THE TANEYTOWN SCHOOL SITUATION.

Condemned Building Creates an Emergency Case.

A public meeting was held on Monday night, in the Presbyterian Church, for the purpose of consid-ering the High School building question. Robert S. McKinney was chosen chairman, and Harry Ecker secretary. Rev. Guy P. Bready presented the situation to the meeting, stating that as the building had been condemned as unsafe by three builders, Taneytown practically has no building in which to open school in about two months. He also made it clear that it is not necessary to have experts to point out the defects in the building, but that they are easily in evidence to unpracticed eyes—the building is unsafe for further use.

He said the repair of the present building, that could be made only at heavy expense, would not be desir-able, as at best it would be a makeshift for only a short time, as the building is too small and the present location is not adapted to enlarge-He also spoke against the portable building proposition.

General discussion was participated in by Rev. G. W. Shipley, Milton A. Koons, Walter A. Bower, G. Walter Wilt, Mrs. C. E. Roop, Mrs. H. B. Miller, William F. Bricker, R. S. Mc-Kinney, D. J. Hesson and P. B. Engler.

The final conclusion reached was that as large a delegation as possible should go before the County Commissioners, Tuesday afternoon, with Rev. Guy P. Bready as main spokesman, and insist strongly on the erection of a new permanent building, on a new location to be agreed upon, with the understanding that the latter be locally financed, to an amount not to exceed $1500.

During the course of the discussion it was brought out that the case was not an ordinary demand for a "new school building." The situation of the County Commissioners in hearing such cases was fully appreciated, in the face of strong demands for reduced taxes, and their efforts to satisfy all reasonable requests on both sides were fully appreciated; but, the Taneytown situation represented an emergency—a plainly de-veloped necessity—and as such demanded prompt action on the part of the Commissioners. A large delegation waited on the A large delegation waited on the County Commissioners, on Tuesday, and presented the emergency as above outlined. It is probable that a joint-meeting of the Commissioners and Board of Education will be held, next week, and the urgent needs of the situation realized, and met. The attitude with which the present situation tude with which the present situation must be met, is, that it is a distinct emergency, and not a mere demand for a new bullding—it is practically for there is none, safe to use.

The Resignation of Mrs. May Forrest Fouke, as Teacher.

(For the Record.) Much has been thought and said about the inadequacy of our present Taneytown school building, and the necessity of a modern one. Even as I write, a meeting is being held to discuss ways and means to accommodate the pupils in the coming year. The passing of this old building, which was somewhat remodeled and enlarged a few years ago, will be another of the great changes which has come to our community in the last few years.

Inside the school, too, in recent years, there have been many changes both in Principals and teachers; but through it all the same efficient Primary teacher has prevailed—Miss May Forrest who later became Mrs.

It would be interesting to know ance. I do not know the exact number of years over which her work has extended, but in some instances it has been three generations in the same family. What a record of influence for the best in life!

For, a conscientious teacher does not consider the work finished with the completion of the day's quota, as mapped out by the Board of Education, but daily trains even the youngest child in high ideals, courtesy and christian character. Such a teacher was Mrs. Fouke.

Do we realize what it has meant to take children of six years, or even younger, from the freedom of home into a school room, where one must keep quiet and busy at a set task all the time—and keep them happy? One need only have watched these little folk of ours, marching out of school in orderly columns, with tablet and the precious "school companion" and a little later a cherished book, proudly tucked under the arm, and little caps off, and hear the chorus of old "Goodbye Mrs. May" to know that all. they loved teacher, and school, and all they stood for. Many of these same children now filling places of responsibility and influence, with credit in the world's work, feeling that they have received great inspiration from this noble teacher. Therefore, her resignation marks an Epoch in the history of our community.

LETTER FROM DETROIT.

Politics, Industry and Weather Conditions Reviewed.

This letter to the Record will be partly along political lines, but not partisan. The subject that I am referring to is one which I have often seen discussed in the columns of this paper—the primary law. Every time that I have seen such an article, I have mentally contrasted it with our primary law in Michigan. Personally, I never did believe in the primary, as it is now conducted, maybe because I have always been a strict party man, and because, I am sure that this law is the cause of such two-by-four specimens of humanity getting into Congress, and holding office, as are now there, especially from this state.

The Free Press, the best daily in Michigan, in a great many more ways than one, is just as bitter against our law as you are against the Maryland law. Out here, there is no such a thing as a declaration of your party affiliation, for the purpose of voting at the primaries, when you register, nor do you take any oath to tell the truth about the facts of your attempt to register. All you do is to swear that you will support the Constitution of the United States, and then you can lie as much as you please as regards your qualifications to register and vote. It is said that there are thousands of Foreigners, not naturalized, who are voting regularly, and recently a case came to light where a certain judge who was on the bench for over 40 years, was still a citizen of Germany. When we go to vote at the primaries, in Michigan, we can ask for the ticket of any party we desire. For instance, I could get a Democratic ballot in order to vote for the weakest candidate on the ticket, for the purpose of having as little opposition as possible for my candidate, if there happens to be only one candidate for a particular office on my ticket. That's what happened in the Newberry-Ford contest. Thousands of Democrats, in obedience to the orders of their leaders, voted for Ford on the Republican ticket, at the primaries, because he was on both tickets, and was unopposed on the Democratic

Detroit has just passed through a genuine small-pox scare. Last Spring there was an outbreak of this disease in Windsor, across the river in Canada, and before it was much thought of it broke out in Detroit. We had it pretty close to us, as there were seven cases taken out of the factory where we work. As was the case in a similar outbreak in 1918, a corps of doctors from the Board of Health came through the shop, and vaccinated all who could not show a good scar. Just after the first scare, there was a lull in the number of cases, but later on, the heavy increase in number of cases the heavy increase in number of cases and the virulence of the disease alarmad the health authorities are described. ### PRESIDENT'S SON MEETS DEATH

After Illness of Five Days from Blood Poisoning.

Calvin, son of President and Mrs. Coolidge, died at Walter Reed Hospital, of blood poisoning, on Monday evening, after five days illness. The cause of the infection was a blister on the right foot that formed on Monday, June 30, while playing tennis, due to the shoe chafing one of his toes. At first no serious account was taken of the injury—that is more or less common to boys—but the breaking of the blister was followed by infection, and the situation became increasingly alarming and steadily worse.

