BOARD OF EDUCATION PROCEEDINGS

Old Buildings Sold, and Various Items of Business.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was called to or-der at 10:15 A. M., in the office of the Board on Wednesday, March 7, 1928. Commissioner Zepp was absent. The minutes of the previous meet-ing were approved as read. The list of bills as presented to the Board was approved and ordered paid. The bills for the additions to the stage in the Hampstead school building, and the consequent additional wiring and electrical supplies, were ap-proved to the extent of one-half of the total amount of the bill which is $54.13. The other half is to be met by the school itself.

Requests for contributions to local funds raised for purposes indicted, were presented to the Board which contributed $10.00 to the amount already raised in each case, except in the cases of the Mt. Airy school and the Pleasant Valley school it agreed to make the contribution 10% of the amounts raised by the schools which amounted to $20.00 and $92.56 respectively.

Mt. Airy, raised $200 library books, etc., Wesley, raised $10.00, library books; Baile, raised $10.00 maps; Pleasant Valley, raised $925.60 equip-

The Board was officially notified by the authorities of the City of Westminster that a new pavement would have to be laid on the Westminster High School frontage this coming season.

The Superintendent reported the standings of the Carroll County Freshmen at Western Maryland College. The various committees on the acquiring of land reported progress but no item came up for definite action by the Board.

The increased enrollment in the high school section at Manchester, which seems apparent for the coming year, was discussed but the Board saw no way to provide enlargement or additions to that plant. The correspondence carried on be-tween this office and Thomas A. Clavering, with respect to opening the Lowe's school, was considered by the Board and the matter under discussion was considered as a closed incident. The Superintendent was di-

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS Banquet at Sauble's Inn and give Fine Program.

On Tuesday evening of this week, about fifty high school teachers, principals, and administrative officers of the Carroll County School system, gathered at Sauble's Inn for the third annual banquet and get-together mee ing of the Carroll Co. High School Teachers' Association.

After enjoying the usual good meal that is always served at Sauble's, a splendid program was given. Miss Dorothy Ward, of Westminster, sang several solos and led the general singing. Prof. Philip Royer delighted the company with some of his excellent work on the violin. During the serving of the banquet, music was furnished by an orchestra from Westminster. Short addresses were made by Prof. M. S. H. Unger, Rev. Bready, and Principal Hawkins, of Manchester.

The officers of the Association, elected at the meeting, are Prof. E. C. Seitz, President, and Miss Carey Knauff, Secretary and Treasurer.

The Committee to arrange for the banquet consisted of Prof. E. L. Wolfe, Prof. Byham and Miss Ward.

The Auto Club Meeting.

The Taneytown-Middleburg Auto Club met in the Shriner Theatre, on Tuesday, March 13, 1928, at 7:30 P. M., and was called to order by the President. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

A committee consisting of Chas E. H. Shriner, David Mehring, W. E. Bankard and Chas. Ridinger made : visit to Hanover on Saturday, March 10, and had a conference with the Chamber of Commerce officials including the Hon. A. R. Brodbeck, and re ported to our Club a most pleasant visit, and received some valuable information.

The visit from the officials of the Md. Auto Club which was scheduled for Tuesday, March 20, has been post-poned until April 17, due to a previous engagement they had, to attend a National Auto Club convention held in Washington. We expect to have them at our meeting on Tuesday, April 17, at which time we hope all members of our Club will be present and give these notable guests a most cordial reception, and to show them that Taneytown has a booster organization. Following the meeting the Domestic Science teacher of our High School assisted by the young ladies of the High School, will serve a luncheon to the Club in the Firemen's Building, consisting of sandwiches, potato salad, rected to reply to the communication of Mr. Clavering, accordingly. serving all present with cigars and cigarettes.

A meeting of the Club is scheduled to be held on Friday, March 16, 7:30 P. M. in Waldens Hall, in Middleburg, the same meeting which was to have been held on last Friday night but was postponed on account of inclement weather. The President of the Club urged all members to attend, if possible, and to make an effort to secure new members. The meeting adjourned to meet again on Tuesday, March 20, at 7:30, in the Shriner Theatre, to which the public is cordially invited.

RADIO'S VALUE GREAT TO THE FARMERS Secretary of Agriculture and others in Agreement.

William M. Jardine, Secretary of Agriculture is an enthusiastic advo-cate of radio as a big help to farmers, not only as providing the best of entertainment, not to be had in any other way, but as a means of conveying information to him worth many dollars a year, as well as to his wife and children.

"Radio has become a permanent part of American rural life," Mr. Jardine declares, "and the Department of Agriculture would be remiss in its duty if it did not take a position of leadership in making it more and more useful to the American farmer.

"Agriculture, recognized as a modern science—a modern business—must take and is taking advantage of every modern discovery to improve directly the practice of farming and to interpret farming and the farmer to the rest of the nation.

"The radio is of incalculable help in doing this. Producers are now within speaking distance of information on market quotations, marketing methods, economic and farm business problems, scientific information on poultry, live stock, dairying and a medley of other subjects."

Sam Pickard, member of the Federal Radio Commission and former director of the radio activities of the Department of Agriculture, supports these conclusions of his former chief. "The farm radio, per dollar of investment, is bringing the farmers of the country more dollars and cents return, and is doing more to bring about a better contented and more understanding class of farmers than any other single scientific contribution of the age," he says. "Ten million American farmers, by the very nature of their business, and by their more or less isolated locations are the most logical users of radio in the world. Theirs is the opportunity for making it pay a dollars and cents profit. As a source of entertainment or them it is a godsend."

