TANEYTOWN, MARYLAND, FRIDAY, MARCH 12, 1926.

WINTER WAS HARD ON STATE ROADS.

Extensive Repairs and Oiling Very Much Needed.

The Frederick News, of Tuesday, contained the following information concerning damage done to macadamized roads, this winter; "The winter just closing left its impression upon Maryland's state road system. Not in recent years have they been so badly damaged by frost and ice District Engineer W. F. Child, Jr., said Thursday evening as he discussed the spring repairing and new constructing work.

Looking ahead to early oiling, three repair gangs are now at work on the National and Emmitsburg pikes. Other gangs of increased size will be added from time to time as the weather opens up.

Freezing and thawing weather, almost continuous throughout the last three months, caused tremendous damage to the surface of the macadam roads. These damaged sections must be repaired before off and stone chips can be applied as the annual spring treatment.

Mr. Childs estimated that it cost mr. Childs estimated that it cost the state about $15,000 to remove snow in this district, comprising sections in Frederick, Howard, Montgomery, Carroll and Baltimore counties. He had under his supervision 16 truck plows, which were constantly on duty for several days immediately following the two most recent bliz-

The State Roads Commission proposes to oil 342 miles of road this year, with an expenditure of 725,046 gallons of oil. Estimates will be asked for oiling the following roads:

Correspondents Should Think of Far Away Readers.

This week, we had a complaint from a long-time subscriber, living in Philadelphia, that very few "items" appeared in the Record from his "old home" town in this county, and won-dered why? The reason is, because the correspondent we have there seldom "corresponds."

Now, there are lots of cases just like that. We have many subscribers in cities, and out west, who have no his mind. interest in The Record except to get | through it, the news items from some

Beware of "Political Wind."

Frederick William Wile, of Washington, an expert on political surveys and the inside doings of politics in general, in a radio, on Tuesday evening, in his running comment on what is being done throughout the country, and in Congress, for political effect, just because a new Congress is to be elected, this fall, stated that all, or nearly all, of the great dailies of the country, were being operated by "wet" influences, and that some of them were conducting "polls" of votes, purporting to represent the "wet" and "dry" public sentiment, and that the result of these polls was "known beforehand."

That these so-called "polls," and many of the speeches in Congress, are for political effect only, and represent merely pre-campaign "wind" for the sake of influencing voters, and that the reason why they are being trotted out now, is because the "pri-mary" elections will commence, next month in some states, and continue on, somewhere, until late in the Sum-

A statement along the same line, but not specifically mentioning prohibition, is contained in an editorial, clipped from the Philadelphia Ledger on the editorial page of this issue. All of which means, that from now until after the election, readers are warned not to take too seriously what they read that has a political bearing. "Windy" products, promises and statements, will be abundantly made, for political effect on individuals, because a "big election" is coming.

WHY FARMS ARE DESERTED. Scientific Farming Drives out the Mentally Unfit.

A writer in the Dearborn Independent gives his reasons why so many are deserting the farms. They are correct, as far as they go, but as covering the subject, are not broad enough. In effect, they are; that farming is now largely a scientific proposition requiring a great deal of engineering know how; and that peo-ple leave the farm because they do not know how to farm, and can do factory work easier because there is but little brain work required, for the managers do the thinking, and machinery does the rest.

Farming is becoming a "scientific" proposition; it is a "business"; it does require men of up-to-date intelli-gence; successful farmers do understand the managerial, as well as the work, part of their job; and the unfits are dropping out, and in a few years there is quite likely to be a trend back to the farm; and yet—well, we will let the man give his views on the

"As the city population grew, so the demands for farm products increased, which in turn necessitated more produce to the acre. The scientist entered farming. State experiment stations discovered ways of increasing farm crops. The teacher entered farming. He took the dis-coveries of the experiment stations into the state colleges of agriculture, into extension courses, and to county agents.

Together these made the planter and reaper of crops into an engineer! Crop rotation, stock feeding, soil preparation; marketing, financing, complicated machinery; and educational courses have changed the routine farming of two generations ago into work more resembling that of a factory engineer. The mental demands placed upon the farmer have rapidly increased and it is only natural that many farmers have been unable to keep up with these demands through lack of ability. A century or twenty-five years ago-they could have been successful farm-

Meanwhile the work of the industrial employe has been increasingly simplified. One engineer plans and commonly does the thinking for a hundred workers. Thus the mental demands upon the industrial worker have been growing less and less.

