghum. "Thought you were a stand-patter." "I am, as a rule. But you've got to show the cards once in a while in order to get proper respect the next time you have to bluff."

ave something to laugh and suffer about! Maybe you never realized the agony you have caused by illegible hand writing. Maybe you have a reason that makes you unable to write clearly, such as neuritis or rheumatism or nerves of some sort. If this is so the laughter is cruel. But if you are just careless, you do cause a lot of time to be wasted by your good friends, and their laughter is the kindest thing they could do for you. Take stock and see what's the trouble with your writing. Maybe you haven't a comforting pen or do not use the right kind of paper to make writing a joy. Maybe, too, you are in too much of a hurry to think of others. Don't gloat over your geniuslike writing. This sort of genius is long out of date.

YOUR GET-AWAY HERE: Is to try a little each time you write to make your writing more of a pleasure to yourself and then less of an agony to your friends. Failing that, a typewriting machine adds all comfort necessary to both sides of the equation, or

Recipe for Children.

The following infallible recipe to preserve children is from the Michigan Health Bulletin: "Take one large grassy field, one-half dozen children, two or three small dogs, a pinch of brook and some pebbles. Mix the children and dogs well together and put them in the field, stirring constantly. Pour the brook over the pebbles. Sprinkle the field with flowers. Spread over all a deep, blue sky and bake in the hot sun. When brown, remove, and set away to cool in a bath tub."

located at Beltsville, Md., showed that the best results and highest egg production are obtained when hens are allowed to select their own mash constituents. It was found that hens selected a mash composed of 66 parts cornmeal, 26 parts meat scrap, 4 parts wheat bran and 4 parts wheat middlings. This mash gives best results with Leghorns, and a less stimulating mash, containing more bran and ground oats, with less meat scrap, has given better results with general-purpose breeds.

Light Breed Cockerels Should Be Sold Early

Light breed cockerels should be sold early; it seldom pays to feed them to maturity. If broilers are early it pays best to sell the fowls when two or three pounds in weight rather than to keep till heavier. This is especially so when the sexes cannot be separated and where the runs are small, the pullets will soon require all the room and green feed available.

POULTRY POINTS

Never use a fowl that is known to be constitutionally weak in the breeding pen. . . .

Ducks thrive on sandy soil whereas turkeys do best on land which is high and dry.

Hatch bantams in July and August if you want small-sized birds as they should be.

Prevention costs very little labor; inspection often reveals surprises. "Stop, look and think." . . .

It is folly to market your large, choice fowls and use the inferior ones for breeding.

Ducks should be fed a mash of bran, ground corn and ground oats along with a grain mixture of oats, wheat and corn. . . .

All hatching eggs should be taken from a fully matured flock as pullets' eggs are usually too small to build husky chicks.

The demand for market ducks and ducks' eggs at good prices is usually limited to the large cities, and is not nearly so general as the demand for chickens or for hens' eggs.

Once Wonderful Temple.

The Temple of Karnak is a stupendous ruin situated in the ancient city of Thebes, Egypt, on the eastern bank of the Nile. It covers an area of nine acres, and consists of temples, courts, obelisks and avenues of sphinxes. Karnak was built in part by Osirtasen I of the twelfth dynasty, and was greatly added to by its monarchs of the eighteenth dynasty. The grand hypostyle hall of the temple contains 12 massive columns 62 feet high and 12 feet in diameter, together with 122 smaller columns and two obelisks. The walls are adorned with sculptures depicting the victories of Seti I and Rameses II. These walls are said to have been originally 80 feet high and 25 feet thick at the base.

A Judge's Busy Day.

Lord Shaw of Dunfermline tells an amusing story of an experience in the old days when the Scottish bench in Edinburgh were accustomed to dine at four o'clock in the afternoon, then went on till late or early, according to the cases before it. At two o'clock one afternoon a client called on a distinguished lawyer, and was told by the serving maid that he was at dinner.

"At dinner at two o'clock in the afternoon !" exclaimed the visitor, incredulously.

"Yes," replied the maid, "but it's yesterday's dinner he's eating the noo."-From the Argonaut.

Wife Didn't See This.

Employees of the library division of the city hall gave the most recently married member of the official family a rousing sendoff when he and his bride left on a motor honeymoon tour through the East. The couple promised to write from down East, but it was four or five days before friends received a post card.

After reciting a few of the events of the trip the message concluded: "We are having as good a time as may be expected under the circumstances."-Columbus Dispatch.

Left Composer Pondering.

The orchestra was practicing the composer's very long and tedious piece when he arrived.

"What's this?" he demanded from the doorway. "I can hear only the violins, not the wind instruments."

"It's too hard a job for the wind instruments," replied the orchestra leader. "They can't blow and yawn at the same time!"

In Sad but Loving Remembrance of our Dear Husband and Father, WM. T. SMITH, who died October 24, 1923.

Dear father, how we miss you, As the hours go slowly by; But beyond this vale we'll greet you, In your home, beyond the sky.

