VOL. 37

TANEYTOWN, MARYLAND, FRIDAY, JULY 25, 1930.

NO. 4

DROUGHT AND HEAT CONTINUES SERIOUS.

May Break all Records for length and Damage Done.

The rather brief, but heavy rain, on Tuesday afternoon was attended locally by a considerable blow, but hardly of a well defined storm character. It was sufficient, however, to damage buildings in the neighborhood between Taneytown and Middleburg. Losses are reported to buildings owned by Louis Reifsnider, Russell Feeser, Benton Brining, Carroll C. Hess, Charles Sell and LeRoy Reifsnider. None of the losses were extensive.

In addition to damage to buildings, some corn fields were considerably hurt. Many trees were either uprooted or broken, and metal roofs offered their usual easy mark to the winds. On the whole, the damage, while not severe anywhere in the section, was considerable as a whole. Hopes that this good shower would soon be followed by more, have not yet been fulfilled, nor has the heat materially diminished. The situation is therefore most serious, and hopes for anything like an average corn crop have about disappeared, so far as Carroll County is concerned.

In Baltimore, the storm was real and hundreds of losses resulted, as well as one death. There was also damage by lightning. The great heat from which the country has been suffering for the past two weeks, has been general east of the Rocky mountains, the far west suffering to a somewhat greater extent than the far east. Perhaps the hottest section of all was with St. Louis as a centre; but rainfall has also been more prevalent in the west.

The heat and drought taken together has been the most severe for many years, and damage to corn and other summer crops has been almost beyond calculation. Heat records from 103° to 108° have been very general, and the number of deaths from heat prostration have been numerous, especially in the large cities. Unofficial heat records have been reported as high as 112°.

The loss to the corn crop is placed at 50,000,000 bushels. The heat in Missouri and in Indiana was exceeded only in 1901. The oats crop is a heavy loser, as well as cotton. Much depends, of course, on future weather conditions. A general estimate on the potato crop has not yet been issued.

GIRL SCOUTS CAMPING TRIP.

(For the Record.)

The Girl Scouts returned home on Monday after a three-day camping trip at "Lake View," Lewistown, Md. All enjoyed the outdoor life along the lake. The water was very much in demand during the hot weather, and swimming, bathing and boating were the favorite sports of the girls. Most of the girls learned to swim, or to be a good sport at taking a "ducking."

Mrs. Merle Ohler and Mrs. Charles Rohrbach were in charge of the camp. The girls in the camp were: Doris Sell, Betty Ott, Jean Frailey, Alice Riffe, Clara Bricker, Naoma Riffe, Mary Edwards, Mary Snyder, Ludine Bankard, Margaret Reindollar, Virginia Bower, Cathryn Reindollar.

Mr. Ohler and Mr. Rohrbach accompanied their wives and helped to set up camp. Mr. Ohler treated the girls to a watermelon party, on Saturday night, and Sunday evening ice cream, cake and candy was served in honor of Clara Bricker's birthday. Quite a number of home folks visited the girls on Sunday.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS AT PEN-MAR, AUG. 7.

The reunion exercises will be held in the auditorium at Pen-Mar Park, at 1:30 P. M., and the complete program will be announced later. As usual this will be a family reunion of the Knights and their friends from all sections of Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

This year the trip will be made by buses and autos which will enable the members and their friends to view the beautiful mountain scenery enroute and enjoy the cool exhilarating mountain breezes and the latest amusement devices at Pen-Mar Park.

PILGRIMAGE AND MEMORIAL SERVICE NEXT SUNDAY.

A Pilgrimage to Sun Rise United Brethren Cemetery will be conducted next Sunday afternoon, meeting at the church in Harney at 2.00 P. M. At the cemetery an opportunity will be given those who wish to decorate the graves, after which a brief memorial service will be held.

Then returning to the Church the main memorial service will be held. An address will be made by the pastor Rev. Earl E. Redding.

EARL E. REDDING, Pastor.

THE DUTTERA REUNION.

The Dutterra family reunion, notice of which appeared in The Record, last week, is to be held Wednesday, Aug. 6, at Hyattstown, and not Hyattsville, as stated. Hyattstown, is ten miles from Frederick, on the highway to Washington.

INFORMATION AS TO FIRES

Telephone Exchanges do not Give Their Location.

Effective, August 1, the Westminster Telephone Exchange will not give information to the public regarding the location of a fire. At a conference between the telephone executives and the Westminster Fire Department it was brought out that at the time an alarm of fire is sounded, the telephone exchange is unnecessarily burdened by hundreds of individuals calling up, requesting the location of the fire and other details.

This rule has been in force at the Taneytown exchange for several years, and is likely general throughout the county. A little careful thought on the part of the public will show the justice of the rule, and how the giving of such information to all inquirers would simply "clutter up" the service.

We suggest, however that Fire Companies should observe a code in striking the alarm for the firemen to respond. It is said that when some firemen know in advance that a fire is "out of town" they are not so likely to respond to the call, but we doubt whether this result is at all general with loyal firemen.

On the other hand, the Fire Companies are supported by the public, largely, and it seems to us that this same public, living in towns, should be given the information in the alarm, that the fire is, or is not, a local one.

HOTEL BRADDOCK STONE GIVEN TO THE COUNTY.

An interesting item concerning road construction in Frederick county, is the fact that the stone has been given the stone in the walls and about the ruins of Hotel Braddock, which was burned some time ago. County workmen have been engaged in crushing the stone, which is expected to be completed Tuesday, a total of about 600 tons being derived for county roads by that means.

When the stone in the walls and about the hotel at Braddock has been crushed and removed, it will be used in improvement work on public roads in various sections of the county and will represent a saving of about $700, the estimated cost of buying the stone it was stated by one of the commissioners, who expressed pleasure over the fact that the stone had been given for county use. The county workmen first went to the site last week and began the process of obtaining it from the walls.

NEWSPAPER IDEALS

Every newspaper publisher wants his newspaper to be the best. The difficulty is in the differences of opinion as to what constitutes the best newspaper. An editor asked his readers how he could make his paper ideal, with this result:

"Cut out the crimes, the murders, the sensational divorce case reports," said the nice people.

"Cut out the accidents, the railway and steamship disasters," said the people who "couldn't bear" to read such things.

"Cut out the politics," said the old-fashioned woman. "I don't understand it and haven't time for it."

"Cut out the so-called funny pictures," said the careful mother. "Such pictures aren't funny, and they're bad very bad, for children."

"Cut out pious editorials," snapped the man who merely scans the headlines. "Nobody reads 'em nowadays."

"Cut out the woman's page," said the female with the strong mind. "It's mushy, trashy, trivial, an insult to our sex."

"Cut out sports and theaters," said the intellectual. "Both are bad influences, and both have received altogether too much notice."

"Cut out—" began another and still another, but the publisher beat them to it.

"Stop, all of you," he cried. "On second thought, I have decided to cut out myself. It is no use trying to publish the ideal paper until I come across the ideal reader."

HESS-BUSHEY REUNION.

The Hess-Bushey Reunion will be held on Wednesday, July 30th., 1930, in the grove, adjoining the Piney Creek Presbyterian Church. A basket luncheon will be served. The clan please take notice.

THE FARM BOARD AND ITS CRITICS.

Chairman Legge Issues Statement to the Newspapers.

"The Farm Board was created to assist the farmer and not for politics. From now until November politicians will be so busy saving the farmer it might be just as well to take a vacation, although if we are expected to resume that burden after election, perhaps a little progress can be made by carrying on in the meantime.

"I notice the Democratic National Committee has adopted as a slogan, 'The failure of the Farm Board.' This seems to be copied almost word for word from the grain dealers and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Concurrently I notice that certain of the Chamber of Commerce, particularly in some of the grain markets, are making an effort to substantially increase their dues for the avowed purpose of propaganda to protect their present position. Certain interests which seem to feel they have a God given right to handle the products of the farmers, and who have accumulated immense fortunes in doing so, may be depended upon to continue their fight against most any program directed toward improving the farmer's position, and doubtless will be easy picking for any politician of any party who is willing to play their game.

"However, farmers as a class are doing a lot of thinking for themselves, these days, and many of them seem to be aware that their present unhappy condition is a result of long years of unregulated production, while they listened to gigantic schemes that high-powered statesmen have had to offer, rather than of any action of this Board.

"Present and future orations, written by the Democratic National Committee and fathered by various orators, to broadcast the alleged failures of the Farm Board, are only more of the same kind of political bunk by virtue of which the farmer arrived at his present position.

"The farmer's problem is an economic one that will never be solved by any political remedies. If the present drought continues much longer, there will probably be a large reduction in the wheat surplus due to substitution for feed grains. Probably these politicians who are blaming the Board for declining prices brought about by excessive production, will try to give the Board credit for any relief from the wheat surplus brought about by the drought—and with equal reason.

