TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Items of news from town, or vicinity are always wanted for this column. Especially accidents, sales of real estate, fires, important happenings, visits to or from the community social events, and all matters of general interest to those at home, and away from home.

This column is not for use in advertising any money-making program, fair, supper, party or sale; except for non-denominational charities or Fire Company or Public Library support.

Churches, Lodges, Societies, Schools, etc., are requested to use our Special Notice Department for money-making events.

Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Benner visited Dr. and Mrs. Curtis Baseahor, at Carlisle, on Tuesday.

Mrs. Nan Dutterer, of Westminster, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Curtis G. Bowers.

Mrs. Norman Sauble was taken to Frederick Hospital, Wednesday evening, for treatment.

Mrs. Edith Mish and son, Galt, of Washington, spent Tuesday with Mrs. Stott and Miss Anna Galt.

Franklin H. Bowersox has had a small office building, erected on the site of his burned warehouse.

Several more sales are registered and advertised in this issue, but the total number is far below that of other years.

Paul E. Koontz returned home, on Wednesday afternoon, from Frederick Hospital, and is recuperating from an appendicitis operation.

William G. Myers, east Baltimore Street, is reported to be seriously ill and under the care of a nurse. Mrs. Myers has also been ill for some time.

A movement is under way to organize a Junior Band in Taneytown, that may contain 30 to 40 members and be composed of both boys and girls.

Miss Edna Crouse was operated, on last Friday, at Frederick Hospital, and a thirty pound tumor was removed. She is reported to be getting along very well.

Everybody should attend one "inauguration" in order to add to wide experience; but, after that most persons decide for themselves that "once is enough."

A representative from the Crown Cork & Seal Company, Baltimore, demonstrated the crown Mason jar caps before the Homemakers' Club, Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Mehning and Mrs. Charles Bositan left on Thursday evening to spend the week-end with Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur B. Mehning, at Silver Springs, and attend the inauguration.

The house "for rent," and the "boy wanted" on a farm, special notices, brought many inquiries. Our specials will bring results to you, if you have something to dispose of that somebody wants!

A letter reached us from Harney, this week, with a number of items; but as the sender did not give his or her name, we do not publish, though most of the items would otherwise be acceptable.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Albaugh and daughter, near town; Mr. and Mrs. Luther Zimmerman and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Freet, of town, visited George Albaugh and family, at New Midway, on Sunday.

Mrs. William Bigham, of Gettysburg, Pa., returned home on Monday evening, after spending several days with Miss M. Lou Reindollar, and also attended the funeral of George W. Galt, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Winget, of Tyrone, Pa.; Mrs. Charles Hahn and grand-daughter, Mary Louise Hinks, of Philipsburg, Pa., spent Monday with Mrs. Martha Fringer and helped her celebrate her 85th birthday. There were also a number of town guests present in the evening.

A. W. Hesson, of Elko, Nevada, was mistakenly called a "Hoover elector" in a local, last week. In fact, he was a Roosevelt elector, and came east partly to attend a reception to the electors, and the inauguration. Our reporter was misled into accepting a joke, as a fact.

Our business men have experienced considerable difficulty in conducting their affairs, this week, due to the scarcity of cash and to inability to get checks cashed that have accumulated in their hands. Only U. S. government checks are exempt from the holiday rule that bars the cashing of checks.

George Mather, Westminster, will deliver a lecture-reading, "My Father's World," an interpretation of God through nature, in the Sunday School room of the Lutheran Church, next Wednesday night, 100 beautiful colored views will be used. This lecture has been highly commended by competent critics. An offering will be taken. The public is invited. There will be special music.

The holiday ordered by the Governor for all of the Banks in the State, was rather quietly received in Taneytown, but was not enjoyed. There is every confidence in the soundness of our local banks, and the average person could not understand why a run on Baltimore banks, should cause banks in the county to be closed. Many business men were considerably inconvenienced in not being able to get checks cashed.

BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE

Four Cows, Machinery and Feed are Included in Loss.

Fire destroyed the barn on the farm on the farm of Jere J. Garner, on the Uniontown road, on Wednesday, and the small barn on the former Embury place, owned by Lawrence Smith and occupied by Norman Selby. The fire was discovered about 10 o'clock and the Taneytown Fire Company summoned, but the building burned rapidly and was destroyed before the arrival of the Company.

Mr. Garner was engaged in hauling out manure and did not know of the fire until he saw neighbors and his wife running, trying to attract his attention. He can give no cause for the fire. A barn on the same location burned down twenty years ago last November.

The total loss is roughly estimated at $2000. Insured in the Dug Hill Company. In addition to the building, four cows were burned, some implement, feed and general barn contents. Fortunately the fire was confined to the barn; and especially unfortunate that the cows were burned.

The cows had been in the barnyard, but as they seemed cold Mr. Garner left them go in the barn, just before he left with the load of manure for a back field.

The Union Bridge Fire Company was called when the Smith barn caught fire, as it was feared that the wind might carry sparks to other buildings and our company could not attend to both fires.

BANK HOLIDAYS AND BANK LEGISLATION.

Bank holidays and bank legislation has been the center of the stage, at present. Ten states have so far adopted the holiday plan and ten other states have placed restrictions on withdrawals.

Congress has also been trying to pass a general banking bill, but it is hanging fire in the House after going through the Senate, due to disagreement with some of its provisions. There are also bills pending concerning insolvent municipalities and mortgage foreclosures, and the House has passed a new and drastic bankruptcy bill previously passed by the Senate, now at the White House for signing.

None of these bills and legislative acts should create fear in the country. On the other hand, they should help to stabilize public opinion, and result in greater financial safety and confidence.

The greater danger in the country today rests with the panicky distrustful ones who foolishly think that their safety rests in drawing their money out of banks, and hiding it somewhere. They do not seem to realize that banks, from their very beginning, have been investing deposits in order that they may draw interest for the banks, in order that interest may be paid to depositors.

Consequently, the heavy withdrawal of deposits at the whim of depositors must be curbed, in order to give the banks a reasonable time to dispose of investments, if need be, to meet these withdrawal demands.

HOME TALENT PLAYS.

The annual presentation of Home Talent Plays by the young people of Baust Reformed Church, near Westminster, will be made on Friday evening, March 3, in the parish house, beginning at 8 o'clock. The first play "Uncle Jimmy" is a one-act modern religious play of Zona Gale, and will be enacted by the following cast of characters: Uncle, Allan Morelock; Mitty, Miss Helen Warehime; Miss Amanda Poplady, Miss Mary Dodrer; Calliope Marsh, Miss Margaret Unger; Miss Postmaster Sykes, Miss Isabel Babylon; Grandma, Mrs. Denton Wantz; Josef, Roland Stonesifer; Uncle Rod, Noah Warehime.

"The Golden Rule" is a one-act comedy and will be given by three characters, Misses Evelyn Maus, Miss Carrie Dodrer and Stanley Lutz. The plays are under the direction of Mrs. M. S. Reifsnnyder. A small admission charge will be made.

A DREAM OF DREAMS.

(Contributed.)

Oh, I am a dreamer of dreams—
I dream as I work and I play,
I see no harm in it, so dream on each minute,
And just hope they all come true some day.

And I do not forget my true friends,
Who may be real day dreamers, too,
So if at this time, you're a true friend of mine,
You know what I'm wishing for you.

Some think it is foolish to dream
To build castles up in the air,
Just don't build them too high, too far up
In the sky,
And they'll not be much worry or care.

It's better than worrying and fretting
The our sky may be cloudy and gray,
And if we keep pace, with a smile on our face,
Our troubles may just slip away.

At least it will lessen the pain,
As we journey from day unto day,
To keep on dreaming dreams, that shine
As sunbeams
And brighten each step of the way.

For there's so much for which to be thankful
We will be until this world ends,
Of one thing to be proud, we should ring
It out loud
And that is for good and true friends.

For it would be a dream world without them,
The friends on whom we can rely,
And we know that the true, will all live
Anew
In the land, of the "Sweet bye and bye."

THE BANK HOLIDAY IN MARYLAND.

Overshadowed the Legislature as the Big News Story.

The bank holidays ordered by Gov. Ritchie, on Saturday, came as a distinct surprise, the banks receiving the information by telegram Saturday morning. The cause of the announcement was the fact that about $13,000,000 had been withdrawn from Baltimore banks, during the week previous to the closing, and without any apparent real justification.

A conference attended by representatives of nearly all of the banks in the city, with Gov. Ritchie and Attorney General Lane present, decided on a three-day's bank holiday—Saturday, Monday and Tuesday—in order that remedial legislation might be passed, largely restricting withdrawals of deposits to some orderly method, also for the purpose of calming public doubt.

There appears to have been no justification for withdrawals at such an extraordinary rate, as the banks shared pretty generally in what appears to have been a "run," that might have developed into greater proportions.

There were no withdrawals beyond the usual, reported from any of the counties. The holiday was ordered solely on account of city banks, and desired to protect depositors.

The banking bill was introduced on Wednesday afternoon in the Senate, which took it in charge at once. The fact that it had been printed in advance led to its earlier understanding. An open hearing was first held after which lasted until night, after which the Finance Committee went into executive session.

The bill would place great power in the hands of the State Bank Commissioner, equal to dictatorship. He would have charge of all banking institutions for six months, and his control could be extended another six months by the Governor and Attorney General. He could restrict withdrawals from banks in any way he saw fit, and according to the capacity of banks individually. He would also have the power to make any changes he may elect in the management and personnel of a bank, subject to the approval of the Governor and Attorney General.

The bill would prohibit any depositor, creditor, stockholder, or other persons interested, in bringing suit against any bank while under the commissioner's control. In general, the provisions of the bill go far into many contingencies, difficult to follow by the average person.

The holiday has been renewed, day by day, and the present outlook now is that it will extend until Monday.

In all, ten states have announced bank holidays, and others are likely to follow.

REDUCED TAXES PROBABLE.

There will likely be a bill presented in the Senate by Senator Baile, that will provide for the collection of taxes in two payments instead of one, in order to relieve taxpayers from paying large sums at one time. The first payment probably to be due September 1 and the second on April 1.

There is also the likelihood of bills being passed for Carroll County reducing the salaries of some county officials. These bills, together with the strong present probability of state-wide legislation reducing expenditures very materially, seem to assure a very material reduction in tax bills for 1933 and 1934.

A bill has been introduced for Frederick county under which the taxpayer would be permitted to pay his tax bill in three instalments—August, April and June, with interest commencing on January 1 after the levy.

HOW TO GROW BETTER CROPS OF POTATOES.

For several years the potato crop in Carroll County, and in neighboring counties, has fallen far short of what should be expected in this section of the State, according to County Agent, L. C. Burns. It is not the purpose of any one interested in any phase of agriculture to increase acreages, or total amounts of the various crops grown. It is important, however, according to Mr. Burns, that we cut the cost of production on all farm operations. This applies specifically to the potato production. Grow less acreages and raise the same number of bushels, thereby reducing the cost of production. In order to accomplish this, three things are necessary and fundamental:

First—Good seed of known origin. Seed that has been produced under supervision and certified as to the purity of variety and disease.

Second—Use only good rich soil with enough organic matter to increase the water holding capacity.

Third—See that the vines are kept covered at all times with a spray to control both insects and blights. Hold vines green over long period.

All of the above are probably equally important, but too much attention can not be attached to the careful selection of the seed stock. It is impossible to produce potatoes economically unless the best of seed is used, together with the careful application of Bordeaux to control insects and diseases. Any one desiring to improve their potato crop can find valuable assistance in a visit to the County Agent. Not necessarily more bushels but by far less cost per bushel.

THE COUNTY AGENT

An Opportunity given to Consider his Value to Farmers.

The following article was received, this week, accompanied by a letter requesting for its publication, which included this sentence, "This article is a plea to farmers and to the citizens of your county, to hold on to their county agent." As this question is one that interests farmers, and to some extent the general taxpayer, we pass it on without comment for their consideration. The entire article that follows is from Mr. Fairbank.

"Aroused to what he believes to be a mistaken idea of economy on the part of the county tax relief committees in advocating, among other things, the removal of the office of county agricultural agent, Miles H. Fairbank, Secretary-Treasurer of the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation, issued a warning this week to the farmers of Maryland to consider carefully all angles before endorsing a program that provides for the elimination of the office of the county agricultural agent.

"Certainly," stated Mr. Fairbank, "after the campaign the Farm Bureau conducted in the interest of tax relief for the farmers in Maryland, which is now being successfully culminated at Annapolis, no one can question my sincerity or the sincerity of the organization I represent, in our endeavor to get real tax relief for the farmers of this state. But, I must confess, I am at a loss to understand how any county, interested in the welfare of its farmers, can recommend the abolishment of the office of the county agent without considering the several angles involved and the very fractional effect such a saving would have on the county tax rate."

"The Extension Service," he continued, "has an educational function and it is on that basis that many farmers and county leaders have permitted themselves to believe it could be dispensed within these distressing times with no consequence or inconvenience to the farmers. But this is only part truth. The county agent represents a "service" which the farmers need today whether they realize it or not. This need would become distressingly apparent if the service in its entirety should be removed. Farmers should not forget that the consuming public has developed unusual demands within the past few years. Cities are demanding milk produced under highly sanitary conditions, from tubercular tested cows. They are demanding inspected meat, graded fruit, sprayed apples, etc. The farmer had nothing to do with the development of this demand, but he has to recognize

A WESTERN WEEKLY TELLS THE STORY.

