TANEYTOWN LOCALS

Items of news from town, or vicinity are always wanted for this column. Especially important happenings, visits to or from the community social events, and all matters of general interest to those at home, and away from home.

This column is not for use in advertising any money-making program, fair, supper, party or sale; except for non-denominational charities or Fire Company or Public Library support.

Churches, Lodges, Societies, Schools, etc., are requested to use our Special Notice Department for money-making events.

Mrs. J. D. Overholtzer who has been ill the past ten days, is slowly improving.

About fifty persons attended the dance, last Saturday night, given by the Rebekah Lodge.

Next Tuesday will be "clean-up" day in Taneytown, for the free removal of junk. See notice on last page this issue.

A truck load of Valite plant machinery left town, on Monday, for York, estimated to weigh over 25 tons. A special permit was required for it to make use of the state highway.

Mrs. Sarah J. Keefer has just returned home from a week's visit to her sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Menges, of Hagerstown, and also visited her nephew, Charlie Hossler, of near Mount Pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Ross Fair and daughter, Anna Mae; Mr. and Mrs. Franklin H. Fair and son, Jimmy, spent Sunday with Rev. and Mrs. Chas. W. Hess at the home of Mrs. Sue Grubb, near Harper's Ferry, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Reid and sons, Maynard and Cyril, of Detroit, are visiting in town and vicinity, having come here to attend the funeral of James A. Reid. For once, they need not hurry back to Detroit, as there is nothing for them to do there.

The Commencement Exercises of the graduating Class of St. Agnes Hospital will take place at the Lyric Theatre, Baltimore, May 9, 1933, at 4:00 P. M. Miss Marie Agnes Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Little, will be one of the graduates.

Mr. and Mrs. William Albaugh, of Walkersville; Mrs. Esta Warrenfeltz and daughter, Helen, of Mt. Airy; Miss Nellie Karcher, of Baltimore; Miss Dorothy Eyer, of Bridgeport, and Truman Albaugh, of Utica, visited Mrs. Mary Stover and family, on Sunday.

M. J. Thomson, well known baseball and sports promoter, was elected Burgess of Emmitsburg, on Monday, over present incumbent J. Henry Stokes. Mr. Stokes had declined nomination, having served for twelve years and desired to be released from further service; but consented, after the insistence of friends, to allow his name to be used.

A special meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association of the Taneytown School has been called by the President, Mrs. John S. Teeter, for Tuesday evening, May 9, at 8 P. M. Dr. Frank Kramer, Professor of Education, Gettysburg College, will be the speaker of the evening. Mrs. Francis T. Elliot is arranging special music for the meeting.

The Junior Band project for Taneytown has not been abandoned, we are now reliably informed, but is being prosecuted with expectations of success. The statement made in The Record last week, that the effort had been abandoned "due to unfavorable financial conditions" appears not to have been correct, though we considered our information reliable.

The following were elected members of the City Council, at the annual election, on Monday: Dr. C. M. Benner, David H. Hahn, Merle S. Baumgardner. They were elected for a two year's term, and all were re-elected. A second ticket was placed in the field early in the day, the candidates on which received about 50 votes each. Dr. C. M. Benner was named on both tickets, and received 161 votes.

The Valite Plant, that was removed to York, this week, was for a time a nuisance in the town, due to the great amount of dust that it made; but on complaint, Mr. Valentine made improvements that almost entirely removed the nuisance. It at least left one permanent benefit—the solid filling up of a lot that during much of the year was both boggy and unsightly.

On Wednesday, May 10th, the Women's Missionary Societies of Trinity Lutheran Church will hold their regular monthly meetings. A Pageant will be presented by the Young Women's Society. This Pageant will present the interest of the Lacey Industry of India. Dr. M. Edwin Thomas, of the Board of Foreign Missions, will present, by the use of pictures, the work of the Lutheran Church in the fields of China, India, Japan and Africa.

On Monday afternoon as John J. Hockensmith was driving through Druid Hill park, having as passengers Mr. and Mrs. George A. Arnold, Miss Agnes Arnold and Mrs. Charles L. Kuhns, their car was struck in the rear by a car driven by a Baltimore lady, demolishing one hind wheel and otherwise injuring the Hockensmith car, but fortunately doing no damage to the inmates. The party was making a short cut through the Park to the Reisterstown road. The case will be heard in the Traffic Court, Monday, May 15.

TANEYTOWN WINS HONORS

A Total Score of 329 Points to 330 for Mount Airy.

Taneytown High School won second place in the County Eisteddfod, held in the Alumni Hall, April 28th. The high school orchestra won first place. Virginia Clutz, the soloist, won second place. The Boys' Chorus rated fourth, and the Girls' Chorus rated sixth. Taneytown's score was 329, while the winner, Mt. Airy, had 330.

The names of those in the orchestra are: Thelma Clutz, Bernice Devibiss, Richard Mehling, Henry Reindollar, Catherine Fleagle, Richard Bower, Kenneth Baumgardner, Richard Sutcliffe, Margaret Reindollar, Homer Myers, Mildred Stull, Ralph Morelock, Mildred Baumgardner, Basil Crapster, Virginia Clutz, Dorothea Fridinger, Edmund Morrison.

Those in the Boys' Chorus are: Fred Bower, Richard Mehling, Francis Elliot, Francis Edwards, Donald Myers, Norville Baumgardner, Robert Rinehart, Edmund Morrison, Fred Smith, Ambrose Hess, Kenneth Baumgardner, Fern Smith, Horace O'Neill, Wilbur Hubbard, Leroy Eckert, Richard Sutcliffe, John Eckard, Homer Myers, Edward Reid, Martin Zimmerman, George Marshall, Wilson Utz, Norman Houck.

Those in the Girls' Chorus are: Lucian Bankard, Mary Edwards, Eileen Henze, Ellen Hess, Janette Lawyer, Betty Ott, Dorothea Fridinger, Emma Graham, Catherine Hess, Helen Kiser, Arlene Nussbaum, Virginia Ohler, Nellie Smith, Catherine Shriner, Doris Tracey, Mary Crouse, Bernice Devibiss, Catherine Stuller, Mildred Stull, Rita Sanders, Virginia Clutz.

MARKER FOR SCHOOL BUSES.

In view of the fact that there have been several accidents in which school children were struck by passing motorists when alighting from or boarding school buses, Colonel E. Austin Baughman, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, has evolved a new type of marker to designate the school buses. These markers are cut out of letters from six to twelve inches high and set in an especially designed framework so that they can be mounted on the roof just over the front visor and also at the rear. By having these signs on the roof, standing out against the horizon, there is no excuse for the motorist not to be cognizant of the fact the vehicle is a school bus carrying children and for that reason to exercise all precautions when passing.

These letters are made of a particularly sturdy metal and baked with an enamel in order that they can be washed frequently so that they may be clearly seen and at the same time not have the paint wear off.

The buses that are used only during the daylight hours will have the letters painted with diagonal black and white stripes, so that the eye will quickly focus upon them, while these buses that are in use after nightfall, particularly during the winter months, will have the letters in all white so that the marker can be more easily seen in the darkness.

The structure and design of these markers was worked out by Mr. Morton McI. Dukehart, of Baltimore, in co-operation with Colonel Baughman.

COMEDY FOR BENEFIT OF THE EMMITSBURG B. B. CLUB.

Sponsored by the Emmitsburg baseball club in the Frederick County League, the original musical comedy "No Hits, No Runs, No Errors," will be presented in Emmitsburg, on the nights of May 11 and 12.

Arranged and presented by Wayne Chrismer, Secretary of the Club, the show contains all local talent, including tried performers as well as newcomers to the stage. The continuity calls for the players, all young people, to be lounging about in a local store, wondering what to do, when someone suggests that they put on a show. What follows is supposed to be spontaneous tomfoolery, made up by the performers as the show proceeds. Every player is cast in a natural part, which the management believes will heighten the effectiveness of the show.

The Elder Orchestra will be on the stage, intact. Those in the show are: Mary Higbee, Helen Higbee, Helen Maxell, Lillian Boyle, Genevieve Elder, Dora Elder, Yvonne Elder, Catherine Overman, Hilda Topper, Mary Frances Mondorf, Margaret Peters, Amy Gillelan, Rodgers Topper, Wayne Chrismer, Carroll, Earl and Arthur Elder, Louis Rosensteel, Dr. O. H. Stinson, Dr. Wm. H. Treiber, Lee and Charles Eckenrode, Reeves Blandford, Ray Dukehart, Thornton W. Rodgers, Fred Timmerman, Charles Bushman, Tom Bollinger, Bill Smith, Robert Pampel, Austin Stoner and Billy Seltzer.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS TO MEET.

The Young Republican League of Maryland will hold a meeting on the second floor of The Times building, Westminster, on Monday, May 8, at 8 P. M., for the purpose of organizing a Carroll County unit of the State organization. Able speakers will be present from Baltimore. Representatives from all districts are invited to attend.

CANNERS TO PAY $7.00 FOR CORN

Frederick county canners have agreed to raise the price on corn from $6.00 to $7.00 per ton. Since the former quotation was given, the price of corn has advanced. It is reported that the same advance will apply all over the state. The indications seem to be that a reduced acreage will be planted.

SCHOOLS EISTEDDFOD ANNUAL EVENT

Highly Successful Program held in Alumni Hall.

The tenth annual Eisteddfod of the Carroll County schools was a highly successful and pleasurable event, over 1500 having attended in Alumni Hall, W. M. College, last Friday night. The judge of the program was Dr. Franz Bornschein, composer and conductor, a member of the Faculty, Peabody Conservatory of Music, Baltimore.

The winners were: Taneytown school, first for orchestra; Westminster High, first for Boys' Chorus; Mildred Coshum, Union Bridge School, first for vocal solo, her selection being "The Swan." About 375 students presented the combined chorus, "Gloria," from Mozart's 12th. mass, accompanied by a 50-piece orchestra.

Dr. Bornschein highly commended the students and teachers for the excellence of their work, and urged them to continue their efforts, and Supt. Unger followed along the same line.

Orchestra numbers—New Windsor High school, "Alumni March"; Hampstead High school, "Gavotte"; Elmer Wolfe High school, "Moment Musical"; Mt. Airy High school, "Liebestraum"; Sykesville High school, "Minuet"; Westminster High school, "Two Guitars"; Manchester High school, "Turkish March"; Taneytown High school, "Pilgrims' Chorus"; and Charles Carroll High school, "The Heavens are Telling." The combined orchestra numbers were especially fine as follows: "War March of the Priests," Mendelssohn; "Minuet" from the Military Symphony, Haydn; and "March Militaire," Schubert. All orchestra numbers were under the direction of Philip Royer, music administrator and instructor.

Boys' choruses—Taneytown high school, "County Derry" from the Londonerry Air, and directed by Estella Essig; Elmer Wolfe High school, "Song of the Open Road," directed by Carolyn Bullock; Manchester High school, "Clang of the Forge," directed by Charles Forlines; Sykesville High school, "Deep Water Song," directed by Dorothy Roberts; New Windsor High school, "Cowboys," directed by Carolyn Bullock; Mechanicville High school, "John Peel," directed by Estella Essig; Westminster High school, "The Drum," directed by Lou R. Hawkins; Hampstead High school, "The Red Scarf," directed by Charles Forlines, and Mt. Airy High school, "The Blind Ploughman," directed by Dorothy Roberts.

Vocal solos—Mildred Coshum, of the Elmer Wolfe High school, "Morning"; Marshall Hood, Mt. Airy High school, "Friend O'Mine"; Earl Yingling, Manchester High school, "Venezian Song"; Lawrence Zepp, Westminster High school, "Invictus"; Virginia Clutz, Taneytown High school, "Roses of Picardy"; Thomas Murray, Hampstead High school, "Life"; Edith Lessalle, New Windsor High school, "The Valley of Laughter"; Reginald McNamara, Sykesville High school, "Sylvia."

The Girls' chorus numbers were: "Swing Song," Mechanicville High school; "A Brown Bird Singing," Sykesville High school; "Silent Now the Drowsy Bird," Manchester High school; "The Merry Zingarellas," Elmer Wolfe High school; "The Swan," Charles Carroll High school; "Carmena," New Windsor High school; "A Winter Lullaby," Taneytown High school; "Czechoslovakian Dance Song," Mt. Airy High school; "Venezian Love Song," Westminster High school, and "Pale Moon," Hampstead High school. "Gloria," from "The Twelfth Mass" was especially noted for its excellence, and all the more so because the number was presented without a rehearsal by the entire group. It was also conducted by Prof. Royer.

THE COUNTY ROAD QUESTION.

Attention is called to the double column statement from the State Roads Commission, on another page of this issue. As the matter of the distribution of the gasoline tax is discussed, along with the new law that gives the Commission all road construction work in the counties, the statement will be of wide interest. A second statement is to follow.

UNLAWFUL TO PERMIT DOGS TO RUN AT LARGE.

We beg to call the attention of the public to the law relative to dogs running at large pursuing game which is very detrimental to our game supply and especially to rabbits during the propagating season. A mother rabbit does not have a chance to escape pursuing dogs who catch and destroy same, and the owners of dogs should realize that their co-operation with the Game Department in keeping their dogs under leash from March 1 to September 1st.

Section 20 of Article 99, provides it to be unlawful for any person to allow any dog belonging to them to run at large on other property than that owned or tenanted by them between March 1 and Sept. 1 and pursue game or destroy the eggs or nests. Penalty for the violation of this Act is a fine of $25.00 to $100.00 for each and every offense and $5.00 additional for each game bird or game animal caught or killed illegally.

We would appreciate the co-operation of not only sportsmen but the general public in assisting us in the enforcement of this Act.

J. G. DIFFENDAL,
Deputy Game Warden.

CATECHUMEN'S PICNIC.

The catechumens of Manchester Reformed Church, taught by Dev. Dr. John S. Hollenbach, during the last winter, held a picnic in H. A. Shaffer's meadow, on Saturday.

The following were present out of the more than forty of the Charge: St. Mark's Synodists, Franklin Smith and Lawrence Shaffer; Trinity Manchester, Lavina Frock, Marie Hahn, Doris Weaver, Dorothy Frederick, Bernard Witter, Elmer Lippy, Jr., Elmo Hann; Lazarus, Lineboro, Helen Hetrick, Marie Hetrick, Bernice Hetrick, Kathryn Krug, Edna Krug, Anna Merryman, Helena Wolfgang, Josephine Currens, Arta Mae Warner, Walter Merryman, Harrison Merryman, Clarence Baughman, Wm Warner, Russel Zepp.

