THE CHARLES CARROLL SCHOOL BURNEDOne of the Finest School Buildings in the County.

The Charles Carroll High School building, along the Westminster-Littlestown highway between Silver Run and Union Mills, was destroyed by fire at an early hour Monday morning. The building cost about $60,000, and the equipment, many more thousands. The fire is supposed to have originated from the heating plant, as the blaze was first seen in that part of the building, but the exact cause has not been determined.

Paul Fitze, a resident of Silver Run first saw the fire, and spread the alarm, which called out hundreds of nearby citizens as well as the Westminster and Littlestown fire companies, but nothing could be saved but a little of the furniture in the manual training department.

The walls of the building are standing, and it may be that they can be utilized in the rebuilding the structure. The amount of the insurance has not been stated.

The school was attended by about 250 pupils, in charge of principal Prof. Ernest Schwartz and twelve teachers. Arrangements are being made for temporary quarters in both Silver Run and Union Mills, and it is believed that the interruption of class work will be but brief.

The building was one of the best, and best equipped, in the county, and was besides greatly used as a community center.

"Pepple" and "Linn" Information Wanted.

The following letter from Mrs. Lida B. Dyer, 327 Alabama St., Butte, Montana, is published, with the hope that it may bring the desired information.

"This morning I received from Eli G. Haugh, Frederick, a letter stating that he had found the record of a deed from William Pepple and wife, Elizabeth, to Abraham Roland, dated Jan. 1, 1774, for a tract called 'Great Meadows,' containing 16 1/2 acres, recorded in Liber V. Folio 463.

I am wondering whether you can tell me where this 'Great Meadow' is located. No doubt the church and cemetery records would have some mention of this family, which, from the date I have, I believe are my ancestors.

Wm. Pepple, Jr., married Magdalen Linn, in Taneytown, Oct. 31, 1804. They were my great-grand-parents and I have all of the dates of their birth and death. I want very much to know who William Jr.'s father and mother were."

The Election 25 Years Ago.

The election was for Governor and other state officers, and for House of Delegates and a full county ticket. For Governor, the Democratic candidate was Edwin Warfield, and the Republican candidate Stevenson A. Williams. The full Democratic ticket was elected the majority for Governor being exactly 300 in the county, and in the state, about 10,000.

The vote in Taneytown district was very large for that time (651) of which, 189 were rejected on account of trouble encountered with marking the ballot. The Taneytown candidates were Edward E. Reindollar and James D. Haines for House of Representatives, and John E. Buffington for Orphan's Court. About 900 votes were "rejected" in the county.

For State Senator the candidates were John E. Beasman, D., and Chas. J. H. Ganter, Rep.

For House of Delegates, Jesse W. Fuss, D., James D. Haines, D., Joseph H. Kain, D., Azariah E. Oursler, D., Harry F. Baer, R., H. S. Morelock, R., Edward E. Reindollar, R., and Edw. G. Richardson, R.

For Clerk of the Court, David P. Smelser, D., Webster W. Sweigart, R. For Register of Wills, Jos. D. Brooks, R., John J. Stewart, D.

For State's Attorney, Ivan Hoff, R., and Guy W. Steele, D.

The counting of the ballots was not completed until Wednesday about noon, after an all-night job.

Woman Found Dead in Well.

Mrs. Ersu Shearer, aged 44 years, near Ladiesburg, is supposed to have committed suicide, Monday afternoon, by shooting herself in the head with a pistol then throwing herself into a cistern. At first it was thought that she had sat or stood at the edge of the well, and after shooting herself fell in; but this theory was abandoned after the pistol was found in the attic of her home.

Mrs. John Grimes, her sister-in-law, who was visiting her, heard the shot while some distance away from the house gathering chips, and on making an investigation discovered the body in the cistern, which was afterwards removed by the use of grappling hooks.

Mrs. Shearer is said to have been despondent since the death of her husband several weeks ago. She had been visiting in Baltimore and returned home on Sunday evening with her niece, Miss Gladys Grimes, a school teacher, and her sister-in-law, was visiting her after Miss Grimes left.

Dr. C. A. Stultz testified that death was due to drowning, and not to the bullet which had failed to penetrate to the brain.

"Did anybody comment on the way you handled your new car?" "One man made a brief remark: Fifty dollars and costs."—Boston Transcript.

FROM CLINTON, IOWA

Interesting Letter on R. R. Business, and Political Situation.

(The following letter is from J. Harvey Sites, an employee of the Chicago & Northwestern R. R., at Clinton, Iowa, who once resided in this section, the son of the late Sherman Sites, and whose mother now lives at Fairfield, Pa.—Ed.)

"I will write a few lines that may be of interest to my friends and readers of The Record. We have enjoyed one of the most beautiful falls of all time. The most pleasant weather and the colorings of the leaves on the trees is a sight to behold. The changes and colors are wonderful. There is an abundance of crops of all kinds and I think everybody should be most thankful.

This is the season of the year when the fruit is moving from the Pacific Coast States to all the cities of the east. I made note of several trains, and in carloads in one train I had 1 of eggs, 2 of pickles in brine, 29 of grapes, 1 live poultry, 2 butter, 3 apples, 1 pears, 4 lettuce, 1 almonds, 1 dried fruit, 2 lemons, 1 prunes, 2 can-fruit, 2 spuds, 1 olives, 1 artichokes, 3 tomatoes, 2 oranges, 2 spanish onions, 1 honey. The last trip east I had 5 dressed meat, 1 dressed poultry, 29 grapes, 3 lettuce, 1 celery 4 pomegranates, 2 apples.

These cars are all under ice and are iced at the several icing stations. Each refrigerator car has space for 5 tons ice in each end, and the ice is dropped in through doors in the roof of each corner of the car. The ice must be broken and salted.

At Clinton, Iowa, there is a regular icing station. A platform built even with the roof of the cars and they can ice about 40 cars by spotting 20 cars on each side of this platform without moving the train.

The first part of the fruit season there was more pears. In one train I had 35 cars Bartlett pears. There are about 10 fruit trains daily. On Thursday and Friday is what we call meat day. On these days there are 2 trains, one from the packing plants at Sioux city, and one from South Omaha. About 60 cars on Thursday and 75 or 80 on Friday.

These cars are all under ice. The quarters all hang on hooks from the roof, and has about 15 tons each with other meat products in boxes on the floor, and this meat goes to the cities all over the east.

The Chicago and Northwestern used to store 60,000 tons of ice every winter for the icing of these cars which they cut off the Mississippi river and stored at a cost of 16 cents a ton. It was nearly all done by machinery, and there is an ice plant there, and they manufacture ice to supply the cars and retail too. Nearly everyone who has an auto in Clinton goes to the ice plant for ice. The dock is open 6 A. M. to 9 P. M. Men are there and put it in your car 50-lbs for 10 cents.

We are going to elect a President of the United States in a couple weeks by a land-slide for Mr. Hoover. Mr. Hoover's experience in the Governmental machinery, and his diplomatic experience. Internationally should make him the most capable man in the United States, not excepting Chas. Evans Hughes. There is no doubt he will make a better President than Mr. Coolidge. No Democrat or Republican can deny that Mr. Hoover has been well-qualified beyond commonsense and decency.

To hear some people talk, all the men that guide the destinies of this great Nation are "crooks" and "grafters," when they really have the very best interests of the Nation at heart while those who condemn them don't know what it is to be patriotic.

Mr. Hoover deserves more credit than he will ever get. If you want to hire an engineer, and two applied—one experienced and the other not—you would certainly employ the experienced one, as you would be sure your factory or mill would not stop, as to do so would be a loss.

So I say without fear that Mr. Hoover certainly is an experienced Engineer and in order to have prosperity we must have an Engineer in whom industry is sure is a capable one and that their investments are secure.

Blue Ridge Plans Home-Coming.

The Alumni Association of Blue Ridge College is planning to hold a Home-coming at the college on Saturday, November 3rd. All former students and teachers of Blue Ridge and New Windsor Colleges are invited to attend this event. Class reunions will be held in the morning from 11 to 12 o'clock, after which luncheon will be served in the college dining room. At 2:30, a soccer game between Towson State Normal School and Blue Ridge will be played on the college athletic field. At 4:00 o'clock tea will be served in the parlor of Windsor Hall.

A number of former teachers and students have been asked to speak at the banquet which will be held in the dining room at 6 o'clock. This will be followed by a program in the auditorium. Reservations for the banquet may be made by writing to Miss Mary Malcolm, Blue Ridge College, New Windsor, Md.

Hurricane Relief Fund.

The Record regrets that a contribution of $1.00 for Hurricane relief from J. Thomas Wantz, was unintentionally omitted from our concluding report, last week. The same has been added to our receipts and reported, making a total of $52.50.

Several additional subscriptions have since been received by Mrs. W. A. Bower who will give them, and any others, proper attention.

WALKERSVILLE MAN
SHOT TO DEATH.Prominent Merchant Way-laid late on Saturday Night.

David M. Crist, a merchant of Walkersville, was shot and killed by some unknown person as he was about to enter his home early Sunday morning. He had closed his store at the R. R. Station shortly before midnight and went to his home a short distance away in an automobile with his friend, Carl Zimmerman. As he started toward his home Zimmerman drove away, and when about to enter the house he was shot in the heart, crying out, "Why did you do this?" before he dropped.

Several neighbors heard the shot and summoned a physician, but death had been instantaneous. As over $100. was found on his body, there is doubt as to whether robbery was the object, and it is almost common belief that other causes led to the murder.

Crist was a Mason, Odd Fellow, Knight of Pythias and a member of the Jr. O. U. A. M. He was a graduate of Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, and a son of the late Rev. Geo. B. Crist, formerly pastor of the Walkersville Lutheran Church.

There are reports that an arrest may be made soon. It is thought that the murderer was inspired by some private reason, and that he was hidden at a nearby spot when the shot was fired.

Mr. Crist was held in very high esteem in Walkersville, and was a member of a prominent family, in Frederick county. Funeral services were held in the Walkersville Lutheran Church, Tuesday afternoon, and interment was made in Gettysburg cemetery.

The commissioners of Walkersville have offered a reward of $500. for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Mr. Crist. As the county authorities have no definite lead in this direction, the reward is offered as an additional stimulus in the search.

The Constitutional Amendment.

At the election on Tuesday, November 6th, the voters will find on their ballots an amendment to the Constitution of the State as follows.

"The General Assembly may continue its session so long as in its judgment the public interest may require for a period of not longer than ninety days; and each member thereof shall receive a compensation of fifteen dollars per diem for every day he shall attend the session, but not for such days as he may be absent, unless absent on account of sickness or by leave of the House of which he is a member and he shall also receive such mileage as may be allowed by law not exceeding twenty cents per mile; and the presiding officer of each House shall receive an additional compensation of five dollars per day. When the General Assembly shall be convened by proclamation of the Governor, the session shall not continue longer than thirty days, and in such case the compensation shall be the same as herein prescribed."

ROBERT K. ECKERT KILLED

Due to Falling from a Ladder in Westminster.

Robert K. Eckert, of Finksburg, formerly of Taneytown district, and for a time manager of the A. & P. store in Taneytown, met with his death by falling from a ladder, a distance of about 20 feet, while engaged in helping to repair the metal roof of the William Reese store, east Main St., Westminster.

Two ladders were in use, tied with a rope, Mr. Eckert being at work on the second ladder near the cornice. The rope suddenly gave way and he was thrown to the ground, the left side of his head striking the concrete curb, causing unconsciousness from which he never recovered, and death ensued while on the way to the Md. University Hospital, Baltimore. A stop was made at Finksburg, for his wife, who was with him when he died.

He was the son of William K. and Mrs. Annie Eckert, and was in his 42nd year. He is survived by his wife, Arie R. Eckert, nee Little, and by one daughter, Anna Louise, and one son, Robert M., a sufferer from infantile paralysis—and by his mother and one brother, Wallace Eckert, at Copperville.

Funeral services were held at his late home Thursday morning, followed by interment in the Silver Run cemetery, the services being in charge of Rev. J. B. Rupley, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, Westminster.

What Will the Harvest Reveal?

This is a golden opportunity to select golden corn for County wide corn show.

The Corn Show which is to be held the first of December will be county wide. There should be samples of corn from all parts of the county as there will be classes open to include all varieties of corn. You cannot wait until the corn is all in the crib and then select a sample of corn to the best advantage. Select while you are husking. A good way to do this is to carry a basket to the field when you go and when a good show ear is found reserve it. In a few days you will have many ears from which to select your final 10 ear samples. The samples should be kept in a dry place where mice cannot reach them. It will help you greatly to have a tray on which to place your corn when you are selecting your samples. In this case you can give special attention to uniformity, of color, maturity and trueness to variety.

The Banks which have done such outstanding work with the corn growers will not be actively interested this year but are offering their whole-hearted support to County Agent Burns and the Extension Service in staging one show for the entire county. All growers of corn will be eligible to exhibit in one of the many classes to be entered. Because the show is primarily educational and aims to encourage the production of better corn all exhibits must have been grown, selected and prepared by the exhibitor.

Further details regarding the show will appear later in your county paper according to County Agent Burns today.

Maryland and Va. Eldership Churches of God.

The Md. and Va. Eldership of the Churches of God closed its 57th, annual session in the Westminster church, on Monday evening, after a very successful and satisfactory four-days program of reports and other events, the most of the business features having been rendered on Saturday and Monday.

