

"DOLLAR DAY" WAS A BIG SUCCESS

Sentiment in Favor of Continuing it
Next Year.

"Dollar Day" in Taneytown, on Tuesday, was a distinct success, and the merchants and others who participated in it are decidedly in favor of its continuance next year. It was not intended to be a profit-making event, so far as profit on sales was concerned, but rather a stimulus to business in a dull season, and to help move certain lines of goods at a bargain to purchasers.

There was also the disposition on the part of those who engaged in it, to make it a sort of social affair between business men and their customers, and direct profit was not the main idea. The result was that the people co-operated, and from early morning until late at night the town was alive with the spirit intended to be cultivated.

By another year—if not sooner—the experience gained by the first effort will be made use of in another "Dollar Day" sale, and still better results will surely be obtained. The day was popular, without doubt, with all concerned.

"Dollar Day" brought twenty-two new subscribers to The Record. Unfortunately, the offer was seen only by those who are already subscribers, hence the larger number of non-subscribers who would likely have accepted the offer, were not reached by it. As The Record already covers its territory pretty generally, the number added was very satisfactory.

Fair Family Annual Reunion.

The fourth annual Fair reunion was held at Twin Bridge Park, along the Harrisburg highway, on Thursday, August 4, 1927. 200 members were present. Dinner was served in the Park. Games of various kinds were indulged in; some of the younger folks enjoyed themselves in the swimming pool.

A business session was held at which time the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Pres., Samuel Fair, Waynesboro, Pa.; Vice-Pres., Charles A. Fair, Harrisburg, Pa.; Sec., Mrs. Earl Wright, Gettysburg, Pa.; Treas., Albert J. Ohler, Taneytown, Md.; Chairman Executive Committee, Leslie Fair, Gettysburg, Pa.; Amusement Committee, Mrs. Lillie Byers, Taneytown; Historian, C. Leslie Fair, Gettysburg, Pa.

The reunion for 1928 will be held at the Fair grounds Taneytown.

Cashman Family Reunion.

The annual reunion of the Cashman families was held at Kopp's park, Hanover, Saturday. At the business session officers were re-elected for the coming year as follows: President H. P. Cashman, Hanover; vice-pres., Charles Cashman, Taneytown; Sec., Miss Vergie M. Musser, Gettysburg; Asst. Sec., Mrs. Roy Zinn, Gettysburg; Treas., Harvey Cashman, New Chester.

The following program was given, "Blest be the Tie that Binds," prayer, Harvey Hartlaub; recitation, "Welcome," Mrs. Charles Cashman; address, the Rev. Harold Little; recitation, Alice Cashman; song, "America"; reading of minutes, Miss Vergie Musser; recitation, Helen Cashman; closing song, "God be with you till we Meet Again."

Paragraphs for Farmers.

Silage flavor in milk comes mostly through the body of the cow. Feed your silage immediately after, never before or during milking.

Phosphate comprises more than two-thirds of the 7,000,000 tons of fertilizer used in the United States annually. This country possesses the largest known deposits of phosphate rock, making it independent of foreign fertilizer sources.

The estimated production of ice cream in the United States during 1910 was only 95,450,000 gallons, but for 1926 it was 324,665,000 gallons, an increase in 16 years of 240 percent. The industry employs more than 50,000 persons and pays out in salaries more than $75,000,000 a year.

While more than 1,000,000 dairy cattle, out of 30,000,000 head tested for tuberculosis, have been destroyed, the industry is in better condition today than ten years ago when the campaign against the disease was inaugurated, according to Dr. John R. Mohler, Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture.

It is desirable to keep floors of dairy barns as clean as possible. No washing process should be practiced that leaves the floors wet all the time. This condition is unhealthy. It should be remembered that floors will not dry so quickly in cold weather as in warm weather, and the cows should not be made to lie on a wet floor, even though heavily bedded.

Giving various privileges on the farm, including allowances of farm products, in addition to wages, is an important means of attracting and holding good farm hands, says the United States Department of Agriculture. These things, if bought at city prices, would cost more than double their farm value. Working men not on farms would more often consider farm work as an occupation, if they knew what perquisites and consequent savings in expenses were offered in addition to wages.

LETTER FROM SEATTLE

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hesson having a Fine Western Trip.

The following is part of a letter received by the Editor of The Record from D. J. Hesson, who with Mrs. Hesson is on an extensive Western trip. This letter was written at Seattle, August 2, on their way from California and Oregon.

"We are having a wonderful time inspecting Docks and Canals. Seattle boats one of the greatest docks in the world, in the Smith's Cove Dock. It is owned and controlled by King County.

Transportation experts come from all sections of the world to behold this, and to obtain ideas for use in their own land. Pier 8, Smith Cove Terminal, 2,580 feet long and 367 ft. wide, the largest commercial dock in the world, and is only slightly larger than Pier A alongside. These piers form one of the seven complete terminals operated by the Port Commission, in addition to the equally extensive private docks. Seattle's port development is ahead of that of any city on the Pacific Coast and there are accommodations at these docks for 120 ocean-going ships at one time.

Lake Washington Canale, eight miles long, connects the Puget Sound with Lakes Union and Washington. Formally opened July 4, 1917. Cost $5,000,000.

The Locks can lift larger vessels than any government locks except those at the Panama Canal, and can accommodate ships 780 feet long. This Canal was built by joint effort of Seattle and Federal Government and gives Seattle both fresh and salt water harbors.

We just came off our tour starting at Lake Washington, through the Canal, Locks, Puget Sound and Elliot Bay. This was a wonderful trip, one we shall never forget."

Proceedings of the Orphans' Court.

Monday, Aug. 8th., 1927—Mary E. Wisner, administratrix of Eli Wisner, deceased, settled her first and final account and received order to deposit funds.

Middletown Reformed Church to be Improved.

The Reformed Church at Middletown, Frederick county is being enlarged and otherwise improved, at an estimated cost of over $20,000. Among the improvements are a two-story addition to the chapel providing room for the urdial roll, beginners primary, junior and intermediate departments of the Sunday School, as well as adult and young peoples departments.

The interior of the church proper will be redecorated, a new light system installed and the choir gallery enlarged, while the surrounding grounds will be improved.

The pastor of the church is Rev. John S. Adam, formerly pastor of the Silver Run charge. The congregation dates back 172 years.

Chicken Bone Causes Death.

A chicken bone, which lodged in her throat last Wednesday, and on Monday caused the death of Mrs. Gertrude Alma Weaner, 37, wife of Roy A. Weaner. Efforts to dislodge it proved unavailing and she was taken to a Baltimore hospital, where the bone was forced downward, puncturing the esophagus.

Mrs. Weaner was born near Westminster, and is survived by her father, William J. Brown, Jacksonville, Fla.; her husband, one son, Robert W. Weaner, at home; two sisters, Mrs. J. I. Burgoon, Gettysburg, and Mrs. D. E. Yingling, Silver Run, Md., and one brother, E. H. Brown, Union Mills, Md.

Old Bibles, Hymn Books, etc.

Send us the dates of your old Bibles, Testaments or Hymn Books, or books of this general character published in 1840 or before. State by whom printed, and where, and whether in English or German. We have several reported, but would like a longer list before publishing. Bibles published after 1840 are not rare.

CARROLL COUNTY FAIR COMING STRONG.

The Outlook is for an excellent
Exhibition, Sep. 13-16.

The plans and program for the 30th. Annual Carroll County Fair are all being worked out, and the outlook is that the four days will not only represent a fine line of exhibits but each day will hold its special attractions.

The premium lists for the Fair have arrived and any person wishing a copy can get it by calling on or writing to the Secretary, E. S. Harner. The Fair this year will be on September 13, 14, 15 and 16.

John H. Shirk, superintendent of concessions, is booking many attractions, shows and rides, for the midway. S. C. Ott, manager of the poultry department, will have a fine exhibit of poultry of all kinds. J. Ervin Myers has charge of the cattle, and Geo. H. Winemiller has charge of the Swine and Sheep department.

John N. Starr has the farm and dairy department. Mrs. H. A. Allison takes care of the household arts, flowers, etc. Geo. N. Hunter is race secretary, assisted by Raymond Wilson, and will have the speed department up to the usual high standard of the Fair.

The free attractions this year will be given by the Wilkes Lloyd Troupe, consisting of seven people and four horses, presenting four separate acts.

Tuesday is Farm Bureau Day. Special attractions and music on Wednesday and Thursday, and in the evenings of these days there will be a grand display of fireworks. Friday will be children's day, when all school children of the county will be admitted until 4 o'clock.

There will be dancing each evening of the Fair; music will be furnished by a large orchestra from Westminster. The management has built a new dancing floor, and made it much larger than the old one. In addition to the above, there will be band concerts each afternoon of the Fair.

The Association this year is giving admission tickets to all stockholders who own ten shares of stock, and family tickets to holders of 20 or more shares. These tickets should be secured from the secretary before the opening day of the Fair.

Hints to Campers.

Going camping this summer? If you are, before you settle down and unpack your belongings, the State Department of Health advises you to look for the following placard which certifies that the camp is in satisfactory sanitary condition:

"This camp has been inspected and approved by the State Board of Health."

This placard signed by Dr. John S. Fulton, Director of the State Department of Health will be found at the entrance to all camps that so far have met the state requirements this season. In 1926, a total of 49 camps were inspected and placarded. Up to the first of August of this year, 75 camps, scattered throughout the state after inspection by the local Deputy State Health Officer, had secured the necessary permit and had been duly placarded.

To secure a permit for the operation of a camp, application has to be made to the State Department of Health, giving the exact location of the existing or proposed camp; the purpose for which it is to be operated, whether for picnic grounds, as a tourist or recreation camp, for religious exercises, or as a labor camp, and the approximate number of persons to be cared for. The application must also state the source of the water supply; the proposed method of sewage and garbage disposal and whether or not food is to be sold. All of these things are looked into when the inspections are made and permits are granted only to those camps that are in satisfactory condition.