Others present were: Mrs. Guy D. Witter, Miss Flora Albaugh, Rev. and Mrs. John S. Hollenbach and children, Jack, Alice and Katherine.

Speed ball, dodge ball and other games were played.

SCHOOL BOARD REORGANIZED ON WEDNESDAY.

The Carroll County Board of Education was reorganized, on Wednesday, by electing Harry R. DeVires, of Sykesville, president; Milton A. Koons, Taneytown, vice-president and M. S. H. Unger, superintendent, secretary and treasurer. Guy S. La Forge, Union Bridge, took his seat as member of the Board, in place of J. Pearre Wantz, resigned.

The vote for Superintendent of Schools resulted in a tie, which probably means that Prof. Unger will retain the office at least until the date of the next annual election, when another vote may be taken. The salary of the office is $4,140 per year.

JUROR REPLACEMENTS.

Chief Judge Francis Neal Parke has announced the following juror replacements for the May term of court: Taneytown district—John D. Devibiss, drawn in place of Calvin T. Fringer; Uniontown district—John W. Stone, drawn in place of Edward Hawn; Woolery district—Morgan W. Jordan, drawn in place of William Mann; Westminster district—Guy J. Neudecker, drawn in place of Earnest H. Troxell. These replacements were necessary due to vacancies caused by deaths and requests to be excused. The May term of court convenes on Monday morning.

OPEN-AIR CONCERT TO BE HELD AT BLUE RIDGE COLLEGE.

The mixed chorus of Blue Ridge College is preparing to present a sacred concert on the campus, on Sunday afternoon, May 14, at 3:00 o'clock. They will be augmented in several numbers by the New Windsor High School Chorus. In case of inclement weather the concert will be given in the auditorium. Prof. Fisher will conduct the choruses. Miss Olivia Cool will accompany the college chorus and Miss Carolyn Bullock will accompany the combined choruses.

As guest musicians the audience will hear the Cumberland Valley Male Quartette, Marie Smelser Thompson, Soprano; John Addison Englar, Baritone, and Philip Royer, violinist. Several selections appropriate to Mother's Day will be featured on this program.

SOME IOWA FARMERS IN TROUBLE.

A Judge Taken from the Bench and Severely Mistreated.

The state of Iowa is on the first page of the newspapers, this week, due to the abduction and threatened hanging last week of Judge Bradley, who refused to stop foreclosure proceedings concerning farm sales. It is claimed that over one hundred farmers around Pringhar, O'Brien County, participated in the event, taking the Judge by force from the Court room, placed him in a truck, carried him some distance, and roughly handled him.

The Governor called out the National Guard that proceeded to arrest over 100 farmers charged with being implicated in the case, and a Court Martial is being held. The case is naturally attracting wide attention. Part of the evidence so far given is, that witnesses heard threats of "hanging."

Sixty-six persons are already in jail awaiting a full hearing of the case, and it is claimed that about two hundred may be involved. So far, the effort toward bringing the guilty ones to justice lies in securing advance evidence that will be submitted at trial in a Civil Court case. As yet, Judge Bradley has not been called on to testify. Several counties are involved in the case in the matter of locating witnesses and principals concerned in the riotous procedure.

In the meantime, farmers are demanding the withdrawal of troops, various conflicting interests are busy in trying to capitalize the situation for various ends, some of them involving the general farm depression in the state. Farm unions, labor unions and other organizations appear to be adding their quota to the case.

The better elements in all classes stand for an orderly procedure, and this will eventually be brought about and the charges against the rioters will be settled on their merits, and according to the evidence and Iowa law.

WILL TEST ORDER THAT GOLD MUST BE SURRENDERED.

According to experts, there are $200,000,000 in gold that has not been turned into the Treasury Department according to order. The Department says it has a list of those who have defined the order, and will move against them.

Charles S. Thomas, former U. S. Senator from Colorado, has issued a defiance of the order. The 84-year-old statesman has written to Ralph L. Carr as follows:

I am the sole possessor of one hundred and twenty dollars ($120) in gold, which I have acquired in order to qualify myself for the penitentiary pursuant to the recent edict of the President. Being entitled, under the prevailing laws of the country, to its retention, I shall not comply with the presidential requirement and surrender it to the authorities, preferring to use my few remaining years in testing the extent to which the executive power can compel a citizen to comply with its demands.

HOME BURNS NEAR ELDERSBURG.

The home of Thomas Jones and family, Baseman's Bridge, near Eldersburg, was burned to the ground Sunday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. Although the Westminster Fire Department responded promptly to a call for assistance, the flames had gained too great headway for the firemen to save the dwelling. Only a few pieces of furniture were carried to safety. The fire is reported to have been first noticed near the roof. The origin has not been determined. The loss was estimated at about $4,000.

ANY KIND OF DOLLARS!

The Record confesses that it does not know what is meant by "inflation" as it applies to money. We are not so much concerned about whether a dollar is considered "inflated," as we are about the increased multiplication of dollars that should come into our office.

They can be of gold, silver, copper, or only paper. If they are "inflated" or need "inflation," we will take a chance on them. Just give us the chance. And, "as half of a loaf is better than no bread," so is half of a dollar better than none.

WESTMINSTER BANK OPENS.

The First National Bank of Westminster, opened on Monday, on a normal basis having completed the plan approved by the U. S. Treasury Department and Federal Reserve System. The deposits made on the first day's opening exceeded the withdrawals.

SENATOR COBLENTZ TO BE TRIED IN FREDERICK.

State Senator Emory L. Coblenz will again face trial on the charge of receiving deposits when he knew the Central Trust Company was insolvent, this time in the Frederick County Court. The trial will be held, beginning May 20, and may last a week. It is believed that this trial will have an important effect on similar charges pending in other counties.

Men and women are different, but all boys are pretty much alike.

PHONE RATE REDUCTION

Urged by the State Farm Bureau Organization.

Co-operating with John Henry Lewin, People's Counsel, the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation and affiliated organizations through Miles H. Fairbank, Secretary-Treasurer, filed a protest before the Public Service Commission last Tuesday, after preliminary hearing looking towards a possible reduction of 'phone rates in Maryland to the extent of $2,000,000 annually.

After Mr. Lewin had delivered a preliminary statement setting forth the valuations and kindred facts to substantiate an order calling for a reduction in rates, Mr. Fairbank took the stand and stated, "that for the past two years the farmers and rural citizens of Maryland have been readjusting their business to present conditions while at the same time trying to maintain an adequate standard of living."

"We are suffering under no illusion," Mr. Fairbank continued "that agricultural prosperity will come back with a rush. We are well aware that it will be a long hard grind even under favorable conditions, but our farmers are making their readjustments to meet the now conditions. At the same time we have been trying to sponsor a program of better living and it is exceedingly unfortunate that the number of rural telephones are decreasing, principally because of the rates imposed in order that the telephone companies may make a profit."

Mr. Fairbank also pointed out that the telephone companies would profit by the activities of the Farm Bureau and the Grange as a result of the tax reduction campaign which these organizations conducted and which successfully culminated in legislation that will reduce property taxes in the counties anywhere from 25 to 40%. He further urged the Commission to recognize the economic status of the farmers as a background for their deliberations along with the estimates of property values and the valuation of physical assets upon which the present rates would be sustained or lower rates ordered.

Briefs were filed by both telephone company and the People's Counsel and the next few weeks will be occupied with hearing expert testimony so that the final result of the hearing will probably be known within the next thirty days.

The Telephone Company presented evidence and argument claiming that rates are not exorbitant; that the Company is operating 17,000 fewer telephones, calls have decreased 15 percent, revenues show a decrease, and that charges are not higher than a reasonable return on property used for the service.

THE TORNADO SEASON.

The Tornado season opened on Monday, May 1 in an area beginning in Southern Missouri, sweeping into Arkansas and Louisiana, killing 54 persons and ruining millions of dollars worth of property. The storm was distinctly cyclonic in character, lasting only a few minutes in passing, but leaving a trail of destruction anywhere. Hundreds of persons were injured.

Another tornado spread disaster in Illinois, near Canton, that swept away a school house. The pupils were saved by going into a basement connected with the building.

A WOMAN VISITOR STARTLED CONGRESS.

A woman visitor, Miss Betty Richmond, of Chicago, startled the House, on Tuesday, by shouting from the gallery—"In a million years, you'll never get out of this depression the way you are going," and continued for a time ending with the prediction that many of the present members would never come back to Congress.

Miss Richmond passed out in the corridors before the Sergeant-at-Arms could be aroused. On being questioned, she replied facetiously that she came to Washington to cure the depression. She was not detained.

Random Thoughts

"THINGS CAN'T BE WORSE."

Belief in something like this, helped to elect President Roosevelt. But things are worse, and we simply face the fact that we guessed wrong—that the wisdom of our judgment was not wisdom at all, and that even now, with our hindsight experience, we may still err in the future along the same line.

"Things" may get "worse" than now. We do not know about it, so why worry about it? And, why not stop blaming somebody—everybody but ourselves—for not being able to forecast the future? "When the doctors disagree, who shall decide?" Lincoln once said, "I do the very best I know how—the very best I can—and I mean to keep on doing so to the end." And this is a good enough motto for everybody—one that can not be improved on. Just one thing at a time, and that done "the best we know how," and keeping up courage, will win in the end—when it comes.

One is very brave now, and takes great chances with one's reputation, when we assume to fix blame. It is easy to do this, and just as easy to do it wrongly. Truly, the wisest men "see only in part," and do not always realize their defective vision.

REORGANIZATION OF BANKS.

The reorganization of banks throughout the country—that seems more prevalent in Maryland than in most other states—means that the banks are being required by law to make good all losses on their investments during the past years—that seemed good at the time of their purchase with the depositors' funds in order to place them on a 100 percent solvent basis.

And this opens up the question—Has the government any more real right to order bank holidays and reorganization, than it has to order insurance companies, municipalities, and business concerns of all other kinds to do the same thing? In other words, why should not all interests of a financial character, corporate or personal, that has to do with a credit system, to confidence between buyer and seller, to market fluctuations, to tariffs and general business practices, be likewise "put on the spot" as to their financial status?

Unquestionably, the banks of the country should not be immune from reasonable supervision. They touch the prosperity and financial safety of millions of people. While all banks are not National in name, they are national in their general operations. Evidently, there should be actual bank examinations. Defalcations should be brought to light, and the guilty punished. There should even be proper regulation curbing the expenditure of deposits for buildings, expenses, dividends, salaries and the like.

But, this one sudden interference seems somehow unjustified in its extent and severity. Always the banks must always stand as their investments stand, subject to market fluctuations, and this hold-up does not change that fact in the least. Might there not have been more selection as to the application of the new rigid regulations, that would have given many of the banks reasonable time in which to clean house to the point of public safety?

And might not the thousands of depositors who depend for living expenses on the interest from their savings have been better cared for than the reopening laws provide? This is the most serious feature of the whole situation.

GOOD MANAGEMENT.

What we do not know with reference to the financial and governmental situation is likely a much greater quantity than what we do know, and this is about as true of Congress as of any other source of information, collective or individual. Something very like this must explain why Congress is heaping on the President a superabundance of authority—Congress does not know, and is willing to let the President assume full responsibility for steering the ship of state into safe channels.

The banks did not know that they were going to get into the fix they are in. Men bought properties and went into debt, not knowing that the bottom would drop out of things. Even families made purchases and calculated on future incomes, without knowing that incomes would largely disappear.

Optimism caused many a business firm to continue salaries and overhead expenses; expecting the return of prosperity that was said to be "just around the corner"—and continued this course too long, as our hind-sight now tells us.

Was this good management? If so, there are mighty few who have been good managers. Some did not follow this optimistic policy, but put on the brakes, cut down expenses, and banked, on invested, their savings; but even this did not result in good management, in the light of the present situation.

If we estimate good management purely in the light of dodging all chances of getting hurt, we will never get far from home, nor far in any other direction. But, when we hear of somebody who made a good investment—whether through judgment or chance—we say he was a "good manager," and forget all about those who did the same thing at other times, and lost out.

There is no such thing, these days, as omniscience. The one who waits for "sure things" to come along and invite us to pick them up, will never do any picking up, because we will be suspicious that the offer is too easy—that there is "a catch in it," and pass it by.

THE KILLING OF TREES.

The tendency of road building and street grading is toward the destruction of trees, for the sake of bareness and arbitrary grading, and little or no effort is being made, or encouraged, to replace the trees destroyed, which means that ugliness for our highways and streets will be present for many years in the future.

But why this crusade against trees is so general, is difficult to understand. They represent, more than anything else, the beauty of the country over the city. The very fact that the cities provide extensive parks, is evidence that city folks are partial to trees and shade, even though the necessities of business seem to require their removal in the crowded business sections.

When we speak of beautiful streets in the cities, we mean the streets with handsome rows of shade trees. All small towns with shaded streets look more like "home towns." Homes in the country, or on farms, are appreciably better looking with a few trees about them. Even bare pasture fields, having a few trees, are appreciated for the shade they give.

A whole country without trees, unless with exceptionally deep soil and plenty of streams, is but little better than a desert. Since public officials are inclined toward killing the trees, the only hope for retaining the natural beauty of the country rests in private owners taking care of old, and the planting of new trees.

JAPAN UNDERSTANDS.

A newspaper paragraph says, by way of specious wit, "The Japanese have now gone so deep into China, it would take a major operation to get them out."

There is no wit of any sort about it, in all probability. The Japs know what they are doing, and what they want. They understand the chess-board on which they are playing, and the advantage of opposition, and the chances are that a check-mate will be gradually forced.

The world powers are disinclined to attempt the "major operation" that would dislodge them, and calculate on their powers under the circumstances. They understand the game, and when necessary, are in position to make new rules that those on the side-lines are not apt to interfere with.

If any effectual block to the Jap program is to be made, China must make it, and this is unlikely because next to impossible. The unhappy country has the man-power, but not the money nor fighting ability back of them. They have friendly nations looking on, but mere looking on does not stop active aggression.

THE NEEDY VETERANS.

