An Interesting Letter from a Subscriber in Mississippi.

I always enjoy the letters writ-ten by former Carroll countains who have gone to other parts, and thought probably a letter from Mississippi would be enjoyed by others. In August 1920 I arrived at Laurel,

Miss., on a visit, but am still here. This is considered the most beautiful city in the state as well as the wealthiest. It is rightly named "The Pasadena of the South", beautiful homes and churches and public buildingsabout 18,000 people.

This city is comparatively new, as 30 years ago this country was virgin

The city was founded by Mr. Eastman and Mr. Gardner from Clinton, Iowa, who bought large tracts of pine timber and put in saw mills, so the city is like a Northern city and a great many northern people are in business here. Over 30 miles of paved streets and all well kept. There is no tumble down end to Laurel.

There are three quarters where all the negroes live. The negro question is handled here without any friction. They know their place. The Cohen question at New Orleans, sure makes you hot under the collar, for there are plenty of white men to fill such

Will try and tell you about south Mississippi. The elevation here is 243 feet above sea level, and the climate semi tropical—can grow anything you grow in Maryland, beside some things you can't grow. This (Jones) county, has the world's record on corn grown on one trial acre—206 bushels—(U. S. Gov't report). Land here is cheap. Thousands of acres of cut-over land, that will grow any of the grains and grasses can be bought for from $15.00 up per acre.

This part of the South is just planting pecan and orange trees, and getting the poultry business started; also dairying. Cattle have enough pasture for 10 months a year. I am enclosing a small circular gotten out by the development board, you can look over. This is a true compilation

Taneytown Road Tax Bill.

There is a bill before the legislature to reduce the road tax now paid to the corporation of Taneytown, the County Commissioners, due to the state having built a road through the town from north to south. At first sight, this would seem fair, as with less road (or street) to keep up, the town would not be entitled to former share of the road tax; but the reduction bill seems to us somewhat

Due to the fact that the state planned to build only a 14-foot road bed, the town was compelled to borrow about $3000. for the purpose of widening the road bed to make it of sufficient width for street purposes; and it would seem that this debt and interest should stand in lieu of street the town would be required to keep in repair under the old situation. We are also under the impression that the amount of the reduction proposed (one half) is inequitable, in that the state did not take over onehalf of the highways of the town. We are aware that the county is anxious to find new sources of revenue from which to help pay the many demands made on the county treasury, and all it can get back from the incorporated towns of the county in reduced payments of road tax, stands in that relation. but we believe that the present bill is several years in advance of its justifiaction. Slot Machines Smashed.

The Sheriff of Adams County, last week, destroyed a lot of slot machines and punch boards captured in raids for gambling devices in Mc-Sherrystown, Brushtown and New Oxford, in February. Some of the mamachines were battered sold at $5.20, the full amount being turned over to BUILDING OF CAMP MEADE. $7,000,000 Graft Charges Made Against the Contractors.

Charges of graft and corruption broke out in a new quarter, this week when Attorney General Daugherty and A. W. Woodcock, U. S. District Attorney for Maryland brought suit against New York contractors to recover $7,000,000, alleged excess spent. cover $7,000,000 alleged excess spent in the construction of Camp Meade.

Violation by the firm of its duty to the Government under circumstances of war also is among the charges. Misuse of Government funds in reckless purchase of materials, and widespread padding of payrolls and use of inefficient labor are some of the accusations.

The papers in the case, which were signed by Attorney General Daugherty, Woodcock and Roscoe C. Mc-Culloch and William T. Chantland, special assistant to the Attorney General engaged in the prosecution of war cantonment frauds, state, in expense of the plaintiff.

"And further, in that in the said period, the defendant knowingly, wantonly, recklessly and fraudulently employed and paid, at the expense of the plaintiff, large numbers of employes in excess of the number reasonably necessary for the conditions of the work.

Bond Issue for Schools.

(For the Record.) In last week's issue of "The Sentinel" an article was published addressed to the taxpayers of Carroll County, stating that a bill would be introduced at this session of the Legislature asking for "A bond issue of $700,000.00 to build school houses," a right to his or her opinion, but by only looking at one side of a question

There are a number of schools in Laurel's pay roll is $400,000 per the county that are not sufficiently month, and an annual production of equipped to give the scholars the education needed, and, seeing the imperative need of bettering these conditions without raising the taxes to a prohibitive rate, a bill has been introduced in the Legislature asking that the county be allowed to issue bonds to an amount not to exceed $500,000 (and not $700,000.00 as was stated in 'The Sentinel") which will run for a term of years, and which will not increase the tax rate to any great extent, but of a sufficient amount to retire the bonds at the end of, say fifteen years.

Now, Mr. Tax-payer, we are asking you if money could be used for a better purpose? We have good roads. Would anyone advocate goroads. Would anyone advocate going back to the old road system? Also would you be satisfied to have your children limited to the three R's, the public school system of forty years ago? We think not. In fact we firmly believe that if you will look at the matter for the best interest of the children you will agree that better housing and better conditions generally are needed without further delay. Annan and Horner not Guilty.

Edgar L. Annan and Annan A. Horner, members of the bankrupt banking firm and Annan Horner & Co., Emmitsburg, charged with embezzlement on a joint indictment as trustees under a deed of trust exe-cuted by the late Charles J. Shuff, were found not guilty at a trial in Frederick, last Friday, before Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Judges Worthington and Peter.

