

PROCEEDINGS OF BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Interesting Items Concerning Carroll County Schools.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was called to order in the office of the Board Wednesday, February 5, 1930, at 10:00 A. M. All members were present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were approved as read. The list of bills presented to the Board, paid and unpaid, were approved and ordered paid.

The following schools have raised the indicated sums of money for equipment in the school: Oakland Mills, $20.00; Frizellburg, $12.00; Bachman's, $12.80; Bish, $14.36; Mayberry, $10; Ebvalle, $10.00; Warburg, $14.58; Miller, $10.15; Morgan Run, $10.47; Snyderburg, $15.94; Lineboro, $16.00; Alesia, $17.60; Brown, $16.00; Pleasant Valley, $15.00; Taneytown, $807.

They were each granted the usual sum of $10.00 toward this equipment, except Taneytown, which according to the general rule, having raised over $100.00 received 10% of the amount raised. Superintendent Unger was authorized to notify the teachers that, hereafter no more requests would be granted for the remainder of this year.

A letter was read from the attorney to the County Commissioners of Carroll County quoting an alleged resolution referring to the $10,000 warrant, signed by the Board of Education, to meet the deficiency of $10,000.00 equalization fund received from the state for the year 1928-29. According to this resolution the Board of Education was to refund the $10,000.00 if it received all or part of the aforesaid equalization. Superintendent Unger was authorized to notify the Attorney that no part of this Equalization has been paid to the Board of Education by the State.

A delegation of citizens from Union Bridge came before the Board with authority from their community to make a formal request of the Board to build a new building at Union Bridge. The Board took the question under consideration and authorized the amount of $50,000.00 to be put in the budget for Union Bridge, and a like sum for Sykesville.

A request was received from Clarence A. Fishpaw, a boy of Baltimore Co., requesting that because of financial difficulties his name be removed from the tuition list. This letter was accompanied by a letter from Mr. C. L. Yowell, Principal of the Hampstead High School, stating that the information in the Fishpaw letter is correct, and that he is a worthy boy. The Board authorized this to be done.

A report was made on the Bus Insurance Plan. Carroll county, however, cannot take out this type of insurance since the Board of Education does not own the busses, and since the Board of County Commissioners does not provide funds for the insurance of children on busses in Carroll county.

Superintendent Unger was authorized to notify Francis Hunter that unless he improves his equipment within the next thirty days his contract must be discontinued.

A request was received from Wm. A. Engle, of Taylorsville, to purchase the Taylorsville school. The Board expressed its unwillingness to sell any buildings at this time and laid the request on the table.

NEWSPAPER MAN DEAD.

Harold Haxen Gough, extremely well known and liked by the entire Mount Airy community, where he had recently organized Mt. Airy's new newspaper, the "Community Reporter," died at the Washington Sanatorium, Takoma Park, Md., where he had been taken only a short while before. Death was caused by peritonitis, which resulted after an operation for acute appendicitis had been performed. Several blood transfusions were given Mr. Gough in an effort to save life, but all to no avail.

Mr. Gough, who had not been in his usual health prior to his sudden sickness, was taken quite ill Wednesday night, January 29, and was removed to his home at Washington, D. C., on Thursday morning. The operation was performed Friday and little hope was held for his recovery after the operation. He is survived by his parents, grandmother and one brother, all of Washington. Short funeral services were held in Washington on Sunday afternoon, after which the family left with the body for Boonville, Ind.—Sykesville Herald.

A COMMUNITY MEETING.

Rev. J. C. Bloomfield, D. D., President of the General Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church will address a community meeting on "The Lord's Day: Vital Alike to Home, Church and State" in the Westminster Methodist Protestant Church, at 7:30 P. M., Sunday, February 23, 1930.

Rev. Dr. Hayes and the Centenary Methodist Episcopal congregation have already expressed their intention of uniting in this service. Letters have been sent to all Methodist Protestant Pastors in Carroll county and adjacent to Westminster, inviting them and their congregations to hear Dr. Bloomfield, Sunday evening, Feb. 23rd.

SPRING FARM SALES

The Importance of Extensive Advertising.

Considerable important interest will center in the prices that will prevail for live stock and implements at the farm personal property sales to be held during the next two months. These sales are important, not only as establishing values, but because they often represent a portion of the financial result of a good many years of farming, and the total of the sale may go toward swelling an interest income to be used for the owner's support in advancing years.

Many of these sales, of course, represent the closing out of estates, or sales made necessary by change in occupation; and sometimes a reduction in stock and equipment due to removing to a smaller farm. In all cases, the prices secured are important to the seller, as well as in a general way to the farming occupation.

Years ago, about the only advertising such sales received was by "sale bills," numerous posted, and the attendance was limited by the condition of Spring roads to a comparatively small circle. Now, however, newspaper advertising carries notices of the wants long distances, and the automobile and better roads makes sale-attending over a circle of 20 or more miles comparatively easy.

Naturally, good advertising of a sale is most important. The sale bill still has its value, and sale cards too; but the cost of advertising in two or more papers having general circulation over the territory where the sale is held, is apt to be money well invested, on account of the wide reach of the papers circulation. When "bills" are used—and we are printing many of them this year—they should be posted mainly at outlying points, and not nearby.

Considering the importance of these sales, and the large amount of property to dispose of, it is not good business to count the cost too closely of the cost of advertising. Just one good bidder attracted from a distance by the wider advertising, may easily pay the whole cost of the advertising.

CIRCUIT COURT CASES.

The following cases were heard in the Circuit Court, this week.

Carroll N. Lockard vs State of Maryland. Violating motor vehicle law. Plea of not guilty. Trial by jury. Jury discharged, failed to agree, and appellants recognizance renewed.

THE RECORD NEXT WEEK ON THURSDAY.

Due to Washington's Birthday falling on Saturday, next week, when there will be no Rural Carrier Service, The Record will be issued on Thursday, instead of Friday, in order to avoid delivery of papers on Monday. Correspondents please take notice, and send letters a day earlier. All advertisers will also please take notice of the change.

FARM BOARD AND SENATE CRITICIZED

Have so Far Failed to Remedy the Farm Situation.

As was to have been expected, the Federal Farm Board is not performing miracles, even after the expenditure of some millions of dollars. In fact, there is the same difference of opinion now, as there was before the Board was created, as to what farmers want; for there are farmers and farmers, and problems and problems, and interests within interests.

No more complex situation exists in this country, not only for the farmers, but for the interests closely allied with farming, even if it were possible to decide on one or more reasonably clear causes of action; which largely means if the farmers of the country as a whole could agree in helping to clarify their needs along such lines that could be met, without indulging in pure class legislation.

Even the insurgent Republican-Democratic coalition that took over the job of framing a Tariff bill in the Senate favorable to the farmers' organizations, has failed, according to the pronouncement of seven farm organizations in a strong protest made late last week, that makes a special attack on the action of the Senate in rejecting increased duties on sugar, blackstrap molasses, casein, hides, fats and oils, etc.

This protest of allied farm organizations is all the more startling because the insurgent Republican leaders in the Senate, who were especially active in passing the tariff features that the farm organizations now voice their objections to, were supposed to be the head and front representatives of what the farmers want, and appeared to take delight in clipping off the rates that manufacturers' wanted.

A portion of the protest referred to is good protective tariff argument, as follows: "In our estimation," the protest says, "the objective is the placing of the American farmers, who must meet competition from low cost, low living standard producers abroad, in a position to enable them to supply the domestic market as completely as possible and to enjoy the benefits of so doing."

The present state of the Senate bill, in the opinion of the seven organizations, will prevent a restoration of a balanced agriculture.

"In the face of this impending disaster, the present policy of the Senate," it resumed, "seems to bettallow cheaper foreign agricultural products to enter our markets and still further handicap our producers in this painful period of post-war readjustment."

"On our part there will be no compromise in regard to our final position relative to the tariff bill. If significant measures of tariff relief are given and such important products as those mentioned above are allowed to come in duty free or at such rates as are inadequate to protect our domestic producers, we shall consider such action by Congress a failure to carry out the popular will."

"For the present it would be better for agriculture to continue under the tariff of 1922, which does not protect agricultural products, than to put up with a new bill which could not be changed probably for a decade, in which either inconsequential or surplus agricultural commodities are given protection while really important ones, such as those mentioned, upon which tariff rates would be effective, are neglected."

So, the present failure of the Federal Farm Board to meet desired results, seems almost secondary to the like failure of the Senate; and no doubt both organizations feel as though the task is next to impossible, so far as satisfying the country as a whole is concerned.

BUTTER AND MARGARINE.

Increasing use of butter substitutes in European countries is a factor of growing importance affecting both the demand for butter in importing countries and the surplus in butter exporting countries, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics stated Feb. 7.

Although the United States is a butter-importing country, a great increase in the use of butter substitutes would decrease the world demand for butter, cause the world price to decline, and finally cause butter prices in the United States to be lower, it was stated orally in the Bureau.

The Bureau's announcement follows in full text: "The increasing consumption of butter substitutes in European countries is a factor of growing importance as affecting both the demand for butter in importing countries and the surplus in butter exporting countries."

Margarine consumption in Germany now exceeds butter consumption. In Denmark and The Netherlands the exportable surplus of butter is augmented by the use of margarine. In home consumption the increased use of butter substitutes in European countries is attributed in part to material improvement in the quality of European margarine.

Foreign production of butter in recent years has followed much the same upward trend as that of the United States. Relatively low American butter prices during much of the past year have discouraged imports into the United States and produced a slight export balance."

The Carroll Record should be made use of for its Spring sale advertising value. A single additional bidder brought to a sale, may easily pay the cost of the advertising.

HOUGHTON LAKE, MICH.

Fine Fishing, and Weather Not Extremely Cold.

Mr. Englar, enclosed please find check, to renew Carroll Record for another year and oblige.

The Record is a welcome visitor every Monday noon, and lose no time in looking it over. Wish I might be able to also send you one of the lovely fish they are spearing out of Houghton Lake this season, first time they have allowed spearing for some time, and claim it is because of hard times, to allow people to get at least some meat.

We ourselves have not been out yet. Saw several weighing from 15 to 20 pounds, and they say several have been caught weighing 30-lbs. and over. So many fish shacks out on Lake, looks like a small village, and they tell me they are quite comfortable, with stove for heating.

Ice is about 15 inches in depth. We have had a very mild winter up to date. Thermometer only registering two below, very little snow and no drifts.

We were visiting down in Indiana about 265 miles south of here, in December, and they had much colder weather, being 18 to 20 below, and lots more snow, and a real blizzard, lasting five days. Much worse than the one in Md. in 1894. It was a long time ago, but I will remember it.

We had the experience of coming home through snow banks, where road had been opened up, higher than car on both sides, fenders scraping in snow and no place to pass anyone coming towards us. We were only 30 miles from U. S. 27 and thought surely roads would be opened up, but were badly disappointed; tracks were like a snake trail. Having trouble with car, burnt out main bearing; were two and half days coming home, arriving Christmas day at noon.

To our surprise, when reaching Roscommon Co. line, roads were lovely, about two inches snow, no drifts, and was like that to our cottage. I was also in Detroit for a week, and much colder there, and that is just 200 miles almost direct south.

Had a letter from Alberta, Canada, stating winter there had been very mild. So it looks to me as if we are better off in the north than south, this winter. With best wishes to you and yours. Trusting to find you all enjoying good health. We are fine excepting a little cold at present.

"INSIDE" INFORMATION FOR WOMEN.

Do not peel rhubarb before it is cooked. The red skin gives an attractive color to the cooked fruit.

Boiling water poured from a tea-kettle held at a height of two or three feet, will often take out a fresh coffee stain, and some fruit stains.

If building or remodeling a kitchen, make it oblong rather than square, to save steps in doing the work, and to distribute the equipment most advantageously.

There's one sure way to tell whether a fabric will wash. Take a sample home and wash it under real laundering conditions. Also put it in the sun for a few days, covering up one-half for later comparison, to see how much it fades.

Serve some kind of fruit or vegetable salad every day, in which there is a crisp leaf of lettuce, cabbage, or, if these are not obtainable, raw vegetables and fruits of what color, chopped celery, green pepper, and thinly sliced Jerusalem artichokes and turnips are some of the foods you can get in winter time to put into salads; also apples, oranges, grapefruit, and grapes.

Bananas are good in salad, but do not take the place of other fruits, as they contain more starch and sugar. Some of the dried fruits, particularly prunes and dates, are appetizing additions to salads, of mixed fresh and canned fruit.

A PLAY AT NEW WINDSOR.

The Dramatic Club of Blue Ridge College presents "A Lucky Break" on Friday evening, Feb. 21, in the gymnasium.

One can hardly find a play of better qualities than a "Lucky Break." Without doubt it will grip the audience from start to finish. When John Bruce comes back to the little town in which he was born, he thanks heaven that he does not want them to buy something, but he does want to give them something. As a millionaire he faces his problems. There is unlimited opportunity for the entire cast of twenty people to display exceptional talent. And after you have seen "A Lucky Break" you will say that the Dramatic Club is rich in that art. Admission, Adults 35c; Children 15c.