These conclusions are echoed by Ed-win T. Meredith, agricultural editor and former Secretary of Agriculture. As a man interested in maintaining lose contact with farmers and knowing intimately of their needs and desires, Mr. Meredith has himself made first-hand study of the field for radio service to the farmer.

Taneytown Thomson Family Information.

Recently, the Editor of The Record loaned his scrap book of Carroll Coun-ty town histories to Misses Dorothy Elderdice and F. Louise Thomson, of Westminster, for use in gathering information for the coming pageant. Miss Thomson writes how the book has interested her, and what she says may be of interest to others. "For some time I have intended to write and tell you how much Miss Elderdice and I appreciate your Scrap Book. I discovered, through it, that George Sharpe, the father of the late Ambassador Sharpe, published a pa-per in Westminster. For years I have tried to find this information. George Sharpe married Margarette Thomson, the daughter Hugh Thomson, an officer in the Revolutionary war, and grand-daughter of William Thomson, the first of the name in Tanevtown. According to our family records, Margaretta Thomson was very beautiful and greatly admired by Gen. Washington when he visited the Thomson home about a mile from Faneytown. It is also related that the General took her riding with him in his coach, Descendants of the Sharpe family have a table and chair which Washington used when he was in the Thomson home. As Charles Thomson, the patriot and secretary of the Continental Congress, was the first cousin of William Thomson, the friendship is easily accounted for. There are some other things connected with this incident that I can not recall."

The "locals" were as follows;

"Our town darlings are enjoying the moonlight promenade hugely." "J. Reindollar is making a necessary improvement by piking the street in front of his residence." "Hunt up your family Bibles for the census taker will be around in June and must know your ages to the minute.' "Potts" how did it happen that you saw the fellows who attempted to

"Death has removed one of our old-est inhabitants during the week in the person of Mrs. A. J. Currens."

"Mr. Andrew Harner met with an accident on last Sunday which may have resulted in seriously injuring him, but fortunately he escaped with few bruises. Mr. H., attempted to ross the street when a two horse car-riage driven at a rapid rate struck him and threw him to the ground. We need some "City Fathers" to prevent such rapid driving."

The other articles were mostly humorous, and a few were sharply personal, but no doubt were not followed by libel suits. It contained a "greet-ing," indicating that it might be customed, but the advertisers likely did not furnish the capital. honors and was the valedictorian of his class. Three years later he grad-uated from the Seminary, and in 1906 that institution conferred the D. D. Current school expenses in Maryland increased $1,197,000 last year over those of 1926, according to a report of Albert S. Cook, State Superin-tendent of Schools. Of this total$822,-000 is credited to Baltimore city and $375,000 to the twenty-three counties. Of the increase in the city expendi-tures, the State bore $30,000 and the city $792,000. The State bore $90,000 of the additional expense outside of Baltimore, while the counties paid the remaining $285,000 of their increase. Of every dollar spent for school current expenses in 1927, 71 cents was used for teachers' salaries, 3.4 cents for general control and 2.2 cents for supervision. The amount of teachers salaries was 1 cent less than in 1926. For books and materials of instruction 5.1 cents was spent. Cleaning and heating buildings cost 7.5 cents; repairs, 3.6 cents; transportation health and libraries, 5.7 cents, these last three items combined taking cent more of every dollar than in 1926. Including all pupils, white and col-ored, high and elementary, the aver-age cost in the counties for current expense per day school pupil was $51.97, an increase of $1.79 over 1926. Average costs in white high schools are more than twice as high as those in white elementary schools, due to smaller classes, higher salaries of teachers paid because of longer years of preparation and the need of more books and laboratory and shop supplies.

For the first time, every county in Maryland transported pupils to school at county expense in 1927. The counties paid $373,168 to transport 13,385 pupils, an increase of $60,673 and 2,818 pupils over the previous year.

The annual county cost was $28.65 for each elementary school pupil and $25.67 for each high-school pupil transported, making the total cost per day 15 and 14 cents, respectively.

The average value of school property in 1927 per pupil enrolled in Balti-more city was $277, and in the coun-ties, $114. The increase in the city He was active in bringing about over 1926 was $72, and $6 in the coun-

This extra material is eased into the seam to give room for the shoulder blades. If a person is slightly round-shouldered is particularly necessary to make this allowance. Leg bands on children's rompers or bloomers should never impede circulation. For this reason elastic bands are not advised. Cloth bands are better. They should be wide enough to slide up the leg five inches or more when the child bends over. Because they must be so loose it is necessary to make the legs of the garment short or they will hang down uncomfortably over the knees. Cottage cheese can be used in many types of salads. It combines well with other foods, and may be served with French, mayonnaise, or boiled dressings. Cottage cheese for salads may be formed into balls, or slices; it may be molded into tiny cups passed through a pastry tube. Foods that combine well with cottage cheese in salads are crisp, fresh vegetables; cooked or canned vegetables; fresh dried, or preserved fruits; nuts, and olives. Having a built-in ironing board in a shallow closet saves space, is con-venient, and helps to keep the cover clean. The hinged support should be placed so that there is room to draw skirt or dress over the board. The board should be the right height for you. There should be a good light from a window during the day, and artificial light also. Diphtheria is nothing like the serious menace that it was before the days of antitoxine. We are however losing a hundred times as many lives from this disease as we are from small-pox. When diphtheria was at it worst small-pox was very much the more serious disease. The use of small-pox vaccination is, alone, sponsible for the control of that disease.

Recently a way has been found to prevent diphtheria which is almost as sure in its results as is the small-pox vaccination. This preventive treatment does not cause a sore arm and does not make children sick. I am giving this treatment to hundreds of children in Carroll and Howard counties and only one child has lost any time from school because of a reaction and that child was only home one half a day. No child has to take this treatment and it will not be given if the parents do not sign the slip which will be sent from school by the teacher.

