

PAUL W. EDWARDS HELD FOR EXAMINATION.

Concerning the Death of William Keefer, last December.

Paul W. Edwards, of Copperville, was arrested and lodged in jail, on Tuesday night. It is said that no charge has as yet been lodged against him, but that he is being held without bail for questioning concerning the death of William Keefer, at Bark Hill, December 10th, last.

Mr. Keefer died shortly after he and his wife had eaten breakfast. Both were taken violently ill, the symptoms indicating poisoning, but Mrs. Keefer survived and has since been living with the Edwards family, at Copperville. Mr. Keefer was 79 years of age. In addition to the Bark Hill home, he also owned a farm near Otter Dale Mill.

The body of Mr. Keefer was exhumed Feb. 5, and portions of it used for a chemical analysis. The result of the analysis is not known, nor have any specific charges been made against Mr. Edwards.

Among the reports going are, that Mr. Edwards spent the night of Dec. 9th, at the Keefer home and that he left for his own home before the Keefer's became ill; also that Mr. Keefer had made a will leaving his property to Mrs. Keefer during her life, after which it was to go to Mr. Edwards.

A coroner's inquest will be called in the near future, and until this is over it is unlikely that there will be any further developments.

Mr. Edwards and his sister were taken to raise many years ago by the Keefer's, their father, H. C. Edwards being an inmate of the National Soldier's Home at Dayton, Ohio, until his death a few years ago. The sister lived with the Keefer's until last Fall when she married Peter Gilbert, near Westminster.

The will made by Mr. Keefer, which was probated since his death, devised his property for life to his wife, and after her death to Edwards and his sister. However, it is said that on October 24, last Mr. and Mrs. Keefer made a deed of the farm to Mr. Edwards and his wife, this act supposed to show dissatisfaction with Miss Edwards' marriage.

THE LEADERSHIP TRAINING CAMP, AGAIN.

The Leadership Training camp, directed by Dr. M. Hadwin Fisher, will again be held this summer near Arendtsville. It has been announced by Dr. Fisher, the camp was opened for the first time last summer and by reason of the excellent co-operation given the camp officers by residents of Gettysburg and Adams county, the board of directors has opened the privileges of the camps to children of the county, irrespective of denomination.

This offers an opportunity for increasing the number of trained church and Sunday School workers in the county at a minimum cost, Doctor Fisher points out.

Six camp periods, the same as last year, will be provided during the summer for boys and girls ranging in age from 12 to 24 years.

From present indications, the enrollment this year will be considerably larger than last year, Doctor Fisher said. A few days ago cards were sent to last year's campers for this year's enrollment. Many of the former campers have returned their cards, making reservations for camp this summer.

LETTER FROM CALIFORNIA

Some Personal Comments that May be of Interest.

The following portion of a letter from H. Clay Englar, to his home folks, and not written for publication, may be of interest to some of his former Taneytown friends. He is engaged in selling electrical supplies, and says:

"Recently we have sold ranges almost completely to a Japanese colony of vegetable growers. They have found that with an electric range the women can work in the field several more hours each day, because of the automatic turning on and off of electricity. Put your food in the oven, set your clock, and go away for several hours and your meal will be ready when the cook comes home.

We are going to raise a half dozen turkeys this year along with ducks and enough fryers to have one each Sunday. Pretty fine food. If someone would produce for us a vegetable tree and a cow, we could get along well with only my wife working if she only had a good job. Nothing like having things convenient; but my wife hasn't yet consented to go to work and let me rest and sleep.

If California hadn't the reputation of going Ananias one better, I'd try to write something for The Record. Of course we are not all liars, though we may look the part. I'm wondering what would be the reaction of your readers if I should say I played golf in my shirt sleeves, bareheaded, and pretty comfortable one morning, and waded in snow two feet deep in the afternoon, witnessing ski-ing and other snow sports. Believe it, or not, it is true. Of course, we had to leave Los Angeles for the mountains to get into the snow, a couple of hours drive.

You have many desirable things in Maryland rivaling California; hence we have little that you do not have, except climate, and we must write about this largely. I am never going back on Maryland, but I'm all California.

Baumgardner paid us a visit one evening last week. I was very glad to meet a son of my good friend Harry. Paul will visit us soon again. He may also be employed by our Company—the California Edison. Archie Crouse and Paul are the only Taneytowners to be entertained at our home, and I'm wondering who will be next. Don't crowd, you will all be welcome. Let me say that Paul is a creditable young man, and he is making good. We don't want to rob Maryland, but we can use his kind here; but a Baumgardner will make good anywhere.

I am feeling pretty fit, physically, and still have a number of good races left; but I confess that I have to loosen up my joints a bit, occasionally to get to going right. They had me in a hospital some time ago, and I thought I'd leave part of my anatomy there, but the doctors decided I needed all I had, and left me go.

So far as business is concerned, I see no reason why 1930 should not be an excellent year. In my own business we have more work than for the past five years. I have doubled my own force of men. There is no boom, but we are preparing for the millions coming to our part of the country.

"STORE" BOXES ARE SCARCE.

Properly speaking, we mean packing cases made of wood. Years ago, piles of them were seen about country or town stores, waiting for customers; but today they are largely missing from the landscape, for cheaper containers have taken the place of wood.

Recently, when ordering winter rollers for our cylinder press, a new box was needed for their return to us—not a large one, either, but it cost us $2.60. We could not have sold it for 50c.

But, demand fixes the price, and good strong wooden boxes are now real merchandise, worth a good price. The few received by The Record are usually sold the first day they are offered—not for what they are actually worth, but for double the price of twenty years ago. Loafers used to carve them—but, the supply of this class of artists has disappeared along with the boxes.

ELECTRICITY ON FARMS IN OHIO

Electric utility companies and the State administration in Ohio are co-operating in plans to extend rural electrification on a basis that will insure the widest possible use of electricity on the farms, Governor Myers Y. Cooper stated Feb. 12.

Conferences between the governor, representatives of the electric companies, the public utilities commission, the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, and officials of the Ohio State Grange have been held on the subject and are producing results, the governor said.

One of the principal plans is to have the utilities provide lines to rural territory without cost to the farmers. Heretofore the subscribers have had to pay for the line, which in many cases made the cost prohibitive, the governor said. Further conferences are planned by the governor to be held in the next few weeks in which a basis of agreement is expected to be reached.

"The administration feels that rural electrification is one of the most important social and economic benefits which possibly can be extended to the farmer and is bending every energy in bringing together a meeting of minds of the farm groups and the utilities interested on the basis of fairness and equity, making the program attractive to the farmer from the standpoint of costs," the governor said.—U. S. Daily.

GENERAL FARM CENSUS IN APRIL 1930.

A Wide Variety of Information is Called for.

The Record has received a copy of the General Farm Schedule for the 15th. census of the U. S. calling for an inventory of items as of April 1, 1930, while all production items are for the calendar year of 1929. There are 232 blank spaces to be filled with information, mainly numbers and prices. The most of the information can easily be given from memory, but some estimating will be necessary. Those who have been keeping a record of stock and crops produced, will find the form easy to fill, notwithstanding its length, with the possible exception of figures for minor crops.

The headings are: Owner or operator of farm; Farm acreage; Pasture and Drainage; Farm Tenure; Farm values; Farm Debt; Farm Taxes; Farm expenditures; Farm machinery; Marketing and Purchasing; Domestic animals and Poultry, Milk and Butter—this is the largest division to be reported, and the most important; Crops harvested—another very lengthy and important division; Value of products on the farm; Movement of Farm population; Total Farm land owned April 1st.

The form itself contains information as to how it is to be filled out. This form will evidently be mailed to farmers very soon, if it has not already been mailed. The enumerators are expected to call during April and collect the forms. They are to be filled out and kept until he calls, and not to be mailed to the Census Department at Washington.

The information asked for is "strictly confidential, and will not be used as a basis for taxation, nor communicated to any tax official." This is merely the regular census taken every ten years; and every class of business will have its own form. Of course, it is not optional with a farmer, or any one, as to whether he will fill out the form. The performance is required by act of Congress, approved June 18, 1929. It is advised that farmers discuss the schedule with neighbors, and make every effort to comply fully and intelligently with the law. If in doubt as to how to fill out any of the items on the form, wait until the enumerator visits you in April.

GETTING CAMPS IN SHAPE.

In preparation for the rapidly approaching out-of-doors season, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, has announced that inspection of summer camps will be started early in March. In connection with these inspections, Dr. Riley calls attention to the fact that last year's permits do not hold over for a second season. A new permit must be secured for the season of 1930.

In order that the permits may be renewed, or may be granted to operators of newly established camps, the camps must measure up to the requirements of the State Board of Health. The regulations apply to all places used as a camp or picnic ground for a period of six days or longer, and accommodating ten or more persons. All camps—whether new or old—that meet these requirements, will be duly certified and will be posted with the official placards of the State Board of Health.

During the coming season, the camps will again be under the supervision of the Duty State Health Officers, or local health officers of the district in which they are situated, and of the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering of the State Department of Health. Particular attention will be paid in the preliminary inspections, to the water supply, and to the arrangements for the disposal of sewage, or refuse and garbage.

Sanitary supervision and inspection of the tourist and recreational camps, under the present regulations, were begun in 1926. Each season, Dr. Riley said, has shown an increase in the readiness with which the camp operators have met the requirements. During the first year, 105 camps were inspected and 49 met the requirements and were licensed. The next year, 133 were inspected and 78 were licensed. In 1928, 104 were inspected and 76 were licensed. Last year, 116 camps were inspected and 84 were licensed. Fifteen counties were represented by the camps to which licenses were granted last year. Cecil with 15, Anne Arundel and Frederick each with 14 camps had the highest number. Harford and Howard, each with 6 camps, and Kent and Washington, each with 5 came next. The rest were scattered among the remaining counties.