Sunday, with the hope of drawing off the poison, but medical skill failed to save his life, and his physical strength gave way. President and Mrs. Coolidge remained by his side continuously until the end.

Calvin Coolidge, Jr., was born April 13, 1908, at Northampton, Mass and went through the grade schools of that city and then entered the high school, completing the first year after his father had come to Washington as Vice-President in Both he and his brother, John, who is 17 years of age, the next year entered Mercersburg Academy at Mercersburg, Pa., John being graduated last June while Calvin had another year before him. John is to enter Amherst, the President's alma mater, this fall and Calvin was to have followed him.

An excellent student, usually ranking high in his class, Calvin was bright and studious, but not a "crammer" in the schoolboy sense of studiousness. He also was a good debater and had qualified for the academy debating team. It was held that such details, and the details of other breaches of the moral code, tended to corrupt not only the minds of youth, but the minds of all, and the conference, which was attended by hundreds of delegates from all parts of the country, pledged itself to support only news-papers which help to raise the time of public morality.

There is now before the House of Commons, due for second reading, a Regulation of Reports Bill, which, if passed, would make the publication of intimate divorce details a crime.

Forced to Do Public

Penance for Slander

Public penance was the punishment meted out to slanderers as recently as the Nineteenth century. In 1822 thousands of persons assembled in Bethnal Green church, London, and the adthoroughfares, attracted thither by the announcement that a young married woman, named Sarah Green, had been ordered by the surrogate of the ecclesiastical church to do penance in the church for having called her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ann Johnson, an opprobrious name. The order said she was to stand in a white sheet, but this was dispensed with, much, it is said, to the disappointment of the spectators. Mrs. Green, who is described as being "a very fine young woman," was attired in a white dress, and repeated the following recantation in the vestry in the presence of the rector, church wardens, the person

"I, Sarah Green, wife of James Green, have uttered and spoken several scandalous and opprobrious words against Ann Johnson, wife of William Johnson of St. Matthew, Bethnal Green, to the great offense of Almighty God, the scandal of the Christian religion, and the injury and reproach of my neighbor's credit, by calling her '---' I do, therefore, before God and you, humbly confess and acknowledge such offense, and am heartily sorry for the same, and do ask her forgiveness, and promise hereafter never to offend her in the like

Bridal Customs of

Old Land of Egypt

Brides of ancient Egypt prepared for the wedding my dyeing their finger and toe nails with "hinna." Baths in perfumed oils and painting of eyebrows were also part of milady's toilet. Men and women alike went barefooted; sandals came later. A girl was usually betrothed at an early age. Her chief importance after marriage was to look after her husband's animals when she was not caring for her children. There has always been an exchange of money between the families of bride and groom. In lower Egypt today the prospective groom pays two-thirds of an agreed sum and the remainder in the event of divorce. Out of this initial payment the bride's family supplies her dowry.

It is said it was an Egyptian woman who first slipped the wedding ring from the second to the third finger of her left hand because she believed that an artery located there led directly to the heart. Beautiful hair has always been coveted. The headdresses of the daughters of rich soldiers, physicians and others were more varied than those of today. Linen was the favorite dress material of these people for centuries, wool being considered un-

For weddings and other ceremonies a gold thread border was interwoven at the hem and about the neck of dresses. Falling draperies served as sleeves. In order to keep property in the family and prevent scattering of large estates, brothers and sisters or uncles and nieces often intermarried. This custom is still practiced in some districts of the country.

Straw Hat Feature of

Schoolboys at Harrow A visit to the famous "Hill" of Harrow, on which stands a steeple which can be seen for miles, and a school which is famous all over the world, makes the total stranger gasp with astonishment. rovian and "to no other tile."

In wet weather the hat gets very sloppy and acts as a sort of watershed, giving the Harrovian the appearance of being surrounded by a miniature cataract. However, the straw-hat trade would suffer if this headgear were abolished, as there are 600 or 700 boys in the great school, and a straw tile does not last very long-especially on the head of a schoolboy.

Comfort for the Bald

Bald people usually bemoan the loss of their hair and sigh for the locks which have gone forever, but there is at least one advantage which comes from baldness.

bald man who was consumptive? It has been found that bald men are peculiarly immune from this disease. One doctor has said that out of 5,000 consumptive patients not à single one was bald.

Baldness is sometimes caused by bad dieting; but more frequently by letting the cold and damp penetrate to the roots of the hair. A man will emerge from a barber's shop with his hair wet even on the coldest day.

Excessive exercise is likely to bring on baldness. Athletes become overheated and, when they cool off, their scalp becomes chilled.

SUMMER FEEDING OF HENS IS IMPORTANT

Nature will not supply enough animal protein in the form of bugs and worms during the spring and summer to supply the laying flock of poultry with what is needed to insure good egg production, says A. G. Phillips, head of the poultry department of Purdue university. In the spring when birds get onto free range and in the summer when they utilize the entire farm for exercise, it is a common practice to reduce the amount of mash containing protein and depend upon the grain as the large part of the feed to be supplied by those who keep poultry.

As the weather warms up, birds do not need as much heat supplied by the grain as they do in the winter. Consequently the grain consumption should naturally be reduced and mash consumption increased. In order to see that the birds eat more mash as the season progresses it may be necessary to feed practically no grain in the morning. If the Purdue mash of 50 pounds bran, 50 pounds middlings and 80 pounds tankage is used, the proportion of grain to mash in the spring should be two to one and in the summer one to one, or equal parts of grain to mash

As a rule egg production begins to slump as soon as warm weather arrives, but if the mash consumption increases the slump will not be so great. The summer production can be very high and consequently very profitable. On farms where much waste grain is available it may be wise to confine the birds until about ten o'clock in the morning, thus compelling them to eat mash before they are permitted to roam over the farm. High mash consumption is absolutely necessary to insure summer egg production.

Green Feeds and Water

Essential for All Hens

It is absolutely essential that layers be furnished green feed of some kind. The question of how to supply this green feed must be decided by the individual. For maximum egg production the bird must have access to fresh clean water at all times, which should neither be too hot nor too cold. One hundred hens in good laying condition should consume from 12 to 24 quarts of water daily, and in extremely hot weather even more.

