DAIRYMEN'S MEETING IN WESTMINSTER.

The Importance of Maintaining Sanitary Milk Production.

Carroll County Dairymen met in Westminster, on Wednesday evening, with about 800 persons present. The main purpose of the meeting was to consider the situation with reference to maintaining a good market price for milk. W. A. Pickens, Westminster, had charge of arranging for the meeting, while Secretary Heaps of the State Dairymen's Association presided.

The discussion centered around "Higher Quality Production," the following necessary qualifications being given.

Strictly using milk coolers they now have and use them religiously every day; the farmer's wives were especially cautioned to sterilize all cloths, strainers, and keep all milking utensils strictly sanitary, and only by strictly sanitary methods can the farmers expect the health department to protect their market. Every means must be used to keep the bacteria at low count.

Members of the State Association present emphasized the importance of keeping the Baltimore market for Maryland dairymen. A representative of the State Department of Health, complimented Carroll County dairymen for the progress they have made during the year in meeting the requirements, and urged that they continue to co-operate with County Agent Burns along this line. Motion pictures were shown depicting the development of the cow, conveying the fact that the American cow is the most important factor in the maintenance of human life, as well as the hope of the American dairy-farmer. Mr. Heaps made one of his characteristic informing addresses, and urged the importance of the fullest co-operation with the State Dairymen's Association.

BLUE RIDGE COMMENCEMENT.

The thirtieth annual Commencement of Blue Ridge College was held in the College Auditorium on Monday evening, June 2, at 8 P. M. A large crowd of students and friends of the graduates gathered for the occasion.

The address of the evening was delivered by Dr. F. F. Holsopple, of Washington, D. C. The theme of Dr. Holsopple's address was "Building a Life." He emphasized the need of taking serious thought as to what goes into our lives, especially in these days of rapid shifts and change. Some of the elements that enter into a satisfactory life are courtesy, kindness, reverence, and the determination to do a quality job, no matter what the task may be. The graduates were:

Junior College Course: Annie Mary Bowman, Union Bridge; Mary Alice Engel, Keymar; Margaret Naomi Leatherman, Myersville; William A. Miller, Hagerstown.

Music teachers and piano course:—Thelma Elaine Hobbs, Mt. Airy.

Commercial Course:—Mary Ellen Haines, New Windsor; William Paul Benedict, New Windsor.

Special Course:—James Carol Barnes, New Windsor; Helen Virginia Hunter, Westminster; Dorothy Adele Weant, New Windsor.

High School Course:—Joseph Cline Bowman, Union Bridge; Heisley Bates Corun, Jefferson; Ruth Anna Wood, Paris, Md.

The Margaret Nussbaum prize for the best all-round student was awarded to Miss Miriam Luckenbaugh, of New Windsor. The Commercial prize was awarded to Miss Mary Haines, New Windsor. The winners of the Ensor-Graybill Declamation contest were Miss Julia Roop, Union Bridge, and Miss Maude Whaley, of Whaleyville. Miss Roop won first place in the serious selections and Miss Whaley, first place in the humorous selections. Honorable mention was given to the following students: Sophomores, Alice Engel, Mary Haines, Murray Wagner, Freshmen, Miriam Luckenbaugh, Hattie Hudson, Danton Ensor, Myra Faulkner, Doris Boal, Frances Utz, Estella Hudson, John Speicher, Francis Furgang.

KEEP YOUR DOGS HOME.

It is unlawful for persons to allow any dog or dogs belonging to them to run at large without an attendant, on property, except that owned or tenanted by the owner of said dog or dogs, and pursue game or destroy the eggs or nests, between March 1st, and Sept. 1st. Any person harboring a dog shall be termed the lawful owner of same. Penalty $25.00 nor more than $100.00 for each offense. So says the game laws.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CIRCUIT COURT.

PROF. BYHAM RESIGNS.

Prof. S. L. Byham, formerly principal of the Taneytown High School, has resigned his position in the Hanover, Pa., school, that he accepted on leaving Taneytown last year. According to the Hanover Record-Herald, some difficulty has attached to the election of his successor. That paper says:

"Another break was threatened in the ranks of the school board last evening at its regular monthly meeting held in Hanover High School when several members of the board did not at first favor the naming of the teachers' committee to succeed S. LeRoy Byham as instructor in history in the senior high school.

The teachers' committee gave the name of Miss Catherine R. Matthews, of Cambridge, Ohio, to the board and asked that she be named to take the place made vacant through the resignation of Mr. Byham.

When several members of the board balked at electing Miss Matthews on the grounds that Hanover teachers should be first in line to fill vacancies, Director Foreney, a member of the teachers' committee said that he was through and that he had "been slapped in the face for the last time."

After considerable discussion during which many motions were offered without a second and many names were brought before the board without being nominated, the question was tabled temporarily, only to be brought before the board later in the evening. In the resulting vote, Miss Matthews was named to succeed Mr. Byham at a salary of $1500."

BROENING ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY.

The only Republican Candidate so far, for Governor.

Mayor Broening, of Baltimore, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor of Maryland. His formal announcement in part, is as follows:

"During the past several months there have come to me from every section of the State messages encouraging and urging me to become a candidate for the office of Governor.

While the aspiration to be Governor is one worthy to be cherished by any man, I have, nevertheless, delayed pressing my personal ambitions till sentiment appeared sufficiently crystallized.

The offered aid, however, from sources so representative of the business and professional life of our State and are so impressive in their number that one could not fail to give them most serious consideration.

My experience in public life has been such that I am fully aware of the responsibilities that attach to this high office and the opportunity for public service which it affords, and with these considerations clearly before me I have concluded at this time to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor."

Whether or not his candidacy will be opposed, is not now assured. The party leaders have not committed themselves on the subject.

DESTRUCTIVE STARLINGS.

Very often complaints from residents relative to the destruction of birdlife by the starlings. The latest information on this subject is that starlings are destroying birds nests by throwing the eggs out and also throwing the young birds from the nest. There is no law on the statute books of Maryland protecting the starlings and the Game Department solicits the co-operation of everyone in killing the starling in any manner. However, we are well aware that we have other species of birds which are much more destructive than the starling, namely: the crow and a number species of hawk. They not only destroy birds nests, kill young birds, catch and kill young rabbits, have been known to kill young chickens. Therefore we would solicit the co-operation of the public in destroying the crow and the sharp-shinned and cooper hawks, in any manner at any time.

"INSIDE" INFORMATION FOR WOMEN.

Keep the refrigerator well filled with ice. When there is too small a piece the temperature of the entire box rises. This not only endangers the food kept in it but causes the next piece to melt more rapidly in chilling the box to a desirable degree.

By the "hot pack" in home canning is meant a method of filling the jars or cans, not a method of canning. If the food is put into the jars boiling hot it reaches the temperature for processing more quickly in the canner and heat penetrates better to the center of the jar. The hot pack insures a product of better texture and appearance and shortens the time of canning.

Oven-dried toast is a delicious accompaniment to soups and salads, and is an easy way of disposing of stale bread. Any sort of pieces may be oven dried and delicately browned in a medium oven, but for passing as a special kind of bread, it is more attractive to trim the crusts off a stale loaf so the slices will be square, cut them very thin, and heat them until they are biscuit colored and slightly curled. The trimmings need not be wasted; roll them out for dried crumbs.

Have meals out-of-doors as often as you can during the summer-time. Keep in the house the "makings" of easy picnic meals, and be ready, on a tempting day, to change the meal program at very short notice. Sandwich fillings, bottled fruit drinks, cheese, and salad dressings are all easily kept in reserve in the pantry or refrigerator. Then with butter, bread, fresh fruit and perhaps tomatoes and lettuce, and eggs or any cooked meat you have on hand, it is a matter of a few minutes only to pick up the family and the supper and drive to a shady spot where the outlook and the surroundings are pleasant. A picnic kit containing paper or enamel cups and plates, knives, forks, spoons, paper napkins and waxed paper for wrapping sandwiches or foods, will enable you to get ready for a meal out-of-doors in a very brief time.

Instead of taking sandwiches you may like to take a steak or some bacon with you to be cooked over a wood fire.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

President Hoover's address on Memorial Day, at Gettysburg, was the briefest delivered there since Lincoln's masterpiece in 1863. It was, however, one of the best, and it is reproduced in full on our editorial page, of this issue.

During the last decade railroad robberies have decreased 93 percent, and that change took place while robberies in other lines had a wonderful increase. During the decade 97 percent of the railroad robbers tried in court were convicted. The 3 percent chance for escape with life, loot and liberty took all the attractiveness out of railroad robbery.

NO FISHING IN JUNE

In Any Way or Manner Whatever Except for Trout.

Editor The Record:—

As we are having numerous inquiries relative to the open season for the taking of fish above a point where the tide ebbs and flows and as the laws provide it to be unlawful to take any species of fish (except trout) in any of the waters of this State above a point where the tide ebbs and flows during the month of June, we would appreciate your publishing the following for the benefit of the readers of your valuable paper.

E. LEE LeCOMPTE,

State Game Warden.

"Unlawful to take any species of fish above a point where the tide ebbs and flows June 1st. to June 30, inclusive. (Except Trout).

Section 64, Chapter 471, Acts of 1929 provides open season on game and fresh water fishes in all waters of this State above a point where the tide ebbs and flows shall be as follows:

Open season for trout, April 1st. to June 30th, inclusive.

Open season for suckers, catfish, carp, eels and gudeons, February 1st. to May 31st, inclusive.

Open season for bass of all species and other game and fresh water fishes, July 1st. to November 30th., inclusive.

Therefore, it is unlawful to fish, or fish for, any species of game or fresh water fishes in any of the waters of this State above a point where the tide ebbs and flows (except trout) June 1st. to June 30th., inclusive; and December 1st. to February 1st., inclusive, and it is unlawful to take any game or fresh water fishes above a point where the tide ebbs and flows except by rod, hook and line; dip net may be used February 1st. to March 21st., inclusive, and out-line or trot-lines February 1st. to May 31st., inclusive, and July 1st. to November 30th., inclusive."

ROADS MAKE FARM PROFITS.

Profitable farming is dependent upon good highway transportation. The better the roads the more profitable the farming. This is the conclusion reached by a survey recently conducted by the Agricultural Experiment Station of Cornell University.

More and better farm-to-market roads enable American farmers to transport their products quickly and cheaply.

In the State of New York it was disclosed that farmers living on paved roads drove their trucks 725 miles more a year, on the average, than those living on dirt roads. Further, while but one-half of farmers on dirt roads own trucks, two-thirds of the farmers served by paved roads have them.

Several states are now conducting campaigns to provide rural districts with all-weather roads. Thousands of miles of expensive main highways have been built which are of little benefit to the farmers until feeder roads are built connecting them with rural districts.

Such feeder roads would be of value to town and city merchants who would gain business that is now kept away by impassable roads. They would attract tourists by opening up new territory and relieve main highways of congestion. Such roads must be built, if agriculture is to keep up with the march of progress.—The Manufacturer.

IOWA SUPPORTS TARIFF BILL.

Iowa, at least, likes the Hawley-Smoot Tariff bill, as Representative Dickinson, leader of the farm bloc in the House, running on a platform strongly supporting the bill, easily defeated Gov. Mammill for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator, the latter strongly condemning the bill.

This is held to answer the claim that the farmers are opposed to the bill as Iowa is one of the first agricultural states in the country. Senator Brookhart, classed as in "insurgent" Republican, sported Dickinson, perhaps looking ahead to 1932 when his term will expire.

SEEMS REASONABLE.

George W. Crabbe, Superintendent of the Maryland Anti-Saloon League, makes the point against the dependability of the Literary Digest's recent wet and dry poll, that in the state primary in Pennsylvania, Gifford Pinchot, Republican dry candidate for Governor, polled over 100,000 votes more than had been cast in the state in the Digest's poll.

SOME HAPPENINGS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Political and Other Events of Major Importance.

The House, on Tuesday, in the face of vigorous wet opposition, approved three of the four Hoover Law Enforcement commission proposals to aid the enforcement of the liquor laws. The proposals relate chiefly to defining misdemeanors and fixing penalties, and to relieve Federal Courts of the congestion caused by prohibition cases. The three actions were carried by a vote of more than two to one.

Bishop Cannon proved to be a balky witness before the Senate Lobby investigating Committee, this week, denying its right to investigate personal political activities. As the full committee did not take part in the investigation, it could take no action. Only two members were present and they got only such answers as the Bishop saw proper to give, Chairman Caraway, who was absent, was quoted as having said that the committee was not empowered to investigate purely political activities, and the Bishop stood on his personal rights as a citizen, and would maintain his right to refuse to answer when he saw fit.

Miss Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, candidate at the primaries in Florida, as a dry, to secure re-nomination from the 4th. Congressional district, won over her wet contestant by a large majority.

The Democratic state committee, of Pennsylvania, adopted a warring wet platform, on Wednesday, calling for the repeal of all state and national prohibition statutes.

The Pennsylvania R. R. Co., has filed plans for the erection of a new terminal station in Philadelphia, at 30th. and Market Sts., the cost of which is placed at $100,000,000.

President Hoover's veto of the Spanish War veteran's bill, was overturned in both Senate and House, on Tuesday, and the bill finally passed. The coming election is believed to have been responsible for overruling the veto. It will benefit about 114,000 veterans, and will cost the government about $11,500,000 annually.

The President's veto rested on the grounds that the bill would pay pensions to wealthy men, and also to men whose disabilities were due to vicious habits acquired since their war service.