Special attention is paid to the water supply to be sure that it is of sufficient quantity and is protected against pollution; and to the arrangements for the disposal of sewage and of other waste. If an enclosed kitchen is provided, the regulations require it to be screened against flies. Milk or cream offered for sale, must be kept in closed receptacles and at a temperature below 60 degrees Fahrenheit, and all food stuffs must be protected against flies.

When a case of sickness with fever or diarrhoea as a symptom occurs in any camp, the person in charge shall at once notify the local Health Officer. The patient should be isolated but may not be removed from the camp until the permission of the health officer has been obtained. Copies of these regulations and blue print plans for camp ground sewage disposal arrangements may be secured by writing to the State Department of Health, 16 W. Saratoga Street, Baltimore.

No Trespassing.

We begin our list of advertisers against trespassers on land, in this issue and the cost is 25c for the season, as heretofore. We continue this very small price for two main reasons; we want to accommodate as many farmers as possible, and also want to help keep the general public from getting into possible trouble.

We have muslin "No Trespass" signs on hand this year, at 10c each; a manilla card at 5c, and our regular heavy colored card at 10c or 3 for 25c.

RECKLESS DRIVERS

The Craze for Speed Always Makes Travel Dangerous.

A ride over the road from Taneytown to Waynesboro, Pa., last Sunday afternoon, gave the Editor of The Record a first-hand idea of the reckless driving, and consequent danger, on our state highways, especially on Sundays when the roads are lined with many who perhaps drive only on that day and are not alive to the danger of speeding and taking chances, but are more apt to think that pleasure consists in fast going and "running around" other cars.

Certainly, there are lots of fellows at the wheel who do not display good sense, and are not fully acquainted with the rights of others, or concerned over their own safety or that of others. From this single trip, the writer is of the opinion that legalizing 40 miles an hour on roads in the open country, when the roads are full of cars, is not a wise law.

There should also be more restriction concerning "running around" cars ahead, when there is a line of cars on the road. We observed a case in which a serious accident to two loaded cars, was narrowly missed when one ran around the car ahead without sufficient road on which to do it, and the front car was going at about 30 miles.

It is therefore very easy to understand why Monday's papers are full of accidents—accidents that would never occur with drivers fully acquainted with the chances taken and with "safety first" uppermost in their minds. In the great majority of cases, there is no real need for speed above 25 miles, and when this is exceeded with many cars on the road, danger is always present.

Gypsies Rob Bank.

Two gypsy women gave a good luck token to Clayton Strickler, cashier of the Boiling Springs, Pa., bank, Tuesday afternoon and twenty minutes after they had left that institution Mr. Strickler discovered that $410 had gone with them. He immediately notified the Cumberland county authorities and they in turn notified all of the towns within a radius of fifty miles to have officers on the lookout for a band of gypsies.

One camp of nomads was found near Mechanicsburg and another group, traveling in two automobiles was picked up at the Cross Keys by state officers and taken to Gettysburg, but the women who were sought for the robbery were not members of either party. The gypsies who were detained here were permitted to leave after Mr. Strickler had failed to identify the women in the party as either of the ones which had paid him a visit in the afternoon. A thorough search of the camp near Mechanicsburg failed to reveal the women.

The women entered the bank when the only persons in the bank besides Strickler were his 9-year-old daughter, Gladys, and her playmate, Helen Carl. The women asked the cashier for two $2.50 gold pieces. Having received the money the women then asked permission to tell the cashier's fortune. He ordered them from the bank but they refused to leave. One of the women requested a coin bag and the cashier complied, believing that he might be able to get rid of the women. Having received the coin bag the women insisted that they be allowed to pay the cashier five cents for the bag. He refused the money saying that they were distributed free of charge.

Cashier Strickler feels certain one of the women snatched the money when she forced her way behind the counter under pretense of "wishing him luck" with a nickel she rubbed and insisted upon giving him.

Nearly 40 gypsies camping at Silver Springs were detained, but were released when Strickler was unable to identify any of them.

The Creed of a Fool.

I am a fool. I believe that fire is a regrettable accident which occurs in the other man's house. I believe that my own house is free from danger, although I take no precaution of any kind. If I stopped to think, I would realize that my house is even as other houses are, but it is unnecessary for me to think about such matters. The other man should think deeply.

I believe that fires are caused by carelessness, the carelessness of the other man. I believe that I am a privileged character. I may throw matches about, cast away half-lighted cigarette stubs without looking to see where they fall. I believe that I can do such things with impunity. So far I have not been arrested for arson.

I believe that the other man is negligent. He is culpable and deserves to suffer losses caused by his own stupidity. A special providence looks after my home and place of business.

I believe all this, without any guaranty of immunity from the attack of fire. I have no surety that fate has not nominated me for membership in "the club of other men." But, as I have said, I am a fool.—The Manufacturer.

A Florida Magazine.

We have received from our friend Maj. A. M. Hall, Apopka, Florida, a copy of the "Orlando Business Magazine" published by the Apopka Printing Co. It is an excellent piece of work and handsomely illustrated. Maj. Hall is editor of the Apopka "Chief" a weekly issued by the same company.

MAYOR BROENING'S HOME BOMBED

Public Buildings in Baltimore
Guarded by Police.

The rear of the home of Mayor Broening, of Baltimore, was badly injured by an explosion, on Saturday, supposed to have been caused by a bomb. The Mayor was on a trip west at the time. None of the family were injured. An investigation has been carried on during the week, and the conclusion seems to be that the explosion was a demonstration such as have been made in New York and other places, perhaps by sympathizers with Sacco and Vanzetti, whose trial in Massachusetts has caused world-wide interest.

The friends of the Mayor are confident that the bombing was not personal, as the Mayor is extremely popular with all classes, and there is no grounds for the thought that he has enemies in the bombing class.

Many buildings in Baltimore, as well as in other large cities, are being watched by police and special watchmen, as the feeling is strong that in case Sacco and Vanzetti are executed, a series of bombings may be the outcome.

What Farming Business Needs.

The Manufacturer's Record, Baltimore, makes the following comment on recent figures of the Agricultural Department, concerning the farming situation.

"The farmer who plows and sows and reaps is carrying on a business just as vital to the welfare of the country as that of the railroads, the public service corporation, or other interests; but the farmer feels that he is not given a fair show. He knows that the railroads are permitted by governmental authority to charge a freight rate that will yield a fair profit on their investment. He knows that public-service corporations are protected by State and municipal authorities to the point where they are permitted to earn a fairly large profit on their investment. He knows that industrial interests, when the market will not absorb their output on a profitable basis, can shut down their plants and not be forced to run at a loss.

"Unlike the railroads, which are permitted to charge a freight rate yielding a profit, or the management of industrial corporations, which can close their plants at any moment however great may be the hardship, the farmer must plow and sow often six months or a year in advance of the reaping, and he can not, therefore, shut down his plant, nor can he call upon the Government for Federal aid.

"The farmer feels that if the railroads and the industrial interests can appeal to Congress for protection to their investments, he must in some way have a right to do the same thing; but how this can be brought about is a problem which has not yet been solved. Its importance, however, demands the most careful study of the business people, the industrial leaders, and the railroad managers, not only for their future safety against agrarian legislation, but for the broadest prosperity of all interests.

"There can be no permanent prosperity for railroad and industrial interests unless there is prosperity for agriculture. Too long have the farmers been ignored. Too long have the real and serious problems of farm life been ignored or put aside by men of affairs. That situation must be changed. The farmer must have his inning."

Fishing Licenses in Frederick.

About 1500 fishing licenses have been issued in Frederick county, only 43 of which were to non-residents, which indicates that fishing is a popular pastime in the county.

In answer to a number of questions regarding the licenses, it is pointed out that license issued to each prospective fisherman must be countersigned by the licensee. The button given to each licensee must be worn in plain view at all times while fishing. It is also pointed out that the license must be in possession at all times while fishing and that it is against the law to change, loan or transfer a license.

A fishing license does not give the licensee the right to fish in waters closed to the public under law.

Fishermen will do well not to forget that the law makes no provision for duplicate licenses for those lost or destroyed. No duplicates will be issued.

Definition of "Bootlegger."

The Colorado Fuel and Iron Company has issued the following notice: "This company is going to get along in the future without the services of Bootleggers or their customers. We class as Bootleggers all those who manufacture, sell or distribute intoxicants either personally or through agents or members of their own families.

Such persons will be discharged on evidence satisfactory to the management without waiting for conviction in the courts.

Employees who are customers of Bootleggers or who visit Bootleggers' homes or places of business will be suspended for first offense and discharged for continuation of the offense."

FIRE IN EMMITSBURG

Gasoline Explosion Causes Loss of Large Coat Factory.

Last Friday evening the Taneytown Fire Company was called to Emmitsburg, the cause being the burning of the Friebush coat factory. The Company made a record-breaking run of about a mile a minute, or a little less, but arrived too late to save the building which was completely destroyed, with its contents of a large lot of machinery, and work finished and in process of manufacture.

The cause of the fire was the explosion of a gasoline tank on a pressing machine. The employees, numbering about twenty, escaped injury except Edward Ashbaugh who was burned about the face and hands when sprayed by the burning gasoline. The local Fire Company, was delayed in connecting the hose, due to the recent installation of new hydrants.

The loss is estimated at about $22,000 partly covered by insurance. It is said that a new factory will be erected at the old location. The Taneytown firemen did good work in saving adjoining buildings.

"Inside" Information for Women.

Pure ice cream is a wholesome food, and need not be regarded as a luxury during the warm months when it is most enjoyed.

Oilily cloths used in polishing floors and woodwork are a serious fire risk, and should either be destroyed immediately after use, or kept in a tightly covered fire-proof container.

Whites or yolks of eggs may be used instead of whole eggs in making fancy white or yellow cakes, or as an economy in using up parts of eggs left over. For most purposes, two whites or two yolks may be considered roughly the equivalent of one egg. When yolks alone are used, a little extra baking powder is sometimes needed.

The right height for the kitchen sink depends on the height, length of arm, and general build of the person who is to use it. Thirty-six inches from the rim to the floor is often given as a good average height. If the sink is too low, a flat box or block may be used on which to set the dishpan while working at the sink.