The defense proved that a number of creditors had been paid in full, while the amounts owed several, including Dr. B. I. Jamison and E. R. Zimmerman, had not been paid, because they owed the estate. It was shown that money was on deposit sufficient to pay all claims.

Last September Horner was acquitted of a charge of embezzlement growing out of the bank failure. Four other charges stood against them. After the joint acquittal today attorneys for the accused enterchines were valued at $105.00. About ed a plea of not guilty in the three $60.00 in cash was taken with the remaining charges. The pleas were machines, and the junk into which the accepted by the State's Attorney. machines were battered sold at $5.20. The failure of the bank involved 400 or 500 depositors.

WORST BLIZZARD IN FIFTEEN YEARS

Tremendous Damage Throughout the East, Florida to Maine.

From all over the east, and especially in eastern Maryland and Pennsylvania, the reports are that the blizzard of Monday night, and the snow of Tuesday, caused more damage than any like occurrence in 15 years. The greatest damage was to telephone, telegraph and electric lines many hundreds of poles being down in comparatively small sections. About 2500 telephones were put out of commission in Baltimore alone. In this county, the telephone service was badly wrecked, and on Tuesday to Friday the service was almost at a stand-still. The Company hopes to have the lines pretty well restored by Saturday. Both Annapolis and Washington were virtually cut off from outside communication, and in the State House, and hotels and homes, lamps and lanterns were used for lighting purposes: all elec-tric motors were also out of commis-

The average snow-fall, as nearly as can be told, was 12 or 13 inches, but the drifting was limited, due to the heavy wet character of the snow, some of it melting as it fell. Funerals had a be perturned, and a large number of the snown of it melting as it fell. had to be postponed, and a large num-ber of public sales could not be held. Co-operative Egg Marketing.

Unless well laid plans go amiss, Farm Bureau members and members of the Atlantic Coast Poultry Producers' Association, will within the next few months be shipping their egg crop to a well organized and equipped egg market and Exchange in Balti-more, instead of the present arrangement by which these members are compelled to ship their eggs to New York to be sold by the Atlantic Coast

Poultrymen in many parts of the state, and this includes the Farm Flock as well as the Commercial poultryman, have for some time been interested in the idea of having the a convenient place in Baltimore thus giving Marylanders the benefit of a great saving in the way of freight and express charges.

The Maryland Farm Bureau Federation, through the State Secretary M. Melvin Stewart, is getting ready put on an intensive campaign in the state to sign up sufficient additional members in the Atlantic Coast organization to represent not less than 60,000 hens. The present membership in the association represents approximately 40,000 hens, so that with the additional number, the total will be around the 100,000 mark and just as soon as this goal is reached, the Atlantic Coast people promise to establish an up-to-date egg marketing Exchange in Baltimore.

The campaign for members will launch shortly and practically every poultryman in the state whose flock of hens number 200 or more, will be solicited and urged to sign up in the association and to take the advantage of the opportunity offered to market his eggs in this orderly and co-operative manner. Secretary Stewart will put a competent force in charge of the campaign with a view of giving it a whirlwind finish and assuring its complete success .- Md. Farm Bureau

Maj. Hall's Apoka Chief.

Our good friend Maj. A. M. Hall, and his "force," are to be congratulated on their 24-page special edition of "The Apokka Chief", (Florida) issued last week, as No. 47 of Volume 1. Ordinarily, if the stunt had been performed hereabouts, we would have waited about six weeks and celebrated our second volume; but six weeks no doubt represents a lot of wasted time in "Uncle Mort's" plans for improving each shining hour, and, as the feast was ready, why put it off? The issue represented the best possible use of presses, paper, type and know-how; but more than that it represented about the most valuable possession the little city of Apopka owns, and this is the big truth that counts most. While the Chief will not strike twenty-four every week, it is sure to strike true, always, and that is another big truth that its patrons should learn to fully appreciate.

A Maryland Radio Program.

College Park, March 12-Maryland radio fans are to be given special consideration. Tuesday evening, March 18, when the Radio Corporation of America, broadcasting from its Washington station W B C, will put on a forty-five minute program consisting entirely of Maryland features.

The program which will be broadcast between 7:30 and 8:45 will be designed particularly to interest Maryland people. If it proves popular it may be the forerunner of similar programs to be broadcast in the fu-

One of the features of the program will be a concert by the University of Maryland Glee Club, which has appeared before numerous audiences throughout the State. Dr. Homer C. House, director of the Glee Club, is choosing the best selections from the concert program, for the event.

In addition to the selections by the Glee Club, short talks are to be included in the program. They will all have a Maryland "setting" and will be by speakers well known to Maryland audiences. The program is expected to make a real event of Maryland night on the radio.

MAIN DOINGS OF THE LEGISLATURE

The thirteen meetings held last week in the Clean Milk Campaign were very successful. The meetings were well attended by the dairymen Status of Numerous Tax Bills - is Still Uncertain.

The eight-hour work day for women was effectually killed last Thursday, by a vote of 53 to 49, largey by the county members standing together as a unit, the basis of their judgment being that it would interfere with seasonal employment, and was not in the best interests of women them-selves. The bill was backed by union locality.

