IN WESTMINSTER.

Was Crossing Street During a Heavy Fall of Rain.

James Fowler, Westminster, was instantly killed Saturday evening while attempting to cross Pennsylvania Avenue, near his home. He was on his way to supper while a heavy rain was falling, and when midway across the street, and on seeing a car approaching attempted to avoid it, but too late. The car struck him and knocked him down, and another car going in the same direction, ran over him.

He was struck by a car driven by Donald McC. Swope, of Gettysburg, who was accompanied by Mrs. J. I. Swope, Mrs. Ross Shurman, Edward Hudson and Mrs. Charles Swope. The car that ran over him was driven by Maurice Kroop, who was accomanied by James Burke, Taneytown, and W.

G. Riley, Baltimore.
Mr. Swope was exhonerated before Justice Benson, on Monday, the accident being classed as unavoidable due to the heavy rain that was fall-ing. He testified that he saw the man step in front of his car and swerved it short to the left and stop-ped within 30 feet. James Burke, Taneytown, one of the occupants of the following car, driven by Morris Kroop, testified that they were driv-ing slowly, did not see the man fall, but felt the jar of running over something. Mr. Boylan, an eye-witness, substantiated the facts testified to

A COMPARISON.

A letter from a friend in Windsor, Ontario, Canada, encloses a suggestive cartoon originating with the Detroit Saturday Night, and republished by the Border City Star, of Windsor, the clipping containing the pencil notation, "Why Canadian law is respected, and gangsters stay out of

One-half of the cartoon pictures a Detroit Court, and a gangster with a pistol parked in his right hip pocket standing before the judge, listening to the sentence, "That'll cost you $100.00." TWO FIRES ON SAME FARM Due to Lighted Match Causing Gasoline Explosion.

Two fires, within four hours of each other, Sunday night burned a large bank barn, machine shed, chicken house, and a large quantity of feed, machinery and implements on the farm of Dennis B. Smith, near Wakefield, a short distance east of New Windsor. The loss was estimated at between $14,000 and $15,000. The first fire began about 6 o'clock, when a 17-year-old boy, working at the barn, struck a matach to find an electric light switch beside a quantity of gasoline he had been draining from of gasoline he had been draining from a drum in the machine shed. The gasoline fumes burst into flame, and the boy, slightly burned about the body, ran from the building, which quickly caught fire. The flames spread rapidly, reaching the nearby chicken house and other outbuildings.

The Union Bridge and Westminster fire companies, called to the scene, used water from a stream on the place and saved the home and other build-

The fire companies then returned to their respective towns, but were called again about 11 o'clock, when members of the Smith family, looking from their home, suddenly discovered from their home, suddenly discovered the barn in flames. John Smith, a brother of the owner of the property, who had helped in extinguishing the previous fire, said he had walked through the barn five minutes previously, and there was no sign of fire. The origin of the second blaze was a

The barn was a well-equipped structure, and was valued at about $10,000. Members of the family stated Monday morning that the loss was less than half covered by insurance.

ARRESTS FOR THEFT OF WIRE.

Arrest of the fifth man implicated in the recent theft of wire from the LeGore Lime Company was made last week, when Charles B. Barrick, 33, of the LeGore neighborhood, was apprehended in a restaurant in York, Pa. Barrick was taken in custody by Sher-iff Charles W. Crum and Deputy Sher-iffs B. Frank Doll and Edw. ALCOHOL WITHOUT POISON.

James N. Doran, Commissioner of Industrial Alcohol, has announced the intention of his department to leave poisonous denaturants out of industrial alcohol, heretofore used so as to prevent its use as a beverage. At the same time he announced that there would be used, instead, a de-naturant that would be nauseating that is supposed to render it unfit for a beverage.

The new concoction tastes like rotten eggs and garlic, so an expert tes-tifies, and it is claimed that it is im-possible to remove it from the alcohol once it is mixed in, by recooking or any other process. Government chemists have been working on the formula for three years, and have developed it from petroleum.

WHEAT AND BREAD PRICES.

The U.S. Department of Justice has commenced an investigation of the differences between wheat and bread, in their cost. The question has been under consideration for some time. It is said that only 39 cents of the consumer's dollar bread goes to the farmer and others who handle the wheat, before it reaches the baker; and it is held that if a low price for bread can be secur-ed, the price of wheat would increase thereby benefiting the farmer.

RELIEF LEGISLATION AND ECONOMY

The Spending of Many Millions, and Political Advantage.

That the present Congress will appropriate many millions of dollars for farm relief and for unemployment, is assured. And it is equally assured that "politics" promises to play a large part in the distribution, and the acceptance of recommendaand the acceptance of recommendations made by President Hoover and his official family, will hardly be pos-sible, according to the present out-party, credit for the generosity. This is the life of politics, without reference to any party, for all are in the game for popular indorsement.