Among the over 400,000 war veterans who have lost their disability allowances, due to the recent action of Congress, are many who are in need, due to disabilities received following the war. Naturally, this would be true of any like number of men, covering a like period, at any time. Not all of these men lose all they have been receiving, but all must sustain severe cuts.

In such cases, the Red Cross steps in with aid, as it does in all cases of widespread need. The financial situation, of course, affects these men as it does everybody else; and taking away an income already bestowed, that was expected to continue indefinitely, has left an unfavorable psychological effect—many of the 400,000 feel that they have been robbed.

The sympathy of the American Legion is with them, and will help to keep up the agitation for some near date of the payment of all bonuses. The survivors of the Civil War benefited by a gradual pension payment system, that is not yet ended; but the government is not such a difficult source to reach, nowadays, as it was fifty or more years ago, and the defeat of the bonus payments will not so easily stay defeated.

NO NATION CAN LIVE ALONE.

The approaching conference between representatives of the great powers of the world and President Roosevelt, will focus attention on one of the most vital problems of depression—the decline in foreign trade.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull recently said that America's share of the world trade that has been lost in the past few years reaches the astounding total of $6,000,000,000—a volume of business which at any time would mean the difference between depression and comparative prosperity. If the general world economic crisis had been wholly responsible for the collapse of trade, the problem would be a good deal less important—all over the world the industrial skies are brightening and the upturn has started. But foreign trade has gone to the doldrums principally for another reason—a growth of isolationist sentiment in the great countries. The result has been tariff barriers and embargoes to a greater degree than ever before existed.

In the modern world, we have annihilated space. The telephone, the radio, fast transport, have almost eliminated the former barrier of distance. In this world no nation can successfully live alone, remote and economically removed from its neighbors. Such a policy is the prelude to international distrust, suspicion, enmity. And in a world where such things exist there can be no permanent and sound prosperity.

The United States is taking the lead in seeking to obtain world co-operation for recovery, and to stimulate trade between nations. If the other powers follow, it will be the greatest blow yet struck at hard times.—Industrial News Review.

JUST A BOOMERANG.

"Let the rich pay the tax." This slogan has been and is now a popular expression with a large section of the unthinking public, state and national legislators included. As a result the American public is shouldering the heaviest tax burden ever borne by our people in times of war or peace; and that, too, in the worst economic depression in the history of our nation. For the last twenty years the federal government has increased expenditures by its paternalistic tendencies toward assuming literally hundreds of important functions which rightfully belong to the states and to individuals. A few people have come to realize that whenever the federal government spends money, it must dig down into the pockets of the taxpayers to get it. It is and ever shall be an eternal truth that the consumer pays the bills.

Every fair-minded person now has ample opportunity to observe the effects of reckless spending by the federal government and "the soak the rich" tax theory. We are taxed for our land, our homes, every item of furnishing in our homes, every article of clothing, automobiles, automobile accessories, gas, electric lights, incomes, cameras, picture shows, matches, bank checks; in fact, rack your brain for one single item on which there is not a direct or an indirect tax. There is no use for you won't find one. To make things worse it is appalling to realize that on innumerable items we pay double tax and in some cases triple tax, as in the case of where the county, city, state and federal authorities all take a divvy off of gasoline, tobacco and incomes beyond a certain figure.

These tax millions pour into the government coffers 365 days of the year; there is no ceasing. It is paid out for road building, improvement of rivers and harbors, salaries of government workers, upkeep of army and navy, erection and repairs on federal buildings, extension and repairs on federal buildings, extension work in education, health service, assistance to agriculture and industry, pensions to veterans of our wars, postal service, subsidies to aviation, merchant marine, inland waterways, etc. Federal legislators have found a way to spend our tax millions, and in the past two years three billions in addition.

How does this affect the average working man and that class of society which advocates "soak the rich"? Naturally, the ones who pay the tax include it in their charge for their product whether it be a manufactured product or the labor of their hands. It means that the capitalist must get a higher price for his article and pay less to the labor that produces it, the buying public and laboring man cannot buy as much as formerly on account of higher prices and having less money, consequently there is no need for the capitalist to manufacture more than he can sell and he begins to lay off men. The man who advocated "soak the rich" now has no job.

A better slogan than "soak the rich" is "live and let live." Don't be fooled into thinking the government gives you anything. You are the government and you will pay the bill. The poor man who buys a sack of flour, a slab of bacon, a pound of coffee and a pair of shoes for his child is the one who pays in the end. It is a universal truth that every one must pay for what he gets.—Sterns (Ky.) Record.

ONCE TOO OFTEN.

A kindly, compassionate, peace-loving citizen is John Motorist. He mourns his brothers' misfortunes and contributes to assuage their woes. He attends church on Sunday (when the weather is not too good.) He grumbles very little over paying exorbitant sums for the privilege of operating his tin chariot on the highways. When someone clips his fender he keeps his temper and lets the insurance companies do the worrying. He's a pretty sound fellow, all in all, and people speak of him as a typical American. But he has never absorbed the lesson of "once too often," and, as a result, he is a menace to his fellow countrymen.

Because he has never had a serious experience on the highways he is prone to regard himself as especially skillful and continues violating the safe-and-sane driving rules with blissful self-satisfaction. He does not recall that more Americans have been killed in automobile accidents during the last fifteen years than have been killed in action during all the nation's wars. He does not pause to consider that most of these fatalities have occurred because someone did the very things John Motorist does, but did them "once too often."

In a booklet issued by the Travelers Insurance Company an impressive table tells how "once too often" is taking its toll. Because some John Motorists exceeded the speed limit there were 150,050 accidents from that cause last year; because other John Motorists took the wrong side of the road, there were 81,180 more; because still others did not observe the right-of-way rule, there were 146,500 more. Cutting in once too often was responsible for 24,610 accidents; passing over on a curve or a hill, 7350; passing on the wrong side, 10,340; failing to signal or improperly signaling, 52,770.

There were, in addition, 140,000 accidents from miscellaneous causes. And from these violations of good driving practice in which John Motorist figured all too frequently in the "once too often" role, there were 20,400 fatalities and 750,400 persons injured. The thought of this grim toll brings sorrow to John Motorist and makes him thoughtful. There are certain things he need not do once too often. The art of sane driving demands self-control as well as control of the mechanics of an automobile.

It requires character to keep to a temperate rate of speed on the public highways; it requires vigilance to keep on the right side of the road; it requires a sense of justice to surrender the right of way to those whose right it is; it requires alertness to watch intersections and to keep to the roadway; it requires thoughtfulness to make the proper signals, and it requires qualities well worth developing to refrain from indulging in motoring bad manners, which bring disaster sooner or later when done "once too often."

But perhaps John Motorist does not need to be told this. Being an average American citizen, he is immensely jealous of his self-respect. He cares what his fellows say about him. Certainly his own good common sense has told him before now that a man is judged not only by the company he keeps, but likewise by the way he drives. Certainly he can get no great satisfaction at any time by driving like a boor, when he recalls that, generally speaking, the boors of the highways have killed more Americans than have armed enemies.—Christian Science Monitor.

GASOLINE TAXES IN 1932.

State gasoline and motor fuel taxes and licenses for the sale of gasoline yielded a total revenue of more than $514,000,000 in 1932 according to reports collected from State authorities by the Bureau of Public Roads, U. S. Department of Agriculture. More than 14 billion gallons furnished power for motor vehicles. The tax was at an average rate of 3.6 cents per gallon. Consumption of gasoline declined 7.5 percent from the previous year. Delaware and Maryland were the only States reporting increased consumption.

The total revenue was allocated as follows: To State highways, $301,788,231; to local roads, $94,073,954; to State and county road bond payments, $50,726,362; to city streets, $16,776,050; to costs of collection and administration, $2,832,820; and to other than highway purposes, $47,941,483.

The gasoline tax for Maryland was as follows: total $7,500,232; gallons taxed 187,505,794, an increased consumption of .9; tax rate 4 cents. The tax rate throughout the country varied from 2 cents in Rhode Island and Missouri, to 7 cents in Florida and Tennessee.

Settles Down at 150

The first 150 years are the wildest for an elephant, according to Siam, once the most unpopular beast in captivity, observes a writer in the Montreal Herald. And Paris, where life is reputed to be wild, wants Siam back because he is wild no more. One hundred years ago Napoleon took him from Egypt to Paris. Siam was so temperamental that Napoleon gave the beast to Emperor Franz Joseph of Austria. In Schoenbrunn, Siam made himself a nuisance, and Franz Joseph finally gave him to the City of Budapest, where he still remains. Siam became tame and now even earns a good living. He begs money from spectators at the zoo and hands the coins over to the keeper.

Queen Not Favorably Impressed by Carlyle

"The human hand is not wanting in the letters and journals of Queen Victoria, who was a woman of much independence of spirit and clarity of thought, writes Dora Kitt, in the Victoria (B. C.) Colonist. "Thus, in 1880, we learn that she went to the deanery of Westminster to meet certain writers of renown, among them 'Mr. Carlyle, the historian, a strange-looking, eccentric old Scotsman, who holds forth in a drawling, melancholy voice with a broad Scotch accent, upon Scotland and upon the utter degeneration of everything. Sir C. and Lady Lyell, he an old acquaintance, most agreeable, and she very pleasing, and Mr. Browning, the poet, a very agreeable man. It was at first very shy work speaking to them, but afterwards when tea was being drunk . . . they were very agreeable and talked very entertainingly."

Elephant's Big Part in East Indian Pageantry

Elephant transport, slow but sure, survives in the rough country of Central India and Rajputana, but is gradually being discarded by Indian princes and merchants for the faster automobile, according to a writer in the Manchester (England) Guardian. On the great estates of the maharajas the elephant carriages are retained for state occasions, when the animal plays a leading role in the display of Indian pageantry. From ten to thirty elephants are used at festivities of this kind, especially when a local potentate celebrates a birthday. The beasts are gorgeously outfitted for such occasions, and painted. Their trunks, ears and tails are covered with red, yellow and green flowers and their foreheads are daubed with gilt to match the decorative coats of the howdahs and the trappings of the carriages.

FORTUNE IN GOLD FOUND IN RIVER

Mississippi Gives Up Coins 800 Years Old.

McLain, Miss.—Rising from a historical background of pre-Civil war days, a fortune of Spanish gold minted 800 years ago has been discovered in southern Mississippi. The discovery has awakened new interest in the early history of the state, and has caused historians to delve deeper into some of the legends. It also has thrown an interesting light on early accomplishments of Gen. Andrew Jackson and others.

Only a short distance from the boarded up shack of Ab and West Sylvester, discoverers of the glistening Spanish coin, can be found the skeleton of a swinging bridge said to have been built by Jackson.

Choctaw Indians once inhabited this land, and according to an old folk tale, the chieftain's daughter fell in love with the property owner and they later married. When the government sent the Indians to a new reservation the Indian woman left her husband and went with her tribe. The land was left to the white man, who later married an American woman.

As a vast sum of foreign money had come into his possession, he was compelled to bury it in five different locations until after the Civil war. Later thieves stole a map of the money locations from him and dug up three of the caches. Forrest Lea, a farmer, still later unearthed a fourth chest, which contained Spanish gold coins; jewelry and a gold pocket knife.

It is believed that the tree marking the location of the fifth chest was cut down; thus, until a few weeks ago, nothing more was known of the missing treasure.

The vast sum comprising the fifth fortune has not been estimated, but it is said to represent many thousands of dollars, besides probably heavy premiums that will be paid on coins bearing old dates. There are 1,100 coins, all very thin yellow gold, presumably doubloons.

So great was the shock to the Sylvesters at finding the fortune on the creek bank near their home that the older man was confined to his bed for several days, with an attending physician. Three bodyguards were placed at the shanty in the desolate thicket to protect the family.

Hundreds of residents from Forrest, Greene and Perry counties have visited the farm, and mineral rods, picks, shovels and implements of every description have been in constant use along the placid stream.

How Flatteries Saved Man From Mexican Bandit

El Paso, Texas.—George Millar of this city, thrice captured by Francisco (Pancho) Villa, Mexico's notorious bad man, has his own version of the Arabian nights.

Like the legendary Queen Scheherazade, who told stories for 1,001 nights to divert the sultan's thoughts of strangling her, Millar flattered Villa for 10 days to escape a firing squad.

When captured by Villa in 1920 for the third time Millar, a mining engineer, said that his company would not pay a $50,000 ransom as it had done previously. When advised to prepare to die Millar mustered latent creative talent.

When memory failed imagination supplied as Millar told the bandit chieftain of Napoleon, Caesar, Hannibal, Peter the Great, Alexander, and the great Khan. He proclaimed Villa an exact duplicate of each.

At the close of the tenth day Villa, strutting a Napoleonic stride and assuming an expression of importance that would have been appropriate to the great Khan, released the mining engineer.

Appreciated Gall Stone Cure

Recesswind, king of the Visigoths, visited the Cerrato baths in north central Spain in 612 and was cured of gall stones. As a mark of his gratitude he built the small basilica of San Juan Bautista. It has been restored from time to time but it still stands as one of the most interesting architectural remains of the darkest part of the Dark ages.

Church to Exhibit

Crucifixion Coat

Trier, Germany.—Jesus' "coat without seam, woven from the top throughout," for which the soldiers cast lots after they had crucified him, will be shown from July 23 to September 3 in the Trier cathedral. This garment, one of the most valuable relics in the Christian world, is reputed to have been brought to Trier more than a thousand years ago by St. Helena, the mother of Emperor Constantine VI. It has been in the cathedral's treasure chamber since 1196. The coat has been exhibited a number of times in the last centuries—the last time in 1891, when more than two million Christians came from all parts of the earth to view it.

DEATH BECKONS 15 MORE X-RAY HEROES

Fourteen in England Give Lives to Science.

London.—Fifteen X-ray martyrs are dying in obscurity in various parts of Great Britain.

Their incurable disease is the penalty demanded for the price of nature's secrets.

Fourteen of the earlier pioneers of X-ray developments have already died, and the 15 present day sufferers know only too well that they must eventually succumb to the irreparable injury inflicted by the invisible power of the rays upon their bodies.

Some of them are living in retirement in the little cottages in the Shires, or in modest homes in the suburbs of Manchester, Edinburgh, Newcastle and London.

The world does not hear of them until their deaths.