TEN ROYAL RESOLUTIONS.

I will study the language of gentleness, and refuse to use words that bite and tones that crush.

I will practice patience at home, lest my nasty temper break through unexpectedly and disgrace me.

I will remember that my neighbors have troubles enough to carry without loading mine on them.

I will excuse others' faults and failures, as often and fully as I expect others to be lenient with mine.

I will cure criticism with commendation, close up against gossip and build healthy loves by service.

I will be a friend under trying tests, and wear everywhere a good-will face unchilled by aloofness.

I will gloat over gains never, but amass only to enrich others and so gain a wealthy heart.

I will love boys and girls, so that old age will not find me soured and stiff but fresh and free.

I will gladden my nature by smiling out loud on every fair occasion, and by outlook optimistically.

I will pray frequently, think good things, believe in men and so do a full day's work without fear or favor.—Dr. Christian F. Reisner, Broadway Temple.

SEVEN DEADLY MODERN SINS.

Canon Donaldson, of Westminster Abbey lists as the seven sins which in our times are striking hard at the social fabric of our complicated civilization are:

- 1—Policies without principles.
 - 2—Wealth without work.
 - 3—Pleasure without conscience.
 - 4—Knowledge without character.
 - 5—Commerce and industry without morality.
 - 6—Science without humanity.
 - 7—Worship without sacrifice.

KILLED IN SHOE FACTORY

At the Newark Storage Plant in Littlestown, Pa.

Claude G. Bechtel, an employee of the Newark Shoe Company, at Littlestown, met instant death, on Wednesday afternoon, while replacing a defective fuse to a power line of the plant. It is believed that a pair of pliers carried the charge into his body from the line. Bechtel was 32 years old and a world war veteran, having served in Company A. Seventh Machine Gun Battalion of the Third Division U. S. A. His home was in Pennville, near Hanover, where he leaves a wife and one son, his parents and a number of brothers and sisters.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS.

The fourteenth annual commencement exercises will open Sunday night with the sermon to the graduates in the Lutheran Church, by Rev. Carl Redding of the U. B. Church. Class night, Tuesday, June 10, at 8 P. M., in the High School Auditorium; and the commencement exercises proper, Wednesday, June 11, 8 P. M., High School Auditorium. The public is cordially invited to all of these exercises. The graduates are: Franklin Jacob Baker, Maurice Wilson Becker, Robert Clouser Clingan, John Emory Chenoweth, Ralph Goldsborough Davidson, Mary Isabel Elliot, Olive Agatha Hahn, Dorothy Alice Haugh, Jane Patterson Long, Amelia Virginia Null, Delmar Eugene Riffle, Laura Mildred Shriner, Glenn Walter Snyder, Ethel Pauline Stonesifer, Carroll Troxell, Catherine Romaine Valentine, Ruthanna Flickinger, Stanley Phoenas Lutz.

The following high school pupils have made perfect attendance for year ending June 6: Robert Clingan, Monroe Krise, Vernon Zimmerman, Wilbur Hubbard, Horace O'Neill, Harry Shirk, Ruthanna Flickinger, Amelia Null, Mildred Shriner, Pauline Stonesifer, Amelia Annan, Mary Young, Helen Shank, Catherine Baker, Catherine Hess, Helen Kiser, Margaret Krise and Catherine Shriner.

The financial report of the school will appear in these columns next week. This report will show the amount of money received, how it was made and how it was spent.

WHITE AND WHOLE WHEAT BREAD, BOTH GOOD.

That white bread is a wholesome food is the opinion expressed by specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture and five nationally known authorities on nutritional problems who were consulted by direction of Secretary Hyde.

The views of this group, headed by Dr. A. F. Woods, director of scientific work of the department, are expressed in a statement based on the scientific facts regarding breads made of white flour and of whole-wheat flour.

White and whole-wheat breads are both wholesome foods. They are among the most important and cheapest sources of energy and protein in the diet. The composition and value in the diet of whole wheat and white bread very not only with the differences in the flour used, but also with the amount and character of other added constituents.

Whole wheat or graham flours, which contain the bran and germ portion of the grain, have lower bread-making capacity and are more susceptible to spoilage, so cannot be handled as readily commercially. In general they contain more essential minerals and vitamins and more roughage than white flour.

No person subsists on one food. Each food should be chosen in relation to the other constituents of the diet. Bread, either white or whole-wheat, is always an economical source of energy and protein in any diet. The form may be left to the choice of the individual when the remainder of the diet is so constituted as to contribute the necessary minerals, vitamins and any necessary roughage.

MONTGOMERY RATE $1.30.

The Montgomery County tax rate has been continued at $1.30 for the year 1930, which is a tie for the lowest rate among the 23 counties of the State. The total expense budget of the county is $1,136,919.83, the largest in the history of the county. The amount for schools is $446,687, and for roads, district and general $120,216. In addition to the county rate, there are special district rates running from .02 to .14, in addition to the $1.30 rate. The taxable basis is $78,824,895.

TONGUE TWISTERS.

Tongue-twisters aid in overcoming faulty speech and help in improving pronunciation. Here is one sent in by reader A. M. Garburt, of Worland, Wyo. It is guaranteed to limber up any tongue, providing it doesn't get the same all tangled up. It is: "How many sniffs of sifted snuff would a snuff sniffer sniff if a sifted snuff sniffer sniffed sifted snuff?" Learn the words in the sentence so that you can say them fast. Then get your friends to try it.—The Pathfinder.

When the mosquitoes come around to torment us again, it may be well to have a copy of Farmers' Bulletin 1570-F, Mosquito Remedies and Preventives. This bulletin can be secured free from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Chamber of Commerce organizations, now so widely in evidence in large and small place throughout the country, represent about the best there is in the way of organized public sentiment, as it is directed toward the betterment of local financial and general interests. They constitute a force ready, not only to cope with emergencies, but to focus the sentiments of representative business men and citizens on matters of future importance.

While these bodies function primarily as local organizations, they also frequently combine forces with like bodies elsewhere, and thereby constitute a larger force having influence in larger operations. In other words, the Chamber of Commerce, as we have it now, represents organized public sentiment in action.

Strictly speaking, or as originally conceived, a Chamber of Commerce is a body of merchants and traders associated for promoting the interests of its own members, of the town or district to which the organization belongs, and of the community in general, so far as these relate to trade and merchandise. As such, it had its origin in Scotland, then spread to England and other European countries, and the first Chamber of Commerce in the United States was organized in New York, in 1768.

In recent years these organizations—especially in the smaller places—have interested themselves in civic betterments and in various directions—not connected with "Commerce"—where energetic leadership is desirable. And, while the qualifications for membership, and election thereto, are not in any sense exclusive, the membership is invariably made up of the representative men of the community, which accounts for the influence they are usually able to exercise.

In some instances, Chambers of Commerce are incorporated bodies and undertake movements involving very considerable financial investments. This is true particularly in cases in which the locating of manufacturing establishments are concerned, involving the purchase of building sites, or perhaps furnishing a building, as an inducement to manufacturers to locate. But, Chambers of Commerce in many of the smaller towns, limit their expenditures to their income from membership dues, and to such funds as may be solicited by them for special purposes.

Taken as a whole, these organizations, when wisely and energetically managed—and they usually are—demonstrate their value, and when once established, rarely cease functioning. The rule is for them to grow, both in actual accomplishments and in popularity, and to represent a valuable asset to any town and community.

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVANCE.

More and more generally, Memorial Day is being celebrated on Sunday, and there is much to be said in favor of this. The time was, not so many years ago, when the day was commercialized much more so than now. It was recognized as a holiday on which to bring a crowd to a town, for "more business," except during the parade and program. These were the open saloon days, too, when it was a good business investment for the proprietors of the bars to contribute to the expense of a band, etc.

Now, Memorial Day is more of a general holiday, with business places closed all day, except some that open after the memorial program. The main activity now conducted during the day, is baseball, or some like feature pertaining to an outing, or perhaps supplying refreshments for those who are taking the day off from work.

The Sunday observance of the day is most appropriate because it gives to the occasion that respect and serious observance that properly belongs to the day. Perhaps it will be a long time, if ever, before May 30th., will be passed by for observing the day at places where National cemeteries are located; but for the smaller communities the Sunday afternoon nearest the 30th., is meeting with much acceptance as the appropriate date.

Even indulging in the National sport—baseball—on Memorial Day, seems somehow disrespectful. Merely hurrying through with a program of addresses and appropriate music in honor of the day, in order to engage in something entirely divorced from the significance of the day, is decidedly discordant, even though long-standing custom has made such occasions more or less popular and allowable.

The program held in Westminster, last Sunday afternoon, to our mind, represented as nearly an ideal observance as could well be engaged in. It interfered with no religious services, and did not contain the commercial, or outing features, to any appreciable extent. It also separated the local observance from the superior attractions of Gettysburg, on the 30th., thereby giving many the opportunity, if they saw fit, to attend both.

Our main duty, it seems to us, is for each community to hold its own program, and not to follow the big crowd anywhere; and for this reason alone, a Sunday afternoon spent in a quiet, orderly and thoughtful—truly "memorial" program—must appeal to those having appropriateness and respect for the day in mind, as the best of all times for the observance.

THE CAR BEHIND.

The automobile driver has plenty to occupy his attention. Not merely must he keep an eye glued to the road, but he must look out for pedestrians, cars at intersecting streets, etc. And then one thing more on his mind is the fellow who is following along behind.

The fellow behind is often unmannerly. Very frequently, when the driver ahead shows a bit of caution and slows down on account of uncertain conditions, the fellow behind will proceed to toot his horn in an impatient way, as if to say "Get out of my way, you slow poke."

It is a pity that there is no satisfactory way of giving those fellows a lesson. Some drivers feel in a mood to stop their cars and obtain the number of the driver that displayed these ill manners, and report him to the authorities. That would be useful in some cases.

Ordinarily the best method is to ignore them. Some nervous drivers worry for fear the car behind will run into them if they slow down to take needed precautions. But that is a form of accident that is not so common, and when it happens is not generally so serious. One should never hesitate to slow down in congested traffic because of what the fellow behind may do.

Of course, if one is thus forced to slow down sufficiently to create any chance of accident, it is only common courtesy and a necessary precaution, to give the proper warning signal. But the principal responsibility in such cases should be on the car that follows, and it is up to that driver to proceed cautiously so that he can have his machine under control.

The driver who blows his horn to urge a cautious driver to speed up, is usually to be classed among the pests of the road who help make driving unpleasant.—Frederick News.

THE LOBBY INQUIRY THAT STAYED FAR AFIELD.

As the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee approaches the end of its labors Chairman Caraway takes occasion to shake hands with himself and his associates on their accomplishments of the last seven months. His statement, couched in general terms, does not mention the details of the committee's achievements, which will doubtless be contained in its final report to the Senate. But he looks upon its work and calls it good. His complacency will not be shared by witnesses who ran afoul of Mr. Caraway's caustic tongue or by impartial observers of the manner in which this committee so frequently sought to turn the inquiry to political uses.

Mr. Caraway's statement is characterized by a much more judicial tone than would have been expected from his general attitude at the committee hearings. It also evidences a clearer realization of the main purpose of this inquiry as defined by the Senate resolution. It was to expose and suggest those lobbyists who "filch money from the American public under the false claim that they can influence Congress."

This is the worst evil in connection with lobbying at Washington. The capitol is infested by an army of professional swindlers who undertake to get legislation through Congress for a price. These persons, as Mr. Caraway now says, are "simply parasites preying upon the public," in contrast to those legitimate lobbyists who, he admits, are "honestly seeking to bring about helpful legislation."

On its credit side the committee did show up one or two lobbyists of the grafter type and probably gleaned

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S ADDRESS.

We give, in full, President Hoover's Memorial Day Address at Gettysburg—the shortest delivered on such an occasion since Lincoln's masterpiece in 1863. His address is regarded as at least among the best ever delivered there. It is well worth reading for its evident simplicity and earnestness, and even those who heard it may want to clip it for preservation. It was as follows:

"Fellow countrymen:

"We stand today amidst monuments to the valor and glory of a generation of Americans, North and South, now well-nigh gone. Most of those who bore the burdens of the Civil War have joined their comrades who sleep beneath these mounds. Of a thousand brigades which marched in that great conflict, scarce a score remain.

Pays Tribute to Gratitude.

"To the dead we pay again our tribute of gratitude and devotion. To the living we extend heartfelt wishes for a continuation of peaceful years, serene in contemplation of their glorious youth.

"Every American's thought of this great battlefield of Gettysburg flashes with the instant vision of the lonely figure of Lincoln, whose immortal words dominate this scene. No monument has been or can be erected here so noble and enduring as that simple address which has become a part of this place. Greater than the tribute of granite or bronze remains that memorable message to the American people.

"That appeal for the unity of our people and the perpetuation of the fundamentals of our democracy is as vital today in our national thinking as it was when Lincoln spoke. Behind him were the seventy years of national experience that had passed between himself and Washington. His work from their span of the past rang with courage and assurance for the future.

Found Strength Mid Strife.

"Though no President has been so beset, though no time in our history has been so dark, though never have strong men been so affected with doubts, yet in the midst of all that turmoil he found strength to lift his head above the clouds and proclaim that vision which the passing years have so fully confirmed.

