After that date, if there are no applicants, the scholarship to Charlotte Hall will be awarded to James Steward, of Ellicott City and the scholarship to St. Mary's Seminary to Senator Peverley's daughter of St. Mary's County.

The Board authorized the Superintendent to secure the necessary coal for the coming year to the best advantage as to quality and cost.

Baltimore's Labor Strike.

The present strike in Baltimore, on public construction work, that is now | Agriculture. in its second week, hinges on what construction is placed on "current wages." The city has a law requiring "current wages" to be paid for city The Mayor claims the city is doing this, having fixed a scale of wages following the findings of a special committee; while the Allied Building Trades Council is trying to establish the claim that union wages represent the current or prevailing

Apparently, the contest is to be decided by arbitration. It is the old question of who fixes the wagesemployer or employed—the employer in the case bring the city authorities, and the subject is being handled somewhat gently, for numerous reasons-some of them political.

Ku Klux Parade in Washington.

The Ku Klux Klan held a monster demonstration in Washington, last Saturday, when from 30,000 to 35,-000 Klan men and women paraded the streets, many of whom removed their masks. The parade lasted from 3 to 7 o'clock, and was colorful and orderly, an immense number of American flags being used. Some of the uniforms of officials were quite gaudy, but the regulation white gown and hood predominated in making the course a stretch of white. Pennsylvania men dominated the parade with about 50,000 in line, far over shadowing any other state. All of the numerous bands were brought along for the occasion. The parade was shortened by the effect of the great heat, and later by a heavy rain. There were about 1500 from Maryland. Just one negro was observed in the parade and he was driving a surrey containing representatives of Martha Washington and Dolly Madison. It was generally commented on that both men and women in the parade appeared to represent those accustomed to hard work.

Most of the Klansmen left as soon as possible after the parade, but quite a few staid over Sunday. A speech-making program was rendered on the Horse Show grounds across the river in Virginia, and a burning of a fiery cross at night. The speeches are reported to have attacked the Catholic Church, Gov. Ritchie, the Baltimore Sun, Jews, gamblers and bootleggers.

The word Heaven has been derived from a term meaning garden.

Club Week at University of Md.

With an enrollment well above the four hundred mark and far and away in excess of any previous attendance, Club Week at the University of Maryland for farm boys and girls of the State this year reached proportions that indicate that rural Maryland will not lack in population for a good many years.

The boys and girls attending were representatives of clubs organized in the twenty-three counties of the State as a part of the agricultural extension work being done by the University of Maryland and the United States Department of Agriculture. Through these organizations the young members are taught good methods of agriculture and home eco-

A program of instruction and entertainment, extending through Monday, Aug. 10, absorbed the time and interest of the young folks. From 6:30 in the morning, when all responded to the reveille call, until 10 o'clock at night, the club members were kept busy with the many activities sched-

The mornings and early afternoons were largely devoted to instruction periods. For this purpose, the young folks were divided into groups to pursue such courses in agriculture and the household arts as particularly appealed to them. For the boys, courses included instruction in poultry raising, dairying, hog and sheep production and corn, tobacco, potato and tomato culture. For the girls, courses in food preparation, the use of paints, clothing, etiquette and canning were provided.

Recreation and entertainment features were scheduled throughout the week the final big event being the sightseeing trip to Washington on Monday. Representatives from similar club organizations in Connecticut, West Virginia and Pennsylvania were present and took part in the program

Among the speakers who addressed the club members were: Dr. A. F. Woods, President of the University of Maryland; Dr. F. B. Bomberger, act-Miss V. M. Kellar, State Home Demonstration Agent, and Dr. C. B. Smith of the United States Department of

Will Accept Advertising.

A change in the policy of Henry Ford's publication, the Dearborn Independent, was announced today. Advertising will be accepted beginning with the October 3, 1925, issue of magazine.

The Dearborn Independent has not carried a line of paid advertising since it has been the property of Mr. Ford and the change in policy reflects a growing feeling on the part of the public to expect as a buying guide a certain amount of advertising in magazines of its choice.

However, advertising in The Dearborn Independent is to be kept within certain definite limits. Under the new policy the magazine is to be increased in size from 32 to 48 pages, but the amount of space available in each issue will be only thirty-three and a third percent of the total space inside, or, in the 48-pages magazine only 16 pages will carry advertising exclusive of covers. This rule is said to be unique in the publishing field, Other requirements are made relative to the kind and nature of advertising which will be acceptable. The Dearborn Independent, since becoming a Ford property, has become one of the most widely discussed publications in the world. It is distributed to over 600,-000 paid subscribers.

Cattle Testing Begins.

Dr. E. E. McCoy, accompanied by Dr. Elmer Lash, from the Department at Washington, started the work of testing the herds of Taneytown district on Monday, and the first two days' work comprised about 30 herd, the result from which will be obtained later in the week, as it requires three days from time tuberculin is injected for reaction. Dr. Lash expects to have the entire district covered in about four weeks. He says farmers, generally, are co-operating very nicely with the Department. The work in this district is in charge of Dr. McCoy.

MANY GREAT MEN HAVE PASSED AWAY

Speculation Concerning Future Political Leadership.

The loss of political leaders in this country is bringing concern to both old parties, the more especially because new leaders of wide prominence do not seem to be developing to take their places. The following is a list of prominent men, who have within a few years, or since the world war,

Theodore Roosevelt.
Woodrow Wilson.
Robert M. La Follette. William Jennings Bryan. Henry Cabot Lodge. Henry Watterson. Champ Clark. Boies Penrose. Thomas R. Marshall.

Frank Brandegee. Warren G. Harding. To these may be added another list of men who have withdrawn from politics, also within recent years; Chauncey M. Depew.

Elihu Root. William H. Taft. Charles Evans Hughes. Oscar W. Underwood. Joseph G. Cannon. John Sharp Williams. The Philadelphia Ledger, commenting on the situation says; "The Republicans have Coolidge. The Democrats have little or nothing of presidential size. In the Senate, leadership has passed from the Republican Old Guard. Reed Smoot, Charley Curtis and Jim Watson remain. They are, in essence, stage hands, not stars. They can arrange a setting, they cannot lead a legislative production.