A school teacher in Minneapolis a short while ago met on the street one of her pupils of the preceding year. This pupil was one with the intelligence of only a ten-year-old child. To her embarrassment the teacher discovered that her feeble-minded pupil was now earning in industry more that she herself was paid by the city of Minneapolis.

So, it is into industrial work that the farmer who cannot keep in the race, enters. There his thinking is done for him, and his work is much less complicated and less taxing on What One Editor Reads.

As a matter of curiosity, we made a count of the number of periodicals regularly received at this office, either as editor, or individually, and this was the result; 7 dailies, 32 weeklies, and 23 monthlies. In order to correct the minds of some who may think that an editor gets his reading matter entirely free, we give the information that 17 of the publications are paid for (in advance) with actual cash; 5 are paid for with advertising; 27 are "ex-changes," and the rest just "come."

Then, there are numerous more or less regular publications having some particular mission; lots of "sample" copies, and "marked" or other copies sent in by individuals; and an uncountable number or reports, advertising propositions, political announcements, circular matters, etc.

This, of course, is approximately the experience of the average weekly newspaper office; but, it may be of some interest to our readers. Of the regular publications received, some of them are read pretty fully, some are read for a special purpose, and all are given at least a "once over," and but few are wholly valueless to us.

Very few pieces of mail matter, of any sort, go into "the basket" with-out examination; so, it may be imagined that these regulars, in themselves, require not only much time, but time that means "work" before they are finally disposed of, for many of them supply articles that are "boiled down" and used as news for the Record, or furnish "inspiration" for editorial writing, or perhaps supply "clipped" articles to be used when needed. Some of them, of course, are for purely "family" reading.

It, also, decided to ask for a sufficient amount in the budget in order to assist the community at Deer Park in having a standard rural school. At this point in the meeting, the President was compelled to leave and Commissioner Koons took the chair. The Sykesville matter was brought before the Board by a committee of citizens from Sykesville, requesting that the Board build the school building at Sykesville this summer and that the Board agree to put the necessary amount in the budget, and that bids be secured for the construction of the same, as the plans and specifications for the same were on hand, providing the County Commissioners authorize the Board to build the same. The Board agreed to put the necessary amount in the budget dependent upon information that the County Commissioners would authorize the same and agreed to begin the construction as soon as the funds were made avail-

The Superinted by the superinted a committee intendent was appointed a committee of one to work out some definite plan to take care of the situation.

Commissioner Zepp was appointed a committee of one to go before the Mt. Airy Mayor and Council with reference to having the old water tank which adjoins the school property removed as it is not safe for the children to play near it.

The request of Mrs. Kenneth M. Trayer, of near Enterprise and Dennings, to allow the community to use the Enterprise School House which has been closed for some time, for social activities of the community was granted by the Board provided that there is a committee of three citizens from the community who will be responsible for the property. The names of the citizens on the committee are to be sent to the office of the Board. The Board will allow them the use of the building free of charge. The Board adjourned at 12:45.

Interesting Facts Concerning Cost of Battlefield Improvements.

The authorities, therefore, will have to indulge in an era of close economy for quite a while, as it can not borrow any more at this time, though the city has an assessed valuation of over $2,500,000.

Another news item, this week, in connection with Gettysburg, will be of interest to many, as it conveys figures as to the cost of improvements monuments and unkness of the ments, monuments, and upkeep of the National cemetery. Col. Cope, Super-intendent of the Gettysburg National Military Park, shows that in all almost $3,500,000 was spent on the battlefield since 1863.

The expense of the field included nearly $1,000,000 expended for acquisition of lands and more than $250,000 on roads. More than 2500 acres of land are under direct control of the superintendent. State monuments on the battlefield cost approximately $350,000, of which $200,000 is represented by the Pennsylvania memorial, about $85,000 by New York's monuments and $50,000 by the handsome Virginia shaft and statues. Southern States will soon begin erecting memorials here. Government tablets, State and regimental memorials number 840, the report

High School Principal Dead.

Russell N. Young, aged 48, principal of Thurmont High School, died last Sunday after a brief illness from pneumonia. He was for a number of years assistant superintendent of Frederick county schools, and for several years was principal of the Mt. Airy High School. He was Superintendent of the Thurmont Lutheran Sunday School, and member of the Church Council.

He leaves a widow who was the daughter of the late Rev. M. L. Beard, a formerly well known Lutheran pas-tor who served the Mt. Joy Charge, Middletown and Thurmont; and one son and one daughter.