"Today, nearly seventy years have passed since Lincoln spoke. Ours is a new day, and ours new problems of the Republic. There are times when these problems loom ominous and their solution difficult. Yet great as our difficulties may sometimes seem, we would be of little courage if in our concerns we had less of faith than Lincoln had in his far greater task.

"Lincoln's counsels sounded strangely when spoken in the midst of war. His was the call of moderation. Our history would be even brighter than it is if his predecessors and his contemporaries had spoken as temperately as he, if they had been moved by charity toward all, by malice toward none.

"We shall be wise to ponder here what precious wealth of human life might have been preserved, what rivers of tears might never have flowed, what anguish of souls need never have been, what spiritual division of our people might have been avoided, if only leadership had always been tempered by the moderation and calm vision of Lincoln.

Reason Not Always Ruling.

"Since his day reason has not always ruled instead of passion, knowledge has not always been sought instead of reliance upon improvised conjecture, patience has not ever delayed the impetuous feet of reckless ambition, quiet negotiation has not always replaced the clamor of the hustings, prudent common counsel has not invariably overcome the al-

some information that may be useful in framing restrictive legislation. It also elicited testimony which may suggest to some organizations that most of the money they are spending legitimately to influence legislation is wasted. But for the most part, the predictions that were made when the personnel of this hand-picked partisan committee was announced have been fulfilled. Senator Norris, as head of the Judiciary Committee, did the choosing and, with a single exception, he put none but Democrats or Insurgents on guard.—Phila. Ledger.

PINCHOT SPEAKS PLAINLY.

"Big special interests behind a few disgruntled elements in the Republican party are refusing to accept the decision of the electorate at the primary of May 20," said Gifford Pinchot, gubernatorial nominee, for Governor of Pennsylvania, a few days ago.

In a formal statement Mr. Pinchot declared that no one familiar with the facts doubts that at least 50,000 votes were stolen from him in Philadelphia and refers to the seventy-five election divisions in which not a vote was recorded for him. He said it was obviously impossible that no votes should be given him in those divisions.

"The electric, gas, trolley and other public-utility interests throughout Pennsylvania," said Mr. Pinchot, "the contractor-bosses and bootleggers, acting through political gangs they control, are attempting to steal the governorship.

"Both before and since the primary, determined attempts to defy the will of the Republican voters and reverse the verdict have been going on. They are still going on, and it still requires the utmost efforts of the Pinchot organization to prevent the election, which has been won at the ballot-box, from being stolen in the count."

lurements of demagogic folly, good will has not always won the day over cynicism and vainglory."

"The ideals which, he inspired have served to mold our national life and have brought in time great spiritual unity. His words have poured their blessings of restraint and inspiration upon each new generation.

"In the weaving of our destiny, the pattern may change, yet the wool and warp of our weaving must be these inspired ideals of unity, of ordered liberty, of equality of opportunity, of popular government and of peace to which this Nation was dedicated.

Ideals Eternally Valid.

"Whatever the terms may be in which we enunciate these great ideals, whatever the new conditions to which we apply them, they must be held eternally valid. The common striving for these ideals, our common heritage as Americans, and the infinite web of national sentiment—these are the things that have made us a great Nation, that have created a solidarity in a great people unparalleled in all human history.

"The weaving of freedom is and always will be a struggle of law against lawlessness, of individual liberty against domination, of unity against sectionalism, of truth and honesty against demagoguery and misleading, of peace against fear and conflict.

"In the solution of the problems of our times we have some new lamps to guide us. The light of science has revealed to us a new understanding of forces and a myriad of instruments of physical ease and comfort to add to the joy of life. The growth of communications, of education, of the press, has made possible a new unity of thought and purpose.

"But the light that guides our souls remains the same as that whereby our fathers were led. It is the store of knowledge, the great inspiration of men's souls, the ideals which they carry forward, that have lifted the Nation to ever higher heights.

U. S. Spiritual Union.

"The Union has become not merely a physical union of States, but rather is a spiritual union in common ideals of our people. Within it is room for every variety of opinion, every possibility of experiment in social progress. Out of such variety comes growth, but only if we preserve and maintain our spiritual solidarity.

"The things of the spirit alone persist. It is in that field that the Nation makes its lasting progress. To cherish religious faith and the tolerance of all faiths; to reflect into every aspect of public life the spirit of charity, the practice of forbearance and the restraint of passion while reason seeks the way; to lay aside blind prejudice and follow knowledge together; to pursue diligently the common welfare and find within its boundaries our private benefit; to enlarge the borders of opportunity for all and find our own within them; to enhance the greatness of the Nation and thereby find for ourselves an individual distinction; to face with courage and confident expectation the task set before us—these are the paths of true glory for this Nation.

"They will lead us to a life more abounding, richer in satisfactions, more enduring in its achievements, more precious in its bequests to our children—a life not merely of conflict but filled with the joy of creative action."

Seemingly, Citizens of

New Orleans Live Well

But in New Orleans! Here you find no one dish, but an army that promises years of varied delight. The oysters of Bayou Cook and Four Bayous. The lake shrimp and the river shrimp, those last tiny ones boiled with the pepper. The pompano. The Spanish mackerel. The redfish. The green trout. The flounder. The court-bouillon and the jambalaya. The beca-sine, served au borde du lac. The perdreaux, served chasseur. The canard, either with boiled turnips or roasted rare so the blood runs as you cut the breast. The tender, delicate creole lettuce; the blushing, gentle tomato. Chives and shallots; romaine and endive. Frog legs that thrill you as never the legs of the chorus could thrill. More ways of cooking a chicken than there are chickens. And coffee such as Petronius and Lucullus and Epicurus would have drunk had they known how to drip it.

But why tantalize a nation of standardized food! They can't all live in New Orleans.—New Orleans States.

Standard of Conduct

All ideals are built on the ground of solid achievement, which in a given profession creates in the course of time a certain tradition, or, in other words, a standard of conduct. The existence of a standard of conduct in its turn makes the most improbable achievement possible, by augmenting the power of endurance and of self-sacrifice amongst men who look to the past for their lessons and for their inspiration.—Joseph Conrad.

Genesis of the Drama

About 600 B. C. the poet Arion, at Corinth, led his cyclic chorus of 50. A half century later came Thespis of Attica, whose Thespian innovation was the introduction of an actor to fill the intervals of singing with stories and mimicry and short dialogues with the leader of the chorus. The adventures of Dionysus were recited by the leader of the chorus and had been answered by the chorus, and thus made an important step toward the drama.

Looks Like Walnuts

The owner of a walnut tree has to guard against many enemies, and none more dangerous than rooks. As soon as the green walnut jackets begin to split the rook appears. He either opens the shells on the tree with his beak or carries them to a stone on which he can crack them. Sometimes a whole colony will go scouring the countryside for walnut trees. Frequently they strip a tree to its last walnut.—London Times.

Grim Curiosities in London Medical Museum

London's grimmest museum is nevertheless the least overrun by the "morbid curiosity seekers," says a writer in Tit-Bits. John Hunter, originator of scientific surgery in England, founded the medical museum of the Royal College of Surgeons, Lincoln's Inn Fields; and it is now the finest of its kind in the world. Only medical and other privileged persons are allowed to enter. Rows of skulls give visitors their first shock. They stand in solid phalanxes upon their shelves. Here are the skulls of all ages, all nations—3,000 of them! In the section devoted to criminals Eugene Aram sits placidly beside Turtell, the solicitor. The skeleton of Charles O'Bryan, the Irish giant, stands in 7 feet 8 inches of skinless dignity beside a companion who does not reach his calf. This is Caroline Crocham, the Sicilian woman, 19 inches in height. Grimmest of all is the war room, filled with plaster casts representing every kind of wound. Most surprising of all is a finger that was blown off one man into the thigh of another, from which it had to be extracted. Upstairs is a purely historical section, where you can see a rib of Robert Bruce; both hands of one of the sons of John Gaunt; and two portions of the small intestine of Napoleon I. In this room also is the mummy of the wife of Martin Van Buren, an eccentric pupil of John Hunter. After her death Martin kept her mummified body in his sitting room until his second marriage, when his new wife objected strongly!

Mortgage Made Matter of Record in Babylon

If you believe that the first-mortgage-loan plan is something almost new, you're about 2,400 years behind the times.

A short while back an archeological expedition working in the waste of an antique city in Babylon excavated a clay tablet with odd characters drawn upon it. The translation of these characters reads:

"Thirty bushels of dates are due to Bel Nadin Shun, son of Marashu, by Bel Bullisu and Sha Nebu Shu, sons of Kirbetti, and their tenants. In the month of Tashri (harvest month) of the thirty-fourth year of King Artaxerxes I they shall pay the dates, thirty bushels, according to the measure of Bel Nadin Shun, in the town of Bit Balasu. Their field cultivated and uncultivated, their fief estate, is held as a pledge for the dates, namely thirty bushels, by Bel Nadin Shun. Another creditor shall not have power over it."

This prehistoric tablet and other records excavated show that the men of old conducted business on the same plans that we are prone to call ultra-modern.

One Popular Man

The failures of life sit around and complain; the gods haven't treated them white; they've lost their umbrellas whenever it rains, and they haven't their lanterns at night; men tire of failures who fill with their sighs the air of their neighborhoods; there's a man who is greeted with love-lighted eyes—he's the man who delivers the goods.—Farm Market Sayings.

Full Service Required

The life saving crew had just pulled the man's wife out of the water. She was unconscious, rescued while going down for the third time, and the husband was almost distracted.

"Shall we apply artificial resuscitation?" asked one of the rescuers.

"No!" bellowed the man. "She's all I have, and I want the real thing!"

INVALID DEVOTES LIFE TO OTHERS

Seattle Doctor Is Practical Idealist.

Seattle, Wash.—A practical idealist, whose credo is "service" and who gives a philosophy of cheerfulness to those who are down, such a man is Dr. Frank R. Loope of Seattle.

For eighteen years he has been bed-ridden.

A reporter walked into the "office," a big sun porch, as one of two telephones at his bed rang and the doctor proceeded to aid a World War veteran in getting out of jail.

Doctor Loope lay flat on his back, the two telephones within easy reach, letter files at the side of his bed, a checkbook on the covers, magazines, papers, cigarettes and a radio at hand.

And there he directs almost innumerable enterprises—aiding individuals to overcome physical handicaps.

The physician picked up a specially framed mirror and focussed it on his guests. He is unable to turn his head, but he can move his eyes and arms. Thus he is able to follow the movements and expressions of any one in his room.

Finds Jobs for Unemployed.
Under the general title of "sunshine industries," Doctor Loope is the directing genius behind a wheel chair store, a repair store, is building up a fund for an industrial home for shut-ins and arranges hundreds of programs for invalids.

The industrial home—where those adding themselves would be able to live close to their work—is his big dream.

In addition to that work, Doctor Loope finds positions for those who have been handicapped. He distributes radios, gives advice, acts as father confessor to hundreds of persons, advises as a physician and arranges for medical attention.

His telephone rang constantly during the interview.

The soldier was paroled to his custody, then a hysterical woman telephoned. Calm tones replied to shrill voice, and then, ironically, an organization that had obtained his telephone number called to ask him to buy two tickets to a dance.

Conducts Column.
The doctor is not a wealthy man, in fact he frequently encounters difficulty in obtaining funds for his many enterprises, in addition to those needed for himself.

For years after he was stricken, the doctor related, "I felt I was terribly abused." Then he adopted the philosophy of "Sunshine and Smiles," the title of a column he conducts for shut-ins in the Seattle Star.

"I don't preach, I serve," he said. "Help the shut-in to help himself—to keep himself away from his troubles."

Although bedridden eighteen years, Doctor Loope is no invalid. He is more healthy mentally by far than millions who have complete use of their bodies.

Horse Judges Hoaxed
Brian G. Hughes, who died several years ago and who was known far and wide for his practical jokes, once entered a horse in a New York horse show under the name "Puldaka Orphan."

The animal was from the Fifty-seventh street car barns and was just a great big horse, but it had gone through five elimination tests, and was one of 27 entries left when one of the judges began to think that the name of the Hughes entry sounded a bit suspiciously like "Pulled a car often," and the pride of the car barns was withdrawn.—Detroit News.

Streets of Old London Dangerous in Storms

Whatever the terrors of the gale we ought perhaps to congratulate ourselves that life in a city is rather less dangerous in a high wind than it was in the past. Perhaps the Seventeenth century was the most dangerous; before that time, when London, for instance, was largely made up of wooden houses with thatched roofs, discomfort may have been very great, but danger was probably less. In the Seventeenth century, discomfort and danger must have been pretty equally matched. Unfortunately Pepys did not live to record his impressions of the great storm of 1703, but we have his lively account of that "very froule, windy, and rainy morning of January 24, 1683-4" when "my Lord (Bruncker) and I, the wind being again very furious, so as we durst not go by water, walked to London quite round the bridge; and Lord, what a dirty walk we had, that in the fields we many times could not carry our bodies against it, but were driven backwards. . . . It was dangerous to walk the streets, the bricks and tiles falling from the houses that the whole streets were covered with them; and whole chimneys, nay, the houses in two or three places blown down. But, above all, the pales on London bridge on both sides were blown away, so that we were fain to stoop very low for fear of blowing off of the bridge."—Manchester Guardian.

Fishermen Use Electricity

Electrocuting hooked fish too big to be readily pulled into the boat is a new system used by fishermen among the 100-pound and larger tuna fish off the Mexican coast.