FIRE IN MT. AIRY BANK.

Fire damaged the interior of the Mt. Airy bank building, at 2 o'clock, Saturday morning, to the extent of several thousand dollars. The vault was not damaged and the bank opened for business, as usual, on Saturday, in another room on the same floor. The main damage was to walls, floor and furniture, and is covered by insurance. The Mt. Airy Fire Company responded promptly. The fire is believed to have started in the furnace room.

NEWS OF THE WEEK CONDENSED.

Paragraphs of Important Events from Various Sources.

About 1000 suspected gangsters and law violators were arrested in Chicago, last Saturday and Sunday, by police and detectives, in a raid to clean up the city. Some are described as "hired killers" while others are professional thieves, crooks and hold-up men.

President Hoover left Washington, last Saturday, for ten days deep sea fishing at Long Key, Florida. He is accompanied by Justice Stone, Mark Sullivan, Larry Rickey and Vernon Kellogg, all "noted fishermen."

Former Chief Justice Wm. Howard Taft is reported to be resting easy, and materially better than when he returned home from Asheville, N. C., last week.

In a special election in the Second Congressional District in Massachusetts, on Tuesday, William J. Granfield, Democrat, won over his Republican opponent by about 7000 votes. Granfield ran as a wet.

Leaders in the tariff debate now believe that the Senate bill will be ready to go into conference, March 1st. A large percentage of the Senate is weary of the discussion; and general interest throughout the country has been lacking from the beginning.

The appointment of Charles Evans Hughes as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, in place of Judge Taft, resigned, that at first seemed likely to be confirmed by the Senate with but little objection, finally developed into a case of formidable opposition said to be due to Mr. Hughes' alleged views on matters relating to corporations, and other public questions. His nomination was confirmed on Thursday after a lot of speech-making, by a vote of 52 to 26. Nine western Republican and fifteen Democrats voted against, while fourteen Democrats and thirty-eight Republicans voted for his confirmation.

Mayor Wm. F. Broening and wife, of Baltimore, are among the many Marylanders sojourning in Florida. The Mayor, who is prominently considered as Republican candidate for Governor, is trying to recover from the effects of injuries received in the fall of an elevator several months ago, and is reported as being benefited by his vacation.

The City of Chicago, that has been unable to pay its police, school and other officials, has succeeded in borrowing $2,000,000 from two city funds. Many more millions are needed; but it is expected that the collections of taxes will finally place the city finances in better shape.

The European powers are still watching each other closely at the Naval Conference being held in London; back of which there seems to be a distrust, and fear of each other.

DR. BOMBERGER APPOINTED.

Appointment of Dr. Frank B. Bomberger, assistant director, Extension Service, University of Maryland, and Chief of the Maryland State Department of Markets, as assistant chief of the Division of Co-operative Marketing in charge of organization work, effective Saturday, February 1, 1930, for a period of one year, was announced today by the Federal Farm Board. Dr. Bomberger will retain his official title and connection with the University.

The appointment of Dr. Bomberger is the result of a co-operative arrangement between the Farm Board and the University of Maryland whereby the former will have the use of his services to direct its organization work, on a part time basis, without relinquishment by him of his official direction of the marketing work of the Extension Service of the University.

Dr. Bomberger is a native of Maryland, and was graduated from the Maryland Agricultural College with a degree of B. S. in 1894. At various times since he has served his alma mater, now the University of Maryland, as professor of economics, political science and history, dean of the school of rural economics and sociology, extension specialist in rural organization and marketing, chief of the Maryland State Department of Markets and assistant director of the Extension Service. He has played a prominent part in the organization of co-operative marketing associations of Maryland and has been in close working contact with the larger co-operative associations throughout the United States.

MARYLAND'S WAR MOTHERS.

According to lists drawn by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Maryland's Gold Star Mothers, whose sons rest in Europe, and widows of such veterans, will constitute the twenty-first State group to visit their graves at the expense of the Government, it was announced yesterday at American Legion headquarters here.

Nebraska was the first State whose name was drawn from a silver bowl by Mrs. Hoover at a ceremony at the White House, attended by Gen. John J. Pershing.

According to a law enacted by Congress this month, the money covering the travel expenses of the widows and mothers will remain available until December 31, 1933. It is anticipated that the Maryland group will go abroad before the end of this year.

HOME-MAKER ACTIVITIES

Plans Outlined for the Work of this Year.

Thirty Carroll County Home-makers' Club representatives met at the Extension Service office on Thursday, February 6, to discuss plans of work for the year. The Home-makers' Club decided to carry out a foods project as the main project, and a Home Crafts project as the minor project. The following demonstrations were decided on as the year's program: March, muffins and variations; April, quick breads and variations; May, cake methods; June, light breads and variations; July, meal planning; Sept. arrangement of flowers; October, rush bottom chairs; November, needlecraft for the living room; December, home-made rugs.

In order that the Home Demonstration Agent might have more time to develop the Extension program, both among adult groups and girls 4-H groups, the Home-makers' Clubs unanimously decided to adopt the project demonstrator plan. According to this plan, two project demonstrators from each club will be trained to give the demonstrations at every other meeting. Three training groups will be formed—one at Mt. Airy, and two at Westminster.

Representatives from Mt. Airy, Woodbine, Berrett, Winfield and Taylorsville will meet at Mt. Airy as a center; representatives from Eldersburg, Middleburg, Hampstead, Manchester, Hillsdale and Westminster will form a second training group and meet at Westminster; Myers, Pleasant Valley, Taneytown, Keysville, Keyman, Union Bridge and New Windsor will form the third group and will meet at Westminster as a center.

A four-year Home Flower Garden project will be started this year, according to the project demonstrator plan. Two project demonstrators will be trained this year in the growing of annuals. The growing of Perennials and shrubs will be the subjects for the two subsequent years. These project demonstrators will assist the Home Demonstration Agent in presenting the home flower garden program.

Plans were made for two county council meetings to be held May 1 and November 19. The Home-makers Clubs decided to adopt as their slogan for the Rural Women's Short course to be held at the University of Maryland, June 16-21, "one hundred Carroll County women at the Short Course." The clubs also decided to hold their second annual home-makers' picnic, August 20th.

Three county-wide demonstrations will be held at the Extension Service office this year—a demonstration on "Ham Dishes" on March 27, and two children's clothing demonstrations during the month of May.

Miss Venia M. Kellar, State Home Demonstration Agent, was present and urged the Home-makers Clubs to co-operate in reaching more rural women.

"STRETCHING" MANURE.

The dairyman, or livestock farmer who wants to make the best use of the manure supply, will make each ton cover from a third to a half more land without reducing the acre value of the manuring, and at a cost which will leave a good margin of profit. In other words, the 100-ton supply of manure can be "stretched" so that it will do as good a job of producing crop increase on 20 acres as it ordinarily does on 12 to 14 acres, according to County Agent, L. C. Burns.

The secret of increasing the value of livestock manure—it really is no secret at all—is to strengthen or balance its weak spot, namely, the phosphoric acid content. This is accomplished by adding to each ton of manure, either in the stables or at the time of hauling to the fields, from 40 to 60, or more, pounds of superphosphate. The crop increases from the use of the phosphated manure, in the old Ohio experiments, have averaged 10.5 bushels of corn, five bushels of wheat, and 900 pounds clover hay over and above the increases produced by an equal number of tons of the untreated manure. At average prices for these crops this practice has produced crop gains worth $110. per ton of superphosphate used.

Chemical analyses show that average manure contains only about half as much of phosphoric acid as of nitrogen, or potash, while the most commonly used fertilizers contain from two to three times as much phosphoric acid as of the others. The result is that both nitrogen and potash are often wastefully used if manure enough is used to supply plenty of phosphoric acid; or the crop suffers from lack of phosphoric acid if only enough manure is applied to insure the most economic use of the nitrogen and potash in it.

HATCH CHICKS EARLY.

Early hatching pays. In addition to greater egg profits in winter when eggs are scarce, early hatched cockerels are more profitable as market poultry than those hatched late. In the North, March 15 is a good date to hatch the first chicks and May 15 is a good date to finish hatching. In the Southern States, hatch about two weeks earlier. Allow time after placing the males in the breeding pen before saving eggs for hatching. A fertile egg may be obtained two days after mating, but about two weeks should be allowed. The fertility of eggs remains at a sufficiently high percentage for about five days after the males are removed from the breeding pen. One male mated to a varying number of females up to 15 should give a fairly consistent percentage of fertile eggs.

MR. BECK'S WET ADDRESS.

The much advertised speech of Congressman Beck, of Pennsylvania, by the wets, proves to have been something of a disappointment to them, as he mainly propounded the old "states rights," and "personal liberty" doctrines, but had little to say about the constitutional aspects of the problem, and advised that about the only thing that can be done against prohibition is for Congress to back off from it by refusing to pass any enforcement legislation, leaving that solely to the states.

He gave as a precedent the long refusal of Congress to pass reappointment legislation; but strangely forgot to say anything about the XIV or XV Amendments relating to the abridgement of the rights of citizens, claimed by many to be violated by most of the Southern states in practically disfranchising negroes.

Especially as long as present dry majorities control both branches of Congress, the Beck effort will mainly be considered as a fine oratorical effort, and as encouraging the continuance of more or less open defiance of the Constitution—and encouragement of rum-running and boot-legging.

The Beck proposition, of course, would mean the practical, if not actual, repeal of the Volstead Act.

WHY SHOULD NOT ARTISTS BE UP-TO-DATE?

The writer is neither an admirer of "strip comics" nor a competent critic on the subject. If he has a well-grounded opinion with reference to them, it is that they represent nearly a total loss as representing an excuse for filling up many acres of good white paper space every week, in the papers throughout the country. Still, we offer a remedial suggestion.

It is, that these strip stories have an end, like any other "continued" story, and that the artists who have to strain their imagination to keep up popular interest in the heroes—or whatever they may be—be given a needed rest on their old models, and start up something new.

Certainly, "Father" should be "brought up" by this time, and have had his full quota of black eyes; while the countenances of Mutt and Jeff, and their equally varied experiences with rolling pins, would be improved with a good long vacation; and a lot of others of somewhat like character hardly meet with their old-time applause.

If "variety is the spice of life" why not give us more variety. If the new times put the old times in the background, why not have more of the new times. If "it is hard to teach an old dog new tricks", why not trot out more new dogs?

And this is not in the least discrediting artistic genius and skill. Rather, it is encouraging artists to practice on new subjects, and pry loose a lot of genuine fresh laughs. Why should they not take a pointer from automobile manufacturers, and get out a new model at least once a year? Being up-to-date pays genius everywhere—why not with artists too?

THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

For a man who is reasonably well informed on public topics, as well as interested on current thought relative to them, the Congressional Record is always a mine of information. While there are pages and pages of dry statistical information, as well as the incorporation of much matter that seems almost irrelevant, one can do as he does in listening to the radio "tune out" such features.

But, taking the contents of the daily history of Congress as a whole, it is decidedly good reading, and more interesting than we might expect. Even humor, and sharp passages of wit are plentiful, while the sparring pro and con over disputed positions is decidedly worth while to the one who desires to increase his vocabulary and take first-hand lessons in debate from masters of the art.

One must be impressed with the depth of information many members possess—relative to the intricate problems of the tariff, for instance. True, not many are specialists along all lines. Some seem to be merely waiting until their own special line comes up. Some members seem always ready to "back up" a fellow member who may temporarily get a little flustered, or beyond his depth. Team work is distinctly in evidence.

And it is true, too, that many of our ablest representatives are rarely heard in debate, but play most intelligent and active parts in committee work, "cutting out," we may say, floor work for the more eloquent. Some of the latter seems to court interruption, and are sometimes then the most dangerous, while others prefer to make prepared speeches without interruption.

It is interesting, too, to observe how men find it in line with their convictions to represent their states, or particular industries; while others can usually be depended on to have personal convictions that match up with their party politics; and sometimes one is almost persuaded to think that the only good political opponent, is a dead one.

But, with the immense variety of most important topics that annually go through the Congressional mill, it is a matter for congratulation that, no matter how questions or measures may be disposed of, popular sentiment, taking the country as a whole, is pretty fairly represented; and that, after all, is the best that can be expected, for it is the real purpose of our Congress.

MOODY BIBLE INSTITUTE.

We have been requested by The Moody Bible Institute, of Chicago, to give space to the following announcement. The Moody Institute, as is well known, makes no charge for training its students, and that its work along this line is highly regarded, we therefore present the following:

"What to do with life? This question is of supreme importance. Free training for Christian service is available at the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, the largest Bible training school in the world, and students of all nationalities and denominations of Christian believers are equally welcome. The General Course has no educational requirement for admission beyond the grammar school eighth grade, or its equivalent. Other courses are offered for which high school or college training is necessary or desirable. English is taught to students who are deficient in its use.

