

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS ASSOCIATION.

Holds First Annual Banquet on Thursday Night.

The High School Teachers' Association of Carroll County, composed of the county Supervisors and teachers, members of the School Board and the ministers presenting religious education in the schools, held its first annual meeting at Hotel Westminster, on Thursday night, where an enjoyable banquet was served. Dr. S. M. North, State Supervisor, president as toastmaster.

The program consisted of addresses by Prof. Raymond A. Hyson, of Sykesville; Prof. E. L. Cross, of Hampstead; Rev. Guy P. Bready, of Taneytown; Prof. M. S. H. Unger; J. Pearce Wantz, President of the School Board, and Attorney Chas. O. Clemson, of Westminster. Vocal solos were rendered by Miss Robb and Prof. Royer, and there was also assembly singing.

The addresses were excellent, and covered various phases of educational work. Prof. Unger in his address, stated that ten years ago there were but 3 High Schools and 11 teachers in the county, no vocational schools and no extra curricular activity; now there are 11 High Schools, 76 teachers, including vocational work and what is known as a plastic curriculum. The assembly decided to make the gathering an annual event, as it is believed that so doing will have the effect of developing and unifying the High School work in the county.

How to Keep Well!

- 1—Ventilate every room you occupy and let in as much sunlight as possible. Sun-bake mattresses and covers thoroughly once a month.
- 2—Keep your feet clean, dry and well shod.
- 3—If you are an indoor worker, be sure to get recreation outdoors.
- 4—Sleep in fresh air always; in the open if you can.
- 5—Hold a handkerchief before your mouth and nose when you cough or sneeze and insist that others do so. Shake hands with others provided your hands are clean.
- 6—Always wash your hands before eating.
- 7—Do not overeat.
- 8—Eat freely of fruit and of leafy and coarse vegetables.
- 9—Eat slowly; chew thoroughly.
- 10—Drink six to eight glasses of water daily.
- 11—Evacuate thoroughly, regularly.
- 12—Stand, sit and walk erect.
- 13—Avoid contact with diseased persons.
- 14—Keep the teeth and gums clean.
- 15—Work, play, rest, and sleep in moderation.
- 16—Keep serene. Worry is the foe of health. Cultivate good companions.
- 17—Avoid self-drugging.
- 18—Have your doctor examine you carefully once a year. Also consult your dentist once or twice a year.

How "Bootlegger" Originated.

(For the Record).

Having several times been asked why whiskey smugglers are called "bootleggers" I thought perhaps some of the Record readers would also be interested to know. The word was coined during our Civil War. While whiskey was plentiful it was not allowed the soldiers. Of course, they wanted it—many, at least. There were many citizens ready to supply the demand but the problem was how to get it past the guards.

Now, all men at that time wore boots. "Where there's a will there's a way" so the men stuck bottles in the legs of their boots, pulled the trouser leg over and walked right into camp. Only those knowing the trick observed a slight bulge as they walked, and remarked to each other "there goes a bootlegger."

Parent-Teacher Association.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Taneytown High School will hold its next meeting in the Opera House, on Friday, March 26, at 8:00 P. M., to which the public is cordially invited. The following program will be rendered:

Vocal Solo, by Miss Leah Reinholdt
A Reading, by Mrs. Stewart King
Violin Solo, by Miss Hazel Hess
Recitation, by Helen Sarbaugh
Recitation, by Anna Mae Motter
Vocal Solo, by Isabel Elliott
Reading by Mrs. C. E. Root
Duet by Marion and Margaret Hitchcock
Please drop your queries in the query box at the entrance.

Advocates More Speed by Autos.

Chairman Mackall of the State Roads Commission, will in all probability urge the legislature to compel motorists to increase speed, rather than limit it, on public highways. He said this week "Traffic must move more rapidly and with fewer stops, or the highway transportation system will break down entirely under the demands made upon it. He therefore advocates the establishment of a minimum (or lowest) speed that would keep slow movers from holding up lines of autos.

Pennsylvania has three Republican candidates for the Senate; present Senator Pepper, Governor Pinchot, and Congressman Vare, the latter on a "wet" platform. This means a big problem for the "drys," as Vare may get the nomination by splitting the "dry" vote. Pinchot is counting on the votes of the coal miners.

FOR ROADSIDE PLANTING.

Trees Furnished Free by State Department of Forestry.

The State Forestry Department offers to furnish this Spring a sufficient number of trees for planting 5 miles of improved, public highway. Four species of trees are available, black walnut, black locust, cypress, and American elm. The trees will be distributed to responsible organizations, or individuals, for planting not less than one-quarter mile, nor over one mile, on both sides of the highway. There must be sufficient space to place the trees within the right-of-way of the highway, and far enough from the center of the roadway to meet road requirements.

Applications will be filed in the order in which they are received, but preference will be given to the locations that are best adapted for tree planting and where the greatest public benefit will be secured. Prompt action is necessary as the planting season has already opened for southern Maryland. Full particulars and application forms will be sent upon request to the State Department of Forestry, 1411 Fidelity Building, Baltimore, Maryland.

The Forestry Department will examine locations where plantings are proposed, to determine their adaptability for tree planting, and to what extent each meets requirements. In cases where planting is practicable a definite plan will then be prepared and submitted to the parties interested.

Better Kitchens Make Better Homes.

In line with suggestions from many sources for making better homes, are several points on kitchen planning from the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, co-operating with better homes in America.

One of the first things the home-maker thinks about in a better home is a well-arranged, well-equipped kitchen. That does not mean that she is kitchen-minded either. It means rather that she knows where convenience counts most in a house. In most family kitchens at least 1,000 meals are cooked during the course of every year. Surely for any job that comes as regularly and often as getting three meals a day, every step-saving, time-saving arrangement possible should be included in the plan and the equipment.

The points that make for convenience in the kitchen, are as follows, according to the Bureau of Home Economics:

First, last, and all the time in planning and equipping a kitchen, says the bureau, think about the work to be done in it.

If building or remodeling a kitchen, make it oblong and with no more floor space than actually needed. A kitchen is a workroom. Spaciousness is paid for in miles of useless steps.

Study the relation of the kitchen to the rest of the house. Make a direct connection from kitchen to dining room in the common wall between them. See to it also that there is easy access to front and back doors, to the telephone and to the stairs, to the cellar, and the second floor. Arrange for adequate ventilation in all weathers, and for good lighting at all work centers at night, as well as during the day.

Screen windows and doors against household pests. Flies particularly are a menace to health.

Choose finishes for floor, walls and woodwork that are durable, suitable in color, and can be kept clean easily. Select furnishings that fit the wall and floor space, and will pay for themselves in usefulness. Weigh the pros and cons of built-in, or movable, pieces, and compare prices carefully.

Make sure that there is an abundant supply of hot and cold running water, and a sanitary drainage system.

Decide on the most comfortable height of working surfaces.

Group all equipment, large and small, into compact work centers for preparation of raw food, cooking, serving, clearing away and dishwashing, and any other activities done regularly and often in the kitchen.

Arrange these groups from left to right following the order in which the various jobs are done.

The kitchen is above all else, a place to prepare and serve food. Limit the kitchen to this use, if possible, and arrange for laundering and such work to be done in another place.

An Appeal to Carroll County.

Orphan children are being turned out of the orphanages of the Near East Relief because this county has fallen behind in its quota for that work, declared Harold F. Pellegrin, Potomac Director, in a statement given out yesterday, and he appeals to those interested, also to those who have not helped to make up this deficiency.

"I have been proud of the record made by this county in the past in the help of the Near East Relief," said Mr. Pellegrin yesterday, "and I ask the regular subscribers to add a 25% increase to their regular donations, to make up the deficiency and put the county in its rightful place with quota filled. I also appeal to those who have not helped to send a donation for the 37,000 orphan children in the shelters. If the deficiency is not made up it will be necessary to discharge more children from orphanages in addition to those already out because of a lack of funds."

Donations, says Mr. Pellegrin, may be sent direct to the County Treasurer, Mr. J. Pearce Wantz, at Westminster, Md., or to the Near East Relief, 14 West Franklin St., Baltimore, Md.

UNITED MOVE TO HELP FARMERS.

Object of National Industrial Conference Board.

The business section of the Philadelphia Ledger, on Monday, contained the following letter, dated New York, March 15.

"Solution of the agricultural problem through joint and sympathetic study of the situation by leading representatives of industry, commerce, transportation and finance, in conjunction with leading agriculturists, to facilitate the formulation of a sound, effective and well digested program for righting the existing economic maladjustment, is the proposal made by the National Industrial Conference Board in an agricultural survey.

"The board does not undertake to solve the farmer's problem nor to suggest specifically how he may solve it for himself, declaring such course to be neither desirable nor feasible. The weight of the board's proposal lies in urging, first, the economic nature of the problem, and, second, in emphasizing that the agricultural problem, because of the close interdependence of agriculture and our whole industrial and commercial business structure, is not the farmer's problem alone, but a common problem concerning all classes of the population.

"The board does not go beyond the proposal of a co-operative, joint study of the economic aspects of the agricultural situation and its effects on the rest of our business structure and general national welfare, but it places its comprehensive agricultural report, on which the board's research staff has been engaged nearly a year, at the disposal of those who may be chosen by the various agricultural, industrial, commercial, transportation and financial groups of the country to make such study.

"The agricultural problem, according to the diagnosis of the report, briefly summarized, is that since the beginning of the rapid and intensive development of our industrial commercial and financial life toward the end of the last century, agriculture has fallen out of step, and there has evolved a progressive maladjustment and inequality between the economic position of agriculture and that of the other major branches of our national economy. The real underlying practical problem, it is intimated, is one of much larger and more significant scope even than of the existing maladjustment.

