MARYLAND GAME LAWS AND LICENSES.

Upland Game Season Opens Nov. 10 and Closes Dec. 31.

The upland game season which includes rabbits, partridges, Chinese ring-necked pheasants, squirrels, doves and woodcock opens Nov. 10 and closses Dec. 31, both dates inclusive. It shall be unlawful to hunt any game on Sunday, penalty $25.00 to $100.

It is unlawful for any person to hunt any species of game on property other than that which is owned or tenanted by them without first procuring hunters license. As the Clerk of the Court and his deputies are over-run with business early in November, all persons should procure their hunters license early and avoid the rush. The license fees are: Resident of county, $1.25; State-wide, resident license, $5.25; Non-resident of State, $15.50; a non-resident land owner assessed $500 or more on the tax books of this county, can procure a license for $1.50, all hunters are re-quired to have license on person while hunting, and to wear tag displayed on outer garment at center of back between shoulders. Hunting without a license, penalty $20.00 fine. Failure to display tag carries a penalty of $20.00 fine. A hunting license shall not be transferable.

Bag limit per day: Rabbits 6, partridges 10; squirrels 10; doves 25; wookcock 6; Chinese ring-necked pheasants 2 (not over six per season). It is unlawful to hunt any game between one-half hour after sunset and one-hall hour before sunrise. It is unlawful to set any trap, net or snare to take game, except box traps for rabbits) and (steel traps for the taking of fur-bearing animals).

The season for raccoon and opposum opens Nov. 1 and closes Feb. 1.

It shall be unlawful for any person to hunt any raccoon or opposum between sunrise and sunset. It shall be unlawful to cut a tree for the purpose of catching, killing or dislodging a raccoon or oppossum, without the consent of the owner, penalty $25,00 to $100. Unlawful to hunt any game in closed season, penalty $25.00 to Twenty-five persons have been appointed deputy game wardens in the county to assist District Deputy Game Warden, J. Gloyd Diffendal, to enforce the game and fish laws. With the co-operation of the public desiring to see these laws enforced and who will furnish evidence that viola-tions of the game laws have been committed our wardens can render valuable service in bringing about better conditions and more respect for the conservation laws.

BUSINESS MEN MEET

Movement to Establish Board of Trade in Taneytown.

A well attended meeting of business and professional men was held in the Firemen's Building, Monday night, to discuss the advisability of forming a Chamber of Commerce, or Board of Trade, in Taneytown. Merwyn Fuss was made chairman of the meeting and spoke of the desirability of such an organization, having in view the improvements of the business interests of the town, and possibly the securing of industries not now represented in the town.

Pretty general discussion followed, all in harmony with the project, but permanent organization was postponed until the next meeting when the draft of a proposed constitution and laws will be presented by the temporary organization that was named, as follows; Merwyn C. Fuss, president; W. Wallace Reindollar, vice-president; Clyde L. Hesson, secretary; Charles R. Arnold, treasurer.

The benefit of such an organization were stressed, and statements made that they were operating successfully in adjoining towns. A still larger at-tendance is hoped for at the meeting for permanent organization, on Nov 8, as such organizations succeed only when earnestly backed by the representative men of a town who mean to hold fast to the organization, and conduct it in an able manner.

Trial for Murder Removed to Washington County.

The trial of Charles Lewis and Leslie Clarke, indicted for the murder of Deputy Sheriff Clyde L. Hauver, during a raid on a big still near Thurmont, July 31, set for Monday morning, was removed to the Washington county Circuit Court, at Hagerstown, on petition of the accused for a change of venue. The petition was presented to the Court, Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Judges John S. Newman and Robert B. Peter on the bench, immediately after Court convened and came as a surprise to the prosecution as well as the large crowd that filled the Court room to attend the trial.

The order, announced by Urner, was councurred in by Associate Judges John S. Newman and Robert B. Peter, on the bench for the scheduled trial. In granting the defense counsel's request for a change of venue, Judge Urner stated that the plea for a change was within the prisoners' constitutional rights, and would be granted, stating that "unfortunatethis right was delayed until the very moment set for the case." have concluded to send the case from this circuit," he added.

THE CARROLL COUNTY NURSE SERVICE.

Public Health Fund Urgently Needed in County.

For the last five years there have been two nurses in the field doing a most satisfactory piece of work. The most satisfactory piece of work. The funds to provide for one of them comes from the county officials. The other has been carried by a joint fund contributed to by the local Red Cross, the local Tuberculosis Association and the State Department of Health. When the work started both the first two mentioned contributors had quite a tidy balance in their treasuries. The Red Cross money was raised for war relief work, and when the war was over was no longer needed for that purpose.

But there have been several major disasters since then which it has been our duty to contribute to, so this fund has been materially reduced. The Tuberculosis money came from the sale of Christmas seals. Up to two years ago seventy percent of the mon-ey received from the sale of seals was left in the county to carry on local work. As there had not been much health work done prior to putting the nurses in the field, this money had been accumulating.

For the last two years there have been two special levies of $200.00 each made against this fund by the State Director of the Tuberculosis Associa-News, refers to the William R. Koontz who formerly lived near New Windsor, this county, and to the Charles Koontz who some 20 years are lived near Taneytown for a short of the chirstmas Seal sale and the State Director demanded that this be sent to him. So there is no tuberculosis money in the bank to help carry on this work and there will be very little left from the Chirstmas Seal sale and we may not get any of that.

Tuberculosis is only one of the major problems in this county, and bench, Thursday afternoon, on a charge of failing to provide support for his aged father, William Koontz. The case was an appeal from the magistrate's court of Alton Y. Bennett.

The elder Koontz testified that he described the country and the worst by very long odds. Only about one percent of our deaths are from this disease, and the rate would not be that high if people already sick with the disease did not move here for their health. The death rate from the State as a whole is about ten percent of the total deaths. The nurses have a list of was 87 years of age and was without means of support. He said he is living with friends, near Westminster, who provide him a home. He added that he has a son, Charles Koontz, the traverser, a daughter and a son-in-law. He lived with his daughter until about four years ago and until some time ago his son-in-law had helped him, he testified.

Charles Koontz, the traverser, testified that he had given his father a list of the reported cases and are always ready to make visits giving instruction and care when asked to do so either by the attending physician or any member of the patient's kouse hold. We do not think it advisable to have the nurses visit these homes as a routine procedure, as in a good many they would not be needed and many they would not be needed and in some others, while needed, they would not be welcome.

The work of the nurses covers a very broad field. They help to control catching diseases and so prevent epidemics, assist in Child Hygiene, Tuberculosis and Veneral Disease dren to control skin diseases and conditions; help patients to get to hospitals; help doctors in special cases; giving advice to mothers and expectant mothers, etc.

But to carry on this big piece of work, costs money. We do not want you to server your relations with the Red Cross. If you are not a member of the Red Cross and can only contribute to one thing, we say join the Red Cross. The county is to be organized soon and volunteer workers named throughout the county. If you feel that you can give to a health fund where every cent will stay in the county and be used for practical purposes, please do so when workers call upon or write you asking for your support. Rare Violins Sold.

According to the Philadelphia Ledger, the Rodman Wanamaker collection of sixty-four stringed instruments, including some of the rarest and most valuable violins in the world has been purchased by Rudolph Wur-litzer, of New York.

The Wanamaker collection has been valued at more than $650,000 and the sale brings Mr. Wurlitzer's collection of musical instruments to a value of more than $3,000,000. It places in the care of Jay C. Freeman, curator of the Wurlitzer collection, virtually all the rare string instruments now in the United States not owned by indi-

Estimated to have been best ever held SEN'TR GOLDSBOROUGH in the State.

The highly successful session of the Md. C. E. Union closed at Westminster, on Sunday afternoon, following the rendition of a fine program for several days, the whole considered by many to have been the greatest con-vention ever held in the state; and the meeting on Friday night, in Alumni Hall, when Dr. Daniel A. Poling, of New York, was the chief speaker, represented perhaps the largest gathering ever held in the building, with the possible exception of the occasion when the present Chief Justice Taft, and the late Cardinal Gibbons, delivered addresses.