God called away our father; The one we could not keep; To rest secure in Jesus; Where he will have no fear.

We tried so hard to save him, The one we loved so well; God came and gently touched him, And sweetly he fell asleep.

Sleep on, dear father, life's night is dark; We wait for the golden dawn; May we meet where all tears are wiped away here heartaches and sorrow are gone. By His Loving WIFE and CHILDREN.

Oh, we miss him, yes, we miss him, When we see his vacant chair, And how sad the room without him, For there is no grand-pa there. By His GRAND-CHILDREN.

Friends may think I'll soon forget you, And my wounded heart be healed But they little know the sorrow That within my heart's concealed.

Rest on, dear wife, thy labors over, Thy willing hands will toil no me A faithful wife both true and kind A truer wife you could not find By her Loving Husband, EDW. STREVIG

The last farewell was spoken One year ago today Our family circle broken When dear mother passed away.

Oh, dear mother, we loved you so, How sad it was to part. And just one thought of your sweet face Will cause the tears to start.

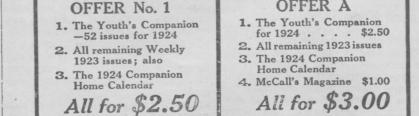

One weary year has passed, dear mother Yet it seems but yesterday Since we saw them place your form Beneath the cold and silent clay.

Oh, a mother, who is like her No one on earth can take her place And we will try to heal our sorrow Till again we see her sweet face.

BY HER LOVING CHILDREN.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors, for their sympathy and kindness extended to us during our sad bereavement —the death of our dear husband and father MRS. WILLIAM T. SMITH AND FAMILY.

Of course, we prefer to confine this offer to NEW subscribers to The Record; but as an experiment we extend it also to renewals, until the FIVE are secured, after which it will apply only to NEW subscribers to The Record. ADD $1.00 to either of the above offers, and thereby get THE RECORD for the DOLLAR. The offers are good only until January 1, 1924. Send direct to this office.

If preferred, The Companion need not commence until Christmas, and the year's subscription to The Record can be added to a present subscription, until the first five acceptances are received. 11-2-tf

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT. Entertained Near Union Mills.

F. E, CROUSE G. F. S. GILDS, J. W. ECKARD,

Committee.

(For the Record.)

Mr. and Mrs. William Snyder, near Union Mills, entertained a number of guests at their home, on Sunday.

Mereas, It has pleased Almighty God in His All-wise Providence to remove from our midst by the hand of death our esteem-ed brother Wm. T. Smith. Therefore be it Resolved, That while we humbly submit to the will of our Divine Master in this af-fliction, that he doeth all things well,yet we fully realize that in the death of brother Smith, Taneytown Lodge, No. 36, K. of P., has lost a faithful and loyal brother. While we mourn our loss, we heartily extend to the bereaved family our sincere sympathy, and commend them to our Heavenly Father who alone can comfort the sorrowing heart. And be it further Be draped for 30 days, that the resolutions be entered in the minutes of the Lodge, and in the Carroll Record, and a copy of the same be sent to the bereaved family of the deceased brother. F. E. CROUSE Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. William Kiser, Misses Bessie and Eleanor Kiser, Harry Lambert and George Kiser, of Taneytown; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Tanner, Misses Catharine and Helen Tanner, Leon Ellsworth and Eugene Tanner, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. William Snyder, of Deep Run; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snyder, of Silver Run Valley; Mrs. Norman Miller and daughter, Catharine, of Union Mills; Miss Emma Zepp, of Pleasant Valley; Dorothy and Helen Snyder, George Leppo, Charles Study and Russell Snyder, of Silver Run.

Jack, and the Candlestick.

Eileen Percy

Eileen Percy, the "movie" star, In order that she might gain the real atmosphere for her acting the part of the blackmailer, devoted many hours studying the prisoners in jails, police stations, and in the courts. The gray, cold bars of the felon's cell, the bustling activity of the detective bureau, and the prisoners' benches of the police courts are miniature laboratories where human emotions are constantly seething and bubbling over.

WHERE TO MEET

A bad beginning makes a bad end-ing.-Euripides.

A CCORDING to strict etiquette, of course, a young man, if he has an appointment with a young woman, meets her at her own home, and escorts her from thence to their destination. He does not suggest that she meet him at the corner drug store or that they make their rendezvous a park bench under a certain tree or the lobby of a certain hotel or the public library reading room or a railroad ste. tion waiting room.