On Sunday a full day of addresses and features were given, covering the Missionary, Sunday School and Christian Endeavor activities. In the afternoon an impressive feature was a memorial service in memory of the late Rev. W. G. Stine, of Greencastle, Pa.; and Elders Ezra B. Garner, of Linwood; M. H. Penn, of Mt. Airy, and Wm. E. Lawyer, of Mayberry, the service being conducted by the President of the Eldership, Rev. C. A. Sullivan, of Carrollton, and the following participating: Rev. V. K. Betts, Apollo, Pa.; Mrs. Almira Lockard, Carrollton; Rev. J. H. Hoch, Uniontown, and Rev. T. A. Wastler, Cascade, followed by fitting resolutions.

The Christian Endeavor hour was taken up with addresses by Rev. Frank Shaffer, of Westminster, on "Religious Education," and Merwyn C. Fuss, Taneytown, on the "Value of Christian Endeavor." Missionary topics prevailed at the evening service.

The session closed on Monday evening with the following pastoral assignments: The Rev. C. O. Sullivan, Carrollton and Winfield; the Rev. F. B. Brose, Westminster; the Rev. J. H. Hoch, Uniontown, Wakefield and Frizellburg; the Rev. A. E. Siple, German-town, Blue Mountain and Friends Creek; the Rev. W. L. Lettick, Woodsboro, Edgewood and Oak Hill; the Rev. Levi Carbaugh, Bark Hill, Mayberry, Friendship and Pleasant Hill; Rev. T. A. Wastler, Zittlestown and Locust Valley; First Church of New Baltimore, Rev. P. D. Cunningham; Rev. S. B. Myers, Second Church, New Baltimore and Broadfording; the Rev. C. W. Fink, Blair's Valley, Sharpsburg, Maple Grove and Kaiser-ville; the Rev. William Jackson, Samples Manor, Antietam, Mt. Briar and Pleasantville; the Rev. F. H. Snavely, Hagerstown Mission; the Rev. S. A. Kipe, Brunswick; Warfieldburg, Creagerstown and Augusta, to be supplied; The Rev. John H. Gonso, General Evangelist; the Rev. J. A. Saxten, superintendent; the Rev. Wilos Hummelbaugh, the Rev. J. M. Carter and the Rev. V. E. Heffer to labor where opportunity affords.

FIVE CANDIDATES FOR PRESIDENTArrangement of Names, One Amendment to be Voted One.

The arrangement of candidates' names appearing on the ballot to be voted upon throughout the state of Maryland, Election Day, November 6, is announced by Secretary of State David C. Winebrenner, III. Five candidates for President are found on the ballot. In various counties referendums will be voted upon by those who go to the polls to signify their choice for President, Vice-President, Senator and Congressman. A Constitutional Amendment will be voted upon by the entire state.

For President, the following are nominees: Alfred E. Smith, Democrat; Herbert Hoover, Republican; Norman Thomas, Socialist; William E. Foster, Workers; Verne L. Reynolds, Labor.

For Vice-President: Joseph T. Robinson, Democrat; Charles Curtis, Republican; James H. Maurer, Socialist; Benjamin Gitlow, Workers, and Jeremiah Crowley, Labor.

For Senator: William Cabell Bruce, Democrat; Phillips Lee Goldsborough, Republican; William A. Toole, Socialist, and Robert W. Stevens, Labor.

For House of Representatives, this Second District: William P. Cole, Democrat; Linwood L. Clark, Republican; Clarence H. Taylor, Socialist.

In other districts, the candidates for Congress are as follows: First, T. Alan Goldsborough, Democrat; A. Stengle Marine, Republican; Third, Vincent L. Palmisano, Democrat; Jno. Philip Hill, Republican, and Samuel M. Neistadt, Socialist; Fourth, J. Charles Linthicum, Democrat; John P. Brandau, Republican; Amos F. Anthony, Socialist; Fifth, Stephen Warfield Gambrell, Democrat; Oliver Metzger, Republican, and Gustav P. Dill, Socialist; Sixth, David J. Lewis, Democrat; and Frederick N. Zihlman, Republican.

A constitutional amendment, Chapter 379, Acts of 1927, is to be voted upon by the entire state; and local referendums by Somerset, Howard and Anne Arundel counties. The constitutional amendment provides for an increase in the pay of members of the General Assembly from $5 to $15 per day.

The Prohibition candidate for president did not file in Maryland, or in some other states.

The Record will give more definite instructions, next week, concerning the Carroll County ballot.

Held for Court for Death of Summerfield Stuller.

Harvey E. Baer, near Littlestown, who has been under bail on a charge of involuntary manslaughter connected with the death of Summerfield Stuller, some time ago, following an automobile operated by Baer, was arrested before Justice Blocher, of Littlestown, on Tuesday, and held for court to answer the charge.

Baer is charged, struck Stuller who was walking along the Littlestown road near Mt. Pleasant on the evening of September 20th, with his wife. Then Baer offered monetary payment to several if the man would be taken to Hanover for treatment. He told several that he was "not in a fit condition" when they questioned why he did not take the man to Hanover in his car.

Prior to his arrest following a jury inquest in which he was named as the operator of the car that struck Stuller, Baer had been arrested by State Highway patrolmen on a charge of being drunk while operating a motor vehicle.

Jack Dunn Dead.

Jack Dunn, owner and manager of the Baltimore baseball club, fell dead from his horse, due to a heart attack, on Monday in a field north of Towson. He was conducting a field trial of his hunting dogs, in which he was almost as much interested as in baseball, when he suddenly toppled over while watching the actions of a brace of the dogs, and died instantly.

Dunn was originally a baseball third-baseman, until he became interested in the Baltimore club as manager and finally as owner, and built up such a strong aggregation that it won seven successive pennants in the International League. On the death of his son, Jack, Jr., several years ago, he lost much interest in the game, but made a great deal of money by developing and selling players.

Law Enforcement Progressing.

The violation of the prohibition laws is gradually becoming more dangerous, and "enforcement" nearer a fact, is amply demonstrated by the information that for the year ended June 30, Federal criminal prohibition cases numbered 55,720, and the total jail sentences covered 7,700 years. There was an increase of 15,020 cases over the preceding year. The aggregate of fines, forfeitures and penalties was $7,303,563, and 370 domestic ship seizures were made.

This does not likely include the value of the seized paraphernalia, nor of liquors in course of manufacture, nor of local fines and penalties not under Federal jurisdiction.

Considering the fact that some states and municipalities are obstructing the work of the Federal officials, not only by encouragement of law violation, but by failure to co-operate with the government, the figures given are decidedly reassuring to those who believe in law enforcement, and correspondingly discouraging to law violators.

POLITICS THIS WEEK

Condensed Clippings from Around the Political Horizon.

Very little apparent change has taken place in the general situation during the past week. The speaking campaign, become still more general, and the local campaigns more actively urged. For the presidency, both sides are confidently predicting victory, and both claiming about fifteen states, including New York, Massachusetts, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee. While the Republicans are strongly hoping for Virginia, North Carolina and Florida, those who follow indications very closely, do not build on a break in the southern coast states.

The truth is that even the most experienced political prophets are unable to estimate the various shifts that will be made in voting, nor the effect of the largely increased registration on the total poll; and this is likely to remain the situation at the close of the campaign in another week. Of course, individual opinions are very positive, and the odds seem to favor Mr. Hoover, but figuring it out is not so easy.

Great preparations are being made in Baltimore to receive Gov. Smith, next Monday, and hear his address in the Armory. The building seats 15,000, and a system of amplifiers will be used for those on the outside who may be unable to get in.

The Bryan Democratic League of New York, organized in 1900 has issued a statement endorsing Herbert Hoover for President. It says, "Mr. Hoover embodies the very qualities which from his first campaign attached us to William Jennings Bryan—the same mind on Prohibition and Tammany."

The claims that Smith has a good chance to carry Pennsylvania and Illinois, are offset by the claims that Hoover has a good chance to carry Alabama, Texas, Georgia and North Carolina. If all of the claims turn out to be valid, it looks almost as though both candidates will be elected.

Gov. Smith closed his western tour in Chicago, last Friday night before an appreciative crowd, his address being largely in the nature of a reply to what he termed misrepresentation of his addresses and views, paying particular attention to Senator Borah, who, he stated, was not always such a good friend of Mr. Hoover. He made an assault along general lines, against Mr. Hoover and the Republican party, as a summing up of his case before the people.

According to the Easton, Md., correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, where there are two "Goldsborough" candidates, the Eastern Shore is conceded to Hoover by 5000 or over, and to Phillips Lee Goldsborough (Rep.) for Senator by a somewhat smaller figure; but at the same time expects T. Allen Goldsborough (Dem.) for Congress, to pull through. Both of the Goldsboroughs are "dry."

The Republican demonstration in N. Y. City, Monday night was easily the most striking demonstration of the campaign. Vice-President Dawes was the first speaker, but it was evidently a Hoover crowd of 20,000 in the hall, and many thousands that thronged the streets for blocks around, and when he arose to speak he was delayed for 12 minutes before he could be heard. His speech was more aggressive than any he has made, and in substance he hit Gov. Smith's stand on Farm Relief, State Socialism so-called, and prohibition, and emphasized the importance of National prosperity and the dependence on group interests on the interests of the whole country.

The speech of Mr. Dawes was largely devoted to the theme of the maintenance of prosperity and general confidence; that prohibition was largely a question with the individual voter, and not a main issue, and closed with paying a high tribute to Mr. Hoover's sincerity and ability.

Charles Evans Hughes, on a speaking tour of the west, declared on Tuesday night that the main issue of the campaign is between two men, as to their personal fitness for the Presidency, and that other real issues were very few.

President Coolidge has declined to make any campaign speech, though he hopes Hoover will be elected. His attitude is that while President he is serving the whole people, and must not be a partisan.

Mr. Hoover will not make any more speeches in the east, but will leave early next week for California, and on the way will speak at St. Louis, Nov. 2nd.

Gov. Smith made a tour of several of the large towns in Massachusetts, on Wednesday, and at night spoke before a monster gathering in Boston, where he was tumultuously cheered in three auditoriums. He defended his stand for "state socialism" in answer to Mr. Hoover's N. Y. speech, and in general denounced the stand of the Republican candidate on water power, farm relief and prohibition. The meeting is thought to have greatly increased his chances of carrying Massachusetts, which is one of the great battlefields of the campaign.

More than 1000 women attended a demonstration of the Women's National Committee for Hoover, on Wednesday, in Baltimore. There were four speakers, one of them being Mrs. Frank E. Mann, of W. Va., a delegate to the Houston Democratic convention, and another was Mrs. Wm. B. Malney, a Catholic, from New York.

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, one of the original La Follette style of "progressives," has come out for Gov. Smith, and will make speeches for him from now until election day. He is not with Gov. Smith on prohibition, but says there is no other place for progressives to go than to support the Democratic candidates.

Scrambled National Politics.

It is a great deal easier this year, for one to tell what he does not know about the result of the coming election, than what he knows; for it is a settled fact that the vote is not going to represent parties, or past majorities, for party lines are broken down as they never were before, not only in the "solid South," but in the North, West and East.

The prohibition question is no longer a third-party affair, but is right out at the front. Though many of the party leaders belittle it as an issue, it refuses to stay in the purely moral class, because the masses of the people will not let it be there. It is creating more of the division than all of the other differences put together.

The negroes, who have always been dependent on to vote the Republican ticket, at least for president, are this year divided; partly, we presume, because the Ku Klux vote is for Hoover, and to some extent because they have not been receiving as many appointments from Republican officials as they have desired. This division has been, to some extent, under way for the past four years, but seems a real one this year.

The fact that Gov. Smith is a Catholic, will lead some Protestant Democrats to vote against him. There is no openly organized movement in that direction, but that there will be a split of some importance on this account, is a sure thing.

The Farmer question, one of the big issues, is being discussed by both sides, for votes, very largely; and neither have a definite solution because neither can possibly have one.
If there is any one big question in this country that is purely for Congress to work out, this is it; and it hinges on the tariff and world conditions, supply and demand, as no other question does. No candidate can personally offer any sure settlement of it, satisfactory to farmers and consumers at the same time.

The big old tariff question and the attendant prosperity of the country, is as big as it ever was, and as prolific in argument; and even this is breaking as a dividing question between parties. It is no longer held to be a sure Democratic doctrine, accepted by all sections, that the tariff should be "for revenue only" and as nearly "free trade" as possible. And this fact adds to the causes for the "splitting" of parties.

And last, but not least in a few states, is the "Progressive" vote. Nobody knows just what "progressivism" stands for, but some talk and act as though they think they know; so in three or four Western states there is the La Follette vote of 1924 to go to somebody in November.

And, the women must not be forgotten. In fact, their votes may name the next President, and Mr. Hoover seems to be the preference of the most of them. And all of this, briefly sketched, goes to show that it is easier to speculate over what one does not know, than over what one does know, and that picking the winner on Nov. 6, is impossible to be sure about.

Russia Goes Back to Partial Prohibition.

In Russia, by order of the government a rule limiting the manufacture of vodka, the Russian high-powered liquor containing 40 percent alcohol, and other alcoholic drinks, including beer, has been adopted, as paving the way to complete prohibition.

Following the war the government repealed the war-time prohibitory law the result being that the consumption of vodka jumped from 2,160,000 gallons to 85,505,000 gallons, and along with the repeal drunkenness greatly increased, the efficiency of workmen decreased to an alarming extent, as did also the general morals of the people.