At this meeting J. Brittan Winter, of Baltimore presided, and the Carroll County orchestra, conducted by Rev. J. Hollenbach, pastor of Manchester Reformed Church rendered numerous selections, and Mr. Percy Foster, noted singer led the great audience in several inspiring hymns. Rev. Franklin P. Brose, pastor of the Church of God. Westminster; Rev. Felix B. Peck, pastor of St. Mary's Reformed Church, and others, participated in the opening of the session.

Rev. C. Carroll Bailey, of Baltimore, introduced Dr. Daniel A. Poling, pastor of Marble Collegiate Church, N. Y., who spoke of his joy at heing present, and gave an address on being present, and gave an address on the topic, "The Trinity of Triumph" which he elaborated in his own particularly fine manner.

Another outstanding feature of the session was a monster street parade Saturday evening, which is not the best time to occupy a busy street with parade, but it was nevertheless carried out in fine style, headed by Mayor Matthews. The whole was a most interesting and colorful affair, made up of bands, floats and uniformed marchers, throughout all of which the spirit of Christian Endeavor was in

At the closing services Sunday afternoon the address was by Rev. Wilbur M. Smith, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Covington, Va. An inspiring devotional service was rendered and the test. dered, and the state officers for the vear were installed.

Bachelor Not Always Term for the

Our word bachelor is a corruption of an old medieval word for herd." In those days almos herd." In those days almost the whole population existed by agriculture, and the "bachelor" or "cowherd" was the lowest office, held by the youngest and poorest. Similarly in those days a "night bachelor" was a knight of an inferior rank, as nowadays a Bachelor of Arts is one who has not yet been admitted to the degree of Master of Arts. The word's present meaning of an unmarried man is more than five hundred years old, and signifies a man who has not yet entered upon the full duties of manhood's estate. Our ancestors did not dream that middleaged and well-to-do men should ever remain unwed!

FOR FREE HIDES.

Opposes ten percent duty on hides and Gives Reasons.

Senator Goldsborough has offered amendments to the pending Tariff Bill—(1) to strike out the proposed ten percent duty on cattle hides and thereby keep them on the Free List -(2) to increase the proposed duty of fifteen percent on sole or belting leather to twenty percent.

Senator Goldsborough said:
"The proposal to take cattle hides from the free list and impose upon them a ten percent duty is manifestly unjustifiable. Such a duty would increase materially the living costs of every consumer in the United States. We have the word of the National Boot & Shoe Manufacturers Association that such a duty would prove a serious handicap to the shoe industry. We find that organization in agreement with the shoe industry. ment with tanners of cattle hides, covering practically the entire tan-ning industry of this country, that such a duty would result in no subsuch a duty would result in no substantial gain or advantage to the farmers of the United States whom it was supposed to benefit. On the other hand, the farmers would, like the rest of our people, have to pay more for shoes, harness, machinery belting, bags, straps, automobile and other upholstery leather, as well as other heavy leather products, if such a duty were to prevail. a duty were to prevail.

"The packer or packing tanner would be the sole beneficiary from such a duty. We do not have to search far to discover the reason for this The hide is a by-product of the cattle purchased for beef by the packer. The price the packer pays for cattle is fixed by the current price of beef. Any profit derived from the subsequent sale of the hide for tanning interests. to leather is therefore reaped by the packer, not by the farmer. When we consider that we must import thirty to forty percent of the cattle hides necessary to meet the requirements of our heavy leather industries we must realize that the proposed duty on cattle hides would mean increased profits for the packing tanner and increased costs for the consumer.

"The American Tanning Industry, formerly one of the Nation's leading industries, is rapidly becoming extinct, and unless given proper protec-tion will, in a short, time, cease to be an American industry, and pass to other countries. The proposed duty on cattle hides would impose an un warranted burden upon that industry, especially upon the independent tanners. The proposal is obviously un economic as well as unnecessary. On the other hand, there is ample necessity for a substantial duty on sole or belting leather. The Farm Lobby.

There is considerable point to what he Philadelphia Ledger has to say, editorially, about lobbies in general, in which it includes the farm lobby. It

"When is the Caraway committee going to get around to the farm lobby? When it comes to angling for tariff favors nobody is busier than your representative of a farmers' organization. And his number is legion. There are more specialists in farm-lobbying than there are in the medical profession. Every farm product virtually has its agents who are eager to assist in writing the tariff bill. And each, according to his own account, represents so many hundreds of thousands or millions of farmers.

Disclosures regarding the activities of manufacturers are already having their effect on the Senate tariff bill. If equal light is thrown on the farm obbyists, for the information of the innocent Senators who have had no idea, of course, as to what has been going on, will it lead to a trimming of the farm schedules in the interest of industry as a whole? The answer, to use the parliamentary phrase, in the negative." Nothing is farther from the thoughts of those who are promoting this politico-senatorial in-

Swastika Always Held Emblem of Good Luck

The swastika, which is the cross made by crossing two letter "Z's" has been the symbol of good luck for so long back that no reliable evidence has been preserved to indicate just why this particular ideograph should have its present significance. We do know that from time out of mind it has had this significance, and among peoples in all parts of the world excepting Africa, Polynesia, Australia and the polar regions.

The swastika as the good-luck symbol is found in China, Korea, Japan and India. As far back as in ancient Troy the swastika was used in this sense by the Myceneean's. It is found in relics of such widely separated peoples as those who inhabited Europe during the Bronze age, the Etruscans, the Indians of our own Colorado and Mexico, and among others of North American natives who antedated Columbus by at least ten centuries.

Another curiously significant fact is that in the Indian language the word "swastika" means good luck; while in ancient Sanscrit "swasti" means "hail" or "be well."-Kansas City Times.

Wizard of Electricity

on Starvation's_Verge A story is told about Charles P. Steinmetz that, true or not, illustrates his peculiar temperament, writes Jonathan Norton Leonard in World's Work. A friend who had known him at Yonkers came to see him soon after he had gone to Lynn, Mass., with the General Electric. He found him in a sad state. His clothes showed frantic signals of distress, his face looked pinched and thin. It wasn't easy to get at the root of the trouble, but at last the friend induced Steinmetz to talk.

By some clerical mistake Steinmetz's name had not been entered on the pay roll and he had received no money at all in the four weeks he had been at Lynn. His own meager savings had nearly run out and he was too proud to complain. There were men at Lynn who were working for nothing, glad of the experience which the job gave them, and Steinmetz concluded he was in this classification.

It is usually called a control survey, because it furnishes geographic positions and other data for more detailed local surveys. "OLD SETTIN' HEN" IN LOSING RACE

Incubators on Farm Hatch 24 Per Cent of Chicks.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The fluffy old mother hen continues to lose out in the race with the mechanical substitutes, but she is still on the job, according to the reports sent to the United States Department of Agriculture by the crop correspondents of the bureau of agricultural economics. About 43 per cent of all chickens raised are still hatched under hens, the reports indicate. Incubators on the farm hatch about 24 per cent of the chickens raised, and eggs supplied by farmers and hatched for a fee amount to about 10 per cent. Commerical hatcheries now hatch about 23 per cent of the annual baby chicks crop.

A distinct difference is evident when regional areas are compared. In the South Atlantic states from Virginia to Florida and in the South Central states, the hen holds her own and hatches about two-thirds of the chicks as compared with all others. Rhode Island with only 14 per cent of hen-hatched chicks is the lowest in this respect, and in no other states is the percentage lower than 20. The North Atlantic and the Western states buy the largest proportion of baby chicks, 45 per cent and 41 per cent, respectively. Farm hatching of chicks in incubators is most popular in the North Central states, more than 30 per cent being reported from this source. Missouri and Kansas each with 40 per cent of their chicks hatched in incubators on the farms are high in this group.

Moist Mashes Favored

for Keeping Up Weight Moist mash is a means of keeping up the body weight of the pullets and hens. Noon is the best time to feed the moist mash in the winter. In feeding the moist mash put it in troughs well spread out so that all of the hens can eat readily and don't feed more than they can clean up in from 15 to 25 minutes. Any moist mash remaining in the trough should be removed. In mixing the moist mash use liquid skim milk or buttermilk if available: if not, warm water may be used, or if fresh meat is cooked for the hens. the liquid should be saved and used in making the moist mash. In any case, do not feed a cold moist mash to the flock, as they do not eat it as readily and what they do eat will more or less chill the birds, and by so doing take considerable of their energy to warm them up again, so be sure to have the moist mash warm before

Low Temperature Very

Essential in Storing

When an egg is first laid it contains no air cell. As the contents of the egg cools and evaporation starts, the air cell develops. This air cell continues to grow larger as the egg grows older, due to evaporation of moisture through the porous shell. An egg that is held in a warm room will show a larger air cell because the heat aids in bringing about more rapid evaporation. This makes the air cell a valuable aid in determining the quality of the egg. An egg which is a month old will not show much increase in the size of the air cell, if stored in a cool place; neither will its quality deteriorate greatly if properly stored. This is the reason why a low temperature is essential in storing eggs.