The boat is equipped with a 110-volt direct electric current. At one side of the circuit is a small steel plate, which is thrown into the water. The other side of the circuit is carried to the steel hook through a small insulated wire.

Once the fish is hooked, a switch is closed, sending sufficient current to stun it. The catch ceases struggling and is easily pulled into the boat.—Capper's Weekly.

The Postscript

Little Tommy had been sent to try to borrow a gardening fork from the next door neighbor.

"Dad said, will you lend him your fork," he asked very impolitely.

"But haven't you forgotten something?" reproved Jones, who was rather strict on manners.

Tommy looked puzzled for a while, until suddenly he remembered.

"Oh, yes!" he replied. "Dad said if the old miser refused, try Mr. Robinson next door."

Even the Humblest Can Make the World Brighter

As I sit writing in my study, the radio downstairs is bringing a splendid concert through the air from more than 1,000 miles away.

I hear the sound of an airplane overhead. It is carrying the mail 100 miles an hour across the continent.

An automobile dashes up to the door and delivers the purchase made from a store less than an hour ago. Today was clean-up day in the home; the vacuum cleaner was going and the dirt disappeared as if by magic.

The telephone bell rings; it may be a friend nearby or a long-distance call from clear across the nation.

The shadows lengthen; I press a button and the room is flooded with light.

What are you and I doing to deserve all this? Frank G. Moorhead asks, in the Farm Journal.

Do something for somebody else, and find out how honest and useful you are, after all. If nothing else, try saying "Good morning" cheerfully to everybody you meet. That's a long way from flying an airplane with the night mail. But it may do somebody a world of good.

The best way you could possibly repay Thomas A. Edison, or Lee de Forest, or the Wright boys, or Alexander Graham Bell, or Cyrus McCormick, would be to be kind to somebody else, to give him a lift in life, to make things easier and better and brighter for everybody else. Reduced to essentials, that's all they did!

Some Wood Will Sink

The leaves of some trees turn red in autumn like the maples and sumacs, says Forests and Man kind. Others turn yellow like the ash and tulip tree. Some have leaves so gigantic they could be wrapped about one like a robe and others leaves that are hardly bigger than your fingernail. Some trees have wood so soft you can tear it apart in your hands and other wood so hard no nail can pierce it and so heavy it sinks in water like a stone.

IT'S WISE TO CHOOSE A SIX

CHEVROLET'S New Service Policy wins nationwide approval

On January 1st of this year, the Chevrolet Motor Company announced a new service policy—the most liberal ever offered in connection with a low-priced automobile.

Immediately it was greeted with enthusiasm by Chevrolet buyers everywhere—because its many unusual features materially add to the economy and lasting satisfaction of Chevrolet ownership. Briefly, it provides——for free inspection and adjustment at the 500-mile mark, and free inspections every 1000 miles thereafter.

—for free replacement of any material—including both parts and labor—that may prove defective, within the terms of the standard warranty.—that this replacement will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States—regardless of where the owner may have traveled during the warranty period.

Backing this policy is one of the largest service organizations in the automotive industry—consisting of over 10,000 authorized Chevrolet dealer service stations in the United States alone. Come in! Learn all the other reasons why it's wise to choose a Chevrolet Six!

SIX-CYLINDER SMOOTHNESS AT LOW COST

Budgeting Calories - Jane Rogers

Thrifty Housewife Knows Trick of Balancing the Diet to Obtain Maximum of Food Calories

THE housewife of today is much more likely to budget her expenses than the bride of fifty years ago. In those days it was only necessary to step into the garden and pluck a generous helping of fresh vegetables for the evening meal or stop by the smoke-house and procure a sizable ham at a minimum of cost.

Today, the problem centers around making so many dollars purchase so many calories of food, so many articles of clothing and on through the whole line of living expenses.

Selection of foods is one of the most important considerations in budget making. Each member of the family needs a certain number of calories per day—varying according to the amount of manual work or labor indulged in and unless the housewife knows a little about the caloric value of foods there is great danger that her meals will be lacking in some of the most important elements which make up the well balanced diet.

With a market list showing prices and a calorie list, the housewife can work out a very interesting little problem in economical buying. A pound of butter contains 3600 calories and at the average price of fifty cents a pound it is possible to obtain 72 calories for one cent. A pound of bacon at fifty-five cents will furnish 51 calories for each cent; roast beef at thirty-five cents will furnish 27; macaroni at fifteen cents will give 110 while sugar at an average price of six cents a pound will furnish no less than 310 calories for each cent spent. Because of the great number of calories it contains, sugar is one of the cheapest of all foods in addition to being one of the most valuable. It furnishes fuel which keeps the body engine burning, supplies much needed energy and its importance as a sweetener and flavorer, especially when used in the cooking of fresh or canned vegetables is universally recognized. "A dash of sugar and a pinch of salt" have become twentieth century household words.

Of course no one food can be used to the great exclusion of others even though it provides enough calories to meet the average demand but the housewife soon learns this and other little tricks that eventually lead to the preparation of well balanced and at the same time economical meals.

All communications for this department must be signed by the author; not for publication, but as an evidence that the items contributed are legitimate and correct. Items based on mere rumor, or such as are likely to give offense, are not wanted.

We desire correspondence to reach our office on Thursday, if at all possible. It will be necessary, therefore, for most letters to be mailed on Wednesday, or by Fast Mail, west on W. M. R. R. Thursday morning. Letters mailed on Thursday evening may not reach us in time.

FEESERSBURG.

"Beautiful May time" was cool, dry and windy, this year; allowing 23 clear days, 4 cloudy and 4 rainy.

Wasn't it a lovely Decoration Day? Homes and cars had the stars and stripes flying, the cemeteries were nicely mown and many graves decorated with flags and flowers. In nearby towns memorial services and strewing flowers, then the Firemen's festival at night in Union Bridge, although rather cold to crave ice cream.

Not often is our community so profoundly stirred as when the death of Harold Crumbacker was announced, last Wednesday, so unexpected was it. He was the 3rd son of George and Ella Koons Crumbacker, a useful citizen, a kind friend, and helpful neighbor; a member and trustee of Mt. Union Lutheran Church, where the funeral service was held on Saturday morning; perhaps the largest ever there. The many floral tributes attested to the regard in which he was held. Rev. M. Kroh conducted the service, and 6 of his cousins carried his body to the grave, where the P. O. S. of A., of which he was a member, concluded the burial service. Sincere sympathy is felt for his wife (nee Addie Crouse) and two little girls, Catherine and Frances.

Guy Simpson has been quite ill, the past week, threatened with pneumonia but is slowly recovering.

A few lines from Havana, Cuba, informs us of the sight-seeing tour of another former citizen, Isaac A. Buffington, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, well known to many of our readers, just 1960 miles from his home.

Automobiles, good roads and fair weather, bring one face to face with many old friends on Sunday evening. Mrs. John Clabaugh, her son, Percy and daughter, Edith, Misses Edna and Maybell Henneberger, all of Hagerstown, spent an hour with the Biralys. The Harbaugh's were residents in our village when the children were small—now mature men and women. Miss Edith is in the employ of M. P. Moller, the pipe organ builder; and her sister, Lugarda, is nursing under the control of Union Memorial Hospital, Baltimore.

Recently, Mr. and Mrs. George Crumbacker enjoyed a splendid motor trip with their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Heintzleman and two boys, from Waynesboro, over the Susquehanna trail, via Harrisburg, Sunbury, Williamsport to Lawrenceville, then west as far as Coudersport, and on to the town of Mills, in Potter Co., Pa., to visit friends. About 350 miles all the way was very interesting, but they were very much impressed with the grandeur of the Allegheny mountains, so steep and wonderful.

Sunday School, at Mt. Union, at 9:15, next Sunday morning, with Children's Service at 10:30, using the program of the Orphan's Home, entitled, "Joy of Walking in Truth." A special offering will be asked for the Home at Loysville, Pa.

The morning paper informs us a new pastor will occupy the Middleburg pulpit, Rev. C. A. Archer, the M. E. Conference having appointed Rev. K. Newell to Williamsport, Md.

Mrs. Erma Harman Davis is spending this week in Highlandtown, Baltimore, nearer her husband's place of employment.

The State Normal School at Towson closed on Tuesday, and Paul Hyde returned home on Wednesday.

And now we've come to the end of another school-year and teachers and pupils deserve a vacation. As dearly as we loved school, it was hard to sit indoors and study lessons, when all of God's out-of-doors was calling.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

Resolutions of Respect adopted by Taney Lodge No. 28, I. O. O. F., of Taneytown.

Whereas, An All-wise Providence has removed from the circle of our membership, Brother GEO. A. SHOEMAKER, SR., and we deem it fitting to make a permanent record of our loss and of our high regard for our deceased Brother, therefore be it Resolved, That we record our appreciation of the character and spirit of fraternity manifested by our Brother Geo. A. Shoemaker, Sr., deceased, that we give expression to our sorrow and sense of loss in his passing away, and that we extend to the bereaved family our sincere sympathy with them in their great loss.

Resolved, That our charter be draped in his memory, shall remind us of our own frailty, and admonish us to make the most and the best of the days allotted to us.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Carroll Record, a copy be incorporated in the minutes of this meeting, and a copy sent to the family of our deceased Brother.

HAD TO PREPARE

Hostess (sending out cards)—If most of the people we are sending to accept we shall have our work cut out to cater for them.

Host—O, I don't suppose more than half will accept. We must hope for the best.

Hostess—That's all very well as far as you are concerned. What I have to do is to prepare for the worst.—Vancouver Province.

LOCALS CONTINUED.

Mr. and Mrs. John Staley and son, Earl, spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. James Rodgers, near town.

Mrs. Henrietta Koontz and Mrs. William Smyser, of York, Pa., visited Mrs. Mary Stover and family, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Angell and two children, of Sykesville, Md., spent Thursday, with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Angell near town.

Mrs. Harold Mehring, and daughter, Idona, spent from Tuesday till Thursday with friends at Halethorpe, Md., near Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin T. Fringer were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Fair and family, at Carlisle, Pa., from Thursday till Monday.

Mrs. Ida S. Bachtell and Mrs. Nora Y. Gehre, of Baltimore, spent the week-end with their nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. W. Troxell.

Mrs. Paul Groft and Eugene, York; Mrs. Roy Beard and Henry Bernard Groft, McSherrystown, were Friday callers at the home of Mrs. Nettie S. Angell.

Miss Mamie Hemler returned home, on Tuesday, from Mercy Hospital, Baltimore, following an operation for an advanced case of appendicitis. She is improving in a normal way.

The operetta, "The Isle of Chance," will be rendered by pupils of the Harney school, this Friday night, at 8:00 o'clock, in the Mystic Chain Hall, Harney. A pleasing entertainment is assured.

James Buffington had a second operation at Frederick Hospital, on Wednesday. He apparently stood the operation very well, but a change came on Thursday, and he is now very critically ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. W. Troxell, Mrs. C. E. Dern, this place, and Mrs. Ida S. Bachtell and Mrs. Nora Y. Gehre, of Baltimore, spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. C. Barton and Mrs. K. G. Putman, Walkersville.

The 95° temperature of the past few days is in very decided contrast to that of last Friday morning, when thermometers registered 42°. The heat and no rain, is causing serious and permanent damage to growing crops.

A petition for a new trial for Paul W. Edwards, convicted of second-degree murder, was presented to the Court, last Saturday, by his counsel. The petition has not yet been argued, and the sentence in the case has been withheld.

Mrs. Louisa Hammond, entertained at dinner, on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Renner and children; Mr. and Mrs. Curvin Keefer, Mrs. Sarah Renner and Miss Cora Renner, all of Littlestown, and Mrs. Annie Renner, of Hanover, Pa.

A Daily Vacation Bible School will commence in the Lutheran Church, Monday, June 9, and extend to June 20th. It will be open to children of the town and community, between the ages of 6 and 16 years. A full registration is invited. The sessions will be held from 8:45 A. M. to 12:00.

The game of baseball, last Friday, between the High School team and the Firemen was won by the latter, 11 to 7. Of course, the game was not by any means a fine exhibition, but it was quite interesting, and suggests the advisability of continuing games of this class, on Wednesday afternoons, during the Summer. Why not?

Taneytown water plant was given a complete house-cleaning, this week. The large supply well was emptied and the interior cleaned and washed. On Wednesday the stand-pipe was emptied and the interior given a washing out, and all of the street mains were opened and flushed. Very little accumulated dirt was found, the most of it being in the supply well. So expeditiously was the work done that householders were without water only a few hours. So, with the best water in the world, and everything strictly clean, we can now drink heartily and with complete safety.

SOME GOOD SHORT ONES.

"What did they teach you today in Sunday School, son?"

"I learned how to say 'Yes, ma'am,' and 'No, sir,' when answering questions."

"Did you indeed?"

"Yup."

Judge—"You stole eggs from this man's shop. Have you any excuse?"

Accused—"Yes, I took them by mistake."

Judge—"How is that?"

Accused—"I thought they were fresh."

During the hearing of a case, the Judge was disturbed by a youth who kept moving about in the rear of the court.

"Young man," he exclaimed, "you are making a good deal of unnecessary noise. What are you doing?"

"I have lost my overcoat and am trying to find it," replied the offender.

"Well," said the Judge, "people often lose whole suits in here without all that fuss."

"You're looking very happy this morning. Have you had good news?"

Mrs. Gabber—"Just wonderful. My husband has just had a nervous breakdown, and we're going to Florida for the winter."

