PRIMARY ELECTION TO BE HELD THIS YEAR

Contests Scheduled in both of the Political Parties.

The exact status of contests can not be determined until after Monday night, the latest date for filing certificates. At least one Democrat has filed in each of the six Congressional districts, while the Republicans have no candidate, as yet in this (Second) district, nor in the first.

In this (Second) district the Democrats have three candidates for Congress—present Representative William P. Cole, who desires to succeed himself, and Dr. Thomas Cutty and Norman Kauffman.

The Democrats have another threecornered fight in the First District—present Representative Goldsborough, John H. C. Legg, and State Senator S. Scott Beck. In the other sections of the state there seems to be no need for a primary—except the primary law itself—as candidates are unop-

Carroll has seven Republican carroll has seven Republican candidates for delegates to the State Convention, when only five are to be chosen; but this is a situation that would likely be settled by agreement rather than place the county at the expense of a primary. Under the law, however, if the seven want to fight it out, their so doing will not add any-thing to the taxpayers' burden, though it may result in trouble in the

The date of the primary will be Monday, May 7th.

Schools in the Pageant.

All the public schools of Carroll County are participating enthusiastically in the Pageant of Carroll, June second will be High School day and June fourth Grammar School day. On the first day the High School Chorus of the county will sing and on the second day, the Grammar School chorus. All the graduates of the seventh grade will receive their diplomas on the field in the final episode of the pageant on Jane fourth. This is the tenth annual seventh grade exercise. Including this event, 2742 have participated since these exercises were be-

The Eisteddfod Chorus of 500 voices will be on the field in co-operation this year instead of in competition as in former years. Under the direction of Mrs. A. Earl Shipley, the following numbers will be sung: The British Grenadiers, Amaryllis, The Bonny Blue Falg, World War Songs, and the Heavens are Telling.

Prof. Philip Royer is training a selected orchestra to play the musical accompaniments to the above songs as well as for the six dances that will His program will include the Scarf Dance by Chaminade, a Schumann suite, Beethoven's Minuet in G, Dance of the hours by Ponchielli, Country Dance by Alxander MacFay-

The freshman and sophomore students of the Westminster High school are presenting a very picturesque Indian blanket dance under the direction of Miss Gladys Burns of the Peabody and Miss Dorothy Ward. Rehearsals are well under way for all features to be given by the schools. A creditable and artistic program is assured for their large share in the Pageant of Yard Improvement Contest.

Carroll County women are showing a great deal of interest in the Yard Improvement Contest conducted by Extension Service this year. Changes that will add to the attractiveness of the home are being planned. The planting of new shrubbery. the changing of roads and walks and the making of new lawns, as well as the removal of rubbage, is part of the plans of the campaign.

The following Carroll County women have enrolled: Mrs. Dorsey Diller, Detour; Mrs. Herbert Frock, Westminster; Mrs. J. William Kelbaugh, Hampstead; Mrs. Walter Kriel, Hampstead; Mrs. J. C. McKinney, Woodbine; Mrs. Paul Morelock, Westminster; Miss Marie Senseney, Union Bridge; Mrs. James Snyder, of Union Bridge; Mrs. Randall Spoerlein, New Windsor; Mrs. Homer Twigg, of Hampstead; Miss Bessie Wolfe, Union Bridge; and Miss Nellie Wooden, of Hampstead.

Eggs by Parcel Post.

Eggs can be marketed by parcel post within the first and second zones (sometimes within the third zone) with profit to the producer, who usualsecures a larger profit, and also to the consumer, who can obtain fresher eggs and often at lower prices. Parcel post shipment is useful for poultryman with a flock too small to allow making shipments by the case. To market eggs successfully by parcel post, select only first-class eggs produced under sanitary conditions. strong, light container should be used and one that meets the postal require-Each egg should be wrapped separately in soft paper, taking care, if possible, not to send eggs that are thin-shelled, defective in any way, or fertile, as fertile eggs spoil more rapidly. Do not send soiled eggs by parcel post and also avoid washed eggs. If each egg is candled, this of course avoids any possibility of shipping de-

THE COUNTY AMBULANCE For Free Use Anywhere in All of This County.

Funds are being raised in West-minster and throughout the county with which to purchase a County Ambulance, to be used when and where needed for the purpose of taking patients to Hospitals. The ambulance will be kept in the Firemen's building, Westminster, and our information is that a driver will be furnished for all calls, day or night, without charge, except such voluntary gifts as may be received.

Taneytown and other northern sections of the county will want to have part in the payment of the cost of the ambulance and equipment, which we are told is $2500.

Liberal voluntary gifts are therefore solicited and all gifts will be published. The two Banks in Taneytown, McKinney's Drug Store and The Record Office will properly handle all gifts received. Gifts should be made promptly, within the next ten days.

Mr. George E. Matthews, chairman of the committee was in Taneytown on Wednesday, and conterred Mr. Jos. A. Hemler, the chairman for Mr. Jos. A. Hemler, the chairman for that district, and a number of other citizens of Taneytown. They were all interested and will present the matter to the citizens, the Homemakers' Club and other organizations, and a generous and prompt response is

Farmers to Grade Seed Corn.

Running corn through a corn grader built especially for that purpose will go a long way toward securing a uniform stand of corn. Corn is graded for the purpose of removing the small, chaffy and uneven grains, so that the planter will make a more uniform distribution of the kernels.

The Carroll County Farm Bureau have purchased a hero corn grader which will be installed at the Farm-ers Supply Company on Liberty St. The Farmers' Supply Company have been very generous in supplying floor space where it will be unusually convenient to have grading done. This corn grader will be there for the next two weeks and during this time many farmers will have an opportunity to

It will be possible to grade your corn both early and late. It will cost you but a few minutes of time and will probably be worth a great deal. County Agent, L. C. Burns says today that grading corn is a good investment and it will do much to insure a better stand of corn.

Questions for Farmers to Answer.

Every farmer should ask himself these questions. If he can answer them all accurately and satisfactorily he is likely prosperous and contented with his lot. If not, he should get What is the size of your farm business?

What part of your investment is in land, buildings, livestock, machinery, and other capital?

Are your crops properly proportioned for greatest returns?

How do your crop yields compare with the average yields of the locality. What classes of livestock return you the most money? How do the returns from your livestock compare with the average of your locality? How many acres of crops do you raise per man? Per horse

Is your farm so organized that each part of the business is yielding satisfactory returns?

How much have you left for your own labor after deducting from your total receipts your year's expenses, value of labor, performed by members of your family, and interest on your investment? How much does the farm contribute toward your family living? Farmers' Bulletin No. 1139-F, published by the United States Department of Agriculture, is designed to help you answer these questions intelligently. Then if the answers are not satisfactory you can more readily find the strong and weak points in your system of management and make such changes that the answers next year to the same questions will prove more satisfactory. This bulletin includes blanks for the compilation of an analysis of the farm business as a whole and in its parts, and the authors explain how the spaces may be filled and the summaries made. It is mailed on request to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Marriage Licenses.

BOARD OF EDUCATION MEETING

A Large Number of important Items Given Attention.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was called to order at 10:15 A. M., on Wednesday, April 4, 1928, in the office of the Board. Commissioner Zepp was ab-

The minutes of the previous meeting were approved as read.

Black's, raised $20.00 books; Brown, raised $19.00, books; Walnut Grove, raised $10.00 books; Linwood, raised $25.00, books; Piney Creek, raised $17.00, books; Medford, raised $12.00 books; Fairmount, raised $10.00 books; Sykesville, (colored) raised $10.00 victrola. The Board gave a hearing to the proposition presented through Professor Isanogle of the College, whereby the College proposes to furnish part time supervisors for the high schools of Carroll County to supervise class room procedure along with the stu-dent practice training. This proposition was to include authority from the Board to do this supervising and a request that the Board carry a part of the expense. After careful consideration, the Board decided to authorize the authority for the part time supervision, the details of which are to be worked out by the Superintendent, and agreed to carry one half of the traveling expenses for one year, subject to reconsideration at that time. A delegation stating that it represented the Parent-Teacher Association of Union Bridge came before the Board proposing certain desirable plots of land for consideration by the Board for a new school at Union Bridge. The Board heard the pro-posal but took no action. The committee on land for Union Bridge was directed to give the matter further consideration and report back to the Board at its next meeting.