One of the secrets of French flavoring in cookery is the discreet use of garlic. Put one nubbin or "clove" of garlic in with the stewing or soup chicken; its flavor will be scarcely perceptible, but will greatly improve the flatness of the boiled meat. Rub the salad bowl with garlic, and drop it into gravy or stew, removing it as soon as the flavor is delicately noticeable. Garlic can be used so that those who think they object to it do not know what gives a dish its unusually good taste.

A two-course dinner, providing, in addition to meat, one green-leaf vegetable, one starchy vegetable, and a dessert, served as the second course, may be considered a completely balanced meal if all five food groups are represented in it; Protein foods, fruits and vegetables, starchy food, fats, and sweets. Soups and salads are not necessary for the home dinner, but the salad may take the place of a cooked vegetable, and the soup may serve to use up materials already on hand. By sometimes having courses and sometimes omitting them, the pattern of the family meals is more interesting and varied.

Racing an Issue in Kentucky.

The primary election in Kentucky just held, had as an interesting side feature, the question of legalized betting on horse racing. Judge Beckham, Democrat, who ran as an opponent of racing, defeated the racing candidate. Judge Sampson, Republican, who ignored the issue, defeated his opponent who was against racing.

Kentucky at present legalizes the Pari-mutual betting system. There are only three or four states that legalize betting on races, Maryland being one of them.

U. S. Horse-shoeing Bulletin.

The Department of Agriculture is issuing a bulletin to instruct farmers regarding the shoeing of their own horses, due to the fact that the blacksmith shop is passing from villages and cross-road shops.

Farmers everywhere, the department observes, are finding difficulty in getting their horses shod, and the "solution of the problem in a large measure devolves upon the farmer himself." The Government bulletin to assist him is illustrated.

That nails have been in use since pre-historic times is a known fact, one over two and one-half pounds in weight having been found in the ruins of Troy and similar enormous specimens discovered in places where pre-historic man made his home. All nails were made by hand before the invention of the nail-making machine in Britain at the end of the 18th. Century.

Hoover and Lowden.

The Coolidge "I choose" is pretty generally taken to mean that he will not run for the Presidency in 1928, and this naturally calls for speculation as to who will run for the Republican nomination. At this time there seems to be but two men who are reasonably sure to enter the contest—Herbert Hoover and Ex-Gov. Lowden.

Two others are spoken of, but their possible candidacy has not as yet aroused much enthusiasm—Vice-President Dawes and Speaker of the House Longworth. It is also pretty generally believed that Coolidge will not use his influence to advance the interests of any candidate; but the fact that Hoover is a member of the Cabinet, will undoubtedly help him.

Washington, in general, and likely the East, seems inclined toward Hoover, while the west—the farmer west—is assumed to be partial to Lowden, who is also supposed to be pretty closely allied with Dawes.

Whether the Pacific Coast will support Hoover seems yet uncertain. California is his home state, but the influence of Senator Johnson is said to be against him, dating back to 1920 when both were candidates for the nomination and Johnson won the delegation. However, since then Johnson has lost some of his home popularity.

Taken as a whole, public sentiment as so far expressed, seems to show that Hoover is the most promising candidate, and that his activities in the recent flood situation has helped his chances very materially.

Coolidge's "I do not Choose."

President Coolidge continues to be aggravating, not only that, but there is a suspicion that he is actually tantalizing. His critics are therefore in a worse humor than ever, and are put to the extremity of hunting up new adjectives, working over-time to show the deceitfulness in his new down-east "I do not choose" announcement.

Some folks would be satisfied with nothing short of the President kicking out of the front door the 1928 nomination, and throwing a club after it. Even then, they would say he just had to do it, and deserved no credit.

But, no matter what other construction may be placed on his statement, he has at least let go of an honor that he had safely in his grasp—the 1928 nomination. There is no question about that.

Whether he has in the back of his head a reservation that, not his choice, but that of his party, might cause him to forgo sticking to his choice, is known only to himself. And even if he has, he has put it squarely up to the party to exercise its privilege of naming who they please.

He no doubt realizes a lot of things by this time. Among others, that being President is not wholly a happy dream; that for a man of strong conscience and self-respect, the job is hardly worth its handicaps, and its hurts from dishonest criticism; that the Presidency represents standing out in the open before the whole world as a target for selfish, if not criminal, interests; and that as a haven for peace and honor, it is a huge delusion.

He is also of the type of men who realize that there are others in this country—many of them—well equipped to be President, and is willing that they have their chance for the nomination, if they want to take it. He also knows that the probability of his being drafted by his party to forego his "I do not choose" is too remote to be worth considering; so it seems to us that his words are fully justifiable, and considering all of the conditions are as nearly humanly correct as words could well be, without going to the extent of absolutely refusing to accept a loud and strong call to further service, should such an improbable emergency occur.

Family Reunions.

Family reunions are becoming very general annual affairs, and we know of no better nor more justifiable form of social gathering, no matter whether the family connection be large or small. Family ties, as a rule, need strengthening. This may seem to be a strange statement but we believe it one to be borne out by facts.

Certainly if any one large set of folks ought to get along well and closely together, it is the set made up of those having the same family name. And this "getting along" is naturally the more likely to be brought about through better acquaintanceship—an actual association and touch that finds its best chance for development through visitation, at least once a year.

There is also great strength in blood ties, and these ties need renewing, because, "out of sight, out of mind" has a great deal to do with our friendships and relationships, especially when they are not as wide and comprehensive as they might be.

We think, too, that these family reunions should be as little selective as possible; that they should not be limited especially to just one group, unless the family name should be so general as to practically preclude the gathering together of all of one clan—the Smiths, for instance.

It is probably true that so far as many names are concerned, there is a traceable connection between all, by going back into the great-great-grand-parents of different groups, and such travels are often quite interesting. Mere pride in genealogy, or in the construction of "family trees" may have its drawbacks, for if one goes into that far enough "black sheep" are apt to be found; but the reunion idea need not develop what should not be developed, but a great deal that ought to be.

Marriage and Divorce in Russia.

Russia has forsaken the family, and is now facing the gravest crisis in its career, says a writer who has studied court records and uncovered some astounding facts in connection with Russia's experiment in changing by fiat a moral order that many claim to be of divine origin, and most admit to be the only safe one for civilization. Russia, writes Hubert Malkus in Success Magazine, "has danced wildly to the tune of free love, and has now begun to pay the fiddler." It is a terrible price, to judge from what we now read. The sum and substance of his findings are that the new marriage and divorce laws, under which a boy and girl may marry on Monday and be divorced on Tuesday, in less time than it takes to buy a railroad ticket from New York to Chicago, have resulted in the desertion of thousands of wives and the abandonment of thousands of nameless children, to be added to the hordes of children which the Revolution orphaned and left to starve.

According to Mr. Malkus, last year 100,000 wives were abandoned and appealed to the Soviet courts to find their husbands and compel them to contribute to the support of their children. In addition, 90,000 women brought suit against men who denied the paternity of their offspring. And 18,000 wives asked support for dependent children. These, we are told, are the authenticated figures of Soviet court records. The number of unrecorded cases, says Mr. Malkus, can only be surmised.

In Russia today, he goes on, it is the law that marriage ends when love cools. "And love, it appears from the dockets of the Russian marriage courts, cools quickly." He describes the Russian method of marriage and divorce:

"If a man and woman wish to marry, the wish is sufficient to legalize the union. If the newly wedded pair desire to record the marriage, they can do so, but it is not obligatory. It is helpful, however, particularly if a divorce is anticipated. If the marriage is not registered it may be necessary at some time to call witnesses to prove that the couple had lived together as man and wife.

"Grounds for divorce is simply the desire of the couple to be divorced. If the marriage has been registered, all that is necessary is to appear before the registrar and advise him that a divorce has been agreed upon. He enters it in his book and the couple go their separate ways. If there are dependent children, each parent must contribute a third of his income to their support. That is the only restraint upon divorce in Russia, and, curiously, it is an economic barrier, not a moral one.

"This simplification of the marriage law has been abortive in its practical reality. Consider what this effort to 'free' the sexes has done. It has reduced marriage to an agreement to live together only as long as it suits the fancy of the parties thereto. The handicap of the children and the obligation to support them is something else again. But how can a country police husbands who evade their responsibilities by hundreds of thousands? The situation is further complicated because in thousands of cases it is difficult or impossible to establish paternity or the consent of the man to be the husband of the woman he has lived with when there has been no registration of the marriage.

"Consider the marriage situation as it exists in Russia today. It is literally possible to marry a girl on Monday and divorce her on Tuesday; no question of alimony is involved, except when there are dependent children. And what is the result of this freedom? There is an appalling number of these casual week-end marriages. From such unions, obviously, have come the suits of the 100,000 abandoned wives, and the 90,000 women who could not find a man to acknowledge paternity of their child. In these nearly 200,000 cases, the men did not avail themselves of the divorce courts. They simply walked off. The 18,000 who apparently did go through the formality of getting a divorce evaded the responsibility of contributing to the support of their children."—Literary Digest.

Too Proud

Senator Watson was discussing the immigration question.

"It's one defect," he said, "is the servant question. It is reducing us to native American servants, and native American servants are too proud." "A Fifth avenue swell lost his English butler and engaged a handsome young New Englander in the man's place.

"You'll like it here," the swell said hospitably. "This is the address of my tailor. Go down there and order a dress suit." "The new butler said nothing. He walked toward the door.

"Do you understand me?" said the swell. "Why don't you answer?"

"The new butler turned and gave him a fierce look.

"I never answer," he hissed, "unless I don't hear, and then I say 'Wot?'"—Detroit Free Press.

Foxy Medicine Man

Anglers, especially those who seldom have any luck, may glean a novel tip from the methods of "Old Igokuk," medicine man and sovereign of an isolated tribe of Eskimos living on the wind-swept mud flats between the Yukon and Kuskowin rivers in western Alaska, says the Pathfinder Magazine. Every spring just before the salmon run up the rivers to spawn, Igokuk goes to the river mouths, where he performs queer incantations and magic rites. He wears a wooden mask resembling a salmon trout and dances and chants, commanding the fish to swim up the streams to his people. For this "mysterious" power Igokuk exerts over the fishes he visits every Eskimo home and collects one-fourth of all the fish caught as his share.