"Such a happening, however, will not affect the fundamental trouble. The one thing that would do the most good to improve the condition of the wheat grower is recognition on the part of the buying public that the grower himself is ready to take the necessary action to prevent a recurrence in the future, and thus put an end to the continued accumulation of stocks which has been going on for the past four years.

"Only through collective action can growers accomplish this result. In the year since it was created, the Farm Board at all times has placed first emphasis on the importance of farmers organizing so they will be in position to control the production and marketing of their crops. In that time we have given growers every possible assistance authorized by the Agricultural Marketing Act in developing their co-operative program, and propose to continue doing so notwithstanding attacks from politicians and others who, in the guise of helping the farmer, but in reality to promote their own selfish ends, are trying to discredit the effort to put agriculture on a sound financial basis."

NAVAL TREATY RATIFIED.

After all of the speech-making by the few that opposed the Naval Treaty, and after forcing the necessity of a special session and two weeks expense of it, the Treaty was passed, on Monday evening, by a vote of 58 to 9. Fourteen reservations were voted down. The only reservation passed was one by Senator Norris, invalidating and secret agreements, or understandings, not clearly included in the treaty itself.

Two Democrats, Walsh, Mass., and McKellar, Tenn., voted against the treaty, and seven Republicans: Bingham, Conn.; Hale, Maine; Johnson, Calif.; Moses, New Hampshire; Odie, Nevada; Pine, Oklahoma; and Robinson, Indiana.

An effort was made to have some of the President's nominations concerned, but the Senate was not in the humor for it, and adjourned.

GETTYSBURG WATER SUPPLY BECOMING SCARCE.

The Marsh Creek water supply of Gettysburg, is reported the lowest it has been for 18 years, but was helped to some extent by the rain of Tuesday evening. Last week, the water company foreseeing a possible water famine urged persons whose water was not metered to cease washing automobiles and sprinkling lawns and gardens while on Tuesday the request was changed to an order.

While the Marsh Creek supply is low, the purity of the water is being maintained, thereby setting at rest any fear of an epidemic of disease.

ENGLAR FAMILY REUNION.

The 4th. Annual Reunion of the descendants of Philip Englar, 1736-1817, will be held as usual at the Pipe Creek Church of the Brethren, near Uniontown, on Sunday, Aug. 10th.

BOARD OF EDUCATION MEETS.

Not to Purchase Land for Union Bridge School Now.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was called to order in the office of the Board, Tuesday evening, July 22, at 7:15. All members were present.

After a very comprehensive and serious discussion, Commissioner Koons offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted; That it was the sense of this Board not to purchase land for the Union Bridge School at this time, and that all parties interested in this matter be duly notified.

The Board reconsidered its action of June 26 with reference to accepting a warrant from the County Commissioners for the construction of a sanitary system at the Westminster High School. The Board agrees, in this case, to accept warrants from the County Commissioners for one year for the amounts of the contracts, providing the contractors will take these warrants.

Authority was given to remove cloak rooms in four rooms at the Mt. Airy School, to increase the size of the rooms for high school purposes, and to purchase lockers for the necessary convenience of the children.

An examination was made of the bids for coal, according to specifications sent out July 10, and the contracts authorized to be awarded.

The Board adjourned at 9:00 P. M.

"INSIDE" INFORMATION FOR WOMEN.

Sweet corn loses its sugar content very quickly after removed from the stalk and when possible should be picked only an hour or so before it is to be cooked.

The recent discovery that ripe olives contain vitamin A suggests using them more frequently in the menu. Ripe olives are excellent when added to sandwich fillings.

The house centipede is not a true insect, but a species of "thousand legs." It aids in keeping down the number of such pests as house flies, roaches, moths, and other insects. Centipedes seldom bite but should they do so, dress the wound with household ammonia. To get rid of centipedes, kill all individuals that appear and kill any moist places around pipes and so on with pyrethrum powder.

Fresh tomatoes may be filled with almost any left-over meat or vegetable for a stuffed tomato salad. A filling made of chopped meat, such as chicken, veal, or tongue, cooked peas, chopped pickle or cucumber, celery, and salad dressing, is excellent. After the tomatoes have been peeled and scooped out they should be seasoned inside with salt, turned upside down to drain, and placed in the icebox until time to fill and serve them.

To make white icing which never fails, put into a double boiler one cup of sugar, 4 tablespoons cold water, 1 egg white, not beaten, and 1/2 teaspoon of salt. Have the water in the lower part boiling. Commence beating the mixture at once with a Dover beater and beat constantly while it cooks for seven or eight minutes. It should then look just like ordinary boiled frosting and should be almost thick enough to spread. Take it from the stove, add 1/2 teaspoon of vanilla and continue to beat about 5 minutes or until it has thickened.

Many people, particularly those who are acquainted with the use of honey in the granulated form, prefer granulated honey to liquid honey, and there is always a good market for the former, say agriculturists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Granulated honey can be used very much like butter, can be spread readily, and the stickiness, to which so many people object, is obviated when honey is in this condition. Almost all honeys have a tendency to granulate after being removed from the hive. Alfalfa honey in particular granulates quickly after being extracted.

BAIR FAMILY REUNION.

The George Bair, Sr., family reunion was held at Christ Church grove, last Sunday, a very large attendance being present, notwithstanding the heat. The following program was rendered; Singing, America; prayer Rev. A. M. Hollinger; selection by Bair clan orchestra; address, Rev. A. M. Hollinger; selection by orchestra, Harvey E. Bair, leader; address, David H. Bair, president; German reading, David H. Bair; duet, Dorothy and Catherine Brumgard; solo Dorothy Brumgard.

The following officers were elected, president, David H. Bair; vice-presidents, A. E. Bair, H. Clinton Bair, Velvert Wintrod, John Throne, Geo. Brumgard; secretary John L. Bair; treasurer William H. Bair; historian, Harvey E. Bair, Arthur E. Bair, and Clayton Bair.

The reunion next year will be held in Christ Church grove, near Littlestown, the third Sunday in July.

LEGISLATURE TO MEET IN EXTRA SESSION

Jewish Holidays on Dates for Registration of Voters.

Last Saturday, Governor Ritchie issued a call for a special session of the legislature, the object of the session being to provide four new days for the registration of voters this year, as the regular dates, Sept. 23 and 24, and October 7 and 8, fixed by law for Baltimore city, fall on two important Jewish religious holidays, which would prevent orthodox Jews from registering. The events are Rosh Hoshana, in Sept. and Feast of the Tabernacles, in October.

The date fixed for the special session is July 29, and it is expected to be limited to this one day, and to this one particular object. The cost for one day's session is estimated at over $8000., but the Governor considers this not too much, when placed against the alternative of disfranchising a large group of citizens, because of their religious convictions. The Governor gives the following as his main reasons for the special session.

"I have decided to call an extra session of the Legislature as the only means of enabling a large group of our citizens to retain their right to vote. This right is the highest privilege of citizenship, and the State should not permit a considerable body of the people to be disfranchised by circumstances wholly exceptional and unforeseen, and entirely beyond their control.

By a remarkable coincidence the four days fixed by law for this year's new general registration in Baltimore City fall on days which are sacred to Jewish people. The Jewish New Year is observed on September 23rd. and 24th., and the Feast of the Tabernacles on October 7th. and 8th.

I have with great care tried to ascertain the effect of this. According to reliable estimates there are from 26,000 to 30,000 voting Jews in Baltimore, and of these it is estimated that 20,000 or more are Orthodox. The others are Reformed.

On the first registration day, Sept. 23rd., no Jew, Orthodox or Reformed, would be permitted to register by the tenets of his faith. On the three remaining registration days, September 24th., October 7th. and October 8, the Reformed Jews could register. The Orthodox Jews however, could not register at any time on any of these days except between dary and 10 o'clock P. M., standard time, on September 24th. and October 8th.

This would give the Orthodox Jews about three hours on each of these two nights in which to register, or about six hours in all. Under the most favorable conditions not more than 20 persons can be registered an hour in any precinct, so that in six hours 120 persons would be the maximum. There are a great many precincts in Baltimore in which several hundred voting Orthodox Jews reside, and it is perfectly obvious that six hours are nowhere near enough to register these 20,000 or more persons, large numbers of whom live in communities.

In addition to this, there are around 400 Jewish election officials in Baltimore City, and a great many registration offices are in Jewish homes. This is necessarily so in many precincts of the city, especially as the officials are required to live in the precincts they represent and the registration offices must be located within their respective precincts.

None of these registration officials, whether Orthodox or Reformed, could serve at all on the first registration day, September 23, and no Jewish home could be used at all that day for registration purposes. On the remaining three days, no Orthodox Jew would be permitted by his faith to serve as a registration official or to use his home as a registration office, except after dark on the night of the second and fourth days."

COUNTY MAN PARDONED.