The Democrats have Pat Harrison and Caraway, the radical Wheeler and the legalist Walsh, of Montana. Bruce, of Maryland, and Carter Glass of Virginia, are not fully satisfactory as regulars, though very able men.

Men of the type of Herbert Hoover, Charles G. Dawes, Frank O. Lowden, David I. Reed and Walter E. Edge have forged steadily to the fore-front on the Republican side—business men before they were in politics. In many respects their political philosophy requires material development, yet they are promising.

Compared to them, the Democrats are in a sad way. They won't accept—the South and West—the vote-getting power of an Al Smith, they suspect a John W. Davis, they spurn the liberalism of an Albert C. Ritchie, they acclaim a William G. McAdoo.

The death of Willim Jennings Bryan and Robert M. La Follette, Marshall and Watterson, named in the first list as well as Chauncey M. Depew, Elihu Root and a few others in the second list, does not greatly accentuate loss in political leadership for the present, as they have not been actual great a men's smoking room. #### MD. LUTHER LEAGUE.

Fourth Convention to be held at Walkersville.

The fourth annual convention of the Luther League of the Maryland Synod U. L. C., will meet this year in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Walkersville, Frederick Co., Rev. Chas. A. Shilke, pastor, on September 23, 24.

A strong and interesting program is being prepared, a feature of which will be a banquet served Wednesday evening, September 23, by the ladies of the Walkersville congregation, and which will be followed with short af-ter dinner speeches by prominent visiting clergymen and laymen.

More than a hundred delegates are expected from Baltimore and Washington, as well as a large number from other sections of the State in which Lutheran congregations are located, being principally Washington, Frederick and Carroll counties. A suitable award is being offered to that local organization having the largest delegation in attendance.

A number prominent League workers will be present and make addresses. V. W. Doub, Middletown, is president of the Maryland League, and Rev. C. A. Shilke is a member of the Executive Committee.

New Union Station in Chicago.

The formal opening of the new Chicago Union Station on July 23, marked the completion of a project initiated fifteen years ago when plans were made to replace the old structure by one equal to the demands of the city's traffic. The new station is owned jointly by the Pennsylvania, Chicago Burlington & Quincy, and the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroads. The Chicago & Alton is a tenant.

The new station was built at the cost of $60,000,000 and covers an operating area of 1,200,000 square feet. At present 300 trains are accommodated daily and there is space for further expansion. The station building itself covers an area of about 3 acres. It is handling daily over 50,000 passengers and 400 tons of baggage. In connection with it is an office building which will eventually rise to 21 stories only 8 of which are now completed.

A further idea of the station may be gained from the following facts: In point of number of station tracks it ranks fifth in the United States. It is the only station of first mag-nitude in which baggage and passengers are handled entirely on separate platforms. It is one of the first great pas-senger stations in which platforms, concourse and waiting room are on the same level. It has a system of interior drive-ways and vehicle platforms that prac-tically eliminate the use of street curb space by street vehicles bringing either passengers, mail or bag-

Among others features of the station may be mentioned the absence of made of the large stations throughout the country showed that a smoking room served no assential need.

The station has four complete bathrooms and four complete shower baths for the use of patrons. There is also a conference room which will accommodate 125 people and which is available, without charge, to users of the lines.

Ministers' Code of Ethics.

What is believed to be the first code of ethics for ministers was recently drawn up in New Haven, Con-necticut, by the New Haven Association of Congregational Ministers. The code deals with the minister's work. his relation to his parish and to his profession. Among the more outstanding features of the code are the following; He should tell the truth as he sees it and present it tactfully and constructively; he must pay his debts promptly and must not bring reproach on his calling by joining in marriage improper persons.

It is considered unethical for minister to break his contract made with the church. He should make his service primary, and the remuneration secondary. It is unethical for the minister to engage in other lines of remunerative work without knowledge and consent of the official church board. Confidential statements made to a minister by his parishioners are privileged, and should never be divulged without the consent of those making them. It is unethical for a minister to take sides with factions in his parish, to interfere with the parish work of another minister, to make overtures to or consider overtures from a church whose pastor has not yet resigned or to speak ill of the character or work of another minis-ter especially of his predecessor or successor.—Dearborn Independent.

A "Palindrome."

A "palindrome" is a word, phrase or sentence which reads the same either forward or backward. Here is a remarkable one in Latin; "Sator Arepo Tenet Opera Rotas." The initial letters unite to form the first word, the second letters form the second word, and so on to the end. The same is true when the words are read backwards.

CROP CONDITIONS

Fruits Average Lower. Other Crops More Promising.

On the average date of August 1, condition of haylands in Maryland was estimated at 65 percent of a normal, comparable with the 10-year average of 82. Rains came too late to save the crop from the persistent drought and the intense heat of June according to John S. Dennee, Federal crop statistician for Maryland.

The peach crop in Maryland went glimmering last January. Freezing temperatures damaged buds irreparably in some quarters of the State, particularly in Western Maryland orchards at the lower levels. Bud injury from cold was not bad in Eastern Shore orchards, says some of the orchardists there, but the set of buds was not so heavy as usual, due in part to improper spraying in 1924 season. Toward the close of April the prospect was dealt another staggering blow in some parts of the State on the occasion of a belated visit of Jack

According to Mr. Dennee condition on August 1 was estimated by the Crop Reporting Board at 29 percent of a normal, indicating a production of 261,000 bushels against 681,000 last season, and 512,000 bushels, the five-year average (1920-1924). Only 10 to 15 percent of a full crop is in sight in the Hancock district—Belles 5, Elbertas 10, Salways 10, Hales 5, while the Berlin section expects 18 to 20 percent of a full crop; Carmans 25, Hileys 10, Belles 25, Hales 5, and Elbertas 20, in the opinion of observers in those localities.

