In addition to the above, 3 shares of the Sharetts Telephone Co., were sold at $2.75 each to D. B. Reifsnider. The sale was conducted by J. N. O. Smith auctioneer, and was quite spirited.

The Close of the Fair.

Friday at the Fair represented about the usual "day after" the chief attractions being the races and the free acts; and we must repeat again that both races and the platform attractions were about the best ever given on the ground. The school children helped to make up an attendance that would otherwise have been slim, but there was still a percentage who came for their first visit. The larger crowd in the evening, for the fireworks, was all that was expected.

On Saturday there was a very fair attendance, considering that the automobile races were the only attraction. There were two races, five entries in one, and four in the other, and these were more of a free exhibit, than real races, as there were no purses offered the winners.

The exhibits commenced moving out on Friday afternoon, and by Saturday afternoon about everything had vanished but some of the refreshment stands.

While we have no figures to give, the Fair was evidently a gratifying success. The list of premiums awarded as taken from the Baltimore Sun, will be found on second page.

Had Right Arm Crushed.

On Thursday morning about 9:30 while Walter Hiltner, farmer living along the Taneytown and Littleton road, was operating a feed mixer the belt became dry, and in attempting to oil it his right hand was caught and carried around the pulley bruising the arm from the hand to the shoulder, breaking both bones in the forearm midway between the hand and elbow.

He was hurried to Frederick Hospital where an X-ray picture was taken, and the arm placed in a plaster cast. While the injury is a very serious one, it is hoped that the arm may be saved.

State Roads Chairman Fined For Violating Laws.

At the hearing in the case of State Roads Chairman Uhl, last Friday, before Justice Kefauver, in Middletown, Mr. Uhl was found guilty on three charges of violating the state road laws; for driving with wrong markers; for failing to have his drivers card, and for speeding, the total fines and costs being $40.35.

Mr. Uhl announced his intention of taking an appeal, and offered a bond for his appearance which was refused by the Justice, as was also a personal check for the amount. The amount was finally paid in cash.

Justice Kefauver insisted that he was fully within the law on all three charges, as he understood the laws. Sergeant Cassidy who made the arrest, also gave his testimony along the same line—conformance with the law, without favoritism—while Mr. Uhl contended that he was picked out as the "goat" as dozens of cars were violating the speed limit, if he was.

"There is no foundation for the theory that, if a man can write good English, his domestic affairs must, therefore, be of importance to the public."

COLORED MAN KILLED

In an Auto Upset Near Pipe Creek Bridge, Taneytown Road.

A party of five young colored men from Hagerstown and Waynesboro, in a Hudson closed car, who were on their way home from Baltimore early Monday morning, met with a skidding mishap and an upset while approaching the Pipe Creek bridge on the Taneytown-Westminster state road, between the Hartzell summer home and William Erb's, that resulted in the death of James Snowden one of the occupants of the car, aged about 20 years.

The story seems to be that the car was coming down the grade at rapid speed, following another car, and due to the slipping condition of the road the car skidded to the left and toppled over. Snowden being caught between the wreckage and the roadside.

The four other occupants escaped with minor injuries, while the car was completely wrecked—especially the top. The driver of the car was Forrest Washington, of Hagerstown. It is said that the party left Baltimore about 2:30, and was delayed on account of tire trouble.

Others in the car were: Charles Dorsey, of Waynesboro, and Henry Phillips and Norman Smith, of Hagerstown. Sheriff Fowble and State's Attorney Brown were notified, who with Coroner Benson, of Westminster visited the scene and made an investigation. The car belonged to Dorsey who formerly lived at New Windsor.

The coroner summoned the following jury, Maurice C. Dutera, foreman, Archie A. Crouse, Wm. H. Flickinger, B. B. Heltebride, David H. Carbaugh, John Sarbaugh, John Graham, Ira Albaugh, George Baker, James Trayer, William F. Bricker and John D. Albaugh. The verdict of the jury was that Snowden came to his death from the accident, as stated.

Forest Washington, driver of the car who was held for a hearing before Justice Benson for operating the car without a license, was fined $1.00 and costs, and discharged. The body of Snowden was removed to his home in Waynesboro.

Men worry a lot about their hair—when it's half gone.

INCREASE IN DEATHS BY AUTOMOBILES.

In Maryland, one fourth of the Total are Children.

Calling attention to the increasing number of deaths from automobile accidents, and to the fact that nearly one-fourth occur among children under fifteen, Dr. John Collinson, Chief of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health, urges parents to take special precautions to safeguard their children from accidents of this sort during the vacation period, because it is during this season that the majority of such accidents in this age group, occur.

"From January to June of this year," Dr. Collinson said, "156 deaths from automobile accidents occurred in Maryland, in comparison with 135 during the same period of last year. Our death rate from automobile accidents—that is the number of deaths to each hundred thousand of the population—has increased from less than one per hundred thousand in 1910 to 21.5 in 1928. Some idea of the gradual increase can be seen from the rates for the last five years—16.2 out of every hundred thousand of the population in 1924; 17.4 in 1925; 19.7 in 1926; 20.7 in 1927 and 21.5 in 1928.

The total number of deaths from automobile accidents in 1928 was 331. This was more than four times as many as the total from typhoid fever, for which the rate per hundred thousand was 5.2. As a matter of fact, the deaths from automobile accidents now rank about twelfth in the leading causes of death in the State.

"Analysis of our records shows that the greater proportion of deaths from automobile accidents occur during the second six months of the year. This is due largely to the fact that there is more and more travel of that sort during the vacation season and during the pleasant weather of the early fall.

"In checking up our records, we also find that nearly one-fourth of the total deaths from motor vehicle accidents have occurred among children under fifteen and that the larger proportion of these have happened during the vacation season. Because of the menace of the open road to young children at all seasons, but particularly at this time of the year when the children are more likely to be out of doors, special precautions should be taken by parents to protect them from this danger."

"Inside" Information for Women.

Serve children small portions of food. Then they can clear their plates without urging the feeling of being stuffed.

Accustom your family to fresh fruits served as natural as dessert once in a while. It will be good for them, and save work for you.

Resinous substances such as sticky fly paper are often hard to remove from clothing. Try turpentine, benzol, carbon tetrachloride, chloroform, wood or denatured alcohol, ether, kerosene or gasoline.

Sun baths should be given to all well children to keep them well and to many sick children to help make them well. They should, however, be given carefully at first, exposing only a small area of the child's skin to the sunlight until he is used to it and has acquired a protective coat of tan.