The Board approved the following items for insertion in the budget:

(a) Tin roof for Hampstead.
(b)' Concreting of basement at (c) Partitioning in basement at

(d) Pump and well top at Union-

(e) New car for attendance officer. A proposition was laid before the Board by the people of Finksburg who request that a macadam road be laid into the school from the state road. The County Commissioners authorized them to inform the Board of Education that if the amount of funds would be put in the budget, the County Commissioners would grant it. This placed the responsibility of building the road on the Board of Education. The Board refused to accept the proposition and authorized the Superintendent to notify the Finks-burg community to that effect. The Superintendent reported the fact that the furnace at Charles Carroll had developed a crack and had to be welded, and that the plumbing had gone bad and had to be attended to. The matters have been attended to and the Board approved the matter and authorized the cost to be placed in the special item to be laid before the County Commissioners at the end of the school year. The Superintendent suggested that in view of that there is no playground in Westminster large enough to accommodate the athletic meet on May 12, that we hold the next athletic meet on the Fair Grounds in Taney-This proposition was approved.

The Board accepted the invitation of the Hampstead School to take lunch at its next meeting on May 2, in the Hampstead School, at 1:00 P. M. The Board adjourned at 12:30 P. M.

"Chancing" and "Drawing."

We again ask the reading of the article on Second Page, on chance schemes; not only by business men, out by those who practice "chancing off" articles, perhaps for worthy objects. These are Postal laws, but they have been sustained by the Supreme Court, and if the mails are prohibited from carrying "lottery" announce ments, it is a pretty sure thing that chancing" or "drawing"—forms of gambling-should not be engaged in things to think about, to notice by anybody. Most of the practices whether they're cold or comfortable. are also prohibited by state laws.

SEED CORN SELECTION Most Important Task for all Corn

Few farm tasks give better returns for the time and effort expended than the careful selection of seed corn, says F. W. Oldenburg, specialist in agronomy for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

With a little experience a farmer can soon learn to select good seed corn quickly and accurately, he claims. The well-formed medium sized ears, typical of the variety to be grown are the best for seed purposes. The ears should be relatively heavy with bright well-formed grains free from external signs of disease.

The cob should be carefully examined. If the ear is a healthy one, the cob will be white inside. The grains should be fairly large, free from molds and checks, well matured with plump tips and having good depth and medium indentation. The backs should be glossy, free from soft starch and blisters and the germs should be plumb and creamy white.

The grans from the butts and tips of the selected ears should be shelled by hand and discarded. Better still, the butts and tips of the ear may be cut off with a sharp corn knife so that the internal condition of the cob can be observed.

A half dozen kernels should be removed from various parts of the ear and examined by cutting across the germ. Ears with dead germs should be discarded. Mouldy kernels or cobs, shrunken, blistered or checked kernels and dull, soft, starchy kernels are to be avoided in selecting seed corn.

Ears with rotted or shredded shank attachments, those with cobs badly discolored internally and those seriously injured by mice should also be

After seed corn has been finally selected two grains from each ear should be tested for germination. If ninety-five percent. or more of the grains produce vigorous sprouts the seed should be safe for planting. If the germination test shows less than ninety percent of vigorous sprouts a regular germination test of each ear should be made and all ears discarded that do not show perfect germina-

PRESIDENT MAY VETO TWO BILLS.

Farmer Legislation and Flood Control much in doubt.

President Coolidge announced, on Tuesday, that if the flood control and farm relief measures come to him in their present shape, he will veto them Just what effect the announcement will have, is problematic, but the outlook is that the bills will both be passed, notwithstanding his opposi-tion, but efforts are being made to attach further amendments that will remove some of the objections.

The flood bill now carries $1,500,000,000, or four or five times as much as originally, and more than the Treasury can bear, it is claimed, and none of the sum is to be paid by the states benefitted. It is also now stated that the bill wil help hundreds of large land owners who will greatly profit by the bill, and who can well afford to pay part of the cost. In effect, the measure has become a 'pork' bill because it would grab money to help private enterprises and land of no present value.

The paramount objection of the President to the McNary-Haugen Farm Relief bill, now being debated in the Senate, is that it contains the equalization fee provision. It was this provision which was mainly responsible for the Coolidge veto a little more than a year ago.

It was pointed out at the White House that this provision was found unconstitutional a year ago; that nothing had occurred in the meanwhile to make it constitutional, and that the Coolidge views as outlined in the veto message had undergone no change whatever.

In respect to both farm and flood measures, the White House deplored the fact that some means could not be found which would give the coun-try reasonable relief in both directions without running head-on into the Constitution in one direction, and enormous and excessive appropriations in the other.

The farm bill passed the Senate, on Thursday, 53 to 23, on a split party vote, 24 Republicans, 28 Democrats, and 1 Farm Labor vote being for, and 14 Republicans and 9 Democrats being against. Both Maryland Senators voted against. It is thought that this bill can be passed, even if vetoed. The House has not yet acted.

The flood control measure is still likely to be amended so as to provide for local contributions. If not, the chances of overcoming a veto seem Millions Yearly from Autoists.

The great increase in the mileage of Maryland roads in recent years, the increase in traffic necessitating improvements that would not otherwise have been undertaken, and the de-mands of Marylanders for an efficient highway system, are reasons advanced yesterday by John N. Mackall, chairman of the State Roads Commission, for the millions of dollars collected each year from motorists.

Direct levies on motorists through gasoline taxes, license fees and fines will amount to more than $7,000,000 this year. Besides this taxpayers generally will pay for about $1,500,000 in State road bond issues and Federal appropriations.

The net total of all funds collected for city, state and federal governments in all forms of taxation, for construc-tion and maintenance of roads in Maryland, will run close to $10,000,000.

Mr. Mackall pointed out that from this fund the State maintains 2,600 miles of highway, builds approximately 150 miles of new roads each year and reconstructs and widens others where traffic warrants. The city maintains and rebuilds about 900 miles of highways. The city's expenditure for new paving cannot be estimated until the close of a year because of methods of assessments and appropriations for meeting this cost. year the city built about fifty-three miles of new roads at an average of about $30,000 a mile.—Balt. HOOVER AND SMITH

The Primaries So far held Indicates their Nomination. Gov. Smith's victory in Iowa over Edwin T. Meredith "favorite son" is the first big indication assuring his nomination on the first or second ballot. The victory in Iowa is regarded as significant, as Meredith is both a Protestant, and dry.

Meredith claims, however, that Smith has not carried the "state" but that delegates are elected by districts, and he will receive some of them.

A Hoover boost came this week in a notice from President Coolidge that he did not propose to allow "stickers" with his name-on, in the Massachusetts primary, which is practically equivalent to giving the state's 39 votes to Hoover.

Rhode Island lined up for Hoover, on Monday. It seems assured that in some of the Southern states, Smith is unquestionably second choice, and as the party has no one strong outstanding candidate against Smith, he seems to be sure to win, on second, if not first ballot. According to the votes actually tabulated, so far, as the result of primaries or state conventions, both Hoover and Smith practically have run-away leads.

In the Republican upset that occurred in Illinois, on Tuesday, that included the repudiation of Frank L. Smith, for Senator, and also Mayor Thompson, Hoover will apparently have one-third of the state's delegates and Lowden two-thirds, which will temporarily reduce Hoover's lead.

In Case of Fire.

Everybody ought to keep their insurance policies, and all other valuable papers, at a safe, as well as easy to get at place, and save them in case of fire.

Silverware, not generally in use, should be kept in a box, or package, and be one of the first things to save.

The better clothing of the family should not be forgotten. At present prices, such items are never well covered by insurance.

There are always family relics that can not be covered by a money value.

