THE CARROLL RECORD

THERE IS NO BETTER MOTTO THAN—PROTECTION TO HOME, ITS INTERESTS, AND INDUSTRIES.

VOL. 36

TANEYTOWN, MARYLAND, FRIDAY, MAY 23, 1930.

NO. 47

SOME KEY HOMESTEAD FACTS OF INTEREST.

Chiefly relative to the Dwelling and a Description of it.

It is not our purpose to publish matter with reference to the birthplace of Francis Scott Key that has already been more or less frequently published; but rather to bring out some heretofore unpublished data on the subject.

The publication of the error carried by the Baltimore Sunday Sun, some weeks ago; concerning Key's birthplace, that was noted in The Record; the letter published from Mrs. John Ross Key, last week, and inquiry into the correctness of the long established fact (as we view it) that the present Peter Baumgardner farm, near Keyville, the birthplace of Key, was part of the old "Terra Rubra" tract, has led to some interesting expressions concerning the general subject, and these we gladly publish.

Regarding the latter, our good old friend Dr. J. J. Weaver, of Washington, who in 1895 wrote up the History of Uniontown, in fine detail for The Record, has the following to say: "The Key land located in Frederick County, was patented under the name of 'Terra Rubra' (red land) and not as Pipe Creek. I formerly owned the survey, but it is lost."

The statement in Mrs. John Ross Key's letter, that the original Key home was said to have been destroyed by fire, has called for the following statements from George W. Dern, and his daughter, Mrs. John N. Forrest, of Keymar, which we will condense somewhat, as follows:

Mr. Dern's father, owned the land immediately adjoining the Key homestead, and Mr. Dern (Geo. W.) recalls that the home was torn down when he was twelve years of age. He says the home was not destroyed by fire, but was rebuilt by a Mrs. Waesche, owner of the property at that time, on practically the same spot. Also, that without any doubt the land was part of the original "Terra Rubra" tract.

Jacob Wilhide (the father of Chas. Wilhide) was Mrs. Waesche's tenant, and they hauled the brick for the present house from James Shorb's brick yard on the Keyville and Taneytown road. The original house was built of brick brought from England; and a considerable portion of the material from the old building was used in the present building.

The following paragraphs are from notes that Mrs. Forrest has from time to time, secured from various sources, and are likely fully authentic.

"The old Key mansion was 96 feet front, with a wing running back at each end. The one, 52 ft. long, was next to the present lane, and was occupied by the slaves. The other, 72 ft. long, next to the orchard, is where the farmer lived, and the main part was occupied by Mrs. Waesche when she lived there. There was a double porch extending across the entire front, with columns 2 ft. in diameter built of brick so modeled to form a circle, and then plastered.

There was a court paved with brick inside the two wings, with a double porch connecting the two wings. The two wings were built of brick, and the center was of frame, lathed and plastered outside, as well as inside. During the summer of 1858 a terrific storm took off a part of the porch roof and a small portion at one end of the house and also blew in a portion of the brick gable. The following year it was torn down and the present house built.

Upon tearing down the old house, the timbers were found to be perfectly sound and the framing much stronger than that done at the present time. It was a relic that should have been preserved; as I am sure it was the largest and best planned house in Carroll County. One window in the central portion of the house had the names of John Ross Key and his children, and Philip Barton Key and his family, cut in the glass with a diamond."

DECORATION DAY PROGRAM

President Hoover's Address will be Heard by Radio.

Decoration Day will be observed in Taneytown, on Friday the 30th. The various Lodges, the Fire Company, Chamber of Commerce, and others, will participate in the parade, preceded by old veterans, little children with flowers, the town officials and the Odd Fellows band. The Lodges will not march separately, but as one body.

Donations of flowers should be left at the Lutheran Church, from 12:00 o'clock to 12:30. For a reason that will appear later, it will be necessary that those entering the parade, gather early, as it will start promptly at 1:00 o'clock. This is most important.

After the decoration of the graves and the Soldiers' Memorial, a program will be held in the High School auditorium, as follows: Selection by the Band, invocation, a patriotic hymn, two or three five minute addresses, and the following numbers by the school.

"The Home Road," by the Freshman Class.

"America my Home" and "Soldiers' Chorus" by the Sophomore Class.

Recessional, by a mixed chorus.

The exact order of the program is subject to change, for the reason that at 2:30 the High School radio will tune-in President Hoover's address at Gettysburg; and this is the reason for the early and prompt start of the parade. The aim is for the program to begin at near 2:00 o'clock; then at 2:30 the President's address, to be followed what may remain of the above program.

The earnest co-operation of citizens and members of the various organizations, is urged.

THE "RUNNYMEDE" TRACT.

The following answers have been received concerning the "Runnymede" tract inquiry, published in last week's Record.

From Dr. J. J. Weaver, Washington.—"I can tell you all about 'Runnymede' but the matter is too long for me to write. Come to see me this Summer at Uniontown."

From Mrs. John N. Forrest, Keymar.—"Runnymede had 3677 acres; was patented to Francis Key (grandfather of Francis Scott Key) and Upson Scott, in 1767. 'Terra Rubra' was a tract of 1865 acres, patented to Philip Key in 1752; 'New Bedford' had 5031 acres and was patented to Norman Bruce in 1762."

Our inquirer, Walter W. Beers, treasurer of the Star Spangled Banner Flag House Association, Baltimore, has the above information, but seems to want to know the definite location of the land.—Ed. Record.

J. Hampton Taylor, who in 1896 wrote the history of Trevanion for The Record, in giving a sketch of the Kitzmiller family, says, "Leonard Kitzmiller died nearly 88 years of age, and is buried in Nusbbaum's cemetery, or perhaps better known as 'Runnymede,' located near Meadow Branch."

Several reports have come to us of the location of "Runnymede" tracts, the most important of which is one from Martin Koons, that there is a corner stone planted at the south end of Mayberry near the road, that carries this inscription "Beginning of Runnymede." The stone is large and the marking plain.

Another is that the farm of the late Dr. Kemp, several miles north of Mayberry, was part of the tract. Apparently the best authority on the subject is that contained in deeds to property. Should it join with "Terra Rubra," and extend to north of Mayberry, that would mean a distance of perhaps six miles.

FAMILY REUNIONS.

Time was when a family reunion was a matter of long preparation and much planning. Nowadays the member charged with the secretarial duty sends out the postcards, the women of the households get busy with the picnic dinner, and on the morning of the appointed day the various scattered families hitch up their old flivvers and got to it. The family reunion is more popular than the Sunday School picnic.

Pride in a family name is usually back of these gatherings of the clans. As our American civilization takes on age, men think more of their forefathers and the part they played in the building of the great structure we call America.

Sometimes the descendants and relatives by marriage go back to the ancestral home, assembling at the call of the secretary for a day of jollification each summer in the open. College professors and farmers pitch quoits as partners. The woman of fashion sits down to talk over family affairs with her cousin the seamstress. There is such a mingling of personalities and social ranks as makes for good democracy, and those who participate are the better Americans for their annual reunions with those of blood relationship whose walks in life are usually so far removed they never meet except on these occasions.—Frederick News.

PASTORS ACCEPT CALLS.

The vacancy in the Reformed Church, including Baust and Union Bridge congregations, has been accepted by Rev. M. S. Reifsnider, of Holsopple, Pa., who will take charge June 5th.

The Salem Lutheran Charge, Westminster, including St. Benjamin's congregation at Kriders Church, and the St. John's, or Leister's congregation, has been accepted by Rev. J. E. MacDonald, of Maytown, Pa., who will remove to the Westminster parsonage, June 17th.

EDWARDS TRIAL COMES UP ON MONDAY.

A Large Number of Larceny Cases Heard this Week.

The case of Paul W. Edwards, charged with the murder of William Thomas Keefe, Dec. 10 last, has been set for trial Monday, May 26th. Edwards was brought into Court, last Friday, when his attorneys Weant and Wood made pleas of not guilty for him, and elected trial by jury. In addition to the murder charge, nine indictments for forgery, purporting to show incentive for the murder, were entered against Edwards. They are for having forged Mr. Keefe's name, on notes as follows:

September 27, 1921, Taneytown Savings Bank, $4,506.95.

March 15, 1927, Harry Essig, $217.50.

July 1, 1927, Taneytown Grain and Supply Company, $345.32.

March 26, 1928, Reindollar Company, $165.53.

January 2, 1929, Franklin Bowersox, $81.73.

March 4, 1929, Martin D. Hess, $90.

March 21, 1929, P. B. Roop, $112.50.

January 28, 1929, H. A. Allison, $87.00.

August 28, 1929, Central Trust Company of Maryland, $375.00.

The following minor cases were disposed of this week:

Court opened on Monday, and disposed of the following cases:

Lester Beaver charged with non-support. Case dismissed.

Calvin Calp and Franklin Canap, charged with larceny of Roy Schlosser's automobile. Guilty, and sentenced to Maryland Training School for Boys until the authorities discharge them.

Thomas Zentgraf, Westminster, receiving stolen goods. Guilty, and sentenced to House of Correction for 18 months.

David Woodyard, colored, larceny. Guilty and sentenced to two and a half years in the House of Correction.

On Tuesday, the Jury was called for its first case. William Miller, near Windsor, indicted for the larceny of an automobile jack from Wier H. Robertson. Verdict not guilty.

George J. Lovington, embezzlement. Case settled on payment of costs.