Applications for renewal of permits, or for new permits, should be made promptly, so that the necessary inspections can be made before the season opens. A copy of the application blank, with other necessary information can be obtained by writing to the State Department of Health, 2411 North Charles St., Baltimore City.

$100 FOR PINT BOTTLE.

A wine-colored pint bottle with the portrait of General Taylor and inscription of his name was sold on Friday by G. C. Fishel, of Dillsburg to an antique dealer for $100. The bottle was found by Mr. Fishel in the mountains several months ago.

WESTMINSTER FIRE DEPT.

Appeals for Funds from Residents of the County.

The Westminster Fire Department has decided to hold a supper and Bingo party on March 13th, 14th, and 15th., at its building in Westminster. The purpose is to raise funds to be used in applying on account of its indebtedness occasioned by the purchase of a La France pumper. This piece of equipment was purchased for use at out of town fires.

The Department is one of the best equipped in the State. It has a large La France 750 gallon pumper, an Ariel La France Hook and Ladder Truck and a La France 500 gallon pumper.

The Department is composed of fifty active members, whose ready response to calls for assistance is well known. 49 calls were answered during 1929, 38 of which were outside of Westminster. The large La France pumper was purchased several years ago. Because of the large number of out of town calls, many of which were over bad roads, the large pumper was very severely used, resulting in extensive repairs to it in 1929 at a cost of over $1600.00. Last year, the Department realizing the expense involved in keeping the large pumper in repair due to driving it over county roads, decided to and did purchase the smaller pumper at a cost of $6500.00. This purchase would not have been necessary were it not for the unusually large number of out of town calls. Consequently, the purchase was in a large measure for the protection of property of the residents of the county living without the City of Westminster. The Department still owes $4,000.00 on the small apparatus, and which indebtedness, it is felt, should to a great extent be liquidated by the residents of the County outside of Westminster.

The Department has only a limited source of revenue and it must rely upon the generosity and fair mindedness of the public. By the full co-operation of the citizens of Westminster and of the county, it is hoped that a substantial sum can be raised at the supper and Bingo party next month. By a large patronage, the members of the Department will feel that their work is being appreciated.

As only a small part of the indebtedness on the small pumper can be realized at the Supper and Bingo party, residents of the City and County are earnestly urged to make contributions towards the indebtedness. Those who are in a position to do so are requested to make them to Harry D. Fowble, Secretary and Treasurer, Westminster, Md.

The Senate on Wednesday adopted an amendment by Senator Goldsborough to the pending tariff bill, providing for a duty of 8 cents per pound on canned oysters.

In urging the adoption of the amendment, the Maryland Senator said that the taking of the oyster was one of the most valuable phases of the fishing industry in the United States and that about one-third of the oysters of the country came from the Chesapeake Bay. The total harvest for the country was approximately 30,000,000 bushels annually, he said, and represented nearly $17,000,000.

So far as can be recalled no specific reference to oysters has been made in previous tariff measures. The customs division of the Treasury Department said that oysters have been classified as "shell fish" and have been admitted duty free.

"Almost all of the domestic pack of select canned oysters is shipped to the Pacific Coast," he said. "There should be added to the Baltimore price the cost of transportation and the Pacific Coast brokerage charge. Allowance also should be made for the difference in the size of the containers used by the foreign and domestic packers."

"While I speak with a great deal of feeling, and again refer to the fact that one-third of the entire oyster industry is centered in the Chesapeake Bay waters of Maryland and Virginia yet it is interesting to note from statistics that in the canned oyster trade the production in Mississippi in 1928 was valued at $1,119,123, and in South Carolina $728,870.

"The competition of Asiatic countries in the canned oyster market has only been developed within the past two years, but promises to wipe out the domestic trade unless a duty is imposed on the imported article," declared Senator Goldsborough.

LIFE EXPECTANCY NOW 58.

Life expectancy in the United States is now 58 years, and may rise still higher, but heart disease remains as an ailment for which the causes are but little checked and in fact have only recently been clearly recognized, according to a statement issued Feb. 17 by the Public Health Service.

Discussing the six main types of heart disease, the statement says that an increase in mortality from this cause "provided it comes in ripe old age," actually means the lengthening of life.

Advice toward keeping hearts and arteries in good condition, according to the statement, includes avoidance of overeating, nervous hurry and infection, proper exercise, plenty of sleep and refusal to worry.

WEEK'S NEWS IN BRIEF PARAGRAPHS.

The Coolidges' Extend Outing to Pacific Coast.

Ex-president Coolidge and wife, who have been in Florida for some time, have extended their outing to California and the Pacific Coast.

John Philip Hill, Baltimore, is contesting the election of Vincent L. Palmisano, as Representative in the House from the Third Maryland District. He presents a number of specifications, among which are repeating and illegal ballots.

The question of Mexican immigration continues of first importance in the Southwest. Many farmers want the cheaper labor, and greater production, while others object to the influx of Mexicans on that account. This is especially the view with reference to the cotton market.

"A saving of $145,000 a day accrues to the railroads of the country through the present practice of using chemically treated timber for cross ties and other purposes," said C. C. Cook, maintenance engineer of the Baltimore & Ohio, at a conference of the public utility group of The National Association of Purchasing Agents, held recently at the Department of Commerce in Washington.

Chicago is continuing its arrests of gangsters, 1100 more having been taken last Sunday. The total is now over 4000.

Senator Norris, noted reformer, has a bill before Congress that would require that members of Congress elected this November would take their seats in January, at the same time the President would be inaugurated. The Senate has repeatedly voted for the bill but the House as consistently votes against it. At present, members of the House elected in November do not take their seats until December 31, 1931.

DUTY NOW ON OYSTERS.

The Senate on Wednesday adopted an amendment by Senator Goldsborough to the pending tariff bill, providing for a duty of 8 cents per pound on canned oysters.

In urging the adoption of the amendment, the Maryland Senator said that the taking of the oyster was one of the most valuable phases of the fishing industry in the United States and that about one-third of the oysters of the country came from the Chesapeake Bay. The total harvest for the country was approximately 30,000,000 bushels annually, he said, and represented nearly $17,000,000.

"Almost all of the domestic pack of select canned oysters is shipped to the Pacific Coast," he said. "There should be added to the Baltimore price the cost of transportation and the Pacific Coast brokerage charge. Allowance also should be made for the difference in the size of the containers used by the foreign and domestic packers."

THINK THIS OVER.

It is a serious reflection upon the common sense of the American people that they fuss and fume over relatively unimportant matters, while almost ignoring the one real national menace—death by motor accidents.

Automobile accidents resulted in more than 30,000 deaths in the United States last year, an increase of nearly 13 percent over 1928. If the present indifference to this terrible slaughter continues, 1930 will see a still greater number of victims.

We get excited over prohibition and the tariff, we work ourselves into a frenzy over politics; we are impressed with the rantings of professional reformers and do-gooders; we lavish sympathy on a murderer who justly pays his debt on the "hot seat"; we are greatly perturbed over the stock market—and a thousand and one other relatively trivial matters agitate us greatly.

But if we ever think of the 30,000 killed and 800,000 injured in automobile accidents each year, we only shrug our shoulders and say, "Isn't it too bad?"—Frederick Citizen.

THE PROHIBITION QUESTION

Let it be Fought Out on its Own Merits.

It is the American plan to fight to a finish over disagreements in public sentiment. Our "freedom" rests in this. Our only dictatorship rests in the voice of the people expressed through the use of the ballot. What we call "right" is, and must remain, largely a matter of individual opinion, and over the expression of this opinion there should be only a fair fight, without calling of names, or of deciding questions other than by the majority ballot plan.

The matter of the right or wrong of prohibition, is no exception to this rule. We must concede that there is a "personal liberty" connected with it that no influence outside of an open show-down should interfere with. Some men—and women too—want to secure liquors for personal use, when they want them, and some do not. Some believe that a sober Nation is best, and that this soberness is best assured by the absence of liquors as a legitimate article of sale. Others take the view that liquors should be sold, and that everybody should settle the matter of soberness, personally.

Without doubt, liquor selling as a "business" has much to do with public sentiment as it is expressed. It is probable that the interests of this "business" are influencing the attitude of the public press, and attempting to create the impression that the whole country is opposed to prohibition; but, if true, these interests can do no more than keep up the effort, as it rests with the voters to say whether it should succeed, or not.

Keep up the fight. One's conscientious convictions are the most sacred privileges we have, and there is no way of denying them to anybody. Party politics has no right to stand as a barrier against a composite National conscience. As between men, and their qualifications for public office, the matter of their views on the liquor question should not always be considered first; but if the question is forced to the front, and the liquor interests—"business" and individual—would have it so, then there is nothing left for "dry" voters but to vote "dry" regardless of candidates or parties.

We think we make this clear. If the liquor question must be settled over again, let us settle it. Let everybody come out in the open, and vote his honest convictions. If it is to be the major question in politics, so be it. Personally, we think the question has been settled, and that the Constitution and laws should stand as they are; but there are others who think differently, and it may be that they should have more evidence of the voice of the people on the subject. So if they can amend the Constitution by striking out the 18th Amendment, they have that privilege.

HABITS OF PROHIBITION AGENTS.

Law enforcers, of all people, should be law observers. We do not hire bank robbers to protect banks nor train robbers to guard trains. It is just as illogical to elect officers who drink to enforce the prohibition laws.

Drinking law-enforcement officers are the worst kind of hypocrites and are twice law violators. They not only disobey the prohibition laws but they deliberately violate their oath of office to enforce the laws of the land.

