

UNINSPECTED CARS IMPOUNDED.

War Now On in Earnest—Car Tags are Confiscated.

The war against uninspected cars was actively commenced this week, when motor policemen, on orders, confiscated the license plates of untested cars and trucks. The plates are turned over to the office of the Commissioner and eventually are to be returned after the automobiles have been tested. With no license plates, the automobiles are impounded, and to drive one will make the operator guilty of a second offense.

One of the victims was caught by Commissioner Baughman himself, who arrested Earl Fleming, Eldersburg, just outside that town.

Fleming's truck had no inspection sticker on the windshield and no rear vision mirror, it was said, and when Commissioner Baughman ordered him to stop on a hill he was unable to do so because of faulty brakes, it was said. He was taken before a magistrate in Eldersburg and fined $10 and costs on a charge of driving an unsafe vehicle.

Every automobile lacking the windshield sticker indicating it has passed inspection will be stopped by patrolmen, according to Commissioner Baughman.

Statistics compiled by E. Austin Baughman, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, show that thousands of automobiles inspected during the "Save-a-Life" campaign had defective brakes, lights and steering apparatus.

The commissioner announced on Thursday that 193,364 automobiles had been inspected so far. He said it would be at least two weeks before the final figures would be available, as some 80,000 cars have not as yet been tabulated.

"The figures are startling beyond words, to think that so many adjustments were necessary before cars would be made safe for the highways" the statement said.

"Figures show conclusively that these campaigns are necessary once a year, and some States are advocating having them twice a year. Too much attention cannot be paid to the necessity of keeping the automobile in a safe mechanical condition."

"The police are now actively engaged in stopping and inspecting all cars that do not have stickers, and if these cars are found to be unsafe, the tags will be taken away."

"We are now interested, and will be for some time, in removing what we term unsafe cars or junk cars from our highways."

County Ambulance Statement.

The cost of maintaining the County Ambulance for year ending July 1st, was as follows, including the financial statement of the fund:

Receipts from Ambulance Committee $1566.58; donations from all sources $403.50. Total $1970.08. Expenses, labor and supplies $737.18. Amount at interest $1000, balance in bank $232.88.

The number of trips made during the year, was 80. Miles covered by ambulance 5510, and 503 gallons of gas and 17 1/2 gallons of oil were used. Secretary H. D. Fowle calls attention to the fact that the expenses for the year amounted to $737.18 while the receipts were only $403.50; which means that donations must be increased to keep up the service.

As 80 trips were made the receipts for the use of the ambulance must have averaged less than $5.00, which is much too low for the mere trips, without counting the value of the very important service.

Proceedings of the Orphans' Court.

Monday, July 22, 1929.—Robert Burdge, executor of Tammie Cotter, deceased, reported sale of real estate which was immediately ratified by the Court and who reported sale of personal property.

Letters of administration on the estate of Leah D. Franklin, deceased, were granted unto Martha E. Franklin, who settled her first and final account.

Central Trust Company of Maryland, executor of Margaret E. Stephens Smith, deceased, settled its first and final account.

John H. Cunningham, administrator of James M. Kealey, deceased, received order to sell bonds.

The last will and testament of Eliza J. DeVries, late of Baltimore City, deceased, was received for record.

Clarence R. Aldridge, administrator of Rachel R. Aldridge, deceased, reported sale of personal property.

Bertie L. Biehl and John S. Biehl, executors of Laura F. Biehl, deceased, reported sale of real estate which was immediately ratified by the Court.

Presbyterian Pen-Mar Reunion.

The Presbyterian Reunion to be held at Pen-Mar, on Thursday, Aug. 1st, will be of special interest. The main speaker of the day will be William Chalmers Covest, D. D., L. L. D., who has chosen for his topic, "The Major Prophets of Pen-Mar."

Man Killed at Kingsdale.

The passenger train South, this Friday morning, struck and killed Hughie Harner at the Kingsdale, Pa., station. Mr. Harner, who was very deaf, is said to have stepped in front of the train just as it left the station. He was about 69 years of age and lived about 1/4 mile from Kingsdale.

ROUND TOP TO MD. LINE

New Hard Road to be Built by Pennsylvania.

Eleven miles of state aid roads will be built in Adams County, Pa., this year, having been approved by county and state authorities. Six of the miles will be Route No. 134, Round Top to Maryland State Line. The Gettysburg Compiler says of this road:

"Improvement of Traffic Route No. 134, between Round Top and the state line, will close a gap of unimproved road between Gettysburg and the state line, and provide a continuous hard-surface north-south route, from New port in Perry county to the state line. The Maryland section between the Mason and Dixon line and Taneytown, Maryland, has been improved. This project was the first preference of the Adams County Commissioners."

It will now be up to Carroll County to keep up its "improved" section "between Taneytown and the Mason and Dixon line" for as a rule where Pennsylvania and Maryland roads connect, the latter suffer by comparison.

This road, when completed, will shorten the distance of hard roads between Taneytown and Gettysburg via Harney, about five miles, and will undoubtedly invite a lot of the traffic that now goes to Gettysburg by Emmitsburg.

Only Inspected Cars May Now be Operated.

State police, beginning last Friday, have been ordered to stop all motor vehicles operating anywhere in Maryland which do not exhibit the inspection markers of the Save-a-Life Campaign on their windshields, Commissioner Baughman says with the closing of the thirty-day campaign, no automobiles or trucks will be permitted on the highways without having been examined for faulty equipment, he declared.

"The motorists have had a sufficient length of time to comply with the law," he said, "We will not extend a single day of grace to those who have not had their motor vehicles examined. It is merely a case where such cars cannot be operated in Maryland."

The commissioner said that his department would not issue licenses for any cars being transferred until the machines involved in the transaction are produced before the examiners of his office bearing the required windshield stickers.

Mr. Baughman declared that the campaign had been a success. An extremely large number of cars being operated with faulty steering apparatus or inadequate brakes were discovered in the inspection and corrected.

Mr. Baughman said that the real object of the drive had been to check up on old cars which have been allowed to become rundown, so far as the safety equipment is concerned. These automobiles, he asserted, are menaces to safety on the highways and the only means of checking up on their condition was through the enforced inspection.

Memorandum on the Mexican Bean Beetle.

In most cases throughout the state this year early market and garden beans matured before the first brood of Mexican bean beetle larvae reached sufficient size to do commercial damage, but later plantings have been seriously injured where control measures were not applied, according to L. C. Burns, County Agent of Carroll County.

Field tests and observations in the various sections of the county this year have shown that both dusts and sprays have given control. For dusting the 20-20-60 copper arsenate lime dust or the magnesium arsenate lime dust 1 to 4 are both safe and effective. The former dust has the advantage of controlling bean diseases and leaf spot are factors in production. The number of other uses for the copper arsenate lime dust may be used on the farm, i. e., on potatoes, tomatoes, cantaloupes, cucumbers, melons, etc., make it a most desirable dust. For spraying magnesium arsenate 1 lb. to 50 gallons of water, or calcium arsenate 1 lb. to 4-6-50 Bordeaux mixture have proved most satisfactory where good machinery was used.

Every effort must be made by canners, truckers, market gardeners, and home gardeners within the next few days to protect later beans from the ravages of the second brood of beetles which are appearing now.

First, all early beans should be plowed down as soon as the crop is picked to destroy all stages of the insect that may be on the plants. This step is urged, for when mature, these beetles will migrate to later plantings. Second, begin systematic spraying or dusting as soon as adult beetles appear in considerable numbers in the bean fields. Repeat these applications at 8 to 10 intervals until the bean pods have formed on snap beans or until the infestation is cleaned up on limas.

Cassell Home.

Thursday and Friday evenings, Aug. 1st and 2nd, the annual supper on the lawn at Cassell Home will be held. The menu will be chicken, ham, fruit and vegetable salads, rolls, butter, pickles, potato chips, coffee and iced tea for 50c.

The extras for sale will be chicken salad, cake, candy, ice cream, coffee, iced tea and sandwiches. A liberal patronage is asked for this splendid supper for the benefit of this splendid aged peoples home, as it stands at the junction of Main St. and Pennsylvania Ave., to be a friend to the aged.

BIG WHEAT YIELD FOR MARYLAND.

Other Crops Will Be Considerably Below Normal.

Washington, D. C., July 19.—Above average sunshine during the early part of June, generally favorable weather for harvesting, and evidences of an increased acreage indicate that the 1929 Maryland wheat crop will be the largest since 1926, according to S. R. Newell, Federal Agricultural Statistician for Maryland. These indications point to the production of 9,474,000 bushels of wheat this year, as compared to a 1928 crop of 8,745,000 bushels, and 11,960,000 bushels in 1926.

The area of wheat harvested this year is now estimated at 541,000 acres as compared with the estimate of 546,000 acres planted in the Fall of 1928, 530,000 acres harvested in 1928, and an average of 528,000 acres during the preceding five years.

For the state as a whole this year's wheat crop is characterized by an abundance of straw and the absence of serious damage from septoria nodorum, the ravages of this fungus disease being checked by the prevalence of bright sunny weather during the first half of June. However, while prospect for a good yield are much better than an average on the Eastern Shore, indications do not point to more than average yields in other sections of the state. Washington county reports short heads, stands in northern Frederick county were poor and the outlook for Montgomery county and Southern Maryland is for only fair to average yields.

The condition of corn in Maryland was reported at 84 percent of normal on July 1, as compared with 80 percent on July 1, 1928. Although a little late in starting, the crop has made good progress thus far. Moreover, it is still too early to make an accurate forecast of Maryland corn production in 1929, since July weather conditions have a marked influence on the final corn this year of 509,000 acres is 4 percent below the average harvested in 1928.

The preliminary estimate of the area of potatoes for harvest in 1929 is 40,000 acres as compared with 47,000 acres in 1928. Acreage of early potatoes on the Eastern Shore has been reduced approximately 20 percent this year, but the reduction in acreage from 1928 has not been nearly as marked in other sections of the state. The reported condition of potatoes at 81 percent, of normal on July 1, points to a production of 3,963,000 bushels this year.

(The probability is that since July 1 prospects have considerably decreased for potatoes and corn.)

New Telephone Directory.

Telephone central offices in Frederick and Carroll counties are to have a classical directory. These central offices are Braddock Heights, Brunswick, Buckeystown, Damascus, Emmitsburg, Frederick, Middletown, Mt. Airy, Myersville, New Market, Thurmont and Walkersville, under the supervision of Manager Paul L. Payne, at Frederick; and Hampstead, New Windsor, Silver Run, Taneytown, Union Bridge and Westminster central offices supervised by A. C. Allgire, manager at Westminster. They will have a new classified telephone directory in the book which goes to press September 17th. The delivery of this new directory is scheduled to begin October 15th.

This new directory, in addition to the listings which carry the names, numbers and locations of telephone subscribers of the various central offices, will also contain the listings of business subscribers arranged alphabetically under headings descriptive of the business or commodities sold.

"These directories," according to Manager Allgire, render a definite service when a subscriber wishes to find the telephone number of a person in a particular line of business or who deals in a given commodity. The classified section is also helpful when one wishes to make a business contact with some one of a number of subscribers in a particular line of business."

Duttera Family Reunion.

The annual Duttera reunion of descendants of the Dodder, Dutterer, Dodder, Dutterer, Dudrow or Dudrow, will be held at Christ Church, near Littlestown, Pa., Aug. 8th, at 10:30 A. M., or in case of much rain, the following day, Friday, Aug. 9th.

A program of the highest interest will be carried out with greetings from representatives of the different branches and many other features; a regular basket picnic dinner.

Boyd Family Reunion.