Many vegetable combinations are good when you do not have enough of any one vegetable to go around. Carrots and peas in equal quantities; string beans and carrots; celery and turnips; rutabaga and potato; tomato and onion, or tomato and okra; corn, string beans, onions, beets and peas; blends of different greens.

New Zealand spinach stands the heat better than ordinary spinach and so is obtainable during the hottest months. Strip the leaves from the stems, wash well, and cook in an uncovered pan with only enough water to prevent burning. Add salt when the spinach has wilted sufficiently, chop, and mix with butter before serving. Serve vinegar or sliced lemon with spinach.

Get Off the Road.

It is surprising to note the number of deaths every touring season through failure of motorists to take their cars off the road when forced to stop to change or make repairs on a tire. Several such fatal blunders have occurred in and around Baltimore within the last few weeks.

It is a common custom to stop the car dead in its tracks immediately a puncture is noted, instead of forcing the car ahead and off the road to where it will be safely out of the traffic lane. And in cases where the repairs to be made are on the same side as the traffic lane it is even more dangerous because that forces the one making the repairs to stand immediately in the road. If it becomes necessary to change tires under such conditions always put someone on guard to watch for approaching cars and warn you of their coming. There are plenty of ways to get killed out on the highways without resorting to this careless and thoughtless method of doing it.

NO TRESPASSING.

We will begin our customary list of advertisers against TRESPASSING, next week. The cost will be 25c for the season for each name or line. The squirrel season opens Sept. 1st. Read the game laws on this page. This published list should be of benefit, both to land owners and hunters.

TWO ARE DROWNED

At Dick's Dam on Conewago Creek Near Hanover.

A double drowning occurred at Dick's Dam on the Conewago creek, near Hanover, shortly after midnight, Wednesday.

Four persons were out in a canoe for a moonlight ride, when the canoe upset in deep water, resulting in the drowning of Earl C. Hershey, 24, son of Calvin A. Hershey, of Hanover, and Miss Viola March, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence March, near Spring Grove.

Two other occupants, F. A. Hawkins and Miss Theresa Welsh, Spring Grove, escaped by swimming to the shore. Hershey, who was married, is survived by his wife and three children. It is said that one of the four had stood up in the end of the canoe causing it to upset.

The canoe, a fourteen foot craft belonging to Donald Wentz, of Spring Grove, which they had taken without the owner's knowledge, was found floating upside down sometime later. The tragedy was discovered when Francis Sterner, Garold Bergensmith, Miss Carrie Grissinger and Grace Wolfe were returning from a picnic to cottages where they stayed. As they were crossing the bridge to the Grissinger cafe, Sterner remarked to the others that he thought he heard muskrats splashing in the water. A moment later Miss Grissinger saw pieces of wood which later proved to be paddles. Believing something was wrong, the young persons investigated, and Bergensmith discovered the canoe, upside down in the water.

The Farm Board, and Wheat.

The Federal Farm Board is getting ready to give some attention to the wheat situation, according to a dispatch from Chicago to the Baltimore Sun, as follows:

"The board's action came as wheat prices are undergoing severe disturbance and as the 1929 crop is moving to markets."

However, the board is not overly concerned itself with the marketing of the 1929 crop. Rather it is shaping plans to make them most effective for the 1930 crop, when it is thought they will do the most good and have the most permanent benefit.

In dealing with the wheat situation the board is moving slowly and with the idea of building a foundation for future progress, it was said. Members of the board are aware, it was said, that their work probably will be judged by the manner in which they bring stabilization and increased prices to wheat growers.

The board, however, does not wish the impression to become prevalent that it is assuming an attitude of hands off the 1929 crop. Already it has suggested the growers hold back this crop as long as possible.

But for the board to do more than make such suggestions or assist in meeting some emergency which might arise is not possible this year, it was declared. The task of perfecting a national organization extensive enough to aid the wheat growers is too difficult and intricate a problem to be done on short notice, it was contended."

The body goes to work a lot more readily than the mind.

We all know what we should do, but most of us do as we please.

DRY WEATHER CAUSES CROP DECLINE

Report for Sept. First Will Show
Still Further Loss.

S. R. Newell, Agricultural statistician for Maryland, has issued the following crop bulletin:

Dry weather during July has proven detrimental to the outlook for crop production in Delaware and Maryland. The condition of practically all crops declined during the month and unless rain is forthcoming in the near future declines may be expected.

Corn: The condition of corn on Aug. 1st, was reported at 78 percent which is 6 points below the report on July 1st, while Delaware condition remained the same. The Maryland yield is forecast at 37.5 bushels and is only 1 bushel more than harvested last year after the two severe storms in August cut production seriously. The yield this month is forecast primarily on the basis of weather relations apparent over the past 18 years. For this period dry weather during July has usually resulted in reduced yields. In July the precipitation was about 3.50 inches below normal and the forecast yield on the first of Aug. at 37.5 bushels is nearly 2 bushels below the five-year average yield.

Wheat: The forecast of 17.5 bushel yield for wheat, made on the first of July, was substantiated by the reports of actual yield made by growers on the first of August. The yield of 17.5 bushels is a little above average for the State. Quality on the first of August was reported at 89, a little better than the crop of 1928 and the ten-year average quality.

Hay: All tame hay declined which is again a case of dry weather affecting the crop. Production is forecast somewhat less than the 1928 production, well over the 5-year average production.

Jewels Found in Fire Ruins.

Jewels valued at about $1,000 belonging to Mrs. Julian Morgenstern, of Cincinnati, one of the guests at the Hotel Braddock at the time the building was destroyed by fire Monday, were recovered Thursday and turned over to M. J. Croghan, manager, for safekeeping. The valuables were found by a boy, near the ruins, evidently having been thrown out of a window by Mrs. Morgenstern before she fled from the burning structure.

The jewelry consisted of a diamond studded brooch, diamond ring, watch and bracelet. It was picked up by a boy named Whipp, who turned the valuables over to an officer and the latter in turn gave them to Mr. Croghan. Dr. and Mrs. Morgenstern, Mrs. William A. Greenbaum, of Philadelphia, a relative of Mrs. Morgenstern, and the Misses Thorne, of Macon, Ga., friends of Mrs. Morgenstern, were spending two or three weeks at the hotel, having been guests there last summer. Dr. Morgenstern stated that he was awakened by noise and smoke and he and Mrs. Morgenstern quickly donned some clothing and left the building by means of a fire escape. Mrs. Morgenstern, Mrs. Greenbaum and the Misses Thorne saved more of their clothing than some of the other guests on the same floor. During the fire Dr. Morgenstern stated that both he and his wife lost their personal effects.