Dr. Schrader, Director of Chemistry and milk, Baltimore City Health Department, expalined the need of Delegate Routson introduced, by request, bills to reduce the road tax paid to Taneytown by the County cleaner milk of lower bacteria count being shipped into Baltimore. He used slides to show the method, tak-Commissioners, and to repeal the acts requiring the county to pay one-half of road tax levied on Mt. Airy, Hampstead and Manchester, to these towns. These bills are based on the state having taken over some of the streets of these towns.

A correspondent of the Baltimore The methods of producing clean milk was explained by Prof. Ingham of the University of Maryland. By

Sun, says:
"Many of the bills pending are local measures of the most trivial character. For instance, a member will come to Annapolis at one session and have passed a bill increasing the salary of the clerk to the County Commissioners from $1,200 to $1,500 a year. Two years later another member will make up his mind that $1,-200 is enough for the treausurer and that he doesn't like him very well anyway, and he will put in a bill to drop the salary to the former figure.

Changes in imaginary lines within which fish may or may not be caught or the dates when muskrats or skunks may be killed from other fruitful objects for many bills. And 3. Use small top milk pail, and steralized utensils and sanitary strainer.

though it may involve only a word or two, the whole law must be repealed and re-enacted, with the averaged and re-enacted. when these laws are changed, and re-enacted, with the expense in printing and the time involved."

Gov. Ritchie, on Monday, sent to both houses a supplementary budget, adding $471,926. It is claimed that this will not increase the tax rate. Only $65,000 of this goes to the University of Maryland. High Schools will receive an increase equal to the amount asked, and St. Mary's seminary, destroyed by fire, gets $70,000.

The Senate passed the bill permitting women to register without stating their age, but struck out the amendment giving men the same privilege.

Several loan bills including the $750,000 loan for the Love Point-Denton road, passed or under considera-tion by the House, were held uncon-stitutional in an opinion sent by At-torney General Thomas H. Robinson 1—Members must be over 12 and to Senator Walter J. Mitchell, chair-nder 20 years of age. under 20 years of age. man of the Senate Finance Commit-2—Each club member must be able tee. Robinson ruled, until they have acted 3—Members must keep records of a. Number of eggs set. upon the Governor's budget. He suggested that bills already considered will have to be reintroduced in order to be constitutional.

Delegate Broening's bill, whch provided that all industrial accident in-surance must be taken out in the State Accident Insurance Department was killed through adoption of an rnfavorable report. Mr. Broening moved to substitute the bill for the report, but his motion was lost 36 to Delegate Hennegan, of Baltimore, introduced a bill providing that when mortgages are exempted from taxation, as is the case in Baltimore city and all the counties except Frederick no tax is to be levied on certificates issued by the mortgagee.

The Sunday movie bill was brought before the House on Thursday. It applies only to Baltimore, and after 2:00 P. M. Hearings will be held next week.

Notices of Births.

The Record has never published births of children, and some may wonder-why? especially as some weeklies do publish such items. The Record does not, because it would be case of "treating all alike," which would be a pretty difficult thing to do throughout the field of a weekly paper. Picking out certain families, or classes, would never do, and the custom would open a prolific field for making mistakes. There are still other reasons, but we think we need not go further, except to publish the experience of the editor of the Preston, Iowa, Times, as follows:
"Our particular trouble has been with birth notices. Several months ago I ran a notice of a birth to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Russell, south of town, the latter part saving the day. The only Clarence Russell in the county is a local barber who is not nor never has been married. His many friends spent the following week congratulating him. He could take a joke, however, and only laughed about it. It should have read Clarence Jackson.

Last week I stated that a baby was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Skoff of near Browns. There is a Joe Skoff in that neighborhood but his wife died a year ago. The article should have stated Joe Schaefer. And Joe Skoff did not take kindly too it at all. was a case of writing an article about one person and thinking of another, through the association of names."

A competitive examination of candidates for postmaster at Emmits-burg and Woodsboro will be held soon. Applications will be received until April 8. The terms of the present postmaster expire June 4.

GAIN IN TAX BASIS. Reassessment in the Counties Adds

$94,000,000 to Basis. J. Enor Ray, chairman of the State Tax Commission, has announced an increase in the tax basis over that of 1922, of $193,939,280, of which the counties added $94,000,000.

During 1923 1,052 new corporations were formed and about 50 foreign corporations entered the State for the purpose of transacting business, the commission announced. Bonuses collected from these corporations amounted to $60,673. More than 8,000 corporations now are assessed by the commission. Owing to the reassessment of property in 1923 the assessable basis of counties of the State was increased approximately $82,000,000 in real and personal property and $12,000,000 in securities the commission estimated.

Physical valuation of real and personal property of steam railroads, not including rolling stock, was $68,-690,086 for 1923. This is an increase of $2,700,000 over 1922 and is the result of reassessment of this class of

The commission also urged that the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles furnish all county commissioners and the Appeal Tax Court of Baltimore city with a quarterly list showing the name, residence and kind of motor vehicle for which a license has been

The commission noted that lowest tax rate in the State since 1878 was 16 cents. This rate prevailed from 1907 to 1910. Next lowest was the rate of 17 cents, which prevailed from 1901 to 1903. The rate from 1878 to 1887 was 1834 cents. The present rate is approximately 30 cents.

