

COUNTY HOSPITAL APPEAL IS MADE.

Westminster Times Renews the Needs of Carroll County.

The Westminster Times, last week, in commenting on the Shepherd & Myers gift of a Hospital to Hanover, again presented the needs of Carroll County to its readers for a like institution, the substance of which we reproduce, as follows:

"Two men have stated they would contribute $5000 each and at least one of two others have signified their willingness to make substantial subscriptions.

Is it not possible that ten or twenty persons in rich Carroll County with $20,000,000 bank deposits will contribute $50,000? If there is, a hospital will be assured for there are hundreds and thousands of people in the county intensely interested in the establishment of a hospital, and while not in a position to make large contributions, will subscribe amounts ranging from $1 to $1000 and these added to the larger ones would provide a sufficient sum for a modern hospital and equipment.

The furnishing of the rooms can be provided for by individuals, a number of whom have signified their willingness to furnish a room. There is not a fraternal organization in Westminster or perhaps in the county that would not deem it a privilege to provide as their contributions the necessary furniture for at least one room in a Carroll county hospital. It is probable that many churches would furnish rooms.

The splendid women of the county would gladly provide the bed linens and many other needed articles.

There is an ideal property available and if sufficient money can be secured to purchase the property, build the needed additions and provide the equipment necessary we can have a hospital that will minister to the people of our county at present and as the needs increase and the people see and know the value of a home hospital the people of the county will do as the people of every other county that has started a hospital in a small and modest way, have done, enlarged and improved their hospital. Men and women of the county who have ample means let us appeal to you once more to make the best investment you have ever made. Not in dollar and cent dividends but in dividends of gratitude from the sick and afflicted who will be treated and cared for and perhaps saved from death, because your generosity helped to make possible a hospital in Carroll County."

Dr. Cook, on Carroll's Schools.

Dr. Albert S. Cook, State Superintendent of schools, who visited portions of this county, last week, delivered an address before the Westminster Rotary Club, on Wednesday evening, during which he commented on Carroll County schools, as follows:

He said there has been in Maryland and everywhere, criticism of schools because of failure to attach sufficient importance to the three "R's," and perhaps justly, as a survey of the schools in Maryland four years ago showed the average of the pupils in arithmetic and reading was far below the standard in these studies. Steps were taken to correct this condition and each survey made since has shown marked improvement and the last one made in October the average of the pupils was above the minimum standard in arithmetic and near the standard in reading.

He said in this last survey the schools of Carroll county made a good showing and spoke in complimentary terms of the progress and efficiency of the schools of our county under the able direction of Mr. Unger and his well qualified supervisors.

Mr. Cook said Carroll county's great school need is new and modern buildings, large enough to take care of the constantly increasing number of pupils in Westminster and a number of other towns in the county.

He spoke of the way our neighboring counties, Baltimore, Howard and Frederick are meeting the demands with the proceeds from bond issues and expressed the hope that our county would soon meet the urgent need, either by a direct tax or by a bond issue, and added that he hoped to live long enough to congratulate the county on this happy culmination of the school building problem in Carroll.

Taneytown Red Cross.

The annual meeting of the Taneytown branch American Red Cross, was held Saturday evening, November 22, at the Firemen's Building. During the past year in two cases of civilian relief, aid was given. Miss Amelia Annan who had charge of the membership drive for 1925 reported that 86 members had been obtained.

The former officers and board of managers were re-elected, and are as follows: Rev. G. W. Shipley, chairman; Miss Anna Galt, Vice-Chairman; Mrs. W. A. Bower, Treasurer; Miss Eleanor Birnie, Secretary; Board of Managers: Miss Lou Reinhold, Mrs. Lavinia Fringer, Miss Amelia Annan, Rev. G. P. Bready, Rev. H. A. Quinn, Dr. F. T. Elliot, Messrs G. A. Arnold, M. A. Koons and G. W. Wilt, Eleanor Birnie, Secretary.

Italy plans to build the largest skyscraper in the world, the Mole Littoria which will rise eighty-eight stories above Rome, 408 feet higher than the Woolworth Building.

THE SHORTAGE IN VOTES.

Did the "Drys" Repudiate the "Wet" Candidates?

A circular letter issued by the Maryland Anti-Saloon League, calls attention to the fact that a large number of persons in Carroll and Harford Counties—one out of seven—declined to vote for "wet" candidates for Congress.

Whether this deduction is correctly made may be a matter of doubt. Some will claim, with a reasonable degree of plausibility, that it was not so much the "wetness" of candidates for Congress that caused persons to refrain from voting for them, as it was the arrangement of the ballot that still remains a puzzle to many voters, and that they considered it effort enough to make their X marks only for President.

However, the fact stands out, that in this county the Presidential candidates received a total of 10,261 votes, and the candidates for Congress a total of only 8595, or a shortage of 1666 votes; and some of these, it is quite reasonable to infer, represented "dry" Republicans and Democrats.

Since the election, there has been much comment over the fact that less than half of the total vote in this county, was cast. There are various ways of accounting for a large percentage of this "short" vote. In the first place, it was not the "registered" vote alone that was short, but also those "entitled" to vote are counted, in the figuring, which makes a big difference in the calculation. For instance, the Negro votes in the South, who are practically disfranchised, by law and otherwise.

But, allowing for such votes, for sickness and absences from home, etc., there are still millions of unaccounted for votes, and a very large percentage of these, we believe, are kept from voting because of the intricacies of the ballots in force in most states. If we want a full vote—a real expression of majority sentiment in our elections—we must make the act of voting easy.

About the Christmas Greens.

With the Christmas season near at hand, the householder and store keeper are beginning to think of decorations for the holidays. It is, of course, the easiest thing in the world to go out and collect greens. In doing so, do people realize that they are going into some one's woods, or fields, and helping themselves to something that does not belong to them? The owner of the property may want the trees or shrubs for the beauty they afford, or he may wish to use them himself. At any rate, they are property and have a real value.

According to the Maryland Laws, Chapter 179, Acts of 1918, it is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of $25 or 90 days imprisonment, or both, for anyone to remove, injure, or destroy any tree or shrub from the lands of another, without the written consent or personal direction of the owner.

All persons with power to arrest have been notified to be on the lookout for violators.

Posters calling attention to this law will be furnished gratis to anyone desiring them. Write to the State Department of Forestry, 1411 Fidelity Building, Baltimore, Md., and state the number desired.

PROCEEDINGS OF CIRCUIT COURT

Grand Jury Report, and Cases Heard and Disposed of.

The Grand Jury was in session five days, examined 106 witnesses found fifty-five indictments, and rendered their report, as follows:

"There was called to your Grand Jurors' attention the case of Harry R. Zepp, a Notary Public, who, it appears, made certain improper certifications under his official seal. It appearing to the Grand Jurors that Mr. Zepp having been innocently persuaded to make the certifications upon the false assurance of another that they were correct, we have refrained from returning any presentments against him, but we desire to warn all officers authorized to take affidavits or acknowledgments, to have the affiant personally present before they certify that fact.

Your Grand Jurors have had brought to their attention several charges of forgery growing out of the operations of certain members of the Woodbine Canning Company. After considering the evidence brought before us, together with the fact that the accounts of this firm are now being adjusted under the direction of the Equity Court, we have refrained, at this session, from taking any action in this case.

We inspected the Jail and the County Home, and were given every assistance possible in our inspection by the Sheriff and the steward.

We wish to make the following recommendations:

That certain windows of the Jail have the glass replaced therein; that the bathroom and shower both be repaired, as they are leaky, thereby ruining the floor; that the women's cells be white washed or painted; that the spouting on the roof be repaired, also the roof about the former windows.

The back door at the main building of the County Home is in bad condition and should be repaired, and several other doors should be repaired. There should be a light provided at the head of the main stairway on the third floor.

Your Grand Jurors wish to express their approval of the action of the County Commissioners in providing investigators by which it has been possible to secure evidence of violations of the prohibition laws.

Now having finished all matters brought to our attention, we beg leave respectfully to be discharged subject to the further order of your Honorable Court."

Respectfully Submitted,
J. WESLEY LITTLE, Foreman.

A CURIOUS ADVERTISEMENT.

Printed in a Baltimore Paper in the Year 1775.

The following is a mercantile advertisement by Alexander Donaldson, Baltimore, that appeared on the old scrap of newspaper referred to in a recent issue of The Record, the date, May 5, 1775 appearing at its head, the whole advertisement being in solid small type, as follows:

"Three fourths and yard wide Irish Linens, cotton and linen checks and stripes of all kinds; white and brown Russia and Irish sheetings; duck, drillings and dowlas; cambricks, lawns, muslins and humburs; gauzes, kentings, and kenting kerchiefs; map, check and cotton romal handkerchiefs; India and English taffaties and Persians of most colors; bandana, romal, Barcelona and lunge silk kerchiefs; peelongs, plain, spotted and figure, modes of different colours, an elegant variety of dark and light chintzes and calicoes, furniture ditto, superfine middling and coarse broad-cloths, forrest ditto, sigathies, Wiltons and duroys, shallons and ratiens, camblets, hair bines, callmancoes, durants, tammies and dorsettes, crapes and stuffs of all kinds, umbrellas and necklaces, marseilles quilting, drawboy and dimity mignonet, thread blond and black silk lace and edging, India naukuns and worsted breeches patterns, imported jeans and waistcoat patterns, silk Damascus, mozeems and cotton Hollands; taffaty satin, paduasoy, gauze and velvet ribbons; hair and worsted plumes; beaver castor and felt hats, men and boys straw hats lined and unlined, womens chip and Leghorn ditto; men and women gloves and mitts of all kinds; silk, thread worsted and cotton hose; womens callimancoe and lasting shoes; serge denim, lastings and bombazeens India jeans, thicksets and fustians; stay ticks and braids, whalebone, knitting pins and garters; London and Bristol pewter dishes and plates; books, stationery and quills, ink powder, sealing waxes and wafers; ozonaburgs, brown role and Hessian frying pans, sad and box irons, guns and gun flints, nails, indigo, coffee, and chocolate; Westons Scotch and Philadelphia snuff; cut and role tobacco; Florence oil and mustard, wine, rum, spirits, geneva and brandy; muscovado lump and loaf sugar; garden spades and a variety of iron-mongery, together with many items too tedious to mention, which he assures the public he will sell at the smaller profits than usual, for eighteen months, agreeable to the resolve of the Continental Congress."