It is supposed that in the excitement Mrs. Morgenstern threw her jewelry out a window and it remained where it was found. Miss Gertrude Rouché, of Washington, who lost practically all of her clothing and personal effects including money attempted to save her money in a handbag by throwing it out of a window of her room. It was stated that the handbag landed on the roof of the front porch and was consumed.

There is still considerable fire among the ruins. A guard is on duty and no one will be permitted to go among the ruins until a thorough search has been made for money and jewelry that might be salvaged.

Airplane Agriculture.

The airplane is coming to the front as a farm "implement," says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, for dusting cotton and other crops. In 1927 about 500,000 acres of cotton in the United States were dusted by airplane. Most persons think airplane is only for large-scale farmers who can afford to buy a machine, but this is not so. Airplane dusting is sold by contract. The operating company provides the plane, pilots, poison, and everything needed, and the farmer merely contracts for the applications he needs, whether his acreage is 10 or 10,000. The service may be used by small farmers co-operatively. The general price of airplane dusting says the Department of Agriculture, is no greater than the cost of a farmer's making the application himself with ordinary dusting machinery, and prices will undoubtedly be lower as the industry develops. Airplane dusting can only be done on fairly level land, however. Its greatest advantage is that it can be used regardless of conditions of the soil.

Roop Family Reunion.

The annual Roop reunion will be held at the Meadow Branch Church of the Brethren, on Sunday, Sept. 1, in the afternoon. No special program has been arranged, on account of the serious illness of John D. Roop, Sr., and his sister, Mrs. Catherine Bonsack, the two oldest members of the family.

MARYLAND GAME LAWS

Clip this Information and Keep it
During the Season.

The open season for squirrels, doves and rail birds is Sept. 1 to Sept. 30th, inclusive, then closed Oct. 1 to Nov. 9 inclusive; then opens again Nov. 10 to Dec. 31st, inclusive. (This open season on squirrels and doves, applies to all counties, except Garrett, Allegheny, Washington, Howard and Baltimore, between the dates of Nov. 10 to Dec. 31.

As Sept. 1 falls on Sunday, it will be unlawful to hunt squirrels and doves, as the laws of this State prohibit hunting any species of game on Sunday.

Bag limit per day: Squirrels 10; Doves 25; Rail Birds 20.

The open season for woodcock, Chinese ring-necked pheasant, ruffed grouse, rabbit, wild turkey, bob-white quail is Nov. 10 to Dec. 31.

It is unlawful for any person to hunt any species of game on property other than that which is owned or tenanted by them without first procuring a hunters license. As the clerk of the court, who issues the hunting licenses is overrun with business in October and early in November, all persons should procure their hunters license early and avoid the rush. The license fees are: Resident of County, $1.25; State-wide license, $5.25; non-resident of State, $15.50; a non-resident landowner assessed $500 or more on the tax books of this county, can procure a county license, where said property is located at $1.50.

All persons are required to have license on person while hunting, and to wear tag displayed on outer garment at center of back between shoulders. Hunting without a license, penalty $20.00 fine. Failure to display tag carries a penalty of $20.00 fine. Unlawful to hunt game on Sunday. Unlawful to hunt any game at night time. Unlawful to trespass on any game refuge, penalty $50.00 to $100.

Persons hunting squirrel and dove in the county are warned not to molest game of other species. Rabbit and bob-white, quail are plentiful this season. However we are well aware of the temptation to unscrupulous persons hunting squirrel and dove to kill other game while in the field.

Fayette Street a Boulevard.

All auto drivers going "down town" into Baltimore are warned that Fayette Street has been designated a "Boulevard," and all motorists must come to a stop before entering into it. All traffic on the street, has the right of way over traffic entering it. As Fayette Street runs east and west across the City, visitors except to the northern section—are apt to cross this street.

New Money Getting Old.

The U. S. government is retiring the old large notes at the rate of about $2,500,000 daily, which means that the new issue is coming into use pretty rapidly, and already some of the notes look old, wrinkled and even dirty. The novelty of the new money has about passed. Most handlers like the change, while some of the largest handlers prefer the old size as they say it is more easily handled.

Sunburn and Tan.

Some of our summer vacationists are quite proud of a coat of tan accompanied with sunburn, and fancy that it is not only not harmless, but of benefit to health; but now comes along Mr. Roland Millar, collaborator with Dr. E. E. Free in "Sunnays and Health" who says;

"There are some who fancy that sunburn is a harmless preliminary to a coat of tan. It isn't; a burned skin is a poisoned skin, and very dangerous burns can result from sunlight."

Pictures on the Walls.

The other day in going over the accumulation of mail on our desk, the following caught our attention in a booklet.

"And houses then were filled with pictures, for people dared to have and hang upon their walls the things they liked. How bad these doubtless mostly were—but how remembered! What a cherished part of childhood memories are the familiar pictures of those days."

Pictures? Fifty years or more ago, the average calendar picture would have been considered a work of art—as it really is—and would have been framed and hung up in the best room in the house. Now, we are critical of the calendars we receive, as to whether we will take them home or not.

And, further back than this the walls carried framed samplers of skillful needlework on home-made canvas; Bible pictures in colors, and often those of George Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, or Henry Clay. Indeed, even ordinary pictures were scarce—always had to be bought—and their ownership was regarded very highly as proper wall ornaments, as well as for their historic or sentimental value.

The habit of "having it framed" is away back in the old times. Perhaps because handsome pictures are so common, made so by modern advertising, but this does not explain why family photographs—perhaps of "father and mother"—or enlargements of the same are now apt to be found packed away in the attic, while walls are bare that were once much used, and pictures were regarded as an evidence of home-making refinement.

Evidently, "fashion" has placed its barr on pictures. Even fancy wall paper has gone out, along with what-nots, "God Bless Our Home" mottoes and spinning wheel chairs; and floors are now almost as bare as the walls, all to await a "come back" after a while. It is the same sort of "fashion" that has brought so-called "antique" furniture to the front, much of which is merely "old" and never was of much value. And, by the way, present gatherers of the "antique" may be coming in at the tail-end of the fad, with the chance of being in "fashion" but a short while yet.

But, to come back to wall pictures. Unquestionably their display became over-done, and many of the pieces had little or no value, sentimental or otherwise; but there was a "homish" look about them as well as a creditable display of remembrance for those gone before; while even the landscapes and pretty bits of scenery showed at least a love for the artistic.