The 5th. annual Boyd reunion will be held at Hershey Park, along the Lincoln Highway, on Thursday, August 1st. In case of rain will be held the following day. All relatives please accept this notice as an invitation.

Sailors' tastes in pets usually vary, but when the battleship Nelson arrived at Portsmouth, England, recently the entire crew seemed to have selected canaries as mascots. There were nearly 700 of the feathered warblers on board the ship and, when coming into sight of land, they all commenced to sing. They will be distributed all over England to families and friends of the crew.

WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Her Friends Unable to Give Any Reason for the Act.

Irene Annie Warner, 19, wife of Paul Warner, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid at their boarding house in Westminster, Friday night.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Lusk, formerly of Princeton, W. Va., but for the past year residents of Princess Anne.

Mrs. Warner and a sister came to the Springfield State Hospital, Sykesville, several years ago, as nurses. While there she met Warner, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warner, of New Windsor, and they married last January. He worked in a shoe factory and she was employed in a restaurant in Westminster.

Friday night she left their room and went to a bathroom, then returning lay down on the bed, closing her eyes. In a few minutes her husband saw that she was suffering and found her unconscious.

A physician was summoned and a partially filled bottle of carbolic acid was found in the bathroom. She was being taken to a Baltimore Hospital in the Westminster ambulance when she died. Her body was taken back to Westminster. Her friends were unable to give any reason for her act.

Frederick County Bad Roads.

Badly washed roads, culverts and bridges were seen on a tour of the northeastern section of Frederick county Friday by County Commissioners Lewis F. Lochner and Roscoe P. Brown. Following the survey, plans were made to have repair work started at once, where it is not already under way. Districts visited included Frederick, Linganore, Woodville, Creagerstown, Mt. Pleasant, Woodsboro, Liberty, Walkersville, Thurmont and Johnsville.

One of the worst washouts at a bridge was noted at Buckey's Mills, where the land around the bridge over Little Pipe Creek, near Middleburg, Carroll County, was badly washed. The south side of the stream at the bridge is in Frederick county, and as soon as road men are available from another job they will be sent to the site, it was said Saturday. Quarry bed stone is available there, and the washout will be filled with crushed stone and then oiled. The piece of road washed by the overflowing of the stream is a quarter of a mile long.

A concrete bridge with floor about 14 feet high has been placed at Mountandale to replace a bridge with a wooden floor, which was recently washed away. Between Johnsville and Middleburg, near the Grossnickle place, a 14 foot concrete bridge, about which the road has been badly washed, will be repaired in the near future. A small wooden bridge between Wolfe's corner and the Hopeville school house, on the road from Wolfe's Corner to Unionville, has also been badly washed and will be repaired with iron beams and a new floor to replace the old wooden floor.

New culverts are needed in many places, it was found, among the sections of the county needing them being Black's Mill, on the road from Creagerstown to Lewistown. Work on the road beginning at Unionville and extending north to the state road leading to New Windsor is progressing nicely. On Friday, 500 feet of macadam was laid, and it is expected the work will go forward rapidly. The distance to be improved is 1.1 miles.—Frederick News.

DOLLAR DAY

IN TANEYTOWN Tuesday, Aug. 6

"Inside" Information for Women.

Blackberry juice makes a very appetizing punch, combined with other fruit juices, lemon and gingerale.

One cup of rice will absorb 3 or 4 cups of milk when cooked in the double boiler and is of course much richer in food value than when boiled in water.

Get into the habit of closing up the sewing machine when you stop work for the day. A little dust can undo all your efforts at cleaning up your machine and making it run easily. Unnoticed dust also gets on light colored work, to its detriment.

Bread for sandwiches should be 24 hours old. It should be cut in thin slices, and preferably filled with a chopped filling. If the filling is soft and likely to soak through, butter both slices; otherwise the butter may sometimes be mixed with the filling and the spreading may be done in one operation. Cream the butter until soft enough to spread, but do not melt it as the flavor will be changed.

A pair of kitchen shears with sanitary white handles and strong, sharp blades is a useful tool. It can be used for chopping celery, apples and other meats; for cutting the heads and tails from fish; for cutting lettuce for shredded salads, bread for stuffing, marshmallows, dates and nuts, for desserts. Then there are all the ordinary uses for scissors—to cut paper for lining cake tins, twine on packages, shelf paper, and many other uses.

KELLOGG PEACE PACT NOW IN FORCE.

Formal Announcement Made in Washington, Wednesday.

The Kellogg Treaty pact that was formally announced to this country at the White House, in Washington, on Wednesday, was a simple affair, consisting only of a short address by President Hoover, and the reading of the proclamation placing the treaty in force. The event was to have been broadcast by radio throughout the country, but owing to a mishap with the microphone, the events were given by substitutes.

President Hoover extended his congratulations to the entire world "upon the coming into force of this additional instrument of humane endeavor to do away with war as an instrument of national policy and to obtain by pacific means alone the settlement of international dispute."

He praised Aristide Briand, to whom "we owe the inception of the treaty." Without ever looking at Frank B. Kellogg who sat, visibly moved, on his left, he lauded the man "who represented the people of the United States with such untiring devotion and with such a high degree of diplomatic skill in the negotiations of this treaty."

Former President Coolidge occupied the place of honor at the right of the President. It was his first visit to Washington as ex-President and it was generally noted that he appeared greatly pleased, and that his face was much less care-worn than in the latter days of his presidency. He was busy throughout the day meeting former friends and political associates.

The ceremony took place at one end of a green oblong table arranged in the East Room. One end of the table was open, as the flange of a horseshoe, and at this end Mr. Hoover welcomed his guests. There were forty-three, all in tail coats and rather warm, from Sir Esme Howard, Ambassador of Great Britain, to Col. Victor Mutt, consul-general of Estonia.

Garden and Dairy.

Dairy utensils should be washed with warm water and an alkali or soda-ash washing powder—never with soap. Use a stiff brush for scrubbing them—never a rag.

Sweet corn loses its sugar content very rapidly after being removed from the stalk, and to have the best flavor should be picked only a few hours, or better, a few minutes, before being cooked.

Old canes in the raspberry patch should be removed immediately after the close of the picking season. The canes should be cut as close to the ground as possible. At the same time dig out all dead or badly diseased clumps. Remove prunings from the field and burn them. If the patch is destroyed, it should not be replanted to raspberries for three or four years. These measures are an aid in preventing disease.

Every dairyman knows that if the dairy cow's production decreases in hot, dry weather because of insufficient feed, it is difficult if not impossible to get production back to normal during that lactation period. Most regular pastures are short in July and August and supplementary feeds should be provided in the form of silage, supplementary pasture crops, soiling crops, or good legume hay.—U. S. Dept. Ag.

Fifteen Stills Destroyed in Baltimore County.

Baltimore county reverberated with the explosions of dynamite destroying fifteen stills of enormous capacity, wrecked by the Government Prohibition officers who have begun a relentless war fare against the illicit liquor traffic in Baltimore county which is believed to do much toward stopping the heretofore uninterrupted stream of bootleg hooch that has been flooding the entire section.

One of the largest stills yet to be taken, in the opinion of the Prohibition officials, is that containing 51,000 gallons of mash, on the property of Mrs. J. W. Bolgiano, on the Providence road a short distance from Towson. The government officials arrested four men, but said they were undeniably convinced that the owner was ignorant of the existence of the still.

A prominent Federal Prohibition agent stated that the police of Baltimore county had not helped at all in the handling of the cases, with the exception of a few individuals. The agent said, however, that this did not deter them from acting and will not serve as a hindrance in their work of wrecking many other known stills in the section.—Towson Union News.

Moser Reunion.

The third annual reunion of the Moser family, will be held August 28, 1929, in Mt. Tabor Park, Rocky Ridge. All friends and relatives are invited.

More than 40 acres of valuable land owned by William Tyson, north of Council Bluffs, Iowa, has been washed away within the past month by the Missouri river, which is now less than 25 feet from the Tyson farmhouse. The house once stood 900 ft. from the stream.

When the Misses Alverta and Lavera Morgan, twins, were married in a double ceremony at Anderson, Indiana, five other sets of twins were present as bridesmaids, singers, organists and flower girls.

HENRY FORD BARS ALCOHOL

Employees May Not Drink, Either on, or off Duty.

Prohibition is no longer debatable, for it is a part of the Constitution, Henry Ford declared in an interview with Cameron Wilkie for the current issue of the Christian Herald. Ford says:

"The people will become educated after a while and, just as it is true in any social problem, when the truth is known, the law will be enforced."

"Liquor never did anybody any good. I'm against it in every form. I wouldn't have a laborer who drinks. He can drink neither on nor off duty."

"We can't afford to risk machinery that costs thousands of dollars, and priceless human lives, to a worker who poisons himself, even if he does his drinking outside of working hours."

"I do not want a man working for me if he has the smell of liquor on his breath or if he is known to frequent bootleg joints."

Mr. Ford declares that no industrial leader with any sense allows booze in his shops. That, he says, was stopped along before the Volstead act came about and was stopped because it hurt business.

"Business and booze are enemies," he says, and reveals that he has noticed a great difference in his plants since the dry law went into effect.

"Gasoline and liquor do not mix. We cannot have liquor and automobiles, too." Mr. Ford, is quoted as giving his religious belief:

"I believe in God and in Jesus Christ. I was brought up in the church. I belong to the church. I attend church. I never go to hear a sermon, whether it is by a preacher in a small church or a large one, that I do not get help."

"Religion is like electricity. I do not understand electricity, but I am deeply interested in it. I want to know all I can about it."

We need more religion and less professionalism in our industry, and we need it mixed into industrial life, he said, declaring that "you can take the sermon on the Mount and put it down into industry anywhere and it will work."

The Center of the Road.

Driving tests made by highway and automobile authorities, show that the average automobile driver habitually steers his car from a foot and a half to four feet from the edge of the pavement. Many drivers go nearer the center than that, and dislike to come anywhere near the edge.

This habit wears out the roads unevenly, and on many roads produces a tendency toward ruts. This habit is partly the result of fast driving, as such drivers have reason to be fearful of going over the edge. The above tests show that motorists are usually more fearful of going off the side of the highway, than of running into the cars they meet.

The worst feature of the habit of driving toward the center, is that it makes it harder for cars to pass, and many accidents must result because some driver would not keep within a reasonable distance of his edge of the highway.—Frederick News.

Unique Method to Catch Fish.

C. Elmore Harnish, of York, who has a bungalow at Kunkle's Mill, on the Big Conewago, has devised a unique method of fishing, one which permits him to fish all day and still attend to chores about the bungalow, entertain friends and eat at the kitchen table. He has arranged an electrical device on the large wharf in front of his bungalow that rings a bell in the cottage whenever he has a "bite." The lines attached to the electrical apparatus causes the immediate ringing of a bell whenever a fish takes a nibble. He caught 13 fish including a four pound catfish.—Gettysburg Times.

Increase in Storms This Year.

There has been a record breaking increase in tornadoes, and general storms in this country, for the first six months of the year, and scientists can offer no definite causes for the increasing activities of the big twisters, or of the smaller disturbances, nor can any forecast be made of them. Insurance is the only partial means of protection left to property owners. The number of deaths has also greatly increased.

The "Stop" Law Violated Extensively.

The boulevard law with the stop signs is being pretty extensively violated. The law provides for a complete stop, and Commissioner Baughman says that rigid enforcement of the law will hereafter be made, in so far as officers are plentiful enough to make it.