Even the most up-to-date storekeeper of today, will find it difficult to figure out what some of the articles were. Mr. Donaldson certainly dealt in "General Merchandise" on a pretty large scale. We have omitted the old style "f" used in the place of "s" in order to make the sense clearer to our readers, but otherwise the spelling is reproduced according to the advertisement.

The paper from which the scrap was a part, was "printed in Baltimore by John Dunlap at his printing office in Market Street, where subscriptions at ten shillings per annum are received," but the scrap does not indicate the name of the paper. The date "1775" appears frequently, in various items.

A number of other very curious advertisements; lost and found notices, rewards offered, etc., also appear.

Eels are Not Fish.

According to Justice Bowers, of Frederick, eels are not "fish." In a case before him, last week, in which Joseph Routzahn, of Knoxville, was charged with having violated the fish and game laws of Maryland, for having on the 26th. day of September, "taken, caught, killed and fished for eels in the waters of Maryland, with a fish basket or fish pot."

The defendant admitted that he had caught eels, but plead "not guilty," as there was no charge against him for catching any other kind of fish. The Justice decided that the law was not clear as to whether taking eels alone was a violation of the law, and gave the defendant the benefit of the doubt.

The Big Ballot of 1926.

In 1926, perhaps the longest ballot ever presented in Carroll County, will be voted on, and it is likely to tax the ability—not exactly intelligence—of a good many people to vote it. We never have been able to understand, why, if a voter chooses to vote a "straight" ticket, he or she should not be given a chance to do it by making just one X mark? The Pennsylvania ballot is so arranged, and we do not know of a single good reason why Maryland legislators should be credited with "knowing better" how to arrange a ballot than like legislators across the line.

There will be a complete set of county officers elected in 1926 in addition to every important state office. The state officers will include a Governor, United States Senator, Comptroller, Attorney General, Clerk of the Court of Appeals and six Congressmen.

The county officers will include a state Senator, State's Attorney, Clerk of the Court, Register of Wills, Sheriff, County Treasurer, three County Commissioners, three Judges of the Orphans' Court, four members of the Legislature and a County Surveyor.

A five-ton truck, equipped with solid rubber tires, traveling at a rate of fifteen miles an hour, delivers a blow to the road equal to four times its own weight when it hits a depression of only a quarter of an inch in depth.

COUNTY AGENT'S TALK TO FARMERS.

Special Interest to Dairymen and Feeders of Hogs.

The October report of all cow testing associations in the state is very interesting. Harford County had 41 cows that produced over 40 lbs. fat in the month. They are planning two new Associations.

The two highest cows were owned by Walter Magruder, Upper Montgomery Association, Dula, a grade Holstein produced 1835 lbs. milk testing 4.5, giving 82.6 lbs. fat. Molly of the same breeding gave 1733 lbs. milk testing 4.3 producing 74.5 lbs. fat.

"There is a considerable surplus of butter, cheese and condensed milk in cold storage over and above this time last year. We should naturally expect that prices for dairy products will not advance much. This with the higher cost of feed should be a big inducement for the dairymen to cull out the boarder cow and keep only his best ones. This will help to reduce the surplus and mean lower production costs."

This is the ending statement of Dr. T. B. Symons report on cow testing work for October.

When will the Dairymen of Carroll realize the fact that at least 1/3 of the 28,000 cows in the county are being kept at a loss, and milked for nothing. We can now get testers for this work. What we need is 26 herds for a month's work, at a cost of about $50 per herd per year.

It seems as if Hog Cholera was bound to make a new record in Carroll, this year. Five cases per year have been our record since the carload of hogs from Virginia that set things on fire around Pleasant Valley, four years ago. The sixth outbreak this year occurred on the farm on Horace Leppo, Bachman Mills, and the seventh on the farm of Emmery McCullough, Maple Grove. The apparent source of infection in all these seven cases was from feeding table scraps to the hogs.

We have had ideal weather conditions for Hog Cholera development, the last few weeks, and every feeder of swine is urged not to feed table scraps; and keep the pens and lots as clean as possible. A pig pen does not necessarily have to be a "Hog" pen. Clean feed sanitation will keep hog cholera away.

During the month of October, Dr. Henderson tested 640 head of dairy cattle, 102 of which reacted. This makes one out of every six tested, a reaction or 16%. This figure is under what the authorities estimated at the beginning. There are some 2000 head tested out of the 28,000 head in the county.

The Baltimore situation is coming to a head, and it will not be long until we will know the date after which no milk will be allowed to enter the city except from T. B. tested herds.

Berrett District is about clean, also part of Freedom and sections around Union Bridge, New Windsor, Taneytown and Westminster.

State Grange Meeting.

The Maryland State Grange will meet Thursday and Friday, December 11 and 12, the date having been changed from the 9th. to 10th. The delegates headquarters will be at the new Wicomico Hotel, Salisbury.

A very interesting program has been arranged for the full two days, hence the delegates should arrive on the 10th. Among the speakers will be Dr. F. B. Bomberger, Mrs. Clara Williams, Mrs. H. J. Patterson, G. R. Cobb, of Maryland; David H. Agnus, master of New Jersey State Grange; A. W. Woodcock, U. S. District Attorney; Swepson Earle, State Conservation Commissioner; Prof. W. T. L. Taliaferro, of the University of Maryland, and others.

Friday evening the program will be devoted to secret Grange work, and will include a drill by the Talbot County Grange, and ceremonies of the sixth degree.

Mrs. Warren G. Harding Dead.

Mrs. Florence K. Harding, wife of the late President Harding, died at her home in Marion, Ohio, last Friday morning, after a critical illness of several weeks, due to a kidney ailment. Mrs. Harding had been a sufferer from ill-health, for years, against which she struggled courageously, always with the utmost patience.

While mistress of the White House she had a very serious attack that nearly resulted in her death, and the death of President Harding was a most severe drain on her already weakened vitality, but her most courageous spirit helped her to survive her experience and great sorrow.

She was well known for her goodness and sympathy, and for her practical interest in many forms of relief for suffering, and especially for children and war veterans.

President Opposes Inaugural Ball.

President Coolidge has stated, emphatically that he is opposed to an inaugural ball, for charity or any other purpose, and that he and Mrs. Coolidge would not attend such a function. The President is not opposed to a modest inaugural parade, if the local interests want one, and Congress makes the appropriation, but rather prefers a purely formal affair, without unnecessary expense or display.

FOR STANDARD ROAD RULES.

The Department of Commerce May Control Road Traffic.

The U. S. Government, Department of Commerce, is considering the adoption of standard laws and rules governing the use of the public highways of the country, and a special committee has presented a list of recommendations to Secretary Hoover.

One of the propositions is to fix 35 miles an hour in rural areas, as the limit, making all higher speed prima facie evidence of reckless driving, and requiring no further proof.

Other provisions relate to age of drivers and physical fitness, and to those who can not read English. Other recommendations are:

"That overtaking moving vehicles on sharp curves, approaching hill crests, at intersections or at railroad crossings should be prohibited.

"That parking should not be permitted where it will endanger or seriously impede moving traffic or prevent reasonable access to the sidewalk for loading or unloading of vehicles. This will prohibit the parking or stopping of cars on any part of the traveled portion of a rural highway.

"That a single cautionary signal made by extending the arm well outside the vehicle is recommended as preferable to a more complex code.

"That vehicles should not be permitted to exceed a speed of 15 miles per hour when approaching within 100 feet of a railroad crossing.

"That in cities pedestrians should be required to keep within the boundaries of designated safety zones and crossing places and that motorists should be required to accord pedestrians safe and dignified use of such safety zones and crossing places."

In general, it is hoped that "rules of the road" may be so standardized that strangers in certain localities, and lack of information as to special laws, may not continue to be cause for mishap on the road.

A Contested Seat in Congress.

On the returns from the election from the 20th. Congressional District in Pennsylvania, Walters, Republican, was elected by a plurality of 53 votes. Later, the officials of Cambria county opened twelve ballot boxes and made a recount, which gave Bailey, Democratic candidate on the recount, a plurality of 14 votes.

Under the constitution, Judge Baldridge has decided that the county officials exceeded their authority, as Congress is the only body that can go behind the face of the returns, in an election for member of the National House. Therefore, Walters must be certified as having been elected, and Bailey must take his contest to Congress.

Senator Wheeler Still a Democrat.