Apples promise a short crop this inharmonious to State politicia year in Maryland. April weather was gifted with the prophetic instinct. unpropitious, and frosts and freezes curtailed the prospect. A total production of 1,760,000 bushels is forecast on August 1 condition. Last year total production was 1,749,000 bushels; and the average of the past five years is 1,675,000 bushels. It is estimated that Maryland will send into consuming channels out of the 1925 crop about 274,000 barrels, against 254,000 a year ago, and 283, 000 barrels, the average of the period 1920-1924.

Maryland tobacco promises to be a short crop this year. Transplanting was checked by persistent drought, resulting in a decreased acreage. Area planted is 25,000 acres against 28,000 in 1924 season.

Maryland growers of tomatoes for manufacture succeeded in setting out about 44,000 acres this year, say 12 percent less than they had originally planned, according to John S. Deenee. Federal crop statistician for Maryland. Last year the area under tomatoes, was 46,360. Prolonged drought in the early summer hindered growers in their efforts to plant up to 49,600 acres, which was their goal.

Quite a few of the fields are late this year, but the stands are well mixat one time and growers sustained loss because of inability of the canneries to handle the tomatoes fast enough. Condition of the crop continues mostly Experienced observers on the Eastern Shore declare they are looking for not less than 3.8 tons yield to the acre, the average of the preceding seven years—unless something untoward happens. Early tomatoes are ripening and being picked; but yields have been retrenched by the long dry spell. The early crop is an important factor in Dorchester and Talbot counties this Late tomatoes are blooming and fruiting.

Desertion of Farms Greatest Danger.

President McSparren of the Penn sylvania State Grange, at a meeting of Cecil County farmers, last Saturday, said that the greatest danger that confronted the nation is that farmers continue to desert farms and seek other occupations, and that the only solution, if the desertion continues will be the importation of "coolie labor by the million. He said that last year over 6,000,000 people gave up their farms, many of which were taken up by others, but that there were yet about 240,000 farms unoccu-

John H. Kimble offered a resolution from the county council of the affiliated organizations protesting "against the unjust discrimination in taxation affecting the farmers' interest and

The resolution said "there are approximately 6,000 names (in the Cecil county tax schedule) out of a population, according to the last census, of 23,612 who are paying taxes, indicating there is a large number of our citizens not contributing their share to the support of our state and county government.'

The close of the resolution recommends the appointment of a committee to attend the 1927 Legislature to demand the adoption of legislation that will assure relief and place the burden of taxation where each and all will carry a joint share of the load. This resolution was unanimously adopted and President Lloyd Balderston, who was in the chair, announced the committee would be appointed Opinions on the Subject by a Louisville, Ky., Attorney.

"Someone has said that we break more laws than any other nation because we have so many more laws to break. Of these laws, innumerable as the stars in heaven, many are good and some are necessary; but one can-not escape the conclusion that, year by year, this nation is drifting nearer to utter bureaucracy. With the looseness and hysteria of youth, we ignore a potential evil and tolerate an existing one, until it becomes too much for us. Then we enact a law about it! Something like this is happening now in the matter of automobiles. For years we have watched this giant inyears we have watched this giant innovation grow and spread, consuming an enormous quantity of property and human life and limb. We have protested feebly, praised with faint damns, made speeches and written letters to the papers; but, actually,we have accomplished very little in the reduction of automobile accidents.

Law after law has been added to the bulky scrolls of the State legislatures —and, with characteristic contempt, -and, with characteristic contempt, the ever growing army of motorists has ignored the standard rules and regulations and done exactly as it pleased. Instead of enforcing existing laws we have passed more and more, thereby creating a state of affairs wherein every man who drives an automobile is certain to break a law a mile.

The consequent hysteria has produced the inevitable result. The business of Saving the People by drastic legislation has again become the concern of the professional reformers and amateur Messiahs. This time it is "Compulsory Automobile Insurance." The phase has a nice musical sound, especially attuned to the shelllike ears of social workers and not inharmonious to State politicians

It is not an easy matter to determine just how the proponents of compulsory automobile insurance ex-pect that system to eliminate all the ills occasioned by the automobile, but there are obviously only two honest arguments for it. Compulsory insurance may be suggested as a means of reducing accidents, or else as a guarantee of damages to those who are injured by negligent motor-ists. Just how the first of these two panaceas is to help the body politic is somewhat vague.

After handling some five or six thousand automobile claims one is likely to entertain some grave doubts as to whether the possession of an insurance policy acts as a deterrent on recklessness. Indeed, common sense leads even the uninitiated to the conclusion that the possessor of insur-ance has less reason to be careful than one whose negligence may deprive him of his bank account, his house and lot, or his equity in a sec-ond-hand Tin Lizzie.—Manufacturer and Industrial News Bureau.

The will is quite lengthy and enters into details as to the bequests. All of his publication rights go equally to his wife and children, and his graphy, complete, is to be published, including also that of his wife. To his sister, Frances Bryan Baird, of Nebraska, he gives a home in East Lincoln. The will also contains a lot of small bequests, including a pension of $100.00 a year to all persons in his employ.

How Much Longer Can Taxpayers Pay the Cost?

There is a growing sentiment that our expert educators and specialists, who represent a profession in itself, are going to extremes-into faddism, in fact-making their conclusions more expensive than valuable; until in the operation of their findings and theories, burdens of cost are being placed on the general public out of proportion to the beneficial results obtained.

This has long been the opinion of many supporters of our public education system. Public schools vices rendered, but there is serious doubt as to the necessity for, and value of, many of the services. That the proper bounds of the extent of the education that the public should properly support, is being exceeded. That a good practical education in what may be termed the common branches, is all that public schools should give, and that those who want to be led up to the higher aisles of learning-the languages, music, art, and the like, should pay for it.

This sort of comment, be it understood, is not limited to Maryland, but applies to the trend toward "higher education" at public expense the country over. Maryland is simply falling in line with the trend, and can hardly do otherwise.