The board's statement says: "The contraction of our agricultural plant and its output relative to the growth of our population is shown, also the growing effectiveness of the competition of foreign producers both in our domestic and in foreign markets in the increasing costs of agricultural production compared with the price of farm products; in the declining relative share in the national income of those engaged in agriculture; in the wide disparity and reward for labor in agriculture as contrasted with that in other productive activities, and in the marked difference between the per capita income of the farm population and of the remainder of the population in all the dominant agricultural sections of the country.

"Fundamentally, these conditions have arisen partly out of inherent differences between the productive processes of agriculture and those of industry, and partly out of circumstantial factors affecting the inter-relationships between agriculture and the rest of our economic life. They not only constitute a serious menace to the progress and prosperity of American industry, commerce and trade, but are equally of great significance for our national welfare, for they deeply affect the future economic development, the social advancement, the political unity and the national security of the United States."

Less Danger in Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

"A sanatorium for tuberculous patients is a healthier place to be in than a railroad station," said Dr. Lawrason Brown, of Trudeau Sanatorium, Saranac Lake, N. Y., in a statement regarding a study made by him to determine the extent to which danger of infection is present in a sanatorium where the disease is treated.

The investigations revealed that there are millions more tuberculosis germs in a railroad station, or similar loitering place where idlers congregate for hours, than in a well regulated institution. The patients in a sanatorium are trained by their physicians to protect others against infection, and never to expectorate carelessly. Persons who work in tuberculosis hospitals and sanatoria are in less danger from germs than the average citizen who is not protected against the spitting menace.

According to Dr. Brown the careless spitter is one of the greatest dangers to public health. Small children are especially open to infection when they play on the streets (gutters), for the germs cling to toys, food and fingers, from which they are carried into the system.

John D. Rockefeller who has been "accused" of owning, or at least controlling, the W. M. R. R., says there is "nothing in it" and that he is in any position to take a hand in ending the strike.

STATES OWE THE U. S. GOVT.

Maryland is in the List for Over $955,000.

An old debt by the States to the National Government, aggregating over $28,000,000, advanced to 26 states 90 years ago, has been brought to the front this week in the discussion of debts due to the general government. The matter has been brought forward by Representative Simmons, of Nebraska, who has introduced a resolution in the House, calling for settlement. Nebraska is not one of the debtor states.

Maryland received $955,838.25. The states are Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri and Arkansas.

These Federal funds were advanced by an act of Congress in 1836, sponsored by Senator Daniel Webster. This law, entitled "an act to regulate the deposit of the public moneys," provided that all the surplus in the Treasury on January 1, 1837, in excess of $5,000,000 "shall be deposited with such of the several States in proportion to their respective representation in the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, as shall by law authorize their treasurers or other competent officers to receive the same on the terms herein specified."

The terms, Mr. Simmons was advised by Garrard B. Winston, Under Secretary of the Treasury, were that the States receiving deposits should sign certificates of deposits and "pledge the faith of the States receiving the same to pay the said moneys and every part thereof from time to time whenever the same shall be required by the Secretary of the Treasury for the purpose of defraying any wants of the public treasury."

Passing of the Bells.

A curious and unique American collection is a garden of bells, attractively arranged at Glenwood Mission Inn, California. The collector became protector of the bells when his daughter gave him, as a Christmas present, in 1905, a curious bell with the Medici coat of arms. Historical objects had a fascination for Mr. Miller, and this bell appealed to his imagination and opened to him the large possibilities in old bells of various ages and countries and peoples.

His quest led him to all parts of the world. Bells are very often remelted, and it was in visits to foundries that he discovered and rescued from oblivion many of his most interesting and valuable bells.

To the poet the bell has always had a distinct fascination. Too often taken for granted, the bell has long played an important role in the life of civilization. Poe has perhaps expressed most realistically the place various bells have in our lives, and how much more was this true in the lives of our forefathers, when bells were used far more than now.

Sleigh bells, who hears them now? The little tinkling bell over shop doors Church bells—they grow more and more silent with the years. The milkman's bell. The little bell that stood on the teacher's desk. Cow bells. Bells on horses that pulled the street cars.

A change has come over our way of living, and this change, to a great extent, has marked the passing of the bell. In its place, we have numerous and diverse whistles and electric bells. So the old bell, with its beauty or eccentricity of form, its careful workmanship and interesting inscription, and its variety of tone, is being relegated to the scrap heap of civilization. American boasts, in the Glenwood Mission Inn, the largest collection of bells in the world.—Dearborn Independent.

Adams County Women Warn Governor Pinchot.

A correspondent to the Philadelphia Ledger, says: "Women of Adams County have notified Governor Pinchot he should step softly lest he be responsible for electing a 'wet' to the United States Senate from Pennsylvania."

Members of the Adams County Republican Women's Club sent a letter to the Governor in which they hit the nail on the head so far as the Governor's candidacy for the Senate is concerned.

Mr. Pinchot stands forth as a leader for law enforcement. Congressman William S. Vare is counting upon him to divide the "dry" vote with Senator Pepper and thus aid him as a "wet" to carry the State.

The women stress this possibility and remind the Governor rather pointedly that Senator Pepper is dry. Likewise they inform Mr. Pinchot, with equal emphasis that what they are interested in is the election of a Senator pledged to law enforcement, and the inference is gained that they are not interested in personalities.

Officials of the Women's Club say the letter is unofficial, and intimate that many of the members are favorable to Gov. Pinchot.

It Sounds Reasonable.

A Baltimore Justice, last Monday, dismissed a charge against a man for working on Sunday on a shed in his back yard. His honor gave it as his opinion that if ice cream trucks, automobile mechanics, and members of various other occupations, can work on Sunday, he saw no reason why a man can not do a little work in his own back yard.

WHY COMPLAIN ABOUT TAX BURDENS?

Wide-spread Condition for which the Public is Responsible.

Pennsylvania is complaining of its tax burden. A writer on the subject says "Federal taxes have been reduced $700,000,000 in the last two years, but in Pennsylvania the taxes are three times as heavy as they were in any year before the world war."

No doubt most of the states can approximately duplicate the complaint of Pennsylvania; but, why complain when the people evidently plan the taxes on themselves, directly or indirectly, by demanding expensive public luxuries?

In Maryland, we exempt mortgages and judgments from taxation, and household furniture up to $500.00. In Carroll county, we are now exempting certain big manufacturing plants, and we believe there is a state-wide law covering an exemption of $300. worth of farm machinery that has had the effect of exempting a great deal more than this amount. Mechanics tools are also exempt, and this has led to abuse. The liquor license revenue has also been lost.

In 1914 the county tax rate was 68 cents; in 1915 it rose to 80 cents, and has since steadily grown until in 1925 it reached $1.65 or over 2 1/3 times the rate of 11 years ago. In 1914 our county spent $56,273.46 for schools, and $62,020.64 for roads and bridges; while last year the expenditure for schools was $270,824.59 (and more this year) and for roads and bridges $213,179.56. Note the difference in the figures and stop wondering where the money goes, and why taxes are higher.

Something like this causes high taxes in Pennsylvania, and everywhere. If we increase exemptions at one end, and spend three times the money in the middle by comparison with former times, then the other end—the tax end—is bound to show the result of our financing. And then, there is the automobile! Are we not travelling, living and spending, on wheels? Why complain about it? When we want to indulge in expensive public conveniences, we must pay for them.

Mayor Jackson's Rest.

Naturally, the mysterious "rest" case of Mayor Jackson, of Baltimore, furnishes a daily news subject for the Baltimore papers. While the family has not conceded it, it is nevertheless confidently stated that he is at the Shepard-Pratt institution, at Towson, under treatment. He is reported to be gaining in health every day, but the time of his return to official work is in doubt.

City Hall officials say they do not expect the Mayor back, for a month. Meanwhile, Howard Bryant, President of the Council, who has been acting as Mayor, must take a trip to Georgia, next week, which will require the drafting of William G. Towers, vice-president of the Council, to act as Mayor.

The Mayor's condition is subject to various reports; one of which is that he had a relapse, on Wednesday but was somewhat improved on Thursday.

Coal Never Went so Far.

Class I railroads in 1925 operated their freight trains with the greatest efficiency in the use of fuel on record, according to a tabulation of reports just filed by the carriers with the Interstate Commerce Commission and made public by the Bureau of Railway Economics.

An average of 159 pounds of fuel was required in 1925 to haul one thousand tons of freight and equipment, excluding locomotive and tender, a distance of one mile. This was the lowest average ever attained by the railroads since the compilation of these reports began in 1920.

The average for 1925 was a decrease of 11 pounds under that for 1924 and was 24 pounds less than that for 1923. The volume of freight moved by the railroads in 1925 was six percent greater than in 1924 and was practically the same as that for 1923.

W. M. Train has Many Mishaps.

A Western Md. R. R. freight train met with a series of unusual accidents last Saturday night. Conducted Mullin, of Harrisburg, was standing on the tender of a P. & R. engine in the Hagerstown yards, preparing to hitch to a train of cars, when a W. M. engine sidwiped the tender and Mullin was caught and killed.

Then, Conductor Wilhide of the W. M. freight dropped a heavy iron bar on his foot, so badly injuring it that he could not go on the run, and Conductor Swink took his place. At Thurmont, while shifting was being done, Swink lost his footing and fell under the wheels, one leg being cut off, and death ensued shortly after, at Frederick Hospital.

"Saw it in The Record."

We know that our advertising "pays" and that many sales are made through it. We also believe that purchasers will be glad to back our belief by saying to advertisers, "I saw it in The Record." Do this for us—it will cost nothing, yet help to increase public belief in the value of advertising.