The banishment of pictures has not, in fact, improved the appearance of homes, and many have refused to follow the fashion, for good pictures, well placed and not overdone still help to make a home attractive, and do not display bad taste.

A Deplorable Situation.

The undefended boundary between Canada and the United States is an object of legitimate pride to both countries. It demonstrates what good will and common sense can achieve in ordering the relationships between two friendly neighbors. But just now the inspiring picture is being sadly marred through the nefarious activities of the rum-runners.

Incidents have occurred recently which have converted the peaceful boundary line into a battleground, with fire and counter-fire, pursuits and escapes, slaughters and kidnappings and all other disgraceful accompaniments of the liquor traffic over the border. It is a deplorable situation and a difficult problem, but the people of the United States can be assured that Canadians are just as much ashamed and sick of this humiliating business as they are.—Hamilton, Canada, Spectator.

Extract From "Pleasantries of Dread"

"An ingenious American," says Dr. Joseph Lobel, in "Don't Be Afraid," "has characterized fear . . . as a 'domestic sport.' Just as in various games we expose ourselves to danger, knowing with certainty that we shall escape, just as we enjoy the pleasant ticklish feeling that ensues as a result of this combination of sensations, 'so,' says he, 'we often create for ourselves, out of a pure desire for sensation, the pleasantries of dread.'"

"It is not man alone who sets out to learn how to shudder. The mother who sits on the couch anxiously awaiting her boy's return from school, is doing the same thing. She surrenders herself to feelings of anxiety and pictures his having fallen into the water. In reality, she feels nothing of the kind. Otherwise she would have rushed long ago to the water, instead of sitting quietly on the couch, indulging, pleasantly, in feelings of apprehension."

"But picturing to herself all the dangers into which her son may have fallen, she is unconsciously enjoying herself. Out of the everyday, monotonous home-coming of her youngster, she has created a dramatic event. She will welcome him with a sigh of relief and happiness when he crosses the threshold just as she had really been expecting him to arrive, safe and sound."

American Elk Splendid Creature of the Wild

The American elk, or wapiti, is the most beautiful and stately of all the great tribe. He is not actually an elk, for the name really belongs to the elk of Europe, an animal very closely related to our moose.

Some of the Indian tribes called him wapiti, and we might well let it go at that, believing that it is a good name, writes Arthur Newton Pack in "Nature Magazine." At any rate, when I first saw one of these great, tall antlered bulls looking at me as I crept to the edge of the flock, my heart certainly went wapiti-wapiti-wap.

I remembered that once—once upon a time—these handsome fellows had ranged from the Atlantic slope to the Rocky mountains and beyond to the very Pacific; but now there were but few left and most of those were here in the Rocky mountain woods.

While the elk are content to stay in the mountains during the summer, the deep winter snows drive them down to the valleys, where men make fences out of piled antlers.

Death by Sunshine

Sunshine, the great cure-all and life-giver, is a paradox in one case at least. Through the medium of the geranium it spells death to insects.

Insects which are attracted by the leaves of this beautiful plant feast upon them and then drop paralyzed and usually die. Where the sun comes in is indicated by the fact that the deadliness of the poison depends upon the amount of exposure to the sun of the plant, those of longest exposure being the deadliest.

This discovery has opened up a new field in the study of insecticides and experiments are being pushed to determine what the death-dealing agent may be.

New England's Impress

New England has left a deep impress upon the Pacific Northwest. Isaac I. Stevens, first territorial governor of Washington, was a Massachusetts man. Veneration for New England traditions and culture has found expression in the Northwest region in various ways, notably in the names bestowed upon the public schools. In Spokane, for instance, there are the Webster, the Adams, the Emerson, the Hawthorne, the Holmes, the Longfellow, the Lowell, the Stevens, the Whitier and others.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Nature's Habits

What a creature of habit, too, nature is as she appears in the weather! If she miscarry once she will twice or thrice, and a dozen times. In a wet time it rains today because it rained yesterday, and will rain tomorrow because it rained today. Are the crops in any part of the country drowning? They shall continue to drown. Are they burning up? They shall continue to burn. The elements get in a rut and can't get out without a shock.—John Burroughs.

Longest Lived Animal

A giant tortoise that was an inmate of the great Napoleon is still living on the island of St. Helena, says T. G. Boulenger, director of the London zoo, in Animal Mysteries. Tortoises attain a greater age than any other animal. Several of these creatures, weighing over 500 pounds each, owned by Lord Rothschild, the banker, were close on three centuries old when scientific claims put an end to their protracted existence.

No Editorial Comment

When the Daily Courant, London's first successful daily newspaper, appeared in 1702, it consisted of a single page of two columns and professed to give only foreign news. It assured its readers that it would not give any comments of its own. "Supposing other people to have sense enough to make reflections for themselves," The Courant came to an end in 1755, when it was absorbed in the Daily Gazetteer.—Detroit News.

VITAMINE NEEDED IN CHICK RATION

Liberal Use of Milk Quite Essential for Chickens.

A vitamin required by poultry and hitherto unrecognized, has been discovered by L. C. Norris, G. F. Heuser and H. S. Wilgus, Jr., of the Cornell University agricultural experiment station. This vitamin which is contained in milk is essential for the growth of chicks and for the prevention of a peculiar type of paralysis which may result in incurable deformities.

The discovery was in part accidental and resulted from an attempt to get a chick ration low in calcium and phosphorus, which would be suitable to study the requirements of chicks for these minerals. Casein, a purified milk protein, was used as the main source of protein in the experimental ration. When it was used in place of milk the chick ration was found lacking in this vitamin which prevents paralysis.

The experiment demonstrates that the use of liberal quantities of milk is essential where chicks or mature birds are confined indoors and are not provided with succulent green feed. To conclude from this experiment that milk should invariably be used in all poultry rations would be unwise, they say, as good chicks have been reared in the past with little or no milk and good winter egg production has also often been obtained with rations which contained no milk. It is probable, therefore, that this unknown factor is present in slight amounts in meat products, cereals and cereal by-products, and in large amounts in succulent leafy green feeds.

Barred Plymouth Rock

Favored to Caponize

One of the best breeds of poultry for caponizing is the Barred Rock as the sex can be determined at an early age. The cockerels will be light and the pullets dark and when the chicks are about six weeks old and weigh close to one and a half pounds each, the poultryman can go into his colony houses with a spotlight and collect cockerels as fast as he can pick them up.