It is not difficult to understand how the so-called expert educators, when not restricted, can keep on, and on, suggesting "improvements"-something in advance of the essential combat and of the sin that croaches rudiments, and from the generally at the door of the heart, are conneeded practical into the class of stantly compelled to fight for their specialty education desired by the

The extension of something like this is now coming into the poultry yards; and the inspection of milk, fruits and vegetables, are along the same line-all, no doubt, backed up by well established scientific deduc-

But, the question of how much further they can be financed, must soon occupy much more than present attention.

It is most important, too, for us to consider other than the principals in a case. But, trouble, or embarrassment, later; we mere individual members of larger two legitimate sides to the tax quesbodies, and dare not always act selfishly if we would be the good citizens we ought to be.

Coal's Annual Spasm.

We have too much coal, therefore it is scarce; and because coal is so cheap the price is high. Riddle this riddle who can; it contains the coal situation in a nutshell.

What is behind the rumblings of strikes, the pronouncements of the operators, the anxiety of the White House? Much human devilment, no doubt, but something besides-the twistings of an industry that is in process of change and doesn't know it.

The operators want a strike, because it will be an excuse to hold up the public on the price. The miners want a strike, because it will close a number of surplus mines and make employment for the rest. These are the human elements, but they count for comparatively little.

The big facts are these: We have nearly twice as many mines open as we have need for. We have thousands of miners who are not needed in mining. And, in addition, the country is not using as much coal as it formerly did. Less coal does more work than it used to, because of the improved furnaces and machinery that have been evolved. Also, oil is lifting some of the load; and water-power is help-

Coal is no longer king.

Ten years ago railroads used 275 pounds of coal per thousand ton miles Today the same ton mileage is accounted for by 59 tons of coal. Railroad men prophesy that five years hence the figures will be 39 pounds.

That, in brief, is what is happening to coal. More economical use of it is resulting in less of it being needed. Coal was made so difficult to get that the public in self-defense devised means for decreasing the necessity to

Of course, these basic facts are usually hidden. But concealment will not be so easily possible this year as in former years. The actual situation in the industry is widely known throughout American business circles. Bootleggers in coal have a small chance of pulling off their game this year .-Dearborn Independent.

CURE BROODINESS IN OPEN YARD IS BEST

As the hatching season is ended the problem of broody hens will be confronting most poultry raisers for the following months.

Numerous methods have been advocated from time to time for handling broody hens. Almost every one in any neighborhood has a pet plan for breaking the hens of this condition, which is guaranteed to work. Many of these are founded on sense and will give results, while a good many are founded on abuse of the hens, which should not be practiced.

One favorite methods we used to have on the farm was to dip the hens in a tub filled with water, says a writer in the Michigan Farmer. We kept them under the water just as long as we dared without drowning them. This was supposed to scare the hen so badly that she forgot about wanting to set. Sometimes it worked and sometimes it didn't. When it didn't, something else had to be tried. The broody trait of hens is not a "notion" but a natural condition in response to natural laws. The longer the hens are tolerated in this condition, the longer it will be before they return to laying and the less the profit realized from the investment.

It is foolish to think that mistreatment and abuse which breaks up the tendency is a wise one. One idea sometimes used was to starve the hens when they became broody in order to break them up and get them back to laying. We now know that this was the exact opposite to what we should have done in order to encourage early laying. What is advisable is to feed the hens liberally on a good egg ration which would within a few days have induced the hens to lay. Once laying is resumed the broody trait will disappear.

The open-yard method of breaking up broody hens is one of the most humane treatments we can give the fowls and is also most productive of results. The method is simple. A small area is fenced off in a grassy and shady corner in which a box is placed for protection in bad weather. The hens are turned loose in this yard and plenty of fresh water and feed is given, and as a rule the broodiness ceases in a short time.

Slatted and wire mesh coops indoors or out work fairly well when the bird is caught in time, but in warm weather do not give satisfaction. According to my judgment, the best method for curing broodiness is the open yard. There is less expense, work and trouble involved in this plan than in any other tried. It breaks up the birds more quickly and thus gets them back into the laying class with a minimum loss of time.

Prevent Limberneck by Removal of Carcasses

time in looking over their range during the summer months to keep it free | a friend to his bride's parents to ask from dead carcasses they would un- their forgiveness. doubtedly prevent a great many outbreaks of so-called "limberneck," or botulism, in poultry.

This is the advice of Dr. F. R. Beaudette, poultry pathologist of the New Jersey agricultural experiment station, who says:

"At this time of the year decomposition takes place quite rapidly. Flies are attracted to carcasses and there lay the eggs which later hatch forth maggots. If these maggots are eaten by a fowl an outbreak of botulism is very apt to occur. The outstanding symptom is the limberneck, and generally the affected bird shows a bright red comb. The temperature of such a bird is usually always subnormal. This is of considerable importance in making a diagnosis. The disease is not spread from one fowl to another, and therefore can easily be controlled by eliminating the source of poisoning. It is still a question whether the maggots themselves are responsible or whether the poisoning is due to the botulinus toxin which the maggot mechanically car-

"Ranges which are overrun with weeds or with anything that would obscure a dead carcass are more dangerous than a range relatively free from tall vegetation; hence, it is a good practice to keep weeds mowed during the summer months. Of course there is no donger of botulism in flocks that are confined to runs.

"The disease cannot be cured after marked symptoms have made their appearance, though mild cases will often make a spontaneous recovery. Epsom salts in the usual dose aids in early cases. Confinement in a cool dark place seems to give good results."

Green Feed for Fowls

If possible, rest the poultry yards for a month and grow a green crop to purify the soil. A certain amount of green food is essential to the health of the poultry. When in addition to the food value, we can have the service of purifying the soil, it is thrifty to sow oats, or wheat, or rye in the poultry yard. Even when the yards cannot be spared, and the chickens must have their usual run, by heavy seeding there will be growth enough to benefit the soil.