However, for practical purposes this rule cannot always be carried out. The busy young man, who works at some distance from the residence section of town, sometimes finds that he is quite unable to take the time needed to go to a young woman's home and then accompany her to the theater or party as they have planned. There is then no very sensible reason why he should not feel free to ask the young woman to meet him half way. That is, of course, unless they are members of the ultra formal society in which such a thing would be looked upon askance. There is nothing inherently ill-bred about it. Then, too, the young woman and young man who work in the same neighborhood often find it convenient to meet each other after business hours for dinner or the theater. It would be absurd to insist that they have to meet then in the young woman's home. But one or two simple rules ought to be observed in this mat. ter of meeting outside of one's own home. A young man ought never to set a time for such a rendezvous a? an hour when he is not sure to ba free. He should always strive to be at the appointed place in advance of the time set, so that the young girl will not be the one kept waiting. That young woman, on the other hand, while she should not keep the young man waiting, should not arrive ahead of time. It is never in good form to make your rendezvous a hotel lobby or reception room unless you are planning to have luncheon or dinner there. There are some people, to be sure, who make use of the hotels in this way, but it is in rather poor taste. Even when planning to meet a young woman for luncheon or dinner at a hotel it is better to arrange to meet. her in the reception room than in the lobby where she must usually walk or stand or at least encounter something of a crowd of some of our big city dailies—which apol-ogies for the imitation.—Ed. Record.) A writer has said "Jack be nimble Jack be quick, and Jack be ninote Jack be quick, and Jack jump over the candlestick," Here we have a com-plete sentence subject to six ques-tions, the answers to which are al-ways necessary for full reportorial in-formatican_What? What? formation—Who? What? When? Where? How? and Why? The "Who" Where' How' and wny' the who and "What" are answered, and in part, the "How"; but, the main con-siderations, "When", "Where" and "Why" are left to conjecture. "When" and "Where" are important because, assuming that the candlestick had a candle in it, and lighted, no "Jack" could be safely trusted to perform such a stunt—in a dwelling with a lot of combustibles about. And the "Where" also involves the "How" as much would depend not only on Jack's being "nimble" and "quick," but on the heighth of the candle; and suppose "Jack" should have a little sister who tried to imitate him, as girls are apt to do, even up into young-lady-hood. hood.

(Last page editorial, following the style

Taking just these few contingencies into consideration, it is highly improbable that any reliable Fire Insurance Company would knowingly issue a policy on a risk jeopardized by a candle jumping Jack; moreover, matches would be needed to light the candle, and matches in the hands of children are always dangerous. No other deduction can be arrived at in the "How" for no normal boy would fool away his time "jumping" merely over an old candlestick without a lighted candle in it. This leaves only the "Why" for consideration. There should be no "why" to it , for there is neither sense, nor nonsense, in the proposition. For all reasons, such athletics as "jumping," in a house—either for "Jacks" or Jen-nies—should be on the marks" or Jenes-should be on the prohibited list; and we have no grounds whatever for the assumption, or suggestion, that such candlesticks should be carried out into a ten-acre field. The moral, therefore, is plain. If we put before our children, rhymes for memory exercise, let them be such as leave no reasonable doubt as to their When? Where? How? or Why! and always impress upon them that such household appliances as candles, should in their use be limited to the should in their use be inniced to the strictly necessary, and not, under the most approved conditions, for play— even lighted candles on Christmas trees, when no "jumping" is done, causes hundreds of thousands of dollars loss, each year.

Farmer's Dollar Value.

Washington, Oct. 31—The country's agricultural position is the best it has been in three years, the Department of Agricultural announced today in its monthly review.

"Purchasing power of farm pro-ducts, though still at a disparity as compared with industrial products, is now at the highest point in three years," the review states. "Moreover, farm prices for agricultural products are higher at a season when farmers actually have something to sell. The spring wheat territory continues in distress. Farmers in this territory are also discouraged at the low price of potatoes and incidental crops. There is considerable talk of tials, somewhere in Taneytown. #### Py H. IRVING KING

(C), 1923, by McClure Newspaper Sy

The gypsies came to Hopkinton and James Rogers had his palm read for a silver quarter. James was clerk for Simon Ranger, general store keeper, and expected to be soon taken in as partner.

Also James was in love with Sarah Fellows and she with him. The "gypsy queen" delivered her usual patter. Seeing that James was a blonde she told him he was going to marry a darkhaired girl and warned him against a light-haired girl and a dark-haired man. That night he told Sarah, laughingly, of his interview with the gypsy. "It's plain who the dark-haired girl 1s," said Sarah. "You were mighty attentive to Clara Mason at the church lawn party, I noticed, and her hair is as black as night."

"Oh, as to that," replied James, "Jasper Dodge would fit in for the black-haired man-and he did not seem to mind squandering his money buying you ice cream."

"And the light-haired girl you are to beware of, I suppose, is me-thank you," said Sarah. That started a lovers' quarrel. Sarah cried herself to sleep that night and James lay awake thinking of what a cold and heartless world this was.

The next day James took his delivery truck into town to bring out supplies for the store. As he passed through a side street he saw a sign reading, "Madame Cleopatra, Fortunes Told.'

"Hang the fortune tellers!" he thought; "that gypsy got me into trouble last night. I wonder if a real city fortune teller—" A few minutes later James was seated across a broad table from Mme. Cleopatra, seeking confirmation or disapproval of the gypsy's warning. Mme. Cleopatra was rather short, very stout, had three chins and a red, round face with sharp, twinkling eyes.