Save them if possible. Jewelry, watches, and small articles of value, are easily handled—think of these rather than of heavy goods. It is important that suit cases, or bags, be kept at known places ready to be picked up in a moment. Fill these with small items. No one expects a fire, but every-body may have one without warning; therefore, have a well thought out plan of just what you would do in such an event, and with as little excitement as possible, carry out the There is nothing quite so comforting, when a fire occurs, as the knowledge of the fact that you carry a proper amount of insurance in a good

Owing to this bitterness of flavor, it is a good plan to combine the dandelion greens with other vegetables or flavors which modify it. The plan of cooking these greens in several waters is not recommended much of the valuable mineral matter is thrown away, vitamins are destroyed, and the greens are overcooked. Money Spending in Political Campaigns.

The probability is that the coming Presidential campaign will be noticably free from big contributions of money, at least so far as National Committees are concerned. The developments of the past year point in if price-fixing should do more harm this direction; but that little money will be spent, is hardly likely, unless pealed. indeed it may yet be possible to pass and enforce stringent laws covering expenditures.

As indicating the likelihood of the smaller use of money, it is said that practically none has been spent by any candidate thus far, in order to secure delegates, or to set up wroking headquarters, and this is no doubt responsible for the lack of pre-convention shouting, and the apparent lack of enthusiasm, so far, for any candidate.

But, this must be considered. The "oil" money was spent after the Harding campaign, to make up a big deficit. Admittedly it was not used as a slush fund to influence the election; and a big lot of campaign money never gets into the campaign at all, but drops into the bottom of the pockets of a lot of fellows who have the handling of it.

Just how laws can be made to cover and prevent small individual subscriptions, spent in states and districts through local channels, it is difficult to understand. Certainly, there will be a big parade of plans to prevent money spending, but there is likely to be more in the "parade" than in the acmoney for legitimate expenses-and, there is a safety in it.

ous, Lack of enthusiasm stands for the results of drawings. lack of public interest, and the danger underhand work. So, it is not so much an evil that large sums are spent, as it is "how" they are spent. A lot of pius preaching developed following both the Smith and Vare fles" and "drawings," and thereby incases, as to the bigness of the expenditures, but little or no evidence was brought out that the money was spent for buying votes, or for corruption in the count.

Let us have action and publicity, and plenty of it, even if it costs money; and there ought to be enough enthusiasm in both parties to supply it. The job is worth it, and this is is best not to indulge in any near atan era of high costs in politics, as | tempts to "get around" the laws. well as in other lines of activity. There is more safety than danger in legitimate money spending in big campaigns.

Unemployment.

The big question is, whether there is a big percentage of unemployed labor in this country because there is not enough work to be done, or The big question is, whether there not enough work to be done, or whether the unemployed are themselves responsible by refusing to work except at higher wages than employers can profitably give?

This question is brought forward in a new light now, because there is a bill before Congress to restrict emigration from Mexico. The sponsors of the bill say that it is the utmost folly to permit more emigration, while there is not enough work for those already here, while the Southwest is asking.

"If Mexican labor is restricted, who is going to do the work? It has been abundantly demonstrated for twenty years, season after season, that white labor, in the quantity and quality desired, can not be found to do the kind of work necessary for harvest-ing cotton and the vegetable crops."

Right here is likely the big trouble. Business has slacked up; and farming needs help-cheaper labor perhaps being one of the helps. Building and hig contract work has also slacked, waiting for the reduced costs that nobody wants to start, unless guaranteed that living costs will also be reduced.

With cheaper labor, the probability is that there would be no unemployment-except among the big crowd that does not like honest work at any or chance," as used in that section, in-time. This Mexican question is but | clude the old one of cheap labor resisted by the high priced labor, but wanted by industrialists.

The President Should Sign Farmer Bill.

Congress may be "playing politics" with the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill. It may be unconstitutional; and it may be a bad case of class-legislation and price-fixing that may lead to -nobody knows where. But with all of these possibilities, we think the President should sign the bill, and place the responsibility on Congress where it belongs.

Our long time belief has been that the Presidential veto should be rarely used; that the legislative, rather than the executive, department of our government should be responsible for legislation. That is what we have a Congress for.

If the measure is a bid for the big vote of western farmers, and to appease the anti-administration wing of the Republican party—the so-called "insurgents"-without being based on sound finance or equitable principles of government, the veto would seem to be justified.

If the bill is unconstitutional, that could be found out before the operation of it would go into effect. And than good, then the bill could be re-

On the whole, there is so much uncertainty as to the bill as to how it will work out; yet at the same time so many members of Senate and House voting for it-because they are afraid not to do so-that we believe the President would be fully justified in signing it-in calling the scheme of those who, for one reason or another would "pass the buck" to him.

Dependence on the veto power, may easily become an overworked evil. Sign the bill, Mr. President, and let its makers bear the responsibilityor share the glory.

The tax cut, and the flood relief bill are pieces of the same cloth. Cutting taxes before a Presidential election is popular, and Congressmen want pieces of the credit for it. Flood relief is the same—spend the money, and take care of results after the election is over.

Lotteries and all Chance Enterprises.

Only Five Holidays Universal in States

With all the many holidays which bless this country, it comes as a surprise to learn that there are actually only five days in the year which are celebrated everywhere in the United States and its possessions. These are New Year's day, Washington's birthday, the Fourth of July, Thanksgiving day and Christmas. The states have other holidays. The tally is inter-

Labor day has the greatest popularity, being observed in 46 states; election day comes next with 43; Memorial day follows with 38; Columbus is honored by 35; Lincoln by 26, and Armistice day by 23. In the South the birthdays of Jefferson Davis and Robert E. Lee are still observed by 10 and 9 states, respectively, and 4 of the southern states celebrate April 26, the date of the surrender at Appomattox, as Confederate Memorial day.

Making Tidal Predictions

The machine used for predicting with brains of brass." This machine, the air!" which weighs about 2,500 pounds, is about 11 feet long, 2 feet wide and 6 feet high. It was conceived, designed and constructed in the office of the coast and geodetic survey and put in operation about 1910 and has been used continuously for tidal predictions by the government. This machine is designed to calculate simultaneously the 37 factors that go to make up the tide. These factors depend upon the relative position of the sun, moon and earth and also upon the shape and size of the harbor through which the predictions are made.

Famous Old Church

The Trinity church (Boston) corner stone was laid in 1734, as an outgrowth of King's chapel. The first building was of wood, 90 feet long and 60 feet broad, without any external ornament, neither tower, steeple nor window in the lower story of the front of the building. There were three entrances in front, with neither arch nor porch. The inside, in contrast with the exterior, was very handsome, the paintings and arches considered the finest in the city. It was supplanted by the granite structure supplanted by the granite structure in 1828, with a noble square tower. This was destroyed by fire in 1872 and rebuilt.

Millions of Model T Fords are still in active service

FOR nearly twenty years, the Model T Ford led the motor industry and it still is used by more people than any other automobile. More than eight million Model T Fords are in active service today—an indication of their sturdy worth, reliability and economy.

Because of the tremendous investment which people have in these cars and because so many of them will be driven for two, three, and even five more years, the Ford Motor Company will continue to make replacement parts until, as Henry Ford himself says, "the last Model T is off the road."

For the Ford Motor Company has always believed that its full duty consists not only in making a good automobile at a low price, but also in keeping it running efficiently for you as long as possible at a minimum of expense.

No matter where you live, therefore, you can still buy Model T Ford parts with the same assurance as formerly, knowing that they will give you the kind of service you have a right to expect, and at the same time protect the money you have invested in your car.

All Ford replacement parts, as you may know, are made of the same materials and in the same way as those from which your car was originally assembled, and are low in price because of the established Ford policy.

So that you may get the greatest use from your Model T Ford over the longest period of time, we suggest that you take the car to the nearest Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of any replacement parts which may be necessary. You may find that a very small expenditure will maintain the value of your car and will be the means of giving you thousands of miles of additional service.