A Western weekly recently carried a lengthy article, telling how the weekly paper is getting a double dose of the depression, and incidentally repeats a story that is also well known to Eastern papers. The article in part is as follows:

"As a rule newspapers are optimistic. They keep up a bold front even when there is no silver lining in the financial clouds. Seldom does a newspaper tell the public of its hardships and difficulties, but there is no denying the fact that newspapers have suffered, and are suffering from the depression."

"Advertising is a newspaper's main source of revenue, and the volume of advertising, both local and National, has declined more than fifty percent in the last year or two. * * * Many newspapers in former days carried eight or ten pages, half of which were filled with advertising. * * * When extra space must be filled with solid reading matter, the newspaper loses both ways."

MAYOR CERMAK RECOVERING.

Mayor Cermak of Chicago, who was shot by Giuseppe Zangara, who attempted to shoot president-elect Roosevelt, is now said to be recovering, following an attack of pneumonia that developed since the shooting. He has had five doctors in attendance at various times. Dr. Frederick Tice, of Chicago, now says: "Barring unforeseen circumstances, we can now say he will recover."

AUTO INSPECTION LAWS MAY BE CHANGED.

Regulations for the inspection of motor vehicles and the method of providing inspection stations for that purpose would be altered under the provisions of a bill which was before the House Committee on Ways and Means.

Under present law, the commissioner of motor vehicles may authorize "properly qualified persons to make inspections without expense to the State or to the owner of the motor vehicle at stations designated by him, and he may from time to time revoke such authorization or designation."

Under the proposal for alteration of this provision introduced by Delegate James J. Lindsay, Democrat, Baltimore county, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, the commissioner of motor vehicles would be permitted to "appoint and authorize properly qualified persons, firms or corporations to make inspections, without expense to the State."

Such appointment would continue in effect until revoked, and the commissioner at any time may revoke such appointment or authorization and "shall revoke such appointment or authorization when such persons, firm or corporation violates any of the regulations governing the official inspection of the safe factors of a motor vehicle."

INAUGURATION PLANS ARE COMPLETE.

Washington filling up with visitors and Many Paraders.

The program for the inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt as the President of the United States, on Saturday, has been announced, as follows:

12 o'clock Noon—Inauguration of Vice-President Garner in the Senate Chamber.

12:40 P. M.—Presidential party leaves for the inaugural rostrum before the National Capitol.

12:50 P. M.—Oath of office administered to Mr. Roosevelt by Chief Justice Hughes and the beginning of the inaugural address.

1:15 P. M. to 1:25 P. M.—Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt leave for the White House.

2:00 to 4:30 P. M.—Inaugural parade.

10:00 P. M.—Inaugural ball.

As is usually the case, the exact time for each event is apt to vary from the announcement. The President's address will be short—likely less than ten minutes.

Washington is preparing for its great quadrennial event with much the same display as in customary. As the inauguration of President Roosevelt will mark the return of the Democratic party to power after sixteen years absence, it is but natural to expect a surplus of enthusiasm, notwithstanding the depressing effect of the times.

And yet, there will hardly be present a great amount of mere demonstrative partisan rejoicing. As party lines were broken before and at the election, so are they broken now. The new President will come into power, not only with a big majority back of him in Congress, but he will have the earnest good wishes of all for his leadership to aid in bringing back the prosperity that this country so generally hopes for.

The death of Senator Walsh has saddened the Capital, and the more particularly because he was to have been a member of the incoming cabinet; but while it will have a saddening effect, the program will be carried out as planned.

Julia A. Basler, administratrix of Mary E. Blizard, deceased, returned inventories of personal property and real estate.

Letters of administration d. b. n. c. t. a. on the estate of Eudora V. Galt, deceased, were granted to Charles R. Arnold, who received order to withdraw money, and settled his first and final account.

Lilly C. Welty, administratrix of Mary Jane Airing, deceased, reported sale of personal property.

John Graham Melville was appointed guardian for John C. Melville 2nd, Richard G. Melville, George Horner Melville, Anne Hastings Melville, Jean Moore Melville, James Atlee Melville, and William Barton Melville, infants.

Where is the Money?

The most of us know where it is not. Somebody must know where it is. Who will give the information for publication in The Record—real, sensible, well grounded opinions?

A certain amount of money goes to foreign countries for goods; some of it goes out in travel expenses; some of it is burned, some lost and never found, and much of it is in banks.

It is not circulating, and very few are adding to their fortunes, but most are getting steadily poorer. Who has the money? Can you tell us about it in 400 or 500 words?

LEGISLATURE THIS WEEK

Salary and Expense Cuts Among the Chief Measures.

Last Friday afternoon, Gov. Ritchie laid before the legislature his new and reduced budget that calls for a reduction in expenses of $5,646,712 during the next two years. In addition, the Governor proposes a tax of one percent on pari-mutuel bets at race tracks, estimated at $300,000 a year, and the revenue from motor vehicle fines estimated at over $300,000 annually.

The proposed budget cuts are as follows:

A graduated scale of salary reductions; 10 percent to 15 percent, depending on size of salary, will produce $248,536 annually.

A cut in departmental and institutional appropriations, estimated to produce $1,739,139 annually.

A 40 percent flat cut in appropriations to University of Maryland, amounting to $466,474 annually.

A further reduction in appropriations to public schools, cutting operating expenses of Frostburg and Salisbury Normal Schools in half, reducing the number of county Superintendents, amounting to $528,025 annually.

A reduction of state aid to schools, colleges and other institutions, of ten percent, amounting to $42,200 annually.

A large number of local bills were introduced, and some were passed this week. One of the bills for Talbot County provided a general cut in the salaries of county officials.

A resolution presented in the House of Delegates, on Thursday, requires the State Bank Commissioner to ascertain and make public the names of all persons who took part in bank withdrawals held responsible for the bank holiday. Names, addresses, amounts withdrawn and balances remaining would be required concerning all persons, firms or corporations that withdrew funds between February 15 and 25th.

The Banking bill interfered to some extent with the regular course of proceedings. (See reference to this bill in another column.)

Howard J. Cover and Marguerite Henry, Harrisburg, Pa.

GREATEST HAUL OF LIQUOR MADE IN MARYLAND.

Prohibition agents from Hagerstown, this week raided the home of Bawn McRea, at Deerfield, Frederick county, and according to reports seized 1564 gallons of whiskey valued at over $5000. This was the largest haul ever made in Western Maryland. The whiskey was in 5, 10 and 12 gallon kegs in the cellar. McRea was taken to Hagerstown for a hearing before U. S. Commissioner, D. A. Wolfinger.

BLUE RIDGE DRAMATIC CLUB WILL PRESENT PLAYS.

As their third program of the school year, the Blue Ridge Stagers will present three short plays in the college auditorium, March 7, at 8:00 o'clock. The plays to be given are "The Kleptomaniac," "The Trysting Place," and "Copy." These are royalty plays, all of high caliber. The first is a lively comedy with a cast of seven women. The second is a popular comedy by America's well-loved author, Booth Tarkington. This play has a mixed cast. The last play, in which the scene is laid in a newspaper office, and in which comedy and drama combine in swift action, is a new play, presented entirely by men.

Random Thoughts

BEARING "FALSE WITNESS."

How frequently we hear this expression, "I will if I can" and how frequently it means nothing more than "I can if I will," which may mean a strong probability of the "will" not concerning itself in the matter. How we like to create a good impression, and never mean to deliver?

We also say "I would like to do so," and "I'm sorry that I can't," and not actually mean either. In just a few minutes time, one could write out quite a long list of just such fables in speech that we so commonly use—as "false witness," and lying in some degree.

We express pleasures, regrets, compliments, sympathy, that we do not mean at all. Fashionable Society is especially adept at the art. It is said to be cultivated as a talent, and is then called "diplomacy" or social artfulness, or only fibbing.

A good many of us, no doubt, justify some of our resorts to lying because a lot of people ask us questions that are none of their business, and we do not like to give offense in telling them so; but the truth likely is that we are all more or less apt pupils in the art of juggling with truth and make no excuse for it.

MORE STATE POLICE FOR "RAMPANT VIOLATORS."

E. Austin Baughman, representing the Motor Vehicles Department "spilled the beans" when he made request for funds for twenty-five more state police for road patrol because, as he thinks, should prohibition be nullified, our state roads would be "rampant with traffic violators," and told one of his questioners that he would agree that the men were needed "if one of them saved your child."

We wonder whether anybody with reasonably good sense ever thought the highways would be as safe as now, when plenty of booze is to be had? There are too many "drunken driver" cases now, and no stretch of the imagination can picture legalized beer and liquors, as harmless as pop or lemonade.

Mr. Baughman is in a position to judge of likely eventualities, and he believes in preparing for war in times of peace; but who can imagine our Maryland legislature, permitting an item of $90,000 to go into the budget for any such purpose? Mr. Baughman was not diplomatic in bluntly stating why he wanted an increased police force.

And, our Coast Guard officials say that with agitation for the repeal of the 18th. Amendment, they find the job of catching liquor smugglers much harder, and will still be more difficult if National prohibition is abolished. This conclusion is just as logical as that of Mr. Baughman.

Admiral Hamlet of the Coast Guard gave the House Appropriation Committee a lengthy statement, in which he said:

"The first effect of the national election has undoubtedly caused a resumption of smuggling activity on a far greater scale than has been attempted in the past few years. Vessels formerly in the rum-running traffic, which have been laid up for months and in some cases years, are now being outfitted and rushed back into the illicit traffic."

A somewhat well known Frederick county writer—and a decided wet—belittles the Baughman claim, and says:

"In my opinion, if we get rid of prohibition we will get rid of drunken drivers. It will be no longer necessary to carry liquor in our automobiles."

Carrying liquor "in" automobiles, when it is outside of the driver, is entirely harmless; but when it is "in" the driver it matters not whether it was obtained "in our automobiles" or not.

CASH OR CREDIT.

Very few kinds of business can be successfully conducted on the cash basis. Perhaps the Postoffice Department is the greatest specimen of the kind. Banks and great Insurance Companies do not transact a cash business; in fact, they are the greatest investors in credit in this country.

Actually, what this country and every community needs, is not so much actual spot cash payments, as the greater safety of credit transactions. More honesty on the part of debtors, and more strict regard for their obligations.

The sure payment of all loans, or purchases, is all that is needed, and these payments should be at specified times. If a merchant buys on 30 days time, his limit of credit to customers should also be 30 days or some other limit mutually agreed upon.

The credit business is intended to represent a favor to those who need it, as well as a sound of profit to those who give it. It is a partnership plan in which both classes of partners have clear duties to perform, the burden of duty resting on those who are creditors to "pay back" as readily as they were given the asked for credit.

3-CENT POSTAGE BLAMED.

The three-cent postage rate is blamed for causing a vast falling off in postal receipts—in fact, that the loss will run away up into many millions of dollars. This may be due to resentment against 3-cent postage; but again it may be due to an economy that would have been practiced with 2-cent postage.

Should there be a very large increase in the sale of postal cards, that would help along the indictment against 3-cent stamps; but even so we think the decrease in letter writing is merely a decreased expense, with which the advance in letter postage has had comparatively little to do.

The Christmas Card business fell off amazingly, this year, but this too included the expense of cards, as well as postage. This is, of course, not an argument in favor of the retention of 3-cent postage; but is rather a brief analysis of the incident.

THE HUNGRY HORDE.

The political partisans subscribe to the old Jacksonian principle, "To the victors belong the spoils," so there will be no mass protest should the next administration clean house in Washington and replace the departing Republicans with loyal Roosevelt Democrats, it is expected in all quarters.

For three reasons Mr. Roosevelt and his patronage dispenser, Mr. Farley, will not ask for a blanket resignation from cabinet members on down. The first of those reasons is the civil service which some years ago pulled the sharpest teeth from the spoils system. The second is the indisposability of some of the trained jobholders. And the third is the almost human impossibility of recruiting a new army of jobholders of such vast proportions.

Ordinarily the civil service benefits the taxpaying public as well as the jobholder by eliminating losses resulting from breaking in new help, but this year it threatens to operate to the disadvantage of the taxpayers. Economy demands that the new administration sharply curtail its personnel, which runs up into the hundreds of thousands. Party politics demand that it take care of the faithful with jobs in Washington.—Frederick Post.

DIFFICULTY IN REDUCING THE COSTS OF LEGISLATION.

Senator Coad of St. Mary's County, in a recent folder issued by him concerning the problem of state costs and expenditures, says in part:

"The truth of the matter, of course, is that the head of every state department has constantly before him the importance of his department, his desire, quite naturally (if he is interested in whatever work his department is doing) is to expand its usefulness, to enlarge its activities, to multiply its functions, and this requires money—more money, and still more money. Thus it is that efforts toward reducing the cost of state government through curtailments and elimination of budget items by the legislature can never succeed through co-operative action between that body and departmental heads or departmental employees."