She examined James' palm, gave a noncommittal "Humph!" and then taking a pack of cards dealt them face up two or three times, examining them closely as she did so. Cleopatra wore pinned on one side of the corsage a huge bouquet; and every now and then she buried her face in it as if smelling the flowers, or laid her ear caressingly upon the blossoms.

"The lines of your palm," said she at length, "are confused; and the cards don't seem to be running well today.

"Suppose I give you a little clairvoyance-'twon't cost you noth'n' extra." And leaning back in her chair she closed her eyes, and after two or three deep sighs spoke as follows: "You are from the country. Hop-Hopkinton-that's the place. I seem to see you working in-yes, I see-it's a general store. The man you work for is named Si-Simon-yes, Simon seem to see you and him before. Yet 'twas easy to see that he wa'n't a regular; the regulars don't look so healthy.

"I knew the gypsies were at Hopkinton-always keep track of your rivals in the business-and guessed at once he'd had his fortune told by one of 'em. Now, the gypsy patter is always the same-a light-haired man is going to marry a dark-haired girl, and he must beware of a light-haired woman and a dark-haired man. Now, if he'd just had his fortune told by the gypsies, why did he come to me to have it told again right off? Because, of course, what the gypsy had told him bothered him-didn't agree with his feelings in the case.

"Consequently his gal must be a light-haired one. Now, naturally, he'd told his gal what the gypsy had said, and, naturally, she'd begun nagging about the dark-haired girl and there'd been a little quarrel. I know boys and girls, dearie. If they hadn't had a quarrel he'd a-laughed away the gypsy warnin'. But, as 'twas, he thought to try another fortune teller. It's all plain, ain't it, dearie?"

"But, auntie, how did you know his name began with J?" asked the apprentice.

"How? Why, he had on a pair of cuff buttons as big as saucers, with a 'J' on 'em. Give me another cup of tea, dearie?"

That night, as Sarah lay with her head reclined on James' shoulder, the lovers having thoroughly "made up," the young man told her of all that Mme. Cleopatra had said to him. And the happy girl exclaimed, "Ain't it just wonderful, Jimmie, how they can tell?" The moral of this story seems to be that you can't really pry the lid off of the future for 25 cents-it costs at least $2.

TELLING SPEED OF THOUGHT

Subject Has Been Made the Base of Calculations Which Are Absolutely Correct.

Until recently it was generally considered that a thought occurred with the speed of lightning. But modern methods of measurement have shown that the speed of thought is not by any means exceptional.

The time taken for a nervous impulse to travel from the elbow to the brain and thence to the wrist proved that it did so at about 180 feet a second, says London Tit-Bits.

Similarly a frog thinks at the rate of about 90 feet a second, and it takes two seconds for a whale 150 feet long to realize that he has been harpooned in the tail and to lash out with it.

In some peculiar way, however, the speed of thought seems to depend upon the temperature of the body. If a man's body is warm he is able to think quicker than if he is cold; and if his nerves are frozen they will not conduct impulses at all. A frog at seventeen degrees will think only half as quickly as another at thirty-five, while if the frog be warmed to the temperature of a man the animal will think equally as quickly.

A cold-blooded creature like the fresh water mussel thinks only about two and a half inches a second. One of the cuttlefishes thinks at the of three feet a second in winter, and the octopus in summer three to five times as quickly.

MR. COON'S SURPRISE

M.R. COON poked his head out of more, and down he jumped and off he ran to his home. But when Mr. Coon his wife had spent the winter. The was drawing near to the hollow tree, sun was nice and warm and Mr. Coon he heard strange sounds. He stopped thought it would do no harm to take and listened. "What in the world is a little run when it grew dark, for he that?" he thought. "It comes right was sure spring had come to stay.

So when Mrs. Coon was fast asleep out crept Mr. Coon. Down the tree he ran and off to the farm. But he found nothing there. The poultry house was fast locked, there was no corn in the fields and no cherries or grapes. He was out too early, much too early, and Mr. Coon sighed, for he was hungry.

He had spent so much time in hunting about that he found it was almost day and he was far from his hollow tree home, so he ran up a tree close by and there he found an old nest left by Mrs. Hawk.

"Ah! here I will take a good nap," said Mr. Coon, "and be off early tonight for a farm I know about, where chicken he was to take to his wife; he thought only of feeling warm once more, and down he jumped and off he

from my own doorway, too."

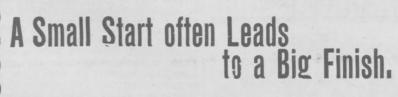

Up went Mr. Coon very cautiously and peeped in, and there in the hollow tree he saw six tiny coon babies, their eyes not open and all of them crying. "Now, where is Mrs. Coon?" said Mr. Coon, right out loud. "How careless of her to go away and leave the house alone! Some one has been here and left these crying children in our nest "What homely-looking creatures they are, too! I won't have them here another minute. What right had any one to come to the hollow tree and leave all this trouble?"