Oscar Gouker, larceny. Guilty, and sentenced to Md. Penitentiary for 3 years.

John and Kelso Poole, employees of A. W. Feaser & Co., Silver Run. Guilty of larceny of oil. Both sentenced to six months in jail.

James Bowers, Medford, larceny. Guilty, and sentenced to 30 more days in jail, in addition to time already spent.

Lorn Budd, colored, near Union Bridge, for breaking into W. M. R. R. Station at New Windsor. Guilty, and sentenced to 2 months in House of Correction.

On Wednesday, the entire day was taken up with the state vs. C. R. Wilson, John J. Hesson, Arthur Hartman and others, agents for the Midland Home Building & Loan Association. Trial was before Judges Forsythe and Maus. The indictment was conspiracy to defraud certain purchasers of shares at $2.50 each. Judge Forsythe announced the verdict of not guilty of conspiracy, as to each of the defendants.

"INSIDE" INFORMATION FOR WOMEN.

Try pineapple and cabbage salad with mayonnaise.

Scalloped apples may be served for dessert with the main course at dinner, much as apple sauce is served.

Many people like to have a leg of lamb boned for easy carving. You can stuff the cavity with a savory breadcrumb stuffing.

Make cinnamon toast by putting a mixture of one-fourth cup of granulated sugar and one teaspoon of ground cinnamon into a large shaker, and sifting it on hot buttered toast.

Large canned peaches may be drained and broiled. Place in a shallow baking dish side up, add a little melted butter and a very little salt. Broil until heated through and lightly browned. Serve hot with the meat course, or for dessert.

Try peppermint ice cream with chocolate sauce. Here's a recipe from the Bureau of Home Economics: Heat half a cup of single cream. Add ¼ teaspoon of salt, and 2/3 cup of sugar. Stir until the sugar has dissolved. Mix with the remainder of one and a half pints of cream (from which you took the half cup) and half a pint of double cream. Add sufficient food coloring to make a soft green, and enough peppermint essence—about 8 drops—for delicate flavoring. Freeze in the usual way.

For hot chocolate sauce, you will need 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, 1 cup of granulated sugar, ¼ cup of milk, 1 tablespoon butter, ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Melt the chocolate in the double boiler. Add the sugar, milk, butter, and salt. Cook for 10 minutes or longer. Add vanilla, beat well, and serve hot on ice cream.

MOTORISTS PASS THEM BY.

Motorists are not picking up so many roadside hikers, these days. They started in by being generous with vacant seats, but enough of the pick-ups have turned into robbers to discourage generosity; so now the worthy weary ones, who would be glad for a lift, suffer because of the unworthy ones—which is equally the fact in many other ways. It's a pretty serious thing to abuse generosity.

FIRE AT LeGORE PLANT

Barn and Twenty-two Horses and Mules Destroyed.

A large barn and contents owned by the LeGore Lime Company, at LeGore, near Woodsboro, was destroyed by fire at an early hour last Saturday morning. The fire was discovered at about 2 o'clock by Walter C. LeGore, who lives nearby, and the New Midway Fire Company was summoned, but the fire had gained such headway that neither the building nor contents could be saved.

Aside from the building, the main loss was 22 head of horses and mules. Adjoining buildings, however, were saved, holding the loss to about $10,000. The loss is partly covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is undetermined.

The mules and horses were kept inside the building during the night, according to the custom of their keepers. Three of the horses had been bought only last week, and added to the number used by the plant owners for both plant and farm work. Mr. LeGore owns a large farm in addition to having one of Frederick county's leading lime plants, and the horses were used not only for pulling cars and general quarry hauling, but for farm purposes as well. They were valued at between $2,500 and $3,000.

A large quantity of feed, including hay and grain, and an adjoining straw-rick, were destroyed. A cow, which was in the barn yard, was badly burned, and was not expected to live. The stock was partly insured, but it was stated Saturday morning, but the extent had not been determined.

KITCHEN CUPBOARD AND THE MEDICINE CHEST.

"Don't overlook the kitchen cupboard or the medicine chest while you are doing your spring housecleaning," is the advice Dr. Robert L. Swain, Deputy Food and Drug Commissioner of the State Department of Health, gives to every housekeeper in the State.

"Like every other cupboard in the place, the kitchen cupboard and the medicine chest need a thorough overhauling every now and then. As you look over them," he continued, "you will probably find as you do in the other cupboards, a lot of things poking away out of sight that have lost their freshness or that are even harmful and that should be discarded for safety's sake."

"The real job comes after the shelves have been cleared out and thoroughly scrubbed with plenty of water and soap, and when you have to decide what is to go back on the shelves. If you want to safeguard your family and to save yourself a lot of trouble, stop long enough while you are working on your kitchen cabinet, to label your boxes and jars or whatever you use as containers for your supplies—and to label them with good, clear lettering."

"Next, after labeling, separate the harmful ones, such as insecticides and household poisons, from the supplies that are used in cooking. And finally, put the insecticides and such things in a safe place. Don't keep them in the same place with food supplies or with ingredients used in cooking."

"Within the last six months, we have all known of accidental poisonings that have occurred here in Maryland as well as in other parts of the country, because insecticides or other equally dangerous substances, were somehow mixed with baking powders or with flavoring substances. Very serious illnesses and even deaths have resulted from this sort of carelessness. The spring housecleaning gives the housekeeper an opportunity to check up on such supplies; to label them clearly and properly; and to store them where they will not endanger people's lives. Above all, such supplies should be stored beyond the reach of children."

"As to the medicine chest—don't keep odds and ends of medicine that you have had on hand for two or three years. There are certain supplies that you will want to have and that you will need to have on hand. Ask your doctor to give you a list of them. Then go to your druggist and get the fresh supplies."

LUTHERAN COLLEGE FOR WOMEN.

Delegates to the annual convention of the West Pennsylvania Lutheran Synod, meeting in St. Mark's Church, Hanover, Pa., were informed on Wednesday in the report of the Rev. Dr. William A. Kump, Chambersburg, executive secretary of the Lutheran College for Women, that a sum of approximately $1,600,000 will be necessary to found a college of the character contemplated.

An organized financial appeal is planned to secure the needed money. A gift of $25,000 toward the expenses of the campaign to secure funds has been received from Mrs. William T. Toner, a member of the Board of Directors of the proposed school.

Eight Synods of the Lutheran Church have joined in the enterprise for establishment of the women's institution, which will be known as Grace College. Miss Jessie Truman, co-principal of Hillside School, Norwalk, Conn., has been elected dean and is now assisting in the regional organization being effected. The college will be located near Washington.

The Synod went on record as recommending to the Board of Directors of Gettysburg College that co-education be continued at that institution until Grace College is opened.

After a man has been in a business for thirty years, what else can he do?

POLL ON PROHIBITION HAS CLOSED.

Opinions as to its Real Worth are Widely Differing.

The last of the Literary Digest's polls on prohibition was published this Friday morning, consequently we have been unable to give it our usual analysis. The totals are—

For Enforcement 1,464,098

For Modification 1,399,314

For Repeal 1,945,052

The poll is variously estimated. The leaders of the "dry" movement advised against participating in the vote, and say it proves nothing. Much criticism has been indulged in concerning the distribution of the ballots, and intimations have been made that the opportunity to direct the vote, have been numerous.

The "wets" on the other hand, see a very distinct popular trend in the vote in favor of repeal, and praise the Digest for its stupendous undertaking. We have the time only to add the following paragraphs from the Baltimore Sun:

"Five States—Arkansas, Kansas, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Tennessee—registered a majority vote for strict enforcement, as previously reported; and five gave a majority for repeal—Connecticut, Louisiana, Nevada, New Jersey and Rhode Island. The two extremes, by the final figures, continue almost neck and neck—going in opposite directions; Kansas, 57.67 percent dry; Nevada, 57.61 percent wet."

Thirteen States gave over forty percent of their votes for enforcement: Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Mississippi, Nebraska, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas.

Eighteen States are more than forty percent for repeal: Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Missouri, Michigan, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Wyoming—and the District of Columbia.

"To The Digest it is a deep satisfaction to have grappled successfully with this immense task. But all our hard labor and lavish expenditure would have been of little use without the eager co-operation of those who marked and returned their ballots. To these 4,806,464 public-spirited Americans of both sexes we proffer thanks and congratulations. They are the poll!"

"In all fairness The Digest also congratulates and thanks those other thousands who received no ballots in this sweeping expression of the national attitude that they besieged us with pleas for ballots—pleas to which we were obliged to trun a deaf ear, since the very essence of our polling system is the wholly 'impersonal' drafting of the names and addresses."

Next Friday, our press day, is Decoration Day. This means that in order to close the office in the afternoon, we shall go to press fully an hour earlier than usual, and will be unable to handle much news, or advertising, that is not in our hands Thursday afternoon.

THE NAVY REVIEW

The occasion of the review of the U. S. Navy, on Tuesday, was a remarkable event in several ways, not the least of which was the radio broadcast between stations WTGN at Virginia Beach, W3XA on the dirigible Los Angeles, and W3XC on the cruiser Salt Lake City, representing the holding of conversation with each other from 6000 feet in the air, to the cruiser and to land, and the broadcasting of the same throughout the country.