It would seem that as the auto gives the car occupants fully as much speed as the average railroad train on the clear stretches, drivers should be willing, for their own safety and that of others, to comply with the "stop" law. But what we "should" do is in very many cases not what we actually do. We like to make our own laws, and do as we please—both with our autos, as well as in other cases of preference.

This is an example of "personal liberty"—how we drive our car—and is of the same piece as the violation of the liquor, or any other laws. We like to cut corners when nobody is looking, and finally become bold enough not to care greatly who is looking; and yet, all of us would feel slandered, if called law-breakers.

We foolishly attempt to discriminate between laws that we will obey, and those we will not obey; and in so doing we not only actually and purposely violate laws, but by our example encourage others to go farther than we go. Obedience to all laws is essential to good citizenship.

Governmental Generosity.

Honestly now, is not the government expected to do rather too much in the way of helping to make good the losses of some classes of producers—mainly of food products? We ask the question, having in mind the interests of others who meet with undeserved losses in their business; and whether, when the government turns in to help some kinds of business and some kinds of losses, it should not go the whole way and help losses in all kinds of productive business?

We have had help for flood losses, the hoof and mouth diseases, the ball weevil, reclamation projects and government agencies galore almost for the asking. The newest applicant is for relief against the forest fly in Florida, to the extent of paying the cost of crops destroyed. And, all of this is generous and fine.

In addition to governmental benevolences, paid for out of the general income, we have all sorts of insurance companies and private benevolences that for small pay—in many cases none at all—help all sorts of unfortunate. Then we have abundant opportunities to insure, in part at least, against fire and lightning, wind and hail, earthquake, automobile and aircraft loss, water and rain damage, explosions, plate glass breakage—and dozen of other dangers.

But, there is no insurance for the business man for poor business, none for credit losses, none for lack of work for the laborer, none for depreciation of goods, none caused by change in style, nor for the ravages of moth, nor for death of live stock, the failure of garden and trucking projects, and hundred of other misfortunes that are not insured against, nor for which the government gives help.

In our governmental generosity—or may it be in our political strategy and insistence—are we not steering toward socialism, or communism? Of course, we will not agree to call it that, just as we excuse, and dodge, and spin fine distinctions whenever it suits us best, for "all men are liars" to some extent, and when it is necessary to accomplish selfish ends, or our hobbies—and when somebody else pays the bills.

Gov. Ritchie Again Opposes Dry Law Enforcement.

Governor Ritchie, in his address before the convention of Governors last week, took occasion to train his oratory against the dry law itself, rather than against Mr. Wickersham's appeal to the states for co-operation enforcement. The Governor enlarged on "dry law" crimes, stating that they could not be disposed of by state co-operation, but "the only way to do this is to strike at the root of the trouble and substitute something better—something which the people as a whole will respect and abide by which can be enforced."

We are inclined to the belief that the Governor is not "playing politics" over the issue, but is genuinely out-and-out for state's rights, and for no Federal interference with the states in their attitude on the liquor question. He is to be commended for his open boldness for the wet side, even though we may strongly disagree with it.

And yet, there is such a thing as a leader over-playing his part—any one part—and this is especially true when, as in this case, the "past" is antagonistic to the Constitution and laws of this country; when their antagonism is not in the direction of amending the Constitution and laws in an orderly manner, but in direct opposition to them. Such activities, when carried far enough, may be very dangerous. The Governor said in part;

"It is time for the country to realize that the Eighteenth Amendment imposes no obligation on the State to enforce it. The amendment gives the State concurrent jurisdiction with the Federal Government in that regard, but whether the States exercise it is optional with them. If they choose not to do so they violate no legal or moral obligation."

Mr. Wickersham suggests that the Federal Government stop the importation, manufacture and the interstate shipment of liquor and that the States enforce the Volstead act within their borders. He adds a suggestion that in this event the national and state laws might be modified so as to become reasonably enforceable, but his language is so uncertain that I am unable to understand what he means, so I cannot comment on that.

"What is needed is to find some way of stopping the class of crimes that were caused directly or indirectly by Federal prohibition under the Volstead Act. If there is any crime wave, there it is. There is no use in disguising this or trying to make it seem only part of a bigger picture or problem. It is sui generis and the whole story."

That class of crime must be eliminated if law and order are to be secure. You cannot do this by compelling the States to take over the intrastate part of the Volstead Act, as Mr. Wickersham suggested. The only way to do this is to strike at the root of the trouble and substitute something better for the present system of Federal prohibition, something which the people as a whole will respect and abide by which can be enforced."

The last lines of his address, as quoted, are especially weak as they refer to "something which the people as a whole will respect." The Governor knows very well that very many would not be satisfied with any "something" that does not stand for hard liquor, and would not voluntarily "respect" any such law, or aid in its enforcement.

A Question About Books.

Readers wonder why new books do not sell cheaper. There are 75 cent and $1 bargains in special editions of the classics and reprints of popular novels, but the current offerings of publishers range from $2 to $5.

The answer is that the sales of most books are so small that the majority of titles in each publisher's list show little, if any, profit. If a publisher could be sure of big sales on all his books he could make plenty of money at $1 a copy because the cost of production of the ordinary book in a large edition is not over 20 or 30 cents.

Ingenious publishers are ever alert to devise ways to reduce the retail price of books, the latest effort along this line being the organization of a company which solicits yearly orders for a book each month. The subscriber pays a certain rate and on the first of the month a book, approved by a committee of recognized critics, is mailed to him. If 50,000 or 100,000 subscribers can be found, it is anticipated that books which now cost $2 and $3 can be distributed for $1.50, or possibly less. The weakness of the plan is that the subscriber must take the book that is selected by the committee, thus eliminating the privilege, so dear to booklovers, of browsing about a book store and selecting a volume from thousands that are offered.

This freedom of choice, by the way, is the cause of high costs in all fields of activity. By persuading us, through advertising, to confine the style of collar we wear to a limited group, manufacturers have been able to reduce our haberdashery bills. Standardization works well in many lines, but in books—well, people's interests vary as much as their faces, so books are published on every subject in which a hundred or more express an interest.—Trade Magazine.

Individuals Should Take Stock.

We are now well into the last half of the year and it is an opportune time to take stock of our personal situation. It is the custom of business concerns to make mid-year inventories—to check every detail of the business which will show what progress has been made since the beginning of the yearly period. Individuals can to great advantage emulate this example.

Since the beginning of the present year, what progress have we made in our personal affairs? Are we better fortified now than we were on January 1 against possible loss of employment, injury, sickness, accident, or any other unfortunate circumstance that might overtake us? Are we better prepared now than we were then to take advantage of opportunities for self-advancement should they come? Are we holding ourselves strictly to the rules of good thrift in health, employment of time and in financial matters or have we allowed ourselves to become careless in these matters?

It is to be borne in mind that delinquency in such matters is apt to steal upon us before we are aware of it unless we adhere rigidly to our thrift plans at all times.

Perhaps some who read these lines have allowed themselves to become careless in matters of personal efficiency. Whether we have permitted ourselves to fall into these ways or not, it will serve a good purpose to take stock of our progress and our position before we have gone too far into the second half of the present year.

We are told that one of the secrets of Col. Lindbergh's success is the extreme care shown by him in seeing that every part of his plane is mechanically perfect before he begins a flight. Carelessness in this respect could conceivably bring his brilliant career to a tragic end. Carelessness on the part of a business organization would inevitably court failure. The individual who fails periodically to check on his personal affairs invites the same ill-success.—S. W. Strauss, Pres. American Society of Thrift.

The North Dakota Dream.

Governor Maddock, of North Dakota, referred to the non-partisan league state ownership dream as "the remnants of a dream that had not reached anything like perfection."

He confessed that there are handicaps in public or state ownership of any industrial plant that are hard to overcome.

This farmer-owned cooperative organization, known as the Farmers' Union, undertook the operation of flouring mills and elevators, under a grain-grading law which has been invalidated twice by the federal supreme court.

The North Dakota single tax as applied to farm land for the purpose of saving the farmer a large sum in taxes, has been abandoned and nothing is left of the state-operated creamery except debts.

The project to mine coal on state land has been forgotten. The state building loan fund is in the hole some $400,000, and the state land bank continues rather unpretentiously.

North Dakota would seem to have had enough experience of government in business and the Portland Oregonian reaches the conclusion that once a state scrambles politics and business, it finds unscrambling them a slow, laborious task.—The Manufacturer.

Mr. Caraway Runs Wild.

Senator Caraway has made himself ridiculous and has not helped the dry cause any by his "demand" that Mr. Wickersham quit the Law Enforcement Commission because of his suggestion for solving the prohibition problem. It is nonsense to say that Mr. Wickersham has struck the worst blow on record against the Volstead act and that his continuance as head of the commission will destroy its usefulness. His motive in suggesting a division of responsibility for enforcement between the Federal and State Governments, he has said, is to make that enforcement more efficient.

Who can doubt that the genuine co-operation of the States would have this result? The sting in his statement for Drys of the Caraway stamp is the admission that the law is being only very partially enforced. But before any reform can be effected it is necessary to face the facts. Senator Caraway's ostrich attitude wouldn't help matters a bit.—Phil. Ledger.

The Vacation Delusion.

Another popular theory has been expounded as a delusion. A French writer vehemently refutes the common supposition that the way to rest is to do something else, to spend a day or a week doing anything that one does not do the rest of the year. This, he says, is only "getting tired another way."

Instead of a theater or dance after a day of toil, this investigator into the causes and remedies for fatigue recommends repose, sleep, solitude, quiet and inertia. The rest cure he advocates for the tired business man is not golf, motoring, a sea voyage or two weeks at a shore resort. For such, if they really desire rest and recuperation and not merely a vacation, he prescribed a retreat far from the crowd, devoid of activity, the society of others and other disturbing influences.

Of course he is right. And the truth of the matter is that his theory. People who go put to practical use. People who go away to rest don't delude themselves into thinking they obtain that needed reconstruction of mind and body by participating in sports and mingling with the mob. They seek out some quiet nook and strive with as little effort as possible to see, hear, speak and do as little as possible.

No time is more propitious than the present for removing some misunderstanding of that great American institution. Though it destroy the institution itself, the pronouncement is here issued that the vacation is no longer used as a rest cure and is not necessary as such to the average worker. If there was ever a time when people went on vacations to rest after their labors, they now return from their vacations to rest after their labors.—Frederick News.

The Growing Danger of "Organized Minorities."

Former President Coolidge, writing in the current American Magazine, remarks that professional lobbyists have increased the cost of legislation tremendously and, if not checked by President and Congress acting in co-operation, could double the cost of the Federal Government within two years. That is to say, if all the measures they try to get on the statute books reached their destination, this burden would be put on the taxpayers. Mr. Coolidge does not mention that a large share of their activities is devoted to preventing the enactment of laws.

Idealists never seem able to understand why the Government cannot be conducted exactly after the fashion of great business corporations. Mr. Coolidge says it is largely because of the influence of the "organized minorities," of whom the paid lobbyists are the symbol. The majority gives its mandate to the President and Congress at the polls and then ceases to express itself. It is not effectively organized, anyway. Then the minorities get busy and render necessary the conduct of Government affairs by the political method.

Sometimes the President, when a vital issue is at stake, can appeal to the country and receive a fresh endorsement which awes the "organized minorities" and impels Congress to do its duty. But, says Mr. Coolidge:

"I never felt it was my duty to attempt to coerce Senators and Representatives or to take reprisals. The people sent them to Washington. I felt that I had discharged my duty when I had done the best I could with them. In this way I avoided almost entirely a personal opposition, which I think was of more value to the country than to attempt to prevail through arousing personal fear."

