CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ORGANIZED

A New Organization for Benefit of Taneytown and Community.

The Taneytown Chamber of Commerce completed its organization last Monday night, by the election of the following officers to serve for one year: president Merwyn C. Fuss; 1st. vice-president, Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe; 2nd. vice-president, Samuel C. Ott; chas. R. Arnold, the five officers so elected forming the Executive Committee of the body.

The by-laws were amended by reducing the membership fee from $10.00 annually to $5.00. Several $10.00 annually to $5.00. Several committees were appointed on questions unsettled, the same to report at the next monthly meeting. The objects of the body are set forth in the following propositions.

1—To actively consider questions looking toward the location of manufacturing industries in Taneytown.

2—To enable the business men of the town to act in union in matters.

the town to act in unison, in matters that concern themselves alone; with special reference to outsiders with propositions of doubtful value. 3—To assist other agencies in the promotion of the improved highway needs of the community.

4—To represent the best interests of the town and community, in the various questions that may from time to time arise.

5—To help advertise Taneytown, and better present its general advantages.

6—To make a study of the local credit situation, and endeavor by cooperation to improve it.

7—To make the monthly meetings socially enjoyable, and occasions for the friendly interchange of views on business or general matters.

The present membership was reported to be 45, with prospects for numerous additions.

In general, the meeting demonstrated enthusiasm for the organization, all being impressed with the importance of it, and confidence being unanimously expressed that it has unanimously expressed that it has been safely launched.

The following members have enrolled; Rev. A. T Sutcliffe, P. B. Englar, R. V. Arnold, Geo. W. Shriner, M. S. Ohler, Harold S. Mehring, D. J. Hesson, C. G. Bowers, Geo. A. Arnold, H. L. Yingling, M. A. Koons, Dr. C. M. Benner, R. S. McKinney, Allen F. Feeser, M. C Fuss, Chas. R. Arnold, S. C. Ott, F. Bowersox, Geo. R. Sauble, Harry Mohney, T. H. Tracy, Roy F. Carbaugh, A. G. Riffle, E. H. Essig, Koons Motor Co., Earl Bowers, Taneytown Grain & Supply Co., N. P. Taneytown Grain & Supply Co., N. P. Shoemaker, N. R. Baumgardner, Geo L. Harner, W. W. Troxell, W. E. Burke, C. E. Dern, F. E. Shaum, W. W. Reindollar, Clyde L. Hesson, H. L. Feeser, John Hockensmith, Birnie Trust Co., Wilt & Arnold, O. E. Dod-rer, Prof. J. Keller Smith, Chasa Cash-man, Joseph B. Elliot, Clarence Oh-ler, Roy Garner, Edw. Stuller, M. C.

An action of the meeting was that all stores should remain open every evening from December 9 until Christmas, in order to better serve the public. A committee was appointed to ascertain the cost of sign boards to be placed at the corporate limits, on the four main highways entering the town, not only giving tourists the name of the town, but to serve as a welcome message.

BEWARE OF COLDS.

The following are among the rules for preventing colds. They are old, but so are colds—very old.

-Eat plenty of nourishing food. 2-Drink plenty of water; bathe frequently. Sleep a full eight hours nightly.

4-Breath deeply while in the open, but through the nose. -Make certain that your home is well ventilated.

6-Keep your home air fresh and moist, with temperatures not exceeding 70 degrees.

-Don't get chilly; dress according to the weather.

8-Avoid using cold victims' towels. 9-Keep away from cold sufferers. 10—If you get a cold go to a doc tor. Avoid self-treatment.

A very common cause of colds is overheated homes and places of busi-ness, the leaving of which by occupants, during the winter season is an ideal way to take cold. Crowded, poorly ventilated, churches, or places of amusement, are the best possible places for cold breeding or worse. Poor ventilation is about as dangerous as over-heating. All public places should be given frequent air-baths.

MARYLAND WILL HELP FOR PROSPERITY.

President Hoover's Appeal.

Governor Ritchie has announced that Maryland will help President Hoover's plan for pushing construction work to the extent of nearly $13.000,000 this coming year.

By far the largest amount will be $13,000,000 this coming year.

By far the largest amount will be spent on road construction, the figures of $9,500,000 for this work equaling that spent during 1929, which probably will be expanded, according to Gov. Ritchie. The state highway revenues for 1930 will far exceed those of any other year, aggregating those of any other year, aggregating nearly $13,000,000, of which nearly $3,500,000 will be for maintenance and the remainder for new construc-

The $9,500,000, which ill be available for new construction, will be spent on highways, bridges and elimination of grade crossings, which work will be "pressed as rapidly as possi-

In addition to this, Gov. Ritchie said In addition to this, Gov. Ritchie said that the general construction work provided for an appropriation of $3,761,000 to be raised by bond issues, authorized by the 1929 session of the state legislation, also is taken into consideration. The bonds were to be issued during 1929 and 1930, and $531,000 have already been marketed and the proceeds either used or in process of expenditure on the public process of expenditure on the public works for which they were authorized, the telegram said.

Mayor Broening, of Baltimore, states that city work to the amount of $3,000,000 will also be done, as rapidly as weather conditions will permit.

HEADS UP-TRY IT!

"As the frosty days come, the temptation to shut out the air and slump into warm quarters is so general that it would be a good thing if each of us would develop as pronounced an appetite for fresh air as we have for our forgits foods and we have for our favorite foods and then should insist with just as much vigor upon having that appetite sat-isfied. We know when we are 'food hungry' but half the time when we are drowsy or droopy we don't real ize that what we are really suffering from is 'air hunger,'" Dr. R. H. Riley Director of the State Department of Health said, in stressing the importance of deep breathing, fresh air, and good posture, as aids in keeping fit. He continued, "out of a total of 3,755 children from five to seven years old who were examined by the Bureau of Child Hygiene during the spring and summer months, in preparation for their admission to school, 252 had marked postural defects. That was one out of every fifteen. Much of the bad posture of young children is due to undernourishment not from lack of food, but from poorly balanced meals. Much of the bad posture in the older boys and girls and in grown-ups is due to habitual slouching or slumping, con-tracting the chest, taking in an inade-quate supply of air, getting into bad habits of sitting, standing and walk-"Almost unconsciously, this brings the whole framework of the body into better position—shoulders back, chest out, abdomen flat. This in turn gives greater room for expansion of the lungs, free action of the heart, and better circulation of the blood, insures better digestion through the toning up of the muscles supporting the whole digestive apparatus. In other words, deep breathing helps to tone up the whole mechanism. It has another effect-it tones up the courage and self respect of the individual who habit-

CHRISTMAS IN CHINA NOT LIKE HERE,

A View Given of What Missionary Work Means.

Christmas is coming before long when people feel as much like children as they ever do, and think as much about them, so let me tell you a bit about my kiddy "Chinks" and my work among them.

Soon after coming to China I went with a missionary to see an idol temple. The missionary preached to the Buddhist priests. They didn't seem impressed with the message. The missionary said to me, "There is not much hope for these old priests. They are confirmed idol-worshippers." I was surprised at his remark, feeling God's Holy Spirit could convert even the hardened priests. Leaving the target we had to prove the property of the surprise of the sample we had to prove the sample we had to prove the sample. temple we had to pass through a great gate-house. In it were four huge idol "gate-keepers," fierce, savage, ugly, with hands up-raised ready to strike any who might displease them. They did strike terror into a little child whose mother was bringing it into the temple to worship. As we were passing by the little one was screaming with fright; but the mother put the wee one's hands up and made it go through the acts of worship in spite of its terror.

Then I realized why the Chinese were confirmed idolators. They are taught to worship idols even when babies. And I saw that our hope of winning China was not in preaching to the priests, though that must not be neglected; but was in getting the children. So, as soon as I could talk Chinese and a missionary lady suggested starting a Ragged Sunday School for the street kiddies not far from her home. I was ready to help School for the street kiddles not far from her home, I was ready to help. She asked the dairyman if we could have it in his shed. He consented, so we began our first Ragged S. S. Crowds of little people came. How they did delight to sing, "Ya-su-aingo" (Jesus Loves Me). Many of that cow-shed Sunday School came to love Jesus and became useful memlove Jesus and became useful members in the church.