Law-enforcement officials who cannot leave drink alone—out of respect to their oath of office and in fairness to the public—ought to change occupation.

It is not for us law enforcement officials to choose which laws we want to enforce. We may have our personal views as to the advisability of certain legislation, but when a law is placed on the statute books our duty is to forget our personal views of our ability.

It is intolerable that any of us should assume to suspend the enforcement of any law.

Any humble citizen has the right to demand the enforcement of the laws of the land. In order to get us to act it should not be necessary for private citizens to bring pressure to bear on us.

We are elected and paid to do our work efficiently and to be on our jobs every hour of the day. We ought to do our duty without waiting to be prodded.

The chief factor in law enforcement is the official.—C. A. Sorensen, Atty Gen. of Nebraska, in U. S. Daily.

WHY NOT AIRPLANE THE BAY?

The probability that the air-plane will ever develop into a means of handling freight, is very remote; but for passenger travel supplanting long bridges—for instance, the one proposed for the Chesapeake Bay—airplane transportation is very far from being remote; in fact, for such short flights, it seems a reasonably safe and nearly present possibility.

Should the next legislature be called upon to finance a ten or fifteen million dollar bridge proposition, at the expense of the taxpayers of the state, the airplane utilization will no doubt be considered. Aside from the argument that airplanes could not carry a fleet of automobiles along with its passengers, the Why not? question would be quite worth debating.

At any rate, a lot of questions are likely to be heard from, coming from the central and western counties of the state, before the interests of sections adjacent to the bay can put such a big one over on all of the taxpayers.

RURAL SCHOOLS OFFER MANY PROBLEMS.

"It is well known that despite the constant exodus from rural to urban communities the bulk of the children to be educated are still living in areas of low density usually designated as rural and including all places of 2,500 population or less," states Katherine M. Cook, specialist in rural education, United States Office of Education. "Recent data compiled in the Office of Education," she continued, "show that 90 percent of the schools are located in such areas, that in them 53 percent of the total number of children are enrolled, and 58 percent of the total number of teachers are employed. Here apparently—considered from the standpoint of numbers alone—is found our largest educational problem."

"That schools in rural communities are below the standard set for those in urban communities in length of term, type of buildings and organization, qualifications and salaries of teachers, regularity in attendance, holding power and pupil achievement, are well recognized facts. The widest disparities in standard occur when small one and two-teacher schools, usually attended by farm children, are compared with those in more populous and wealthier districts, cities in particular."

"Studies of pupil achievement measured by standard tests, generally indicate that pupils make better progress in consolidated schools than in one and two-teacher schools, and still better progress in larger schools in larger school systems. Up to the point of a school large enough to have a teacher per grade, school achievement practically parallels size of school. There are in the United States 160,000 one-teacher schools. While the number has been reduced materially in the past decade, progress has been spasmodic and sectional even within states. Several important agricultural states have scarcely been touched by the movement for consolidating small schools."

POLITICAL SNIPING.

It appears quite evident that President Hoover is not escaping the inheritance of all presidents following their election—an attack from the snipers who feel their special job to "kill off" a President's chances for renomination, four years hence, by pointing to his alleged failures and weaknesses.

Something like this is now going actively on against President Hoover from at least three organizations, each having numerous mouth-pieces. President Taft was one of the targets while in office, but now the same snipers are telling how fine and great a man he was, and how the haste of President Hoover in naming his successor, as Chief Judge, was discreditable.

As Mr. Hoover came into office with a great reputation for "Efficiency," it is naturally the job of the snipers to try to build up an array of the failure of Hoover policies; and to try to connect him, by insinuations, with all sorts of individuals and questions having an unpopular reputation.

President Coolidge passed through the same sort of experience in a way very aggravating to his critics, because of his persistent ignoring of the snipers. But, Mr. Coolidge is not president, now, and his good qualities are being praised and the old flings are apparently forgotten.

Of course, this is our American "politics"—the meanest side of it—but Mr. Hoover seems to be getting more than his share, possibly because there is an outstanding previous record to be demolished. It seems to be overlooked that the record of Mr. Hoover for doing big jobs in fine style in the past, was when he practically had a free hand in the doing of them. He did not then have to worry over snipers of prominence who do not hesitate to belittle his every important act, and try to block his success.

President Wilson also had his critics, both inside and outside of his party. Now, however, the greatness and honesty of purpose of the late president is getting full recognition. He is dead, and off the political stage, which makes all the difference in the world, in the exercise of political sniping.

WAR PROFIT MADE BY UNCLE SAM.

The rare instance of Uncle Sam realizing a profit from a wartime enterprise was made possible last week by a decision of Federal Judge Dickinson. He refused to set aside proceedings under which the Government had acquired 1075 acres in Falls Township and Tullytown, Bucks county, Pa., for $300,000, with the idea of using the land for a munitions plant.

When the World War ended, the land was no longer needed for military purposes, and it seemed as though the Government had a $300,000 "dud" on its hand. Time went on and the land remained idle. Then George D. and Joseph B. Van Sciver made an offer that was five times the Government's purchase price, a profit of approximately $1,320,000 for the Federal Treasury.

Hearing of this, the former owners had a change of mind and went into court to get the land back. They challenged the condemnation proceedings under which they had surrendered title, but Judge Dickinson decided that their original consent plus the fact that they waited nearly nine years before attempting to undo the transaction was a bar to their efforts.—Phila. SMALL CHURCH FOR THE CHURCH.

It is interesting to note that in spite of the increased standard of living and the general life in the level of wages during the past decade, the church still gets the pennies. A Montclair, N. J. congregation recently made a survey of its voluntary income and discovered that:

Five families pledge per week the cost of two packages of chewing gum
Seven families contributed the equivalent of one soda.
Twenty-two families gave per week the cost of the average smoker's daily investment in tobacco.

Twenty-eight families gave as much per week as each member would pay to attend the movies in one night.

Forty-nine families came down as handsomely as they have to pay for a luncheon at a moderate-priced restaurant.

Forty-six families made a weekly church pledge equal to the price of a pound of fair-to-middling caudry.

Forty families pledged per year the equivalent of a set of automobile tires.

One hundred and 19 families gave each year a sum equal to the price of two tires.

One hundred and 45 families pledged nothing.

An exchange remarks that, with all the complaining about the church not being on the job, these figures (which are a fair reflection of church support everywhere) excite wonderment, not that the church does so little, but that with so little it does so much!—Tampa Tribune.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE?

The Baltimore Observer, last week, contained the following pointed paragraph.

"Senator Tydings has been criticized for his vote to protect the rayon industry. Then his switch on the straw hat tariff caused more sharp words. But is there really any difference between Democrats and Republicans on the tariff? Is there really any difference between the two parties on anything? We can't see any."

To the above, we will add that we wish there was a greater difference. No doubt many will say that there is an abundance of it; but when it comes to making out an itemized list of agreed-upon differences, the job would be about as easy as specifying the actual differences between many of our religious denominations.

The "party of Lincoln" and the party of Jefferson" is very old stuff, as is the party of "protection" and the party of "tariff for revenue only." The "stand patters" in both parties who "stick to the party" consistently and always, are hardly the strongest leaders of today, and we are inclined to the belief that too much independence of party action, and the ease with which old party lines are broken, is not a sure sign of the best government.

We rather believe in a large degree of government, by party, and that there is safety in the existence of two strong parties; for competition is the life of good politics, as it is the life of good business. As we believe in a church affiliation, so we believe in a political party affiliation. In other words, we believe in political "organization", and that individuals can be the better citizens by working with one or the other of them, rather than by setting up a large number of independent groups, and getting nowhere.

"In union there is strength" is as true now as it ever was, and perhaps more so; for the inclination toward demagogism and "personal liberty" is growing, rather than receding—as we read the signs of the times. We would rather trust a big party with legislation than a small one.

WASHINGTON'S GOOD NAME.

It is an elementary principle that in every phase of life there are constructive and destructive forces. One builds, the other destroys, and there is a constant war waged between the two. The destructive forces are rightly regarded as pernicious to human welfare and man ever seeks to eliminate them. Yet they continue to exist, seeming able to always find some spot to attack.

Men in public life are frequently choice subjects. No matter how virtuous, honorable or blameless; no matter the heights attained in public opinion, they must guard constantly against the destructive forces—composed as a rule of those who rejoice in relating creations of the imagination as facts, who delight in whispering scandal, who are quick to twist the truth. Even the dead are not safe. When they are no longer here to defend themselves, the reputation they have made is attacked.

As an example take George Washington, who devoted his life to laying the foundation upon which today stands the world's foremost nation, and whose birth anniversary will be celebrated this month. One can hear constantly repeated stories that are directed against the morals and character of this great American. In these stories, the intent of which is, apparently, to destroy the ideals that surround the memory of the beloved patriot, small incidents are magnified and made to appear in a different light, and often they have not the slightest basis of truth.

To combat the insidious results which may be caused by the efforts of the destructive forces in this respect and to keep unsullied the memory of that great man, the Washington Society of Alexandria, Va., has traced the origin of many of these whispered stories and has published facts to prove to the most credulous that these scandals are utterly false.

This society was first organized on January 14, 1800, by Washington's most intimate friends just one month after his death, and dedicated to the perpetuation of the name and fame of Washington. It existed for almost fifty years, numbering among its members men of the highest intellectual and moral standing of the Nation.

The records of this society having been discovered, it was felt that it should be revived, and accordingly on January 14, 1928, the reorganization was effected at Gadsby's Tavern where the original society had been formed one hundred and twenty-eight years before. It has as its purpose the giving of public and permanent expression of devotion to the man and the principles of virtue of which he was the exponent. It also aims to assist in the preservation of historical places in Fairfax County which were associated with Washington, and to disseminate historical information regarding events contemporaneous with our first President.