Mr. Coon was just going in when he felt a sharp rap right on his ear, and the angry voice of his wife said, "Don't you dare touch those darling pretty babies, you heartless parent." Mr. Coon looked into the flashing eyes of his wife. "Heartless parent?" he questioned. "Do you mean to say those crying, blind creatures are our children?"

"Yes, I do; but you do not deserve o have such pretty Mrs. Coon. "And as for their crying, why shouldn't they, when their heartless father stays away all day and part of the night and their mother has to go looking for him? Now you go in the house and don't you dare stir until I tell you. I am almost frozen, and how can you expect me to keep six children warm all alone?"

Her majesty of Egypt went into a back room to drink a cup of tea after mystic labors with her niece, a young woman, whom she was taking on as apprentice to the fortunetelling business.

"Why, auntie!" cried the young lady, "I listened, as you told me. How do you do it?"

"Easy enough, Luella," replied Cleopatra. "I got a little wireless telephone by which Jake, the boy, can talk to me from the closet under the stairs, me havin' the receiver hid in the great bouquet I wear.

The ability to think quickly seems to vary, too, with temperament. A melancholic or lethargic man thinks more slowly than a choleric individual. In all cases, however, it is practically impossible to tire out the nerves. They will always think, though the brain which receives the impulses may be too tired to deal with them.

Ovens Used Since 1690.

Built in 1690 and used constantly ever since, the ovens of the oldest bakehouse in London are to be closed down. These brick ovens, constructed in Cornhill, year after year have played a prominent part in the lord mayoral banquet, producing the gigantic meals that were such a source of wonder years ago, and the smaller but nearly as sumptuous repasts of the present day.

Having served the purpose of providing food for civic banquets in seven reigns, the ovens have at last succumbed to the march of progress and are being superseded by new electrically heated baking equipment.

Working a Word Hard.

We do not always realize how frequently we use the same sound to express entirely different meanings. The puzzled Frenchman who was making a visit to a Yankee shipbuilding plant realized it, however. He saw a man working a piece of timber and asked him what he was making.

man asked. "All but a yard," said the workman.

"Where do you get your timber?" "From the yard." Thereupon the Frenchman gave up and Abroad YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC -The Fight Against Lawlessness.

I. Principles of a Righteous Life (Ps. 101:1-8).

This is a psalm of David the king, and therefore shows the conduct of a ruler. It is divided into two sections -the first, verses 1-4, refers to personal conduct, and the second, 5-8, to the government of others. This part of the lesson can only refer to the destruction of the saloon in the sense that all ovil is to be uprooted and destroyed.

1. Personal Conduct (vv. 1-4). (1) Kindness and judgment (v. 1); (2) wise behavior (v. 2); (3) all malice put away (v. 3); all wickedness put aside (v. 4).

2. Government of Others (vv. 5-8). Only as one is right in his own heart and life is he fit to rule others. As a righteous man he will be against (1) the slanderer (v. 5). He will not tolerate such in his presence. (2) The worker of deceit (v. 7). The deceitful man and the liar are to be removed from his sight. (3) All workers of iniquity (v. 8). It is the duty of rulers to see that all workers of wickedness of all kinds be cut off. The manufacturer and seller of liquor should be regarded as notorious workers of iniquity. Those who blight manhood for sordid gain are grossly wicked.

II. The Awful Ruin Wrought by Strong Drink (Prov. 23:29-35).

1. Woes of Those Who Indulge in Wine (vv. 2, 30). (1) The awful pain which causes one to cry out, "Oh !" Many, indeed, are the pains which men suffer because of strong drink. Bodily ills innumerable can be traced to its evil influence. (2) The bitter remorse, which causes one to cry out, "Alas!" Many are the expressions of bitter regret which daily come from the lips of the drunkard. (3) Contentionstrife and quarreling. Much of the fighting among men is directly caused by their passions being inflamed by strong drink. The drunken man is always ready to take offense, as well as to give it. (4) Babblings and complainings. The winebibber complains of everything-ill luck, loss of friends, of fate and of God. He sees everything wrong but himself. (5) Wounds without cause. Ozone is a powerful bactericidal agent, and can be used as a disinfectant in place of sulphur dioxide, formaldehyde or hydrocyanic acid. In fact, it is 160 times as poweful a disinfectant as sulphur dioxide, 37 times as formaldehyde, and nearly twice as powerful as hydrocyanic acid gas, writes Floyd W. Parsons in the World's Work. As a deodorant it has no superior. In the case of delicate odors, it destroys them, while with stronger odors it acts as a masking agent, due to its action on the olfactory membrane. When high concentrations of ozone are used, even the most powerfull odors are destroyed. As to the effect of low concentrations of ozone on the human body, there is considerable evidence coming to hand which indicates that the ozone is not only harmless, but that its effect on the individual is beneficial. Medical research has developed the fact that when obectionable odors are present in the air people breathe, their respiration is depressed and the result is a deficient oxidation of the blood. Therefore, whether ozone really masks an odor or completely destroys it, the effect is healthful because the individual breathes more freely and fully. In other words, when bad odors are present in the air, there is an involuntary contraction of respiration, of which bodily reaction the individual is entirely unconscious.