In caponizing such breeds as Rhode Island Reds or White Wyandottes, it is more difficult to pick out the male birds at an early age, says a writer in the Michigan Farmer. Considerable accuracy is possible by studying the heads. The male birds soon appear more coarse and have a harsher voice than the pullets. Pullets of any color soon develop what might be called the feminine type of head. It is smaller and more refined than the head of the male bird. The heads, beaks, and even the undeveloped combs on male chicks have a different appearance from pullets.

Some breeders caponize White Leghorn cockerels and make them weigh as much as six pounds but in general the caponizing is confined to the heavier meat breeds like the Barred Plymouth Rock, Jersey Black Giant or Light Brahma.

Various Good Points of the African Goose

The African goose has had at different times several names, among which were China goose, swan goose, Chinese swan, Guinea goose, Spanish goose and others. Its origin is unknown, but it is quite probable that it originated in a cross between the goose we now call the China goose and the Toulouse, and from this cross was perfected until it is now an enlarged kind of a Brown China goose.

The African goose lays better than any of the other larger breeds and it grows to be as large as any other. Specimens that were given the best care have grown to weigh 25 pounds, but the standard weight for a full-grown African goose is 20 pounds. They are very hardy and easy to raise. They are very watchful and know strangers from those whom they see every day. When a stranger comes among them they set up a clamor that notifies every one within hearing that something out of the ordinary has happened.

Plenty Good Features

Poultry houses that are built today are sensible; though they have plenty of fresh air, they have no draughts, though they contain more hens to the square foot, there is no dampness which is so fatal.

Two essentials that can be had for the taking are provided—sunlight and fresh air—and with these there is no reason why we should not have the healthiest race of fowl found on the face of the globe, and as a result an increased production of eggs.

Ventilation Essential

Ventilation is another essential of modern poultry housing. A good ventilation system supplies fresh air in the poultry house without making it subject to sudden temperature changes. Ventilation removes dampness and eliminates foul odors, making the flock healthier and more comfortable. Automatic ventilation systems are now on the market which consist of intake flues in the back of the house and a cupola on the roof to carry out foul air.

TREES TRIMMED ARTFULLY BY TELEPHONE LINE CREWS

Appearance and Welfare of Trees Objectives in Addition to Clearing Wires. Property Owner Consulted Before Work Is Started

In the construction and maintenance of the network of telephone lines serving every section of the country, there are of necessity certain places where trees interfere with the proper operation of the circuits. While the telephone companies always try to construct their lines so as to avoid trees, there are some cases where this is unavoidable, making it necessary to trim the trees so that the circuits may be operated without interference from contact with the trunks or branches.

Where trimming is necessary, the telephone companies' line forces first secure the permission of the property owner and then use every precaution to trim and prune the trees so that as little damage as possible will be done to them. The limbs are removed so as to leave the tree as symmetrical looking as possible.

Telephone officials say there are always two things to consider in pruning or trimming a tree along a telephone line. One is to clear the telephone wires and the other is the appearance and welfare of the tree. Past experience has shown that where pruning has been done with the idea of clearing the wires only without regard for the appearance and welfare of the tree, it is almost impossible to obtain permission to prune trees when it again becomes necessary.

In the spring before the pruning gang or tree trimming crews of the telephone companies start out on this work, a right-of-way man covers the line to secure the necessary authority from the property owner to have the trees trimmed, giving him the assurance that the work will be done carefully by men familiar with this particular kind of work.

In Maryland and other States, all tree trimming is done under the supervision of representatives of the State Board of Forestry, who accompany the line crews and give them the benefit of their judgment as to how the trees should be trimmed.

Right Kind of Building Affects Value of Land

The wrong kind of buildings are sometimes found on city land in much the same way that the wrong kind of hats are found on women's heads, says the National Association of Real Estate Boards. When a woman wears an unbecoming hat, it means that she has not looked around sufficiently for the right hat and her appearance consequently suffers. When the wrong building is erected on a piece of land, it means that its owner has not looked around sufficiently for the right building, and the value of the land suffers.

Owners of land cannot afford to toss a coin to decide whether to build an apartment house or an office building on a given site, because the proper use of the land can make or break its value, says the association.

There is a certain type of structure suitable for every piece of urban real estate, and property owners should seek advice on this subject before breaking ground, because the highest and best use of the land is a serious matter and involves a look into the future.

It is not enough to observe all of the advanced rules in selecting a location unless, after its selection, the land is developed to the best advantage, because maximum values cannot be brought about for urban real estate until the proper buildings are placed on it.

National Campaign for Senic Beauty Now On

The Virginia state chamber of commerce recently called a conference to discuss cleaning up the scenery. The garden clubs of Nashville, Tenn., are proposing to plant rambler roses along all the highway fences leading into their city. They see Nashville a few years hence as "a bridal procession of flowers." Seattle contemplates a 90-mile highway between Tacoma and Everett, electric-lighted and fringed with rhododendrons. To a young Detroit school girl, Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., gave a three-day trip to Washington and the promise of a Presidential handshake as a reward for coining the slogan "This is your country—beautify it," which Mrs. Rockefeller expects to use as a trenchant weapon in a national campaign to banish unsightly hot-dog stands, billboards, placards and posters from the roadside.

Selecting Home Site

It is highly important that the home builder ascertain that the section in which he is contemplating construction will continue as a home section so that he may not only put his property to the highest and best as a residential site, but count on it persisting in this use for many years to come. He should, of course, inquire whether the district is protected by zoning laws or building ordinances that bar the construction of commercial buildings, but he should remember that zoning laws can be amended if it can be shown that commerce or business is making justifiable demands on a district.

The home builder, therefore, should seek competent advice as to the trend of the land in the sections adjacent to his proposed home, for although no one can be a magician in these matters, the changing of districts, with the possible change of zoning laws, can be foretold with reasonable accuracy.

Get Reliable Contractor

Where a contractor accepts a job of house building at a price that is too low for him to make a profit on good work, the tendency is to cheapen or slight work in such a way that no loss will be sustained. This is particularly true where there are inadequate plans and specifications.

Furthermore, there are in the ranks of the contracting profession men who are unskilled, just as there are in other professions. Their capacity to do high-grade work is distinctly limited. They deliver the kind of workmanship that they know about—the type that is condemned by high-class builders. They charge less because their costs are less, but what they deliver is often not worth its price.

City Planning in California

A city-planning enabling act is a matter of current interest in California at the present time, the National Association of Real Estate Boards points out. The state legislature has passed a bill repealing the existing planning enabling act and substituting a new law and the legislation has just been signed by the governor. Effectment of the bill was favored by the California Real Estate association.