If reductions are to be made by the legislature, it means finally that the legislature must take the budget in its own hands and make the reductions it thinks necessary, in view of the situation that may exist at the time. Eventually, this is exactly what the legislature of 1933 must do if any substantial savings to the people of the state is to be brought about.

It may be an unscientific way, it may be an arbitrary way, it may in some instances even be an injurious way, but as long as those who are qualified because of close contact with state departments will not assist, but on the contrary, stubbornly insist that they have nothing further to offer that would cut down expense, the legislature, if it is to do anything at all, must act on its own initiative in whatever seems the wisest, most equitable way."

This sounds like the voice of an earnest man telling the whole truth as he sees it, and likely just as the facts are. Those who have fat offices are aware of the fact, and are not receptive to much, if any, scaling down of pay for their valuable services; and notwithstanding the fact that the county is full of competent substitutes who would gladly have the jobs at greatly less pay.

THE NEW ADMINISTRATION.

The American people—and somewhat more remotely, the world—can find encouragement in the way the Roosevelt Administration is taking shape. Announcements, formal and informal, of Cabinet appointments, have pretty well settled its principal personnel. And Mr. Roosevelt's talks with members of Congress, foreign envoys, politicians and reporters in recent weeks have given more than a hint as to its policies.

Earlier rumors about an all-star cast for the Cabinet have been laid. This is to be no team of Democratic giants. The Owen Youngs, Newton Bakers and "Al" Smith are noticeable by their absence. There is not even a prima donna in the list now semi-officially put forward. Those acquainted with the difficulty of obtaining effective teamwork from political bed-fellows, particularly when some of them are "out sizes," will not regret this lack. Harmony within the incoming President's official family may be all the greater because of it.

But if Mr. Roosevelt has avoided the difficulty which Lincoln experienced with his Seward and Chases, he has not chosen a weak Cabinet. While not outstanding personalities, the tentative members are almost all peculiarly well fitted for their particular posts.

As to policies, the naming of Senator Cordell Hull to be Secretary of State, and of his fellow Tennessean, Mr. Norman H. Davis, to remain as chief delegate to the Disarmament Conference and principal unofficial observer in Europe, in itself helps to define prospective foreign policy. Both belongs to the Wilson tradition. Both have been in sympathy with the Hoover-Stimson effort toward fuller American co-operation with Europe.

In addition, Mr. Hull is especially qualified to set in motion a reciprocal tariff policy, and his appointment confirms the indications already given by the President-elect that he intends to seek improvement of American trade and of international relations by that method. This is likely to be the principal change in foreign policy. Mr. Roosevelt has already shown his desire to maintain the United States' present attitude in other important respects, such as non-recognition of Manchoukuo and encouragement of disarmament.

In the vital matter of domestic policy as regards currency, the appointment of Mr. William H. Woodin to be Secretary of the Treasury, coupled with statements of Mr. Roosevelt himself, is taken as assurance that the incoming Administration will oppose inflation, certainly inflation in its wilder aspects.

On several other domestic issues the attitude of the next Administration has been fairly well outlined by platform pledges and Mr. Roosevelt's pronouncements. Drastic, economy farm relief through something resembling the domestic allotment plan, further efforts to provide unemployment relief, re-organization of federal administration, rehabilitation of the railroads, better regulation of banking and investment agencies, and public development of government-owned water-power sites can be set down as definite aims.—Christian Science Monitor.

OVERCOMING ADVERSITY.

A man passing along a road one day, heard his name called from a mudhole along the roadside. Down in the hole was a large bullfrog.

"I have been down in this hole three days," said the frog, "without anything to eat, and I wish you would help me out."

The man remembering that he was on an important mission, and had little time to spare, replied: "I'm sorry old man, I can't help you now, but on my way back I'll give you a lift out of the hole."

A short time later as the man came back he was surprised to find the frog sitting in the middle of the road, contentedly looking around and in the best of spirits.

"I thought you said you couldn't get out of that hole," said the man.

"I thought I couldn't either, until a snake came along and I just had to get out," replied the frog.

There are lots of people these days, very much like the frog, they are discovering they can do things that they thought were impossible. In times of pressure and necessity we find that with a little extra effort we can overcome many adversities. In good times no one uses more than a fraction of his ability and resourcefulness. But when the snake of adverse times comes along we just have to get out of the hole. The determination of the American people, fortunately is like the frog in the above case when we have to do something we can do it.

Perhaps it is a good thing for humanity that life is not always pleasant and easy. Intelligence, ability and character are only developed to their best in the face of adversity. The harder the struggle, the more fun there is in looking back on it, after the problem has been overcome.—Potomac Edison News.

PROBLEMS FACING THE WET ARMY GENERALS.

The following is a portion of an editorial from the Philadelphia Inquirer:

"As was anticipated, the House has fallen in line with the Senate, and Congress, by more than a two-thirds majority in both branches, has adopted the 18th. Amendment repeal resolution. With the signatures of Speaker Garner and Vice-President Curtis, it goes to the Secretary of State. Mr. Stimson's duty is to forward it to the individual states. The whole question, therefore, is now placed before the people of the forty-eight Commonwealths. They will elect delegates to State conventions and these conventions will determine whether the Amendment is to be stricken from the Constitution or retained. It may be well to bear in mind that thirteen States can prevent ratification."

"Nevertheless the situation is confused. The fact is that no State is sure of just where it stands. All of them very much need to know what their functions are. Conventions never have been called to ratify or reject proposed amendments to the Constitution. Always Legislatures have acted. But the Constitution plainly provides the alternative, and in so important an issue as Federal prohibition or liquor control by the individual Commonwealths, the one proper thing to do is to put the matter right up to the votes of the people themselves—votes recorded for or against the choice of delegates free from all other questions. For this is no political controversy—no affair of a political party. It is one to be settled by the ballots of every citizen according to his own views—Republican, Democrat or what not.

Since there never have been conventions, what methods are to be pursued? Is a Legislature to be left to its own resources? Or is to be subject to enactment of Congress defining a uniform system? Opinions differ. Should Congress pass a law regulating the number of delegates in each State, the manner of the election whether by districts or on a ticket at large, and fixing a date which would be common throughout the United States, its constitutionality no doubt would be promptly challenged.

"But if the present Legislatures are to go ahead on their own responsibility they will have to decide upon plans of their own. In what manner should delegates be apportioned? By Congressional districts, by Senatorial districts, by legislative districts, or by a combination? In any district arrangement that applying to the unit which chooses a member of the State House of Representatives would be the fairest. But units differ in population. The one way by which the majority sentiment in a given Commonwealth can surely be ascertained is by the election of delegates for or against ratification on a ticket at large. It will be seen, therefore, that the Legislatures may have troubles of their own if Congress does not issue its own decree."

"Opponents of the 18th. Amendment have won their first great victory. They have succeeded in influencing Congress to start repeal through its first stages. But this is only the beginning of the fight. They have still to induce thirty-six out of the forty-eight States to ratify the repeal resolution. That is a good many—thirty-six. It is gratifying that at least one thing of genuine importance has been actually accomplished. Prohibition has been taken out of party politics. Hereafter Presidents and members of Congress may be elected without interference by advocates or opponents of prohibition. Liquor is served from the November elections."

Ghost in Jail Corridor Brings Lawyer's Arrest

Bucharest.—A new method of advertising was invented by Constantine Stama, attorney at law, stationed in Cluj, Transylvania.

The warden of the local prison received several complaints from the convicts that a ghost was walking every night through the main dormitory and was frightening them by its strange behavior.

Detectives were sent to investigate the mystery and discovered that a man, wearing a white sheet, passed several times every night through the dormitory. As soon as he made his appearance, he gave a piercing yell and proceeded to deliver in a hoarse voice the following speech:

"Those of you who do not want their bones to rot in this prison should ask the help of Lawyer Constantine Stama."

The ghost was arrested and it was found that it was the dormitory guard himself, Vasile Suci, who was paid by the lawyer to advertise the latter's services in this strange manner. The guard is now out of a job and the lawyer is behind the bars.

Mice Eat Man's Fortune; Shock of Loss Is Fatal

Belgrade.—Nesting mice in an attic robbed a farmer in Veleki Kidinda of his fortune and his life at one stroke. Without telling his wife, he had been saving for years in 20-dinar notes to buy a large farm for himself, hiding the money in a packing case in the attic over a granary.

Recently he decided to buy a farm which had been offered to him for 200,000 dinars. When he told his wife, she asked him with astonishment where he expected to find the money for the purpose. For answer he took her arm and led her to the packing case. When he opened it, he found the mice had left nothing for his fortune but a litter of paper. Horror-struck, he was seized with a heart attack and dropped dead.

Thieves Steal Concrete Walk Weighing 9 Tons

San Pedro, Calif.—Police were amused when Nick Chapelle reported that some one had stolen his concrete sidewalk.

But it proved to be true when they found a 50-foot stretch of sectional concrete walk that had adorned Chapelle's property had vanished.

"Let's see," said one policeman, "at 145 pounds per cubic foot, that sidewalk must have weighed nine tons."

GREETINGS, Sahib! This is the Great Egg Trick which was disclosed to me by fakirs of Bombay in far-off India and which I will now teach you so you may mystify your friends to their delight and entertainment.

A party of tourists were watching a fakir perform on a sidewalk in Bombay. Placing several eggs in front of him, he exclaimed "A pearl of great price to the person who can make an egg spin!" They all tried to spin the egg which he had placed before them but they could not. Then he leaned forward, passed his hand over an egg, and pushed it gently with his fingers causing it to spin merrily. You, too, can mystify your friends

Each week, Chandu, the popular radio Magician of the Air, brings to you a mystifying trick which he learned in some far-off country. You can perform any of these tricks with a little practice, and need no special apparatus to do so.

with this Great Egg Trick as does Chandu, the Magician of the Air. Secure a hard boiled egg beforehand and conceal it in your sleeve. Then place several raw eggs in front of your friends, asking them to try to spin them. While their attention is busy with the spinning, bring forth the hard boiled egg and substitute it for the raw one, spinning it. The raw ones will not!

Rich Red Soups

IN weather like this you want nourishing soups that look hot as well as taste hot. To accomplish this there is nothing like tomatoes which impart their cheery tinge of warm red. So we're going to tell you about two rich and spicy indeed—

Tomato Broth with Asparagus: Simmer gently for fifteen minutes the contents of a No. 3 can of tomatoes, one slice onion, one-fourth teaspoon pepper corn, one-fourth teaspoon allspice berries, one teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon sugar; then press through a sieve. Add two and one-half cups chicken stock, or two and one-half cups water with one chicken bouillon cube, the liquor from a No. 1 can of asparagus tips, and the tips themselves, cut in pieces. Heat to boiling and serve. Serves eight.

A Quick Soup
If you're in a hurry, here's a way to have a warm red soup that's made much quicker.

Quick Vegetable Soup: Simmer one slice onion with the contents of a No. 1 can of tomatoes for five minutes; then press through a sieve. Add one can of bouillon, or an equivalent amount of water containing one bouillon cube, the contents of an 8-ounce can of vegetables for salad, and one cup water. Season to taste with salt and pepper, and boil several minutes. Serves six.

BETRAYS FRIEND WHO TRUSTED HIM

Write an End to 34 Years' Confidence—in Jail.

Chicago.—Thirty-four years ago an eager boy of thirteen years walked in to the law office of Attorney Patrick L. McArdle and asked for a job. McArdle had just opened his office and his budget did not include an office boy, but impressed by the boy's alert manner he hired him.

During the hours of leisure McArdle freshened his knowledge of law by instructing the boy, who proved an apt pupil. As the business grew the boy performed his duties ably until he won the affection of his employer.

McArdle looked upon him as a younger brother and later as a son. He sent the boy through law school. When the boy completed his course and became Attorney Anthony J. Schmidt, McArdle gave him space in his suite at 30 North La Salle street, although he did not enter into partnership with him. The attachment grew with the years.

Recently McArdle appeared in the office of Chief of Detectives Schoemaker. He asked for two policemen to make an arrest. When he attempted to tell why he wanted the men his voice broke with sobs.

McArdle went to his suite, flung open the door to Schmidt's office and said, "Arrest that man." McArdle sank into a chair. Schmidt bowed his head.

"Several weeks ago people came to see me about Schmidt and told of being victimized by him," McArdle said. "At first I would not believe them, but at last even I was convinced. The final proof was a real estate mortgage which he sold me four years ago for $2,500. On investigation I learned that no such property existed."

"Look at this," McArdle said to the policemen. He produced his will, which included a bequest of $5,000 to Schmidt. He tore up the will as Schmidt was led away by the detectives. Later he was charged with embezzlement and obtaining money under false pretenses.

City Sealer Bares 68 Ways Public Is Cheated

Chicago.—There are at least sixty-eight different ways to gyp a customer and Chicago merchants have been using all of them, City Sealer Joe Grien said.

A butcher, he said, kept a ten-ounce lamb rib tied to his scales. Another used paper padded with salt pork which he slipped on and off the scales with the wrappers.

Pieces of iron were found inserted in poultry. Some merchants used fractions to confuse the buyers. Grocers soaked berry boxes in water, then dented them so they would hold fewer berries. Old gold buyers used scales that had never been tested.