Revaluation of property has effected decided reductions in county tax rates throughout the State, the commission reported.

An Improved Umbrella.

L. C. Bair, Bair Station, is the inventor of an improved umbrella which, although carried with the handle at the side, covers one uni-formly. Mr. Bair, who conducts a general merchandise store at Bair Station, is also an expert pattern maker, and it was a number of years ago while working at the trade that he prefected the umbrella. Soon after its completion he obtained a patent right and received a number of offers from umbrella manufacturers to place it on the market. Manufacturers have told him that it would prove a success, but thus far he has not accepted any of the offers.

The umbrella has the appearance of an ordinary one, with the exception that the handle is far enough on the side that the centre of the umbrella will be directly over the carrier's head. This advantage will undoubtedly make it popular because it will keep one dry better than the or-dinary umbrella. When folded the has the appearance of the umbrella now in use.

A simple patented device which is easy to operate throws the handle on the side and holds the top as rigid as any other umbrella. Mr. Bair has made a number of the umbrellas, some of which are now in use, the owners being pleased with the idea. No trouble was experienced by Mr. Bair in securing a patent. It is possible that the umbrella will be placed on the market within the next few months.-York Dispatch.

Religious Complexion of Congress.

Of 434 members of the House of Representatives, 373 confess religious affiliations. Of the ninety-six Senators, seventy-six are church members. The religious complexion of Congress as a whole is as follows: Methodist, 119: Episcopalian, seventy-four; Presbyterian, seventy-three Baptist, forty-eight: Catholic, fortyfive; Congregationalist, thirty-one: Disciples of Christ, seventeen: Lutheran, fourteen; Jewish, nine: Unitarian, five: Dutch Reformed, three: Mormon, three; Quaker, three. And of the United Brethren, Mennonites, Christian Scientists, Universalist, Evangelical Church, one each.

Radio Men Threaten Strike.

New York, March 11-With present conditions in radio broadcasting being assailed from several directions certain officials of companies engaged in the practice have begun to show cases of nerves in face of the difficulties that have followed the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's suits for infringement of patents, according to the New York Times. Some of them talked yesterday as if they regarded the present embroilment as very nearly the last

"What we may be coming to," said one of them, "is what you might call a broadcasting strike, that is, a cessation of broadcasting. Everyone in the business knows that broadcasting is its backbone, and yet everyone engaged in broadcasting is getting tired fighting the obstacles constantly in the way, especially when they rec ognize that the great expense and effort is going to something whose future you cannot even guess.

St. James Lutheran congregation, Gettysburg, has voted to place a new pipe organ in the church that may cost as much as $15,000 installed. About $4,000 has already been pledged. After plans and specifications have been approved, further action will be taken.

April 1 used to be pretty religiously observed as "pay day." Why not now? Right now there are hundreds of business men in Carroll County who would like to have a lot of debters walk in and "cash off" long-standing book accounts. The legislature ought to pass a law reviving April 1, as pay day.

The Coming Problem for Small Churches.

One of the serious problems of the very near future is, what is to become of the "country church?" In fact, even of churches in good sized towns. This truth is readily understood in such communities as have present need to secure new pastors, and the "pastor's salary" largely makes up the big end of the expense budget of every church, which in ordinary business we call "overhead" expense. We are finding out that the financial end of conducting a church is, after all, a proposition involving considerable exercise of ordinary business rules.

The force of financial necessity promises to force some new plans in church maintenance, and possibly even to the extent of breaking down denominational lines, compelling a greater degree of consolidation. Maintaining many church organizations in small fields, appears to be a near future impossibility.

Necessity is said to be "the mother of invention" and we predict that "invention" in the direction of new denominational alignments, is now in order. Small flocks of church members have, for so many years, been able to secure shepherds at such a low cost as to make it easy for them to indulge their propensity for many distinctions in the matter of religi- or blowing up the opposition's munious homes, and this easy part of the | tion dumps. businessn seems to be disappearing.

The whole country over, has, in years past, exemplified a vast amount in June, Congress is empty-handed of poor business judgment in church building, in denominational divisions matters. Except for a national deand doctrinal hair splitting, and the mand for tax relief and a regional force of practical conditions brought clamor for farm relief, the country about by many changes in "the wants little and expects less in the times" must soon cause the church way of new legislation. wealthy ones-are not, of course, concerned in the present situation, as they can meet the demands of increased expense; but, the serious end of the question rests in the effect of the situation in rural districts, and it is on these that the state depends, more than it perhaps realizes, for that safe balance in legislation that affects public morals, and prevents the larger centres from exerting demoralizing influences. It is the country church in successful, healthy operation, that stands for the safety of majority rule.

Passing the Buck to the President.

Congress seems to be busying itself to pass "some kind" of a tax bill, and "some kind" of a bonus bill, then put them up to the President and let him do the worrying. Just now, nobody knows what the Senate will do wih the Longworth tax bill, and there is no agreement on just what the result of the bill would be, with reference to surplus or deficit; also, the backers of the bonus want to pass a bill to satisfy the Legion, irrespective of where the revenue is to come from.