Farmers and Radio.

Farmers who have radio sets should not fail to tune in on Washington, WRC, every day at 12 o'clock, for the daily talk on "farming" and kindred topics, that follow the announcement of Eastern Standard time. These talks are usually given in the nature of replies to questions asked, and are very helpful and practical.

Other talks from Washington, in the evening, well worth hearing, are Frederick William Wiles political surveys, and other talks usually given in the evening on some public topic, from 7:00 to 8:00 o'clock. The Washington programs, especially, will be worth looking up, between now and the opening of the busy farm work of

GAMBLERS THE LOSERS IN STOCK CRASH.

Professional Speculators Get a Deserved Lesson.

For several weeks past, the papers have been full of the big drop in stocks of various kinds, chiefly as the "drop" relates to buying and selling on "margins"—in other words, "stock gambling"—the losses in which have not materially affected anybody but the speculators.

As a matter of fact, those who owned stocks, as investments, do not as a rule worry much about stock market reports; their main object is dividends, though no doubt a good many sold when the selling was good, which does not mean that they were in any sense, gamblers.

But, stock gamblers are made—who never intend to be made such—by watching the "market" and getting it into their minds that they are financiers who can avoid being sheared "lambs." Real "financiers" do not indulge in stock jobbing. When they buy, they buy for keeps, on special knowledge of the actual value of the stocks they buy, and when they sell, they sell understandingly, real stocks, and not on "margins." The Philadelphia Ledger says;

"A large percentage of those who open accounts with brokerage houses are economically illiterate. They are good in their own lines, but they know little or nothing of the laws that govern stock markets. The doctor, the minister, the small tradesman and the thousands of others that go to make up the speculatively inclined public can never be cured of the belief that money can be made in the street without special knowledge.

Now the debauch is over, we can view the situation in the cold light of sobriety and count heads among the shorn lambs, a term, by the way, that is wholly misleading. Amateur speculators, who, naturally, would be placed in the lamb class, were not the hardest hit in the latest stock-market debacle. Many of them, of course, were caught and crushed between the millstones of the opposing forces in Wall Street, but the heaviest losers were professional speculators, men who live by the sword and expect to die by the sword."

Mistakes of the Printer.

Printers and publishers make mistakes, mostly in proof-reading and dates, and perhaps a very small number of mistakes of fact. Proof-reading "You also ask what force and effect" mistakes are mostly harmless—the plainer they are, the more harmless they are—and, there is often much justification for them.

The "correcting" of mistakes that this and succeeding issues. Our reports indicate that prices have been very good, considering everything, and with, because they are the ones made with, because they are the ones made local laws will apply to that portion by those who provide the "copy" for the river lying within the limits the printer, and they are legion; poor of the counties to the same extent as takes"—usually charged to the printer

Even those who are most exacting as to their finished work, send in the worst "copy". They seem to think that the printer "ought to know" just what is wanted, and produce it, without giving the patron much trouble about details, and that any sort of scrawling pencil copy ought to be perfectly understandable; or, if it isn't, the printer "ought to know" what is meant, anyway.

The printer has as much right to work from exact plans and specifications, as any other contractor. His instructions should be so plain and correct, that there need be no shadow of doubt as to what is wanted in the finished product; but, such is very far from the fact, in very many cases.

A printer is justified—so far as collecting his bill is concerned—in "following copy," but if he always did that he would likely lose some customers, and not be considered a "good printer." The facts are, there are literally hundreds of mistakes, made by others, corrected in a printing office, every week; but, it is part of the printer's "job"—correcting somebody else's mistakes—yet getting lambasted for the few of his own invention.

FISH LAWS, ONCE MORE.

Explanation of State and Local Laws by Attorney-General.