When I came to Shanghai, and went about preaching, children a plenty were on the streets. I remembered that Sunday School and wanted these that Sunday School and wanted these that same in the same i 'yaller' people to have the same joys. 'yaller' people to have the same joys. I rented a room and started a Sunday School with no pupils! I stood inside and sang, "Jesus Loves Me." Children came to the door. I was glad and said, "Come in." The kiddies ran for home as fast as their legs and a same to the same ran for home as fast as their legs could carry them! They had heard that foreigners use eyes and hearts of Chinese to make medicine for Western children. I sang again and big people came to listen. The wee ones took courage and peeped in. I talked of Jesus and His love for little and his recent h and big people,, and gave the kiddies cards, asked them to come again and bring their friends and I would give Sunday ten came and the next 20, then 40 and soon my small room was full of "Brownies." They learned to sing and liked to sing and we literally sang the Gospel into their hearts. Now Jesus has lots of little friends in Shanghai. They do not run from me any more; but run to me shouting, "Jesus man coming," and grasping my fingers, lead me to the Sunday

I wish you could know my Brownies. I am sure you would love them as I do. Every Christmas I try to give them a jolly time, friends at home sending me money for their treat. Christmas is not far away and I am already getting ready for the glad day. No Chinese kiddies will hang up their stockings and no homes will have a Christmas tree. Christmas will be cold and bare for millions of hiddies but I live. of kiddies; but I like to bring bright-ness into the lives of more than 800 of my Brownies. They will delight as much in some foolish little toy as some grown-ups at home do in a mo-tor car. When they receive the gifts

MR. KENT, ON MR. HOOVER

An Analysis of his Stand on the Tariff, and Business.

Frank R. Kent, the able writer for the Baltimore Sun on political topics, had the following to say, in part, in Wednesday's Sun, on President Hoover's attitude on the tariff debate and on the business situation;

"Persons who take the purely political view of every happening—and that includes nine-tenths of those in Washington-have their minds concentrated on the business situation, not as it is, but as it will be next fall. It is agreed that largely on it will hinge the 1930 Congressional elec-

At the White House Mr. Hoover is functioning in a way that markedly contrasts with his performance during the special session of Congress. Not many persons cheer his political leadership of the tariff fight. The fact is he showed none. He was unable to get a majority of his party back of his views, and he let his views be misrepresented by both parties and all factions. It is possible to defend his course on the ground that with the House support and his veto power there was never a chance of a bill offensive to him becoming a law, always a prospect as there still is,that the bill will emerge finally in a shape satisfactory to him, and that under At the White House Mr. Hoover is satisfactory to him, and that under these circumstances there was no sense in taking the initiative until the bill got into conference and he knew just what it was.

The Progressive Democratic coalition was going his way, and, if he had made it plain they were pulling him out of the hole the Grundy group were trying to put him in, political hostility to him might have turned back the Democrats. They, concededly were playing the tariff game for party advantage. There is some force in this contention. Nevertheless, it does not seem either candid or bold, and the session ended in futility with the Republican party in the Senate bitterly split three ways and a coalition, largely composed of Democrats, in control, which scarcely can be satisfactory from the White House angle. The Progressive Democratic coali-

MOTOR VEHICLES EXAMINED IN PENNA.

A total of 378,000 of the 1,400,000 motor vehicles examined in the Pennsylvania compulsory inspection per-iod which ended last Friday required cording to figures made public yesterday by the Keystone Automobile

In the safety feature next in importance—headlights—777,000 cars and trucks were found defective, according to the Clubs computation. Thirty-five thousand vehicles required adjustment of license plates to conform to the law; 77,000 required adjustment or installation of windshield wipers; 98,000 were found need of steering apparatus repairs; 42,000 required adjustment or de-placement of rear vision mirrors; 42,000 defective horns. In addition, upward of 2000 vehi-cles were reported by inspectors to be in such conditon that the "approved" sticker could not be issued. Owners of such cars will be notified by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles in the next few days to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked.

"These figures serve to emphasize the importance of the safety inspection," said J. Borton Weeks, President of the Club. "If anyone had doubt concerning the necessity for the inspection the results should dis-

"It is appalling to think of nearly half a million motor vehicles ranging the highways of Pennsylvania without proper brakes. It is equally disquieting to learn that almost half of the cars in the State have been operating with improperly focused and glaring lights. One need not look much farther for accident causes when such facts are considered.

"While the inspection campaign most certainly is a move in the right direction, it cannot be the solution of the problem. Motor cars need constant care to keep their safety equipment in satisfactory condition. The ment in satisfactory condition. Unless the motorists of Pennsylvania voluntarily subject their vehicles to periodical checkup they cannot hope to maintain them in roadworthy shape."

There are still those who stick to the idea that advertising should perform miracles all of itself. This is an erroneous idea. Advertising of itself will not do so; it is only a vehicle in which to ride to greater sales. It may be compared to an automobile. So it is with advertising-when harnessed to energetic sales effort, backed with good merchandise, you have a vehicle which will carry you to commercial heights and place you in the realm of the elect.-Kenosha, Wisconsin, Free

Won Mate From Hangman, According to Old Law

There used to be one certain method of intercession for the life of a criminal sentenced to death in New York state. All that was necessary, says the New York Sun, was for an unmarried woman, clad only in a chemise, to go to the gallows at the time the trap was scheduled to be sprung, intercede with the sheriff in charge and promise to marry the condemned.

The sheriff then had no alternative under the law as it then stood. It was a curious old law, based upon nobody knows what, and apparently a handdown from the Dutch burghers of New Amsterdam. But the woman, to qualify as the prisoner's savior, had to be unmarried, had to be without all articles of clothing except the specifically required chemise and had to promise to marry on the spot.

On one known occasion an unmarried woman, qualifying on all points, availed herself of the privilege conferred by the ancient law. It was in May, 1784, when Marinus Willett, subsequently mayor of New York, was sheriff. Sheriff Willett scratched his head, looked up the law and commuted the death sentence into a life partnership between the condemned and his fair intercessor.

It wasn't made quite clear where the young man had received his information, but a newspaper reporter in the group was able to comfort him.

"Don't you worry about that?" he said. "The best reporter I have ever known never got up from his desk unless some one brought food into the room. #### Formula for Matches

The first friction matches were coated with sulphur and tipped with a mixture of chlorate of potash, sulphide of antimony and powdered gum, and were lighted by drawing through a piece of bent sandpaper. Later, phosphorus tipped matches were manufactured; sulphur and chlorate of potash were mixed with the phosphorus. Various manufacturers use different formulas. A typical formula is: phosphorus, 17 parts; glue, 21 parts; red lead, 24 parts; nitre, 38 parts. Safety matches contain no phosphorus, the principal ingredient being chlorate of potash; the striking surface on the box is a mixture of red phosphorus and sand.

CARE OF PULLETS INFLUENCES EGGS

Fowls Should Be Developed Gradually to Save Vigor.

Their care and management largely determines the egg production to be expected from pullets through the winter months.

To force the growth of pullets by the continuous use of a heavy protein diet is poor parctice, says O. C. Ufford, extension poultry specialist of the Colorado Agricultural college. They should develop gradually so as to have body vigor for the long and continuous period of heavy egg production.

The normal growing period for breeds of the Leghorn type is from five to six months when properly managed and fed, Ufford points out. Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes and Rhode Island Reds require from one to two months longer for their normal

A good plan of management is to hatch early and start feeding a growing mash when the chicks are three or four weeks old, and continue it until they are three or four months old. When the pullet's comb begins to turn a bright red is good indication to cut down on animal food. After this, a slower growth of the egg organs is desired. It can be secured by elimination of the milk and the meat meal in the mash.

For one to two months prior to the time it is desired to bring the pullets into production. Ufford recommends a ration as follows: Corn meal, 35 pounds; ground wheat, 50 pounds; ground barley or oats, 10 pounds, and bone meal, 5 pounds. With such a ration they will put on body weight and fat. They will go into winter egg production with greater vigor and vitality as a result.

Laying Hen Has Full,

Warm and Glossy Comb

The comb of a laying hen will be large, full, glossy, and warm. It may be red in color, or it may be somewhat pale. On the other hand, the comb of a non-laying hen will be small, cold, pale and more or less scaly with a white dandruffy scurf.

In handling birds during the summer months, great care should be taken, too, not to frighten them or cause them to be overheated during. the culling process. Very often poultrymen mishandle their birds during the culling operation and injure egg production more than they save by the culling. A good time to do this present production culling is after

This is a good time to resolve to strengthen the weak places, in the past season's work. Make a careful analysis of this year's poultry work and find out which phases have been profitable, and which phases have not. Were the chickens hatched too late? Did they become infected with internal parasites? Were they overcrowded in the house? Did you discontinue feeding mash during the summer and bring on an early molt and did the hens net you $1 each above all costs? Information is available on all of the above points.