Its membership is composed of loyal American citizens who are ever ready to defend the good name and cherish the memory of that illustrious man and Mason, George Washington.—Scottish Rite News Bureau.

Energetic Citizen

In the city of a neighboring state it is said one man has by himself succeeded in locating 16 different industries in his town with a pay roll up into the millions annually. Is there not food for thought in this item when you so often hear the remark made, "we could and should have more industrial plants in our town, but just can't get all the people to unite upon a plan by which we can be able to secure them." A leader and captain of industries is worth while anywhere.—Cullman (Ore.) Tribune.

Minimum of Waste in Sardine-Canning Plant

In a Down East sardine canning factory the only thing that is wasted is the odor. That may not be a dead loss, for there are persons who assert they like the smell of a sardine factory. The scales are sold to the manufacturers of artificial pearls. The fish meal is in demand in Germany and in this country. The waste oil is collected and utilized in the production of paints and varnishes. Even the tin cuttings from the cans are baled and shipped to England for reprocessing into new sheets of the metal.

Down East sardines are sent to 95 different countries. In Java, when representatives sought a new market, the natives would have nothing to do with the "little fishes boiled in oil." Two hundred free cases were offered if the prospective customers would place a 1,000 case order. At last the deal was made. The sardines were heaped high on trucks, together with a band of native musicians, taken from bazaar to bazaar, and sold. This introduced, there was no further difficulty in adding Java to the list of sardine consumers.—New York Times.

Hard to Grasp Facts of the Stellar System

At first the brain reels a little in the attempt to grasp the facts of the stellar system, even explained with the lucidity and exactness of which Sir James Jeans is a master. From the vast extensions of the sky he carries us into the inmost recesses of the atom, where the electron whirls around its perpetual circuit several thousand million times every second. These numbers, says the London Spectator, are but dazle painting, and it is simpler to say that the electron travels as far in a second as our latest seaplane travels in an hour. Sir James Jeans has a happy fertility in such comparisons, and forcibly strikes the imagination when he tells us that if the carbon atom were magnified to the size of Waterloo station, its electrons would be represented by six wasps flying round in the vast vacuity. All the rest is emptiness; and so in the celestial spaces it is immense odds against any given spot being occupied. "We live in a gossamer universe; pattern, plan and design are there in abundance, but solid substance is rare."

One of Life's Tragedies

They sat gazing into each other's eyes. At last he slipped from the sofa and, kneeling at her feet, gave utterance to the sweeping thoughts that were swelling up his mind. "Darling," he said, "sometimes I think how lucky I was to be born in the same century as you, to have met you. It seems as if Fate had intended us for each other since the beginning of time, and that at last the great design has been completed in our love. It has been Fate, my dearest, Fate." "Aye," she replied, a little wistfully, "it was fate all right. Your fate. If I hadna tripped over your fate jumpin' on the bus . . ."

Paper Barometer

Henley's Twentieth Century Book of Recipes publishes the following method of making a paper barometer: Saturate white blotting paper with the following liquid and then hang up to dry:

Cobalt chloride, 1 ounce; sodium chloride, ½ ounce; calcium chloride, 75 grains; acacia, ¼ ounce; water 3 ounces.

The amount of moisture in the air is roughly indicated by the changing color of the paper, rose red indicating rain; pale red, very moist; bluish red, moist; lavender blue, nearly dry; blue, very dry.

Unfortunate Early Savant

Henry, Marquis of Villena, a Castilian savant in the reign of John II, studied astronomy so diligently that he lost all run of his worldly affairs and caused a wit of his day to comment sarcastically: "He knew much of heaven and nothing of earth." His blind neglect of his financial concerns cost him all his possessions and reduced him to extreme penury in his last years. He was suspected of necromancy, and at his death in 1534 the king's ecclesiastical agent threw more than a hundred of his precious books into the flames.—Detroit News.

Concerning the Law

The true view, as I submit, is that the law is what the judges declare; that statutes, precedents, the opinions of learned experts, customs, and morality are the sources of the law; that back of everything lie the opinions of the ruling spirits of the community; who have the power to close any of these sources; but that as long as they do not interfere, the judges, in establishing law, have recourse to these sources.—John Chipman Gray.

Do Bees Know Beekeeper?

One often hears the statement that bees know their master. This is not true. During the working season a bee lives for only about six weeks, two of which are spent in the hive. It is hardly likely that a beekeeper would examine a live frequently enough to become known to such short-lived creatures even if they had the ability to distinguish between different human beings.

Hints For Homemakers
By Jane Rogers

CHILDREN who dislike milk may be converted to looking upon it as an ambrosial beverage if it is flavored with a little vanilla, and a teaspoon of sugar to a glass. In addition to its flavoring qualities, sugar is a quick source of the enormous amount of energy expended by the active child.

Vitamins are essential to health. Prolonged cooking and too much water cause both vitamins and flavor to vanish from vegetables. Many vegetables can cook in their own juices if given the right start. String beans, cabbage, cauliflower and spinach require no more than a fourth to a half cup of water to start them steaming and releasing their juices.

Diseases of Goldfish

Fungus diseases often attack the goldfish, sometimes so severely that there is nothing to do but make a fresh start. One remedy for the disease is a salt bath, using a heaping teaspoonful of salt to two quarts of water. The patient should be left for about a week in this solution, which is renewed daily. If no noticeable improvement is shown in four days, increase strength of solution to about double, leaving the fish in this for two days. Then reduce the solution to its original proportions, after which the fish may be returned to the aquarium.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC.

Topic: The Value of the Bible in Non-Christian Nations.

Written by—Mrs. G. W. Ports.

The greatest value the Bible holds for non-Christian nations, is to give them the message of the one true God and His attitude of love toward them.

In most heathen nations we find the most profound worship. Their wild imaginings of God are portrayed in the very gods they themselves create. They are mostly wild, ugly, and fierce in appearance.

To give them a picture of God of love beauty, sweetness, gentleness, and yet all powerful to supply the needs of His children, is the greatest value they can receive.

The second great value is revealing man to himself. 'Twas the writers experience to be in a great company and have a gentleman approach to ask who I was. In reply, I found he knew me better than I knew myself. He had known my mother, whom God had taken before it was my privilege to know. He told me many things about her that I had never known. Her pleasures, friends and ancestors. That man will never know myself in such a setting as he described.

The Bible describes to every creature that they are the highest creation of God's own hand, but that we have been robbed by satan of God's precious Spirit. The whole story of redemption is fully described, how we are bought with a great price God's only begotten Son and can be renewed in the spirit of God. Thus the Bible shows mankind himself. His limitations and opportunities. I was interested to read a tract entitled "The only way out of the dark." On opening it I found a picture of the Bible.

These were not only beautiful pictures set before non-Christian lands, but the miracle has taken place, and many nations are enjoying a new life in every way.

In the path of the Bible we find light for every interest of mankind.

Spiritually—not so long ago one of our Japanese friends Mr. Ito, of Westminster Theological Seminary was delivering an address and related of a time in his life when he had relied upon just one verse of God's word, and found he had not trusted in vain.

In his audience sat a woman whose whole life's work had been changed upon the authority of that same verse; Thus the Bible is food and strength for the spirit. Hospitals and home hygiene follow in this path, bringing ease and comfort to suffering bodies. Schools and colleges are a result of the efforts of the Bible, which teaches us how to live and move and have our being.

Rice Long Recognized

Staple American Crop

Rice, according to a legend, was introduced into South Carolina accidentally in 1693, when a vessel bound for Liverpool from Madagascar was driven from her course by a storm and compelled to put into Charleston harbor for repairs. The captain, says the legend, presented Landgrave Smith and the settlers with a small bag of rice for seed, and from this seed sprang the entire American rice industry. Although this story has been retold by many of our best historians, there is ample evidence that it is a myth, says a writer in the Pathfinder Magazine. Two years before the incident is supposed to have occurred—1691—the rice industry had become so important in South Carolina that the provincial assembly granted a patent to Peter Jacob Guerdard, who had "lately invented and brought to perfection, a Pendulum engine, which doth much better, and in less time and labour muske rice, than any other heretofore hath been used within the Province." As a matter of fact a considerable quantity of rice was being raised in South Carolina within a few years after the first settlements were made. The promoters of the colony in England had not overlooked the possibilities of rice culture in the new territory and stated in their prospectus that "the meadows are very proper for rice." Sir William Berkeley had made an unsuccessful attempt to raise rice in Virginia as early as 1647.

Individuality

A well-designed building should express on its exterior the general scheme of its plan. That is, the larger units should be indicated in the design. In this way each building has its own individuality and the elevations show the particular reasons for its being.

Idea of Broadcasting

Fire Alarm Not Modern

Methods of transmitting news of fire are very old and until about the middle of the Nineteenth century watch towers with alarm bells were maintained in American cities. After the development of the electric telegraph, reliable apparatus was installed. As early as 1845 Dr. W. F. Channing of Boston published an article in the Advertiser outlining a fire-alarm telegraph system. In 1850 Charles Robinson used Morse apparatus for signaling fire alarms from police stations and engine houses in New York city to watchmen at tower bells, who sounded the signal of the appropriate district. A telegraph signal plan was put into operation in Boston, April 29, 1852. New York installed a fire-alarm telegraph system in 1859 and by 1875 it had reached to 75 cities. Although various systems are in use, that devised by Channing and Farmer and improved by Gamewell has been the one most generally employed in America. The keyless door was patented by Tooker in 1875 and the automatic keyless door by N. H. Suren in 1885.