One of them was a chemist in business in a large provincial town. In the early days he was quick to see what a wonderful instrument X-rays would be for the examination of broken limbs or the location of a needle swallowed by a child. He bought apparatus, experimented, and became widely known.

Then one day he noticed his fingernails becoming brittle. His skin was dry and parched. Doctors confirmed the fact that he was suffering from an incurable skin complaint. Now he waits the end.

Half a dozen of the little band were radiologists in the base hospitals during the war. They had to operate their X-ray tubes for long hours locating shrapnel, bomb splinters, and bullets in the bodies of the wounded.

Under such conditions, it was impossible to work in full protection from the rays. They were too busy to trouble about saving themselves from the invisible danger while there were hundreds of casualties waiting for their pain to be relieved. They were exposed for days on end—and now they, too, wait.

Mongolia

Mongolia is a vast tableland in Central Asia, the traditional home of the Mongol peoples, and formerly was a definite dependency of the Chinese empire. Now it is divided into two distinct cultural and political entities—Inner Mongolia, which is becoming absorbed into China, and Outer Mongolia, a republic in close relations with the Russian Soviet federation.

Boy Risks Life for Dog, Breaks Ice, but Is Saved

Stamford, Conn.—Watch, a collie, came home unaided, while his master, Richard Cullen, Jr., twelve years old, had fallen through the ice in the Rippowan river as he tried to rescue the dog from an ice floe.

Watch trotted out on the ice. When he could not get back to shore, Richard went after him and fell into 12 feet of water. He was able to haul himself up on solid ice but was marooned there until police threw him a rope.

Realistic Dream Leads Sleeper to Kill a Bat

Holyoke, Mass.—William Eger recently dreamed some one was pulling his ear off.

The dream became so realistic Eger began to feel severe pains in his ear. He made a grab for the ear and killed a bat which had flown in his bedroom window.

Depression Brings Back Watch Stolen 17 Years

Richmond, Calif.—The depression has enabled Pat Gilligan to get back his watch, stolen 17 years ago.

Oct. 11, 1916, Gilligan reported the theft to police. A description was sent to police of nearby cities.

Stockton police, in checking goods of a Stockton pawnshop, found Gilligan's watch. It had been pawned a few days earlier, presumably by the thief who took it 17 years ago.

Fireman Risks Life to Save Woman Stuck in Mud

New York.—Mrs. Louise Triscoll, seventy, began sinking in the mud as she walked across the flats of Hook creek, between Jamaica and Inwood, L. I.

She was waist deep when her screams were heard by Fireman Leonard Reuss. He ran to the flats with a ladder and a plank. He sank to his knees in the mud. Once it seemed he, too, was caught, but he flung the plank flat and dragged himself onto it.

At last, throwing the plank across the last bog hole, dropping the ladder onto the plank, Fireman Reuss made a bridge on which he crawled to the sinking woman. She had fainted. The mud was closing over her shoulders when he seized her.

As the fireman struggled to drag the woman from the mud the plank and the ladder sank slowly under him. But at last he dragged her to firm land.

TARGET FOR CAKE, SHE ASKS DIVORCE

"Playful" Husband Accused of Various Pranks.

New York.—Dr. Earl Roosa, Fifth avenue dentist, has just the quaintest sense of humor. He's always pulling things. For instance, once at the dinner table the missus asked him, please, to pass the cake.

He picked it up, Mai told Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy, and threw it at her. A strawberry shortcake it was. Smack! It hit her in the face, Mai says, and the Doc smeared the whipped cream, the berries and the cake into her eyes and mouth and all over her.

Perhaps the Doc was simply giving his wife her just desserts. Another time, Mai says, she was on the bed reading when he came in. He lighted one match after another, she declares, and threw them at her until the bed caught fire. Hot stuff, huh?

Sometimes he'd sit and read to her and if she fell asleep he'd slap her face, she says, to keep her awake. All good clean fun, your understand. Perfectly killing.

Now, the Doc denies all of this. Mai made them up, he insists, because she's trying to get some alimony. She has a terribly jealous disposition and would fly into a rage every time he answered the phone.

Her mother, who lived with them, was always causing trouble, he says. It was a rare occasion, indeed, the Doc adds, when he was able to see his own wife without her mother being present.

Business is bad, so the judge was asked to go easy on the alimony. People don't go to a dentist for bridges these days. They go to the East river.

Cat, Missing Year, Finds Its Way Home

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Silver Lad, a pedigree Persian cat, is safe at home again after nearly a year of wandering.

The haughty Persian, a pet of Patsy Palmer, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric H. Palmer, ran away last summer. The Palmers searched and advertised, but found no trace of the missing cat. They gave up, but Patsy said:

"Never mind; cats always come back."

And recently Silver Lad did. He was lean, dirty, battered, hungry and apparently glad to get home.

Fight Over Ownership of Chicken Kills It

Birmingham, Ala.—A chicken paid with its life for the devotion of two women, whose dispute over the fowl's ownership led to the court room. Mrs. Mary L. Jones claimed she bought the chicken in an adjoining county, while Mrs. Daisy Morris said she raised it. They fought, the chicken's neck was broken in the melee. Mrs. Morris was arrested but later acquitted on an assault charge.

Wrote "Home, Sweet Home"

The author of the immortal "Home, Sweet Home" was John Howard Payne, who was born in New York city June 9, 1791. But most of his boyhood days were spent in a "lowly cottage" on Long Island, here "the birds singing gayly that came to my call" clung to his memory to the time he wrote his song. As a young man Payne lived in Washington, where for a time he was a clerk in the pension office. He was successful as an actor, playwright, poet and editor. He wrote "Home, Sweet Home" about the year 1822 while occupying a small room in a lodging house in Paris, France.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Descendants of King Henry V

Henry V and Katherine of Valois had but one son, who succeeded as Henry VI. He was murdered in the Tower of London, and his only son, Edward, prince of Wales, was killed in battle. After the death of Henry V his widow married a Welshman named Owen Tudor who was remotely descended on his mother's side from one of the Swineford sons of John of Gaunt. By this second marriage Katherine of Valois became the grandmother of King Henry VII and ancestress of all subsequent English monarchs.

Squirrel Bites Man Walking on Street

Mount Vernon, Ill.—Ralph Spartman is being treated by a physician for a wound on the leg inflicted by a gray squirrel which attacked and bit him while walking on the street. The same squirrel bit a woman a short time before. Mount Vernon contains many gray squirrels, and one was never before known to attack anyone. It is suggested that the squirrel may have been bitten by a rabid dog or cat. The squirrel killed.

Mr. and Mrs. Rawlings, of Baltimore, spent several days, this week, with relatives here.

FEESERSBURG.

May-day, a real spring celebration in some parts of our country, and once May baskets of flowers—and often good things to eat, were left at the doors of friends, the aged and shut-ins. A pretty custom, but now it's made a sort of holiday for the first picnic of the year. Well this time it was a fine warm day for out o'-doors.

Last week, the John Albaugh family moved their possessions from the E. W. Harder place, in our town, to the Thurston Cronise place, near Linwood. For the first time within our recollection, the first named home is vacant.

Some of our folks attended the sale of household goods, belonging to the late Norman Eckard, in Uniontown, last Wednesday. A big crowd, nice goods, and good prices they reported.

L. K. Birely took Mrs. Lowell Birely, Mrs. Addie Crumbacker and his sister, Lizzie, to the Missionary Conference in the Lutheran Church, Emmitzburg, on Thursday of last week; which was largely attended and very interesting sessions. At the lunch hour, four societies celebrated their jubilee year: Lovettsville, Middletown, Jefferson, Woodsboro. Lovettsville and Woodsboro delegations gave a brief resume of their work, the latter with a poem written by Mrs. Coral Spurrier Kling; Middletown, and Jefferson sang words, written by Mrs. May Gaylor, to the tunes of "When You and I were young, Maggie," and "Jingle Bells." These societies were seated at a long table in center of the room, which was trimmed with yellow crepe paper and tall candles a light; with a large three tier Angel food cake covered with yellow icing and candles on it, a gift of an Emmitsburg lady. Seven ministers and several Synodical officers were present, and Dr. Anna John Gesler, of the Africa mission, was the guest speaker, and a good one.

Six were afternoon callers on Mrs. Six (nee Mabel Pohle) and Mrs. Sauerhammer (nee May Mackert) were youthful neighbors and friends in Baltimore.

This was named Boys week to give the father a chance to companion with, and get better acquainted with their sons, and its time to know each other better. Love can still work miracles.

The funeral of Harry Graham, who suddenly expired at his home, in Union Bridge, on Saturday, passed through town, on Tuesday afternoon for burial at Bethel Church, near Blue Ridge Summit.

This week, while stirring a lot of cold soap, we kept thinking of the old "ash-hopper," the lye from wood ashes, and the boiling of soap by the half barrel. How differently we work and live now, all that seems far away—but what a wonder it was then!

And now the lovely apple blossoms, garden making and corn planting. A drive through this part of our country now seems like a beautiful dream come true.

SILVER RUN.

The Men's Bible Class, taught by Rev. F. B. Peck, of St. Mary's Reformed Church, held their monthly meeting at the parsonage, Monday evening. The Ladies' Bible Class, taught by Mrs. Samuel Smith, held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Liney Crouse, of Northern Carroll, Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Crusing, son, Clinton, spent Sunday with Carroll Pippinger and family, of Union Bridge.

UNION BRIDGE.

Again, the uncertainty of life was very vividly brought to our attention, when our town lost two of its most highly respected citizens, last week, through the inevitable mechanism of death.

Harry E. Graham, aged 45 years, died suddenly at his home, on West Broadway, Union Bridge, (the Nannie Fowble property) on Saturday morning, April 29, at 5 o'clock, from the results of an attack of acute indigestion, which he suffered a short time previous. Mr. Graham had been employed by the Potomac Edison Company for a number of years, and was an electrician by trade. He was a member of the Taneytown U. B. Church, and also a member of the Taneytown Order of the Jr. O. U. A. M. He resided in Taneytown for a number of years before moving to Union Bridge. He possessed an ingenious character, and his absence will be felt by us, for some time to come. If we were to judge, we would say that he was a good man, and what more could be said of anyone.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Martha Jane Graham, and three children, Addison Graham, of Waynesboro; Miss Edith Graham, of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, and Mrs. Mabel Riffe, Taneytown. Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon from his late home, with burial in Bethel cemetery, near Camp Ritchie, Rev. I. M. Fridinger, of the U. B. Church, Taneytown, officiating.

Mrs. Anna R. Abbott, wife of Geo. Abbott died at her home in Union Bridge, on Sunday evening last, at 9:30 o'clock, from complications of which she had been suffering for some time. She was a life-long resident of Carroll Co., and an active member of the U. B. M. E. Church, and we are glad that she has reason to say that she was a God-fearing mother, and a true devoted wife. She was in her 64th year and is survived by her husband and the following children: Walter Abbott, Baltimore; Carl Abbott, Philadelphia; David Abbott, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Ethel Loy, Harrisburg, Pa.; Mrs. Lola Cortzandafner and Miss Reba Abbott, Union Bridge. Funeral services were held on Wednesday morning, in the Patapsco M. E. Church, with Rev. E. W. Culp, of the Union Bridge M. E. Circuit, officiating.

Congratulations on behalf of your High school orchestra for the splendid manner in which they rendered their selections in the High school Eisteddfod in Alumni Hall, Westminster on last Friday night, thus winning first honors, and, of course, we are justly proud of Miss Coshun for bringing the Elmer Wolfe H. S. to the front again, or rather holding it there.

The Lehigh Cement Plant here has ceased operations for thirty days, and is giving employment to a few of the foremen only. The reason for this shut down is due to the stock house being full.

The local W. M. Railroad shops are working a few more men than had been working. They are working now on a nine-hour five-day-a-week schedule.

UNIONTOWN.

After a two weeks' stay at home, Mrs. Annie Caylor returned to Westminster, Sunday.

Mrs. Sarah Goodwin, who spent the winter with home folks, in England, spent last week at Benton Flater's.

Miss Dorothy Segafosse has been off duty for some days, being on the sick list.

Miss Thelma Nussbaum spent the week-end with Miss Virginia Myers.

Howard Devilbiss, Westminster, visited his brother, Snader Devilbiss and family, last week.

Miss Mary Eyster, Hood College, was a guest of her uncle and aunt, Rev. and Mrs. M. L. Kroh, over Sunday.

Mrs. Laura Reindollar, Taneytown, visited Mrs. A. L. Brough, on Friday.

Mrs. Lavina Airing, Taneytown, spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Sophia Staub.

Mrs. Clara Crabbs returned to Hagerstown, Sunday evening.

A real large communion was enjoyed at St. Paul's, on Sunday. Rev. Kroh received six catechumens into the church, five were from Mrs. U. G. Crouse's Sunday School class.

Rev. J. H. Hoch held an interesting service at the Bethel, Sunday evening. The Juvenile Choir sang very nicely, and Mr. Hoch gave an explanation of the Book of John, which was appreciated.

Mrs. Rose Repp has been in bed, the past week, suffering from weakness.

Mrs. Joseph Dayhoff has been suffering more than usual, and it is expected she will return to the Hospital, this week.

KEYSVILLE.

Miss Thelma Cluts, of Harney, spent the week-end with her cousin, Miss Virginia Cluts.

Lloyd Wilhide, wife and family, called at the home of Charles Devilbiss, wife and family, on Sunday afternoon.

Peter Baumgardner, Norman Baumgardner, wife and daughter, Mildred, and Mrs. Norman Reindollar, Taneytown, called at the home of Roy Baumgardner and wife, on Sunday evening.

Car. Haines, wife and family, of near Taneytown, and Roy Baumgardner and wife, called at the home of Willie Orner and wife and Miss Flora Hull, of Fountain Dale, on Sunday afternoon.

Christian Endeavor this Sunday morning after Sunday School. Leader Mrs. Robert Stine; Consecration meeting at this time. Everybody welcome.

MR. JAMES A. REID.

Mr. James A. Reid, formerly of Taneytown, died at York City Hospital, last Saturday morning, after an illness of about three weeks from Bright's disease, but had not been in good health for several years. He was in his 60th year.