President Hoover was on board the Salt Lake City, fifty miles east of Cape Henry, the first president to have viewed the maneuvering of a modern fleet. The two airplane carriers—the Saratoga and the Lexington—from which airplanes made their take-off, were also centres of interest as was the hooking of an airplane under the Los Angeles, while in flight, and its relaunching to return to the Saratoga.

There were seven battleships, seventy vessels in all, and literally hundreds of airships engaged in the big review; which also included a mimic war in mid-ocean, about which little was radioed.

The chief interest to the radio listener was the ease and clearness with which the three radio broadcasting outfits communicated with each other and their conversation broadcast throughout the country. Actually, the experience was like three men—one in the air, one on the ocean and one at Virginia calling to and conversing with each other, as though separated with each other only a short distance on land.

WHEN THE CITIES GAIN POLITICAL CONTROL.

We give at length in this issue, an Editorial under the caption "When the cities gain Political Control," clipped from the Philadelphia Ledger, because of its rapidly nearing importance to the country at large. What will be the changes in legislation, when the cities control Congress, and nominations for the Presidency? What is likely to be the effect on such questions as Farm Relief and Prohibition? Will city control of the government, be favorable, or unfavorable, for the country as a whole? We suggest it as a topic for debate. Read the editorial, and clip it.

MD. REFORMED CLASSIS

Sessions held at Rocky Ridge Church Monday to Wednesday.

Election of new officers for the ensuing year and reports submitted by ministers and delegates constituted the principal work of the opening session of the 101st. annual session, of the Maryland Classis of the Reformed church, in Mt. Tabor Church, Rocky Ridge, Monday afternoon. At the evening session Rev. John S. Adam, pastor of the Middletown Reformed Church, the retiring president delivered a forceful sermon, followed by the classical communion.

New officers elected were: President, Rev. R. Franklin Main, Brunswick; Vice-president, H. Keiffer DeLauter, Braddock Heights; corresponding secretary, Eugene A. Spensard, Cavetown, Washington county; stated clerk, Rev. Guy P. Bready, Taneytown, and reading clerk, Rev. Frank A. Rosenberger, Walkersville; treasurer, H. W. Warrenfeltz.

About fifty ministers and elders attended the opening session. The session began with a devotional service conducted by Rev. Dr. Henri L. G. Kieffer, pastor of the Evangelical Reformed Church, of Frederick, and Rev. Atwill Conner, pastor of the Jefferson church. The election of officers, and reading reports and an address by Rev. A. P. Frantz, Superintendent of the Hoffman Orphanage, near Littlestown, Pa., occupied the remainder of the session.

At the Tuesday morning session various reports were heard and disposed of. The amendment to the constitution, giving women the same rights as men to hold office and be elected members of the judicatories of the church, was approved at the afternoon session. The adoption of the amendment means that women of the Reformed church are placed upon an equal footing with men in the administration of the affairs of the church. They may become ministers, elders, or deacons and also be elected to any of the church administrative bodies.

A number of other amendments to the constitution, recommended by the General Synod, relating chiefly to rewording and changing phrases, were taken up and approved. Tuesday evening was devoted to addresses on Foreign Missions and community life.

The question of the proposed union of the Reformed Church with the United Brethren and the Evangelical Synod, was taken up, but no suggestions were made and no action taken except to refer the whole matter to what is known as Committee 21.

PENNSYLVANIA NOMINEES.

The Republican primary election was held, on Tuesday, in Pennsylvania, for Governor and U. S. Senator. Gifford Pinchot, bone-dry candidate, was nominated over Francis Shunk Brown, and Phillips the wet candidate, the latter receiving about 250,000 votes, about half of which came from Philadelphia.

James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, was nominated for Senator, easily defeating present Senator Grundy. The immense vote for Davis in Philadelphia defeated Grundy; but although Pinchot received 5000 less votes in that city than Grundy, the counties overcame the city for him.

FARM WOMEN TO VISIT NEW YORK.

Thirty-six farm women of Maryland, who live in counties traversed by the B. & O. R. R., together with their respective Home Demonstration Agents, will leave June 2 for New York City where they will spend three days visiting the larger commercial houses and markets, the big terminals and piers, the fish market and many historical points in the city.

The Carroll County representatives will be: Mrs. Randall Spoerlein, New Windsor; Mrs. Henry Freter, Woodbine; Mrs. Leonard Bankard, Westminster, and Miss Agnes Shindee, Home Demonstration Agent.

MEN DO NOT SMOKE.

Recently, we read an article in a newspaper that was meant to be a vicious condemnation on "Men" who "smoke a pipe." It was a ridiculous mistatement of facts. "Men" do not "smoke at all; neither do they smoke a pipe, nor does the pipe smoke. What this writer evidently meant to refer to is the habit some men have of placing tobacco in a pipe, igniting the tobacco with a match, then drawing the resulting smoke into the mouth through the stem of the pipe. Actually, nothing "smokes" but the tobacco.

Cigars and cigarettes do "smoke" without much assistance, when brought into contact with fire; but the only way to make a pipe smoke is to set in on fire, which is never done. But, overlooking the dumbness of the expressions of the writer of the article, and admitting, for short, that men do smoke—even a pipe, what of it? It is merely one of his personal liberties.

There is no question of enforcement, modification or repeal, about it; but is solely a matter of preferred personal habit. If it is a "horrible example," then do not follow it. The pipe medium for making tobacco smoke, has at least the big advantage of economy in operation, and at the same time furnishes some of the physical exercise so necessary to health.

No, "men do not smoke." They may get very hot; they may cause smoke to come from something else; they may actually smoke after a while—but not now.

Beware of a man who does not talk, and of a dog that does not bark.

THE MAJORITY-MAKERS.

There is no question that the United States Senate is practically Democratic for all working political purposes. The dozen or more western insurgents, so-called, who find it personally profitable to wear Republican labels, but to consistently misrepresent administration Republicanism, have helped the Democratic minority to exercise majority power—helped it more effectually than could have the same number of genuine Democrats—and to indulge in all sorts of investigations, largely aimed to discredit Republican leadership.

The majority-makers have been taking the easiest course—the destructive one, and are making the most of their chance, while they have it. Perhaps their work, separately and in alliance, may have the effect of cleaning some old political methods—it is to be hoped so—but there is a reasonably strong doubt whether the investigators are actually trying to purify politics, or to accomplish some other objects.

As a matter of fact, the Senate Committees, with their eager detectives having full inquisitorial power, have not found as much "dirt" as might have been expected. Even the most tidy of housewives like to have notice of the coming of visitors. The managers of big plants like to prepare for inspection days. Practically nobody is at all times prepared for photograph taking, or for a close inquiry into how one conducts all kinds of business in which he is engaged.

As this same made majority in the Senate, with its deals and trades and sectional interests on the side, failed to produce a satisfactory tariff bill, it is difficult to see just what it has succeeded in doing, aside from mixing things up, and perhaps giving the Republican candidates a hard road to travel in November. But, this in itself may be considered a sufficient result, at least for the time being.

If another aim may be the killing-off of Mr. Hoover as a candidate to succeed himself, several questions are to be considered; first, whether or not Mr. Hoover cares to succeed himself; second, whether the noise can be successfully continued for another two years along the same line; and third, even with Mr. Hoover out of the way, and a Democratic President elected in 1932, whether the insurgent majority makers will then be happier. Merely loading the blame for everything that is out of joint, on the party in power, has its life.

MR. MORROW'S PLAN.

Dwight W. Morrow, a Republican candidate for the nomination in New Jersey for United States Senator, has made his position known, at length, on the prohibition question. Outstanding features of it, are as follows.

Repeal of the 18th. Amendment, and restoring to the states the power to determine their policy toward the liquor traffic.

Favors generous appropriations for enforcing the 18th. Amendment, as long as it is in the Constitution.

Would vest in the Federal Government power to give all possible protection and assistance to states that desire complete prohibition.

That the people of the United States are rid of the saloon—it must not come back.

But, he declares, a "wholly unregulated liquor traffic" has grown up for which one group blames the law and another group the disobedience to law, "and it is not in such a spirit that a solution will be found."

Asserting the prohibition question to be one which "constantly confuses moral principles with the art of government," he went on:

"The solution will be found when we realize the issue before use is a governmental problem; how can the control of the liquor traffic be divided as between Federal and State Governments in a way that will recognize the habits and sentiments and moral principles of the people in the different parts of the country?"

"I see no way of settling that question satisfactorily," he concluded,

"without a further change in the Constitution."

In brief, these are the opinions of Mr. Morrow who stands high as a man of ability and fine qualities, and who may—should he be elected Senator—be a candidate for President. Unquestionably his opinions will be given wide consideration.

In our humble opinion, they will not please either the dries or the wets. The main problem, we think, is how he would "return to the states the power to determine their policy toward the liquor traffic," and at the same time prevent the states, if they saw fit, "from returning to the saloon?"

And another would be, how he would succeed in giving dry states "all possible protection" against the wet states? To us, it appears that Mr. Morrow's plan would be merely to exchange one set of problems, for another set equally as difficult to solve.

Again, it appears difficult to understand just how it will be possible to repeal the 18th. Amendment and substitute for it a new amendment, such as he suggests. Would it be possible to combine the two acts in one? And does he imagine that such a change in sentiment could come about, that two-thirds of both Houses of Congress and the legislatures of three-fourths of the states, would agree to such a proposition, considering that no amendment to the Constitution—to the best of our knowledge—has ever been repealed?