Buying Pullets

Buyers of pullets should know that age is not as important as weight and quality in buying pullets. In a flock of pullets of the same age and breeding, there will be three distinct grades of birds. In buying pullets at a flat rate it pays to weigh at least part of the birds and give them all a health inspection. In selling pullets it pays to know something about their cost of production. There are too many pullets sold for $1 each that cost approximately $1.20 each to produce.

No Best Breed

There is no best breed of chickens for laying or meat. There are a number of breeds that have been bred for egg production and any one of these will make a good record if they are fed and cared for properly. There are strains of Barred Rocks that have been bred for high production as well as Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds and others. Be sure, in buying eggs of any of these breeds, that they come from high producing stock and from reliable dealers.

Fattening Ration

A useful fattening ration recommended by the Purdue station consists of 20 pounds of yellow cornmeal, 10 pounds of ground oats and 10 pounds of flour middlings, mixed with 80 pounds of buttermilk or skim milk. The mixture is allowed to stand 24 hours before using, the feed supply being prepared a day ahead of time throughout the fattening period. The poultry is confined in crates and given as much twice each day as the hirds will clean up in about half an hour.

Club Atmosphere Best for Little Poker Game

Many of the boys in the city council are not averse to a friendly game of "five and ten," and so a few of them were sitting around a circular table at the home of a friend the other night. The wife thought it would be a kindly and popular thing to give the boys a sandwich or two and she busied herself like any perfect hostess

The sandwiches came, but the boys hardly knew what the filling was, as they were too occupied looking for the third ace or trying to find the fifth club. The dear lady didn't know it, but it's not ethical to interrupt that kind of a game.

A little later she happened to think that the baby had just reached the cute age and she knew the "gang" would only be tickled to death to see him perform. So she toted out the little fellow, who put on his act to an unsympathetic audience.

"I guess we will play the next game at the club," one of the boys remarked, and there was a heartfelt chorus of "Amen."-Brockton Enterprise.

Englishman First With

Idea of Artificial Silk Most of the credit for the idea of manufacturing artificial silk goes to France, and the honor has usually been given to Reaumur, a French naturalist. Actually, the first known suggestion was made by an Englishman, Dr. Robert Hook. In 1664 he published a book, "Micrographia," in which he described a microscopic examination of real silk, and suggested the possibility of producing a similar thread by mechanical means. The first machine to produce an artificial thread was made in England. In 1840, Mr. Louis Schwabe took out the first patent and erected his machine, embodying spinnerettes, in Manchester, but the product failed to attract and Schwabe committed suicide three years later. Today the spinnerette is in full use, and £135,000.000 is invested in the industry in England alone.

Bible Printing Restricted

As Colonial New England rebelled against the tax on tea, so it must have writhed under the ancient law which gave to the crown a monopoly of the right to print the Bible, for the literary tastes of those hardy pioneers were distinctly religious.

But it was a law with teeth, for it is a matter of history that in 1537 a certain Richard Grafton was imprisoned until he gave bond of $500 that he would print no more English Bibles until given permission to do so by the king. From that time the right to publish the English Bible was vested with certain printers who were connected with English universities .-Detroit News.

Growth or Decline of Town in Citizens' Hands town is a business-your business. You are a part of that business the same as an employee is of an industrial plant. Your bread and butter depends on the continued growth and prosperity of that business, and regardless of your station in liferegardless of the job you hold, the work you do or the business you are in, you are responsible. As an employee of a manufacturing plant you are a part of it; you must do good work, you must be sold on the product made or you are fired. The better the work you do, the more you make. As a part of your town, the same is true.

You should know about your town -it is yours, and what you do goes to make it a good town, a progressive town, or-a bum town. You may think your town is not a good town-maybe it isn't; maybe it is "old-fashioned," maybe it has "just growed"but what have you done to make it any different? A town is just as big as the people in it, and you are the people!

It is not the opinion and habits of the few shining lights that make a community. True, there must be leaders, but when big industries consider your town for location of a new factory, investment in present enterprises, etc., it is the people in general they are most interested inyou and all the other people like you. -Anderson Herald.

Up to Town Merchants

to Meet New Conditions The Southwest merchants in council in Kansas City reached certain collective conclusions as to adapting themselves to changed and changing conditions of trade. They are going in for collective buying, after the manner of the chain stores. They also have learned the chain-store lesson of attractive stocks, attractive fronts and attractive show windows.

When town merchants combine on a policy of sprucing up, of orderly and inviting display, the effect will be seen all along Main street. Furthermore, this effect will be contagious. If the community spirit is right, the sprucing up will become general. It will affect the homes, the grounds and the condition of the streets. And when everything works out harmoniously, such a town, which is sure to be on one or more good roads, will be enticing to the motorist. A rundown town or village offers no inducement for the tourist to tarry. -Kansas City Star.

Build With Eye to Beauty

It is a common sight in residential sections of our cities to see unsightly rows of houses of the type which are built by the mile and sold by the foot. They are identical in design, planning "Or work after six o'clock," went and setting. If careful attention had been given to the fundamental prin ciples of good planning and designing, these same dwellings could have been built with far more pleasing results and at no greater expense. Those who build small houses become responsible not only for creating the desire to build attractively and economically, but also for preserving the ideals which lead people to build beautiful homes with loving hands and eager hearts.

"Working" Through School

The co-operative high school has been worked out very satisfactorily in certain communities. The funds for this type of school are obtained by appropriation from the tax moneys, just the same as any other public school. The advantage of a co-operative school is that a boy may go to school so many days each week, and then work the rest of the time. This is usually managed by two students to the job. While one is working, the other is studying, and vice versa. In this manner the employer gets full time, and the student gets an equal opportunity for work and study.

Flavor of First Wife's

Cooking Found at Last A middle-aged spinster married a widower, who had lost his first wife after a marriage of 15 years.

The spinster, who lived for years with her aged mother, was brought up in the spirit of immaculate housekeeping. An old-fashioned housekeeper, the mother excelled in cooking and her daughter kept fairly well in her footsteps.

Yet, despite her efforts and her skill in culinary arts, the new bride never succeeded in quite satisfying her hus-

Then came a day when housecleaning kept Sadie on her toes all day. In a rush to have everything clean and in order by the time her hubby arrived, she forgot to look after the meal. When she remembered, it was too late. There was a burned meal.

Ashamedly she watched her husband taste the food. But how surprised was she, when he exclaimed:

"Now, Sadie, that's really fine. It has that delightful flavor which distinguished Mary's cooking."-Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Snakes Not Aggressive;

Called Lazy and Timid "Contrary to lore, snakes do not attack humans wantonly," reads an article in the news magazine Time. "They are lazy and timid and do not strike unless hurt or threatened with hurt," the article continues.

"Exceptions are the African mamba, the Malayan king, the bushmaster of the tropics, and cascavel, a rattler of Central America. A coachwhip will sometimes follow a man. But it is only curious, and will speed away if threatened."

Other facts about snakes are given in Time as follows: "Identifying poisonous snakes is easy. Most of them belong to the pit-viper family. They have a deep depression between eye and nostril. Heads are flat and triangular, necks thin, bodies stout; tails short, eyes with elliptical pupils like a cat's. Fangs fold back against the roof of the mouth. A single row of scales runs along the belly. The biggest United States snake is the east ern diamond-back rattler, which grows to nine feet."-Philadelphia Inquirer.

When Teeth Were Weapons

Most of us, from our earliest days, are at intervals gravely troubled by our teeth. It was not always so. The jawbone of the Heidelberg man, who walked this earth about 50,000 years ago, is placed alongside that of modern man. We realize that our unterkiefers, as the Germans call them, are but as toys when compared with those of our earliest ancestors.