Thirty-five paroles and pardons have been approved by Gov. Ritchie, to take effect August 1, of which, one is from Carroll County, the case being stated, as follows:

"Charles Harris—sentenced by the Circuit Court for Carroll County to one year in the House of Correction for stealing an antique clock which was sold for about $100. Four and a half months of his term remain. Reputable citizens in his community urge clemency. It was his first offense and I think he should have another chance."

Ignorance is a danger that all should shun.

MARYLAND'S BIG TREES.

A Contest of Considerable Interest to Marylanders.

The State Department of Forestry has sent out a last call to its six hundred field men, including the District Foresters and Forest Wardens throughout the State, to scout their sections for big trees in the statewide tree contest started a few years ago by the Maryland Forestry Association, and which is still open. The object of the contest and the purpose of the search is to discover, measure, and photograph the biggest trees of each species growing within the State, then, as a permanent record, a description of the largest tree of each kind, with a picture, if possible, will be published in a book that is now being prepared by the Forestry Department on the noted trees of Maryland.

Anyone who has a very large tree of its kind, whether native or foreign species, should send in the measurements to the Forestry Department, Baltimore, so as to get it in the record. Three measurements are required:

1—The circumference, in feet and inches, around the trunk of the tree at a point 4 1/2 feet above the ground.

2—The greatest diameter of the spread of the crown in feet.

3—The height of the tree in feet.

It should be noted that the biggest trees of the species that ordinarily do not reach large size rats just as high as the big trees of the big species. Take, for example, the boxwood which ordinarily is a bush—one was found in the vicinity of Vinton, Somerset County, that measured 3x8-in. in circumference at 4 1/2-ft. from the ground and had a spread of crown of 19 feet and measured 28 feet in height. Likewise the alder, which is generally a bush growing in swampy places, was found of tree size near Oakland, measuring 11 inches in circumference at 4 1/2 feet, 8 feet spread of crown, and 21 feet in height. Also the holly, which ordinarily does not reach tree size, was found, in the case of a tree near Easton, to have attained the enormous size 7x10-in. in circumference at 4 1/2 feet, with a spread of 42 feet, and a height of 53 feet.

Maryland is noted for its big trees and those already measured make a large and distinguished collection of something over 600 trees, comprising 110 species, but there are many more to be heard from.

So far there have been no big trees recorded from Carroll County. There certainly must be many trees of large size for their species in your county. The official cards for recording large tree measurements will be sent upon request to the State Department of Forestry, 1411 Fidelity Building, Baltimore. Have some pride in the trees of your county. Tell us the largest trees that you know, and interest your friends and neighbors in this contest.

The representatives of the Forestry Department will make official measurements and photographs wherever practicable. The closing date of the contest is January 1, 1931, and each person who reports what proves to be the biggest trees of its kind will be rewarded with a handsomely engraved certificate.

THE EXCLUSIVE CLOUD CLUB.

What is known as the Cloud Club, sixty-six stories up in the Chrysler Building, New York, is the most exclusive, as well as most expensive luncheon club in the world. Only one woman, the telephone operator, is allowed there, and it is her first duty to see that there are no others admitted—not even wife, mother or sweetheart.

The Club occupies the three top floors of the building—66th., 67th., and 68th.—and its furnishings are the most modest in appearance, and most expensive in cost, that can be secured. The dining rooms, bath rooms, barber shop, library, and a soft drink bar, are most exclusive in their appointments, and are open only during luncheon hours.

Cigars are said to cost $2.00 each. The membership, of course, is very exclusive.

313 INFANTRY MEMBERS.

The former members of the 313 Infantry are planning to hold a reunion in Baltimore, Sept. 27, 1930, and are very anxious to get in communication with all former members of the Regiment. Unfortunately, there are no complete rosters of the Regiment, and we would be very grateful if you would kindly assist us by publishing this fact and asking all former members of the 313 to send name and address to Col. C. B. Sweeney, 313 Club, 924 St. Paul St., Baltimore, Md.

The stronger our good resolutions, the stronger are our temptations to break them—or, do they only seem so?

The chap who is always ready to hand out his opinion seldom has an opinion worth handing out.

Newspaper advertising has been one of the greatest factors in creating the tremendous demand on the part of the public for commodities of a popular make.

A newspaper paragraph writer, who aims to be wise as well as humorous, says: "If the manufacturers of bootleg liquor would pledge themselves to use wheat exclusively, the problem of the wheat farmer would cease to exist."

Another wise (?) crack is: "The farm situation is so acute that some of the Iowa farmers who have been residing in Long Beach and at other California points may have to return to their homes."

WE PICK THE LAWS WE WILL HAVE ENFORCED.

There is a widespread unrest—or a condition of unrest—in this country, that needs analysis, and treatment. It is hardly enough for us to preach and teach "good citizenship" in general terms—we need to define it, and as soon as we attempt to do that, we interfere with individual rights—personal liberty—and raise a storm of protest.

So, we must ask the questions; What is law? What is justice? How cure the unrest? Is it not the fact that from—let us say—our Senators, on down to the average citizen, we are demanding the right to obey only such laws as we find it convenient to obey? That, so far as our interests are concerned, we insist on carrying out certain laws, and conveniently keep quiet about obedience to certain other laws? Do we not act out this plan, pretty generally, and think nothing of it?

This is a pretty long-standing habit, because it is born of dishonesty, envy, selfishness, and a lot of other inborn traits, dating back to Adam; but is not true that we are doubling up on our selfishness, and letting down on our observance of the Golden Rule?

The whole world is striving to evade laws, and to side-step authority that is over us. We say in our minds—Who is the President, or the Governor, or even the Sheriff, that he should interfere with our desires, and make us obey? We see only the mere man, and not the majesty of law and justice represented by the man.

And, when official force is handed out to us, it is something to be fought, because—it interferes with OUR plans, OUR opinions, and OUR desires. Such verdicts may be well enough for just common people, but not for US.

SECONDARY ROADS—WHEN?

We are so busy providing the funds for building main roads, that improving what are called "secondary, farm to market" roads, that are not a part of inter-state or inter-county systems, are hardly thought of. Important as these roads are to many, in every community, and representing as they do, the needs of thousands of taxpayers, they will be very slow coming, if left to present road-building plans; in fact, for every "country road" to be improved with the same grade of roads being extensively built now, seems to be well-nigh an impossibility.

Considering that the Federal government is now contributing largely to "secondary, farm to market" roads it would seem that the government should have a more definite plan for, and more "say," in the selection of these roads than at present. We hear it said, slightly at times, when a small group of citizens makes an effort to get a road appropriation, that the proposed road "does not go anywhere." But this is not true, as all of these roads go to farms lying back off main traveled roads, and these farms are very decidedly "somewhere" for the farm owners.

Tourists may not be interested in them; they may not be of value as bus lines; they may not be direct routes to some large city; but they are part of the big problem facing agriculture and the immense population represented by it; and they are of first importance to many thousands who, as a class, furnish a big bulk of the tax total.

So, the road building of the near future, if it is to be extended fairly, must take greatly more account of "secondary" roads than is being taken at present. It has been estimated that 75 percent of our American farmers are still cut off from good "farm to market" roads but live along roads that are almost impassable during several months in the year, and made "impassable" to a large extent by heavy trucks and other motor vehicles that use the hard roads when they can, but "tear up" the dirt roads when they must. All of which seems to indicate that the road-making of the future will have its new problems, and that the weaker influences need help in order to secure their just dues

COURTS INSIST ON CARE BY DRIVERS.

At the recent meeting of the American Motorist's Association in Washington, it was asserted that 30,000 died last year, in this country, as a result of automobile fatalities, that means an increased responsibility which the courts are placing upon the motorist to a large extent, according to a survey made by the Motorists Association, showing the trend of Judicial thought.

The following are a few of the recent cases, condensed by the survey, showing the trend of current court decisions, according to President J. Borton Weeks:

"An automobile driver, on meeting or passing a street car which has stopped, must anticipate that some of the passengers who have alighted may pass from behind the car to the other side."

"Where a traffic officer, after beckoning a deaf pedestrian to cross the street, signaled a truck driver to proceed, and the truck driver pursuant to the signal proceeded into intersection and struck the pedestrian while proceeding slowly and with nothing to obstruct his view of the pedestrian, a verdict finding the truck driver negligent was warranted, notwithstanding the officer's signal to the motorist to proceed."

"The statute giving the motorist on the right the right of way does not warrant drivers in taking close chances. If the driver of an automobile approaching a street intersection sees a vehicle approaching at a fast rate of speed so that there is reasonable danger of a collision, if both proceed, then it is his duty to exercise due care so as to avoid a collision."

"Evidence that an automobile driver, while traveling about twenty miles an hour, took his eyes off the road and lowered his head in order to ascertain the time from his wrist watch by the dashboard light, was sufficient to warrant a finding of gross negligence."

"An automobile driver who is blinded by the lights from another vehicle so as to be unable to distinguish an object in front of him must, in the exercise of reasonable care, stop the automobile in order to avoid injuring pedestrians."