On the whole, it may be that Mr. Morrow builds too much on the hypothesis that his plan would be accepted very much more generally than the present plan; which leads to the thought that perhaps he might have been more successful, so far as the whole country outside of New Jersey is concerned, had he suggested reasonable "modifications" of the present plan, rather than such a radically different one.

THE ICE CREAM INDUSTRY.

"Few of our dairy farmers realize how much of the milk they produce goes into the manufacture of ice cream, and only a few of the millions of consumers of ice cream realize the magnitude of the industry," said O. E. Reed, chief of the Bureau of Dairy Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, speaking over the radio today (May 19) from Washington, D. C. "It is true, nevertheless," he said, "that about 6,000,000,000 pounds of milk are utilized annually in the United States in the commercial manufacture of this food, which was once regarded as a luxury but which now holds a well-established place in the American diet." The Federal dairy chief's address opened an educational program covering the Central States sponsored jointly by the National Dairy Council and The International Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers. His subject was "The Relation of the Ice Cream Industry to the Dairy Farmer."

"There are about 4,000 ice cream factories in the United States today, and in 1928 they manufactured more than one and three-fourths billion pounds, or about 348,000,000 gallons, of ice cream," said Mr. Reed. "These manufacturers required about six billion pounds of milk, or the product of about one and a third million dairy cows. Into the product went 209,000,000 pounds of butterfat; 243,000,000 pounds of sugar; 174,000,000 pounds of milk solids other than butterfat; and 5,000,000 pounds of food gelatin.

"The quantity of dairy products used in the manufacture of ice cream in the United States, calculated in terms of whole milk, is almost equal to the quantity used in the manufacture of cheese, and is greater than the quantity used in the manufacture of condensed and evaporated milk.

"The ice cream manufacturing industry of today is highly specialized. It represents a large investment which provides the expensive machinery and equipment and the services of technical experts and specialists whose knowledge and training are necessary in making uniform and healthful products.

"Ice cream is an American institution. The making of ice cream, as an industry, had its beginning about the time of the Revolution, it is said. The first newspaper advertisement offering ice cream for sale seems to have been one which appeared in The New York Gazette of May 19, 1777. One story says that Dolly Madison, the popular first lady of the land when James Madison was President, was the first to introduce ice cream into the social events at the White House. Another gives to Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, wife of the financial genius who so greatly aided George Washington in firmly establishing the Republic, the credit for having been the first to serve ice cream at a notable social function. Whoever it was who introduced ice cream to us, he started an industry which has grown in importance.

"Back in the days when everybody kept a cow, and Mother churned the butter, baked the bread, and did the canning and preserving, we made ice cream on the back porch in the home freezer," said Mr. Reed. "But just as the making of butter and bread and the canning of fruits have largely passed from the home to the factory, so has the manufacture of ice cream. Today the making of ice cream is one of America's important industries.

"We eat more ice cream today than we did when it was made at home. The per-capita consumption in 1905 was 1.04 gallons, and in 1928 it was 2.9 gallons, or nearly three times as much. In 1927 the consumption in nineteen of the States was more than 2.9 gallons per person. In three of the States—Pennsylvania, California, and New Jersey—the per-capita consumption was 4.98, 4.57 and 4.24 gallons respectively, which was 33 to 40 percent greater than the average for the country. The consumption of ice cream has been increasing steadily. Any increase means that the dairy farmer has larger outlet for the product of his industry, and that the public enjoys in greater measure, those benefits which accompany consumption of sufficient quantities of nourishing, satisfying, and healthful foods—in the list of which foods dairy products stand so very high."

WHEN THE CITIES GAIN POLITICAL CONTROL.

The early census reports continue to emphasize the drift of the population from the farms and towns to the cities, which has been so marked since the turn of the century. This situation contains many implications, of which the political bearing is not the least interesting.

It is sometimes forgotten that the main purpose of the decennial census is to provide a basis for apportioning the Representatives in Congress according to population. The reapportionment to follow this census will involve many more changes than usual, because the indifference of Congress to its duty delayed the procedure so long. The rural districts are now over-represented in proportion to population. So are many States. In the process of reapportionment, some States will "lose" and others will "gain," according to the popular parlance. Actually, all that will be done will be to redress the balance and give each the representation to which it is entitled.

The first ninety cities for which the 1930 figures have been announced show a gain of more than 22 percent in population. Twenty-two cities of more than 100,000 population gained 21 percent. In the previous decade the growth of the population as a whole was 14.9 percent. The increase for the population was 25.7 percent. The cities' gain during the last ten years, as so far reported, is most marked in the South and West, where the rural population preponderates. The industrial expansion in the South especially is drawing heavily upon the farms. Of ten Southern States, Florida is the only one where city and country have recorded almost equally substantial growths. The Carolinas, Virginia, Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama show remarkable increases in the size of their cities. In 1920, Atlanta, New Orleans, Dallas, Birmingham and Memphis together numbered 1,000,000 people. They now have 1,500,000.

From the Middle West, "the heart of America," come reports of declines of from 30 to 80 percent in the population of the smaller towns. The States in this region have, of course, all increased. Of 161 small towns, 92 show a reduction. Their people have gone not to the farms but to the larger cities. Against this showing may be cited the losses reported by such cities as Fall River, Mass., and Manchester, N. H., and the decline in the population of the New York East Side. But they merely emphasize the increasing industrial activity of the South and West, which is crowding the cities and larger towns of those sections.

The 1920 census was the first to show a larger city than rural population. The city has 51.4 percent. In 1900 the figure was 40 and in 1910 it was 45.3. These percentages do not mean that "city" dwellers are actually in the majority, for the reason that the Census Bureau classes as "urban" or city, every community of more than 2500 persons. Consequently, the really rural districts may still contain the majority of the population for some censuses to come. But this fact does not affect the significance of the steadily increasing political power of the cities, which will shortly be demonstrated more strikingly than ever.

For the information of Congress, the Census Bureau made an estimate of the population of the States, from which it has been deduced that the cities will gain about twenty-three Representatives at the expense of the rural districts. This would mean a net change of forty-six votes. The effect on legislation provides a subject for interesting speculation. Prohibition inevitably comes first to mind.

The cities are wet. The rural districts are dry. If reapportionment had been effected years ago, when it was due, would the unprecedented measures for farm relief have gone through quite so smoothly?

Presidential nominations and elections will also appreciably be affected by the shift in population which will be reflected in the reapportionment of Representatives and the consequent reassignment of presidential electors to the States and delegates to the national political conventions. The cities will have a greater voice in the naming of presidential candidates. The farm States will have less to say about elections. As for legislation, the strength of the Farm Bloc cannot be affected in the Senate directly, since each State, regardless of population, must have its two Senators. But the increasing influence of the city members in the House will furnish an additional check on such radical proposals as the debenture scheme.

The center of power in the national Government is steadily shifting cityward. With the city point of view inevitably reflected in legislation and elections, who can foretell what sweeping changes may not come over the national scene before the time comes for taking another census?—Phila. Ledger.

LOOK AHEAD.

"Eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we die" has become apparently the most popular philosophy of the day. The Epicurean theory of living, broadened to include expensive cars, fine clothes and all modern luxuries, is gaining adherents daily. The great majority of people seem to live with but one object in mind—to crowd every so-called pleasure into an uncertain period of existence.

The result is that many are living beyond their incomes and have become literally slaves, with the automobile companies, clothes shops and others owning their salaries for months ahead. The first of the month, with its flood of unpaid bills among which a pay check all too small must be divided, is an ordeal that is creating wrinkles and gray hairs.

Even the purchases cannot be fully enjoyed for worrying about how they are to be paid for. After the last installment is finally sent in, the articles are usually much worn or "Mrs. Jones" has a later model that one must have in order to keep up. What an existence!

Yet, the system of spending ahead is continually growing in favor. For instance, in the automobile field an analysis of the annual reports for 1929 show that there was an increase of approximately 12 percent in the number of motorists purchasing automobiles on the instalment plan. There was a total of 3,441,629 automobiles financed by the 411 companies. This increase would probably be shown in all industries whose products may be used for pleasure and purchased on the instalment plan.

No doubt, many families are denying themselves the necessities of life that they may obtain the luxuries.

Too few people look ahead and provide for the future. The nest that once retained the nest egg has been discarded for lack of use. The probability of a rainy day has been forgotten. Because today the hen is laying and the sun is shining, the eggs are eaten and the umbrella thrown away.

What is to be the ultimate result if this or the succeeding generation does not adopt a saner, sounder basis of living? It should be recalled that all pleasure is not gained by acquiring luxuries. They often are a source of grief rather than joy when one cannot in reality afford them. They give only an artificial pleasure at the most and one should pause occasionally and plan for the future. Look ahead and avoid a possible wreck.—Scottish Rite News Bureau.

Writer Sees Religion as Matter of Instinct

If an angel with a pen of light were to take a spiritual inventory of the heart of the people in our pews, what would the record reveal? A medley, no doubt, of the faiths, feelings, fears, hopes and haunting of a native religiousness, beyond which few ever go; mystic moods, moral edicts, relics of old magic, inarticulate longings, dark dreads, flashes of insight. In some, religion is a few things remembered from childhood; in others, a grim sense of duty unlocking hidden reserves; in others, a passing awareness, a moment of wonder when the spirit trembles with awe; in others, a thing of rite and rote punctiliously performed; in others, a soft shield to blunt the raw edges of reality; in others, a wisp of wistfulness held together by a tenuous tie. In all of us, whether by lack or by loss, religion is more a quest than a conquest; a yearning rather than a realization; more occasional than continuous; less an insight than an instinct. As Stevenson said of Burns, we are not so much devoted to religion as haunted by it.—Joseph Fort Newton in the Churchman.