Abe was at a dance and lost a wallet containing $600. He got up on a chair and announced: "Gentlemen, I lost my pocket-book with $600 in it. To the man what finds it, I will give $50.00."

Voice from the Rear—"I'll give $75."

Beauty in Great Bridge

There is beauty of a different and stupendous kind in the bridges that connect Manhattan Island with Brooklyn or the mainland. Your first feeling at these bridges is always one of admiration, even of awe, for modern engineering. . . . To stand on the East river docks and see the gigantic, wirespan, airy boulevard of the Brooklyn bridge go leaping up into space and descend in a curve of marvelous grace into the granite gorges of lower Manhattan is to experience a sensation no other city on earth can offer you. . . . It would have been from the footpath of this bridge, too, that Wordsworth would have written his sonnet to Manhattan—we wonder in what spirit of solemn awe?—Walter Prichard Eaton, in "Green Trails and Upland Pastures."

Matter of Spelling

Joe, although in the fourth grade, had not yet mastered the art of spelling. Recently, while visiting his aunt, he made a tour of her extensive library. Joe paused before several books bearing the inscription: "The Sacred Works of John X." He studied them seriously for a few minutes, then asked abruptly, "Aunt Jane, was this man frightened when he wrote these books?"

"Not that I know of. Why?" she asked, puzzled.

"Well," he answered slowly, "these books say 'The Sacred Works of John X.'"

Holy Cake

Five-year-old Patricia is very religious. At dinner her aunt said: "Now Pat, there's angel food and layer cake. When you are ready you can have either one."

Some time after she said, "Auntie I'll take a piece of holy cake."

Find Ancient Carriage

Belgrade.—A carriage thought to be a relic of the Bronze age, has been unearthed near the village of Dupljava in Vojvodina. It is a three-wheeled affair and bears an effigy of a bird-headed deity. It is made of baked clay.

Energy Giving Corn

WHEN the children run wild in spring, it's a good thing to have an energy providing and inexpensive dish waiting for them when they come in breathless from their romps. Here's one they'll be sure to like, and which will provide enough food for at least half a dozen of them at a cost of considerably less than a dollar:

A Tasty Dish

Corn and Beef Loaf: Mix together one pound ground rump of beef, one-half pound ground fresh pork, one beaten egg, one tablespoon chopped onion, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one-half cup bread crumbs and the contents of one 11-ounce can corn, and form into a roll. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC.

Topic—"Prayer in the Life of Leaders." Mark 1:35; Luke 6:12.

Written by—Earl E. Redding, pastor of Taneytown United Brethren Charge.

Long ago the truth of Bible Study and prayer dawned upon me, as this: "When we read or study the Bible, God speaks to us; while in prayer we talk to God." How can any leader, of the Christ in the truest sense, go without these vital essentials? I ask this because of the apparent lack of appetite for this conversing with Him.

A sad spectacle to behold is of a child and its parents, who are not on speaking terms. This condition some times prevails under the same roof. And when we hear of such conditions something within us revolts against it. But, just as shameful and disgraceful is it for us, as children of the Heavenly Father, to neglect, or leave uncultivated, the habit of Holy conversation through prayer.

Catch up quickly the fact that even Jesus Christ sought out the place of prayer. He needed the solitude

You're never out of fuel WHEN YOU COOK ELECTRICALLY

BAD ROADS OR POOR FREIGHT SERVICE can not interrupt the flow of safe economical heat that comes to you over your electric wires

Throughout the United States thousands of homes today are enjoying the many modern advantages of Electric Cookery. It's convenient! It's economical! And it's absolutely dependable!

There is never any question about your fuel supply when your home is equipped with a modern electric range. Night or day, unlimited fuel is at your instant command by the simple turning of a switch. Your electric wires bring safe clean heat into your kitchen without labor or haulage--without any uncertainty as to delivery. It is the most modern method of cooking, just as electricity is the only modern method of lighting.

This efficient modern method of cooking also brings you two important economies. It requires less fuel, because the heat is concentrated on the cooking of the food. None of the valuable cooking energy is wasted in unnecessary over-heating of the kitchen. You cook more comfortably and more efficiently.

And many tests have proved that electric cookery actually reduces food bills. It saves the shrinkage of food and often amounts to as much as one out of every five pounds when you cook by ordinary methods, and for unsurpassed dependability, more and more housewives are modernizing their kitchens by installing electric ranges.

Leading makes of electric ranges may be seen demonstrated at our store. We invite you to inspect them at your earliest convenience. Ask to see actual figures demonstrating the surprising economy of cooking by electricity.

These Electric Lines are a never-failing Fuel
Route to Your Home

The electric wires that lead to your home place an unlimited supply of light and heat and power at your disposal. You pay for only what you actually use--and when you use it. You need never to worry about reserve supplies, transportation, leakage or waste.

Winter, summer, spring and fall, no matter if the weather be fair or inclement, and regardless of the roads, the electric current is always at your command at any hour of the day or night.

Electricity is always dependable.

THE POTOMAC EDISON SYSTEM

TANEYTOWN, MD.

SHORTEST RAILROAD IS RUN AT PROFIT

Engineer Is President and General Manager.

Cassville, Mo.—The Cassville and Exeter, America's shortest railroad, runs at a profit and a good one.

The total trackage of the midget line is four and nine-tenths miles, which, according to the Interstate Commerce commission, makes it the shortest independently owned and operated steam railway in the United States. And to this designation may be added, very probably the shortest in the world.

The president of the line, the general manager and the locomotive engineer is Dave Dingler, railroader for 43 years.

Dave Dingler and his partner, James C. Ault, recorder, secretary and owner of the other half of the stock, do not favor the suppression of women. Mrs. Dingler is first and only vice president and Mrs. Ault is treasurer. On Sundays they generally hold a director's conference along with chicken dinner, prepared and consumed from door to door by officials of the road.

Attitude Helps.
The line connects the picturesque old village of Cassville, the county seat of Barry county, Missouri, with Exeter, a station on the main-line Frisco. The Tom Thumb line takes advantage of altitude. Its terminal at Exeter is 190 feet higher than the station at Cassville. Accordingly, trains have to be pulled up to Exeter and lead down to Cassville. Pulling them up is considerable of a strain, but escorting them home is a pleasure so long as the brakes hold.

Once each day the midget line runs separately an all-passenger and an all-freight train. At Exeter they uncouple the little passenger coach from Old 20, more familiarly known as "Mary Ann" the superannuated locomotive, and let the little passenger coach roll on back down to Cassville. Then Mary Ann escorts the freight cars.

The Cassville and Exeter owns no rolling stock other than the little locomotive and the 32-passenger coach which hitches on behind. Freight cars are willingly loaned by neighboring roads.

Freight Business Pays.

But Dave Dingler and his railroaders would have it understood that nobody need snigger about their Mary Ann. For the little puller is neither a freak nor a curio. She is a ten wheeler with a 32,000-pound tractive effort, 63-inch drivers, Southern valve gear, automatic bell and sanders and a deep-set throttle. She takes them there and brings them back and she has been doing it for near onto thirty years.

Dave Dingler keeps books on overhead and he figures that so far as repairs are concerned, Mary Ann costs him about $5 a year.

The officials say with appropriate frankness that so far as the Cassville and Exeter is concerned, passenger hauling has never paid; that it is merely a turn in courtesy, an appendage to make more complete the line's offering of service. But the freight business does pay and rather substantially. The short line has a rather startling volume of traffic considering its length. It is said to carry more fruit to the rail mile than any other line in the country, and its freight business is gradually increasing.

Taxidermy Disappearing, Veteran of Art Says

St. Louis, Mo.—Virtually every variety of wild and domestic fish, fowl, and animal have been rendered immortal, according to Kirk Keller of St. Louis, who for 6 years has been following his trade of taxidermy.

Glancing around his shop, which is in itself a museum of natural history, Keller recalls the days when bison roamed the prairies and when wild animals were shot in what are now staid St. Louis residential sections.

Keller says that stringent game laws and the disappearance of the "den" in the modern home, is causing his profession to vanish. "Where my assistants and I prepared six or seven thousand specimens a year five years ago, the number has now dwindled to a few hundred," he said.

Customers from England, France, Germany, Belgium and Canada are listed on his books.

Motorist Learned That Small Boy Was Correct

Humor can be found even in parking difficulties. A Brooklyn motorist had circled two blocks in an effort to find a place to park the other night. He was taking his family to a neighborhood motion picture show and already was ten minutes late for the feature picture. Finally he sighted an ideal space near the theater. Speeding up ahead of other motorists he stopped and started to back into the space.

"You can't park heah, mistah," volunteered a fat negro boy from the curb.

Ignoring the negro boy, the motorist completed backing his car into the space, then looked out and angrily demanded:

"What's the matter with you? What do you mean, I can't park here?"

"Nothin', mistah, nothin' at all," replied the lad with a frightened look as he hastily walked away and revealed a fire plug upon which he had been sitting and which had been concealed from the view of the driver.—New York Sun.

Concerning Earth's Orbit

The naval observatory says it has been proved, first by Sir Isaac Newton, that a spherical body attracted gravitationally only by another spherical body will move in a circle, ellipse, parabola or hyperbola, but this proof is a matter of higher mathematics. The orbits of the planets are not perfect ellipses, because the elliptical motion of each of them that would result from the attraction of the sun alone is disturbed by the attraction of the other planets.

Viking History

All the vikings to about the year 1000, with few exceptions, were pagans. The vikings (more southerly people) were also pagans but they were Christianized at a much earlier date in Great Britain, where the Jutes (Jutland, Denmark) first landed in 449, while the vikings in greater numbers began invasion of the British Isles in the Eighth century.

Some Are Useless

A philosopher wonders why nature gave the thickest skulls to those who have the least to protect. Probably nature thinks that if a good brain cannot protect itself it is not worth bone armor.—Boston Transcript.

English Royal Abode

Sandringham house is at Sandringham, a village in Norfolk, England. The estate, of some 7,000 acres, was acquired in 1861 by the late King Edward, when prince of Wales, for about $1,250,000. It was rapidly made into a model and modern place. Sandringham house is a picturesque building of brick and stone in Elizabethan style, standing in a park of 200 acres. On a tablet is inscribed: "This house was built by Albert Edward and Alexandra, his wife, in the year of our Lord 1870."

On the Calendar

Mary, age six, was examining a calendar. Soon she called: "Mother, what does SMTWTFS spell?" Mother, reading, subconsciously, said: "Why, nothing, dear." Mary replied: "But, mother, it does so, for it's right here at the top of each page on the calendar."

Humble Leech Has Its Use in Modern Medicine

An excellent remedy for black eye is a leech, says a writer in the London Mail. These funny little slate-colored slug-like creatures, which were once so extensively used by doctors for sucking blood from patients, can also suck the black blood from a discolored eye. In a recent fight in London one of the contestants received a terrific punch in the eye, which began to swell rapidly. A leech was bought for a few pence from a neighboring chemist and attached to the eye. The result was that the leech also began to swell rapidly and the congealed blood was drawn from the eye. Leeches, which generally live in streams, ponds, marshes or ditches, have two suckers, one at each end. Most people imagine that they were useful only in the old and more barbaric days of medicine, but a press association reporter found recently that they are still frequently used with great success.

The Enemy's Opportunity

The late Brander Matthews, the famous critic, was condoling with a playwright one day at the Century club in New York.

"Your play is fine," he said. "You know it's fine. I know it's fine. What do we care how hard a lot of disgruntled critics knock it?"

"The world is always like that. Look at Wagner. The greater the masterpieces Wagner turned out, the greater the ridicule that was heaped on him. Stupidity? No. Jealousy? Yes."

Mr. Matthews laughed and ended in his epigrammatic way:

"When you put your best foot foremost all your enemies will step on it."

That's Different

The recruit had been at the naval training station two weeks and had spent most of that time digging ditches, chopping trees and filling depressions. Finally he sought his immediate superior.

"You see, sir," he complained, "when I joined the navy they said I'd see the world, and for two weeks I've been doing nothing but rearrange it."

East Indian Superstition

In the month of May the pipal tree, venerated in India, is said to be in its most benevolent mood; so in Bengal at that season groups of young maidens, all dressed in yellow robes, assemble each morning to pay homage to it. If one of their number happens to become engaged to be married at that time, she is honored with a crown of pipal leaves by her companions, for whom in return she cooks food; and those who partake of that food will also, it is believed, meet with a similar happy fate.

Rare Chinese Pottery

Peachblow ware is the most valuable of Chinese pottery. It belongs to the Chinese potteries which are translucent glazes embracing a type of flame color. These glazes differ from red to a delicate pink, which is peachblow. Peachblow products have realized prize amounts in salesrooms, and many of these pieces are exhibited in museums. They are no longer made. Originally peachblow was made in King-te-Chin and was considered as a perfect example of potter's art.

Airplanes Win in Races With Birds

Tacoma, Wash. — Airplanes can beat birds of all kinds at speed. Several government aviators arriving at the Fort Lewis airfield report races with migratory species of birds, with wild ducks keeping up the highest velocity, flying an average of 50 miles per hour.

Heron and ravens overtaken by the army planes were traveling less than 30 miles per hour. A flock of crows with the higher altitude to aid were making 40 miles. A number of unidentified birds in northern California were flying thousands of feet above the planes.

Birds in trees on hearing the approach of airplanes generally take flight in the same direction and are easily overtaken by the aviators.