Home Modernizing

When modernizing your house you take advantage of the sturdy construction which exists in the structure itself and add to that more features which are substantial, modern, useful, and decorative.

Esthetics and Business

It is not incompatible to combine estheticism with sound business principles. Those communities that succeed in doing so are always in the van of progress.

GARB DOESN'T MAKE THE MAN IN RUSSIA

Sheer Necessity Forces Outlawry of Style.

Moscow.—In the Soviet capital, at least, clothes do not make the man; nor the woman, for that matter. Style is among the antiquated "bourgeois" notions thrown into discard by the Bolshevik revolution.

Sheer necessity—the lack of textiles and of cash—had more to do with outlawing style than did Communist principles. In the bitter years of civil strife and famine people were happy enough to have their bodies covered without bothering about the cut or color of the covering. While conditions are incomparably better, those who can afford to worry about the hang of their trousers or their skirts are still a small minority.

Many men, of course, threw off the yoke of a tailored jacket for the freedom of a peasant blouse out of revolutionary ardor; but the overwhelming majority did so because their jackets had fallen to pieces and they could not buy a new one.

The Russian Flapper.

A generation of Russian girls adopted rough boyish attire and scoffed at female finery. One may be pardoned for guessing, however, that many of them were making a virtue of necessity. Certainly the first sign of easier economic conditions here, as in the rest of the world, was the better-dressed young woman. The Russian "flapper"—a boy's cap pulled rakishly over her close-cropped head and a man's overcoat over her nondescript dress—is definitely on the decline.

Between poverty and principle, however, style has fared badly enough. Anything but stark nakedness (and the rigors of Russian climate discourage that) passes muster. Moscow undoubtedly holds the world record for diversity of costume. The queerest sartorial combinations will attract not the slightest attention on Moscow streets. The most grotesque patchwork passes unnoticed.

Can't Judge by Clothes.

Another result of the discarding of style is that one can no longer judge anyone's social status from his or her clothes. The fellow you bump into on the stairway may be the commissar or the humblest of his clerks—you can't tell from his apparel. Indeed, if he shows a tendency towards elegant European dress he is most likely to be the clerk.

Foreigners who have visited Moscow over a period of years agree that in general people here are enormously better dressed than a few years ago, although the standard is still far below western Europe, or even a city like Warsaw. Smartly dressed women are more in evidence and the popularity of "Modes," a pitiful little magazine devoted to the Paris fashions, may be a sign of the times.

Fruit Growers Profit From Europe's Winter

Lindsay, Calif.—The "It's an ill wind—" adage was borne out literally in Europe this year, with California orange growers reaping the benefit of the suffering of European growers.

The most severe European winter in 230 years caused great damage to the Spanish citrus crop, next largest in the world to that of California.

One result was that the California Fruit Growers' exchange has already moved its first shipload of oranges to Europe, docking in London the latter part of April. Others are being loaded, and before the season ends it is estimated California citrus growers will have benefited to the extent of marketing 2,500 carloads of their product that never would have been able to compete with European growers under ordinary circumstances.

The extra market proved extremely fortuitous to California growers, burdened with an unusually large Valencia crop. It is estimated more than 1,000,000 boxes of oranges will go to Europe this season at prices that will net the grower from $2 to $4 a box.

New Hampshire Man Has Wagon 113 Years Old

Franklin, N. H.—Frank H. Gerlach says he owns a wagon one hundred and thirteen years old and in perfect running condition. It has original tires and paint, he says, and he has absolute proof as to its age.

It is said to be one of the very first wagons that Abbott Downing, the famous builder of the Concord coach, constructed. It has no springs similar to the leaf springs in use on wagons and automobiles today, but it nevertheless rides like a cradle. In place of springs there are leather straps running from the front to the rear axles and the body of the wagon is suspended upon these similar to the manner in which the stage coaches were constructed.

At the places on the leather where the front wheels hit when the wagon is turned there is a protection in the shape of steel plates to prevent the tires from wearing out the leather.

Orders Dress for Maid Tattooed on Tar's Arm

Lynn, Mass.—Gordon Smith wanted to join the navy. He passed the mental and physical examinations, but during the latter process, recruiting officers discovered the tattooed figure of a nude woman on his arm. Before approving his enlistment papers they forced him to have a dress tattooed on the offending picture.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC.

Topic for Aug. 25, "Are Missions Proving Successful?" Scripture Lesson. Rom. 10:9-16

Written by Mrs. Chas. Cluts, Missionary Supt.

Are missions proving successful? If we were to measure the success of missions financially as well as spiritually we need but look to our own country for the answer. This great country of ours was the outgrowth of only a handful of men, who came over here to worship God reverently and according to the dictates of their own conscience.

Many were the sacrifices these sturdy pioneers made. Look at the luxuries, fine homes, associates, relatives and loved ones they left behind in order that they might worship God in peace. And when they landed here on Plymouth Rock and passed those few months of trying days when many of their band died and they had to bury them on the hill top without even a mound to mark their graves lest the Indians know how many had passed beyond and to what small numbers they were reduced; and yet when the Mayflower set sail for the home land not one of the band went back home. And what is the outgrowth of the efforts put forth by those daring, courageous faithful missionaries, for in fact that is what they were true missionaries of the cross. Therefore we have a country rich in manufacturing, education, institutions, universities and agriculture resources.

The early history of higher education in America is the history of the church in education. Harvard, Yale, and Princeton date all their glorious traditions from the interest of some minister of the gospel in the training of the youth. Throughout the Middle West the cross roads were dotted with little white academies which built an enduring culture and in many cases laid the foundation for strong universities. All of our boasted higher learning in this country has arisen from the sincere efforts of Christian leaders.

Religionaries are religious leaders of the world. Our own pagan ancestors were converted by such missionaries as Patrick, Columba and Martin. In the Orient missionaries have introduced the gospel with the same changing and transforming effect. Following in this wake colleges, hospitals, schools and benevolent institutions have come into being. Newer and more democratic ideals of government have been introduced. The commerce of the world has followed the desire for Western commodities created by missionaries. Now we are entering a new era of international understanding. Who would dare say that Christian leadership has not played an important part in this development?

For a Pie

Buddy, not quite three, is exceedingly fond of pie. One day his mother remarked that she just didn't know what to have for dinner.

"I know," said Buddy, "have pie." "Well, I don't believe I have anything to make pie with," answered mother.

"Oh, yes, mother, you have a receipt," was the response.