RED HAIR IN MEN AND WOMEN

Altogether Charming on the Fair Sex, Says Writer, but Seldom on the Sterner.

An English writer has recorded the following observations about red hair: "With apologies to any male friends of mine (I cannot remember many) who may have been entitled to the name of Rufus, I am bound to say that I never knew any man who would not have looked better with hair of any other color," says Prof. Saintsburg in "A Scrap Book."

"On the other hand, red hair in girls and women is often-I think much more often than not-perfectly charming. Brick-dust red, with no gloss, is ugly enough, no doubt; but then all hair-except a very peculiar kind of black-requires gloss. Every other shade, from the lightest nasturtium to the darkest auburn chestnut, can be beautiful. This Venice knew, and, long before it, the Greeks. The Romans did not like red hair, but the Romans were people of very doubtful taste in many points of esthetics."

Cat Has Many Relations. The unsuspecting cat has many kinsfolk in the matter of names. Conspicuous among these is the catfish. The naming of the common denizen of fresh water has been explained in more ways than one, and the reader may take his choice. One recognized authority contents himself with the statement that the name, as commonly applied to the fishes of the family Siluridae, is an allusion to the long barbels or feelers about the mouth, which have been regarded as resembling the whiskers of a cat. This explanation is widely accepted, but the other authorities set forth a probable reason for the name in the statement that when a fish of this species is captured and brought to the surface it makes a sound like the purring of a cat. Another offers both the barbels and the purring and throws in the added suggestion that the name was influenced by "some other fancied resemblance to a cat."

Really Interesting, According to Traveler in Granada-Women Expert With the Castanets.

It was interesting going to see the gypsy dances while in Granada. Rain had caused the bullfight to be postponed, so we drove in a horse cab out to the suburb where the tziganes live in their caves carved in the rocky hillside. You get a guide and agree to pay the gypsies 50 pesetas. There are about eight women who dance and two men who play guitars.

Some of the women dance well, better than most stage dancers, and all are experts at rattling the castanets. In the low-vaulted cave the clacking of eight pairs of castanets produces an overpowering rhythm that penetrates and pervades one's whole consciousness, bringing realization of the strange, vivid, restless, colorful genius of the ancient gypsy race.

But when a number is finished and the dancers stop to rest they are merely gypsies again. They look at their guests inquiringly and make gestures of drinking. "They want you to buy them a bottle of wine," the guide explains. So you order a bottle sent in from the little bar next door (which is doubtless under the same management). Soon, however, they want another bottle. But you tell the guide that you have come to see them dance, not drink. He explains it to the gypsies, and they laugh and go on with the dancing.

When the show is over they want to tell your fortune, and then all the neighboring gypsies flock in, carrying their babies in their arms. Each baby wants a penny. When you run out of pennies they will accept cigarets .- Chicago Evening Post.

AWARDED HIM ROYAL HONORS

American Visitor in Europe Mistakenly Accorded Deference That is Reserved for Rulers.

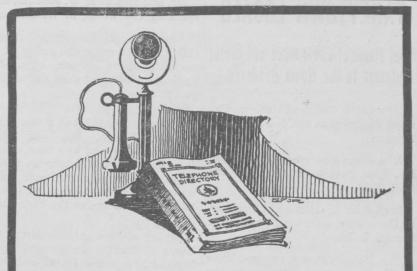

A visitor to one of the hotels at Carlsbad tells the story of a man to whom the servants and the proprietor paid the most profound attention. He was royally treated, rather to the neglect of the rest of the guests.

Every time he came out of the hotel door a strip of green carpet would be rolled down in front of him and the attendants would take off their caps and bow in the most deferential and obsequious manner. Neither the visitor thus so strangely honored nor the other guests could make out what this deference meant.

At last some one looked in the printed register. There was the entry: "James the 1st, king of Buffalo, N. Y.'

would not have engaged, and from accidents which are purely the result of intoxication. (6) Redness of eyes. This has reference to the blood-shot eye of the tippler which dims his vision. All these woes come upon those who tarry long at wine.

II. The Attitude Enjoined (v. 31). Look not at it. Do not put yourself into the way of temptation. The only safe attitude toward strong drink is total abstinence, and the only way to total abstinence is not to even look at it.

III. The Drunkard's Bitter End (vv. 32-35).

1. Acute Miseries. "It biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder." Strong drink, like the poison of a serpent, permeates the whole system and ends in the most fatal consequences.

2. Perversion of the Moral Sense. This excitement causes the eyes to behold strange things. This denotes the fantastic images produced on the brain of the drunkard. Even when delirium tremens does not result, there are awful fancies which are beyond the possibility of realization. Then does his heart utter perverse things. His moral sense being perverted, his utterances partake of the same. He tells lies; his words cannot be relied upon.

3. He Is Insensible to Danger (v. 34). He is foolhardy, even as one who would lie in the top of a ship's mast, where there is the greatest danger of falling off.