Even the bootleggers were "short-weighting" their customers, said Grien. They sold alcohol in "five-gallon" cans which really held only four gallons and a quart.

Gets 25-Year Term With Year to Live

Chicago.—The law took a more optimistic view of William O'Brien's future than did medicine.

O'Brien, thirty-two years old, was sentenced to 25 years in prison for the slaying of William Walsh in a gun battle that followed an attempted holdup. O'Brien was brought into court on a stretcher. He is paralyzed from the waist down from a bullet fired by a policeman in the battle.

Physicians say he cannot survive more than a year. Prosecutors insisted that he receive at least a 25-year sentence.

Georgia Woman Hurt in Odd Automobile Crash

Hampton, Ga.—Mrs. E. L. Sheridan was injured in a strange accident here. An automobile from the sheriff's office, which was chasing a suspected rum running car at the time, crashed into the Sheridan automobile. The impact hurled Mrs. Sheridan from the front seat into the rear seat. Then, when the Sheridan car crashed into a parked automobile from its impetus, Mrs. Sheridan was hurled feet first through the windshield of her car.

Victim Talked Too Much; Loses His False Teeth

El Paso, Texas.—E. L. Bryant is cured of protesting to robbers.

Not only did two men take his coat, vest and $1.75 in cash, but made him take out his false teeth and hand them over.

"The robbers saw the gold in my teeth when I opened my mouth to protest and made me take them out and give them up," Bryant complained.

Look at Gun Frightens Kansas Rabbit to Death

Lawrence, Kan.—William Fortner believes he may have found the very rabbit which lent its name as a synonym for timidity. Hunting along a dirt road with Charles Baxter, he encountered a rabbit face to face, hopping toward them. Fortner swung his gun to his shoulder. Both hunters assert the rabbit took one scared look, then toppled over dead without a shot having been fired.

OVERCOAT BUTTON BETRAYS KILLER

O. Henry Tale Comes True to Convict Murderer.

New York.—Twenty-five years ago O. Henry wrote a story of a murder solved by an overcoat button in a dead man's hand—and the slayer was a negro. The victim was his former friend. You may have read it under the title, "A Municipal Report." Writers of detective tales have used the idea ever since.

It was a good idea and not too good to be true. For in General Sessions an overcoat button in a dead man's clenched hand has convicted a negro of murder. The killer was Ralph Green. He shot his life-long friend, Ned Walker.

When detectives found Walker a brown bone button was gripped in his cold fingers. Shreds of thread and fabric clung to it. When they found Green the top button of his overcoat and part of the cloth was missing. He said he had lost the button in Newark and had not been near where the murder was committed.

But on the witness stand James Crittack, a textile expert, swore that the button came from Green's coat. He analyzed the shreds of thread, the fragment of fabric and the hole and texture of the overcoat.

The slayer wept when he was sentenced to serve from twenty years to life in prison. The motive? Robbery—and robbery was the motive in O. Henry's story, too!

Coal Bucket Handle Aids Prisoners in Jail Break

Rockport, Ind.—Using the handle from a coal bucket, three men pried bricks from beneath a window of the jail here and escaped. They were Monroe Nalley, Herbert Nalley and Ben Haines, all of Owensboro, Ky., who had been held for two weeks charged with thefts from many Indiana farmers. It was the second jail break here in six months.

Dog Hero Calls Master When Fire Attacks Home

Napa, Calif.—When the Charles Regalia home caught fire early one morning, "Splinters," small fox terrier, ran a half mile and summoned his master who was milking cows. Regalia rescued his wife and four children and although the Regalias were temporarily out a home "Splinters" is the neighborhood hero.

Slot Machinist Loses Coins, Temper and Life

New Straitsville, Ohio.—Howard Harzny, thirty-eight years old, is dead because he tried to shoot it out with a slot machine. Infuriated at his poor success in a soft-drink parlor, Harzny pulled out a pistol and blazed away at the slot machine in which he had dropped a number of coins. An argument with bystanders developed and Harzny fell with four bullets in his body. Police arrested Earl Flatzer.

Breeding Hints

Males should be placed in the breeding pen so as to give them plenty of time to accustom themselves to new surroundings and will also allow about 60 days for the birds to be mated and in production before eggs are saved for hatching purposes. Too much time cannot be spent in selecting these breeding males. Before turning them in to the breeding pen be sure that they are vigorous birds with proven performance, and conform to the standard of the breed.

Timely Poultry Hints

Mangel beets do not rank as high as poultry feed as in the past. Some poultry men believe that the feeding of mangels injures the hatchability of the eggs. Possibly the hens that fill up on succulent mangels do not have room for the green feed which contains the vitamins that improve hatchability. We find that alfalfa is about the finest green feed for hens and believe that every poultry man should plan on raising or buying a few loads each year for winter storage for the poultry. Carrots seem to be a more useful succulent feed than mangels and a lot of carrots can be raised in a small space in the garden.

Winter Laying

To insure winter laying, on which so much depends, early-hatched pullets are important. Chickens reared in the early spring with ordinary attention develop into sturdy robust stock and mature satisfactorily for autumn production. White Wyandottes, Buff Plymouth Rocks and Rhode Island Reds are breeds that have established fine reputations as winter layers. Being of the middle-weight class, they are also able to produce fine, plump birds for the table.

English Egg-Laying Contest

"The national" egg-laying contests at Milford, Surrey, England, is said to be the world's largest egg-laying competition, with 3,311 pullets of various breeds competing. The eighth month has just been concluded. In that period 405,914 eggs have been laid, an average of 127.4 per bird. A pen of 12 Black Leghorns at present is highest, with 1,823 eggs to their credit, an average of 152.3 eggs per bird in the eight months of the "trials," as they are designated in England. A Single Comb Rhode Island Red pullet leads the individual bird record of special and first-grade eggs with a total of 213 of such grading. Another Red pullet has the best record over all birds with 218, 36 of which, however, were below the required two ounces in weight.

Body Weight Important

According to the agricultural extension service, University of Missouri, pullets frequently lose weight after two or three months of heavy egg production and if prompt attention is not given, they are likely to cease laying and molt. If taken in time, this condition can usually be corrected without serious loss in egg production by giving a supplementary feed of moistened fattening mash some time during the day, preferably at noon, until the pullets have regained the weight lost because of rapid laying.

The following mixture fed daily at the rate of three to five pounds for 100 pullets will usually produce the desired result:

Fattening Mash—six pounds corn meal, three pounds shorts and one pound dried milk.

The daily feed of this mixture should be moistened with enough water to form a crumbly mash and fed in the mash feeders or long troughs so that each pullet can get her share. If skim milk is available, it should be used to moisten the mixture and the dried milk may be omitted.—Missouri Farmer.

KEEP DISEASE OUT OF POULTRY FLOCK

Infection Can Be Spread in Many Ways.

If your neighbor gives you a chilly reception when you tramp into his chicken pens uninvited, do not feel offended. He merely is following one of the first rules of poultry sanitation.

An all too common method of spreading infectious diseases in poultry flocks is by visitors to the flock who may have come from other flocks where diseases are present, declares Dr. Charles Murray, chief of the veterinary investigation section at Iowa State college.

Doctor Murray's advice is as follows:

"Never discuss your neighbor's disease situation with him in your own or his poultry pens.

"Never permit a buyer of poultry, a peddler of remedies, or a culler to visit your poultry houses or yards unless he disinfects his shoes or slips on a pair of overshoes you have for him.

"Keep newly purchased stock or that which has returned from shows, fairs, or egg-laying contests in quarantine several weeks before placing it in the home flock."—Hoard's Dairyman.

All communications for this department must be signed by the author; not for publication, but as an evidence that the items contributed are legitimate and correct. Items based on mere rumor, or such as are likely to give offense, are not wanted.

We desire correspondence to reach our office on Thursday, if at all possible. It will be necessary, therefore, for most letters to be mailed on Wednesday, or by Post Mail, west, on W. M. R. E., Thursday morning. Letters mailed on Thursday evening may not reach us in time.

MANCHESTER.

On Sunday, March 5, at 7:00 P. M., Rev. F. F. Leonard, of the American Bible Society, with State Headquarters at Baltimore, will speak of the work of that organization. Hunt your work Bible and bring them. You may receive an award, as recognition will be given to the persons bringing the oldest, newest, largest, smallest, most worn, and most marked Bible, respectively. Bibles may be in any language.

A C. E. Society was organized at Snodgrass Lutheran and Reformed Church, Sunday afternoon. The officers elected were duly installed by Mr. Paul F. Kuhns, Pres. of the Co. Union who also brought greetings of the Union. Other Co. Union officers who brought greetings are Frank S. Stewart, Ray C. Hook, Guy Fowler, Chas. D. Bankert, Miss Mabel Albert, Miss Minnie Zumbur, Ross Hogacker, and Rev. Dr. John S. Hollenbach. Mrs. Stewart also brought greetings, as did Miss Mildred Warehime, Pres. of the Lineboro Reformed Society. Rev. L. M. Schulze, the Lutheran Pastor, voiced his approval of the new step taken, and pledged his support to the movement. Rev. Dr. Hollenbach, the Reformed Pastor, expressed his pleasure in the fact that societies were organized at his three churches during his pastorate, thus making him a 100% C. E. pastor. Mr. Carroll C. Smith, the President, responded to the greetings. So did Mr. William Martin, one of the forward looking young men, who was responsible for the organization of the new society.

Rev. John S. Hollenbach and family visited friends in York, on Monday.

DETOUR.

William Stambaugh has accepted the position of farm manager for Dr. Marlin Shorb, and will occupy the house, to be vacated by David Sharer.

An interesting program was enjoyed at the fellowship meeting, held in Woodsboro Lutheran Church, on Tuesday evening. Rev. R. C. Sorrick, Baltimore, a former pastor was the speaker for the evening. Miss Edna Smith gave several readings. Refreshments were served by the Women's Bible Class. There was a large attendance.

Miss Julia Derr, Ceresville, was a week-end guest of Janetee Koons.

Miss Vallie Shorb entertained a number of her friends to cards, on Thursday evening. Among the out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Erb, Westminster; Misses Dorothy and Mildred Zumbur, and Mr. Thomas Zumbur, McKinstry's Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dorsey, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Frock, Miss Pansy DeBerry and Edgar Kiser, all spent Sunday in Baltimore.

Mrs. W. R. Smith, Taneytown, spent one day, last week, with her cousin, Mrs. H. T. Delaplaine.

The Detour-Keysville Homemakers' Club met at the home of Mrs. Robert Valentine, Tuesday. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Robert Stine. There were ten members present. They adjourned to meet at the home of Miss Vallie Shorb, the third Tuesday in March.

William Renner, Rocky Ridge, is at present confined to his bed. Mr. Renner has been agent for the Western Maryland Railroad, at Emmitsburg Junction, for a number of years.

A number of friends gave Miss Gloria Hoover a surprise birthday party, on Thursday evening. Her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hoover, Frederick, was also present.

KEYMAR.

Miss Ella Gilliland, of Gettysburg, who spent a week with her cousin, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Galt, also spent Monday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Saylor. She was accompanied home, Wednesday, by Mrs. Saylor.

Stewart Reese and wife, of Littlestown and Reno Haines, of Middleburg, spent Sunday evening at the home of Carl Haines, wife and family.

Glenn Kiser returned home from the Frederick Hospital, on Sunday, and is getting along nicely.

FEESERSBURG.

Evidently, "the Lion" didn't wait until March 1st., to put in an appearance, the way he's been howling around the past week. Such a terrific wind during Saturday night, and stormy ever since; but clear skies and bright sunshine.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Almon, their daughter, Thelma and child, of Fullerton, Baltimore, were visitors in the C. Wolfe home, on Wednesday of last week, where Luther Utermahlen and wife were spending the day with mother Gilbert, Mrs. Stanley Gilbert and children, of Reese, spent Saturday at the same place.

After an absence of two weeks, Mrs. John Davis returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Shaffer, last Wednesday.

Mrs. Mammie Starr Stuffle is spending this week with her brother, J. N. Starr and family, and calling on old neighbors.

This community was greatly stirred by the accident of Peter Gilbert having his hand torn off in the fodder shredder, last Thursday. He is doing as well as can be, and is soon expected home from the Hospital, in Baltimore. Edward Dayhoff buried the hand, on Sunday.

Last Thursday Joseph Bostian had the misfortune to get particle of steel filing in his left eye, from which he suffered 24 hours, then drove to Frederick to an eye specialist and had the obstruction removed and was relieved. Strange how a wee object within the eye-lids can assume the proportion of a large rock, and cause so much pain.

Movings are in order now: Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Delphay have vacated the W. Wilson property, in Middleburg, and moved into the west end of the F. Harbaugh place, locally known as the "Long Stone House."

On Tuesday, Jacob Hahn and family moved from the H. Spurrier house, to the home of Johnny White, in Bruceville.

Mrs. Grace Straw and daughters are moving to Westminster, on Main St., near the College.

Jacob and Mrs. Edrina Wilson Hahn attended the funeral of their nephew, Walter Cleveland Wilson, aged 14 months, at the home in Bruceville, on Monday morning. Rev. E. Culp conducted the service, with burial in Keysville cemetery.