Library Books Short Lived

Persons making use of the facilities of the public libraries are not as careful with the volumes as they might be and the consequence is that the books are short lived. This is especially true of the books of reference. In the public library of New York, the most precious manuscripts are kept carefully in reserve and brought out only for accredited purposes. Rare books, though easily accessible, are used only under supervision. A few of them, such as Audubon's "Birds of America," are never touched by readers' hands. An attendant stands by and turns the pages at the reader's signal. But many books, valuable both intrinsically and as records, are kept in the general stacks and trusted to any reader who asks for them.

Sardine's Foe

Hunting the tuna fish was formerly done to protect sardines, which they devour in large numbers, but since the tuna is now popular for food, it is the basis of an important phase of the fishing industry.

In the Mediterranean the tuna are detected by watchmen who sit in chairs on high extension steel ladders on the coast and relay word by telephone when a school of fish is sighted.

By means of sardine bait, the fish are lured into a bay, called the "death chamber." This chamber is a square enclosure of heavy netting which is closed at the entrance when a number of fish have been caught in it. Then the men, working from a float around the net, fill the tunnels with spears.

Are Hairs Radio Antenna?

We may say that the action of the mind is electrical, both in nature and response. We know enough of the laws of electricity to appreciate that under proper conditions a suitably sensitive and properly tuned receiver, as in radio, will receive the impulses coming to it, no matter what the source. Under these conditions the suggestion is valid that supernatural minds may be in tune with sources of information or knowledge as though under the influence of a broadcasting station, radio-casting mentally from somewhere else, and supplying them with the information with which they surprise others.—Psychology Magazine.

All Good Fellows

Weight of Words

The domestic efficiency expert will have to invent a new set of scales for the weighing of words. If a husband talks too little a wife may get a divorce, was a ruling in a court of domestic relations a few days ago. If a wife talks incessantly she is also guilty of mental cruelty, was a verdict rendered by another judge. Is it not too much for anyone to say just what is the balanced ration?—Los Angeles Times.

Character Shown by "Five-Minutes" Test

Many things—the "placing" of one's eyes, shape of the chin, manner of walking, and so on—indicate character, but surest of all is the revelation made by "the-happiest-five-minutes-in-the-day" test.

Those who, when they go to bed, get a book, make themselves comfortable, sigh with content, stretch themselves, and can say, "This is my happiest five minutes," have mental power, imagination, foresight and self-reliance. They often have some outstanding gift, such as music, or painting skill.

Those whose happiest five minutes are the last possible five in bed in the morning are of strong character, but selfish and domineering. Those who confess that their happiest five minutes are spent when they sit down to their principal meal and let their appetite have full sway are, as a rule, "hard," but just. They are the "big" men of the world of business, with no nerves, and very loyal to their friends. Men whose happiest five minutes are the ones given to a stroll around the garden and a pipe, before going to business, are of the nonambitious type. They are honest, loyal, generous, but not among the big-brained. They will follow, but not lead.

Rules That Govern Kinship of Cousins

In answering a correspondent's query, "What relation are the children of first cousins to each other? What relation to me is my first cousin's child?" the Pathfinder Magazine says:

"Reckoning cousin relationships is simple if you start out right. A cousin is one collaterally related by descent from a common ancestor, but not a brother or sister. Children of brothers and sisters are first cousins to one another; sometimes they are called cousins-german, own cousins, or full cousins. The children of first cousins are 'second cousins' to one another; children of second cousins are third cousins to one another, and so on. The child of one's first cousin is a first cousin once removed; the grandchild of one's first cousin is a first cousin twice removed, and so on. Confusion sometimes arises from the custom of some people who speak of the children and grandchildren of their first cousins as second and third cousins, respectively, but the practice is only local. The correct and almost universal rule for reckoning cousins is as we have given it."

Sad Indication

Some one had told the woman that he was a backward boy. But as she watched him playing in the sunny nursery and listened to him chatting he seemed to her quite normal—the usual child of four and one-half years.

It was only later when she accompanied him across the hall into his mother's room that he made a queer remark.

His mother's room was a spacious one done in old blue, and as they entered it, his tall, bronze-haired mother was standing before a full-length mirror trying on a chiffon negligee in old gold.

The baby boy looked at the lovely vision in the full-length mirror. "Oh, dear," he sighed, "Two mothers. One's enough."—New York Sun.

Shoe-Making Statistics

The Boot and Shoe Recorder says that no one man makes an entire pair of shoes. There are about 150 different operations on a shoe before it is finished. Each operator works on a machine or process, which contributes to the complete shoe. The number of parts turned out daily by any factory depends upon the size of the plant, machinery, equipment and quality of the product. Such outputs range from a few hundred to 10,000 or more pairs a day. A factory making high-grade shoes and employing 300 men and women might produce, at full capacity, 800 or 900 pairs daily. The same number of people working on cheap shoes might produce 3,000 pairs daily.

Lofty Sanctuary Safe

Hawksmoor Nature reserve, near Enfield, has been made permanent for birds, animals and flowers. Public subscriptions raised funds for its purchase by Staffordshire. It is 600 feet above the sea, and commands one of the most beautiful views in that county. Nearly every one of the 95 species of birds found in Staffordshire have homes there, and foxes, badgers, deer, squirrels and shrews also make it their headquarters.—London Mail.

Rich British Island

Jamaica is the largest of the British West Indian Islands. It has an area of about 4,000 square miles and is, therefore, a little more than twice the size of Prince Edward island. The population numbers 650,000, three-fourths of whom are blacks. Kingston, the capital, has a good harbor. Jamaica exports sugar, coffee, rum, yewwood, bananas, and other fruits.

City Always Great Port

Marseilles is the third largest city in France and the largest seaport. It is situated on the Mediterranean coast. Marseilles was founded by the Phoenicians about the year 600 B. C. During the centuries of Roman rule it was a place of first rank, the great port of Gaul as it now is of France. The city has a population of about half a million.

POULTRY

FOR BIG PROFITS WATCH IN SUMMER

The summer and fall seasons are the ones in which the producer of market eggs must be most particular about the quality of his product if he expects to receive the top market price. "At that time of the year," says the poultry department of the state experiment station at New Brunswick, "the spread in price between the two top grades of eggs may be as high as 12 to 15 cents per dozen as compared with a spread of 2 or 3 cents in the spring, which indicates that the producer's net profit at the end of the year may depend to a very large extent upon the quality of his summer and fall eggs."

There are several factors entering into the cause of this wide spread in price at the seasons mentioned, but probably the most important is the fact that the interior quality deteriorates very rapidly, and the eggs reach the market very loose and watery. To overcome this trouble, the producer should collect his eggs two or three times daily and keep them in a cool place previous to shipment.

A cave or cellar makes a very good place to hold eggs, but care must be taken to see that the place is clean and sweet, as eggs are very prone to absorb any foul or musty odors. Shipments should be made as soon as possible after the eggs are laid, and never should be less frequent than twice a week.

The eggs should not be excessively handled, since this aggravates the condition, causing the egg to become extremely loose. The aim should be to handle the eggs as a perishable product, which in reality they are. Speed and care in handling are the two prime requisites where the producer is being paid on a quality basis.

Faulty Rations Cause of Heavy Mortality

Faulty rations cause vast numbers of chicks to die every year. A pullet once stunted with improper or spoiled feed will never get back to successfully compete with those who were healthy from the start.

The feed the chicks get from the beginning should be directed toward the eggs the pullets are expected to lay when they mature, says an Ohio specialist.

The all-mash method of feeding chicks that has been perfected by the Ohio, Indiana and Wisconsin agricultural experiment stations makes it possible to feed the flock with more exactness. It also takes less time to care for them. It does not differ greatly from the scratch grain and mash method of feeding. The grain that is ordinarily fed whole or cracked is ground and mixed with the mash.

Charcoal Is Beneficial to All Growing Chicks

It has become common practice for the majority of chick mashers to contain some charcoal. Experiments show that it is beneficial as a preventive of trouble. It does not have any particular food value. Charcoal is a black odorless and practically tasteless product and does not go into solution in water. Its value lies in its ability to absorb gases of indigestion or dyspepsia. Some people claim that it will even absorb toxins or other poisonous substances, that are sometimes generated in the intestine. It aids in warding off and curing diarrhea and other troubles caused by indigestion.

Poultry Notes

Heavy hens bring 8 to 10 cents a pound more than the light breeds on the market.

Watch the young poultry for signs of lice. It is amazing how suddenly an entire brood can become infested.

Because a coal-burning brooder stove keeps a colony house very dry, there is a tendency for some poultrymen to neglect sanitation until the conditions are very bad.

Usually chicks should be three weeks old before giving them freedom to mash all day.

Let the sun in the brooder house, having it shine directly on the chicks without going through ordinary window glass.

More incubator chicks die from bowel trouble due to chilling than perhaps any other cause. Chicks with hen mothers are seldom affected, and thrive in severe weather, if they can run to their mother when cool.

Turkeys do better on free range than in confinement as it is their nature to roam.

Hens need plenty of water. During periods of heavy production they consume more water than during the winter. Eggs contain 70 per cent of water.

Three very fundamental things necessary for you to furnish your chicks to make chick raising highly successful are proper feeding, necessary warmth, and healthful sanitation.

HOW

MARCONI'S LOVE AFFAIR GAVE WORLD WIRELESS.—A boyhood love affair, and stern parents, who denied him communication with the girl, resulted in his gift to the world of wireless telegraphy. Senator Guglielmo Marconi tacitly admitted in London, in the course of a speech at the Foreign Press association.

Long-standing reports have said that Marconi, when only nineteen, fell desperately in love with a certain young woman. When her parents refused them any communication, he vainly tried to smuggle her notes and then attempted to wave a handkerchief according to the code they had agreed upon. His invention of the radio was said to have followed.

Asked by guests at the luncheon to tell how his idea of wireless originated, Marconi said that his first experiments with it were made in 1893, when he was nineteen.