4. He Is Insensible to Pain (v. 35). The drunkard is utterly ignorant of what happens to him while under the influence of strong drink. Many bruises and wounds the drunkard has which he cannot account for.

5. His Abject Bondage (v. 35). After all his sufferings, sorrow and disappointments, he goes on as a bond slave in the ways of sin.

6. Hell at Last. No drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of heaven (I Cor. 6:10).

be the oldest book in the world. The burden of one epistle seems to have been not unlike the oft-quoted advice of Shakespeare's Polonius of a much later day-"Beware of entrance to a quarrel." Other words of Hotep were: "Don't argue with your superiors; it does not do any good. Don't argue with your equals; make a plain statement and let it go at that. Don't argue with your inferiors; let them talk and they will make fools of themselves."

Wanted to Speed Up the Case. At one stage of a tedious trial a lawyer produced some 500 checks and began introducing them into evidence one at a time. As each check required a lot of "proving," the judge thought they might well be bunched to save time. So he asked of the attorney: "Why don't you put some coal on the fire?"

"Your honor, I am putting coal on the fire," returned the attorney. "Take a shovel. You're using a tablespoon," said the judge.

Skunk Cabbage Has Its Uses.

The skunk cabbage, although its blossom has, as its name implies, an extremely unpleasant, malodorous scent, is, nevertheless, a flower.

Despite the fact that the skunk cabbage is despised by most flower lovers, it nevertheless plays a somewhat important part in nature's wonderful scheme. With the earliest days that have a suspicion of spring warmth the bees commence to leave the nooks and crannies where they have been hibernating through the long winter months, and start out in search of that which they are most in need of-food. This, were it not for our lowly swamp dweller, they would be unable to find, says Nature Magazine, and they would all perish miserably of starvation long before another flower could supply them with the needed food.

They Knew the Witness.

A circuit judge was holding court in a small backwoods town. A local character came up for trial, took the stand in due time and spun his narrative. The judge, something of a wag, charged the jury as follows: "If you believe the defendant's statement, he is guilty. That is all."

The jury brought in a verdict of acquittal. Somewhat surprised, the judge after court asked the foreman why such a verdict was rendered. 'We thought we were following instructions, your honor," exclaimed the "We know that bird. You foreman. couldn't believe him on oath."

Lost His Opportunity.

I was strolling along with my sweetheart at a fair, very happy, until I discovered her former beau showering honeyed smiles on her. As she didn't ignore him, I became worried, and resolved to propose at once. While deciding just how, I absent-mindedly gazed at the sky and allowed her to lead the way. Finally I implored her to be my own little "dove." "I'm afraid I'd be a hungry dove," she answered; "I've led you to three ice cream stands and two lunch counters, but you just gazed at the sky, so I'm going back to Jim."-Chicago Journal.

First Punctuation Marks.

In the oldest manuscripts the words usually join each other without break or separation. Manuscripts without punctuation marks of any kind generally are accepted as predating the Eighth century. Those which have no capital or other divisions are always very old, and the fewer and easier the abbreviations, the older it is. The most ancient manuscripts still preserved are those written in Egyptian tombs. Next to them in point of age are the Latin manuscripts found at Herculaneum.

level of the sea, is not an exception to the rule. The statement that the Mississippi flows up hill is based on the idea that "up" is always from the center of the earth and "down" toward it. If these were the only meanings of the words then it might be said that the Mississippi river flows up bill, for the polar radius of the earth is over twelve miles shorter than the equatorial radius and as the Mississippi river extends over 18 degrees of latitude, its proper proportion of this difference amounts to more than four miles, the river's source being that much nearer the center of the earth than its mouth.

Why He Selected Motto.

A man walked into a sign-painting establishment and asked: "Can you fix up a sort of placard or house motto for me?"

"Certainly," said the painter.

"Put a border around it and beautify it a little?"

"We can do all that," the proprietor assured him.

"Make it as pretty as you like." "What is the wording to be?" "It's a quotation from Shakespeare. You remember Puck says: "I'll put a girdle around the earth in forty minutes.""

Seeing that the sign painter looked puzzled, he added: "I want it as a gentle reminder to place on my wife's dressing table."

Then He Kicked Himself. Last year I moved from my farm to another farm five miles south of it, writes a correspondent. As the roads were bad, I left my car until the road dried. One evening my son took me to the place where I left the car, and then came home. It was dark when I went out to get the car. The man who had my farm and I tried to crank the car, but weren't successful. Then we tied it on behind his car and pulled it for a long distance. As we found it impossible to start it, I walked home. The next morning I went back to locate the trouble. I found I did not have the switch turned on.

"I don't know as I always pleased them," replied Senator Sorghum. "I just kind of got to be a habit with them."

Taneytown Sunday Schools were very slimly represented in Westminster, on Sunday. Simply a case of lack of energetic leadership.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Miller and family, of Hanover, and Mrs. Wm. F. Clingan, of York, spent Sunday afternoon with relatives in town.