At the request of the State Game Warden, we again publish an explanation of the complex "fish" laws of the state, as follows;

The open season for Trout at all points above tide-water is April 2 to June 30, inclusive, and the open season for Bass and all other species of fresh water fishes (except suckers, carp, catfish, eels and gudgeon) is July 2 to November 30, inclusive. It is unlawful to use a dip net above tide-water points at any time, except same may be used to take bait fish. The Court of Appeals, Case No. 91, which declared the Compact of 1785 as not applying above tide-water on the Potomac River, has caused numerous inquiries to reach this office as to the application of the local laws. In the counties of Garrett, Allegany and Carroll, the local law requires all nonresidents of the State, and in Washington and Frederick counties, all non-residents of the county, to procure an angler's license at a cost of $5.00, from the Clerk of Court, to fish in said waters. Under date of March 5, we requested an opinion from the Attorney-General, relative to this matter, which is quoted as follows; "Your letter of March 5 in reference to the effect of the recent decisence to the effect of the recent decision of the Court of Appeals, in case No. 91, October Term, 1925, upon the existing State Laws regulating fishing is received. By the above opinion the Court of Appeals decided that the Compact between Maryland and Virginia in reference to the jurisdiction over the Potomac River exdiction over the Potomac River extended only so far as said river is navigable and that above that point Maryland has exclusive jurisdiction. That being the case, Chapter 340 of the Acts of 1924 will apply to all of the Potomac River that is not navigable. The opinion does not decide at what point the navigable part of said river commences, that being a matter of fact to be determined by the evi-

This Act is still in force as affecting the propagatory of the Potomeron of the non-navigable part of the Potomac River except in so far as it is inconsistent with Public General Laws which have been passed since that time. In other words, Chapter 340 of the Acts of 1924 or any other public General Laws passed since would take precedence over the form-

Let Us Take Time-Not Life.

In 1924 the vehicles of the Standard Oil Company of Indana crossed railroad tracks 31,000,000 times without an accident, an average of 85,000 safe crossings per day. Why no accidents?

Because the drivers did not cross tracks until they knew no train was approaching. Had all other drivers employed the same good sense, not one of the 2,149 persons killed at railroad crossings in Young "Bob" La Follette, Senator from Wisconsin, is still sad over political party degeneracy, and says regular Democrats and Republicans are both the same thing-"reactionary" -not alive to the beauties of Progressivism. On the whole, he seems to be real down-hearted over the way the country is being run, but is not wholly discouraged.

It is believed that unless the various "farmer" bills are "scrapped" and there is something like agreement on some one measure that can come before Congress backed by all the farm organizations of the country, all of the bills may fail, singly. The Education Bill.

The Education Bill, now before the Joint Educational Committee of Senate and House, that proposes the establishment of a "Department of Education" as a part of the machinery of the National government, has both strong advocates and strong oppon-

It is held, on the one hand, that it would interfere with both state and perhaps religious rights, and on the other that no "rights" will be assailed, any more than a department of labor, or agriculture, assails these

One of the claims made by sponsors for the bill, is, that it would have the effect of standardizing, especially public school education and likely reduce its cost, and that it would enormously reduce the cost of constructing school buildings. Just how it is to bring about these reductions, does not seem clear, but they would be very welcome to taxpayers.

We know very little about this bill, but it is one over which there are very strong likes and dislikes, and apparently a very strong sentiment against the Federal government having anything to do with public education, about which, no doubt, more will be heard when the bill comes up for de-

The Old "Buy at Home" Topic, once More.

We like the "Buy at Home" policy, and are not favorable to the "Mail Order" houses. We can not help holding this view, for the reason that we oppose the "centralization of power," especially as it applies to trade; and think that local self-government in political affairs, should be as wide spread as possible, so as not to interfere with the necessities of National and state unions in government-of strong central governments for the good of the whole.

But, the "Buy at Home" motto can not be made work out in full, for the reason that we want many articles that we can not get at home. Our wants have developed in extent more rapidly than home dealers can ever hope to supply. We want "the world," in effect-or some part of it -and the "world" cannot be assembled together at any one place, and especially not in small places. So,we necessarily must "go away from home" to buy some things.

And here begins the big problem-How many things, and "how far' away from home? We must not be selfish about the thing, and we must be consistent, or our arguments fall. Of course, every local merchant argues that the "buy at home" plan ought to mean at "his" store, or at least some other store in "his" town -let us say, dry goods.

ne wants to buy machinery, or an automobile, is apt to forget to apply his own argument, and go away from home for the things he does not himself sell.

Likewise, the machinery and automobile dealers talk the "buy at home" motto, and yet, do not hesitate to enter some other town's "home" field, to make more sales—cover wider tersame time considers it good business to specialize on "mail orders."

So, when the "Buy at Home" creed is analyzed, it is found to have two -or more—sides; for the reason, that we want to exercise a pretty wide extent of "personal liberty;" and, we are apt, without realizing it, to want this liberty for ourselves but deny it to others. It is one of the many creeds we meet with in life that nobody can carry out, but is always worthy of approaching as closely as possible.