"I can only say that I thought of the wireless because I wanted to communicate with someone with whom I could not otherwise communicate," he said.

"I sought a means of communication that was not dependent on weather, fog or sun as are the ordinary visual signals. That was six years before England and France were connected by wireless communication."

Asked to elaborate on his statements, Marconi refused to say whether or not he referred to his boyhood love affair.

"I do not want to start a love story," he said smilingly.

How Popularity of Dancing Has Grown

The great national pastime of America is not baseball, as many would carelessly suggest, but dancing.

Once dancing was only a social accomplishment. That was twenty years ago. The world has changed a good deal since then. Now dancing has become "the great national recreation."

There is no longer any excuse for people not knowing how to dance, declares Ann S. Richardson, in the Woman's Home Companion. If there are any old fogies left who don't know how, they need not bother to hunt up a private teacher, for they can get adequate instruction, she assures them, from the radio or from phonograph records.

The rules of the game have changed enormously in the last decade. When dancing was merely a social accomplishment, it was surrounded by conventions and tricky etiquette. Now, when it has become the great national sport, it has cast aside all unnecessary baggage.

The chaperon is obsolete. The modern girl starts dancing at the hour her grandmother was leaving for home. The word "ball" has disappeared from society's vocabulary. Gloves and swallowtail coats have vanished from the dance rooms.

How Antiques Gain Value

Just as the good reporter has a "nose for news," so has a wide-awake antique dealer the hawk eye for rare pieces. A few years ago a man who dealt in antiques as a side line found four excellent Sheraton dining chairs in a private home and bought them for $55. He put them in his car and drove home. He had no idea of their worth, but thought he'd gotten them cheap and decided to keep them rather than sell. Then another dealer called, ostensibly to look over the stock.

"You've got four chairs, haven't you?" he finally asked. The other admitted it. Upon request they were shown, and the price quoted included a hundred per cent profit. The buyer didn't hesitate. Later they were discovered in still another shop, and inquiry disclosed the next price to have been $450. Finally they found a permanent home in the American wing of the Metropolitan museum. The ultimate price, not disclosed, was probably another redouble.—The Antiquarian.

How to Dry Sticky Paint

One of the most frequent causes of slow-drying or "tacky" paint, is the use of adulterated linseed oil, kerosene, fish oil, rosin oil, mineral oils or other nondrying oils in the paint instead of, or in addition to, pure linseed oil.

In some cases, a mixture of three-fourths turpentine and one-fourth drier will dry up the sticky paint. In other cases a coat of aluminum paint will do the trick. If neither method eliminates the sticky condition, about the only thing left is to burn off the defective coating and repaint.—Popular Science Monthly.

How Laundry Causes Fires

Records show that frequently the origin of laundry fires can be traced to a tightly packed clothes hamper. These hampers usually have been packed with clothes hot from the drying tumbler. The explanation is that carbon, being one of the principal constituents of cotton, combines with oxygen to form carbon dioxide. Ordinarily the air carries off the consequent heat, but where the clothes are tightly packed the heat is not carried off and sufficient temperature is raised to start a fire. Likewise poorly rinsed clothes cause fires.

BIBLE ANTEDATED BY MANUSCRIPTS

Older Than Papyrus Found in Tomb of St. Cuthbert.

Washington.—Biblical manuscripts older even than the celebrated Stonyhurst gospel, according to St. John, said to have been found in the tomb of St. Cuthbert, who died in 687, are on exhibition in the United States.

One of the collections, bequeathed to the nation by Charles L. Freer of Detroit, is in the Freer Gallery of Art here. The other, comprising a few papyrus fragments, is at the University of Michigan.

The "Washington Manuscripts," as the Freer collection is known, include one of the oldest Greek versions of the Bible known. Its date is placed in the Fourth century by Dr. E. A. Lowe, Oxford lecturer and research investigator of the Carnegie institutions.

Considerable attention has been drawn to the "Washington Manuscripts." Doctor Lowe pointed out, because they carry the following extra verses after Mark 16:14:

"But they defended themselves, saying that this age of lawlessness and unbelief is under the power of Satan, who does not permit those made impure by evil spirits to comprehend the truth and power of God. Therefore reveal now thy righteousness, they said to Christ. And Christ replied to them that the limit of the years of the power of Satan has been made full, but other dread events are near at hand, and in behalf of those who had sinned I was delivered unto death in order that they may return to the truth and no longer sin, to the end that they may inherit the spiritual and imperishable glory of righteousness, which is in heaven."

In addition to the Greek parchment manuscripts of the gospels, Psalms, Deuteronomy, Joshua and fragments of the epistles of Paul, the collection includes a few pages of ancient papyrus bearing parts of the minor prophets. All were found in Egypt. Freer acquired them through a dealer.

King Likens Docked Tail Horse to Bobbed Hair

Paris.—According to a recent writer in the "Carnet de la Semaine," King George V, after a notable race, strolled around to the paddock to get a close look at the horses. Among them was a fine thoroughbred with his tail cropped close. The king looked at him in silence for a few moments, while the attendants awaited some word of praise such as he had bestowed upon other horses. At length the president of the club ventured to ask:

"May I trust that your majesty is pleased?"

"No," replied the king, meditatively; "no; I do not like at all such trimming of a horse's tail. I think it is very ugly."

Then, after a moment, and with a smile, he added:

"It reminds me of a woman with bobbed hair!"

U. S. Prepares to Sell Uniforms to Veterans

Washington.—Former soldiers who wish to treasure uniforms like those which they wore in the service of their country soon will be able to purchase them from the War department.

Some five million persons, including former army nurses, are eligible to purchase the uniforms under an act of the last congress and will be advised within the next two months by the War department about their distribution.

For a few dollars the veteran will be able to assemble a complete uniform, with items ranging from discharge chevrons at 3 cents to woolen blouses at $5.91, to overcoats at $9.23. The overseas cap, a product of the World war, will be sold for $1.13, the campaign hat going at $2.33. Non-commissioned officers' chevrons will sell at 19 cents per pair.

6,292,653 Autos Cross Bridge in 10 Months

Camden, N. J.—Statistics made public recently on the volume of automobile traffic handled by the Delaware river bridge linking Camden and Philadelphia indicate that the popularity of this route may liquidate the debt of this structure from three to eight years ahead of the estimated period.

The figures made public by the Delaware River Bridge commission show that 6,292,653 automobiles used this route during the first ten months.

It had been estimated that the traffic for the year would not exceed 6,000,000 machines.

NEW WINDSOR.

The Community Vacation Bible School of New Windsor opened on July 25th, and closed Aug. 5th, with sessions each morning from 8:30 to 11:30, excepting Saturday. There were 6 teachers in charge of the work. The enrollment reached 79. Seven S. Schools of the district co-operated with the teachers—27 from New Windsor M. E. School; 17 from New Windsor Brethren School; 14 from New Windsor Presbyterian School; 14 from Linwood Brethren School; 4 from Pipe Creek Brethren School; 2 from Wakefield's Church of God School; 1 from Winter's Lutheran School. It was the aim of the teachers to offer training which would develop the children, physically, mentally and spiritually. Thus special periods for recreation were set apart each day, and the children composed one large social group by which selfishness and obedience were practiced for the mental and spiritual development. Bible stories, characters, studies, songs and hand work were provided. The missionary offering of $8.50 from the children was sent to the milk and ice fund of Baltimore. The expenses of the school were met by an offering at the closing exercises, and the balance was apportioned among the schools in proportion to their students.

The teachers wish to thank the Sunday Schools, parents and the newspapers for their splendid co-operation in making the school a success.

FEESERSBURG.

Who objected to being on a church committee? Why, we had a fine time at the home of Ross Wilhide, last Wednesday evening. Piano duets, by Misses Mary Wilhide and Eva Bair, also instrumental solos; numerous kodak views; then invited to the dining table for watermelon and cakes; and finished up with a general sing of hymns and songs. O, yes! the men committeeed and started the ball rolling for funds for church repairs, and decided how the work should begin. We move for frequent committee meetings at Wilhide's.

An observation committee visited the Lutheran churches in Uniontown and Winters, and Brethren Church at Linwood, recently with a view to interior decorating. On Monday, some of the women, and a few men and children got busy, and removed the furniture from Mt. Union Church, took up the carpet and cleaned it with electric and vacuum cleaners preparatory to having the walls redecorated—which will be begun this week.

By permission of the County School Commissioners, the services of Mt. Union Church will be held in adjoining school house, during its renovation.

Rev. C. A. Funk and family, of Reading, Pa., expects to visit his cousins, the R. Wilhide family, from Aug. 15 to 20th. On the evenings of 16th, and 18th, Rev. Funk will preach at Mt. Burial in adjoining cemetery. He leaves a wife, three daughters and three sons. The funeral was largely attended and the floral designs many and beautiful.

Our community was greatly shocked, Tuesday morning, when the word came to Keymar of the death of Mrs. J. Raymond Zent, who died at her home near Bruceville. She was sick but a few days. Aged 42 years, 2 months, 11 days. Her death is a sad one, leaving a husband and 9 children, five girls and four boys, and an aged mother, who was with her daughter at her death. Also two sisters and two brothers. Mrs. Zent was a highly and respected lady, and was well thought of by all who knew her. Funeral took place Thursday afternoon, at 1:30 o'clock, with further services in the Lutheran Church, Taneytown, by her pastor, Rev. W. V. Garrett. Burial in adjoining cemetery. The funeral was largely attended by relatives and friends. The floral designs were many and beautiful. The family has the sympathy of the community.

As an additional shock to the bereft family, Mr. William F. Zent, the father of J. Raymond, died earlier the same night at his home near Keymar.

O Mary, have you gone forever? And leave our dear sweet children here! To meet our little angels in Heaven. That have gone before from here.

Each day they've waited to greet you Till Jesus bid you come, And take your place in Heaven, With one upon each arm.

Oh how sad we are without you, Without a mother dear, All our hearts are aching, Without a mother here.

And as we go drifting, Toward our Heaven's there, Oh how glorious will be the day, When we grasp your hand once more, We will all admit that day.

That God doeth all things well, BY HER BELOVED HUSBAND.