These clinics will start in your school on Monday, March 19, at 10:00 o'clock. Dr. C. M. Benner will be in charge. They will be continued for four consecutive weeks at the same hour. The day of the clinics after the first week will be Tuesday instead of

"Stop the Paper" Experiences.

The publisher of the Harrisburg, Oregon, Bulletin, gives his experience in two cases of "stop the paper" that will be recognized as of close relation to the experiences of most publishers. He savs:

"While publishing a weekly at Halfway, Ore., during the late war, I offered to give all money received a certain week for new subscriptions to the Red Cross. An old lady came in the office one day, a woman who had taken the paper since it was estab-lished, and said that she believed she would stop her paper. I failed to elicit any real objections she held and finally took her card from the file and destroved it. Then she asked, innocently, whether she would be a new subscriber if she subscribed again. I replied doubtfully in the affirmative, and she ordered the paper put back on the list and instructed me to put the money for it in the Red Cross fund. Another time I offered to give a year's subscription to any person in the community who was over eighty years of age. A subscriber came in and said his mother was past eighty and claimed the reward. I entered her name on the list. Then he broke the news to me that the mother was living with him and that he wouldn't need the paper any longer. That seemed reasonable enough and I look-That ed up his card, finding that he owed me 50 cents. I asked for the amount and was told that he didn't really intend to take the paper after the was out and, therefore, didn't feel like he should pay it."

Road Building.

Eventually, all, or most all of the country roads, will be hard surfaced. The only reason why they are not being built now, is lack of that all important thing that we need when we want new things-money. Just now, delegations and individuals are flocking around the little money in sight-and much that is not in sight-like bees around a sugar barrel, or like men in a crowd trying to edge themselves in front of somebody else.

There is actually not much gained by all of this energetic performance, because there is no practicable way for money trees to be shaken, and all demands be supplied at once. The tax way for getting large sums such as are needed for expensive hard rods is a slow way to travel over, because "we the people" must supply the taxes, and such quantity as we do supply, in fairness should be equitably divided up, or spent where most needed.

Making a noise, and trying to shove somebody out of line who really has as good or a better case than we have, is not very reputable business. It may be a way to get in ahead, but it isn't a creditable way. Of course, we justify ourselves with plausible stories as to why we should be preferred above others; but in the matter of wanted, and needed, good worthy, for the claims of all are about alike.

some extent by politicians; but there is hardly any good thing that is not abused, and when considering abuses we should give full consideration to the inequalities-that amount to abuses-of our present system of taxation.

Let Lindbergh Alone.

It seems as though the general public is becoming a nuisance, so far as Col. Lindbergh is concerned. He is practically spied upon and reported in every move that he makes, and when he happens to hop into his plane and go somewhere, without telling the reporters where he is going, at once his mission must be a "secret" one, and consequently something to inquire into.

On his arrival in Washington, recently, he had to make a running getaway, in order to avoid the newspaper sleuths, and in general the surveillance he is under amounts practically to imprudent persecution. Col. Lindbergh has a full citizen's right to privacy, and to go about without being regarded as having a perpetual news story hanging to him.

It is such persistence as this that marks a lot of Americans little better than fools, and certainly as unmitigated busy-bodies; and if the pursuit keeps up, the Col. should have the right to carry a squirt gun of some sort, as a means of partial defense.

Dawes Looming Up as a Candidate.

The Philadelphia Ledger sees a possibility of the "favorite sons" of various states, such as Ohio, Indiana, Nebraska, Kansas and Illinois, and perhaps other mid-west states, combining in the nominating convention against Secretary Hoover, with the chance of the compromise candidate being vice-President Dawes. This is of course, after their own chances fail.

Mr. Dawes says he is "not a canroads, it is hard to pick the most didate," but the Ledger sees strong under currents in his direction, especially since the big eastern states like New York and Pennsylvania are and villages not on main highways, playing a waiting game. Several pay their taxes just as do the out in years ago the Vice-President would front folks, and their homes and not have been considered very seritheir business is just as important to ously, but since that time he has them as the homes and business of grown in strength and popularity, especially with agricultural states.

As Vice-President, he has distinctly ting" things that is not fair. We re- made good, following a rather bad call the advice a father once gave to start, and there are evidences that in

So they shift into that fair, as real estate in most cases, is great underworld that lies in wait about the least productive investment | planning deeds of crime. The life of steady toil is too monotonous for There is, in fact, much justification them. They want what they want for a poll tax, although it is abused to when they want it, and they propose to have it at any cost.

Some people used to claim that these deeds were mostly committed by young men who were in the war. But the majority of them are committed by fellows who were too young to have served them. It is the reckless act of rash youth, for as soon as fellows get a little older, they know better.

Someone should get hold of these fellows, and impress the idea on them that the community has the utmost contempt for people of this type. It would throw them out of the country if it could, but as no country wants them, the only thing is to lock them up in jail, which is sure to be done. Work is the law of life, and those that shirk it to go in for crime will have no friends among decent people, and the community will give them the treatment reserved for outlaws and enemies of society .- Frederick News.

Privileges. of Peers

Growth of Centuries In England there is always more or less objection to the house of lords, and efforts are constantly made in the direction of "reforming" it in one way or another. The word really neans equals, and comes down from the Middle ages, when the great tenants in chief of the crown, that is, those who held their land directly from the sovereign, were regarded as being all equal (for "pares" in the Latin) in law. Gradually a distinction arose between these direct tenants, or greater barons, and the rest. And so the old "pares" became peers. And as their first duty was to attend the king's courts, so bit by bit grew up the custom of attending parliament. Thus originated the house of lords.