Department estimates—that ought to be the best to be had-are not to stand in the way of political exigencies, it seems. The hope is that something like political sanity may be exhibited when the Senate and House jointly consider the proposi-

The atmosphere at Washington is too full of political jockeying for honest, intelligent legisation, and the best thing for the country would be for Congress to adjourn until after the Presidential election, letting both tax bill and bonus wait, and in the meantime hasten the actual evidence Senator Heflin, of Alabama, is one and trial of the oil lease cases to a show-down, based on actual facts, in-Senate, and is credited by one of the stead of continuing the flood of insinuations and investigating intendrespondents as making a "daily po- ed largely to influence public senti-

Congress Behind Time.

Congress is weeks behind its normal schedule and with its routine legislation. Ordinarily the appropriation bills are passed in the first weeks of a session and the decks cleared for real legislative work.

No other Congress ever made slower progress. The only measures in which interest has been shown are the tax-reduction and bonus bills. National pressure forced an interest in tax relief; and the bonus, of course, is very near many congressional hearts. Farm relief, for all the clamor in its behalf, had been welllnigh ignored until a few days

The explanation lies in the various investigations-of oil, Soviet propaganda, Daugherty, general propaganda, bogus medical diplomas, Veterans' Bureau, rent profiteers and a dozen other inquiries. Congress has the investigation fever. This, however, offers only a partial explanation, for the investigating is being done by committees and not on the floors of the House and Senate.

The real explanation is that Congressmen have been so busy watching these investigations and launching or beating off partisan attacks that they have neither time nor inclination for legislating. For two months members of both houses have daily maneuvered for political advantage. Their time has gone into piling up campaign ammunition

It will be an excellent thing if Congress can persuade itself to let the committees do the investigating while it devotes itself as a whole more to legislation and a little less to mud-slinging, raw partisanship and stump-speaking. Senate Becomes Literary.

The Senate, on Tuesday, the dignity of which has been considerably marred, recently, by "oil" exhibits, indulged in a comedy scene that was considerably enjoyed.

Senator Heflin, of Alabama, renewing an attack on Edward L. Doheney made a detour into the realm of literature and struck Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, in his home

The result was a passage at words that sent the galleries off into roars of laughter, in which Senators on the floor joined without restraint.

Senator Heflin was referring to Mr. Doheney's tax refund $40,000 by the Treasury Department when he diverted to a parody on the classic tale of Abou Ben Adhem.

Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace
And saw within the moonlit room,
Making it rich like lily in bloom,
A Senator writing in a book of gold.
Enormous wealth had made Dough Heenie bold;
And to the Senator in the room he said:

"What writest thou?" The statesman raised his head
And with a look which made Abou boil Answered; "The names of those who speak for oil."
"And is mine one?" said Abou.
"We will see," replied the Senator; but Abou cheerily
Responded in a still and softer tone;
"Write me as one who loves to make a loan."
The Senator wrote and vanished. The next

Senator Heflin seemed satisfied and resumed his speech, while the august Senate listened in better temper than it has enjoyed for several weeks.

Million and a Half of Reds.

The committee on citizenship of the American Bar Association estimates that there are in our country 1,500,000 Reds. One and a half million radicals, all the way from red-mouthed anarchists to parlor Bolshevists and socialistic college professors!

These figures are based on detailed returns from the Secret Service department and include the I. W. W. and all constitution overthrowers.

It is estimated that $3,000,000 was spent last year on radical propaganda and that 5,000,000 read radical news-

The bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Baumgardner, returned home last Wednesday evening, March 5, and had quite an experience until they got to their journeys end. They were met at Keymar by Joseph Clabaugh in his automobile, so they went on their way rejoicing, until they got as far as T. R. Angell's, their Henry skidded in the side drain, and through the kindness of Mr. Angell, with his pair of mules and towed them to the road again. They went on until they came to the mud road, when their Henry refused to go, so they called on Maurice Hahn, who came with his pair of mules and toed them to the bride's home. Mr. and Mrs. Baumgardner will never forget the return of their wedding trip, as they had to have the faithful horses and mules to get them home. We wish them a

HATCHED RIGHT? It Makes a Difference!

Merely hatching Chicks is not enough. They must be hatched properly. Our system of incubation produces larger, stronger Chicks. From the time the egg first goes into the incubator until it is hatched the conditions are exactly right. Four stages of temperature to exactly suit the stage of incubation produces results not to be had in any other way.

City current, for normal use and a private electric plant for emergency; a thermograph alarm to instantly show any deviation in temperature, all guarantee the best possible results from the most up-to-date method of incubation. We invite you to see our modern hatchery.

CUSTOM HATCHING.

We are splendidly equipped to give your eggs the very best attention and can point with pride to a large number of customers who have already had hatching done by us this season. We have pleased others, we can please you. Get in touch with us for terms and dates.

BABY CHICKS.

We sell you only strong healthy Chicks from good, practical, thoroughbred stock. Rather than compete with others for low price, we aim to maintain a high standard for quality and build for future years. "Blood will tell." You will be pleased with the stock we sell you. It costs no more to raise good stock.