Among subjects covered are English Bible, Evidence of Christianity, Church History, Public Speaking, Daily Vacation Bible School, Sunday Music, vocal and instrumental (a small charge being made for private lessons), Hebrew, Yiddish and New Testament Greek. For missionary preparation Hygiene and First Aid, Home Economics, and Manual Training are added. The summer term will begin April 21, and concluded July 31, but admission is granted at any time.

An illustrated catalogue giving full information will be mailed free on request addressed to 153 Institute Place, Chicago Avenue Station, Chicago, Illinois."

THRIFT AN ANTIDOTE FOR CRIMINALITY.

A man who has had wide experience in dealing with criminal practices of all types was recently quoted as saying that "one of the rarest specimens in the world is a criminal who is thrifty, and I think 99% of the people who are thrifty never become entangled with the criminal law."

This is indeed a timely observation when so much thought is being given to the subject of crime in America.

Opinions may differ as to the cause of the present widespread practice of crime, and opinions likewise will differ as to the remedies. It is not the purpose of this article to set forth the assumption that thrift is a cure-all for this great social disease. There is, in fact, no single specific, but thrift surely is among the remedies that might be offered as helpful.

There may be many individual exceptions to the rule, but in the vast majority of cases a man who really is thrifty does not indulge in criminal practices. By thrift we do not mean merely getting ahead financially; we mean the thrift of creditable personal progress and honest success. The average man of thrift has learned the lesson that rightful progress comes only through slow, steady accumulation of material resources; the sensible employment of time and energy and a constant effort at self improvement. Into such a plan of progress, criminal practices are not likely to intrude.

It also is to be remembered that many a criminal took his first downward step when driven to desperation through extravagant habits. Any jurist of experience will tell you that a considerable percentage of the criminal cases brought before him may be included in this classification.

It cannot be said that thrift is the only cure for crime. Yet, if every person in this country above the age of childhood were to become habitually thrifty, it would seem a safe statement to make that under such conditions there would be far less crime in the United States than is the case today.—S. W. Straus, Pres. American Society for Thrift.

THAT "LOW-TARIFF" LOBBY.

It was quite a novelty for the Senate to receive a report from the lobby investigating committee submitted by any one other than its chairman, Mr. Caraway, who has delighted in describing, from time to time, the progress made by this inquiry, with his own characteristically caustic comments. But it would have been impossible for him to exhibit any enthusiasm over the disclosures relating to the "low-tariff lobby," for they provide no political ammunition for use against the Republican advocates of protection. So it devolved upon Senator Robinson, of Indiana, the only Republican member of the committee, to make the report.

There is nothing sensational in this report, which merely confirms the fact—familiar to all who know anything about the lobby situation—that attempts to influence tariff legislation are not confined to those who want higher duties. The testimony concerning the sugar lobbies showed that the proponents of higher rates and those who wanted them reduced were equally active and spent about the same amount of money at Washington.

The "low-tariff lobby," whose legitimate activities Mr. Robinson describes, is composed of importers, who according to the report, spent "considerably more than $100,000" last year in opposing higher rates and domestic valuation. No lobby, says Mr. Robinson, has been "more active, more persistent, has operated through more different channels of publicity." But he finds that even more money was expended by the foreign dye interests in attempting to establish foreign valuation as a means of breaking down protection for the domestic industry.

This is interesting as showing that high protectionists have no monopoly of lobbying activities. But is has not been indicated that either group has been guilty of illegal or improper practices. The Carraway committee seems as far away as ever from tackling its real assignment, which was to ferret out the lobbyists who are operating under false pretenses and recommend means for their suppression.—Phil. Ledger.

Salesmanship

Five-year-old Dorothy Rose recently was a very attentive listener while an agent explained to her mother the educational value of a book.

"You must leave this book lying here on the library table, so that the children may have free access to it," he said.

A few days later Dorothy Rose played selling books to mother, and in imitation of the real agent, said:

"Now, missus, you must leave this book lying right on your buffet and the children must have three axes to it."

Famous Early Bishop

Francis Asbury was born at Hamstead Bridge, near Birmingham, England, in 1745. He died at Spotsylvania, Va., in 1816. He came to America as a missionary in 1771. There were then only 316 Methodists in America. When he died he had traveled more than 270,000 miles, preached more than 16,000 sermons, and ordained more than 4,000 Methodist ministers. He never married. Constant travel, limited resources and his zeal in church service were some of the reasons advanced for his single life.

Enthusiasm

The enthusiasm that lifts us as on eagle's wings makes for joyous service. The ability to run, to press forward unweariedly in the chosen course, makes it easy. But to walk day after day, only able to trudge along the right road slowly, while the victors with wings sweep above us, and the strong runners dash by us toward the goal, leaving us far behind—this is hard. To keep courage, press forward and not grow faint-hearted, may at last be the greatest victory of all.

Unprofitable Smartness

A farmer's son who had been some time at the university came home to visit his parents. Two fowls were placed on the table for supper, and the young student said he could prove that there were really three fowls.

"This," said he, "is one, and this is two, and two and one make three."

"Since you have made it out so well," said his father, "your mother shall have the first, I'll have the second, and ye may eat the third yourself."

Paper Money

The use of paper money began about 600 years ago in Italy, when the goldsmiths and silversmiths deposited bullion under supervision and the receipts circulated as currency. All the original states issued paper money in Colonial days. The first federal paper money was issued in 1775, under authority of an act of the Continental congress.

Mexican Coat of Arms Traced to Aztec Fable

That the name "Mexico" comes from "mexictli," the Aztec word for the native magney or pulque plant, is the conclusion of Enrique Juan Palacios, of the Mexican direction for archeology, who has searched for its origin in native Indian documents, as well as in other sources of information. Every Mexican school child knows that his national coat-of-arms is an adaptation of the ancient Aztec hieroglyph or place-name for "Tenochtitlan," as pre-conquest Mexico City was called. Mexico's shield, therefore, is at least six centuries old. It represents an eagle in mortal struggle with a snake, which he holds with one claw and his beak. With the other claw he is balanced on a spiny nopal cactus growing on a rock in the middle of a lake. This pictorialization of an extremely difficult position illustrates the Aztec fable of the founding of the ancient city that is now the capital of the Mexican republic.

Possibility That Great Auk May Still Exist

Does the Great Auk still exist? The last authentic case of one having been seen was in 1843, but "Bird Notes and News" raises the question as to whether a bird which has been seen in the Lofoten islands (off the coast of northern Norway) is not a Great Auk. A writer tells how a Finnish hunter and naturalist saw a strange bird which he could not recognize. He was shown a picture of the Great Northern Diver, but said it was not the same. He was then shown a Razorbill, but declared that the bird was bigger. The book was opened casually at the Great Auk, and he immediately identified it and persisted in his story, which was corroborated even to the identification by an independent witness who had also seen it. The bird was never seen again, but it is possible that on such a wild coast a few Great Auks may have survived.

Odd "Break" in Sermon

The former pastor of a Toga church tells a good one on himself which shows the queer breaks a man can make, even in the pulpit.

The pastor was preaching on "Faith" and among his illustrations of the value of faith declared that "it was by faith that Moses discovered America."

He noticed a smile spread over the faces of the congregation, but couldn't imagine what it was about, and repeated that but for his faith Moses would never have crossed the stormy Atlantic to America.

Having observed that his wife was as much amused as anybody, he promptly asked her on reaching his home what the people were smiling at.

When she told him, he was forced to wonder at the restraint the congregation had shown.—Philadelphia Record.

There Comes A Time—

* * * unfailingly in the life of every family when consideration must be given to the question of choosing a memorial.

It is not an unpleasant duty. Rather it is an act of devotion, freely given. For much of the pride and sentiment in our lives finds expression in this way.

We will gladly give you information on the selection and placing of a suitable memorial.

POULTRY

LEGUMES USEFUL AS GRAIN FEED

Each Hen Could Profitably Use Pound of Hay Daily.

The Ohio experiment station has done some valuable work in testing out the use of alfalfa, clover and soy bean hay as substitutes for green feed for the laying flock. They found that each bird could make profitable use of about one pound of leafy, fine-stemmed, bright hay per month. The hay should not be coarse or contain a high per cent of crude fiber.

It is nearly always possible to get at least a limited amount of such hay from the last cutting of alfalfa or the second cutting of clover. A considerable number of farmers are cutting a small portion of their alfalfa late in the fall, after the removal of the last regular crop. The least mature of the soy beans, when they have been cut for hay, are equally satisfactory.

These Ohio tests indicate that these three, alfalfa, red clover and soy beans, are equally valuable if cut and cured properly. In these tests the feeding of the hay in hoops of poultry netting was found to be very satisfactory. Cutting the hay in half-inch lengths made the feeding easier and the hens ate more. A silage cutter or feed chopper can be used to cut the hay.

The shatterings that accumulate where the alfalfa or clover is handled in feeding the cattle or other live stock is equally valuable if the hay is of good quality and not injured by weathering or heating in barn or stack. Alfalfa meal made from green hay in the mash or fed as a separate part of the ration, is another green feed substitute.

Litter Not Desirable Place for Grain Feed

Experimental work at several stations as well as the practical experience of a large number of poultry keepers prove that hens do not need to hunt in the litter for their feed in order to lay well. More and more people are feeding the whole and cracked grain to the poultry in troughs to keep it cleaner than it would be if scattered in the litter.

Litter is highly desirable in a poultry house during the time that the flock is kept confined, but its virtue is in keeping the feet cleaner, the floor drier and more easily cleaned, and the house warmer than when no litter is used, and not to furnish a place to hide the grain feed. Some grain will be dropped in the straw or chaff, or shredded fodder or peat moss, even though troughs are used, and the hens will scratch for it. But deliberately scattering the grain in the litter, unless there is no container available, serves no useful purpose.

Poultry Hints

It is good business to hatch chicks early.

In hauling eggs to the market, do not expose them to the direct rays of the sun.

Insist that the buyer pay cash for your eggs, and that he buy them on a quality or grade basis.

A standard incubator which will successfully hatch chicken eggs should hatch the turkey eggs with equal success. Many have been used successfully.

All parts of the incubator should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. One per cent formalin can be used. Then level the machine and regulate carefully to the desired temperature.

Poultry raisers not being fortunate to have clover, alfalfa or other green feed ranges, or those wishing to plant green feed for summer use in their poultry runs, will find sudan grass very good.

Male birds with large combs are most apt to become frosted after they are wet.

A lot of poultrymen confuse lice with mites. Lice stay on the birds all the time, whereas mites attack them only at night and hide in cracks and crevices during the daytime.

Often ducks make a very disagreeable puddle around the drinking fountain. A good device to prevent ducklings from forming such a puddle, is a wire covered frame.

Raising pullets is one of the most important jobs of the poultry keeper, for unless these new pullets are grown right, they will get off to a poor start and the year's work will be seriously hampered.

Should the young pullets show any signs of unthriftiness, the poultry keeper will do well to see if there are any intestinal worms present in the flock.

Proper housing of the poultry flock generally pays dividends in more eggs and healthier chickens.

Quantities of Amber

Found in Baltic Basin
Amber has been mined for hundreds of years in the so-called blue earth of the Baltic basin. It is classified as a fossil resin and geologists believe that several species of pines have had a part in the formation of the amber of the Baltic basin.

Pieces of amber are torn from the sea floor and cast up by the waves. They are collected at ebb tide by searchers who sometimes wade into the sea and with nets attached to long poles drag to the beach the seaweed containing entangled masses of amber. Dredges have also been used.

Lithuanian raw amber is the property of the government. Each finder has to deliver the pieces to administrators of the state's central depots of amber. Failure to do so leads to a charge of embezzlement.

Amber has found its greatest use in the fashioning of ornaments. Artisans who make necklaces, bracelets and brooches turn the amber on a lathe and polish it with whitening and water, or with stone and oil, the final luster being imparted by friction with flannel.—New York Times.

When Armies Meet in Battle on Chessboard

The principles of chess are based on the struggle of every-day life. It is a battle between two armies of equal strength, fought on a field of 64 squares. Victory usually perches on the more proficient of the two generals in command. In a technical sense, the capture of the opposing king is not permitted, yet when the capture is inevitable, the game is ended. This fact seems to escape the recognition of many players, who direct their entire energies to the capture of pieces or pawns, when consistent play would indicate an easy road to victory through the medium of a checkmate. The temptation to proceed with the attack before all the pawns are in the field is a great one, but such premature attacks are usually abortive and frequently result in disaster. Chess literature abounds in examples of games in which disaster and defeat were a direct consequence of the failure to develop properly one or another of the pieces.—Exchange.

Blowing Hot and Cold

Doctor Slosson says that heat is measured as time is measured, only by its loss. When you blow through nearly closed lips the breath is expelled so rapidly that passing over the hand it cools it by evaporating the perspiration from the skin, whereas when you breathe upon it more gently from the open mouth the hand is surrounded by the warm air, and hence feels hot. If a thermometer were used instead of the hand, you would find that the effect in the two cases is the same, or, often the reverse, because the thermometer has no moist skin and registers the actual temperature instead of merely changes of temperature.