The peers have always enjoyed certain privileges. The peer is exempted from serving on a jury, the theory, however, being not so much out of any favor to himself as from a fear that his rank might influence his fellow jurors to his own point of view. And in addition, he has the magnificent-though never exercised-power of keeping on his hat in a court of law.

Childish Fear Not to

Be Roughly Treated Fears are very crippling indeed. With wiser training our children might readily escape the specific fears and the general anxieties, timidities and self-doubts which so woefully hamper them. But you can never rout fear with brutal, radical or "heroic measures. It is cruel to force a child, as is often done, to endure alone just what it most fears. You are not making him brave-no, not even if he conceals his fears to please you. The fear pressed below the surface lives on and festers there. Ridicule or honest amusement are likewise useless. Fear, no matter how foolish it sounds to the unfearing, is too real a thing to be laughed off. It calls always for gentleness, sympathy, a serious effort to understand the cause, patient reassurance and, in many cases, skillful re-education in which pleasant associations or better understanding on the child's part drive out the fear .- Edna Brand Mann in the New Age.

ation can build roads everywhere, is somewhat discouraging and certainly does encourage pushing others out of line, to "get" what we want.

But we do not make much headway at it, after all of our efforts. Others are doing the same thing; and largely, one fellow and his argument, is as good as another fellow and his argument. So there you are. We shoot in the case warrant.

Inequality of Taxation.

There are a good many complaints about taxation that represent mere play on words and do not include proper regard for facts. The fact is that in most cases we wish high taxes on ourselves because we insist on having public improvements that demand high taxes. In fact, in most cases-except in part, at least, in the conduct of our public school system -we are decidedly more, than less, responsible for the size of our tax bills.

But, in one glaring respect, our taxgathering system is downright unjust. And that is in the matter of taxing only real and personal property, and not incomes of salaried persons, or incomes earned practically without the possession of any at present taxable property by the earner.

All persons drawing a more or less fixed salary income of say $1000., or more a year, and who owns no' real estate, or who pays an insignificant sum in taxes, should be required to bear a proper share in the cost of government. As it now stands, there are hundreds of persons in Carroll County, earning from $20.00 to $50.00 per week, who pays no taxes, or next to none, yet enjoy most of our public improvements.

We also believe that those who have their savings invested in bank haters are content to beg now. They 10,803 Farm Organizations.

The following item sent out by the U. S. Department of Agriculture makes it pretty clear why there is so much political activity in the interest of farmers. No doubt the most of these Associations have well defined ourselves off, and pride ourselves on | business and co-operative, and take our energy, and for a while take a lot little active part in partisan politics; of credit for "knowing how" to do but it is highly probable that many things-and in the end we just fall in of them are officered and directed by line and take our turn, or at least get farmers of men, than of land, and ahead no faster than the plain facts | keep busy turning out, a product that benefits them more than the land farmers.

"The Department has reports of 10.803 agricultural associations operating in the United States in 1925. Of these Minnesota had the largest number, 1,383. Iowa was second with 1,094 and Wisconsin was a close third with 1,092. These three States combined had practically one-third of all the co-operatives. The fourth, fifth and sixth States were Illinois, Missouri and Nebraska with 822, 537 and 466 associations respectively. These six leading States have a trifle more than half of the total number of associations. Wisconsin leads in the number of co-operatives handling dairy products, Illinois in grain marketing co-operatives, Iowa in livestock, and California in fruit and vegetable co-operatives. Minnesota stands first in the general list because it is second in rank in both the dairy co-operatives and in those handling livestock."

The Aversion to Work.

Formerly the fellow who wouldn't work became a tramp. Many of these fellows would suffer sharp pain rather than work. So they wandered from door to door, and the frightened housewives handed out sandwiches and mince pie, fearing that if such a one was refused, he would set their buildings afire.

The number of people who have this hatred of work does not grow any less. The number tends to increase, as sporting life increases, and so many ways of having a good time are offered. But not many of the work

A preacher was explaining to his congregation the great unhappiness caused by divorce, and urged husbands to be more attentive to their wives, to kiss them more frequently.

And he Tried to be Good.

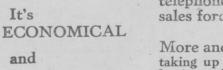

Arriving home, one of the husbands in the congregation, who evidently had chosen to go to church rather than be helpful in many domestic problems, rushed into the kitchen where his wife was laboring, and abruptly kissed her. Breaking into tears she cried, "The baby sick, the furnace fire out, the plumbing leak-

TO, I don't believe in life insurance for people situated as we are," said Marvin

Webster, emphatically and decidedly. Marvin Webster, farmer, was usually decided after weighing a question. That was why the neighborhood elected him to positions requiring judgment and honesty, "Prejudice has nothing to do with it," he added. "I've thought the matter over fairly. It's a luxury we can't afford." "Why?" asked Gran'ther Webster.

"Because every dollar put into insurance would be taken from the children's clothing or schooling or something equally important. You know how hard the times are with us, gran'ther. I work from fourteen to sixteen hours a day and yet every dollar that comes crawling in has to go flying out." "I know, son, I know. But ye've got insurance on the house an' barn."

"A little, yes. They might burn and leave us or the cattle homeless." "Seems to me life insurance is pretty much along the same lines."

"Maybe," calmly. "I'm not against life insurance for those who can afford it."

"You might die!"

"There's a chance of it, certainly," admitted the farmer. "But it's only a chance, while the money necessary to provide against it would be an immediate and positive loss to the children. A good education and fitting for some profession or trade, as they seem inclined, is the best insurance I can leave them."