He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Tobias Reid, of Taneytown. He was a barber by trade having worked in the Wm. E. Burke shop, Taneytown, but had been living in Hanover and York for a good many years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Emma Newcomer Reid, and by one daughter, Mrs. Bernard Beck, York; also by one sister, Mrs. Arkansas C. Pink, near Taneytown, and three brothers, John J. Reid, Detroit, Mich.; M. Dallas Reid, New Windsor, and Curtis H. Reid, Taneytown.

Funeral services were held at the home, on Tuesday, at 1:30, followed by further services in Grace Reformed Church, Taneytown.

MR. HARRY E. GRAHAM.

Mr. Harry Edison Graham died suddenly at his home in Union Bridge, early Saturday morning from Angina pectoris from which he had been suffering for several days, but had been working until the day before his death. He was in the employ of the Potomac Edison Company, and had lived for several years in Taneytown before removing to Union Bridge. He was a good workman and had many friends.

He is survived by his wife, and three children: Addison, of Waynesboro; Miss Edith Graham, at Johns Hopkins Hospital, and Mrs. Mabel Riffe, of Taneytown.

Funeral services were held at his home, Tuesday afternoon in charge of Rev. I. M. Fridinger, pastor of Taneytown United Brethren Church. Interment was made in the Bethel cemetery near Buena Vista.

(See Union Bridge correspondence for further details.)

DR. CHARLES E. ROOP.

Dr. Charles E. Roop, formerly a well known practicing physician in Taneytown, died at Springfield Hospital, last Friday night, having been at that institution a number of years, for treatment. His age was 66 years.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Reindollar Roop, and one daughter, Mrs. Helen Marriott, of York, Pa.; by one brother, Scott Roop, of Westminster, and by two sisters, Mrs. David Young and Miss Annie Roop, of Westminster. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David J. Roop.

Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon at the Bankard Funeral parlors, Westminster. Interment was made in the Meadow Branch cemetery where many of the Roop family are buried.

MR. JOHN NEWTON BELL.

Mr. John Newton Bell, died at his home in Emmitsburg, early Sunday morning, from heart trouble, at the age of 71 years and 24 days. He is survived by his wife, who before marriage was Miss Jane Overholtzer, and by one son, Lewis, at home; also by three sisters, Mrs. Edward McGlaughlin, near Emmitsburg; Miss Maggie Bell, Emmitsburg, and Mrs. Jacob Baker, near Taneytown. Funeral services were held on Tuesday, meeting at the home at 2 P. M., with further services in the Presbyterian Church, by his pastor, Rev. T. T. Brown, assisted by a former pastor, Rev. John T. Chase. Interment was made in the Hill cemetery.

GOVERNMENT FIXED CHARGES TILT COST

Standing Expenses Exceed 100 Million Yearly.

Washington.—The congressman voting through a big appropriation bill glibly refers to them as "the permanents and indefinites." They don't appear in the regular tabulation of appropriations for the coming year as reported by the house and senate appropriations committee, says the Chicago Tribune.

Yet they are going to cost the taxpayer this year the sum of $1,285,191,028 and in the next fiscal year of 1934 the bill will be $113,345,553 larger, or $1,398,536,581.

They are indeed the "permanents and indefinites," for they are the appropriations which go on year after year on the strength of some past legislation and without the necessity of any annual affirmative action such as is required to authorize payment of the regular current appropriations.

The biggest permanent and indefinite items by far in these years of a public debt of more than $20,000,000,000 are the $725,000,000 to be required in 1934 to pay interest on the debt and the $534,000,000 required to be written on the books as the annual contribution to the sinking fund established under the Liberty loan acts.

Some Cost Nothing.

Other items, unlike most items in appropriation bills, cost the treasury nothing. Such a one is the $71,000,000 to be taken from premiums on converted veterans' insurance and which are set aside for payment of losses and benefits in 1934.

Then there are the incomes from various gifts and donations to government and social enterprises which must be distributed each year. There are revenues from public lands and national forests and Indian reservations. These may be distributed to states to compensate for taxes lost through being host to nontaxable government property and enterprises.

In addition to these forms of permanent and indefinite appropriations, there are appropriations that go on and on just because their backers were once upon a time legislatively clever enough to get them put in this privileged class of government expenditures.

There they hide, year after year beyond the reach of economy drives. They are seldom heard of. They slip through congress unquestioned and unpruned. Only a repeal of the original authorizing act can touch them.

A special house committee in the last congress was delegated to search out these hidden appropriations and drag them into the light. As chairman Anthony J. Griffin of New York explained in his report at the close of the session, he and his committee had been too busy passing annual appropriations to do anything much in the way of cutting the permanent ones.

At least they performed the service of getting these appropriations out in a group where they could be seen and considered and the ground work was laid for hearings at which department heads may be summoned, in Mr. Griffin's words, "to show cause, if any, why the permanent appropriations over which they have jurisdiction should not be repealed or converted to the status of regular annual appropriations so as to be annually subject to examination and review."

Might Review Some Expenses.

More than $60,000,000 of the permanent and indefinite sums annually expended might so be reviewed and the department heads who spend the money made to show cause why it should not be put on an annual basis.

In the economy amendment added to the 1934 post office and treasury appropriation bill an attempt was made to bring the permanents and indefinites into line by a simple order that all such appropriations should hereafter be on an annual basis. But before the bill reached its final approval that order was stricken out.

There is, for example, the permanent appropriation—in the sum of $6,636,460 for 1934—to be paid out in state subsidies for vocational education. Part of it goes to pay teachers of agricultural subjects, part to teachers of industrial subjects and home economics, and part to that happy body of bureaucrats, the federal board for vocational education.

Another permanent appropriation is the $3,000,000 for meat inspection by the bureau of animal industry. Nobody knows why this service should be placed in the permanent category.

All in all, there are promising pastures for an economy committee to graze in the field of the "permanents and indefinites."

Boys to Seek Gold

on Haitien Estate

Butte, Mont.—The "pointers" learned by Hiram Marceyes, twenty, and Walter Bakke, twenty-one, on gold mining in a prospectors' short course at the Montana School of Mines in Butte this winter will be applied by the pair in far-off Haiti.

Marceyes and Bakke plan to placer-mine for gold on land owned in Haiti by Marceyes' aunt, Mrs. Rose Miller of Missoula. Hundreds of streams course through the 100,000-acre estate and gold hunters of the past found many indications of rich deposits.

TOLD "WED OR DIE!" GIRL STAKES LIFE IN QUEST OF LOVE

Flees Horde of Suitors to Seek Romance Where Story Is Not Known.

New York.—Told by her doctors that her emotions were so starved that she must marry or die, Mary Lee Fisher, beautiful Canadian, has fled her home at Dundas, Ont., to escape the horde of suitors who besieged her by mail and in person, and seek here the true love which she believes will save her life.

"I won't be married to some one without love, just merely because I want very much to live, nor will I let anyone marry me for any reason but love," the young woman declares.

So, it is with her identity concealed from the young men she meets, that her strange quest for life-giving romance is being conducted while the time limit for marriage within six months which her doctors fixed draws dangerously near.

Questions Arise.

Will Miss Fisher succumb to her malady which science is unable to help except by ordering marriage? Will she stick to her resolution not to marry without love, even to save her life? Or, when she realizes death is quite close, will she cast her frantic desire for true love to the winds and marry one of the eligible men who have proposed to her, quite unaware that the offer is one not only of love but of life?

Those questions are absorbingly interesting to medical men and psychologists who, alone out of New York's teeming millions, are aware that the lovely, flame-haired Canadian girl who goes about her duties in the office of a benefactor with nothing to betray her secret is probably one of the strangest cases of the kind on record.

Miss Fisher's first reaction to "Marry or die," the mingled command and threat of physicians in Toronto and Hamilton, Canada, was one of panic, she admits. The daughter of a well-to-do family in Hamilton, she had just graduated from an exclusive finishing school in 1929 when the stock market crash wiped out the family's wealth and made it necessary for her to go to live with relatives on a little farm near Dundas, Wentworth county, Ontario.

Not Happy on Farm.

U. S. War Vet to Live in Chateau Willing to Him

St. Louis, Mo.—Charles M. Zeigler of St. Louis has taken his family to France to make their home in a French chateau which he inherited as the result of his war-time friendship with the owner.

Zeigler was quartered in the chateau, owned by Adolphe Bonnet, during the World War. The estate consists of a house and 50 acres of fertile soil located near Arhage, south of Paris.

Zeigler, an insurance man, said he planned to stay in the chateau "for the duration of the depression, at least." He hopes not only to avoid the depression, but to build up a business abroad.

From Dog Pound to Canine Throne

Omaha, Neb.—Meet Tony, the dog, whose story is a true American epic.

From the humblest of beginnings to a kingship—that's Tony's history. Less than a year ago Tony was an unwilling occupant of the dog pound at Auburn, Neb.

There Charles Machon, of Auburn, saw him. Tony had no license and was almost certain to be condemned to pay the supreme penalty. But Machon bought his liberty.

Today Tony is a king—king of the con hunting dogs of Nebraska. He won the title at the annual con hunt in Talmage, Neb., where he defeated two blood hounds.

Tony has no royal ancestors—he's just dog.

Dental Disease Injures Minds, Declares Expert

Cambridge, Mass.—Dental disease often may be the cause of mental disorders, says Dean Leroy M. S. Miner of Harvard dental school.

While it is generally known that dental disease is intimately associated with disease in the body as a whole, abundant evidence recently has been discovered, according to Doctor Miner, to show the connection between dental disease and disorders of the mind.

"In private practice," he said, "many nervous conditions have responded favorably to the removal of dental disease. Not long ago a young boy was taken to one of the larger hospitals of Boston, exhibiting marked evidence of serious mental disturbances, including melancholia.

"All hope of helping his condition practically had been abandoned and he was about to be committed to one of the state institutions. A last minute X-ray examination of his mouth showed two badly impacted wisdom teeth. Upon their removal the patient made rapid improvement and returned to his usual occupation."

Death Rate Is Low in U. S. Hospital in Paris

Paris.—The death rate at the American hospital here for 1932 was 3 per cent, according to figures just compiled. This rate is lower than that registered by a number of Grade A hospitals in the United States in 1931.

Deaths at the hospital were fewer than the previous year, when the rate was 3.2 per cent. The figures for the United States for 1931 were: Average for all classes of hospitals, 5 per cent; average for Grade A hospitals, 3.23 per cent.

The American hospital operates under far from normal conditions, a great number of its patients being American travelers from hotels, and a death rate of only 3 per cent for 1877 patients admitted in 1932 is regarded as unusually good.

Of the patients treated in 1932, 666 were surgical cases, 883 medical, 113 obstetrical. Births were 115, representing a decrease of 8 per cent over 1931.

15 Different Faces in Year, Hunter's Record

St. Louis, Mo.—Fifteen times in the last year Jimmy Gibson, eighteen, Bartow, Fla., has looked into a mirror and each time he saw what appeared to be a different man.

Plastic surgeons at a hospital here have performed 15 operations on his face since he accidentally shot himself while on a hunting trip. Each time his appearance has been changed.

"I'm just going to wait until they get a face I like on me and then I'll keep it," he remarked.

$2,181,335.20 State Gas Tax Available For County Road Maintenance From First County Levy After April 21, 1933

State Roads Commission Will Either Maintain County Roads Or Pay Interest and Maturing County Road Bonds Or Build New Roads To Extend Of Each County's Share Of Lateral Road 1½¢ Gas Tax Plus Federal Aid When Federal Aid Is Appropriated Again This Year.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS TO RECOMMEND DETAILS OF EXPENDITURES—PRESENT COUNTY ROAD PERSONNEL TO BE EMPLOYED FIRST.

Governor Ritchie on the 21st of April signed the State Administration Gasoline Tax Bill and so put its provisions into effect throughout the State. The new law makes available $2,181,335.20, or seventy per cent, of the 1½¢ lateral road gasoline tax, for (1) the payment of interest or retirement of county road bonds, (2) the maintenance of county roads, (3) the construction of additional new roads in any county when maintenance costs and road debt service does not exhaust the county's usual share of the 1½¢ lateral road gas tax.

A part of any county's share of this tax may also be spent to maintain municipal streets and to pay debt service on municipal street bonds under an allocation to be recommended by the County Commissioners.

The State Roads Commission will begin maintaining the county road systems and paying the county road debt service in each Maryland county at the start of each county's usual fiscal or administrative year, which begins with the next county levy after the final enactment of this law on April 21, 1933.

The tax relief possible through State payment of county road maintenance and county road debt service could not have been given in any Maryland county before October 1, 1933, when the appropriations made in the State budget passed by the 1933 Legislature begin and which is the commencement of the next State fiscal year, except through amendment of the present State Roads Commission's budget for the current State fiscal year. Such amendment will be immediately initiated by the State Roads Commission and Governor Ritchie has expressed his approval, which will allow the money now accumulating under the 1½¢ lateral road gas tax to be expended from the date of the next levy in any Maryland county in the same manner that this fund will be expended for the twenty-four months of the next two State fiscal years which follow October 1, 1933, under the terms of the new State budget and new road law.

County Commissioners to Recommend Expenditures

The new State law for the first time gives the Boards of County Commissioners of the twenty-three counties of the State a definitely determined status in connection with the expenditure of State Roads appropriations and specifically authorizes County Commissioners to make the original recommendations covering the expenditure of the county's share of the 1½¢ lateral road gas tax in the following language quoted from Section 7(a) of the new law:

"Prior to the time each year when the annual tax levy is made in each county, and upon the second Monday of each year, and thereafter from time to time, the State Roads Commission shall seek the recommendations of the County Commissioners or other duly constituted public authorities of the several counties having jurisdiction over roads and streets thereof with respect to the following matters, to wit:

(1) What part of the funds allocated to the county under the provisions of this section shall be expended for the construction of Lateral Roads as part of the State Road system;

(2) What part shall be expended for the construction, reconstruction, and maintenance of county roads or bridges or municipal streets;

(3) What part shall be expended for debt service;

(4) What specific roads shall be constructed, reconstructed, or maintained under the provisions of this section, and what methods and material shall be used therein and the estimated cost thereof;

(5) The manner and amount in which funds allocated for the construction, reconstruction or maintenance of county roads shall be divided and expended in, upon and with respect to the several municipalities, sections and roads of said county; and

(6) The base rate of pay to be paid for unskilled labor employed by the State Roads Commission in the said county in connection with the construction, reconstruction or maintenance of county roads and municipal streets.