Bohemian Women Led in Feminist Movement

Czechoslovakia claims the distinction of being the birthplace of the feminist movement. Historians have found documents showing that a republic in which all the important offices were held by women existed in Bohemia in the Seventh century. The Society for Historical Research will publish a complete account of this republic. It appears that at the death of Queen Libuzza of Bohemia, a young girl named Wlaska, who had been the trusted counselor of the queen, organized an armed force of a few hundred women and waged war against the barons of the country. Several strong castles were stormed and taken by these amazons and the prisoners were compelled to work the fields and do the most menial labor. An assembly composed entirely of women voted that, 1. Any man in possession of arms should be punished by death; 2. When expeditions were to be made only women would be allowed to fight. the men's role being that of nursing the wounded and driving the carts with food and water; 3. Men were to be allowed to ride with their knees on the same side of the horse (sidewise); 4. Women were to chose their husbands and a man's refusal to accept a woman's choice was an offense punishable by death. This rule of women is said to have lasted seven years, after which, "with bitter fights, the men regained the upper hand."

Fifty Years' Silence Brought to an End

A curious case of the strange workings of what we call the subconscious mind is reported from New York. A man who had been supposed to be both deaf and dumb for 55 yearsever since he was five years old-was put under ether in order to undergo an operation. When he came out of the anesthetic he could both hear and talk, and he did talk fluently and steadily. As a child the man was extremely shy and self-conscious. He learned to talk, but his own voice seemed to frighten him, and he kept silent as much as possible, sometimes for days at a time. When he was five he stopped talking altogether. The doctors say that his vocal organs were perfectly normal, but that he deluded himself into the idea that he could not talk. Later by a similar process of self-hypnotism he became convinced that he could not hear. That he did hear and that his subconscious mind took note of what he heard are evident from his ability to talk when the strange inhibition was removed by the unusual experience of etherization. -Youth's Companion.

Though the messenger invariably is received with great show of hostility, the culprits usually are forgiven. But if the third visit of the "go-between" is without result the lover and his bride are doomed to banishment from their village and people.

Be Beautiful at Thirty

"If you're clever, you'll be better looking at thirty than you have ever been before," writes Hazel Rawson Cades in the Woman's Home Companion. "You'll be better dressed, better poised. It's only a question of taking the trouble, and of accustoming yourself to thinking in terms of your own age. It is, I'll admit, more work to be charming at thirty than at eighteen. But it's curious that many women, born to a mediocrity which persisted through their youth, have at thirty found their charm. Because they've seen then the possibilities of their age, and realized that the charm of maturity depends not so much on your natural endowments as on the grooming, grace and mental qualities that you are willing to work for."

Signals

The Martins were preparing to make an evening call. Said Mr. Martin:

"I can't stand too long an evening with those Bergers. We're coming home at ten o'clock if I have to develop a headache to do so."

All went well until about 9:30, when four-year-old Juanita Martin became somewhat bored with the entertainment the Bergers were offering her. Climbing up into her father's lap and putting an arm around his neck, she commanded, in a stage whisper:

"Start your headache, daddy, start your headache!"-Kansas City Star.

Able to Hear Noises Made by Electrons

By means of the radio vacuum-tube amplifier, scientists have been able to hear the noises made by electrons, the infinitely small units of electricity as they are "bombarded" against the plate in the tube from the hot filament, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. These electrons, it is held, carry the current and make possible the operation of the tube, which is capable of tremendous amplification. Through this, a new way of measuring the value of the electron charge has been developed and a method of research opened which may lead to valuable knowledge concerning the electron and its properties. Previously, it has been studied by means of tiny drops of oil, observing their movements between two electrically charged plates. Droplets are made to fall slowly or rapidly or are held stationary between the plates, according to the presence of charged electrons in them and the voltage applied to the plates. With proper amplification, the roar of the electrons in the tube can be magnified to produce a volume like that of Niagara, it is said, and this action is to be studied in the hope that facts not presented in the gravity tests will be learned.

Explaining Origin of the "Vegetable Dinner"

The death of Patterson M. Vegetable, one of the most cordially hated men in North America, brings to light for the first time the story of the invention which earned him the position he occupies, "C. F." writes in the Kansas City Star.

It was the old, old story, yet ever new, of two men and a girl; in the ensuing triangle poor Patterson found himself hopelessly the hypotenuse. Soured and embittered in love, he turned to the soil; and in his little truck garden on Long Island he devoted long hours to raising obnoxious species of plants and herbs. This morbid tendency led eventually to his famous invention of a platter with various compartments, into which he fitted one species of each unpleasant plant he had produced, calling the whole affair, in his dryly humorous way, a "dinner."

The comparative economy of this idea appealed to the restaurants; and the embittered old man found the last years of his life considerably brightened by the sight of thousands of restaurant patrons seated before these plates endeavoring to eat one of Vegetable's "dinners," or "Vegetable dinners," as they came in time to be

Bugle Calls Ancient

Of very ancient origin are the various bugle calls still used by modern armies. The "tatoo" dates back to the Thirty-Years' war, from 1615 to 1643, and was originally the "tap to" call, a signal for the men to cease their drinking by closing the bung or "tap" of the barrel. "Retreat" call was used by the crusaders. The cow's horn was the first bugle and it is mentioned in the Bible. The ram's horn was a later variation. Many students of musical apparatus say the bugle is the oldest of musical instru-

Love Songs Old as Race

The making of love songs is an ancient art. Before Pan blew upon his reedy pipes there were love songs. They were sung in the Garden of Eden before and after the serpent wiggled his way into that earthly paradise. Men wove their magic into the first crude language of the human race when caves were used for dwelling places and the hunter went forth to the hills to strangle his prey with bare hands. Helen heard them sung to her within the walls of Troy. All through the countless ages of the world since time began there have been love songs.

Scotch Terriers

The first pair of Scotch terriers ever exhibited at a bench show in this country were shown to the public in 1883, at which time there was a decided dislike for the dogs, and the show was criticized for admitting the pair, but after Doctor Ewing of St. Louis and other men began developing the dogs and were able to show their finer qualities, public sentiment developed in their favor and Scotty is a welcome dog at all bench shows and has won his way to national popularity.