Along with the publication of the restriction order, the governmental also prohibited the quantity of any new liquor licenses for drinking places;
the sale of alcoholic drinks is prevented in all workers' clubs, railway stations, and village inns located not far from manufacturing districts.

The manufacture of beer also increased from 46,440,000 gallons to 86,400,000 gallons, and beer manufacture has also been limited to no less than 5 percent of last year's figures. The commission in charge of the law also has in preparation plans to regulate the hours of sale of alcoholic drinks, and to prevent boot-legging.

Disappointed Voters.

Election facilities in many parts of the country seem hopelessly inadequate to handle the crowds that will go to the polls on November 6. The situation in Philadelphia is typical.
Many of the divisions are too large, and even the provision of additional booths—if the quarters will accommodate them—will not materially relieve the congestion. George F.
Holmes, president of the County Commissioners, will ask the Court of Common Pleas to suspend the election-law provision that only those inside the polling places and holding ballots in their hands at the closing hour may vote. If this move fails, hundreds of Philadelphians may be deprived of the franchise because of the crowds.

New York City officials are puzzled as to how they can accommodate more than 2,000,000 registered voters with the 3075 voting machines available. Binghamton, N. Y., will be forced to use paper ballots to supplement its machines. Similar problems exist in scores of towns and cities throughout the country. No presidential campaign has ever aroused such a widespread desire to participate in the result. Efforts to get out the vote have met an unprecedented response. It is regrettable that the full effect of this response may not be felt because of inadequate facilities.—Phila. Ledger.

The Presidency vs. Hoover.

The Record has received a copy of a cloth bound book on "The Presidency vs. Hoover," by Samuel Crowther, the first book of the character that we have known to be published in the interest of any candidate, in any campaign. As the gift of the book seems to call for a notice of it, we give the following that fully answers the question—What has Mr.
Hoover done? which is hardly a question of partisanship.

"Mr. Hoover's present or recent positions of importance, largely domestic, include the following:

President, American Child Health Association; Chairman, American Relief Association Children's Fund; Chairman, Commission for Relief in Belgium Educational Institution; Trustee, Carnegie Institution; Trustee, Stanford University; Chairman, St. Lawrence Waterway Commission;
Member of Central Committee, American Red Cross; Member of Advisory Board, Hoover War Library and Food Research Institute, and Chairman, Better Homes in America.

He has also served the posts representing both domestic and foreign responsibilities, it will be noted, as President of the American Institute of Mining Engineers and the American Engineering Council, as Chairman of the American Relief Administration and the Commission for Relief in Belgium, as United States Food Administrator, as a member of the United States War Council; as Chairman of the United States Food Administration Grain Corporation, the United States Sugar Equalization Board, the Allied Food Council and the American Relief Administration in twelve European countries, and in Armenia; as a member of the Supreme Economic Council, as Chairman of the European Food Council and the European Coal Council, as Vice-Chairman of the Second Labor Conference, as Chairman of the European Relief Council, as a member of the Advisory Board of the Washington Arms Conference, as a member of the World War Debt Commission, as Chairman of the Colorado River Commission, as President of the International Radio Conference and the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, and as Chairman of the National Committee on Wood Utilization and the National Radio Conference. Last year also he was chosen as a matter of course to direct the perplexing work of relief and recuperation in the flooded districts of the Mississippi Valley.

Although he has handled billions of dollars, there has never been a suspicion of graft by any one—not even by the lowest of the employees. And he had to employ many thousands of workers of all nationalities and from all walks of life."

Few Persons Who May not Save Money.

Students of economic conditions in this country tell us that poverty is steadily being eliminated through the processes of education. There was a time within the memory of many now living when dire poverty existed in every city if not in every community.
The general standard of living has been steadily advancing for the last fifty years and conditions are such today that there is hardly a person anywhere who is not in a position to save money if he so chooses.

This does not mean that all who are able to save are doing so. There are many who do not.

Numerous persons excuse themselves from practicing thrift on the plea that they cannot save anything and maintain a good standard of living. While it may be true in some isolated cases that circumstances over which they have no control make it impossible for them to get ahead in the world, these instances are exceptional.

The old saying, "Where there's a will there's a way," applies with full force to the practice of saving money.
Those who do not save or who think they cannot are not fair with themselves. They are unwilling to make certain sacrifices. Their minds are biased by false pride or egotism.
Their viewpoint is incorrect.

If they should think the problem clear through they would determine to find ways by which they could save things by which they could save something even though the amounts be small.

Upon one's ability to find such ways of saving money, depends very much of one's chances of success in life.

This is a phase of the matter that should be given the deepest consideration. Also it should be borne in mind that those who are not sufficiently interested in their own welfare to lay by a certain portion of their earnings for the future do not care enough about real success ever to achieve any substantial place in the affairs of men.

Before there can be success there must be a desire to succeed. And this desire must be so deep that it overcomes every barrier.—Am. Society for Thrift.

The Remembered Gift.

"Remember it? I should say I do!"
The big man's face beamed with happy recollection.

Someone had, in more or less of a business way, spoken of The Youth's Companion. And just the mention of its name—so far as business was concerned—broke up that meeting. But what fun those busy men had swapping recollections of the days when the arrival of The Youth's Companion was the high spot of the whole week.

Rare, indeed are the pleasures that we remember so warmly over half a century of years. But The Youth's Companion is still among them.

Isn't there some boy or girl whom you would like to make happy with a gift subscription?

In its new enlarged and improved form as a monthly magazine, The Companion has more to offer its young readers than ever before—a full book-length novel complete in each issue; short stories and serials so thrilling they will never even suspect them of being a "good influence" or the "right kind of reading"—articles by outstanding men and women that will fire their young ambition—comments on current affairs—puzzles, poems, guides to the best in books and moving pictures—special departments for both boys and girls covering their own favorite activities.

You may give some boy or girl a truly fine gift by accepting the following offer:

1. The Youth's Companion, 12 big monthly numbers, and
2. Two extra numbers to new subscribers ordering within 30 days, and 3. A copy of "WE" in 12 colors, framing size 13x24 inches. All for only $2.

Ants Never Found at Loss in Finding Water

In a thirsty land where, as sometimes happens in South Africa, a three-years' drought dries up every blade of grass, the white ants always have water. The reason has been found by M. Marais, a South African naturalist. The ants are water-finders and well-sinkers.

On a Transvaal farm while a man's well was being sunk the borers came upon a tiny two-inch shaft running into the earth. The ants had been there before them! They had sunk an ant well 65 feet deep to where water was to be found.

Up and down this shaft, night and day, water-carrying ants went, each bearing its drop of water. It took each ant half an hour to get down to the reservoir, draw its water, and bring it up to the nest. Then down again it went. There appeared to be night shifts and day shifts, and the night ants worked the hardest.

It may be true, as declared by M.
Forel, the greatest living authority on ants, that they are creatures working almost wholly by instinct, and only to the extent of about 2 per cent by intelligent or reflective observation; but when it comes to water finding, their intuition makes them hard to beat.

Mispronunciations

As many words are mispronounced as are misspelled, according to a writer in Capper's Weekly, "Among the mispronounced ones," he says,
"are aviator, aviation and radiator.
The first 'a' is pronounced as in 'ate,'
'late,' not as in 'rather.' The word
'grimy' is often pronounced as if it were spelled 'grimmy.' The 't' should be given the long sound. 'Route' is often pronounced 'rout.' It should be 'root.' The word 'address,' meaning the superscription on a letter, is not add-ress, but plain address with accent on last syllable."

SMOKERS' OPINIONS WANTED

Can a Good Cigar be Made to Sell for 5c?

We say it can. And we've got the cigar with which to prove it!— Havana Ribbon. Thirty years on the market; added experience behind it every year; production increasing by millions—that's why we're safe in saying there isn't another 5c cigar that's even a close second to Havana Ribbon.

Best of all is the fact that Havana Ribbon contains no bitter under-ripe nor flat-tasting over-ripe tobacco. And no "cuttings" or short ends to crumble in your mouth.
But only long, fragrant, flavorful, mellow-mild, fully-ripe middle leaves of choice tobacco plants. Can you imagine such a thing in a 5c cigar? Dig up a nickel and get the reality of it! You'll tie up to Havana Ribbon for good. And you'll fatten your savings bank account right smartly with the money its low price will save you. Sold singly, by the box and in Practical Pocket Packages of five. Everywhere.

Bee Masters Not in Accord Over "Ringing"

The old bee masters differed greatly on the efficacy of the picturesque custom of "ringing" bees, according to a writer in the Detroit News. Edmund Southern's "Treatise Concerning the Right Use and Ordering of Bees," printed in 1594, says: "When the swarm is up it is not good to ring them, as some do, nay it is a common thing where there is no experience to keep a stirre and lay on either with a Bas-son, Kettle or Frying pan taking (as the common proverb is) great pains and have little thanks: for by such means they make the bees angry and go further to settle than otherwise they would."

Samuel Puchas, a rector in Essex at the time, wrote: "There is this benefit of ringing, that if you have neighbors near you that keep bees, you may give notice thereby to prevent wrangling if some of theirs should rise at the same time. But if they will not be stayed, but hastening on still, go beyond your bounds, the ancient law of Christendom permit-teth you to pursue them withersoever, but our common law is more uncivil, for if your bees be out of your ground your property is lost, if you be not more courteous."

Thoughts of Modern Girl Reading Novel

Heavens why do they make books so long good-night I've only read 37 pages counting skipping I wonder where on earth is that racy part Julie told me about I wish I could find it this isn't a bit interesting here how could any girl be such an idiot as this what's her name gosh I s'pose I'll have to go back and look up her name where she first came in and who on earth is this peculiar Ricardo person who is saying something now I can't remember what he is to her if anything I loathe characters like him anyways so high-minded and everything poisonous like that gosh I wish I didn't have to wade through this conversational part but everybody is raving about the books this author what's his name keeps writing because he is supposed to be so darned clever or something gosh I wish he'd dry up thirty-seven pages and no necking yet heavens what a bore I wonder what that word umbrage means it says she took umbrage I wonder if that's a drug or something this is getting good I bet that's what it means I wonder how you look up a word in the dictionary I've never done it you have to know what letters come after each other or something to find anything in a dictionary I guess I'll read the last two pages and see how the thing comes out.—Kansas City Star.

Yankee Invented Scissors

It was a Yankee genius, Seth Boyden by name, who brought out the first pair of scissors, made by welding on soft backing or iron backing a high grade steel blade, with handles fashioned to fit the hand, and it was in 1826 that invention was given to the world. It is regarded from a mechanical view as unique and of the greatest importance to the world.

Lightning Freak

Ever wonder why the victim of a summer lightning stroke usually has the soles torn from his shoes? The explanation is in perspiration, says the Farm Journal. The lightning travels in a flash to the shoes where it encounters the moisture which is quickly converted into steam. The result is an explosion.

Joshua's Dictation

A small boy, when asked by his Sunday school teacher what he knew about Joshua, answered:
"Joshua was a man who told his son to stand still and he did."
The only comment on this, says the Christian Advocate, is that Joshua was much more successful than the modern father.

grows well on high, dry lands, in clay, loam and light sandy soils, and in river bottoms where water does not

Senator Bruce Wins Widespread Praise

Senator William Cabell Bruce, Democratic candidate for re-election to the United States Senate, has been accorded more recognition for his knowledge, ability and courage than any other Maryland Senator for many years. Here are some of the expressions by fellow-Senators, others in public life and leading newspapers:

By His Colleagues of all Parties

SENATOR JAMES A. REED, OF MISSOURI (Democrat).

"Senator Bruce, of Maryland * * * made * * * the ablest presentation of the anti-prohibition case, submitted by any public man, since the ratification of the Eighteenth Amendment." (New York Times, April 6, 1926).

SENATOR WM. H. KING, OF UTAH, (Democrat).

"The eminent Senator from Maryland, a lawyer of ability and a historian of recognized standing, has reached the eminent station occupied by him * * * by energy and genius and courage and ambition." (Congressional Record, February 3, 1928, p. 2507.)

SENATOR WM. E. BORAH, OF IDAHO, (Progressive Republican).

"Senator Bruce is one of the ablest men in the United States Senate. He is a man of intellect, of great culture, and of magnificent courage." (Debate with President Butler, of Columbia University, p. 33).
"A few days ago the able Senator Bruce from Maryland addressed the Senate upon the question now pending (World Court). I think we will all agree that this scholarly address is one of those in this debate which will likely be referred to in future times." (Congressional Record, January 22, 1926, p. 2555.)

SENATOR HENRIK SHIPSTEAD, OF MINNESOTA, (Farmer-Laborite).

"The Senator from Maryland (Mr. Bruce), who is a man of very notable character, has a very charming personality, and is recognized as having one of the keenest and ablest minds in the Senate at the present time." (Congressional Record, February 11, 1927, p. 3499).

By Others of Prominence

HON. JAMES M. BECK (former Solicitor General, United States, now member of the House of Representatives).

"I have known the senior Senator (Mr. Bruce) for years and know him to be a man of equal courage and integrity. When he, with his profound knowledge of American history and Constitutional law, reached a different interpretation of the Constitution than that which I have suggested, it makes me wonder whether my interpretation * * * may not be erroneous." (Address before the Eastern Shore Society of Maryland, March 9, 1928).

HON. JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS, ex-Senator from Mississippi.

"I think he (Governor Ritchie) and Senator Bruce represent an element in present-day American politics that is worthy of all praise. Unlike the average politician, they are not lacking in political courage and that means a lot in this day and generation." (In an interview with Mr. L. C. Speers of the New York Times).