Original Olympic Games

The most famous of the four great national festivals of the Greeks was the Olympic games. They were celebrated in the sanctuary of Zeus at Olympia every four years, but, owing to the fluctuations of the Greek lunar calendar, the time varied from the beginning of August to the middle of September. Olympia was situated in the Pisatis, the southeast district of Elis at the junction of the Cladeus with the Alphens. It was never a town but only a sanctuary with the buildings connected with the worship and the games.

Perfect Will

The will of Chief Justice White has been considered a perfect example. It contains but 51 words. It reads: "This is my last will. I give, bequeath, and devise to my wife, Letta M. White, in complete and perfect ownership, all my rights and property of every kind and nature, whether real, personal or mixed, wherever situated, appointing her executrix of my estate, without bond and giving her seisin thereof." A will should be properly signed and witnessed.

Full-Dress Rehearsal

An old actor-manager died, or at least his relatives thought he had died, and arrangements were made for the funeral.

On the appointed day one of his old colleagues arrived to pay his last respects, but, to his astonishment, the would-be mourner was informed that the "deceased" had come to life after a period of coma.

"Just like Bill," said the visitor, "he was always a terror for rehearsals."—London Tit-Bits.

The Advisory Brigade

Did you ever notice that it is the men and the women who have not made monumental successes—in fact, those who have been practical failures—that are always the freest in telling business people just how they should run their businesses? Most people who succeed have to stick to and look after their own businesses very closely, hence have no time to spare to attend to the affairs of other people.—New Albany Tribune.

Wanderlust

Our young men's amusements have to look like adventures and our girls want far-away jobs or service that will not be mere humdrum usefulness.—American Magazine.

COSTLY APPROVAL

He had gone into the library to put the thing up to her father and she was anxiously waiting on the front porch.

"Well," said the suitor when he returned, "he asked me how I was fixed and I told him I had $3,000 in the bank."

"And what did he say to that?"

"He borrowed it."

And yet it never works."

Obligation Admitted
"Are you willing to admit that you are dependent on your wife in your public career?"
"Perfectly willing," answered Senator Sorghum. "I have no ear for music and I am compelled to depend on Mariah to nudge me so that I will be among the first to stand up when the band plays 'The Star-Spangled Banner.'"—Washington Star.

Monolog Defined
"Pop, what's a monolog?"
"A monolog is a conversation between husband and wife."
"I thought that was a dialog."
"No, a dialog is where two persons are speaking."

Daddy's Tour
Willie—My mother goes to Europe every summer.
Mary—Where does your daddy go?
Willie—To the post office and the bank!

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

A LITTLE raw tomato juice is excellent for removing unsightly stains from the hands, caused by paring vegetables. Lemon juice can be used for the same purpose.

If your gravies refuse to brown properly, add a teaspoon of burnt sugar diluted in a tablespoon of cold water. You'll be surprised by the delightful golden brown color, and the flavor will be improved, too.

No medicine can take the place of water in its healthful effect upon the human system. At least one glass of water for every fifteen pounds in weight should be drunk by every adult every day.

666 Tablets

Relieves Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days. 666 also in Liquid.

The body was brought to the home of his niece, Miss Carrie Eckman. Funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon. Interment in the family burying grounds at Winter's Church cemetery. He leaves two sons, Thomas and wife, of here.

Myers, Florida, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, last week, at "Caroline Inn."

Stanley Schnauffer and family, of Towson, Md., and Forrest Otto and family, of Baltimore, were guests of Mrs. Emma Snader, on Sunday last.

Miss Erma Barnes, of Brandywine, spent the week-end here, with her parents, James Barnes and wife.

Brigadier Gen. Marion P. Maus, a retired United States Army Officer, died at Delman's Inn, on Sunday last, at 2:30 o'clock. For the past 13 years he has divided his time between here and Washington. He leaves his widow, one brother, Col. L. M. Maus, U. S. Army, retired, and one sister, Mrs. Allen, Rockville, Md. Gen. Maus had a splendid war record and has won the Congressional medal of honor for gallantry in action. He has represented his country a number of times at Foreign courts, being a splendid linguist. He was in his 80th year. A short prayer service was held at 4:00 o'clock, in the Inn parlors, and the body was removed to the Chapel at Fort Meyer, Va., where the military service was held and from there the body was taken on a caisson, drawn by six horses and was accompanied by a company of Infantry to Arlington National Cemetery, where he was buried on "Dewey Hill."

EMMITSBURG.

Mrs. Nona Caldwell returned home on Sunday.

Mrs. Louisa Fuss visited friends in town, several days last week.

Elmer Zimmerman celebrated his birthday last Friday, with a turkey dinner. Among those present were: Rev. Phillip Bower and wife; Mr. and Mrs. Rowe Ohler and daughter, Emma; Edward Ohler, Miss Aimee Lambly, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Zimmerman and family.

Mrs. Samuel Fite is visiting her daughters, in Frederick.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hospelhorn celebrated her 83rd birthday, on Wednesday of last week, when a few of her friends gathered and gave her a surprise. The guests were: Mrs. Quincy Shoemaker, Mrs. Peter Burkitt, Mrs. Harry W. Baker, Mrs. James Hospelhorn, Mrs. Laura Devilbiss, Misses Columbia Winter and Flora Frizell. Refreshments were served.

Miss Lottie Hoke entertained a number of her friends, at bridge, on Saturday evening. Dainty refreshments were served and attractive prizes given.

A number of friends of Miss Jamina Ashbaugh, Gettysburg St., surprised her by gathering to celebrate her birthday, on Friday evening, Feb. 7th. The following were present: Mrs. Emma Numemaker, Mrs. Harry W. Baker, Mrs. Laura Matthews, Mrs. Laura Devilbiss, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Gilson, George Ohler, Misses Flora Frizell, Laura Beard, Pauline Baker, May Rogers, Blanche Troxell, Wm. Ashbaugh and Herbert Rogers. After refreshments were served, all departed, having spent a very enjoyable evening.

Miss Margaret Riffel, of Baltimore, spent the week-end with her parents, here, Mr. and Mrs. Cochran Riffel.

Mrs. George Bollinger and two children, of Oregon, Ill., are visiting relatives in and around town.

Mrs. Bruce Patterson entertained the following, on Sunday: Mrs. Albert Hospelhorn, Mr. and Mrs. Hospelhorn and daughter, Hagerstown; Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Hospelhorn and Doris and Patterson Pepper, of Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harner entertained, on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Boyle and daughter; Mrs. George Bollinger and two children.

Mrs. C. G. Fraley recently entertained a few of her many friends, at luncheon and bridge. The refreshments were dainty and the color scheme of Feb. 14 was carried out. Attractive prizes were awarded.

FEESERSBURG.

The Parent-Teachers' Association of Middleburg had a very interesting meeting, last Tuesday evening, in the Church Hall. They decided to erect a substantial flag pole at the school house, in the near future, and unfurl the stars and stripes. There were fine recitations, speeches, and music. Fresh rolls and frankfurter sausages, coffee, pop and choice home-made candies, were on sale and a nice sum of money realized.

Elwood Harder suffered a severe attack of intestinal indigestion, last Thursday night, requiring the attention of a doctor for several hours.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wolfe attended a small party, at the home of her niece, Mrs. Gertrude Bohn, in honor of her birthday, last Thursday night.

Our annual walking visitor, Thomas Ryan, appeared in our town last Wednesday, calling at Clabaugh's and Birely's for breakfast. One of life's unfortunates, but sleeping in barns the past month seems like cold comfort, and hot coffee is cheering.

Recent callers at our doors were a collector for Mt. Olivet Orphanage in Anne Arundel Co.; and a honey boy and girl with nectar from the busy bees.

The fire engine and apparatus and firemen of Union Bridge, went rushing by at day break on Monday, called to the home of Clay Putman, south of Middleburg, where a house chimney was aflame, but extinguished without much damage.

Mrs. John Starr spent Monday afternoon in the little city of Feesersburg, calling on friends.

Kitty Roop, of Union Bridge, spent last Tuesday night with Mary Wilhide, attending the P. T. A. meeting; and Wednesday evening, Miss Helen Straw had the pleasure of entertaining three of her school mates, Mary, Wilhide, Kitty Roop and Ruth Repp, and all attended the smile social at the church hall.

Miss May Geiman, of Westminster, is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. Bucher John and family, on Little Pipe Creek.

The three children of Ernest Delphy have been sick the past week, and Charles Bostian suffered another seige of toothache.

Mrs. Eliza Koons and her children, Mr. and Mrs. George Crumbacker, of Waynesboro, and Mrs. Rosa K. Bohn, of Union Bridge, took dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Crumbacker, near Linwood, last Wednesday.

The funeral of Mrs. Annie Weant Eyer, passed through our village, on Friday noon, enroute from Reisterstown to Mt. Zion (Haugh's church) for interment.

Again we are interested in another stretch of good road way, from the cross roads (Union Bridge and Uniontown) to Otter Dale Mill. Why not? A pull altogether and it can be done.

Sunday School and Christian Endeavor at Mt. Zion, on Sunday morning, were well attended. At the close of S. S. Miss Emma Ecker conducted the C. E. Service on the topic, "Ways of studying the Bible," with a prepared chart, containing the following outlines for discussion:

- 1—Have a good copy.
- 2—Study with a group.
- 3—Read for pleasure.
- 4—Open the Book with a prayer.
- 5—Read until you receive a message.
- 6—Keep the quiet-hour.

Miss Carrie Garner told how to learn the Books of the Bible in order and complimentary copies of the Acts of the Apostles were given to all present. Some special music with organ and violin, and Esther and Pauline Sents sang a duet.

There will be preaching after S. S., next Sunday, at which time a special offering will be given for the increase of the Church budget. Scripture verses beginning with the letter N are called for the next C. E. meeting, completing the word Christian.

DETOUR.

Mrs. F. J. Shorb and Miss Vallie Shorb spent Tuesday with Miss Rhoda Weant and Mr. Chas. Eyer, at Reisterstown.

Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Wolfe are improving their home, by having electric lights and running water put in. Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Miller and family, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Miller.

A benefit card party will be held at the Detour school house, on Friday evening, February 14th. Everybody welcome.

The cottage prayer meeting of the M. P. Church, of Union Bridge, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Lee Erb, on Monday evening.

Cancer of the Skin

Cancer of the skin grows slowly and is not particularly malignant. It is possible to cure practically all individuals suffering from this form of the disease, says the American Public Health association, provided they seek aid at an early stage of the disease.

RESOLUTIONS ON DEATH OF BRO. A. R. MCKENZIE.

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God in his All-wise providence to remove from our midst by the hand of death our esteemed Brother A. R. McKenzie, therefore be it

Resolved, That while we humbly submit to the will of our Divine Master in this affliction, knowing that he doeth all things well; yet we fully realize that in the death of Brother McKenzie, Taneytown Lodge No. 26, Knights of Pythias has lost a faithful and loyal Brother. While we mourn our loss we heartily extend to his bereaved family our sincere sympathy and commend them for consolation to our heavenly Father, who alone can comfort the sorrowing heart, and be it further

Resolved, That the Charter of the Lodge be draped for thirty days; that these resolutions be entered in the minutes of the Lodge; that a copy of the same be sent to the bereaved family of the deceased Brother, and that it be published in the Carroll Record.

UNIONTOWN.

Rev. J. H. Hoch has improved sufficiently to take charge of his appointments on Sunday.

Monday, Mrs. Harry Fowler started out to attend to her chickens, but made a misstep, falling and severely hurting her foot. Dr. Macis gave the necessary attention and she is resting more comfortably.

Miss Mary Segafosse was called home, Tuesday, by the illness of her mother, Mrs. W. G. Segafosse.

G. W. Slonaker, U. G. Crouse, Mrs. M. A. Zollickoffer, John Heltibridge and daughter Thyra, have been on the sick list.

Truman Dayhoff, who has been suffering with a severe case of nervousness, is able to be up and about.

Renaldo Repp, of Sparrows Point, who spent the week-end at D. M. Englar's, was not able to return on Monday, on account of trouble with his teeth.

Sterling Rowe, of Bark Hill, who has been at the Frederick Hospital, several weeks, suffering from a broken leg and other injuries caused by his truck being hit by the Fast mail train, was brought to his home on Tuesday, by T. L. and Lloyd Devilbiss. His leg is still in a cast.

Last Wednesday evening, a surprise was given Rev. F. M. Volk, at the parsonage. The Mite Society was to have met at the home of Mrs. J. E. Formwalt, but it was planned to all repair to the parsonage and help the pastor celebrate his birthday. Sixty of his members and friends met and spent the evening. Plenty of refreshments were served. Some very nice and useful presents were given him, especially a blanket for his car, which was quite acceptable for this cold weather.

The past week, Mrs. A. L. Brough had word of a daring hold-up in the Rail Grill restaurant, at 119 W. Baltimore St., where her son J. Howard Brough, is manager. When getting ready to close at night, a bandit walked in, covered Mr. Brough with a pistol, walked back of the cigar counter where the cash register was placed, opened it and poured the money about $100. in his overcoat pocket and walked out, telling Mr. B. to stand still, which he did for a little while then called up help. There was one gentleman having his lunch and two waitresses in the room at the time. The thief has not been caught.