Pertaining to Ages

A century begins with the beginning of the first day in its first year, and does not end until the close of the last day in its hundredth year. The mode of reckoning is often confused with the common mode of stating the age of a person. A person born at the beginning of the Christian era would be called one year old during his second year, that is during the course of the year two; he would be called two during the year three; and forty during the year forty-one, etc.

Qualities of Sugar

The sweetness of sugar is tested by diluting each kind of sugar with an equal amount of water until only one tastes sweet. It is easy to confuse the sense of sweetness with other qualities of the sugar, one being the melting quality-that is, if the sugar melts easily in one's mouth, the sense of sweetness comes more rapidly than if the sugar dissolves slowly. All in "Oh, no, it isn't, granny," said Mol- all, it is believed that white sugar is sweeter than brown.

This popular "movie" star is known in Hollywood as the "most perfect woman." When her measurements were taken some time ago they were found to be exactly those of the Greek ideal of feminine perfection. #### HABIT-FORMING DRUGS

A NY substance used in any way to treat disease is a drug, even though it may be used for other pur-

Tea, coffee, alcohol, mustard, prunes, soap, bicarbonate of soda, and many other things in daily use in the house hold, have a medicinal as well as their ordinary economic value.

Habit-forming drugs may be perfectly good and useful and legitimate for medical purposes, but they often tempt people to use them unnecessarily and poison them.

People who are thus enslaved think they cannot get along without their dope; their will power and self-control are lost and, sooner or later, if not cut off in other ways, they get fatal disease from use of the drug. Frequently an overpowering dose of the drug carries them off suddenly.

People are differently affected by the same drug at different times. A dose of morphine has more effect on an empty stomach than when the stomach is busy digesting food, and will take effect more quickly when you are tired and sleepy, than when full of life and activity; moreover, if it is taken to relieve pain, more will if it is not. People are also differently affected by different samples of the same drug. A quarter of a grain of morphine made by one chemist may produce the utmost effect desired by the doctor who gives it, while half a grain made by another chemist may fail in producing that effect, the first specimen being a pure drug, the second adulterated or unsuccessfully made. Drugs are taken to influence disease or produce sleep or relieve pain. It is because they make you comfortable or produce certain agreeable sensations that they allure you when they are not required medicinally. Drugs ordinarily harmless, like tea, coffee, or tobacco, may be taken in such quantities as to be injurious.

Doctors have often been accused of laying the foundation of drug habits; this may be true in some cases, but in many years of experience I have seen few such cases.

They usually come about because people prescribe for themselves, and particularly because, until within the last few years, it has been so easy to get a drug or a medicine which would satisfy the craving of the drug fiend. (© by George Matthew Adams)

Mind Had Slumbered

A curious case on record is that of a blacksmith, Paul Stengel, who was kicked in the head by a horse while in the middle of a sentence addressed to his assistant, and rendered unconscious for several days. On recovering, his mind was an absolute blank, until one day he fell down a flight of steps, pitching on his head. He was picked up in a dazed condition; and on recovering his senses the first words he uttered were the completion of the sentence that had been interrupted by the horse's kick some months earlier.

Took a "Day Off"

The longest night in history, September 2, 1752, was when the Gregorian calendar was adopted in England, through the influence of Lord Chesterfield. The calendar arranged by Julius Caesar, by not making sufficient allowance for leap year, had caused the English date to become 11 days behind the right time. These days were omitted after September 2, so that the next day was reckoned as September 14.

Genius and the Brain

That genius may have its abode in a brain much below the average in weight is proved by the case of the late Anatole France. Doctor Regault. to whom the brain was submitted, states that it weighed only 1.017 grammes, or nearly 400 grammes below the accepted figure.

On Growing Old

We all have to grow old, so do your best not to worry about it. For over three thousand years people have been trying to discover the secret of perpetual youth, but they have never discovered it, and they never will. Old age is a gracious and a happy state when we accept it naturally. only when we struggle that it becomes a tragedy.

There are many examples in natural history of skill overcoming sheer brute strength, and there is one illustration of educated animal instinct which comes very near to human skill, This is the collie dog, which, by hereditary and acquired skill, is capable not only of controlling the movements of flocks of sheep and herds of cattle which, as regards brute strength, are infinitely superior to itself, but is further able to count the herd or flock and discover if one is missing from it. Cases are on record in which collies, missing one out of a flock of sheep, have gone back and either hunted it up or found it dead. This is certainly the nearest approach to human skill exhibited in the animal kingdom.

In the jungles of India there are monkeys who are able by means of something like human skill to take until they are dead or stunned.

A still more curious fact is that the monkeys only do this when they know they are within reach of a herb which frequently proves an antidote to the bite of the particular snake they at-

Of marine animals the whale is physically the most powerful. Its most determined enemy is the thrasher, a fish of much inferior strength, which, by superior skill in attack, frequently comes off victor. There is also a kind of shark which arranges its attacks so skillfully that it will wound to death a whale which could kill it with a single stroke of its flukes.

Filling Zuyder Zee

When the draining of the Zuyder zee has been completed 30 or more years hence about 494,000 acres of fertile land will have been reclaimed—enough to take care of 250,000 Hollanders who otherwise would be forced to emigrate by the steadily increasing overproduction of the Netherlands. What will become of the 3,000 fishermen who now earn their living by fishing is another question. The government has taken far-reaching measures to compensate the fishermen or to aid them by shifting the scene of their activity to the coast. Moreover a small lake will be left in the center of the present sea so that fishing will not be permitted to die by inches. The greater number of the Zuyder zee fishermen will be trained in inland navigation. Recently the first training ship left Amsterdam for a trip along the Dutch rivers in order to prepare the fishermen for their new jobs. Within a few weeks several of those on the isle of Marken will go up for examination. Several other fishermen already have become "landlubbers." One may see them road mending in their picturesque fishermen's dresses.