We should make a good try, always, at "Buying at Home," and the "selling" end of the proposition should make as good a try at having for sale as much of the wants of his world as he can reasonably be expected to New York City has to stand for carry, and at a fair price. If we are largely centres around habit, and desire, both of which we can very large-

The "Buy at Home" disciples must discard this commonly acted policy; "you ought to buy from me, but I have the right to buy where I please," It is the alien, the off-color thing, for being consistent in our acts, and that gets by in New York City, and making them fit our arguments, is the reason is obvious-New York is about the most difficult task we have overwhelmingly populated with for- to face, if the whole truth be told; and the measure of success with which we are consistent, largely determines how good a citizen and neighbor we are, in actually save nothing by going away to buy.

Time for Congress to Play Politics.

The Philadelphia Ledger, in commenting on the fact that Congress has been transacting business, and not much "politics," sees the pressure being brought to open up a season of the latter, and says;

"The truce has lasted for ninety days, but politics being politics and Congressmen being human, it cannot go on indefinitely. This is March. Soon it will be May and June and midsummer. Primaries are coming and there is a general election eight months away.

months away. Political fences will need fixing. The strange shifting and swapping of votes on the tax bill left some weird political aftermaths. Some of the supposed party leaders have had their leadership taken away from them. They still wear their shoulder straps, but some one else issues the

There is much for Congress to do. Farm-relief legislation demands attention. The railroad bill should be carefully and earnestly debated, studied and considered. The report of the President's Aircraft Board includes many sound recommendations. These ought to become a part of the national defense policy.

Last, but not least, and first in the mind of the White House is the Italian-American debt agreement. There quit at the three-mile limit.

Congress, however, has been more or less virtuous about as long as it can. Capitol Hill yearns to make war-medicine. Democrats crave to lift an Administration scalplock. War hatchets in hand, they circle round the Italian-American agreement. There is war paint on their faces and their hearts are bad. Other ghost songs are being sung and other hearts are bad. There are Republicans who long to lift the hair of other Republicans. Arrows are being fitted to Democratic bowstrings for other Democrats. The "Who's Who" of leadership in both party camps may be revised before the Moon of Green Corn shines on the political landscape.

For lo! the spring is at hand and the voice of the turtle dove soon will be heard in the land. The soft whetwhet of sharpening snickersnees comes on the winds from Washington. Congress has been comparatively good, but Congress is not happy. It craves trouble, and that craving spells trouble. The White House will lose little sleep. The two major Administration policies have been carried through. The appropriation bills are well along the road. If Congress wants to play politics with farm relief, rail, aircraft, and banking legistics that it the effect of Congress lation, that is the affair of Congress, always subject, of course, to its be-coming the affair of the people who make and unmake Congressmen."

"The Farm Surplus."

Twenty-two farm delegates from the Northwest and Mid-West called upon the President and told the manytimes-told tale of farm conditions. They are now appearing before the House Agricultural Committee. They want Washington to set up several more farm boards and to stabilize But this same dry goods man, when farm prices through control of "surplus crops." They propose an "equalization fee" on these commodities for a fund to be used for "control" and "stabilization." Meanwhile, they want revolving Federal fund to start the

The President listened. Secretary Jardine listened and frankly said he was not in favor of the "equalization" plan because he believes it unworkable. The chances are that this phase of it would be more workable than some of its other phases. The whole When wheat is a good price, more wheat is sown. When corn is high, more corn is planted. When pork prices are up, more hogs are produced. Good cotton prices always mean increased acreage. Good beef prices mean more steers.

With production stimulated by good prices, the "surplus" will become greater. Production will not be controlled, for it can't be. The farmer will plant as he pleases and reap all he can. He will not check the increase of his herds and flocks. There is a 'surplus" now when prices are not stabilized or guaranteed. How great, then, may the "surplus" be when supported by artificial prices? How long until the whole scheme would fall of its own weight unless supported by millions from the National Treasury?

If production could be controlled, it might work. However, all the armed forces of the United States could not from home. The whole question stop 6,000,000 American farmers from planting what they pleased and when they pleased.—Phila. Ledger.

There Will be no Change.

It is not the Senate that will deal with the Prohibition law-the Senate which lately mistook the mechanical rattle of organized propaganda for the voice of the people—but the whole Congress, which is a more accustomed listener to the national thought. By that token it may be predicted that this "Gettysburg year," when it is hoped the prohibition law may be tampered with, will prove a final defeat for the "wets."