"Where pedestrians may appear at any time in the highway the duty of the operator to watch for them is constant, and to look too late to avert an accident is to not look at all."

"That motorists are being held to a higher degree of accountability, while no criticism of the judiciary, should serve as a prophetic warning to motordom."

QUALITY OF CITIZENSHIP.

"Citizenship is and always has been a tremendous asset in governmental affairs. The higher and finer the quality of citizenship in a country the better the government and the greater the progress and development and well-being of the nation," writes the Lieutenant Governor of Nebraska, George A. Williams, in the United States Daily. He continues, in part:

"In the last analysis, a community, a state, or a nation is just what its people make it. This is particularly true in a representative government like ours, where the people have the right to make and alter their government and to choose their rulers and make their own laws."

"How important it is then that we give heed to the character of our citizenship and seek to develop the qualities of patriotism and loyalty in the truest sense of the terms. . . . America should guard well the foundation pillars upon which the Republic is builded. I speak advisedly when I say America needs today a new baptism of citizenship. And another has said, not a mere sprinkling at the altar but a regular orthodox immersion in deep running water."

"The foundation of our Government is the Constitution. All the power and strength and beauty of this, the greatest Republic of all ages, together with our rights and liberties, can only be preserved to us by a sacred regard for and a faithful observance of the principles of the Constitution and the laws founded thereon."

"There is too much disregard for law in our land. There is too much crime, and too many crimes going unpunished. No government is secure when its citizens exercise a choice as to the laws they shall or shall not observe."

"In our courts there are too many lawyers who ignore the fundamentals of our Constitution—justice and equity—and who prostitute their profession in their efforts to save criminals from deserved punishment."

THE WORLD'S LONGEST HIGHWAY.

A trip by automobile from South America to the United States today is such an adventurous accomplishment that it commands general attention. Long stretches of undeveloped country must be negotiated on such a journey. An ax with which to carve a pathway through the jungle is an indispensable adjunct of the adventurer's equipment. But the day is coming when the nations of this hemisphere will be linked with broad smooth highways. The United States is now setting in motion a farce that will speed the dawn of that day.

Seven years ago, at the fifth international conference of American states at Santiago, Chile, a resolution was adopted suggesting the desirability of a Pan-American highway conference "to study measures best adapted to developing an efficient program for construction of automobile highways within the different countries of America and between these different countries." In 1924, 38 leading government engineers, economists and other officials representing 20 Latin-American countries visited the United States, made an inspection tour of American highways and, subsequently, organized the Pan-American conference for highway education. They also resolved themselves into a committee on program for the first Pan-American highway congress, which met at Buenos Aires in 1925.

From these beginnings there developed in Latin America a strong sentiment for road improvement and for the construction of an international highway linking the capitals of the nations of the Americas. Finally, in 1929, the Pan-American Highway Congress adopted a program calling on all the South American countries to prepare complete studies of their highway system plans in order to meet the needs of intercommunication of their political subdivisions and to provide convenient connections with the highway systems of neighboring countries. The program suggested was given impetus by a resolution adopted by the United States Congress a few months prior to the 1929 meeting, authorizing an appropriation of $50,000 to enable the Secretary of State to co-operate with the several governments, upon their requests, in the reconnaissance surveys to develop the facts as to the feasibility of possible routes, the probable cost, the economic service, and such other information as would permit a visualization of the whole undertaking of financing and building an inter-American highway.

In accordance with the resolution, engineers of the Bureau of Public Roads are now en route to Panama, where they will open a field office to co-operate with South American governments in the work preliminary to construction of a highway link between the capitals of the American nations. Guatemala, Costa Rica and Panama have bespoken their assistance, and South American nations, are expected to follow suit. The projected highway, when completed, will be the longest, most picturesque, and potentially the most important thoroughfare in the world.—Washington Post.

Daddy Still Pondering About Buying That Baby

This little miss was quite young, as may be seen from this true story. Neighbor friends had a new baby in which she was keenly interested. She ran in to see it as often as she could and she kept telling the fond parents that she wanted one, too.

One day she came home in a state of high excitement.

"Mamma," she called, "have you got a dollar?"

"No, my dear," her mother said, "I haven't got a dollar. What do you want a dollar for?"

But the child would not tell, although she kept insisting that she wanted a dollar very badly.

"Then you'll have to ask your daddy," said her mother.

But daddy insisted on knowing all about it and finally the story came out.

"I told 'em," said the child breathlessly, "that I wanted a little baby just like theirs and they told me there was a place up street where I could get one for a dollar down an' a dollar a week. Now come along with me quick, daddy, an' let's get one. And you know it's just wonderful. If you pay your dollar down and then don't pay your dollar a week they won't take your baby away from you because they're glad to get rid of it."

Daddy is now trying to think of a good comeback for his neighbor friends.—Springfield Republican.

Tea for Long on Sale by Ship's Chandleries

Some drinkers are habitually referred to as "hard drinkers" and it might have had a certain verisimilitude had, at some time, hard liquor been dispensed in hardware stores. But just what verbal, or spiritual, relation there can be found between a hardware shop and so soft a beverage as tea we cannot imagine. And yet on high authority it is stated that in early days tea was regularly stocked by hardware dealers and constituted a fast-moving article of merchandise for such establishments. This custom, we are told, existed in some places as late as 1875. Our own theory is that just as guava jelly and paste have long been sold by tobacconists, because both came most often from Cuba, so it is likely that it was not exactly hardware stores but their close relations, the ship's chandleries, that sold tea, this because ship men from the Orient, bringing in packages of the leaves, swapped them at the chandler's for more useful articles, and the chandler sold the stuff at a profit.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Desire for Beauty Met in Decoration of Wood

From remotest ages man has expressed in wood carving his yearning for beauty, writes Tom Gill in American Forests.

Man numbers among his earliest instincts an impelling desire for beauty—a groping toward the creation and possession of beautiful things, Mr. Gill says. Two materials man found ready at his hand in which to fashion and perpetuate his instinct—clay and wood—the woods of the world with their varying textures and colors.

"But clay, even with its abundance and ease of molding, came to serve little more than utilitarian ends among the early peoples," Mr. Gill writes. "It did not lend itself to the creation of beauty. It was not durable. So it is in wood that we find here and there the first scattered remnants of man's artistic beginnings."

"From the remotest ages the decoration of wood has been a foremost art. For the tendency of the human race is to ornament every article of use, the American Indian his pipe, the Polynesian his paddle. A primitive art then thus became imposed upon a medium that lay abundantly at hand—a material that has always been a friendly and quite familiar thing."

"Jed" Smith Stands High in Ranks of Pioneers

When the roll is called up yonder Jedediah S. Smith, pioneer explorer of the Oregon country, will be on hand, writes Fred Lockley in the Portland (Ore.) Journal. With his inseparable companions—his rifle and his Bible—he traveled for years over the West.

With five companions he went in the fall of 1824 to Ross' headquarters on Salmon river in what is now Custer county, Idaho. As it was late in the season he decided to go with Ross to the Hudson Bay company's post in what is now Sanders county, Montana. They crossed the Bitter Root mountains on November 1, passing through Ross' Hole and reached Flathead post toward the end of November.

Smith was the first American to cross the Continental divide north and west of the three forks of the Missouri since the days of Lewis and Clark. He was the first American to explore the Columbia river drainage in the upper Salmon river district since Andrew Henry had been here in 1810.

Newspaper "Stock"

There are four commercial processes of making paper pulp from wood. They are known as the groundwood, the sulphite, the sulphate, and the soda processes. Each is especially adapted to the manufacture of certain grades of paper or to the pulping of certain woods. News, cheap magazine and cheap catalogue papers are made mostly of groundwood—that is, of uncooked wood mechanically ground into a pulp. The groundwood process is the cheapest of all the pulping processes, and the pulp yield is by far the greatest. The quality of the pulp, however, is so low that even in cheap papers it is not strong enough to use alone, and considerable quantities of longer and stronger fibered pulp must be added.

Weather Forecasts

The weather bureau says that within two hours after the morning observations have been taken, forecasts are telegraphed from the forecast centers to about 1,600 principal distributing towns, whence they are further disseminated by telegraph, telephone, radiograph, radiophone and mail. The forecasts are delivered early in the day, generally none later than 6 p. m. on the day of issue, and are available to more than 5,500,000 telephone subscribers within an hour of issue. This system of forecast distribution is wholly under the supervision and mainly at the expense of the government. The weather map is mailed immediately after the morning forecast is telegraphed.

Tyler's Old Well Sweep

An old well sweep which once belonged to the family of President Tyler of Virginia is now in the possession of the National Woman's Country club.

The sweep is in perfect running order, though it has seen about two hundred years of service. Its donor is anonymous. The club also possesses a clock of unusual type which stood in the living quarters of the White House during the Tyler regime.

Original "Pancake"?