Mrs. Maggie Crouse Davis recently received a letter from "Sister Anna", of the Lutheran Deacons' Home, Baltimore, well known to many persons in Carroll Co., who is attending her aged mother, in Tyrone, Pa., who has been in bed since September, and is in an enfeebled condition in mind and body, being reduced to about 80 pounds in weight.

On Saturday evening, at the parsonage of the Reformed Church, in Littlestown, John N. Starr, of Mt. Union, and Mrs. Margaret Baker Forney, of Hanover, were united in marriage, attended by Neuw and Thelma Nusbaur, grand nephew and niece of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Starr returned to his home, on Sunday.

Some of the employees of the Cement Plant of Union Bridge were called to work again, the first of this week. How much happier every one is with an honest occupation—"tis good for body and mind, and soul—for 'The blessing of earth is toil."

Dragging the mud roads certainly helps to level things and saves digging cars out of ruts.

A large party of neighbors and friends assembled at the home of Edward Caylor, on Monday evening, and about 9 o'clock proceeded to the home of J. N. Starr, where with loud instruments, they serenaded the bride and groom, who after awhile appeared and received congratulations. Everyone was invited into the dining room, where cake and lemonade were served generously. Afterward games were indulged in and the company said a late farewell, but all had a jolly time.

Shrove Tuesday and Ash Wednesday—did you make "fastnacks"; and sprinkle ashes over the cows for clean health and on the rose bushes to protect them from insects this year? Old customs and superstitions; but in the Churches—Lent begins, for six weeks of remembrance.

UNION BRIDGE.

The local branch of the Lehigh Portland Cement Company, which closed down temporarily, the middle of last December, resumed operations on Thursday of this week, with G. S. LaForge, superintendent. Some of the force were called to work on Saturday of last week, to make some repairs and to get the power house in readiness prior to opening the plant. We were all glad, indeed, to have experienced this movement.

Some one has said: "There is no rest for the weary, and I might add that 'there is no rest for our Firemen,' as it seems as though our boys are continually on the go, to save life and property, which of course is their duty, and they certainly do not try to shirk their duty, as no good fireman in any community would think of that. Our boys answered two calls last week, with slight damages resulting, and one call, which was disastrous, which was near Taneytown.

Misses Audrey Stansbury, of Upper Marlboro; Miss Gladys Carpenter, of Owings Mills, and Miss Melva Wilkins, of Chestertown, called last Saturday evening, on their old schoolmate, Miss Mary Ann Marsh, who is making her home with Mrs. Rosa Bohn, on "the Hill."

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Smith, of Mantion, Mich., are making a brief visit with their daughter, Mrs. Everette Culp. Mr. and Mrs. Smith spent a part of the winter in Florida, and from there they were visiting in Wilmington, Del., from which place they came to the Culp home.

The Epworth League of the M. E. Church held a social, in the basement of the church, on last Monday evening. A program was rendered, after which refreshments were served. Hyman Israel, one of our local merchants, has been indisposed for some time, suffering with Sinus trouble.

Many of our townfolks are nursing colds and other minor ailments, although a few cases might be termed as more serious.

We have been rather busy, this week, and did not have much time to collect news, but we hope to do better by next week.

WALNUT GROVE.

Miss Novella Fringer has just recently returned home, after spending a few days with Mrs. Birnie Feeser and Mrs. Minnie Anderson, of Taneytown.

Little Billie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steward Boyd, has been very ill, but is improved. Those who called to see him during his illness were: Rev. and Mrs. Birnie Bowers and children, Mary Ellen, Monroe, Lloyd and Leonard, of near Harney; Mrs. Theodore Fringer and daughter, Novella, of Walnut Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Marica Bowers, daughters, Mary and Elva, of Black's; Mrs. Fern Baumgardner and Miss Lovella Reese, of Alloways Run, and Mrs. Helen Bowers, of here.

Mr. and Mrs. Leverage Rittace, and sons, Billie and Kenneth, called on Mr. Rittace's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rittace, and the former's brother, Roscoe, of Taneytown, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bowers, near Harney, who recently sold his home, moved to his daughters, Mrs. Albert Reese. Mr. and Mrs. Milton Cutsail and daughter, moved from Robert Reaver's home to their new home, where Mr. Bowers vacated recently.

Charlotte and Charles Rinehart, spent their 6th birthday with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rinehart, Monday.

Miss Eva Wanz and friends, of Emmitsburg, called on Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Fringer, this place, on Sunday evening.

Mrs. John Spangler recently visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rinehart, of this place.

Many of William Hawk's friends, were shocked to hear of his death, which occurred recently. Mr. Hawk's father was a brother of the late Mrs. Worthington Fringer.

Mrs. Grace Rows recently called on Mr. and Mrs. Howard Foreman and daughter, Anna. Harry Pittinger, of Fairview, called at the same place.

Many folks thought winter was broke, but the weather sure must be showing that old Mr. groundhog is fast asleep yet.

Miss Gladys Lawrence, a friend of Miss Novella Fringer, has returned from Taneytown to Wolf's Mill, to remain with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lawrence.

Miss Novella Fringer recently received a letter from West Carrollton, Ohio, stating that work is very scarce in the West, and many beggars and small children are very hungry and are asking for food, and clothes to keep warm. They say it almost makes your heart ache to see small children so hungry that they can hardly walk anywhere.

UNIONTOWN.

Rev. M. L. Kroh attended the Pre-Lenten Service, at Gettysburg Seminary, on Monday.

Last Thursday evening, quite a crowd was present to enjoy the evening program at the school auditorium. On Friday evening, a community card party was held at the same place, for the benefit of school grounds. It too was well attended. Visitors were present from adjoining towns and neighborhood.

On Sunday, Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Hoch entertained Mr. A. S. Loizlaux and son, Hudson Loizlaux, and Russell Melchior, of Baltimore, the former helped Rev. Hoch at his preaching appointments. This week, Rev. Hoch entertained Rev. George M. Landis, Fayetteville, who is the leader for the Bible conference, held in the county, this week.

Wednesday afternoon and evening services will be held in the Bethel, at this place. These meetings are considered very interesting and instructive.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Eyster and son Aden Eyster, York New Haven, visited their daughter, Mrs. Kroh and family, at the Lutheran parsonage.

We are glad to welcome new neighbors. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel King, of Bark Hill, took possession of their lately purchased home, from Solomon Myers, on Tuesday.

On Wednesday afternoon, Rev. George Landis, leader of the Bible Conference, gave a very beautiful account of "The Preciousness of Christ" and his great love for man, and warned his followers to so love one another.

The monthly meeting of the Parent Teacher Association was held on Thursday evening in the school auditorium. The program was as follows: Scripture reading and prayer, the Rev. A. H. Greene; played by the second grade; movies by the third and fourth grades; recitation, Burns Fleibridge; vocal solo, Mrs. Russell Fleibridge; address by Prof. M. S. Unger, followed by a play by the patrons, entitled, "Tuning up for the Wedding."

The Bassett Sisters are trying to prepare for an elaborate wedding and encounter every species of comic disaster. A woman book agent adds to their worries, but finally helps them out of their difficulties in a most unexpected way. A pair of impish twins add to the hilarity. The cast was as follows: Leatha Bassett, the future bride, Blanche Halter; Emily Bassett, Doris Haines; Nina, just home from college, Thyra Heltbridge; the terrible twins, Dorothy Crouse and Dorothy Segafosse; a chum of the twins, Hazel Simpson; Mrs. Bayne, a neighbor, Lola Crouse; Mrs. Ragan, another neighbor, Caroline Shriner; the book agent, Grace Cookson; Delia, the cook, Nellie Lockard.

U. S. Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Montana, died suddenly from a heart attack early Thursday morning while on board an Atlantic Coast line train, near Wilson, N. C., while traveling with his wife to Washington, to participate in the inaugural day ceremonies.

Senator Walsh had been married on Saturday, in Havana, Cuba to Senora Nivas Perez Chaumont de Truffin. He had also been chosen to be Attorney General in the Roosevelt cabinet. He was 73 years of age.

He had been ill the day before his death and received medical treatment apparently for indigestion, but appeared better. At some time during the early hours Thursday morning he arose from his berth and fell to the floor, where his wife found him dead.

Canada Will Have Chain of Plane Landing Fields

Calgary, Canada.—A chain of aviation landing fields across Canada is being planned by the Dominion's department of national defense, and survey parties are now at work establishing the sites of the proposed fields.

These fields will be in the nature of emergency landing fields along three stretches where no fields now exist. The stretches to be covered are from Halifax to Montreal, from Ottawa and Toronto to Winnipeg, and from Lethbridge, Alberta to Vancouver, British Columbia.

Odd Accident Is Fatal

Tacoma, Wash.—Just as a speeding automobile rounded a turn on a mountain highway, a rotten, 40-foot snag of a fir tree crashed across the highway in front of an automobile driven by Louis J. Larsen. He was killed and a companion, Alex McEachern, fifty-two, suffered critical head injuries.

MR. JOHN R. STONER.

Mr. John R. Stoner, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abram Stoner, of Union Bridge, died in a hospital in Albany, N. Y., on Wednesday of last week, aged 71 years. He was taken ill while on a visit to his brother, Lee Stoner, at Delmar, New York.

Mr. Stoner had lived in Texas, and the South, most of the time since young manhood. For the past six months he had been visiting relatives and friends in Carroll County and other sections. The late Isaac N. Stoner, of Medford, was his brother, and Mrs. Edgar K. Fleagle, of Mayberry, is a niece.

In addition to his brother, Lee, he is survived by one sister, Mrs. Betty Harman, Los Angeles, Cal., and by a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were conducted on Sunday afternoon, in charge of Rev. John J. John, at Pipe Creek Church of the Brethren. Interment in Pipe Creek cemetery.

MRS. MARY P. KEEFER.

Mrs. Mary P. Keefer, widow of Martin L. Keefer died early last Sunday morning at the home of her grand-daughter, Mrs. George Clabaugh, near Harney, in Mt. Joy township, Pa. She had been making her home with another grand-daughter, Mrs. Clarence LeGore, near Taneytown, and was taken ill while visiting Mrs. Clabaugh.

Her age was 83 years and 10 days. She leaves one sister, Mrs. John Bollinger, near Gettysburg; nineteen grand-children and 33 great-grand-children. Funeral services were held at the LeGore home, near Taneytown, and in Trinity Lutheran Church, on Tuesday morning. Interment in the Lutheran cemetery, Taneytown.

RETURNS TO CELL I FLED IN 1917, SEEKING PARDON

Woman Appears From Past to Wreak Vengeance on Man Now Wealthy.

Canon City.—Glenn Smeeman, thirty-three, is back in the state prison here, again convict 10347 as he was when nearly fifteen years ago he fled after serving only a few months of his three years for auto theft.

During those fifteen years, under the name of Harry Stanley, he became a successful music publisher in Cleveland, married into a well-to-do family, built a $25,000 home and became the father of a baby girl now three months old.

Threatened with exposure by the woman with whom he was living when he was sent to prison and who, he says, had been bleeding him of money for years since she found him again, Smeeman came back to Colorado the other day to ask for a pardon in view of his present good standing.

Gov. Edwin C. Johnson refused and also declined to grant him a ninety-day parole for the purpose of putting his Cleveland affairs in order, but said that if Smeeman returned to prison and made application for pardon in regular order he would give it consideration.

Back in Prison.

So Smeeman, in a shiny sedan driven by his business partner, George A. Bronson, who now is revealed as his full brother, drove up to the prison to receive the treatment accorded any "fish" (new convict), his old number and a convict uniform bearing the white stripe which shows he is a non-truster.

Because Smeeman returned at his own expense and paid a reward of $50 for his capture, he will be spared the usual treatment for returned escaped prisoners—ninety days on the rockpile with a ball and chain welded about the ankle and head half-shaven.

Bronson was greeted cordially by Zeno B. Spurgeon, veteran guard. As Convict No. 10347 Bronson served a term for auto theft from October, 1917, until July, 1919.

Smeeman, as a boy of seven, lost his father and was deserted by his stepmother in Grand Rapids, Mich. There followed years of wandering, in all kinds of company. In St. Louis he became enamored of a woman fifteen years his senior, with whom he lived as man and wife.

With the woman, known as Lulu Kelly, Smeeman came to Denver in 1917 and went into the automobile business. Some of the cars he handled were "hot" and the law pinned on him and Bronson the guilt of stealing an automobile belonging to a deputy United States district attorney.

Eludes Guard.

30 Children Orphaned in Ten-Minute Fight

Buenos Aires.—Thirty children were made orphans in ten minutes here recently when a vendetta of many years' standing suddenly came to a head. Sixteen members of the Podesta and Barrera families met unexpectedly in the street, revolvers were drawn and hundreds of shots exchanged.

When the police arrived they found all the combatants dead or dying with the exception of a sixteen-year-old girl who was standing trembling in a doorway. The thirty children of the victims were placed in the municipal asylum.

Stolen Salt Leaks Out; Police Trail Burglars

Pueblo, Colo.—Three Pueblo detectives used salt to catch a couple of burglars.

The burglars broke into a grocery store and stole a quantity of supplies including the salt.

The salt sack leaked—and all the four officers had to do was to follow the trail from the grocery store right to the front door of the house where the two burglars went.