Atchison Not President

Some authorities claim that Senator David R. Atchison of Missouri was President for one day, from noon on March 4, 1849, to noon the following day and that he used the seal of office and signed papers as President Polk's term expired at noon on March 4, which was a Sunday, and Taylor was not inaugurated until the following day. Atchison was President pro tempore of the senate and was empowered to act as President in case of a vacancy. As a matter of fact, he was not President, as he never took the Presidential oath that is required by the United States Constitution.

Yes, from flat on its back.

Mt. Clemens, Mich.—A cigarette lighter that refused to work resulted in painful injury to Mr. and Mrs. Paulweit and their son, Robert, all of Detroit, today. Attempting to light a cigarette with an obstinate lighter while wife and son watched with intense interest, Paulweit lost control of the machine which ran into a ditch, breaking the windshield and hurling all three through the broken glass.

It's a question whether the cigarette lighter or the boll weevil has been the most benefit to this country.

Testimony is being heard in the $3,000 damage suit of Miss Margaret Mahoney, 21, of Peekskill, against Thomas O'Brien, 57, of Briarcliffe.

Miss Mahoney says in her complaint that O'Brien was holding Miss Mary King, 19, on his lap at the time of an alleged auto accident.

At 57, holding a girl of 19 on your lap is not an accident. It's a miracle.

Poor Form
Dear Mrs. Baggs:
I attended a wedding recently and among the flowers was an artificial design in the form of a horseshoe. What is correct, or does the time of the year make any difference?

Masha.
The time of the year does make a difference, Masha. Fresh horse shoes are obtainable only in the early spring. At any other time it is better form to give a bouquet of brass knuckles made up to resemble azaleas, or doves. This gives each party to the nuptials the proper recognition.

FRANCE HAS WORST FLOOD IN CENTURY

Beautiful Southland Swept by Deluge.

Washington, D. C.—France's worst flood in a century or more, which drowned scores of people, swept away villages and bridges many hundreds of years old, destroyed vineyards, and put hundreds of square miles of farming land under water, has been centered in the Gascony, Midi and Languedoc regions just north of the eastern Pyrenean mountains in southern France.

This country and its life under ordinary conditions is described in a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society based on a communication to the society from Melville Chater who traveled across the region of the recent floods, through the Lateral and Midi canals, in a canoe.

Moissac, Where Loss Was Heavy. Mr. Chater writes thus of Moissac where a breaking dam caused the death of 150 persons and destroyed a large part of the town.

"We came to Moissac through a pretty countryside of haymaking scenes and red-roofed farmhouses. Here the sinuous canal hardly permitted even a canoe to squeeze between the monster barges pyramided with wine tuns for Bordeaux, the western Midi's wine center.

"Surely it was by a sheer prodigality of the religious art impulse that Moissac, a mere rustic townlet, became dowered with Twelfth century cloisters which rival any in France! Their column capitals, graven with many a scene in which popes and cardinals figure, constitute a veritable church history in stone.

"Long before we gained the Canal du Midi at Toulouse we had learned how vividly the French for 'midday' describes Pyrenean France. One's abiding recollections of the Midi are of the midday—withering heat, whitish, fast-shuttered houses, whitish roads, dust-blanching fields and foliage—all under a cloudless, turquoise sky whose fires light the peasant's bedtime hour.

"At Toulouse we left the Lateral canal and entered the much older Canal du Midi. The Canal du Midi is not only an important commerce carrier; it is among the most beautiful of French waterways. Immediately beyond Toulouse we found ourselves floating through a series of woodland vistas, a ceaseless interplay of lights, shadows and reflections, that changed with each turn of this endlessly twisting stream.

"Soon we left Gascony behind and were well into Languedoc. In the next, measured-out countryside through which we were passing, the day's work began at gray 5 o'clock. Then the first barge locks through, old crones marshaled regiments of geese, and snow-white oxen drink at the canal side. At sweltering noon the clatter of the American baling machine ceases, men put cabbage leaves in their hats, and the oxen stand flank deep in the backwater.

"Field work and locking through continue until 8 o'clock. Then there is an hour of mandolin tinkling and beer drinking in the canal-side cafe whose placard begs 'the amiable clientele to wish well to regulate the consummations before departing.' And so to bed. Such is life in the back-doors country.

Lowliest Stretch.

"Beyond Carcassonne lay the canal's lowliest stretch, with the Black mountain's peaks rising higher and nearer, day by day, as we approached the foothills of the Pyrenees.

"From Carcassonne to Beziers the scene resembled one continuous vineyard 60 miles long.

"Finally our trip came to an end at Certe on the Mediterranean where hotel-fringed quays and busy ship basins lent a Venetian air to the scene. It was evening and we watched the sun sink over the Midi.

"The Midi! It is France's sun-burned southland whose fires coursed in the veins of Bernard de Panassac, highwayman and troubadour; of dard-devil d'Arctagnan; of Cyrano de Bergerac, duelist-poet supreme; of dashing Richard Plantagenet, the most mercurial of England's kings. It is France's music-loving, bullfighting southland, heady as its own vines, whose ragged revolutionaries marching into Paris first popularized the 'Marseillaise.'

"Quick loves, quick hates, quick laughter—of such is the Midi, the Land of the Midday Sun."

Birthplace of Banana

The original home of the banana is believed to have been in India, where it has been cultivated from remotest antiquity. Even before the time of written history, the edible banana had been spread over the Old world by cultivation and other agencies, from southern Asia, westward to Africa and eastward to the islands of the Pacific. Bas-reliefs on the monuments of ancient Assyria and Egypt indicate its early culture. The first known importation of the banana into the United States was in the late sixties. As late as 1870, the banana was looked upon as somewhat of a curiosity in the United States.—Detroit News.

Meatless "Oven Dishes" For These Spring Days

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company.

A GOOD cook never likes to heat up a large oven and then bake only one thing, so today I have carefully planned a complete "oven dinner" that will make full use of every bit of the meal. While the potatoes and the Mince-meat upside-down cake are baking, you can mix the biscuits, and get them ready with the shrimp piquante for their turn in the hot oven. Then you make the vegetable salad, open a jar of sweet mustard pickles and percolate the coffee—and there is your dinner!

The menu given below has several other advantages, too! It is made up of inexpensive, but nourishing foods; and while out-of-the-ordinary, it is not too difficult for even an inexperienced cook to prepare. The whole family also will consider it unusually delicious, without realizing the menu is meatless!

Menu

Shrimp Piquante Baked Potatoes
Sweet Mustard Pickle
Fresh Vegetable Salad
Tomato French Dressing
Hot Biscuits Butter
Mince-meat Upside-Down Cake
Coffee

Shrimp Piquante:—Melt 2 tablespoons butter, add 2 tablespoons flour, and stir until well blended. Add 2 cups milk and cook until thick. Add 2 small cans shrimp and 2 pintatoes, cut fine. Then add ½ teaspoon salt and a sprinkling of nutmeg, (this may be omitted). Measure 2 cups of Rice Flakes and place a layer of the flakes in a buttered baking dish, add a layer of the shrimp mixture, and keep adding alternate layers of the fish and Rice Flakes until all are used. Sprinkle Rice Flakes on top, and dot over with butter. Brown in a hot oven.

Fresh Vegetable Salad:—A large plate or bowl of salad, with chilled vegetables arranged in mounds on crisp lettuce may be used. Individual salads may be arranged in the same way. A pleasing combination of fresh vegetables for such a salad as this, is a mound of freshly cooked cauliflower, a mound of cooked green peas, one of carrots, and a mound of Fresh Cucumber Relish. All of these should be thoroughly chilled, of course. As a dressing for this salad use:

Tomato French Dressing:—Mix 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon Prepared Mustard, a few drops of onion juice and 2 tablespoons Tomato Ketchup. Add 2 tablespoons Pure Vinegar, and 6 tablespoons Pure Olive Oil. Last add 2 tablespoons Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. Shake very thoroughly in a tightly covered bottle, chill and serve. This dressing has a rich tomato color and is excellent with vegetable salad.

Mince Meat Upside Down Cake:—Cream 2/3 cup butter and 1 1/4 cups sugar. Next add 4 well beaten eggs. Add 1 cup milk alternately with 3/4 cups flour sifted with 5 teaspoons baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Stir until a smooth batter is formed. Next, butter a shallow, oblong cake pan, sprinkle it with 1/4 cup sugar and line with 1 cup Pure Mince-meat. Turn the cake batter into the pan, and bake in a moderately hot oven for 45 to 50 minutes. Serve hot with whipped cream, or vanilla or lemon sauce.

Motive Power Supplants

Horse on Modern Farm

New York.—Old Dobbin, the mainstay of power to the American tiller of the soil since the signing of the Declaration of Independence, has finally yielded the place of honor in his last stronghold, the farm, to motive power equipment.

A survey of 1929 conditions on farms announced by the American research foundation shows that of the total horse power hours of work on farms, horses and mules now yield 44 per cent as compared with more than 57 per cent in 1924, while the work done by motive power equipment has increased from slightly more than 42 per cent in 1924 to 56 per cent in 1929.

Perfect Proportions

The Society of Directors of Physical Education set forth the following standard for the perfect man: Height, 63 1/2 inches; breadth of neck, 3.8; girth of neck, 12.1 inches; breadth of shoulders, 14.7 inches; breadth of waist, 8.6 inches; girth of waist, 24.6 inches; breadth of hips, 13.1 inches; girth of hips, 35.4 inches; girth of calf, 13.3 inches; girth of upper arm, 10.1 inches; girth of thigh, 21.4 inches, and forearm, 9.2 inches.

Temperature and Earth

Only a few feet of earth on the very surface is affected by the daily range in temperature. There is then a larger layer upon which neither the surface temperature nor the temperature of the inside of the earth has any effect. Then comes the layer where the temperature of the earth increases one degree for every 50 to 75 feet one goes into the interior of the earth. The cold water comes from the layer which is unaffected by temperatures from within the earth or on the surface of the earth. In some places we have thermo springs where the water comes from a depth below this in the region which is influenced by the heat from within the earth.

Bearded Ladies

Hokkaido, on the island of Hondo, off the coast of Japan, is considered the original home of the "bearded lady." The women are really not bearded, but they wear on their upper lip a tattooed mustache that reaches almost to the ears. The men do not shave or cut their hair after a certain age, hence their beards and bushy heads are conspicuous. The women allow their hair to grow to their shoulders in a fuzzy bob.

MARRIAGE A REGULAR WHIRLWIND AFFAIR

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

IT WAS a standing joke in Northbrook that Eben Strong had been courting Miranda Bartlett for twenty years without having worked up sufficient courage to "pop" the question.

There was nothing whatever to prevent their marrying; Eb was prosperous and Miranda enjoyed a sufficient income to supply not only her needs but her wants as well. This was the state of affairs when Miss Miranda engaged Mary Ellen Rowe from West Farms to assist with the housework.

Mary Ellen heard the story of Eb's courtship over the fence from Mrs. Jewett the morning after her arrival. And the story was confirmed the following Saturday when at eight o'clock she admitted Eb. A week later the unexpected happened—Eb was called west by the death of an uncle, whose heir he was, and for the first time in twenty years Miss Miranda faced the prospect of being callerless Saturday night.

Eb's crony, Ezra Barr, owned the largest and finest grocery store in town. Like Eb, he was a bachelor, and the two had been such good friends that, although Eb had always admired Miranda Bartlett, he had stepped aside when he discovered Eb was in love with her.

"Good morning!" said Ezra to Mary Ellen when she went to the store Wednesday for supplies, and in answer to an inquiry after the health of her mistress, Mary Ellen replied: "Miss Miranda is—" she hesitated, sighed, as if uncertain just what to say.

"Nothing the matter, is there?" he asked anxiously.

"N—o and yes!"

This was puzzling and he questioned further: "What is it?"

"I believe she dreads Saturday night and it has upset her," explained Mary Ellen. "If some one would only drop in, unexpected like, and hide over the lonesome time she wouldn't feel it so much. But who—" she paused, then as if struck by a sudden idea exclaimed: "Why couldn't you come, Mr. Barr? You are Mr. Strong's friend, and I know Miss Miranda would enjoy having you!"

"Do you think so?" he asked with great interest.

"I am sure of it!"

The scheme worked. At eight o'clock Saturday night the door bell rang and Miss Miranda, although surprised, welcomed Ezra cordially. They chatted till nine, then Mary Ellen appeared with a tray of dainty refreshments. The next week the same program was followed, save that the backgammon board was brought out and the two played a number of games.

In settling his uncle's estate Eb was compelled to remain away longer than he had anticipated. As he hated writing letters, he merely sent a picture postcard to Miss Miranda. Two months passed. Ezra Barr was beginning to look forward to the weekly backgammon, to say nothing of Miss Miranda's lively conversation and the home-prepared refreshments.

Miss Miranda had long been contemplating a visit to her old friend, Mrs. Mary Bolter, who lived in Springfield, thirty miles away, and now made up her mind to go. She told Ez of her decision Saturday night, and he remarked that he had business to transact in that city and might as well go at the same time.

Mary Ellen didn't inform Mrs. Jewett exactly what was in the wind, but threw out a few hints, and so it happened Mrs. Jewett was on watch bright and early Monday morning. When she saw a taxi stop at the Bartlett's at a quarter to nine, Ezra Barr got out, disappeared into the house, return presently with a suitcase, then go back after its owner, she changed her dress and started on a tour of discovery. At the station, the train having left, she inquired of the agent how many tickets for Springfield Ezra Barr had bought. The agent, who was well acquainted with Mrs. Jewett's gossiping propensities and didn't mind a little fun, promptly replied: "Two, first-class!"