Didn't Know Him

Margie, aged five, was surprised when, after her mother read her a story from a humor column, she told the little girl the story was about her self. The story told briefly of Margie's interest in birthdays and how on Feb ruary 22, when her older brother told her that it was George Washington's birthday, Margie had asked excitedly: "What did he get?" And her mother had insisted that she was the little girl that made the remark, Margie said, disgustedly, "Why, mother. I didn't say that. I don't even know George Washington!" - Indianapolis

Time to Be Cautious

The commonly accepted explanation of the saying, "Beware of Greeks bearing gifts," is to be cautious in trusting persons who introduce their proposals or requests with gifts. The origin of the saying is a matter of dispute, but it is traced by some authorities to Virgil's statement, Aeneid, II 49. "I fear the Greeks, even when they bring gifts." Presumably this referred to the wooden horse stratagem at the siege of Troy.

CRISP NEWS TO CIGAR SMOKERS, 5c

One nickel. It won't break you, and it won't make us. But it will bring you some real news about cigars—and Havana Ribbon in particular. Not that this thirty-year-old cigar hasn't always been clearly at the head of five-cent cigars. But Havana Ribbon today carries a story of quality and money value never before attained in the history of 5-cent cigars: It's ripe tobacco.

Ripe tobacco (the full-flavored middle leaves of the plant) gives a cigar a true, mellow-mild flavor you can't mistake. Long filler keeps the tobacco in the cigar-and out of your mouth (no short, loose ends). Not another cigar made that combines these two great features with such completeness for the money! Popularity has done it. Millions being smoked. Immense production has brought manufacturing costs down and quality up. Try Havana Ribbon and get the startling significance of these facts direct. A nickel is all that stands between you and a pleasant supprise a pleasant surprise.

Every Boy Needs a Dog

Every boy should grow up with a dog, for the association thereby will make of the boy a fairer, kinder, tru er man, some day, when he becomes a man. He will learn to love fairness, justice and mercy, just as he will come to hate meanness, cruelty and cowardice, through daily contact with his big-eyed, shaggy-coated, un derstanding friend. If the boy un happily is vicious, intemperate, or destructive, he will find in his voiceless associate a wordless rebuke for the sins of his commission. It is the inevitable way of a dog with a boy, and the dog knows, moreover, because through him the infinite forces of the universe are functioning as freely as the wind through winter trees.-David Arnold Balch in the New Age Illustrated.

No Way of Avoiding the "Madding Crowd"

We can never get people out of our eye. Wherever we go they are with us, great crowds of them. They have filled up the subway before we arrive. They have packed the elevated train before we get there. They have jammed every store before we decide to go shopping. If we go into a bank we are compelled to stand in line. If we want to buy a theater ticket we stand in line. If we want to buy a bunch of radishes we stand in line. No matter where we go there are a hundred people ahead of us. They swarm like the frogs and locusts of ancient Egypt. Egypt had ten plagues. We have only one, the plague of people. We could get on better with them if they were not so close to us. They elbow us and jostle us and shove us and step on us. Even when we get them out of our eye they tarry in our ear. When we go into the inner chamber and shut the door, we cannot shut it tight enough to keep out the sounds of people. We hear them day and night. "Night" is only a poetic expression, for New York city is like the New Jerusalem. There is no night there. A Biblical writer informs us that once upon a time there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour. No one has ever made such a statement about New York .-Rev. Charles E. Jefferson in the North American Review.

Berlin Chemist Finds

Cure for Rickets

Berlin.—A radical cure for rickets is said to have been found in milk treated with ultraviolet rays in an apparatus constructed by the chemist, Doctor Schoell.

In the apparatus Doctor Schoell was able to subject any desirable quantity of fresh milk in a vacuum to the ultraviolet rays from a quartz lamp, succeeding for the first time in keeping the taste and smell of the milk unchanged. With the milk so prepared numerous children with rickets at the University hospital of Frankfurt-on-Main were fed and completely cured in from four to six weeks. The advantage of his method of treatment is said to lie in its cheapness and in the facility with which practically unlimited quantities of milk may be prepared for wholesale consumption.

The Lesson

If youth, with all its progressiveness and buoyancy, could only learn one great lesson that comes with ad vancing years, so much disillusion ment and unhappiness would be pre vented. If youth could only learn, while it is still youth, that there are certain fundamental things which it cannot do and "get away with," certain things that must be done and must not be done, certain things that tial, half the tears of boyhood and girlhood would never flow.-Grove Patterson, in the Mobile Register.

Sun to Heat Things Up 15 Trillion Years More

Washington. - The world needn't worry for 15,000,000,000,000 years about the sun failing to give forth its heat, in the opinion of Dr. Charles G. Abbot, noted astrophysicist and secretary of the Smithsonian institu-

The sun is reducing in mass, but scientists estimate that it will take that long for it to be destroyed. The present belief, he explains, is that the sun and stars furnish their tremendous amount of energy through actual annihilation of the atoms of which they are composed. Recent research, he said, has disclosed that the sun sends out an amount of energy which would equal. if translated into mechanical work one horse power a square yard over the surface of a sphere having a radius of 93,000,000 miles, its distance from the earth.

Sacrifice Ever Part of World's Progress Progress is the result of experiment and sacrifice, and all submarine and air disasters are courageous efforts to overcome the obstacles which hinder scientific development, explains an edtorial in Liberty. "If v disaster is big enough it anestherizes the mind," continues the editorial. "We understand one death better than six or six hundred. So, when a dirigible falls, a transatlantic flyer is lost, or a submarine is wrecked, there comes the protest that all this must be stopped. "We venture another point of view. When these pioneers are killed, much as we regret their death, we are proud that such men have lived. Without their courage progress would stop, for progress is nearly always dangerous. "The voice of the defeatists," concludes the editorial, "should not be the governing voice. There were defeatists in Paris at the turning point of the war. There were defeatists in Columbus' crews, and in Magellan's. They all wanted to turn back. What if they had had their way?"

Lendon Zoo Walrus

London.—"Old Bill." a walrus at the London zoo, ate bimself to death. He had the most rav enous appetite of any animal :: ever known here, and consumed more food than three ordinary elephants.

"Old Bill's" favorite relish was fish. It cost the zoo au thorities more than a pound sterling (about $5) a day to keep the wolf of hunger from Old Bill's tank while an ele phant may be fed for less than a third of that amount.

It is the fish eaters at the zor which run up the cost of the commissary department. Sea iii lions, too, cost more to feed than elephants. The bill for a sea tion's fish is about £160 a year while an elephant may be kept fat and sassy for about £120 a year.

Meat for the zoo land lions costs less than 2 shillings, or about 50 cents a day a head

USE AIRPLANES TO SMUGGLE ALIENS IN

U. S. Is Perplexed by New Problem of Border.

Washington.-Smuggling of aliens across the Mexican border by airplane is becoming an increasingly perplexing problem to the immigration service, George J. Harris, assistant United States commissioner general of immigration, told the press.

Lack of facilities to check this open avenue of illegal immigration, increasing use of airplanes, and the immensity of the Mexican border were cited by Harris as some of the difficulties facing the service in combating alien smuggling by air.

"It is a big problem," Harris said, "and because the border patrol has no planes, we are practically helpless. "At present there is nothing we can do about it except to keep a constant watch and attempt, if possible. to obtain information of the movements of planes transporting aliens.

Operations Increase. "The operations of air smugglers are growing steadily in extent and volume and there is every reason to believe the problem will become greater within a short time because of the increasing use of the airplane. "The patrol border consists of about 300 men, assigned to cover nearly 2,-000 miles of frontier, comprising some of the most rugged and inaccessible territory in the world. "The patrol, using horses, automobiles and motorcycles, could hardly be expected to cope with airplanes in so vast a district."

The Mexican border, Harris explained, offers every opportunity for smuggling aliens into the United States by plane. The usual method, he said, is to start from a point about 25 to 50 miles below the border before dawn, landing in some isolated spot on the flat floor of the desert, where the planes are met by automo-

Harris said the department has captured only a few air smugglers. One plane with three Chinese was captured March 20 last year when forced to land for lack of gas near San Bernardino, Calif.

Canadian Border Rugged. "We found," he said, "this plane had left the vicinity of Mexicali, Mexico, at about 4:30 a.m. on the day it was captured, with the obvious idea of landing the Chinese in the Mojave desert, near Muroc, Calif.

"Our investigation revealed an automobile was to take the Chinese to San Francisco. The plane and its occupants were taken into custody when they landed."