W. M. STRIKE SITUATION.

Both Sides of the Controversy make Statements.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is trying to force the W. M. R. R. to end the strike that is nominally still in effect on the road though the road is being operated with a very fair degree of efficiency. The Brotherhood charges that the road is being operated at "an appalling price," and that a large number of accidents and deaths have occurred, due to the inefficiency of strike-brakers.

President Byers denies that there has been more than the usual number of accidents, and says these were not due to inefficiency of employees.

"The statement of the Interstate Commerce Commission," he declared, "shows that the Western Maryland during 1925 operated more efficiently and more profitably than ever before. Reports for January show that it has been a record month and such reports as are available for February indicate that this, too, was prosperous."

He explained that the strikers' demands for increased wages cannot be met if the railroad is to continue in existence. Engineers employed on the trains at this time, he said, are very satisfactory and the railroad has had neither trouble nor inconvenience in operation. Operating troubles caused by sympathizers among the train crews in the early history of the strike largely have disappeared at this time he asserted.

Approximately 200 engineers are on strike, Mr. Byers said. A number of the strikers, he declared, have returned to work. Others have applied for reinstatement, he said.

Publications Received.

We have received from our friend, Maj. A. M. Hall, of the Apopka Printing Co., Apopka, Florida, two handsome publications; the "Orlando Realtor", and "Doors that Lead instead of Lure," a broad booklet containing the imprint of the Apopka Printing Co., that promotes the building of a Y. M. C. A., in Orange County, the cost of which is to be $800,000. Both publications are very handsomely gotten up.

We also have a copy of The Financial Post, Toronto, Canada, from an old friend, Chas. E. Redeker, formerly of Baltimore, who is prominently engaged in the Real Estate Business in Windsor, Canada, and who has just retired as president of the "Tri-City Realty Board." This number of the Post is an especially attractive one.

Proceedings of the Orphans' Court.

Monday, March 15, 1926—Clarence T. Sharrer, administrator of George W. Sharrer, deceased, settled his first and final account and received order to transfer stocks and bonds.

Conrad Mauler, administrator of Collins Brown, deceased, settled his second and final account.

J. William Kelbaugh, executor of William Wheeler, deceased, reported sale of personal property.

Francis J. Grimes, administrator w. a., of Clara A. Porter, deceased, received orders to sell personal property and real estate.

The last will and testament of Agnes Ann Kelbaugh, deceased, was duly admitted to probate and letters testamentary thereon were granted unto J. William Kelbaugh, who received warrant to appraise personal property and order to notify creditors.

Reward Offered in the McGinnis Distillery Robbery.

A reward of $2000. has been offered by A. W. Woodcock, U. S. District Attorney, for the arrest and conviction of the persons responsible for the robbery of the McGinnis distillery near Westminster. The reward will also be paid for information leading to the recovery of the 68 barrels and 33 cases of liquor taken. The authorities suspicion that the liquor has been hidden somewhere not far from the plant; hence, the big reward.

Col. Coolidge is Dead.

Col. John Coolidge, the father of President Coolidge, died at his home at Plymouth, Vermont, on Thursday night, aged almost 85 years. He had been in failing health for some time. News was received at Washington after the President and Mrs. Coolidge had left on a special train for the bedside.

Marriage Licenses.

Hugh M. Sunderland and Winifred M. Hunt, Hagerstown, Md.
Robert H. Bankert and Mamie Winard, Miller's, Md.

A London, Eng., "mean man," who made money by slipping on banana peels in front of fruit stores, then suing the proprietor for damages, has just been exposed by fruit dealers who have been caught in the game.

The future manager of the hotels and dining cars of the Japanese Railways, is obtaining training by serving as an American dining car steward, after having worked in the Waldorf Hotel from dishwasher to room clerk.

FRIDAY, MARCH 19, 1926.

Entered at Taneytown Postoffice as Second Class Matter.

All articles on this page are either original, or properly credited. This has always been a fixed rule with this Office, and we suggest the adoption of it by our exchanges.

The demand for state roads in this county, is still unsupplied, by a very large majority; likewise, for new school buildings. Now, if money just grew on trees, how happy all could be —providing the county owned all the money trees!

The wet and dry "polls" that are being taken by "wet" newspapers,
may represent a sort of give-away as to the character of the subscribers who take these papers. As "Birds of a feather flock together" so it is possible that the "drys" may not be aware that the polls is being taken.

What may be termed the "light weights"—without any disrespect—
are the first in the county to announce their candidacy for public office—
perhaps the "heavy weights" are waiting for them to try out the water, before they enter in? We make the guess that the main splash will be for control of the Commissioner's office—but, we don't see why anybody
should want the job.

Gen. Smedley D. Butler, U. S. Marine Corps, who was sent to California after he left the Philadelphia job,
has raised a big rumpus out there because cocktails were served at a dinner given in his honor, and incidentally has involved some of the officers of the Corps. Of course, official Washington, is "horrified" that General Butler is so particular about observing the "regulations." The likelihood is that General Butler
means to "clean up" the coast.

Buyers of Bootleg, Conspirators.

Prosecutors for the government, in a case before the Supreme Court last week, made the statement that buyers of bootleg liquor, as well as the bootleggers themselves, may be prosecuted for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

Questions asked by several of the justices seemed to indicate sympathy with the Government's position. If the contention is sustained, bootleggers who fail to supply the Government with the names of their customers will be prosecuted for conspiracy and the customers themselves will be liable to similar prosecution, it was pointed out.

Coolidge to Keep "Hands Off."

President Coolidge is reported to have decided that he will not interfere between contestants for Republican nominations for Congress, but will let each district, uninfluenced, work out its own problems, and will not be drawn into any primary contest. This may seem ungrateful to some present
members who have been "backing"
the President and want to "come back," but it is the only safe—if not the only right—course for any President to pursue.

The people of a district would have a perfect right to resent any outside interference in their home family affairs, and the President is fair-minded enough to realize the fact; and, it may also be very "good politics" in most cases, to hold to such a course.

In the Senatorial situation, there is a difference, and yet, the main consideration is the same. It is different because the President has more need for personal support in that body, and a Senator is much more a National figure than a member of the House.
It is true, too, that "insurgency" is more pronounced in the Senate, and there would seem to be good reasons for the President using his influence for the "regular" party candidates
when such are opposed by the insurgulars.

The Company We Get Into.

It matters a great deal, in the fixing of our moral standards, that we should consider the company we get into, in fixing them; for it would be a very anomalous situation for us to stand with one person on one thing, but disagree with him on most other things, assuming that the "things" at issue be those having to do with questions of religious, moral or social welfare.

It is therefore of considerable importance that we should consider the general character of a crowd, before we go into it, for in some measure at least, we are "known by the company
we keep." Certainly, there are "black sheep" everywhere, and even in the church there are hypocrites and dis-semblers, and we find them everywhere
so that it is next to impossible always to keep in thoroughly good company.

But, at least on questions of the day, which do not necessarily call for fraternal membership, we can, if we want to, usually "pick our company"
in the picking of our stand on such questions as Prohibition and Race Track Gambling, and this is quite worth while considering; for, we do,
by our personal indorsement of an issue, lend aid to others in directions that we would not want to be, nor dare to be, followers.

We are all, consciously or unconsciously, setting examples for others.
We may be "starting something"
that we do not mean to start, and something that we can not stop; so,
the safest plan, always, before we commit ourselves to a course of "personal liberty," or action is to consider well what our own actions may lead to, with others.

Sees Better Times Ahead.

Secretary of Agriculture Jardine has taken his courage in hand and has told the farmer that his plight is not so desperate as he thinks it is. In an address delivered before a convention of the Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association at Fort Worth, Texas,
Mr. Jardine insisted that there was a noticeable silver lining where farmers and their political friends have been seen nothing but lowering clouds.

The Secretary sees "daylight" ahead, not merely in cattle but in the whole agricultural situation." This heavy movement away from the farm
has apparently subsided; there is improvement in purchasing power of farm products; land values are on the upward grade; farm properties are finding buyers; agricultural readjustment has become really stabilized;
liquidation of cattle is approaching
the end.

This is the most optimistic note that has come from anybody connected with the Administration in many a day. Heretofore when the farmer has cried out that he was being exterminated and that the Government must come to his aid few men in public life have disputed the statement.
Instead he has been encouraged to political activity in search of a remedy for his troubles by general acceptance of his diagnosis of his ailments and by general agreement that he was justified in demanding that Congress do something to relieve them.

If now and then somebody has ventured to point out that in every State, in every county, in every precinct of every county only a fence divided a reasonably successful farmer from an unsuccessful farmer and asked if it were possible for laws to make the one as prosperous as the other, he has been bawled over as an unconscionable fellow who would destroy the basis of national wealth by driving agricultural interests to the wall.

It is fortunate that a certain number of farmers, themselves leaders of important co-operative societies, and others who could not be suspected of being lukewarm to or ignorant of the farmer's problems, have not been carried off their feet. It has been their refusal to indorse quack remedies, to espouse unsound economic theories and to advocate subsidies and other wild legislative proposals which has given courage to opponents of action
that seemed certain to prove disastrous. The significance of the address of the Secretary of Agriculture is that it gives reason to believe that sober second thought is asserting itself in Washington. If the Administration sees so much of promise in the farmer's situation, there is no excuse whatever for embarking upon policies which are at best of doubtful expediency, and at worst filled with danger.—Baltimore Sun.