When properly fed, milk makes an excellent feed for laying hens. Skim milk or buttermilk are economical feeds and when available should be used instead of the higher-priced protein feeds such as meat scraps. Skimmed milk not only contains the valuable food nutrients, but it is in the form that is easily digested. Sour milk is preferable to sweet milk, since sweet milk when fed may not all be consumed before it sours, thus causing the fowl to have sweet food at one time, and then sour immediately following, which is not advisable. Furthermore, sour milk contains an acid that is said to be a benefit in controlling bowel troubles.

Grit in some form is very essential to the health of a flock and also means economy in feeding. It is also to be remembered that shells are just as important as any other part of the egg. A large amount of lime is used in building these shells. Unless some form of lime is supplied, hens laying heavily will not secure a sufficient amount to manufacture the shells.

Corn Gluten in Ration

Corn gluten feed makes an excellent addition to the ration, and may be procured through almost any feed store. It is highly palatable and may be fed to advantage in the dry mash with other feed, such as follows: One hundred pounds of cornmeal, 100 pounds of bran, 100 pounds of white middlings, 100 pounds of ground feed, 100 pounds of corn gluten feed, 100 pounds of meat scrap, 6 pounds of charcoal, 6 pounds of salt.

Poultry Hints

Six roosters with each 100 hens should give good fertility and hatchability with Leghorns.

Ground where last year's chicks died isn't good ground for this year's chicks. Move the coops and brooders.

The Orpington is an English general-purpose breed that is winning quite a place in America. Orpingtons have white skin and produce brown eggs—an unusual combination.

A. A. Holberg, assistant poultryman at the Minnesota college farm, saves himself work in cleaning dropping boards by keeping them covered with a layer of fine sand. He says it keeps the boards more sanitary, too.

Feeding the chicks too soon causes diarrhea. The egg yolk enters the chick's body shortly before the chick hatches. The chick should have time to use up this yolk before it is given any other feed.

The Chesapeake and Potomac and The Bell System

There is a natural public interest in the details of the agreement between The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the parent company of the Bell System. Under this arrangement the A. T. and T. Company renders to this Company and the other Bell operating companies throughout the country certain services, which, measured in terms of value to telephone users, are worth many times more than the payment therefor.

Here are the facts about these services, the payment therefor and its effect on telephone rates.

The Services of the A. T. and T. Company

The A. T. and T. Company provides:

All telephone transmitters and receivers used by our patrons and ourselves, including a supply sufficient to cover current demands.

Rights under all patents owned or controlled by the A. T. and T. Company and a guarantee of freedom from royalties, damages or expense on account of the use of such patents.

An organization to prosecute continuously the fundamental work of research and investigation for the study of every branch of the telephone art, through which are developed and made available to the C. and P. Company thousands of improvements and inventions which make for progress, efficiency and economy in furnishing telephone service.

Advice and assistance in general engineering, plant, traffic, commercial, accounting, legal, financial and administrative matters.

A connection with the nation-wide toll service of the A. T. and T. Company, which enables every Maryland subscriber to talk to practically every point in the United States and points in Canada and in Cuba.

The Payment for These Services

The C. and P. Company, as is the case with other Bell operating companies, pays the A. T. and T. Company for these services  $4\frac{1}{2}\%$  of its gross revenue. The payment in the State of Maryland for the year 1923 was \$381,345. With an average of 154,135 telephones in service during the year, the average payment per telephone was \$2.47.

Effect on Telephone Rates

The annual use of the telephone receiver and transmitter, which is included in the foregoing amount, has been valued by regulatory bodies at from 90c to $1.25. Deducting the lower value of 90c from $2.47, it will be seen that the amount per telephone paid for the remaining service above described is $1.57, or 13c monthly. This amount bears a negligible relation to the average monthly telephone bill, and it is in fact so small a factor in the Company's expense account that its inclusion has little effect on telephone rates.

That this arrangement is necessary in a business so highly technical as the furnishing of a nation-wide telephone service cannot be questioned. That the services provided can be performed with the maximum of economy and efficiency by a single organization, working for all the Bell System companies, should be obvious. It has been and is still the mainspring in the development and progress of the telephone industry.

As to paying the A. T. and T. Company for these services, the situation of the A. T. and T. Company, as owner of the common stock of the C. and P. Company, does not differ from that of any other individual or corporate owner of a controlling interest in a corporation. Such a stockholder, performing services for such a corporation, is clearly entitled to payment therefor apart from dividends on his investment.

The arrangement is widely known in all its details. It has been the proper subject of inquiry by many state regulatory bodies and the courts and has met with general approval.

For I'm His Dad.

There's a lad I often see, Happy as a lad can be, Pleasant as a day in June, Whistling some old merry tune, As with spattered naked feet He goes skipping down the street— Makes me proud to see that lad, For, you see, I am his dad.

Frolics on his way to school, Full of mischief as a rule, Full of laughter and of noise, Just like other healthy boys, And he plays in make-believe He's some great big Indian chief— Just to see him makes me glad, For, you see, I am his dad.

Sometimes in the twilight's gleam I just sit alone and dream, Thinking of those days sublime, Vanished with the flight of time, When I was as glad as he, And as full of boyish glee, And like him was good and bad— For, you see, I am his dad.

Oh, I'm proud as I can be When that lad comes up to me, Climbs into my lap and says, 'Dad, when I grow up, I guess will try to be like you, For I think you're good and true," Then I pray and wish I had Really been a better dad.

-Advertisement Largest Fresh Springs The National Geographic society

Edgar A. Snyder, who received actly which fresh-water spring is the subway car, he says. Scarcely one largest in the United States since springs fluctuate in their discharge, and it is also the question of considering a group of springs singularly or collectively. Among the largest freshwater springs in the United States are the Thousands springs and the Malad springs, both of which are in Idaho. Either of these springs would supply the city of New York with water. Silver springs in Florida are also in the United States.

A Little Careless "What do you know of the character of the defendant?" asked the judge of a colored laundress subpoenaed in an accident case of a white man arrested for careless driving of a motorcar.

"It's tolerable," Maria said. "Had you seen him drive the car before?"

"Yassah." "Would you consider him careless?" "Well, jedge, as fo' de car-dat little thing ain't gwine to hurt nobody, but being us is all here, I might as well tell yo' dat he sho' is careless 'bout payin' fo' his wash!"