The jawbones of still more ancient people than the Heidelberg race were even more formidable. as they were provided with projecting teeth, which, without much doubt, were used in fighting and in other manly sports of those days.

Value of Mental Training

Mental training, both in reading and in special study, does much to keep the individual happy, wideawake and healthy. Much of the trouble in the world comes from worry; if a man or woman is busy with his own interests and retains the ambitions of earlier years his chances of a happy, profitable life seem greater.

The plight of the unhappy individual who never reads or who has no special hobbies is not a pleasant one. the practice of mental thrift, of utilizing the brain through later years, makes a richer, fuller life.-Thrift Magazine.

To Strengthen Eyes

Eye exercise to strengthen the muscles are advised by certain physicians, and these should be done before breakfast. Keep the head still and roll the eyes upwards as far as possible, then right downwards, with a steady and unjerky motion. Continue rolling the eyes right, then left. Now lift them upwards and inwards, then upwards and outwards; and finally downwards and inwards, and downwards and outwards. Do this five times at first and gradually increase to twelve a day.

Daily Thought

From the lowest depths, there is a path to the loftiest heights. The tendency to persevere, to persist in spite of hindrances, discouragements, and impossibilities—it is this in all things that distinguishes the strong soul from the weak. The man without a purpose is like a ship without a rudder-a waif, a nothing, a no man. Have a purpose in life, and, having it, throw such strength of mind and muscle into your work as God has given you .-Thomas Carlyle.

Church Communion

The Encyclopedia of Church History defines "open communion" as the service of the holy communion of saints which is open to all who apply, irrespective of creed. In "closed communion" the service is confined to the members of a single society or at least to the members of a denomination who are baptized. By "communion of place" is meant the administration of the sacrament in a consecrated building. It also refers to the reten tion of the Host.

Voman's Chief Charms

Not to Be Purchased

The mouth is a photograph of the disposition. Some one has said that we are not responsible for the disposition we are born with, but we are responsible for the one that we die with. It is the same with the mouth. The sweetness and kissableness and dearness of a baby's mouth are not dependent on the shape or size. Baby's mouth is sweet because his soul is sweet. No brand of lipstick, nor any artist in its use, can camouflage a sour mouth and make even a casual observer believe it is sweet.

V suite Stars

The Navai observatory says that the number of stars of the whole celes tial sphere bright enough to be seen by the average eye in a clear, moon less night has been estimated to be between six and seven thousand. As one-half of this number lies below the horizon, and haze near the horizon hides many more, the total number visible at any one place cannot greatly exceed 2,500. The blended light of many million stars in the Milky way may be seen but not the individual points of light.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC.

Topic—Making My Body a Fit Tem-ple for God. I Cor. 3:16, 17; 6:19, 20.

Written by Rev. John S. Hollenbach, S. T. D.

There is an old conception of all matter as being evil. Therefore, the body which is matter is considered evil. Hence it must be tortured and starved in order to bring it into subjection. The Stoic and the ascetic tried to practice the complete sup-pression of the body.

Others there are who give full sway to the natural appetites and bodily passions. They are epicurean in their outlook and practice. They say, "Let us eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we die." And many of them do die prematurely from over indulgence. There are many who want the chance for what they choose to term self-ex-pression, but which is really self-explosion. And that leads to death and

The proper estimate of the body is one of the results of Christian knowledge. Our bodies are not evil in themselves nor must they be used as instruments of sin by overindulgence. Our bodies are the temple of God and the dwelling-places of His Holy spir-We are not our own for God has made us and redeemed us, so that we are accountable unto Him for their

Jesus cleaned the temple when it was used for shrewd bargaining and selfish barter. So we need to drive out everything that would defile our bodies. Who would think of running a moonshine plant in a Church? Yet people become drunk and thus corrupt the living temples of the living God.

The cigarette concerns are extending their efforts to induce more people especially women and children, to smoke. Scientific tests have shown that real harm is done by indulging in the use of tobacco. So abstain from smoking for your good and for the glory of God.

The possession of health is a great boon and to endeavor to secure and to maintain health is a Christian duty. Much is done and more needs to be done to safeguard public health.

To make our bodies as efficient instruments of God as possible, we need to have proper and sufficient food.

Overeating and undereating are not to be condoned. They are both wrong We need work, play and rest. The work must not be too difficult or too great in amount. Exercise, especially in the form of games is conducive to health, and is therefore essential to our well being and happiness. Rest is needful. Refreshing sleep will restore our powers and make us new for the tasks of the day. Unfortu-nately some young people without enough brains to balance their feet and to control their bodies think they can disregard nature's laws with impunity. They turn the night into day and the day into night.

Let us try to heed the words of Paul: Romans 12:1. "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy acceptable to God, which is your spiritual by Black Man's Magic? Major Court-Trenttt of the Cape-Cairo motor expedition was the first white man who hunted and killed elephants on foot with a spear. "While I was on this spear-hunting safari," he said, "we followed several herds into waterless country in the Bahr-el-Ghazal district of the Sudan, where the elephants usually trek to water only every third or fourth night. When they do, nothing will stop them. We followed this particular herd all day, and at night I was ready to give: up. I made camp and stopped. Baballa, a young hard-bitten Mandala hunter, who was said to be something of a magician, then came to me and said he thought he could 'bind' the herd' with his magic rope. These 'magic' ropes' are not uncommon in Africa. They are usually about a yard long and made of Dompalm fiber. Baballa sat down with the rope in his hands, and went through the motions of tying his arms, legs, ankles and neck, muttering incuntations as he did so. His muscles became taut, and he relapsed Kittie Klaws-1 really do. I've been into a semi-trance. He sat so for a few minutes, and then suddenly relaxed, grunted 'That is good,' and rose to his feet Next morning we ran into the elephants only bulf a mile from; camp, and killed one! Pet Squirrel in Church

The strains of Lohengrin resounded through a Kansas City church. Just as the last "I do" was repeated at the blossom-laden altar, a bit of fur dropped lightly to the sill of a nearby window. A flash of gray and Perky, the bride's pet squirrel, landed squarely on his mistress' head He sat bolt upright on his throne of orange blossoms and lace, his bushy tail curled over his back, and gave the audience stare for stare. After a slight pause the bridegroom gravely removed Perky from his sear and unceremoniously dropped him out the

Make Your Candy With Vinegar

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON Director, Home Economics Dept., H. J. Heinz Company

FOR making uniformly fine few drops of pure cider vinegar, added before cooking, seems actually to perform miracles. The vinegar changes sugar to a form that does not crystalize readily, thus keeping the candy or frosting light and creamy. Even if one is so busy that the cooking pan remains on the fire a moment too long, the candy stays creamy—and vinegar is such a simple thing to use for this purpose; it is always on hand in everyone's kitchen.

The next time you make a frosting, or candy, try adding a few drops of pure cider vinegar. You will be delighted with the results. One teaspoon of vinegar to two cups of sugar is the quantity generally used.

You may enjoy trying some of these delicious recipes today:

2 cups granulated sugar

1/2 cup cold water

and spread over cake.

1 teaspoon pure cider vinegar Cook without stirring, over a very slow fire, until the frosting forms a thread that does not shrink back the pan and does not have little bubbles on it when dropped from the serve. tip of a spoon. Remove from the fire and pour slowly, beating constantly, over 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Beat until creamy. Flavor

A NEW LINE OF THOUGHT

TO NOTE WORK TO THE TO THE TOTAL TO THE TOTA

HE Spencer high school had been out now for more than a month. The summer vacation. was passing and Margaret and school, were longing for something, anything, to happen so long as it brought a change. The first week or two after school closed the two young women had been busy in doing a belated house cleaning in their small, white house. When the cleaning was finally done to their entire satisfaction they turned their attention to their clothes, and when their wardrobe was in apple-pie order they made calls and caught up with their reading. And now when they had done everything they had planned there seemed nothing further for them to do but sit with folded hands and wait! for vacation to end and the school. year to begin. Though, dear knows, the Carter girls were tired to death of teaching. In fact, they were tired of home and a wee bit tired of each other, and for the past week they had discussed the idea of selling or renting their house and boarding for the coming year.

"I think," said Margaret seriously one day when a morning of idleness had irritated her frayed nerves more than usual, "that I shall go to see Cora Blaine and see if she will let me board with her this winter."