Perfecting Lamps

THE Story of Oil now brings us to the inventive efforts of two men who brought the use of Oil up to an efficient and satisfactory standard. Until 1782 all lamps were ill-made, smoky instruments, filling the air with soot and a stifling odor. At that time a Swiss physician, Aime Argand, made what was perhaps the greatest step forward in the history of Oil Lamps. He invented the circular wick and the lamp chimney.

LATER, in 1846, a Mr. Gessner manufactured an illuminating Oil from the asphaltic albertite found in County Albert, New Brunswick, and called it Kerosene. The older name of "coal oil", however, is still used somewhat in America.

Circular Wicks, Lamp Chimneys, Kerosene. We take them all as a matter of fact nowadays. Yet all honor is due the men who gave them to us. The Red "C" Oil Co. today is producing Kerosene of a quality that surpasses by far the fondest imaginings of Gessner. The Red "C" Oil and The White "C" Oil, same except in color, is the ideal Kerosene for your Lamps and Incubators.

Got Right Back Into the Frying Pan

By JANE OSBORN

(©, 1924, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

At sixteen Terry Dale had been shy. Dancing class was a torture to her still greater torture to the gawky high school boys, Dan Pritchard among them, who persisted in asking her to dance with them. When the dancing teacher's eye was upon her. she had to accept. Otherwise she refused, skipping timidly away to dance with other less attractive girls or with one of her own younger brothers. The reputation had grown upon her, until at twenty the entire Dale family took it for granted that Terry had an aversion for every boy or man who looked upon her with admiration. "Here comes Dan," or "Here comes Tom," or "Here comes Dick and Harry," some member of her family would announce from the vantage of a front window, fully expecting Terry to retire to the woodshed or scamper off to the playroom in the attic, and still expecting her to be grateful when | Terry didn't quite know what had takthey announced that Terry wasn't en place. The deg's barks had changed pected, save on the rare occasions when suitors arrived unheralded by the family. Even then the role of shyness-which she had actually outgrown—seemed to be the one she was expected to play.

One balmy late afternoon in May Terry sat reading in the family living room, vaguely wishing that something would happen to relieve her of the tedium of a book that failed to focus her attention.

"Here comes Dan Pritchard," announced a younger brother, thrusting his touseled head in at the front door. "He's turned the corner. I'd know the squeak of that old car of his anywhere.'

"Quick, Terry," her mother hastened. "You can get out the back door. Run down to the Lawsons! I wanted you to borrow some eggs for me anyway. You can go through the back yards."

Terry might have protested, but an older sister hurried her along. "He is coming up the front walk now. Beat it, or you'll be caught." And Terry went breathlessly stumbling out a back hall, through the back door, and down the path between the beds of young vegetables. She held the fluffy folds of her new organdie frock out of danger's way and schambled through a hedge, across a neighbor's lawn, and then on to the side door of the Lawsons' rambling old house.

She was still out of breath when she found Mrs. Lawson on the wide veranda at the front of her house. "I've come to borrow some eggs," Terry said. "But I think I'll stay a while. One of the boys was coming so I thought I'd get away." "Bless your heart," said Mrs. Lawson. "You're so shy. Well, if there were more girls like you there Terry.

wouldn't be all this talk about flappers and things.' "But I'm not really so shy," Terry protested. "Oh, yes you are, dear," Mrs. Lawson corrected. "You always were. But it is nothing to be ashamed of." The subject was forthwith changed to a recital of Mrs. Lawson's difficulties with her new gardener.

"And he insisted on bringing his dog with him, a foolish bulldog, and he actually pulled up the lettuce seedlings and left the sour grass." Mrs. Lawson stopped short with a look of alarm. "Say, there comes that Tom Atwater. He's probably seen you coming and thinks he'll catch you here. Tom seems to be crazy about you. The Atwaters were always queer, though. Hurry along, dear, through the kitchen and through the back. You can get over the fence. We've had the gate taken out, you know. Mind you don't tear your new dress," Mrs. Lawson was calling as Terry fled kitchenward. Terry fled with more spirit this time. for she really did want to avoid Tom Atwater, and this desire was not caused by shyness, but by actual aversion. Still as she sped along the path down the Lawson's backyard she wished that somehow her life did not consist of so many hasty flights. It was rather cowardly, after all, she shought. Other girls faced the music and managed more valiantly to rid themselves of unwelcome suitors. Terry heard the barking of a dog, a rather silly falsetto bark, but she did not look to see whence it came. In a few more seconds she was at the end of the garden, had gathered up the folds of her daffodil yellow organdie and had started to scramble up the fence. It was then that the barking became nearer and nearer and a battered and blear-eyed bulldog appeared. Apparently he strongly objected to her scaling the fence, but even more to her getting down from the top of it once she had made it. He struggled under the fence and appeared at the other side to warn her that whichever way she descended he was ready to oppose her, and he bared his white incisors to give her fair warning of his intentions. Terry balanced herself on the top of the fence in a not-very-comfortable position. Fortunately, there was 8 bough of an old apple tree which she clutched to steady her in her difficult position. She felt deep resentment for the dog who kept her a prisoner there but deeper resentment toward her mother and Mrs. Lawson and the rest of her family and friends who had imposed this absurd role upon her. She rather hated herself for having run off just because they told her to. She had not torn her new frock, but she felt sure that she would before she ever managed to get down from the fence. Doubtless she would stay there until the gardener came to call off his dog, or until Mr. Lawson came out into the garden and helped her down. He would be hugely amused and would say something about her shyness and pay some foolish compliments. That was really worse than being caught by Tom Atwater. Perhaps she ought to jump right down. At most the dog would only bite her. He probably wasn't rabid.