Harris said he could not estimate the number of aliens being brought in this manner into the United States by airplane.

"We have reason to believe, however, that the number coming through in this manner is steadily increasing. "The situation along the Canadian border is not so bad, because of the Enghien-le-Bains, a suburban town north of Paris, where the casino is closed, used its tourist taxes for a sewer. Other towns have diverted their beautification funds into all sorts of normal funds so as to lighten local taxation.

A national tourist association that put over the tourist tax idea now is criticizing it. It mentions that 17,-000,000 francs are collected from tourists, but that there is little to show for the money in the way of improvements calculated to encourage tour-

French Census Shows 100,000,000 Population

Paris.—The census held a year ago in all the French colonies has just been published, revealing that there are slightly more than 100,000,000 souls living under the Tricolor.

France herself has a little more than 40,000,000 population. Algeria, Tunis and Morocco have a combined total of 12,454,000, of whom there are more than a million Europeans. Indo-China adds 20,000,000 and the great French territories forming a belt through the middle of darkest Africa are inhabited by almost 20,000,000 negroes. French West Africa counts another 13,000,000.

While the population of France remains rather stationary, the inhabitants of all the colonies are increasing. If the present rate of increase is maintained, their population will double itself in 50 years.

Too True London.-The advice of George Bernard Shaw to foreigners is that they avoid learning to speak English correctly. "If you do," he says, "no one will understand you."

Neil Hamilton

Neil Hamilton, "movie" star, is a native of Lynn, Mass. It was the plan of his parents in his early life to prepare him for the priesthood. He had studied at several theological schools, but gave up the idea and joined a stock company in New York city, and after much success turned his attention to motion pictures. He is 5 feet 11 inches in height, weighs 155 pounds and has dark brown hair and eyes.

Uncommon Sense

LABELS

I YOU don't want to be bothered with thinking about a man, just attach a label to him. It is one of the most effective means of curtailing thought that has ever been devised. Suppose that in the course of a conversation the name of a brilliant young author bobs up. You don't like the fellow and you don't want to admit that his works are profound.

So you say "He's immoral." And there's an end of the matter. The fact that the man is immoral puts his works beneath your notice. Suppose comebody else has a scheme for profit-sharing which he thinks could be applied to your business. As sume his arguments are sound and he has been able to show you that it would be to your own interest to give the plan a trial. But you don't want to worry about it.

"The plan's radical," you reply. And you thenceforth cease thinking about

During the World war it became the fashion to dismiss doctrines or ideas with which we did not agree with such labels as unpatriotic, Red. pro-German, un-American, antireligicus and so on. If our arguments aganist such ideas were weak the labels were always capable of discrediting them. Such labels have a sinister connotation which, to many minds, is amply sufficient to bring into disrepute the object to which they are applied. The label may mean little or nothing. Ye: for many unthinking persons it has a vague and terrible significance.

How many of us, for instance, un derstand what the label "unpatriotic"

Even when a label may seem to fit its object it is totally beside the point. Take the label "immoral" which is such a favorite nowadays.

Does the fact that a composer disregards the prevailing customs of his day detract one bit from the beauty of his music? Suppose the label fits the man. What has that got to do with his music?

Be liberal with labels if you don't want to think. They are at least a means of averting wear and tear on

* ANNOUNCING Our Annual Anniversary Sale

The Story in a Nut Shell

Forty-three years ago the founders of our firm came to Gettysburg and established a Dry Goods Department on our present site. During these years we have grown by steady stages to our position as the leading store of this community. You, our customers, have made this growth possible. Without you we could not have existed and we thank you.

Birthday Party

In celebration of this event we will have a threeday Birthday Party to which you and all your relatives and friends are cordially invited. There will be a feast of bargains that you cannot afford to miss.

Anniversary Sale Prices

Every department of our store will be represented with numerous items marked for quick selling during three big days. WE WILL OFFER DURING THIS SALE ONLY SPRING AND SUMMER MER-CHANDISE. THIS is not to be a clearance of old goods but a sale of just what you are wanting and needing right now.

Better Yet

Two boys were discussing sport. "How high can you jump?" asked

"About four feet," replied the other. "What can you do?" "Five feet," came the prompt reply.

"How about the long jump?" "Ten feet. What can you do?" "Eleven feet. What's your time for

SHE WAS SENSIBLE SALLY

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

SABEL HOLLIS came breathlessly down the aisle just as the train was starting.

"I thought I'd never get here," she said as she sank in the seat beside Sally Johnson. "In the first place I overslept. Then my hair snarledand-oh, you know how it is when you are rushing to catch the early train. In desperation I called across to Frederick Linn and asked him to bring me. I happened to see him just as he was getting into his car to go downtown."

Sally Johnson looked out of the window with a little sigh. Even the name of Frederick Linn had power to stir her. But she knew that to him she was just Sensible Sally, the girl he had gone to school with, had drawn on his sled and supplied with licorice sticks. No, there was no novelty or romance in her for Frederick, Sally

As the train sped on she listened to Isabel's tireless chatter while her own mind was concerned with a dozen anxieties. She was a little tired, too, for she had arisen at five o'clock in order to prepare breakfast for her father and her two younger brothers. Mother was ailing, as usual. Mether's lack of health made life rather difficult for Sally, who not only taught in the Westville high four days a week but was obliged to do housework for the remaining two days. For Sally this Saturday outing to the city should have proved a well-deserved pleasure, but the truth was she was wendering if she would be able to squeeze out the necessary purchases from the small amount in her purse.

Isabel, on the other hand, had had her purse filled by an indulgent fa ther. Isabel, the lovely and modish was a veritable lily of the field who toiled not nor had need to toil. Some times Sally envied Isabel, though she was brave enough to possess calm centent ordinarily.

Arrived at the city terminal Isabel hailed a cab and they motored elegantly to the shopping district. Sally, however, paid her own way and tried not to begrudge her good half dollar. From place to place they flitted.

Isabel buying as she pleased, Sally resisting temptations, but seeing everything with an even more discriminating glance than was her companion's.

"I don't see how yeu can pass this monogrammed note paper!" Isabel exclaimed.

"I must get essentials first," Sally replied.

"Oh, essentials! They're only the crust to the pie. Such things as this note paper are the meringue."

Sally, unperturbed, watched her friend purchase three different tints of the exquisite paper. An hour later Isabel, flushed and shining-eyed, sought Sally as she was buying socks and neckties. "Come help me to decide on this dress," Isabel commanded. "I want your opinion, Sally." Sally had but one opinion to give-that the frock of soft brown lace and georgette with bands of rich dark fur was quite the loveliest thing she had ever seen. The price made her wince. but Isabel regarded it calmly. "It's just the thing for Lucy More's party tonight, isn't it?" she asked. "Just the thing," answered Sally. Isabel bought the dress. At lunch she could talk of nothing but her various purchases. "I got a hat to match my dress and shoes and stockings, and a little string of jade beads to give the needed touch of color. That makes me think; my kid sister has been teasing for beads. Well, I'll take her a box of candy. As for the others, they'll just have to go this time. I've spent all my money on myself." She laughed a little.

Sally, who had bought socks and neekties for dad and the boys, an eagerly desired book for mother, a package of bright wools for busy-fingered Aunt Grace and a small remembrance for old Mrs. Beach, the Dall twins and poor little Julia Graham. had had to scrimp a good deal on her own purchases. She was wearing the hat she had bought, a plain dark felt, and instead of getting a dress outright she had purchased the material with the intention of letting Miss Holmes fashion it into a dress. Dear Miss Holmes often found her clever hands idle nowadays with her former customers flying to ready-mades.

The train was late. Upon reaching home Sally, very tired and singularly depressed, left the family to rejoice over her gifts while she flew to dress for the party. Somehow she hated to go to that party. She was too tired to stay out until midnight and besides -yes, she had to admit to herself that she hated to wear again her little white flannel, many times cleaned and pressed, and only moderately responsive to fresh touches of black with which she had tried to enliven it.