Friendship Put Above Insistence on Rights

Our town is a world in miniature.
I suppose. What's the word for what I want to say? A microcosm? I haven't the dictionary handy. We have in our small way the same emotions the county and the state and the republic and ultimately the world have in their several large ways.
Well, here is a funny thing about our
town:

We get angry about everything.
We take sides about battleships,
most of us would not know a battleship from a scout cruiser, but we get red about them. We scrap over the aviation quarrel. We had a terrible time over evolution. If the market goes up half of us crack our voices and beat our hands on the counter-down in Eph Wiles' grocery store. If it goes down the other half of us obliges. But we are always angry.
Always vociferating and swearing and calling names.

I wonder if the rest of the world is that way? Or are we just a miserable, bad-tempered little feist of a
town?

Two years ago a poor-natured, red-eyed, bent-legged imitation of a human being kept chickens next door to me, J. P. relates, in the Kansas City Star. They did not do my roses and other flowering shrubs any good. He was within his rights in keeping chickens, of course. I am a reasonable man and I would be the first to admit that. I was also within my rights to keep an alreale and what an alreale can do to a hen must be seen to be appreciated. Our language over the back fence appalled me after I cooled down. Maybe it appalled the other fellow. Anyhow he came to me in my office one day.

"Let's talk it over," he said. "I don't want to be on bad terms with a neighbor and I do not mean the names
I called you, and as for the hens I'll pop 'em in the pot."

It's a queer thing, but from being ready to hit him with an ax I softened up right away. We reached a compromise—and I'll not tell what it was;
the secret of how to keep the peace between roses and hens should be salable—and we have been friends and our wives have been friends ever since.

Both of us had been within our rights, of course. But it is better to be friends.

Egyptian Time Division

The ancient Egyptians divided the time of light and the time of darkness,
that is, night and day, into twelve parts, or hours, each. The system spread throughout several adjacent countries.

It followed that in summer, when the period of light is longer than the period of darkness, the hours of the day were longer than those of the night, as each period was divided into twelve parts.

Modern Merchandising

A motorist stopped at a filling station on the outskirts of a village on his way to visit one of his wife's relatives he had never seen. He had heard that the relative had a flourishing business, and he decided to use the opportunity to learn something about him. "What kind of store does Joab Miller run at 'Toad Rock'?" he asked the service man.

"Well, I don't know exactly how to describe it," was the reply. "He has motor car parts for sale; buys butter,
eggs and poultry; deals in real estate;
paints houses, marries folks as justice of the peace; runs the post office, sells stamps, hams and molasses, and takes boards. I guess you'd call it a drug store."

Improved Potato Digger

Drawn by a tractor or horses, a potato digger now on the market harvests the crop more quickly than is possible by hand or plow, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. It straddles
the row and has a shovel in front, set deep enough to avoid cutting the tubers while removing them.

Vines, grass and dirt fall away as they are carried on an endless chain belt to a shaker at the rear. A kicker attachment sweeps the refuse to one side, leaving the potatoes in a row
so that they can be gathered quickly.

Mark every grave

It is socially proper as well as business-like to use printed stationery. It is also economical and apt to result in having paper and envelopes on hand, when needed. We have filled hundreds of orders received by mail for our $1.00 offer, and have not had a single complaint.

200 sheets Hammermill Bond paper, 5 1/2 x 8 1/2, unruled, padded on request, with 100 size 6 1/2 envelopes to match. Printed either in dark blue, or black. Not over 4 lines neat type, the same form on both paper and envelopes. Envelopes printed on back or front. Unless otherwise directed, orders for ladies will be printed on back, and for gentlemen, on front.

Instead of name, an Old English Initial letter can be used, if desired. Initial stationery should have a box number, or street address.

When desired, ruled paper will be furnished (107 sheets) with 100 size 6 1/2 envelopes. We do not print envelopes alone, or paper alone, at 50c. Cash with order, when sent by mail. Write instructions, and copy for the printing, very plainly. When mailed to 3rd and 4th. Zones, add 5c; to 5th. Zone, or further, add 10c.

Some Good Short Ones.

"Is that young man in the parlor with Maude, still?" asked her father. "Very Still," replied her mother.

Fair maid, "I hope you don't mind my sketching in your field." Farmer, "Lord, no, Miss! You keep the birds away from the peas better'n any scarecrow."

Irate parent, "I saw you kissing my daughter. I don't like it." Offender, "Then you don't know what's good sir."

She, "Why do married men live longer than single?" He, "They don't; it only seems longer."

Miss Naborly, "Johnny is your aunt on your father's side, or on your mother's side?" Johnny, "Sometimes on one side, and sometimes on the other; it depends on who is getting the best of it."

Any one can live without servants. It is how to live with them, that is the big problem.

The Safe Thrift Side

The advice of the thrift editor of the Tifton Gazette, given in rhyme, is to avoid getting "walloped by adversity." He says—

"Who spends his income as it comes and saves no systematic sums may some day find himself in dutch and need his money very much."

"If you would prosper and progress and crown your future with success, adopt some systematic plan of banking all the cash you can."

"The banks are here for you to use — by saving right you cannot lose; in fact, you're really bound to win — deposit savings, and begin."—Atlanta Constitution.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

VERONICA

VERONICA has full rights to her claims as a holy name. It signifies "true picture" and comes from the Latin "verus," meaning true, and the Greek word for image. The two terms were strangely jumbled together by the popular tongue in the name of the crucifix at Lucca, which was called the Veronica and was that "Holy Face of Lucca" by which oaths were taken.

Another Veronica is the same countenance upon a piece of linen at St. Peter's. The origin being forgotten, this is called St. Veronica's handkerchief, and the popular legend is that a woman who had lent her handkerchief to our Blessed Savior to wipe His face during the passage of the "Via Dolorosa" had found the likeness imprinted on it. In a poem on the life of Pilate, we are told that the suffering emperor of Rome, learning that a woman at Jerusalem named "Veronike" possessed this handkerchief which had the power to heal the sick, sent for her and was cured.

In this way, Veronica became a saint, though there was a real Saint Veronica who lived near Milan in the Fifteenth century. The French love the name and call it Veronique. The Scotch, who have an exquisite blue flower known as Veronica, have given the name national popularity.

Jade is Veronica's talismanic gem. It will bring her good health and long life. Thursday is her lucky day and 4 her lucky number.

The Hotel Stenographer

By Roe Fulkerson

"It's a fine day," announced the House Detective.

"Yes, it's good weather," replied the Hotel Stenographer. "I do not know what we would do without the weather and making puns. These are the conversational standbys of the stupid."

"Huh?" asked the House Detective. "Whether it is cold or whether it is hot, we have to have weather, whether or not," punned the girl. "That always gives original people something to talk about. Like the income tax and the parking problem. We have it always with us."

"It must be wonderful, Kelly, to talk about something pleasant all the time. People who work for the oil industry or had factories during the war, can make their own weather, and in consequence can always talk pleasantly."

They run down to Miami whenever there is a blizzard, or up to Montreal when it is hot; they go to Arizona when they have a wet spell, or out in the country to get rained on.

"Don't think I am critical, Kelly. Weather was invented a long time ago, and it is one of our grandest institutions, but when I have nothing else to talk about but the weather, I tune out and keep still for a while till a real bright idea about love or dressmaking, scandal or something new and interesting comes to my mind."

"I used to know a John who never talked anything but the weather. He was so stupid the dentist was afraid to give him gas, because he couldn't tell when he became unconscious."

"That's pretty hard on us both, ain't it?" asked Kelly.

"Us?"

"Yeah," replied Kelly, "you ain't been doing nothing for the last ten minutes but talk about the weather."

"On your way," cried the girl. "I am a busy woman."

MOUNT IS MORE THAN IT SEEMS

Georgia's Famous Peak Outcropping of Granite Range.

Atlanta, Ga.—"How come Stone Mountain?"

This question has puzzled geologists ever since there have been any geologists to puzzle about Stone Mountain.

Many explanations have been offered for the existence of the now famous granite monadnock, which rises suddenly out of a fertile country around it. The one most favored is that sometime along fifty to seventy-five million years ago, there was an upheaval in this land, at which time Stone Mountain and the Appalachian mountains and other eastern wonder-rocks were thrust up.

But Stone Mountain, on which is being carved the Confederate memorial, is not all just out there in wide-open DeKalb county. That's only where it shows itself.

It extends under most of the remainder of Georgia and some parts of South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama and Florida.

At the place where Stone Mountain seems to meet ordinary earth it begins a sloping descent into the underneath of Georgia. At Macon, about 100 miles southwest of Stone Mountain, the granite bedrock is reached at about 400 feet. Dr. S. W. McCauley, Georgia state geologist, says that when the granite is struck a person might as well stop, because a drill would go "on to China."

Stone Mountain will not last forever, declare geologists. There is a devastating force which is diminishing, rapidly as such things go, the size of the mountain. This force is called exfoliation.

Once Hundred Times Present Size.

When the mountain came into being it covered probably 100 times its present size, as evidenced by the numerous outcrops of the same rock extending over a belt several miles in width. At this rate of shrinkage, geologists compute that in another 50,000,000 years there will not be any Stone Mountain.

At present Stone Mountain rises 686 feet above the ground and includes 563 acres of exposed granite mass. In this mass there are 7,543,750,950 cubic feet. There are about 12 cubic feet of granite to the ton, making the mass weigh in the neighborhood of 628,645,911 tons.

Since about 1865 Stone Mountain granite has been used extensively in building as well as paving.

Rome Beggars at Home

Among City's Rich Citizens

Rome.—The police have found that many of the sorriest and most pathetic appearing street beggars are some of the city's most opulent citizens behind the walls of their homes.

One of these aged mendicants was searched and his pockets shown to contain about $30 as one day's receipts. Another beggar was found to be a proprietor of dwelling houses, another an owner of a livery stable that boasted several horses and carriages, a third was a professional money lender at usurious rates, and a fourth was a frequenter of one of the capital's most expensive restaurants in the evenings.