Hid From Lightning

A thunderstorm was approaching and a group of Jennings county women began talking of the laughable things people do to guard against lightning. The honors went to Mrs. Menrietta Elliot of North Vernon, She turned to a former pupil and said, "Alice, you must remember the time a terrible storm came up in the afternoon and lightning struck several trees right close to the schoolhouse. I got so scared I pulled the door back to hide myself the best I could, and took off my steel hoopskirt!"-Indianapolis News.

Doing One's Duty

Take good care of disagreeable duties. Attend to these first. Never made by the United States naval seaselect the things that you want to do, and shirk upon others the things that you do not want to do. Choose the disagreeable things you will get in Walter Hinton, Radio Operator Ensign your manhood. You cannot grow in H. C. Rodd, Engineer Chief Machinist's any other way so fast. You may be Mate E. Rickshaw Is Substitute for Taxicab in Durban

Durban is a pleasant town, much frequented in summer by pleasure seekers from Johannesburg, says G. B. Mackenzie in the World Traveler Magazine. The principal streets are clean and wide. They were planned when twelve or sixteen oxen were everywhere used for transport and the streets had to be wide enough to allow of the teams turning around. Now, of course, there are excellent electric cars and private motors may be bired for journeys out of the town, but taxicabs, as we know them, hardly exist. Their place is taken by rickshaws, drawn by Zulus-men of magnificent physique, gayly decorated with feathers, colored cloth, bracelets, beads and horns.

They run barefoot and often have part of their legs whitewashed so that they appear to be wearing stockings. I was told, however, that the lives of these men in the town is often tragically short. They take little care of themselves and after running for miles in the blazing sun will sit down in the shade to cool, when they easily catch a chill that may prove fatal. Riding in a rickshaw provides a pleasant, wavy sensation, and gives one a satisfying feeling of superiority unknown to the owner of a paltry limousine.

Danger in Reading on

Conveyance in Motion Abstaining from reading in the subway is one way to prolong life, according to Dr. Frank J. Monaghan, commissioner of public health for New says that it is impossible to state experson in five is not reading. Almost as many newspapers as passengers enter at each station. These papers are read closely, painstakingly, by the holder, sitting, standing or wavering with the motion of the car. "Every time the train lurches or jerks many tiny muscles are kept busy adjusting the eyes to the vibration," he explained to the New York Times. "This is why it is injurious to use the eyes on a conveyance in motion. Also, among the largest fresh-water springs the lighting is apt to be extremely poor. If this sort of thing is kept up eye strain and possibly nerve strain will result. Blurred vision may follow; and in the course of years the eyesight may be seriously impaired. "But the actual injury to the eyes is not the whole story. Few persons realize how the eyes are tied up with the rest of the body and the rest of the body on them. Eye strain will start the vicious circle. It induces fatigue, possibly a headache, and lowers general vitality and efficiency. If people would only look out for such seemingly minor details as these they would raise the general health standard and might even add years to their

"Seward's Folly"

Probably the phrase "Seward's Folly" applied to Alaska will indicate as well as any words can the attitude of the people toward the purchase of Alaska. American histories fail to emphasize the fact that this government purchased the territory called Alaska as an appreciation of the support which Russia gave to the federal government during the Civil war. It seemingly was an unwise investment, for at the time of the purchase the public was not aware of the enormous mineral wealth to be found in the territory.

Not a Crime, a Miracle

It was very cold, but still the angler sat patiently by the side of the stream, waiting for the bite that did not come. An aged man approached and took up a strategic position behind him. "Are these private waters, my man?" asked the angler, looking over his shoulder.

The aged man shook his head. "No," he said.

"Then it won't be a crime if I land a fish?" pursued the sportsman. Again the aged man shook his head, till his gray locks fluttered in the breeze. "No," he said. "It would be a

Ties Given "Turkish Bath" Railway construction engineers have found that railway ties, even when air-dried for a considerable time, still contain 15 per cent or more moisture. and therefore are susceptible to decay, since bacterial growth requires moisture. In recent experiments an effort has been made to drive out moisture by using the same process that nature does, and dissolve, neutralize and wash out the sap and other liquids which obstruct and close the pores. Warm air saturated with moisture is circulated among the ties. This opens and cleans the pores of the wood just as a Turkish bath does the pores of a man. The saps and resins filling the vesicles themselves, expand with the heat and force their way out, to be diluted and carried away by the warm vapor. After some hours of this treatment, the amount "I hope that's a nice book for you to of moisture in the lumber is reduced it is practically dry, and the wood is removed from the kiln with not more than 5 per cent of moisture left in it. is immune to decay as long as it is kept dry. meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

L ORETTA should, by right of origin, be spelled Lauretta. Its equivalent to its pronunciation.

Loretta signifies "laurel," but there is considerable difference of opinion in regard to her source. Some etymologists believe that it is taken from the masculine Laurus, and the ladies so called should consider St. Laurence as their patron. Others contend that it is taken from the Greek word laura, meaning avenue, and applied to the clusters of hermitages which eventually formed the nucleus of monasteries. A religious interpretation is that the name Lauretta was evolved to commemorate the laurel grove, or loreto, to which the Italians believe the angels transported the holy house of Nazareth during the conquest of Palestine. But whatever theory is correct, Lauretta made her debut as a feminine name among the Flemish in 1162. Her next appearance was in the time of King John, when a daughter of William de Braose, lord of Bramber, was so called. After that, the name became popular in usage throughout England and France. In the latter country, it is called Laurette.

The emerald is Loretta's talismanic gem. It is the jewel of youth and springtime for Loretta, and will bring her the charm that comes from quickened intelligence, and the admiration of others. Wednesday is her lucky day and 3 her lucky number. (© by Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

Superstitions By H. IRDING KING

JAY BIRDS

SUPERSTITION found in many present accepted form is due to the A sections of the country but espe-Italian influence which destroys the cially popular in the South is that a French "au" and supplies the letter jay bird disappears every third day. On that day he is on duty in hell where he goes to tell the devil of form of this superstition is, perhaps, that the jay bird is never seen on Friday as on that day he is carrying sticks to the devil for him to make fire with. This superstition is a direct inheritance from Norse mythology and German folk-lore and originates in exactly the same way as the magpie's reputation as a bringer of bad luck. In fact the jay-bird superstition more closely follows the ancient magpie myth than does the modern magpie superstition itself. In the days of Odin and Thor the witches were accustomed to hold high carnival on Walpurgis night, when they transformed themselves into magpies and flew away to Blakulle to consult the devil.