The big difficulty in this particular instance is, that after-results must be considered. Increasing taxes is unpopular. The division of the millions between different interests may arouse jealousies and ill-feeling. The handing out may develop into a grabhanding out may develop into a grab-

Who by, and how, the money shall be spent, are considerations for debate. The troubles of the "rich man and his money" are sure to be mixed with the Senate plan and the House plan, the Hoover plan and the anti-Hoover plan, and the plans of indi-vidual finance wizards, until the actual needs of the various beneficiaries may take second or third place in the

And, what about economy, as to which the Philadelphia Ledger says;
"Senator Borah and President
Hoover agree in principle about the necessity for curbing needless appropriations at this session of Congress. The Senator from Idaho said on Sun-The Senator from Idaho said on Sunday that he favored "holding down expenditures as much as possible and still meeting the actual emergency." He expressed no criticism, however, of the $60,000,000 drought-aid bill unanimously reported by the Senate Agriculture Committee over the Administration request for a $25,000. ministration request for a $25,000,-000 fund, although the advisability of such an increase may be seriously Republican leaders in the House, taking literally Mr. Hoover's demand for economy, pared his proposed $150,000,000 fund for public improvements down to $110,000,000 and reduced the item for drought relief to $20,000,000. $30,000,000. There is some prospect, however, of a fight in the House to restore this item to $60,000,000, and it is said that the Senate will insist up-on that amount. These differences suggest the possibility of demands by some members of Congress for still larger sums in the name of emergency relief. The movement for economy should therefore begin with an agreement among leaders of both houses to limit these items to reasonable figures which would fit in with Mr. Hoover's plans for stimulating construction and employment without setting a precedent for boosting other appropriations."

The Senate, on Tuesday, voted in favor of $60,000,000 for drought relief, the President having recommended less than half that much. The discussion assailed him for minimizing the farm disaster, and in general dis agreed with his attitude, and with his statement that "Prosperity can not be restored by raids upon the public treasury," all being based on no better foundation than a policy of not increasing taxes.

ROADS FOR FARMERS

Western Conference Favors a very Worthy Proposition.

The following article, clipped from a Western publication, pictures a condition that would be fine for the whole country.

"The American Country Life Conference at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, has taken a stand for "a surfaced road to every farmer's gate," It was pointed out that of the 3,000,000 miles of road in this country, only 300,000 miles, or 10 percent are state and federal highways. The remaining 90 percent are classified as local roads and few of them have all-weather surfaces.

weather surfaces. At least 80 percent of all farmers are served by dirt roads which become virtually impassable to motor traffic in the winter.

The conference favors the use of surfaces whose wearing qualities will be adequate, but whose original and maintenance cost will be low. Such surfaces, bound by asphaltic oils, have been used in various parts of the country for many years, and have made splendid records of inexpensive

It was brought out at the conference that many farmers are forced to keep their motor vehicles at the junction of dirt roads with hard-surfaced main highways, and to transport themselves and their families between those points and their farms by horse drawn wagons. Until such conditions are corrected, agriculture will continto struggle against tremendous

The difficulty is that merely taking a "stand" at a "conference," does not furnish the cash with which to build roads. Undoubtedly the conditions pictured are in the main correct, as are the conclusions; and the building program, as proposed, is not entirely a mere ideal impossible of attainment

This country is gradually decreasing the number of things that "can't be done" and the road building question may before so many years be taken out of the remaining list. It is time to build roads for farmers, rath-

He spoke at the ninth annual centenary luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce at the Bellevue-Stratford. "We are in the midst of a test of both courage and character today," Mr. Insull added. "Character gives us the courage to stand fast when times are bad; then courage leads character forward when times change "Courage is progress. The Mannelin

A few minutes away from the Grand place of Brussels-"noblest of medieval squares"—at the corner of the Rue de l'Eture and the Rue du Chene, stands the famous Mannekin fountain. This impudent rascal is a popular hero, everywhere known as the "oldest citizen of Brussels." Whenever visiting celebrities wish to please the Bruxellois, they present the Mannekin with a new suit of clothes. He has costumes of many nations-from a Napoleonic uniform to a gayly embroidered Japanese kimono-all of which are kept by the city for him to wear on special occasions. But whether naked as he was made, or decked out in an admiral's gold braid, he continues to fulfill his role of being the merriest fountain in Europe

Beethoven's Unpaid Debt

How many people know that Beethoven actually died $500 in debt to the Philharmonic society, which had sent him the money on his death bed, in the hope that they would be able to play his Tenth Symphony? queries an article in the Montreal Family Herald. He acknowledged the advance by telling them that his new symphony was lying in his desk "completely sketched." But the work was destined never to be finished. It was only eight days later that Beethoven

Strikingly beautiful, fleet and smart -a masterpiece of Fisher styling

In the entire field of modern coachcraft no symbol has come to mean more to the buyer of a motor car than Body by Fisher. And never has Fisher's superiority been more strikingly exemplified than in the beautiful new bodies of the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six!