All day she had been tempted to fling discretion to the winds and heap all her money upon an enchanting purchase—a certain little gray silk which had beckoned her unaccountably. With her red-gold hair she would have looked well enough in that gray silk to match even Isabel's glowing brunette beauty in the pulebrown frock. Not that it would have mattered, for she was convinced that Frederick Linn had settled upon (sabel. Who could blame him? He had his way to make and Isabel with her over expenses, money and charm could go far toward helping him to the success he coveted.

Sally was late in appearing at Lucy More's, for before she appeared there she had to distribute the little gifts for her neighbors. The sight of old Mrs. Beach beaming over her foreignlooking packages of tea, of the Dall twins shouting with pleasure over the simple toys and poor little lame Julia flushing with delight over the little mah jongg set compensated Sally for the old white flannel, and she arrived at Lucy's vivid with the warmth of

She found a shivering group about the fireplace where a fire refused to burn. Something had gone wrong with the heating plant, Lucy explained, and the best she could do was to furnish scarves and wraps for her girl friends. Outside a white frost gathered and within the temperature sank lower and lower. The card tables were thrust aside and romping games were played, while the elder Mores hastened to provide hot cocoa in the place of the chilly refreshments designed for the party. Isabel refused to mar her costume by wearing either scarf or shawl and braved it out in spite of visible gooseflesh. Sally in her white flannel was warm enough, and in her desire to help Lucy out of a bad situation expressed every bit of the real charm and wit that was hers. Frederick Linn watched her with growing admiration and appreciation.

As a result he walked home with her instead of Isabel.

"What a sensible Sally you are!" he said. And then added with deep earnestness: "I believe you're the girl I want after all. Will you consider me, dear, as-as-as-?"

"Yes, I will. But I think you had better take time to think it over, Frederick. You're rather impulsive, you know," returned Sally, although her heart was bounding with joy.

"Impulsive perhaps, but awfully 'sot in my ways,' as old Mrs. Beach says, Sally. Once I've made up my mind, nothing ever changes me. And -I've made up my mind," declared Frederick, "that I'm really madly in love with you. Sally."

"As for that I-" Sally began to say, and paused. For being Sensible Sally she was not going to tell Frederick everything.

Chinese Beggars Use Snake to Compel Gifts

Begging is a thoroughly organized profession in China and the beggers' guilds are powerful organizations. The beggar lives in indescribable squalor, but often he is destitute in name and appearance only. The guilds wield a powerful influence, especially in the interior provinces. By a form of blackmail, they collect "flowery dues" from such persons as they are able to abstract them from. They pick out a possible victim and if he refuses their demands he is pursued until he is compelled to submit or is broken by the efforts of the guild. The head of one of these guilds, in explaining the presence of a basket full of snakes in the courtyard of the guild headquarters, said: "Some of our members find these snakes useful in collecting their flowery dues from greedy-hearted ones. To dwell upon the fierce love of money in men, and especially in women, weighs down the spirit. Often the tao-'an has to throw a snake round a woman's neck before she will drop her grudging gift. The act invariably arouses in those who behold it so great a degree of terror that they quickly avoid similar inconvenience."

"Well," said the husband, "if you want to know, her name is Smith, but of course I couldn't introduce 'Miss Smith' to you and have you feel like giving us the merry ha ha and perhaps asking her what her real name

When Aaron Burr returned to America from Europe in his later years, his outlook was drab indeed. His wife was dead; his only daughter had been lost at sea; his fortune was gone and he was an outcast. Facing such misfortune, it seems incredible that he could engage in a lively courtship, yet when he was seventyeight he showed he still had great powers of fascination. In a whirlwind courtship he won the heart, hand and fortune of a wealthy widow, Mme Jumel. He spent a great deal of the elderly woman's money and they had not been married long when she left made in our knowledge of quality winter months. in foods, and of the nutritive needs of the body. We know in terms of chemical substances what constitutes an adequate diet. We know, in the case of nearly all of our more common and important foods, and with a fair degree of accuracy, which nutrient principles are abundant or deficient in each. It has been found, as our studies have progressed, that most of our ordinary foods which constitute the staple articles of our diet are one-sided in composition. One will contain an excess of certain essential food elements, and lack a sufficient amount of others. It has become eviders that we must not condemn any food-stuff because it is not in itself a complete food. If two foods, or several foods, each lacking in one or more indispensable food elements are combined in the proper proportions, one may furnish what another lacks, and so the mixture may be an excellent diet.

Foods Must Be Varied

All this is by way of saying that a diet restricted to a few articles, and monotonous in character, is likely to be unsatisfactory for the maintenance of health. The keynote to successful nutrition is the proper combination of foods. There are many illustrations in human nutrition of people suffering from ill tion of people suffering from ill many. That day is now past. There health as a result of subsisting during the winter months on a diet of is no industry with which we are ing the winter months on a diet of poor quality. Such an experience was common a generation or two ago when the middle west was being settled. Ready money was very scarce and the great objective of the farmers on their new homesteads was to produce crops which could be sold so that farm equipment, fences and buildings could be purchased. Often they subsisted during the winter season principally on refined wheat flour bread, molasses, and fat pork. Those were the times when everyone felt ill in the spring. People thought their blood became impure during the winter season and

Science Comes to the Rescue

Science has come to the assistance of mankind in providing ways by which foods may be preserved for months or even years, thus making it possible for people to have a greater variety in the diet the whole year through. Canning, dehydration and cold storage are the principal means by which foods are preserved during the season of excess production, to be used mainly during the part of the year when otherwise we should be reduced to a simple and monotonous diet. A long list of fruits and green vegetables are most effectively preserved in a wholesome and attractive form, and for some and attractive form, and for an almost indefinite period if necessary, through the process of canning. Several kinds of fish and meats, milk, etc., are also best put up in this form. No other method serves so well to conserve the delicate flavors of fruits and vegetables, meats, etc., in the ordinary kitchen practice is known to destroy in great measure the scurvy-preventing properties of these foods. The natural inference was that canned foods would also be found to have lost tables as does canning by modern processes.

In the early history of the canning industry, before methods were fully understood, there was coniderable loss due to inadequate processes. Some canners used pre-servatives so that inferior products could be packed without danger of inancial loss. Canned foods came to be looked upon with suspicion by familiar which has been more alert in the study of the science underly-

Recent researches by Kohman and Eddy have brought to light some very interesting facts about the nutritive values of several canned foods. They have shown that there are certain features about the canning processes which make them far less destructive of vitamin C than ordinary cooking.

Canned foods are as safe accertain amount of preliminary destruction, subsequent heating has very little effect in the way of further destruction. What we have said regarding ordinary cooking of foods probably also applies to foods which are home canned, although no studies have as yet been conducted which would show the extent to which vitamin C is destroyed in home canning. The heat is in general probably applied too rapidly to permit of saving the vitamin from destruction.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC-The Meaning of the Transfigura-

When Christ announced His death which was to take place on the cross, the disciples were unable to see how victory could issue from death. Jesus took with Him Peter, James and John into the mountain.

Two men from the upper world were sent to converse with Jesus about His approaching death at Jerusalem—the very thing about which the disciples refused to talk. The transfiguration is therefore a foregleam of the coming kingdom.

I. Jesus Christ Glorified on the Mountain (vv. 2, 3).

He took the disciples "by themselves" and was "transfigured before them." This shows that the purpose of the transfiguration terminated upon the disciples and not on Christ. Christ's rebuke of Peter for his unwillingness to hear concerning His death apparently for a time estranged the disciples from Him. To heal this breach an unusual transaction was required. His shining raiment was typical of that glory which shall be manifest when Christ comes back to the earth. His appearance on the mountain typifies His visible appearance on the Mount of Olives (Zech. 14:4, 9). II. Peter, James and John Represent Israel in the Flesh in Connection With the Kingdom (v. 2).

Christ is peculiarly the King of Israel. According to Ezekiel 37:21-27, the Israelites are to be the central people in the kingdom. This people shall be gathered from among the nations and united as one in that kingdom, in their own country.