Little Billie Fleagle has been on the sick list, this week.

Mrs. William Stremmel, of New Windsor, has been much complaining, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Haines, this week.

Alva Garner, Owings Mills, spent Wednesday with his sister, Mrs. M. C. Gilbert.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Edgar Myers attended the funeral of the latter's great aunt, on Tuesday, at the home of a son, Frank Hogman, in Westminster. Mrs. H. was in her 94th year.

DIED.

Obituaries, poetry and resolutions, charged for at the rate of five cents per line. The regular death notices published free.

MR. WILLIAM AIRING.

Mr. William Airing died at his home on Ementburg St., Taneytown, on Monday evening, aged 71 years, 4 months, 2 days. He had been in ill health for a year or more, due to a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Airing was a retired farmer and had lived in Taneytown for the past eight years. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lavina Airing, and by one son, Charles, near Taneytown, and by one daughter, Mrs. Zeiber Stultz, near Otter Dale. Funeral services were held on Thursday morning in the Reformed Church, in charge of his pastor, Rev. Guy P. Bready. Interment in the Reformed cemetery.

MRS. CHARLES EYLER.

Mrs. Charles Eyer, Reisterstown, formerly Miss Annie Weant, of Detour, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon, of last week, at the Maryland General Hospital, Baltimore. Mrs. Eyer had undergone an operation for appendicitis, after which peritonitis set in.

Rev. Frank Fife, Woodsboro, officiated, assisted by Rev. Harold Redclay. She is survived by her husband Chas. C. Eyer; two sisters, Miss Rhoda Weant, at home, and Mrs. F. J. Shorb, Detour; and one brother, Attorney Edward O. Weant, Westminster. The pallbearers were: Dr. W. W. Shorb, Dr. Earl W. Koons, Carroll Koons, Carl Snooks, Gerald Seiss, and Ralph Seiss, all nephews of the deceased.

Funeral services were held last Friday, at 10 o'clock at her late residence, Reisterstown. Interment was made in Mt. Zion, (Haugh's) cemetery.

MR. JESSE M. BUFFINGTON.

Mr. Jesse M. Buffington, youngest son of the late David Buffington, of Taneytown, died in Baltimore, Monday evening, Feb. 10, aged 58 years, 8 months, 7 days. He was stricken with a heart attack while on his way to work for the Campbell Metal Window Corporation, and was found lying along the way by a fellow workman. He was removed to a hospital for treatment but death had already taken place.

Mr. Buffington lived in Taneytown, as a boy, and left home over 40 years ago, working part of the time at the harness-maker trade, at Arlington, and other places, but for ten years or more had been engaged at his last occupation with the Metal Window Company. He was twice married, and is survived by two sons by first marriage; and by his second, wife, Anna Steingle Buffington, and by a son and daughter by this marriage. He is also survived by three brothers and one sister, James and Jacob Buffington, Taneytown; Charles G. Buffington; and Miss Alice Buffington, at Sykesville.

Funeral services were held Thursday morning at his late home, 1448 Wicomico St., Baltimore, followed by interment in the Reformed cemetery, Taneytown, with services by Rev. Guy P. Bready. The following acted as pallbearers: Harvey Ohler, J. Thos. Wantz, Charles Hiltbricker, Sherman Gills, Wilbur Shorb and Arthur Angell.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS TANEYTOWN.

Dr. Stone and the county health nurse, Miss Chenoweth, made a physical examination of the first and third year high school pupils on Thursday last. A more detailed report of this examination will be published later.

The Assembly, on Thursday, Feb. 6, was in charge of Miss Knauff. During the month of February the programs will be on "Our Presidents." The following program was given: Song by school; scripture reading and salute to flag; piano solo, Jane Long; address on Woodrow Wilson, Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe, duet, John Chenoweth and Franklin Baker; talk on Andrew Jackson, Amelia Annan; song by school; talk on Roosevelt, Robert Benner; announcements, Mr. Smith. Mrs. Ethel Loy was absent from school on Thursday on account of a severe cold.

The Seniors are busy practicing their play entitled "Leave it to Sandy" to be given Friday and Saturday nights, Feb. 23 and March 1, at 8:00 P. M. This promises to be one of the best Senior plays ever given by the local High School.

Agatha Hahn, class of 1930, returned to school after being absent for nearly two weeks, on account of sickness.

Miss Knauff attended a conference of History teachers in Westminster, on Saturday last.

The February meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association will be held Monday, February 24, at which time a one-act play will be presented.

The Seniors and Juniors selected their class colors and flower, during the past week. The Senior colors are scarlet and gold, and flower is red rose. The Junior colors are orchid and silver, and flower is sweet peas. Each class is having a pennant made to be hung in the school building. Miss Knauff is advisor to the Seniors, and Miss Baker to the Juniors.

CARD OF THANKS.

We hereby extend our sincerest thanks to all friends and neighbors who assisted in any way, during the illness and following the death of our husband and father, William Airing.

BY THE FAMILY.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC.

Topic: "Lessons from John's First Epistle. 1 John 1:7-10; 3:1-3."

Written by—Rev. G. W. Ports, President of Carroll Co. C. E. Union.

This little Epistle is filled with many very practical lessons, a few of which are included in our Scripture reference.

The privilege of the Christian's walking in the light.

"Christ is the light of the world and in Him is no darkness at all." No darkness of sin and ignorance. This light of Christ sheds light on our intellectual, moral and physical condition. It is our privilege to walk in this light. It rests upon our choice—our decision. I may choose to continue, through the brightness of the day, to remain in a dark room, as I may choose to come out in the open sunlight and enjoy its healing rays. Every adverse condition of life is changed into a garden of Eden for those who enjoy the companionship of Jesus. "The Sun always shines on Christ's side of the road. Why walk in darkness when there is a flood of light shed to every life?"

The Fact of Sin, 8:10.

To say that we have not sinned is to say that we are untruthful. God's word declares that, "We have all sinned" and that, "There are none righteous, no not one." From a natural point of view we have no righteousness of our own. The only righteousness one can claim is that which Jesus Christ gives when we exercise faith in Him.

To say that we have not sinned is to call God a liar; 2:10. God sent His Son into the world to save those lost in sin. "The whole world lieth in sin."

It is a dangerous thing to call God a liar. It is no disgrace to acknowledge that we are sinners. It affirms our truthfulness and expresses our confidence in the word of God.

Remedy for our Sins: 2:9.

Confession to Christ who alone can forgive the sins of men. He has promised to be faithful to his office work of forgiving sins if we are honest enough to confess our sins.

Through confession and forgiveness we become the sons of God through faith in Christ. John 3:1-3.

The foundation of this all is the love of Christ Jesus. "We love Him because He first loved us." "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

BARK HILL.

William, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fritz, of Westminster, spent the last week-end with his home folks, at Ashland farm. David Watson, of Linwood, spent Sunday at the same place.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beckley, of Hagerstown, visited with the family of J. E. Dayhoff.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Yingling fell and injured one arm quite badly.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jones, Mrs. Gilbert and Eileen Reindollar, spent Sunday with Edwin Stambaugh and family.

Miss Erma Wolfe spent several days with Hall Martin and family, at Fairview.

The Scarlet Fever scare, which was on last week, has abated, with no more new cases. The school house was fumigated and all germs that didn't suffer dire destruction from "tear gas" are excommunicated from all social enjoyments in the future. Dr. Stone of the Health Board, visited the school and found everything satisfactory. Sterling Rowe is improving.

MANCHESTER.

Mrs. Ross Blocher, Miss Emma Gilbert, Mr. Meckley, and Mr. John Leese have recently been admitted as patients in the Union Memorial Hospital, in Baltimore.

David Brown, of Millers, and a Mr. Reed from near Hampstead, were admitted as patients in the Hanover, Pa., Hospital, on Monday.

A creditable program was rendered by the G. M. G. of Trinity Reformed Church, before a large audience, Sunday evening.

Mrs. A. D. Chiquoine, of Moore, near Philadelphia, Pa., was a recent guest of her niece, Mrs. John S. Hollenbach, at the Reformed Parsonage. The Men's Chorus from St. Paul's Lutheran Church, in Baltimore, sang in the Lutheran Church, Sunday evening. Mr. Gundersdorf, an active layman of the Lutheran Church, spoke.

Victories that cost little are apt to be worth little.

A LOCK OF HAIR FOR REMEMBRANCE

(By D. J. Walsh.)

THE first time Mary ever saw Brant Millington lingered in her mind with a strangely maternal desire to laugh at him; it had been such a little-boy sort of thing he had said.

Mary had rushed into Joe's barber shop at 11:40 and Joe's chair was empty, while Brant occupied the one next to it. And Joe went swiftly about the business of clipping Mary's sleek, straight locks in the very brief style she affected for comfort's sake. And as Joe's shears sang through her thick shining hair, Mary's alert ears overheard the conversation going on in the next chair to hers:

"Cut the pesky stuff off short, Ben; the gang all think I curl it and I'd cheerfully rather be bald than have anyone think that of me!" And, of course, Mary, having struggled with sleek, straight hair all her life and simply yearned for even the minutest curl imaginable, turned swiftly around and inspected the young man guilty of delivering such an alien thought, looked and almost wept to see the slaughter of the thick, curling bronze hair that was being quickly demolished under the onslaught of Ben's skilled shears. "Going to let it grow this winter, Miss Mary?" asked Joe with all the interest of your family barber.

"Oh, no; I would if only I could manage the ghost of a wave to it, but it's too beastly unmanageably straight," and Mary blushed slightly as she became conscious of the interested inspection of the occupant of the other chair.

"You could use pomade, Mr. Millington," advised the hopeful Benjamin. "Nope; leaves the hair too messy," objected Mr. Millington firmly, and Mary smiled a warm, friendly smile; it was such a relief to know a truly fastidious man existed in these days of makeup and what not.

"Ever think of trying a permanent, Mary?" offered the solicitous Joseph. "Loads of times, but common sense always rescued me at the eleventh hour," confessed Mary, aware that Mr. Millington was now frankly listening to her, and not only listening but casting frequent interested glances her way.

"First man I ever heard kick about his hair curling," offered Ben.

"Steam," advised Joe, thoughtfully, "will curl most hair. After your shampoo you just lift your hair by strands and hold it over a boiling teakettle."

But Mary and Brant were no longer interested in the barbers' conversation, and as they emerged into the street shoulder to shoulder Mary flushed ever so lightly and cast a shy, friendly glance at Brant, who looked very boyish and embarrassed as he tipped his hat and hurried ahead of Mary into an office building.

"Why," gasped Mary a few moments later as she alighted from the elevator in front of her office door, "he works here, too! Fancy that! And we to meet in a barber shop!" And Brant, looking up as he deposited hat and coat on a rack, knew a definite thrill of gladness to discover that that wonderful girl named Mary worked in his own office, too!

And, of course, they might have met and passed each other day in and day out without ever becoming any nearer the goal of their separate, secretly hoped-for goal of friendship had not fate intervened in their behalf with a few well-aimed happenings that were destined to bring them nearer together. The janitor of the office building was suddenly called to the death-bed of a near and dear relative and in his haste to arrive lest it be too late he locked the cellar, forgetting to adjust the furnace properly, and consequently at about 5:10, when most of the other occupants of the vast offices had already departed homeward, a faulty radiator in Mary's room gave way under the added pressure of an over-hot furnace, and although the safety-valve on the furnace was blowing a shrill siren of warning there was none to heed it, and consequently the weakest link in the chain broke, and in a few brief moments the big room was so filled with steam that even the windows were dimmed from view and Mary fled in fright to the outer desk telephone and was frantically trying to ring the janitor when Brant came in. The door to the steam-filled office was closed, but the glass window was so thickly misted with steam that Brant stood for a brief moment rooted to the spot, watching Mary's frantic efforts toward telephoning, thinking that it was smoke he saw in the glass window of the door.

"We'll have to put in an alarm, Mary," he said after an instant, and Mary stopped her frantic efforts with the telephone, and, facing him, said simply, "The fire department wouldn't care to fix a leaky radiator!" And the tense lines of his face relaxed and he advanced toward the closed office door, but Mary was ahead of him, and in an instant both were making desperate efforts to get up to the whistling, pounding radiator.

"It's no use; we simply can't do anything but get burned. We'll have to let it go and get some one to fix it," wailed Mary, her face dripping with moisture and even her eyelashes beading with the steam.

"I'll spoil everything in this room in the meantime. Let's try," answered Brant, and he made a futile effort to turn the radiator off, but to no avail, for the handle spun around either way, telling its own story of broken thread or whatever it is that makes a radiator backfire.

Fifteen minutes in a supercondensed Turkish bath, however, is likely to dampen the ardor of even the original trouble shooter of this world, and Brant finally agreed with the anxious Mary that they were wasting their time and could much better dispose of it in locating a janitor or somebody who understood the steam-radiator better than they.