At first it would appear strange to find the jay bird-the most noticeable specimen of which in this country is the blue jay-inheriting a magpie myth. But ornithologists tell us that the magpie and the jay are very closely related and that the blue magpie of Europe is a connecting link between them. In fact, as well as in superstition, they merge into each other. Therefore, when we consider the bad habit of the magple in making periodical visits to the devil in Blakulle it is not surprising that the jay bird should be suspected of a similar practice.

Predicts the Passing of Billboard Advertising

If one may judge from advance hints casually dropped here and there, the advertising men from the United States who are to visit England en masse during the coming summer will be shown in a convincing manner the results of psychological researches made by British savants into a science and art of which the visitors themselves are generally regarded as the chief exponents.

The experiments, which have been conducted on a wide as well as an intensive scale, will, it is predicted, lead to the inevitable conclusion that before many years have elapsed advertising by billboards will have largely disappeared. The evidence regarding the billboard, at least, is conclusive, for the outcry against the desecration of rural scenery has led some of the biggest users of that method of catching the prospective customer's eye to announce a speedy and wholesale withdrawal, on both sides of the Atlantic, of the occasion of offense.

A sense of the artistic fitness of things on the part of the heads of corporations and other concerns, as well as a desire to comply with public sentiment and demand, was supposed to be behind this important decision, and due credit must be allowed for so honorable a motive. In addition, however, it now appears likely enough that another compelling cause was a feeling of wasted effort and a realization that the billboard as a means of effecting sales was not ail that it was expected to be, and did not, in fact, warrant the outlay it entailed.-Washington Post.

Know Your Own Town First

The story is told of a city man who was put to shame by a country cousin because the latter, in only a few days in the city, had observed more of the city's noteworthy features than the other. Then the city man had a bright idea and proceeded to quiz his rural

If the two had pressed their comparison a little further, no doubt, each would have found the other ignorant of some of the shortcomings of his own community, too. What improvements were needed in sanitation, in the schools, in traffic regulations and so on, would probably find neither man so well informed or thoughtful as intelligent citizenship requires. A knowyour-own-town campaign would be productive of beneficial results in almost any community of any size.-Elkhart

Architecture Neglected

Architecture is perhaps the most neglected, perhaps the most observed tight. of all the arts.

Magazines do not fail to chronicle the latest achievements in the field of drama, painting, sculpture and literature, and now moving pictures, our latest form of art expression, daily require more and more front-page space, due, in large measure, to the extra curriculum activities of their exponents. But of architecture we hear little except in the journals devoted exclusively to the interests of the profession, writes George S. Chappell in the New Republic.

This apathy on the part of the average man is often only his fear of becoming involved in the technicalities of this most complicated calling. A conversation between brother architects frequently abounds in references to such mysteries as spandrels, soffits, pendentives, fenestration and architraves, which leave the casual listener cold not to say bored.

Plant Trees That Fit

If a cottage be modest, cozy, almost diminutive, it should not be frightened by the presence of somber old trees of architectural tone that will grow to gigantic size, dwarfing and lessening its original charm. Houses of medium size and yet simple, unpretentious design, should be surrounded by simple, dignified elements, such as a lawn with bordering trees and shrub masses, avoiding a show of overrich color or texture in plant materials-in short, the garment should fit the individuality of the structure.

Mansions or homes of stately dimensions demand plants and flowers of dignity. Dense, upright growth forms, richness and fullness of texture, nobility and masculinity of line, tone and color are their fitting accompaniments.

Red Oak a Favorite

The red oak comes nearest of any being the best shade tree for the eastern half of the United States, says the American Tree association of Washington, D. C. The red oak grows more rapidly than other caks and adapts itself to a wide diversity of soil conditions. Its trunk is straight and strong, its top symmetrically oval or round, and foliage luxurious and turning a bright red with the approach of cold weather.

Bermuda Described as an Earthly Paradise

When one is planning a trip to Bermuda, about the first thing one hears is the remark generally attributed to Mark Twain, that the voyage to Bermuda is like going through hell to get to heaven. That depends on the weather on the Atlantic. Whatever exception the Atlantic may interpose to the first part of Mark Twain's epigram, no one will ever quarrel with his description of the islands, once they are safely reached. Those who gather their impressions of the general appearance of Bermuda from colored-picture post cards are grossly deceived, because there are only two colors in the islands, green and white, says a Bermuda letter to the Brooklyn Eagle. The artist who colors the post cards represents the buildings as pink, red and orange, and a roof here of red, a blue one there and a yellow in another place, whereas every building on the islands, with one or two exceptions, is not only white, but whitewashed, from the foundation walls to the ridge poles on the roof.

The first view one gets of the islands, when the steamer stops at St. David's Head to take on the pilot, is a rolling mass of dark green, covered with a stunted growth of trees, studded with numerous white buildings, all rising from a sea of azure, such as is always found when there is coral un-

English Writer Extols the Monkey as a Pet

In the Eighteenth century monkeys were fashionable pets, and I predict that the fashion will be revived, says a London Daily Graphic writer. I have kept a monkey as a pet for four months now. He is on excellent terms with the dog and the cat, and he is quite as well behaved as either. He is sentimental-not, indeed, with the pure domestic affection of the dog, but in a selfish and vampirish way.

He is the only animal that understands, and practices humbug. He will look at you from inside his cage with soulful eyes, and if you let him out on your return late at night, confident that it is pure affection for you that makes him look like that, he will lead you a dance and force you to rouse the house in order to get him back into his cage.

Most monkeys suitable as pets come from near the equator, and have to be kept warm on winter nights and a good fire made up for them. They should be nicely tucked in on a shelf in the cage, and, in a journalist's house, at any rate, they will then sleep conveniently late in the morn-

Avoiding Foot Troubles

"Go to the dentist or your feet will

"People always wonder if I am serious when I tell them this," said Mr. Dixon-Payne, education organizer at the School of Chiropody, to a writer in London Tit-Bits, "but if cavities in the teeth are neglected the joints of the whole body, particularly the joints of the foot, are affected. Only 25 per cent of the 27,000 girls employed by one firm who come before me for inspection have perfect feet.

"But the habit of wearing lowheeled shoes one day and Louis heels the next has an injurious effect on the feet. A woman's shoes should have the same heel level and thus the muscles would not be harmed."