They have every great newspaper in the land. They have a large religious backing among two influential denominations. They have many secret sympathizers among legislators and politicians of all degrees. Government officials, in high place, are known to be nominally "dry" only in obedience to the superior force of public opinion. But for all that, the United States will remain as it is with respect to the no-liquor law. Not a jot or tittle will be changed now or ever at the behest of the "wets."

The only point that seems to be unsettled is the mind of the "wets," and that will be settled for all time once they challenge national opinion by attempting to change the law. The only change the country asks with reference to the dry law is a change toward greater effort in its enforcement.—Dearborn Independent.

Fool The Robber

There is no particular excitement in reading of the "hold-ups" in the daily papers, because it is the OTHER FELLOW who had to stick his hands up in the air, or risk his life in a fight to prevent robbery.

But some time, some place, if the highwayman ever pulls a gun on YOU, it will be a different story. The hole in that gun barrel will look as large as a stove-pipe. But if your money is in the Bank, where is should be, you will fool the robber. Don't carry money on your person.

"There's something queer about that cry of yours!" Freddie Firefly suddenly exclaimed. "I'm watching you closely; but I can't see that your mouth moves the least bit."

Again Kiddie Katydid smiled. He saw that Freddie Firefly was puzzled. "Why do you keep moving your wings when you say Katy did?" Fred-

But Kiddie refused to answer that question-a fact which at once made Freddie suspicious. He moved nearer upon him every time Kiddie repeated she did!" And he had danced his way his odd statment about Katy. And soon Freddie Firefly grew much excited. He actually danced up and down, he was so astonished.

"I've found you out!" he cried in a loud voice. "It's no wonder your voice doesn't get tired from that song! For you don't really sing it at all! You make that queer sound by rubbing your wing covers together!'

Kiddle Katydid abruptly ceased his shrilling. He looked most uncomfortable. And it was not surprising. He had not supposed that Freddie Firefly -or anybody else-would be shrewd enough to discover that secret. It was a family secret-one that had been closely guarded by the Katydids since the beginning of time, almost. And here he had gone and let Freddie Firefly find it out!

"I'm right about that and you can't deny it!" cried Freddie Firefly bold-"You may as well admit that what I say is true," he added.

"I certainly won't dispute you," Kiddie Katydid replied. "I have too good manners to do anything so rude

"I don't care about your manners," Freddie answered. "I dare say they're good enough, although some people into the mystery, Freddie Firefly had | think it's rather rude of you to make others are trying to sleep."

"I should like to know who objects to my music?" Kiddie Katydid exclaimed hotly. "From Columbia I went to the University of Strassburg, Leipzig.-William H. Welch."

Doctor Welch is internationally celebrated as being one of the greatest medical leaders of the age.

For many years he held the chair of professor of pathology at Johns Hopkins, where one of his pupils was Walter Reed, the army officer who discovered that yellow fever was carried by a certain species of mosquito. It was this discovery that made possible the cutting of the Panama canal through the wastes of the Panama neck.

It was Doctor Welch who helped to spread the doctrines of Pasteur and Koch, the latter the man who discovered the tuberculosis germ, and he was one of the first who showed that such diseases as typhoid, malaria and cholera are not spread by the moist air of tropical lands, but by contact, thus antedating Reed's discovery.

At the age of twenty-five Doctor Welch had already written a prize thesis on goiter; three years later he published a pathological paper that attracted wide attention in Europe; at thirty he had distinguished himself in many of the greatest laboratories on the continent, and at thirty-one he revised the fifth edition of the standard "Flint's Practice of Medicine," a task which would be approached in awe by a man twice the age he was then.

Teal Duck Swiftest of All Flying Things

An old controversy hangs around the subject of the fastest bird. The prize used to belong, at least in the opinion of sportsmen, to that little and most typical duck, the teal. So far as I have been able to collate the evidence and compare it with personal experience, the very fastest birds belong to the classes which come between the gulls and ducks.

The peregrine falcons and some of he swifts compete for the head of the list; and it is worth notice that the swifts, which people in general class with the swallow tribe, thanks to several real and obvious likenesses, are put by the classifiers as cousins of the hawks. However this may be, it remains that the ducks attain a dazzling speed and can defy the winds better than any bird that flies, though their momentum exaggerates their difficulty in changing direction. But so much depends on the engine that when it is in the least out of gear, when it is not tuned up, as happens at the early moult, they cannot fly at all; they become into the state of their primeval ancestor.—Sir W. Beach Thomas in the Atlantic Monthly.