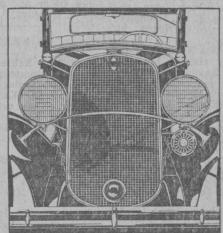

Working with the added advantage of a lengthened wheelbase, Fisher designers have been able to achieve in the new Chevrolet a degree of smartness, comfort and impressiveness hitherto considered exclusive to cars far higher in price.

Inside and out, scores of refinements stamp this car as a masterpiece of modern coachwork. Radiator, headlamps and tie-bar are artistically grouped to create an unusually attractive ensemble. Mouldings sweep back in a graceful, unbroken line to blend with the smart new body contours. And new colors lend a new individuality. Interiors, too, are exceptional in every way. The new mohair and broadcloth upholstery is tailored with exceptional smartness. Seats are wider and deeper and more luxuriously cushioned. A deeper windshield and wider windows give better vision for both driver and passengers. And beautiful new hardware, of modern design, lends a final note of charm.

Many mechanical improvements have also been provided in the chassis of this Bigger and Better Six. Among these are a stronger frame; easier steering; a more durable clutch; a smoother transmission; and engine refinements which make the new Chevrolet a car you will be happy to drive-as well as proud to own.

> The Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six is now on display in our showrooms. See it. Drive it! Learn for yourself that it is the Great American Value!

Saturday Not Always

Sabbath for the Jews

NEW/

The period from sunset Friday to sunset Saturday was adopted by the Jews as their Sabbath about 360 A. D. It is erroneous to suppose, as many do, that the ancient Jewish Sabbath always fell on what corresponds to our Saturday and that the weekly cycle has never been broken. In ancient times the first day of the Jewish year was also the first Sabbath of the year and the day was determined by the high priests or the sanhedrin by observing the new moon. A Sabbath followed every seventh day thereafter until the end of the year. Consequently the Sabbath was not a regularly recurring seventh day in the sense that our Saturday or Sunday is, and the Sabbath did not fall on the day corresponding to our Saturday more often than it fell on other days of the week. At that time, of course, all the days began and ended at sunset. The Jews, after being scattered over the world, found the ancient Hebrew calendar difficult to follow, and about 360 A. D., under the leadership of Hillel II, they began to adopt Saturday as their regular Sabbath .-Pathfinder Magazine.

America's first booster, strangely enough, was a Boston man-William Blackstone. After Gov. John Winthrop had settled his colonists at Charleston on one side of the Charles river. Blackstone crossed over and explained the advantages of the opposite bank (where he had a farm!) in such glowing terms that the whole colony moved over and founded Boston. From that day to this-when Massachusetts is celebrating her tercentenary-"Boston has never felt the need of another booster," says Hildegrade Hawthorne, granddaughter of Nathaniel Hawthorne, in a special tencentenary article in St. Nicholas Magazine.

Catching Up With Bullets

If a shotgun is fired directly ahead of an airplane, within a few seconds the plane will run right into the shot, declares Gen. William Mitchell (in "Skyways"). This is because the shot has an initial velocity of 900 feet a second, which falls off very rapidly, until at 60 yards it has only about 400 feet velocity left, and at 100 yards it has none. An airplane going 100 miles an hour covers 100 yards in two seconds, which does not give the shot time to drop.

New Rochelle Founded

by Huguenot Refugees New Rockelle was founded by the French Huguenot refugees in 1688. "The founders," says the author of "New Rochelle Through Seven Generations," "were the sons and grandsons of those devoted Huguenots who in 1628 stubbornly resisted the attacks of the French army in the beleaguered city of La Rochelle until reduced from 27,000 to 5,000 souls. . three years after this famous siege of La Rochelle, when King Louis XIV caused the renewal of Huguenot persecution by the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, many citizens of La Rochelle fled to England. It was a body of these refugees who about 1686 commissioned Governor Leisler of New York to purchase a tract of land for them in America. The governor bought for them "from John Pell, Esq., for this purpose, 6,000 acres of land. The price was 1,675 pounds, 25 shillings sterling current silver money of this province" (about $8,000) "and one fat calf on every four and twentieth day of June yearly and every year, forever, if demanded." In Hudson park is a memorial marking the site of the landing of the emigres. About 30 families comprised this colony.

Gulls Which Keep to Shore The black-head gulls of Europe, unlike the ordinary seagulls common along the coast of this country, are not sea-going birds. They will not follow ships day after day, but keep themselves well within reach of land. In fact, they are not adverse to flying inland and feeding in new-plowed land, on insects, worms and larvae.

The gulls breed from the British Isles east through Europe, as far as Turkestan. In winter they range all the way from the Azores to Japan, living largely along the shores, on crustaceans, small fish and any food which finds its way into the waters along the shores.