But gran'ther didn't seem convinced. "There's a good many ifs an' ands an' buts," he said, gently. "You're a better argufier than I be, son, an' can make things stand out your way. But I ain't sure. I've lived a good while, an' in my eighty years have seen heaps of times when a little outside help would have prevented trouble. Sound sense an' hard work are most, but not all. They're liable to have gaps an', so far as we can, them gaps ought to be provided for. At least, that's my idea."

"Why not empty that stocking heel or tin box or wherever it's kept, intc the idea?" suggested his son, teasing-"Provide for a gap, gran'ther." 1y.

The old man chuckled. "Have your fun, son," he said. "Boys will be boys. You're only forty and I'm eighty-an' that makes me think I must go right out an' cut over my 'sparagus bed."

He rose and went out, and his son, after a few words with young Marvin and Alice about their school books, went back to the planting he had left at sound of the breakfast hell.

All the Websters were workers. The children, with their two or three hours before and after school; Mrs. Webster, who looked after the poultry and dairy and superintended the kitchen garden in addition to doing the regular household work; her husband,

I was put in a mill when a small boy, not half as'old as you, and I couldn't get out until after I was a man grown, when my obligations died off. Then I broke away. I don't want any of my children to follow my footsteps there. If you should look over the help when they come through the gate you wouldn't see one in fifty as strong and healthy as you and Alice. Then there's your civil engineering course to be started into next year, and Alice entering high school with her to be." "That's just the trouble," burst out young Marvin protestingly. "It's just for Alice and me. We don't want so much sacrifice. I'm not a boy any longer, father, but a man grown in size if not in years. I can see things. You're not old enough for your shoulders to be stooping and your hair to. be so gray. And mother's looking. tired out, too. We can't-"

mind made up as to what she wants

The old farmer laid a hand upon his son's shoulders. "My boy," he interrupted, "your mother and I want you and Alice to do it for us. It has been the one great thought in all our work and planning for years. I didn't get my chance; I don't want you to lose yours."

"But it isn't right," faltered the boy. "Alice and I could work in the factory for a year, saving all our money, then go on with our studies. You know we might lose the farm if things go on like they've been doing."

"The farm will hold out till you and Alice are settled," returned his father. "That is the main point. And I don't like interruptions, for they're liable to prevent any more going on. You've got a lot of ambition, and so has Alice; but I wouldn't wonder if your mother and I have this future more at heart than either of you. Won't you fill it out for us?"

The boy struggled with himself for some moments, then nodded, "All right, father," he agreed. "And TH study as I never did before, to more quickly fit myself to take some of the burden.'

So another year passed, and the mortgage grew a little larger, and the figure of Marvin Webster a little more weary looking. But the weariness was not in the eyes. They seemed to be growing younger with the progress of his boy and girl.

Then one morning they found gran'ther had gone away. Only his body was in bed.

A few days after, they looked for the stocking or tin box, or whatever it might be, going about the room with loving thoughts and reverent steps. But nothing was there.

"Probably he has sent it away to relieve the distress of some old friend," his son said softly. "Gran'ther had a good many friends. Likely some old soldier's family."

Gran'ther had been an officer in the Civil war, with a record. His commission and other cherished mementoes were in his little horschair trunk. Mrs. Webster looked them over, with a thought of saving them for the children. Among them was a paper, which she passed to her husband.

"What do you make it it, Marvin?" she asked.

He read it through from end to end, slowly, carefully, his face work* HOW =

WORLD'S FOOD SUPPLY IS MADE BY PLANTS .-One of the most important of natural processes, the secret of which has hitherto escaped the scientists, may be explained by recent experiments of Prof. E. C. C. Baly of the University of Liverpool, reported to the Royal Society of London, says Dr. E. E. Free, in his Week's Science (New York). This is photosynthesis, the way in which the leaves of plants manufacture all the food in the world. He writes:

"From the air these green leaves absorb a gas called carbon dioxide, the same gas that makes the bubbles in soda water. Traces of this gas are always present in the open air. The plant roots absorb water, which is then drawn up into the leaves. The leaves also absorb sunlight. These three things, sunlight, water and carbon dioxide gas, the leaves use to manufacture a variety of sugar which is raw material of plant growth as well as the material for producing the starch that plants like wheat store in the grain or that plants like the potato store in their tubers. All the animals that eat plants, as well as human beings who eat both these animals and the original plant foods, really get their living from the work of the green leaves. In spite of years of effort, scientists have never been able to duplicate this important process artificially. The living plant has always been needed to do the trick. Professor Baly himself has been at work for years, trying, always unsuccessfully, to duplicate the action. At last he believes that he has succeeded. A fine powder of the carbonate of nickel or of cobalt is suspended in water containing the carbon dioxide gas and is exposed to sunlight. Sugar is produced. This is probably not exactly the same way in which the living plant does the same trick, but it may serve, Professor Baly believes, as a starting point from which to complete the full discovery of the plant's secret."-Literary Digest.