Famous French Cathedral

The Rheims cathedral of the Thirteenth century, although it lacks the towers of the original design, is one of the finest specimens of Gothic architecture. It is 453 feet long. The elaborate west facade with its 500 statues and rose window is familiar by photographic reproductions to practically all of the civilized world. This facade is flanked by two towers. The cathedral is famous as the church in which the French kings were crowned.

Hearing Insects Feed

"You wrote recently in this column," writes a correspondent to "Looker-on" in the London Daily Chronicle, "that one of your readers heard slugs eating. I have never heard them, but I have heard snails and caterpillars eat. Snails make a scratching noise. Caterpillars crunch. The caterpillars of the privet hawk moth make quite a loud noise, and I have often heard them when sitting in the garden, and they have been eating the lilac leaves." Other correspondents state that they have heard snails feeding.

FARM POULTRY

CLEAN GROUND IS BEST FOR RANGES

One of Most Important Points in Growing Pullets.

Clean ground for ranging is one of the most important points in the growing of healthy pullets which will become vigorous and profitable layers, it is pointed out by the poultry husbandry department of the Ohio State university.

"A large percentage of the mortality in the growing flock, as well as in the matured laying flock, is caused either directly or indirectly by intestinal parasites," P. B. Zumbro, poultry specialist, says in a recent extension service publication. "These parasites, as well as many disease germs, are carried over from year to year in the soil."

Zumbro urges that chick ranges be on land on which no other chicks have been raised or old hens ranged, for at least two years. Alfalfa, he says, makes one of the best chick ranges. Clover is almost as good, and blue grass comes next.

"Many poultry men think an alfalfa or clover field is too valuable for rearing chicks. This is a mistake. Poultry grown on good range will give a return equal to that from any live stock, or better. Good results can be obtained by having two or more ranges, and a crop can be grown in the meantime. This method will provide clean range and will enable the owner to have the brooder house near the farmhouse, saving time in going to and from the house. When this method is used, one acre of land should be provided for each 500 chicks."

The profit from the farm flock depends to a large extent on the number of eggs the hens lay.

Hens cannot lay eggs without protein. Skim milk is one of the best forms of protein for use with all classes of poultry.

Mongrel geese plucked regularly yield one pound of feathers a year. Pure-bred geese yield twice as many and, besides the good prices of feathers obtained, the goose is worth as much as it ever was.

Wonderful Feats With Turkeys Are Reported

Really wonderful results with turkeys are reported from the Ontario government turkey farm in Norfolk county. Years ago this province used to raise turkeys by the thousands but disease got in and flocks have been diminishing to such an extent that each year thousands of birds are brought in from the West. The disease puzzled people and except where there was unlimited range the raising of turkeys languished. Even in the places where there was plenty of range, such as in the rocky districts on the edge of forest lands, difficulties in the shape of foxes and wolves were encountered. It looked for a while as if there would be practically no turkeys raised in Ontario. But Prof. W. R. Graham took hold of the thing and he soon found out that the disease came from the ground and the germs were so hardy that they could live over in the coldest weather. He adopted the plan of feeding everything in troughs and moving these troughs each day and his results have been unusually successful. Losses have been light on the experimental turkey farm and some excellent birds raised.

Poultry Notes

It pays to worm the poultry.

It requires 21 days to hatch hen eggs.

Care must be taken that chicks do not crowd in corners and smother.

Shut the sheep in at night, allowing them to bed in the corral or shed.

Coccidiosis usually occurs in young chicks from two to six weeks of age.

When the poults are about eight weeks old, they can be removed to the rearing ground.

Tapeworms have been named as the cause of death of 50 per cent of the chickens in some flocks.

Changing breeds every year has never yet been found a safe foundation for a profitable poultry business.

A month lost in growing out pullets means the loss of a month's production next fall when eggs are a good price.

Any variety of wheat is good for poultry. In fact, small undeveloped shriveled wheat if dry is even better than the fully developed kernel.

FAVORITE RECIPES OF A FAMOUS CHEF

As Told to Anne Baker
By ROGER CRETAUX, Chef,
The Roosevelt, New York City

Spaghetti Imperial—Heat one-fourth cup salad oil in a saucepan. Add two medium-size chopped onions and two tablespoons chopped green peppers. Cook until half tender. Then add one pint canned tomatoes, one teaspoon salt, and one and a half lumps of sugar. Cook slowly until the onions and peppers are done, and the sauce is reduced by about one-third. Have ready one-half pound cooked spaghetti. The spaghetti is cooked by dropping it in rapidly boiling, salted water and cooking until tender. Place the spaghetti in a heated dish. Pour the sauce over it, and grate over the top, two ounces of Parmesan cheese.

Stuffed Cucumbers—Cut three medium-size cucumbers in half lengthwise, and cook until tender in salted water. Scoop out the centers, and fill each half with a mixture consisting of three cups cooked rice, one cup chili sauce, one tablespoon vinegar, one tablespoon sugar, two tablespoons tomato ketchup, one teaspoon paprika, salt and pepper to taste, and one large onion which has been chopped fine and cooked in melted butter. Serve immediately, being sure that the portions are very hot.

J. Edward Harman departed this life, at 4 A. M., last Friday, the youngest son of a family of eleven children, after several years of failing health. The funeral was on Sunday afternoon from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Davis, in charge of Rev. P. H. Williams, of Union Bridge, to the Lutheran Church in Taneytown, where Rev. Sutcliffe assisted with the service, and his body was interred in adjoining cemetery.

Mrs. Missouri Null Feeser became ill, while in her garden, on Friday evening, and was assisted to the porch where she passed away while sitting in her chair, before a Doctor could be called. Both she and her husband (Billy) have been in declining health, and considered entering an Aged People's Home last Autumn, but after all plans were made they decided they couldn't leave their own home, so were looked after by the neighbors and church, during the winter. The funeral was at Mt. Union Church, on Monday afternoon, conducted by Rev. M. Kroh, and burial at same place, where she had been a member since her youth. She was the fifth daughter of the late Abram and Frances Null, over seventy-four years ago. Her aged husband, and one sister, Mrs. Jennie Winemiller, remain.

The flag-raising and May-day exercises at Middleburg school-house, last Thursday evening, attracted a large crowd, and was a credit to those in charge. The parade of the J. R. O. U. A. M. and school children, led by the Taneytown I. O. O. F. Band, made a good showing, then followed the crowning of the May Queen, Dorothy Simpson; the presentation of the flag by the Order, which was slowly hoisted to the top of the pole, while the Band played "The Star-Spangled Banner," and its acceptance by Rev. Karl Newell; recitations, songs and dances were nicely done by the children; and a fine address delivered by one of the State Officers on behalf of the Order. A good supper and abundant refreshments were on sale later, while the Band rendered festive music.

Plans are maturing for a church lawn festival, at Mt. Union, on the evening of June 21st.

Our travelers, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Stuffle and the Misses Crouse, arrived safely and happily at their destination in Purcell, Mo., last Thursday, at 8:30 P. M. Leaving Hanover at noon on Monday, their first stop was High Point Camp, Negro Mt., in the Alleghenies, after a run of 142 miles; the next night at Holly Hock Lodge, near Springfield, O., over 300 miles; and Wednesday 340 miles to Greenville, Ill., for the night. On Thursday, they covered 437 miles through the Ozark Mt. region and report roads are twenty feet wide, the scenery wonderful, we are enjoying it all.

In Loving Remembrance of my Dear Mother,
MRS. DAVID A. STALEY,
who departed this life, May 26th., 1929.

Oh, how well we all remember
Just one year ago today
How suddenly we were called together,
To see our dear mother pass away.

Today my heart is heavy;
My thoughts are all of thee;
How I long for you and miss you,
None but God in Heaven can see.

I miss you, Mamma, oh, how I miss you,
While in your grave you calmly sleep;
Your daughter, who dearly loved you,
Is left alone in sadness to weep.

Often to the graveyard I wandered,
Flowers to lay with loving care;
On the grave of my dear mother,
Who is sleeping sweetly there.

By her daughter,
MRS. FRANK PALMER.

BANK BANDITS USE MODERN METHODS

But Business Is No Longer Profitable.

Oklahoma City.—Descendants of outlaw bands that once plundered towns and looted bank tills still ride Oklahoma plains.

Gangs, led by desperadoes who fear neither gun nor law, continue to prey on Oklahoma banks.

But the night riding bandits who "blew" the safe and then sometimes "shot it out" with townspeople while making their escape, have given way to gangsters who hoist the strong box into a truck, take it to a secluded spot and obtain the money at leisure.

Bank banditry in Oklahoma last year ranged from a $75,000 pay roll car robbery here to a sensational horseback robbery in which three men rode into the little southern Oklahoma village of Caney, hitched their horses, looted the tills and rode out of town with $500 amid a fusillade of shotgun fire from surprised citizens. They were caught.

Bandits Change Tactics.

An evolution is noted in the tactics of southwestern bank bandits. Methods employed in the days of the Dalton and Jesse James gangs—the "soap bandits"—are used no more.