Poultry Notes

Proper ventilation will help keep poultry houses cool. Making the day longer by artificial light, so the layers can eat more, helps fill the winter egg basket.

Pullets lay best when they are confined in the house during the winter months and fed a laying mash.

Poultry houses which are too high are usually cold and drafty in winter. This may be remedied, easily and cheaply, by putting in a straw loft.

If your chickens are subject to winter sickness it may be because they aren't getting enough fresh air.

Corn should not be fed on the ear, but should be shelled. It should be fed in the litter, and may be cracked when convenient.

As green feed disappears and the garden stuff is cleaned up, the laying hens will need some other sort of green feed. Many practical poultry keepers depend upon green, leafy alfalfa during the winter months.

Remember that stock allowed to range over clean ground, away from contamination, makes the healthiest | was gone and best winter layers.

Extra space for the pullet flocks is far more important to the poultrykeeper than the reservation of the cockerels for table purposes.

Keep eggs in a cool and rather moist place. If artificial refrigers tion is available, a temperature of about forty degrees Fahrenheit is preferable.

Pool Is Based on Weather Bureau Reports.

Washington.-Daily temperatures of the United States weather bureau have been revealed as the newest ve hicle for large-scale gambling operations in the Capital, backed by the operators of the "numbers" game. whose activities, confined to the daily report of the New York clearing house, have been badly crippled by the campaign recently undertaken by the United States attorney's office.

Through the scores of runners, who nave been collecting the bets and at tending to the pay offs for the back ers of the clearing house "numbers" game, went the word recently that a new pool, based on the weather report, would be started and offers were made of prizes ranging from $500 to a few cents for the winners in the pool. An outlay of 60 cents for a week's play was all that was asked.

Like Baseball Pool.

Resembling more the baseball pool gambling that flourished here until the "numbers" game came into tremen dous vogue with the gambling fraternity, the weather report gambling was reported in sporting circles to have already caught the fancy of many of the small sum wagerers, who have been the principal clients of the "numbers" operators during the brief popularity that form of gambling has enjoyed here.

According to one runner, the backers of the weather report gambling will take almost any sort of bet on the temperatures as issued to the newspapers by the weather bureau. They advertise a wide range of combinations of figures available for the gambler to place his money on, and promise to pay handsomely to the winner in regularly worked out systems similar to those instituted in the 'numbers" game.

At the weather bureau it was stated that this form of gambling is not a new one except as it concerns the

Industrial Center Made

Into City of Gardens Essen, the city of smokestacks, the fron and steel center of Germany, has been converted into a city of gardens by a system which has aroused the envy of many other towns and made it the antithesis of the general conception of what a mill town looks like.

Careful city planning has been partly responsible for this result, but a farsighted policy by Alfred Krupp, founder of the famous steel works, is also entitled to much credit. Decades ago Herr Krupp set aside comfortable one-family houses for his workers, and the city has been laid out in such a way that the mills are confined to one section, business houses and office buildings to another and residences to a third.

In this third section gardening has become the favorite family sport. The municipality has encouraged this by setting aside tracts of land and any citizen can lease a plot with a tool shack on it for a ridiculosly low rent. There has grown up a wholesome rivalry as to who among the 480,000 inhabitants can produce the best flowers or vegetables.

A garden fair was laid out in a tract of 57 acres. Some 70,000 rose bushes, 30,000 dahlias, uncounted thousands of other flowers and shrubs in profusion were planted there. Artistic skill was used in the grouping, but the scientific gardener's craft also was used to create an object lesson for other cities.

Ugly Wayside Stands Should Be Abolished

Signboards are not the only nuisances which may destroy the beauty of a scenic route. In the western states, where distances are great between towns, it is almost necessary that there be wayside stands where motorists may purchase supplies en route. Many of these stands are ugly shacks, hastily thrown together for summer use only. In 1926, during a visit to the national parks, Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was impressed with the need of beautifying American roadsides, especially those leading to the national parks. Accordingly she organized a contest, with an annual prize of generous proportions, for the most attractive wayside stand. She also established a plan board of architects, which will furnish plans and designs for wayside stands without cost. This is an entirely new approach to the problem—one which appears to be effective in several areas. I note from reports of state highway commissions of several eastern states that they believe the tendency is in the direction of more attractive and well-kept wayside stands .- Horace M. Albright in the Saturday Evening Post.

Proper Tree Protection

Not long ago a tree lover in Missouri took out $500 in insurance on a fine old tree that stands in his yard. He values that tree highly.

But there is another form of insurance that probably would be of more real benefit to the tree. That is an investment in the tree which will insure its longer life and make it possible for the tree to withstand the elements against which it must fight for existence.

Many trees are structurally weak. Usually the greatest danger is with trees which have sharp forks. The upper branches get heavier and heavier as the tree grows older. Finally the weight is too much and during a storm, or even on a still day, the branches will snap or the fork split down, leaving the tree disfigured and permanently ruined as a thing of

Duties Before Architect

"The architect is a citizen who is respected in his community, who uses not only his brain but his eye and his hand, and he has numberless opportunities to help bring the kingdom of heaven to heip upon earth," says Frederick P. Keppel, president of the Carnegie corporation.

"He can do it by the creation of beauty, by participation in community enterprises such as town and regional planning and the development of parks and parkways. He can do it by seeing that the elements of the art are not neglected in the schools.

"He can do it by organizing groups of people to create objects of beauty, and there are many more groups of this sort than is generally realized."

Beautify the Highways

"Make Missouri Beautiful" wouldn't be entirely satisfactory as a slogan for beautifying the paved highways that now cross the state. Missouri is beautiful, but its roadways might offer opportunity for beautification. Trees may be planted and at many points, flowerbeds laid out. This example should induce thousands of private property owners to beautify their own frontage .- F. H. Collier in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Rich Man Pays

Pity the poor rich man. Rich men's children are sometimes pitied because they are so closely watched by governesses and tutors, but give a thought to father, who is under the stern finger of his public relations counsel. Witness, for instance this story of an American Croesus. who bought a world-famous painting a few years ago. Inasmuch as he intended to bequeath the painting to a museum. the millionaire thought it would be a fine idea if the public were acquainted with the fact that he had bought it. It was a very expensive piece of art. The matter of publicity was passed on to the public relations counsel. who immediately vetoed it. "Times are hard." he told his employ er, "and it won't help public regard for you if it becomes known that you have spent so much money." So the painting remained unheralded for many years, until the present era of prosperity brought the public to its current devil-may-care attitude.

Amazing Golfers

Golf clubs are becoming bitter reactionaries against aviation-I mean clubs whose courses lie near air fields. Nothing will make a man dub a tee shot or foozle hopelessly in the rough so much as a playful plane cavorting not so far above his head. There is a real feud between members of one golf club and the adherents of Roose velt Field No. 1. The pilots, the golfers maintain, find it altogether too easy to land on their fairways, and the tail skid of a plane kicks up more divots than a whole army of duffers. They have been threatening to erect a spite fence. which would force pilots to take off in a direction away from the golf course.

More Fish

The goldfish, they tell me, is coming back in style. A generation ago every house had its aquarium in the parlor and it was usually a very elaborate aquarium. Then goldfish passed from popularity and the parlor aquarium found its way into the junk shop or the trash heap. But now the shiny little fish are in greater demand than ever. Instead of being put on display in the parlor, however, they are put in private outdoor ponds and pools Nearly every suburban home has at least a bird bath set in the lawn, and lily ponds are to be found even in small yards. These places, naturally are fine housekeeping sites for mosquitoes. Goldfish simply dote on mos quito larvae-hence the present demand. There is. I am told, one gold fish for every five persons in the United States

The Ready Answer

As often happens on Broadway, a well-known actor and his frau recently had a battle and he indignantly stamped out of the house, returning about five o'clock in the morning. In the meantime, his wife's temper had not cooled off during his absence. When she examined his summer palm beach suit the next morning she discovered traces of lip stick on it and this kept her at a boiling point throughout the day until his return at dinner time. In fact, it was a hot day and did not serve to cool her off at all. As he came in she said: "Did you know there was lip stick on the suit you wore last night?" To which he replied nonchalantly: "That's easily fixed; send it to the cleaner."

Whereupon there was a loud and violent explosion.

Fidelity

He said: "Darling, I love you." Two weeks passed. And he said: "Darling, isn't love just wonderful? Until I met you I didn't know what real happiness meant."