American Firearm

The Kentucky rifle, Colt's revolver and volcanic or repeating rifle of the Winchester type are the most distinctly American firearms. The rifle was evolved from inaccurate "boar" rifles brought over by Swiss and German gunsmiths about 1650. These men were fine workmen. For the most part they settled in Lancaster and Bucks counties, Pennsylvania, where among hunters and Indian fighters they at once found ready sale for all the arms they could produce. Working in small crossroads shops, they made entirely by hand, from iron mined and melted in a most primitive way nearby, such modifications of their own "boar" guns as demands required.

Banks Long Known

Few things play a more important part in our lives today than the system of banking.

The word bank originally meant a tradesman's stall, and the first bank in anything like the modern sense existed about 2,700 years ago, says London Tit-Bits. We learn about this bank from clay tablets discovered near Babylon. Apparently the first firm of bankers was that of Egibi & Son, who flourished in Babylon about 600 or

The early Chinese were in the habit of issuing paper money-indeed, they got into difficulties by issuing too much. There was a bank in China about A. D. 1000.

Cracks in Furniture

Ugly cracks in furniture may be easily filled in with beeswax so that the marks will hardly show. Slightly soften the beeswax until it becomes pliable, then press it firmly into the cracks and smooth the surface with a thin knife. Sandpaper the surrounding wood and work some dust into the beeswax. This gives it a wood finish and when it is varnished the cracks will have disappeared.

Berennen Be MR. SMILEY

THE lawn party became an impressive occasion when Mrs. Alexander King appeared on the arm of her son, John. Impressive, that is, to all but Mr. Smiley. Presently Mrs. King heard a stage whisper behind her: "Do you enjoy a joke?" She turned to find Mr. Smiley knocking out the rung of a camp stool so that anyone sitting down upon it would be precipitated to the ground.

"It's for John," he explained. Now Mrs. King did not wish to put John in the position of being protected by his mother; so she said nothing though she kept her eye on the "joke." Then someone came to speak to her, and she turned away. The next minute she heard a frightened cry. A distinguished French woman was visiting town at the time. And it was she, not John King, who had fallen victim to Mr. Smiley's American humor.

An evil fate seemed to pursue Mrs. King after that lawn party. About half way through the winter a business friend of her husband died, and out of respect to him she went to the funeral. She was ushered to a pew well forward. As she sat waiting for the service to begin, she noticed that someone else had slipped in beside her. She looked up, and to her horror, there was Smiley; and a glance at his countenance made her realize that his habit of banter was upon him. When she knelt for the prayer, she found that two cushions had been slipped before her; she was offered a hymnal upside down; and during the reading Smiley tried to show her caricatures of the mourners that he was drawing on the back of an old envelope.

"We might as well see the funny side," he whispered complacently. The very next day, as it happened, John King brought home to dinner an old college friend who had become a theatrical manager.

"Do you know a Mr. Smiley?" asked the theater man.

Mrs. King shuddered. "Smiley wants a comedy part in our new play. I was interested to know he has your backing, Mrs. King," John's friend went on deferentially. "Mr. Smiley's part in my mind is pure tragedy," broke in Mrs. King with emphasis. "Oh, in that case, Smiley wouldn't do," ended the other. And Smiley never knew why his histrionic ambitions had been so suddenly snuffed out, as he pursued unsquelched his habit of trying to be

There is an old western saying that "Mr. Colt has made all men equal"; something the Constitution couldn't

The best application of this aphorism I ever heard was when word was brought to a small man that an enemy, six feet two and weighing about a hundred and eighty pounds, had registered a vow to knock him down the next time he saw him and stamp out his teeth with the steel-shod heels of his cowboy boots. The little man, unperturbed, looked up at the messenger. "You like So-and-So?" he asked.

Cause of Echo

An echo is the repetition of a sound due to its reflection from some distant surface, such as from a building, cliff, cloud or body of water. It must be remembered that sound is transmitted by means of waves through the air. Sound travels very slowly in comparison with light or radio waves. In ordinary air sound waves travel at the rate of about 1,000 feet a second. Now suppose a person is standing 1,000 feet from a reflecting surface such as a hill or cliff. It will take the sound waves set in motion by his voice one second to reach the cliff and it will require the same length of time for the reflecting sound waves to return to the human ear. Therefore two seconds will elapse between the time he shouts and the time he hears the echo of his voice. Repeated echoes are due either to independent deflections of sound from bodies at different distances or to successive reflections.

Billions of Buttons

There are 20,000,000,000 buttons manufactured in this country annually, and the industry has grown to such proportions that it equals, in dollars invested, and value of products, the cutlery industry or the manufacture of oilcloths and linoleum. America has almost a monopoly on the manufacture of vegetable ivory buttons, which are made in enormous quantities from the togua nut. This nut grows plentifully in the northern part of South America and in Panama, and provides the greater part of the buttons used in men's clothing. If all the buttons made in a year in the United States were distributed equally among the population each man, woman and child would receive 182, with a few thousand left over for good measure.

THE BOYHOOD OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT-Luke 2:4-52. GOLDEN TEXT—'And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man."—Luke 2:52.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Boy Jesus in God's House.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Boy Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Four-Fold Life.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC

—Lessons From the Boyhood of Jesus.

I. Jesus Growing (v. 40).

While Jesus Christ was God, yet His deity did not interfere with His development as a human being. The processes of His physical, mental and spiritual growth were the same as in any normal human being.

1. "Grew and Waxed Strong." It was necessary for His body to develop. His brain, nerves and muscles must not only attain unto their proper size but must come to act together, become correlated.

2. "Filled With Wisdom." His training was largely in the hands of His mother. She was a Bible woman, as evinced by her song of praise when it was announced to her that God's favor was to come upon her. She was, therefore, a suitable teacher. She, no doubt, taught Him to commit Bible verses to memory and taught Him the great stories of the Old Testament from the creation through the patriarchs and prophets.

3. "And the Grace of God Was Upon Him." By the grace of God doubtless is meant God's loving favor and tender

II. Jesus Tarrying Behind at Jerusalem (vv. 41-43).

At the age of twelve years the Jewish child took His place as a worshiper in the temple. He was then considered "a child of the law." Being conscious of His mission, when His mother and Joseph were returning from attendance at the Passover, Jesus tarried behind in the temple and inquired into the meaning of the ordinances of God's house. He had an alert, eager mind which inquired after truth, especially the truth concerning His Father's house. His heart yearned for His Father.