It was Henry Starr, who occupies a prominent niche in Oklahoma's hall of fame for bad men, who inaugurated daylight horseback robberies.

Starr and his henchmen rode into a town, shot at windows and occasionally a luckless bystander who did not move swiftly enough. They forced the banker to hold his hands skyward while they looted till and safe.

With the advent of the automobile the bank robbers changed tactics again. The movement was led by the famed Matthew Kimes and Ray Terrill, both now serving life terms.

Fast automobiles were used by the Kimes-Terrill gang in fleeing from the scene of a robbery. Sometimes they "pulled a double header" and robbed two banks in the same town the same day.

In the last half dozen Oklahoma bank robberies the bandits have talked and joked with early risers while they dragged the safe outside the bank, hoisted it to a truck and then left town waving good natured farewells to residents who watched their savings carted away before an alarm could be given.

Safes carried away are often found in abandoned wells or in river beds, their contents missing.

But figures show, Eugene P. Gum, secretary of the Oklahoma Bankers' association, said, bank robbing is an unprofitable business.

Six Bandits Killed.

Last year 75 per cent of the men engaged in bank robbing in Oklahoma were either apprehended or killed. On the other hand, only about $50,000 of the approximately $150,000 stolen from banks was recovered.

Oklahoma bankers have declared "open season" on bandits by announcing the state association will spend $350,000 in the next 18 months in warfare on bandits.

How this money will be spent remains unannounced except that a certain amount will go for rewards for robbers, dead or alive.

Last year six bank bandits were killed in Oklahoma. The average number of officers and bankers killed in the state annually by bandits is four.

Human Body the Basis of Early Measurements

Early measurements were derived from different parts of the human body. Thus we find a fathom—approximately the distance between the hands of a man standing with arms outstretched at right angles with his body. A cubit was the length of the forearm, and the ell the distance between the ends of the thumb and little finger when outstretched, the palm the width of the hand, the digit the breadth of the finger. The Roman foot was subdivided into four palms, and the palm into four digits. The division into inches or uncia, a twelfth part, applied not only to the foot but to anything. For longer measures there was still less system. One finds the Hebrew's half-day's journey; the Chinese li, the distance a man's voice can be heard upon an open plain; the Greek stadium, derived from the length of the race course; the Roman pace of five feet; the furlong, the length of a furrow. The mille passus, a thousand paces, is the origin of the modern mile. In 1374 the inch is defined in English law as the length of "three barley corns, round and dry."

No Stock

It was in a little town close to a Michigan summer resort. Two men passed an elderly woman selling balloons from a stand. One man decided what was needed to make his day brighter was balloons. So he purchased not one balloon, or two balloons, or a dozen balloons, but all the balloons the woman had. He paid her at least twice the amount she would have realized had she sold them singly. Despite this, and that she could take a half-holiday from her corner, the woman looked rueful.

"Now, what's the matter?" he asked. "You didn't leave me anything to do business with," she complained.—Chicago Daily News.

This was the first time that the banquet was ever held in the local school building, but it was considered by all present as one of the most successful occasions of this kind ever held. It was an evening of wholesome fun and an excellent menu was served. ON the first of next month many thousands of Maypoles will be erected around which dainty little misses and their devoted youthful swains will dance and intertwine long streamers until they are all gathered in laughing, breathless groups close to the bases of the poles. After that they will probably play tag and hide-and-go-seek, and there will be much merriment, rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes.

And, after that, if many years past furnish reliable precedents, there will be a multitude of keen appetites, and even the Queen of the May will condescend to partake of the feast at which, in all probability, she will be hostess through the medium of her mother. In order to supply mothers of Queens of the May with a properly balanced menu, easily digestible and good for children, on such an occasion, we are presenting one here worked out by a graduate dietitian with all these considerations in mind.

Creamed Chicken and
New Asparagus on Toast Squares
Whole Wheat Lettuce Sandwiches
Currant Jelly
Fruit Sherbet in May Baskets
Milk or Cocoa with Whipped Cream
Lollypops

And here are the recipes, each one of which is calculated to serve eight people. That won't be enough, if we know our May Parties; but you can double, triple or quadruple the quantities, depending upon the num-

Norway Wedding Feast

One to Be Remembered

A Norwegian housewife will spend months in the active preparation of a daughter's marriage feast. Friends, neighbors, acquaintances, kinsmen and kinswomen come from far and wide. All must be welcomed. All must be fed and "refreshed," and without limit. There must be cheese, sweet soups, puddings, fish and game in enormous quantities. To have any one of the most numerous items of drink or food give out or run short would be a disgrace which nothing could wipe out. There must, above all, be brandy in mad abundance. As a rule, several couples are married at the same time. This diminishes a waste of time, and concentrates to one occasion what would otherwise be spread over several.

The gowns which the Norwegian bride wears are often of great value. They are frequently the property of the church, and are hired for a nominal sum. Other parts of the costume are often the church's, too, and the bride who cannot afford to purchase an elaborate bridal outfit can always hire one.

Too Careful

A government official who wished to keep his wife in ignorance of the amount of money he had, hit upon a bright idea. He put his wad in an official envelope, addressed to a man higher up. If his wife should find the envelope in his pocket, she would never think of opening it.

One day he missed the envelope and asked his wife if she had seen it.

"Yes, dear," she replied, "I came across it in your old coat. I've just mailed it."

High Hopes Faded

Recently at a fashionable ball a young woman who had been sitting out several dances in a row was delighted to see one of the handsomest men in the room approaching.

He halted before her. He bowed.

"May I have this?" he asked.

Smiling, she arose, prepared to treat a jazy measure.

"Ah, thank you," said the man, and picked up a Spanish shawl upon which she had been sitting, and went off with it.

Facts and Figures on Your Telephone

BY EDWIN F. HILL

Edwin F. Hill this country had increased 26 per cent. In the same period of time, telephone calls increased 82 per cent. This means that the use of the telephone is increasing three times as rapidly as the number of telephones.

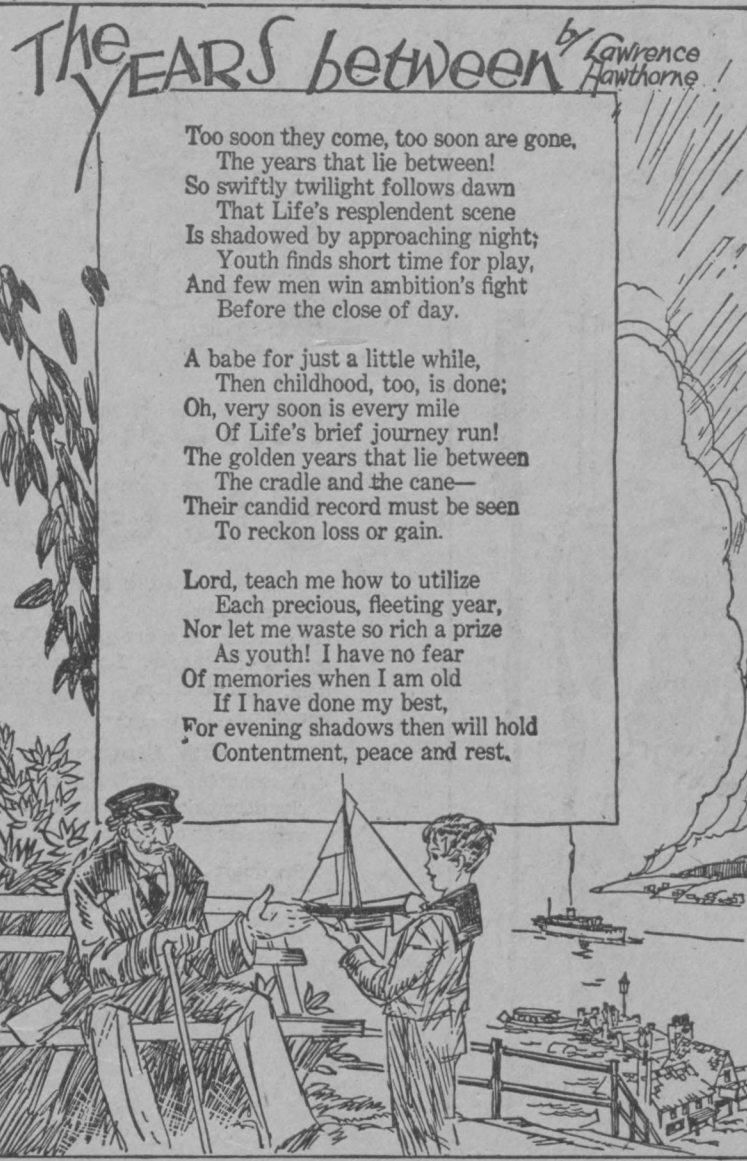

When Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, said to his assistant, "Mr. Watson, please come here, I want you," he started something. That was fifty-four years ago when there were only two telephones in the world. Now people talk almost everywhere.

Dr. Bell, even at that early date, had the vision to foresee the use of the telephone as an aid to the business and social affairs of all people.

Universal use of the telephone today not only in the United States, but in foreign countries on both sides of the Atlantic emphasizes the value of this means of person to person communication. Today it has come to be generally understood that almost anyone anywhere is only as far away as the nearest telephone.

Unidentified

Buddy has two older brothers, and, of course, picks up many of their choice expressions. The other day the three-year-old remarked: "Mamma, you're a big fool!" "Indeed, I'm not," replied his mother, and promptly spanked him. "Then daddy's a big fool," insisted the youngster. "No he's not," returned his mother, and spanked him again. Then through his tears Buddy had his final say-so: "Well, somebody's a big fool."