A month sped by. And he said: "Gosh! If anything should separate us! If anyone should try and take you from me! If I lost you I think 1 should die! That's how I feel about Six months later he said: "Sweetheart, I'm going to be frank with you. I've had little love affairs in the past. Naturally! But you mustn't listen to people when they say I can't stick to a girl. In those days I hadn't met you. That makes all the difference. You're the only girl I've ever really loved!"

All the same, when he did eventually take unto himself a wife she was not one of those four girls.-London Opinion.

Monument to Motherhood to Be Raised by Vets

Kansas City, Kan.-A monument to the motherhood of America is to be erected on the grounds of the V. F. W. National home at Eaton Rapids, Mich., founded four years ago by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, for the care and welfare of the widows and orphans of deceased veterans.

State commanders throughout the country will recommend one man from their respective states to act on a committee charged with the responsibility of gathering the necessary funds and erecting the memorial.

The movement, sponsored by a resolution adopted by the thirtieth national encampment of the V. F. W. held at St. Paul last August, contemplates the erection of "a utilitarian monument bearing the inscription 'To the Motherhood of America."

The contribution of American motherhood, manifesting itself in every human activity, affording stimulus and inspiration to the better causes of civilization, was cited by those supporting the plan as a "vital torce in our American heritage." The project also gives recognition to the "multiple and continuous sacrifices, both in times of war and in times of peace, on the part of the motherhood of America for the most port unhonored and unsung."

Coins Buried for Centuries Ancient relics linking today with the far past are continually being found. Excavations at Caerleon, where King Arthur held court sometimes, in a Roman legionary fortress yielded 300 silver coins dating from 80 to 150 A. D., which were unearthed in the centurion's quarters. They were prob ably left there by a soldier who was ordered to another station, and it is likely that they were placed in a leather bag, of which of course there is no trace. The coins were discov-

New York .- Although Lester Jefferson, Astoria grocer, admitted under cross-examination that he did "think he was going to make counterfeit money," William Kallas, twenty-nine who was charged by Jefferson with grand larceny in a "money machine" confidence game, was held in $10,000 bail for the action of the Queens grand jury

Jefferson testified that on December 2, 1928, Kallas and another man came into his grocery store in Astoria with a machine which they said was able to reproduce any money placed in it. Bills were placed in the machine in front of Jefferson and the original bills and new duplicates came out. Jefferson testified that at the suggestion of the visitors he withdrew $1,150 from the bank and placed it in the machine. The men told him it would take several hours for it to operate with so much money, and it was agreed to leave the box in Jefferson's care overnight. He said that in the morning when the men did not return and the machine did not show any signs of producing money, he forced it open and found it full of clipped newspa

Dog Saves Cat's Life but Earns No Gratitude

Malone, N. Y .- Dogs are not commonly known to befriend cats, yet one instance of such anomaly was witnessed here.

The cat had been missing three days. Its mistress hunted vainly for her, notwithstanding felines are supposed to return of their own will. Finally a state trooper, apprised of the lost pet, observed a dog standing on a rock ledge barking vociferously at an island in Salmon river. Search of the island brought forth the cat, a bit haggard at having been marooned three days, but still able to "spit" at the dog which had unwittingly saved her life.

Missouri "Houn' Dogs" Increasing in Value

Springfield, Mo .- The houn' dog is not a thing of the past. The major portion of coon and fox hounds in the United States are furnished by this section of the country. Each year, prior to the opening of the hunting season, buyers from all over the country come into the Ozarks to purchase hundreds of dogs.

And the value of the "old houn" dawg" has increased until a first-class one is now worth $100.

0000000000000000000000000 Army Truck Operates With Wood for Fuel

San Francisco.—Using a sackful of broken tent poles for fuel, an army truck had demonstrated that it could pull a load of more than 38 tons.

Army officers watching the test of the invention of Col. Jean P. ambert, former French army officer, were astounded by the performance.

The appliance invented by Colonel Imbert was placed in the truck in the place of the gasoline tank. After the container had been filled with wood a torch was applied, and a few minutes later when the truck had been cranked it churged away with the load.

JEALOUSY CAUSES SLAYING OF GIRL

Salesman Tells Story of Crime in Hotel.

Washington.-Dexter Churchill Dayton, a twenty-five-year-old insurance salesman, is under arrest here, having confessed, according to authorities, to strangling Miss Marjorie Lucy O'Donnell, twenty-three, an employee of the National Geographic society, in the Roosevelt hotel. The young man is said to have told police he committed the crime through jealousy of another suitor, heightened by indulgence in

In a voluntary statement to police Dayton said he had repeatedly entreated Miss O'Donnell to promise to marry him, saying he would soon be earning enough money to care for them both, but that sh times refused, indicating that she "might marry another man."

What Dayton did between the time he strangled the girl in a fit of jealous rage, and the hour he called police, apparently is still cloudy in his memory. He is certain they began to quarrel shortly after midnight. At that time, Dayton said, he upbraided the girl for her reluctance to become engaged to him, and she replied by referring to the other man.

Woke Up at Noon. Dayton said in his confession to police that he had been drinking heavily meanwhile, although the girl had taken only a few drinks. He declared that when he became so incensed he could no longer control himself, he seized the girl and they struggled about the room.

"I woke up later that day," Dayton told the police. "It must have been getting on toward noon, because the sunlight was strong outside. Then I began to realize what I had done. The thought was so awful I made up my mind to kill myself, but I found I couldn't get up the nerve." He said he sat for a moment contemplating his pistol then turned it to his temple and pulled the trigger.

"It wouldn't go off," he declared, "although I snapped the hammer on several shells. Then I knew I couldn't kill myself and decided to call in the police. I telephoned for a bell boy; he came in a moment later, and I told him to call to the officers."

Writes Note in Hotel. Dayton declared he started drinking early the day before the murder and went to the hotel about 11 a. m. that same day and registered. He continued drinking during the afternoon, he said, and later met the girl, inviting her to come to his room for drinks before going out to dine.

During the hours between the crime and its discovery Dayton wrote an incoherent three-page note on hotel stationery in which he told of his quarrels with the girl, his love for her, and his determination to commit suicide.

The note said in part:

"I am going to kill my sweetheart and then myself. I know I love her. Without her love I cannot live. We both have deceived and hurt one another. Now that the effect of the liquor is wearing off I shall begin drinking again and get up the Dutch courage to kill myself.

"She cheated on me, I cheated on her; we both cheated on each other."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC. Topic:—Why is Christianity a Missionary Religion? Matthew 28:18-20

Written by-Mrs. C. R. Cluts, near Keysville, Md.

In Matthew the 28th. Chapter we are told that Jesus is supreme in heaven and on earth and that Christ is the world's Saviour. Therefore it is necessary that all shall know this to follow His commands. The true God as the divine father is unknown except where Jesus is proclaimed. Christianity stands for a knowledge of Christ. When Jesus said, Go ye therefore and teach all nations baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always even unto the end of the world, He meant that his followers were to carry on His work and enlarge their field, making it the en-tire world. By this act he made Christianity a missionary enterprise.

Christianity then is really the missionary spirit at work. It hears the call of Jesus Christ and goes forth on any errand, He may bid us perform. It is the spirit that gets things done in the Kingdom of God. It is really the Spirit that conquers the world for Christ. It is the spirit of Christian heroism and it is especially the spirit

Christianity or the missionary spirit is the means by which Christ gets his work done in the world today. Let us consider very carefully whether we have that spirit and whether we are using it to the fullest extent in our Society work and in our lives. It is very plain that the missionary spirit is not yet dwelling fully in the hearts of christians and has not yet been manifested fully in their lives, or the world would have by this time been won for our Master. It is 2,000 years since he died and the world is torn by war and filled with hatred and the majority of mankind live in ignorance of the way of life and are weak instead, of strong.

Christianity is a missionary religion because Christ made it so. When the members of a family are scattered the father can not be content until he has found them and brought them home. So it is with religion, we must not let one stone unturned until the gospel is carried to the four corners of the earth and all souls are won for Christ.

Christianity will cease to be a religion when men have no vision of the world's need. When we look over the world and note the millions upon the world and note the millions upon millions of men who are walking in darkness living unhappy lives, we see how vast is the possible harvest for the Saviour. There is really no end to the good that christians may do, and should be doing. There are more missionaries today than ever before, but still they are sadly few. There are not enough missionaries even to preach a single sermon to all that do preach a single sermon to all that do not know Jesus Christ, to say nothing of actually leading them to their Saviour one by one. Is it nothing to you, all ye that pass by? Sam. 1:12.