Just as she was hurrying out the door to spread the news the train from the west pulled in and the first person to alight was Eben Strong! Running up to Eb she cried, excitedly: "Miranda Bartlett and Ez Barr eloped to Springfield this morning on the nine o'clock train! If you don't believe me ask Sam Young!"

Eb dashed into the station, demanded of the agent if it was true that Miss Miranda Bartlett and Ez Barr had gone to Springfield on the nine o'clock express.

"As true as truth!" Sam Young replied.

Eb studied the time table a moment, did a little mental calculating, then ordered a taxi. He told the driver to step on the gas and get him to Springfield in the shortest possible order and he would pay double fare!

Something, he couldn't have told what, compelled him to go straight to Mary Bolter's, the servant, who answered his furious ringing of the bell, never had a chance to announce him, for he rushed into the parlor, and there, with hat and coat still on, for she had only just arrived, sat Miranda talking to Mary Bolter.

"Miranda!" shouted Eb, "are you married?"

"Eb!" cried Miranda in amazement.

"When did you get home?"

"Never mind that, I'm here! Are you married?"

"Why—why—not that I know of!" she replied, wondering if Eb had suddenly gone crazy.

"Will you marry me?"

"Why—why—Eb, this is so sudden!" returned the embarrassed Miranda.

"Yes, or no! Will you marry me?"

"Why—yes, I suppose so! I always expected to some day."

"Come on, then, the taxi is waiting!"

A week later when Mr. and Mrs. Eben Strong returned home Mrs. Strong informed Mary Ellen that her marriage was "a regular whirlwind affair!" Mary Ellen offered no comment, but when her mistress wasn't looking, winked slyly at the old yellow cat.

Science Not Likely to Interfere With Nature

New evidence born of further scientific study is to the effect that it is highly improbable that there is any appreciable amount of available subatomic energy for man to tap; in other words, that henceforth men like the bishop of Ripon, who are living in fear lest some bad boy among the scientists may some day touch off the fuse and blow this comfortable earth of ours to star dust, may go home and henceforth sleep in peace with the consciousness that the Creator has put some fool-proof elements into His handiwork and that man is powerless to do it any titanic physical damage anyway.

This may relieve the bishop of Ripon, but it will disappoint men like Lord Birkenhead who have been hypnotized rather than scared by the prospect of tapping enormous new sources of subatomic energy and who have been reveling in the prospect of some day lying in bed, pressing a button and calling for two atoms' worth of massage.

These men will be obliged to give up their idle Utopian dream and console themselves with the reflection that the chief joy of life after all comes from the striving and the overcoming, that there is much more satisfaction in smashing a resistant atom, as man will doubtless do, than in lying on one's back and watching it explode. One may become blue or happy then, according to his temperament, over the fact that it is now highly improbable that we on the earth shall ever get any appreciable amounts of energy from any other source than the sun, whence we have always obtained our energy, directly or indirectly, in the past, but at any rate that is the indication to which we must adjust ourselves, and it serves at least to remove from the account of science one sin with which she had been charged.—Robert A. Millikan in Scribner's Magazine.

BAD LUCK AND WORSE

Age Necessary to Give Proverbs Full Flavor

Among the best known old sayings are those dealing with sour grapes, looking the gift horse in the mouth, the prophet honored elsewhere than at home, haste and waste, honesty and policy. One might say, indeed, that there are no such things as new proverbs since, like wine, they are in need of age to make them worth while. The very definition of a proverb, "A short, sententious phrase, long current in common speech," shows that age is necessary to produce the lasting flavor.

In Sterne's "Sentimental Journey" occurs one of the most beautiful phrases in the English language, "God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb." But it was not original with Sterne—nor does the Bible have it. The phrase was picked up by a writer, George Herbert, about 1640 and was gleaned by him from a Sixteenth century proverb of the French, who, in turn got it still farther back from some Latin writer. The Latins, again, may have brought it down from Turkish or oriental sources, as these are rich in ancient proverbs.

Every old nation has a wealth of proverbial sayings, one Spanish author alone collecting 24,000. Spain, it is believed, possesses the largest store, though the Arabs, the Persians, the Indians, the Chinese and the Japanese also have unlimited quantities.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Best Spanish Joke

Here is the prize-winning joke in a contest told by the humorous weekly, Buen Humor, of Madrid, Spain:

A citizen appears at a public bath house and asks:

"Can you let me have a bath?"

"You will have to wait; everything is filled," answers a clerk.

"How many bathers are there?"

"Fourteen."

"What! As many as that going to get married tomorrow?"

Hard on One's Constitution

The Statistician—A man is knocked down in a London street every 20 minutes.

Listener—Sorry, old chap, but I really can't swallow that one. No man's constitution could possibly stand it.

Judge Sought Information

Judge—Your wife says you have her terrorized.

Prisoner—Honestly, your honor, I—

Judge—I am not asking this in my official capacity, but as man to man, how do you do it.

A GOOD REASON, TOO

"How did you come to miss your train?"

"Why the darned thing was on time this morning."

The Ostrich

The ostrich may be queer as sin, But do not notice that; For he has put a feather in Full many a lady's hat.

About the Cuckoo

Many of the superstitions connected with the cuckoo related to matters matrimonial. If a maiden ran into the fields early in the morning to hear the first call of the cuckoo, and when she heard it took off her left shoe and looked into it, she would then find a man's hair of the same color as that of her future husband.

The cuckoo is also a bringer of luck—though whether good or bad depends upon circumstances. If, when you hear the cuckoo for the first time in any season, the sound proceeds from the right, you will be prosperous. If, on the other hand, the sound comes from the left, ill luck awaits you.

Convicts Himself

"I despise hypocrites. Take Smithson, for example; he's the biggest hypocrite on earth."

"But you appear to be his best friend."

"Oh, yes; I try to appear friendly toward him. It pays better in the end."

Coerced

"Oh, so Mainwaring is going to be married?"

"Yes, a film actress!"

"Indeed? Couldn't live without her, I suppose?"

"No—well, not without a breach of promise action, anyhow!"

Human Heart Tireless Worker

In a day of moderate activity a man's heart does enough work to lift a man 1,000 feet. Even in a day spent lying in bed the heart does enough work to lift a man weighing 150 pounds up a hill 500 feet high. Thus it adjusts its effort to the needs of the body. During an athletic contest it meets the demand of the muscles for blood by working three and a half times as hard for short periods. Dr. B. C. H. Harvey tells these interesting facts in his lessons in human anatomy in Hygeia, the health magazine of the American Medical association.

JESUS IN THE SHADOW OF THE CROSS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 26:1-46.
GOLDEN TEXT—He went a little farther, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me: nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Proves His Love for Us.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Suffering for Us.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Agony in the Garden.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Gethsemane.

I. Plotting the Death of Jesus (vv. 1-5).

Christ with divine insight predicted not only the fact of His death, but its time and manner. The Jewish authorities in secret conclave were plotting to silence His voice by putting Him to death. In spite of themselves they were moving in the line of God's decree.

II. Mary of Bethany Anoints Jesus (vv. 6-13).

1. The meaning of the act (vv. 6, 7). This anointing occurred when Jesus was at meat in Simon's house. Mary had the keenest apprehension of all the disciples. By sitting at His feet in loving fellowship, she obtained a grasp of truth which none of the other disciples had. She saw that His body was to be broken and that His precious life was to go out. She entered into fellowship with His sufferings and the joy of His resurrection.

2. The indignation of the disciples (vv. 8, 9).

The action of the disciples is in strange contrast with Mary's love. 3. Mary defended by Christ (vv. 10-13).

III. Jesus Betrayed (vv. 14-30).

1. The bargain of betrayal (vv. 14-16). Satan so completely had the mastery over Judas that he sold his Lord for the price of a slave (Ex. 21:32).

2. The betrayal announced (vv. 20-25). While they were eating the Passover Jesus made this announcement. Who knows but that the reason for the announcement at this time was to give Judas an opportunity to repent? The sorrowful question in verse 22 indicates that the disciples did not seem to suspect one another, but directed personal attention to themselves.

IV. The Disciples Warned (vv. 31-35).

This took place as they walked from the upper room to the garden of Gethsemane. Jesus plainly told them, "All ye shall be offended because of me this night," quoting Zechariah 13:7 as proof. Though He told them of the darkness which was gathering, yet He gave them a glimpse of the coming light. He said, "After I am risen again I will go before you into Galilee."

V. Jesus Praying (vv. 36-46).

1. The place—the Garden of Gethsemane (v. 36). Gethsemane means oil press. It was a place some three-fourths of a mile east of Jerusalem, where oil was crushed out of the olives.

2. His companions (v. 37). Peter, James and John. The same disciples who had been with Him on the Mount of Transfiguration are permitted to go with Him into the deep shadow of the Garden. They slept, while He prayed.

3. Jesus sorrowing even unto death (vv. 37, 38).

The cause of His suffering was not primarily physical, but spiritual. The physical is not to be minimized, but the burden of sin—the world's sin—was pressing heavily upon Him. He was being made sin for us (II Cor. 5:21).

4. The prayer itself (v. 39).

"O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me." What was this cup? It was not prayer to be delivered from the cross. The idea that He desired to escape from the cross and thus stop short of His redemptive work is not to be entertained. Redemption through the sacrifice of Himself was the supreme purpose of His coming into the world. The holiness and perfection of His nature moved Him to shrink from the mountain of sin which was resting upon Him. Though the cup was bitter, He bowed in submission to the Father's will.

An Important Power

Man has one power in particular which is not sufficiently dwelt on. It is the power of making the world happy, or at least of so greatly diminishing the amount of unhappiness in it as to make quite a different world from what it is at present. The power is called kindness.—F. W. Faber.

Four R's Needed

We need the four R's, not three: Reading, 'Riting, 'Rithmetic and Religion.—The Burning Bush.

MONGOLIA REPUBLIC GRABS BIG ESTATES

To Be Turned Into Farms Operated by Peasants.

Washington.—Where is Ulan Bator Hoto, capital of one of the six largest republics in the world?

The telegraph and cable may lose the last of the three terms, so that in newspaper date lines the city is likely to make its infrequent appearances as "Ulan Bator." A recent dispatch from this little-known city related that the estates of former princes and noblemen of the "People's Republic of Mongolia" had been confiscated by the government and apportioned among collective farms operated by peasants. A bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society tells of this remote capital and the country of which it is the seat of government.

Tangled Political Situation.

"Ulan Bator Hoto"—City of the Red Heroes—is merely a new name for Urga, which the geography textbooks of a few years ago identified as the administrative seat of a Chinese state," says the bulletin. "The new name was adopted in 1924, when the republic was consolidating its independence, declared in 1921.

"Few countries have ever had such a tangled political situation as Mongolia has had since 1911 when the Chinese empire collapsed," the bulletin continues. "Urga was the residence of one of the three most important 'Living Buddhas' of the Lamaistic world, and the government was, in effect, a theocracy under Chinese control. When the Chinese emperor lost his throne in 1911, the Mongol princes and Lamas expelled Chinese officials, declared their country to be autonomous, and set up an arrangement by which the 'Living Buddha' became both king and national 'god'.

"The influences of the Russian empire increased in semi-independent Mongolia for a time, but with the progress of the World War Mongolia was left without this source of assistance, and in 1919 China again took possession. Refugee 'White' Russians assembled in Siberia following the Bolshevik revolution, and in 1920 and 1921 drove the Chinese from Mongolia and set up a state under Russian influence. By the end of 1921 Soviet armies had driven both White Russians and Chinese from Mongolia and the 'Living Buddha' was again the nominal ruler. In 1924 the 'Living Buddha' died, and the 'Mongolian People's Republic' was proclaimed.

Has No President.

"It is a republic without a president, the supreme authority resting in a parliament of 100 elected members. This parliament, or Great Huraldan, chooses 30 of its members to form the Small Huraldan which normally acts while the larger body is in recess. The Small Huraldan in turn selects five of its members to form a permanent presidium. This government concerns itself not with the whole of the territory of the old Mongolian state, but only with that part of it that was formerly called Outer Mongolia, lying north of the middle of the Gobi desert. Inner Mongolia, the strip about three hundred miles wide, lying next to China proper, is recognized as an integral part of China.

"Little comes to the outside world in regard to the operations of the Mongolian government, but it is believed to be coming more and more under the influences of Soviet Russia and to be shaping its activities in increasing accordance with Soviet principles. One recent indication of such a trend was the report that the estates of nobles, valued at approximately $4,000,000, had been confiscated for the benefit of collectively operated peasant farms.

"The trade of the country was in the past chiefly with China by means of horse-drawn carts and camel caravans from Urga. But Ulan Bator Hoto looks more to the north, and both exports and imports move increasingly between Mongolia and Trans-Siberian Railway towns.

"The Republic of Mongolia has an area of more than a million and a quarter square miles. Its population is estimated to be less than one million, made up roughly of three-quarters of a million Mongols and 100,000 foreigners, mostly Russians. There are said to be fewer than 10,000 Chinese in the Republic now."