Historians tell us that the first "baked bread" was made when some mush, probably consisting of ground wild barley and water, was accidentally spilled on a hot stone, which was protecting the fire in front of a cave. When the food was scraped from the stone it consisted of a pancake with a brown crust. Its improved taste and health-giving qualities over raw food undoubtedly led to experimentation with fire.

Monarch's Three Crowns

The king of England has three crowns: King Edward the Confessor's crown, the imperial state crown and the imperial crown of India. The first crown was made for the coronation of Charles II in 1662. The imperial state crown of India owes its origin to the law which forbids the crown of England being taken out of England. When George V was crowned in Delhi a new crown had to be made.

Some of our citizens are suffering with hives, boils, or infected sores, all blamed on the extreme heat and drought.

Joseph and Melvin Bostian, with their wives, mother and sister, Mary, motored to McConnellsburg, Pa., on Sunday, where they had arranged to meet their aunt, Jessie Biehl Eichelberger and family, of Cumberland, Md. Mother Bostian was duly surprised to find them there, and all feasted on a joint lunch in a nearby Park, and enjoyed a warm social time.

Sunday School picnics are coming into season, beginning at Haugh's church, on Saturday.

"All signs fail in dry weather." St. Swithin hasn't helped us, the rain-dove calls in vain, screen doors covered with flies, don't mean a change of weather any more, and the clouds of Sunday all passed without having any moisture.

Some one is calling "ice, ice." That wagon is well patronized these days.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC.

Topic:—Missions in Changing China. II Chron. 15:1-7

Written by—John S. Hollenbach, of Manchester, Md.

The world is moving fast. Vast changes take place over night. This is true of the "sleeping giant," China. This requires adjustments on the part of Christian forces at work there.

China for a long time shut off from the world by a stone wall and by time honored traditions is at last waking up. She is realizing her power and her strength gradually.

Several things make it more difficult to carry on mission work. The missionaries are unsafe in some sections and must watch their step in what they do.

Communists, etc., from Russia are pouring money and men into China in a pronounced effort to propagandize the people there. This has been going on for some time and has been evidenced by outbreaks and revolutions of various sorts. Conditions are very unstable and uncertain and one can hardly see what another day may bring forth. Most of these radical movements are inimical in attitude toward established Christianity so that missions have been raided and missionaries killed or captured.

It is known very well that western business men have gone into China and have exploited the people and have taken advantage of them. The Chinese regard all men from so-called Christian lands as Christian and see the contrast between what the missionaries preach and teach and what the business men practice. They become suspicious and think there is a connection between the missionary and western business. They think the former is sort of trail blazer for the latter. This militates against the influence of the missionary. Added to this are the impressions and reports of Chinese students who study in America and in Europe and who find the practices there far from the ideals proclaimed by the missionaries. And thus they are led to say that they want our Christ but not our Christianity. That makes it hard to work successfully.

In China as well as in other nations there is found a spirit of self-determination. New forces are discovered which are looking forward to self-expression. There is a growing national consciousness which is changing the outlook upon life and which resents anything that is foreign. The western Christian Church is looked upon with disfavor. The Nanking Government has made rules restricting the extent of the operations of Christian missions. They may not be able to enforce them but the work will be hindered.

American Churches must come to see the inexpediency of trying to make American Christians out of Chinese men and women. We need to give them the knowledge and spirit of Christ and allow them to work out their own Christianity according to their particular genius and needs. We must aid them in the establishment of a national Christian Church.

Figuring Warfare's Cost

In the Civil war, the Union troops numbered 2,128,948; there are various estimates of the Confederate forces, ranging from about 600,000 to 1,400,000. The total Union loss was 359,528, including killed, dead from wounds, disease, etc. The Confederate loss (partial statement) is given as 133,821 dead from wounds or disease. The cost of the Civil war has been estimated at $5,000,000,000. The total number of soldiers mobilized in the World war has been estimated at 65,038,810; the total killed, 8,543,515; wounded, 21,219,452. Professor Bogart's estimate of the direct costs of the World war is $186,333,637,097 and of the indirect costs, $151,612,542,500.

Ice in the Mississippi

The Mississippi river commission says that in severe winters floating ice is found in the Mississippi river as far south as Vicksburg, Miss., but that it is usually not found farther south than Memphis, Tenn.

"Spic" Not Correct in Phrase "Spick and Span"

"Spick and span" is the correct spelling. The phrase is frequently but erroneously written "spic and span," due apparently to a mistaken notion of its derivation. The original phrase was simply "span new," "span" being an old word for a chip or splinter. "Span new" meant bright and new as a chip just cut. In Icelandic it is "spannyr," from the "spann," chip, and "nyr," new. "Spick and span new" was merely an emphatic extension of the earlier phrase, "spick" being an old provincial or colloquial form of "spike," meaning a large nail. Therefore when a thing was particularly fresh in appearance it was said to be spick and span new, namely, bright and new as a spike and a splinter. There is no evidence that "spick" in the sense of a spike was ever spelled "spic," although there was an obsolete word "spic," meaning bacon or fat meat.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Lichens in Polar Mountains

Scientists are greatly interested in the report that specimens of lichen have been found in the Queen Maud mountains, about 300 miles from the South pole. Lichens have been found in many parts of the earth, but never have they been located so near the poles as in this case. And yet there is no reason why they should not be found in even more remote locations, for the demands of the plant are very limited. It is well known that it resists temperature to a very great extent. It requires only a piece of rock to cling to. It may be under snow for a considerable part of the year, but for a short period, at least, it must be exposed to the air or moisture. That is all the lichen requires.

City Dweller Need Not Fear Loss of Hearing

A woman's club bulletin, just out, has an article on noise. The customary sort of article by somebody or other who prophesies that because of the pressure of city life, subway roar and rivet-gang symphonies our senses are degenerating. He expresses his sad belief that in another 20 years Manhattanites will be as myopic and deaf as the stone lions in front of the library.

We are not alarmed, no; only bored. Nobody with sense believes anything like that. The Solomon islanders, who listen for drums 100 miles off, are supposed to have the acutest ears in the world. Maybe, but New York has a million persons who can detect in the loudest din a click that indicates trouble in their auto engines.

The Patagonian can see an ostrich head at the distance of 85 miles. But it would blind him to pore over this page for an hour, and he would see nothing but a blur. Yet a short-sighted proofreader, peering through thick glasses, could spot a single error on it in a few seconds.

It would be nearer truth to say that man's senses are exactly now as they were in the Stone age. And there is something to be said even for the subway roar. In war time we do not become shell shocked so easily.—New York American.

Sentimental Song Made Official Royal Melody

"Home, Sweet Home" is not only the operatic air that has become a kind of national melody, for France has a tune with words of a similar sentiment. This is "Où peut-on être mieux qu'au sein de sa famille?" ("Where can one be better than in the bosom of one's family?"). It was written by Gretry as a quartette in his opera "Lucille" and first achieved a political position when it was sung at Versailles on July 15, 1789, when the Bourbons were being turned out. It was also sung at Carlton house when George III and Queen Charlotte paid their first visit to the prince of Wales and his bride in February, 1795, which possibly caused the homesickness of the princess and made the marriage an unhappy one, and again at Korythina on the retreat from Moscow on November 15, 1812. It was adopted as an official royal melody on the restoration of the Bourbons in 1814.—London Mail.

"WE" Join With

Firestone

To Bring You GREATER VALUES
at LOWER PRICES

PRICES are low on many good tires, but there is only one "best". The Firestone Company, Firestone Dealers and Service Stores join in reducing distribution costs.

It was not enough for Firestone to originate and apply economies in tire building. Firestone now originates and further applies economies to distribution which reduce our cost and enable us to increase our volume at small profits . . . We invite you to come in and see the new Firestone Line at these low prices. We not only have tires in all popular sizes, but we have the cross sections so that you may examine the inside construction of the tire, and actually see the advantages of Firestone over other makes. You will be convinced that no such values have ever been offered you before.

LEADERSHIP

Firestone brought out for automobile use:

- The first straight-side tire.
- The first rubber non-skid tread.
- The first commercial demountable rim.
- The first patented Gum-Dipping process.
- The first balloon tire.

PERFORMANCE

Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires;

- hold all world's records on road and track for safety, mileage, speed and endurance.
- for eleven consecutive years have won the 500 mile Indianapolis Endurance Race.
- were on winning cars in Pike's Peak Race, where a slip meant death.
- were on the Studebaker car which on a board track at Atlantic City in 1928 went 30,000 miles in 26,326 minutes.
- ran 71,351 miles on a Detroit taxicab, before the first tire was replaced.
- were on the G. M. C. truck carrying a two-ton load that hung up the Coast-to-Coast endurance record.
- for 10 years have been sold on a mileage cost basis to taxicab and bus lines in greater volume than any other tires, and now equip the world's largest taxicab fleet and the world's longest bus line.