How Some Species of Fish Release Poison There are poisonous fish as well as poisonous reptiles, but the poison is not communicated by biting. On the contrary, the fish puncture their victims with spines. A study of the dorsal fin spine of the spiny dogfish reveals a groove containing a glandular structure which discharges secretion through a longitudinal pit. Further investigation discloses the presence of a more complex gland on the dorsal fin spines of the Port Jackson shark. The examination of the fossil fin spines of this family of fishes reveals the existence of a rough surface with either medium or lateral glandular structures. The surface of the spine covered with ename which shows bosses or ridges running in a longitudinal direction. The venom of the weever produces intense and

$900 per Acre from Rutabaga Crop Yield of 150 Barrels per Acre

AST season Mr. E. P. Matthews of Pocomoke City, Worcester County, Md., planted five acres in rutabagas. He used "AA QUALITY" Fertilizer. His yield was 150 barrels of rutabagas per acre, which he sold for $6.00 per barrel. Mr. Matthews estimates that "AA QUALITY" Fertilizer increased his yield 25 barrels per acre. On account of the superior quality of his crop Mr. Matthews got $2.00 a barrel more than the average prevailing price. Read what he wrote on September 1, 1927:

'This crop of Rutabagas was grown with 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer, 1,500 pounds to the acre, and I have an unusual crop. I consider 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizers for early truck the best that money can buy. They make exceptionally fine crops of early white potatoes and turnips as well as other truck crops."

Hundreds of other successful farmers like Mr. Matthews have had large yields and superior-quality crops with "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers. Read the statements printed in the next column. These growers use sound farming methods and "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers-the best fertilizers obtainable.

Quality plant foods make quality crops. The utmost care is taken in selecting the plant-food materials for "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers, so that they will bring early-maturing crops. When extra yield per acre is coupled with early maturity, extra entries are written in the bank book.

It will pay you to insist on "AA QUALITY" Fer-

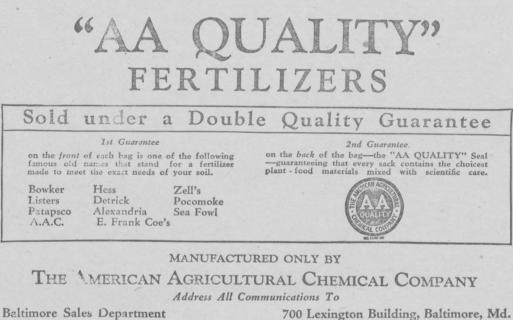

ONE AND ONE-FOURTH ACRES YIELD 9,700 HEADS OF CAB-BAGE . Mr. G. E. Biddison of Kingsville, Baltimore Courty, Md., says: "This year I bought a large, run-down farm on the Lincoln High-way and began to use 'AA QUAL-ITY' Fertilizer. I planted 1¼ acres of Savoy cabbage, not getting them in until very late. Nevertheless, I had a wonderful crop, and sold on local markets 8,000 heads, averaging 4 lbs. a head, and buried for winter about 1,700 heads. Mr. John Mondy of Littlestown, Adams County, Pa., says: "I planted one acre in to-natioes this year, and used 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer at the rate of 1,200 ibs. per acre. I gathered 20 tons of choice tomesces for which I received $14.50 per ton. I figure that by using your fertilizer I got ebout eight tons more than some other people who used other makes of fertilizer. It is a pleasure to rec-mmend 'AA QUALITY' when it will produce crops like this."—Oct. 27, 1927.

27, 1927. 100% MORE WHEAT ... Mr. W. B. Winey of Middleburg, Snyder County, Pa., says: "For the past 20 years I have been using 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizers on my farm. When I bought the farm it would grow about 15 bushels of wheat per acre, but by the use of your fertilizers I have increased its yield to 30 bush-els, and have also increased at the same rate the yield of hay of which I now get about three tons per acre. My corn crops have been averaging from 100 to 125 bushels of ear corn per acre, all of which is ex-ceptionally good. I do not use any other fertilizer as I am a firm believer in 'AA QUALITY.'"-Aug. 21, 1927.

GOOD CROP YIELDS . . . Mr. G. A. Wilson of Houston, Kent County, Del., says: "I have used your 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizers for the last 8 years and have always had good erop yields and the mechanical condition of your 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizers has always been perfect."—Oct. 13, 1927 with his fourteen to sixteen hours a day, and gran'ther, who was always "puttering" about.

Gran'ther was something of a mystery to the others. It was evident that most of his puttering had direct, tangible results, as with his asparagus and scarcely less profitable "rozberry patch" and strawberry vines. He doled out enough fruit for table use and took all the rest into town himself, hitching the old horse, which had long outlived field usefulness, to a buggy even more ancient. He never took the new buggy or one of the best horses. Old companions were most suitable, he chuckled. They were three of a kind.

What the children and their father and mother earned could be seen in food and clothing, a few school books and other things. The money their labor brought in could be accounted for in visible objects, almost to a cent. When gran'ther's fruit and asparagus disappeared at a bend in the road it was the end. He never brought anything back. He had given up the use of tobacco years before because it "cost too much."

But not one of them ever thought of Gran'ther Webster as a miser. Dear, no! The gentle-voiced old man who always had a cheery word or kindly act for others, with never a thought for himself, was the last man in the world to be miserly. Somewhere in a stocking heel or a tin box or perhaps under a loose board lay a little hoard waiting for something that gran'ther had in mind.

Prosperity was not smiling on the little rocky farm these days. The fourteen or sixteen hours, the mother's diversified labors, the children's help, all went up to make a trifle less than the living and mortgage interest and taxes. The rest went to swell the mortgage. There was only one apparent way out. It occurred to Marvin Webster more than once and was dismissed with repugnance. Mrs. Webster thought of it, and her face clouded. Even the children knew, and it was young Marvin who first spoke the thought aloud.

"We'll have to sell or rent the farm and move over to the factory village. father." he said. "We can all get jobs in the mill at good pay. The Phillins have gone and the Wilburs. The boys say it's easier than farm work and better pay."