By Leading Newspapers

Baltimore Sun (Independent).

"Mr. Bruce has the distinction of rising to the height of comprehension and leadership on a subject of immense national importance (Taxation). * * * Mr. Bruce's patriotic vision and understanding promise to lead it (the Democratic Party) once more into the promised land of success. We have a right to be proud that a Maryland Senator is putting Maryland to the front in a situation so vital to the country and to the Democratic Party." (Editorial).

New York Times (Independent Democrat).

"By such frank and explicit utterances Mr. Bruce confirms the good opinion of those who maintained * * * that his election would be an honor to the State of Maryland and a strong reinforcement for the United States Senate." (Editorial).

"Advertisement by authority of Jos. S. Goldsmith, Treasurer.

New York Herald-Tribune (Independent Republican)

"It is no news to Maryland voters that they have in Senator Bruce a representative of high capacity and courage."

New York Evening Post (Republican).

"Senator Bruce is evidently a man who knows what he thinks and is not afraid to let the country know." (Editorial).

New York Commercial.

"The country needs more men in the Senate like Senator Bruce." (Editorial).

Chicago Journal of Commerce.

"Mr. Bruce is an honor to the Senate and an honor to Maryland." (Editorial).

Philadelphia Public Evening Ledger (Independent).

"Senator Bruce of Maryland * * * has, by the courageous exercise of a little political common sense, lifted himself into a position of intellectual leadership, which makes him a force to be reckoned with."

Philadelphia Inquirer (Republican).

"It is the voice of a Democrat of the old school. These words might well have been uttered by sturdy Grover Cleveland himself."

FREDERICK WILLIAM WILE, Washington Evening Star (Independent).

"Senator William Cabell Bruce, Democrat of Maryland, is a master of the English language, as becomes the man now generally regarded as the scholar of Congress."

Greenville, S. C., Democrat-Sun.

"The Senator from Maryland is like one of those giants of pre-Civil War days, who thought of their country, first and last and all the time." (Editorial).

Sheepdog Is Marvel

of Canine Sagacity

It is only recently that attention has been drawn to the wonderful brain capacity of the working sheepdog. Dogs trained for special sheepdog trials have given extraordinary demonstrations of how a dog can think and reason for himself.

Many people are under the impression that this is quite a new development in sheepdog training, but it is not so. From time immemorial shepherds have had a wonderful understanding between themselves and their dogs. In the real sheepdogs there seems to be an inbred instinct which enables them to do the work that is expected of them. It is a natural gift, which is developed when brought into companionship with the shepherd.

James Hogg, the Ettrick shepherd, wrote much regarding the sagacity of his dogs. In his day the shepherds had more difficult tasks to accomplish than they have today. They had to bring their flocks long distances to fairs and markets, and had to keep their own lots separate from the others—a task in itself, as the sheep had to be tended night and day.

The working collie has a great capacity for understanding each sound and gesture made by its master. The dogs enjoy their work, and seem to delight in anticipating the wishes of the shepherds.

Rats and Other Pests

Distributed by Wind

There have been many insect showers, and small frog showers are not unknown. One was witnessed near Toulouse by Professor Pontus, in 1804. But the most unpleasant shower of all fell in Norway. A colony of rats migrating from the highlands to the lowlands was swept up by a whirlwind and strewn over the next valley.

In the past, people have attributed these showers to witchcraft, but the truth is, of course, that the wind was at the bottom of the mischief. Traveling with a circular motion, the wind will sweep up light objects like a gigantic vacuum cleaner and bear them for miles through the air.

In every case recorded these strange showers have been accompanied by extraordinary weather—waterspouts, whirlwinds, or tremendous thunderstorms.

Made Matters Worse

He had been receiving anonymous letters. Nasty ones. Though the handwriting was decidedly individual, detectives had not been able to trace the poison-penner.

He went to a fancy-dress ball recently. In asking for a dance from a fair damsel, he noticed on her program a signature with the exact handwriting of the anonymous writer. He waited. Soon a fellow dressed as a lion came along.

Things are now even more anonymous. All he knows further is that a fellow dressed as a lion socked him.—Exchange.

Physicians and Cookery

While our modern cook books are mostly written by women, this has not always been the case. During the Middle Ages it was customary for doctors to write cook books and most of the culinary volumes of these times came from the medical profession. Cookery was considered akin to healing. Doctor Lister, author of a fine cook book and physician to Queen Anne, wrote: "I do not consider myself as hazarding anything when I say that no man can be a good physician who has not a competent knowledge of cookery."—Kansas City Times.

The Life Prolonger

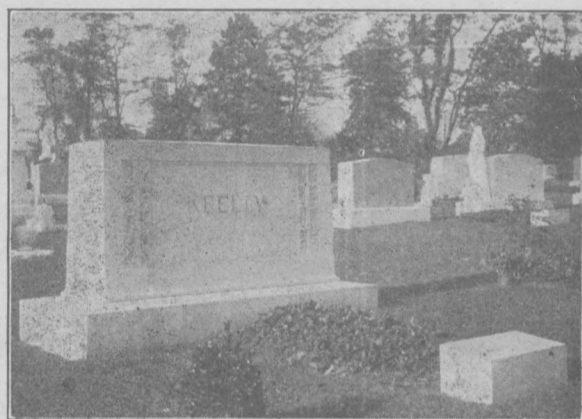

In the mental plane of your heart is an evergreen tree; its name is Love. As long as it flourishes you are young; when it dies you are old. In the central place of your heart is a wireless station. As long as it receives messages of beauty, hope, cheer, grandeur, courage, and power, from the earth, from men and from the Infinite, so long you are young. When the wires are down and all the central places of your heart are covered with snows of cynicism and the ices of pessimism, then you are grown old—even at twenty.—Nuggets.

The Clipper Ship

The period of the clipper ship was the golden age of merchant sailing. The first real clipper, the Rainbow, was launched in New York in 1845. The repeal of British navigation laws in 1849 and the California gold rush in 1848 gave a marvelous impetus to the building of ships. One of the sensational events of the period was the voyage of the American Oriental in 1850. This was the first ship of the nation to carry tea from China.

Study at West Point

Foreign governments are permitted to choose representatives of their countries who wish to receive instructions at the United States Military academy. These governments make special requests to the congress of the United States. Congress by special act can provide for the graduation of such foreigners. These men however, do not receive a commission in the United States army.

TRULY an artistic memorial is the Keely tribute. Its simple grace and contour plus its talented craftsmanship gives it an air of distinctive refinement. The splendid execution of its symbolic ornamentation is worthy of appreciation.

Fleet, symmetrical, low to the ground, unique & unrivaled from an artistic standpoint—and the most comfortable automobile motorists have ever known---

Not only beautiful, but only symmetrical, not only luxurious—but an entirely new style—an alluring new mode of car design—

—a mode so true and sound and beautiful that it forecasts the trend of smart body-design for years to come—

The same artistry, the same craftsmanship which make this new Buick the most beautiful automobile of the day also make it the most comfortable automobile motorists have ever known.

New adjustable front seats in the closed models—full width rear seats providing plenty of room for three adult passengers—deep, soft upholstery—the lounging spaciousness of the interiors—all combine with Buick's famous cantilever springs and Lovejoy Hydraulic shock absorbers to produce the highest degree of riding luxury ever attained.

See this new Buick—drive it—prove to yourself it's the Buick of Buicks and the car of cars!

"Inside" Information for Women.

Do you know Leaflet 28, "Lamb as You Like It"? It contains many suggestions on cooking lamb properly, and may be obtained for the asking from the United States Department of Agriculture.

Squash, as well as pumpkin, can be used for pie filling. As these pies contain eggs and milk, they must be cooked in moderate oven. To prevent the crust from becoming soggy, pre-bake it until it is delicately colored, but not brown, before putting in the filling.

There are no household methods of setting the color in a dyed fabric. The use of salt vinegar, and other substances has been found to do absolutely no good. Dyes, however, are so much better now than they used to be, that it is usually satisfactory to try a sample of the goods you think of buying, and if it does not run when you wash it, or fade too much when exposed to sunlight, it may be considered reasonably fast in color.

Canned pineapple can be served in a number of appetizing ways when fresh fruits become scarce. Pineapple pies, tarts, and sauce for dessert are all delicious. Pineapple and sweet potato baked in alternating layers makes a good vegetable combination.

Fried sliced pineapple is often served with meats, just as apple sauce or friend apples or a tart jelly is served. A good winter preserve can be made from canned pineapple and dried apricots.

GAS MADE HER CROSS CAN'T EAT OR SLEEP

"When I ate I would bloat up with gas. I couldn't sleep, was cross and nervous. Adlerika has given me real relief."—Mrs. M. Meyer.

Adlerika relieves stomach gas and sourness in TEN minutes. Acting on BOTH upper and lower bowel, it removes old waste matter you never thought was in your system. Let Adlerika give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing and see how much better you feel. It will surprise you! Robert S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

DIED.

Obituaries, poetry and resolutions, charged for at the rate of five cents per line. The regular death notices published free.

MRS. WILLIAM HAWK.

Mrs. Merle Hawk, wife of Mr. William Hawk, Adams Co., Pa., died at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, on Wednesday morning, from complications, having been at the hospital for some time. Her maiden name was Crabbs, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Crabbs, of Carroll County, and formerly lived in Taneytown. She was in her 42nd year.

She is survived by her husband, whose former home was Taneytown district, and seven children; also by one brother, Maurice Crabbs, Westminster, and a half-brother and stepmother, living near Linwood.

Funeral services this Friday, at noon, at her late home, followed by interment in the Lutheran cemetery, Taneytown, the services being in charge of Rev. D. S. Kammerer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church.

He that never changed any of his opinions, never corrected any of his mistakes; and he who was never wise enough to find out any mistakes in himself, will not be charitable enough to excuse what he reckons mistakes in others.

Life would be dull if we knew what it was all about.

After next week, one almost wonders what the political dailies will fill up space with—and so much of it. Anyway, it's almost sure to be better reading.

New Federal Highway Maps.

Always the question uppermost in the motorist's mind before starting on a long or short trip is "What kind of roads will I find?" He may now know what kind he will find on the United States System of Highways, says the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. It has prepared maps that will show him. He may now know just where he will have to travel over gravel roads, sand-clay, bituminous macadam, waterbound macadam, bituminous concrete, concrete, or brick roads.

The first series of uniform scale maps ever made showing the status of improvement of the Federal-aid system of highways is completed, with the exception of California and Texas, and is ready for distribution. Maps of these two States will be finished within a short time. These maps show the status of improvements of the Federal-aid system in each State regardless of whether the construction has been done with the aid of the Federal Government, by the States, by the counties, or by the townships.

A system of symbols indicates the type of improvement of all the roads and whether the work was done with or without the assistance of the Federal Government.

Sheets are of uniform size, some States requiring two, and are so bound that they may be punched and placed in a loose-leaf atlas.

The maps are called progress maps, and the series will be published periodically to register any change in improvement of the highways.

King George Tickled at Forestalling Pitt

One January evening, the Manchester (Eng.) Guardian relates, Dr. Manners Sutton was giving a dinner party at his demery at Windsor, when a visitor was announced, who insisted upon seeing him immediately. Sutton, in no very amiable mood, went into the hall, to find George II standing there.

"How d'ye do? How d'ye do?" said the king, genially. "Come to let you know you're archbishop of Canterbury—archbishop of Canterbury. D'ye accept? D'ye accept? Eh?" The astonished dean could only bow in token of acceptance.

"All right," said the king. "See you've got a party. Go back to your guests." And he departed, chuckling at having forestalled Pitt, who rode posthaste to Windsor next morning to suggest another nominee for the office, only to find it filled.

Rubbing It In.

Bill Jones hadn't heard from Mary Smith in over a year. One day she called him up at the office and asked him to lend her his full dress suit. Bill told her to go over to his house and get it. He'd call up the landlady and it would be O. K.

About six months later, Bill was invited to a wedding. Then he was reminded that Mary hadn't returned the dress suit.

That got him sore. So he called her up on the phone.

"Look here," he snapped at her. "Did you borrow that dress suit forever?"

"Yes," she answered sweetly. "We buried my father in it."

How It Happened.

Among the employees whose duties are supposed to be discharged in the rear of a certain shop in Baltimore while the proprietor looks after matters in front are a couple of colored men, who occasionally "take things easy."

One afternoon they were engaged in a quiet game of seven-up on a barrel, when they were startled by the sudden appearance of the boss, whom they supposed to be in his usual place in front.

The boss was angry. "How is it," he demanded, "that I find you fellows playing cards?"

"I don't know, boss," was the response of one of the darkies, "unless it's on account of them rubber heels you is wearing."

Be a "Can-be."

There's a thousand "Can't-be-doners," For one who says "It can't." But the whole amount of deeds that count

Is done by the latter clan. For the "Can't-be-doners" grumble, And hamper, oppose and doubt, While the daring man who says "It can," Proceeds to work it out.

There isn't a new invention Beneath the shining sun. That was ever wrought by deed or thought.

Of the tribe of "Can't-be-dones." For the "Can't-be-doners" mutter, While the "Can-be's" cool, subtle, Make their "notions" work till the others smirk.

"Oh, we knew it all, all the time!" Oh, the "Can-be's" clan is meager, Its membership is small, And it's mighty few see their dreams come true.