Is it nothing to you, O ye Christians, That millions of beings today, In the heathen darkness of China

Are rapidly passing away? They have never heard the story Of the loving Lord who saves, And "fourteen hundred every hour Are sinking to Christless graves." In it nothing to you, O ye Christians? Can you say you have naught to do? Millions in China are dying unsaved;

And is it nothing to you? That in India's far away land There are thousands of people plead-

For the touch of a Saviour's hand? They are groping and trying to find Him; And athough he is ready to save Eight hundred precious souls each Sink into a Christless grave.

Is it nothing to you, O ye Christians?
Can you say you have naught to do?
'paresun suifp eipul ui suoillim

And is it nothing to you' Is it n thing to you. O ye Christians? O answer me this today! The heathen are looking to you; You can give or go or pray

You can some your souls from blood guiltiness For in lands you never trod. The heathen are dying every day,
And dying without God,
Is it nothing to you, 0 ye Christians?

Dare ye say ye have naught to do? All over the earth they wait for the And is it nothing to you?

Chewing Gum Delays Reds' View of "Chicago"

Moscow.-The American stage success "Chicago" is scheduled for early production this season by the Moscow Art theater, where it is now being rehearsed.

Russian actors meet curious obstacles in following the stage directions of this play. They were greatly prozzled by instructions to one of the characters to light a match on his trousers. Experiments showed that it could not be done with Russian matches and arrangements are being made for importing a few boxes of the American variety.

The Art theater directors were also amazed by the amount of chewing gum which figures in the stage directions, and that item, too, will be imported.

FIND OLD WALLS OF ROMAN TIMES

Rich Discovery Made by German Archeologists.

Berlin.—The foundation of a wall, consisting almost wholly of sculptured stones of the imperial Roman period, is the astonishing spoil of the spades of German archeologists working in the neighborhood of the town of Alzey in the Rhine country. Seeking for traces of a medieval church, they came upon the remains of a much older building, about sixteen yards square, which dates back to the days when the legions still occupied the parts of Germany that bordered upon Gaul.

The construction of the foundation was of a most unusual type of masonry. The stones consisted largely of sculptured fragments of ancient pagan shrines and temples, including among others, nine altars, twenty-five pieces of pillars, four stones with inscriptions, six broken statues and reliefs. and six blocks with images of gods on all four sides. The structure suggests that it was the work of builders who not only disbelieved in the old gods but were actually hostile to them and wished to show their contempt for them; therefore possibly of early Christian date.

An examination of the sculptures and inscriptions shows that here, as elsewhere in southern Germany, the pre-Christian populace of mixed Germans, Romans and Gauls identified local gods with deities of the Roman pantheon. Apollo was linked with Grannus, a Celtic divinity, and the Roman Vulcan with the Celtic Cerun-

Jupiter is shown with a nine-spoked wheel, and the wheel is not a Roman emblem, but a German, being a figure of the sun.

Wind Sways Skyscrapers steel buildings cause the structures to sway and vibrate, tests have shown. According to reports, two of the tallest buildings in New York city bend as much as six inches at the top of their towers, three inches in either direction from the neutral fixed position, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Designers of a tall building soon to be built in Chicago allowed for a sway of two inches in either direction.

Mongoose Problem on

Whimert, Anamary

Witherow, J. W. Zent, H. C.

Island of Porto Rico

The people of Porto Rico are having a problem as to how to get rid of mongooses. Not so long ago boa-constrictors thrived there, interfering greatly with the work of the coffee and sugar plantations. They also killed men and beasts. Even the natives hesitated to venture into the forests. So a shipment of mongooses was obtained from Asia. Because of their fecundity only males were procured. These went about their business very thoroughly and systematically. In a few years they had cleared the island of most of the boa-constrictors But they crossed with native rats and have multiplied to such an extent that they are devastating crops How to get rid of them is a serious problem. When a mongoose meets a boa-constrictor it takes up a position directly in front of it and apparently makes up faces. The snake, in its ignorance, thinking it is going to have an extra large rat for dinner, immediately throws out its poison. The mongoose, anticipating this, sidesteps. When the enraged serpent has emptied its poison sac the killer sits on the snake's head, obtaining a firm hold with its teeth. The frenzied serpent makes a terrific struggle, but in the end bas to give up, exhausted.

Given English Meaning,

Names Lose Sonority Foreign names of musicians and composers always seem to be somewhat imposing and sonorous. When they are Anglicized they appear to lose much of their dignity, and become quite commonplace. Giuseppe Verdi becomes in English, Joseph Green. Wagner becomes Cartwright. Bach becomes Brook, and Weber, Weaver. Some names are less common when translated, and while Strauss, or Straus, is one of the Strong gusts of wind against tall commonest names in Germany, its translation is Nosegay, which is quite unknown here. Handel means trade or commerce; Haydn, heather; and Himmel, heaven; Loewe is lion; Cherubini, a little cherub: Rossini, the small red one; Schumann. shoe man, presumably the cobbler; Schonberg, beautiful mountain; Tito Mattei was simply Timothy Matthews, or he would have been so had he been an Englishman with an English name.

Matters of Memory

I have a friend who prides himself on a certain quirk in memory which enables him to remember telephone numbers. He can remember any person's telephone number, when he has heard it once. And this is not idle boasting on his part, as I have seen him demonstrate his ability many

The other day I dropped in at a store with him while he bought a new

"What size?" asked the clerk. "I don't know," replied my infallible friend. "Seven, or seven and oneeighth, or seven and one-quarter Somewhere around there."

Sure Fire

In the old days of vaudeville, a lagging act was spurred on by the cry: "Go into your dance!" It meant that a comedian's lines weren't getting over very well, and a dance was a sure-fire way of getting out of difficulty. Nowadays, when whole choruses do more difficult steps than the highly paid specialty dancers of former days. some other life-saver must be found.

As a matter of fact, two life-savers have been found. One is for the performer to interrupt whatever he is doing, fall on one knee and yowl "Sonny Boy-y-y!" It never fails to bring down the house.

The other method is to speak Yiddish. Somehow, New York vaudeville audiences rock with laughter at hearing that ancient and honorable tongue. and it is employed every week at the Palace.

The other day Lou Holtz flung out a phrase or two. Nearly everybody laughed. Then, so that the others might laugh too, he stepped to the edge of the orchestra pit and said:

"For the benefit of the four or five people from out of town, I will explain what I said. I said 'I'll take the same.' You paid your money to get in here, and you're entitled to know all that's going on."

* * * The Big Kick

There are all sorts of practical jokers, but the latest one I heard of is the man who somewhere bought an explosive golf ball. He started out for a round with a friend. The friend teed up an old ball. The practical joker said:

"You can't play with me with a ball that old. Take this new one." When the clubhead met the ball there was a loud explosion. That is supposed to be the big kick in the joke. It meant two extra rounds at the nineteenth hole.

A Sick Man

Douglas Fairbanks the energetic moving picture star, has always been an outstanding pattern of pep even when he was supposed to be sick. Years ago, before he entered the movies, he was in the Lamb's clut one day and was asked to appear in a benefit. He complained that he could not undertake to do it because he felt rotten and was going home to bed. On the way out of vaulted over a piano. If it had been one of his good days, he probably would have vaulted right over the first floor of the Lamb's club.

Pure Luck

Sometimes I have a suspicion that our great financial geniuses are not so smart, after all. It is a great com fort to think that millionaires are not wizards, but simply lucky. Such a re lief permits me to think that I, too may some day make a killing in Wal street.

One of the most satisfying anecdotes concerns a financial genius who tele phoned his broker to buy 2,000 share of something or other. The order was executed immediately. Ten minute later the financial genius again tele phoned his broker, and he was, to say the least, distracted.

"I've made a ghastly mistake," he quavered. "Something or Other is no the stock I intended to buy. I don' care where it is now. Sell it at the

This order, too, was executed on the spot. Twenty minutes after the brokerage firm had started buying Some thing or Other for its customers, al of that stock had again been sold.

The net profit was $12,000. This particular stock had long remained quiet, and when all the stock gamblers saw an order for 2,000 shares placed they figured that something was about to happen. So many of them put in additional orders, and the stock went up.

Mince Meat Is Not For Pies Alone

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON Director, Home Economics Dept., H. J. Heinz Company

M INCE meat pie is a tradi-tional winter holiday delicacy. But has it ever occurred to you that mince meat is suited to a wide variety of uses other than this time honored one? Busy housewives will be glad to learn that many pleasing cakes, cookies and pastries may be made quickly with it, for good mince meat is a combination of choice preserved fruits and finest spices ready to use without further prep-

A perfectly spiced, rich fruit cake which will keep indefinitely is one of the most delicious things made from mince meat. This can be made merely by adding a few simple ingredients to pure mince meat before baking, instead of mince meat before baking, instead of mince meat Turn better over assembling and preparing all the fruits and spices ordinarily needed for a good fruit cake.