Silver to Purify Water

By injecting silver in a specially prepared form Dr. George Krause, an engineer of Munich, Germany, says he has found a new way to purify drinking water. About a twentieth of an ounce of silver, he says, is sufficient to disinfect billions of gallons of water.—Popular Science Monthly.

Taneytown 4—Woodsboro 2

Perhaps the best all around game of ball played on the home ground, this season, was that of Wednesday, resulting in the defeat of Woodsboro 4 to 2. The game was full of snappy plays by both teams that resulted in holding down the score, which would have been even less, except for a few costly errors.

The hits were even, but the superior work of pitcher Myers, who struck out 11 men to his opponents 2, largely won the game, in connection with a 2-base hit by Jones and a 3-baser by Myers and Waltman following each other in the fourth inning. The score by innings was as follows:

JUST HUMANS

By Gene Carr

"GOSH, AIN'T NATURE GRAND!"

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

THE OPEN-HEARTED

WHO does not like the candor of the little child who has not yet learned the initial art of fabrication? There is something so frank, open, straightforward in the innocent one's prattle that even in the old Machiavellian disciple of deception will pause in his juggling with truth and wish he were less guilty.

He is conscious of a trait of character that once was his in his youthful days which he let slip from him when he first began to deal with a tricky world.

He tried sincerity, but found that nobody believed in it.

So he ventured forth into zones of thought still unsurveyed and became a lying innovator in the deft use of ambiguous acts and unpardonable words.

He forgot his mother's teachings, the little prayer which he uttered at his mother's knee, while she toyed lovingly with his dimpled hands and stroked his hair, picturing his future in glowing colors.

Do you think it is hard to tell the truth? It is natural for the child, but when art steps in the difficulty to adhere to veracity causes us devious perplexities.

What has been discussed a dozen times before with sincerity and artlessness, assumes a new phase when we depart from probity and begin to color, retouch and reshape the words and sentences we must use in competition with the false and those who "commend the poisoned chalice to the lips."

We soon find language ready shaped to our purpose, and quickly become adept in forming a new vocabulary which enables us to beat round and round the truth without once touching it.

We have no defense for such conduct, except that we are associating and dealing with smooth-faced, double-tongued fibbers and must meet them on their own ground and surpass them at their own game.

We get the idea that if we cannot lie like a trooper we cannot march at the head of the regiment in gay uniform and brass buttons.

And these popular lies, you will find on reflection, are the basis of the major troubles of our sin-burdened world. Likely at any moment to belch forth consuming fire of our own making!

NO LONGER DEPEND ON MIDNIGHT SUN

Electric Lights Installed by Eskimo in Arctic.

Edmonton, Alta.—No longer will the midnight sun reign supreme in the far reaches of the Arctic circle, according to word reaching here from officers of the Canadian Royal Mounted police whose duty it is to patrol that territory.

The story told illustrates the advance of modernism. The icy igloo associated with the Eskimo has gone. The kayak is still used for traveling on the water for short distances but gasoline motors and sturdier boats are also used. The marriage customs remain practically the same, but the exchange of wives is rapidly passing into the limbo of forgotten things.

More than all this, however, is the forsaking of the old seal-oil lamp for electricity.

According to the Mounties, Pavoo Poliak, Eskimo, whose home is up near Akavik, within the Arctic circle, came out as far as a mission post. There he saw a lighting plant similar to those used on farms, in operation. He inquired the price. With the proceeds of his trapping and fishing he found he had sufficient cash to purchase one and did.

Loading it on sleighs he started back to his shack home, miles away. All the way he thought of the superior position the possession of such magic would give him, and the way seemed short. Arriving at his home he installed the plant according to directions and issued invitations to a house warming.

Eskimos from miles around came and when they were assembled Pavoo turned a switch. Shouts of surprise resounded as the bulbs burst into light. The guests were astounded.

Pavoo showed them how the switches worked, and then, one after the other, the visitors turned lights off and on. This lasted for hours until Pavoo had fed them all and sent them home.

Hypnosis Shows Anxiety Plays Havoc With Body

Atlanta, Ga.—New evidence that anxiety can play havoc with the body no less than with the mind has been obtained by use of hypnosis. The tests were made by Dr. J. C. Whitehorn, Dr. Helge Lundholm and G. E. Gardner of McLean hospital, Waverley, Mass., and were reported before the American Psychiatric association here.

The experiments indicate that when an individual becomes extremely anxious and fearful his body engine may race like a motor under pressure and strain. On the other hand, moods of depression, elation, or irritability do not appear to produce any certain increase in the metabolic rate, that is, the rate at which the body engine converts food into tissues and energy.

Obtaining data on bodily processes during an emotional state is difficult because an excited individual is not likely to remain sufficiently quiet to permit the making of accurate tests with apparatus. A psychologist who consented to be hypnotized was used for the tests.

Rebels' Tractor-Tanks Are Returned to Farms

Mexico City.—Farm tractors in Mexico led as hectic a life during the recent military rebellion as some of the participants themselves.

Among the "spoils of war" captured by the federals after the rebel retreat in Chihuahua were several farm tractors which had been commandeered from private ranches, armed by rebel blacksmiths and turned into war tanks.

The Mexicans dubbed them "Cochinitas" (little pigs) when they waddled up to the firing line for the first time. Several which have been brought here are now being de-armored and will be put back to their former peaceful pursuits.

Madrid Women Are Not Old-Fashioned

Madrid.—The women of "old Madrid" are by no means old-fashioned these days. Twenty-year-old Senorita Pilar Croaga, pretty student at the school of engineers in the capital, recently drove the Madrid-Gijon express train over 350 miles of winding and dangerous road.

Wants Burglars to Pay Rent for Tools

Butte, Mont.—Tired of having his place robbed of chisels and hammers, Al McLeod, Butte blacksmith, posted a prominent sign, "Burglar Tools for Rent," in his shop, hoping that prospective burglars will be thoughtful enough to pay him a small fee for the use of his tools in the future.

McLeod's shop has been broken into numerous times. Hammers and cold chisels were the only articles taken. On one occasion the thieves returned the stolen articles the night after they gained access to his shop, but other prospective burglars were not so thoughtful.

The "Burglar Tools for Rent" sign will be illuminated at night.

Fijians Convinced of Devil in Automobile

Although the automobile is steadily gaining in popularity in the Fiji islands it encountered great fear and superstition on the part of the natives when first introduced. The first self-propelled vehicle was used in the colony in 1905 by an American, who was touring the islands. This car was viewed with awe by the inhabitants, being considered the contraption of a madman, and conservative residents suggested that the owner be deported as a dangerous character.