III. Jesus Found in the Temple (vv.

When His mother and Joseph had gone some distance on their return journey they perceived that Jesus was not with them and sought for Him among their kinsfolk and acquaintances. Not finding Him there, they returned to Jerusalem, where they found Him in the temple.

1. He Was Sitting (v. 46). This shows that He was no passing visitor or sightseer. He was perfectly at home in His Father's house.

2. He Was Hearing the Teachers of God's Word (v. 46). This shows that He was eager to learn God's will.

3. He Asked Questions (v. 46). His growing mind was inquisitive. It more than received what was taught. It inquired after truth.

4. He Answered Questions (v. 47). His answers showed great wisdom, such as to astonish those who heard Him, yet we should not surmise that He was consciously displaying His wisdom. It was not an exhibition of His divine wisdom, but the expression of the workings of a perfect human mind suffused by the Holy Spirit.

IV. Mary's Complaining (vv. 48-50). She remonstrated with Him for His behavior. To this He replied in a dignified, yet tender manner. He made no apology, showing that He was more than the son of Mary. God was His Father. Though Mary did not understand these things, as a wise mother she kept them in her heart.

V. Jesus' Obedience (v. 51). Though He was fully conscious of His divine being and mission he lived a life full of filial obedience, thus teaching us that obedience to parents is pleasing to God and a duty which will be discharged faithfully by those who have the Spirit of Christ. VI. Jesus' Development (v. 52). 1. Mental. He increased in wisdom. Although the divine nature was united with the human, the human was left free to develop as a normal human mind. 2. Physical. He increased in stature. This shows that His body developed according to the laws of a normal hu-

3. Spiritual. He increased in favor with God and man. As His mind increased, and His apprehension of God became more full, the Divine Being could more fully express Himself through Him and, as the perfect life was lived, men could recognize in Him superior qualities and therefore their hearts would open to Him.

> July 13 Abolish War: Why? How? Isaiah 2:1-4

Our Bible lesson gives the hope and promise of a warless world. This promise is associated with a time designated as "the last days," or "the latter days." To the Jewish people this phrase meant the days of Messiah, the time of Israel's future glory. This glory will be preceded by a series of purifying judgments through which the nation will be prepared to receive its rightful king, the Prince of Peace. Then the promise of a war-less world such as our text contains, will be realized. Isaiah 11 and 12 present the clearest word picture of the renewed earth.

This hope permeates the Old Testament. It is carried forward into the New Testament without modificaunto him the throne of his father David; and he shall reign over the house of Jacob forever; and. of his kingdom there shall be no end" (Luke or so. In comes the fish again. Mean-kingdom there shall be no end" (Luke or so. In comes the fish again. Mean-kingdom there shall be no end" (Luke or so. In comes the fish again. Mean-kingdom there shall be no end" (Luke or so. In comes the fish again. 1:32, 33). Our Lord never opposed or discouraged this expectation in which His own disciples shared. He did, however, correct their thought concerning the time of its realization.
When Peter asked the question concerning their reward for having left all and followed Him, the Master replied, "In the regeneration when the Son of Man shall sit on the throne of his glory," then the reward should come (see Matthew 19:28). That lit-tle phrase, "the regeneration," supplies the key to the situation. The advocates of pacifism are seeking for a reconstruction without regeneration This cannot be, for no one can bring clean thing out of an unclean thing. Every social and political scheme sooner or later strikes this rock and goes to pieces. Regeneration is basic to any reconstructive process if that process is to produce a permanent result. The kingdom of God is a permanent state. John 3:3 still reads, "Unless a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God." All the great reconstructive movements of our own time which have ignored this basic requirement of the new birth have gone to pieces and are merely a memory—some of them, such as the Interchurch World Movement, a very painful memory—yet the professing church goes on forgetful of our Lord's own words, "Every plant my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be

Made Sick of Liquor

One of the most original ways of curing the habitual drunkard is that practiced in the "inebriates' homes" of Norway. And, according to report, it is one of the most effectual.

When brought to the "home" the "case" is allowed nothing but wine to drink. Not only this, but all food sup- lionaire made inquiries at a fashionplied to inmates is flavored with, or dipped in, wine.

For a day or two there are "no complaints." But gradually the wine and wine-flavored food begin to pall, until presently even the most thorough-going drunkard begins to wonder what virtues the grape can possibly possess. So quickly does the treatment work, indeed, it is claimed even the worst cases can be cured.

Origin of "Sterling"

Of unusual interest is the derivation of the word "sterling" as applied to something that is "genuine, pure, unadulterated, or of excellent quality." The Easterlings were the north Germans, or the merchants of the Hanseatic league, the original "moneyers" of England. The name of these merchants came to be applied to coin or goods of a fixed, standard value, answering all tests.

In the time of Edward I, we find an English coin issued of the designation of a dinar or dinarius, called "sterling," has been applied to the English pound, which before the war was regarded as the best value in the world. -Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

Greenland

Greenland was named by the Norwegian explorer, Eric the Red. Upon his return from Greenland in 985 he gave the new country that name in order to make people more willing to go there. The climate is very cold, the mean annual isotherm of freezing temperature crossing the island at its southern end. This fact does not prevent the prevalence of warmth suitable for vegetation during the long summer day in the interior of the fiords and in sheltered places quite to the northern end of the island. Thus the summer temperature in favored localities often reaches an important

Odd Argentine Vehicle

The carretta, a huge, awkward, twowheeled cart used in the Argentine to carry hides and wool to market, has broad wheels, sometimes ten feet in diameter. They are often drawn by 18 or 20 horses or oxen, but instead of being hitched two and two these animals are hitched shoulder to shoulder, 18 to 20 abreast, with a heavy leather rope from each animal attached to the axle of the vehicle .-Detroit News.

WHERE HOOKED FISH IS PREY OF OTHERS

Anglers in Gulf Stream Often Find Catch Is Robbed

Visitors in Florida send numerous big fish stories back to the homefolk, and in many cases the homefolk are inclined to sniff. No sniffing is called for. Inland residents can hardly realize the abundance of fish in the warm waters of the ocean.

Along all the ocean front of the southern resort cities motor boats 20 or 25 feet long can be hired with the skipper and tackle and bait for about $25 a day to go out toward the Gulf Stream three or four miles to fish. The skippers know where the fish are to be found. The visitor merely specifies the fish he wishes to catch. In an hour the boat can be at the fishing grounds.