Or hear fame's trumpet call; But it's better to be a "Can-be," And labor and dream and die, Than one who runs with the "Can't-be-dones."

Who haven't the pluck to try. —Berton Braley.

Man So Nervous Gets Sore When Spoken To

"It actually irritated me to have anyone talk to me. I was so nervous. Vinol ended this and I feel wonderful now."—Wm. Fahy.

Vinol is a compound of iron, phosphates, cod liver peptone, etc. The very FIRST bottle makes you sleep better and have a BIG appetite. Nervous, easily tired people are surprised how QUICK the iron, phosphates, etc., give new life and pep. Vinol tastes delicious. Robert S. McKinney, Druggist, Taneytown, Md.

HISTORY IS TAUGHT BY MUMMY FAMILY

Scientists Study Remains of Ancient Egyptians.

Detroit.—A family of Egyptian mummies 3,000 years dead are teaching history to a little group of studious Detroiters.

They are telling curious and amazing things about themselves and others of their kind, who walked the earth ten centuries before the beginning of the Christian era, relating strange facts, revealing long sought mysteries, bringing to life again a splendid civilization that vanished generations ago.

Dr. S. Edward Sanderson, Detroit physician, and Benjamin March, curator of Asiatic arts in the Detroit Museum of Art, have joined forces in the study of the mummies. Doctor Sanderson has called upon the X-ray to aid him in his search for further knowledge of these silent spokesmen of the past and March brings a complete and thorough knowledge of the artistic side of ancient Egypt, to aid in the undertaking.

Possibilities Endless.

This is an exceedingly novel and original experiment and both men insist that they have accomplished very little in spite of their intensive studies. Both believe, however, that the possibilities of the venture are endless, and express the hope that something of great value may some day come out of the undertaking.

"If we are to know and understand the men and women of the present, we must know something of those who lived in the past," Doctor Sanderson says. "If we took away all the knowledge we have acquired from our study of dead races and vanished peoples we would be very ignorant indeed."

"Egyptian mummies are especially interesting to study because Egypt was the great melting pot 3,000 years ago. We can prove this racially. The old Egyptian was a masterful man."

"Some of the mummies are so perfectly preserved that it is still possible to detect the presence of food in the stomachs of the children and to tell something of their diet. We find grains, an old form of millet and delicate bits of young mice."

Two passive bodies lie still and quiet upon the dissecting tables in the art museum but even in their silence and immobility they give up many secrets in response to the proddings of skilled scientific fingers, the searching eye of powerful X-ray machines.

Brain Tissues Removed.

March describes the procedure of an Egyptian burial. The embalming of the body so perfectly that today, after the lapse of centuries, the bones, the muscles and sometimes the skin are to be seen. The vital organs were removed and placed in four canopic jars, each guarded by its particular god and so placed that it would be easy for the whole body to reassemble itself when the time came to enter into a new life.

The X-ray has accomplished one thing of definite value. It has demonstrated the method by which the brain tissues were removed from the head without breaking the skull. Tiny borings through the nostrils are now believed to have freed the brain substances which were placed in their designated canopic jars.

It has long been assumed by many scientists that this was the method, but it needed the X-ray to reveal it in undisputed actuality. The X-ray plates which demonstrate this method will be loaned to the University of Michigan for class room study.

Holland Turning From Wind to Electricity

The Hague.—Electricity is playing a rapidly increasing part in the industrial life of Holland, as it is being found that, in spite of their picturesque character, windmills are falling very much behind in their output capacity. The capital for financing conversions from wind power to electrical power and for creating electrical power for other purposes is not always available and, therefore, an international finance corporation has been founded, with a capital of 10,000,000 florins, at Amsterdam.

The holders of this capital are Phoebe and Gutmann and Teizera de Mattos of Amsterdam; Chase Securities corporation and Speyer & Company of New York; Dresden bank and Darmstadter and National bank of Berlin, and Hambros bank, London.

Activity will not be restricted to Holland, although the idea and the central organization have originated here, but will be spread wherever there is need of capital for electrical enterprises. It is possible that shares in electrical undertakings will be purchased, but the chief aim is to be able to supply loan capital of either a permanent or temporary character.

Look Within Yourself

When there is apparently no real cause for despondency you should look within yourself. Perhaps there are physical troubles that are to blame for your mournful outlook. There may be a still voice within that demands certain achievements on your part. You may have failed to make the efforts necessary to satisfy latent ambitions. Your enthusiasm may be waning; or the love to which you consider yourself entitled may not be yours. The situation should be analyzed in detail. The problem must be squarely faced and fully solved.—Dream World Magazine.

Naval Range Finder

An accurate method of computing the distance between ships when the height of the enemy ship is not known is by the use of the optical range finder. This instrument is installed in the turrets of battleships. It consists of a long tube with optical prisms. The length of the tube is taken as the base of a triangle. The distance is then figured out mathematically. The degree of accuracy depends upon the visibility conditions and the distance can usually be ascertained within a few hundred yards of the exact distance.

GEN. SAM HOUSTON

Teachers With State Aid Making It a Shrine.

Huntsville, Texas—The homestead to which Gen. Sam Houston retired when he was deposed as governor of Texas because he refused to swear allegiance to the confederacy, and the house in which he died, lonely and broken-hearted, are being restored to their original rustic beauty.

The work of making the grounds a state park and the old home a shrine for the people of Texas soon will be completed. The legislature appropriated $15,000 for the purpose.

A quarter of a century after he had won freedom for Texas with his victory at San Jacinto, General Houston lost the governorship of the state which, as a republic, had honored him with its presidency. Somewhat embittered, he sought peace at his home near Huntsville and died two years later.

The home changed ownership many times, but in 1911 became the property of the state teachers' college, which bears the general's name.

In the last few months many changes have been made in the appearance of the place. Trees, which were not there when it was Houston's home, were chopped down, and those which he had planted were pruned and marked. The pond was enlarged to its former size and shrubs were planted on its banks.

The house was restored to its appearance of long ago, except that lumber from a sawmill replaced the rough-hewn plants. The interior, however, was given what architects pronounced an almost perfect restoration.

Now a search is being made for the furniture which Houston used during his last days. One of the first pieces recovered was a chair, found in a Negro's hut.

Chinese Converts Hand Christians a Puzzle

Canton, China.—Chinese converts to Christianity have advanced the claim that admission to the church entitles them to divorce their non-Christian wives and contract a new marriage "based on love as in the west."

The demand is a new phase of the old conflict between the customs of ancient China and the ideas implanted by Christian missionaries. Among non-Christian Chinese the bride and groom have little or nothing to do with the match.

Present-day wedding ceremonies in Canton are of a hybrid nature. Firecrackers are plentifully used and rice-throwing, not a custom indigenous to China, has been introduced by returned students from America. Many brides wear foreign-style lace veils with Chinese knit tams, while bridegrooms combine foreign straw hats and rubber-soled shoes with the conventional Chinese long silk gowns and black satin jackets.

The ancient wine ceremony and the obeisance before the tablets of the bridegroom's ancestors are generally observed even at Christian weddings out of deference to older members of the family. In Nationalist circles the political will of Dr. Sun Yat-sen is read and the couple bow three times before his portrait.

Saragossa Sea Place of Beauty, Not a Menace

New York.—The Saragossa sea is pictured as a place of beauty rather than a menace by H. A. Marmer of the United States coast and geodetic survey.

The water is unusually blue, due to lack of minute plant and animal life. It is so transparent that a six-foot white disc can be seen clearly at 200 feet depth.

Belief in the existence of great masses of weed in this sea has no basis in fact, Marmer writes in the United States Naval institute proceedings.

The sea has surface weed patches up to 100 feet in diameter and occasionally as large as an acre in extent, which do not interfere with navigation.

Naughty Alligator

Bassett, Neb.—Noticing a commotion among the chickens and pigs on her farm, Mrs. A. B. McCance investigated and found a small alligator trying to get a chicken dinner. It is thought the alligator escaped from a small circus that visited here a short time ago.

Buffalo Police Bar Old Wedding Custom

Buffalo, N. Y.—The time-honored custom of playfully tossing old shoes at the groom, tying tin cans and other noise-producing articles on the rear of automobiles used by bridal parties, and blowing of horns by cars in a bridal procession, will be cause for arrest hereafter.

The Buffalo health department classifies such acts as those of "morons, diabolical, and threatening the health of the sick and nervous."

Throwing old shoes at the groom is said to be fraught with danger—a blow on the head often resulting in a fatal injury.

A Different Thanksgiving Dinner

FROM the time when the Puritans first went out in the woods and shot the most easily available game—turkey—that particular fowl has been the traditional Thanksgiving dinner. In the same way the pumpkin pie for dessert is simply taken for granted.

But sometimes don't you get just a little tired when you think of all the years in which you have eaten turkey and pumpkin pie on Thanksgiving? Or are you like the New Englander who didn't care how many times a day he had pie, because he liked pie? Whichever class you belong to, the dinner menu and recipes given here will be stimulating. Roast duck stuffed with celery dressing and Indian nut pudding are suggested, but if you please, there is no reason why the standard fowl and dessert could not be used in their place.

Yes, Roast Duck!

Here are the menu and recipes for your approval. All the latter are planned to serve eight people.

Harvest Fruit Cup
Tomato and Lima Bean Soup
Roast Duck with Celery Stuffing
Orange Sauce
Potato Croquettes
Creamed Bermuda Onions
Squash au Gratin in Ramekins
Cranberry and Apple Sauce

Chicory with French Dressing
Indian Nut Pudding
Stem Raisins
Mints
Coffee

Harvest Fruit Cup: Choose red-skinned apples, and, leaving the skin on, dice until you have two-thirds cup. Add one cup of halved, seeded, white grapes, and two-thirds cup, diced, sliced pineapple. Pour over mixture one cup sweet cider and one cup pineapple syrup and serve, very cold, in glass cups.

A Real Soup

Tomato and Lima Bean Soup: Empty the contents of a number 3 can of tomatoes into a saucepan and add one and one-half cups brown stock, the liquid from a number 1 can of lima beans, sixteen peppercorns, eight allspice berries, one bay-leaf, one slice onion, and one-half teaspoon celery seed. Simmer twenty minutes, then add a thickening made by browning three tablespoons butter, adding three tablespoons flour, mixing thoroughly and browning again. Bring to boil, then press all through a sieve. Add one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and salt to taste. Add the lima beans from the number 1 can and heat. Serve in cups with a few beans in each cup.

Squash au Gratin in Ramekins: To three cups canned squash add three tablespoons melted butter, two well beaten eggs, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Put into small, buttered ramekins. Melt two tablespoons butter, add one-half cup crumbs and mix thoroughly; add one-fourth cup grated cheese and sprinkle over the top of the squash. Brown in a moderate oven, 375° F.

Now, the New Dessert

Cranberry-Apple Sauce: Mix one cup of apple sauce and the contents of a number 2 can of cranberry sauce in a sauce pan and cook rapidly for a few minutes. Press through a strainer or not, just as you desire. Cool, and pour into a glass serving dish to chill.

Indian Nut Pudding: Scald two cups evaporated milk and two cups water in the top part of a double boiler, add one-half cup cornmeal and stir for five minutes. Let cook five minutes more, then remove and cool slightly. Add one cup molasses, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon allspice, one-half teaspoon ginger, one-fourth cup melted butter, two beaten eggs, and one cup chopped, canned walnuts. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake uncovered in a low oven until a knife comes out clean. The temperature should be about 325° and the pudding should bake forty-five to sixty minutes. Stir occasionally the first ten minutes to keep nuts from sinking. Serve hot or cold with

Woman's Contrariness Featured in Fashions

Contrariness is one of woman's charms and should be cultivated in her dress as in everything else. In summer women wear fox furs with light dresses. Their hats are of velvet in August and of straw in February. Similarly, throughout the entire history of fashion one can point out equally amusing examples. It was in the days of the narrow sedan chairs that women wore paniers as wide-spreading as possible. In the days of the crowded stagecoaches women wore crinolines.

Fashion's history furnishes us with example after example of the whims of women which always indicate how indifferent they are to logical arguments. One cannot refrain from remarking, too, that it is in times when the financial condition of the country is most acute that luxury is most out of reason. The less money there is available, the more fashionable and sought after are gold cloth and metal embroideries. And so one may well understand that there is in style and in women's decree a sort of provocation of common sense, which is charming and should vex only ill-humored folk.—Paul Poiret in the Forum Magazine.

Eskimo Igloo

Snow, despite its frigidity, makes a good blanket; that is to say, it is a bad conductor of heat. Travelers have buried themselves in the snow to gain warmth, and it is well known that a snowfall protects plants from frost. An Eskimo need never be cold in his igloo, despite his building material, and if he lines it with skins he can raise the temperature of his room to as much as 100 degrees Fahrenheit. In point of fact, he raises it almost as much in the ordinary course of construction; this partially melts the snow, which later congeals into ice. Thus the walls of the igloo are reinforced.

A Black Carnation

The newest thing in flowers is a carnation which, in full bloom, is almost black, says the Farm Journal, in a report of the recent International Flower show held in Ghent, Belgium. Ghent, incidentally, is probably the most colorful city in the world in flower season, with 700 flower nurseries, hundreds of flower markets and many huge conservatories, the latter large enough to provide for the growth of full-sized palm trees.

Science Again

According to an anthropological scientist, the human skull of 25,000 years ago was the same size and thickness as today, but by this time is probably solid ivory.—Topeka Capital.