Wrong Kind of Cushion

A camel has its limit of endurance as the old saw concerning the ultimate straw and the broken back will testify. Mrs. North also had her limit, which was finally reached when an argument, about which little could be understood, continued with unabated fury for two hours in the Smith household next door.

Calling to Willie Smith, who was playing in the back yard, Mrs. North asked the seven-year-old shining light of the warring Smiths:

"What is all the row about, Willie?" "Oh, mamma put her cushion on daddy's chair and he sat down on it," replied the small lad. "Why, that is no cause for such an argument, is it?"

"Sure it is! It was mamma's pin cushion!"

Insect Furnishes Shellac Shellac is a modified form of lac, thich is a resinous substance formed by an insect as a coating on the twigs and young branches of various trees in India and neighboring countries. The term "lac" is the same as the Indian numeral meaning 100,000, and is indicative of the myriads of insects which make their appearance with every successive generation. Lac encrusting the twigs as gathered is called stick lac; the resin crushed to small fragments and washed in hot water to free it from woody particles and coloring matter is known as seed lac or grain lac, and this, when melted, strained through thick canvas and spread out into thin layers, is known as shellac.

THE LAST WORDS OF JESUS WITH HIS DISCIPLES

I. Pointing to the Reunion in the Father's House (vv. 1-3). 1. He Asked Them to Trust in Him

Even as God (v. 1).

2. He Informed Them That He Was Going to the Father's House in Heaven to Prepare a Home for Them (v. 2). He assured them that there was abundant room for all. Heaven is an eternal dwelling place. Only those can enter who have made the necessary preparation here.

3. He Assured Them That He Would Come Again and Escort Them to Heaven (v. 3).

Jesus will not wait for His own to come to Him, but will come and call forth from the grave those who have died and transform living believers and take them all to be with Himself in the heavenly home forever more. II. Revealing the Way to the Father's House (vv. 4-11). Jesus informed the disciples that they knew the place and the way to which He was going. To this Thomas interposed a doubt, in answer to which Christ asserts that He is-

1. The Way to God (v. 6). He is more than a mere guide or teacher; He is the way itself. He is the door of the sheep fold; yea, the very entrance to the tree of life.

2. The Truth (v. 6). He is not merely the teacher, but the Truth incarnate. In His incarnation the spiritual and material worlds were united. Therefore, every line of truth, whether spiritual or material, converges in Him. No one can ever have the real truth about anything who does not have Christ. In Him especially we have the truth about God. To pretend to know God, while at the same time rejecting Jesus Christ is utter folly. Only as Christ reveals God can man know Him (John 1:18).

3. The Life (v. 6). Christ is not merely the giver of life, but He is the essence of life. Only those who receive Christ have life in the true sense. This is a truth which cannot be arrived at by intellectual processes. It is a mystery which can only be penetrated by faith. III. Assuring Them That His Work

Was to Continue (vv. 12-14).

Jesus' going away was not to end the work which He had begun. This no doubt means that through the ministry of the spirit-filled disciples the work which He had begun would assume larger proportions. After the Day of Pentecost the Gospel took a much wider range. During His ministry the message was confined to the Jews, while under the ministry of the disciples it was only limited by the world itself. The disciples' ministry was ushered in by the conversion of three thousand in one day.

IV. Promises Another Comforter

The word "comforter" means literally one called to the side of another to give help, protection and deliverance. This comforter was the Holy Spirit. Jesus was the comforter while here in the body. The Holy Spirit was to be another comforter.

V. Assuring Them of His Return to Them (vv. 18-24).

Although Christ went away He did not leave His disciples as orphans. He is spiritually present with them always. The Father and the Son make their abode with the disciples who love and obey Jesus Christ.

VI. Assuring Them That the Holy Spirit Would Aid Them in Remembering and Understanding His Words vv. 25, 26)

This the Holy Spirit does by iliuminating the minds of the disciples. VII. Giving the Legacy of His Peace

By His peace is meant the serenity of soul which one enjoys who knows that his sins are forgiven.

Dependent Upon God

All men, whether they know it or not, are unconsciously dependent upon God, else no man could live out a day. The religious man is one who is aware of that truth, and who seeks by active choice and will to know and do the will of Him in whose great hand he stands.-Joseph Fort Newton.