Senator Benton K. Wheeler, of Montana, who jumped on the La Follette band wagon as vice-presidential candidate, says he is "still a Democrat," that he believes this is a "two-party" government, and hopes to see the Democratic party the liberal party. He will not take part, at present, in the formation of a permanent new party.

Gov. Ritchie a Senatorial Possibility.

Friends of Gov. Ritchie state pretty authoritatively that the Governor will not be a candidate in 1926 to succeed himself, but that he is receptive to a term in the U. S. Senate. This will apparently clear up the field for the Governorship and permit aspirants to lay their wires accordingly.

Vote for Senator in Iowa.

The official vote in Iowa for Senator, was Brookhart 447,706, and Steek (Dem.) 446,951. Brookhart has been certified as elected, by State officials, but this does not prevent a contest in the Senate, said to be likely to be made by Steek, due to many "rejected" ballots marked for him.

The United States Senate.

Fifty-three Senators are now serving their first term and eighteen of these entered the Senate on March 4, 1923. With the death of Senator Lodge, Senator Warren, of Wyoming becomes the oldest member in point of continuous service as he took his present seat on the 4th. of March, 1895. Senator Warren outranked Senator Lodge in respect to length of actual service as he came to that body first in 1890, retired in 1893 and returned in 1895. Senator Warren is in his 81st year. Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, is next in order of seniority, coming to the Senate in March, 1901. Senator Overman, Senator Simmons' colleague from North Carolina, came in 1903 at the same time as Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah.

Fall Meeting Carroll County Society.

The usual Fall meeting of the Carroll County Society of Baltimore City, will be held on Wednesday evening, December 3, 1924, in room 4, Odd Fellows Temple, Saratoga and Cathedral Sts., at 8 P. M., Baltimore.

The Board of Governors promise a treat to the members, in their musical program.

The important feature of the meeting will be the talk by Paul Winchster, on the "Public Men of Maryland." All Carroll Countians are invited no matter where they live.

President Coolidge asks the railroads to cut their "rates," but not their "wages." Very good—perhaps they can afford to do it—but as a rule, the size of the income must determine the size of the outgo, or go "broke."

Now, "they say" both William Jennings and Fighting Bob are writing their "biographies," and that it is a sign of approaching the "has been" stage. Well, Fitzsimmons, Sullivan and other big fellows had the same experience.

This is the time of year when football elevens show their ability to out-kick, out rough-and-tumble, and generally out-hammer each other, and call it "play"—the acme of manly sport. Well, they do about the same stunts in the prize ring, and then it is called "fighting," and not nearly so respectable.

Arrests of boot-leg gangs, raids of booze selling places, and the smashing up of stills, may be a slow process in the enforcement of dry laws, but if persevered in, along with other less drastic enforcement measures, the time will come more convincingly when fighting the Constitution will not either be a safe, or honorable profession, and less will take the risk, each year.

It is said that "the cash value of a college education to its possessor is $72,000, according to a report based on a long study of the earning capacity of college graduates. The cash value of a high school education is placed by the report at $33,000." This may be true, but if it is, there is a wonderfully large number of young men and women who never earn anything like the value of their equipment.

The South, Four Years Hence.

Every now and then there are indications that the "solid south" may split up, politically. Ever since the Civil War, it has been a bound and delivered sure-thing for Democratic Presidential candidates, and not once has it had a candidate of its own that was backed by northern Democrats. As a section, it has always heretofore been considered so "solid" as not to cause any concern, and as a result it has also been left out of consideration for any other sort of party prominence, or honor.

The New York convention and the election that followed, has caused some speaking out in the South, and some votes in certain sections, that seem to indicate that it is becoming weary of being treated as an owned commodity, and that it is likely to have some more emphatic views to express on the future political history of the country.

When such border states as Maryland, West Virginia, Arizona, Kentucky and Missouri vote for the Republican nominees, and New Mexico and Tennessee are in the "doubtful" list, it is not hard to imagine conditions that exist in some of the farther south states, without which the Democratic candidates this year would have had only the votes of Oklahoma, Tennessee and Arkansas, also border states, with a total of only 25 electors out of 531.

The present South is not the "old south." Many of the old war-time issues either do not exist, or have been largely forgotten. The negro question is not now an issue, so far as the fear of negro domination in state affairs is concerned. The new South, industrially and in most other ways, is the equal of any other section of our country.

It has both men and interests, the equal of those of north or west, and its place on the map is growing increasingly more important each year. It has an earned right to demand and expect a more prominent place in the honors and councils of Democracy than it has heretofore been accorded; and especially since the leadership of northern men has not demonstrated its wise superiority. Unless we mistake, the South, four years hence, will have more to say, about National convention time.

The Promised, but Unpaid Pensions.

To the best of our knowledge, neither the state nor school authorities are concerning themselves greatly over the fact that additions to the Teachers' Pension roll are unprovided for, and must apparently wait two years—at least—before the state's promise to pay is fulfilled. "No funds" is the answer given, and nobody seems disposed to try to find any way to help deserving and dependent teachers, who can now neither teach, nor have the benefit of their promised $400.00 a year.

Many of the pensioned teachers can wait, because they have other means of support, or perhaps children who can help them; but, there is a percentage of these marooned old faithful teachers who are not so happily situated, and must now—because of the fault of somebody in authority—be dependents on public charity, due solely to the state's fault.

"Putting off" these dependents, does not satisfy. Common integrity demands that not a single one of the waiting dependents be allowed to come to actual want. They should not be permitted to reach the point of having to ask charity. Perhaps "the state can not be sued" but no state government should bank on that legal technicality, even if it can. When it does, the state places itself in an indefensible position, on all moral grounds. The State of Maryland can not afford to do this.

Carrying Out Contracts.

There is a common saying that "it is easy to get into debt, but hard to get out." That simply means that contracts and promises, fall due; and if it is hard to meet them, it is likely because they were too easily entered into. For the past few years the purchase of automobiles has added to the "hardness"—not only in meeting obligations for other purchases, but for the automobiles as well.

The "paying up" end of contracts should be honestly considered, and no debt assumed about which there is reasonable doubt of being able to meet it. Wanting a thing, and being able to own it, are too very different propositions, and if we let our wants get ahead of our common sense and natural expectations, we are not wholly honest.

Mounting interest on a contract, somehow, is resentfully regarded—something after the manner with which we regard paying taxes or rent. But, this is a wholly wrong attitude, as we have no proper right to resent the paying of anything that we contract to pay of our own free will; and no real man will, at the payment of a debt, ask that something be "taken off," as though it was not honestly earned.

When we go, we must pay and if we don't want to do that we oughtn't go. Most of us would be a lot better off, in more ways than one, if we exercised more self-denial, and lived and acted more within our ability, and had higher regard for the standing of our name and credit; for the chances are, if we are honest and industrious, and economical as well, things will come our way in due time.

Wets Routed on Nov. 4th.

The cause of nullification received a staggering blow on November 4th.

The organized foes of the constitution announced before the election that they would largely increase their congressional strength. When the votes were counted, it was found that their already pitiful minority had been reduced in both the House and the Senate.

The checking of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church shows as a result of the elections 319 dry votes in the House of Representatives, 111 wet votes and 5 which is impossible to classify with certainty.

In the Senate there will be 73 dry votes, 21 wet votes, 2 vacancies.

Gains were registered by the Drys in the Senatorial elections of Kentucky, Tennessee, Massachusetts and West Virginia. In Illinois and Delaware the Wets suffered sharp defeats where they hoped for victories. In Kentucky, Senator Stanley, who gratuitously and foolishly insisted upon putting himself into prominence as opposed to prohibition and similar measures, was defeated by a man hitherto unknown in national politics, but who announced unqualified support of the dry law. Kentucky, a southern state with a normal Democratic majority of 40,000, refused to approve the effort of Senator Stanley to cater to the anti-constitutional prejudices of big city democracy. Counties of that state which had never voted anything but Democratic went against Stanley.

During the campaign Senator Stanley evidently realized the folly of his previous course and brought dry Democrats of national prominence to his assistance, men whom Kentuckians thoroughly respect, but they could not pull Stanley across. The Senator's political career, which might have progressed surely and quietly to an honorable termination now serves only as a monument to the folly of misrepresenting the patriotic sentiment of a typically American community.

In West Virginia, a thoroughly informed friend of prohibition was elected to the Senate. In Tennessee the commander of a brigade in the World War, one of the famous Thirtieth, first through the Hindenburg Line, a dry and a patriot through and through, was elected.

But it was in Massachusetts that nullification received its most staggering blow. In 1922 the voters of that state, confused by misleading propaganda, failed to approve a state prohibition law to support the Volstead Act, the majority against it being very large. In this election a referendum on a state prohibition law received a majority. In a short period of time, clear-thinking voters had perceived the essential disloyalty, the hypocrisy, and the bad logic of the wine and beer propaganda and they registered their demand that the state of Massachusetts take its position in support of the United States in opposition to the lawless and discredited liquor traffic, its friends and supporters.

In many states of the Union, dry gains were registered in the election of governors or members of the legislatures. As a result of the poll of November 4th, the prohibition cause today stands supported by the strongest legislative and executive force ever gathered under the banner of prohibition and prosperity.—M. E. Church, Clip-sheet.

Still Dreaming.

"Don't have to take no more cod liver oil. Whyfore?" Because, my child, this new kind of butter is just as good for you and it tastes better.