Still, there was something instantly terrifying about the growl of the dog below her. She felt very helpless, Then beyond the growling she heard a familiar sound, a squeaking that was just as familiar to her as to her younger brother, Dan Pritchard was somewhere about.

"Dan," shouted Terry. "Dan, Dan!" But it was not her shouting that brought Dan and his car nearer, Apparently he had already decided to come down the road that led past the back garden of the old Lawson place. Even if he did not hear her, thought Terry, he would doubtless see her if she waved frantically. Her yellow frock would be quite distinct against the budding apple boughs.

It all happened so quickly that home. So Terry did as she was ex- to snarls, then to cowardly yelping and hasty retreat. Then Dan Pritchard's arms stretched out to her. She didn't 'even have to jump to safety. She simply dropped down, and somehow landed quite safe in the arms of her res-

> "Wasn't it lucky I happened to come down this way?" Tom said when he had put Terry safely beside him in his little car. "I had no idea you were here. How did you happen to be up

> "Tom Atwater was coming along," said Terry naively, "and Mrs. Lawson said-"

"Out of the frying pan into the fire," laughed Dan Pritchard. "You ran away to get rid of me (I saw you skipping down your garden) and then you have to run right into Tom and a bulldog. You're out of luck, Terry."

Terry looked up into Dan's face without a suspicion of shyness. "Not in the least," she said, and then wondered at her boldness.

"But you had to get right back into the frying pan," said Dan. "Poor lit-tle girl. There was no escape for

"But it's a very nice frying pan," said Terry. "That is, I didn't really want to run away from you, Dan. I'm not so shy as my family like to imagine I am.

"Let's show them, then," said Dan defiantly. "Let's take a little spin around so that every one can see you weren't too timid to go out with me, and then let's go back to your house and tell your family we're enaged—"
"But would we really be?" asked

"Certainly," said Dan.

The Central Office Operator

FORTY-EIGHT years ago the telephone was a toy, thought by many to have no commercial value; today it is an indispensable factor in our daily lives. Day in and day out the flashing of myriads of tiny lamps, the calling signals, on the switchboards continue, and day in and day out the operator must be on the job.

Good telephone service is only possible because the central office operator is intelligent, willing and interested in her work.

THE REIGN OF DAVID

LESSON TEXT — II Sam. 7:18-26; 8:14, 15. (Read I Sam. 16 to II Sam. 24.) GOLDEN TEXT—I delight to do Thy will, O my God.—Ps. 40:8. PRIMARY TOPIC—A Shepherd Boy

Becomes King.

JUNIOR TOPIC—David and Goliath.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—David a Character Study.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC—What David Achieved for Israel.

I. Chosen King While a Shepherd Boy (I Sam. 16:1-13).

1. Samuel Sent to Bethlehem (vv. Bethlehem and from among the sons of Jesse choose a successor. God instructed him to avoid publicity by the concealment of his real purpose. Samuel was not under obligation to tell all that he knew, especially since the parties had no moral right to know.

2. Samuel Anointed David (v. 13). Though the Lord has refused to choose one of the eldest sons of Jesse, when this stripling of a boy came before Samuel, the Lord indicated His choice. This anointing typified the enduement of the Holy Spirit which is essential for any and all service for God.

II. David's Training. 1. In the Open Fields (I Sam. 16:11sheep. The prevailing tendency of racks. such an occupation would be to take things easily, but David did not fall into a life of indolence. He became such a skilled musician that he was I had Sankey's book of hymns, such a skilled musician that he was called to play his harp before the king. He was also an expert marksman, so that he could throw a stone with such the lion and the bear."

21:9). Here was formed that tie of whole population of the school learn-friendship with Jonathan which not only was a bright spot in David's life, only was a bright spot in David's life, but lives in history as a unique af-that he would not touch the Lord's anointed.

III. David Made King of Judah (II

Sam. 2:1-4). Trusting God, David went to Hebron, where the men of Judah anointed him king over them. Thus, a part of the

1. The Dual Kingdom (II Sam. 2:8; 4:12). Most of the tribes of Israel held to Ishbosheth, Saul's son, whom Abner had proclaimed king of Mahaniam. Feuds continued between the rival factions. David's power increased, while that of Ishbosheth waned. This period of civil war lasted seven and a half years.

2. David Crowned King of United Israel (II Sam. 5:1-5). Abner's death and Ishbosheth's assassination put an end to David's opposition. Besides, David's behavior during this time gradually won for him the confidence of the tribes, so that they all came to him at Hebron and anointed him as their king. They assigned as their reasons for anointing him their king:

(1) He was their brother (v. 1). (2) He was their true leader in war, even in Saul's time (v. 2). (3) He was the Lord's choice (v. 2).

IV. David's Worship and Prayer (II Sam. 7:18-26). 1. For God's Goodness to Him (vv.

18-22). This was shown in promising this covenant is set forth in verses 8-16. It contains the following elements:

(1) A house, or posterity (v. 13). (2) A throne—a royal authority (v. 13).