ARMY TO TEST S O S BY PLANE'S RADIO

"Mother" Ship to Accompany Squad to Coast.

Washington.—The army air corps will carry out an experiment to make long distance flights safer through the use of the short wave radio when the first pursuit group wings its way over the 3,500 miles of ice-bound country from Mt. Clemens, Mich., to Spokane, Wash., and back, this month.

Should the experiment prove a success, it is understood, the army is expected to issue an order that all army planes making long distance flights must be protected by short wave radio devices.

The present experiment is to be carried out with the aid of the American Radio Relay league and the General Electric company of Schenectady, N. Y. Eighteen fast pursuit planes and a slower and much larger "mother" radio ship will be in the experimental group.

The radio ship will follow the speedy fighting planes and will keep a sharp lookout for ships in distress. Every morning the radio ship will be in communication with the powerful short wave station of the General Electric company at Schenectady. That station will listen for the first ten minutes of each flying hour for S O S signals from the radio ship.

If an S O S is sent and received the Schenectady station will rebroadcast it to the army air corps posts in the area where the accident has occurred. Also arrangements will be made to send the S O S out through regular long wave radio stations to the Northwest in order to inform people living in the vicinity.

Morning Snooze Better Than Setting-Up Drills

New York.—It is not only nicer to stay in bed, when the sun shines overhead, or however Harry Lauder's song phrases it, but it is a lot wiser than getting up and going through those setting-up exercises the radio boys reel off for the hopeful.

This is the opinion of the 124 members of the Society of Directors of Physical Education in Colleges, as expressed in a report read at their thirty-third annual meeting at the Hotel Astor.

Such exercises contribute little of social, psychological, safety or recreational value and add very little to the physical development of their adherents, the report states.

This report was the result of two years of investigation conducted by the committee on curriculum research, and is based on the answers from these 124 members of the association. Of the 30 sports listed, calisthenics rates a poor twenty-ninth. Swimming and diving rate first.

War Hero Ends Life; "Frees Girl of Burden"

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—The medal of the French Legion of Honor remained today to remind Catherine Smith of her heroic fiancé, who killed himself rather than burden her.

In the battle of Chateau Thierry E. C. Anderson so distinguished himself that he was decorated by the French government. His valor cost one leg, however, and he was wounded in the other leg. After a decade of fighting his handicap Anderson learned that there was a likelihood that his remaining leg would have to be amputated.

Rather than burden Miss Smith with the cares of a helpless husband, Anderson shot himself with a revolver.

1929 Proves Hard Year on European Royalty

London.—The year 1929 has been a hard one on European royalty. The list of royal invalids has been a long and important one.

King George, Prince George and Princess Royal of England all have been confined to bed, but are now in good health. The sickness of England's king was the gravest of all.

The crown prince of Denmark has been another one of the 1929 list. Ex-King Manuel of Portugal recently underwent an operation. The latest victim is Prince Paul of Greece, both-ered with throat and nose trouble.

Increases Coal Production

Ottawa, Ont.—From 631,320 tons in 1927, Canadian coal production advanced steadily until it reached 17,564,293 tons in 1928. The 1928 coal output exceeded the 1927 production by nearly 1 per cent. The principal increase in coal production in 1928 was in the province of Alberta, where an advance of 6 per cent was recorded over 1927. Greater tonnages were also mined in New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

Save Vanishing Bald Eagle, Object of Bill

Washington.—The bald, or American eagle, is fast disappearing except as an emblem on coins and insignia of Uncle Sam, according to Representative Andersen (Rep.) of Minnesota. Accordingly he has introduced a bill forbidding the killing of eagles, except when they are caught attacking lambs, fawns, or foxes on fox farms.

Luxury, It Would Seem, Depends on Viewpoint

Recently the woman passed through one of the poor sections of New York at 8 o'clock, just when hundreds of school children were being released. Directly ahead of her three little girls strolled. One of them, a pale child who looked as if sunlight and vegetables were not part of her daily regime, was conducting a monologue. In a high pitched, excited voice she was describing a bedspread which had been sent as a gift to the child's mother.

"It's so beautiful, like sunshine. All smooth and golden. It's like that. Look here!"

The children with the woman—just a step away—stopped before a dingy store. Its window displayed a bedspread, cheap, coarse, glaring yellow. "Isn't it lovely?" the little girl asked.

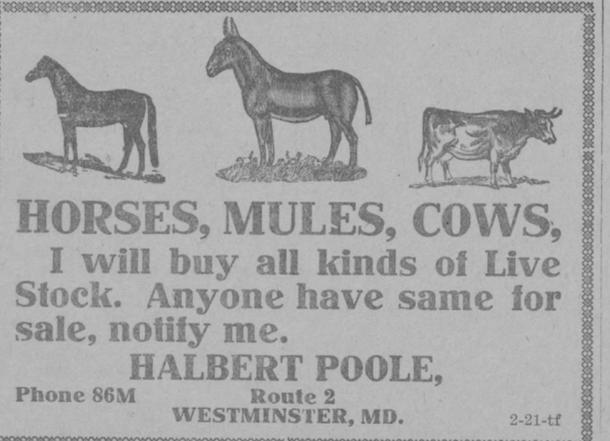

The woman had visions of a poor back apartment into which the sun never beamed. To its occupants that golden bedspread stood for every luxury of life. The woman looked from the happy face of the child to the spread. Perhaps it was not so glaring if you saw it from the right angle.—New York Sun.

HOW

MODERN "MIRACLES" HAVE SPEEDED UP THE WORLD.—It is just one amazing thing after another in this whirling world of today. Not long ago a New York paper radioed to Byrd, the explorer, down in the Antarctic, to tell its radio editor in Brooklyn to hang up his telephone receiver as the office wanted to call him. And recently the mail brought across the ocean by the steamer Duchess of Richmond arrived in Toronto by airplane before the vessel had docked at Montreal. This meant a gain of practically three days in the carrying of mail from the old country to Toronto.

In an age when speed appears to be the general aim this is an outstanding achievement. It is becoming more and more evident that the air is to be the great medium of rapid communication and transportation. The allotment of wave lengths for radio purposes already constitutes a problem, and the flying machines will soon have to be regulated regarding their avenues of travel. Verily, the inventive wizards are not idle.—Toronto Globe.

How National Currency Is Got Ready for Use

The Scientific American briefly explains the process of producing new money thus: "The production of the new money follows the same process as the old. The design having been decided upon, parts of it are assigned to specialized engravers, who each engrave a part (1) on a small piece of annealed steel. After being inspected and passed, it is hardened. A reversed duplicate is made by rolling a soft steel cylinder upon it in the transfer press. (2) This gives a relief steel die which is hardened, and in turn serves to impress an intaglio, or recessed design, on a soft steel plate which is hardened for use. The steel-plate presses are of special design (3) and the paper is wetted before use. The printed bills are then sized and dried, but they do not become "money" until they are numbered (4) and the treasury seal affixed. The inspection (5) is rigid, and then the bills are wrapped in packages (6) and they are ready for their journey to the ultimate user.

How Common Phrase Came

Almost every one of us at times has been on a wild-goose chase. We have not literally chased wild geese but we have probably engaged in one or more useless pursuits—such as have become metaphorically synonymous with the expression "wild goose chase." And it is interesting to get at the reason for this allusion. A wild goose has always been very difficult to catch. And, when caught—and this is the meat of the nut—when caught, it is rarely worth the pursuit. It was Cervantes' "Don Quixote" and Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" which first gave the expression popular circulation, the phrase today being common currency.—Kansas City Star.

How Land Became "Lost"

Government officials have recently discovered, within the limits of Chicago, two tracts of land which have been lost for 30 years. These lots total three and a half acres and are located in the open prairie south of the city in a location which is just now being developed into a building section. The land is a hold-over from the time when all this country was open to the homestead settlers and as the surrounding land was taken up, these parcels were entirely overlooked. A "squatter" did locate on one of these lots, but his claim is invalid because he did not comply with the homestead laws.

How Birds Travel

Migrating birds have been demonstrated as flight variants by the United States bureau of biological survey, which directs the work of 1,400 amateur ornithologists; the latter specialize in leg-banding. While the average feathered traveler maintains approximately uniform speed and range, now and then a Lindbergh of the species breaks records. In three months a leg-banded Arctic tern flew from Red Island, Labrador, to Natal, South Africa—which, in a straight line, would be 10,000 miles. A robin winged from Crystal Bay, Minn., to Pachuca, Mexico (2,100 miles), in 18 months.

How Rain Caused Fire

Rain caused a fire in the engine house of a cold storage plant at Darlington, England, recently. A thunder storm overflowed the drains and water ran into the pit of a huge fly wheel which was running. This caused the leather belt driving the wheel to jam tight, and the friction caused was so great that sparks flew to the wood-work and set it ablaze. Firemen had to use gas masks to protect themselves against the clouds of ammonia fumes which escaped from the ice-making plant.

How Long Is a Moment?

In modern times no exact interpretation has been made of the length of time employed in a moment. In medieval reckoning it was a fortieth or fiftieth part of an hour. In the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries it was often regarded as equivalent to a second.

Many Republics Before That of United States

Probably the first government which can be considered republican in form was the ancient Israelitish commonwealth or republic, which lasted from about 1491 B. C. to 1065 B. C. About three centuries after this the Greek states, of which Athens was chief, set up what gradually came to be democratic republics. Ancient Carthage and Rome were for a short period republics. During the Middle Ages many of the free cities of Italy and Germany set up republics. San Marino in Italy is now the oldest existing republic, while Switzerland has existed as a republic since 1291. According to an article in the American Cyclopaedia, the degree of popular sovereignty in republics has varied very widely in the past, most of the so-called republics having been ruled by an aristocracy which jealously guarded its own rights but treated the multitude as little better than slaves. "Real republican government may be said to date from the American Declaration of Independence, and even in the United States the government was largely one of class until about the second quarter of the Nineteenth century, when suffrage barriers began to break down."