While research shows that there is something in cod-liver oil which is not present in other foods, it also shows that the "something" is present in those other foods, after they have been radiated with sunlight or with ultra violet. A few years ago it was found that the milk from cows that were on fresh young pastures contained a "something" not found in the milk from stabled cows that were fed on stored food. Maybe, instead of giving cod-liver oil, we will eat cod and their livers as we do other ordinary foods, and we will make a food-medicine to take the place of cod-liver oil by radiating some butter; or maybe we will do away with milk-cows altogether.

It is becoming almost impossible to get the cows milked. As compared with other foods, milk cannot be economically or conveniently produced or marketed. We may chuck the use of milk and butter entirely, for, if the new theory be correct, the present known superiority of milk and milk-products plus the "super-something" of cod-liver oil can all be produced in other foods by radiation.

It has been noticed that hay cured in sunlight differs from that cured in the dark. It is even said that hay cut and hauled on cloudy days is without some qualities found in the sun-cured article. The alfalfa-growers of Utah, New Mexico and Arizona claim that their product is superior in quality cause it is cured green. They will welcome scientific evidence that the real superiority is due to the sunlight it had; both while being grown and while being cured. Greenness is not only a good selling-point, but it is also an evidence that the hay was cured under clear skies. Maybe the farmer of the future will have a radiating plant in his barn and treat all his hay and other feed. Maybe he will decide to plow up all his pasture land and put it in other crops, since his radiating plant will give the qualities of sun-cured hay to silage and dry-feeds.—Pittsburg Post.

Senator Lodge.

"I think I may say that I have done a good deal of difficult and responsible public work," said Henry Cabot Lodge in his last campaign, and it is true. Born a man of leisure, he had done a tremendous amount of work in several fields. But how much he accomplished by it, and whether any of it will long survive him, are other questions. Clearly the most impressive work he did was the prevention of the United States Government entering the League of Nations. That this was Senator Lodge's work more than that of any other man, President Wilson recognized.

And whether Senator Lodge's motives in that work were mixed, has been another question. Certainly there was far too much personal feeling in the matter, from whatever angle it may be viewed. Still, taking the long view of the thing itself, history may record that act as Senator Lodge's highest statesmanship. Certainly, at the time, it was in concord with the state of the public mind. Otherwise Senator Lodge's work might not have found a so successful issue. In any event it is easily the biggest political feat the Massachusetts Senator ever achieved.

The later years of his life saw him classed with the political reactionaries. Yet he was not reactionary; he only maintained the status quo. Once his stand might have passed for "progressive," but political progress passed him. He stood still; progress moved on and left him behind. Not that his principles were wrong; he was thoroughly American; but there were other principles of which he did not seem to be aware. There remains behind him no memory of vicious legislation which he fostered, no aspersion on his personal character, no falsity to his trust as he saw it. He belonged to a type of life which has passed from the stage; his points of view were necessarily from that type.—Dearborn Independent.

"Prisons" May Yet Be Maintained in Open

Prison in the open air seems a contradiction in itself, for the very word "prison" calls up the idea of incarceration in locked and walled-up buildings. However, there is such a thing, and it is in Holland that very successful experiments have been made with outdoor prisons.

Sixty persons were drafted to the town of Veenhuizen, to serve their term there. Their task was to convert moorland into cultivated field, and they showed themselves very industrious in the undertaking. They are divided into gangs, each containing a few persons, but are not supervised or watched by any sort of warder or official; these prisoners may live in common and advance their social sense, unsubjected to supervision.

The foreman of each gang is, however, not a prisoner, but a workman who joins voluntarily. It would not be difficult to escape under such conditions, but no one has hitherto attempted to do so. The environment is much more favorable than in an ordinary prison, and the Dutch government is considering setting up several centers of this sort.

What Your Eyes Tell

We are told that the eyes of the intellectual man are gray, and it is a fact that most men of genius have gray eyes. Brown eyes are said to express temperament rather than intellect.

Although brown eyes flash with anger, light up with joy, and change swiftly with jealousy, blue and gray eyes can express greater sadness.

Green and black eyes are supposed to be the most wicked. Becky Sharp's green eyes played an important part in her various conquests.

The "vamp" in modern fiction usually possesses flashing eyes of either green or black. Actually, there are no black eyes; dark brown or dark gray eyes have the appearance of being black in certain lights.

Human Mind Beat Machine

A French lightning calculator, M. Inaudi, was recently pitted against twelve of the latest types of calculating machine. The human machine carried off all but one of the honors.

M. Inaudi easily beat his mechanical competitors in the speed with which he solved problems in addition, subtraction, division and finding the square or the cube, but in the first round—extracting the square root of a number—a machine came out first. In the third round, which consisted of complicated problems, the man won easily.

Men and Instincts

Writers of the last century regarded instinct as almost non-existent in man, whereas reason was denied to animals. Later scientists hold differently, among them having been Prof. William James, who maintained that man has as many instincts as animals. He further maintained that instinct played a leading part in the determination of all human conduct. McDougal, the eminent philosopher, goes still further and says that man's organism would become incapable of activity of any kind if instinctive dispositions with their powerful impulses, were taken away.

Chivalry

It was this which, without confounding ranks, had produced a noble equality, and handed it down through all the gradations of social life. It was this opinion which mitigated kings into companions, and raised private men to the fellows with kings. Without force, or opposition, it subdued the fiercest of pride and power; it obliged sovereigns to submit to the soft collar of social esteem, compelled stern authority to submit to elegance, and gave a dominating vanquisher of laws to be subdued by manners.—Edmund Burke.

POULTRY

DRESSING TURKEYS OF BIG IMPORTANCE

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The need for taking special care in dressing and packing turkeys for market this year, in view of the abundant supplies, is pointed out by the United States Department of Agriculture. The quality of live turkeys coming to the Washington market last season was generally satisfactory, but many shipments of dressed birds showed carelessness in killing, dressing and packing, the department says. Many of the turkeys, although well-fleshed and of good quality otherwise, were poorly bled, resulting in discoloration, poor appearance and low prices.

The department commends producers and shippers who kept off the market thin or poorly developed live turkeys, pointing out that such birds could not have been satisfactorily marketed. The few weeks between the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons will give opportunity for birds of this kind to fatten and fill out, thus making them more in demand and to bring a better price.

Some of the dressed turkeys were carelessly dressed, resulting in broken bones, torn skin and bruised flesh; others indicated a combination of defects and made it difficult to dispose of the birds at a price which they would easily have brought had they been properly dressed. The department urges that the turkeys be carefully dressed so that they reach the market in a neat, attractive appearance that will appeal to buyers.

Many of the birds which have been well handled were poorly packed. Shippers should be careful to see that the turkeys are thoroughly cooled out before packing, as otherwise conditions frequently develop that result in loss of the birds and nearly always in lower prices, the department says. If turkeys are not dry picked and shipped under proper refrigeration, it is desirable that they be ice-packed, particularly if weather conditions indicate unfavorable changes. It is poor economy to take chances with valuable shipments, and carelessness in any of the details necessary to put the birds on the market in good condition frequently results in loss and waste all the way from producer to consumer.

The Christmas trade is problematical, but producers and shippers should realize that high quality birds properly cared for are always in much greater demand than ordinary turkeys and turkeys which show carelessness in dressing or shipping to market, the department says. Particularly when the commodity is in abundant supply, neglect of these details results in loss, inasmuch as only attractive and high quality produce can be sold to advantage.

Ventilation Is Needed for Health of Poultry

Ten hens breathe off more than a pint of water a day. Are you providing ventilation to get this out of the house, or do your hens take a continuous cold bath day and night without a towel for a rub down? Even you would get the roup under such conditions. Watch out for moisture on the windows and frost on the walls. Put in 1 square foot of thin cloth curtain to every 15 square feet of floor. Keep this curtain open whenever weather permits. Drafts and damp air and floors cause more colds than zero weather. Exercise helps to prevent colds. Light feeding in a clean, dry litter 8 inches deep induces exercise.—O. C. Krum, Colorado experiment station.

Cure for Scaly Leg

The oil drained out of the crank case of an auto is excellent for controlling scaly leg or for painting roosts, etc., to control mites, says G. L. Stevenson, professor of poultry husbandry at South Dakota State college. A rough, scaly condition of the hens' feet and legs is often thought to be an evidence of age, whereas in reality it may be a diseased condition brought about by the activity of a kind of mite which burrows under the scales of the legs and sets up an irritation finally resulting in the condition indicated.

Nebraska farm poultry flocks which had had two years of care and management by improved methods which are a part of the accredited farm-flock work conducted by the co-operative agricultural extension workers, gave their owners an average increased return of $81 per flock over the returns of flocks which had had this care only one year, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture of the work in 1923.

Watch Every Detail

Regularity in feeding plays an important part in getting all out of a ration that is possible. Also care in seeing that every detail is taken care of thoroughly. Feeding a good ration and allowing the supply of fresh water to run low is poor economy. The hens must have an abundance of water and plenty of oyster shell and grit. Sometimes all these are supplied, and succulent green feed is lacking, and the egg basket is not as well filled as it might be.

Valuable Chinese Tree

Many specimens of the Chinese wood-oil or tung-oil tree, which was introduced into Florida some years ago by the United States Department of Agriculture, are now coming into bearing. The oil is expressed from the nuts and is considered one of the most valuable in the paint and varnish industry. It is one of the best drying oils known and is particularly desired in the manufacture of waterproof varnish. The tree does best in a warm climate and does not bear when frequently subjected to temperatures lower than 20 degrees. It has handsome dark green foliage which it sheds during the winter. It is estimated that there are now more than 39,000 of these trees in Florida, 3,900 of which are in bearing.