"And a life sentence, maybe." add ed his father. "No, ho, my boy. w? won't think of that. There's an apt | New York in 1812

strangely "It's a life insurance policy," he-answered at length. "Been running for years. It's for $4,000. And on a slip of paper pinned to it gran'ther says $1,000 is for Marvin to finish his education and one for Alice to finish hers. The other two are to pay off the mortgage and to have some to put into the bank to keep off any more worry. This is why gran'ther gave up his smoking all these years. And he never told me anything about it, because he knew I was against life insurance for poor folks."

Marvin was very thoughtful the rest of the day. The next morning while they were at breakfast, he looked across at his wife.

"Gran'ther was right and I was wrong," he said. "We haven't the money, and I-I wouldn't like to use any of gran'ther's for a thing I've been against. But I think we can spare one of the horses-the big black. We'll use the money to get life insurance for us, wife."

Women Pirates Make

Appearance in China There are few professions and occupations that women of the West have not invaded. They have even tackled the steeplejack's job and tried marine engineering. It has, however, been left to the women of the East to lead the way as pioneers of piracy on the high seas.

Women have, indeed, played an important part in some of the recent piratical attacks on the West river, near Canton. One woman is said to have appeared on deck with the rest of the gang, a revolver in each hand and wearing a mask made from a handkerchief. She held up the purser in his office and threatened to shoot the rest of the crew unless he handed over the keys.

She was a Chinese woman, smartly dressed and wearing black patentleather shoes, white silk stockings, & serge skirt, and a fox fur.

When a band of river brigands were captured recently it was found that two of them were women. Fortyone of the gang were sentenced to death, but the women were spared.

agonizing pain.

To watch a drop of water when it falls is to attempt to penetrate the secret of an obscure science, the law which governs moving fluids.

The experiment best showing the action of a falling drop may be made by letting a drop of milk fall into black coffee. When the drop falls a crater forms around it and little drops are projected from the edge of the crater. After it has increased in size and in thickness the crater lowers and widens its rolling brim, while from the impact a liquid sphere, enveloped by the initial drop, collects at the top of the column. Then the column falls and disappears in the center of a circular ripple.

How to Measure Star Heat

Heat from the stars can be measured and one of the instruments used to do it contains fly wings in the shape of a tiny "vane" suspended from quartz fibers in a small mirror. When a ray of starlight, passing through a prism, is trained on the blackened wings, the vane turns the fiber and the amount of the turn is registered by the mirror that reflects another beam of light along a calibrated arc.

How Cotton Cloth Is Made

Cotton cloth is made by removing the hairs from the seeds of the cotton plant, twisting these hairs into yarn, weaving the yarns into a fabric. and applying a stiffening mixture and ironing between large rollers. The nature of the fibers used and every one of the manufacturing processes affect the value of the fabric and should be considered when a cotton cloth is being purchased.

How to Test Metals

Whether a piece of jewelry is white gold or platinum may be determined by making a test for specific gravity White gold would have a specific gravity of less than 18, and platinum would be about 21.

Put Out Dictionary The first extended dictionary of the English language was published i 1755, representing the monumental la bor of Samuel Johnson, who died De cember 12, 1784.

Doctor Johnson's dictionary, which occupied many years of his life, was the most remarkable work of its kind ever produced by a single person Noah Webster's American dictionary was first published in 1828, and Wor cester's English dictionary appeared in 1860.

The first dictionary compiler was Pa-Out-She, a scholarly gentleman of Cathay, who flourished about 1000 B. C. He perfected a standard dictionary of the Chinese language, the same containing about 40,000 characters.

One Julius Pollux compiled a Greek dictionary about A. D. 177, and pre vious to this date (about 100 B. C.) one Varro made up a Latin one. A polyglot dictionary in eight languages was compiled about 1500 by Calepini a Venetian friar. Vauglas edited the first French dictionary, issued by the French academy in 1694. A Spanish one was issued in 1726, an Italian in 1729 and a Russian one in 1789.

Big Executives Have

Their Own Troubles Amos R. Bump, assistant general sales engineer of the Killzem Rat Trap Associates, Inc., was concentrat ing. Upon his nice, clean desk was nice, clean pad, and upon that pad in a nice, clean hand Mr. Bump was writing. He paused and surveyed what he had written. Then he wrote again. Miss Wince, his secretary, padded into the room.

"Mr. Schimmel, of Schimmel, Schim mel, Schimmel & Schimmel, is here, she whispered. "He has a luncheon engagement with you."

Mr. Bump groaned. He hated having a train of thought derailed. "One interruption after another," he growled. "How is a man to find time to solve his problems?" And he stamped out to greet Mr. Schimmel. Upon that desk, on that nice, clean pad, exposed to the gaze of those who cared to observe, lay the fruit of Mr. Bump's morning endeavor. And this was the message, reading from left to right: "Amos R. Bump—A. R. Bump -A. Remington Bump."

Silk Industry Old

According to Chinese records the filament produced by the silkworm was first successfully woven by Si-Ling-Chi, empress of China, in 2700 B. C. It was not until the Sixth century that the art of making silk was introduced in Europe. In 1609 James I brought the silkworm and the mulberry tree into England and shortly after this the Company of Virginia was formed by a group of Englishmen to promote the silk industry in the United States. The first experiment met with disaster. Four years later, influenced by the crown, the colonial legislature passed an act requiring ten mulberry trees to be planted on every hundred acres. There was a fine for neglect of this duty and a premium for every pound of silk pro-et him die the death : but ve sav if a man shall say to his father or mother, it is Corban, that is to say, a gift, by whatsoever thou mightest be profited by me, he shall be free, and ye suffer him no more to do ought for his father or his mother." The law of God demands of children that they care and provide for parents in their need. According to an accepted tradition among the Jews, if a man should consecrate his goods or possessions to the Lord's service by pronouncing over them the word "Corban," which means "the gift," his goods would be thus dedicated to God, and would not be available for help to his parents. It was possible, therefore, for a man to be enjoying wealth while his parents were in destitution.