Mennonite Colony in America in Year 1662

Mennonites first appeared in America about 1662, when a band of 24, led by Pieter Cornelius Plockhoy, organized a settlement, but it was not until a century later that the cult became firmly established. The settlement, which was one of the early plans for the occupation of the Delaware by any of the European sectarians, did not last. Plockhoy, with his 24 followers, made a contract with the Burgomasters and Regents of Amsterdam, for the founding of a colony "in any part of the district of this Colonie wherever it may please to lie, as they shall be willing to cultivate and pasture." After adopting various rules and regulations, the colony was broken up by the English under Sir Robert Carr in 1664, and nothing whatever is known of the fate of members of the colony. It is stated that Plockhoy, the leader, and his wife, arrived at Germantown in 1694, after having wandered in the wilderness for 30 years, and were given a home by the Mennonites at that place.

Wise Old M. P.

Among conservation measures of the World War there was a gasless Sunday, when citizens exhibited their patriotism by leaving their automobiles in the garage. In one southern camp orders were issued that gasoline-driven vehicles would not be allowed inside the gates. A couple of women drove up in an electric auto, and were promptly and importantly stopped by an M. P., who told them it was gasless Sunday. "But," the lady driver remonstrated, "this car doesn't use gas—it's an electric." "Aw, you can't fool me, lady," retorted the M. P. with gusto. "Where's your trolley?"—Pacific Power and Light Bulletin.

Moonlight at the Poles

The Naval observatory says that at either pole the moon is above the horizon continuously for about two weeks, and then below the horizon continuously for about two weeks. At the Arctic and Antarctic circles there are some years when for a few days in each month the moon does not set, and a few days when it does not rise; otherwise at these circles it rises and sets daily. In the polar regions, during the winter months, the moon is generally above the horizon when it is full and below the horizon when it is new, and the reverse is the case during the summer months.

Fuel for Smoking Meat

The Department of Agriculture says that the best fuel for smoking meat is green hickory or maple wood smothered with sawdust of the same material. Hard wood of any kind is preferable to soft wood. Resinous woods should not be used, as they may give a bad flavor to the meat. Corn-cobs are a good substitute for hard wood. Juniper berries or fragrant woods may be added to the fire to flavor the meat. The fire should be kept burning slowly, keeping the temperature between 70 and 90 degrees.

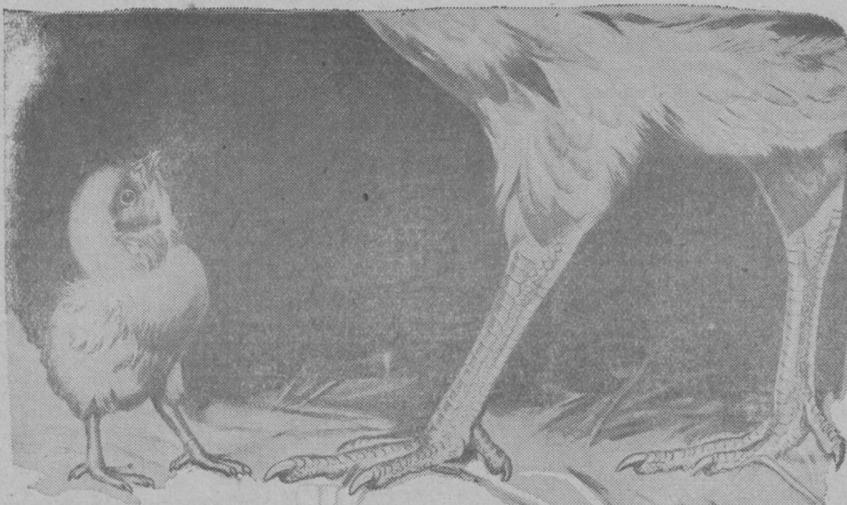

Impossible

A certain celebrated actor was stopped as he left the theater one evening and a pretty girl plinned a crimson carnation in his buttonhole. The actor was very pleased with himself and thought no more about it. On the following morning he received a note from the girl asking him to send her a couple of seats. With a grim smile the actor wrote to the pretty girl: "I should be delighted," he said, "but on personal investigation I find all the seats screwed down."

Where There's Smoke

Junior was out walking with his mother one of the first cold mornings of the winter. He looked in amazement at what appeared to him to be smoke coming from his mother's mouth when she spoke.

"Look at the smoke coming out of your mouth," exclaimed the little two-year-old. "You must have swallowed a little piece of fire."

WHAT A DIFFERENCE 90 DAYS MAKE!

TODAY A TODDLING CHICK... in 90 days a proud pullet about to lay. There's something to think about! Tiny bones and little muscles have grown several times in size... a delicate fuzz has sprouted into hundreds of feathers... a chick weighing grams has grown into a pullet weighing pounds... all in 90 short days!

A wonderful change... and only one thing can do it... good feed! This year consider Purina Startena Chow (mash) and Purina Chick Chow (crack) or All-Mash Startena Chow for the first six weeks... and then Purina Growena and Purina Intermediate Hen Chow until your pullets are laying at 16 weeks.

Put these Chows before your chicks. You will see pullets that are built right... pullets that will lay eggs aplenty in fall and winter when eggs are always worth good money.

A Washington's Birthday Tea Party Without Tax

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company

AMONG the many opportunities for delightful entertaining that come with the winter season, none is more appropriate than a tea to mark the birthday of George Washington.

This need not be an elaborate event, with many guests and service that imposes a heavy tax on one's time and strength. Indeed, just a group of friends gathered about a cheerful fire to chat and enjoy a bit of refreshment seems far more in keeping with the pioneer life of our patriot first President.

In the menu printed below you will find suggestions that all will enjoy. If even these prove slightly more elaborate than you had planned, the fruit sherbet may be omitted, or you may simply serve cherry preserve tarts in place of the sherbet and jelly roll.

Menu

Small open sandwiches
(Minced Ham and Chopped Stuffed Spanish Olives; Sliced Hard Cooked Eggs and Sweet Gherkins)
Cherry Sherbet
Individual Jelly Rolls
Lemon Slices with Whole Cloves Tea
Cherry Candies

Open Devilled Ham Sandwiches—Spread small rounds or oblongs of bread with devilled or minced ham, and decorate attractively with Stuffed Spanish Olives.

Sliced Egg Sandwiches with Sweet Gherkins—Spread rounds of bread thinly with butter, then with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. In the center of each place a slice of hard-cooked egg, and radiate tiny strips of gherkin from the egg to the edge of the sandwich.

Both of these sandwiches are easily prepared and most attractive. You will find too that these combinations will please almost every taste.

Cherry Sherbet—Crush 2 cups sour pitted cherries, and add to 2 cups sugar which have been boiled for five minutes with 1 1/3 cups water and then cooled. Add one teaspoon vanilla and freeze until mushy. Add 2 stiffly-beaten egg whites, and freeze until very stiff.

Individual Jelly Rolls—Beat 3 egg whites stiffly, and gradually fold in 1/2 cup sugar. Add 3 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored, and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Then add 1/2 cup flour sifted with a few grains of salt. Spread in square or oblong pan about 1/2 inch thick. Bake in a hot oven for 10 minutes. Turn out on a damp cloth. Remove crusts, and spread quickly with Currant Jelly. Roll and cover with a damp cloth until cool. Cut into two inch pieces. The jelly roll may be frosted thinly, and decorated with candied cherries.

Sophisticated Boyhood

It may be the age in which we are living that is responsible. You can't tell. But in the light of observation the sophistication of the nine-year-old becomes an actuality.

Witness the following:
A window display of a tire house. Toy automobiles scooting around at an amazing speed. Crowd composed almost entirely of adults peering with obvious amusement.

Two urchins approach from the background. One of them elbows his way to the front. The other is not so successful.

"What is it?" yells the one from the back.
"Aw, just a tire advertisement," says the other with disgust.

WHY Elephants Wiggle Their Ears Is Explained

Those who enjoy the elephant acts under the big top and visit the zoo on holidays have no doubt noticed that most elephants continually wave their ears. The reason for this apparently unnecessary motion has long been one of nature's mysteries. But now this has yielded to scientific study. The pachyderm wiggles his ears to keep cool. Researches made by Prof. Richard Hesse of the University of Bonn, Germany, show that the moving ear provides a thermostat for the elephant's body. Much blood circulates through the delicate membrane of their ears and is cooled by the moving air. The hotter it is the more rapidly the ears wiggle. Thus the waving elephant ear may be said to have the same duty as the panting of a dog, which draws cool air over the plentiful blood supply of the tongue and mouth to take away the excessive body heat.—Exchange.

Why One Cup Is Used in "Drinking Health"

To the custom of drinking healths is traced the origin of the loving cup. Edward, the Martyr, who came to the throne of England in 975, was hunting (March 18, 978) in Dorset forest. Nearby was Corfe castle, the home of Elfrida. The king rode, unattended, to her castle, was greeted affectionately by the queen, and engaged in conversation with her. The queen invited Edward to dismount. He refused. The queen then, with her own hands, offered Edward a cup of wine, and while he was drinking caused him to be stabbed in the back. Edward died of his wounds. This event, we are led to believe, gave rise to a form of health drinking. Throughout England it was customary to pass one large cup at parties or dinners. Each person to receive the cup rose and drank from it. The man beside him rose also as his "pledge" to protect him from "being stabbed in the back, as was the Martyr Edward." This was known as drinking health. The cup which went the rounds of the table came to be known as the loving cup.