Hardening Rails

The first application in America of the process of hardening railway rails after they have been laid is reported from Toronto, according to the Electric Railway Journal. A blowpipe is mounted on wheels and passed over the surface of the rail at a speed that gives a temperature of 850 degrees centigrade to all points heated. Immediately after heating, a jet of water is played upon the rail, the effect being to harden the surface and prolong its wearing qualities. The process is effective to a depth of from two to three-tenths of an inch, according to the pressure used in the blowpipe.

Escaped from "Pen" but Returned.

The faith of Col. Claude B. Sweezey in his "trusties" at the Maryland Penitentiary was vindicated Friday, when by prearrangement with the Warden, but without knowledge of the guards, Thomas Carlton, a short-term prisoner, escaped, and within the next half hour voluntarily returned to the prison.

Colonel Sweezey's experiment was a test of the efficiency of the penitentiary guards, and of his faith in the trusty. Carlton's escape and prompt return to his cell confirmed the suspicions of the Warden that at least one of the guards was not exercising proper vigilance.

Carlton, who has served nine months of a two-year sentence for criminal assault, is considered by Colonel Sweezey one of the most trustworthy of his charges. When the trusty informed the Warden he could escape from the prison yard he was given permission to do so at his own risk and with the understanding that he was to return.

Friday afternoon the telephone bell rang at the penitentiary office and a voice over the wire said:

"Colonel Sweezey, this is Carlton, I just escaped; what shall I do now?"

"Where are you?"

"I'm down on Hillen street."

"Well, come on back."

A few minutes afterward Carlton returned and informed Colonel Sweezey that immediately after a Big State truck entered the prison yard he concealed himself in the running gear beneath the body of the vehicle. There he remained undetected until the truck left the yard and had reached a point near Hillen St.—Balt. American.

MR. ROBERT L. ANNAN.

Mr. Robert Lewis Annan, prominent Emmitsburg business man and member of a well known family of that place, died in the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, on Saturday afternoon, following an operation for gangrene of the appendix. He had been at the hospital several days.

Mr. Annan was born and raised in Emmitsburg, graduated from the school there, and spent several years in Missouri, later returning and going into business with his father. Mr. Annan at the time of his death was in partnership in this business with his brother, Isaac M. Annan. He was about 44 years of age.

He is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Isaac M. Annan, Emmitsburg; Edgar L. Annan, Baltimore; Miss Helen A. Annan, Hamilton, N. J.; Mrs. Anna Cook, Bethlehem, Pa.; Mrs. Rodney Burton, Germantown, Pa.; Mrs. T. E. Zimmerman, Emmitsburg, and two aunts, Mrs. O. A. Horner, New York, and Mrs. Andrew Annan, Emmitsburg.

Funeral took place from the home of Isaac M. Annan, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock with services conducted by Rev. E. Lewis Higbee, pastor of the Reformed church, and interment was made in the Presbyterian cemetery. Mr. Annan was a member of the Presbyterian church.

MR. JOHN E. BUFFINGTON.

Mr. John E. Buffington, one of the best known citizens of this county, died early last Saturday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Geo. H. Mitten, in Washington. He had been in failing health for several years and during the past year was practically helpless in his ability to get around alone.

He had lived in Taneytown and in Middleburg district all of his life, except for a period of three years in the Civil War, and moved to his Taneytown home about sixteen years ago, and to Washington within the past year. His age was 83 years, 4 months, 19 days.

He was a member of the Sixth Maryland Infantry, Co. C, during the Civil War, from Aug. 21, 1862 to June 20, 1865, serving as Sergeant, and at the close of the war was 1st. Lieut. of his Company, and was offered a Lieutenantcy in the regular army. He held the honor of being the first union soldier over the Confederate breastworks at Petersburg, Va., with the colors, and was later awarded a special medal of Honor by Act of Congress, for his conspicuous bravery. His war record, as a whole, was among the best of any Maryland soldier. Only six members of his Company survive him.

Mr. Buffington was always modest as to his war record and honors, but always highly prized his honor medal and the strong friendship of his comrades at arms. The presentation of the medal took place in the Taneytown Opera House, March 28, 1908, when addresses were delivered by Col. John R. Rouzer, Col. John R. Kine, Hon. Jos. A. Goulden, Member of Congress from New York, and John H. Mitten, of Westminster, the latter a member of Company A. of the same Regiment now, and for many years, the best known newspaper man in Carroll County.

He is survived by four daughters and one son: Mrs. George H. Mitten, Mrs. Victor Zenn and J. Whitfield Buffington, of Washington; and Mrs. Walter Hape, and Mrs. Roy B. Garner, of Taneytown; also by four half-brothers James, Jacob, Charles G. and Jesse Buffington; one half-sister, Miss Alice Buffington, and a large number of other relatives.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Roy B. Garner, in charge of his former pastor, Rev. L. R. Hafer, of Gettysburg, assisted by Rev. W. V. Garrett and Rev. Guy P. Bready. Interment in the family lot in the Lutheran cemetery.

Resolution of Respect on Death of Elder Luther Kemp, of Baust Ref. Church.

It is with heart-felt sorrow that we, the members of Baust Reformed Consistory, are called upon to record the death of Elder Luther Kemp, a faithful and most esteemed member of our Consistory. The interests of his Church were always paramount in his life. His fidelity as an office-holder of long-standing endeared him to us all.

A man of quiet manner, deeply interested in all movements of the church, active in the promotion of public welfare and public schools, prudent in speech, patient and peace loving in counsel, kind of heart—he was well liked and will be missed everywhere.

Consistent of a real sense of personal loss, we are thankful that we were permitted to have with us for so many years this zealous and loyal fellow-traveler, and we shall cherish with affectionate remembrance his cheerful spirit, genuine sympathy, warm hand clasp and readiness to help. Sadness fills our ranks when we remember we shall see his familiar figure in our assemblies no more.

He has simply slipped out into eternity and left behind a trail of fond memories in the hearts of those who called him friend, who rejoice in the glad hope he left when the doors opened upon another and more abundant life in a fairer world. Wherefore, it is our sincere desire to thus note the loss of a dependable friend and a brother whose worth we hereby unitedly acknowledge.

The Consistory, therefore directs that this memorial expression be inscribed on its permanent records, communicated to the bereaved widow, with assurance of our deepest sympathy and published in the Carroll Record and Times.

By Order of the Consistory,
WM. H. FLICKINGER,
LEVI D. MAUS,
RALPH U. MARKER, Committee.

Adopted at Special meeting Nov. 10, 1924.

"You're Right, Mary! We Surely Do Need Some New Lanterns!"

MARY objected to so much extra work in keeping old, battered lanterns clean, particularly when new, shiny new ones would cost so little. John agreed with her when he stopped to think. Besides, he realized that the dented tubes of these old lanterns had deprived them of much of their former lighting power.

Barring accidents and with good care Dietz lanterns will last a lifetime—but few people bother to take such excellent care of lanterns as this.

Doubtless on your farm at this moment there are lanterns that should be replaced with new ones. Don't forget to ask us to show you Dietz "D-Lite" and "Blizzard" Cold Blast Lanterns. They shed more light.

The Boy Wanted.

"Wanted! A boy that is manly,
A boy that is kind and polite;
A boy that you can always depend on
To do what he knows is right;
A boy that is truthful and honest,
And faithful and willing to work;
But we have not a place
That we care to disgrace
With a boy that is ready to shirk.

"Wanted! A boy you can tie to,
A boy that is trusty and true;
A boy that is good to old people
And kind to the little ones too;
A boy that is nice to the home folks,
And pleasant to sister and brother;
A boy who will try, when things go awry,
To be helpful to father and mother!

"These are the boys we depend on,
Our hope for the future, and then
Great problems of state, and the world's work await,
Such boys when they grow to be men!

Gold Coin Revived

Modern Palestine has adopted as its monetary unit the dinar, or dinarius, of the time of Herod, the Roman governor. Its present value is of two English shillings, or about 50 cents in American money. Originally the dinar was a gold coin issued by the chiefs of the Damascus government and by certain Arabic tribes of the time of Christ.

It became a silver coin as that metal grew more precious. As dinarius the coin became widely known by reason of its use in the literature of the day and since. The dinar was a distinctive Palestine coin. To give needed support to the young government, the issue of dinars will be secured by an equal sum in British bank notes. The new coin will attain circulation independently of the existing Egyptian pound and be a strictly Jewish affair.—Detroit News.

Community Building

City Congestion Not

Wise or Economical

"By systematically neglecting the simplest elements of city planning, we have provided a large and profitable field for all the palliative devices of engineering," says Lewis Mumford in an article in the American Mercury.

"Where we eliminate sunlight we introduce electric light; where we congest business, we build skyscrapers; where we overload the thoroughfares with traffic we build subways; where we permit the city to become congested with a population whose density would not be tolerated in a well-designed community, we conduct hundreds of miles of aqueducts to bathe it and slake its thirst; where we rob people of even the faintest trace of vegetation or fresh air, we build metal roads which will take a small portion of them, once a week, out into the country. It is all a very profitable business for the companies that supply light and rapid transit and motor cars and the rest of it; but the underlying population pays."

"These mechanical improvements do not represent a triumph of human effort; they stand for its comprehensive misapplication. By turning our environment over to the machine we have robbed the machine of the one promise it held out—that of enabling us to humanize more thoroughly the details of our existence."