"Well, of course you can do as you like," answered Angeline, "but for my part I wouldn't think of boarding with Cora Blaine, not with that snip of a daughter of hers in the house."

The discussion was waxing hot when the postman brought a special delivery. Angeline tore open the letter and read it.

"It's from Cousin Fanny Pringle," she announced as soon as the man had gone. "She is coming to make us a visit. She is planning a continental tour and she is seeking a congenial companion for herself and a comfortable, safe place where she can leave Darling while she is gone-Darlingwho do you suppose Darling can be, Margaret? I never heard her mention her before, did you?"

"Never," said Margaret. "But read on, Angeline, maybe she will explain." "I shall room at the hotel while I am in Spencer," Mrs. Pringle wrote. "But I shall expect to take my meals with you girls, as the hotel fare doesn't agree with Darling. I will arrive some time before noon on Tuesday and I wish you to have an extra fine sirloin steak, well done and cooked without either salt or pepper. I trust you will select the steak very carefully, for Darling is most finicky about her food. She is having a twist with her stomach and that is one reason why I am getting her out of the city for a few days, hoping the change will do her good. In her present condition of health I am uneasy about leaving her for my trip abroad and I shall not go unless I can find an understanding person to leave her with." There was not a great lot more to the letter and nothing that explained the mysterious Darling.

Tuesday! Why, there would be only tomorrow in which to put the house in order and do the extra baking for their guests! The Carter girls were all excitement and with so much to think about and so many things to attend to they forgot for a time their differences and were as busy as bees.

Tuesday morning dawned clear and bright. Margaret and Angeline were up at five o'clock putting the last touches to their immaculate house and planning the final details of the dinner. Everything must be perfect, for Cousin Fanny was very wealthy and fussy, and then of course there was the mysterious Darling. No one could guess what she would be like. Probably some one out of the ordinary, for Cousin Fanny was always getting infatuated with unusual people. And then of course there was the trip abroad, and it all depended upon which of the Carter girls Cousin Fanny took a notion to. A trip abroad with all expenses paid was a prize worth working and fighting for if necessary. And Margaret and Angeline each secretly meant to do her best to win her way into the good graces of Cousin Fanny.

As the hands of the old-fashioned clock in the hall moved slowly toward the noon hour, excitement ran high. The table was set for five with all the best linen and silver, the dinner was cooking and the extra sirloin steak was pounded to a shred and ready to be put over the coals at a moment's notice.

The coffee had just begun to percotate when Margaret, who had gone for the dozenth time to the front of the house, announced in a low tone: "They've come!" She ran to open the door. Angeline, who was in the kitchen, slipped the steak over the coals, tore off her kitchen apron, smoothed her hair with her hands and arrived in the front hall just as Margaret opened the door in answer to an imperative peal of the doorbell. On the steps stood Consin Fanny. She was a stout old lady, elaborately dressed. Behind her stood the chauffeur, and in his arms he held a small, silky black dog. The dog had such a funny, wrinkled old-looking face that Angeline had to stifle a desire to shriek as the diminutive little creature peered at her from under a huge red satin bow. "Well, here we are," announced Mrs. | finitive,

Pringle, "Parker," she commanded the chauffeur, "set Darling down, and then you may go.", Then, turning to the waiting girls, she said: "I hope dinner is ready. Darling is used to having her meals on time and she doesn't like to be kept waiting. Let's eat as soon as I can get my things off. We can talk later while Darling is having her nap. She likes to go to sleep just as soon as she is through eating." While Margaret was helping Mrs. Pringle remove her wraps Angeline hurried back to the kitchen and a few Angeline Carter, who taught in the moments later they were all seated $$ the table. Darling had a chair close beside his mistress, because, as Mrs. Pringle explained, her food had to be cut up just so. The girls winced when they saw the little dog eating off the delicate china that had been put on the table for the expected guest. It was a long and tedious process coaxing Darling to eat, but after a while she was stuffed to her mistress' satisfaction and was carefully lifted down from the chair and laid to rest on a fat silk pillow on the davenport, where it was cool and quiet. When the little dog's snores satisfied Cousin Fannie that her pet was sleeping she herself settled cozily back in her chair and announced that she herself felt like taking forty winks after her dinner and journey. This left the Carters free to retire to the kitchen and do up the dinner work.

It was a good thing that Mrs. Pringle and Darling were tired and their naps were prolonged, for never before had it taken the Carter girls so long to do a mess of dishes. They did not talk much, for fear of disturbing the sleepers, but words under the circumstances were unnecessary. They would look at each other and go off into perfect spasms of laughter. They laughed until they cried.

"Can we hold out for a whole week, Angeline?" Margaret asked in a whis-

"I don't know," Angeline answered. "But whether we do or not, I can see where the experience is going to do us a world of good, can't you?"

"Which do you prefer, Angeline-a trip abroad with Cousin Fannie as a companion or staying at home to keep Darling comfortable?" Margaret asked. "Neither." Angeline answered, with finality in her voice. "I only want you, my home and my job when vacation ends. What about you, sister?" "You have expressed my sentiments exactly. What fools we were getting to be to want to break up our dear ber those lines. "The more I see of men the better I like dogs?" Angeline nodded and they began to laugh again, and anyone who heard them would realize that nothingnothing could ever spoil their companionship again.

Audience Before Him Sways Public Speaker

Public speaking may be an art, but it certainly is a necessary evil. It must be evil because almost everybody deplores it. It must be necessary because there is so much of it. Why it is necessary we do not know. James Warnack declares, in the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Speaker and audience are about equally responsible for their mutual teristics which in lands that never boredom. Speaker and audience both knew Odin made the crow a harbinare practically one, the speaker standing in the same relation to his audience that a man's voice stands to its owner and operator. The public speaker usually is merely the mouthpiece of his audience, saying the things his hearers like and want to say, but which he can say better for them.

Much as a man, when speaking, puts himself into his voice, so an audience, when listening, throws itself into the mind, heart and voice of the speaker. Speaking may be caused by thought, but the act of speaking is an emotional operation, an emotion and act which gather force with continued and uninterrupted exercise. This law is exemplified in both public speaking and private conversation. Excitement increases with repeated vibrations of the vocal cords.

The public speaker should be forgiven almost anything he says from the platform because when he speaks he is about nine-tenths of his audience and about one-tenth himself. He also should be forgiven if, later, he denies what he said or that he said it. because then he is about nine-tenths himself and one-tenth his public. In either or both cases he should be forgiven but not trusted too far because in the public address he is the more or less unconscious mouthpiece of massed thoughts and emotions, while later he is merely an ego reacting from the influence of a mob. For let it not be forgotten that almost any audience is a mob in embryo. That the embryo seldom matures is due to the inherent dread of the fusion of individualities and the confusion of each individual.

Language Somewhat Mixed

The Portuguese language is a Romance language resembling the Spanish and paralleling it rather closely in grammar. The Portuguese vocabulary shows a considerable borrowing from the French. According to the latest estimates there seem to be 11 vowel sounds and some 26 consonantal sounds. One of the most marked features of Portuguese as compared with other Romance languages is the loss of the intervocalic "!" and "n"; thus "quaes" represents the Latin "quales" and "pessoa" the Latin "persona." An interesting phenomenon of Portuguese is the appearance of a personal or inflected infinitive, which makes possible a very succinct construction compar able to the Latin accusative and in

OLD APPLE TREES

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

 OLD apple trees grow tired of bearing.

Young apple trees are always wearing Blossoms in spring, and fruit in fall. Old apple trees grow tired of all The plucking, plucking, and not caring.

I wish that some old apple tree, Some harvest season, this could see: Some mortal kneeling on the sod, Thanking the tree, and thanking God, For all the apples that there be.

Old apple trees grown tired of bearing:

Old horses weary of the wearing Of ancient harness; even men Weary a little now and then Of all the taking and not caring.

I wish some night that some old sire Would find youth grateful for the fire, The table, and the roof, and all. Perhaps old trees less soon would

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

CROWS BIRDS OF ILL OMEN

THE raven and the crow are so I nearly related that they are frequently called by the same name and for all superstitious purposes are one bird. In all parts of the world, from time immemorial, the crow-or raven -has been regarded with a superstitious dread. The Australian aborigine. the American Indian, the German peasant, the farmer of old England and of New England, hear in his raucous voice a warning of death or misfortune.