Where Men Excel

While woman is superior to man in the matter of endurance of pain, she is inferior in the senses of taste and smell. In an experiment made with 38 women, young and healthy, and the same number of men it was found that no woman could detect essence of lemon further than in a solution of one in one hundred thousand, but several men recognized it down to one in two hundred and fifty thousand.

MORE INTEREST IN ASTRONOMY SHOWN

Publicity Big Help, Professor Morehouse Says.

Des Moines, Iowa.—If you are one the many Americans of astronomy are nearly as vague as far off Venus on a misty night, then prepare for knowledge-it is headed your way.

Dr. D. W. Morehouse, whose name is a by-word wherever men gather round the base of a long telescope to gaze at the heavens, believes recent publicity given developments in the world of astronomy, together with establishment of planetariums in the United States, has had a tendency to popularize the science.

This, in the opinion of the educator, is a good sign.

"Too many people," he said, "still believe that stars fall; that many are lost to the heavens every night, and that new ones sprout in the blue like blossoms on a cherry tree."

The reporter hesitatingly admitted he had been deceived for years by falling "stars," and had sent many a shout of "money, money, money." after the flash of light from the heavens in furtherance of a childish superstition. Doctor Morehouse chuckled and explained these were meteors and that stars themselves remain fixed.

Planetariums, where the stellar universe is projected on a domelike screen to be studied and explained in detail, will be of greatest assistance in knowledge of the movements of heavenly hodies, in Doctor Morehouses' opinion.

"There is nothing bizarre or sensational," he explained, "about astronomy to make it good newspaper copy unless as, in the recent case of Pluto, a new planet is discovered." He acknowledged, however, an increasing use of stories of the sciences by newspapers throughout the world.

Doctor Morehouse is president/of Drake university and professor of astronomy at the school, where he considers his unusually large class this year a possible indication of the science's increasing popularity.

No in Either Case

Richard Brinsley Sheridan (1751 1816), Irish dramatist and politician, and Edmund Burke (1729-1797), English statesman and orator, are both credited with the pun which follows. When asked to pay at least the interest on a sum owed, the impertinent but witty reply was:

"It is not to my interest to pay the principal, nor is it my principle to pay and interest."

DU PONT HEIR AT WORK AS LABORER

Plans to Learn Oil Business From Bottom.

Paola, Kan.—Edmond Du Pont, son of the wealthy Mr. and Mrs. Francis I. Du Pont of Wilmington, Del., is learning the oil and gas business from the bottom up. He is employed as a laborer in the gas fields here.

The elder Du Pont is a stockholder in the various iron and chemical industries of the country which have made the family name powerful over the world. He is a director of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company, which now employs his son.

Just Out of Oxford.

Recently, young Du Pont, fresh from Oxford university, where he had studied three years, came to Paola, a little oil and gas city, whose landscape is dotted with many huge derricks.

He began work as any other employee of the pipe line company and is being treated like his fellow men. Before going to Oxford he was graduated from Princeton.

Today, wearing oily and grimy overalls, he is taking the hard knocks of the gas production game.

The twenty-four-year-old youth hesitated when asked something about himself.

"I do not see what there would be interesting about a person who has so small a part in the world as I. It would not be proper for me to expect anything because of my family name, as I have to earn through merit that which comes to me."

Dark-haired, clear-eyed and quiet in demeanor is the newest worker in the gas fields. He didn't want to talk about himself, but repeated questioning brought this out:

Follows Brothers' Steps. "Why shouldn't I work in the gas fields? My two older brothers worked in the rayon mills after completing college. My younger brother, still in college, will do much the same as the rest of us. I want to learn the natural gas pipe line business.

"The best way to learn is from the production end. I will possibly be here for three or four months and then will go where my employers direct." Since he came to Paola, young Du Pont has gone to his room each night immediately after supper. He spends his spare time reading and in corre spondence. He does not go out at nights and is prompt to work. Millions to Be Spent on New London Bridges London.-Many millions of dollars will be spent during the next ten years to build bridges across the Thames at strategic points to help relieve London's traffic problem.

Seven new bridges are contemplated, old bridges will be widened and the proposed Charing Cross bridge is expected to be constructed at a cost of about $60,000,000. The Lambeth bridge, which will connect Millbank with the Albert Embankment, has now been under construction for more than a year and is expected to be completed in 1932. The cost is estimated at $2,693,300. Work of widening Putney bridge and the starting of new bridges at Hampton court and Chiswick is expected to be under way by Christmas. The biggest bridge undertaking of all will be the Charing Cross bridge. Although the scheme, which provided for an expenditure of about $50,000,-000, was rejected, a new scheme is now being prepared by an advisory committee. The proposed plan will be ready by March.