CARD OF THANKS.

We hereby express our heart-felt thanks to all friends and neighbors, who so kindly came to our assistance during our great bereavement, when we so sorely needed help and sympathy.

Pineapple to Start the Day

SUCCESS in life depends upon a clear, quick brain and the energy to use it. The ability to think clearly is governed largely by our health, and our health by what we eat. After a heavy breakfast, we are likely to feel stupid all morning, perhaps all day, and if this occurs often we get the reputation of being slow and stupid, and our advancement is equally slow. It pays to consider the menu of the morning meal; to eat those things which give buoyancy and a quick brain.

Of all the energizing foods, pineapple is one of the most effective. A slice or two of pineapple the first thing in the morning, or a dish of crushed pineapple, or a drink of pineapple juice goes "to the spot," and sets one up for the day. There is a scientific reason for this: Pineapple contains mineral salts, an enzyme "bromelin" which acts as a digester of other foods, and also the three most important vitamins in large amounts.

Juice and Fruit Can Be Used

The housewife who wishes to serve pineapple juice in the Hawaiian manner will find on pouring the juice from a large can of sliced pineapple that she has one large measuring cup full. From the number two size can of crushed pineapple she may drain three-quarters of a cup of juice. The juice may be drunk just as it is, from small wine glasses, or it may be diluted with water, and a little lemon or orange juice added.

The sliced or crushed fruit may be used in any way that suits the housewife's whim. Perhaps she will save it for breakfast on the following morning, serving it alone at the beginning of the meal, or heated with a slice of bacon, or mixed in an omelet. Or she may make a jellied dessert with the crushed fruit, or put it into a cake or an icing, or into a fruit cup for dinner; or she may use either the sliced or the crushed fruit in a salad.

An Unusual Recipe

This Pineapple Cream Custard will prove a delightful way to use the drained crushed fruit: Beat the yolks of the three eggs slightly, add one-third cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, and two cups hot milk. Cook in a double boiler until thickened, stirring constantly, and cool. Beat three egg whites stiff and add three tablespoons powdered sugar. Add three-fourths cup crushed Hawaiian pineapple to the cold custard and fold in one-half of the egg white mixture. Pour into the serving dish and spread the remainder of the whites over the top.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

WHO IS YOUR HERO?

A SHORT time ago the police of a great city picked up on the street a destitute boy of fifteen. He was ragged and hungry. When they searched him at the station house the only thing they found in his pockets was a bit of crumpled paper upon which had been written as the title "My Heroes" and underneath were listed these names:

Theodore Roosevelt,
General Pershing,
Jesse James,
Tracy the Bandit,
Captain Kidd.

A strange and interesting list and yet there are comprehensible reasons for the presence of every name that filled this youthful individual's hall of fame.

We begin to choose our heroes very early in life. The story of "Jack and the Beanstalk" has furnished many a boy with his first ideal of bravery. "Robinson Crusoe"—the characters of James Fenimore Cooper—even the overdrawn adventures of the old "yellow covers" and "The Nickel Library" and Cap Collier's creations thrilled many of us to ambitions which faded away with boyhood.

One thing is certain: No boy ever worshiped a man as a hero unless in his opinion he had done something extraordinary, something that really entitled him to admiration.

If we pick our heroes for the purposes of imitation we should be very careful. Not many men in all history were desirable of imitation in all the details of their lives. Every great man has some weakness. An ideal hero would have to be a composite man, a combination of the great without their faults.

The most popular hero that ever lived was undoubtedly Napoleon. But of him Robert Ingersoll said in one of the greatest of his short addresses that he would rather be the humblest of French peasants than the man at whose command hundreds of thousands died.

Who is your hero? Why is he your hero?

American Farmer Wins by Use of Machinery

Twelve cents per day is the exact value of a man's labor in terms of horse power, according to figures worked out by Farm and Fireside.

"One good husky man can develop about one-tenth of a horse power," writes J. B. Davidson, former engineering expert. "With horse power at 15 cents an hour his value as a motor is about 1 1/4 cents per hour.

"Human labor in the form of horse power is not worth much. Power and labor amount to from 40 to 80 per cent of the total cost of farm crops. The American farmer's use of power has given him a notable advantage over any other farmer in the world.

"In China a rice laborer gets 15 cents a day and feeds himself. A California farm laborer gets $5 to $6 a day and 'found.' Yet the California rice growers are each year exporting increasing amounts of rice to the Orient and underselling the yellow farmers. The Oriental labor is hand labor; the American is machine labor. "Five Italian farm laborers with one horse get a farm production worth $45 per man. An Iowa farmer, with an average of four horses per man, gets a production of $595 per man.

"The possibilities of still larger results in American use of power are enormous. At present 18 or 19 hours of labor are consumed in producing the average acre of corn belt corn up to harvesting. Yet there are many farmers who spend only three or four hours to grow an acre of corn. Within ten years it will be possible for one man to take care of 160 acres of corn from plowing to harvest."

Too Many Eggs

Laysan, in the Hawaiian Islands, is one of the most remarkable bird islands in the world. Birds of various species flock there yearly, among them being the albatross, which arrives the latter part of October and remains till the following August. The white albatross lays one egg, usually on the ground. The eggs vary in shape and coloration. Some are long—length 111.6 millimeters, width 62.5 millimeters—others short and very thick, in length about 100 millimeters, width 70 millimeters.

In color most of them are nearly white, with irregular patches and spots of brownish maroon at the larger end. Eggs of the albatross are said to be considered the finest of all for eating, and are said to be superior even to those of the domestic hens for this purpose.

Jeypore's Musical House

What is said to be one of the strangest houses in all the world is situated in the city of Jeypore, India. Besides its peculiar architectural appearance, it boasts of being a huge musical instrument. "When the wind is blowing in certain directions it produces beautiful notes said to remind one of the human voice. For many years it was a mystery why this building should, from time to time, burst into sweet song. It finally fell to the lot of an American engineer to solve the mystery. He found that the material used in the structure was cork stone, a porous stone of very light weight. In fact, every niche in its exterior is a sort of pipe designed to draw in the passing current of air. The wind, playing upon the various openings, acts as if upon reeds.—Exchange.

Hard Metals

In one respect the diamond has always stood pre-eminent in the mineral world—that of hardness. Other substances have rivaled it in beauty and at least one, the ruby, outranks it in cost, but none in the whole list equals it in hardness.

Since the invention of the electric furnace, however, which is capable of producing a heat equal to 7,000 degrees F., at least two products have been prepared which have supplanted the diamond even in hardness.

Experimenters have succeeded in producing titanium in the electric furnace. In its pure form it is much harder than steel or quartz, and when combined with silicon, to form a silicide of titanium, or with boron, to form a boride of titanium, it surpasses the diamond itself in this quality.

Art of Whittling

At one period in the history of our country whittling reached a high point of development, and many interesting articles were turned out by sharp pocket knives, patience and love of the art. But in recent years the art has almost been forgotten. Now in many places throughout the United States this ancient art is being taught in public schools with the hope of reviving that profitable pastime. In an effort to make the art as popular as of yore regular whittling contests are held among schoolboys in Chicago. A great variety of articles is entered in these contests, including airplanes, boats of various types, miniature buildings and toys of all descriptions.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Texas Leads in Autos

What seven states in the Union have motor vehicle registrations exceeding the million figures? asks Capper's Weekly. Try this "ask me another" question on your friends and see how many will include Texas in the list. The 1928 auto statistics just published show that in point of revenue derived from registration fees Texas ranks in fourth place of the entire 48 states. Her income from this source totaled $14,862,883. Texas has more motor vehicles than all of New England put together.

WHY

Red Light Is the Universal Danger Signal

People have sometimes wondered why danger signals on railroads are red. Why do they put up a red light on a switch stand instead of some other color to indicate that the switch is open? Many explanations have been given, such as the common one that red, being the color of blood, is the natural danger signal. But the real reason, as given by Harry A. Stewart in the American Magazine, is quite commonplace.

White lights were barred, of course, because the engineer might mistake the light in a window or a street light for a signal. Red was chosen because the red rays are less easily obscured by fog or smoke than any other color (except white) and can, therefore, be seen farther under adverse conditions. The red beam has 40 per cent the intensity of white light; green has 25 per cent, and violet is still lower.

As it is important that the danger signal be visible at the greatest possible distance and as the red beam has the greatest intensity of any of the colors, it was chosen for the danger light. Green on the railroad is the safety light.

Why Chinese Refuse to Submit to Worry

This is Thomas Steep's explanation, given in his "Chinese Fantastics," of why the Chinese do not worry: "They do not think in terms of years, but of centuries.

"A man's life is but a prolongation of that of his father and of his countless grandfathers, and will not his own progeny transmit the individual in him down through eternity?

"Countless ages he extends back through his ancestry, and countless ages will he live in his posterity.

"Building up a government can wait. It is not a thing to be done in haste. Better take a couple of centuries.

"Meanwhile, there is time for the pigeons and fishes. Or let us fly a kite. It is pleasanter than building a government."

How to Renovate Wood

To destroy the alkali in wood after removing paint from it the wood should be washed thoroughly with warm water in order to remove as much of the alkali as possible. It should then be sponged with a strong solution of acetic acid and then allowed to dry. Since acetic acid is volatile, the excess over the amount necessary to neutralize the remaining alkali will evaporate. If the wood has been badly stained by the alkali, and it is desired to bleach it, we suggest the following procedure: Wash out as much of the alkali as possible with warm water and then sponge with a saturated solution of oxalic acid. After this has dried, remove as much of the oxalic acid as possible by washing again with warm water.

How Herb Uses Were Found

Some of the plants for which new uses were found during the World War are: Spaghnum moss, dressing for wounds; charcoal from fruit pits, used for gas masks; birch and willow pulp, used as a substitute for cotton and the nettle for making textiles; chest obtained from clover, horse chestnuts, oats, Indian corn, barley, beans, peas and buckwheat used in place of flour; roasted barley and oats, and roasted acorns and beechnuts, used for coffee. In Germany eventually a substitute for coffee was made from carrots and yellow turnips; bloom of the linden tree mixed with beech buds was found to make an excellent beverage; roasted peas and oats form a substitute for cocoa.