Cesare Sanesi, palsied and miserably dressed in tatters, died on the street of heart disease. His body was gathered up unceremoniously by carriers and buried in the public cemetery for the destitute. It was later learned that Sanesi was a member of one of the most noble of Florentine families, and that he bore the authentic title of count.

Coconut Milk Advised

for Babies of Samoa

Pago Pago.—Young coconuts for young Samoans is the advice of the United States government to South sea mothers unable to secure milk for their babies.

The use of coconuts for babies is still an experiment, but so far is considered successful. Each child is given the meat of four very young coconuts daily, together with all the coconut milk he can drink.

Child welfare work in Samoa has been organized so that all villages in American Samoa are visited at least once every two weeks. In each village a committee of women has been appointed. Babies are taken to the weekly meetings of this committee. When a baby increases in weight the mother is praised publicly; when it loses, the mother is called to account.

"Old Maids" Hailed at Church Meet as Asset

London.—"Old Maids" and their great value to the community received whole-hearted recognition from the church congress at Eastbourne.

In a ringing speech, Miss Rosamond Shields, educator, who was not ashamed to admit that she spoke "as one of them," declared that single women of mature age were not fully appreciated.

She urged them to adopt the slogan: "Forward," and to scorn such a phrase as "marrying well," for never before were there such opportunities for single women.

Swedenborg Had Few Equals in Versatility

The annual Swedenborgian convention in Cincinnati a few weeks ago recalls the man from which this smallest of sects derived its name, Emanuel Swedenborg of Sweden, who was poet, mystic, mathematician, statesman, inventor, says Time.

Da Vinci himself could not look down on him; Franklin's achievements cover a narrower range. There was seemingly nothing he could not do, nothing he did not do, in the early 1700s.

Did the lack of boats and galleys face Charles XII of Sweden with disaster at the siege of Frederikshall? Emanuel Swedenborg invented a machine to transport them overland. Did youths need verses in Latin for women? They applied to Swedenborg. Did house chimneys smoke or the deaf suffer? Swedenborg cured the chimneys and gave the deaf an ear trumpet. Did the world need an interpretation of the Scriptures? Swedenborg furnished one.

He produced a report on smelting and assaying which was a masterpiece of detail; he guided Sweden in its currency policy, dealt with the balance of trade and the liquor laws, ancestor all Scandinavian geologists, arrived at the nebular hypothesis to explain the formation of planets long before Kant and Laplace, was an original chemist, sketched a flying machine.

But with all this done and learned, life still lay flat and unpalatable on Swedenborg's tongue. He sought, like Paracelsus, the infinite and the spiritual; and neither geometrical, nor physical, nor metaphysical principles led him to them. But they must be found. And so to work on a new path. Then, in 1745, "heaven was opened to him by direct spiritual revelation from God."

Cheap Lunches for Girls

In almost every parish in Paris—some of them housed in separate quarters, some attached to the clinics and creches maintained by the church, there has been established a "L'Oeuvre Diocesaine," or restaurant, for working girls who find the ordinary restaurants too expensive. The average pay of midwives, many of whom carry their lunches in small compact leather boxes, is microscopically small, judged by American standards. But many of the girls find lunch boxes an inconvenience and in answer to their need "L'Oeuvre Diocesaine" has been inaugurated. The girls can have soup, hors d'oeuvre, a meat course, vegetables, dessert and wine for about 8 cents. They can order less if they like, and if they do not wish to spend so small an amount, or cannot afford to do so, they may bring their own food and make use of the kitchen.

The New Man

It is true that man is gradually being forced to take up the domestic arts, affirms the Wilmington Evening Star. It blames it all on women's efforts to enter the masculine realm. "He is forced to attend to the babies," says the paper, "wash dishes and 'dust the living room'—and, if needs be, wear a gingham apron—while madam is playing bridge or attending a lecture on the subject of 'Wives and Mothers.' The natural consequence is that the poor man, saturated by an atmosphere of domesticity, takes on an effeminate air before he realizes it. He finds himself walking in a womanish manner and answering the doorbell with a toss of the head and a gesture of the hands that reminds one of Maud Muller."

Helping South America's Poor

An American corporation—Cerro de Pasco—one of the largest copper producing concerns in the world, in an effort to help Peru better the living conditions of her poor, is importing fifteen pedigreed Hereford and Angus bulls from Colorado. They are to be crossed with the range cattle here in the hope of stimulating milk production. The low production of whole-some milk in Peru and Chile is believed one reason for the high mortality among children. The Cerro de Pasco, along with other American corporations, is showing much humanitarian interest in the poor and ignorant native workers, who have been exploited from time immemorial and still are by most native companies.

Relativity Still Holds

In spite of all attacks, the theory of relativity is still on a firm foundation, according to Dr. Charles E. St. John of the Mount Wilson observatory. All the tests of the theory suggested by Einstein, and several he did not think of, have supported the theory when put to trial.

One of the crucial tests of relativity consists in measuring the spectrum shift. If light has mass, as the Einstein theory postulates, it is subject to gravitational attraction. Therefore, the sun would tend, at least slightly, to pull back its light, even at the moment it sends it out. This would lead to the displacement of the spectrum of that source of light as compared with the spectrum of a source of light having little gravitational attraction, like an arc light here on earth. Doctor St. John made this test with delicate instruments and found the predicted shift.

Hens Will Lay

THE ROMANCE OF SQUINT

By MIRIAM CRUIKSHANK

(© by Short Story Pub. Co.)

THERE was once an artist who, earning his living by making sport of other people's woes, sprung upon the public a series of portraits labeled something on this wise: "This is Miss Smith who is in love with Mr. Brown and is to be married to Mr. Jones. This is Mr. Jones, who is going to marry Miss Smith and who is in love with Miss White. This is Mr. Brown, with whom Miss Smith is in love, who is in love with Miss Green, but who is going to marry Miss White."

It was all very amusing—to the on-looker. But if your name was Doris Haskell and you were not a raving, tearing beauty—just ordinarily pretty, and were twenty-one your last birthday, and had an Aunt Cordelia who had decreed that you were to marry a rich, fat ex-senator who was long past fifty and twice a widower, while you—well, maybe you wouldn't have such a keen sense of humor yourself.

Most persons spoke of Aunt Cordelia as a very remarkable woman, well stocked with ideas.

Since she had kept Doris' conscience and regulated the length of her skirts for twenty years, she saw no reason for relinquishing the job until her niece should become a finished product.

The disturbing element arrived suddenly and without warning in the shape of a young man. His name was Claude William Mortimer, which in itself was a crime. What self-respecting woman would want a nephew-in-law named Claude William?

Claude William was an innocuous youth, of fair education and good taste in dress, who had inherited more money than was good for him from an enterprising maternal grandfather who had made it in the grocery business and whose distinguishing characteristic was a slight cast in his left eye.

To complicate matters, Claude William, who because of his name and his humble ancestry was scorned by Aunt Cordelia, was diligently sought after by two mothers of marriageable daughters, who were not so exacting in their demands.

That neither of the daughters in question seconded her mother's efforts was a small matter. That neither was interested in Claude William, save as the friend of two other youths, was an even smaller matter. That they were friendly toward each other and kindly disposed toward Doris did not count at all in the eyes of the maternal maneuverers—which was perhaps just as well.

What Claude William thought no one chose to inquire. There is a theory that any woman can have any man she wants if she sets her mind to it. Just how that theory may be substantiated outside of Turkey, when three determined women want the same man at the same time, has never been explained, but both Mrs. Leonard and Mrs. Marsh, the two mothers in question, believed in it firmly.

Doris had not arrived at the theorizing time of life, so she could only sob out her heart among the pillows, when she knew Aunt Cordelia was out of hearing distance, and confide to Rags, her bull terrier, that she knew Claude William loved her—loved her devotedly. Else why did he look at her as he did?

There is no telling how long matters would have remained in this unsettled stage if there had not been a meeting of the Ethical Culture society under the auspices of the University Extension. Aunt Cordelia was going to the meeting and the ex-senator, who was to address it, had suggested that they go together in his car. Doris had pleaded a headache and Aunt Cordelia had accepted the excuse. She thought this as good a time as any other to talk over matters with the ex-senator and see if he agreed with her in those that were important.

At about half-past three Doris found her headache so much improved that it seemed as if nothing but fresh air was required to complete the cure. So she dressed herself in the most becoming walking costume she owned and started down the street. Midway of a crowded thoroughfare she came face to face with the Misses Leonard and Marsh, who stopped to exchange greetings.

"We are going over to the Sign of the Rose for afternoon tea," said Miss Leonard, "come along, Doris—it's lots of fun." Doris' eyes sparkled, but she hesitated.

"If there's nobody else, Marion—" she began. Miss Leonard giggled and Miss Marsh looked conscious.

"We are going to telephone to two of the boys," the former explained. "They always meet us there when we have an afternoon that we can count on, but you needn't mind. We'll tell them to bring somebody along for you—who shall it be? I say, Elsie," turning to Miss Marsh, "let's do our duty like little lambkins and ask old Claude. Think how we'll be commended at home if we say we have been teasing with Claude and don't mention the rest of the crowd. Doris doesn't mind—whyee?" interrupting herself. "You don't mean, Doris, that you—?" For Doris had blushed, not just an ordinary little blush, but a deep, throbbing, heart-reaching, tell-tale crimson.

And then because she had kept in until she couldn't keep in any longer and because she had found both the pillows and the bull terrier rather inadequate as confidants, she blurted out a story that dealt with Aunt Cordelia and a fat ex-senator and a belief in an undying love, even though unspoken, because of a certain expression in Claude William's eyes.