GROWING CHICKENS NEED GREEN FEED

Giving Them Free Range on Alfalfa Is Favored.

The ideal conditions under which to raise a flock of growing chicks is to allow them free range on a field of alfalfa.

"Not every poultryman can do this," says C. F. Parrish, extension poultryman, at the North Carolina State college. "Where it is impossible, the poultryman should see to it that his chicks get some green feed each day. Green feed is essential. Where the chicks are confined to small yards, it is a good plan to supply one to one and a half pounds of lawn clippings, oats, alfalfa, rape, rye, or short pieces of any kind of green grain crop to each 100 chicks, while they are from eight to ten weeks old. The amount must be increased as the chicks get older. One hundred hens usually require from six to seven pounds of green feed a day. Next year's profits will depend on how well the growing stock is developed."

One of the strict requirements for a profitable poultry business is to furnish a sufficient quantity of the right kind of feed to make flesh, muscle and bone and to supply energy for the growing chicks. In addition, they need clean, dry quarters, fresh water and shade. The green feed is also important, though it is oftentimes overlooked, says Mr. Parrish. He then suggests that the brooder house be kept clean and all droppings removed at least twice each week.

Mr. Parrish says that the poultry business of North Carolina is growing rapidly. About 90 per cent of the farms in the state now have poultry on them, and the new interest in blood testing is assuring growers of healthy chicks from the hatcheries and breeding flocks. More than 150,000 hens will be blood tested next fall and winter, according to applications which have been received for this work during the past few weeks. All of this shows a more intelligent interest in the poultry business, says Mr. Parrish.

Early Roosting Should Be Taught to Chicks

Early roosting should be encouraged. The sooner the chicks are on the roost the sooner the poultryman's troubles are over. Roosts should be placed on the two sides and rear of the brooder house. The roost elevated one foot from the floor. The roosts may be hinged at the rear of the house. Two by two inch material is very satisfactory providing the edges are rounded off. The roosts should be 10 inches apart. One-half inch mesh chick netting should be placed underneath the roosts in order to force the chicks up on the roosts and to prevent them from crowding in the corners under the roosts.

Table Scraps Are Good for All Poultry Flocks

Table scraps and waste food products make more or less of a balanced ration for a small flock of farm hens when combined with scratch grain. But be careful about feeding the hens any spoiled canned goods or moldy feed. Such materials may cause some of the losses that are blamed on disease. And it pays best to use a laying mash even if the hens have plenty of table scraps. They will usually eat the scraps first but the balanced mash will be there when the other materials are lacking. Hens seem to have few digestible troubles when they have the dry mash containing bran and easily digested ground grains.

Poultry Notes

Artificial hatching is practiced almost exclusively where turkey raising is engaged in on a large scale.

Sanitation can and will keep chick mortality well below 10 per cent in the flock, although 15 to 20 per cent has been accepted as about the usual thing in many sections.

Keep eggs infertile and you can keep them longer. Kill or sell cockerels after the hatching season is over.

Are the hens moulting now? Sell them while the price is still good. The kind of feed to give your flock furnishes much food for thought.

Now is the time to determine if you are to need new cockerels in the breeding pens next year. You will have a larger group from which to select and usually lower prices in the fall.

All brooder houses should be cleaned before placing chicks in them and cleaned at least once each week thereafter.

Eggs may be preserved in water glass while they are cheap and used when prices go up or hens stop laying.

Before the pullets begin production they should be fully matured and well fleshed. It is advisable to feed a liberal amount of grain now in order to build up a surplus of flesh.

Coleridge's "Dream Poem"

Coleridge himself told how he came to write the poem "Kubla Khan." In consequence of a slight indisposition, an anodyne had been prescribed, from the effects of which he fell asleep in his chair, at the moment when he was reading a sentence in Purchas' "pilgrimage," beginning "Here the Khan Kubla commanded a palace to be built and a stately garden thereunto." He slept for about three hours and on awakening wrote down all the lines of the poem that have been preserved. Then he was called away on business, and on his return was unable to recall the remainder of the lines that had been composed by him in his dream.

British Sailors in 1812

Histories of the British navy indicate that the British frigates were manned principally by Englishmen during the War of 1812. They are described as a mixed class of men, being secured in various ways. Bounties were offered for enlistment in the navy and when this did not bring enough recruits each county was required to raise a certain number in proportion to population. They were known as quota men. In addition, numbers were pressed into the service.

Use of Nutgalls

Nutgalls are hard nut-like galls, especially those from the Asiatic oaks, which are produced largely in Asia Minor, Syria, Persia, Cyprus, Italy, etc. The Chinese and Japanese nutgalls of commerce, however, are from trees of the species Rhus, and they are large and irregular in form. The nutgalls are rich in tannin, which makes them valuable in the leather and dyeing industries, in the making of inks, the preparation of medicines, etc. Several New York firms are listed as importers of nutgalls from China and other countries.

Punishment

The lady of the house was telling the maid about the woman across the hall who had become extremely disturbed over the playing of the radio all night and who had gone so far as to complain to the police.

"Ain't that awful!" exclaimed the maid. "Sure, an' she ought to be put in the home they have out in the country."

"What home is that, Norah?"

"Sure, ma'am, an' they call it th' Home for Indignant Women."

Watch How You Walk

I was recently walking with a doctor who makes nervous diseases his specialty, writes a correspondent. He said "Look at this woman in front of us. Watch how she zag-zags this way and that. She doesn't keep a straight course for a dozen steps at a time." I watched; it was as the doctor said. He went on to tell me that a great many women and some men walk in this way. It indicates weakness of purpose, indecision, a restless temperament. "If people walk straight, they probably think straight," the doctor said. "A walk like that is a symptom of something wrong. It's a symptom a great many people display."

Safety First

"Pardon me, sir," said Miss Oldgal, who was rusticated at the home of her Uncle Fumblegate, "but isn't this the wimpling water into which a beautiful girl fell last summer and was rescued by a handsome stranger just as she was sinking for the last time?"

"Yes'm, I guess it is," replied the hired man. "But you'll have to wait till some other feller comes along. I can't swim a stroke."—Kansas City Star.

Closed Contract With

Proffer of Iced Pears

New stories about O. Henry seem almost as constant as his fame as a short-story writer. One of the best concerning his charming idiosyncrasies is related by Bob Davis, newspaper man and editor, in the Golden Book magazine.

In his early New York days O. Henry had a quaint way of changing addresses without notice to anyone, disappearing from his friends for weeks. Davis, then a stranger to the author, had been instructed to find him and to offer him first $40, then $50, and, as a limit, $80, to write introductions to a series of stories. After searching five buildings he finally found the author in a dark, cheap hall bedroom—but with a half dozen fine pears buried in a bowl of ice, as a relief from the heat.

"I have three propositions," he announced. "But I shall make the last one first." And he made the $80 offer. "If that last one is the best, you needn't make the other two," drawled O. Henry. "And moreover, mister, you can have the rest of the pears."

Mutton Dear to Both

Stuart and Hanoverian

Mutton used to be regarded as having a definite if somewhat indefinable association with loyalty to the throne. When "thirty-nine noblemen and gentlemen zealously attached to the Protestant succession of the house of Hanover" founded the Kit-Kat club for the furtherance of their principles, they ordained that the standing dish at all their dinners should be mutton pie, to which they attached symbolic significance.

Why mutton should be thus identified with the Hanoverian dynasty is far from clear, but possibly George I, like George II, esteemed boiled mutton and turnips the daintiest dish that could be set before the king. The Kit-Kats, however, must have overlooked a similar fondness on the part of the Stuarts, especially in the case of Charles II, whom Rochester dubbed "our mutton-loving king."—Manchester (Eng.) Guardian.

Tailor's Good Purchase

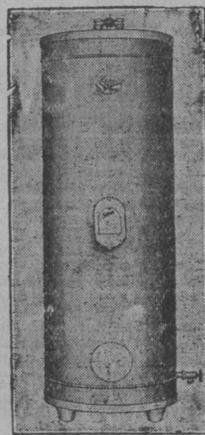

Mankato is the Minnesota town that was bought seventy-five years ago by the first tailor in St. Paul for a small barrel of pork and some salt. This tailor was Parsons King Johnson and his purchase was made from Chief Sleepy Eye. The site on which Mankato stands is rich in historical interest, says the Kansas City Star. Indian mounds have shown that savages dwelt there 500 years ago, burning, glazing and decorating pottery, weaving cloth and raising corn. Mankato's first regular minister rode all the way from Wabash, Ind., on horseback in 1854 to open his church there. The first Scandinavians, led by Rev. John Tidland and John Randall, arrived in 1853, and a German colony from St. Charles, Mo., arrived in a covered wagon the same year. In 1855 a Welsh colony from Wisconsin swelled the population.