It has often been said that a successful President must be a good politician. Instances readily come to mind of Presidents who failed to secure the adoption of their policies because they could not or would not "play politics"—in the legitimate sense, of course. Mr. Coolidge, who has always been rated high as a politician, believes the activities of blocs representing special interests, which erase or obscure party lines in critical times, have virtually forced the President to assert his authority as the head of his party. As a consequence, he sees the presidency steadily increasing and Congress decreasing in influence.—Phil. Ledger.

How to "Restore" Honey

Gleanings in Bee Culture says that pure honey is liable to granulate during cold weather and that it can be restored to its former liquid condition without injuring its flavor in any way by placing the container in a vessel of warm water and never allowing the temperature to go above 120 degrees. The honey will then become liquid and retain its delightful aroma. Honey is composed chiefly of two sugars, dextrose and levulose. Of these, the former crystallizes quite readily, while the latter does not. During cool weather the dextrose is liable to crystallize, while the levulose remains in solution, forming a coating of the dextrose crystals. This is what gives to pure honey when granulated its peculiar consistency, which is entirely different from that of the crystals formed in ordinary sugar.

POULTRY FACTS

FOOD FOR CHICKS GIVEN BY KAUPP

Mash and Grain Should Be Fed First Nine Weeks.

The 100 chicks with which one will start a poultry flock of 50 hens to be raised, will first need 450 pounds of feed up until the ninth week, and thereafter, for the whole year, the 50 hens selected will need 4,250 pounds of feed.

"The 450 pounds of feed needed for the 100 chicks up until the ninth week should be 250 pounds of mash feed and 200 pounds of grain," says Dr. B. F. Kaupp, head of the poultry department at the North Carolina State college. "Then when the 50 hens are selected from the lot, these hens will need 50 pounds of grain and 35 pounds of mash per hen for a year. This makes at total of 4,250 pounds of feed that should be provided on the home farm. Of this amount 2,500 pounds is grain feed and may be supplied by 23 bushels of corn, 24 bushels of oats and 13 bushels of wheat. To supply the 1,750 pounds of mash feed also in the ration, the grower should raise 10 bushels of corn and 11 bushels of oats."

Some additional feed will also be needed on the poultry farm for young and growing birds, therefore, Doctor Kaupp says, if the average farm keeping a flock of 50 adult hens will produce for the poultry, 25 bushels of corn, 26 bushels of oats and 15 bushels of wheat, the owner will need to buy only about 400 pounds of fish meal or meat meal, 400 pounds of middlings and 75 pounds of bone meal to have his birds well fed.

Doctor Kaupp has worked out a laying mash and a grain feed which has given excellent results on the experimental poultry farms. The successful farmer who keeps a flock of pure-bred poultry as a side-line should not have to buy his feedstuffs. They can be raised and mixed at home with excellent results, declares Doctor Kaupp.

Delouse Setter Before Putting Her on Eggs

Before you set any hen not known to be absolutely free of lice, give her some sort of treatment to destroy lice and then see that the nest is clean, with fresh nest material. The nicotine sulphate treatment recently discovered is one of the easiest ways to delouse a setting hen. Paint a few dabs of it in the bottom of a box just large enough for the hen to sit in, and put her in it over night. It will not deter her from setting but it will destroy all living lice. Now use a bit of blue ointment in the region below the vent where lice breed and there will be no lice problem when chicks hatch. If a lousy hen is just about ready to hatch, paint the nicotine sulphate generously in a box that has been warmed to promote rapid evaporation of the fumes, and put the hen in for an hour, covering her eggs with warm flannel in the meantime. Use the blue ointment also to get the nits that may hatch.

There are other ways of delousing which takes more time. Whatever is used, do it before the chicks hatch and avoid the troubles that lice bring.

Poultry Hints

Liquid skim milk is "great stuff" for chicks. Look out for substitutes.

Buckwheat is often used in the scratch feed. It is high in fiber, although not as high as oats.

Trap nesting is the only sure way to get an exact record of a bird or flock production, but it is hard work.

According to experience it is not necessary to feed cracked corn when good whole corn can be raised or purchased.

In addition to the mash, the hens should be given all the grain they can eat, especially in the afternoon before roosting time.

It is a mistake to crowd 200 pullets into a house 100 feet long. From 3 1/2 to 4 square feet of floor space should be allowed each bird.

Wheat screenings should never be used if musty, smutty or heated because it may have a bad effect on the digestive tract of the fowl.

By trap nesting you are sure to select your best layers and by breeding from them, provided they are of good standard requirements, you can soon increase your flock average.

Poultrymen should be on the alert for the appearance of roup or chicken-pox in their flock. Flock owners cannot afford to have their flocks thrown out of production at the season of high prices.

From ten days to two weeks after mating, hatching eggs may be saved. The care of the eggs while holding may influence in no little manner the success of the hatch. Eggs should be held in a dry room at a temperature to 55 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit and turned at least once each day.

GIRL, 18, MAY HAVE BEAU, COURT RULES

Great Modern Question Is Settled by Judge.

New York.—The weighty legal opinion involved that great modern question:

Might a girl of eighteen have a beau—or mightn't she?

All girlhood's future was at stake as pretty Josephine Pupica of Yonkers faced the bar of justice in Yonkers before Judge C. W. Boote.

Josephine had been hailed to court by her mother for running away to a relative's home because she would not live up to the parent's rules of never associating with boys, handing over all her weekly wages, never staying out later than 10 p. m. and never visiting girls at night.

The girl's lips quivered and she told the stern court:

"I had to run away, your honor. Listen to those rules."

So the judge listened and then he pondered. It may be that he thought of the time when he used to have an occasional date with a pretty brunette like Josephine.

"I will lay down some new rules," he declared.

"You may remain out later than 10 o'clock. Say 11 or thereabouts."

"You may keep some of your earnings for yourself and also you may visit other girls at night."

"You may select your own clothes."

"But," exclaimed the defendant, "er, how about a boy fr—"

The court interposed, a twinkle in his eye.

"Oh, yes," he remarked. "You may accept the attentions of a respectable young man."

Josephine smiled. Girlhood had been freed from bondage!

Locate Iron Messenger of Space in Africa

Bloemfontein, South Africa.—Again chance has led to the discovery of one of those mysterious messengers that bear evidence that space is not empty. This time the news comes from the far northeastern corner of southwest Africa.

In the Grootfontein district a meteor lies in a tomb of limestone, a great, massive block of iron. There is nothing dramatic in its appearance—a lone block of metal in the veldt, but if one tries to visualize its arrival one finds a spectacle surpassed by few.

A black mass of iron, cruising through space, invisible to all. Suddenly, as it enters the earth's atmosphere, its great speed and the excessive friction set a blaze in a fraction of a second. An enormous fireball, white hot, it approaches the ground with an angry hiss. A terrific roar as it crashes through layers of limestone, a shower of sparks, sand, rocks and metals, a cloud of dust—and all is quiet.

A deep pit was excavated all around it, to show the full extent of its huge mass. The whole appearance is remarkable—an almost flat, level upper surface 9 by 10 feet in size, with almost vertical sides about four to five feet deep. It is estimated that it weighs not less than 50 tons.

One specimen shown to the writer was a piece that had needed but the sawing through of a surface of two square inches, and that had required fully two hours of hard work.

11,500,000 Wed in India Under Age of Fifteen

London.—The extent of child marriage in India was shown recently by official figures which reveal that there are 8,500,000 wives and 3,000,000 husbands under fifteen years of age.

The figures are contained in a new statistical abstract for India, which the secretary of state for India has just distributed to the members of parliament.

According to these statistics, there are 110,684 husbands and 218,463 wives under five years of age, while 575,405 husbands and 2,016,687 wives are between the ages of five and ten. The total jumps still higher between the ages of ten and fifteen, with 2,334,066 husbands and 6,330,267 wives. Between fifteen and twenty there are about 4,000,000 husbands and 9,000,000 wives.

The figures also show that about 400,000 Indian girls are widows before the age of fifteen. Of these, 15,139 are baby widows under five years of age, 102,293 between five and ten, and 279,124 between ten and fifteen.

Jail Explorer When He Works Overtime

New Orleans, La.—The landlady rented a room to Edward White, fifty-three, who said he was an "explorer." In the middle of the night she heard the floor creak, and saw her new roomer in her room with a flashlight.

"What are you doing?" she asked.

"Exploring. That is, er—er—I am looking for matches."

White was taken to the city jail.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF Valuable Farm, Etc.,

in Taneytown District, Carroll County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Carroll County, sitting as a Court of Equity, the undersigned, as Trustee, will sell at public auction on the premises on SATURDAY, AUGUST 10th., 1929, at 1:30 o'clock, P. M., the following described property, to-wit:

All that tract or parcel of land situated in said County and State, along the Monocacy River, in Taneytown District, being part of a tract of land called "The Resurvey on Boxes Search" and containing more or less, and being the same land, together with the improvements thereon, which was conveyed to Andrew J. Baumgardner by Peter Baumgardner, surviving executor of the last will and testament of Moses P. Baumgardner, late of Carroll County, Maryland, deceased, by deed dated October 2, 1915, and recorded among the Land Records of Carroll County in Liber E. O. C. No. 129, folio 326 &c.

The improvements consist of a two story frame dwelling house, large bank barn, wagon shed, corn crib and other outbuildings. This is a very desirable as well as valuable property, and the land is in a high state of cultivation. It is well known as the Andrew J. Baumgardner farm, and was formerly occupied by him, but more recently by Thomas C. McDowell.

Also the following: about 30 tons of hay; about 25-30 barrels of corn in the ear; one oak log, and about 5 cords of fire wood.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-third part of the purchase money for the farm shall be paid by the purchaser or purchasers to the Trustee on the day of sale or upon the ratification thereof by the Court, and the residue shall be paid in two equal payments, the one to be paid in 6 months, and the other in 12 months from the day of sale, or all cash at the option of the purchaser. The credit payment to bear interest from the day of sale, and to be secured by the note or notes of the purchaser or purchasers, with security to be approved by the said Trustee. The personal property: CASH.

EXECUTORS' SALE OF Valuable Farm

By virtue of the power contained in the last will and testament of Edwin H. Sharetts, deceased, and by virtue of an order of the Orphans' Court of Carroll County, the undersigned executors of the said Edwin H. Sharetts, deceased, will offer at public sale on the farm, on TUESDAY AUGUST 13, 1929, at 2:00 P. M., all that valuable farm, consisting of 160 ACRES & 44 SQ. PER. OF LAND more or less, situated near Bruceville, and on the main road leading from Taneytown to Keymar, now tenanted by Newton J. Hahn.

The farm is improved with a good barn, wagon shed, hog pen, poultry house, and other outbuildings. It is well watered, with a good supply of excellent water at both house and barn. It has about 15 acres of good standing timber, a tract of permanent pasture with running water, and the rest of the farm is in a high state of cultivation.

On account of the character of the farm, and its location on this main highway, only a little more than a mile from Keymar, this is a very valuable farm, and a most attractive place to live.

Possession can be given immediately upon settlement, subject to the tenancy of the present occupant until April 1, 1930.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-third of the purchase money to be paid to the Executors on the day of sale or on the ratification thereof by the said Court, and the residue in two equal payments, the one payable in six months and the other in twelve months from the day of sale; the credit payments to be secured by the bonds or single bills of the purchaser or purchasers, with sufficient security, bearing interest from the day of sale, or all cash at the option of the purchaser or purchasers.

Twelve Rules for Safe Driving.

As a contribution towards greater safety and more pleasant driving conditions on the highways of the country this summer, the Ford Motor Company has listed twelve rules as suggestions to motorists and has distributed them to dealers over the country.