Why Yew in Churchyards

Why were yew trees planted in English churchyards? Several reasons have been given by readers of a London newspaper. One is that clergymen planted them because they liked their gloomy appearance. Another is that yew trees were believed to be poisonous and so were planted to discourage cattle from wandering on church property. In ancient days bows and arrows were made from yews and churchyards were regarded as safe places for plantations.

Why Fireflies Give Light

Scientists have not been able to determine just exactly how fireflies produce their light. It is supposed, however, that the light is produced by a chemical process involving at least two separate chemicals in addition to the oxygen in the air. When the two chemicals are mixed with oxygen from the air the light is produced. The insect seems to be able to produce the light at will.

Why Rainbow Is Circular

The rainbow is caused by light from the sun passing into a drop of water, and out again after reflection from the far side. Since the drops are spherical, hence are quite alike no matter how turned, it follows that the angle between the lines from drop to sun and eye must always be the same whether the drop be high or near the ground. This, as you easily can see, requires that the rainbow, as viewed by an observer, must appear circular.

Why Silver Becomes Black

Silver becomes black when exposed to the air because the air contains some sulphur gases for which silver has a great affinity. It absorbs these gases and makes a black compound called sulphide of silver.

Lesson for August 14

DAVID BRINGS THE ARK TO JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—II Sam. 6:1-19; Ps. 24.
GOLDEN TEXT—We shall be satisfied with the goodness of thy house, even of thy holy temple.

PRIMARY TOPIC—David Worships God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—David Worships God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Worship God.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Exalting God in Individual and National Life.

I. David Made King.

1. Over Judah (II Sam. 2:1-14).
Upon the death of Saul and Jonathan, David knew that the time had come for the fulfillment of God's purpose, but he carefully inquired of the Lord as to the proper movement to make. God directed him to Hebron, whereupon the children of Judah anointed him to be their king.

2. Over Israel (II Sam. 5:1-5).
After the death of Ishbosheth, the children of Israel came and formed a league with David, anointing him as their king. They assigned as their reasons:

(1) He was their brother (v. 1).
This is true of Jesus Christ, who has become our kinsman through the incarnation.

(2) He was their leader in war, even in Saul's time (v. 2).

(3) He was the Lord's choice (v. 2).

II. David's Unsuccessful Attempt to Bring Up the Ark (vv. 1-5).

This is an example of a wrong way of doing a right thing. That the Ark of the Lord of Hosts, the symbol of God's presence, should be brought to the center of the nation's life was a decision worthy of all praise. David gathered together the representative men of the nation in order that the movement might be a national one. That David was sincere in this measure cannot be doubted, but he was hasty and inconsiderate, for the procedure was an express violation of God's statutes. The dictum that it matters little what you do, just so you are honest and sincere is one of the devil's blackest lies.

III. God Vindicates His Law and Holiness (vv. 6-9).

The people were very joyful as they moved on toward Jerusalem with the ark, but suddenly there was a stop to the jubilant voices and music. At some rough place in the road the oxen stumbled and Uzzah, anxious for the precious freight on his cart, reached forth his hand to steady it. This resulted in his being stricken to death, as a man who touches a live electric wire. Ignorance does not make a man immune from the death which is in the touch of the heavily charged electric wire; neither does it in the case of the violation of God's laws. Since the ark was God's dwelling place among men, they needed to know that He was holy.

IV. The Ark of God in the House of Obed-Edom (vv. 10-12).

The homes where God is welcomed are always blessed. Obed-Edom was not better personally than Uzzah and David, but he openly received the Lord and properly related himself to Him. What had been death and dread to others was life and blessing to him. This was all because of his attitude toward it.

V. The Ark Brought to Jerusalem With Great Joy (vv. 13-19).

1. Sacrifices were offered after going six paces (v. 13).

David made the start and when convinced of God's approval, he made offerings. These were both burnt and peace offerings, typifying the self-dedication of the offerers and their thanksgiving (I Chron. 16:1).

2. David's great joy (vv. 14, 15).

The people joined him with great shouting and with the sound of the trumpet.

3. Michal's criticism (v. 16).

Even though David went to excess in his expression of joy, it was wrong in her to criticize, for God seemed to have sanctioned David's rebuke of her (v. 23).

4. The grand celebration (vv. 17-19).

As a token of his gratitude to God, David generously treated the people.

5. The King of Glory, the Lord Jesus Christ, coming (Ps. 24:7-10).

This was not the psalm composed by David for the occasion of bringing up the ark; that was Psalm 105. (See I Chron. 16.) It is strange that such a suggestion should have been made. This 24th psalm pictures Christ as the coming and triumphant King. At that time the gates shall open to Him and the King of Glory shall come in.

God Gives Us Power

Community Building

Driveways and Walks Add to Home Beauty

Perhaps there is nothing on earth that lends more to the appearance of the surroundings of a home than neat, artistically placed walks and driveways.

Careful thought given to their placing and arrangement at the time they are built will more than repay the owner in the attractiveness they will add to the exterior of the home. Every lawn offers a variety of possibilities in location and arrangement.

Like streets and highways, walks and driveways must be designed to meet the needs of those who use them. While it is generally desirable to have them take the most direct route, pleasing effects can often be obtained by the use of graceful curves. It is folly to destroy a fine tree because it happens to be in line with the route of the walk or driveway; a graceful curve around the tree does not inconvenience anyone and it will add to the beauty of the home surroundings.

Often such curves can be arranged so that the garage is partially hidden behind a clump of trees or bushes. In building such curves provision must be made for the growth of the tree to prevent it from raising or cracking the concrete.

Often it is possible, by the use of colors mixed in the concrete, to give a pleasing tone to the surface, and if desired the walk and driveway can be made somewhat decorative by marking off the surface into geometrical patterns which will harmonize with the architecture of the house.

Building Garage in Harmony With House

The garage should be planned at the same time as is the house. If the house is colonial, by all means use colonial treatment for the garage. If the house has a steep roof, the garage should have one of approximately the same pitch.

The use of doors with diagonal bracing detracts from a garage's appearance. It is much better to buy good mill-made garage doors with well-designed panels below the glass. The cost of the latter will not be much more than that of the carpenter's time and materials used in building doors on the job.

Windows for the garage should be in harmony with the house windows. Windows with small panes are to be recommended, as the cost of glass replacement is small in the event of accidents.

Lawn Demands Care

Unless the owner of a lawn is prepared to give it as much attention as he devotes to his flower and vegetable gardens, he might much better devote the entire area to gardens, for he has no right to expect a very successful or beautiful lawn. The best he will get will be a covering of verdure with as many weeds in it as grass and there will be no chance for a velvety, springy carpet of green.

The first element in producing a fine lawn is thorough preparation of the soil, as thorough as if it were to be devoted to growing prize roses, peonies or asters, giving it good spading, fine pulverizing and liberal fertilizing.

Keep Up Home Setting

The yard is the setting of the house. The prettiest home suffers when its surroundings are not pleasing and when neglect has been permitted to get the upper hand. Your neighborhood, of course, depends on the part you play.

While observing Arbor day, not only plant a tree, as the custom goes, but also look around the entire place and see what else should be done.

Fix up bedraggled trellises and train flowers that cover them. Mend and paint fences. Tidy up the porch furniture. See that every window box is painted. A yard should receive every bit as much attention as the house.

Desirability in Buying

Within districts that meet the family's needs as to general location the task of choosing a site for a home may be made easier if the points that affect the price or desirability are kept in mind and can be readily balanced against each other. Many people, for instance, object to a street on which there is much noise from street cars or on which there is heavy traffic at night. Streets carrying through traffic are often dangerous.

Trees for Pennsylvania

More than 20,000,000 trees, raised by the Pennsylvania state nurseries, will be set out in that state during the present year. This is said to be the largest number of trees set out since the department was organized in 1901. Officials in the department of forests and waters estimated that the 20,000,000 trees would reforest approximately 20,000 acres of Pennsylvania land.

Warrior's Paradise

The word "Valhalla" means "hall of the slain." In old Norse mythology, it was the abode of Odin in Asgard. It was originally the home of the dead, meaning something like the heaven of Christian peoples, but in the viking age it became known as the home of those who were slain in battle, a sort of warriors' paradise. It was situated in the region of joy. It contained many halls hung with spears and shields, and it was roofed with gold and supplied with food served by the Valkyries, a company of beautiful maidens. The warriors spent their days delighting themselves in battle, and their evenings eating and drinking.

Wealth's Disadvantages

When a man is prosperous distant relatives come very close to him. When he goes broke even near relatives become very distant. Wealth has its disadvantages just as poverty has, and it takes a philosopher to choose wisely between them.—Griff.

King Gets Boost

Brussels.—King Albert is to get a raise in pay. His annual prewar allowance of 3,300,000 paper francs is to be trebled. It amounts to about $130,000 now. Heretofore he has refused an increase, but finds he can't meet expenses.

TRAIL AGES OLD IS TO BE ABANDONED

New Highway Replaces the Jornada del Muerto.

Las Cruces, N. M.—America's oldest trail—the Jornada del Muerto (Journey of Death), the highway of aboriginal man centuries before Europeans dreamed there was an American continent—soon is to pass into disuse.

Within a few months, when the new highway up the Rio Grande valley from Las Cruces to northern New Mexico is completed, the Jornada del Muerto will be virtually abandoned as a road, for the first time on record.

The trail, beginning near old Fort Selden, stretches far to the north as part of a great natural highway through this state.

First White to See It.

Cabesa de Vaca, a member of a Spanish expedition which was shipwrecked on the coast of Texas about 1528, and who, in company with three others, passed from tribe to tribe until they finally reached their countrymen in Mexico, probably was the first white man to see the Jornada del Muerto.

It is believed that he and his companions first looked up it from the summit of San Augustine pass and traversed its southern end. There is little wonder that the conquistador dubbed this perilous passage the "Journey of Death," in view of the dearth of water, the sandstorms of summer and the icestorms of winter.