Why "War Babies" Are Best

The first of the "war babies" to be graduated from public schools of England recently started out into the world, and medical and educational authorities declare them to be the finest specimens of the race ever reared in the British isles. The 200,000 young people are said to have emerged from the hardships, malnutrition and anxiety of war times in prime condition. At fourteen the average schoolboy of today is half an inch taller and four pounds heavier than his father was at the same age. Because of the sturdiness of the present boys and girls, educational authorities are expecting much from the next generation.

Why Air Travel Is Popular

Many more women use the airplane service between England and the continent than men. There has been a large increase in the number of young honeymooners who travel by air rather than put up with the discomforts of cross-channel steamer travel. Close observers say that the women seem much more at home several thousand feet in the air than the male passenger. Increased facilities for flying now make it possible for the wealthy women to leave Croydon in the morning, fly to Paris for shopping and be back in London in time for dinner. Several well-known society women have made several such trips this season.

Why Goats in Sheep Herds

It has been a common practice among sheep men in parts of the West to keep goats among the sheep on the assumption that they would be more aggressive in driving off dogs or predatory animals. They are also useful as leaders of the sheep. Just how successful this practice is, is not known, so far as the goat's ability to drive off dogs or predatory animals is concerned. It is known that losses from this source occur in herds where these animals are kept with the flock.

Why Orchid Is High Priced

The orchid, most expensive of florists' blooms, owes its high price in part to the great length of time it takes to produce flowers. It takes seven years from the planting of the seed until the blossoms are matured, but once matured the blooms last longer than any other cut flower. If kept in an ice box between times, orchids may be worn every day for a week or more, provided the flower petals are not touched with the hands.

Why Known as "Jacobean"

Jacobean furniture is that fashioned in the style of the period from James I to James II, including the two Charleses. The name is derived from the Latin "Jacobus," which means "James."

Why Desert Nights Are Cool

The air over deserts is usually quite dry and dry air does not hold heat as well as moist air. It begins to lose its heat just as soon as the sun goes down and the process goes on much more rapidly than in other regions.

Why "English" Walnuts

The Persian walnuts brought to England were small and inferior to the nut that was developed in England. The present size and flavor are the result of cultivation in England, hence the name.

THE TWELVE SENT FORTH

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 9:35-11:1. GOLDEN TEXT—The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few. Pray ye therefore, the Lord of the harvest that He send forth laborers into His harvest.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Helpers at Work.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Helpers at Work.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Helping to Win the World for Christ.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Recruiting Christian workers.

I. The Plenteous Harvest (9:35-38).
1. Christ's compassion (v. 36).
As He went on His rounds preaching the gospel of the kingdom, He saw the multitude as sheep having no shepherd.

2. A plenteous harvest and the few laborers (v. 37).
He saw the whole needy world as a ripened field of grain ready to be harvested, with but few who were willing to labor in the harvest field.

3. Pray ye the Lord of the harvest that He will send forth laborers into His harvest (v. 38).

II. The Twelve Sent Forth (ch. 10).

The sending forth of the twelve shows the methods adopted by Jesus Christ in the propagation of the kingdom. It should be clearly borne in mind that this chapter does not outline the policy of the missionary endeavor in this age. In order to show the dispensational aspects of the lesson, the following divisions of the chapter are suggested:

1. Instructions bearing immediately upon the Apostles' work to the death of Christ (vv. 1-15).

In strictness of interpretation these teachings cannot be applied to any later period.

(1) The ministers chosen (vv. 1-4). These twelve humble men were chosen and commissioned to carry on the work of the propagation of the kingdom. These twelve stood in a peculiar relation to Israel. (2) The sphere of their mission (vv. 5, 6). They were only to go to Jews. They had no message for Gentiles, or even Samaritans. After Pentecost this sphere was widened (Luke 24:46-49; Acts 1:8). No such restriction obtains with reference to ministers today. The middle wall of partition was broken down by the death of Christ. (3) Their message (v. 7). By "the kingdom of heaven is at hand" is meant the promised kingdom of Israel was at hand; that Jesus Christ, the promised king, was present and ready to set up His kingdom. After the church is translated, the same message will be taken up for a brief time by the believing remnant (See Acts 15:13-18; Rom. 11 and Rev. 7).

(4) The supernatural authentication of their mission (v. 8). They were clothed with power to work miracles. These wonderful works were really done by the twelve. (5) Their maintenance (vv. 9, 10). They were to make no provision for their support, but to depend wholly upon the Lord who sent them. Since they had received the message and power gratuitously, they were to give it out in the same way. (6) Responsibilities of those to whom the message was delivered (vv. 11-15). If the people would not receive them or hear their message, they were to turn from them and pronounce judgment upon them.

2. Instructions concerning testimony from Pentecost onward (vv. 16-23).

After Pentecost, testimony for Christ would be fraught with great danger. Both Jews and Gentiles would assail the messengers with the most bitter persecutions. They were scourged in the synagogues before heathen magistrates. Instead of bringing peace to the homes, they brought divisions of the fiercest kind among families. In their defense they were to rely upon the Holy Spirit to aid them. These conditions were literally fulfilled in the period from Pentecost to the destruction of Jerusalem. Since the fall of Jerusalem, no one has ever been scourged in a synagogue. Verse 23 seems to carry the work forward to the time of the preaching of the gospel of the kingdom in the tribulation time. The Lord's coming then is so speedy, that their testimony is cut short.

3. The teaching applicable in all ages (vv. 24-42).

The disciple has the position of oneness with the master. He is courageously to declare the whole counsel of God, though most violently opposed. Though the testimony result in the most bitter opposition, the messenger should not be surprised or discouraged, for so completely is the Lord identified with His disciples that He accepts treatment of them as treatment of Himself.

The Man Who Prays

The man who prays is putting something into the hands of God that was not there before, and God can do for that man something when he prays that he cannot do unless he prays.—William Douglas Mackenzie.

The Power of the Blood

The power of the Blood avails for the blackest and deepest sins, and no man is beyond the reach of God's mercy till the gates of hell have closed upon him.—Echioes.

Here's Matrimonial Ad in Newspaper of 1771

The art of matrimonial advertising seems to be of old standing, judging from an insertion in the Swedish provincial newspaper, the Carlskrona Veckoblad, of 1771, recently unearthed and reproduced in a Stockholm daily. It is as follows: "The honorable public will not too adversely note the following well-meant advertisement. As it sometimes happens that a pretty and well-to-do girl long passes unnoticed just because of the fact that honorable suitors do not know her fortune, or how much her parents will bestow on her as a wedding gift, it is herewith announced that, now, an honorable girl, twenty-one years of age, rather pretty, mannerly, a la mode and well bred, who, besides, understands cooking, washing, baking, etc., which, no doubt, will be further improved through her intelligence when she, through marrying, gets more practice in household things, possesses in property, real and movable, about 15,000 Silver Dalers, besides which she expects a legacy from her old grandmother. If some decent bachelor, preferably a noble, clergyman or otherwise somehow well-situated man, should speculate, a somewhat more precise address of the girl's guardian can be had at the printing office of this paper. But it is stipulated as a condition that none but gallant cavaliers, well built and of good carriage, take the trouble of offering their names; in the opposite case no further particulars will be given."

Employment of Glaze for Ornamentation Old

Among a race as gifted as the Chinese, neither the spirit of inventiveness, which originates new objects and processes of manufacture, nor the love of adventure which by means of travel imports them from abroad, were ever wholly absent, and it is often difficult to prove to which of these two agencies any particular novelty owes its introduction. However, as regards glaze, importation from abroad does seem the most likely. For one thing it was a very ancient possession of the West.

Even before the Pyramids rose out of the sands of the desert, a lovely turquoise glaze had been discovered by the Egyptian artisans. And twenty centuries later the dream city of the Pharaoh Akhnaton gleamed like a jewel against a cloudless horizon, the lintel of its gates, the walls of its palaces, the pillars of its temples, the cornices of its roofs inlaid with a fairylike mosaic of multi-colored glazes. From Egypt glaze spread over western Asia into the full pride of Babylon, unless invented there independently, which is quite as likely. While the baked clay of China was still innocent of all luster, Assyrian potentates decorated their architecture with lions and griffins, stepping out majestically in friezes of richly colored glazed tiles. This resplendent art was continued by the Persian king of kings, by the Seleucids and the Arsacids and beyond into the days of Islam.—From "Porcelain, Papyrus and Palaces of Jade" by A. E. Grantham.

Holstein Cattle Winter in Luxurious Quarters

Speaking of the winter care given the famous Holstein cattle by the dairymen of Friesland, Holland, the National Geographic society says: "Barn and dwelling are under one roof, which rises high into the sky in order to provide loft space for the immense amount of hay needed as cattle feed during the long winter. The whole gives the appearance of a one-story cottage pushed low into the earth by weight of an immense pointed roof, which reaches above the tops of the tall trees lining the roadway.

"A hall separates the living quarters of the farmer's family from space set aside for cows, which as a rule is the larger portion of the house. Visitors testify that these barns are spotless and odorless. Each stall is sanded and has a window of its own, inevitably decorated with a fresh white window curtain. Every cow has a bath daily and many of their tails are tied up with ribbon."

Wisdom of Antoninus

For a man can lose neither the past nor the future; for how can one take from him that which is not his? So remember these two points: First, that each thing is of like form from everlasting and comes round again in its cycle and that it signifies not whether a man shall look upon the same things for a hundred years or two hundred, or for an infinity of time; second, that the longest lived and the shortest lived man, when they come to die, lose one and the same thing.—Marcus Aurelius Antoninus (121-180 A. D.). "Meditations."