Announcement of the suggestions was made today by Koons Motor Co., Ford dealer in Taneytown, who will display the list prominently in his place of business.

"These rules," said Mr. Koons, "are merely common sense as applied to automobile driving. Every experienced motorist knows all of them. It is our hope, however, that by stating them concisely and posting them where they will come to the attention of a great many motorists, we can so emphasize them as to make a real contribution towards greater highway safety."

1. Courtesy comes first. Consider the rights and privileges of others.
2. Keep your mind on your driving, and anticipate sudden emergencies.
3. Learn the "feel" of having your car under control.
4. Obey all traffic and parking regulations.
5. Keep to the right, and comply with road markings and signs.
6. Signal for stops and turns—Watch the car ahead.
7. Slow down at crossings, schools, dangerous places.
8. Never pass cars on hills, curves crossings.
9. Adapt your driving to road conditions—rain, ice, soft spots and ruts.
10. It doesn't pay to take the "right of way" too seriously.
11. When you drive, remember the times when you're a pedestrian.
12. Know the law. It was passed for your protection.

"It is estimated that 20,000,000 persons will tour on American Highways this summer," Mr. Koons continued, "Recognition of the rights of others will be essential. Many unpleasant accidents will be avoided if motorists at times of close situations, will recall these rules and act accordingly. They are the recommendations of the Ford Motor Company offered to give greater peace of mind to those who travel by automobile."

THE UNCONSIDERED ELEMENT

(By D. J. Walsh.)

"THE trouble with me," Edith Marks told herself as she went about her housework, "is that I'm not used to work and solitude. I'm like a butterfly, I want to look pretty and have a good time. But here . . ."

She let her gaze stray to the window to rest upon the drifts of snow piled up about the little house. A year before she had left her luxurious home in the East to come here as the bride of Billy Marks, a municipal doctor.

"Two years more before we leave here and Billy seeks a practice of his own," Edith mused. "I'll go crazy before then. If it hadn't been for Anna I'd have gone crazy before this."

Anna was an old woman, who, with her son, was their nearest neighbor. Edith remembered her first letter home following her arrival at the village. "Well, here we are, Liz," she had written to her sister, "a million miles from nowhere after a wonderful honeymoon at Banff and other points west. And there's not even a railway here. We had to drive down from Cardurcis, twenty miles away. And will be here for three years! But I'll never get lonesome so long as I have Billy."

But she had—so lonely at times she wept from longing. And there were no social events such as she had been accustomed to, which formerly had been the sole matter of her existence. Suddenly as she stood there musing, the door was thrown open and Billy entered, stamping the snow from his overshoes and shaking it from his fur coat.

"Lo, Honey," he greeted her, "How's tricks?"

"Fine," Edith lied. "Many patients today?"

"The stork and I had a busy day at Wilson's—twins. Two fine boys," Billy informed her as she placed his supper before him.

"Well, Edie, here it's winter again," he resumed after a pause. "I think we'll go skating this winter. Good exercise and lots of fun. And I'm going to buy a toboggan. There are some fine hills around here for sport like that, and we'll have a whale of a time. What did we do most of last winter?"

"Oh, played the gramophone and listened to the radio," Edith volunteered.

"And I listened to you sing," Billy added. "So I guess I had the worst of it. . . . Why, dear, what's the matter? Why the tears?"

Edith tried to stem her tears. She wanted to be brave. But they came in spite of her. Billy's words had brought the memory of her loneliness overwhelmingly upon her.

"Oh, Billy," she sobbed, wiping her cheeks, "can't we go to Cardurcis for the winter? It's so—so lonely here when we're shut in by the snow."

Billy's arms were about her, comforting her, his brow puckered thoughtfully. This was the first intimation Edith had given him that she was not altogether happy.

"Why, dear," he explained, "I didn't know you felt like that about it. But I can't go to Cardurcis for the winter. I'd be too far away from my patients. But you can spend the winter there if you like."

"It would be no better there without you," Edith objected. "But what a baby I am to be so silly."

"We'll talk it over," Billy stated gravely. "We'll find some way out. And by the way, I'm going to Cardurcis tomorrow. Wouldn't you like to come?"

"I'd love to," Edith responded, attempting a smile.

So in the morning Edith and Billy prepared for their trip to Cardurcis. Edith's spirits had risen at the contemplated journey, and they talked and laughed like two happy children as they drove off in Billy's cutter. But in Cardurcis, at the sight of the people there and the things that were denied her, Edith's longings seized her anew. But she said nothing of it to Billy.

It was dark when they arrived home that night, but a light was burning in the house, which was strange.

They were met at the door by Anna's son.

"Mother broke her leg. She slipped on some ice," he informed Billy in his broken English. "You've got to come over right away."

Edith's face paled and she gave a little cry.

"Anna! My best friend!" she exclaimed. "Oh, poor soul! Billy, I'm going with you."

They found the old woman lying on her bed. Edith's heart was torn at the sight of her suffering.

"Oh, Billy, Billy, do something, quick!" she pleaded. "Oh, Anna, my poor dear. . . ."

Billy, quietly professional now, paid no heed to her hysterical pleadings as he busied himself over the injured woman. And Edith, grown silent, obeyed almost mechanically his terse commands as he enlisted her assistance in alleviating the pain of the suffering woman. It was the first time she had seen Billy in the course of his professional work; and while her heart was suffering with her friend, she watched in fascination his deft, sure fingers in their mission of healing. She was awed by the quickness with which he had the injured leg bandaged and the woman resting comfortably in her bed.

"How wonderful it is—to be able to do that," she breathed, her eyes bright with pride in his achievement. "You're sure she's all right?"

"I've done all I can tonight," Billy answered quietly. "I'll visit her again in the morning. Let's go home."

Edith stooped and pressed her lips against the woman's cheek as they turned to go.

"Ought we to leave her so soon?" she queried.

"We can do nothing more for her tonight," Billy replied gently. "And she'll rest better if she's left alone. Her son can care for any of her needs till morning."

Both remained strangely quiet throughout the journey home. Later, when they were preparing for bed, Billy took a slip of paper from his pocket and handed it to Edith.

"Here's a present for you, Edie," he told her. "I bought it for you when we were in Cardurcis today."

Edith gazed at the paper with widening eyes.

"A railway ticket home!" she exclaimed. "Why, Billy—"

"This is no place for a girl that's been brought up to a life of luxury and ease," Billy responded gravely. "I've been a fool not to see that before. And I want you to be happy, dear."

Then suddenly Edith threw both arms around her husband's neck.

"Oh, Billy," she whispered softly. "I'm the one that's been such a little fool. And I was selfish. I've been thinking only of myself, while you have been helping others and doing so much good. I've wanted to be only a butterfly when I could help you so much in your work. So we'll get the money back for this ticket—and save it for the heir. It won't be so lonely when we have him to think of, will it? And we'll save the money from my ticket, too. . . ."

"Your ticket? What do you mean, Honey?"

"I bought one also when we were in Cardurcis today. But I won't need either of them now."

Half of Free State Engaged in Farming

The Free State's census of production shows that more than half of its workers are engaged upon the land. Out of a total population of 2,971,992, there are 1,307,662 engaged in gainful occupations, and of these 672,129 are employed in agriculture. The Free State has a larger proportion of producers to population than Great Britain, but they fall far short in the more remunerative industrial occupations. Of the agricultural workers 121,957 are women. People employed in the professions number 55,441 and of these the majority, 29,505, are women. This result is arrived at by including the nuns in the convents and schools, of whom there are 9,209. There are 3,898 Catholic clergy in addition to 1,111 Christian Brothers and other monks and 2,558 clerical students. The census has dissipated the idea that the public service in the Free State is overstuffed. Including the army there are altogether 37,333 on the public pay sheets, or 28 per thousand as compared with 29 per thousand in Great Britain. Women are found in all occupations, except perhaps the building trade. There is even a woman chimney sweep; a woman manages a brewery and another a distillery.

Red Indian Recreations

The principal game among the southeastern Indians was one similar to lacrosse except that it was played with two rackets instead of one. Of wider popularity was the chunky game, in which a stone roller or hoop of twisted withes was propelled along the ground and each player threw a stick to mark what he thought would be the hoop's resting place. In another sport men and women were opponents around a pole which they endeavored to strike with balls above a certain mark. The women's favorite game was dice made of cane or bits of wood, but this was considered beneath male dignity. A game like shinny was played by the Natchez boys, while in Virginia, and among the Creeks young men played a game similar to football with great enthusiasm. —Detroit News.

Circus City

Every day is circus day in Marrakesh, the capital of southern Morocco, in which life goes on much as it did in the days of the Arabian Nights, according to a writer in the Living Age. The hard-packed, reddish soil is an arena for all the fakirs and entertainers of North Africa, for the city is still the guardian of the old caravan route from the desert's rim to the sea.

Acrobats, snake charmers, story tellers, musicians, and the rest, daily and nightly entertain travelers who are armed with wicked knives, and display every skin shade from the blondness of the Riflian to the ebony of the pure negro.

Clay-Marshall Duel

Before the famous Humphrey Marshall became a United States senator, he was a member of the Kentucky legislature. At the time Henry Clay was speaker of the same body, Clay's initial act in the interest of protective tariff was to introduce a resolution that the legislature should wear only clothes of domestic manufacture.

Marshall and Clay crossed in debate on the subject, had an altercation and a duel with pistols was the result. Both were slightly wounded in the encounter on the "field of honor," but nothing more serious was the result. —Detroit News.

WHEN WE SERVE SANDWICHES

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company

Sandwiches vary all the way from the fancy, dainty bits of goodness which we serve at tea, to the substantial, many-layered sandwiches which are always so popular with men.

Bread for flat sandwiches should be a day old, so as to cut more easily. For rolled sandwiches, or for very thin slices of bread to be buttered and put overlapping on a plate, fresh bread should be used.

White or brown bread, rye, graham, whole-wheat, raisin, date or nut breads may be used, sometimes two or more kinds together. Long, narrow rolls make attractive sandwiches when sliced lengthwise, buttered and filled. For picnics, the roll may be hollowed and filled with sandwich material. Thin salt wafers or crackers are often used for paste sandwiches.

Bread for fancy sandwiches should be cut in slices as thin as possible and the crusts removed. Picnic and lunchbox sandwiches are cut somewhat thicker and the crusts usually left on. The filling and butter for picnic sandwiches should be increased in proportion to the thickness of the bread.

Here are a few suggestions for delicious sandwiches:

Italian Sandwiches—

1/4 cupful minced celery; cayenne pepper; 2 tablespoons Mayonnaise Salad Dressing; white or whole-wheat bread; 1/4 cup minced ham; prepared mustard; 2 tablespoons Chili Sauce; butter.

Combine minced ham and celery and season with dash each of cayenne pepper and mustard. Moisten with the mayonnaise and chili sauce. Use white or whole-wheat bread.

Cheese, Olive, and Green Pepper

1 cupful grated American cheese; 1/4 cupful minced green peppers; bread; 1/4 cup Spanish olives; 2 tablespoons Mayonnaise Salad Dressing; butter.

Mix together cheese, olives, green peppers and mayonnaise. Butter slices of bread, spread half of them with the filling and cover with other slices of bread.

Baked Bean Sandwiches

1/2 cupful Oven Baked Beans; 2 tablespoons grated American cheese; salt; 2 tablespoons orange juice; butter; brown bread.

Mash baked beans. Add grated cheese and salt to taste. Moisten with orange juice and spread between slices of buttered brown bread.

Olive Club Sandwiches—

Bread; Mayonnaise Salad Dressing; stuffed Spanish Olives; butter; lettuce leaves; bacon; watercress.