Every Community Has

Investment in Youth

The Two Rivers (Wis.) Chronicle has reduced the value of the boys of the Two Rivers community to dollars and cents. It figures that if a boy costs his parents $100 a year from his birth to the time he is sixteen, then the parents of the 1,000 boys in that community have an investment of $2,500,000. What is being done, it asks, to conserve this investment, to make it yield returns in a better citizenship tomorrow?

That is a question every community should ask itself, says the Milwaukee Journal. We realize today that boys don't just grow up right any more than a business will manage itself right. There must be direction, there must be opportunity, there must be time spent on the development of the boy just as time must be spent on the development of a business.

When the boys desire play, is it a back lot and the gang or a well-directed playground? When they seek social activity, is it any place they can find where others are gathered, or is it the community house with an attractive program? In education are they being trained for the kind of service which their community needs most? Those are vital questions, and the answer to the boy problem.

Plea for Home Ownership

Home ownership, as advocated by the promoters of the Indianapolis Home Complete exposition, encourages people in habits of saving and thrift. The effect of such habits when they become fastened upon an individual are so well known as to require no elaboration. It is sufficient to say that the more of thrift there is manifest in Indianapolis the more healthy development of the general welfare of the community there will be.

The family that owns its own home is certain to be a patriotic family, patriotic to the nation, to the state, and particularly patriotic to the community in which that home is located.

No Signs in Residence Part

White Plains, N. Y., went on record as being opposed to billboard advertising signs in residential sections. A frontage of 600 feet on Central avenue had been rented to a New Rochelle concern and a nine-foot high sign erected, on which were to be displayed large advertisements. Building Superintendent Denney ordered it down. The sign company took the matter before the zone board of White Plains, with the result that the order of Superintendent Denney was unanimously upheld, the board deciding that it was to the best interest of the city that such display signs be kept out of residential districts.

Value of Small Industries

Small industries do more to make the small town than any other agency. Even a blacksmith shop helps the town along, and the cotton factories, planing mills, an industry that requires workmen to run them, bring people to the town. There are many little towns in Alabama that depend entirely upon these industries. Take them away and the population goes with them and there is soon no town.—Montgomery (Ala.) Times.

Proved Value of Paint

About three years ago I was asked to look at a house that was in real bad shape. It had stood years needing paint. I assured the owner that he could make money on the house by having it painted. I told him what it would cost and we did the work. He sold the house inside of a year from the time he bought it, making $800 more than he paid for it, or three times more than my job cost him.—George H. Baxter, Winnipeg, Canada.

Old Age Comes When People Quit Growing

Most people want to grow. They would like to advance in their work, earn more, have greater influence, do bigger things. Yet, strange to say, the world is full of people who do not "grow up." They have lost the secret of their youthful days. They come to a halt in self-development, and folks say they are getting "old." But a person is never old until he quits growing; and he need not quit growing until the end of his years. The most conspicuous fact about great men—men who do big things, and keep doing them—is that they never cease growing. They are perpetually young. They have the real thing, of which Ponce de Leon's Fountain of Youth was only an imitation. If a man sets his heart upon growing, he has but three things to do: First, he must be a learner all his life. Then, he must be a thinker—and must think hard. Finally, he must be a doer. Some people are long on thinking, but short on doing. They are dreamers. Success and rewards always come to the person who continues to grow, but the greatest reward consists in having found the secret that makes life continuously interesting.—Forbes Magazine.

Heavy Drinking Marked Festivities of Greeks

The festival of Dionysus had an important influence on the life of ancient Greece, as well as on its literature and art. There were four of these every year, the Detroit News notes. One was celebrated when the new wine was tasted for the first time and plentiful drinking was characteristic of this festival. A great banquet accompanied the festivities. A feature of another festival, also in honor of the wine god, was a drinking contest. At a signal given by a trumpet, all who took part in it set their pitchers to their mouths and the judges allotted the victory to him who first emptied his. The prize consisted of a skin of wine, cakes or something of that sort. Besides the public banquet there were also private hospitalities provided for those who preferred to celebrate the day by themselves in the circle of a few intimate friends and at these also much drinking went on.

Good Word for Wasps

The insects eaten by wasps include bud and blossom destroyers, leaf rollers and miners, stem-borers and leaf-cutters—minute vegetarian pests that we are doing our best to exterminate by sprays and insecticides.

Another point to be noted is that while the wasp catches and eats the egg-laying insect itself, our sprays and insecticides can aim only, or chiefly, at killing the grub; and when that grub is safely buried inside a stem or a fruit bud, then we are absolutely helpless. So, in spite of its sting and its liking for fruit when on holiday in autumn the wasp is far more of a friend than a foe.—Exchange.

Heavy Ascot Stakes

It is recorded that in 1791 George III witnessed a most sensational race at the famous Ascot track, for the Outlands stakes. Nineteen horses ran for the then colossal stakes of approximately $150,000, and it is said that five million dollars changed hands. Five of the horses ran neck-and-neck to within a few yards of the winning post, and Chifney, on the then prince of Wales' Baronet, snatched a seemingly miraculous victory by a bare half-length. "I made fourteen baronets last week," said George III to his son when congratulating him, "and your Baronet is worth all mine put together."

Ninepins 700 Years Old

According to Doctor Ebsteln, German scientist, the first trace of the game of ninepins was discovered in an old chronicle of Paderbon, Prussia. Paderbon is the seat of the Episcopal church of Westphalia province, and here some 700 years ago the ecclesiastics invented the game, which they played during Lenten season. They put up nine wooden pins; at which they threw balls. These balls they called "heathen." At first only three balls were used, but later the number was increased until, as at present—seventeen balls were used.

Famous Roman Highway

The Appian way was constructed as a military road from Rome to Capua, a distance of about 132 miles, by the Emperor Appian Claudius, about 312 B. C., and was later extended to Brundisium, a total of about 360 miles, and completed by Julius Caesar. It was known as "the Queen of Roads" and was adorned with statuary and pagan temples. It was built without regard to cost by slave labor, and is said to have been in excellent condition 800 years after its completion. To build such a road today would cost in the neighborhood of $250,000 a mile.

Origin of Canaries Obscure

The Biological survey says that the actual origin of the canary as a cage bird is obscure. It seems probable that captive canaries were first secured from the Canary Islands, but it is doubtful that this stock has furnished ancestors of all our birds of this kind. The serin finch of middle and southern Europe is so similar that it may often have been captured and accepted as a canary, and interbred until all distinguishable differences were lost.

Bloch Clearly Master of the "Double Cross"

Bloch and Arakelian were invited to dine at the house of a rich banker. It was agreed that Bloch would keep the attention of the guests distracted while his accomplice pocketed as much of the silver as possible. After dinner Bloch whispered to Arakelian: "How much did you get?"

"Six spoons."

"Give me three of them."

"No. I'm the man who got them."

Bloch said nothing more. He crossed the room and began to be agreeable to the hostess. All at once this lady called out:

"Ladies and gentlemen, Mr. Bloch tells me he is a clever sleight-of-hand performer. He has agreed to give us some amusement."

"Will you please get me six teaspoons?" asked Bloch.

The teaspoons were brought.

"Thank you. Now observe that I wrap them up in my pocket handkerchief. Then I put the handkerchief in my pocket, so. I pass my hand over my pocket three times, so, and you will find the six teaspoons in the pocket of Mr. Arakelian."—Chicago News.

Rightly Felt It Was No Time for Poetry

Sam Lung was busy in one of the great warehouses south of Market street, San Francisco, tugging at a ponderous bale of burlap, when a large motortruck came backing silently through the door loaded with more burlap.

Another Chinese who had been helping Sam, seeing the oncoming truck, stepped aside and began in the quaint sing-song of their people to inform him of the danger. "If you do not care to have your bones rest in unholy ground of the white devils for a long spell, then in time taken up and removed to the land of your ancestors, you had better—"

Just then, as the heavily loaded truck was about to smash Sam, his companion finished his warning with the exclamation, "Look ow!" Sam jumped in time to escape being crushed. With a frightened face he exclaimed to his helper, "What for you no talkee Melican first time?"—Argonaut.

Truly Wonderful

On a hotel veranda at a seaside resort a visitor approached, in the dark, the spot where a beautiful girl with golden hair and melting baby-blue eyes was sitting with an adoring youth.

As he neared the pair the newcomer heard her say: "Aren't the stars beautiful tonight? I love to sit and look at the stars on a night like this and think about science. Science is so interesting, so wonderful; don't you think so? Now, take astronomy. Astronomers are such marvelous men! I can understand how they have been able to estimate the distance to the moon and to all the other planets and the size of the sun and how fast it travels, but how, do you suppose, they ever found out the right names of all those stars?"

Had Geologists Puzzle

Fossils of prehistoric animals which lived during the great Ice age are found in certain layers of blue clay in Tennessee. Man, it has been asserted, arrived on the scene thousands of years after these blue clay deposits were made. Recently, however, geologists working near the site of an old Indian earthwork found some of the same sort of blue clay. Underneath this clay were human bones. The discovery was exciting—the geological evidence seemed to place the first Tennesseans back with Ice age fossils. Then some kick-jay in the party discovered that the Indians had evidently transported this clay from some distance and packed it down into flat layers resembling geological strata.