This universal superstition with re gard to the crow can evidently have its origin in no mythological association. The various and widely separated races which entertain it prove that it springs entirely from the physical characteristics of the birdits black gloomy color and its harsh and threatening voice—characteristics naturally calculated to inspire the primitive mind with a sense of foreboding. Added to this is the crow's character as a crop destroyer and his general actions as if he were an enemy of man.

The superstition is merely one arising from an association of ideas with facts apparently symbolic of those ideas, a process natural to the primitive mind now and always. It is true that in Norse mythology the raven was the attendant bird of Odin and ravens flew screaming before him when the god went forth to war. But the assignment to this position was entirely on account of those characger of evil to the superstitions.

What charm do you prefer?

EERIE

ALLOWE'EN is the time of witches, and the best witches we know of are the three old erones who mutter the marvelous incantation in Shakespeare's "Mac-The incantation has to be abridged and edited a bit, but it is a most appropriate thing for the host-ess at a Hallowe'en party to chant at the head of the table with her guests joining in the refrain:

"Round about the caldron go; In the poison'd entrails throw Toad, that under coldest stone Days and nights hast thirty-one Swelter'd venom sleeping got Boil thou first i the churmed

Double, double, toil and trouble; Fire, burn; and caldron, bubble. Fillet of a Fenny snake, In the caldron boil and bake: Eye of newt, and toe of frog, Wool of bat, and tongue of dog, Adder's fork, and blind-worm's Lizard's leg, and owlet's wing.

Of the ravin'd salt-sea shark; Root of hemlock, digged i' the dark; Liver of blasphening shrew, Gall of goat, and slips of yew Sliver'd in the moon's eclipse, Nose of Turk, and Tartar's Double, double, toil and trouble; Fire, burn; and caldron, bubble. Cool it with a baboon's blood, Then the charm is firm and good."

That will certainly provide the proper atmosphere for Hallowe'en, and now for the setting. Instead of the conventional pumpkin head Jack o' Lantern, have as a centerpiece a big caldron, or cooking kettle. It would add an eerie touch if some salt and alcohol were burned in it to make blue flames. There should, of course, be a profusion of witches astride of broomsticks and of black cats. These can be cut from decorated crepe paper and made to stand up by means of wires.

For the food at such an entertainment you must have dishes suitable to the occasion, decked out with fittingly gruesome names. suggested menu, calculated for eight people, consists of:

Devil's Stew Celery Fringes and Ripe Olives Baked Ham Hallowe'en Baked Sweet Potatoes Sauted Parsmips Toasted I All-Saints' Salad Witches' Spiced Shortcake Orange and Black Mints Toasted Rolls

The Recipes

Devil's Stew: Scald three cups of milk. Smooth two tablespoons of flour with one-half cup of water add to the milk, and cook until slightly thickened. Add the contents of an 11-ounce can of peas which have been simmered three minutes in their own liquor. Bring the contents of a 5-ounce can of oysters to scalding in their liquor, and add. Season with two tablespoons of butter, salt and pepper, and serve.

Celery Fringes and Ripe Olives: Cut sufficient celery for eight peo-ple in one and a half inch pieces, and fringe each end till the fringes meet in the center. Let stand in ice water until well curled. Have the olives very cold. Arrange the celery fringes and olives on a shal-low dish filled with cracked ice.

Baked Ham Hallowe'en: Chop one cup of celery, one cup of carrots, one-third cup of green pepper and two tablespoons of onion very fine, and sprinkle over a twopound slice of ham in a baking dish. Pour over this four cups of strained tomato juice, and bake in a moderate oven (325°) for from an hour and a half to two hours or until the ham is tender.

Salad and Dessert

All-Saints' Salad: Remove 11 pits from about two dozen canned breakfast prunes and stuff the cavities with well seasoned cream cheese (or cottage cheese). Chill in ice box for several hours. Have a jar of stuffed oranges in syrup also well chilled. (You can get these at any large grocery store.) When ready to serve, cut oranges in very thin slices, and arrange three slices over-lapping in a bed of lettuce. Arrange two or three stuffed prunes on top, and garnish with a little cream mayonnaise.

Witches' Spiced Shortcake: Mix and sift two cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt and two tablespoons sugar. Cut in six tablespoons shortening. Add three-fourths cup milk, roll or pat out fairly thin, and cut with a biscuit cutter into rounds. rounds together with a little melted butter. Bake in a hot oven, 450°, for about ten minutes. Power of Calculation in Infants Instinct?

Lenoir, a Belgian boy, is stated to be able, at the age of two years, to multiply any two five-figure numbers accurately and without hesitation Whether this is an exaggeration or not I am unable to say, but every now and then the phenomenon of the "calculating boy" crops up and astonishes the world. The feats of these wonder children appear to be done by a sort of instinct, and sometimes the apparently magical power is lost as soon as a real knowledge of mathematics is gained.

A well-known calculating boy was George Parker Bidder, who was born in 1806, and was exhibited in his childhood as an arithmetical marvel. He became an engineer and was associated with Robert Stephenson in the London and Birmingham-afterward the London and North-Western railway-and was a founder of the Electric Telegraph company and president of the Institution of Civil Engineers. Among his best-known works are the Victoria docks.

Not Such a Big Success

The late Walter Kingsley, one of the last of the old time press agents, once released an elephant in the streets of New York while doing publicity for "The Circus Man." He telephoned his "loss" to the police department and a squad of officers went out. They found the elephant all right and had they but known it, the animal would have followed them peacefully with the offer of a few peanuts.

Instead, they frightened the elephant, which dashed into an office building, wedged itself in the doorway and half the building had to be torn down in order to release it.

Words Handed Down

In the word magic we have a reminiscence of the Persion "Magi," mighty prophets and interpreters of dreams, of whom three were said to have found their way to Bethlehem. Words which come to us from the Roman religion are cereal, genius, fete, fortune, fury, grace, June, mint, money, Saturday, vesta, contemplate, sacrifice, temple, augury and auspice. Vampire is an unpleasant Slavonic word brought back from the East by travelers in the Eighteenth century. Taboo, tattoo and kangaroo came to us with Captain Cook from the Pacific. - Ex mange.

Old English Law Made

Churchgoing Compulsory Golfers, picnickers, Sunday autoists would be out of luck if an old English law were in force today. The act of uniformity, 1552, required:

"All persons, except those dissenting from the worship or doctrines of the Church of England and usually attending some place of worship not belonging to the Church of England, are if they have no lawful or reasonable excuse for absence, to endeavor to at tend their parish church or accustomed chapel, or, if reasonably prevented from so doing, some other place where the divine service of the Church of England is performed, on all Sundays and other days ordained and used to be kept as holy days, and to abide there orderly and soberly during the time of common prayer. preaching or other divine service there performed."

Failure to observe this law renders the offending "parishioner or inhabitant of a parish" who is not legally ex empt from attendance at divine service on Sundays and boly days "liable in proceedings taken against him in the ecclesiastical courts to be censured for the offerse admonished as to its attendance in the future, and to be condemned in the costs of the proceedings."

Valuable Discovery in

Tuning Church Bells

A church bell made from the finest bell metal may give forth a harsh, unpleasant sound, due to the fact that it is out of tune with itself. The stroke of a single bell sounds to us like one note, and until very recently even the most expert bell makers have not realized that the sound is really made up of five separate notes. The five notes must be in tune with one another in order that the bell may give forth a harmonious sound. What we then hear is a combination of what is known as the strike note; the nominal, which is an octave above the strike note; the hum, which is an octave below, and the third and fifth.

This recent discovery regarding the harmonics of bells has made possible the new art of bell tuning, a revival of what for two centuries was considered a lost art. The large bells are day. inverted on a huge turntable and revolved while the metal is pared away from the inside until it is correctly shaped to produce the harmonious tones,-Kansas City Star's Science Service.

Lesson for November 3

RESPECT FOR EIGHTFUL AUTHORITY

(World's Temperance Sunday) LESSON TEXT—Mark 12:13-17; Rom. 18:1-14; I Peter 2:13-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Why We Have

Laws.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Why We Have

Laws.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-TC—Obeying the Law.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Making Effective the Will of the Community.

Though our citizenship is in heaven, we have obligation to the government under which we live.