Coming from the steam-clouded room, Brant wiped his face and turned to look at Mary, and then started in utter, unbelieving amazement. Mary's hair clung to her head in a mass of tightly curling ringlets! And Mary, staring fixedly at Brant, discovered that the steam had removed whatever trace of curl there was to his hair, and it hung in limp strands about his face as though he had been swimming!

"Mary!" gasped Brant. "Your hair is all curly!"

"And yours is all straight, Brant!" stammered Mary as she drew forth a minute mirror to gaze upon the miracle.

"Mary," began Brant shyly as Mary prepared to don hat and coat, "would you let me cut just one of those adorable curls for remembrance?" and, startled, Mary paused an instant and then said, slowly, "Yes, Brant, if you'll return the favor!"

So they very solemnly clipped a lock of each other's hair and then strolled out into the star-studded dusk of a gorgeous spring evening conscious that in exchanging a lock of hair they had gained something infinitely more precious! And Brant, not knowing Mary's last name even, knew—even as she did—that ere fall came Mary would be sharing his name gladly!

Jurist Had Odd Reason

for Apparent Slumber

The late Chief Justice White was perhaps the most thorough interrogator of counsel among his generation of Supreme court justices, and in that connection a somewhat amusing circumstance might be cited.

It was the fixed habit of the chief justice to sit during the course of an argument with his eyes closed and with his head thrown back on his chair. To the casual observer he seemed sound asleep. This often proved exceedingly embarrassing and disturbing to lawyers, who felt that they were addressing a man whom they not only failed to impress, but whom they could not even keep awake. However, the venerable jurist never failed at some stage of the argument to open his eyes, lean forward, and propound a question summing up practically everything the speaker had said from first to last. That was intended to show the pleader that, after all, his argument had not fallen upon deaf ears.

A judge of a lower court once asked the late chief justice why the latter appeared to sleep upon the bench, when as a matter of fact he was wide awake all the time. The answer was that by a curious freak of mind the chief justice had formed the habit of watching the mouths of lawyers in action while they were making their arguments.

He unconsciously became so absorbed, he said, in the facial expressions of the men before him that he lost the thread of the argument. In order, therefore, to do full justice to every cause pleaded before him, the chief justice found it necessary to close his eyes and shut from his mind the grotesque picture of the human mouth before him.—J. Frederick Esary in Scribner's Magazine.

Measuring Human Skin

There are from 14 to 18 square feet of skin on the average adult human body, says an article in Pathfinder Magazine. Of course, the surface area of the body, which is practically equivalent to the number of square feet of skin, varies with the sex, age, height and weight of the individual. Obviously the body of a tall, thin person might have a much greater surface area than the body of a short, fat person who weighs the same. The method of obtaining the surface area of the body is complicated and involves many factors, but charts have been devised whereby it can be estimated with a high degree of accuracy if the sex, age, height and weight of the individual are known.

Singing for Exercise

Besides being a pleasure to the singer and sometimes to those around, the act of singing is a better exercise than most persons have any thought of. It is good exercise for the throat, lungs and chest and now it is recommended for the ears. A western physician who is called upon to do a great deal of driving over the country says that after a particularly hard experience of this kind, his ears always seem to be affected, probably by the noise of the car and vibration of the engine. In this event he raises up his voice and sings to the best of his ability and this treatment soon relieves the ears.

Immense Swamp

The Great Dismal swamp is a morass in southeastern Virginia and northeastern North Carolina. It extends from near Norfolk 30 to 40 miles southward. It contains Lake Drummond and is traversed by the Dismal Swamp canal, which connects Chesapeake bay and Albemarle sound. Part of the swamp has been reclaimed. The biological survey says that the following animals are found in the Dismal swamp of Virginia: Bears, wildcats, rabbits, deer, opossums, squirrels and raccoons.

Tonight I sat before the fire
And listened to the radio—
A program the announcer called
"The songs of twenty years ago";
And as the music filled the room
With long-forgotten melodies,
I lived the days of youth once more
In happy, wistful memories.

I saw my sweetheart as she sang
Those tender songs when they were new;
I heard her whispering again
That every loving word was true.
And oh, how beautiful she was!
How graceful and how sweet her charms!
In joyous retrospect, I took
That little darling in my arms

The program ended . . . Still I sat,
Enjoying happy thoughts of her
With whom I sang those fond refrains
When love's young dreams began to stir
And then a nestling hand sought mine
In just the way it used to do,
And someone said, "For twenty years
My heart has sung those songs to you."

Revelation Gave "Vet"

Something of a Shock

At the beginning of the World War, the then Major Wise was in command at Philadelphia. Although a strict disciplinarian, he was very human and therefore loved by the men. The story is still told of how one marine, just past the age limit, was to have been left behind when the troop started for France.

The old vet, determined to go to the front, walked boldly up to his commander in the Philadelphia navy yard and said:

"Sir, there's room enough in France for both of us."

There was, and later on, when the man went to the hospital with a bullet in his leg, it chanced to be Mrs. Wise who nursed him and endured his ill-temper, as he was anxious to get back to the front.

Then one day, he discovered that his nurse was his major's wife and what he said after that isn't printable.

Good Manners

I take it that the essence of good manners is the gift of putting people at their ease, not the chosen few people whom one likes, but all people. Yes, ease is the word that describes good manners. The great lady is at her ease with the gardener, the housemaid, the ragamuffin, the outcast, and she makes them all feel comfortable in her presence. And bad manners is the faculty of making every one uncomfortable, whether by being abruptly rude, or overwhelmingly gushing, too cordial or too lacking in cordiality, too contemptuous or too flattering. Too much of anything is bad manners. It destroys ease and makes people fidget. A manner that makes other people nervous is a bad manner, whether it be frankly unpleasant or too pleasant by far.—Mary Borden in Harper's Magazine.

Ink's High Importance

Some one has said that the art of writing "consists in putting black marks on white paper." The history of this modest essential, both of writing and printing, has recently been traced back 3,000 years. The Egyptians are credited with using ink as early as 1200 B. C. Later, the Greeks imported both papyrus and ink from their neighbors on the banks of the Nile. It is difficult to imagine how learning could have progressed or the records of the past have been handed down without ink. It has been a faithful soldier in the procession which we call civilization.—Exchange.

Sharp

Psychologists claim the late Marshal Foch as one of their own because he did not take his problems to bed with him. He dismissed them from his mind and devoted bedtime hours to sleeping. In the mornings, refreshed, he had the solutions, which, apparently had worked themselves out in his sleep. Foch, however, put a different construction on the apparent miracle. He said:

"It seems to me that the mirror before which I shave myself gives me the answers."

That's Something

Little Mary was sent to a strange school, so was somewhat bewildered and inattentive. Her first test came suddenly and by surprise. Little Mary's grade was just one below passing. She came home and told about it, explaining that only four in the class had passed.

"But," said her father, "why were you not one of the four who passed?" Little Mary was distressed for a moment, then said triumphantly:

"But, Daddy, I was the best failure."

Alumni Associations

The organization of those who have been students is characteristic of American schools. The first alumni association was established at Williams college in 1821. For many years alumni organizations were chiefly social, affording opportunity for the reunion of friends. As these associations developed, however, they proved to be useful not only in welding former students together in friendship, but in maintaining interest in and, in some cases, supplying funds for the various schools and colleges.

Not for Her!

Small Jeanne, who had been used to having her hair cut at home, was taken to the barber shop for the first time. Proudly she was seated in the chair. When the current was turned on so the clippers could be used she became terrified.

"Stop it, stop it!" she sobbed; "I won't have a vacuum sweeper on my head."

Swell English

Lil—So you have stopped talking slang?

Lal—You've said it, kid. I've sidestepped that guff for the sort of spiel used by the swell Janes.

Water Filtration Has

Curbed Disease Spread

About 1887 it was announced by Percy Frankland and others that sand filtration removed nearly all the bacteria in water. Five years later came the outbreak of cholera in Hamburg, and a striking demonstration was afforded of protection through filtration. Hamburg and Altona, two cities on the Elbe river, both used the river as a source of water supply. Hamburg used unfiltered water; Altona filtered its supply. When cholera infection of the river water occurred, Altona escaped with only a few cases. Hamburg, on the other hand, had an enormous number.

Following the rapid advance of the science of bacteriology in the '80s and '90s, it was natural to consider the possibility of purifying drinking water by the addition of chemical disinfectants. The first systematic use of chlorine in water is credited to Houston and McGovern in England in 1904 and 1905. The present world-wide use of chlorine disinfectant of public water supplies, however, is due largely to the work of George A. Johnson, who, in 1908, used bleaching powder ("chloride of lime") for the purification of Jersey City's water supply.—New York Times.

Inventions That Would

Make Deviser Wealthy

Among the 20 ways of making a million dollars, revealed by Roger W. Babson, economist, in the Forum are: (1) Pills for plants—condensed form of fertilizer, to do away with waste-ful spreading. (2) A new gearless automobile which will use a rotary engine, go sidewise as well as forward and backward for convenience in parking. (3) A foolproof helicopter, to lift an airplane directly off the earth, enabling the aviator to light on city streets and building roofs. (4) Gliders for children. Boys will fly around their yards as safely as they now play in their sandpiles. (5) A light that will pierce fog, something greatly needed in the field of air navigation. (6) Talking books—that is, pages that may be fed into a machine and save the bother of reading. (7) Flexible, unbreakable and bulletproof glass. (8) Cold light, to do away with 95 per cent of electric current now wasted on resistance to create glow. (9) Mahogany lumber from native hardwood trees, by inoculating them with dyes and chemicals.

Diet of Lions

Lions in their native habits prey largely upon young antelopes, zebras, buffalos, giraffes and other vegetation-eating animals. For this reason it is often stated that the lion will not eat the flesh of carnivorous or flesh-eating creatures. The fact seems to be that lions will eat the flesh of any animal recently killed, such as animals left by hunters. Certainly lions in captivity are not particular about the kind of flesh they eat. There is also abundant proof that the king of beasts will occasionally attack and eat human beings. Dr. W. Reid Blair, in his book "In the Zoo," tells of two man-eating lions in Africa which carried off 18 men employed in building the Uganda railway.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Small Potatoes

The late Haley Fiske of insurance fame said one evening in a Y. M. C. A. address in Brooklyn:

"It pays big business to be liberal. To save a dollar in a mean small way signifies the loss of hundreds of dollars in good will."

"Whenever a mean, small economy is proposed to me I tell the anecdote about the Scotchman who went into a barber shop and said:

"'Hoo much for a haircut?'
"Forty cents, sir," said the barber.
"Hoo much for a shave?'
"Twenty cents."

"Shave mah head."

Purifying Public Water

The first noteworthy movement in this country for the purification of a public water supply was made in 1806, according to the New York Health department, when St. Louis sent James P. Kirkwood to Europe to investigate the methods practiced there. On his return Kirkwood made an elaborate report that water engineers still regard as a classic. In 1872, about five years after Kirkwood's death, a plant was built at Poughkeepsie in accordance with his plans. This was the first practical attempt at purification of a municipal water supply in America.

Unrepose Prose

If a cat doth meet a cat upon a garden wall, and if a cat doth greet a cat, O need they both to squall? Every Tommy has his Tabby waiting on the wall, and yet he welcomes her approach by an unearthly yawl. And if a kitten wish to court upon the garden wall, why don't he sit and sweetly smile, and not stand up and bawl, and lift his precious back up high and show his teeth and moan, as if 'twere colic more than love that made that fellow groan!—Pathfinder Magazine.

Simple

The other day a man, hitherto without a spot on his character, inquired, with well-feigned innocence:

"How can five persons divide five eggs so that each man will receive one and still one remain in the dish?"

After the company went all but distracted in the mazes of this proposition, the fellow meekly said:

"One takes the dish with the egg."

THE CHEAPEST THING

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE cheapest thing in life is life. Come, friend, and see it sold. One trades it for a party's strife, One for a pot of gold. Another fills a brimming glass And throws his one life in. Another with a painted lass Will sell it for a sin.

Men sell their lives, and what to buy? Come, friend, and let us see. For pleasure some decide to die, Though happiness is free. Men sell their lives for midnight hours, Burn candles at both ends. Some sell their lives for paper flow'rs, And some for faithless friends.

Yes, life is sold, and sold for what? Come, friend, and we'll inquire. Well, here are many seeking not Contentment but desire. Some sell their lives for fame, for lust,

A game, a social wife, In all this world of dross and dust The cheapest thing is life. (© 1929, Douglas Malloch.)

Mother's Cook Book

The bliss of man (could pride that blessing find)

Is not to act or think beyond mankind: No powers of body or of soul to share, But what his nature and his state can bear.

—Alexander Pope.

GOOD THINGS

A HOT supper dish which will be not only satisfying but attractive is:

Tomato Rarebit.

Heat one can of tomato soup in a double boiler, add one small onion chopped and two tablespoonfuls of catsup. Cut one pound of American cheese into thin slices and stir into the soup, add one egg well beaten and cover for five minutes. Serve at once on toasted crackers. Some prefer serving the rarebit before the cheese is entirely melted. This also makes a fine sandwich filling, served on hot toast, or cold on buttered bread.