Queen Lover of Cherries

The rich and ruddy cherries for which England is famous, were introduced into that country from Flanders in the year 1540. The establishment of their popularity was due in no small measure to Queen Elizabeth who had a great liking for cherries ripe. Whereby hangs the tale of Sir Francis Carew, who delayed the ripening of his cherry tree until a month after the end of the season in order that the cherries might attain maturity when her majesty stayed with him. This he accomplished by erecting a tent over the tree, and on the queen's arrival the fruit was at perfection.

Liquid Floats Stones

Of all liquids, mercury possesses the greatest specific gravity, but another has been discovered which is also so heavy that stones of all kinds—granite, limestone, quartz, etc., float in it. It is a saturated aqueous solution of tungstoborate. Its specific gravity is 3.3, whereas that of ordinary rocks does not surpass 2.7. Only a few precious stones have a specific gravity greater than that of this liquid, for which reason it is proposed to employ it for the separation of such stones from the masses of broken rock.

Unpoetic Envy

He—Do you know, I envy the birds. She—So do I. They're so gay and free, can fly here and there, and— He—And have only one bill the year round.

Pistols That Figured in Affairs of Honor

Apocryphal of the Nomad's dueling stories, a correspondent, says the Boston Transcript, sends the following:

"Dear Nomad—This regarding the duel between Hamilton and Burr may be of interest to you:

"Some years ago, in passing through Geneva, N. Y., I was guest of Mr. Richard Church, an old family friend. In talking on things of historic interest, Mr. Church paused and, stooping down, reached under the sofa and revealed to my expectant gaze a mahogany box. On opening the box, he showed me the original flintlock pistols used in the Hamilton-Burr duel. Mr. Church informed me that these same flintlocks had been used also in two other duels—the Wilkes-Burr duel and the Church-Burr duel. Mr. Richard Church was a descendant of the opponent (Church) of Burr in the Church-Burr duel. Mr. Church showed me that one of the flintlocks was broken and informed me this break had occurred while he was a lad in shooting while at play. Mr. Church has passed away and I do not know the present whereabouts of these historic flintlocks. Perhaps they fell to his daughter, who at the time of my visit was the wife of Rev. Dr. Hart of St. Mark's church, Rochester, N. Y. Mrs. Hart's mother was one of the Schuylers, and was christened Angelica Schuyler Church. Perhaps some reader can give data as to the present owner of the flintlock. DAMON."

That the dueling pistols used in the Burr-Hamilton affair should also have served in two other encounters in which Burr was concerned is a pretty good indication that Burr kept himself supplied with weapons. But in the Church affair his pistols seem to have gone to his antagonist. The veritable weapon with which Burr killed Hamilton must be a valuable possession for a collector.

Wrens and Catbirds Had Nests Together

A very interesting and rather unusual incident, showing how neighborly birds may be, happened last spring, writes Elizabeth Frederick in Our Dumb Animals. A friend of mine has a cottage, and there is a certain vine growing close to a window, which is a favorite nesting place with birds. This year two different families, a pair of wrens and a pair of catbirds, decided to nest here, and so they set about building their homes. Strange to say, there was no quarreling over this, but each pair minded its own business, and when their homes were finished, lo and behold! there, perched upon the edge of the good-sized nest of the catbird, was the dainty little nest of the wren.

Never were two families more sociable. Together the mothers sat on their eggs, and perhaps they chatted about different things to make the long hours of waiting less lonesome. Together the wrens and the catbirds fought the cat and bravely defended their homes, when the babies were hatched, and side by side they raised their families and taught them how to fly. Now there is nothing left but the two nests to show this unusual friendship between two bird families.

Huge Insect Collection

The British museum possesses by far the most comprehensive insect collection in the world, says London Tit-Bits. It has not until quite recently been possible to make an exact catalogue of all items, but after three years' work one has now been completed and published.

According to this, the collection contains 1,118,000 insects. There are 325,767 butterflies of 40,210 different kinds, 398,000 beetles of 67,300 different kinds. Of bees, wasps and winged ants there are 19,608 kinds. Of bugs, flies, gnats and mosquitoes there are 7,267 species represented; of grasshopper types 3,900, and of plant lice 21 species in 140 items.

Private donors have done most to swell the collection. One alone gave 230,000 insects, another 30,000, while one entire collection of butterflies which was presented consisted of 31,130 specimens.

Her Awful Mistake

Tim had met with the misfortune of falling from the fourteenth floor of the skyscraper on which he was working.

His fellow workmen picked up the remains and started with them to Tim's home, sending Terry ahead to break the sad news to Tim's wife.

Terry thumped on the Malone door until Mrs. Malone appeared.

"Are you the Widow Malone, thin?" he asked.

"And I am not," she answered. "I'm Mrs. Malone, but not widow."

"And are ye not?" demanded the bearer of ill tidings. "Will ye tell me that and look what the byes are bringin' up the street?"—Capper's Weekly.

Ancient Juniper Tree

What is believed to be the oldest juniper tree in the world is now being protected by the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture, according to word received from the Cache National forest in northern Utah. A careful examination of the tree by scientists from the Utah Agricultural college and by Forest Supervisor Carl B. Arentson shows the age of the tree to be not less than 3,000 years, thus placing this tree on a par with some of the big redwood trees in California which have so often been spoken of as the "eldest living things on earth."

The Discovery of Lubricating Oil

At Franklin, Pa., James Evans, blacksmith, had lived for twenty years. In dry weather the well he dug 17 feet for water smelled and tasted of Oil. News of "Col." Drake's successful well set him thinking. Why not try the experiment at Franklin? Evans was poor, but the hardware dealer trusted him for the iron, and he hammered out rough drilling tools. He and his son Henry rigged a spring pole and "kicked down" the drill right in the water well. At 72 feet they struck a crevice, the tools dropped, and a piece of iron broke off that could not be removed. A hand pump was the last resort. They pumped vigorously, and a stream of dark green fluid gushed forth at the rate of 25 barrels a day. It was heavy Oil, about thirty degrees gravity, free from grit and smooth as silk. The greatest lubricant on earth had been discovered!

A wonderful lubricant coming direct from the ground! But not so with Kerosene. The illuminating Oil must be carefully refined to make it efficient; the better the refining, the better the Kerosene. Lesson for November 30

THE GOOD SAMARITAN

LESSON TEXT—Luke 10:25-37.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself.—Luke 10:27.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Story of a Good Samaritan.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Parable of the Good Samaritan.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Be a Good Neighbor.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Whose Neighbor Am I?

1. How to Inherit Eternal Life (vv. 25-28).

1. The Lawyer's Question (v. 25). "Lawyer" here means one versed in religious law, the Scriptures—not lawyer in our modern sense of that term. It would more nearly correspond to a theological professor. The lawyer's object was to trap Jesus—to induce Him to take such a stand as would weaken His influence as a teacher. He expected Jesus to set forth some new ceremonies which would conflict with or disparage the law.

2. Jesus' Question (v. 26). Though Jesus knew the motive of the lawyer he did not evade his question. He sent him to the law, the field which was familiar to him. He thus was robbed of his own weapon.

3. The Lawyer's Reply (v. 27). He made an intelligent answer declaring that the entire content of the law was embraced in love to God and man. This expresses the whole of human duty.

4. Jesus' Reply (v. 28). This straightforward answer went to the heart of the lawyer. Perfect love to God and man is truly the way of life. No man has yet had or can have such love. His sinful condition precludes its possibility. Man's failure to measure up to this requirement is his condemnation. The lawyer keenly felt this thrust. He was defeated on his own grounds and convicted of guilt.

II. Who Is My Neighbor? (vv. 29-37).

1. The Lawyer's Question (v. 29). This question reveals the insincerity of the lawyer. Christ's answer had reached his conscience, and now he seeks to escape the difficulty by asking a captious question. Lawyer-like he sought to get off by raising a question as to the meaning of words.

2. Jesus' Answer (vv. 30-37). This more than answered the lawyer's question. In the parable of the Good Samaritan He makes clear who is a neighbor, and also what it means to be a neighbor, or what loving a neighbor means. Christ's answer had a double meaning. He not only made clear who is my neighbor, but made it clear that the lawyer was not playing the neighbor. He thus was convicted of not having been a neighbor.

(1) Who is my neighbor? This destitute and wounded man left on the highway by the robbers is the man who needs a neighbor. My neighbor, therefore, is the one who needs my help, whether he lives next door or on the other side of the world. Those who have the Spirit of Christ can see their neighbors on every hand.

(2) What being a neighbor means. Our supreme concern should not be "Who is my neighbor?" but "Whose neighbor am I?" To be a neighbor is, (a) to be on the lookout for those in need of our help (v. 33). (b) To have compassion on the needy (v. 33). Christ's compassion was aroused as He came into contact with those who were suffering and in need. All those who have His nature will be likewise moved. (c) To give to those in need (v. 34). Many are willing to give money to help the poor and needy, but are unwilling to personally minister to them. Many times the personal touch is more important than the material aid. We should give ourselves as well as our money. (d) To bind up wounds (v. 34). (e) To set the helpless ones on our beasts while we walk (v. 34). This is proof that love is genuine. Christians will deny themselves in order to have something to give to those who have need. This kind of sympathy is greatly needed today. (f) To bring to the inn and take care of the unfortunate (v. 34). Genuine love does not leave its service incomplete. Much Christian service is spasmodic, helps and then leaves a man to take care of himself. (g) To give money (v. 35). It costs a good deal to be a neighbor. Love is the most expensive thing in the world. It cost God His only Son. It cost Christ His life. May we go and do likewise!