The officers found them, with half a sack of the salt left, in the house.

Farmer Is Legally Restored to Life

Newport, England.—Frederich H. Owen, fifty-five-year-old Frankfort (Kan.) farmer, missing for 13 years and declared legally dead, has been "restored to life" by the District court here.

Owen dropped from sight in November, 1918, and after an extensive search in five states had failed to reveal any trace of him, his son, Archibald, on September 28, 1931, filed a petition asking the court to declare his father legally dead and award the estate to the proper heirs.

In November of last year Owen's brother, Charles Owen, living here, received a letter from Exira, Iowa, bearing the signature of John Smith. The writer declared his right name was Frederick Owen.

Charles Owen drove to Exira, found his brother and brought him back here.

Now the court has legally restored him to life.

EXPEDITION FINDS STONE AGE VILLAGE

Persia Yields Two Most Remarkable Discoveries.

Chicago.—Two chapters in the epic of human advance over a span of nearly four thousand years from the remote Stone age to the magnificence of Cyrus the Great have been dramatically revealed by discoveries of the Persian expedition of the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago, which have just been reported to Director James Henry Breasted by Dr. Ernst Herzfeld, field director of the expedition.

At Persepolis, the Versailles of ancient Persia, the institute expedition has discovered some of the most magnificent sculptures ever uncovered by archeology. Within two miles of the ruins of the ancient palaces to which Alexander the Great in 330 B. C., set the torch during a drunken debauch, Doctor Herzfeld has found a Stone Age village of approximately 4000 B. C. in a state of preservation surpassing any such discovery heretofore made.

"The discovery at Persepolis is one of the greatest and most important in the history of archeological research," Doctor Breasted said. "It not only far surpasses any archeological disclosure ever made in the history of such research in Persia, but there has never been any discovery like it anywhere in western Asia since archeological excavation began there almost a century ago."

Wall Sculptures. Doctor Herzfeld has uncovered a series of wall sculptures which, if set together, would form a vast panel of reliefs five or six feet in height, and almost a thousand feet in length. The carvings include a series of historical inscriptions of the greatest historical importance.

The walls of magnificent palaces which stood on the gigantic terrace of Persepolis, overlooking a mighty plain encircled by mountains, were of sun-dried brick. But the colonnaded halls, the windows, and the great doors were done in black stone which was polished like ebony.

The sculptures were done here and there on this black stone. Those discovered by Doctor Herzfeld depict a magnificent durbar, or conclave, of a great group of Persian and Median officials standing with the brilliantly uniformed palace guards of the Persian emperor drawn up on one side to receive the ambassadors of twenty-two subject nations who approach from the other side bearing their tribute to Persia.

The execution of the scenes, Doctor Herzfeld reports, displays unparalleled beauty and refinement of detail.

It was the disintegration and fall of the great mud-brick walls that preserved the newly discovered sculptures, and protected them from the ravages of weather and vandalism through the nearly two thousand five hundred years since they were created. The carvings are as fresh as the day when the sculptors' chisels touched them for the last time. No other works of old Persian art have ever been found in such perfect preservation.

Stone Age Village.

Doctor Herzfeld found the Stone Age village beneath a small mound some three hundred by six hundred feet in area and only ten or twelve feet in height, within two miles of the ruins of the great palaces.

The walls of the adobe houses are preserved in places to a height of six or seven feet. There is a narrow street or alley extending the length of the little settlement, and a modern visitor walking along it can look over into the houses. Through the doors and the earliest known windows ever found, he can see mural decorations of red ochre water color still discernible on the walls.

Standing about on the floors are household utensils of pottery, fireplaces with burned clay fire-dogs still in position, and pottery vessels still containing the remains of food, especially the bones of probably domesticated animals. In some of the dishes lay the flint knives with which the ancient people had last eaten some six thousand years ago.

"Such remains," Doctor Breasted said, "disclose to us the earliest prehistoric ancestry of the civilization which reached its culmination in the palaces of Persepolis. The evidences of the intervening evolution are plentifully preserved all-around Persepolis."

Offers Baby as Bail;

Police Prefer Father

Duluth, Minn.—Arvid Peterson, thirty-one, did not have the necessary $25 bail when brought to the police station on a reckless driving charge and was allowed to return home to get the money. He returned with his seven-month-old daughter, asking Sgt. David Perry to keep the infant as bail during the night. Perry ordered two patrolmen to return the baby to Peterson's home and locked the man up.

Soviet May Buy 3,000

Tons of Greek Tobacco

Athens.—Greek tobacco raisers, who have been hard hit this year by the drop in American sales, have had their hopes raised by inquiries from the Soviet government about the possibilities of purchasing 3,000 tons of cheap oriental tobacco. The question of payment is the chief difficulty in the way of selling tobacco to the Soviets.

CABLE RACKET IS REAPING PROFITS FROM TRAVELERS

Netted Million Dollars in 1932; Starts 1933 With Big Prospects.

New York.—The "cable racket" is one of the relatively few enterprises which ended a successful year and started out strong into 1933, according to figures which police made public.

It is a swindle worked by cable upon the secretary or business associate of a business or professional man traveling abroad. Financiers, attorneys and heads of great corporations have been picked as victims and many of them have been fleeced. Complaints received at police headquarters here indicate that the swindle yielded at least $1,000,000 in 1932 and reports from Philadelphia, Chicago and other cities show that it is flourishing there also.

Sailing lists are watched for the departure of wealthy men and society pages for their itineraries abroad. In due course the secretary of the traveling man of affairs receives a characteristically curt cable message directing the payment of a certain sum to a messenger who is to deliver "a valuable purchase."

Learn Tourist's Taste.

If the traveler's fancy is known to run to rugs, it is indicated that rugs are to be delivered for the money paid. Sometimes the parcel is supposed to contain jewels, sometimes rare books. Almost always there is the covert suggestion that extraordinary means have been resorted to for delivery in order to avoid customs duties. Frequently the suggestion is that the package to be delivered contains liquor.

Never, however, does the package contain anything of any value. It may contain rugs, but they are of the cheapest variety. It may contain bits of glass, posing as diamonds. In several instances the packages have contained beverages, but the beverage always was ginger ale or something obtainable with equal ease.

The most recently received complaint is that of George S. Wheat, vice president of the United Aircraft and Transport Company, Inc., and vice president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Wheat sailed for Europe with his family recently.

Didn't Work This Time.

Irene Herrnstadt, his secretary, received directions, purporting to come from her employer, directing her to pay $2,400 to a man who was to deliver a parcel. Miss Herrnstadt consulted D. C. Gauss, an assistant in Mr. Wheat's office. She thought there was something odd about the message and was convinced that such a surreptitious purchase was quite foreign to Mr. Wheat's character. Mr. Gauss agreed with her and a message was sent to Mr. Wheat asking confirmation of his request. His response convinced Miss Herrnstadt and Mr. Gauss that their suspicions were justified and the $2,400 was not paid.

The sum demanded of Mr. Wheat's secretary is about the average sought in the swindle. The swindlers figure pretty shrewdly the amount that their victim might be disposed to pay for a bargain without arousing undue suspicion in his business associates and limit their demands to that. Their "fees" have ranged from $400 to $40,000 in the complaints received at police headquarters.

They failed again in the case of Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union Telegraph and Cable company, partly because the message they sent to his office was on a Postal cable blank. Mr. Carlton's secretary was quite certain that he would not use a Postal wire to send a message to his office. Mr. Carlton was said to be somewhat vexed that even a swindler should send a message to his office by Postal wire.

Pet Crow Wreaks Havoc by Prank on Washday

Waupaca, Wis.—If traffic halts while a crow with a gold-tipped cigarette clasped in his beak struts gravely across the street here, it may startle the casual visitor, but it's only Amos en route to his favorite restaurant or candy kitchen.

Amos took up residence in Waupaca last spring, a half-grown bird, and took possession of the town. Today he is one of its best known, but not always its most respected citizen.

On one street Amos is 'n bad odor. A woman there declares she just hung out the family washing, when Amos arrived, and, walking down the clothesline, systematically pulled out every clothespin, letting the clothes fall to the ground.

Turkey Won in Raffle Cause of Auto Smashup

Penn Yan, N. Y.—Ernest Robinson, driving his automobile home from a turkey raffle at which he had won three plump turkeys, was congratulating himself over his good fortune. Suddenly one of the birds broke loose, flapped its wings in Robinson's eyes, causing him to lose control of the automobile which crashed into another, parked on the side of the road. Considerable damage was done to both automobiles.

Indian Gored to Death

Calgary, Alta.—Chief Hector Crawford, eighty-two years old, was gored to death by a crazed cow on the Indian reservation at Morley, 40 miles northwest of Chicago.

BIG SKY SCHEDULE IS DUE THIS YEAR

Six Comets and Two Eclipses of Sun on Program.

Washington.—The sky schedule for 1933 will be of great interest to star gazers, says the American Nature association. Six periodic comets are due for return engagements. Two eclipses of the sun are on the schedule also.

Then, too, Mars which is probably of more popular interest than any other planet because of its possibilities as an abode of life and its fascinating and varied surface markings which indicate seasonal changes, is due to come to perihelion on March 1. Perihelion is that point of the orbit of a planet or comet which is nearest to the sun. This is one of the less favorable oppositions, since the planet is 62,700,000 miles distant from the earth at nearest approach on that date.

Nevertheless astronomers interested in the physical phenomena of the planets are preparing to keep this little neighboring world under scrutiny before and after the date of opposition, and we may expect to hear more than usual about the ruddy planet Mars within the next few months.

Six Comets Due.

As to the comets, Nature Magazine lists them by the names of Brorsen, Pons-Winnecke, De Vico-Swift, Giacobini, Finlay and Holmes. The first was discovered by Brorsen. It was last seen in 1879 and is due to come to perihelion again in November.

The Pons-Winnecke comet has a period of nearly six years and was discovered by Pons in 1819. It is due to return again in May. The De Vico-Swift comet returned in January.

Giacobini's comet was discovered by that astronomer at Nice in 1900. It is due at perihelion in June. Finlay's comet is also due in June. Holmes' comet was discovered independently in 1892 by Holmes on November 6 and Davidson on November 9. It is due in August.

There will be two eclipses of the sun, both annular. An annular eclipse is one in which the relative positions of sun and moon are such that the moon fails completely to cover the solar disk and there is a thin annulus or ring of light surrounding the dark lunar disk at the time that would correspond to mid-totally of a total solar eclipse.

Eclipse of Sun.

The first eclipse will occur on February 24. The partial phase will be visible in the southern and central part of South America, all of Africa, except the extreme northwestern part, the western part of the Mediterranean, Greece, Asia Minor, Persia and Arabia. The annulus in this eclipse is visible within a very narrow path with a maximum duration of only 1 minute 55 seconds. This path crosses South America, near the fortieth parallel, the South Atlantic, and from Stephanieville, Africa, to Aden in Arabia.

The next eclipse will occur on August 21. The partial phase will be visible in central and eastern Europe and northeastern Africa at sunrise, later in the morning, or near midday, in Siberia, central and southern Asia, and in the afternoon in the Philippines and East Indies. In Australia the eclipse will occur late in the afternoon or at sunset. The path of the annulus, also narrow in this eclipse, passes from Alexandria, in Egypt, over Bagdad, across India, grazing Delhi and Calcutta, across Slam to Borneo, and north Australia, ending on the coast of Queensland at sunset. The duration of the annular phase will be only 2 minutes 18 seconds.

CARRIES CLEVER NOTION TOO FAR; LANDS IN JAIL

Justice in the Role of a Woman Betrayed Is Undoing of Robert Seiders.

Chicago.—Robert Seiders, an "alky" merchant, is in jail because he carried a bright idea too far. He had the audacity and ability to deceive a federal judge, but success went to his head, and when justice appeared in the role of a woman betrayed that was the undoing of Mr. Seiders.

He saw her standing with a crowd of defendants, awaiting arraignment, as he strolled through the corridor of the federal building. A glance at her was all Seiders needed to frame his defense. Assurance marked his stride as he answered the call of his name and he moved to the bar of justice before Judge George E. Q. Johnson. He pleaded guilty, and the judge said sixty days.

Countenance Doleful.

"Your honor," said Seiders, "my wife is to become a mother in two or three weeks. I'd hate to be away from her at a time like that." His countenance was doleful, in perfect simulation of a man suffering the pangs of expectant fatherhood. The judge, ever a kindly man, smiled benignly as he pondered the case. Sixty days would keep the young man away from his wife at childbirth. The judge continued the case for investigation by the probation department.

The next day Seiders produced a certificate signed by Dr. Carl T. Stephan of the Rush Medical college's free dispensary. It stated that he had examined Josephine Seiders and found her about to experience the blessedness of motherhood. Seiders was then put on probation.

Then the Expose.

A few days later an indignant woman came into the office of Assistant United States Attorney Eugene A. Tappy. She wanted Mr. Seiders locked up.

"He met me in the corridor of the federal building and promised me five dollars to pose as his wife," she said. "I went out to the clinic and let them examine me, using the name of his wife. I did my part, but now he won't pay me. Can't you put him in jail for that?"

The real Mrs. Seiders was found at home, well and happy, but expecting no children and wanting none, for the time being. The investigators waited for Seiders, who readily confessed.