Hope Chests on Decline

and Manufacturers Quit Washington. - Those old-fashioned girls who treasured their hope chests are on the decline. The bureau of census, in a preliminary report on the manufacture of cedar chests during 1929, showed that out of 47 firms engaged in this business, 27 had been forced to go out of business or discontinue manufacture of the article. Fifteen companies failed to answer the questionnaires sent out, but it was believed they were not important enough to affect the report.

The number of cedar chests made in 1929 totaled 475,499, with a value of $7,217,759.

Priceless Persian Art in London for Exhibit

London.-Priceless crown jewels. gold and silver thread carpets and dazzling treasures and relics worth millions from the mosques of Kum and Isfahan were landed on the dingy stones of Thameside wharf. They were consigned to Burlington house. where a Persian art exhibit opens in January.

The collection was flown in four airplanes across the wild mountains and rackless deserts between Persia and the Persian Gulf, so they would not fal into hands of wild mountain tribes.

Hints For Homemakers By Jane Rogers

JASHABLE summer curtains should be laundered and put away unironed for the winter.

While the time has passed for preserving the summer fruits, there is still ample opportunity to cut winter food bills by putting up the late products of the garden. Remember, too, that delicious jams and marmalades whose sugar content will provide needed warmth energy during the winter months, can be prepared all winter long with the dried fruits such as prunes and apricots.

To the Indians the tobacco plant length, reported to be the largest ever had a sacred character and was smoked on solemn occasions, with suitable invocations to their delties. It also was smoked ceremoniously to cure disease, aid in distress, ward off danger, bring good luck, and to allay fear. In this respect the smoking tobacco and other materials somewhat resembled the burning of incense among other peoples.

homestead high up the foothill valley not only for the shelter of surrounding hills and proximity to groves of spruce and lodge-pole pine. He had another reason for retreating so far from civilization. That reason was Sylvia Palmer.

Dave and Sylvia had been pals together down the plains where both were born. They had attended the same school, the same picnics, dances, country concerts. Many a starry night, with Sylvia at his side, Dave had driven the prairie trails, none too eager to reach their destination. And Sylvia, too, seemed quite content to dally on the way.

It was true there never had been any formal engagement between them. It hardly seemed necessary. They had "gone together" so long that some time, Dave supposed, when he was in a position to offer her a home, he would tell her so, and Sylvia would say, "All right, Dave. Whenever you are ready." Then she would turn her tempting mouth to him, and he would kiss her tenderly and a little differently, now that she was so soon to be his bride.

But Dave had not counted on a woman's will-and what comes of it. At eighteen Sylvia, having secured her teacher's certificate, applied for and was accepted by a town school some distance from her home. She was all enthusiasm and excitement over her plunge into the great, self-supporting world.

Dave may have shared her excitement, but not her enthusiasm. He told

"Why, Dave Holden, I'm surprised at you!" Sylvia retorted. "I thought you would be glad to see me get a chance."

"Of course, I want you to have your chance," he explained, "but I'm figuring on fixing a chance for you, too. Dad is paying me a man's wages now. In another year or two I'll be all set to take up land of my own, and then-"

She waited for him to put something definite into words, but a certain shyness held him back. Anyway. she knew what he meant. She gave his disengaged hand a girlish squeeze. "That will be fine," she said. "You will make a good farmer, Dave." "Maybe," he admitted. "And maybe by that time you'll have taken up with one of those town sheiks, and I won't care then whether I go farming, or

"Don't you worry over that. I'm not planning on taking up with any town sheik not with a big boy like Dave Holden running around loose."

But Dave worried, just the same, and by the second term he knew he had occasion for it. Sylvia's talk had turned from crops and country picnics and all things of the land to sport and tennis and particularly one Jack Fulton whose name was often on her lips. Dave had a feeling of being taken at a disadvantage. Instead of wooing Sylvia for himself he bluntly charged her with having transferred her affections to Fulton.

"I ain't blaming you," he said, sarcastically. "No doubt he is a very fine fellow. But if I meet him some

"He's pretty strong, Dave," Sylvia teased. "Better be careful."

Townereupon Dave lost his gemper altogether "Maybe I should be careful, and maybe you should be careful, too. What I'm saying is, either you give him up, or I'm through!"

That was too much for the spirited Sylvias .Whether or not ishe cared for a you, or I'll charge you for my time!"

Jack Fulton, she wasn't going to take Jack Fulton she wasn't going to take orders about it from Dave Dave keep the farm. I said Dave who was never had actually asked her to marry calrendy climbing into this heavy overhim, altirught she had given with opes 5981,00 and to not those leighend the portunity enough.