Malay Quick to Resent

Hurt to Personal Pride

Personal pride and the emotion of love are the most frequent causes of murders in the Philippines, leading strangers to conclude that life is lightly held here and murder is committed over mere trivialities. The current police calendar would confirm that opinion. Over love, an intermediate school-girl stabbed her classmate, another girl, to death with 46 wounds—vertically cutting the body to pieces, and the juvenile murderess seemed scarcely perturbed when arrested, confessing all. Over personal pride, a peasant slew a household, four persons, man, wife and their two children, with his bolo. Given to drinking, he was making a drunkard's boisterous headway past the house. The man, thinking to shame him, scolded him from the window overlooking the street, and called him "un borachin," a common drunkard. Less than five minutes later he had wiped out the family. A Malay is never to be safely insulted in the presence or hearing of third parties.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

SINGING AT TABLE

TO SING at table is a sign you will be disappointed or that you will have bad luck. This superstition is rather common in the rural districts and is evidently a survival from the ancient conception of a charm as words of power cast in a metrical form to be sung or chanted. This idea has already been noticed in considering the superstition with regard to involuntary rhymes. The majority of these ancient magic songs perhaps were like the paean which celebrated the healing power of Apollo or the healing song chanted by his relatives over the wounded Odysseus. The Runes of the old Scandinavians are good examples of the versified chanted charm—and they were not always beneficent charms by any means. Among the northern races at least witches and warlocks "dropped into poetry," when they wove their hellish spells and cast their baleful charms. Witness the witches scene in "Macbeth." Early man, in short, appears to have conceived the magic power of words as being greatly increased, either for good or evil, when the words were sung in a versified form. There was something mystic about a song: it was not to be lightly dealt with. Now a person who begins to sing at table may, for all you know, be casting a spell upon the food or on the eaters thereof. Some idea of runic incantations appears to linger in the idea that "it is bad luck to sing at table."

ABOUT THE SEWELLELS

PROBABLY every one, when they think it over enough, is thankful not to be anyone or anything else.

Often some one will say: "Oh, dear, if only I had all the money so-and-so has I would be able to do this and that," but if it came right down to it they probably would not be willing to entirely change places.

They would want their own homes, or their own families, or their own little favorite pets or toys or surroundings.

They would want something perhaps they didn't have but they wouldn't be willing to give up what they had in exchange—even though it didn't have any great value or worth according to what the world would think.

It would have value and worth to the one to whom it belonged and that is what counts. In the same way people wouldn't want to be other than people. They wouldn't want to be dogs and lie on the floor.

They wouldn't want to be pussy cats and purr. Boys wouldn't want to be girls and girls wouldn't want to be boys—that is not all the time, though sometimes it does seem as though boys could have more fun.

Mostly, though, girls can play the same games and they have others to enjoy which they couldn't enjoy if they were boys, such as playing house, dressing up as big ladies, and all those nice games.

Now the Sewellels, relations of the mountain beavers, felt much the same way, too.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

THE BAYONET

THE bayonet, which is a sort of blade attached to the end of a rifle, is not a distinctively modern weapon of warfare—far from it.

Indeed, history indicates that the bayonet in practically its identical present-day form has been used for almost three centuries. And if we include the long jousting spear, which undoubtedly furnished the inspiration for the bayonet, its origin dates much farther back.

The term itself, by a peculiar coincidence, has a double origin. The article itself was first manufactured on a large scale in the town of Bayonne, France. And it was the Basque province of Bayonetta whose troops, in the course of one of their spasmodic conflicts with their neighbors during the middle of the Seventeenth century, first improvised the weapon in its present form. Modern bayonets are of various shapes and are often used as trenching tools, as well as for assault.

TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Items of news from town, or vicinity are always wanted for this column. Especially accidents, sales of real estate, fires, important happenings, visits to or from the community, social events, and all matters of general interest to those at home, and away from home.

Bernard Faller, of Oak Garden, West, Va., spent from Friday until Sunday with his aunt, Mrs. N. B. Hagan.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Reaver and son, Ralph, of Camden, N. J., spent the week-end with relatives in Taneytown and vicinity.

R. S. Hill spent Decoration Day in Gettysburg, Pa., and was very cordially entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ohler, formerly from Maryland.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Ridinger and two sons, accompanied by Miss Alice Druck and Stewart Griffith, all of York, Pa., spent Sunday with relatives in town.

Miss Josephine Smith, a typist for the New York City Telephone Co., is spending a two weeks' vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Smith, of Pine Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Orom and son, James, and Mrs. Orell and Wilbur Fair, all of Baltimore, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fair.

Geo. V. Arnold and wife, of Albany, N. Y., visited their home folks, over the week-end. Mr. Arnold has a position with the War Department, in the work of dredging the harbor at Albany.

The Reindollar Company, will put in new machinery at their fertilizer plant, during the next two or three weeks. They are also making arrangements to put steel "I" beams on their coal trestle.

Owing to the unfavorable weather conditions, no peas for canning were planted in this vicinity. At present, the outlook for other canning crops—beans, tomatoes and corn, is very poor; not only in this county, but throughout the State.

The following books have been added to the Taneytown Public Library: "Mystery Ranch" by Max Brand; "The Sun Hawk" by R. W. Chambers; "City of Fire" by Grace L. Hill; "Desert Thoroughbred" by J. E. Gregory; "The Emerald Tiger" by E. Japson.

The Taneytown Grain & Supply Co., is improving its coal dump by tearing out the wooden beams, and laying steel "I" beams in concrete on top of the concrete piers. The work is of a very permanent character, and with the exception of occasional new ties, the track should last almost indefinitely.

This Saturday, Miss Lottie G. Englar, of Westminster, a niece of the Editor, leaves with three friends on an auto trip to California, Oregon and Canada; returning via Yellowstone Park, Chicago, and perhaps Detroit and Niagara Falls. They expect to take the trip leisurely, and be gone about ten weeks.

Orders for job printing came to us, on Tuesday, from customers at Brunswick, Frostburg, Emmitsburg, Sparrows Point, Perryville, Upper Marlboro and Westminster. Not orders for J. P. blanks, or $1.00 offers, but for assorted job work, the one from Brunswick representing a publication for the High School. We mention this in order to show that the job business of our office comes very largely out of the mails, from regular customers at a distance.

That 938 is the population for Taneytown, is a disappointment, as it shows a gain of only 138 in ten years, notwithstanding the extension of the corporate limits. The actual population, based on the reach of protection of the Fire Company, is of course more than that; but the rule is to confine the enumeration to the actual corporate limits. The town has dwellings enough for 1500 people, but the facts are that the town is full of small families, and that there are actually about twenty-five dwellings, or parts of dwellings, occupied by only one person. Anyway, the town has grown, and is now the second in size in the county.

The Memorial Day observance in Taneytown, on the 30th., was attended by more persons than usual. Also, as usual, Taneytown kept up its long-standing reputation for not starting on time, and thereby the paraders missed the President's address, which was made ahead of the time announced. Even the daily papers, on Friday, announced the address for 2:30, as the Record had given it, whereas it actually started at about 2:15. Those who had gathered in the school auditorium heard the address very clearly. The remainder of the program was carried out, as announced, the addresses having been made by Rev. Thos. T. Brown and Rev. Earl Redding.

Miss Helen Bostian, of Baltimore, spent Friday with her mother, Mrs. Charles Bostian.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smeltzer and children, of Silver Spring, Md., visited their relatives here, from Friday until Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Mehring and children, of Silver Springs, Md., and Mrs. David Mehring, of town, spent Saturday with Dr. and Mrs. Curtis Basehoar, at Carlisle, Pa.

Mrs. Jennie Winemiller had the misfortune of stepping on a loose board, on the boardwalk at Mrs. Sallie Slick's, breaking a bone in her ankle and badly spraining her foot.

With getting out an extra sheet for The Record, a rush of job printing, and linotype trouble, our office force may be said to have been quite busy, this week—without counting the effect of the heat.

Mrs. Curtis Bowers, Mrs. George A. Shoemaker, of town; and Albert Galt, of New Windsor, are attending the funeral of Mrs. Fanny (Crouse) Mast, wife of Weber Mast, at Coatesville, Pa., this Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. David H. Hahn, and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Koonz, will leave this Friday or Saturday on an auto trip to California, and the West Coast generally. They expect to spend about two weeks on the way.

Mr. and Mrs. Norval Shoemaker, Jr. and children, of Marysville, Pa. spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Norval Shoemaker, Sr. Miss Bertha Fogle, of Westminster, accompanied them home to spend a week.

Clotworthy Birnie, of Richmond, Va., returned home on Sunday after spending several days with his mother and sister. Mrs. Birnie and son, Clotworthy, Jr., accompanied him home after spending several weeks here and Emmitsburg.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Ott, were: Allen B. Stine, of New York City; William Frailey, Washington; Miss Frances Rowe, of Burnett Sanitarium, Fresno, Cal.; Mrs. D. F. Kine, and Miss Virginia Eyster, Emmitsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hesson attended step services at Hood College, of Frederick, last Sunday. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Doty Robb of Derry, Pa., and Mrs. Raymond Hendrick, of Yonkers, N. Y., who attended the 10th. reunion of their class.

Another interesting game of baseball is scheduled for this Saturday afternoon. The High School and Firemen will again meet, and this time the High School boys say they will surely win, as several of their fast players were out of the game on the 30th. Don't fail to see it!

Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Valentine, of Gettysburg; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Siegrist, of Germantown; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Keyworth, of York; Mrs. Charles LeFevre and Mrs. Thomas, of Washington, D. C., were recent callers on Mrs. Stott and Miss Anna Galt.

The Loysville Orphan's Home Band that was scheduled to be in Taneytown on the 11th., when on its tour of this section, will not be here, as the date is that of the High School Commencement, and the two events would conflict. This likely means that the Band will not be in Taneytown this Summer.

The amount paid to Sherman Gilds for Memorial Day expenses was $42.50, and the expenditure for band and flags amounted to $34.00, leaving a balance of $8.50, which is being carried by the Treasurer of the Camp No. 2, P. O. S. of A., as a Memorial Day fund, for use on future like occasions.

Matthew Harner and his sister, Mrs. Mason, with her husband, motored to Maryland from their home in Chicago, and on Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kump, of Millers, Md., renewed their acquaintance with Taneytown folk. Mr. Harner is one of our Taneytown boys who has made good. He is now a train dispatcher in Chicago.

James Buffington, who underwent a minor operation at Frederick Hospital last week, and a more serious one on Wednesday of this week, died this Friday morning. He apparently withstood the operation very well, but complications ensued and death rapidly followed. We have no information concerning the funeral. His wife is reported to be ill at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eckard and family, entertained on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schwartz and daughters, Kathryn and Doris; Mr. and Mrs. George Briggs and daughters, Dorothy and Annabelle, and son Clair, all of York; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Foreman and son, Dewey, of Frederick; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eckard, of near Littlestown; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Eckard, of Westminster; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Eckard, of Taneytown.

The next meeting of the Home-makers' Club, will be held in the Firemen's building, Friday, June 27, at 8 A. M.

The advertisement for bids for shouldering five miles on the Taneytown-Westminster road, appears in this issue.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wingert and Mrs. Lovina Hahn, of Tyrone, Pa., spent, several days with the latter's sister, Mrs. Martha Fringer.

Mrs. Paul Hartman and children, of Landsdale, Pa., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Little; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Little and children, of Reisterstown, spent Saturday at the same place.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde L. Hesson entertained at dinner, on last Friday evening, the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wingert, and Mrs. Lovina Hahn, of Tyrone, Pa.; Miss Grace Witherow, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Martha Fringer and Miss Mary Fringer, of town.

Visitors and callers at the home of Mrs. Nettie S. Angell, on Sunday, were: Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Buffington, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Groft, Kathleen, Roberta and Donald; Mr. and Mrs. William Buffington and Kathryn, all of York; Mr. and Mrs. Tybertus Groft, Miss Margaret Weaver, Mr. Bernard Groft, of McSherrystown; Mr. and Mrs. John Roddy, Miss Regina Roddy, of Emmitsburg; Roy Garner, Eugene and Donald Garner, of town.

Week-end visitors at Anamary Whimert's, near Kump, were: Mrs. John Stambaugh, sons, Ervin and Hershey, daughters, Gladys and Thelma; Mrs. Chas. Ecker, Mrs. Zack Sanders, daughter Leone, and Walter Brown, of Littlestown; Chester Crebbs, York; Ralph Wantz, Taneytown; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Whimert, daughter, Dorothy; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whimert, daughter, Margaret and son, Fred Jr., York. Sunday visitors were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Mason Johnson, son, John; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Clark and Janet Clark, all of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Freiber, grand-son, Whitley Norris, Hampton, Pa., and Ida Clark, Taneytown.

Is Your Best Friend

IF YOU get into trouble, it will pay you out. If you get sick, it will pay the doctor's and druggist's bills. If you want to take a trip, it will pay your way. If you want to develop your business to take advantage of some good investment, you can do it at a moment's notice.

But the man without money can do none of these. Instead, whenever opportunity is offered or adversity befalls him, he is forcibly embarrassed.

Make your own Tests Feeding will tell

Feeds have individuality - certain characteristics which place them above or below the average.

Some Feeds have spurts of fine quality. Some go plugging along in a medium, never being very bad or very Good. Some fewer in number - set a high standard in the beginning and keep it up year in and year out.

The Key Feeds are individual in that their quality is not only high but invariably high.

Pound for pound - ton for ton, you will find that The Key Feeds are uniform; no variations because we absolutely control our selection of ingredients and our blending process.

When we say make your own tests we mean what we say - make your test with any stock you feed. Cow, Pig or poultry.