Not so very many minutes later a little party of six was gathered in an inconspicuous corner of The Sign of the Rose. There were three tables in the corner, each just big enough for two and the Misses Leonard and Marsh, feeling that they had done their duty for the afternoon, turned their shoulders upon Doris and devoted themselves to their escorts. As it happened Doris did not mind. For the first time in her life she was knowing the bliss of conversation with Claude William Mortimer.

And Claude? Well Claude, despite his name and his ancestry, upheld his end of the line wonderfully. If he had never given a serious thought to little Miss Doris before, he was astute enough not to say so. Maybe he felt that a good deal of the attention he had hitherto received from the fair sex was due to those sugar-made millions. In which case there must have been a certain joy in knowing that he was being loved for himself alone, by a very pretty girl, who was more than willing to throw over an ex-senator, with something of a career to his credit, for his sake.

Be that as it may, before the party broke up for the afternoon that undying love, of which Doris had dreamed, had been not only looked, but spoken. She shyly assented when Claude suggested that they should confide their newly found happiness to the others, and caught herself listening with a delicious horror to a plan that they should elope. It was really the most sensible thing they could do, so the whole party agreed.

It was too late this afternoon to buy a license and a ring, and find a minister, and pack a bag, and do all the things that were necessary to a well-conducted elopement. It was the practical Miss Leonard who in the end solved the problem.

"You can't do all the things this afternoon, of course," she said, "but you can do most of them. Some one told me that you could get a license at any time up to six o'clock and it isn't much after five now. Claude can go up to the city hall now and Jack," she nodded at her own swain, "and I will go buy the wedding ring. Doris you run along home and pack a bag, and Elsie will go with you and sneak it out without even Miss Cordelia suspecting, and I guess that just leaves Joe to keep Claude company and hunt up a minister."

"And then—?" demanded the other five in a chorus, as Miss Leonard paused for breath. "And then—" she said, airily, "Oh, the rest is easy. We are all going to the Fortnightly dancing class tonight and Claude is to lead the German. Now, Claude, you mustn't get your feelings hurt, for I am one of the best friends you ever had. And you, Miss Doris, needn't get snippy, for I'm only trying to circumvent Aunt Cordelia. Listen to me—" And, resting her elbows on the table, Miss Leonard unfolded her scheme.

When Claude William Mortimer stepped forward to choose a partner at the Fortnightly dancing class that night, no one would have dreamed from his manner that he was about to choose one for life also. He cast a somewhat erratic glance around him and let his eye linger upon a certain section of the ballroom.

Doris was there, demure as ever, and guarded by Aunt Cordelia. Marion was there, a little to Doris' right. Elsie was there also, perhaps an equal distance to her left, and both were watched with maternal vigilance. To an unbiased observer it would seem that Claude William's persuasive glance wavered among the three.

"It's you, of course," whispered Mrs. Leonard and Mrs. Marsh simultaneously to their daughters.

"It's you, I suppose," hissed Aunt Cordelia into her niece's ear. "Such impertinence! These dancing classes are absurd, anyhow."

Three maidens arose in blushing unison and Claude William, conscious of a subdued titter in the background, turned a vivid crimson, but did not lose his nerve. Instead, he held aloft a mass of ribbon, gay of hue and much adorned with loops and bows, and with unerring hand, threw one end of it about—not one, but all three girls—Doris between the other two. Then as the titter rose to a faint cheer, he boldly drove them three abreast across the ballroom, through an archway into a tiny annex beyond.

The next man, whose name was Jack, hesitated, as though fearful of his ability with the ribbon. His hesitation was short, but it was long enough to hold every eye in the room and prevent anyone from seeing that as he passed the archway Claude William released his two outside steeds from their gay harness and drove Doris on alone.

There were French windows in the annex that opened on to a veranda which led down to the street, and Claude William had no further fear. He wisely calculated that his absence would not be commented upon until time for the next figure of the German and by then—well, the ring and the license were in his pocket, his automobile was at the corner, and an obliging minister was waiting not three blocks off.

"It's a shame to take such easy money," he said, as he swung Doris off the veranda and, seizing her hand, ran with her up the street.

It is rumored that Aunt Cordelia will marry the ex-senator herself, in order to keep him in the family. She has graciously forgiven Doris for her rebellion, but she is still unconvinced to the name of Claude.

WHO SAID

"In buying a house, and taking a wife, shut your eyes and commend yourself to God."

THERE is nothing recorded in the life of Charles Pinot Duclos, the author of these words, to indicate that there was in his life the elements of marital unhappiness which would justify the cynicism he voices.

Duclos had a varied life and he has left his name on the roll of fame in many capacities.

As a historian he is entitled to be remembered as the author of the ingenious "History of Louis XI" and the "Secret Memoirs on the Reign of Louis XIV."

As a philologist he published some exceedingly interesting studies in the French and Celtic languages which have proved of great value in the world of letters.

As a novelist and wit he has left some excellent examples of his work. In this connection his autobiography cannot be overlooked, for it is both an interesting example of an excellent style and a human document enlivened by much of the author's native humor.

During his life Duclos won the approval of the French Academy and was rewarded by being made perpetual secretary of that body. His aid in revising the Dictionnaire of the Academy was one of the contributing causes to his being thus honored.

Duclos' death occurred in France in the year 1772 when he was sixty-eight.—Wayne D. McMurray.

Mother's Cook Book

There is very little difference between one man and another, but that little is very important.

It is a greater compliment to be trusted than to be loved.

HINTS AND GOOD THINGS

DELIGHTFUL little cakes may be decorated with animal crackers dipped in fondant chocolate. Gingerbread men—who ever grows too old to enjoy them?

Add a few drops of lemon juice to boiled rice; it improves the flavor as well as its appearance.

A plain cookie foundation may be used for dozens of small cakes. Nuts, raisins, spices and seeds, cocoa and chocolate all may be used in various ways. The way cookies are shaped makes them more alluring even to grown-ups.

Plain Cookies.

Take one-half cupful of fat, one cupful of sugar, one-fourth cupful of milk, one egg, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, flavor to taste and add two cupfuls of flour. This recipe is best doubled for most families. Mix and let stand on ice to chill. This helps to roll them out, taking less flour.

Broiled Parsnips.

Wash and scrape parsnips and cook until tender in boiling salted water. When cold cut in halves, spread with melted butter and broil.

Prussian Rocks.

Cream two-thirds of a cupful of butter, add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar and three well-beaten eggs. Sift three cupfuls of flour with one-half teaspoonful each of soda, clove, cinnamon and one-fourth teaspoonful of nutmeg; add one-half pound of raisins and the same of walnut meats cut fine, to the flour mixture; alternate with one-half cupful of milk. Beat well and drop by spoonfuls on a buttered baking sheet. These cookies are better a week old.

Serve plain ice cream with a hot maple chocolate sauce, using nuts for a garnish. Such a dessert is rich and satisfying and not difficult to serve.

Sheep Carried All Summer on Pasture

Use of Forage Crops Is Practical Feed Plan.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Use of forage crops for pasturing sheep in summer is a practical means of feeding them, according to the results of experiments conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture on its experiment farm at Beltsville, Md. Observations were made not only of the gains in weight but also of the general condition of the animals, including resistance to disease and parasites.

The crops used in this system of pastures in the order of use were as follows: Fall-sown rye, wheat, winter barley, oats, and Canada field peas, soy beans, corn and velvet beans, fall-sown winter barley, and winter wheat.

It was shown that sheep can be raised successfully by using such crops as cowpeas, soy beans, and like plants to provide the entire summer pasturage. The method was beneficial also in the control of stomach worms and other internal parasites. By the method lambs can be grown to market weights without being visibly affected by parasite infestation. A frequent rotation of pasture made possible by this system is beneficial, but not entirely adequate, in controlling parasites of sheep carried on the farm throughout the year.

Maximum Production of the Average Dairy Cow

The average dairy cow reaches her maximum production at the age of five years. The amount of milk produced at the fourth lactation period, or when the cow is five years old, is about one and one-half times more than that produced during the first lactation period as a two-year-old. Milk flow will not diminish until the cow has reached old age, which is usually considered ten years. However, one should consider a cow eight years old or over as aged. A seven-year-old cow is not considered old, and providing she is a profitable producer she should not be butchered.

The average cow will probably start to lose her teeth at the age of eight years; however, again this is a consideration that cannot be given a definite answer owing to the fact that the individuality of each animal must enter into the consideration.

In determining whether a cow is a good milk animal or not one should not base their conclusion entirely upon the amount of milk produced when the animal first freshens. The profitable cow is the long-time producer.

A cow to be a "good" producer in your section of the country should give at least 200 pounds of butterfat. Cows that give 300 pounds of butterfat or more per year are not at all uncommon.

Son of Proven Sire Is Fit to Head Dairy Herd

Very painstaking investigations at the Missouri experiment station demonstrate the importance of selecting bulls from sires having high-producing daughters. The conclusion is reached that a son of a proven sire and out of a large record dam is the best sire if you cannot obtain a proven sire.

Many breeders at the present time are placing considerable emphasis on the production of the dam in selecting young bulls. The Missouri investigation demonstrated that the dam's record is on the average a poor guide as to her ability to produce high-producing sons. The investigation was under the direction of A. C. Ragsdale, head of the department of dairy husbandry. Details are found in research bulletin No. 79 of the Missouri experiment station, Columbia.

Save Chicken Manure

Chicken manure is one of the most valuable fertilizers produced on the farm. It is especially rich in nitrogen, and since this is one of the essential elements that plants must have for growth, it should be saved.