"The County Commissioners or other duly constituted public road or street authorities of the several counties and municipalities shall have the right to submit at any time, and from time to time, recommendations with respect to the foregoing."

A second statement dealing with this important subject matter, including more details of administration, will be available at an early date.

HIGH POSTAL RATES CUT FLOW OF MAIL

Return to Two-Cent Stamp Being Agitated.

Washington.—Advocates of an immediate return to the time-honored 2-cent postage stamp for letter mail are planning to press their fight in congress, but whether they will be successful is held to be highly debatable by opponents of such a move. The 3-cent stamp for letter mail made its appearance last July, and while it is admitted that there has been a considerable decrease in the volume of first-class mail since then, Post Office department officials have been preparing to back up with statistics their assertion that many millions dollars more of revenue are being received now than would have been collected under the old rate.

Predicted Higher Revenue.

When congress was considering last summer the rate, which it later voted, former Postmaster General Brown predicted that an increase of 1 cent in the first-class postal rate, if applied to letters for delivery outside the post office of origin, would raise substantially $100,000,000, and that $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 more could be raised by increasing the rate on letters for delivery at the post office where they originate.

The argument of the opponents of the present rates is that such a result is not being realized, and that on the other hand there has been a tremendous decrease in the number of pieces of mail carrying first-class postage.

The Post Office department has sought to back up its position by a comparison of revenues at twenty principal offices from letters and first-class packages in the week of September 19-25, the latest for which the detailed figures are available, and the comparable revenues for the week of June 20-26, the last week during which the 2-cent stamp was used. The figures show that the revenue from this source from the twenty cities under the 3-cent rate was 32.55 per cent greater, despite a shrinkage of 11.03 per cent in the postage ounces of letter mail as between the periods compared.

Shift to Third Class.

That there was a considerable shift to third-class mail was shown by the fact that for the twenty principal cities in the week June 20-26 the revenue was $428,978 as compared with $580,912 in the week of September 19-25, an increase or $151,934 or 35.42 per cent.

The Post Office department has computed on the basis of all postal revenues from fifty selected cities for the first six months of the current fiscal year that the increases in first and second-class postal rates have resulted in additional revenue of $24,700,000.

Cosmic Rays

The cosmic rays is still an orphan, coming almost uniformly from above, day and night alike, with no more, most investigators say, from the sun and stars than from the direction of "empty" space.

Because the cosmic rays are so very short, scientists suspect that they are very close to the ultimate kind of radiation. Discovering their source may lead to the hoped-for mechanism whereby men will understand how radiation transforms itself into solid matter and then is rejuvenated somehow to keep the fires of creation burning forever.

POKER TOURNEY 47 YEARS OLD GOES ON

Old-Timers Still Playing a Game Started in 1886.

Milwaukee.—A poker game that started forty-seven years ago is still in progress at Macy.

The game has been running continuously three or four times a week since 1886 and one of the players who sat in at the opening session is still in the game. Seven-card peek, a variety of stud poker, is the game. The stakes are 1 cent a chip and the limit of a bet is 5 cents. Most of the players who have been in the game for twenty years say they are about even.

The game is for recreation only, and they do not concern themselves much about the winnings.

It was in the early '80s, before Macy had been put on the Waukesha county map, that Matt Marks, who was born in the neighborhood, opened a tavern on the Lisbon road. The community consisted of prosperous farmers, and farmers on their way to Milwaukee stopped at the tavern to feed their horses and take meals.

Town Never Grew Large.

Some years after Marks established his tavern the farmers in the vicinity founded Marcy, but it is still a small place, having a population today of less than fifty.

Besides several farms, Marcy consists of the tavern, the public school, a church and a graveyard. A blacksmith shop closed sometime ago.

Forty-seven years ago Matt Marks and his brother Pierce and a few of their friends started playing seven-card peek as a pastime, and it is this game that has been running ever since. Of the original players in the game, Pierce Marks, a native of the town of Brookfield, is still playing. Matt died about sixteen years ago.

Sessions on Three Days.

Sessions are held every Wednesday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon and evening. When night games are on, the rule is that the session must close at 10:30.

Strangers are not allowed to participate in the game, and an outsider can play only when a regular member of the party introduces him as a friend. That does not happen very often, but there have been occasions when city poker players have tried to show these rural experts how the great American game ought to be played.

Some of these city fellows have managed to hold their own, but most of them have learned a lesson or two when they have tried their skill against the Marcy old-timers. The latter are too old at the game to take a bluff.

Days of Snuff-Taking

In France, during the Sixteenth century, Catherine de Medici set the fashion of taking snuff for headache. During the period of the Louis' the making of boxes as well as the taking of snuff was regarded as a fine art. Louis XIV employed the best goldsmiths of France for the making of his snuff boxes and had studios built for them in the garden of the Tuilleries. The boxes were often of great value and a French gallant prided himself on having a different box for each day of the year, some collections numbering as many as 600 and 800.

Mole Eats Every Three Hours

The mole does not limit itself to three squares a day, but is ceaselessly hunting food. It is said that this animal cannot endure hunger for more than three hours at a stretch and that no other animal is more intolerant of thirst.

Indian Dances Menace Farms, Canada Decides

Ottawa, Ont.—After grave argument the Canadian house of commons has decided that Canadian Indians may not don aboriginal costume and attend pageants or dances without special permission from the nearest Indian agent. The amusement and entertainment with which they have provided the white man has been the ruin of many an Indian farm, wrecked through neglect, it was stated by the government.

Book "Lost" 17 Years Is Returned to Library

Birmingham, Ala.—A campaign for the return of overdue books at the Birmingham public library recently brought back a volume that had been missing since 1917. The campaign lasted three weeks, during which period no overdue fines were assessed. There were 6,207 books returned during the drive.

Squatters Use Home in Owner's Absence

Loveland, Colo. — When Carl Gooch and his wife went to California, "squatters" moved into the Gooch residence and made themselves at home. Upon his return to Loveland Gooch discovered that the uninvited guests had moved out with some of the furniture, linen, towels and clothing. They had used a quantity of coal and wood and had depleted the pantry shelves. The only satisfaction Gooch was able to get out of the visit was the knowledge that the "squatters" were clean. They had taken a bath and left the water in the bathtub as evidence.

Eskimo Traders Now Use Up-to-Date Schooners

When an Eskimo family which has been trading along the shores of the Arctic ocean for generations sought a name for their new schooner, they chose to honor a pioneer automobile manufacturer. The trading schooner was built in Edmonton. The schooner has an auxiliary engine for use in bucking adverse winds.

According to R. W. Hale, district superintendent of the postal service at Edmonton, the owners of the schooner represent the best class of Eskimos which trade along the western shores of the Arctic ocean, sending their catch of white foxes through the Behring straits to Seattle, Wash., and San Francisco, Calif. Many of them are quite well off. A great part of their food consists of fish dipped in seal oil, to give internal warmth to withstand the intense cold.

Unlike the Indians, these Eskimos copy the white man only in those things which will improve them. They cling to their native dress, including parkies and mukluks, which are so well adapted to the climate that white men, including the air pilots traveling in the country, have adopted it.—Family Herald.

Only Two States Have Phosphorus in Quantity

While there are deposits of phosphate rock in the West, practically all which is used in baking powders comes from Florida and Tennessee. Since the early part of the Twentieth century natural phosphate rock has been the principal source of phosphate used for food purposes. Formerly the rock was treated with sulphuric acid, in which process the tribasic phosphate was converted into free phosphoric acid. The crude phosphoric acid usually contained small quantities of impurities, which had to be completely removed before it could be used for food purposes. The purified phosphoric acid was made into monocalcium phosphate by reaction with calcium carbonate. It was then dried in vacuum, milled to a fine granulation and baled to a uniform size. The wet process of producing phosphoric acid has to some extent been supplanted by the volatilization processes, in which phosphorus is volatilized, oxidized to phosphoric anhydride and condensed in a small quantity of water, yielding a concentrated solution of phosphoric acid (H₃PO₄).

French Physician Sends Finger to Tax Assessor

Besancon, France. — A prominent surgeon here, succumbing slowly to X-ray burns, when summoned recently by the assessor to report whether his X-ray business was not flourishing and did not warrant increased fiscal contribution, replied by sending one of his fingers, recently amputated. The assessor, instead of being shamed into silence by the eloquent gesture, took offense and filed a complaint. An examining magistrate is now investigating whether there are grounds for bringing the specialist to trial.

The doctor, Jean Brugnon—the name may be a fictitious one given by acquaintances to preserve his anonymity, for French magistrates do not reveal names in such cases—has been suffering from radio burns, contracted in the service of his patients, ever since 1923. As the disease grew worse he had to abandon the practice of his profession. He suffered the amputation of a finger. Then a few weeks ago, as the malady progressed, he lost another finger, the fourth one of the left hand. According to local papers, nearly everybody in Besancon knew about the doctor's condition and the reasons for it, except the tax collector.

Rabbit Lures Dogs Into Log; They Are Trapped

Pontiac, Mich.—Somewhere in Oakland county there is a vain rabbit, chest puffed out and thumbs struck importantly in the holes of his vest, making a nuisance of himself among his brother rabbits with his boastful tale about how he trapped two dogs. The rabbit was chased by one of the dogs. He darted into his hole. The dog forced his way into the hole and then found he couldn't back out. A second dog was attracted to the scene. Taking no heed to the first dog's plight he forced his way into the hole. However, his tail wagged a distress signal to a filling station attendant at Orchard Lake and Telegraph roads.

Deputy Sheriff John Marek was summoned and with saw, ax and shovel he chopped away roots expecting to release the one dog. His task completed, he was surprised when two dogs, with crest-fallen countenances and tails between their legs, slunk out and trotted away without even thanking their liberator.

Ohio Murderer Carries Bullet in His Temple

Columbus, Ohio.—William Elam, thirty-five-year-old inmate of Ohio penitentiary, carries imbedded in his right temple a .32 caliber pistol shot. Elam shot himself after slaying Miss Helen Miklos. The bullet entered his temple and lodged there. He was sent to the penitentiary in 1926 to serve a life sentence. Doctors refuse to remove the shot, declaring death would result.

Cops Give Way to Girl Operators at Chicago Police Office Switchboard

Chicago Daily Tribune
Twenty-eight more Chicago policemen are now on active street duty, because that many young women have replaced them as operators at the switchboard of the Chicago Police Department headquarters, 11th and State Streets. All telephone calls for the police are received at this location, and already the new operators have demonstrated their superior efficiency in handling calls which may have to be passed along by teletypewriter, telephone, or radio to the proper destination—squad car, detective bureau, or a commanding officer. The young women shown in this picture are, left to right, Eleanor Fitzwilliams, Gladys Flaherty, Agnes Martin, Betty Hanrahan, Marie McNally, Henrietta Freundlich, Edith Schaefer, Elsie Englishman, and Gertrude Roen.

MISSOURI MAN MAY BE AUSTRIAN HEIR

Former Orphanage Boy Called Son of Slain Prince.

Providence, Mo.—This town of a half dozen families may, if the republic of Austria ever returns to a monarchical form of government, become a point of world-wide interest. For here in an almost abandoned village on the banks of the Missouri river lives a man who, it is believed, may be a grandson of the late Emperor Franz Josef of Austria and Alexander II, one time czar of Russia. Countess Marie Louise Larish, a favorite niece of the late Empress Elizabeth and Emperor Franz Josef, claims Cleveland is the true heir to the throne.

Cleveland's story—as much of it as he will reveal—is that he was born in Hot Springs, Ark., or Hot Springs, Va., in June, 1889. From there he was taken to St. Louis and placed in an orphanage, where later he prevailed upon a nun to reveal the circumstances of his entrance into the place. Historians have recorded that Emperor Franz Josef and Empress Elizabeth had one child, Rudolf who later in life fell in love with the youngest daughter of the czar of Russia, Alexander II. Due to the fact that the young princess was a morganatic daughter, the marriage of Rudolf and the girl was forbidden by both families.

Prince Rudolf finally married Princess Stephanie, daughter of Leopold II of Belgium. Despite his marriage to Princess Stephanie, Rudolf continued to see the Russian princess. Upon learning that she was to bear him a child he proposed to divorce his wife and marry the girl. The czar, hearing of Rudolf's intentions, violently opposed the divorce.

Later Rudolf developed a passion for the beautiful Baroness Marie Vetsera. Five months before the birth of Rudolf's child he and the baroness were found murdered in his hunting lodge.

Upon receipt of this news the Russian princess fled to America to await birth of her child. After the child's arrival she returned to her native country, where she died. That child was Cleveland.

Antelopes Eat Crops in Nebraska; Menace Farms

Sidney, Neb.—In this civilized country, where many complain wild game life is all but snuffed out, there are some here who complain wild game is becoming pestiferous and a menace to property. Farmers of Kimball and Cheyenne counties are demanding that something be done about wild antelope herds, which are eating up hay.

One farmer has gone so far as to present a bill to the state legislature demanding $150 for damage done by antelopes to his crops.

Antelopes have become so thick that several efforts have been made to round them up and place them in Wild Cat state game preserve, south of Gering, in Scottsbluff county. It is estimated there are 350 of them running wild. They are protected by the state, thereby preventing their being killed off by the protesting farmers.

How Not to Tell Whether It's "Alky"

Silver Spring, Md.—It's a good story even without names. One Silver Spring friend met another in front of a Georgia avenue garage and seeing a jug under the arm of the second asked him: "How about a drink of alky, pal?" "That ain't liquor. That's gasoline." "I don't believe you. I'll put a match to it and see." The volunteer fire department can testify that the jug contained gasoline. No one was hurt.

SHEDS HIS PANTS PUBLICLY; IS SUED

Mortified Wife Asks Divorce From Comic Mate.

New York.—Roy Sedley would slip out of his trousers in front of all the guests, says his wife, and stand there in his beeevedees. He would be pantsless, Harriet goes on, and she'd be breathless.

And terrifically embarrassed, of course. Imagine how you'd feel yourself if your husband did a thing like that. Was Harriet mortified!

So mortified that she has come into the Supreme court and asked the judge to annul her marriage to that Broadway comic just as soon as he can get around to it.

Perhaps you know Roy's missus. She's that curvilinear blond who sings on somebody or other's radio hour. People say she's Connie Bennett's double.