III. Moses and Elias Appeared in Glory With Jesus (vv. 4-13). These men in the glorified state are typical of the state of the saints in glory. Moses, who was once denied an entrance into Palestine, appears now in glory representing the redeemed of the Lord who shall pass through death into the kingdom. Multitudes of the Lord's own who have fallen asleep shall be awakened at Christ's coming and pass into the kingdom. Elias represents the redeemed who shall pass into the kingdom through translation. Some shall be living upon the earth when the Lord shall come, and they, without dying, shall be changed and thus pass into the kingdom (I Cor. 15:

50-53; I Thess. 4:14-18). 1. Peter's proposal (vv. 5, 6).

So definitely was the method of the kingdom unfolded before Peter that he proposed to erect tabernacles for Christ, Moses and Elijah. It is true that the unveiling of the majestic person of Christ and the panoramic display of the kingdom somewhat disconcerted Peter; yet he grasped its central meaning and proposed to celebrate the advent of the kingdom which had been prefigured in a tangible way. 2. The divine voice out of the cloud (vv. 7, 8). God declared Jesus to be His beloved Son in whom He was well pleased. If one would know what is pleasing to God, let him study Jesus, who perfectly did His Father's will.

3. Jesus' charge (vv. 9-13). He charged them that they should tell no man concerning the things which they had seen until He had risen from the dead.

IV. A Demonstration of the Purpose of the Establishment of the Kingdom (vv. 14-29).

When they descended from the mountain of transfiguration they witnessed a great multitude in a state of perplexity. The immediate cause of this state was the grievous condition of a young man possessed with a demon (v. 18). The father of the young man had appealed to the disciples to cast the demon out, but they were unable to do so. When they brought him unto Jesus, the foul spirit was rebuked and came forth. This young man's state is representative of the nations who are oppressed by the Devil. Just as this young man was grievously oppressed, causing him to cast himself into the fire and into the waters, so the nations today in their perplexity are doing the things which will result in their own destruction. The Devil will be peculiarly active in the oppression of men and nations in the last days.

Getting Salvation

If we are going to get salvation, we have got to get it upon God's terms and not upon our own; and that is why I fear that a good many people will not get it-simply because they can't have their own way about it .-D. L. Moody.

Cread of Guetersloh Boosted by Bismarck

Guetersloh was a town of some ,500 inhabitants some years ago, when one day during the maneuvers a young lieutenant took up his quarters there. This lieutenant came from l'omerania, where they also make black bread of fine quality, but he liked the peculiar flavor of the Westphalia article. His name was Bismarck In the year 1870 Bismarck was again traveling through Guetersloh, this time as chancellor. King William was with him, and when the train stopped the prime minister called out genially to the crowd that had come to meet them:

"Is there anyone who can get us some pumpernickel with butter?"

As a number of reporters were present when this query was made, the fortune of the Guetersloh black bread was made and it speedily became the fashion all over Germany. The craze for Westphalian pumpernickel spread far and wide, cunningly furthered by the bakers, who now baked for export only small one-pound loaves, for the purpose of making it look "more like a delicatessen," as they say.

The bakers of Guetersloh were worldly wise, for from the same kneading troughs there go into the oven first the huge loaves (certain of these going to the farmhouses often weigh hal? a hundredweight) and then, shaped of what was left, the tiny loaves that are wrapped in paper and exported to all parts of the world to be sold as a delicatessen.

Carillon Playing at Its Best in Belgium

Belgium is the classic land of bells. To the Belgians belongs the honor of having first felt and used bell tones as truly musical sounds, and, accordingly, they devised that colossal musical instrument and tower and belfry known as the carillon. The carillon is a set of from 15 to 50 or more bells. cast in sizes that sound each its own scale tone. This battery of bells is played from a keyboard placed in a room below the open or latticed belfry, by a carilloneur, as the French call him, Dr. Henry Eames, president of the Society of American Musicians, writes, in Child Life Magazine. The keyboard is not unlike an electric switchboard, with its handles replacing the keys on an ordinary piane keyboard, and another set of pedal keys, like that on a pipe organ, to be played upon by the player's feet. This carillon keyboard stands today practically the same as it did in the Sixteenth century, when the most famous of all bell-casting and carillon-playing families-the Van den Gheyns of Belgium-brought the art of belfry playing to its highest point. The Antwerp cathedral carillon has 65 bells. St. Rombold's singing tower in Malines has 44, Bruges 41, Ghent 39 and Louvain 40.

High Aspirations

Robert Louis Stevenson, while living at Skerrymore, had the idea of adopting a bov in whom he was in terested, as his "body servant," and assimilate. Before doing so, relates R. L. S.'s great friend, dear little old Miss Adelaide Boodle, he put it to the boy point blank whether any other walk in life held for him more powerful attraction. The answer came without a moment's hesitation:

"Please, sir, I wish I could be Mr Townsend's boy."

Mr. Townsend was the local fish

Arbor Day

Tree-planting festivals are probably as old as civilization. Sacred trees and groves, planted avenues and roadsides, shaded academic walks and memorial trees were common long be fore America was discovered. Arbor day, as such, however, is purely American in origin and grew out of conditions peculiar to the great plains of the West, a country practically treeless over much of its area, but supporting a flourishing agriculture and with a soil and climate well able to nourish tree growth. Arbor day originated and was first observed in Nebraska in 1872.

Waking Dreams

"Asleep" and "awake" are relative terms. All persons do not sleep with equal soundness. Frequently one will dream most when he is merely dozing. He may then be partly conscious of what is taking place around him. A person wide awake does not dream in the strict sense of the word. In "daydreaming" the term is used in another sense; namely, a reverie or idle exercise of the fancy.

Children Enlisted in Fire-Prevention Work

Many cities have taken part in the fire-prevention movement. It has been found that good results come from instructing the school children concerning fire prevention. They take a pride in knowing about fire hazards and doing away with them whenever possible. The Baltimore Evening Sun has organized what is called the Baltimore junior fire department. Each boy who becomes a member pledges himself to help the fire-prevention bureau "by collecting all waste paper, trash, greasy rags, loose matches and other inflammable material in my home. By placing such stuff in the proper receptacles, where it will be collected by the street-cleaning department. By using care in handling oils and other dangerous materials, cigars and cigarettes that I see. By urging my friends and neighbors to do all these things. And by keeping my home free from unnecessary inflammables in the future." The boy signs this pledge with the approval of his parent and the parent's signature also is appended. After the pledge is taken he delivers it to the office of the newspaper, where he is presented with a badge as a fireman, and a card showing that he is a member of the junior department. Most people have heard fire warnings so often that safety talk seems to make little impression on them. With the children, the work of preventing fires comes as something new. They are especially interested in making good records for their schools and their homes. Too much credit hardly can be given the children for what they are doing in this way.—Indianapolis of Home Surroundings In winter or summer, fall or spring, an attractive fence, like a sundial or a blue roof, will contribute beauty to a landscape. And, more often than not, the well-designed enclosure will promote even neighborly admiration and approval, rather than an offended, shut-out feeling. Primarily, fences were used solely to prevent trespasses, but as people advanced in art and culture fences assumed a double purpose, that of decorating or enhancing the grounds they guarded. Consequently, fences of really exquisite design are appearing with increasing frequency.

A fence which will add and not detract beauty from the grounds it guards need not be so elaborate as to be prohibitive in price to the average home owner or even to those of slimmer purses. For comparatively few dollars can be erected an enclosure which will not only courteously perform the police duty of a "keep-off" sign, but which will add a final touch of nicety to a yard or garden. And furthermore, the task of building such a fence is far from difficult. The home carpenter can easily do the work in a short time.

City's Best Advertisement

No city needs press agents. It needs only an honest and fearless press, which faithfully and accurately reports the activities of the municipality and intelligently interprets them. Beyond that, a city's own good works are its best advertisement. If its public and private affairs are ably and honestly conducted for the benefit of its citizens, the world will know of it and honor and prosperity will be its portion. If its government becomes corrupt, or weak or dishonest public servants permit the lawless element to gain the upper hand in its affairs, the world will hear of that, too, and no amount of ballyhooing by hired or self-appointed press agents will prevent it.—Detroit News.