DEBORAH, A LEADER IN A NATIONAL EMERGENCY

LESSON TEXT—Judges 4:1-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—Say to them that are of a fearful heart, be strong, fear not: behold, your God will come with vengeance, even God with a recompense; he will come and save you.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Deborah a Brave Woman.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Deborah a Brave Woman.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Notable Women Patriots.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Woman's Influence in Community and National Affairs.

The book of Judges covers the period of the conquest of Canaan and death of Joshua to the judgeship of Samuel. While Joshua and the elders of his generation lived, the people in some measure remained faithful to God, but the very next generation went into apostasy. Their declension may be accounted for by:

1. Their failure to drive out the Canaanites when they took possession of the land. Their failure to carry out this command of God was their undoing.

2. Their amalgamation with the Canaanites. Their tolerance of the heathen about them was quickly followed by union in marriage.

3. Idolatry. Their intermarriage with the heathen was followed by worship of the heathen gods.

In order to teach this lesson intelligently it is necessary that the teacher have a grasp of the book of Judges from which it is taken. In chapter 2:6-19 is given a synopsis of the book.

Observe (1) The sin of the people (vv. 6-13). (2) God's judgment for their sin (vv. 14, 15). (3) Their repentance (3:9). (4) God delivers them at the hands of the Judges (vv. 16-19). A repetition of sin, oppression by the enemy, repentance, and deliverance, is the story of the book of Judges.

I. The National Emergency (vv. 1-3).
1. Lapse into idolatry (v. 1).

Ehud was not only a righteous but a strong ruler. Under his judgeship, freedom had been enjoyed for many years. As soon as he was dead the people turned away from God.

2. The bondage of the people (v. 2). The Lord abandoned them to be oppressed by Jabin, king of Canaan.

3. The people cried unto God (v. 3). Affliction brought them to their senses.

II. The Judgeship of Deborah (vv. 4-10).

The great national emergency confronting Israel was met by a woman named Deborah. Her name means "Bee." As suggested by another, she exemplified her name by her industry, sagacity and great service to the public.

1. The place where she judged Israel (v. 5).

It was under a palm tree. She held an open air court for the administration of justice.

2. Her method (vv. 6-10). (1) Her summons to Barak (vv. 6, 7). Barak means "lightning." Deborah, being a prophetess, was able to select a man whose gifts would enable him to rally the forces needed to gain victory over the formidable foe. Deborah gave definite instruction as to the number of men and the strategy to be employed, assuring him that God would deliver Sisera into his hand. (2) Barak's reply (v. 8). He expressed an unwillingness to go unless Deborah would go with him. (3) Barak rebuked (vv. 9, 10). Deborah yielded to his request, but made it plain to him that it would detract from his honor as a conqueror, "for the Lord shall sell Sisera into the hand of a woman."

III. The Defeat of Jabin's Army (vv. 11-16).

Sisera, the captain, gathered a mighty army and went forth, confident of victory over the ill-equipped and undisciplined army of Barak, but he made one sad mistake—he did not consider that it was the Lord's battle (v. 15). Through supernatural interposition the enemy became panic-stricken (25:20).

IV. Sisera Killed by a Woman (vv. 17-24).

In his flight Sisera took refuge in Jael's tent. In the guise of friendship she committed a most heinous murder after inviting him into her dwelling.

V. The Song of Deborah and Barak (ch. 5).

This song was composed and sung in celebration of the marvelous victory which God had wrought. Deborah set forth in the most definite way that the secret of victory was the help of God.

Consecration

All truly consecrated men learn little by little that what they are consecrated to is not joy or sorrow, but a divine idea and a profound obedience, which can find their full outward expression, not in joy and not in sorrow, but in the mysterious and inseparable blending of the two.—Phillips Brooks.

God's Plan to Cleanse

God brings men into deep waters, not to drown them, but to cleanse them.—Aughhey.

WHY

It Is Common to Say "Knocked Into Cocked Hat"

To knock into a cocked hat means to knock out of shape with a single blow, to alter beyond recognition, or to put an antagonist completely out of a contest, either physically or figuratively, says an article in the Pathfinder Magazine. It is generally supposed that the phrase originally referred to striking a thing such as a blow that it would become limp and could be doubled up and carried flat under the arm like the old-fashioned cocked hats worn in the latter part of the Eighteenth century and the beginning of the Nineteenth. Such hats were three-cornered and had the brim permanently turned up.

The name arose from the fact that "to cock" means to turn, and to cock one's hat means to turn it up on one side or to set it on the head at a peculiar angle. The British military hat worn with the full dress uniform is still called a cocked hat, although it differs widely from the cocked hats formerly worn by British naval and military officers, as well as those once worn by church dignitaries.

Why Airing Grievances

Has Some Good Points

There is wisdom in letting people talk out their grievances. There is no other way to get rid of them. That is the reason why democracy thrives through free speech. If people have a grievance, let them talk it out. If they have a grudge, let them express it. Repression makes inner ugliness to become a poison. If you are wise, you will never seek to keep a man from expressing his irritations at his fellow men. Moreover, if you are really wise, you will understand how to deal with people who have a grievance. Let them get it out and they will feel better. Then you will have an opportunity to deal with their hearts after their emotions have had opportunity to express themselves.—Montreal Family Herald.

Why the "p" in Thompson

Edward Thompson, professor of English and Hindu languages on the faculty at Oxford university, England, furnishes what he believes is the correct explanation of the letter "p" in Thompson. Being a corruption of Thomas' son, which is to say, Thomason, it has been an English name for many centuries, he says. Old English script had a fashion of putting a long tail on the first letter of a double "s" occurring in a word. Many illiterate persons mistook the first "s" for a "p" and so the name became "Thompson." Now that was somewhat unwieldy, and gradually the vowel sound in the middle was dropped. There you have "Thompson."—Kansas City Times.

Why Venice's Many Canals

Venice is built upon islands which served as refuge for inhabitants of neighboring cities during attacks by barbarians. Its strategic advantage was so great that many fugitives remained and the lagoons which separated the islands were the natural streets. These islands were formed from the silt and debris brought down by rivers and the soil is an oozy mud that makes building difficult. Roadbeds would be extremely difficult to make, while canals are obviously easy to construct and maintain.

Why Termed "Chapels"

All Protestant churches in England which do not belong to the established religion are generally referred to as chapels. This usage grew up in the early days of the separatists when most of the dissenting church buildings were much smaller than the churches of the established religion. "Chapel" was previously applied, and still is applied, to any small place of worship, especially one connected with a castle, palace or a larger church.—Detroit News.

Why Less Fruit Is Grown

In the early days of the Central West, the farmer with an orchard planted in the virgin soil owed his fine crop of winter apples to the wild bees that lived in the hollow trees of the woods nearby, as much as to any other factor. Of course, he had a rich soil to begin with and many birds to keep off insect pests. But as the forests were destroyed, the bee trees were lost. As fields of grain succeeded the woods, fruit crops diminished.

Why Head Toward Engine

The practice of making up Pullman berths with the head toward the engine is based on two principles: First, it drives the air currents toward the feet and this keeps the head and uncovered parts of the body out of drafts. Second, the motion of the train is supposed to have some effect upon the circulation of the blood, and by moving headforemost the blood is sent away from the head and toward the feet, which aids sleeping.—New York Telegram.

Why Hole in Flower Pot

The hole in the bottom of a flower pot should never be closed up. A few cinders or bits of broken china should be placed over the hole. This lets the air into the roots and prevents the soil coming through.

Why Termed "Boers"

Boers is a Dutch word meaning farmer. The Dutch, German, and French settlers in South Africa were called "boers" because most of them were originally farmers.

Small Girl's Positive

Definition Is Good One

"Isn't that lovely?" said grandma to a three-year-old. "Yes," assented the minute granddaughter, "it's grand-ful." Why not? The word is as good a hybrid as a thousand that have butted their way into the dictionary, and it gives full value, combining, as it does, the concepts of beauty and of grandeur. I think it is worth keeping.

So are some of the definitions invented by the same embryonic lexicographer. "A man and a boy was there," she was declaring; "not two men, just a man and a boy." Not quite convinced, her aunt inquired, "What is the difference between a man and a boy?" "Men spank boys," was the prompt and positive answer. How useless it is to deny that our whole Weltanschauung is based on social distinctions! Are all men born free and equal? Possibly; but they remain in that grandful state of equality only as long as they are unspankable. Once the age of spankability sets in, society splits into two strata, the spankers and the spankees, and remains thus cleft.—Charles Hall Grandgent, in "The New Word."

Life Not Particularly

Sacred in Nicaragua

The shadow of the electric chair or noose holds no terror for the Managua murderer. Supplying extra trade for the undertaker in that Nicaraguan settlement entails but a 30-day visit to the city jail.

A picture of this community where fighting is the chief fun, although it involves a funeral or two, is portrayed by Alicia Patterson in Liberty. She writes: "The natives are half or more Indian, which explains a lot of things. Fighting is their favorite pastime. They have no fear of death and kill each other off as casually as we would shoot crows.