The first expedition of note known to have come over this route was in 1582, when Antonio de Espejo traversed the trail, followed by a long line of Franciscan friars. With the priests came soldiers, adventurers and explorers, until in 1680 the united efforts of the Indian tribes turned the northward tide by administering a bloody defeat.

Chief Commercial Route.

A few years later another army under Don Diego de Vargas passed northward to the reconquest of the lost provinces, and when Mexico threw off the Spanish yoke and New Mexico became a part of the southern republic most of the commerce between northern New Mexico and the United States came this way.

Over this route the members of the ill-starred Texas-Santa Fe expedition were driven in 1842 to Mexican prisons, and it was over this trail that Alexander Doniphan traveled with his memorable little army of Missourians to defeat a superior Mexican army at Brazito without the loss of a man.

Try to Make Travel Safe for Goldfish

Washington.—Travel is going to be made safe for goldfish if the government can do it.

Acting on complaints by fish breeders about the heavy mortality rate of their charges while proceeding in cans via express toward private bowls, the bureau of fisheries has undertaken a serious scientific investigation. It already has some results to announce.

Lack of air in the water, at first suspected of causing the high death rate, doesn't seem to be important. The goldfish is hardy, and when his water isn't changed he swims up to the top and takes a breath of straight air from time to time. But the dirt that gets into the water seems to present a serious danger, and the scientists are working to determine just how much he can stand. When it finishes it hopes to be able to lay out travel schedules which will enable the breeders to deliver more of their finny ornaments alive.

Policeman's Face Must Fit Helmet in London

London.—No matter what other qualifications a prospective London bobbie has, he must possess a "policeman's face" to get the job.

Provided he comes up to the educational standard required, passes a strict medical examination, and is possessed of a good physique, he still solemnly has to don a bobbie's helmet and parade before his superiors as a final test. If he does not wear the helmet becomingly the chances are he will have to look for a job elsewhere.

Police officials feel that it is most important that bobbies shall not look ridiculous, and maintain the type of helmet worn in London is not a head-dress that everyone can wear and retain his dignity.

Searchlight Crew Makes Perfect Air Test Score

Washington.—A perfect score has been credited to the searchlight and sound locator crew of battery A of the Sixty-third Coast artillery at Fort Winfield Scott, Calif., which conducted recent night tests of its anti-aircraft detection equipment. An airplane which made eight simulated bombing raids on a two and a half-mile square area defended by the battery was detected and illuminated by the searchlights on each occasion. The plane crossed the area at varied intervals at an average altitude of 8,000 feet.

Spotless Town

New York.—A real spotless town, one New Yorker has found, is Sheboygan, Wis. J. L. Reiss was informed that the children were taught in school to be proud of their streets and not clutter them up.

TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Items of news from town, or vicinity are always wanted for this column. Especially accidents, sales of real estate, fires, important happenings, visits to or from the community social events, and all matters of general interest to those at home, and away from home.

Mrs. Elizabeth Birnie and daughter, Eleanor, spent Thursday, in Baltimore.

Prof. Byham has been pitching winning ball, recently, for the Frederick team.

Samuel Galt continues seriously ill, with but slight change in his condition.

Mrs. Vallie Hoagland and son, John, are spending the month of August at D. W. Garner's.

Rev. Geo. A. Brown and family, will go on a vacation of two weeks, the first of next week.

Grayson A. Shank, left by auto, on Thursday morning, to visit friends on the Eastern Shore.

Mr. Carroll Dern is at St. Agnes Hospital, Baltimore, suffering from an attack of appendicitis.

Allen Feeser, a local contractor, has purchased a new 2-ton Republic truck with an all metal hoist bed.

Rev. W. C. Wachter, wife and daughters, of Boonsboro, visited Rev. and Mrs. Geo. A. Brown, on Tuesday.

Elder J. L. Myers, of Logansville, Pa., is conducting a series of meetings at the Church of the Brethren, Piney Creek.

Mrs. Margaret Nulton came home on Monday, for a month's vacation. She is engaged at the Lutheran Settlement House, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Edna Burke, of Newark, Del., visited the home of her brother, Walter A. Bower, and sister, Mrs. Wm. F. Bricker, the first of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Reaver and daughter, Rosalie; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Feeser, son Maurice, Jr., of George street, motored to Pen-Mar, on Sunday.

Thad. G. Crapster, of New York City, visited his mother, Mrs. Sue G. Crapster, several days the first of this week, his first visit here for quite a long while.

Mr. and Mrs. Clotworthy Birnie and son, Clotworthy, Jr., spent the week-end with the former's mother and sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Birnie and daughter, Miss Eleanor.

Wm. F. Kehn and wife, of Baltimore, visited relatives here, the first of this week. Mr. Kehn has for a long while been one of the care-takers at Greenmount Cemetery, Baltimore.

Miss Laura Martin, of Emmitsburg, and Miss Laura Shuff, of Thurmont, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Baumgardner. Mr. and Mrs. Murray K. Martin and son of Baltimore, visited at the same place.

Mrs. Jacob Strawsburg, Mrs. Anna Troxell, Miss Mildred Wantz and Levi Frock, of near town, visited Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Perago, at York, Pa., on Sunday. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. D. Snyder, their former neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Harner and family entertained on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Frieboffer and son, Robert; Mrs. James H. Reindollar and Miss Marjorie Baumgardner, of Dayton, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Dern and daughter, of Hagers-town.

The haphazard way of ringing the fire bell, is a distinct nuisance. It is all right to sound a general alarm by continuous ringing, but after that there should be a few taps to let the town folks know whether the fire is in or out of town. A simple method of ringing an alarm could easily be established, and would soon be known generally.

We are of the opinion that Taneytown authorities would be justified in contracting the expense for a stop and go signal at the square. These signals are now in pretty general use and are understood by drivers everywhere, and this crossing at the square is becoming increasingly dangerous. Should a bad accident occur there, with the signal at work, the town would not be responsible.

(For the Record).

Those who spent Sunday at the home of George DeBerry and family, were: George Cameron, wife and daughter, Pauline, and son, Raymond; Mrs. George Mitchell and John Fox, all of Baltimore; Dorothy Jane and William Fox and Edward Williams of Washington; Julia Waltz, of Waynesboro; Thomas Fox and wife, Upton Austin, wife and daughters, Carman and Charlotte; John Ohler and wife, and son, Richard, and Henry Feeser, of near this place.

Miss Mary George, of Baltimore, is visiting Mrs. G. Walter Wilt.

Miss Catharine Allwine, of New Oxford, is a guest of Miss Mary Hes-son.

Mrs. Susan G. Birnie, who is spending the Summer at Braddock Heights, visited Taneytown over Sunday.

Dr. Percy L. Mehrling and wife, of Springfield, Pa., are spending the week here with Mr. Mehrling's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kiser spent last week-end with Mrs. Kiser's daughter, Mrs. Grace Meding, at Dundalk. They were accompanied home by John Meding, a grand-son.

Next Wednesday, Taneytown will play a return game with Thurmont, in Thurmont. On Saturday, 20th, the strong St. John's team, of Frederick, will again play in Taneytown.

During this season of the year there is always a great deal of vacationing, both incoming and outgoing, making it quite impossible for us to know about all of it. Those who care to have such items published, should hand them in.

The regular meeting of the Home-maker's Club will be Thursday, Aug. 18th, at 2 o'clock. The subject, "Combination of colors, in our costumes," can't fail to be interesting to every woman who desires to be attractively dressed.

Dr. C. S. Basehoar who recently underwent a serious operation in a Baltimore Hospital, paid his sisters, Mrs. D. W. Garner and Mrs. C. M. Benner, a visit this week. He was accompanied by his wife and son. He is getting along fine and will soon return to his home in Carlisle.

Mrs. Anna Lashley and daughters, Miss Elizabeth Lashley and Mrs. Harriet Robins, grand-daughter, Miss Anna Robins, and son, Robert Lashley, of Centerville, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lashley and son, Alfred, of Columbus, Ohio, visited Mr. and Mrs. George Galt, several days this week.

He Wanted One.

"Poor Jim has been sent to an asylum, said the barber, flourishing a shining razor over his customer.

"Who's Jim," asked the man in the chair.

"Jim is my twin brother, sir. Jim kept brooding over the hard times, and I suppose he finally got crazy."

"Is that so?"
"Yes; he and me worked side by side for years and we are so alike we couldn't tell each other apart. We both brooded a great deal, too. No money in this business now."

"What's the reason?"
"Prices too low. Unless a customer takes a shampoo it does not pay to shave or cut hair. Poor Jim, I caught him trying to cut a customer's throat because he refused a shampoo; so I had to have the poor fellow locked up. Makes me sad. Sometimes I feel sorry I didn't let him slash all he wanted to. It might have saved his reason. Shampoo, sir?"
"Yes."

BASE BALL

GAMES PLAYED

Taneytown 11, Pleasant Valley 2.
Taneytown 12—Sabillasville 0.
Taneytown 10—Westminster 5.
Taneytown 19, Waynesboro 6.
Taneytown 6—Hagerstown 0.
St. John's Frederick 3—Taneytown 2.

Taneytown 7—York 1.
Newville 13—Taneytown 0.
Taneytown 5—Thurmont 2.
Littlestown 1—Taneytown 1.

Taneytown 5—Thurmont 2.

Taneytown won an interesting game by a close score, on Wednesday, from Thurmont. The game was without thrills until the 6th, inning, when two two-base hits, a base on balls and an error resulted in three runs for the home team. Aside from this inning honors were about even, Taneytown having slightly the best of the pitching end. Owing to the game with Littlestown, on Thursday, Utz, regular pitcher, did not officiate.

Next Wednesday, Taneytown will play a return game with Thurmont, in Thurmont. On Saturday, 20th, the strong St. John's team, of Frederick, will again play in Taneytown.

Taneytown 1—Littlestown 1.

Taneytown drew a tie with Littlestown, on Thursday, at Littlestown. The game was largely a battle between pitchers, with Utz making the best showing. The game should have been 1-0 in favor of Taneytown, but Littlestown managed to get an unearned run across in the last inning. But seven innings could be played because of the late start of the game. The score tells the story.