Mrs. Jas. B. Galt returned to her home here, last Saturday, after helping her son, Robert and family, of Hanover, to remove to another home.

This is a good time to get your name on the list against trespassing, providing you object to hunting. If you do not, then you should save the 25 cents.

Fall of the year sales of personal property seem to be increasing. There does not apear to be any advantage, so far as price is concerned, in a Spring sale. St. Luke's—1:30 S. S.; 2:30 Thank-Offering service of Woman's Mission-

The Lutheran Church, while far from being finished, will be used, Sunday morning, for preaching services in the main auditorium. The Sunday School and C. E. services will also be held there. By another week, it is expected that the whole building will be ready for use for all services, but not entirely finished.

The Kitchen Cabinet Orchestra, of Union Bridge, played to a full house in Taneytown, last Friday night. The various numbers were excellently rendered, and enthusiastically received, and those who missed it are among the unfortunates. The total receipts, at 25c each, amounted to $79.00 indicating an audience of 316. The Taneytown Public Library received $30.00 as its share of the net receipts.

Taneytown district usually gives its home candidates a good vote, irrespective of party, and this year it has the chance to favor one of each party; D. J. Hesson, Democrat, for State Senator; and Chas. B. Kephart, republican, for County Treasurer. Both of these are among the best men on the ticket, fully competent to fill the offices to which they aspire, and should be given loyal support, especially at home where they are known.

Roads and Schools.

An insignificant news item which attracted no attention, tells the tale of schools in a county in a Northern State, closed because of the need of child labor in the potato fields. Another equally insignificant news item tells of a county which rejected a plan for a bond issue, the proceeds Next Tuesday, is Election Day. Let of which were to improve county

Taken together the two items are far from insignificant. Of our nearly three million miles of roads, barely ten percent are improved. The other ninety percent are bad at the best and impossible in the winter. Hauling over them is precarious, expensive, a slow process. Crops must be marketed; to sell crops they must be moved. The more expensive the moving, the less the profit; the less the profit, the less money for public improvement, the less for hire of farm labor, the more the necessity to use that labor which is not hired, the children.

There is a very intimate connection between good roads everywhere and education. Indeed, there is hardly a subject, an industry, a plan, an ac-tivity into which roads do not enter somewhere. But rural education is bound up in good roads. Where roads are good, children can get to school. Where roads are good, farmers are prosperous and children have time to go to school, and the schools to which they go are good schools. Illiteracy is found where roads are poor. Not all poor roads run through illiterate sections, of course, but all illiterate sections, of course, but an interace set tions of the Nation are supplied only with poor roads! Where the roads are good, the schools good, the farm-ers prosperous, schools do not close to harvest a potato crop, or any other

When you vote on a good roads question, remember the children!— Capitol News Service.

EXECUTORS' SALE Valuable Real Estate.

By virtue of the authority vested in them by the last will and testament of Margaret Mehring, deceased, and an order of the Or-phans' Court of Carroll County, the under-signed executors will offer at public sale, on the premises in Bruceville, in Carroll County, Maryland, on the same day and place of the sale of per-sonal property, at 1:00 o'clock, P. M., the real estate directed by the said will to be sold, as follows:

1. MYRTLE HILL HOME,

 NYRTLE HILL HOME,
the widely known residence of the late Frederick Mehring and sister Margaret Mehring. This property is located imme-diately west of the Pipe Creek Bridge in Bruceville, and is intersected by the coun-ty road leading from Taneytown to Key-mar. It contains approximately three acres of land, and is improved by a good two-story house, with hot water heat and bath, recently painted, and in good condition. It has good barn suitable for both stable and garage, and other outbuildings. It has an orchard and garden, and is a most de-sirable home. It would be specially attrac-tive as a summer home for a city resident. Located on improved road, and about one mile from the Keymar station. Posses-sion can be given as soon as settlement is made.
A TWO-STORY DWELLING HOUSE. 2. A TWO-STORY DWELLING HOUSE.

2. A TWO-STORY DWELLING HOUSE. This property is contiguous to the above described "Myrtle Hill Home" and consists of approximately an acre of ground, im-mediately south of the mansion house, im-proved with a good frame dwelling house, newly painted, and other outbuildings. It has a considerable amount of fruit of vari-ous kinds, and an excellent garden. This property will be sold subject to the right given to John H. Airing and wife, their heirs and assigns, to obtain water for do-mestic uses from the well on the property. This property is occupied by Raymond Weant under a monthly lease, terminable at the end of any monthly term by giving thirty days previous notice in writing. TEEMS—One-third of the purchase monthirty days previous notice in writing. TERMS—One-third of the purchase mon-ey to be paid to the said Executors on the day of sale, or on the ratification thereof by the said Orphans' Court, and the residue in two equal payments, the one payable in 6 months, and the other payable in 12 months from the day of sale, the credit payments to be secured by the bonds or single bills of the purchaser or purchasers, with sufficient security, bearing interest from the day of sale, or all cash at the op-tion of the purchaser or purchasers.