Toast slices of bread one-fourth inch thick until an even golden brown. Butter lightly and let cool slightly. Spread with thick mayonnaise. On half the slices place lettuce leaves and cover with sliced olives. On the remaining toast, arrange slices of broiled bacon. Put together and garnish with watercress.

Garden Sandwiches—Spread whole wheat or rye bread with creamed butter, then with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing to which enough chopped parsley or cress has been added to color it slightly. Scald, peel, and chill four medium-sized firm tomatoes; pare a cucumber, remove seeds and chop with one-half a green pepper and a small onion; moisten with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. Slice tomatoes and arrange sandwiches on serving plates as follows:

First a slice of buttered bread, then slices of tomato dusted with salt, pepper, paprika, and spread thinly with Mayonnaise; next a second slice of bread, buttered side up, with the vegetables on it. Garnish with spoonful of Mayonnaise and whole Stuffed Olive.

Hot Ham Sandwiches—Spread thin slice of brown bread with a thin slice of ham, or minced ham, then with a thin layer of Heinz Prepared mustard. Cover mustard with a thin slice of American or Swiss cheese. Cover with another slice of bread. Toast the sandwich, or beat one egg and add to it 1/4 teaspoon salt, a dash of pepper and 1/2 cup milk. Dip the sandwiches quickly into this mixture and fry until delicately browned in a pan with 3 tablespoons melted butter. Garnish with slices of fresh cucumber pickle and serve at once.

Sandwiches Men Like

Rare roast beef and horseradish and onion minced, on white bread. Swiss cheese, prepared mustard, and rye bread.

Hot Frankfurter sausages in quarter-inch slices, skin removed, and prepared mustard, in rolls or white bread.

Chopped hard-cooked eggs, stuffed olives chopped, and mayonnaise.

HOW

DUST MOTES CONTRIBUTE TO DOWNFALL OF RAIN.—Dust and sand play a more important part than is generally realized in bringing about rainfall, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society.

When water-vapor particles condense into water droplets, whether on their rise from the sea or after numerous cloud-making adventures, they not only grasp their nearest fellow molecules but they must find infinitesimal bits of floating material, such as dust motes—a sort of magic carpet—and crowd upon them.

Dust usually is present abundantly, thanks to the winds and to volcanoes; and in the thickly peopled regions of the earth thousands of chimneys throw into the air in their smoke millions of potential cloud nuclei.

Even over the center of the greatest ocean there are as many as 750 dust particles in a thimbleful of air, and over the streets and buildings of large cities perhaps 200,000. In one cubic foot of air in any of our great cities there are twice as many dust motes as there are human inhabitants of the earth.

Widely separated, the motes, with their vapor passengers, at first float about like asteroids in space, but gradually the cold of the upper regions causes more and more of the vapor molecules to jump out of their gaseous form and attach themselves to existing droplets until the latter are built into drops heavy enough to fall earthward.

Dogfish Too Playful

A young Florentine who had rowed his patino (a raft boat) used on the Tuscan coast by bathers) about half a mile out to sea, near Viareggio, says the Rome correspondent of the London Sunday Observer, caught sight of a huge fish coming toward him, which he mistook for a dolphin and light-heartedly proceeded to kill with his oar.

The animal turned out to be a "smeriglio," a kind of dogfish, some 20 to 25 feet long. It drove its teeth with such force into the end of the patino that it could only free itself by leaving several of its teeth behind. During this struggle the boat was overturned, but the bather was a good swimmer and managed to gain possession of it, and had still enough strength to make vigorous signs of distress to neighboring boats, which came to his rescue, and had the strange and fortunate result of frightening away the giant fish.

Queer Wills

Elizabeth Orby Hunter may have been a little odd, but she tempered her eccentricities with caution. When she died in 1813 she bequeathed 200 guineas a year "to my beloved parrot, the faithful companion of 25 years," but she also added a proviso to the effect that whoever had the bird in charge must prove its identity twice a year when the money was paid, or the annuity ceased.

Equally odd was the will of an English lady who left 70 pounds a year for the support of her three goldfish, including a provision for flowers to be put upon their graves when they finally shook off their mortal fins.

Awarded Vail Medals And $250 Cash Each

Top: Mrs. Mabel Hite and Mrs. Althea P. Marks. Bottom: Miss Anna C. Yurecsko and Olin Etheridge Perdue.

Three Women And Man Given Silver Medals

Noteworthy public service brings its own reward. Silver Vail medals accompanied by $250 cash each have just been awarded Mrs. Mabel Hite, agent, Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, Potter, Neb.; Olin Etheridge Perdue, lineman American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Atlanta, Georgia; Mrs. Althea P. Marks, agent, The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, Saticoy, Calif.; and Anna C. Yurecsko, night operator, New Jersey Bell Telephone Company, Rockaway, N. J.

Mrs. Hite, according to the pilot of a mail plane, undoubtedly saved him from a fatal crash while flying in a blinding snowstorm. While working at her switchboard she heard the plane flying in circles above the town and arranged for flares so that he could make a safe landing.

How the Cacao Bean Is Employed in Commerce

The common beverages known as cocoa and chocolate are both prepared from the seeds or beans of a tropical tree, Theobroma cacao. In making chocolate the cacao beans are roasted, shelled and ground into a smooth, fine-grained paste, which is run into molds and cooled in the form of cakes or bars. These cakes, which contain 50 per cent or more of the fat called "cocoa butter," constitute the chocolate of commerce. Sometimes, however, instead of cooling the chocolate paste and molding it into cakes it is subjected to pressure and part of the cocoa butter is extracted. The partially defatted press cake is pulverized and sifted, and the fine powder resulting is put in packages and sold

While two linemen were crossing a bridge over a flood-swollen river one of them encumbered with a heavy tool belt and climbers, fell into the flooded stream. Perdue, the man's companion, although a poor swimmer dived into the river, grasped his fellow workman, brought him ashore and applied artificial respiration until normal breathing was restored.

With the breaking of the St. Francis Dam, which flooded the entire Santa Clara River Valley, Mrs. Marks remained at her switchboard, warning residents of the community of the impending danger from the raging waters.

Miss Yurecsko learning of an automobile accident in which a car had crashed over a railroad bridge and fallen onto the tracks, called a train dispatcher asking him to stop a train due in a few minutes. This he did, undoubtedly avoiding a most serious accident.

as cocoa. Chocolate, then, is the ground and powdered cacao beans deprived of a large part of their fat. Frequently no sharp distinction is made between the beverages made from chocolate cakes and cocoa powder. In many restaurants a person who orders chocolate will get the same beverage that he would get if he ordered cocoa.—Pathfinder Magazine.

A Handicap

"But surely," said the haughty passenger, "if I pay the fare for my dog he will be treated the same as other passengers and be allowed to occupy a seat?"

"Of course, madam," the guard replied politely, "provided he does not put his feet on it."

Community Building

Metropolis in War on

Dirt and Unsightliness

For years Kansas City has had its spring clean-up campaigns. Agitation and organization have proceeded for a few weeks, with intensive efforts at actually improving the city's appearance lasting for a shorter period. Something worth while has been accomplished each year, but its effects soon have been lost. Work that should be continuous has been restricted to a small fraction of the year. A clean and attractive city cannot be had that way. A condition of order and cleanliness that is indispensable to the individual home or place of business and its premises applies to the city as a whole. It is constant vigilance, keeping an eye out for dirt and unsightliness and shaping an assault against both wherever and whenever they appear.

In the city-wide beautification movement started by the real estate board and now well advanced, there is promise that this condition of attractiveness and cleanliness will be met. The movement has enlisted the support of various civic and other organizations about town. No doubt it will carry a strong appeal to others. The aim is to allot definite portions of the work to those agencies that are specially equipped to deal with them, to divide the city into districts, to fix responsibility in each of them and to wage incessant warfare against dumps, against ugliness of whatever form and against insanitary conditions with respect to dwellings and surroundings.

The plan is not untried and it is not lacking in practicability. It has already demonstrated its value in attractive, restricted areas of this city and of other centers. It is the only method that can be relied upon to get results. It ought to have official as well as general public support.—Kansas City Times.

Good Citizen One Who

Gives Grass a Chance

Smith college, famous institution for girls, has appointed "grass cops," who are certain girls named to whistle at the students when they cut across the corners of the lawns and wear down the beautiful grass. Most cities and towns need some "grass cops," who shall cure people of the wretched habit of cutting across places reserved for turf.

There is a hasty impatience about people that leads many of them to cut across the corners of their own lawns and those of their neighbors, and to wear down the ends and corners of grassy park spaces. Which has a tendency to spoil the beauty of any town.

It scarcely takes a second longer to follow the walks and streets and allow the grass to grow wherever it belongs. A community where people are careful of their grass spaces looks like one that holds itself up to a high standard in all respects.—Newcastle (Ind.) Courier.

Rules for Planting Vines

If you want decorative vines on your house and in your garden, watch the plants to see that they behave themselves with your property, advises the American Home. And be careful where you place them.

Never plant a vine that clings by stem roots near a wooden wall.

Never plant a twining vine where it can ascend a sapling.

Always watch a tendrill climber to make sure it doesn't strangle some other part of itself by encircling it with a tendrill.

Never plant a rank vine where it can bury shrubbery or other plants with its dense foliage.

Care of Small Garden

Size does not limit a garden's beauty. However small the space or unfavorable the location at the disposal of an earnest gardener, something can be grown there which will give pleasure.

The small garden often calls for a greater effort to produce an artistic and attractive result, just as in the furnishing and decoration of a small room in the house, we take more care in each detail of the effect. When successful we are repaid by the small garden, as by the little room, with an intimacy and association not always felt in more spacious surroundings.

Serving One's Home Town.

A man's worth to a community is measured by what he contributes to its welfare. This is an age of service rendered, not received. There can be no higher ambition than to serve that fellow citizens shall "rise up and call us blessed."—Western (Ore.) Clackamas Review.

Why Not School Gardens?

"Gardening is taught in primary and elementary schools in France; and ought to be taught here," wrote Wilmer Atkinson in the Farm Journal for May, 1879. Fifty years have passed, and, so far as the great majority of our schools are concerned, it still "ought to be."

Call of Duty

Join campaign against dirt and unsightliness: see that your property is brightened up.

THE STORY OF DANIEL

LESSON TEXT—Daniel 1:1-4, 19, 20; 2:17-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Boy Who Obeyed.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Boy Who Obeyed.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Preparing for a Life Work.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Character and Career of Daniel.

I. Daniel in Captivity (1:1-4).

His captivity took place in the third year of Jehoiakim's reign by Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon. While a tender youth, he was torn from home ties and made a captive in a foreign land to be trained for court service.

II. Daniel in Training (1:5-20).

In order to be of the largest service in the kingdom, it was necessary that he be taught to love the king and nation and to be detached from his own people and religion.

1. Daily portion of the king's meat and drink appointed (v. 5).

The object of this was:
(1) To gain the good will of Daniel. Such recognition would encourage him to give himself to the king's service.

(2) To supply the proper food for his physical and intellectual growth.

2. His name changed (v. 7).

He was named Belteshazzar. The object in this change was the obliteration of national and religious connections, and his identification with the Babylonian nation. Daniel means, God is my judge. Belteshazzar means, Bel's Prince.

3. Daniel's purpose of heart (v. 8).

Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not "defile himself with the king's meat and wine. He requested to be tested for ten days with the food which the law of his God allowed, agreeing to abide by the results.

4. Daniel's reward (vv. 15-20).

(1) Physical health (v. 15). The king's meat and wine would have been palatable, but to have partaken would have violated his conscience.