The second car made its appearance in 1907, destined for the wife of the mayor of Suva. A liveried chauffeur was provided, and it is not known which created the greater stir, the vehicle or its driver. One day the owner found under the machine several bushmen, poking about and exploring the mysteries. Explanations revealed that the Fijians had held a conference about the new vehicle that lacked visible means of locomotion and had concluded that the affair was nothing less than a devil wagon; therefore, partly out of kindness to the owner and partly to prevent the escape of the devil into the bush and into the villages, the "devil doctors" constituted themselves a committee to study this weird thing and to exterminate its concealed monster.

Age Not Determined by Number of Years Lived

I must confess that I have arrived at the time of life when I do not like to be asked how old I am. What in the dickens do the number of years matter?

Many of us old-stagers are really as young as the lads in the air force. At least, that's the way we feel.

Youth is not a time of life. It is a state of mind. It is determined by how you think and how you feel.

Recently, I met a young man of twenty-eight who was full of fears. His brain had become static. He seemed to be vaccinated against new ideas. I am twice his age, but I contend that I am younger than he is.

A few gray hairs don't matter. A few wrinkles don't matter, especially if they are around the eyes, and not around the mouth.

The main thing is not to have wrinkles on your brain.

Nor your heart.

Nor your soul.

As long as a man keeps going and jumps out of bed every morning with a smile, he is young.—Herbert N. Casson in Forbes Magazine.

Violin East and West

A leading music house says: "We have no record of ever having heard of the Chinese making a violin, and the instruments made by the Japs are of the very cheap commercial quality. The violin took root in Japan during the World war. Since the peace Germany and France have furnished practically all of the cheap instruments for America, and the Japs are out of the picture. We have no records of any well-known Russian makers. However, the violin is an extremely popular instrument all through eastern Europe, and doubtless thousands of them have been constructed in Russia, and perhaps there are some good makers there. None of them, however, seems to have been outstanding."—Washington Star.

Art's Definition

Shakespeare had not art? He was had by art; compelled and held by it. And by that holding and compulsion we get a vision of what art is: not a system, not a set of rules which perchance Aristotle might teach us, or another Greek, but a changing, growing form-compelling power that is individual, but at its greatest expresses an age. This was the great age of English, never repeated in its aggregate of color, wealth, diction and power of words.—Henry Chester Tracy, in "English as Experience."

The Foods We Eat

A commission man, "shopping" in New York city found spinach from Mexico, honeydew melons from South Africa, fresh almonds from the Holy land, new potatoes from Florida, green peas and asparagus from California, butter from Denmark, eggs from China, meats from New Zealand and Argentina.

That's what modern transportation and cold storage refrigeration does for us.—Capper's Weekly.

Down in Rio

That a Frenchman in a new country will open a cafe, a German a general store, and a Briton a bank, has long been an axiom regarding the men of those races in foreign lands. That regarding the Briton might be amended by stating that along with the bank goes the Church of England. Here in Rio, says a correspondent, which is a city of churches, an English church has been the meeting place for the British community for 110 years.

Singing Promotes Health

"If you want to be healthy sing as often as possible," advises a French doctor, who has experimented with cases of overexcitement and sympathetic nerves. He says that when patients were kept in a cheerful mood, singing gay music, the equilibrium of the nervous system was restored in a few weeks, and badly damaged appetites began to reappear with full force.

Use Salads For Desserts And Keep Down Your Weight

BY JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company

IN these days when so many of us worry over the possibility of acquiring extra pounds, it often is advisable to omit either the salad or the dessert in dinner menus.

However, by serving a delicious dish which is both salad and dessert, these two courses may be combined in such a way that we do not miss either. The following dessert salads are especially fine:

Frozen Cheese Salad—To 1 package Philadelphia Cream Cheese add 2 tablespoons Roquefort cheese. Season with salt, pepper and ½ teaspoon onion juice. Add ½ cup highly seasoned French Dressing and ¼ cup Chopped Stuffed Olives. Pour into small empty cans (Baking Powder cans serve admirably), seal cans by wrapping the lid in a strip of cloth dipped in melted paraffin or lard. Pack cans in ice and salt, freeze (about 3 hours). Remove from can, cut into slices and serve on nests of crisp lettuce, garnished with a spoonful of Mayonnaise Dressing. Serve with crisp crackers.

Frozen Pear Salad—Bury a can of Bartlett pears or peaches in salt and ice, freeze for 5 hours. Slit sides of can. Turn out upon lettuce leaves, garnish with cheese balls rolled in chopped salted almonds.

Pear Macaroon Salad—Mash a package of Philadelphia Cream Cheese, moisten with Mayonnaise Dressing. Spread half of a canned pear with this mixture and cover with the other half. Dip whole pear thus formed in ground macaroon crumbs. (To prepare crumbs, crush stale macaroons fine with a rolling pin.) Serve in a nest of crisp lettuce. Garnish with a spoonful of Mayonnaise Dressing and a Maraschino Cherry. Peaches may be prepared in the same manner.

Pineapple, Prune and Marshmallow Salad—Cover each individual salad plate with crisp lettuce leaves. Place a slice of pineapple and top it with three prunes stuffed with marshmallows. Garnish with cheese balls and serve with Mayonnaise. The prunes should be thoroughly cooked but firm.

Fruit Ginger Ale Salad—2½ tablespoons gelatine 3 tablespoons cold water ¾ cup boiling water ¼ cup lemon juice 2 tablespoons sugar 1 cup ginger ale ½ cup malaga grapes 1 small banana 2 oranges ¼ cup chopped nuts

Soak gelatine in cold water five minutes and dissolve in the boiling water. Add lemon juice, sugar and ginger ale. Cut grapes in quarters, remove seeds. Separate oranges in sections. Slice banana. When ginger ale mixture begins to thicken, fold in fruit and nuts. Turn into a mold which has been dipped in cold water. Chill. Remove from mold, garnish with crisp lettuce leaves. Serve with Fruit Salad Dressing or Mayonnaise. This is a new idea for party refreshments.

No Stop Sign
Little Charles, only three years old, likes to visit his grandmother, who lives in English avenue. He can go out his back gate and across the alley to her back gate very easily. He and his little brother and sister are quarantined with the whooping cough, therefore he cannot go visiting. He was begging his mother to let him go to grandma's when she told him he could not go over there while the sign was on the house.

Charles quickly replied: "The sign isn't on the back of the house."—Indianapolis News.