Date and Bran Bread.

Mix two cupfuls of bran, two cupfuls of white flour, one teaspoonful of salt, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder together, add two-thirds of a cupful of dates cut into small pieces, one and one-half cupfuls of milk, one egg beaten and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Turn into a well greased pan, cover with oiled paper and steam for three hours.

Pumpkin Pudding.

Take two cupfuls of steamed, strained pumpkin, two-thirds of a cupful of currants, one-fourth cupful each of sugar and molasses, two beaten eggs, one and one-half cupfuls of milk, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one tablespoonful of melted butter, one-half teaspoonful of ginger and mace and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Pour into well buttered molds and bake in a pan of hot water until firm. Serve with whipped cream covered with grated cheese.

Sultana Bread.

Mix and sift the following: Two cupfuls of cornmeal, one cupful of graham, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of soda and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder; add one cupful of Sultana raisins and when well mixed add one and one-half cupfuls of sour milk, one egg, one-half cupful of molasses. Mix thoroughly and steam two and three-quarters hours.

Cheese and Raisin Dreams.

Take one package of cream cheese, one-half cupful of chopped raisins, one tablespoonful of lemon juice and salt and paprika to taste. Mix and spread on bread, cover with another slice, cut into triangular sandwiches. Dip in beaten egg and milk and fry brown on both sides in a little butter. Serve with a lettuce salad.

Lesson for February 16

JESUS HEALING AND HELPING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 8:1-9:34.
GOLDEN TEXT—Himself took our infirmities and bore our sicknesses.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Healing and Helping.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Healing and Helping.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus the Friend of the Needy.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Meeting Human Needs.

I. Jesus Heals a Leper (8:1-4).

1. The dreadful disease (v. 2). Leprosy, the most loathsome and hopeless disease known, in the Jewish ritual, was regarded as a symbol of sin. As leprosy was incurable by man, so only the divine physician could cure sin.

2. The leper's faith (v. 2). His cry was most pitiable, but his faith was strong. He fully believed that Jesus was able, but not certain that He was willing to heal him.

3. Jesus' power (v. 3). He put forth His hand and touched the leper, bidding the disease depart, and instantly the man was cleansed.

II. Jesus Heals the Centurion's Servant (8:5-13).

1. The disease (v. 6). The victim of paralysis is helpless and disqualified for service.

2. The centurion's humility (v. 8). He first sent the Jewish elders and then his friends (Luke 7:3, 6), because he felt his unworthiness. The case of this servant was so grave that his master brushed aside his timidity and personally appealed to Jesus.

3. The centurion's faith (vv. 8, 9). He believed that if Jesus would but speak the word, his servant would be healed.

4. The wonderful power of Jesus (v. 13).

He did not need even to see the helpless man, but only to speak the word and it was done.

III. Jesus Heals Peter's Mother-in-law (8:14, 15).

She was sick of a fever. Jesus was invited into Peter's home to heal this woman. Upon entering the home He touched the hand of the patient and the fever left her, and she arose and ministered unto them.

IV. Jesus Casts Out Demons (8:28-34).

After stilling the tempest, Jesus crossed to the other side of the sea into heathen territory.

1. Met by two men possessed by demons (v. 28).

These men were in a desperate condition (see Mark 5:1-17 and Luke 8:27). So fierce were they that no one could safely pass that way. They wore no raiment and no chains were strong enough to hold them.

2. What they knew about Christ (v. 29).

They knew that He was the Son of God and that He had come to destroy the devil and his work. Among the demons there is no doubt as to the deity of Jesus Christ and as to the judgment to come.

3. Christ's power to deliver from the devil (vv. 30-32).

The demons quailed before Him, not daring to dispute His power.

V. Jesus Heals a Woman With an Issue of Blood (9:20-22).

1. Her helpless condition (v. 20).

She had been a great sufferer for twelve long years, not only from the disease, but at the hands of the physicians (Mark 5:26).

2. Her faith (v. 21).

Her faith was so strong that she believed contact with the Master's garment would secure needed help.

3. Her confession (v. 21, cf. Luke 8:47).

She thought secretly to get the blessing, but Jesus perceived that virtue had gone out from Him, and had her make a public confession.

4. Christ's words of encouragement (v. 22).

He told her that it was her faith, not her touch that saved her.

VI. Jesus Opening the Eyes of Two Blind Men (9:27-31).

1. Their persistence of faith (v. 28). These poor men had heard of the wonderful works of Jesus and desired to be healed.

2. The intelligence of faith (v. 27). They cried unto Him as the Son of David, which showed that they recognized Him as the promised Messiah. The prophet had foretold such to be the works of Messiah (Isa. 29:18; 35:5; 42:7).

3. The challenge of faith (v. 28).

In reply to His challenge, they gave Him a definite answer.

4. The triumph of faith (vv. 29, 30). Their faith brought them into touch with the Lord of life who revealed His power by opening their eyes.

Heroes and Cowards

Great occasions do not make heroes or cowards; they simply unveil them to the eyes of men. Silently and imperceptibly, as we wake or sleep, we grow and wax strong, we grow and wax weak, and at last some crisis shows us what we have become.—Canon Westcott.

Faith

Faith is an almighty thing like the Eternal God Himself; therefore God seeks to prove and try it.—Luther.

Bobbed Hair Proved to Have Been Viking "Fad"

It has been definitely proved: Bobbed hair was the fashion over a thousand years ago. It cannot be claimed that it conquered the entire world at that time, but we know absolutely that the ancient Vikings, the robbers and seafarers of old, knew the style. This astounding fact, together with many others of perhaps less interest but even greater scientific importance, has been established through the discovery near Tilsit, East Prussia, of a huge Viking burial place, dating from the Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh centuries. The finds are unusually rich. Each man's grave contains three or four iron swords, as many as a dozen lanceheads, bronze belt buckles, stirrups and snaffles. In the women's graves jewelry of all kinds was found, bronze bracelets, rings, necklaces, all beautifully wrought. A young woman with bobbed hair was found in one of these graves, with "zippers" used in place of buttons or pins to fasten garments.—Edgar Ansel in the Chicago Daily News.

Baby Carriages First Used by Royal Families

Baby carriages did not make their appearance until the middle of the Nineteenth century, when, according to a historical sketch published by a carriage company, a man appeared on a street in New York and attracted a good deal of attention by pushing a baby carriage which he had designed and made. That man was Charles Burton, a lithographic artist who had come from England, and who returned to his home country with his baby carriage as soon as he discovered that he had hit upon a popular idea.

He made some more carriages in the parlor of a house near the Kensington palace and almost immediately received orders from nobility and royalty, including Queen Victoria, who bought three, Queen Isabella of Spain, who bought one, for her son, later Alphonso XII, and others. The royal houses quickly learned of the convenience of the baby carriage, and it reached the homes of the poor.—Detroit News.

And They Got the Point

A negro evangelist was preaching concerning the horrors of hell. In front of him was a coffin piled high with flowers. Newspapers had announced that it was to be the funeral of a neighbor. There was no word of praise from the preacher's mouth. "Brethren an' sistahs," he shouted, "ouah deceased friend heah done committed ev'ry sin in de catalog. He wasn't ready when de trumpet of de angel called him. He was unprepa'ed. He was wicked an' had to face judgment in his wickedness." At the end of the sermon every member of the congregation was eager to crowd forward and view the "remains." Solemnly they filed past the coffin. It was empty but in the bottom was a mirror that reflected the face of every "mourner" that looked in. The lesson went home.—Capper's Weekly.

Chinese Delicacy

Chop suey originated at a dinner that Prince Li Hung Chang gave in New York when he made his trip around the world. Prince Li carried his own chef with him, and the menu was strictly Chinese. One of the dishes especially delighted the wife of the guest of honor, and she asked Li what it was. Prince Li called in his chef, and the chef replied in Chinese, "It is a creation of my own—a chop suey." The words "chop suey" mean a mixture, or hash. Prince Li said in English, "It is a chop suey." The American woman spread the news of chop suey, the wonderful dish. The name was taken up by the Chinese restaurants in America, and today chop suey is the chief concoction that they serve.

Helpful

The widow of a farmer was being consoled by a neighboring farmer, who happened to be a widower.

"Cheer up, woman," he said. "Ye're young yet, and good looking, an' you could soon get another husband."

"Oh, no, no," she replied, "who would take me?"

"Why, if I had a better pair of boots on I'd run away w' ye myself," said the widower, gallantly.

The widow, lifting her face and wiping her eyes, said, earnestly: "I wonder would John's fit you?"—England Birmingham Weekly Post.

Early Diving Suit

The diving suit is not so new as one might think. A patent was granted to John Stapleton on March 17, 1693, for "a new engine so by him contrived as to permit a person enclosed in it to walk under water, and to a new invented way to force air into any depth of water to supply the person in the said engine therewith and for continuing a lamp burning under water; also a way to desecrate and purify the air so as to make the same serviceable for respiration."

Ask Me

She had done everything wrong. She had disregarded the signal lights, then stalled in the middle of the street, and before starting had taken out her powder puff and started to apply it to her face. An irate traffic officer rushed up:

"Say, lady, do you know anything at all about traffic rules?"

"Why, yes. What is it that you want to know?"—Chatham News.

AN ARTIFICIAL DISCOURSE

A. C. Mahon (left) and Sergius P. Grace demonstrating the use of the artificial larynx.

[Dermont Photograph]

Sergius P. Grace, Assistant Vice-President of the Bell Telephone Laboratories in addressing the Richmond, Va., Chamber of Commerce recently, was agreeably surprised and pleased to have as a member of the audience A. C. Mahon, one of the 100 men in this country who use the artificial larynx, a development of the telephone laboratories. In speaking of the value of this instrument Mr. Mahon was quoted in the Richmond News-Leader as saying:

"When I lost my voice three years ago following my operation, it was necessary for me to communicate with people by writing. This was so unsatisfactory that I began looking around for some instrument whereby I could regain my voice. At this time the Bell Laboratories invented the artificial larynx which I have been using since its invention, with remarkable success."

During the demonstration Mr. Grace and Mr. Mahon carried on a conversation, both using the artificial larynges.

Curly Maple

The forest service says that the cause of curly maple is not entirely known. It appears to be an accidental phenomenon and it is believed that it is not hereditary. Curly maple is secured from occasional white maple (sugar maple) trees among the stands of white maple trees throughout the Lake states. In the curly maple varieties the bark curls inward, forming a notch or depression. Experienced persons can identify curly maple trees by cutting into the bark. In the curly maple varieties little dimples or depressions will show in the wood. Curly maple can also be identified from the ends of the logs.

Waters From Icefield

The stream which ends in the famous Takakkaw falls in Yoho national park, British Columbia, is fed by the melting waters of the Waputik icefield which lies upon the summit of the Great divide. Flowing down the mountain for over half a mile it reaches the precipice that walls the east side of the Yoho valley. Here it takes a leap of 150 feet over the edge, then, gathering itself together, falls in a glorious curtain 1,000 feet down the face of the cliff, and finally tumbles in a magnificent cascade of 500 feet into Yoho river.

Life of a Sponge

Sponges live their own lives and eat their own food as other animals do. The separate existence of a sponge begins when a tiny particle, after being whirled about for a time by ocean tides and currents, eventually attaches itself to a piece of rock, and from that home it seeks its own livelihood. The food of infant sponges consists of yolk cells, which contain a form of nourishment. Later, as the sponge grows, it requires something more solid, and this is brought in by the currents.

Scottish Abbey Holds

Relics of Robert Bruce

Subject to the fulfillment of certain conditions, the trustees of Professor Noel Paton handed over the following articles to the kirk-session of Dunfermline abbey: 1. A portion of the skeleton of King Robert the Bruce, namely, the metatarsal or bone of the great toe. 2. A small portion of the outer leaden shroud of King Robert the Bruce. 3. A small portion of the toile d'or in which the body of King Robert the Bruce was wrapped. 4. The remains of one of the iron nails which were found among the remains of the coffin in which the body reposed. 5. The remains of one of the six iron rings, or rather handles, which had been filled in with lead into the largest of two stones protecting the vault of the Bruce when first discovered on February 17, 1818. 6. Twelve fragments—white marble and calm stone—"believed to be portions of the magnificent monument of King Robert the Bruce at Dunfermline destroyed by the Lords of the Congregation." The relics are preserved in an oak glass-fronted cabinet placed alongside of the abbey pulpit erected immediately above the vault of the Bruce.—London Mail.

Washington Stirred Up

Over Van Buren's Coach

Van Buren arrived in Washington toward the end of the second week of the session, it being traditional for the Vice President to absent himself until the senate committees had been appointed. On taking the chair on Monday, December 16, he made his first public utterance as the second officer of the land. It was short and one such as others before and after him have made; totally devoid of significance. It provoked no comment; but the coach he had brought over from England did. The adverse journals described it as an English coach of state—"a very splendid carriage, drawn by two beautiful blooded horses, their heads and tails full of a great deal more of intellect, passion, feeling and sublimity than their owner. . . . It is of a dark-olive hue, with ornaments elegantly disposed, shining as bright as burnished gold" and "far more superb than the equipages of royalty."—From "An Epoch and a Man" by Dennis Tilden Lynch.