The scandal-loving slanderer Just misses being jailed. His every slur denotes the cur-His speech should be currelled. Melanchthon

The original name of Philip Meanchthon was Philip Schwartzered. He was born in 1497 and died in 1560. He was a German Reformer. In early manhood he was professor of Greek at Wittenberg university, but became fellow-worker with Martin Luther. He drew up the Augsburg confession, and managed with consummate skill the conference with the opponents of the reformed religion held at Worms and Ratisbon. By his skill and wisdom he did much to save the Reformation from excesses. On the death of Luther he became the leader of the Lutherans. His most popular publication was a book that is regarded as the first great Protestant work on

Boiling Water in Bag

Here is one from Australia on a novel way to boil water. The old fisherman is speaking: "I left my william-can at home one day. The prospect of dinner without tea did not appeal to me. Fishing in the tucker bag, I found a sound paper oag. Making a fire, I propped the oag, full of water, near it. By constantly pouring water into the bag, the top of it was prevented from burning. The water boiled, the tea was made and there was no prouder man in all the land than I." Try this some time when you haven't anything else

Making Windmills Work

Rigid tests are being applied to the invention of a Berlin scientist, Major Bilau, who has erected on a farm in Hertfordshire a windmill which he claims will develop enough electric power to light a village and can easily supply sufficient power to operate all the machinery on a large farm or ranch. It is a curious looking windmill, having great arms shaped much like the blades of an airplane propeller, and so constructed that suction is brought into play to get every ounce of turning power from the wind. As the propellers revolve they put in motion a set of gears that drive a dynamo contained in a balloonlike attachment immediately behind them. Near by four other windmills of various types are operating and the power they develop is registered in a testing shed and compared daily with the work done by a Bilau mill.

TEMPERANCE LESSON

LESSON TEXT—Gal. 5:13-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Be not deceived:
God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

JUNIOR TOPIC—Good and Bad

Fruits.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—Drunkenness and Kindred Evils.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Flesh Against the Spirit.

Having shown in chapters 3 and 4 of this epistle that the believer is free from the law as a means of justification, Paul makes practical application of this doctrine.

1. Christian Freedom (vv. 13-15). 1. It Is Not an Occasion to the "Flesh" (v. 13).

Liberty is not license. The notion that when one is free from the law he is free from constraint, is wickedly erroneous. License of the flesh means not merely the indulgence of the flesh in actual material sins, but in the expression of a self-centered life in biting and devouring one another (v. 15). Bickering among Christians is an example thereof. 2. By Love, Serving One Another

Freedom from the Mosaic law means slavery to the law of love. "The emerging from bondage through Christ is the passing into a sphere of life in which all the powers should act under the dominion of the true motive, love."-Morgan.

II. Walking in the Spirit (v. 16-18). This discloses the secret of how a life of service to another can be lived.

The governing principle in the life of a believer is the Holy Spirit. Walking in the Spirit results in:

1. Loving Service to Others (v. 13). Victory Over the Flesh (vv. 16-

By the flesh is meant the corrupt nature of man expressing itself in the realm of sense and self. The renewed man becomes two men between whom a mortal conflict is going on. The Christian must choose between good and evil. When he chooses the evil, the Holy Spirit opposes, and when he chooses the good the flesh opposes. Notwithstanding this deadly conflict, victory is sure if one chooses the

III. The Works of the Flesh (vv. 19-21).

By works of the flesh is meant the operation of the carnal nature. The one who chooses to live according to the impulses and desires of his natural heart will be practicing the following sins.

1. Sensuality (v. 19). The sins enumerated here are practised in the sphere of the body and

(1) Fornication. (The word "adultery" is omitted from the best manu-

(2) Uncleanness. This includes all sensual sins, open or secret, thought or deed.

(3) Lasciviousness. This means the wanton reckless indulgences in the shameful practices of the flesh.

2. Irreligion (v. 20). These acts take place in the realm of the spirit and are:

(1) Idolatry, which means the worshiping of idols. (2) Witchcraft or Sorcery. This means all dealing with the occu't such as magical arts, etc. 3. Sins of the Temper (vv. 20-21.

These take place in the sphere of the mind and are:

(1) Hatred.

(2) Variance, which means strife. (3) Emulations, jealousy.

(4) Wrath, bursts of passions.

(5) Seditions, factions in the state. (6) Heresies, factions in the church.

(7) Envyings. * (8) Murders.

4. Sins of Excess (v. 21).

(1) Drunkenness. This means indulgence in intoxicating liquors. (2) Revelings, acts of dissipation under the influence of intoxicants. IV. The Fruit of the Spirit (v. 22-

This indicates action in the realm of life, the product of the Holy Spirit indwelling the believer.

1. Love, to God and man. Joy, glad-heartedness because of what God has done.

3. Peace with God and fellowman. 4. Longsuffering, taking insult and injury without murmuring. 5. Gentleness, kindness to others.

6. Goodness, doing good to others.

7. Faith, believing God and committing all to Him.

8. Meekness, submission to God. 9. Temperance, self-control in all things. Against such there is no law.

Man's Sorrows

Man's sorrows are a mystery, but that sinners should not have sorrows were a sadder mystery still. And God pleads with us all not to lose the good of our experiences of the bitterness of sin by our levity or our blindness to their meanings.-Alexander Maclaren.

Do It Today

There are a lot of people who never put off till tomorrow what they can get somebody to do today.-Western Christian Advocate.

9:24-27; 1 Peter 2:11-17 The rules for the game of life directly taught or clearly suggested in the passages should be observed in any game. Paul, who gave the rules in 1 Corinthians 9:24-27, was apparently an athlete. He ran in the games, and almost certainly en-gaged in the boxing game. Whether he spoke out of his earlier life before his Damascus experience or of the days of his Christian life, we may not be certain, but at least he knew what he was talking about. In this passage we find that the runner in the

1 Have a purpose of winning the race. Persons engaging in any game of play listlessly or carelessly do not enjoy the game, and those with them enjoy it less.