"I thought if I was clever enough to fool the judge I'd be a chump to give that woman five dollars," he said. Seiders is not only in jail, but facing the prospect of a contempt sentence when he gets out. A petition has been filed by Prosecutor Tappy, asking that he be cited.

Moonbeam's Slant Fails to Save Man From Cell

Austin, Texas.—An exact mathematical calculation regarding the angle of incidence of the moon's ray was admitted in testimony at a District court trial here, but failed to acquit the purse snatcher in whose favor it resulted.

Miss Pearl Favours identified Walter Toyne as a man who took her purse from her on the run. She said she saw him by moonlight. Dr. P. L. Batchelder, professor of mathematics at the University of Texas, testified the moon was shining, but at an angle of 30 degrees, whereas 60 degrees was necessary to illuminate the spot.

Nevertheless a jury gave Toyne a two-year sentence.

Lesson for March 5

JESUS GIVING LIFE AND HEALTH

LESSON TEXT—Mark 5:21-43.
GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord hath done great things for us; whereof we are glad. Psalm 126:3.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Making a Little Girl Live Again.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Raising Jairus' Daughter.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Life and Health Through Jesus.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christianity and Human Suffering.

The accounts of the raising of the damsel and the healing of the woman are so interwoven as almost to constitute one narrative, but since the principles are diverse and the places separate, and the one an interruption of the other, they should be treated separately.

1. Jairus' Daughter Raised From the Dead (vv. 22-24, 35-43).

1. Jairus' urgent mission (vv. 22, 23). His only daughter (Luke 8:42). Perhaps his only child lay dying. In this time of utter helplessness he came to Jesus for he had faith in his ability to raise her up. In the providence of God sorrow, sickness and death are often used to bring needy men and women into contact with Jesus. He showed the proper attitude toward Jesus, "he fell at his feet" (v. 22).

2. Jesus goes with Jairus (v. 24). Jairus believed that if Jesus would lay his hand upon his daughter she would live. Such faith always gets a response from Jesus. No one destitute of faith can receive his blessing.

3. News of his daughter's death (v. 35). This was a most startling message. The messenger who brought the news of her death suggested that Jesus should be excused from going further as it was now too late.

4. Jairus' faith strengthened (v. 36). As soon as Jesus heard the word spoken concerning the death of this girl, he said to the father, "Be not afraid, only believe." This is the message still to every distressed soul.

5. The mourners rebuked (vv. 37-39). He dismissed the crowd and allowed only three of his disciples and the parents of the damsel to enter this chamber of death with him. The tumultuous wailing showed the despair of the friends. In connection with this death-wail the Lord was ridiculed, but he declared that the girl could be awakened from her sleep of death.

6. Jairus' faith rewarded (vv. 41-43). He took the damsel by the hand and commanded her to arise. The expression "Talitha cumi" in the Aramaic may be freely translated, "Wake up, little girl." She straightway arose and walked and partook of food. Her walking was proof of the reality of the miracle. There was no sign of the weakness which usually follows a severe sickness.

II. The Woman With an Issue of Blood (vv. 25-34).

1. Her helpless condition (vv. 25, 26, cf. Luke 8:43). She had been a great sufferer for twelve long years. In addition to physical suffering her malady involved ceremonial uncleanness which was perhaps harder to bear than the physical suffering. This ceremonial uncleanness meant her exclusion from the places of worship and divorce from her husband, as well as social isolation.

2. Her faith (vv. 27, 28). She possessed a real and earnest faith. Having heard of the fame of Jesus as a healer, she likely journeyed a considerable distance. For a poor emaciated woman after twelve years of suffering to press her way through a thronging multitude, shows that she possessed a determined purpose. The test of the actuality and quality of one's faith is the determined activity which it engenders. Her faith was so strong that she believed that contact with the Master's garments would secure the needed help.

3. Her healing (vv. 29-32). As soon as she touched the hem of his garment, she experienced in her body his healing power. Jesus was conscious of the outgoing of virtue from himself.

4. Her confession (v. 33, cf. Luke 8:47). She thought secretly to get the blessing of healing, but Jesus perceived that virtue had gone out from him and had her make a public confession.

5. Jesus' words of encouragement (v. 34). With the communication of his healing virtue he spoke most gracious and comforting words to this poor woman. He told her that it was her faith, not her touch that had saved her. Faith does not need to face danger and to exhaust itself in active endeavor in order to gain Christ's blessing. All that is required is a trusting prayer. She obtained the blessing immediately.

"Heavenly Visions"

"I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision." Thrice unhappy are they who have never had a heavenly vision, i. e., a vision of something higher and better than the life they have been leading. It may have come in a sermon, a biography, a holy life, a face, a death scene illuminated with the light of another world. How it shamed, rebuked, cast down with infinite regret, then raised to a new hope and determination. Act, act, in the living present.

Cape Town One of Most Beautiful in All World

It may truthfully be said that few places in the world compare with the Cape Peninsula, South Africa, either in scenery, climate, verdure, woods, water salubrity or association.

Table mountain, upon which Cape Town rests its shoulders while its feet dangle in Table bay, throws its ever-changing shadows upon a land of trees, flowers, oak groves, pine woods, healthful hills and arum-billed valleys.

In all the world there is, perhaps, no city so beautifully located as Cape Town. A nobler site for a city could hardly be imagined. It rivals Gibraltar and Constantinople, Bombay and San Francisco.

Immediately behind the town, which lies along the sea, the majestic mass of Table mountain rises to a height of 3,600 feet, a steep slope capped by a long line of sheer precipices more than 1,000 feet high, and to the right and left by bold, isolated peaks. The beautiful sweep of the bay in front, the towering crags behind, and the romantic pinnacles which rise on either side makes a landscape of unusual grandeur.

Cape Town enjoys a most equable climate. There is a wealth of sunshine at all seasons of the year. The breeze blowing fresh from the sea tempers the rays of the African sun.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Capture Giant Lizards by Getting Them Drunk

Fisherman of Petite Gonave island declare that the only safe way to capture the giant lizards that inhabit the island is to get them drunk by filling the hollows of the rocks along the shore with rum, of which they are very fond. But members of a Smithsonian expedition to the Petite Gonave found the lizards quite harmless and captured six of them by hand for the National Zoological park.

Apparently the fishermen were so awed by the weird appearance of these creatures that they have been described as "great iguanas that look like miniature copies of the long extinct dinosaurs," that they had never dared to get close enough to them to find out what they were like. They warned the scientists of the expedition that the lizards were extremely dangerous and they had better leave them alone.—Detroit News.

When Tokens Were Issued

At two periods since the nation began to coin money, there has arisen a stringency of small coins, which made it necessary for business firms to supply their wants by the issue of copper tokens redeemable in legal money by the firms which issued them. The first period to witness such an issue came in 1837, when many business houses had prepared for their use copper tokens of the size of the large copper cent. The types of these tokens then, as usually, were of two principal classes, the one strongly political with devices and inscriptions giving vivid expression to the partisan slogans of the day, while the other bore simply the advertisement of the merchant who issued them. Again, in 1863, the death of small coins gave rise to an enormous issue of such tokens, at that time again in the module of the current bronze one-cent piece.

For Girls With Cold Feet

One thing the girl with cold feet must do in order to solve her problem is to learn how to use her lungs; in other words, how to breathe fully and freely. It is amazing how few women breathe properly. The great majority are shallow breathers. Yet the habit of deep breathing is one of the most effective as well as the least expensive of beauty aids. The best sort of deep breathing exercise is a by-product of vigorous outdoor exercise. Active use of the large muscles increases the body's need of oxygen so that deep breathing is automatically stimulated. This is much better than standing still and trying to pump the lungs full of air. The habit of deep breathing may be established with the aid of indoor exercises that include free movements of limbs and trunk.

Water Testing Outfit

It is easier to compare the color of a liquid with the color of another liquid than to match up a liquid with a flat color card. A water testing outfit provides liquid comparators in sealed vials. Nine vials each of a different shade are marked with ratings from pH 6.0 to pH 7.6. These color standards will not fade as cards are likely to do. Bromothymol blue is the indicator solution. When added to a bit of aquarium water, it will show a color which is then matched against the comparator vials. If the test shows too much alkali, sodium acid phosphate (monobasic) is added to the water. Bicarbonate of soda is used to correct too much acidity.

Daredevil Terriers

The sheer, reckless courage which characterizes the Irish terrier and for which it has frequently been called the "dare-devil," is illustrated by the following story told a number of years ago by some African hunters. As the story goes, the hunters had been trying with a pack of dogs to dislodge a lion which had been brought to bay in a dense tangle of bushes. Finally, without apparent reason, the lion bolted out from under cover. When it was entirely clear of its bushy hiding place the reason for its hasty appearance was clear, for clinging to the end of its tail with firmly locked teeth was a small Irish terrier.

Butcher Locks Up Thief in Ice Box

Grand Junction, Colo.—A burglar was kept on ice when E. T. McPheters, meat market operator, surprised two men in the act of robbing his store.

McPheters, who sleeps in the market, was awakened by the prowlers. He took one of the burglars prisoner and summoned police.

While waiting for the officers to arrive he noticed the door of the ice box ajar and looked it. When the police arrived they found the second man locked in the ice box, threatened with chills and frost bites.

ADMITS BURNING WIFE AND CHILD

Canadian Wanted Insurance to Pay Debts.

Owen Sound, Ont.—How Melville Wilkie, twenty-three, made flaming torches of his twenty-year-old wife, Gertrude, and their six-month-old infant daughter, Norma, in order that he might collect his wife's $1,000 insurance policy, pay his debts, and "work in peace," was detailed to a crowded and horror-stricken courtroom in Owen Sound at the young man's preliminary hearing.

One night the Wilkie home burned down. The baby perished where she lay in her cot. Mrs. Wilkie, in bed, was burned so badly that she died shortly afterwards in a hospital. Wilkie, it seemed, was out.

Chief of Police T. H. Carson was suspicious of the circumstances. He questioned Wilkie and after contradictions in his statements had been pointed out to him he confessed.

"Whenever I came home there were letters there asking for money or some one there looking for money," he told the police chief. "My wife had a $500 policy with double indemnity in case of accidental death and I thought if I got that I could pay off all I owed and go on and work in peace."

"I stepped in the door," he proceeded, "and stood for a few minutes and went upstairs. The baby was stirring. I went over to the carriage and tried to quiet her. She started to cry. I picked her up. I carried her to another room and put her to sleep. Then I poured some gasoline on the clothes that were piled on a little chest between the door and the dresser. I took the rest of the gasoline and poured it on the floor; took the can into another room and put it behind the door."

"I went into the bedroom and turned off the light, stepped back into the hall, and pulled the bedroom door shut, took a match from my pocket, lit it on my pants and threw it on the floor in the hall. The gasoline was running out between the two doors. I grabbed my hat and coat and ran downstairs."

Salic Law

Originally the term Salic law applied to a codification of the laws of certain Germanic tribes, including the Sallian or Merovingian Franks. These laws were codified in Latin in the early Middle Ages. They related chiefly to property and penalties for various injuries.

The term is often applied exclusively to a section which relates to inheritances, and provides that only males inherit property. Since the Fourteenth century a further restriction in application has attached it chiefly to those laws, in whatever country found, which forbid female inheritance of the throne.

Little Auk Flies Like Hummer

The little auk is a bird about the size of a dove and has a whitish breast and black back. Its three webbed toes give it means of propulsion in the water and its narrow but sturdy wings give it a powerful take-off from its natural element, the sea. In flight its wings vibrate like those of a hummingbird. It is quite unable to push off from a land base. Its breeding place is the northeast coast of Greenland and in Iceland. In winter it is occasionally seen as far south as the Azores.

Female Logic

"People object to red tape."
"Then why stick to it?" demanded the lady candidate. "There are plenty of other colors."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Grave Robbers Discover "Body" in Coffin Alive

Bucharest.—Body snatching in Rumanian graveyards is declining from its once lucrative position because of the horrible experiences of two robbers plying their ghoulish trade.

The thieves opened the grave of Elizabeth Nagy in the community cemetery of Nagypeter, a small town near Cluj, in Transylvania. As they opened the coffin the woman sat upright and demanded:

"What do you want?"
The men fled, panic-stricken, and both later went insane. They are now in asylums.

The woman had been declared dead three days previously and would have suffocated had the two men not attempted to rob her grave of the few silver trinkets which husbands always place beside the bodies of deceased wives. Body snatching is profitable in Rumania because of this custom, and due to the hard times which make a few silver ornaments articles of considerable value.

According to Rumanian medical students anatomical institutes at Cluj, Cernauti and Bucharest buy corpses for 50 cents each from any salesman and no questions are asked.

The Holdup

"Did you hear about Ezra Mark being held up and having his week's wages taken?"
"No, does his wife know?"
"She ought to—she took it."

SIZING IT UP

Bug—Now that's what I call a good band. I'll bet it can make a lot of noise.

Plainly Advertised

"Henry, let's drop in and ask this man about repairing our apartment."
"Why, dear, this is a garage."
"Yes, but that sign says, 'We Fix Flats.'"