Avoiding Damage to Sewer

The location of trees—those already planted or those intended for the yard -should be taken into consideration in placing sewers, cisterns, or drains, advises a reader who contributes a letter to the series on home building in Liberty. "Tree roots can press against tile and cistern walls with strength enough to break them," he points out, "and the damage is often difficult and expensive to undo. Some trees have a tendency to twine roots into any interstice they can find. Poplars have a bad reputation in this re-

Away With Rubbish Heaps Cleanliness and good order are the best safeguards against fire. If there is no trash to ignite, the carelessly thrown match or cigarette will find no fuel. It may be impossible to train every person to be scrupulously careful about matches or smokes, but the first rule of safety should be learned by all who are responsible for business and domestic premises, to keep them free from fire-making materials exposed to chance ignition.

Need for Co-Operation

It is necessary for the betterment and prosperity of any town for the citizens to co-operate and work together as a well-trained team in their effort to push the town onward and upward in the business world .- Crenshaw County (Ala.) News.

WHY

Great Personages Fear to Face "Mike"

Celebrities may be very "ritzy" in public, but they soon take off their high hats when they have to speak before the microphone, says Quin Ryan, radio announcer at the Chicago station, WGN. "There are three spots in this universe where all men are equal," Ryan maintains, "-on the roller coaster, in the dentist's chair, and in the radio studio. All my young iife," he says, "I have been ritzed by celebrities, ritzed by experts. But now the worm has turned. The worm has turned radio announcer, and when I get them in the radio studio I have them scared to death. Every famous personage quakes a bit before the mi-

"When I was a newspaper reporter, interviewing persons of note," the writer explains, "I was always colliding with a lifted eyebrow. But for the past few years, as a part of my radio job, it has been one of my chores to meet, interview, and introduce the famous of the land. And the conclusion I have drawn from these intimate contacts is that celebrities are not so bad as they are celebrated, and that the great are gracious and amiable. People I've read about, people I've put on pedestals-all come into the studio one by one, confessing their trepidation before the broadcasting ordeal, and proving themselves as 'folksy' as an Edgar Guest poem."-Liberty Magazine.

Why Precious Metals

Are Hoarded in India

The Hindu family ordinarily holds all real property and household goods in common. The individual wishing to save for his own use can segregate his savings only in the form of gold and silver. Millions of the native population, too, have no access to the banks. In time of stress they must draw on accumulated reserves or resort to the money lender—at 75 per cent interest.

"Consequently," a traveler writes, "there is a strong tendency in times of prosperity to purchase small quantities of silver and gold in the form of coins, bullion, or ornaments as a reserve against want.

"Millions of people, particularly in south India and east India, never have a sufficient margin to do even this, as they have no savings what ever; this is evidenced by the necessity for famine relief measures in many sections as soon as there is a crop failure."-New York Times.

Why Cab Drivers Are Jehus

Because Jehu, the son of Jehoshaphat, the son of Nimshi, who was divinely and miraculously chosen to be king of Israel, was identified by the watchman on the tower of Jezreel through his furious driving in a chariot, cab drivers are generally know as "Jehus." "The driving is tike the driv ing of Jehu the son of Nimshi, for he driveth furiously." "Jehus." therefore. are those who drive furiously. The application of the term to a taxi lriver therefore, is not without reason. But the original Jehu never had an accident and reigned safely over Israel in spite of the commission of an appalling number of unurders and

Why the Term "Loafer"

Why say "loafer" of a shiftless man': Here's the story from which this cus tom is said to have sprung: A shift less young man fell in love with the daughter of an old Dutchman in New York. The futher disapproved of the youth When he saw the lazy fellow coming he was wont to remark to his daughter: "Here comes that 'lofer' (lover) of yours, the idle good-fornothing." The word "lofer," finally spelled with a "a," came to be applied to any shiftless person.—Grit.

Why the Name "Solons"

The name Solon was borne by an Athenian, who was noted for his learning and wisdom in counsel. He was also known as the law giver of Athens and to him was intrusted the task of revising the Athenian constitution This accounts for the name being applied to the members of the United States congress.

Why They Are "Weeds"

Widows' "weeds" are derived from a Saxon word, "waede"—a woven gar ment. Later the term was confined to the distinctive dress of a widow and then narrowed to the long crepe SARBAUGH'S JEWELRY STORE. streamers from the bonnet.

Why "Cool as Cucumber"

The cucumber usually has a tem perature a degree lower than that of the surrounding atmosphere. Hence the expression, "Cool as a cucumber."

Why Death at High Altitude Scientists say that life, even with the aid of oxygen would be impossible above 45,000 feet because of the low atmospheric pressure.

LAST PAGE EDITORIAL.

Why Do You Read?

What is your main reason for reading newspapers? Is it to find out what is going on, or to be entertained, or is it in some way or another for business reasons? All of these are good reasons, but there is a better one —to get ideas that will help out in the general scheme of life, and make us better informed and better able to do

We read too carelessly. Newspapers are regarded too much as something to take, just because of habit, or as a means of passing away the time. We read as some children study without trying to get the most out of Newspapers, actually, are the equivalent of text books of education, for men and women. We make one of the biggest mistakes that can be made in life, when we act as though our education ends with our school days; for as a matter of fact we are then just at the beginning of real education—life's experiences and our ways of handling them.

Getting new ideas-good ones-and making them work for us, means applied education; but the trouble lots of folks do not see good ideas, just as they do not see $5.00 bills lying in their path, and pass them by for some body else to pick up.

If an article in a newspaper is worth reading, do it right by studying A Musical Comedy, the "Windmills it. Perhaps it may only suggest further Holland" will be given by the Glee one, follow it up, for an idea is a something to cultivate and encourage, just as we do the seeds we plant. When the woman motorist was called upon to stop, she asked, indignantly, "What do you want with me?"
"You were traveling at forty miles an hour," answered the police officer.
"Forty miles an hour? Why, I "Go ahead," said the officer. "That's a new one on me."

An Irishman whose face was plain that his friends used to tell him that it was an offense to the landscape happened also to be as poor as he was

One day a neighbor met him and asked, "How are you, Dennis?"
"Mighty bad; sure, 'tis starvation that's staring me in the face."
"Begorra," said his neighbor, sympathetically, "It can't be very pleasant for either of you."

An Englishman, talking against many things in America, happened to say to a friend in New York: "Why, even your newsboy can't take a joke The American friend replied: "Just try the next one that comes Upper or Lower.

"Upper or lower?" asked the agent.
"What's the difference?" asked the

"A difference of fifty cents in this case," replied the agent. "The lower is higher than the upper. The higher price is for the lower. If you want it lower you'll have to go higher. We sell the upper lower than the lower. In other words, the higher the lower. Most people don't like the upper, altho it is lower an occount of its being higher. When you occupy an upper you have to get up to go to bed and get down when you get up. You can have the lower if you pay higher. The upper is lower than the lower because it is higher. If you are willing to go higher, it will be lower." But the poor man had fainted!

Start them right

ALL of your profits are in the chicks that live—so it pays to start them right. Thousands of poultry raisers are making handsome profits from their chicks each year, while other thousands are actually losing money—losing money solely because they do not give their chicks the proper food and care.

Quisenberry Quality Starting Food with Buttermilk contains Cod Liver Oil, Cod Liver Meal, Dried Buttermilk, proper Minerals, Vitamines, high grade Meat Meal, fine ground Oat Groats and other Quality ingredients necessary to bring the chicks safely through the first 8 weeks danger period. It not only contains the maximum of nourishment in a form easily assimilated, but it is a valuable aid in combating Bowel Trouble, Leg Weakness, White Diarrhea, and other stumbling blocks on the road to poultry profits. Quisenberry Quality Starting Food with Buttermilk is in a class by itself. It raises every possible chick. Try it—It's Results that Count!

Free - Ask your dealer or write us for "Crows and Cackles", a magazine full of information of interest and value to every poultry raiser.

QUISENBERRY FEED MFG. CO. KANSAS CITY, MO. BUFFALO, N. Y.

Many of our customers tell us that once a poultry raiser feeds QUIS-ENBERRY QUALITY POULTRY FEEDS, he will use no other brand—that's why we like to sell it!