Mince Meat Fruit Cake—to a onepound can of pure mince meat add: 1 cup nut meats; % pound raisins; 1 teaspoon vanilla; ½ cup melted butter; 1 cup sugar; 2 egg yolks; 2 cups flour; 1 teaspoonful baking soda dissolved in 1 tablespoon boiling water; 2 stiffly beaten egg whites.

Mince Meat Tarts—2 cups flour; 4 teaspoons baking powder: 1 teaspoon salt;
3 tablespoons lard or butter; ½ cup milk and water in equal parts; 1 pound can or jar of mince meat.

Mix dry ingredients and sift twice. Work in fat with tips of fingers and then add the liquid

Similarly, drop cookies made from mince meat are fruity, spicy, and altogether delicious. They are particularly fine for packed lunches, for they keep moist and fresh almost indefinitely.

Mince Meat Drops— 14 cup butter; 14 cup sugar; 1 egg; 1 cup mince meat; 114 cups flour; 214 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream butter and add sugar, beaten egg, mince meat, and flour and baking powder which have been sifted together. Drop by teaspoons on a buttered bear of the year! It is—

CALLING IT "CLARET"

IT IS true that claret is the name of a red Bordeaux wine, that it is frequently applied to other red wines and that no wine that is not red could be called claret. Yet the popular assumption that there is some connection between the name "Claret" and the color of the wine is incor-

We have "Claret" from the French "clair" which goes back to the Latin | friend's unfortunate position. "Clarus" meaning simply "clear." The significance of the term is comprehensible to those who have attempted the feat of homemade wine which is very difficult to make clear and which after straining and restraining, still leaves some cloudiness.

Research has not made entirely clear why the word should so definitely name a red wine. First wines. however, were red and the presumption is that it was early in the development of the wine industry, that the word which was to distinguish wine which had been refined of cloudiness and impurities from the coarser kind happened to be applied to a red wine. And this it has named ever since.

HUNCHBACKS

THE hunchback superstition is exreedingly prevalent in Europe and is as far as a loyal and discreet friend cently. America, especially among those with can go. a liking for "taking chances." Touch a hunchback and you can "play the ponies" or "buck the tiger," assured the affairs of a friend, it is a crime. of success. Anyone who has visited Monte Carlo, or a race track when horseracing was in flower in New York state, can give you information on this point. When Paris went crazy over Law's Mississippi Scheme a hunchback amassed a comfortable fortune by allowing speculators to use his back as a writing desk on which to make out their applications for stock.

But the gamblers of yesterday and today did not invent the hunchback superstition. They inherited it from the days when the mysteries of the Egyptian god Bes were celebrated by the Nile. Large numbers of the statuettes of the hunchback god are in existence and the modern "Gobbo," so popular as a charm in southern Europe, is but a copy of these ancient statuettes of Bes. Bes was a malignant god and was generally represented with Horus when Horus typified death.

Wearing an image of Bes as a charm or touching a human being made in his likeness is but an idea based on the principle of the old saying, "Always take your hat off to the devil." By the charm, or the touch, you proclaim yourself one of Bes' votaries; his malignity is disarmed and he gives you his aid in return for your devotion. The hunchback superstition then is a survival of the cult of Bes: a modified form of devil worship: an attempt to propitiate, and to control to one's own use, the powers of evil by a display of allegiance. ## CROOK MAKES PLEA FOR HIS SWEETIE

Effort Secures Light Sentence for Girl.

Boston, Mass.-A notorious crook lescribed by police as the killer type and a menace to the community cently stepped out of his character long enough to thrill a crowded court room with a plea f his sweethear! awaiting sentence with him.

He made his plea before Judge Frederick W. Fosdick, who asked him it he had anything to say before being sentenced, and asked nothing in his own behalf. Then he heard, without flinching, the court order him to state's prison for 18 to 30 years at hard labor, but smiled gratefully when the woman for whom he made the plea was let off with a light sentence.

Keeps Eyes on Judge. The crook was George L. Brooks. alias LeRoy Cook, of Bradley Beach. N. J., arrested last July after attempt ing to kill Patrolman Archie T. O'Connell of the Winchester police, who caught him robbing a house in Winchester. His sweetheart was Blanche A. Cote, thirty-five, of Worcester and Revere, who "picked up" with Brooks ollowing a dance hall flirtation, and who, Brooks told the court in his plea never knew that he was a crook or a gunman until the day he attempted to kill the Winchester policeman who caught him.

Brooks made his plea from the prisoner's cage in the courtroom. He stood up to deliver it, and throughout kept his eyes fixed on Judge Fosdick. Not once did he let his eyes wander to his right, where the girl, under guard, sat, pale faced and as though n a daze. Only after the court had pronounced sentence on both and had allowed the woman to get off with an indeterminate sentence at Sherborn. equivalent to 14 months, did he turn his gaze upon her, and then only for second, the grateful smile on his face conveying to her better than words how he felt toward her.

Nothing for Self. "Have you anything to say to the court before sentence is passed? Brooks was asked by the court, after the calling of his name and that of Blanche Cote brought a sudden silence n the courtroom.

The question brought Brooks to ais feet at once. A good looking youth. tall and slim, he faced Judge Fosdick and without glancing to either side negan his plea.

"Nothing about myself," he began. and hesitated before going on. "But I feel I should say a little bit about ner." he continued, moving his head slightly in the direction of where the girl sat. "She never knew what I was in volved in or that I was engaged in any crooked work whatsoever I had considerable money when I met her and I told her I was in business in Miami and that the clothing that I brought home was my dead wife's Some women are not alive to the, clothing. The pair were not permitted to talk to each other as they were being re moved from the building, but sympa thetic guards allowed Brooks to pass close enough to the girl, on the way out, to whisper so that she could hear him, "Good-by, Blanche." Both began their sentences at once.

If the woman behaves she will be eligible for a parole from Sherborn in a little over a year.

ommunity

Traffic Arteries Must Be Planned With Care

Teaching a community how to grow is one of the businesses that has evolved from this machine age, and towns and cities are no longer as selfcontained as they were, their prosperity and development depending to a large degree on the prosperity of an entire area.

This has brought about the widespread application of city planning and its big brother, regional planning. Governmental agencies authorized or qualified to do the work for a city and its environs rarely exist. Whatever is to be accomplished must come through the activities of the citizens themselves, who can be most effective through the medium of the city or regional planning body. Of all the problems that the community of today has to face that of the automobile and its attendant demands is of most concern. The travel fluidity of the car has caused the suburb and outlying districts to blossom. Adequate traffic arteries must be built and certainly there must be some directing agency to see that they are built where there is the most need.

In days gone by cities and towns grew without intelligent direction. Streets for the most part were confined to that age-old four-rod width. Without proper guidance growing communities will find themselves still laying out the same old narrow routes which became inadequate about the time blacksmiths began giving up the anvil for automobile tools.

Tree-Shaded Highways Add to Property Value

It is time to consider systematic tree beautification of our highways, many of which are unsightly. In Europe the highways are a delight to the tourist. particularly to the American, who marvels at those wonderful tree-lined roads, says the New York state college of forestry at Syracuse university.

Except for a few memorials and places where civic organizations have planted trees, and where the private owner has taken a pride in the appearance of his property, no organized planting on our modern state roads has been done. Since the advent of automobile highways, roadside planting seems to have been forgotten at a time it is most needed.

No state at present is setting out avenues of trees on its highways. Our modern highways might very appropriately be embellished by avenues of elms or maples and in some places by what is known as the group-planting system. The expense of this work would be partially offset by the increased values of abutting property owners, by esthetic improvements, by less pavement maintenance and a slower deterioration of automobile equipment.

Make Town's Opportunity

Never in the history of this country has your town had the opportunities that it has today. Big business is looking to the smaller city as it never has before. The town or city that prepares itself for big things will greatly profit, and every individual citizen will be benefitted-but the town must be ready. The way to be ready is to be at work (building up the morale, aggressiveness, customer attitude and salesmanship ability of the "clerks"-citizens-of the community), not by erection of monuments or idle talk on "town boosting" -but by constructive thinking to do something, get something, achieve something-to climb out of the rut, to have a city that is the best in the land in which to live, work, play and make money-to have a city which has eliminated the "oppressive ugliness" of dormant, inactive civic pride.-Anderson (Ind.) Herald.