Too soon they come, too soon are gone,
The years that lie between!
So swiftly twilight follows dawn
That Life's resplendent scene
Is shadowed by approaching night;
Youth finds short time for play,
And few men win ambition's fight
Before the close of day.

A babe for just a little while,
Then childhood, too, is done;
Oh, very soon is every mile
Of Life's brief journey run!
The golden years that lie between
The cradle and the cane—
Their candid record must be seen
To reckon loss or gain.

Lord, teach me how to utilize
Each precious, fleeting year,
Nor let me waste so rich a prize
As youth! I have no fear
Of memories when I am old
If I have done my best,
For evening shadows then will hold
Contentment, peace and rest.

Oddities of Etiquette

Etiquette in Scandinavia is a thing to be dreaded, especially in Sweden. Even the former should address a person by his full diplomatic, political, professional or commercial title. Thus one meets Mr. the Assistant to the Bank Manager Wirseon or Mr. the former Manufacturer of Blood Sausage Olson. Denmark is far less formal, both in speech and attire, but at the end of the dinner party the hostess will stand in the doorway and shake hands with every guest while he murmurs, "Thank you for the food," to which she answers, "I hope it will become you well."

Not as Bad as It Sounds

If you heard a West Point cadet say casually, "I saw a beast come out of the boodler's with his drag, all spooned up, and start on a P. S. with a skag in his face," it would mean simply this: "A young cadet, leaving the cadet restaurant with the girl he is to take to a hop."

You must understand that the girl is adequately togged out for the dance and that the cadet, smoking a cigarette, was taking her for a stroll before starting for the hop. A "hop" is a dance, of course.

Trinidad Asphalt Lake

Oil was first found in Trinidad in 1830, but there were no roads, and the supply did not seem large enough for export. That spring is still running, though many people are at first unwilling to believe that oil of such quality can be found in a natural state. A bountiful providence has endowed Trinidad not only with oil but with asphalt, which is contained in a vast lake known as the Pitch lake. This lake is so solid that you may walk on it, and tram lines, along which the excavated asphalt is transported, are laid on its surface. It is, nevertheless, in constant motion, and the holes made by a day's digging fill up with unexpected rapidity. The streets of London, and of many other great cities, are paved with the produce of this extraordinary lake.

The Easiest Way

Too many people are absolutely indifferent to work. They take no interest in doing it exactly right, in doing it quickly, or getting it out on time. Life to them is just one long-drawn-out dream of "getting by" in the easiest way, and with as little exertion as possible, of either mind or body. Their idea seems to be "To Let George Do It." Again, there are others, splendid examples of those who know what to do, and have the capacity and willingness to do their part. All such are great factors and forces in making a business go and grow.—New Albany Tribune.

Gone to the Dog!

The self-assertive man in the corner seat was talking to a friend. "Yes," said the loud-voiced man, "I always bring my dog in the car with me and then I know what he's up to. I allowed him to travel in the baggage car once, and had to pay for a lot of stuff he was supposed to have eaten!" The train slowed down, and then the friend spoke. "Since you know what your dog's up to," he remarked, quietly, "I suppose you know he's half finished the fish you're taking home?"—London Tit-Bits.

Identifying Herself

The theater queue had had a long, long wait. But at last they began to shuffle slowly forward as the early doors were opened. Suddenly a young flapper rushed up and insinuated herself behind a stout and elderly gentleman. A keen believer in fair play, he turned upon her.

"How dare you push in there?" he demanded. "That isn't your place." "Oh, yes, it is!" replied the girl, pertly. "I only went off to get some candy, and I put a cross on your back with my lipstick so that I'd know my proper place when I came back. Take your coat off and see for yourself!"—London Answers.

Magna Charta

King John affixed his seal to the document called the Magna Charta on June 15, 1215, having been compelled to do so by the barons and their followers. In June of that year both parties encamped on the plain called Runnymede, on the banks of the Thames near Windsor, and conference were opened between the king and the barons. The barons presented their grievances and the means of redress, in the nature of bills offered for the royal assent. The king directed that these articles should be reduced to the form of a charter, and in this form it was drawn up by the clerks, in Latin. Many of its provisions were based on a previous charter granted by King Henry I in the year 1100.

Asbestos Peril

Although asbestos has been used in industry at least since 450 B. C., only within recent years has it been recognized that asbestos dust can produce disease of the lungs. Asbestos is a mineral of a curious fibrous structure. It is used in making gas mantles, furnace linings, heat resisting mats, and so on, and is largely handled by women.

The inhalation of dust gives rise to symptoms in some of the workers after about five years. They begin to get short of breath on exertion, lose weight, and develop a dry cough. If the cases are seen early and prevented from being irritated by the dust, much relief can be obtained by treatment.

Many Ex-Presidents

Between March 4, 1861, when Abraham Lincoln took oath of office as President, and January 18, 1862, when John Tyler died, there were five living ex-Presidents of the United States, a greater number than at any other period in American history. They were Martin Van Buren, John Tyler, Millard Fillmore, Franklin Pierce, and James Buchanan. The great number of living ex-Presidents at this period was due largely to the fact that no President elected between the election of Van Buren in 1836 and the election of Lincoln in 1860 served for a longer period than four years.

Overlooked

Mother had been reading to Ellen all about the tiger in the jungle, what it ate, how it lived, and what it did. It was a very lovely story of animal life and mother thought Ellen was getting a lot out of the tale.

When mother finished, Ellen's only comment was a question: "Where is that tiger's garage?"

Tough Wood

Norse ships that have lain in water for over a thousand years have been pulled out with timbers still sound. Sink a steel ship in the ocean and fifty years from now it will be a pile of rust.—The Country Home.

Origin of Scottish Ballad

The old Scottish ballad of "The Bonny Earl of Moray," is based on Huntley's assassination of young Moray in 1501, and an old legend declares that the bereaved mother had a picture of her murdered son painted on linen and carried as a banner through Edinburgh to proclaim the crime. A few years ago, in exploring long disused rooms at Kinfauns castle, this linen picture was discovered among forgotten lumber by the present Earl of Moray, who has had it stretched and framed as a piece of family history.

The farmer who produces eggs of uniform color, weighing an average of 23 ounces per dozen, and which are held in a cool cellar, can ship to eastern markets by express to advantage.

Brickwork Made Use of

by Builders Long Ago

Babylonian structures explored, either at Ur or at other sites, include three chief types of brickwork. One is a burnt brick much like the modern article, except that the burn is harder. The second is unbaked brick, possibly used for less important structures and resembling the adobe brick of the present Southwest. The third is a curved brick, like a part of a cylinder, apparently made during one period of Babylonian architecture, either because of some method of drying over rounded logs, or for some other reason now forgotten. To these three recent discoveries apparently add two still earlier types: The crossed brickwork—called the herringbone pattern—of some of the recently found structures and the clay lumps which are not yet bricks at all. Additional details will be awaited with interest by every one who is curious about the beginnings of civilized man.—Kansas City Times.

Ideal

A number of women, in various walks of life, were asked to state what they considered to be a woman's ideal age. The answers ranged from eighteen to thirty-five, but the prize went to Clara Bow, who wrote: "Thirty is a nice age for a woman, especially if she's forty."

Had Her Approval

"Come along, Dolly," said the nurse, "Mummy's going to let you see your new baby brother."

Dolly was led into her mother's room. For a few moments she gazed in silence.

"Well, darling," said her mother at last, "what do you think of him?"

Dolly nodded an approving head. "Oh, he's nice!" she announced. "I always did like that shade of pink!"

Finance

"Sammy," demanded the fond mother, "when you divided those seven pieces of candy with Sister May, did you give her four pieces?"

"Course not!" said Sammy scornfully. "You can't fool me with 'rithmetic like that. I knew it wouldn't come out even, so I ate one piece before I started dividing, so as to be fair to both of us."

Ancient Rhinoceros

The carcass of a large rhinoceros about one hundred thousand years old was found two or three hundred feet underground in an oil field in eastern Galicia. A geologist who examined the animal gave it as his opinion that the giant prehistoric beast had drowned in a bog. The hair and hide of the animal were still in fairly good condition.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Dozing Judge to Dignity

There was no mistake about it—the judge was asleep. The embarrassed lawyer who had reached the telling point of his argument, spoke in a higher key, and then raised his voice to its loudest pitch. But the judge slept on. The court officers were blind to the young lawyer's hints. At length, in desperation, he turned to the opposing counsel. "Now, you see the delicate situation I am in, and there's only one way out. Unfortunately, I haven't any books with me, but if you don't object I am going to knock over that pile of yours." With a well-directed blow the young lawyer struck the books, and they went down with a terrific crash, just before his astonished brother leaped to his feet and exclaimed, "But I do emphatically object!" Then the judge, without raising his head from the position it had been occupying for the last fifteen minutes, replied, with his wonted dignity, "Objection overruled!"

How She Knew

Beverly, age three, came in from playing one day and announced that she had seen a daddy bird. Her daddy bird was an English sparrow.

"Why, how do you know it was a daddy bird?" her mother asked.

"Oh," replied Beverly, "him had his necktie on."