Film Nightmares Are Produced by Invention

An invention that turns a simple movie into a nightmare of distortion has been perfected by an Englishman, H. G. Ponting, who was Captain Scott's photographer on his ill-fated trip to the South pole, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. People, animals or inanimate objects are changed into grotesque caricatures by successively distorting various portions. The process makes it possible to rephotograph an ordinary still picture and make it live on the film as it flows from one grotesquerie into another. An ordinary postcard photo of a race horse was shown by the inventor to an audience in London. As retaken for a movie, it became successively a short-legged dachshund-like animal, a long-legged giraffe type, a combination horse and mule, and other shapes.

What Is a Miracle?

The phenomena which are usually spoken of as miracles are distinguished by the following facts:

1. That only a very small fraction of mankind is, or was, permitted to witness them, under a wholly exceptional set of circumstances.

2. That they are usually of less interest to nonparticipants, and because of their great rarity seem less significant and less real to the world in general, than the miracles which we live among continually and have become accustomed to, and which we consider to be caused by the constant operation of natural laws.—Arthur Schnitzler in Vanity Fair.

The Ultimate Straw

"Hear about poor old Slyce? Why did he do it? He'd stood up under all sorts of hard luck."

"I know it. Fire, shipwreck, panics, divorces—we figured he was case-hardened, and now he's gone."

"Jumped off that cliff by the third tee, didn't he?"

"Yes—just scrawled a note and left it with his clubs."

"What'd it say?"

"It said, 'This is too much. Have just made a hole in one, without a single witness. Good-by.'"

458 Years on One Farm

In Warwickshire, England, the Neale family, of Exhall grange, a few miles from Nuneaton, has for the uninterrupted period of 458 years farmed this particular land, and the connection was severed recently, when there was a sale.

Future Woe

Another thing the happy bridegroom doesn't know, or he wouldn't be so happy, is that before long now he will be expected to eat things just to save them.—Ohio State Journal.

Sagacious Elephants

"Bring the elephant around at nine," is quite the convention first order of the day when traveling in portions of the Malay states, according to Robert V. Walton of New York, now in Tokyo.

In Siam, Mr. Walton said, the elephants work in "gangs," with an "overseer" who is quick to reprimand any laziness. The boss elephant jangles a heavy chain in the direction of any shirker and, if the offense is repeated, resorts to more drastic punishment. When the teak logs are floated down from the north and the dread jam occurs, the elephants quickly discover the key log and break the jam.—North China Standard.

Grasshopper "Music"

The male long-horned grasshoppers and crickets fiddle by rubbing their wing covers together. The male of the field crickets chirps by rubbing the file on the under side of one wing against the roughened surface on the upper side of the other.

Crickets can be made pets and kept indoors to sing in the winter months, but keep them away from your woolens. The genus grullus has an omnivorous appetite and will soon eat holes in woolen clothing. It is suggested by one entomologist that a lantern globe set on soil in a pot will make a good cage. Lettuce, moist bread, an bone meal makes an attractive menu for the cricket pet.

Explaining Phenomena

Phenology is the science which deals with the relations between climate and periodic biological phenomena, such as the migratory movements and nesting habits of birds, the leafing, flowering and fruiting of trees and plants, the appearance of insects, etc. The word "phenology" is a contraction of "phenomenology," which means the science of describing and explaining phenomena.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Go Far Back in History

The origin of the Olympic games is lost in antiquity. The official list of victors begins with Coroebus, who won the foot race in 776 B. C. They were celebrated every four years, and were at their height in the Fifth and Fourth centuries B. C. The games continued until 394 A. D., when they were suppressed by Emperor Theodosius. The modern series of Olympic games began in Athens in 1896.

Starvation Diet

Eating one food to the exclusion of others will lead to death by starvation as quickly as will fasting. White flour foods belong in this category, according to doctors, as they supply no building material for the body.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

MOTHER'S DISH CLOTH

WHEN a girl is married and goes away from home to set up her own housekeeping, she should always steal her mother's dish cloth to carry away with her; as that will prevent her being homesick. Besides it will probably bring her good luck.

There are brides, even today, who begin married life by doing their own housework, and to such this superstition applies. The first part of it—the prevention of homesickness—is the part most extensively believed in, though both first and second propositions have their votaries. The source of this superstition is the same as that of many others—the idea of the primitive man that anything closely associated with a person came to partake, in time, more or less of that person's individuality. Unknown to herself, this idea persists in the bride's "unconscious" self as psychologists call it, and to it is added the consciousness of handling in her daily task an article which brings before her fancy her mother engaged in hers. There is a sense of companionship in it and, likewise the half-formulated idea that she, like her mother, is now set out on a domestic career of her own. Were it only an ornament of her mother's which she handled it might merely make her think of her mother and be homesick. But the dishrag is not only something closely connected with her mother, but it is associated with her in her capacity as housewife—a something of her mother with her, and helping her, and useful to her in her daily tasks—and so she is not homesick; a fact which she ascribes to some magical properties in the dishrag and not to the magic of psychology.

The good luck idea comes a naturally through association. The mother has been the young bride's protector, guide; made things safe and pleasant for her. The dishrag partakes of the individuality of the mother; to it a primitive feeling transfers the mother's powers, making it potent for good fortune even as the mother has been.

WHO ARE THE ABSENT?

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WHO are the absent? Surely not Those we think of day by day; Those we wish for, those we long for, Those we sing a bit of song for— Though a thousand miles away, Ev'ry memory makes them dearer, Ev'ry memory brings them nearer. Who are the absent? Surely not Those afar, but unforget.

Who are the absent? Not, I know, Those we shut our eyes and see, Those we tell the long, long day for, Those we hope for, those we pray for—

Though a thousand miles it be, Ev'ry memory, ev'ry yearning, Brings beloved steps returning. Who are the absent? Not, I know, Those we still remember so.

Who are the absent? Though we part, Through our tears we see their smiles, Eyes we never lose the gleam of, Words we think of, lips we dream of—

Though it be a thousand miles, Ev'ry memory makes love purer, Makes it sweeter, makes it surer. Who are the absent? When we part, Only the absent from the heart.

Community Building

Architects in Move for Creative Beauty

With the prime motive of improving upon the nation's architecture, a plan has been proposed by the American Institute of Architects by which the efforts of the various artists will be united to produce a perfect work of art in each building. This plan advises collaboration among architects, sculptors, mural painters, landscape architects and craftsmen, which is believed will bring about a notable advance in architectural expression.

C. Merrick Hammond, of Chicago, president of the American Institute of Architects, in a report, says: "The world in which we live is essentially a collaborative creation. We who are living in it find ourselves surrounded by conditions which have come about as a result of the adjustment of forces, some of them creative, some of them destructive, some of them making for order and durability and beauty, and some of them tending to confusion, instability and ugliness. No lasting element in our environment is the result of purely individual effort. Collaboration has been a continuous, creative influence in every great human undertaking."

"Every architect realizes his dependence upon the results of collaborative effort in those phases of his work that are classed as structural and in all those matters in regard to which the specialist must be called in, but in the matter of ethics he has become more and more an individualist, less and less appreciative of the adjustments between master minds that have made possible the great achievements of the past."

Co-Operation Helps to Bring in Industries

Co-operation between the Toledo (Ohio) real estate board and the industrial department of the Toledo Chamber of Commerce has been sufficiently successful to be made the subject of a special letter sent out by the chamber of commerce to each individual member of the real estate board. Inquiries from industries which are contemplating a new location are usually, of course, made in confidence. Where such inquiries are made to the industrial department of the chamber of commerce a letter is sent out from the president of the real estate board in his capacity as a member of the industrial committee of the chamber. In this letter pledge of the real estate men of Toledo is given to co-operate with any new concern coming into the city.

Where open requests for information are received from industries, the chamber of commerce sends copies to any real estate men having on file property that fits into the request.

Architectural Changes

"A building," an architect explains, "is only enclosed space, or a combination of spaces. The shape and size of the desired space are factors in determining the outline of the building. There is a reason for every architectural form. The Egyptians, the Greeks, and the Romans, had their own peculiar needs, for which spaces were enclosed, and sheltered from the elements."

"The ornamentation of the past had as its purpose the telling of stories. Most of the people could not read. Religion and patriotism were conveyed to them through likenesses and symbols. Princes who wished to glorify themselves had the stories of their exploits done so that their subjects might see and appreciate their greatness."

"Today, printing and reading have taken the place of this decoration. People no longer observe and study such details. They are unnecessary. Things which are unnecessary tend to disappear."

Fighting City Congestion

An attempt to limit the density of population in residence areas is made in a unique building code restriction adopted by the city of Madison, N. J., a suburban community which is attempting to protect itself against the piling up of congestion in its residence sections. An amendment to the building code prohibits the erection in any part of that community of buildings to house more than one family for each 2,500 square feet of lot area. This is equivalent to limiting the maximum density of population to 17 families to the acre.

Consider Neighborhood

While a family may think that it would like to live close to relatives and friends, this factor should not be given too much weight. Nevertheless, the general type of people living in the neighborhood is important, especially if there are children in the family, who should be brought up in the right kind of surroundings.

Appearance Counts

Keeping up the exterior appearance of one's home keeps up the real estate value of the grounds as well as the building. One home, fallen into dilapidated condition, not only depreciates tremendously in its own value but tends to lower the value of all the homes along the street.

Sunshine Great Help in Preventing Disease

Sunshine is as important to children as food, observes Dr. R. I. Harris, writing in Hygeia on the use of sunlight in the treatment of tuberculosis.

Sunlight has been found especially helpful in the treatment of tuberculosis of the bones and joints, often called surgical tuberculosis. This type of tuberculosis usually spreads from a primary focus of infection in the lung until it is generalized. In contrast to the localized form, which is limited to the area first invaded by the bacillus.

A large percentage of patients with surgical tuberculosis can be completely cured. In one group of adults that Doctor Harris has had under his care, eighty-five of the first hundred were able to return to useful occupations and support their families. The results in children are even better, he says.

Since 95 per cent of us have tuberculous infection some time during our lives and since sunlight gives us the best resistance against it, it behooves every one to have as much as possible.

Peddler Is Shocked by Man's Quick Resurrection

Andre Vogel, peddler, riding in his car along a country road in France, saw the body of a man lying beside the road. He turned the body, stiff and cold, over on its back and went through its pockets, removing a considerable sum of money. At the next town Vogel reported he had found a dead man on the highway. "Did you examine the body?" asked the prefect of police. "Did you not find an identification card in his pocket?" "I did not," said Vogel, "I came straight here and—" "You're a liar!" said a voice from the doorway. Vogel almost dropped, for the corpse was before him pointing an accusing finger. The supposed dead man is a cataleptic. When he has a seizure his eyes remain fixed, but he sees what goes on, and in this instance was able to identify Vogel and recover his stolen wallet.

Style and Business

"Style, the Juggernaut. Don't ever try to stand in her way!" writes Henry Eckhardt in the Magazine of Business. "Style is a many-sized lady. When you first meet her, it is probably in this her first and more primitive form."

"Later, if you improve her acquaintance, you will discover her as Style, the rejuvenator. She works wonders in the dullness of businesses."

"If you cultivate her still further and tame her to your own ends, she becomes Style, the speeder-up of consumption. She moves that much-dreaded saturation point several million units farther on."

"If you become thoroughly smitten of her, and think she is all there is to, business, she will reveal herself as Style, the siren. Watch your step!"

In conclusion, Mr. Eckhardt defines: "Style is the true essence and the true feeling of a current mode, understandingly applied to a given product."

"The Fast Train"

The Los Angeles Times delivers a little essay on speed.

"Just eighty years ago this month a train on the then newly established Boston & Maine railway was opened wide for a record and for some distance raced at a speed of a mile a minute. Up to that time this speed was the fleetest that humans had ever attained. It's different now. They say that a flyer has made five miles a minute, while a motorist has done better than three. Sixty miles an hour is getting to be around the normal gait for human movement."

Better Than Garrotte

Cuba approves of letting men condemned to death on that island volunteer to be inoculated with cancer germs, instead, and remain under observation and treatment for 12 years. Should they survive and be cured they will be given their freedom. How much better that physicians should experiment on such men, with their consent, for the betterment of humanity, than that their lives should go for naught.

Not His Fault

Gentle hands were lifting Pat from the wreckage of his automobile, which had just been struck at a grade crossing by a fast passenger train.

"How did it happen?" asked a friend, who was with the rescue party. "Bogorra," fumed Pat, "tis more than Oi can understand. Ye'd have thought that the engineer of the train could have seen me comin' in broad daylight!"

No Hamdram Life

The human intelligence is best used when its possessor suffers it to reach out beyond his own environment into the realm where God has placed truth and beauty and the influence that make for righteousness. There is no such thing as common or humdrum life, unless we make it so ourselves.—George R. Peck.

Frugality

Frugality may be termed the daughter of prudence, the sister of temperance, and the parent of liberty. He that is extravagant will quickly become poor, and poverty will enforce dependence and invite corruption.—Samuel Johnson

Lesson for October 28

PAUL'S LAST JOURNEY TO JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Acts 20:1-21:17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Remember the words of the Lord Jesus how he said, it is more blessed to give than to receive.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Tells His Friends Good-by.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Tells His Friends Good-by.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Our Pastor Does for Us.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul, Shepherd of the Churches.

I.—Paul's Visit to Greece and Miletus (20:1-16).

Two incidents marked this trip:
1. The Jews laid wait for him (vv. 1-5). This plot obliged him to retrace his steps through Macedonia instead of choosing a more rapid sea voyage.