The practice of most farmers to have no dropping boards under the roosts is wasteful. With a properly constructed dropping board one may scrape or rake off the manure into an old tub or bucket, and load it onto the wagon in a few minutes.

Curry Comb and Brush

The thorough, yet gentle use of curry comb and brush does for an animal what a bath and clean shirt do for man. It gives the skin a better chance to perform its important functions; it makes the hair coat more adequate as a protection against inclement weather; it is an excellent preventive for certain external parasites; it makes for good health as well as good looks. At no time is it more essential to animal well-being than during winter.

Spread Manure Green

Manures can be spread so much more lightly when green, whether by hand or the spreader, that there is a great saving of material. The idea that land needs a heavy coat of manure is erroneous, most lands giving far better results with two light coverings than one heavy covering in a given number of years. As the course of nearly all decaying matter is downward, the longer it remains on or near the surface, the better results you will get.

Lesson for March 21

JESUS DIES AND ARISES FROM THE DEAD

LESSON TEXT—John 19:17-30; 20: 1-29.

GOLDEN TEXT—Therefore doth the Father love me, because I lay down
my life that I may take it again.—John 10:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Dies and Rises From the Dead.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Dies and Rises
From the Dead.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—Jesus Dies and Rises From the Dead.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC—Christ Dying for Our Sins and Rising Again for Our Justification.

1. Jesus Crucified (vv. 17-30).

1. The place (v. 17).

It was on a hill called in Latin Calvary, in Hebrew Golgotha, which in shape resembled a skull.

2. His companions.

Two malefactors (v. 18, cf. Luke 23:32).

This shows how completely Jesus was identified with sinners.

3. The inscription over Him (vv.
19, 20).

It was customary to place an inscription over the cross stating the crime for which the victim suffered.

4. Gambling for the garments of Jesus (vv. 23, 24).

This is an exhibition of how men's hearts may be so callous as to plan and act for present gain under the shadow of the cross of Christ.

5. Utterances from the cross (vv.
25-30).

(1) "Behold thy son"—"Behold thy mother" (vv. 25, 26).

In this crucial hour He forgot His own bitter anguish and interested Himself in those He loved. Though He was leaving the earth and its struggles, He made provision for the dear ones left behind.

(2) "I thirst" (v. 28).

As the sinner's representative, He suffered not only untold agony of mind, but of body as well.

(3) "It is finished" (v. 30).

While no one can fathom the depth of meaning in these words, they do
no doubt indicate (a) that the calu-mies and indignities heaped upon Him
were at an end.

6. His death (v. 30).

His death was voluntary. With full consciousness that all things which He had come to do had now been accomplished, He dismissed His spirit.

11. The Resurrection of Jesus (20: 1-29).

1. The empty tomb (vv. 1-10).

(1) The testimony of Mary Magdalene (vv. 1, 2).

This woman, out of whom Jesus had cast seven demons (Mark 16:9; Luke 8:20), announced the fact of the empty tomb to Peter and John.

(2) Personal investigation by Peter and John (vv. 3-10).

The news of the empty tomb which Mary brought with breathless haste
so moved John and Peter that they both ran to investigate.

(3) The manifestations of the risen
Lord (vv. 11-29).

(1) To Mary Magdalene (vv. 11-18).

(a) Mary weeping at the empty tomb (v. 11).

Peter and John went home, but
Mary could not—she stood weeping.
She should have been rejoicing that the grave was empty, for the empty tomb was a eloquent proof of His messianic life and deity.

(b) Mary questioned by the angels
(vv. 12, 13).

She viewed through her tears angels
at the tomb, who inquired the cause of her sorrow.

(c) Jesus reveals Himself to Mary
(vv. 12, 13).

She first saw angels, and then her eyes lighted upon the Lord. She did not recognize Him in His resurrection body but His voice was familiar to her. As soon as her name was called she recognized Him and worshiped at His feet.

(d) Jesus forbids her to touch Him
(v. 17).

This shows that she was now coming into a new relationship with Him.
Besides, there was no time for such familiarity while the disciples were in darkness. "Go tell my brethren,"
was the message for her to carry.

(e) Mary's testimony (v. 18).

(2) To the disciples (vv. 19-20).

(a) When Thomas was absent (vv.
19-23).

He came to them with the message of peace (v. 19), showed His hands and side (v. 20), commissioned them
(v. 21) and bestowed upon them the Holy Spirit (v. 22).

(b) When Thomas was present (vv.
24-29).

Victory over Thomas' skepticism
was realized by the sight and touch of the Lord.

To Make True the Dream

The most valuable possession which Christianity holds for me is this conviction: That the task is unfinished,
that the conflict is still on, and that it is my business to invest my life in such a way as to make true the dream of the Son of Man.—Edward A. Steiner.

Depend on Jesus

Never let earthly things, not even the bitterest sorrow, blind you to the presence of Jesus.

What Does Jesus Mean by Cross-Bearing?

Matthew 16:21-28; John 10:11-16

From our two Scripture passages
we may gather several truths taught by our Lord concerning the cross and cross-bearing.

First, there is the truth of substitution—"I lay down my life for the sheep." The very mention of sheep reminds us of Isaiah 53, where the clearest fore-gleam of the cross in the Old Testament is found. In that chapter we read that "all we like sheep have gone astray, we have turned every one to his own way." This means departure from God, which is described in the Bible by such words
as iniquity, transgression and sin.
Over against all this we read the words, "But he was wounded for our transgressions; he was bruised for our iniquities." This is substitution, the just dying for the unjust that He might bring us to God. Hence, the necessity of the cross as seen in the words, "He must go to Jerusalem and suffer and be killed." "The good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep." This is the fundamental lesson concerning the cross and cross-bearing.

The words of Jesus were painfully strange to Peter. The flesh always shrinks from death, but death is the only way into the resurrection life.
Death and resurrection are the great words of the Christian religion. Men prattle about evolution, salvation by character and the divinity of man, and the world nods its head in self-complacency, but when it comes to death and resurrection, how very few understand. The natural man cries out with Peter, "Pity thyself, adopt some other method, take some other way." "There is no other way," says Jesus. "If man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow me." This involves the denial or crucifixion of the self life and the substitution of the Christ life in its place. See Galatians
2:20; 2 Corinthians 5:17.

Those who are thus identified with Christ enter into the fellowship of His sufferings and come to understand what Jesus means by cross-bearings as applied to the Christian life. In this world our Lord was given only a crown of thorns. If we appreciate this we will not expect deliverance from suffering here but rather find fellowship with Him in His great work of a world's redemption.

The following poem from Hugo Bassies' sermon is pertinent to our topic:

If thou impatient do let slip thy cross,
Thou wilt not find it in this world again
Nor in another; here and here alone
Is given thee to suffer for His sake.
In other worlds we may more perfectly
Love Him, serve Him, praise Him, Grow nearer and nearer to Him with delight.
But then we shall not any more
Be called to suffer, which is our appointment here.
Canst thou not suffer then one hour or two
If He should call thee from thy cross today Saying, "It is finished, that hard cross of thine
From which thou prayest for deliverance," Thinkest thou some passion of regret
Would overcome thee? Thou wouldst say,
"So soon? Let me go back to suffer yet a while
More patiently. I have not yet praised God."
Whensoever it comes, that summons that we look for,
It will seem soon. Let us take heed in time
That God may now be glorified in us.

Sugar From Linen

There is now in Germany a manufactory which turns out daily 1,000 pounds of pure white sugar made from old linen. An understanding of the process helps somewhat to dispel the unpleasant feeling we experience on hearing of the fact. Clean old linen is vegetable fibrin, and when treated with sulphuric acid, it is converted into dextrin. This is washed with lime water, then treated with more acid, and it changes almost immediately, and crystallizes into glucose or grape-sugar, which is so highly valued in the making of rich preserves and jellies. The process is said to be economical, and the sugar is found to be chemically the same as the grape.

Mutuality

It was but this present morning, as he rode on the omnibus from Richmond; while it changed horses, this present chronicler, being on the roof, marked three little children playing in a puddle below, very dirty, and friendly, and happy. To these three presently came another little one.
"Polly" says she, "your sister's got a penny." At which the children got up from the puddle instantly, and ran off to pay their court to Peggy. And as the omnibus drove off I saw Peggy with the infantine procession at her tail, marching with great dignity toward the stall of a neighboring lollipop woman.—Thackeray, "Vanity Fair."

Methods of Naming

Newcomer to World

Choosing a name for a new baby
is always a matter of anxious consideration.

But in many lands this anxiety has been minimized by the laying down of rules to guide the choice, says a writer in Science magazine.

For instance, in Egypt the parents take three candles and the one that burns the brightest and longest determines the child's name.

The Hindus allow the mother to name the baby. Then, when the baby is twelve days old, if the father does not like the chosen name, he selects another.

Then the two names are written on slips of paper and held over a lighted
lamp, the one that burns the brighter
being the name adopted.

Egyptians place 12 names in the Koran. One slip is drawn out, and the name on it is the name for the child.

Chinese girls are not named. The boys are named by their mothers.
When they reach twenty the father names them over again.

you are my own dear wife. Have you anything to say about the arrangement?"

"Only that the film rights will, of course, belong to me."—Lustige Blaet-ter.

An Utter Stranger

A man who had slipped in a few minutes late to a funeral was obviously nervous during the minister's eulogy of the departed. Finally, turning to a neighbor, he whispered:
"Hey, is this George Q. Billings' funeral?"

"Certainly. Why?"
"Well, that fellow the preacher's talking about wasn't Billings."

"Yes, antiques are valuable. These things are very old."
"What if you don't sell them?"
"Well, they are getting older all the time."

Something Said

Madge—Wasn't there some talk of Mabel marrying a duke?
Ethel—Yes, but you see the duke
didn't say anything to her about it.