I. Obligation to Pay Tribute (Mark

This teaching concerning the tribute money came in answer to the question put to Jesus by representatives of the Pharisees and Herod. They would gladly have killed him, but they feared the people. Their only hope was to discredit him among the people.

1. Their question (v. 14). Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar or not? The Pharisees contended that since God was the real king of Israel, it was not obligatory-yea, even sinful-to pay taxes to a heathen king. The Herodians were supporters of Herod. With flattery on their lips, they put this subtle question. For Christ to have answered "yes" would have discredited Him with the people, and to have said "no" would have made Him liable to arrest as an enemy of the government.

2. Jesus' reply (vv. 15-17). He requested a coin to be brought and inquired as to whose image and superscription it bore, declaring that those who accept the coin of Caesar should pay taxes to Caesar. Thus the Lord escapes their trap and inculcates a principle which applies to all time and conditions as to the Christian's responsibility to civil government.

II. The Christian's Obligation to the State (Rom. 13:1-7).

The believer is a citizen as well as a Christian. 1. Obedience to rulers (vv. 1-4).

This obligation is upon all Christians. Civil government is ordained of God, and rulers are His represent atives. To refuse obedience to civil authority is to resist God. This does not mean that a Christian at the behest of the state should do that which is inherently wrong. The same is true of the child in its responsibility to its parents. While obedience to parents is the will of God for children, this does not imply that the child is under obligation to do that which is morally wrong, at the command of the parents. Submission to authority is the law of the believer's life.

2. The spirit in which the Christian renders obedience to rulers (v. 5). He should regard it as his obligation because it is morally right.

3. Methods of expressing this obedience (vv. 6, 7). (1) In the payment of personal and property taxes. The citizen who enjoys the benefits of government is morally bound to support it. (2) Payment of duty upon merchandise, and license fees. The business exchange between nations must be regulated. For such regulations, expense is incurred, for which benefit the citizen should pay.

(3) Veneration for magistrates-"Fear to whom fear."

Those who have the fear of God in their hearts will venerate their rulers, God's representatives.

(4) "Honor to whom honor." Civil officers should be honored because of the ministry they perform.

III. The Spirit of Loyalty to Author ity (I Pet. 2:13-17).

The loyalty of the Christian to right authority should be glad and free The Christian recognizes the necessity of social order, and will graciously submit to the authority of rulers and faithfully perform his obligation as a citizen, not through cringing fear, but as the Lord's free man, for the Lord's sake. By means of this free submission as God's servant, he puts to silence the ignorance of foolish men

(vv. 15, 16). 1. Honor all men (v. 17).

He will see in every man the image of God and therefore give honor to him. A Christian will attend to the proprieties of life among all classes and in all relations.

(2) Love the brotherhood (v. 17). The Christian has a peculiar love for those who are of the same household. (3) Fear God (v. 17). This is filial.

reverential fear. (4) Honor the king (v. 17). This had a peculiar significance, for in all probability the wicked Nero was then the reigning monarch of Vast Water Power One after another the great waterfalls of the Alps and Apennines have been placed in subjugation by Italy, their water guided into huge, high pressure conduits and forced to turn giant turbines, writes Henry Kittredge Norton in World's Work. Before the World war these turbines were already producing two billion kilowatt hours per year; during the war, because of the shortage of coal and the need for power, this capacity was increased by another billion kilowatts. After the post-war turbulence had settled down into the Fascist regime, a new impetus was given to electrical development, and by the end of 1926 the actual consumption had reached 7,500,000,000 kilowatt hours

Since then it has continued to mount. More than 7,000 of Italy's 9,-000 communes are now supplied with electrical energy. The per capita consumption runs close to 200 kilowatt

As was to be expected under the circumstances, by far the greater portion of Italy's electrical energy is used in turning the wheels of her factories. Lighting is a secondary consideration. Sixty per cent of Italy's electrical energy is used for motor power; 15 per cent for light and heat; 14 per cent in the metallurgical and chemical industries, and the remaining 11 per cent for the electrified railways.

Old Inscription Shows

"Horse Age" Beginning

To the learned, century-old Academy of Inscriptions of Paris, Professor Hrozny, of Prague, has communicated his long-expected translation of what is perhaps the most ancient Hittite inscription. It is the first in any language that became European and was cut in the rock of Asia Minor not far from what is now Angora, the new capital of Turkey.

The value of the inscription-what we might call its curiosity-is that it gives the date very nearly when tame horses first appeared so far to the west. It was the beginning of the Horse age in civilization and is of melancholy interest to us who, 4,000 years later, are careering with our aucomobiles into the Horseless age.

It was supposed that horses were irst brought to Egypt, mother of Civilization, about 1,500 years before Christ by the Cassites from Babylon. That was some 500 years after Abraham passed through the Hittite peoples on his way from Ur of the Baby-Ionian Chaldees to the Promised land. -Boston Globe.

Zinc in Industry

Starting with the Nineteenth century the increase in the use of zinc was decidedly accelerated. During the first decade the production was estimated at 6,000 tons. In the fifth dec ade the output had jumped to 367,000. tons, and for the half century the total was 635,000 tons. The output of the second half century reached the amazing total of 12,100,000 tons. or an increase of 1,800 per cent. The acceleration has continued, and in the year 1927 the output was 1,444,-000 tons, a total equal to the production of the first 60 years of the Nineteenth century.

Nearly one-third of the entire world's output of zinc has been produced in the United States.

Expressed

An Irishman entered his local post office and told the young woman behind the counter that he wanted to forward an express letter.

He placed the usual fee on the counter, but was informed that an additional sixpence would be required as the addressee lived some considerable distance outside the delivery area.

The Irishman seemed rather puz zled at this request, but after a mo ment's hesitation, ventured:

"Well, you let the letter go as it is, I don't want to pay the extra sixpence. but Oi'll write to them an' tell them to go to the office and collect it."

UNCOVER NEW SORT OF OCEAN SWINDLE

Many Englishmen Taken in by Clever Trick.

New York .- Old-timers in the detective division who had insisted there was nothing new in crime, recently admitted, after the lineup at police headquarters, that a new wrinkle in swindling was revealed in the grand larceny case against two brothers, Henry Benjamin. twenty years old, and Joseph, eighteen.

Headquarters was so impressed with the originality of their alleged operation and with the information that the pair had mulcted many Englishmen that a cable was sent to Scotland Yard asking, whether that agency had any data on the brothers.

Their method centered on the flashing of letters of credit and a hurried request for a loan from strangers about to sail. Thus, the police said. they succeeded in obtaining $150 from Maj. Cuthbert Johnson of London when he left on the Homeric. They were arrested on the Olympic, just before it was to sail, their capture resulting from a radioed complaint and description given by Major Johnson. Letter of Credit.

Henry, the police said, boarded the Homeric during the sailing hour and struck up an acquaintance with Major Johnson. Inasmuch as the brothers have a decided English accent, Major Johnson was impressed with the likelihood of a companion from the home land for the voyage. In the course of their conversation on the Homeric deck, Henry took occasion to draw forth, somewhat casually, a $12,000 letter of credit in Lloyd's bank, London, professing ignorance of its use and asking how it was to be cashed.

While the major was engaged in the friendly gesture of explanation, Joseph rushed up, out of breath, and asked Henry if he were Mr. Benjamin. The reply being affirmative, Joseph announced there was a package for Mr. Benjamin on the pier for which $150 cash payment was necessary. Flustered by his shortage of cash, Henry. according to the police narrative, expressed vexation that his $12,000 letter of credit was of no avail at the moment, and with a convincing show of embarrassment, induced Major John son to advarce him $150. The broth ers hastened from the liner, Henry calling back he would return with the package in a few moments.

A Clever Swindle. But the Homeric sailed without Henry. And, after a bit of thought. Major Johnson decided he had fallen for a clever swindle. He notified the purser, learned "Mr. Benjamin" was not booked and radioed the police. Detectives, since then, had been watching departing steamships. A short time later the brothers were seen talking to an Englishman on a deck of the Olympic. They were arrested. Their "chance" acquaintance gave information that convinced the detectives the Major Johnson episode was about to have been duplicated.