The trouble with Roy, Harriet found, was that he simply has to be the laugh of the party on stage and off.

For instance, she relates, they might be at a church social, a strawberry festival or something.

All of a sudden, Roy would push the preacher aside and bounce out into the middle of the sewing circle. He'd pull a gag, one or two might laugh politely and go on with their tea. Off would come his coat in anger and he'd throw it on the floor.

Then he'd wrinkle up his schnozzle. That might get a couple of snickers. He'd take off his vest and toss that beside his coat.

No use trying to stop him—when Roy makes up his mind to take off his pants, she insists, why Roy would take off his pants, come what may. Yes, Roy would be a comic at any price.

He'd promise her over and over again he'd never slip out of his trousers at a party again, Harriet told the judge, and probably the very next night they'd be off once more.

Wife Brings Lothario to Police Cell Each Year

Sofia.—"I couldn't help marrying them. I didn't have the heart to refuse them," Stephen Kovacheff, a handsome young man, told police when arrested on complaint of at least a dozen deserted wives, all young and pretty and well-to-do.

Kovacheff has married at least one young girl a year for the last eight years, and deserted them as soon as he disposed of their money.

One girl in Varna brought with her nearly $2,000, a good-sized fortune in Bulgaria. He was arrested just as he was about leading a new victim to the altar.

One of his former wives recognized him and ran shrieking up the church aisle.

A crowd collected, part of which attempted to revive the fainting bride while the rest bore the would-be husband to the police station.

His marital adventures haven't been confined to Bulgaria, Kovacheff admitted. He has seen much of the world, including North and South America, and, he said, left a string of wives behind him.

Capital

Capital has been defined as that part of the accumulated wealth of an individual or community that is available for the further production of wealth. It is not necessarily money, though it may be represented by money. As popularly used, it means only the wealth which is used in business. The figures given for the national wealth are usually given as the total volume of capital invested in this country. In 1922 this was $320,803,862,000; an estimate for 1930 was $329,738,000,000. In 1922, nearly $200,000,000,000 of this was real estate; $40,000,000,000, railroads and public utilities; $27,000,000,000, equipment of farms and factories; over $40,000,000,000 merchandise and industrial products.

Lesson for May 7

JESUS FACES THE CROSS

LESSON TEXT—Mark 10:32-52.
GOLDEN TEXT—And it came to pass, when the time was come that he should be received up, he steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem. Luke 9:51.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Doing Hard Things.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Doing Hard Things.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Cost of True Greatness.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Greatness Through Sacrificial Service.

I. Jesus Foretells His Death and Resurrection (vv. 32-34).
This is the third time he makes this prediction. This time it was while on his way to Jerusalem.

1. Jesus going before the disciples (v. 32). Jesus was going with the full consciousness of the awful tragedy of the cross before him, the treachery of Judas, the fiery persecutions of the priests and scribes, the unjust judgment, the delivery to Pontius Pilate, the mocking, the scourging, the crown of thorns, the cross between malefactors, the nails, the spear—all were spread before him. The notion that the death of Christ was incidental to his career is most fallacious. The very purpose of the incarnation was the vicarious death (Heb. 2:14).

2. The amazed disciples (v. 32). His utterances and demeanor filled their minds with perplexity and their hearts with awe.

3. The crowd followed in fear (v. 32, R. V.). The strange atmosphere and happenings struck them with awe and fear.

4. Jesus instructed the twelve (vv. 33, 34). In this state of confusion Jesus called them to himself and patiently instructed them as to "what things should happen unto him."

a. "Delivered unto the chief priests and scribes."

b. "They shall condemn him to death and deliver him to the Gentiles."

c. "They shall mock, scourge, spit upon, and kill him."

d. "The third day he shall rise again."

II. The Ambitious Request of James and John (vv. 35-45).

1. What it was (vv. 35-37). It was for a place of pre-eminence in the Kingdom. According to Matthew, their mother was the intercessor (Matt. 20:20). Christ had told them of the awful agony of the cross and also of the glory which should follow. It was not entirely for their glory that they made this request, but because of their personal desire to be with their Lord.

2. Jesus' reply (vv. 38-45).

a. To James and John (vv. 38-40).

(1) Their misconception rebuked. "Ye know not what ye ask."

(2) Positions of glory in Christ's Kingdom are earned, not obtained through favor or arbitrary assignment. The way to honor is through suffering. The cup which they were to drink was all that they were to suffer because of his crucifixion.

b. To the ten disciples (vv. 41-45).

(1) Their displeasure (v. 41). They were displeased with the request of James and John, because they were not free from selfish ambition.

(2) True greatness declared (vv. 42-45). To minister to others is greater than to be ministered unto (v. 43). Among the Gentile nations greatness was conceded to those who exercised authority over others. The highest standard of Christ's Kingdom is to forget self in devoted service to others, even to the giving of one's life.

III. Jesus Cures Blind Bartimaeus (vv. 46-52).

Though already bearing the weight of his cross, he had time for gracious deeds. Blind Bartimaeus received his sight.

1. Bartimaeus' request (vv. 46, 47). As soon as he heard that Jesus was passing by he cried to him for help. The fact that he addressed him as the Son of David showed that he recognized his Messiahship.

2. Rebuked by the multitude (v. 48). This rebuke provoked even a more earnest cry from Bartimaeus.

3. The blessing granted (vv. 49-52). Though Jesus knew his desire, he wished him definitely to commit himself. Note the progress in the experience of Bartimaeus.

a. A blind beggar (v. 46). b. His cry for mercy (v. 47). c. The persistence in his cry (v. 48). d. His response to the call of Jesus (vv. 49, 50). e. His specific request (v. 51). f. He immediately received his sight (v. 52).

How quickly an earnest soul may pass from sore need to jubilant discipleship.

Hypocrisy

I saw about a peck of counterfeit dollars once. Did I go to the window and throw away all my good dollars? No. Yet you reject Christianity because there are hypocrites, or counterfeit Christians.—W. E. Biederwolf.

Show Them Christ

Let every preacher show the people a Crucified Savior and may it never be said by any who sit under your ministry, "Where are the prints of the nails?"

Lowly Amoeba Changes

Shape Floating Along

Take a little water from a pond or slow-moving brook, one sample being chosen from, say, a quiet portion along the edge and one from the current.

Place a drop or two containing a little of the greenish scum thus obtained on a clean glass slide, place a cover glass upon it and bring it into focus under a microscope, using a magnification of from 60 to 100 diameters.

Suddenly an object which we have mistaken for a drop of dirty jelly is seen to extend a prolongation of its own shapeless body toward a tasty-looking diatom or other appetizing morsel, which it proceeds to eat by the simple process of flowing around it.

This is the famous amoeba, probably the lowest form of animal life. It consists of nothing but a drop of protoplasm, has no permanent organs and simply exists.

Even the lowly amoeba, however, possesses a certain method in its movements, which are very peculiar. It seems to move about without the aid of limbs or ciliae. This is done simply by flowing along in the direction it wishes to go, continually changing its shape and extending portions of its body toward food particles.

A celebrated scientist has said: "No one knows what an amoeba is going to do next."—Scientific American.

"High" and "Low" German Referred to Altitude

The terms "high" and "low," used especially with regard to the German dialects, originally had reference to the altitude of the land where these various dialects were spoken, the low German being spoken in the low-lying country. It may also be applied to other dialects of Europe. There are three main groups of Slavs: the eastern group comprising the Russians; the northwestern group including the Poles, the Kashubs on the coast north-west of Danzig, the high and low Serbs or Wends in Lusatia, the Czechs and Moravians; and the Slovaks; the southern group including the Slovenes, Serbo-Croats and Bulgarians. The language of Bohemia has many points of resemblance to the Polish but is not a dialect of Polish; also the two races are distinct. The Kashubs are a Slavonic people living on the Baltic coast and speaking a dialect resembling Polish.

President Killed Men

If you want to stump a person who prides himself or herself on being well informed, ask this question: "What President killed a man?" The quizzed one will probably try to think of some duel or battle in which a President fought. But you further mystify by saying that the killing was done in cold blood. Of course it's a catch question.

Long before he became Chief Executive, Grover Cleveland was a county sheriff and in that capacity officiated at executions. The gallows on which he hanged several murderers is still preserved in a garage in back of the Erie county jail at Cleveland.—The Pathfinder.

Famous Mural Decorations

The Boston public library has many unusually beautiful mural decorations. John Sargent, Edwin Abbey and John Elliott were among the American painters of distinction who were invited to decorate this building. The celebrated French artist Puvis de Chavannes collaborated with them. Sargent contributed "The Frieze of the Prophets." The widow of John Elliott in her recently published biography of her husband tells in detail of his work, which is on permanent exhibition in the building. Edwin Abbey chose for his theme the "Quest of the Holy Grail." His murals are in the delivery room of the library.

Statesman and Gambler

Charles James Fox, English statesman, was a typical gambler of his period, about 150 years ago. He won heavily at the race track but lost at cards. At one time his father had to pay $700,000 of his gaming debts, and at another friends raised $350,000. In addition, he lost all his winnings and his estate. He entered parliament at the age of nineteen, became a cabinet member at twenty-one, and gambled through a lifetime of great political activity, in the course of which he became foreign minister and, save for the dislike of the king, would have been prime minister of England.

When Most Ex-Presidents Lived

This was between March 4, 1861, when Abraham Lincoln became President, and January 18, 1862, when John Tyler died. At that time there were five living ex-presidents of the United States. They were: Martin Van Buren, John Tyler, Millard Fillmore, Franklin Pierce and James Buchanan. This number was largely a result of the fact that no President elected between the years 1836 and 1860 served for a longer period than four years.

Survey Reveals Speedy

Readers Remember More

Berkeley, Calif.—Fast readers are better readers than slow ones, an educational survey has shown.

Evidence supporting this contradiction of common belief was reported at the University of California by Dr. John A. Hockett, assistant professor of education, after a series of tests with his students.

The fastest readers remember more of what they have read than slow readers, Doctor Hockett found. He asked 20 questions of his students, based on text they had read in two minutes.

The group of students that read fastest answered an average of 12.7 questions correctly, the middle third answering 11.8 questions correctly, and the slowest reading third answered only 10.4 correctly.

The group tested by Doctor Hockett was composed mostly of graduate students in education. The students read at speeds varying from 510 to 220 words a minute, with the average 265 words a minute. The text dealt with educational problems.

A group of teachers in an Oakland elementary school, given the same test, read at an average of 263 words a minute, with individual maximum and minimum of 185 and 360 words a minute.

Hunter Explains His Method of Taking Lions

Kingsburg, Calif.—Kingsburg today knew just how to capture mountain lions. Jay Bruce, famous California hunter, told the citizens.

Here's how he captured more than 500 of the big cats during his career as official exterminator:

First, you take a pack of dogs, get on the trail of a lion, and chase him for miles and miles. Finally, you chase him up a tree.

Then, you take a long pole, fix a moose to the end of it, and try to slip it over the lion's head. The lion, of course, resents that and jumps from branch to branch in his tree, and from tree to tree.

However, you persevere. Finally, you succeed in slipping the moose around the lion's neck and tie the rope to the trunk of the tree. Then, you tie up your dogs (because they probably would attack the cat when he came down) and yank the lion from his branch and onto the ground.

After that, all you have to do is to slip a sack over the lion's body, tie the sack to a pole, get some help, and carry the lion away.

Quite simple, Bruce says.

Iceles 60 Feet Long

Sequoia National Park, Calif.—Iceles 60 feet long, three feet thick and visible nine miles away, were deposited on the side of Moro rock here during a winter snowstorm. The huge columns of ice were the largest ever seen in the park.

Teach Alabama Farmers

How to Use Explosives

Auburn, Ala.—Agricultural use of explosives, a new departure in the technique of tilling the soil, is being taught Alabama farmers by the agricultural extension service of Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Principal uses thus far shown the farmers include blasting of boulders and stumps that impede the progress of farm implements. Use of dynamite to control erosion will be taught later.

Undertaker Is Offered

Camel for Funeral Bill

Sunnyvale, Calif.—This may be a day of bartering in trade, but Frank Mahoney, local undertaker, doesn't know what to do about an offer to pay a $300 funeral bill with a live camel.

Mahoney was faced with either accepting the camel, with the hope that he might be able to sell it to a circus, keeping it and going into the show business himself, or writing the debt off his books.

Illiteracy

The law stipulates that aliens over sixteen years of age must be able to read the English language or some other language or dialect, but exception is made in the case of persons physically incapable of reading; also, any admissible alien or any citizen of the United States may bring in or send for his father or grandfather, over fifty-five years of age, his wife, his mother, grandmother, unmarried or widowed daughter, provided they are otherwise admissible.

Crying Woman's Right;

Man Who Weeps Is Weak

The tear is woman's weapon and she does not look with approval upon the glistening gem as it courses down the masculine cheek. She likes evidence of his devotion to her, but she prefers it in the form of vigorous defense of her person and her property. Of a certainty she likes a rough expression of his love, even if the cave-man does not meet her idea as a lover.

To get down to the facts, woman wants a man around who "totes" a hefty "mitt" and delivers a telling blow. The moist lash may do for their love hours, but when the ruction in the apartment comes, the wife will do the crying if any is to be done; but she expects the lord and master of the outfit to defend it.

The writer happened to be in a position a few days ago to see a man cry unashamed at the prospect of the loss by death of a close member of his family and he could not avoid hearing the sotto voce remark of the woman of the species—"the cry-baby."—Columbus Dispatch.

Michigan Indians Live

on Land Given in 1842

Calhoun county's Indians, living near the village of Athens, are enabled to live on the 120 acres where they reside as the result of deeds executed in 1842 and 1845, only a few years after Michigan was admitted to statehood, records at the county register of deeds office reveal, says the Detroit Free Press.

One deed, involving 80 acres, represented a transfer of property from Mr. and Mrs. William Booth to John S. Barry, then governor of Michigan, with the stipulation the land was to be held in trust, forever, for the Indians. The other deed was a transfer from the government to the state of Michigan.

Nearly all of the Indians near Athens are intelligent and industrious. A few of the colony, several years ago, went to Oklahoma and became wealthy when oil was struck on land they had acquired from the government.