March 14 How to Overcome the Spirit of Anger and Revenge

Matthew 5:21-26; Romans 12:14-21 The righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees (v. 20) was external, formal and low. It was hedged about with a lot of cumbersome traditions and manmade formulas which reduced men to the level of machines. Against all this bondage and restriction Christ directed His teaching. He came to liberate from formalism in the religious life, as well as from rationalism in religious thinking. A revelation of God is the antidote for both, and this was brought to us by God's own Son. He expounded the law of Moses, unfolding and applying it to life and conduct, as seen in our first Scripture lesson. In doing this He carried the divine requirements of the law into the realm of thought, intent and de-

The spirit of anger and revenge can be overcome only by another spirit.
"A new heart will I give you and a new spirit will I put within you." This is God's promise and provision. "What the law could not do in that it was weak through the flesh" God undertook to do in another way. See Romans 8:3, 4. He sent His Son to redeem us from sin and His Spirit to dwell within the redeemed. The Son is God's gift to the world; the Spirit is God's gift to those who are vitally united to His Son through faith. The love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost who is given unto us (Rom. 5:5).

It is an utter impossibility to meet the requirements and follow the directions given in our second Scripture except it be done in the power of the Holy Spirit. Look at the first requirement in verse 14—"Bless them that persecute you." Can you do that? Are you doing it? Not unless you are a Christian abiding in Christ. Blessing others is part of the fruitage promised in John 15:5, 7, 8.

Anger can be overcome, pride and impatience can be subdued, and even a had disposition can be changed but a bad disposition can be changed, but "not by might"—the might of a good resolution, "not by power"—the power of human effort, "but by my Spirit, saith the Lord."

says: "The only basis that I have found for the report or legend that a plan existed to bring Queen Marie Antoinette to Wiscasset is that the ship Sally of this port, Stephen Clough, master, brought from France certain articles of furniture, etc., supposedly from a palace there which had been occupied by her. The bulk of the goods went to the possession of Col. James Swan of Boston, as will be seen by an article upon that family published in the Boston Transcript about seventy-five years ago, being one of a series of articles by Mr. Bowditch, which articles were known as "Gleaner" articles ("Gleaner" being the signature to them), the articles being afterward reprinted by the Boston record commissioners in a volume of their reports, which report I do not remember and have not the set before me. It has seemed to me that the legend about the queen naturally grew out of the fact which I have referred to."

Found Famous Writer Had Been Before Him

The monument to Guy De Maupassant at Miromesnil, Norway, recalls a story illustrating how easily unconscious literary plagiarism may be committed. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle once told a friend that, traveling in Switzerland, he came upon an inn isolated in the mountains for four months in every year. By the time he had reached the plain below he had mapped out in his mind a story in which two enemies were to be shut up in the inn for four months of isolation. At the first railway bookstall he came to one of De Maupassant's books caught his eye. He bought it and, turning to the first page, "L'Auberge" appeared as the heading of the story. The "Auberge" was his identical inn, the story was of two enemies shut up there during the winter, and the denouement the same as he had imagined.

For the First Time 500 Buys a Closed Car

If you plan to spend over $500 F. O. B. Factory for an automobile, you can get the year-round comfort and convenience of a Ford closed car.

The price advantage which the public enjoys in purchasing Ford cars is the result of volume production. In 1920, when the Ford Motor Company was producing approximately only a million cars a year, the Ford Touring Car sold for $575. Today, with production on the basis of nearly two million cars a year, the Tudor Sedan, a high quality all-steel closed car, can be purchased for $520-$55 less than the Touring Car sold for six years ago. Open car prices are correspondingly low.

While this program of price reduction has been carried on, important refinements and improvements have been made in Ford cars. The latest improvements include new and attractive body lines - a lower center of gravity, closed cars in color, all-steel bodies, new brakes and new style fenders.

However, the basic features of Ford design have not been changed. Three point motor suspension, planetary transmission, dual ignition system, torque tube drive, multiple disc-in-oil clutch, splash lubrication, thermo-syphon cooling system - outstanding features of automobile design have all been retained, regardless of cost.

The significance of these memorial gatherings lies in the fact that it is the one event among many in which every telephone man and woman in the United States and Canada may participate personally. It probably marks the first occasion in the history of the Bell system and perhaps the only occasion in the life-time of the present personnel when every member of the telephone group can simultaneously register by a simple and universal act their respect for their profession and their faith and pride in the future of their organiza-