On Henry was found a letter of credit made out to Stanley Carter, Esq., purporting to establish that $12,000 had been paid into the Corn Exchange bank to be drawn from Lloyd's. Joseph's pocket disclosed a letter of credit for $10,000, made out to James Kingston, Esq., by the Bank of Montreal in Toronto and to be paid by the Bank of England.

Malaria Is of Help in Treatment of Paralysis

London.-Induced malaria as a successful treatment of paralysis is revealed in a recent report of Surgeon Rear Admiral E. T. Meagher covering experiments on a number of cases in English and Welsh hospitals.

"The treatment of general paralysis," his report states, "by induced malaria offers more promise of success than any other form of treatment that has been given extended

The treatment, which included either artificial malaria inoculation or exposure to malarially infected mosquitoes, has been found, says Doctor Meagher, to increase the length of life, to render existence more natural, and to produce improvements in the physical condition and mental

"The response in individual cases," he states, "varies from a negative result to apparent complete recovery. Over a period of five years 1,597 cases have been treated in this manner. Of this number 3.9 per cent died, 40.8 per cent are still in hospitals, and 25.3 were discharged. Five out of six of the discharged cases still retain life and liberty.

Relics of the Old Days of Forty-Niners Found

San Francisco.-Workmen excavating for a new building brought to the surface several relics of gold rush days. Among them were a hand pump still capable of pulling water a stove, tools made nearly 100 years ago, a smoking pipe of the kind favored by forty-niners and a 14-foot slab of Aberdeen granite. Masons said such stone has not been brought to the West coast since it was shipped around the Horn in windjammers.

Ambassador, in Theory,

Ranks Above Minister An ambassador is head of an embassy and a minister is head of a legation. Under international law and usage an ambassador is the personal representative of the sovereign or head of a state and is accredited directly to the head or sovereign of another state. A minister is, under international law and usage, the representative of the government (as distinct from the head of the state) and is accredited to the government of another state. Theoretically an ambassador has the right to converse directly with the sovereign or the head of the state to which he is accredited, and likewise may correspond directly with the sovereign or head of his own country. A minister, on the other hand, in theory carries on his correspondence with the minister of foreign affairs of the state to which he is accredited, and similarly corresponds with his own government through the minister of foreign affairs of his own country. In practice the duties of an ambassador and a minister are the same. At a social and official function an ambassador, on account of his superior rank, takes precedence over a min-

Blue Paint Unpopular

With Deep-Sea Sailors Seafarers in general are emphatic in their dislike of blue paint on a vessel. It is a deep-rooted belief with them that bad luck will follow the use of the color. Twenty-five years or so ago the Donna Briggs, a little threemasted coasting schooner, was a familiar caller at ports between Nova Scotia and Boston. The men of the sea and ships declared that whenever she dropped anchor a storm followed. The schooner's hull was blue.

"I recall that a few years ago," said Fulton Market fish dealer, "we engaged a Gloucester skipper to go down to a Maine port and bring back a schooner that had just been launched for us. When he found they had painted the hatches blue, he picked up his grip and started back for the railroad station."-New York Times.

Made Store a Shrine

The secret of a little general store in an English village, shuttered and closed for forty years, was disclosed on the death of its owner. Flaxius Josephus Wilkinson had left the store absolutely unaltered since the death of his father. Calendars and papers of forty years before were found, and on the counter was a pair of old-fashioned scales. There was also a yardstick that had evidently been used for measuring cloth, and the medicine bottles, tea canisters and jars were as the old man had left them-even the jacket of the old shopkeeper still hung on the wall. Few persons knew of this remarkable instance of a son's devotion to his father's memory. The son had been left comfortably well off, but he carefully dusted and swept the little store and lived for many years in the house adjoining it.

Pigs as Currency

A traveler who has returned to England from the Pacific has been telling some amusing stories of things that go on in the New Hebrides. Pigs, he says, are not only eaten on a large scale, but they are the standard currency in the island. There are certain ceremonies at which it is very important to have pigs, and they are frequently borrowed. The men who lend pigs are like money lenders, demanding interest on their loan, and when the pig is paid back it must be the size the pig that was loaned would have grown to during the time it was

Whitman's "Ballyhoo"

Walt Whitman, writes Harvey O'Higgins in Harper's Magazine, at the time his first book of poems appeared, ballyhooed himself, anonymously, in the American Phrenological Journal as the "haughtiest of writers that has ever yet written and printed a book." And in the United States and Democratic Review, for the same month of September, 1855, he hailed himself anonymously, as "one of the roughs, large, proud, affectionate, his costume manly and free, his face sunburnt and bearded, his postures strong and erect."

Mystery of Sleep

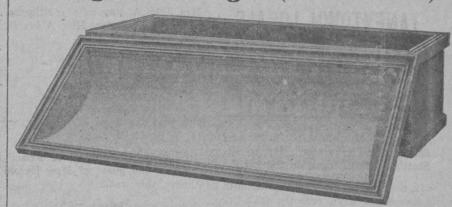

Science has evolved drugs that will put one to sleep, but just what it is that brings natural sleep is as great a mystery today as it was to the caveman who curled up on his rock mattress, with his flowing beard spread over him for a quilt.

It is a commentary on human nature that we are more particular about our food than we are about regular hours of sleep, yet it is a fact, definitely established, that it is possible to live much longer without food than without the benign embrace of Morpheus.

Prices of Wheat and Flour

It takes five bushels of wheat to make one barrel of flour. A barrel of flour makes 300 loaves of bread. For every change in price of flour, of $1 per barrel, the baker's cost is affected to the extent of one-third of one cent for each one-pound loaf. In short, wheat would have to either advance or fall 60 cents per bushel, before it could affect the price of bread one cent per loaf.

T'S a serious question, this one | and most people know that excel-Thanksgiving is coming near, serious that Professor William H. Sawyer, Jr., of Bates College, has spent nearly two years of research and experimentation at the Cryptogamic Botany Laboratories at Harvard University seeking a way to exterminate a parasite upon cranberries which has been rapidly causing the disappearance these bright red berries from the New England marshlands. He now announces a discovery, in the form of a plant or mould parasite aimed at the parasitic growth now threatening the cranberry, which will mean the probable destruction of that growth.

Cranberry Recipes

Everyone knows about the cran-berry sauce that is invariably cranberry sauce can be se cured in cans. But how many people know of the other delicious ways in which to use this product? Have you ever tried, for instance:

the contents of one No. 2 can of cranberry sauce, one-half cup of Granberry Ice Box Cake: Put seedless raisins, one-third cup chopped nuts, ten chopped dates and a third of a cup of water in a saucepan, and heat slowly and carefully until the cranberry sauce is somewhat thick. Cut a small sponge cake in slices, and put alternate layers of the sliced sponge cake and the cranberry mixture in a buttered mold, finishing with cake. Pack down well, and let stand over night in the ice box. Unmold and slice. Serve with cream or any deberry sauce that is invariably sired sauce. These quantities will served with Thanksgiving turkey, serve eight.*

Profits in March Land

With proper care a bit of marsh land, generally considered worthless. may be made to yield a profit. The tendency has been to drain such a piece of land and then cultivate it Sometimes this works out, but often not. Instead of this, such wet areas may be more successfully utilized for the production of fish, wild ducks and geese, and beaver and muskrats. Wet areas may also be made to produce vast quantities of food suitable for feeding and producing millions of ducks, geese and other waterfowl, and certain fur bearers-animal life that would add materially to our supplies of attractive food as well as afford recreation through hunting, with either camera or gun.

Towns With Historic Names Names famous in British history and literature are found in a small district of southern Ontario, Canada Here is the city of London, one of the most important of the province, located on the Thames river. Less than fifty miles away is the city of Strat ford, which, as in the Shakespearean tradition, is located on the Avon. Nearby is a town which hears the name of the great dramatist, while another community in the region is called Waterloo Not for from Stratford is the city of Kitchener, which before the World win was called Berlin .- New York Times

E rinting There is one kind of printing that you want-printing that pays a dividend on the investment. A letterhead with right sort of type properly balanced is a real business asset. It wins the approval of the person receiving your letter, and while he is in this frame of mind your letteris read.

The same reasoning applies to any other job of printing. Neat-ness, the right weight and kind of paper, the color of the ink, the selection of the type, all play an important part in the production of dividend printing.

We are equipped to give you that kind of printing. Let us ove it to you. printing. prove it