(2) Mental growth (vv. 17-20). He was found to be ten times wiser than the magicians and astrologers.

(3) Socially (v. 19). He was not only next to the king, but president of the college of wise men and prime minister of the empire, continuing through several dynasties (v. 21).

(4) Spiritual (v. 17).

God revealed to him Nebuchadnezzar's dream and gave visions stretching across the centuries. The secret of Daniel's success was:

- Conscientiousness.
- Loyalty to God.
- Decision of character.
- Prayerfulness.
- Patience.
- Courtesy.

III. Daniel Interpreting Nebuchadnezzar's Dream (2:1-46).

1. The dream revealed (vv. 14-35). Nebuchadnezzar had a dream which made a tremendous impression on his mind but its content had been forgotten. He urgently demanded of the wise men that they make known the dream and its interpretation. Because of their failure to do so the king was furious and commanded all the wise men of Babylon to be slain. Daniel sought an interview with the king and obtained time. In answer to prayer, God gave to Daniel the content of the dream. He told the king that in his dream he had beheld a great image with a head of gold, breast and arms of silver, belly and thighs of brass, legs of iron, and feet part of iron and part of clay. He beheld this image smitten by a stone which became a great mountain.

2. The dream interpreted (vv. 36-46).

(1) The head of gold represented the Chaldean monarchy, with Nebuchadnezzar as its head (vv. 37, 38).

(2) The breast and arms of silver represented the Medo-Persian power (v. 39).

(3) The belly and thighs of brass represented the Grecian empire under Alexander the Great (v. 39).

(4) The legs of iron represented the Roman empire (vv. 40-43).

(5) The stone cut out of the mountain (vv. 44, 45). This is the Kingdom of Heaven so graphically set forth in the New Testament.

a. The stone is Christ (Isa. 28:16; Matt. 21:42-44).

b. When did the stone strike? Observe that the impact upon this man was upon his feet (v. 34).

c. The Kingdom of Heaven is brought into realization through a great catastrophe.

Accepting Christ

We urge men to accept Christ, to accept Him now, and they say, "Well, we will think about it," or "Yes, I know it ought to be attended to." Why, you wouldn't act that way five minutes about your health or your wife's health, or your business.—Dr. Maltbie D. Babcock.

Trust the Creator

All I have seen teaches me to trust the Creator for all I have not seen.—Emerson.

FOR WORLD SCOUT JAMBOREE

1,500 American Lads Will Go to England.

New York.—Fifteen hundred American boys will make a pilgrimage to England this summer to take part in the greatest peace-time encampment of boys that the world has ever known. The group will be the official representatives of the Boy Scouts of America at the World Jamboree to be held at Birkenhead, across the Mersey river from Liverpool, England, from July 31 to August 13 this year. Fifty thousand Boy Scouts representing 42 different nations will pitch their tents and for two weeks will work and play together. The World Jamboree is being held to celebrate the twenty-first birthday of the founding of the Boy Scout movement and also to pay tribute to Sir Robert Baden-Powell, chief scout of the world, who founded the movement. More than 400 acres of ground will be under canvas when the World Jamboree opens on July 31.

In patrol units of eight, under adult leaders, the American Scouts will embark from a score of different seaports and, landing at Liverpool, Harwich, Grimsby, Hull, Goole and Newcastle, will pilgrimage to the Jamboree camp. Many of the American Scouts will embark on special trains from the various English seaports and be carried to Birkenhead and Upton. From there they will be transported by motor to Arrowe park, where the world-gathering is to be held.

Reports from the International Scout bureau, at London, England, state that more than 15,000 Boy Scouts are expected from countries outside of the British empire. The Dominion and colonial possessions of Great Britain will send an additional 2,000 scouts to the Jamboree and the remainder of the group will be made up of English Scouts.

Many notables from continental Europe will be present at the Jamboree. In previous Jamborees held at four-year intervals, the kings of England, Sweden and Denmark have attended. This year, the prince of Wales will be a guest at the Boy Scout encampment.

The actual dates of the Jamboree are from July 31 to August 13, but most of the Scouts from abroad will spend additional time visiting with Scouts of continental Europe and in tours to places of historic interest.

Boston School to Give Posture Scholarships

Boston.—A "posture scholarship," recognizing the importance of correct posture, or the right use of the body as the basis of health, said to be the first of its kind, has been established at the Boston School of Physical Education, according to Miss Mary F. Stratton, director.

The award will be made annually to the young woman who throughout the school year shows the most intelligent understanding of posture and poise. Students of the school will choose the winner, the award being subject to ratification by the director and executive committee.

The fund is to be known as the Marguerite Sanderson scholarship in recognition of the outstanding services of Marguerite Sanderson, first president and one of the founders of the institution.

Survivor of Merrimac

Adjudged Incompetent

Falls City, Neb.—George Barker, eighty-six, one of the last survivors of the crew of the Merrimac, famous iron battleship of the Confederates during the Civil war, lives in the past. Although his memory is as clear as a bell concerning the events of that famous Merrimac-Monitor battle, he has been adjudged incompetent to manage his own affairs by a sanity commission in District court. Old age has undermined the veteran's mentality and the present has slipped from his grasp.

"Boots" Weber to Keep Nickname in New Job

Los Angeles.—Charles ("Boots") Weber, has risen from a job as a cigar clerk to the position of director of the $15,000,000 corporation which manages the vast California interest of William Wrigley, Jr., millionaire manufacturer and baseball magnate. The only stipulation made by Wrigley in entrusting Weber with his business that "Boots" retain his nickname.

Dons Suit of Another; Is Left Without Pants

San Francisco.—When La Vene Sears appeared in police court to answer a charge of petty theft he didn't come before the bar of justice in a barrel, but it almost came to that.

Sears was arrested after Ivan H. Parker saw Sears on Market street wearing a suit of clothes that Parker had sent to the cleaners.

The cleaners' boy returned the suit to Sears' address, where Sears received it gratefully. And he wore it until Parker spotted his suit and called the police. Parker recovered his suit and Sears—well, he was just a bit embarrassed until a kindly policeman fitted him out with trousers.

QUEENS OF THIS AND THAT RULE IN PARIS

Beauty Contests Reveal but Little Beauty.

Paris.—Galveston has much to answer for in Europe. In maintaining international beauty contests the Galveston boosters have revived a dying custom of electing queens that is spreading until it seems likely that everybody and the bearded lady and the horse-face girl will be elected beauty queen of something or other.

The very latest is Mlle. Yvonne Demoussier, who was elected queen of the tripe strippers at the tripe strippers' annual ball.

The queen of tobacco sells tad cigars at a drafty counter. She used to be a nice girl; but since her coronation she seldom gets her hands free from her lipstick and mirror, and her hauteur is such that customers feel as if they should salaam and bump their heads on the tiled floor when she deals out short change.

Queens of Everything.

Queens of Montmartre, queens of Montparnasse, queens of each of the twenty wards of the city, queens of the artists' models, queens of the mannequins, queens of the salesgirls, queens of the trolley conductors, queens of the waitresses, laundresses, and window washers jostle each other in the illustrated papers. Recently there was crowned a "queen of the Corsicans of Paris," Mlle. Simone Ferrari was elected, crowned, robed in fake ermine, surrounded by maids of honor, and solemnly enthroned.

There are only eighty-six other "departments" of France with colonies in Paris, each of which will have to elect its queen or be regarded as not imbued with proper regional pride.

A queen of the concierges (janitors) was elected a month ago.

Nor is Paris alone afflicted with the beauty-queen rash. A "wurst queen" was elected in Berlin to the thumping of foaming steins.

The Galveston beauty show, which is responsible for most of this, produced a pretty poor lot of European beauty queens this year. Maurice de Walleffe, the man who last year tried to make knee dress suits what the well-dressed man will wear, scouted all over Europe supervising the elections. But this is one of the things that they do not do so well in Europe. They are not so democratic and not so thorough about it as in the United States.

Girls who are sure of their beauty scorn to place it in doubt by competing to prove it. Furthermore, the custom of judging the candidates in bathing suits has not yet won its way over here. It shocks European theories of modesty. The candidates are few and they are judged on their faces and ankles.

When the lot of them came to Paris from Poland, Rumania, Greece, Hungary, Germany, Holland, Italy, Spain, and other countries, sixteen in all, it was appalling to see how much alike they looked and how really empty was their so-called beauty.

Has Double Chin.

The juries from one end of Europe to the other seemed to have ruled out all candidates representing the really individual qualities of their various races. The fascinating differences in type due to centuries of race-breeding were all discarded in favor of the more rapid variety of standardized Hollywood prettiness.

The German girl looked more French than the French girl and the Hungarian girl more French than either, and they all, with the exception of Miss Greece, who has a double chin, looked like underdone American flappers.

By the time they had been fed through a quantity production hair-dressing parlor they had lost what little racial individuality they brought with them.

A real esthetic opportunity was missed. Any traveler knows that European races produced distinct types of beauty, each lovely in its way, quite distinct from the other and impregnated with the history of the races from which they come.

A typical beauty of Bucharest has the profile of the heads on old Roman coins and is a living witness to the fact that the Roman empire once had an important and pleasant colony there on the army road to Byzantium. But "Miss Rumania," on the way to Galveston, tells nothing of this.

A real Hungarian beauty must have a reminiscence of Asia in her eyes, but "Miss Hungary" might be a Kansas City high school girl.

A genuine Polish type can have the black hair, black eyes, white skin, smooth forehead and plenty of Slavic strain in her nose and cheekbones and still be entrancingly lovely. But "Miss Poland" carries nothing of Poland with her.

Minister Jailed for Feeding Fox Pups

Poplar Bluff, Mo.—Because he took fox pups to his home and fed them, Rev. A. H. Sisney was sentenced to 30 days in jail for imprisoning wild animals. Rev. Mr. Sisney declared he found the fox pups in a starving condition.

Homes for Aged

Washington.—Fraternal and religious organizations maintain 586 homes with accommodations for 41,000 aged dependent persons in the United States, according to a census recently completed by the Labor department's bureau of labor statistics.

Oxen Play Important Part in Korean Life

The Korean people are most industrious workers of the soil, and from time immemorial oxen have borne the brunt of the battle. Methods of cultivation preclude the use of mechanical devices and, as the native horse is too small for farm labor, the farmer's main beast of burden is his ox or cow. These animals plow his fields, haul his heavy loads and turn his mill.

The last service which Korean cattle render their masters is to be slaughtered for food or for hides. Since the expulsion of Buddhism by the Yi dynasty in the Fourteenth and Fifteenth centuries, the people have been accustomed to the use of meat as an article of diet, particularly on all ceremonial occasions. As most of the farmers live in small isolated communities, the cattle market becomes his "social center," combining his club, newspaper and debating society.

"Furniture Fakers"

The workmen of France and Italy are exceedingly clever in the business of imitating ancient furniture and similar pieces of old art craft, and in their imitating they are thorough and systematic to the extent that the copy is often as handsome a piece of work as the original. Persons who engage in this questionable art are artisans of the first water. They make use of old wood and when it is desired to give a piece the appearance of years of actual service, they put the piece into actual use where it will get real wear and tear. In addition to this they make use of fabrics which are really old, taken from pieces which they have gathered at various times in their search for old wood.

Curious Reflection

"Have you seen the Museum ghost?" asked my friend, an Egyptologist, when with him in the Egyptian gallery of the British museum. We had just passed the empty black basalt coffin of a priest of Ptah, but on looking through the glass case that contains a statuette of Isis, he pointed out that the previously empty coffin now held a mysterious figure! My companion's explanation of this somewhat disturbing apparition was that the reflection of an effigy in a coffin on the other side of Isis' case was caught by one glass of the case and thrown by the other glass right into the vacant coffin of Ptah's priest! The illusion is certainly remarkable.—London Mail.