Wide Use of Amulets

Amulets, writes Frank H. Vizetelly, editor of the New Standard dictionary, were used once not only for the protection of men and women, but also of cattle. The so-called Antonius medallions were very much in demand for this purpose, and were hung upon horses, asses, and oxen, for Antony of Padua had been the patron of the horse and the ass in his day. Cowbells, like bells hung upon infants, were intended originally to frighten away evil spirits, and their use in later times to help the herdsmen to trace the cattle or identify their beasts is a much later idea. Charms against charms also were worn.

Nothing New

The young son of an Indianapolis physician is intensely interested in moths. He reads everything that comes to hand concerning them. One day when his father saw him poring over a big volume in the library, he said:

"What are you reading, son?"

The son replied: "Oh, about moths, but they don't tell me anything I don't already know about them."

The interested parent asked: "Well, what is the name of your book," when son answered:

"What All Mothers Should Know."

Apparently a Highway Victim

Bobbie, aged four, had accompanied his mother on a visit to the home of an over-nice maiden great-aunt. Cautioned for days and days beforehand, he was careful about everything he said and did—until dinner time came. Then he became eager, for he was told that chicken was on the menu.

When this delectable fowl was served, and Bobbie observed that there were no "drumsticks," but instead were shredded patties, he exclaimed:

"This chicken must have been run over!"

Growth of Sand Dunes

The sand dunes along the shores of lakes are formed by the wind. A stiff breeze blowing along the beach carries some sand with it. It meets some obstacle, a piece of driftwood or perhaps merely a tuft of grass. Some of the sand is deposited and a tiny dune is formed. More and more sand is added until a large mound is formed, sometimes rising to a height of 300 feet. The wind not only builds up dunes but tears them down, so that the sand dunes are constantly changing in form and position.

Not Through

Billy, age five, was invited as a guest with his mother and father to take dinner at a hotel. He was greatly impressed with the service and was especially appreciative of the finger bowl. He had paused in the process of washing his fingers, and the alert waitress started to remove the bowl. This time, however, her attempt was halted, for Billy remonstrated in an unmistakable tone of command: "Don't take the washpan! I want to wash some more dirt off of my hands."

Facts and Figures on Your Telephone

By EDWIN F. HILL

Edwin F. Hill

A single pebble hasn't any value. It is just a small stone. But take a truck load of pebbles, bind them together in a mixture of sand, cement and water, and behold, a substance strong enough to support the weight of massive buildings or to withstand the pounding shocks of heavy, highway traffic.

A single telephone, like the pebble, is not of great value. It is just an instrument. Add another and bind them together with wire connections and two people talk with each other. As other telephones are installed, the value and usefulness of the service increases. This service makes each community a more useful part of the State, nation or world.

In Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia, the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Companies now operate 618,700 telephones. Last year 34,232 telephones were added to the system in this area, which was the greatest increase in any year in the companies' history, officials say.

Ten years ago telephone users in this area made annually about 607,000,000 local and more than 14,300,000 toll calls. Officials of the company state that more than a billion local telephone connections were established during 1929. Out-of-town calls increased to about 35,000,000 or 144 per cent.

Hid $5,000 Policy in Telephone Book

Telephone directories, as everyone knows who uses the telephone, and most people do, are the source of much valuable information. Directories contain important facts on how to use the telephone, what to do in emergencies necessitating calling the fireman, the policeman or the ambulance, how to make out-of-town calls, how to report telephones out of order and many other things of a useful nature.

But the telephone directory is certainly not a satisfactory substitute for a safe-deposit box. Just recently a case was reported to telephone officials where a directory supervisor happened to see a recovered book which bulged larger than he thought the issue warranted. His curiosity being aroused, he opened the directory and discovered a folder which was found to be a life insurance policy for $5,000.

Doing a little sleuthing, the telephone man discovered the address of the house from which the directory had been collected and on going there found that the policy had been issued to a son of the telephone subscriber. The son had died a few weeks previously and his parents, it turned out, had known nothing of the policy, so that its return was very much like a gift of $5,000.

Handn't Changed

He was a stout man, and his feet were big in proportion. He wore stout boots, too, with broad toes. When he went into the boot shop to buy another pair, he found he had some difficulty in getting what he wanted. A dozen pairs were shown him.

"No, no! Square toes—must have square shoes," he insisted.

"But, sir, everybody is wearing shoes with pointed toes. They are fashionable this season."

"I'm sorry," said the stout man, as he prepared to leave the shop. "I'm very sorry to have troubled you, I'm sure. But, you see, I'm still wearing my last season's feet!"—London Tit-Bits.

Had the Wrong Girl

Telephone tact is a necessary acquirement in these modern days, but its exercise occasionally leads to unexpected results. A recent example follows: Late at night the telephone in a home called the householder to the receiver. An obviously feminine voice was just as obviously that of a stranger.

After ascertaining that the caller had been connected with a wrong number, the householder remarked: "This is exasperating, isn't it?"

To his bewilderment the reply came back: "Oh, no; this is Lillian!"—New York Sun.

"Great Britain"

Britannia Major, meaning Great Britain, was the name formerly given to the whole island to distinguish it from Britannia Minor, which was the name given to Brittany. James I used the title king of Great Britain, but without the sanction of parliament. It was not officially adopted until after the union of England with Scotland in 1707. After the union with Ireland in 1800 the country became known as the Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Items of news from town, or vicinity are always wanted for this column. Especially accidents, sales of real estate, fires, important happenings, visits to or from the community social events, and all matters of general interest to those at home, and away from home.

Carroll C. Hess had his tonsils removed, on Tuesday, at the West Baltimore Hospital.

Mrs. Louisa Hammond, spent several days last week with Mrs. Grace Straw, at Feesersburg.

Miss Mary A. Reindollar spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. John J. Buffington, in Baltimore.

A change in bus schedule will be found in an advertisement in this issue, giving the leaving time from Taneytown.

Miss Margaret Shreeve, who is teaching at Steelton, Pa., spent the last week-end in town on a visit to her parents.

Mrs. Frank Palmer entertained, on Thursday afternoon, Rev. Earl Redding, Mrs. Albert Angell and Mrs. Earl Bowers.

Mrs. E. Gregg Kiser, near Keysville who was operated on last week at the Frederick City Hospital, is getting along nicely.

Mrs. Merwyn Fuss and daughters, Oneida and Alice, spent last Saturday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Marker, at Littlestown.

Mrs. Charles L. Stonesifer is substituting for Miss Catherine Lambert, as primary teacher in the Harney school. Miss Lambert is ill with pneumonia.

While Master Richard Sutcliffe was roller skating Tuesday evening he bumped into a playmate and fell, and in doing so, badly tore the ligaments of his right arm above the elbow.

Our Firemen are busy preparing for the annual supper, to be held on Washington's birthday. Don't forget the worthy cause and be ready with your donations when the solicitors call.

Mrs. Jesse Myers celebrated her 83rd birthday at her home, Sunday Feb. 9th. Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Null, son George and daughter, Mary Louise, near town spent the day with her.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hesson left, on Monday evening, for a trip of three or four weeks to Florida. Here's wishing that the alligators don't get 'em, and that they will have a fine time in general.

A card party for the benefit of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, will be held in the Opera House, on Monday, Feb. 17, at 8:00 P. M. There will be a door prize, and other prizes given. Refreshments free.

Saturday, Feb. 22, Washington's Birthday, the rural carriers will not go over their routes, the Postoffice will only be open for the regular dispatch of mails. No window service during the day.—Harry L. Feeser, Postmaster.

Next Saturday, the 22nd., being Washington's birthday, there will be no Rural Delivery service on Saturday. The Record will therefore be issued on Thursday instead of Friday. All Correspondents and Advertisers please take notice.

We wonder how many are making use of our special poetry feature, each week? As we have heretofore advised, many of these offerings will be fine for readings or recitations, for future use. We expect them to continue for several months.

The Record will go out of the 5c tablet business, the last this month, as we will then have disposed of something like 1500 pounds in tablets and specially cut sizes, and the remainder of the paper we can use to better advantage in orders for printing.

Surveyors from the State Road Commission made a survey of the Taneytown-Littlestown road, this week, that would take out some of the angles in the present road bed. This is necessary work preliminary to the construction of the road that is expected to take place this year, possibly to the extent of going to the Pennsylvania line.

(For the Record.)

A card party was held at the home of D. Frank Harman's, on Tuesday evening. Interesting games of Pitch and Five Hundred were played, while a few indulged in dominoes. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. D. Frank Harman, Mr. and Mrs. John Harman, Littlestown; Mr. and Mrs. William Kiser, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Flickinger, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hartsock, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. I. Harman; Misses Alice Harman, Eleanor Kiser, Ruthanna Flickinger, Ruth Harman; Messrs. Luther Clabaugh, George Kiser, Elton Flickinger, Albert Welty and Garland Harman. At a late hour all enjoyed refreshments consisting of sandwiches, pickles, ice cream, cake and coffee.

Mrs. Martha Fringer, who had been ill, is improved and able to be around again.

The Home-makers' Club will meet next Thursday afternoon, in the Firemen's Building.

Mrs. Franklin H. Fair was given a handkerchief shower on Monday. She received 31 beautiful handkerchiefs.

Miss Helen Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Smith, is visiting relatives and friends in Philadelphia.

Eight officials of the Crown Cork and Seal Co., Baltimore, visited Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Crouse, on last Sunday.

Mrs. Bernard Arnold gave a card party on Monday night. There were seven tables, and all enjoyed the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Jacobs, of Fairfield, Pa., were callers at Mrs. Sarah Albaugh's, on Wednesday evening.

Caroline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. M. Ohler, Jr., suffering with Scarlet Fever. The case is reported to be mild.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin H. Fair and son, Jimmy, spent Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. William Fissel, of Littlestown, Pa.

Mrs. Ralph Conover, near town, returned home from the Frederick City Hospital, last Friday, and is getting along as well as can be expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hilterbrick and family, returned to Taneytown from Ohio, last week and are living in the Feeser dwelling, on York St.

Burton Kephart, salesman for the Koons Motor Company, recently attended a sales school at the Ford Motor Company, Washington, D. C.

Franklin Bowersox who is at the Frederick City Hospital is getting along as well as can be expected. Thirty-nine of his friends visited him on Sunday.

Mrs. Sarah Albaugh spent Wednesday with Mrs. William Keefe, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Edwards. Mrs. Keefe who had been very ill, is somewhat improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Crouse celebrated their twenty-eighth wedding anniversary, last Sunday, by entertaining a number of guests at dinner, at their home on Mill Ave.

Mrs. Chester Aldridge was taken to the Frederick City Hospital, Sunday afternoon, and operated on at once for appendicitis. She is reported as getting along as well as can be expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman Lambert, of New Windsor, visited their daughter, Catherine, who is ill with double pneumonia at the home of Miss Ruth Snider, Harney, where she boards. Miss Lambert is one of the teachers at Harney.

Next Thursday night, Feb. 20, the P. O. S. of A., will hold a class initiation and general rally. Visitors will be Wm. James Heaps, State Secretary; William J. Carter, State Treasurer, and Past State Presidents, William T. Childs and William F. Williams, all of Baltimore—four well known "Bills" in the order. Refreshments will be served.

Rev. W. E. Saltzgeber, pastor of the Silver Run Lutheran charge, is making use of The Record's recent editorial, "Always Asking for Money," in the forthcoming issue of "The Parish Messenger" the monthly paper of the Silver Run charge. The Record is always glad to aid the clerical brethren with their problems, whenever its productions are considered worthwhile.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Albaugh, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Albaugh, Jr., of Walkersville, and Truman Albaugh, of Utica, Md., spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Mary Stover, who had been very ill, but is improving. Callers at the same place were: Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stover, son Chas; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Albaugh daughter, Esther; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Stover, daughter, Ruth, near town, and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Overholtzer.

BURN OLD BEAN POLES.

It is strongly advised that all old bean poles be burned, and that all new poles be used this year. The examination of a number of old poles has shown that bean beetles are concealed under the bark, in cracks and in webs on the old poles. Some of the beetles are soft and hard to distinguish but they are there.

Overwhelming Greatness
True greatness bids the smaller fry be satisfied to win
A corner where they can "stand by" and humbly "listen in."

Not Understood

She—I wouldn't think of marrying such an intelligent monstrosity and physical misfit as you are—you numbskull! Do you get me?
He—Well, from the general trend of your conversation, I should judge not.

THE KEY FEEDS

If a feeder would say to us that he could buy feed for a lower price than we ask for THE KEY FEEDS--it would mean nothing to us. That can always be done.

If a feeder would say to us that he could buy better feed than THE KEY FEEDS--we would be very much concerned. We can never allow that to be true.

THE KEY FEEDS are as good as we can make them.

Start and grow your chicks on THE KEY STARTING and GROWING MASH.