Lesson for May 25

JESUS DESCRIBES THE FUTURE OF THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 24:1-25:13 (Print 25:1-13)

GOLDEN TEXT—Take ye heed, watch and pray; for ye know not when the time is.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Being Ready to Help.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Being Ready.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Being Ready.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christian Preparedness.

1. The Prophetic View of the Course of Time from Christ's Crucifixion to His Second Coming. (24:1-51).

The order of events in this time are in general as follows:

1. The moral condition of the world during Christ's absence. (vv. 1-14).

This is the period covered by the parables of chapter 13.

2. The appearance of the Anti-christ. (vv. 15-26).

3. The great advent. (vv. 27-31).

In connection with this advent there will be mighty convulsions of nature, the mourning of the tribes of the earth, and the gathering of the elect.

4. Warnings to God's people in view of the great advent. (vv. 32-51).

The time of this advent is unknown and on the part of many unexpected.

5. Instruction to believers in view of the unexpectedness of Christ's coming. (25:1-30).

II. Behavior of Believers in View of the Coming of the Lord (25:1-13).

The teaching in the parable of the ten virgins has continuous application in the present time (1 Thess. 16:18; Titus 2:11-13).

1. The equipment of the virgins (vv. 1-5).

(1) The foolish virgins took lamps, but no oil with them (v. 3). Lamps signify Christian profession (Matt. 5:10) and oil the Holy Spirit (Zech. 14).

Having lamps but no oil shows that they were professors of religion, without possessing its reality. The Christian life is sustained by the Holy Spirit. As soon as a man is regenerated, the Holy Spirit takes up His abode with him. The Spirit's indwelling therefore, is an advance work upon regeneration. The proof that one is a child of God is that he has the Holy Spirit dwelling within him. (Rom. 8:9). The foolish virgins were professors, but not possessors.

(2) The wise virgins possessed both lamps and oil (v. 4). They backed their profession with a real life of righteousness. Both the wise and the foolish virgins slumbered and slept. This shows that as the present age lengthens, the real and the professing church will cease looking for the coming of the Lord. It is unspeakably sad that so many, even of God's chosen—the wise virgins—should give up the expectancy of the return of the Lord.

2. The coming of the bridegroom (vv. 6-12).

(1) The midnight cry (v. 6). In the midst of the night when all the virgins were asleep the cry was heard, "Behold the bridegroom cometh." Who knows but that the time of this cry is now close upon us? (2) Activity of the virgins (v. 7). They all arose and trimmed their lamps. There will be great activity when the Lord comes on the part of both believers and those who only make a profession. It will be a day when the reality of one's faith will be tested. (3) The foolish virgins' request of the wise to share their oil (vv. 8, 9). The revelation of Christ will make manifest the genuineness of our faith and expose the folly of mere profession. When the Lord comes, it will be too late to mend one's ways. (4) The wise enter to the marriage (v. 10). While the foolish were seeking to amend their ways—trying to buy oil—the bridegroom came, and those who were ready were admitted to the marriage. (5) The pitiful petition of the foolish virgins (v. 11). They begged the Lord to open the door. (6). The awful judgment (v. 12). The Lord declared, "I know you not."

3. The solemn obligation (v. 13).

"Watch, for ye know not the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man cometh." Two solemn facts should engage the attention of every one.

(1) Entering with Christ to the marriage depends upon faithfulness to the end. If oil and light be wanting when Christ comes, no admittance will be granted to the heavenly banquet. (2) Borrowed religion will not avail at that day. Despite the value of godly companions and associates, they can render no service in the day of Jesus Christ. Personal contact with the Lord Jesus through faith in His blood is the absolute essential.

Those Who Do Not Sleep

While many are sleeping and taking it easy, we, as overseers, are struggling under the burden resting upon us, weeping and warning and begging for help to battle against the forces of evil around us.—Jonas Miner.

TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Items of news from town, or vicinity are always wanted for this column. Especially accidents, sales of real estate, fires, important happenings, visits to or from the community social events and all matters of general interest to those at home, and away from home.

Mrs. Emma Smith, of Hagerstown, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy A. Smith.

D. J. Hesson and O. E. Dodrer are attending a Bankers Convention, being held in Atlantic City, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mohney and daughter, Jean, attended the funeral of the former's aunt, at Butler, Pa., on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Wantz entertained a number of invited guests, on Friday evening, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brown.

Miss Fannie Wetzel is home from the Hospital, slowly improving, and wishes to thank the Taneytown people for their kindness.

The Loysville Orphans' Home Band, popularly known throughout this section, will give a concert, perhaps at the Fair Ground, on June 11th. Particulars will be given later.

Mr. and Mrs. George Panebaker, of Westminster; Mrs. Mary Wentz and LeRoy Wentz, of Lineboro, were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin T. Fringer, on Saturday.

Miss Margaret T. Shaum graduated the past week at Lebanon Hospital, T. S., New York City. Misses Rita Shaum, Percy Adelaide Shriver and Rita Rose Dumbauld, attended the commencement exercises.

The continued wet and cold weather, for the past weeks was almost as bad for growth of farmer's crops, as the heat and drouth. Clearing and warmer weather is now here, and conditions are decidedly more Spring-like.

Rev. Guy P. Bready attended the Maryland Classis of the Reformed Church, at Rock Ridge, from Monday until Thursday. Calvin T. Fringer accompanied him as delegate from Grace Reformed Church, Taneytown.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Veit and son, Theron, of Philadelphia, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. David Mehrling. Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Mehrling and children, of Silver Spring, Md., spent Sunday at the same place.

Jesse W. Fuss, near Union Bridge, came all the way to Taneytown, this week, to buy little chicks, and left an invitation for the Editor and family to come to see him, this summer, and sample the larger grown fowls. All right, we likely will.

Mr. and Mrs. George Albaugh, daughters Bertha and Hazel; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Albaugh, daughter, Isabel, of New Midway, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Albaugh and children, of near Frederick, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Albaugh, near town.

Taneytown firemen won second prize, for most men in line, at the County Firemen's Convention, at Mt. Airy. R. S. McKinney was elected treasurer, and Merwyn C. Fuss, a member of the Executive Committee. The 1931 convention will be held at Lineboro.

Mrs. Bernard Weber and son, of Olney, Ill., are spending several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Chenoweth. Visitors at the same place on Sunday were: Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Vestal and Mrs. Dr. Earl Koons, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Messler and daughter, of Union Bridge, and Miss Jesse Chenoweth of Westminster.

Claudius H. Long census enumerator, closed up his work for this district, on Tuesday. Figures will be given out later, by the Division Supervisor, but we make the guess that the town will show a very material gain over ten years ago, and regain second place in the county. A family of five moved out of town just a day to soon to get counted.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Rogers over the week-end were: Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, of New Windsor; Mr. and Mrs. John B. Brown, of Union Bridge; Mr. and Mrs. William Bange; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Brown; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Straley and daughters, Naoma and Nadine, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kuhn and daughter, Helena, all of Hanover, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ohler and daughter, near town.

"Clean up" day in Taneytown, on Tuesday, was a decided success, the fair moving truck having been very liberally patronized by those who had "antiques" to dispose of. It has been recommended, by those who have tried it successfully, that empty cans can be very successfully disposed of by throwing them in a well heated furnace during the winter. We do not vouch for the effectiveness of the suggestion, but we do know that old dry batteries make good furnace fodder.

Mrs. John Hess is ill at the home of her son, Ralph, near town.

Mrs. Charles D. Bankert continues very ill, at her home on Church St.

Mrs. G. Walter Wilt entertained sixteen guests at bridge, last Friday evening.

Miss Gertrude Musser, of Harrisburg, Pa., was a guest of Mrs. Walter Crapster, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palmer and Mrs. Theodore Buffington, spent Saturday with friends at York.

There will be a meeting of the Alumni Association, Tuesday evening in the High School building, at 8:00 o'clock.

Mrs. Helen Englebrecht, is spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. John W. Stouffer and other relatives and friends of town.

Mrs. Sarah Albaugh, Mrs. Mary Stover and Mary Kootz, spent from Friday until Sunday with relatives and friends in York and Stewartstown, Pa.

Mrs. Nettie S. Angell returned to her home, Wednesday, after a very delightful visit to her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Wagner, in Miami, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Veit and son, of Philadelphia, visited Mrs. S. H. Mehrling, recently. Miss Almada Barr, of Hagerstown, spent Wednesday with her aunt, Mrs. Mehrling.

Mrs. Laura Vaughn, of George St., had the misfortune of falling from the front porch steps on Monday evening, cutting a gash above her eye which required seven stitches to close.

The members of all the Lodges, the Fire Company and other organizations, are urged to participate in the Decoration Day program on Friday, 30th. Please note that it will be necessary, this year, to get together at the Hall as near 12:30 as possible, as the parade must start at 1:00 o'clock sharp, or a very few minutes thereafter, in order to get to the High School building in time to hear President Hoover's address at Gettysburg. ## Make your own Tests Feeding will tell Feeds have individuality - certain characteristics which place them above or below the average.

Some Feeds have spurts of fine quality. Some go plugging along in a medium, never being very bad or very good. Some fewer in number - set a high standard in the beginning and keep it up year in and year out.

The Key Feeds are individual in that their quality is not only high but invariably high.

Pound for pound - ton for ton, you will find that The Key Feeds are uniform; no variations because we absolutely control our selection of ingredients and our blending process.

When we say make your own tests we mean what we say - make your test with any stock you feed. Cow, Pig or poultry.