When Money Spent is Money Earned

THE MONEY AND TIME you spend manuring your fields the Case way, will come back to you many times over in bigger crops and extra profits when harvest time rolls 'round.

The Case Spreader pulverizes the manure finely and spreads it evenly—7 feet wide. No bare spots—no over-manured spots—but every bit of ground gets its fair share of plant food.

This spreader is exceptionally well made—lasts for an unbelievably long time. Light draft—extra tight box—turns short—drives thru a 6 foot door.

You can't get a machine that will put more extra money in your pocket.

Come in and see the Case Spreader or phone for booklet. Good, fast service—always.

FRUIT FOR ALL MEALS

THE only mistake anyone ever seems to have made by including fruit in her diet was when Eve ate the original apple. But since that time the slogan "an apple a day keeps the doctor away" has become fixed in our national consciousness, and the consumption of some sort of fruit at every meal has become almost a national custom.

The reasons for this can be found in the following paragraphs from "Food, Nutrition and Health" by E. V. McCollum, Ph.D., Sc.D., and Nina Simmons, Sc.D. (Hygiene). Dr. McCollum is Professor and Dr. Simmons was formerly Associate Professor of Chemical Hygiene, School of Hygiene and Public Health, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md. They say in their book:

"In the whole range of vegetable foods the fruits are the most attractive in appearance and flavor. No others furnish such a great variety of flavors. The fruits are among the most valuable of foods for a number of reasons. Most fruits are rich in the vitamin C, which is not widely distributed among other natural foods, except tomatoes and some of the succulent vegetables, and fresh, uncooked leaves.

Among Most Valuable Foods

"The citrus fruits—oranges, lemons and grapefruit—stand first in their content of vitamin C. Apples, plums, cherries, etc., contain much less of it. The tomato ripened in the field is rich in vitamin C. Those picked green and ripened by time contain very little. Green fruits in many cases contain substances which are disturbing to the digestive tract. It is well known that unripe apples and other unripe fruits are unsafe to eat. Ripe fruit is rich in water and relatively poor in nutrient principles. A large volume of fruit, therefore, is necessary to furnish as much energy or protein as would be furnished by a very small package of some of the more concentrated products, such as cereals, peas, beans, etc. Notwithstanding the fact that they are water-rich foods, poor in all the prominent nutrient substances—proteins, fats and carbohydrates—they are nevertheless very valuable components of the dietary, and should be regularly used. Fruits are especially useful in promoting intestinal elimination and so help to promote intestinal hygiene."

All Fruits Now Available

Of course all fresh fruits are now annually available in the localities where they grow, but the canning of fresh fruits picked at the very moment of their prime ripeness has proved a great boon to the health of the nation. No one need now go without fruit in the diet since these canned fruits are available everywhere at every season of the year.

The list of fruits so available includes apples (whole and sliced, apple sauce, apple butter and baked apples), apricots (whole and halves), blackberries, blueberries, cherries (white, red and black), cranberries, currants, figs, fruits for salad, gooseberries, grapes, grapefruit, loganberries, peaches (whole, halves, sliced and crushed), pears (whole and halves), pineapples (sliced, crushed and tidbits), plums, prunes (dry and in syrup), quinces, raisins, raspberries (black and red), rhubarb and strawberries. All of the highly colored fruits are put up in the sanitary enamel lined cans which have become so popular with the housewife.

If the supply of any of these lags or the price goes up, owing to some untoward circumstance like the heavy frost this spring in California which cut down this year's crop of peaches, another fruit can be readily substituted. For instance, Italian prunes form a highly acceptable substitute for peaches, and their juice blends wonderfully in fruit cocktails.

Some Recipes for Summer

Here are a dessert and a salad which will suggest how to use fruit in at least two of your three main meals. The first is known as:

Fresh Prune Souffle: Beat four egg whites stiff and fold in four tablespoons sugar. Drain the contents of a No. 3 can of fresh prunes, remove stones and cut the pulp fine. Fold pulp into the egg whites (reserving the syrup for beverages and sauces), add one-half teaspoon almond extract, pour into a buttered baking dish, and bake in a moderate oven—350°—for twenty minutes, or until firm and a delicate brown. Serve at once with a yellow custard sauce poured over. This recipe serves eight.

The second combines fresh ripe tomatoes with canned pears, and is known as:

Pear and Tomato Salad: Slice chilled tomatoes and lay one slice in each of eight individual nests of lettuce. Place half of a pear from a No. 2 can on top of each, cut side up. Mix one cream cheese with three tablespoons chili sauce and pile in the pear cavities. Garnish with strings of canned minimento and serve with either mayonnaise or French dressing.

TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Items of news from town, or vicinity are always wanted for this column. Special accidents, sales of real estate, fires, important happenings, visits to or from the community social events, and all matters of general interest to those at home, and away from home.

Mrs. Martha Fringer is visiting her sister, Mrs. Lovie Hahn, at Tyrone, Pa.

Miss Ethel Sauerhammer, Littlestown, is the guest of Mrs. Harry I. Reindollar.

Miss Ruth Angell and friend Glen F. Bowers, of Frederick, spent Sunday at Carlin's Park.

Rev. and Mrs. Thurlow W. Null were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Martin, Hagerstown.

Mrs. Maurice Duttera and daughter, Miss Agatha Weant, spent last week with a party of six at Caledonia Park.

Miss Ruth Little, of town, who spent the past week visiting relatives in Emmitsburg, Baltimore, returned home, on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Merwyn C. Fuss and family, returned Thursday evening, after spending a week at Atlantic City, and the New York furniture show.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Thomson, son, Wallace, of Niles, Ohio, left for their home on Sunday, after spending several weeks with Mrs. Thompson's mother, Mrs. Laura Reindollar.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy D. Wentz, son Edgar and Mrs. Mary Wentz, Lineboro, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Calvin T. Fringer. The latter remained for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Stonesifer, son Roland, of Union Bridge, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keefer, near town, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Brown, near town.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Biddinger and daughters, Evelyn and Mable; Mr. and Mrs. William Anders and daughter, Beulah, near town, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Sauble, on Sunday.

Mrs. Sarah Albaugh entertained on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Houck, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Houck, of Walkersville, Miss Laura Martin, of Emmitsburg, Mrs. Mary Stover and Miss Mary Koontz, of town.

Mrs. Sarah Albaugh, Mrs. Mary Stover, Miss Mary Koontz, and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Crouse were entertained at supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Eyer, near Ladiesburg, on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Mehrling, daughter, of Silver Springs, Md., spent the week-end with their home folks here, and also attended the Basehart-Oyler wedding at Gettysburg on Saturday night, at 8:00 P. M.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Cunningham and son, Motter, of Washington, will leave on Saturday on a trip to France, Switzerland and Italy. They brought Mrs. Motter to Sauble's on Sunday, to stay until September.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob D. Null, daughter, Grace, and Miss Nannie Hess, of Hanover; Mr. and Mrs. Hubert J. Null and sons, Charles and George; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Angell, near town; and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Overholzer, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Angell, at Sykesville, Md.

Hickman W. Snider, one of our good farmers near town who keeps such things in mind, says we have not had a soaking rain since May 29, and thinks we have not had such a dry spell for many years at this time of the year. There was a light sprinkle Monday forenoon, but it did very little good.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Eckard entertained on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Briggs and daughters, Dorothy and Annabell, and son, Clair; Miss Blanch Eckard, Doris and Kathryn Schwartz, all of York; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Foreman and son, Dewey, of Frederick; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eckard, daughter Marian, and son Ralph, of Greenville.

At the regular meeting of Taneytown Lodge No. 36, K. of P., on Tuesday night the following officers were installed: W. C. N. Myers, C. C.; Newton Hahn, V. C.; G. F. S. Gilds, Prelate; Charles E. Ridinger, K. of R. and S.; B. S. Miller, M. of F.; C. O. Fuss, M. of E.; J. Samuel Boyd, M. of W.; Carroll N. Hahn, M. at A.; John D. Ohler, I. G., and James Hoffman, O. G.

William Vaughn, living along the Emmitsburg and Bridgeport road, was arrested last Saturday morning at the Lennon farm along the Harney road, on the charge of stealing chickens, and on Tuesday was given a hearing before Justice Benson, Westminster, when he gave bond in the sum of $500. for his appearance at the November term of Court. Bond was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Amos Wantz.

Mr. William McNally, of Baltimore, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ohler, the past week.

Miss Genevieve Brewer, of Gettysburg, spent several days this week, with Miss Janet Burke.

Mrs. John Smeltzer, of Silver Spring, visited her brother, B. Walter Crapster, last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fisher, of Easton, Pa., are guests of Mrs. Geo. H. Birnie and daughter, Miss Eleanor.

Harry A. Allison continues ill at his home on Fairview Ave. His many friends hope to see him around soon again.

Mrs. Laura Reindollar accompanied her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Thomson, to their home at Niles, Ohio.

Mrs. Merritt Burke, of Newark, Delaware, spent last week-end with her brother, Walter A. Bower and sister, Mrs. Wm. Bricker.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. O. Eckenrode, of Harrisburg, are spending the summer at San Diego, Cal., visiting relatives, and ask that The Record be forwarded to them, instead of to Harrisburg.

Robert Clingan and Robert Smith, returned home, last Monday, from the Leadership Training Camp near Biglerville. Misses Onedia Hiltbricker and Helen Crouse entered camp the same day.

Mrs. Abram S. Hahn, who was at the Frederick City Hospital and underwent an eight days treatment, has returned to the home of her mother, Mrs. John Airing, Bruceville, where she will spend some time. She is very much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Uhler, of Upperperco, Baltimore county, visited Mrs. Uhler's sister, Mrs. Margaret Harman, on George St., also Charles Uhler, of Brooklyn, N. Y., visited the same place. Mrs. Harman, who has been ill, is slowly improving.

The following were visitors at the U. B. Parsonage, Sunday afternoon: Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Little, sons, Alson Jr., and Robert, and daughter, Frances, of Waynesboro, Pa.; Mrs. Harry Snyder, Misses Elizabeth and Lena Snyder, James and Donald Snyder, of Quincy, Pa.

Sauble's Inn entertained 602 guests last Sunday, not counting the regular guests, which breaks the record for this popular resort. A large addition to the dining room, is about finished, and will add greatly to the ease of handling large numbers. All of the Sundays this summer have brought crowds to the Inn.

The Home-makers' Club will hold their regular monthly meeting this Friday evening, July 26th., at 8:00 o'clock, in the Firemen's Building. It is requested that this meeting be well attended, as no meeting will be held in August, on account of the County-wide County Picnic, to be held in Flickinger's Grove.

RECEIVERS' SALE — OF — VALUABLE STONE QUARRY AND EQUIPMENT, near Harney, Carroll County, Md.

By virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Carroll County, sitting in Equity, passed in cause No. 5090 Equity, the undersigned receivers will offer for sale at public auction on SATURDAY, AUGUST 17th., 1929, at 1:00 o'clock, P. M., all that parcel of land, situated about one-half mile from Harney, on the Harney and Emmitsburg road, in Carroll County, Maryland, adjoining the lands of Claude E. Conover and wife, Lee H. Anderson and wife, and others, containing

2 ACRES OF LAND, more or less, together with a right of way from said land to the Harney and Emmitsburg road.

This land contains a very good quality of stone, useful for road building and repairing. The land is cleared off and until recently a stone quarry was in operation thereon.