Dave had mot respected that result, but he had gone too far to retreat. He had though that Sylvia would bow to his ultimatum. Her curt rejection An Indian Dancer

I watched the dancer first with curlosity, then fascination. Here was release and rapture. As she danced on and on to the music of her drunken drummers, some rhythm or religion from the night of time sounded on my skin and gathered itself into my pulses. I could feel as well as her the beating of the drums. . . . Those infinitely subtle movements slid into my soul and spoke to me of times long past, when the rhythms of the body were worshiped in the pantomime of Creation, and David danced before the altar of Jehovah. Somewhere in space these spells survive, for their delight is deathless.—Bengal Lancer, by F. Yeats-Brown.

Inn's Many Famous Guests

The Lion inn at Shrewsbury, England, still popular with tourists, has entertained famous persons for more than a century. There George IV danced before the battle of Trafalgar and there Paganini once played. De Quincey spent a night at the Lion and Disraeli was there in his early days.

In 1838 Charles Dickens, accompanied by "Phiz," was accommodated at the inn and wrote to his daughter of "the strangest little rooms" and "how the windows bulged out over the street as if they were the stern windows of a ship." The ballroom, designed and decorated by the Adam brothers, is still used for dancing.

Too Much for Him They had climbed as near as they dared to the crater of the volcano. It was smoking ominously.

"Let's go down and back to the stand watching that thing any more." "We've climbed all the way up here. and now you want to go right back," she demurred. "It isn't that you're afraid, is it?"

"Oh, no," he replied. "It's only that I can't endure watching that crater smoke after I've found that I've left my tobacco at home."

All persons are hereby forewarned not to trespass on my premises with dog, gun, or trap, for the purpose of ooting or taking game of any kind, nor for fishing, or in any way injur-ing or destroying property.

Opossum Among Bananas

Small snakes, often poisonous, and very large spiders are often accidentally imported with bananas, but as both snakes and spiders can live for many weeks in a half-dormant condition without food or water there is no reason why such journeys should not be made successfully. It is more surprising to find that delicate little mammals will sometimes survive the risks encountered in the cutting and handling of the bunches, transport to the ship, and voyage of several weeks at a steady low temperature in the hold. The City of Leicester museum recently received a murine opossum which had reached the city in a bunch of bananas from South America, and sent it as a gift to the London zoo, where it is now safely housed.

SAUL OF TARSUS: HOW A PHARI-SEE BECAME A CHRISTIAN

LESSON TEXT-Acts 22:3-15. GOLDEN TEXT—Acts 22:3-15.

GOLDEN TEXT—Yea doubtless, and I count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord: for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but dung, that I may win Christ

PRIMARY TOPIC-An Enemy Who

JUNIOR TOPIC—An Enemy Who Became a Friend.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—What It Means to Be a Christian. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC-Conversion: Its Nature and Ef-

1. Saul's Training as a Pharisee (vv. 3, 4).

1. Taught to love his own nation. ("I am a Jew.") The Pharisees were the nationalists of their day. Saul being a strict Pharisee was a patriot.

2. Taught to love God's Law. "Taught according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers." Love for the Bible is a valuable asset in life. One may misinterpret the Bible and dangerously misapply it, but if there is love for it, he may yet come into right relation to it.

3. "Was zealous toward God." The root meaning of the word "zealous" is "to boil." It signifies a passion for God and his work.

4. Was conscientious (Acts 26:9, 10). Saul was conscientious in his opposition to Jesus. He regarded Jesus as an imposter. While Saul is to be condemned for his attitude toward Jesus, he is to be praised for responding to the dictates of his conscience. Conscience is the law of life for every man, but should be regulated by God's Word.

II. Saul's Burning Hatred of Jesus (vv. 4, 5, cf. Acts 9:1, 2).

He knew full well that unless the movement set on foot by Jesus was stopped it would supersede Judaism. However, he was entirely ignorant of the genius of Christianity. He did not know that "the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church." Stephen's noble display of faith intensified Saul's hatred of Jesus. It made him more determined than ever to stamp out the Nazarene heresy.

III. Saul Kicking Against the Pricks (vv. 6-11).

The figure here is of an eastern ox driver following the animal with a sharp iron attached to a pole. The ox is prodded along with this instrument, and if it is refractory and kicks against this iron, it only injures itself.

1. A light from heaven (v. 6). The time had now come for Jesus to interpose in behalf of his own. Saul is stricken with blindness and falls to the earth.

A voice from heaven (v. 7). This was the voice of Jesus saying, "Why persecutest thou me?" Jesus Christ is so closely identified with believers that he regards treatment of them as treatment of himself.

3. Saul's inquiry (vv. 8, 10). "Who art thou, Lord?" "What shall I do, Lord?" The dictator is now willing to be dictated to.

4. A second voice from heaven (vv, 8, 10). In response to Saul's inquiry, Jesus revealed himself, and instructed Saul what to do.

5. Saul entering Damascus (v. 11). This hitherto savage persecutor went humbly into the city, led by attendants. What went on in his soul during three days of blindness and fasting we can only surmise.