Not Many Get to See 'Possum

The opossum is an animal which is not often seen in trips afield. It is safe to say that many people have never seen an opossum. The general impression first received is that of a coarse-haired, grayish-white animal, with a white face and dark-colored eyes. The ears are naked and black with white or flesh colored outer half. The feet are black; the toes naked and flesh-colored. The tail is naked, scaly, and flesh colored. Weights recorded of various specimens of the opossum show that an extremely large female weighed 12 pounds and a male eight pounds. The opossum is well known in the southern part of the United States and has extended its range to the wooded parts of Connecticut, Lake Ontario, southern Michigan, southern Wisconsin, Iowa and eastern Nebraska.

The German Republic

The German Republic dates to November 9, 1918, the date of the abdication of the emperor. A council of people's commissioners in Berlin took over the government, and the reigning princes of the various states were either deposed or abdicated. The imperial parliament was declared dissolved, and arrangements were made for calling a national assembly. This assembly met at Weimar on February 6, 1919, and on February 11 elected Friedrich Ebert as the first president. The Constitution was adopted July 31, 1919. All German citizens, male or female, who are more than twenty years of age are permitted to vote.

Forgetful Plumbers

Discovered, the great wrong to a trade and its cause: The wrong is the tradition that the plumber always forgets his tools and has to go to the shop for them. And the reason for the popular misconception, supplied by none other than the technical information department of the Plumbing and Heat Industries bureau, says the Kansas City Star, is this: "There are more than 5,000 kinds and sizes of pipe, valves and fittings in common use, and the home owner who can accurately describe to the plumber what is wrong and what he will need in the way of tools from his vast assortment is rare."

Japan's Message Boards

Japan, the land of courtesy, goes the train bulletin board one better by equipping those in the larger stations with chalk and erasers so that travelers can leave messages for one another. At the Tokyo station, this message board is 5 by 3 feet. Any person may write down a message without charge. The recipient, after reading the same, is asked to efface it. He can leave a message in turn. However, all messages are erased by a porter after being posted six hours.

Lights of NEW YORK

By WALTER
TRUMBULL

Most of the big baseball players have a very warm spot in their hearts for youngsters. I know that Lou Gehrig, for example, recently broke an engagement to go to a party at a boys' club. And when he got there, with smiling good nature he autographed books, cards and everything the kids offered him on which to write his name. Gehrig, the man Clark Griffith and many other baseball men have frequently selected as their all-star, all-time first baseman, is a modest, likable giant, who has none of the so-called bad habits. Yet his baseball idol is Babe Ruth, who has not always followed the straight and narrow path. Because he has been on the same team with the Babe, Lou Gehrig has not always had the recognition his ability deserves, and it might be only natural if he felt some resentment. But his admiration for Ruth is uncolored by the slightest tinge of jealousy. The Sultan of Swat has no more loyal booster. Gehrig declares and believes that Ruth is a grand fellow and the greatest ball player that ever lived.

When the New York Yankees are on the road, Gehrig sometimes goes down to the dining room ahead of Ruth and the Babe asks Lou to order his dinner for him.

"He always eats the same thing," says Gehrig. "I order him a steak, and if it is not two inches thick, he sends it back."

But I know another favorite dish of the Babe's. I have often known him to drive from St. Petersburg to Tampa, because there is a restaurant in the latter city which gets stone crabs from the East coast.

Ruth now sees humor in an experience he once had, but he didn't laugh when it happened. He was driving his car to keep a golf engagement at a club which is pretty well out in the country, and he was hurrying. A small town motorcycle cop chased and halted him.

"He didn't recognize me," said the great man, in relating the incident to his friends, "so I told him my name." "And what did he say then?" inquired a listener.

"He said," roared the Babe, "So your name is Ruth? Well, what business are you in?"

To a man who can't walk a block or two in New York without trying up traffic, this was a crushing blow.

It is an experience to walk on a busy thoroughfare in almost any large city with either of those two superlative showmen, Ruth or Jack Dempsey. Before you have gone a block, you realize that as far as avoiding attention is concerned, you might as well lead a lion on a leash, or take an airing on an elephant. As a matter of fact, I saw an elephant led through our streets for advertising purposes, and it attracted considerably less attention than I have seen crowds display for both the Manassa Mauler and the Bambino.

One more story about Ruth. When he was making a picture in Hollywood, a certain news service assigned a reporter to "cover him," with instructions not to let him out of sight from the time he rose until he retired for the night, and to write all he did. The representative of the press took his job so seriously that he got on the Babe's nerves. He asked Ruth whether he did any road work to keep in condition and was assured that he did. Why then, the reporter demanded, had he never seen the Babe on the road. It was because, he was told, he did not rise early enough. Ruth, he was told, did his road work at 6 a. m. The news gatherer was shocked to hear that he had been missing something and announced that he would be on hand the next morning.

This was unwelcome news, but the Babe and Artie McGovern, who was with him, set an alarm clock for 5:45 and struggled out into the early dawn. They found the reporter waiting. They started to jog up the street and the reporter jogged with them. But then the Babe increased the pace. At the end of a couple of blocks, the news hound was all in. He gasped a question as to whether they would return by the same route, was assured that they would, and, dropping breathless on a convenient lawn, stated that he would wait for them. The Babe and Artie McGovern started on briskly, made a couple of right angle turns, came back to a side door of the hotel, and went back to bed. The reporter waited two hours. When he next saw the runners, he received the combined apology and explanation that, before they realized it, they had covered twelve miles and had caught a ride back.

"Biddy" Disregards

Talk of Depression

Rochester, N. H.—Mrs. Bertha Richardson of the old Dover road, has among her flock of Rhode Island Reds at least one optimistic hen which, in spite of the depression, continues to produce mass quantities. Mrs. Richardson gathered up an egg from one of the nests which weighed but a fraction less than five ounces and measured in circumference 8 3/4 inches. The egg was perfectly shaped and contained three yolks.

TANEYTOWN LOCALS.

Mrs. Albert Biddinger, Littlestown, is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Boyd, near town.

A number from town attended the tenth annual Shenandoah apple blossom festival at Winchester, Va., this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Bower, gave a reception on Saturday evening in honor of their son, John and bride, who were recently married.

The Willing Workers of the Reformed Church will hold a social on Monday, May 8, at 7:30. All members are requested to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Strowsburg, entertained, Sunday to supper the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Perago, Miss Catherine Baker, Miss Hazel Roberts, all of York, Pa.

Captain Linden Stafford a retired sea captain, of Choptank, Maryland, called on Sunday at the home of his niece, Mrs. Charles L. Stonestier. He accompanied his son, Tracey Stafford, of Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Reaver and family, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mayer and family, Sunday afternoon; and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hawk and son, Kenneth called at the same place in the evening.

Plans have been completed for the general C. E. meeting to be held in the Reformed Church, on Sunday, May 14, beginning at 7 o'clock, in honor of Mothers' Day. The program will be announced next week.

The Record Office, this week, printed a four-page folder containing eight hymns for "Mothers' Day" for the use in the Reformed Church at Pleasant Unity, Pa., the order coming from Mrs. Ethel (Sauble) Welker, wife of the pastor.

Celia Fair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Fair and Jack Breffle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merritt L. Breffle, had their tonsils removed at the South Baltimore Hospital, last Friday. They returned home on Saturday, and are both doing very well.

We learn that responses to the plans for reopening the banks have been coming in very favorably, but it is probable that finishing up the job may be the slowest, as is usually the case in such matters. Taneytown should not lag behind other towns.

The fire siren "went off" on Wednesday afternoon, and for a time the firemen were "all dressed up, and no place to go." It was an "inside" job, by somebody, but as there was no fire, the incident merely furnished a little very unusual excitement for a short while.

Mrs. Anna M. Allison entertained at dinner on Sunday: Mrs. Mae Senft, Miss Grace Slaybaugh, Misses Mae and Lou Essig and Mr. R. S. Sprengle, all of Hanover. Mrs. Mae Senft accompanied them to Hanover, after spending the past week with Mrs. Allison.

The Mill Road, a considerably used road that runs into George Street, is in great need of repairs as it has been badly cut up into ruts during the winter and spring. With the operation of the clothing factory, this road will have still more use, and it should have prompt attention from the proper authorities.

There will be a joint meeting of the different C. E. Societies in Taneytown district, held in the Presbyterian Church, at which time the State and County Officers will be present and show the slides of what was done at Nottingham, and will be done at Hood College. The date of the meeting will be given next week.

FARMERS REDUCING CROPS.

Further retrenchment in farm production programs is in evidence this spring, says the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in its April 1st report on the agricultural situation.

Farmers have reported to the Bureau intentions to reduce corn acreage by 3.5 percent or nearly 4,000,000 acres; to decrease the acreage of spring wheat and oats by three percent, sweet potatoes 13 percent, and potatoes 5.4 percent. The principal increase is one of 22 percent in tobacco acreage.

The eastern and central Corn Belt apparently is planning to shift about 2,000,000 acres out of crops into pasture, says the Bureau; and the acreage of crops harvested in the central and northern Great Plains area and in portions of the Pacific Coast states will show a reduction of about 4,000,000 acres, it is expected. West of the Mississippi in the south, it is stated, farmers are planning a decrease of about 2,000,000 acres in food and feed crops, "although this does not mean necessarily that much reduction in total crop acreage."

The live stock industries, says the Bureau, are struggling with varying phases of the price depression. Hog prices have improved slightly but are still lower than a year ago; lamb prices have moved up slightly, and the sheep industry appears to be headed toward lessened production. Milk is so cheap that many dairymen are letting the calves do part of the milking. Eggs, during the last two months, have returned to producers an average of about a cent apiece; in consequence, farmers have sold their hens until flocks are now down to about the same size as a year ago.—Md. Bureau Farmer.

"A new meaning of 'caveat emptor,' the old Roman admonition to 'let the buyer beware,' has been written into the laws of Denmark. A recent regulation for the closing of shops at certain hours makes merchant and customer equally responsible in case of violation."

Try Music and Ether

Together as Anesthetic

Pittsburgh.—How would you like a snappy jazz band with your ether? Or, perhaps you'd prefer something classical, like "Tannhauser"?

Doubtless a questionnaire like above never will be re-enacted in any hospital emergency operating room, but the latest wrinkle offered to eliminate the fear of appendectomy or any other operation is music with the ether?

The melody detracts the mind from what the surgeon is doing, scientists say, and relieves tension. Discussing the idea physicians at Pittsburgh hospitals said experiments so far had shown that for old persons, the music of their youth had the best results.

For a child something like "Farmer in the Dell" was suggested.

"Lanterns of the Dead"

About halfway on the road from Angers to Poitiers, in France, one comes upon the old town of Fontevault, which is famous not only for an ancient abbey, where English kings have wished they could be buried, but for a fine example of those once mystifying lanterns of the dead, lanterns des morts. The purpose of these tall stone funerary lanterns, built like inland lighthouses, was not known till a few years ago a passage was found in the writings of Peter the Venerable, a Nineteenth century abbot of Cluny, revealing that they were lit in homage to the dead Christians. Most of them date from the Eleventh century.

Columbus Room Restored

The room in which Christopher Columbus first told Queen Isabella of his plans for the voyage in which he discovered America has been restored at Segovia, Spain. It is the throne room in the main tower of the Alcazar. All the Fifteenth-century furniture and furnishings have been copied, the thrones being exact duplicates of those used by Ferdinand and Isabella at that time. The scarlet silk hangings bearing the coats of arms of the kings, and tapestries, window and low portals of the guards also have been copied in every detail.

Good Men Never Despair

But he who consecrates himself sees at once how God may sanctify the world; he whose mind is rich in the memory of moral victories will not easily believe the world a scene of moral defeats; nor was it ever known that one, who, like Paul labored for the good of man, despaired of the benevolence of God.—James Martineau.

Mutton Birds Estimate Time

From Sydney, Australia, comes word that the mutton birds, (sooty-tailed petrels) which vacation at Phillip Island, Victoria, have a remarkable sense of time and year after year residents of the island await their annual migration from Siberia expectantly and each time the birds put in their appearance on the same day.

Slump for Two

Mrs. Newlywed—Have you any nice slumps this morning?

Butcher—Slumps? What are they? Mrs. Newlywed—I don't know, but my husband is always talking about a slump in the market, so I thought I'd try one.

Not So Dumb

"You are playing awfully careless today," complained her partner to the woman who usually came out high. "I know it," she yawned, "I have seen the prize and I don't want to have to lug that piece of junk home with me."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WHERE RAILROAD CARS WON.

An unusual shipment which illustrates the positive need for rail transportation is described by the Railway Age in a current issue as follows:

"Railroad transportation had the field to itself when the time came to transport material for one of the gates to be used to seal the diversion tunnels after the Hoover Dam has been completed. Truck lines eager to take care of the movement were conspicuous by their absence.

"The reason was that each gate consists of 19 girders weighing 35 tons apiece, 38-ton vertical girders for each side, and a large number of steel plates, 1½ inches thick. The rivets used to fasten together the various parts of the gate weigh more than the average yard locomotive.

"The completed gates will weigh 3,000,000 lbs. each, will be 55 ft. square and 12 ft. thick, and will contain more steel than is used in erecting a 12-story office building. This explains why the Union Pacific used a train of 40 gondola and flat cars 'just to move a gate.'"

"How old are your little man?" asked an old gentleman, "I am not old at all, I'm nearly new" was the reply received.

The dries are as badly disappointed with the new beer, as the wets. It is neither strong enough to "raise Cain," nor "touch the spot."

FOR SALE

A large Pipe Creek farm for sale, Possession at once. 2 sets of buildings. Terms Cash. I have many acres of God's green earth for sale which offers many inducements and will be an asset for years to come, and you can always look at it.

Banks have failed; some closed doors for all time, while every farm on the Uniontown road where the late Col. Joseph A. Goulden, of New York City and myself were boys and kicked the dust, is still there.

When the Sixty-fourth Congress convened Col. Joseph A. Goulden failed to answer to his name because on May 3, 1915 he had responded to the final roll-call of the Supreme Ruler of the Universe; and on that Monday afternoon was stricken in Broad Street Station, Philadelphia and died peacefully.

God's green earth, and friendship, is the rarest and sweetest flower that grows in the garden of life. It's soil is the human heart; it is planted by honest thought, nurtured by tears of sympathy, and kept alive by the breath of good wishes.

Such was the character and life of my friend Col. Joseph A. Goulden; and all who knew him, and they were many, I believe will agree with me.