Craze for Hairdressing

In the early Eighteenth century hairdressing in France reached its peak. Literally. Many court ladies wore their hair piled so high that they could not sit in coaches but had to kneel or hold their heads out of the windows. It is said that in Paris in 1730 there were 1,200 hairdressers. They were probably kept busy, since it often took an entire day to dress the hair. However, the women who wore it in the most elaborate fashion had it done only about once a month.—Detroit News.

A WONDROUS ADVENTURE

by Lawrence Hawthorne

After the hoping and dreaming,
After the striving for gain,
After the planning and scheming,
After the toiling and pain,
After the long years of waiting—
When all our labors are through,
What have we done toward creating
Lives that are noble and true?

What have we done to bring gladness?
What have we done to bring cheer?
Have we caused heartache and sadness
While we are journeying here?
Who has been helped by our living?
Who has found joy at our hands?
Have we been faithful in giving
All that true friendship demands?

Life is a wondrous adventure,
Happy, successful and bright,
Free from regrets and from censure—
If we but plan it aright.
Joys will be ours for the taking,
Gladness will bless every day—
If we are helpful in making
Other hearts happy and gay.

Silver Hoard Put Away by Romans Unearthed

At Caerleon in Monmouthshire, where, a Roman legionary fortress stood to keep the Welsh marches for the Caesars in the Third century, excavators digging there unearthed some interesting secrets.

The one that is the oddest is that of the three centuries of the Second Augustan legion whose names, Quintinus Aquila, Vibius Proculus, and Vibius Severus, have been newly found. One of them must have been a hard-faced man who had done very well out of the war (like some men of a later day).

Whether it was hidden by Quintinus Aquila or by one of the two named Vibius we may never know; but beneath the floor of the quarters of one of these three centuries was a hoard of 280 silver coins. They may have been wrung from the neighboring Britons. Perhaps they were part of the military chest of the soldiers.

Some of the companies of the legion about that time appear to have been given marching orders for the north, where they were to take part in the work on Hadrian's wall.

Magnetic Poles

The geographical poles are the points at the imaginary ends of the earth's axis of rotation, lying 90 degrees north and south latitude. The magnetic poles are the points on the earth's surface where the lines of magnetic forces are vertical. They are the ends of the axis of the earth's magnetic polarity. The north magnetic pole is located in latitude 70 degrees north, longitude 97 degrees west, and the south magnetic pole in latitude 72 degrees south, longitude 163 degrees east.

First Milk Bottle

The earliest milk bottle known was the hide of a goat, with the openings tied up to prevent the escape of the fluid. It is said that butter was first made accidentally when milk in a goat-skin bottle slung across a camel's back was bumped and sloshed during the weary miles across the desert wastes. It is a long process of evolution from this crude churn to the modern motor-driven churns in our up-to-date creameries.—Burdette Service.

To "Turn State's Evidence?"

State's evidence is the evidence produced by the government in criminal prosecution. The term also applies to a person who gives such evidence. When a person implicated in a crime voluntarily confesses his share and gives testimony that will incriminate his accomplices he is said to "turn state's evidence," namely, he becomes a witness for the state. In such cases there is generally an express or implied promise on the part of the authorities that they will not prosecute the witness who thus testifies, or that he will at least be dealt with leniently. Prosecutors do not usually promise such immunity unless there is insufficient evidence to convict the defendant without the testimony in question.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Unsnightly Billboards

The attempt to promote harmony between billboards and civic improvement ideals is a monumental task. The billboard people naturally desire to carry on their business and at the same time they want to soften the growing animosity against their interests. In short, they do not want to see any curtailment of their billboard privileges, while a very large part of the public would like to see billboards entirely eliminated from the landscape.—Providence Journal.

Movies Teach Beauty

To eliminate "the careless ugliness" of the nation's cities, the American Institute of Architects has started a campaign of public education in "good architecture and good environment." Moving pictures are being employed to illustrate how Washington is being developed as the city beautiful in high schools and colleges and before civic bodies.

"Short Order" Suppers For Unexpected Guests

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company

SUPPER is a pleasantly informal meal at which to entertain. And in these days of small homes, where elaborate cooking is difficult, supper gatherings are growing in popularity.

When guests drop in unexpectedly, the warmth of your welcome is not lessened one bit by knowledge that pantry shelves are well stocked with prepared foods,—that at your finger tips is a supply of dainties equal to any emergency. It is well, however, to keep close at hand one or two attractive menus that can be prepared quickly, in their entirety, from this food reserve. And the first two menus in the group below will prove favorable when "short order" suppers are demanded.

I. Escalloped Tuna Fish with Sweet Gherkins
Buttered Toast or Crunchy Rolls
Olives and Celery
Pastry Cheese
Toasted Crackers
Coffee, Tea or Chocolate

II. Cream of Tomato Soup
Crackers
Boston Baked Beans in Individual Pots
Boston Brown Bread or Whole Wheat Sandwiches
Slices of Sweet Dill Pickle
Fruit Preserve Shortcake
Coffee

Other supper menus you will find delightful and suitable for informal suppers are:

III. Emergency Chicken Salad (made with canned chicken)
Hot Rolls or Egg Sandwiches
Apple Pie
Cheese
Coffee

IV. Oysters en brochette
Creamed Potatoes
Tomato Ketchup
Whole Wheat Muffins
Fruit Ice
Small cakes
Coffee

V. Escalloped Tuna Fish with Sweet Gherkins—Melt 3 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, and blend thoroughly with 4 tablespoons flour. Add 2 cups milk, and cook until thickened. Season with salt, pepper and a bit of onion juice. Add 1 cup tuna fish from which the oil has been rinsed (place fish in a sieve and pour very hot water over it). Add ¼ cup chopped Sweet Gherkins, and pour into a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs and brown in a hot oven.

Oysters En Brochette—Drain the liquor from three dozen oysters. Cut three dozen pieces of sliced breakfast bacon, each the size of an oyster. Place an oyster on a skewer, then a piece of bacon, and then another oyster until the skewer is filled. Broil before a clear flame until the edges of the oysters begin to curl. Place in a hot dish, and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Garnish with Stuffed Spanish Olives and serve with Tomato Ketchup.

Emergency Chicken Salad—Cut a can of chicken meat into cubes. Add an equal amount of celery and ¼ cup of sliced Stuffed Spanish Olives. Then add a few drops of onion juice, and salt and pepper to season. Moisten with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. Chill thoroughly, and place in deep nests of lettuce. Garnish with slices of hard-cooked egg and Sweet Gherkins.

Untimely End to Lives of Brave Adventurers

It is remarkable how few of the eminent men of the discoverers and conquerors of America died in peace. Columbus died broken-hearted, Roldin and Bobadilla were drowned, Ovando was harshly superseded, Les Casas sought refuge in a cow, Ojeda died in extreme poverty. Encisco was deposed by his own men, Nicuesa perished miserably by the cruelty of his party, Vasco Nunez de Balboa was disgracefully beheaded, Narvaez was imprisoned in a tropical dungeon, and afterward died of hardship, Cortes was dishonored, Alvarado was destroyed in ambush, Almagro was garroted, Pizarro was murdered, and his four brothers cut off, and there was no end to the assassinations and executions of the secondary chiefs among the energetic and daring adventurers.

A Fair Cop

For years and years and years—no, let us start again: For weary hours the angler sat watching his float. It never moved, save when a ripple of the river made it tremble and raised false hopes in his heart.

Then, with the snort of an enraged bull and the foot-lead to match, the village constable came to him.

"Fishing ain't allowed in this pond," he snapped. "Beat it!"

The fisherman turned bored eyes to him and jerked the hook out of the water.

"I'm not fishing," he replied, with weary sarcasm in his voice. "I'm teaching this worm to swim."

"A-a-ah!" snorted the policeman triumphantly. "Then come along with me. Bathing ain't allowed in the pond without costumes, and he ain't got one on!"

HOOVER ASKS SENATE FOR MORE SPEED.

Responsibility for retarded recovery of the country's business was placed upon the Senate on Tuesday by President Hoover and Administration leaders.

At the White House it was emphasized the business situation in an abnormal period such as still exists as a result of the decline in the securities markets, is keenly sensitive to legislative reaction and that delay has a tendency to slow down recovery.

Accordingly, the President at a breakfast conference of Senate and House leaders this morning, urged co-operation and expedition of legislation pending in the Senate, particularly the tariff bill.

It is understood the President also impressed upon the leaders that unless action was expedited on appropriation bills carrying funds for the Government's vast building program it would shortly be necessary for departments to drop from 10,000 to 20,000 workers.

How Term "Thirty" Came to Symbolize an Ending

Charles Payne Smith gave the following information in the Typographical Journal regarding the origin of "30" as used by newspaper men and telegraphers: "The first press association organized in Civil war times was composed largely of morning papers published near the eastern seaboard. Each paper sent into the central office items of local interest, which were there edited and telegraphed to all members. It happened that the first message sent to the association totaled 30 words and this figure, with the words 'Good night' and the signature of the sender, was placed at the bottom of the sheet by the operator. At that time piecework was the rule on all papers. The daily grist was usually set up, corrected and in the forms by 10 o'clock, but the compositors were compelled to wait around at their own expense until the foreman announced that '30' was in. So '30' became a byword among printers, symbolizing the end."

THE KEY FEEDS

If a feeder would say to us that he could buy feed for a lower price than we ask for THE KEY FEEDS—it would mean nothing to us. That can always be done.

If a feeder would say to us that he could buy better feed than THE KEY FEEDS—we would be very much concerned. We can never allow that to be true.

THE KEY FEEDS are as good as we can make them.