IV. Ananias Ministers to Saul (vv. 12-15).

1. Sent by the Lord (Acts 9:10-12). In a vision the Lord showed him that Saul was now a praying man. The name of Saul's host and the number of his street were made known to Ananias.

2. Ananias' hesitancy (Acts 9:13-16). Knowing Saul's violent hatred of Jesus, he was afraid to go near him until he received the divine message. 3. Ananias' message (vv. 13-15).

(1) "Brother Saul, receive thy sight." (v. 13). Sight was given.

(2) "The God of our fathers hath chosen thee" (v. 14). This choice was for three things:

"That thou shouldest know his will." This is true of every one chosen by the Lord. b. "And see that Just One." The sight of Jesus Christ transformed Saul's life. c. "And hear the voice of his mouth." How wonderful that even a savage persecutor should come to hear the voice of

Improved Uniform International | ISLAND WAS HOME OF TWO REAL ROBINSON CRUSOES

Mosquito Indian and English Sailor Lived on Goats and Cabbage Tree Fruit.

New York .- A hundred and ten leagues off Valparaiso, Chile, lies Masa-tierra, a craggy and wooded island from whose heights at least two veritable Robinson Crusoes have stared out at sea, looking for sail that would

One of them was a Mosquito Indian, who the white men called Will. The other was Alexander Selkirk, born at Largo, a sea village in Fife. Will spent four years on the island-a rock reef twelve and a half miles long and less than four across at its widest point-and Selkirk was marooned four months longer.

In 1684 Captain William Dampier, an English navigator who was voyaging around the world, landed at Masa-tierra and the Mosquito Indian, Will, one of his men, was left ashore when Spanish buccaneers chased his ship from its anchorage.

The abandoned Indian's sole supplies were a gun, a knife and a small horn of powder. He made a saw by notching the knife, and sawed his gun barrel into pieces. With these he smithied harpoons, lances, fish-hooks and another long knife. Goats, remaining on the island from an early colony that had not prospered, furnished both meat and clothing. Will remained in excellent health and spirits.

In the Golden Book Magazine, Walter de la Mare tells that the Indian made a great feast when Dampier came to rescue him four years later. "He killed three of his goats and served them up (English fashion) with cabbage from the 'cabbage tree.'"

Selkirk was marooned on the island through his own stubbornness. The seventh son of a cobbler, he was cited for misbehavior in Kirk and ran away to sea at the age of nineteen. In 1703 he shipped with Dampier as sailing master of the galley, the Cinque Ports. After a bitter altercation with Dampler, he suggested that he be put ashore alone on Mas-a-tierra, and Dampier graciously acceded.

With him he took a sea-chest, clothes, bedding, a firelock, a pound of gunpowder, a bag of bullets, flint and steel, tobacco, a hatchet, a knife, a kettle, a Bible, mathematical instruments and several books of devotion. But, despite these luxuries, he soon repented of his bargain. For eight months he lived in melancholy and horror. Day after day he stared at the sea, scarcely bothering to eat, or roamed about, praying and weeping. Finally, however, he became more composed, and set to work to better his lot. He built two huts, thatched them with grass and lined them with goatskins. He laid out a system of signal fires. Reading the Bible much, he became, he confessed later, a better Christian than he ever had been or ever was likely to be again.

Gold-Bedecked Bodies

Are Dug Up on Cyprus

Stockholm.—Exquisite golden rings and trinkets, beautifully adorned hand mirrors, golden distaffs and dainty perfume flasks 3,000 to 4,000 years old have been found by the Swedish archeological expedition now working in the island of Cyprus, according to reports just published in Stockholm.

These finds have been made in ancient graves near the village of Enkomi in Cyprus. The corpses have been buried richly dressed in clothes adorned with plates of gold. They often had their mouths covered with mouthpieces of gold and wore golden tiaras in flower patterns or with designs of animal or human figures.

One woman wore a necklace of gold and wore golden tiaras in flower patterns or with designs of animal or human figures.

One woman wore a necklace of gold beads in the shape of Mycenen shields and had her hair, ears, fingers and toes adorned with gold rings, some of them with pearls. The dead have been amply provided with food and drinks in bronze or painted earthenware vases One woman had a comb with figures of deer carved in ivory and another had a bronze mirror with a handle of ivory carved in the shape of a nude woman. Several women had distaffs in ivory caskets and perfume flasks of shimmering glass or faience.

Importance of Proper

House Design Apparent Through a better appreciation of architecture, home lovers more and more are striving toward perfection and beauty of house design. As a result, a knowledge of historic styles is well defined in the minds of interested discriminating home builders. Today people know approximately what they want in the way of a home, and recognize the importance of architectural guidance. Only well-proportioned homes with artistic and correct architectural treatment attract and appeal.