Stewardship: Our Prayers for Christ's World

Matthew 6:9-13

What the Committee on Topics had in mind when they used the words "Christ's World" we may not know. Certainly there is no warrant for this in Scripture. The Bible plainly teaches that there is a great difference between Christ's Church, composed of regenerated believers, and the unbelieving world in which the Church is. It plainly asserts that Christ gave Himself to deliver us from this present evil world (Gal. 1:4) and that the world liveth in wickedness, or, as the Revised Version translates it, "The whole world lieth in the evil one" (1 John 5:19). The distinction between the Church and the world is accentuated by reference to such contrasts as "day and night," "light and darkness," "life and death" (1 Thess. 5:4-10; John 5:24; John 8:12; Acts 26:18). These distinctions are consistently maintained all the way through Scripture.

In the great prayer of our Lord recorded in John 17 we hear Him saying: "I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me out of the world." The primary need of the world is not prayer, but godly example and holy living. To this the members of the Church are called, and for the maintenance of this prayer is needed; hence the words of Christ, "I pray for them."

To obliterate these plain Scripture distinctions seems to be part of the program of Modernism. In place of this there is substituted a false teaching concerning the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. Thus the necessity of redemption through the atoning work of Christ and of individual regeneration through the work of the Holy Spirit is lost sight of and the true character of the Church ignored.

There is an apostolic appeal in 1 Timothy 2:1-6 to pray for all men that they may be saved and come to the knowledge of the truth. To this same end we are directed to pray for rulers and those in authority that such conditions may prevail as shall best promote the work of God in the salvation of men.

Vessel Construction Marvel of Ingenuity

An achievement like that of the ocean liner which has survived a life in which the waves ran 100 feet from trough to crest, represents for the layman an almost incredible triumph of design. Says the New York Herald-Tribune: "The unimaginable fury of seas which could break over a bridge 65 feet from the water-line, which could rip away rails and life-boats, flood the rooms on the upper decks by coming down upon them from above, throw a man through a bulkhead and set the whole ship awash, would seem to be a thing which no human construction could possibly live through."

As a matter of fact, every modern steamship is a miracle, and almost all of them are successful ones. The loss of a sound vessel in the open sea is of astonishingly rare occurrence, and memory does not recall any Atlantic passenger liner which has been destroyed in a fair fight with the ocean alone. A ship is attacked in two ways. She must withstand the terrific pounding and crushing of the water and of her own weight, and she must be able to recover her balance no matter how long or violent the roll. Vessels have been rolled under in storms—sometimes through faulty designs, sometimes through the shifting of the cargo—but it is of rarest occurrence. More often they founder through the weakness of the hull construction—their seams are opened or their backs broken. But that seldom happens to new ships; it seems never to happen to good ones.

Petroleum From Coal

The extraction of petroleum from coal by the low-temperature carbonization process is the object of the installation of a plant at Nottingham, England, consular advice to the Department of Commerce state. The promoters expect to make Nottingham a smokeless city (the first in England), to furnish cheap gas and to reduce both waste and danger in the coal mines in addition to securing from 18,000 to 20,000 gallons of oil from every 1,000 tons of coal, which is the expected daily capacity of the plant. Under present circumstances England imports oil to the value of £50,000,000 a year. It is proposed to replace this supply as far as possible with the gasoline and other petroleum products which are to be separated from the small coal heretofore regarded as almost a waste product of the mines.

Man Forced to Walk Backward for Two Miles.

Soon after the close of the Civil War many of the discharged Union soldiers took advantage of the offer of free lands in the West and migrated thither. Among them was W. H. H. Case of Ohio, who settled in Colorado near the new little town of Golden City, now called Golden. In a short time he had several enterprises under way, including large limekilns and stone quarries on Ralston creek.

On one occasion business had kept him in Golden City until after night-fall. Since it was brilliant moonlight, he started to walk home. About two miles out, as he rounded the shoulder of a hill, he came upon a mountain lion devouring a calf. As he stopped the animal looked up. In telling the story Mr. Case used to say: "I had often read about the wonderful effect of the human eye upon a wild animal, and the first thought that flashed through my mind was 'Here's your chance to try that.'"

While he looked steadily into the creature's eyes one plan of escape after another raced through his mind. He had no weapon except a pocket knife; there was no chance of escape either up or down the mountain side; his only hope was to go back. But he was sure that if he turned his back the animal would spring upon him. He took a step backward and the lion rose to his feet; another, and it advanced toward him. He stopped, and it stopped also.

While the creature continued to gaze at him he cautiously slipped off his blue army overcoat and then, grasping it by the collar, suddenly swept it in a wide semicircle in front of him and retreated two or three steps. But instead of frightening the creature the movement seemed to rouse some sense of curiosity, and it stepped forward as if to investigate. Immediately he swung the coat again and took a few steps backward. The animal stopped, but when he moved it came on.

Thus he reached and rounded the shoulder of the hill. But when he would have turned to run he saw the big cat rounding the hill also. Thus they went, the man waving the overcoat and taking two or three steps backward, the lion stopping when the coat waved and starting on when it ceased.

After seeming ages had passed Case became aware of lights on each side and realized that he was in Golden City. He let forth a yell that brought people to their doors; only then did the animal turn and bound away in the direction from which they had come. Case had walked the two miles backwards without stumbling and without once taking his eyes off the lion!

At first friends would not credit his story, but after they had pried his hands loose from the overcoat and several had ridden out the two miles and found the carcass of the calf and traced the footprints of man and beast, with an occasional mark where the coat had swept the dust, they were forced to believe.—Youth's Companion.

Times Have Changed

The street car rider with a service button in the lapel of his coat looked up, pop-eyed, from his newspaper. His wild glance caught that of a similarly decorated man across the aisle. "Say, Buddy," he whispered, huskily, "have you read this?" And he read aloud from the account of the reception of the C. M. T. C. recruits at Camp Custer: "About the mess tent where all newcomers are taken first for a cup of iced tea and a sandwich. . . D'ja get that, Buddy—iced tea and a sandwich? Why, I can remember going four days in the Argonne without a dog biscuit, and . . . " "And K." interrupted the other, "can remember a great big black corporal I met in the same woods. He gave me a big spoonful of cold beans out the mess tin he hadn't had time to clean for a week. And, say, maybe they didn't taste good and maybe I wasn't grateful, and . . . " "Yeah," said the first, "but iced tea and sandwiches, say . . . " "Yeah, ain't war hell, though."—Detroit News.

Nothing Really Serious

In his well-named autobiography, "Ego," Lord Castleton tells a story of the west of Ireland in the old days: "It was open house and there were many guests. On coming down to dinner he heard loud shrieks and oaths, but could not make out what was happening. He and the other guests consulted, and eventually rang for the butler. My father expressed anxiety. I hope no one is ill," he said. "We heard loud cries—perhaps we ought to go or send for the doctor." "Tis nothing, your honor," answered the old butler at once. "They're putting a clane shirt on the master, and he hates the cowl of it and lets a roar or two out of him!"

Lessons for Boy Scouts

Every Saturday afternoon a group of boy scouts troops up to the American Museum of Natural History in New York city for a free lesson in the science of stuffing and preserving animals. The course is given to encourage the study of outdoor life. A taxidermy merit badge is awarded for superior work. Each boy is given personal instruction in preserving and mounting animals so that he may prepare specimens in a realistic manner and also become familiar with the habits and haunts of various creatures.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

An alarm of fire was sounded on Monday afternoon, about 2:30, the cause being a fire at D. B. Shaum's, at Piney Creek, his ice house having caught from an engine. The fire truck was almost instantly on its way and on the scene only a few minutes after the fire was telephoned to town. The chemical apparatus was used and prevented the fire from spreading; therefore, the loss was comparatively small, limited to roof and weatherboarding. Had the fire occurred at night, the loss might have been extensive, due to the number of building close together.

LAST PAGE EDITORIAL.

Some "Old Stuff" Repeated.

Any institution that a town can not get along without—even a weekly newspaper—ought to be supported by the town, and liberally. This means its churches, and all essential industries and business places. The very best way to starve them, or to reduce their efficiency—perhaps kill them entirely—is to be continually advertising the superior advantages of other towns, and "knocking" those at home.

No small town can hope, always, to have every enterprise in it, as good as the best that can be found anywhere. There are even some better people than the "knockers" themselves, and no high-powered spectacles are needed to find them, if the plain truth be told; and the chances are that wherever a home enterprise fails in being as good and effective as it might be, it is the fault of the people of the town, because of their everlasting criticism.

It is an old truth, that we have as good government as we are entitled to because "we" are the government; and it is just as true to say that we have as good churches, stores and business places, as we are entitled to, because "we" are responsible for the financial and moral support that we give to them, and out of this the standard of their goodness must come.

As long as we merely "make use" of our home enterprises because we do not find it convenient to go to the "big bargain" town, just so long will we have enterprises to complain of at home; and just so long as we draw unfair comparisons, and have not the community spirit that "backs up" home effort, and have no desire to excuse and help the strugglers at home, we are not the kind of citizens that the good towns have, and backed by which such towns build up their reputation.

Before we can set up ourselves, and our judgment, against the home service we get, we ought to be wholly sure that we are so acting as to expect the kind of service at home that we think we ought to have. No town ought expect to have home enterprises better than the grade of their home people—but it sometimes happens that they do. This is "old stuff," but it is worth while repeating occasionally, even if the truth hurts some people.