Only for That

"Do you approve of women making up?"
"For lost time, but not for lost looks."

TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Items of news from town, or vicinity are always wanted for this column. Especially accidents, sales of real estate, fires, important happenings, visits to or from the community, social events, and all matters of general interest to those at home, and away from home.

Misses Anna and Grace Null, of Hanover, spent the week-end with friends and relatives in and near town.

Last Sunday morning was the coldest March 14, in thirty-eight years, so the Philadelphia weather bureau says.

Mrs. Norval P. Shoemaker, spent the week-end with her son, Norval Jr., at Millersville State Normal School.

Mrs. John H. Kiser, has returned home from a week's visit to her daughter, Mrs. Grace Meding, at Dundalk, Md.

Miss Adelaide Shriver, spent the week-end, with her father, Mr. P. H. Shriver, and returned to Frederick, on Monday morning.

Some of the Student Volunteers of Blue Ridge College will render a program at the Piney Creek Brethren (Bethel) Church, next Sunday, March 21, at 10:30 A. M.

We ran out of extra copies of The Record again, last week, and again we urge our weekly patrons to subscribe for a term, and have their names placed on our mailing list.

The radio is demonstrating its value as a weather forecaster; for whenever there is a "growling" or "frying" sound produced, there is pretty sure to be a change in the weather near at hand.

The engagement of Miss Mabel Shaw Weant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Weant, of Westminster, to W. Dana Rudy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Rudy, of Mt. Airy, has been announced.

Farmers who take the Baltimore Sun, should look up Monday's issue and read how an Ohio farmer made money during the past five years. We should like to print the article, but it says "copyrighted."

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lemmon and family, of Waynesboro, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lemmon and sons, Homer and Ralph and daughter, Betty, of Hanover, visited Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Lemmon, on Sunday.

Somebody in this town has an awful "squealer" radio, that mars the reception of all other radios in the town. It was in operation last Sunday afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock—to particularize, just a little.

Don't forget! Tonight and tomorrow night, "Miss Cherryblossom" the musical comedy by Taneytown H. S. Glee Clubs, in the Opera House. The production will be under the direction of Miss Dorothy Robb. Admission 35c and 25c.

Farmers generally have been well satisfied with the returns from their public sales of personal property; and the fact that but very few notes have been given, is an indication that ready money among farmers is fairly plentiful. Farm machinery has been selling especially well.

J. N. O. Smith had the two largest sales of the season, this week. On Tuesday, the Simpson sale at Uniontown amounted to $4750., and on Wednesday the Kauffman sale, at Meadow Branch, amounted to $5217. All through the season good stock and implements, well advertised, have brought excellent prices.

One of our patrons, who intended having a public sale, this spring, in getting our prices for sale work, complained at our charge of $2.00 for 500 sale cards, saying that a certain other office gave them free, along with bills and advertising. But, he finally admitted that the "bills" cost $7.00, while our charge for the same size was $4.00. Getting "something for nothing" is sometimes expensive.

Charles E. Miller, a brother of J. Howard Miller, of Westminster, and who was once a resident, of Taneytown, died suddenly at his home in Littlestown, on Wednesday, likely from acute indigestion. He was the proprietor of a five and ten cent store, in Littlestown. His age was 47 years. He was a member of Taneytown Lodge I. O. O. F., which will have charge of the services at the cemetery.

Two cars, a Buick and a Ford, had a collision, at the square, Sunday evening. The owners are said to have been from Westminster and Ladiesburg, and as there was no "Cop" around, there appears not to have been a "case" over it. The Ford was pretty badly damaged. One car was occupied by men, and the other by a man and several ladies. Some say there was too much speed; and others with good smellers, give another cause for the accident.

Miss Elizabeth Kiser, of York, was at her home here, over last week-end.

Miss Maud Wimbrow, of Baltimore, was the guest of Mrs. M. A. Koons, on Friday.

Mrs. Alice Crebs spent the week-end with her daughter, Janet, at Millersville, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stover will occupy the John H. Cluts dwelling, on Baltimore Street.

The two new dwellings on George Street, are being rapidly made ready for occupancy about April 1.

Mrs. Clarence King, of Littlestown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stouffer, who was very ill, is improving.

Dwellings are being closely hunted up, the probability being that every available home in town will be filled.

Mr. and Mrs. George Newcomer and Helen Shank, visited Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Newcomer, at Westminster, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Crabbs and son, Elwood, Mrs. Curtis Bowers and Miss Mae Sanders, spent Thursday afternoon, in Frederick.

Mrs. George Hoff and Mrs. Oliver Crouse, of Westminster, and Mrs. Nettie Weaver, of Baltimore, visited friends in town, on Monday.

Mrs. Sallie B. Hess, who has been spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Sherald, in Annapolis, returned home this week.

Chas. G. Baumgardner is reported to be progressing in a satisfactory way, at Frederick Hospital. He expects to return home, on Sunday.

Mrs. George H. Birnie and daughter Miss Eleanor, and Mrs. Curtis Bowers, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Harner, near Sell's Mill.

Rev. S. R. Kresge, of Baust Church is confined to his home with laryngitis. He is improving slowly and expects to fill his pulpit on Sunday.

An accident was reported, Wednesday afternoon, due to Charles Reaver's bread truck colliding with a manure spreader, on Whitmore's hill. Both machines were somewhat injured.

Rev. Martin W. Schweitzer, Ph. D., and his sister, Dr. Schweitzer, of Ephrata, Pa., and Rev. Murray E. Ness, of Ardentsville, Pa., were visiting friends about Baust Church, this week.

E. C. Sauerhammer left, on Monday morning, for Philadelphia, where he entered the Lankenau Hospital, for treatment and a possible operation. Mrs. Sauerhammer left for Philadelphia this Saturday morning.

Mrs. Mary Stover and Mrs. Vernon Crouse, who have been very ill for several weeks, are slowly improving. Mrs. Stover is able to be around in the house, while Mrs. Crouse is able to sit up in her room a few hours each day.

Visitors at the home of Mrs. Sarah Null and sister, on Sunday, were: Mrs. George Prior, of Emmitsburg; Samuel Renner and family, and Wm. Renner and family, of Littlestown; Charles Gillelan, wife and daughter, and C. C. Little and wife, of Two Taverns.

The degree team of the local Camp of the P. O. S. of A., visited the Uniontown Camp, on Tuesday night, when a class of twelve members was initiated, bringing the membership up to 100, which is also the number of the Camp in the roster of Camps in the state.

(For the Record.)

Mrs. Eliza Koons, who is now making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Grant Bohn, is at present enjoying the best of health. Is able to do light house work despite her age, which will be 92 in December. She was just recently finished piecing her 6th. quilt, two of which she has joined.

"We enclose check for one more year's subscription. This is not only the date of the expiration of our paper, but it is twenty-three years today since we were married and came to Philadelphia to live. Twenty-three short, busy years, with many changes and new developments. The Record has been a weekly "home news letter" every since, and helps to recall memories of by gone days."—Martin L. and Mary E. S. Koons.

State road engineers went over the Taneytown end of the Littlestown road, the first of this week, having blue-prints of the survey made some time ago. It is believed that at least a mile of this road will be constructed by the state this year. It is also current report that the County Commissioners will make at least a start this year at real improvement on the Key-mar road, with the expectation of turning it over to the State.

It cost $3,459.21 to keep one inmate of the Home for Aged Farmers, in Davenport, Iowa, last year.

Free Seed Corn

THE Taneytown Savings Bank

Careful seed selection means more and better corn per acre, and with this in mind we are making a FREE distribution of one-half bushel of selected seed corn of either GOLDEN QUEEN or GOLDEN STANDARD DENT to any farmer residing in our banking vicinity who calls at the bank between March 19th. and March 27th., inclusive, and signs an application card.

All that we require is that the applicant agrees to exhibit ten of the best ears, raised from the seed we furnish.

The place and time of exhibition to be decided later.

The Seed Corn will be ready for delivery between April 10th. and April 24th.

If in need of good Seed Corn, don't pass this opportunity up.

Have You Noticed—

That those who pay the least, often expect the most.

That children with the poorest home advantages often make the best men and women.

That those who ordinarily act as though they do not "belong to the church," sometimes feel the need of the church belonging to them.

That the good piece of string is often a few inches too short to tie your package.

That your "forgetting" to do something for somebody, does not seem half so bad as when somebody else forgets to do something for you.

That the most things one worries about are largely in "our mind," and never actually happen.

That the things we dread doing—the tasks that seem disagreeable—very often leave us feeling much better, after they are done.

That the man with a clear conscience rarely jumps, when somebody unexpectedly slaps him on the back.

That you have often had a wrong opinion of a person, simply because you did not really know him, or her, as well as you knew them later.

That in every town and community there are persons and sources from which "off-color" information seems to originate, and that such persons and sources are not the best, in point of character.

That being "on time" and keeping ones "word," are the characteristics of men who have been successful, and are among the "representative" citizens.

FARMERS!

Bankert Brothers are having a man to talk to farmers, on Monday night, on the planting of Tomatoes, Beans, Sweet Corn and Peas. The meeting will be at Shriner's theatre at 7:30. After the meeting a lot of pictures will be shown on how to raise plants and care for the crops. A general invitation is extended to all farmers.

FOR SHERIFF.

I announce myself as a Candidate for Sheriff of Carroll County at the coming Republican Primaries and ask for the votes of my friends.

HENRY D. GENTZLER, 3-19-2t Manchester District.

FOR SHERIFF.

I take this method of informing my friends that I will be a candidate for Sheriff on the Republican ticket at the coming Primaries and ask the support of all my friends.