He Had Tested Them

Mother—Willie, take the matches back to the shop and say they are no use, they won't light.
Willie—But they will light, mummy; I tried them all before I came in.

HARD TO PLEASE

"Well, it's impossible to please everybody in this world, isn't it?"
"Can't say. I never tried it."

Absent Witness

Defendant—I am innocent, your honor. Heaven is my witness!
Judge Abel—Sorry, but you did not bring your witness into court to testify in your behalf.

Long Time Away

Golfer (peevishly)—I'll report you to the caddy master as soon as we get back.
Caddy—Huh! I needn't start worryin' for ages yet!—Stray Stories.

WATCHFUL WAITING

"When are you going on your vacation?"
"I don't know. I've got to wait until the neighbors get through using my suit case."

Chillon Occupies Spot on the Lake of Geneva

Hallowed by history and glorified by pea, Chillon, one of the frequently painted and photographed chateaus in the Old world, occupies a spot on the lake of Geneva, near Montreux, which for the remarkable perfection of its beauty suggests, not earth, but paradise.

The castle stands on a tiny island of rock, separated from the shore by a narrow, natural waterway. "Here," as Sir Frederick Treves pointed out in his "The Lake of Geneva," "are all the details that befit a scene of medieval romance.

"Here stood the drawbridge by the ominous entry. Here are the low-pitched, cavernous guardroom, with its great fireplace, and the sunlit courtyards where the pages played at knuckle-bones, and where the maids, as they passed, lingered to laugh with them.

"Here, too, are the turrets where the sentries watched, the great keep into which the country folk, half clad and half crazed, were hurried when the Terror was upon them, as well as the dungeons made horrible by moans and the clank of chains. There is no detail lacking. There are even the secret stairs cut in the walls, so essential in romance, and the postern by the water's edge, which was a way of escape when all was lost."—World-Telegram.

All Boners Not Traced to Poor Common People

Here are bits from the Golden Book Magazine's inquiry into human fallibility:

In Leutze's famous painting in the Metropolitan museum, New York city, of Washington crossing the Delaware on December 25, 1776, the Americans are represented with the Stars and Stripes, though there was no such flag in the army at that time. The stars were not adopted until June 14, 1777.

Oliver Goldsmith, in "The Deserted Village," unjustly accuses the state of Georgia of having crouching tigers who wait their hapless prey.

Tintoretto, in a picture which represents the Israelites "Gathering Manna in the Wilderness," has armed the men with guns.

Charles Dickens in "Nicholas Nickleby" has the pupils of Dotheboys hall ordered to crack the ice in the pond one moment and weed the garden the next.

"Read the Riot Act"

The use of the expression "read the riot act" really applies to giving warning to those engaged in wrongdoing, and has its origin in the riot act, an English statute of 1775. It provided that if 12 or more persons were assembled unlawfully and disturbing the peace, any mayor, justice of the peace, sheriff or under-sheriff could by proclamation command them to disperse. If they refused and remained together for an hour after the proclamation, all of the persons participating were guilty of felony. Also anyone interfering with or preventing such proclamation was guilty of felony.

The Word "Nature"

The word "nature" is a strange one. It comes from the Latin "natura," in turn from "natus," born.

The primary meaning of "nature" is birth, origin; the secondary, that which is the source or essence of life, the creative force; third, that which is produced by natural forces, the existing system of things in time and space, creation, the universe.

This condensed summary brings out rather clearly that Nature, in essence, means life, and living things, although all the manifestations of "the existing system of things" are necessarily included.—Washington Star.

Disliked Soap and Water

The story is told in a London club that a good many years ago a famous literary figure, long since dead, rented a bedroom. He had the reputation and the appearance of disliking soap and water, yet every morning he went to the bathroom with sponge, towel and a walking stick. The walking stick was a mystery until one morning the bathroom door was forced by curious fellow members and the man of letters was discovered in his dressing gown standing by the bath and splashing the water with his stick, to the accompaniment of ablutatory noises.

Rainy Day Changes View

Nothing quite puts such a new aspect on thoroughfares as a rainy day, especially if a touch of fog is added for good measure. Fog has a sort of magnifying effect causing even the least observant wayfarer to note something startling, almost, in the appearance of familiar things. Instead of being clearly cut against the sky, houses down the street do what mankind has agreed to call "loom" when fog touches their bricks and stones with its vapors.—Washington Star.

Hung It Onto Shakespeare

The class had been studying English poetry and was now undergoing a quiz on that subject. The instructor had taken from one of Wadsworth's poems the following line, which she asked the class to explain: "The child is father to the man."

One young man studied the question in perplexity for several moments. Finally, he wrote: "This was written by Shakespeare. He often made this kind of mistake."

Lights of NEW YORK By WALTER TRUMBULL

Selena Royle is one of the stars of John Golden's production of Rachel Crother's highly successful comedy, "When Ladies Meet." Earl Larrimore, one of the Theater Guild's prized performers and Selena Royle's husband, did not play for a time, and so generally went around to take her home after the evening performance. Like many husbands waiting for their wives, he found a small nearby speakeasy, where the bartender was tough, but the beer good. In fact, in the course of several evenings, the two men became friendly and discussed things in general. But one evening, when Mr. Larrimore dropped in for his usual ten minute chat, he found some strangers at the bar and a rather silent host. The strangers were men of keen and hard glance. Their stare was fixed, cold and questioning. The bartender spoke up as one of them moved to block the door.

"I know him," he said. "Friend of mine. An actor."

The eyes of the visitors thawed and Mr. Larrimore was regarded with considerably more favor. This induced further volubility in his sponsor, the bartender.

"These lads," he explained, "are just in from Chicago and they like to know who's in a place with them. It just might be somebody unfriendly."

Mr. Larrimore trusted that they would perceive he was delighted to know them. He trusted they would have something to remove the dust from the larynx after their long trip. The whole atmosphere radiated good will. They asked him things concerning his profession. He didn't know just how far it was best to go in displaying a like interest. Finally he said:

"I am going to ask a favor of you gentlemen. In my next show I am supposed to play a gangster. I'd like to do it right; make it a real part. I want you, who have been around a lot, to advise me. How shall I make up, and what shall I wear?"

Seriously and critically, the visitors regarded him. They looked him over with the care a purchaser might bestow on a considered automobile. At last, they reached a decision and the apparent leader spoke for them all. "Don't," he said earnestly, "change a thing."

There have been a lot of statistics published on the Manhattan telephone directory. They will tell you how much paper is required to print it, how many subscribers are listed in it and how much distance would be covered if the subscribers or the book, I forget which, were laid end to end. But they have left out some very important figures. In this Manhattan directory, for example, there is or are, be exact and as the case may be, 1 Rod, 5 Yard, 1 Foot, 3 Foot, 25 Foote, no Feet, but 2 Inch. Furthermore, there is, or are, 1 Arm, 9 Legg, 14 Finger and 34 Hand, not apparently including Charlie Hand, who is now living at the Biltmore. Many Hands make light work, which may be why the Democratic campaign went so well, although Charlie was the only Hand assigned to both Mr. Garner and Mr. Smith. There are a round dozen Head in the directory, a Braine and a Liver.

Owen Davis writes plays about as fast as Clarence Buddington Kelland writes short stories. That's record speed. George Jessel and a friend once met Mr. Davis on a morning walk, and the friend asked Jessel if he knew whether the playwright was engaged in any work.

"When I saw him," said Jessel, "he had stooped over to tie a shoe lace. It just happened that he saw a pencil that somebody had dropped on the sidewalk, and before he straightened up he had written two new plays."

Billion a Year Poultry Trade of U. S. Is Shown

Chicago.—The United States produces and consumes 600,000,000 eggs annually and the chickens hatched each year number between 600,000,000 and 700,000,000. The poultry business of the entire nation last year amounted to a billion dollars.

These figures were presented at the annual fact-finding conference of the Institute of American Poultry Industries by Dr. E. V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore.

A Strange Case

Cleveland.—Students at Case university would rather have their basketball than eat. They recently gave up their annual All-Case dinner and put the money into the athletic department treasury for support of the cage squad.

Eskimos Tending to Grow Another Rib

Washington.—The male Eskimo may be developing another rib.

This apparent case of evolution at work in mankind was reported by Dr. T. D. Stewart, physical anthropologist at the Smithsonian institution, who has just completed an examination of 200 skeletons of Eskimos, secured in recent expeditions in Alaska, and found that approximately 12 per cent had 25 instead of the customary 24 pre-sacral vertebrae. The tendency seems to be toward a lengthening of the spinal column.

TANEYTOWN LOCALS.

The old-time jig-saw puzzles are the fad now. Like Mother Goose rhymes they are new to some, but practically useless except as time-killers, and for profit for the manufacturers and dealers—and as rainy day play for children.

Ralph Davidson has opened an up-to-date lunch room in Mrs. N. B. Hagan's room on Frederick Street. Very appropriately he calls it the "George Washington" as it is on the exact spot where George (and perhaps Martha) Washington spent the night of July 1, 1791. Read the announcement of the opening on another page in this issue.

it regardless. And yet the only service that he has, at the present time, to help meet these problems is through the county agent.

"Nor has nature been kind to the farmer in recent years. We have plant disease, insects and other natural problems that were unknown to our fathers. Every county agent has been working on those in his county and there are farmers who may not have a speaking acquaintance with the county agent and yet are being materially benefited by the work he is doing. But this is not the strongest argument. The strongest argument is that, in agreeing to this movement, the farmer is simply carrying out his age-old policy of letting the other fellow get his, while the farmer stands in the background.

"No one will deny that the county agent is a government service. But is not the farmer entitled to some service from the government for his particular problems as are other industries? Consider this for a moment. Eighty percent of all the tariffs are applicable to non-agricultural products and when a farmer buys a pair of shoes or piece of farm machinery he pays a tribute to the protection that the government is giving to other businesses. The Inter-State Commerce was set up to protect railroads and to provide them with freight rates that would insure profit regardless of whether the farmer (who is the largest user of the railroads) liked the rate or not. And when the regulations failed to produce a profit, then the government created the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to enable their inflated values. The newspapers of this county have had a subsidy in the creation of their second class mailing privileges; the steamship companies their shipping board; the aeroplane companies their air mail subsidy and so on.

"The Department of Agriculture and the County Extension Service are the farmers' counterpart of this and yet the farmers are standing idly by in many of the counties and agreeing to see the county agent removed, even though his removal will make little or no effect on their tax rate. There was nothing new in the policy of governmental aid in any particular industry. That has always been the policy of this nation and if it is wrong it should be denied all other industries, as well as agriculture. For, after all, if we close all the banks in the state of Maryland now, new banks would eventually take their places. If we closed all of the factories in Maryland, capital would combine and new factories would emerge. But, if we sit idly by and permit agriculture to be reduced to the degree of peasantry we shall have ruined the morale of our state and our nation."

"For agriculture remains our fundamental industry and it is in the interest of all that every possible help should be given to it in this emergency. To that end the last thing that should be abolished in our tax economy program is the office of the county agent. If we do not have a good county agent, it is an easy matter to get another one; but the agency staff in Maryland compares very highly with that of other states. If we have not gotten the benefit we feel we should from the county agent's office, let us ask the question whether or not we have really tried to use that service. Check up also on the changes that have been brought about in the farming operations of each county in the past ten years, the development of better cattle, new methods of feeding, new varieties of seeds, different hay crops, etc., and find out what part the county agent had in this development. The county agent's work is not from day to day. It represents a permanent investment.

Also, ask this question, whether or not these days when farm markets of Maryland can be reached from all parts of the country, are we going to be satisfied to see the farmers of other states develop their business in a manner that will enable them to invade our local markets while we struggle along endeavoring to solve our own problems without trained advisors."

Every Cloud has a silver lining, but would somebody please do something for last winter's overcoat?—Haverhill Gazette.

NATURE'S MASTERPIECE.

One of nature's most beautiful and arresting phenomena is the rainbow, the colored arc seen in heavens opposite the sun when the light shines upon falling rain. The rainbow is formed by the raindrops, which act like combination prisms and mirrors, first breaking the light up into its various colors and then reflecting it down to earth, according to an educational booklet of the Better Vision Institute, which is used by teachers in many sections of the United States in eye-sight conservation instruction.

A falling drop first reflects red when a line between it and an observer make an angle of about forty-two degrees with the horizontal; when it falls a little further so that the angle is less, it reflects orange to the observer, then green and so on. Although we see only an arc unless we are on a high mountain or in an airplane, the rainbow is really a complete circle. During the summer, the rainbow is never visible around noon, for the sun is too high in the sky and the top of the bow is below the horizon.—Mandeville News.

MEMORIAL TO DR. STEIN.

Contract has been awarded for the erection of a memorial on the Emmitsburg road, three miles south of Gettysburg, marking the spot where Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Stein, of York, Pa., was killed in an automobile accident several years ago. The memorial will be of Barre granite, four feet wide, two feet thick and seven feet, six inches high, affixed to which will be bronze or copper plate with an appropriate inscription.

The memorial will be dedicated on July 1, 1933, with several prominent speakers present to eulogize Rev. Dr. Stein, who was enroute to Frederick when he was killed. Dr. Stein was chaplain of the Pennsylvania State Firemen's Association which will have charge of the dedication of the memorial.