To assure the ideal home-be its size ever so small—the technically trained architect should be consulted. No one thinks of going to a dentist with bodily ills. By the same token no one should go to a contractor for home design. Home design is a highly specialized field, and only an architect can reflect and crystallize your home ideas properly and correctly into a design possessing merit.

One often hears "because I'm building a small house, I can't afford an architect-besides, I know where I can get some plans cheap."

This attitude has accounted for hundreds of unattractive homes which have no resale value-eyesores and a disgrace to the community.-Cleveland Leader.

Store Front Counts as

Good Business Asset "The store front indicates the character of a business establishment as well as of the men back of it, and that holds good whether the business is clothing, shoes, plumbing or what not," Howard H. Edmonds writes in an article called "Store Fronts," in a recent issue of Domestic Engineering. Edmonds draws upon his experience in building and remodeling store fronts for many Cleveland companies for the material in his article.

"The store front is a silent salesman which works 365 days in the year and if given half a chance will return its cost many times over in sales volume," he continued.

"A few of the great advantages of bringing a store front up-to-date are: It becomes a public improvement; it stimulates an activity in the entire community; it gradually builds up a healthy trading center in which to do business."

Attractive Homes an Asset

Two ideas about the American home have had a remarkable growth in recent years. One is that the dwelling of today, if it is to hold a fair position in competition with the motor car and other comparatively recent allure ments from the outside, must display the attractiveness and good taste that characterize many of these other things. But it has become increasingly evident, too, that the task of bringing the home up to the desired artistic level is even more a matter guidance than it is a matter of money. The element of cost must be considered, of course, in any circumstances, But attractiveness of the best sort may be a feature of the moderately priced home as of the motor car of a similar Communities that want the world to know they are air-minded-and most of them apparently have this desirecan make air-marking one of their first important objectives. "It is the easiest way to get on the airman's map." says a pilot with hundreds of hours of cross-country flying to his credit.

The Fireless City

The fire prevention idea has developed into a major community enterprise in the city of Albany, Ga., and it now enjoys the distinction of being regarded as the "Fireless City." With a population of 20,000, it has the lowest annual loss by fire of any city in the country. There were but 91 alarms of fire during 1928 and the total loss was but $4,520. This has been accomplished by wiping out many fire hazards and by maintaining an energetic fire patrol nightly.

Hedwig, as her mother proceeded to light it and pass it to her daughter. "Put it right here in the window, and then I will tell you a story," replied her mother. Hedwig climbed into her mother's lap and the story began: "This is a legend that people have loved for many, many years. It is thought that on Christmas eve the Christ Child returns to earth in search of kind and deserving people. He wanders over hill and dale, from castle to hut. And people who think of this beautiful legend still do as they did in other days. They place lighted candles in their windows that he may see the way and not stumble and fall. Sometimes he does not find people who will open their hearts and doors for him; sometimes he finds the way dark and full of pitfalls; but on and on he goes searching for loving people. So every Christmas eve we place our lighted candle in our window so that if he comes this way he will not find it dark."

"I am glad we have a candle burning," said Hedwig. "Perhaps it will light the way for others, too. Do all little Austrian girls and boys light their candles on Christmas eve?"

"Yes," answered her mother, "and they do it in other parts of the world,

"Father," asked little Marie, "when will Pere Noel come? May I sit up and greet him?"

"No, no, child. No little folks must greet Pere Noel," replied her father. "Go over by the great log and keep very quiet. If you are good this Christmas eve Pere Noel will send down sugar plums in the night." "When shall I put my shoes beside the Yule log, Father? Is it time now?" asked little Marie, who was impatient to have her part of the evening's festivities begin.

Just as soon as the sun sets you will hear the cannons boom forth and the Holy Season will begin. Soon after that we shall start because we want to get a good place in the cathedral tonight."

It was hard for Florian to wait. This was the first time he had been allowed to go to the church services on Holy Night. Always he had seen the others go to this most important church event, but he had had to remain at home. Now the time had come for him to enter into the ceremonies, and he could hardly wait to start.

"Hail Columbia" Written as Offering to Friend

Just to oblige an insistent friend, a Philadelphia judge back in 1798 spent part of one week-end composing a patriotic song which he thought would sink back into obscurity within a week or two.

And the result was one of America's greatest national airs-"Hail Co-

The composer was Joseph Hopkinson, who was widely known for his artistic, musical and literary tastes. It was in the middle of the summer of 1798 that a young actor, Gilbert Fox, for whom the benefit was to be given, went to Hopkinson's home at 338 Spruce street. He explained that there was little prospect of attracting a crowd and asked his friend to help him out.

That was Saturday. The performance was to be on Monday. And early that morning "Hail Columbia" had been completed.

Fox sang the song, accompanied by a full band and a "grand chorus," Crowds sang it on the streets as they left the theater. And a short time later Hopkinson wrote to George Washington:

"The theaters here and in New York have resounded with it night after night and men and boys sing it wherever they go."-Kansas City