III. The Real Source of Defilement and Impurity (vv. 14-23).

1. Sin is moral and spiritual. Uncleanness before God is not of the body save as the body is directed by the soul. A man is not defiled by that which enters his mouth but by that which springs out of his soul,

2. That which springs out of the heart-the deliberate choice of the will—is the source of defilement (v.20). 3. A list of evils springing out of the heart (vv. 21, 22). The awful list is as follows:

Evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders, thefts, covetousness. wickedness, deceit, lasciviousness, an evil eye, blasphemy, pride, foolishness, which all come from within. This catalogue includes every possible form of evil. Every one of them originate in the heart and when they become acts of the will and life they defile the man. It is only when temptations and solicitations lead to indulgence by the deliberate act of the will that they corrupt a man.

Remembered Famous Jump

Little Kathryn, who was driving through the country with her uncle, clamored to be taken back to the city, claiming that there was nothing to see in the country.

"Why," said her uncle, trying to distract her attention, "see all the pretty cows over in the pasture, and they can't hurt you because there is a fence around them."

Kathryn was silent a moment and then expressed her skepticism. "Huh," she said. "A cow jumped over the moon once, so I don't see why it couldn't jump over a fence."-Children, the Magazine for Parents.

Handy Man

In this changing age of machinery, it has been aptly put by a Manhattan epigrammatist, mang hands do not make light work light. The weight of this heavy argument, he points out. lies in the fact that because of modern facilities there no longer is need for the purposeless handy man about the house or factory with his inconsequential and makeshift antics. In a word the walls no longer have just ears but amperes! Electricity is doing the work of 350,000,000 men without losing its temper, its force or its friends.

Pedestrian's Haven

Bermuda is one of the few places in the world where the pedestrian is never wrong. Here he jaywalks at will and woe betide the bicycler or the carriage driver who infringes on his freedom. The laws of the islands require that all vehicles, including bicycles, must give right of way to foot passengers, no matter on which side of the road these may be walking. The rule of the road is the opposite from what it is in America.-Bermuda Dispatch.

Causes of Eclipses

An eclipse of the sun occurs when the moon, as it moves around the earth, happens to get exactly between us and the sun. An eclipse of the moon occurs when the earth gets between the sun and the moon, the shadow of the earth falling on the moon and cutting off the sunlight from It. Therefore it is physically impossible for eclipses of the sun and moon to occur at the same time .- Exchange.

Garbage Can a Filthy,

Unnecessary Nuisance With the best municipal garbage collection, the garbage can is still a filthy, ugly nuisance. Think of it-for no more than the cost of a good radio you can rid yourself of those daily trips and banish the dangerous basement rubbish pile in the bargain. Nothing to wear out-an incinerator lasts as long as the building. No upkeep cost-no gas, coal or other fuel required.

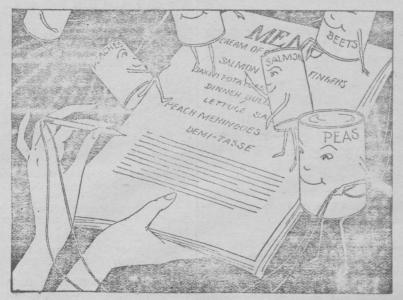

All waste-not only garbage, but tin cans, bottles, old magazines, wilted flowers and rubbish of all kinds-is simply dropped into the handy hopper door, in or near the kitchen. It connects with your regular chimney leading to a combustion chamber in the basement. Here the accumulation is air-dried and lighted occasionally. Neuritis.

Those who think "neuritis" is but a high-toned name for almost any sort of ache, or something that represents pet ailment for one to talk rather pleasurably about in order to gather donations of sympathy, display signs that may eventually lead them to a well known at 1:00 o'clock, the following personal property, to-wit: OAK BEDROOM SUITE, well known state institution near Sykesville, this county. Whatever one may think, or know, about neuritis, it is a pretty sure conclusion that he does not "know" it all, and that he is apt to "think" a lot that he would hardly dare to express, and certainly not print.

Neuritis isn't a thing to get funny over, though one is very apt to be very humorous about it—bad humorous—and especially so at night when he has gone to bed to sleep, but with such poor success as to wonder whether he ever will sleep again.

As a hanger on, it heads the list, and is noways sneaking about it, for just as soon as one dares take lib-erties with it, it promptly broadcasts "no you don't" and causes one to realize how little he is the master of his own actions, as well as how much the medical profession yet has to learn.

Asking a candidate for the Presidency whether he is wet, or dry, is silly, as compared with the importance of asking whether he is favorable to granting ten Million dollars for a guaranteed cure for this parti-cular 'itis. That would be a worthwhile platform to campaign on; and if he would also pledge him-self to use the army and navy to pursue and hang every quack that pretends to have a sure for the disease but does not have it, there would not be so much opposition then to a big-ger army and navy.

Usually, we make the first run of The Record-the 2nd., 3rd. and 6th. and 7th. pages-on Wednesday morning; but sometimes we find it more to our advantage to make the run on Tuesday, and that is the reason why we always carry the notice at the head of 2nd. page, asking for copy for these pages to be in our office Tuesday morning, in order to be guaranteed insertion. If at any time any of our patrons know that they can not give us the copy on Tuesday, and will let us know, we can likely hold off the run until Wednesday.