(2) The runner must be temperate. Hot-bloodedness in a game is not wise. Before the game there should be quietness and steadiness of nerve, and these things are to be se-cured by care as to eating and drinking—being "temperate in all things". It is well known that in the athletic world, whether contests are of individuals or of companies of athletes, there are very strict rules as to diet, exercise and sleep. Such persons are exercise and sleep. Such persons are usually under the direction of some one intelligent as to these things. If these things are so in the secular world, how much more are they in the spiritual world! All Christians should be running to obtain a crown, but many will not receive crowns simply because they are not content to run many will not receive crowns simply because they are not content to run with that object in view.

(4) He must keep under his body. It is with the body that he plays. The law of temperance applies here very particularly, and players should not be content to go into a game with the body in held condition. The mind the body in bad condition. #### Queer Contributions

to Medical Science

The Warwickshire county councillor who bequeathed his body to the General hospital, Birmingham, in the hope that light would be thrown on the origin of headache, "the unmerciful scourge that has wrecked my happiness from my earliest recollection,' followed a long line of posthumous benefactors to medical science.

Perhaps the most remarkable of all was Jeremy Bentham, the philosopher, who directed that his skeleton should be clothed, provided with a specially molded wax head, and presented to the medical section of University college, London, where it may still be

Hospitals often receive queer bequests. Charing Cross hospital not long ago received a bag containing forty-eight farthings, a bust of Queen Victoria, and the return half of a railway ticket. Another famous hospital received the deeds of a freehold house, a pawnticket for a valuable sporting trophy, a diamond ring, several prize rabbit skins, and twenty aspidistras in pots.-London Times.

City of Quaint Dress

The city of Seoul, now called Keijo, the seat of the Korean government, is a place of quaint dress. White is the universal color of outer clothing, whether for men or for women. The women, who are short and fat, wear fantastic balloon cotton skirts. The men wear a "Mother Hubbard" robe, baggy trousers tied at the ankles, and a transparent "plug" hat, many sizes too small, tied under the chin. Long thin whiskers, great horn-rimmed goggles, hair put up in a queer topknot to signify manhood, and pipes with stems two or three feet long complete the picture. When in mourning for a male relative a man wears an immense straw hat shaped like a toad-

The Coffee Cure

Coffee was once regarded as a cure-all. The first advertisement of the beverage was published in the Publick Adviser of May 19, 1657, and announced that the proprietor of a shop in Bartholomew Lane, London, was stocking "a. very wholesome and physical drink" called coffee, the virtue of which included helping the digestion, quickening the spirits, lightening the heart and proving "excellent good against eyesores, coughs, colds, headaches, gout, dropsy, scurvy, king's evil," and a long string of other ail-

Atmosphere Above Earth

The exact height of the earth's atnosphere is not known. Some estimates, based on the calculated heights of shooting stars when they first become luminous, place the limit at which atmosphere has a density sufficient to produce any observable effects at about 200 miles. Very little oxygen is present in the air at a height of 110 kilometers (68.31 miles). There is none at a height of 120 kilometers (74.52 m<sup>3</sup>).

Reifsnider signaled to make the turn to his home at the Square. The Baltimore car, travelling place. at about 30 miles an hour, attempted to pass Reifsnider, but finding it impossible, and in order to avoid hitting his car, swerved and dashed headlong into the A. C. Eckard, (formerly Eckenrode) building, striking the front steps with such force as to displace the heavy stone steps 10 or 12 inches, and badly damaging the front running gear of the car. The occupants escaped with slight injuries. At a hearing before Justice Davidson, Reifsnider was exonerated, and the Maxwell owner fined $6.45.

Taneytown's water plant gave us a gasoline-flavored product for a few days last week, due to a leak in the gas line from the tank to the engine at the pumping station, which permitted the gasoline to flow to the supply well, and from there was pumped to the standpipe, through the mains to house use. Naturally, the flavor was not an improvement over the pure water that we are quite proud of. Burgess Ohler and the Commissioners immediately investigated and remedied the defect by making the needed repairs and flushing the stand-pipe, and by Sunday we were again enjoying clear, sparkling water. The Burgess and Commissioners will sink an additional well, at the pumping station, work on which will begin at once.

The Future Outlook for Weekly New-

At some future time—possibly not in the near future in Carroll county people living in small towns and communities will be called upon to decide an important question. Whether they want their local weeklies to live, or whether they will continue undermining the financial support of weeklies by subscribing for dailies, and discontinuing, the home papers?

There is a limit to the extent to which the home weeklies can suffer loss of subscription patronage, and to the same time issue present sized, and present standard weeklies. The led is already being narrowed by the which the home weeklies can suffer loss of subscription patronage, and at the same time issue present sized, and present standard weeklies. The field is already being narrowed by the combination of papers in towns op-erating several weeklies. In other towns, job offices are being continued, and the weekly paper discontinued.

The trend is exactly the same as that confronting the railroads of the country. Loss in patronage, due to autos and bus lines, causes the taking off of passenger trains. It costs a lot of money to operate trains and newspapers, and when the revenue no longer equals the expense, curtailment of service is the inevitable re-

In the case of the railroad, the public still gets adequate service, perhaps, through the greater use of motor cars. But this same compensation does not apply when the attempt is made to substitute a daily paper for the weeklies. For the more important news, there is adequate compensation; but for the lesser local news, the adver-tising, and the many features that make up the attractions of the local weekly, the larger city papers never will anything like fully compensate.

Perhaps the weeklies will be able to meet the situation, in part, by issuing smaller papers, and by increas-in charges for local service—for service that the far away daily can not supply, and there may be a weeding out of papers for which there never was a very promising field; at any rate, the signs of the times are that, perhaps before many years, towns that have long had a good weekly, will be compelled to decide the question first asked.

"Coming events cast their shadows before" and it is the part of wisdom not to disregard the "shadows."