"The penalty for murder is thirty days. No one goes out on the street without a revolver. The natives are all horribly poor and rarely have enough to eat. But as long as they can keep alive they refuse to do any work. Work to them is worse than death. They die young. A man of fifty is considered old."

Cariboo Gold Rush

On March 15, 1857, gold was discovered in Cariboo, British Columbia. "Into the waters of bays and wide rivers, ruffled only by the swiftly gliding canoes of painted Indians, came slowpaced sailing ships and spluttering steamers," all laden with men mad for gold. The Hudson's Bay forts grew suddenly into towns, and Factor James Douglas showed himself to be so strong a man in keeping tolerable order among 15,000 whites, practically all men and "many of them ruffians," 2,000 Chinese and 15,000 Indians, that, when the Pacific colonies became the province of British Columbia, he was made Sir James Douglas, the first governor.—Montreal Family Herald.

Heat Homes From "Bottle"

Homes of the future will be heated by electricity "bottled" up in a reservoir in the house at night when the electric company's facilities are not busy, and used the next day, in the opinion of Chester I. Hall, an electrical engineer. The "bottle," containing water, would be heated during the night by electrodes which would raise the water temperature to boiling. By reason of insulation, the reservoir would retain its heat during the day. It would be equipped with thermostatic controls. Such a heating plant would be economical, it was estimated, if the power company could store the heat during the idle hours of the night.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Right Diet Affects Teeth

If you want strong, white teeth pay attention to your diet as well as to your toothbrush. The food you eat is just as important as the dentifrice you use.

Dr. Walter H. Eddy, food chemist and health authority, offers this advice. Several recent surveys, he reports, have shown that individuals whose diet was deficient in milk and green vegetables were possessors of weak and quickly decayed teeth because the blood which feeds the teeth was not sufficiently supplied with the necessary lime salts to give them strength.—Good Housekeeping Magazine.

Wily Elephant

Though tigers and leopards cannot, as a class, be said to sham death, there have been instances in which one of these—after having to all appearances, been shot dead—has suddenly "come to life" and been very much alive, until finally dispatched. There is an instance on record of a newly captured elephant playing the "artful dodger" so successfully that it completely deceived its captors, who, releasing its bonds, left it for dead, but scarcely had they gone a little distance when, to their amazement, the creature rose, and trumpeting loudly, made good its escape.

New York Has Largest of World's Carillons

The most famous carillon in the world is the St. Rombold's carillon of 45 bells at Malines, in Belgium. The belfry at Bruges has 47 bells, a like number found from Antwerp's cathedral spire. In the belfry at Mons are 44 bells and from the belfry at Ghent 52 bells still ring even as they did when the treaty of peace between the United States and Great Britain was signed on Christmas eve, 1814. At Amsterdam, the Netherlands, and also at Middleburg, Delft, Utrecht, The Hague, Groningen and at Arnhem, famous carillons are found. Patriotic Americans have placed upon the Louvain (Belgium) library a carillon of 48 bells. In Canada there are five modern carillons, including Simcoe of 23 bells, Guelph of 23 bells, Toronto Metropolitan church of 23 bells and Ottawa of 53 bells, this last carillon being placed in the tower of the Parliament house. In the United States there are approximately 30 carillons. The most important of these are at New York, a carillon of 63 bells, the largest carillon in the world, the gift of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in memory of his mother; at Cohasset, 51 bells; at Mountain Lake, Fla., 60 bells; Chicago, 48 bells; Germantown, Pa., 48 bells; Cranbrook, Mich., 45 bells; Gloucester, Mass., 31 bells; Birmingham, Ala., 25 bells; Detroit, Mich., 28 bells; Princeton university, 35 bells; Andover, Mass., 37 bells; Mercersburg, Pa., 43 bells; Morristown, N. J., 35 bells; Albany, N. Y., 90 bells; Norwood, Mass., 50 bells; Plainfield, N. J., 23 bells; Cincinnati, Ohio, 23 bells; Springfield, Mass., 47 bells; Indianapolis, Ind., 60 bells, and Rochester, Minn., the Mayo clinic, 23 bells.

Wooden Bowl Has History

An extravagant sum of money, the exact amount of which has not been made known, was paid for the famous bowl known as the Pepys mazer, for four centuries the property of the Edward VI almshouses at Saffron Walden, Essex, England.

The Pepys mazer is a small bowl of maplewood standing 2 3/16 inches in height and 7 1/2 inches across. Around the lip is a plain band of silver-gilt, a little deeper outside the bowl than inside. It bears the London half-marks of 1507-8 and the head of the maker's mark, which is the head of a saint. Inside the bowl is a circular medallion, a plate of silver-gilt, and an engraving of the Virgin and the Child in a glory of long rays. It now comes to America. It is so called because it was referred to in the writings of Pepys.

Community Building

Here's Opportunity for Highway Associations

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, in his annual report, reminds the country of a recent amendment to the federal highway act, which provides that the federal government may pay half the cost of planting trees along the highways. No state yet has taken advantage of this provision, although there is an increasing sentiment in favor of highway shelter and beautification from trees.

Official state co-operation in this plan necessarily will be slow, for the reason the state legislatures will need to act. While the cost is relatively small, there will be states with large obligations and limited revenues that may hesitate to meet at once the federal government's offer. Yet there are few expenditures, aside from those that are imperative, that would go so far in making the states attractive to their own people and to those who go on tour.

Regardless of what states may do, there is an immediate opportunity for the numerous highway associations. Such an association as that formed by the cities, towns and communities along highway 71, which already is committed to putting this highway in order, has on its program, at least tentatively, the planting of trees. Such an association, with comparatively small funds and with the allowance and co-operation of the government, could in a short time plant miles of intelligently selected shade trees. Once the owners of lands along the roads appreciate the importance of scenic attractiveness, there should be a considerable planting on their own account.—Kansas City Star.

Conditions That Make Small Town Desirable

The small city does not lack defenders, but they seldom come from the ranks of big business. When a railroad president declares that it is not size that counts, but livableness, he deserves to be listened to.

President Thomas Powell of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, in an article in the Nation's Business, lists these community requirements: Pure water, a complete sewer system, well-paved streets, good school, fair taxes, a good public library system, parks, and an "artistic spirit strong enough to keep them clean," a sensible building code, good churches.

"All these advantages," he thinks, "can be obtained more effectively in a small city than in a large one, mainly because there can be greater personal contact between the individual members of the community."

Beauty in Colored Shingles

In addition to the beautiful natural effects which can be obtained with shingles for the walls of a house, there are innumerable opportunities for rich color which creosote stains produce. These colors, unlike paint, allow the grain of the wood to show, and they give a surface which is almost ruglike in texture.

A combination of harmonious browns, tans, reddish browns and yellowish browns may be used on the same wall by using shingles which have been dipped into these different tones. This mixing of various shades is often overdone, but when good taste is used in the selection many beautiful results are possible.

Roadside Trees

Suitable tree planting along public highways, which greatly enhances their appearance and comfort, is most satisfactorily done by the community as a whole rather than by individuals, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Interest in country highways in the United States has increased rapidly during the last few years. The greater interest in rural roads is due largely to the growing automobile traffic, a large part of which is pleasure driving in which the most beautiful routes are naturally sought.

Saving the Trees

The contractor is usually made responsible for trees and shrubs on the property that it is desired to preserve. This is done by entering appropriate clauses into the general conditions of the contract, by which the contractor is required to box all trees, to avoid piling building materials and rubbish against them, and to preserve shrubs in any suitable manner.

Hail City Planner

We can see limitless possibilities for the city planner. We can see him, or her, bringing order out of chaos, making two beauty spots grow where not even one would grow before.—Exchange.

Money for Home Owners

Life insurance companies are a big factor now for the furnishing of money for home ownership. So are trust companies and mortgage companies.

Parasites Abound

Parasite plants often destroy trees by sucking the sap or tree life from the trunks. Parasite people also ruin communities by receiving its benefits and giving nothing in return.—New Albany Tribune.

"MILLIONAIRE" HOBO DEAD.

James Eads How, often referred to as the "millionaire hobo," died in a Staunton, Va., hospital, on Tuesday, likely from causes brought about by starvation. He was 56 years old, and a member of one of the wealthiest families in St. Louis.

James Eads How first came into national prominence in 1900, when, upon receiving $20,000 from his father's estate, he announced his intention of "turning it back to the people who earned it." He gave the money to a committee of St. Louis citizens organized to aid the unemployed. Since then he gave away several fortunes. He was a graduate of Harvard, where he took degrees in theology and medicine. Later he studied law and took a course at Oxford.

Turning from the social stratum to which he was born, How spent his life associating with the down-and-out class. He traveled constantly about the United States, organizing branches of the International Brotherhood Welfare Association, of which he was founder. He held hobo conventions in every large city from coast to coast.

"A man's good breeding is the best security against another's bad manners."