(3) A kingdom (y. 13).(4) Perpetuity, that is, forever (v. 13).

This was an absolute promise. Disobedience on the part of David's seed would entail chastisement, but not an abrogation of the covenant.

2. For God's Goodness to the Nation (vv. 23-26). No other nation in all the world had been accorded such treatment. The central thought is God's goodness centered in his redemption of the nation from Egyptian bondage.

V. God Preserved David Wherever He Went (II Sam. 8:14, 15). God will do the same for all those who trust Him.

March 16 The Bible in All the World: How it Is Sent and What It Does Psalm 43:1-5

"O send out thy light and thy truth: let them lead me." The fol-lowing incident taken from a recent number of the Biblical Review, gives a fine illustration of the manner in which the Bible meets that cry.

"I was a priest and had to trans-late the Bible into the language of my people. While doing that work, I was converted by studying every word of the original text in order to get the true sense of the Book. Sin, righteousness, justification were unknown notions to me before. I realiz-1-5). Samuel was directed to go to ed their full meaning only by studying God's Word. After my conversion, I began to pray to God to give me an opportunity to see another soul converted in the same way, because I thought my conversion was only imagination.

"After three months, two young men from the military school in the town came to me asking me what they must do in order to be prepared to die, because they had to go to the front. I preached to them the gospel and said that if they accepted the Saviour as their personal Saviour, they would be saved. If they died the Saviour would receive them: if they came back they would have something to do for Him, to tell oth-13; 17:34-37). As a young man, his death too. WOULD CHANGE THE WORLD

Chemist's Assertion That He Can Obtain Hydrogen From Water Is Most Important.

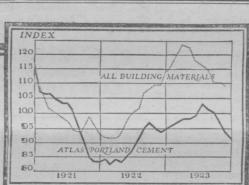

Germans have dreamed a lot of things, or have been reported as dreaming a lot of things in chemical discovery since the war ended. If a Munich chemist has found a way of getting cheap hydrogen from water, and has patented it, his patent might be said to be worth enough to pay all Germany's reparations.

This is chemistry's crock of gold. All around us is water in unlimited supply. Two-thirds of that water is the hottest burning gas we know of. Professor to build him a house. The content of | Einstein is right in asserting that fuel conditions the world over would be revolutionized if water could be inexpensively transmuted into its oxygen and hydrogen.

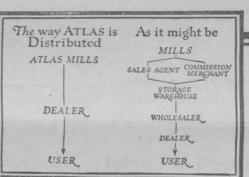

We spend immense sums for coal, anthracite and bituminous, dug out of deep mines by strenuous toil, carried at large expense in railroad cars to our cities, trucked to our individual coal bins with more expense. Hydrogen gas would do its work better in every way, both for factory and home use. And instead of working to exhaust a fixed supply, already estimated, we should take nothing from nature that would not be restored. The hydrogen, burning, would not cease to be hydrogen. It would precipitate itself when recombined with oxygen and become water again without man's assistance.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Vitamins in Fruits. Distinctively oriental fruits, most of which are never seen in western markets, have been found to be well supplied with vitamin C, the preventive of scurvy, according to the results of researches by Hartly Embrey of the Union Medical college, Peking, recently published in the Philippine Journal of Science. The fruits and vegetables which were found to have anti-scorbutic properties were the chico, papaya, pomelo, guava, lansones, both fruit and flower buds of the banana, coconut, pepino or cucumber, kangking leaves, and camote leaves. The Chinese persimmon was also found effective.

My mother suffered at night with cramps in her feet and ankles. One day a sewing-woman told her that if she would cross her shoes when she took them off she would have no more trouble. My mother tried it, and we all laughed and teased her whenever we saw her little crossed shoes, although she assured us that the cramps had departed. Some time afterward, in the upper berth of a sleeping car, I was seized with a violent cramp in my right foot. I was undressed and could not get down to go to the dressing room, because it was early and people were walking about the aisle. Meantime the pain became unbearable. Suddenly I thought of crossing my

Another Air-Propeller Boat.

While there is nothing absolutely new in the idea of driving a boat by means of an air propeller, a craft recently invented is distinctly novel because its builder has made use of a much larger propeller than is generally employed for this purpose. This airdriven boat has been constructed in France, where air-driven craft have always attracted considerable attention on the part of ingenious Frenchmen. The propeller is mounted on a tall skeleton stand, an extension of which may be used as a mast. The propeller turns at a slow rate, but owing to its large spread it moves a sufficient volume of air to propel the boat shoes which lay near. I crossed them along at a leisurely speed.—Scientific and the cramp magically disappeared. American

Everybody knows of the mock turtle and his profuse tears described in Lewis Carroll's famous book. There is one person who claims to have seen a number of them. A young attache of the Mexican legation several years ago was being shown the sights of Washington by an American friend. Dropping into a restaurant for lunch, their first dish proved to be mock turtle soup. That led the Mexican into an animated account of a trip across the Caribbean sea, in the course of which, he said, they passed a bare rock "simply covered with mock turtles." "Excuse me," said the American, smiling, "you don't mean mock turtles, but just turtles." "Indeed I mean what I say," the other repeated, with warmth.