Trees Wantonly Injured

With 35,000 trees along its boulevards, 100,000 along streets not under control of the park board and many thousands more in yards and in parks, Kansas City truly is a "city of trees," according to J. W. Blachly, forester for the park department.

In a report, Mr. Blachly points out 90 per cent of the trees killed along the boulevard system each year are lost because of carelessness of motorists. He estimates between 300 and 400 trees each year are killed because of being injured by motor cars or

Mr. Blachly points out when a tree is killed it must be replaced by a similar kind as near the same size as possible. Replacing a tree costs from three to fifty times as much as the original planting.

In these days of dawning multi-colored buildings when the newest color card for roofs includes such a multiplicity of shades as antique brown, gray green, dusk blue, weathered brown, heather purple, tile red, jade green and black pearl, opal and multicrome, an authoritative color harmony chart is as necessary in the building world as in the dressmaking world.

"When the cricket on the hearth goes 'chirp, chirp, chirp'" it has a romantic sound about it, but one is too easily led to slide over the important word in this refrain from an old song, the "the." Taken in large numbers the cricket is not only a pest in the house but out in the fields a downright destructive menace, says the Washington Star. In the Imperial valley of California crickets have been known to go so far as completely to wipe out a field of cotton, while in many cases only & stand of 10 per cent of the planting has matured. Replanting is frequently necessary, where the crickets are plentiful, and their diet is by no means limited to cotton. Give a cricket most any tender, green foliage, tender stem or other succulent vegetable matter. and he will accept of your hospitality without even waiting to be bidden.

If you like him as a soloist and consider the chirping of a cricket as a sign of good luck, be sure that it is the fact that it is a cricket that makes the performance pleasing. In full chorus assembled, they set up a din that transforms a quiet hearth to a madhouse of noise.

Early Church Literally

Made House of Refuge Days when the church was a refuge in time of danger from the foes of the flesh, rather than a spiritual sanctuary, are recalled by Dr. William Norman Guthrie in an article in the Churchman:

"The invasion of the barbarians in Spain and France," he writes, "broke the tradition for western Europe. The church was not, from the Eighth to the Twelfth century, a judgment hall of Christ, but rather a stronghold and a communal mart and assembly, and lastly a sanctuary for those who fled from what passed for feudal justice. The stern, dark Carolingian church still surviving at the core of Mont St. Mihiel was never meant for a pleasant, festive assembly place. If for worship and mystic salvation, it was primarily for bodily safety. Its massive walls, its stout barrel vault, bespeak the refuge in time of danger."-Detroit News.

The game basket ball was invented and developed by Dr. James Naismith, for many years athletic director of the University of Kansas. In 1891, when he was an assistant athletic director at Springfield, Mass., it was suggested to Doctor Naismith that there should be a game suitable for the indoor development of athletes who had played football all fall. Basket ball was the result and by 1893 there was a book of rules and competition was being developed.

Invented Acoustic Tiles The late Emile Berliner was the inventor of the "acoustic cement cell." Mr. Berliner had studied hall acoustics for years He observed that an auditorium that has wooden walls has superior acoustics, while the cause of bad acoustics frequently is the rigidity of walls. GOLDEN TEXT-Honor thy father and thy mother.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Pleasing God in Our Home.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Pleasing God in INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—Living as Christians at Home.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC—The Christian Home: Its Helps and Hindrances.

Instead of at exposition of the printed text, as suggested by the lesson committee, it will be better to make a synthetic study of the salient points of the several reference texts proposed by the committee.

I. The Makers of the Home (Matt. 19:3-9)

The home is a divine institution. Its makers are the man and the woman joined together in holy wedlock. according to God's primary law-one man for one woman and one woman for one man.

1. The union is so vital that God declared the man and the woman to be one flesh (Gen. 2:24).

2. Divorce was not in God's thought for man (v. 6).

It was only permitted because of sin (v. 8). Divorce has the disapproval of God and right thinking men and women.

3. Fornication the one and only ground for divorce (v. 9). Laxness of the divorce laws causes the Christian to hang his head in shame

H. The Ideal Child (Luke 2:40-52) Marriage has as its primary purpose the propagation of the race. ('hildren are to be desired and expected. Christ stands as the ideal child in the home.

1. His central interest (v. 49) "My father's business." Being conscious of His Mission He entered the temple to inquire into the meaning of the ordinances of God's house.

2. His obedience (v. 51). Though fully conscious of His divine being and mission, He went down to Nazareth and lived a life of filial obedience. 3. His development (v. 52).

(1). Bodily-"Increased in stature." His body became strong. A strong. healthy body is the inalienable right of every child, and parents are obligated to provide food and raiment such as to preserve their health

(2) Mental-"Increased in wis dom." As a normal human being, his mental powers developed.

(3) Spiritual-"The grace of God was upon him," and He increased in favor with God and man. How beautiful is the picture of the symmetrical development of the Savior of men.

III. The Place of God's Word in

The home has a vital teaching function. The child develops slowly; remains in the home for a long time to give an opportunity to be taught the things of God.

1. The central truth to be taught (vv. 4, 5).

This is twofold. The unity of God (v. 4) and man's supreme obligation to God (v. 5). 2. How the truth was to be kept alive (vv. 6-9). (1) It was to be diligently taugist to the children (v. 7).

(2) It was to be talked of every where and under all circumstances (3) It was to be bound upon the hand and placed as trontlets between

(4) It was to be written upon the posts of the houses (v. 9).

the eves (v 8).

IV. The Early Training of the Child (II Tim. 1:3-5; 3:14, 15).

Timothy was taught the Scriptures from his childhood by a godiy mother and grandmother. The Holy Spirit uses the Word of God in the salvation of children as well as adults.

V. Christ a Guest in the Home (Luke 24:28-32)

At the urgent invitation of certain disciples. Christ tarried in their home and sat at meat with them ('hrist i will come into the home and bless those who sincerely invite Him VI. Mutual Relation of the Mem bers of the Home (Eph. 6:1-9) Each member has certain rights and privileges which must be respected. Children are to obey and honor their parents. Parents are not to provoke their children to wrath. but to bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord Servants are to be obedient to their masters and to render service as unto the Lord Masters are to show consideration to their servants, since they themselves are servants to the heavenly Master

Faith

When we are confronted by misery which needs relief, suffering which re quires sympathy, folly which should be reproved, ignorance waiting for counsel, sin pleading forgiveness, the true prayer is, "Lord, increase our faith." Nothing is impossible to faith

A Daily Thought

I say to you truly, the heart of him who loves is a paradise on earth; he has God in himself, for God is love .-Lamennais

Well for Youngsters to Learn to Stand Alone The best thing that can happen to any young person, after receiving sufficient education and technical training. is to be away from home and to stand alone on his or her own feet. Only in this way can young people be sure that they can handle the affairs of life successfully. Not only do they develop a sense of thrift, but with this new-found independence they also come into contact with people, and must learn to make decisions, to use their own judgment, to lessen their errors by learning from previous ones. And, everything being equal, they learn something of understanding and tolerance and sympathy, so much needed today and always. They learn teamwork and co-operation, to take orders and to give them. They learn the joy of labor and the satisfaction of independence.—Rachel Neiswender in the Household Magazine.

Huge Gull Battles Man

While driving a mail truck near Kirkwall, Scotland, recently, James Greig was attacked by a huge seaguli. He disturbed the bird while it was devouring a hare in the road. The gull flew on his shoulder and pecked him in the face, and Greig had difficulty in steering the car and warding off the enraged bird which tried to strike his eyes, as gulls do in killing sheep. After a lengthy struggle Greig knocked the gull to the floor, where he held it until he could stop the truck. He then killed it. It measured 5 feet 4 inches from wing to Abraham Lincoln married a woman named Todd, and was once asked how members of the Todd family spelled their name. "With two ds." he replied, "God was satisfied with one. but the Todds insisted on two.". The men themselves were hid and inaccessible, solitary, impatient of interrup ion, fenced by etiquette; but the thought which they did not uncover to their bosom friend is here written out in transparent words to us, the strangers of another age.-Emerson, in "Books."

France's "Unknown Soldier"

The French embassy gives the following information concerning the French Unknown Soldier: "Seven unidentified bodies were raised from as many sectors of the war front and placed in new caskets similar in every respect. Those seven similar caskets were brought nightly to the cellars in Verdun's citadel. There a French war-blind soldier was directed to choose one of the exposed caskets. The six remaining bodies were subsequently inhumed without any marks."