A strip of fish is put on the hook and the motor boat moves along slowly. The angler may have 75 or 100 feet of line out, and he wonders how he can tell when he gets a bite, with the boat rising and falling on the waves. Sea fish are game fish. When one strikes, the angler gets the idea tion or change. When the angel announced the birth of Christ, he said, "He shall be called the Son of the He has hooked a kingfish, a variety Highest; and the Lord God shall give of the mackerel. The line is reeled while the boat owner, who usually keeps all but one of the fish and sells them, maneuvers the boat to aid the angler. In perhaps five or six minutes pen when he is brought closer to the boat. Then the line goes slack and is pulled in easily. Some larger fish has rushed up to the hooked kingfish and taken a bite at him, leaving little more than the head and shoulders on the line. This is quite common. One man who was out three hours on a rough day off Miami says that he hooked eight kingfish, but two of them were bitten in two and another one was seized by a barracuda, a porpoise or some other bigger fish, and carried out to sea 200 feet. The bigger fish, grouper, sailfish and amberjack and sharks, are caught farther away from the shore. But any southern water fish tale is likely to resist the efforts of the most proficient liar in amplifying it.-Indianapolis News.

Mr. Ives accompanied his wife on a shopping expedition and had seated himself at one end of the coat department while Mrs. Ives was looking over the garments. Suddenly he became aware of the fact that his wife was not to be seen. Walking up to the floorwalker he said:

LAST PAGE EDITORIAL. Honest Advertising.

The business of advertising, or advertising as an investment, is seriously injured by dishonest advertising, of which there is a great deal, and no way to guard against it; for the reason that some men will misrepersent by word and act, as well as in type behind a counter, as well as through a newspaper. No matter how well intentioned a publisher may be, it is quite impossible for him to verify the honesty of advertisements offered. He may, at times, know that an article is effered "below cost" as an inducement, which in itself is hardly a dishonest proposition, though it may be held to be unfair as a business practice. Neither can he differentiate between descriptions that are honest, and those dis-offered.

A "Fire sale" may be genuine, or it may be "faked". A "closing out" sale may be real, or it may be a bald misstatement. Suits "worth $30.00" sold at $16.98, are connected closely with suspicion but the publisher can not decline to publish the statement, on suspicion alone. Advertising is meant to be a real business help. It ought to be limited to honest statements of fact. It ought to be as dependable as help back of the counter, or as the salesman on the road. All business men ought to be honest—as well as all customers—and all good things, always and everywhere, ought to be safe from prostitution—but, they are not.

The people who get "stung" are the ones, in reality, who have the best op-portunity, and the most power, to drive the dishonest advertiser into ways of repentance.

When an advertisement is openly dishonest, the advertiser should be told so, and left know that crookedness in business don't pay. And the authorities of the state, we think, should prosecute dishonest advertisers on evidence as they prosecute ers, on evidence, as they prosecute anybody else who perpetrates fraud or robs the unsuspecting public.

A Disastrous Tornado.

(For the Record.)
I have often heard of storms, tornadoes, cyclones, floods, etc, that have visited our country from time to visited our country from time to time, but had never seen anything so destructive as the tornado that passed over McDonough Co., in Ill., on the evening of June 24, between Bushnell and Macomb. The first we saw of the wreckage was limbs broken off and telephone poles leaning. Then we saw a small building overturned. Then we came to a set of farm building that were completely wrecked.

ing that were completely wrecked.

The family were all in the kitchen when the storm came. After the storm, the father was in the back yard on the South of the house, and the mother and children were in front of the house on the north side, wrapped in a large rug that was on the floor in the front room, and none of them seriously hurt.

There were large pine trees in the front yard, that were all broken and twisted off ten or twelve feet from the ground, while rocking chairs on the ground were not blown over.

The tree were large pline trees in the front that were all broken and twisted off ten or twelve feet from the ground were not blown over.

West of the house was a fine orchard that was completely destroyed. Next was a church and school house that were both destroyed. Next was a set of large farm buildings. The house was blown off the foundation against two large locust trees. It was leaning and twisted, the roof partly off and all the other buildings leveled. At this place was a large corn house containing about 3000 bu, earn corn. The building was wreck, and the corn exposed to the weather.

Next was the Thompson place, a beautiful set of farm buildings. Everything destroyed. The barn and contents were blown where the house stood. A large quantity of wheat and oats was in the cellar, and a bath tub in the yard was partly filled with oats. Mr. Thompson landed about 200 feet from the house unconscious and his wife and four small children were under the rubbish just outside the house.

The fields, grain and grass, were covered with boards, splinters, clothing, bedding and provisions. There were 28 people in the houses destroy ed and none seriously injured. The extent of the storm was 4 miles in length, and about 2 miles wide.

I copy the following from the Ipava Tribune, written by a Mr. Diehl, who emigrated to Illinois, with his father's family, from Maryland in 1865;

"From the wreekage had been carried" "From the wreckage had been carried away valuables by roughnecks, who have no fear of God or respect for humanity. Is it possible that such demons exist and are allowed in any enlightened civilization. Right here is where the worst kind of a hell is needed to incarcerate these friends who would rob an honest farmer when his house, furniture, bedding, clothes, provisions and keepsakes are broken up, torn to shreds and scattered all over outdoors.' Radio Facts.

Few persons need to be told how rapidly radio is interpenetrating every part of our daily life. A writ-er has contributed to June Century a most comprehensive article.

and receiving by radio.

According to engineers of the Ratheir periodical subscriptions in the dio Corporation, 300 manufacturers are turning out sets or parts of sets, Most persons who say they "spend too much" for papers are mistaken in their conclusion. They might easily oceanic stations, which communicate their conclusion. They might easily make more, by spending more—considered from the dollars and cents are instaken in occanic stations, which communicate not only with Europe and Latin America but with 2700 radio-equipped ships.

How Trouble Started.

At the early age of five, Mary Jane had been learning her catechism. One of the questions put to her was, "Did Adam and Eve remain faithful to God?"

Now, Mary is nothing if not original. Still the Pastor himself was amazed at the child and turned asside for a quiet laugh, when she replied without blinking an eye;

"No, Adam and Eve did not make faces at God, but broke one of His Commandments by eating fermented fruit"—Kansas City Star.