2. Fellowshiping with the disciples at Troas (vv. 6-16). He met with them around the table of the Lord and spoke words of encouragement. While preaching here, Eutychus in a deep sleep, fell from a window and was killed. Paul restored his life, thus giving to the disciples a sign of divine power which was greatly needed at that time.

II. Paul's Farewell to the Ephesian Elders (20:17-38).

1. Review of his three years' ministry (vv. 18-21). (1) The spirit of his ministry (v. 19). He was humble, tender and faithful in spite of the many trials which befell him. (2) The faithfulness of his ministry (vv. 20-21). He made known unto them everything which was of profit, taught them both in public and in private. He neglected no class, Jews or Greeks. He was impartial in all his ministry. (3) The theme of his ministry (v. 21). Repentance and faith. Men and women need to repent of their sins and believe on the Lord Jesus Christ.

2. The present state of things (vv. 22-27). Having reviewed his ministry, he now points out clearly, (1) His immediate purpose was to go to Jerusalem (v. 22). (2) Bonds and afflictions were lying across his path (v. 23). Despite these he went forward with undaunted courage, knowing that God was leading him. (3) His fixed purpose (v. 24). He was determined to complete his ministry at whatever cost—even giving up his life. (4) His consciousness of obligation discharged (vv. 25-27). Knowing that they should see his face no more, he called them to record that he had not shunned to declare the whole counsel of God, therefore was free from the blood of all men.

3. His charge to the elders (vv. 28-35). (1) The ground of (v. 28). The flock for which they must care was purchased by the precious blood of Jesus and they had received their commission from the Lord. (2) The impending evils (vv. 29, 30). False teachers would arise from their own number. Grievous wolves would devour the flock. The most deadly foes of the church are those ministers and Sunday-school teachers who are unfaithful to their trust. (3) Incentives to faithfulness (vv. 31-35). His own example of watching night and day for three years is held up before them.

III. Paul Tarrying Seven Days at Tyre (21:1-6).

His destination was Jerusalem. He was pressing thitherward with all speed, but on account of the unloading of the ship he was obliged to wait at Tyre for seven days. During this delay he searched out the disciples who lived in that city. While here certain disciples said Paul should not go to Jerusalem. The information which these disciples received by the Spirit was doubtless the same as that given to Agabus (vv. 10, 11). Agabus told exactly what the Spirit said, which sets right what the Tyrian disciples seemed to say. We should give heed to prophesying, but should prove their utterances. Let all who claim to speak with the Holy Spirit give the exact words so that they can be subjected to legitimate tests. The same Spirit which showed to these disciples that suffering awaited Paul, revealed unto him the same suffering and sent him forward into it.

IV. Paul Tarrying in Philip's House (vv. 7-14).

Resuming their journey they paused briefly at Ptolemais to greet the brethren there, after which they went to Caesarea. Here they took up their abode with Philip who had so successfully wrought in the early days of the church. His four daughters doubtless are mentioned to show that the Spirit's gifts are not confined to one sex.

V. Paul at Jerusalem (vv. 15-17). The brethren at Jerusalem, gladly received him and his companions. Paul's lodging place was with an old disciple.

Little Things

Little foxes that spoil the vineyards: Little compromises with the world; disobedience to the still small voice in little things; little indulgences of the flesh to the neglect of duty; little strokes of policy; doing evil in little things that good may come; and the beauty, and the fruitfulness of the vine are sacrificed.—J. Hudson Taylor.

A Divine Pull

All who stand "with God" have a divine pull. Lee

Precepts for Patriots That Are Too Common

No matter what your race or birthplace, proclaim long and loudly that you are "American to the core"—this shows that you have learned the language, at any rate.

If the value of something foreign is being discussed, do not argue the matter; dispose of it with a name—if it is Italian, call it "Wop;" if French, "Frog;" if German, "Boche;" if English, "Limex."

Do not wax sentimental over your home town; this is provincial—speak in generalities, such as "the greatest nation on earth," "America for the Americans," etc.

If you are present at an international contest in which an American is beaten, insist at once that the contest has been "framed." Axiom: An American can never be beaten fairly.

Maintain stoutly that America is superior to every other nation on earth in everything imaginable. If forced to modify this, say "in everything worth while."

Show your love for your country by your contempt for everything foreign—this is what has made the Germans so popular.

Flowers Used as Food in Oriental Countries

Flowers for food are virtually unknown in America, but in several parts of this wide world they play an important part as table delicacies. The Chinese, Japanese, Egyptians and various people of India eat blossoms prepared in several ways, says the Farm Journal.

In China, lilies are served as vegetables, boiled with pepper and salt, either in milk or water. Banana blossoms, dipped in vinegar, are almost a staple of diet during their season.

In northern India a cake is made from the aromatic flowers of a local shrub. They are mixed with butter and a coarse sugar before baking. Many other such recipes, startling to the foreigner, are to be found in northern Africa and that vast stretch of the world lying between the Mediterranean and the Pacific.

Symptoms Have a Purpose

Symptoms of disease generally have a definite and beneficent purpose. They are not necessarily sent to destroy you. They are often helpful. They often represent a process of cure. Even Hippocrates, who is credited with being the father of medicine, advised against the suppression of symptoms. The body is at all times working for its own good. Disease germs, even when they bring about the complaints associated with them, clearly indicate a bodily condition that needs attention. And should there be measures which could destroy the influence of such germs, the organism would still need treatment. As long as the body is "fertile soil" to the inroads of disease germs it needs purification, internal cleansing.—Physical Culture Magazine.

Prejudicing the Child

Thelwall thought it very unfair to influence a child's mind by inculcating any opinions before it had come to years of discretion to choose for itself. I showed him my garden, and told him it was my botanical garden. "How so?" said he; "it is covered with weeds." "Oh," I replied, "that is only because it has not yet come to its age of discretion and choice. The weeds, you see, have taken the liberty to grow, and I thought it unfair in me to prejudice the soil towards roses and strawberries."—Coleridge.

Both Feet in It

The peppery colonel was letting off steam. What is the present day girl coming to?" he snorted to his partner. "Look at that one over there. Imagine her parents allowing her to appear in public in plus fours and an Eton crop. Attempting to copy our dress. Bah!"

"That, sir, is my daughter," replied the partner.

"Oh, sorry," said the colonel. "I didn't know you were her father."

"I'm not," replied the other; "I'm her mother."—Times of India.

Silver Money Vanishing

If we can believe the director of the Denver mint, men are getting less and less able-bodied. First they became unable to carry silver dollars in their trousers pockets, they weighted them down so much. Now half-dollars are becoming too heavy, and the half-dollar must go. When the government gets out its new small sized bills, there may be no small change left larger than a quarter.

Proper Use of Trees

We have many millions of acres of forest left, says the American Tree association of Washington, which, for a stamp, will send you its Forestry Primer. We are using them rapidly. Not to use them would be unwise because their products are necessary to us. But using them wastefully, allowing them to burn, failing to protect the young trees growing naturally—these are things that should be overcome.

Self-Reliance

A youngster in Irvington was to be in a little play at a church. After the second rehearsal the leader remarked to the child: "You did just fine today."

"I know it," was the child's reply.

Mother's Cook Book

We never know the true value of friends. While they live we are too sensitive to their faults; when we have lost them we think only of their virtues.—Hare.

NUT DISHES

FOR nuts to use as a main course, in combination with vegetables, the following will be suggestive:

Chopped Nuts With Vegetables.
Mix one-third of a cupful of bread crumbs with one-third of a cupful of chopped nuts, add one and one-half tablespoonfuls of melted butter and mix thoroughly. Sprinkle on top of creamed cauliflower, cabbage, onions or sweet potato. Put into a hot oven and bake a delicate brown.

Vegetable Roast.
Cook one cupful of vermicelli in boiling water using one and one-half cupfuls. Chop three small onions finely, cook in three tablespoonfuls of fat until yellow, add one egg well beaten, one cupful each of bread crumbs and chopped nuts, one-half teaspoonful of poultry dressing and salt to taste. Mix well with the vermicelli and turn into a loaf bread pan, shape and pack until well molded then turn out on a baking pan and bake one hour basting frequently with the melted fat. Serve with a brown sauce.

Peanut Crisps.
Mix equal parts of butter and peanut butter, until creamy, add hot water to moisten, spread on small crackers and bake in a slow oven until crisp. Serve with soup or salad.
Nuts added to sweet potato, using peanuts, makes a delicious potato croquette.

Add chopped nuts to French or mayonnaise dressing to serve on plain lettuce salad. Serve (with cream cheese in balls and decorated with half of a nut meat) with any green salad.

Brazil Nut Salad.
Crack and peel eight Brazil nuts, cut into small thin slices, add one-half cupful of celery, one small apple diced, two slices of pineapple also diced, one-half cupful of canned white cherries or fresh white grapes, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one-half cupful of mayonnaise, one-fourth cupful of heavy cream. Mix all lightly and serve in nests of head lettuce.

Toasted Nut and Cheese Sandwiches.
Mix one-half cupful of rich soft cheese with three tablespoonfuls of French dressing. Spread graham bread with butter, then with the cheese and sprinkle generously with chopped nuts. Put together in pairs, cut into finger-sized pieces and toast well on each side. Pile log-cabin fashion on a fancy plate and serve with salad.

MIGHT HAVE BEENS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE saddest man I ever saw
Was not a fellow down and out.
The fellow with the drooping jaw
Had something else to fret about.
I said, "I hear not long ago
You made some money in a trade."
He answered sadly, "Yes, it's so—
But think of what I might have made."

There always is a corner lot
We might have purchased for a song;
But, since it happens we did not,
We think the world has done us wrong.

This life has many kinds of cares,
If counting cares a man begins,
And quite the foolishness are theirs
Who worry over might-have-beens.

If you must think of something sad,
The way that certain people do,
Then think of mumps you never had,
And wells you never fell into.
The corner lot you might have missed,
But, if you stop and think a bit,
You'll find that there is quite a list
Of troubles that you never hit.

What Does Your Child Want to Know?

Answered by BARBARA BOURJAILY

HOW IS SALT MADE?
It isn't made, it's dug my dear
From a deep and gloomy mine,
Then taken to a factory
To make it white and fine.

Orders Is Orders but the Band Didn't Play

During one White House reception in President Garfield's time, John Philip Sousa, clad in his gorgeous red uniform, criss-crossed with gold braid, sat on one end of the musicians' platform and his bass drummer, in full dress uniform, sat on the other. They were the United States Marine band that night. But there was no music. The band had been ordered to participate in a dedication that day and did not get back to barracks until 6:30 that evening when it was dismissed and sent home. At seven o'clock Sousa received an order to report with the band in full dress at the White House at eight o'clock. Sousa protested. His commanding officer said: "Those were my instructions and those are your orders." Messengers scoured Washington for the bandmen, returning with just one man, the bass drummer. When the long evening and the reception at last drew to an end, the drummer and Sousa stood up, saluted each other in a proper military manner and the "band" filed out and went home. Orders is orders.

Buried Norman Crypt Uncovered in England

Complete in many details, an underground church has been discovered in Chilton, England, by Rev. E. P. Gough, director of the Chilton Parish church.

The parish church was built on a new site about the middle of the last century and the old church demolished.

A venerable parishioner told the rector that there was a church underground, as he had been taken into it when a boy by his father.

The rector went to work with pick and shovel and found himself standing in a perfect vaulted Norman crypt with a west entrance and narrow lancet windows.

This crypt suggests a small but elaborate church, built by a squire of some position about the Twelfth century, which would be at once his private chapel, the parish church and place of sepulture for himself and his family.

Age of Methuselah?

Did Methuselah of Biblical fame really live to an age of 969 years—or was that the life of the clan he founded, that bore his name? The latter is the sensible interpretation, R. P. Field of Philadelphia recently told the American Philosophical society.

The chronicle birth, apparently a son, to many a patriarch, Mr. Field declares in Popular Science Monthly, was not that of a person, but of a new tribe that had split off from the father's clan. All dates of the Bible need revision, he says. He places the time of Adam and Eve, for example, between 15,000 and 25,000 B. C.

Where the Lace Comes From

In the good old days when Robin Hood and Richard the Lion-Hearted were active, Nottingham, England, was a great market town near the boundaries of Sherwood forest. To-day its more than a quarter-million people spend most of their time making machine lace and hosiery. Yet notwithstanding the miles of lace and machine-made lace curtains, the city preserves a remarkable air of romance. It has sent many distinguished sons into the world since the days of the famous sheriff of Nottingham. One of these is General Booth, founder of the Salvation army.

Hats Going Out of Style

Nearly a third of the men seen on the streets in New York city's main business section wear no hats and the fad is growing. The "Hatless Manhattan" movement is partly responsible. The head of this crusade, one Abraham Vogel, speaks every night in Union Square, promising converts freedom from baldness, better health all around and savings of from 50 cents to $2 a week in hat costs including tips to hat-checking pirates. The hat stores would like to poison Vogel.

Duel Fought with Cards

Cards and coin have succeeded the crack of the pistol in settling "affairs of honor" in Czechoslovakia. An engineer at Breun is said to have given offense to a business man, who challenged him to a duel. "Why not settle the affair at cards?" another man suggested. The "duellists" agreed, and sat down at the card table to play for a stake of $7,500. The business man won.