Order of Golden Rose

One of the rarest orders in the world is that of the Golden Rose in the gift of the pope. A decoration dating from the Twelfth century, and reserved for persons of exalted rank, it comprises a single rose of gold, colored red, and set with pearls and rubies," and is of high intrinsic as well as sentimental value. In pre-Reformation days it was conferred on several British sovereigns-Henry VIII. oddly enough, received it twice.

Why We Do

Dear Editor:

Since was a kid, I have always liked to see the wheels go round. I've watched a big factory roll liver pills. I've seen various factories, soap plants, match works, golf ball foundries and razor blade clinics.

Machines can do most everything I'm waiting now for a machine to manicure nails.

Watching a girl manicurist today l was impressed with the number of wasted strokes. At least 90 per cent of her motions, I estimate, were unproductive. What a field for scientific management!

But any man who pays $1 for be ing fussed over probably wants those extra flourishes and hand pats. It's a good racket, and those who prefer can always snip their own with the desk shears.

************* HOW MUCH ARE YOU WORTH?

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH άσοσοσοσοσοσοσοσοσο

HOW much are you worth? It is not how much You own that will tell your worth, But what you will do to the lives you touch, The mark you will leave on earth. You may be worth many miles of land, Yet what is the honest truth? If you never have given a boy a hand, Then what are you worth to youth?

How much are you worth?-not in golden sums, The sums that your books reveal.

A new dawn breaks, and a new day comes, And men have a new ideal. You may drink your drink from a silver cup. But what is your fortune then? If you never have lifted a brother up, Then what are you worth to men?

How much are you worth?-not in things you own,

But worth in a larger way? Do you stand apart, do you dwell alone.

Serve only yourself each day? The time will come when your time is through,

A time you must lay you down, If you left each task for the rest to do, Then what were you worth to the town?

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

SOMETIME when ideas are not very plentiful try the following dish for luncheon:

Corn and Tomato Chowder.

Place two cupfuls of canned corn. one cupful of canned tomatoes, one cupful of diced celery, and one teaspoonful of salt, in a saucepan. Cover with a quart of cold water and simmer gently for one-half hour. In another saucepan, melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add three tablespoonfuls of flour and cook to a smooth paste. Add one and one-half cupfuls of milk, while stirring constantly. When smooth add the vegetable mixture a little at a time and season to taste. Add one-half cupful of grated cheese and one green pepper finely chopped. Stir until the cheese is melted and serve piping hot.

Pumpkin Pie.

Take three-fourths of a cupful of pumpkin sifted, the same of sugar, one and one-half cupfuls of milk and one-half cupiul of cream, two eggs. one teaspoonful of ginger, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-eighth teaspoonful of salt. Beat the yolks of the eggs, add the sugar, salt, milk and spices. Add the pumpkin and cream, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs and turn into a pastry lined plate. Bake slowly after the first ten minutes to bake the Alsation Pancakes.

Make a batter of one-half cupfuls of milk, three beaten egg yolks, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, one cupful of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder and after beating well add another half cupful of milk, the stiffly beaten whites, more flour or milk to make the batter just right. Grease a frying pan well on the bottom and sides, pour in the batter, so that it reaches all sides. When cooked on the bottom place in a hot oven to brown the top. Dredge with powdered sugar and squeeze over it some lemon juice. Break the puffed center. add more sugar and lemon juice and fold over like an omelet. Cut into three or four strips and serve with coffee as a dessert.

Italian Rooster Must

Not Disturb Neighbors Italians love their sleep and woe be to any one or anything which tends to disturb it. Because of the determination of authorities to preserve quiet during the hours of slumber, even the most time-honored of natural alarm clocks, the rooster, has been put onto the blacklist in several communities. Recently in the commune of Volosca-Abbazia, in the neighborhood of Fiume, a storm of protest was raised because an amateur poultry raiser insisted upon keeping a loud-winded male among his flock of hens, contrary to the local laws. The police lost no time in calling upon the lawbreaker, and a public execution of the miscreant (the rooster) was held. Now the citizens of the community are able to sleep antil their normal hours of rising, albeit the local chicken keepers find their business less profitable than might be if they were able to sell eggs. Apparently there is no law preventing a person from keeping hens on the premises, simply because a hen cannot crow.

Working Way Through

College No New Thing The practice of earning one's way through college is just about as old in America as are colleges themselves. Some one who has been poring over Harvard college records has discovered that Zachariah Bridgen, who entered as freshman in 1657, when but fourteen years old, earned his way, at least in part, by "ringinge the bell and waytinge."

The bureau of education at Washington refers to this as the first instance on record of a student working his way; but Harvard was twentyone years old when Bridgen entered. and as students were not, as a rule, wealthy in those days, the chances are altogether in favor of the presumption that in every one of those twenty-one years there were students working to pay their way, whether the work was done for the college itself, as in Bridgen's case, or for some private employer.

His Staunch Belief

Rev. Cole Black, negro minister of Muddy Waters, La., was baptizing his converts in the river. Clepsydra Melonwater was among them. As Reverand Black was bringing Clepsydra out of the water he asked:

"Does yo' believe?"

"No, sah." replied Clepsydra. Reverend Black scowled. Clepsydra was ducked again and the minister asked: "Now, does yo' believe?"

"Yes, sah, Ah surely does," replied the gasping Clepsydra.

"Tell de people what yo' believe," directed the good man. "Well," Clepsydra addressed the crowd, "Ah believe de ol' son-o'-a-gun was tryin' to drown me."-Capper's

How Common Expression

"Habo" Came Into Being The origin of the word "hobo" is an etymological mystery, for its presence has never been satisfactorily accounted for. There are various suggestions, but the most likely seem to be that it is a corruption of "Hello, boy," a form of greeting among the human roadsters. The word first came into use about the year 1890. The following explanation has been offered by a man who was working on the Oregon Short Line railroad in the 1880's. The mail carriers on the Oregon Short Line used the call, "Ho, boy!" when they were delivering the mail. Gradually these men came to be called "Hoboys." Then those who traveled along the tracks, not carrying mail, came to be so called. In its final stage of development the "y" was dropped and the word used indiscriminately to designate vagrants. Even the meaning of "hobo" is the subject time and less of poverty and hardship. How to Make Solid Alcohol of controversy. The term seems to connote more of romance and good

Solid alcohol is nothing but a soapy mass formed from about 20 per cent of water, 20 per cent of soap (sodium stearate) and 60 per cent or more of alcohol. It burns like liquid alcohol, but leaves a residue. A richer product can be prepared by heating and stirring 100 parts of 96 per cent alcohol at 60 degrees, dissolving 1 part of stearine and adding 0.5 part of a 30 per cent aqueous sodium hydroxide solution; just sufficient to make it redden phenolphthalein. Some use a sodium soap charged with silicate (500 per cent). A solid alcohol that burns without leaving a residue can be obtained by dissolving 20 to 40 parts of collodion in 100 parts of alcohol; others add instead 25 parts of a 25 per cent solution of cellulose acetate in acetic acid, and shake, the crust of solid alcohol which separates being squeezed out.

Contrasting Inaugurations

Franklin Pierce, who took office in 1853, is said to have been the first President to deliver his inaugural address without notes. His voice was remarkably clear and he roused great enthusiasm by his handsome appearance, dignified bearing and unusual powers of oratory.

Jackson, whose induction into high office in 1829 was attended by some of the wildest scenes in inaugurationday history, delivered an inaugural that stands as one of the briefest on record. It took him only a few minutes to rend it.

CHRISTMAS GREENS.

Every year as the Christmas season rolls around the Department of Forestry calls attention to the van-dalism that is caused by thoughtless malicious people gathering Christmas greens.

The thoughtless ones do not realize that it is someone's else property they are taking when they break off holly branches or cut down Christmas trees. Common decency demands that one should ask the owner's permission to take a few branches or a small tree.

The malicious thief, of course, regards no one's feeling nor does he observe decency.

The law against this promiscuous pilfering is very explicit and is found in Chapter 179 Acts of 1928. This law states that no one may remove, take, cut, break, injure, or destroy any tree or shrub from the property of another without the written consent of the owner or under his personal direction; any violation is pun-ishable by a fine of not less than five dollars or imprisonment for not less than thirty days or both

This law is not part of the forestry code, and therefore, the warden cannot make an arrest without warrant, but they can be very helpful in breaking up this practice by getting the number of any machine whose occupants are gathering the trees and notifying the owner of the property of the depredation.

The State Department of Forestry has some posters calling attention to this law which it will gladly distribute upon request.