Use of Trouble

What are the trials to the child of God but the hurdles over which he leaps to find himself a better man for the exertion? What are sorrows but the heart singing in minor key the glory to come, whose rich major tones already are sounding far beneath? What are annoyances but the stings of insects to make more energetic his motions towards perfect mastery?—Floyd W. Tomkins.

Best for Pulpwood

Pulpwood for making paper can be grown in from 20 to 30 years or more, says the American Tree association of Washington. Some very profitable plantations of Norway spruce, white spruce, and red spruce have been grown for pulpwood in this length of time. Spruce makes the best kind of wood for paper pulp.

The SANDMAN STORY

THE TWO FLIES

"I HAVE some remarks, which I should like to make," said the fly.

First he dusted off his hind legs and then he brushed off his front legs and gave his head a good dusting. He did all this without any duster—his wings and head and legs could be kept clean by himself without any outside help.

He didn't care to be too clean—just enough, just enough, that was all.

"Yes," the fly continued, "I have some remarks to make."

Another fly looked at him out of his double eyes and said: "If that is the case you'd better make them."

"Just what I intend doing," said the first fly.

"I see," said the second fly. "You intended making these remarks whether I encouraged you or not."

"You just hoped I would urge you to do so, and then it would sound as though the suggestion came from me."

"Still," said the second fly, "you wouldn't have been anxious to show her any real friendship."

"Maybe you'd go back to her and bother her and stick to her but not in any friendly fashion."

"In fly fashion perhaps, but not in friendly fashion."

"True," said the first fly, "but still I remark that that is more than people will do—stick when they're not loved."

"Oh, well," said the second fly. "I can't say anything, as I do the same. I show the same interest in those who show no interest in me."

"I fuss about people who are annoyed by me."

"I don't care whether I'm wanted or not—I'm still the same stick-about fly."

"It's the fly style not to object whether we're wanted or not."

And then the two flies began to fly about and buzz and sing this little song:

Two flies are we,
Buzzing with glee,
We're a nuisance, it's true,
But it won't make us blue
If we're urged away
At night or by day.
We're not healthy, you know,
But that can't make us go.
When we're having our fun
We wait 'til we're done.
We love to annoy
A girl or a boy.
Two flies are we,
Buzzing with glee.

For Meditation

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

OBEEDIENCE

WHILE much may be said about the duty of children obeying parents, there still remains a good deal to be said about parents, so conducting their discipline and their personal attitude toward their children as to make them want to obey them. There is fundamental law in life which is applicable here—"Like attracts like."

It is nature's first law. Love attracts love. We are irresistibly drawn toward those whom we admire. The opposite is also true. The unlovely repels the lovely and suspicion destroys trust.

The commandment reads that we shall honor our parents. This should be a most natural thing to do and a child should not be impelled to offer any excuse for not doing so. The child is a child and not an adult. You can drive a horse to water but you cannot make him drink. A parent cannot compel ultimate and voluntary obedience by threats of punishment. A temporary obedience, restrained and involuntary, may result in the loss of something that is very essential to the child's development.

There is something very beautiful about the way a child instinctively clings to what may be called home. Be it ever so humble there is no place in the world just like it. Why? Because the elementary instincts of human nature find their first expression there. It is within the walls of that place called home, where they are impressed with the realities of life. There they seek appeasement for the hunger not only of the body but of the mind and heart as well. No matter how far a man or woman may stray away later on in life, they will not forget the home of their childhood—that is if they really had a home. The garden with its old-fashioned flowers will always remain vivid in memory. The spirit of the place, however crude, is part and parcel of their experience. The more affection manifested in the home the dearer it becomes.

Thwart that element of affection, destroy the spirit of home and something very sacred has been destroyed in the heart of the child. Real obedience is voluntary. Love creates obedience.

Hospitality

The few who treat a courteous call or harshly are mostly those who reveal in their own misery and want every one around to be miserable, too.—Farm and Fireside.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

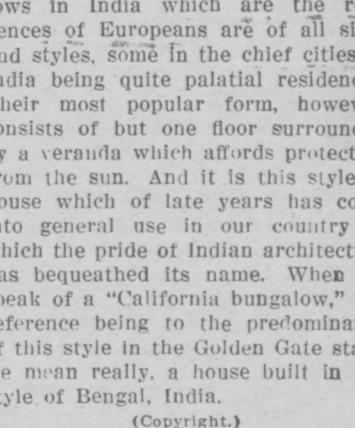

THE "BUNGALOW"

IN THESE days of high building costs the bungalow or one-story style of house has become very popular. So common is it in seashore and suburban life that we have come to think of the bungalow as quite an American institution. As a matter of fact, however, the bungalow is an importation from India where we must go for the origin of its name.

"Bungalow" is derived from the Hindoo "banglo" which describes a species of rural villa of light construction, usually, in its native state, of unburned bricks with a thatched roof. Bungalows in India which are the residences of Europeans are of all sizes and styles, some in the chief cities of India being quite palatial residences. Their most popular form, however, consists of but one floor surrounded by a veranda which affords protection from the sun. And it is this style of house which of late years has come into general use in our country to which the pride of Indian architecture has bequeathed its name. When we speak of a "California bungalow," the reference being to the predominance of this style in the Golden Gate state, we mean really, a house built in the style of Bengal, India.

TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Items of news from town, or vicinity are always wanted for this column. Especially accidents, sales of real estate, fires, important happenings, visits to or from the community social events, and all matters of general interest to those at home, and away from home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Marker, of Littlestown, visited Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Fuss, on Sunday.

Mrs. Florence Smouse is spending some time with her uncle, Frank Shorb and wife, at Fairfield.

Miss Anna Eigenbrode, Keysville, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Shaum.

Mrs. Ida B. Koontz left on Wednesday, for New York City, where she will spend a few weeks on a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maus, of near Uniontown; Mr. Edward Carbaugh, of Mayberry, were entertained at dinner at Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carbaugh's, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hesson, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Englar and daughter, Miss Ada, visited Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Elliot, near York Springs, last Sunday afternoon.

Twenty-five years ago, Rev. A. D. Bateman resigned as pastor of Grace Reformed Church, Taneytown, to accept a call to the Presbyterian Church of Lansford, Pa.

Rev. S. R. Kresge and Elder J. W. Rodkey represented Emmanuel (Bautist) Reformed Church at the meeting of Potomac Synod which met this week at Middletown, Md.

The play "See you Later" will be given Nov. 2 and 3, in the Opera House. It will be sponsored by the Home-makers' Club, and will be given by about 50 characters, all local talent.

Miss L. Ada Reindollar, who has been visiting in town for some time, returned to her home in Fairfield, on Wednesday, her nephew, Robert S. Reindollar, having come for her.

Mrs. Emma J. Fowler, Miss Sallie Mae Fowler, Wm. Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bangs, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Knight, all of Baltimore, spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Leister.

Master John Garner, who had been critically ill during this week with a combination of Scarlet fever, measles, ivy poisoning and blood poisoning is better, and apparently on the way to recovery.

Who has a photograph of what was once Sterner's Mill, along the Monocacy, near Harney; also of the old covered bridge, formerly at Bridgeport? The Pennsylvania Federation of Historical Societies would like to have a copy of each, and this office will be glad to forward same.

Since "Babe" Ruth, the home-run king, has come out for Smith, and has made a radio address for him, that ought to cause St. Louis to vote strong for Hoover—remembering the late exhibitions given by the "Babe" there, in a business way. At any rate, that is what a good many baseball fans think, who wanted to see the "Yankees" get licked.

October has been jollying us along with August weather; but the wise man will hurry up preparations for the winter that is coming just around the corner. Stove repairs should have been ordered long ago, and the chimneys, flues and fire places cleaned out. All householders know about such preparations, but most of them "put off" attending to them.

Those who spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Stull were: Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Naylor and son, Mary Haines, Joseph Finly and son, Mr. and Mrs. Finly and daughter, and Mrs. Harry Faquyer. Mr. Frank Finly and daughter, and Mrs. Harry Faquyer have gone back to Baltimore after spending a week with their uncle and aunt.

Those who spent Sunday at the home of Chas. D. Hahn and family, were: D. Birnie Fringer and family, from Altoona, Pa., who also spent the week-end with them; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Robinson, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hook and Worthington J. Fringer, of Ridderwood, Baltimore Co.; Roy Fringer and family, Westminster; Jacob Fringer and family, Harry Fringer and family, William Small and wife, all of York, Pa.; Chas. Young and family, Harry Crouse and family, Dorry Fringer, son, George, William G. Fair, all of Taneytown.

Col. Rogers Birnie, U. S. Army retired of N. Y. City, visited his sisters here, from last Friday until Tuesday.

Miss Jane Long, at Frederick Hospital, recovering from an appendicitis operation, is expected home on Saturday.

Mrs. Earl Bowers, who was operated on last Saturday at Frederick Hospital, is reported to be getting along well.

Mrs. Emma Lambert and daughter, Miss Mary, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Stover and family, near town.

Hand in your Electoral Vote Cards, next week! If you do not have a card, and are interested call at our office and get one.

The Fire Company was called to Oliver E. Lambert's, Greenville, early Thursday morning, to a chimney fire. No damage was done.

Mrs. Sarah J. Keefer has a pumpkin that measures 31 inches long, and 44 inches around, and would like to hear who can beat it.

Mrs. Sarah Keefer entertained on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. William Hossler and Mr. Weimer and Miss Missouri Keefer, both of York.

Miss Viola Slagenhaupt, who has been at Sabillasville Sanitarium, for treatment for about two months, is reported to be improving.

Mrs. Geo. H. Birnie and daughter, Miss Eleanor, are visiting Mrs. Geo. Otto and sister Miss Catherine Zolickoff, in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Charles Bostian and son and daughter, Helen, Mr. and Mrs. David Mehrling, spent Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur D. Mehrling, at Silver Springs, Md.

Mrs. John Fleagle, of Bridgeport, underwent an extensive operation at Frederick Hospital, on Thursday, for a combination of troubles, among them, gallstones.

Mr. and Mrs. Arda Thomas, R. B. Everhart, of Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Hunt, near Towson, were callers on Sunday evening, at Mrs. Mary Stover's.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stover, entertained on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. John Eyer, Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Hankey, son, of Barlow; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ohler and family, Gettysburg; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mullen and family, Emmitsburg.

In addition to the advertisement in this issue, we call attention to an important meeting at Shriner's Theatre, on Tuesday night next, concerning the efforts of the Francis Scott Key Auto Club toward helping the completion of the Francis Scott Key highway through Taneytown.

Those who visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. Myers and family, were: Rev. W. S. Harman, of Philadelphia; John Beard, Roy Beard and children, Mildred and Henry, Hanover; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Keefer, near town; Dr. T. A. Simpson, Libertytown; Raymond Baker, Fairview and Miss Margaret Phillips, of town.

Dr. Besley to Speak at Parent-Teachers' Meeting.

The Parent-Teachers' Association of the Taneytown High School will meet in the auditorium of the High School, on Tuesday Oct. 30, at 7:30 P. M. The program will be as follows: An instrumental duet by Mrs. Robb and Miss Crebs. A short business meeting. An illustrated lecture by Dr. Besley, State Forester of Maryland, whose lecture will be the major part of the program. The P. O. S. of A. orchestra will render several selections.

Dr. Besley has requested a large audience and states that his lecture will be free to all. Come out and help to grant his request.

The purpose of this lecture is to show the destructiveness of fires in forests and elsewhere, and to assist in educating the rising generation especially, along the line of fire prevention.

The loss by fire is costing the nation millions of dollars every year, and reduces our timber and lumber supply, which is becoming a more serious problem than most of us are aware of.

The meeting will begin promptly at 7:30, as Dr. Besley will return to Baltimore after the lecture.

Men will take the liberty to tell you how to run a paper, when they would not think of hinting to the merchant how to conduct his store or tell the preacher what to preach. They pay money for schools, and do not know whether Jimmy is learning the rule of three or how to hold a cigarette gracefully, but when it comes to the newspaper—that's different.

Proceedings of the Orphans' Court.

Public Meeting TUESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1928.

In the interest of the FRANCIS SCOTT KEY HIGHWAY.

The public is invited to meet in SHRINER'S THEATRE, NEXT TUESDAY, AT 7:30 P. M., to help to arrange for one of the most important events that has ever been held in Taneytown for the promotion of any interest for the public, both local and nation wide.

Taneytown District has paid over $15,000 in 1927 in 4c per gallon on gas. There are 10,000 cars and trucks taxed in Carroll County. The tax on these cars and trucks amounted to $31,000 and our District contributes its share. We also add many dollars in pay for our license tags and operators cards, all which goes to the up-keep and building of new roads.

IN ELEVEN YEARS THERE HAS BEEN BUILT IN TANEYTOWN DISTRICT ONE MILE OF ROAD BY THE STATE.

The County Commissioners have promised to recommend this road to the State Highway Commission to be made a State Road, and also to recommend that it be put under construction in 1929.

In order to give the County Commissioners the proper support to carry out their promise, The Francis Scott Key Auto Club has arranged for a meeting in the Opera House for November 19. At this meeting, MR. JOHN N. MACKALL, Chairman of the State Highway Commission, will be present and we will have the importance of this road presented to him by men of great prominence.

In order to make it a success, it is not a one-man job; therefore we invite, and insist, upon the co-operation of all that are interested in road improvement in Taneytown and Middleburg Districts, to be present NEXT TUESDAY EVENING.

As the business men of Taneytown should be more interested than anyone else, we specially request that all business be suspended, from 7:30 to 9:00 P. M., so that every business man and clerk can attend this meeting.
