There will be a public meeting, next Monday evening, at 8:00 o'clock, in the Fireman's building, concerning the question of Baseball in Taneytown for the coming season. All interested are invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Reifsnider, near town, entertained at dinner on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Reifsnider, of Detour; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ohler and children, near town, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ohler, of town.

The combination offer of six publications, in connection with a year's subscription to The Record will be continued until April 1st. Six popular Magazines for only $1.50, or 25c a year each, should not be missed. Read the offer over again, and then act promptly.

The news of the death of B. P. Lambertson, Washington, one of Taneytown's appreciated summer residents was received here with sincere regret. The surviving members of his family connections have our deepest sympathy. See death notice on another page.

Merwyn C. Fuss addressed the Young Women's and Young Men's Bible Classes of Kridler Lutheran Church, Wednesday night. The town quartet composed of Curtis Bowers, Edgar Fink, Murray Baumgardner and Merwyn C. Fuss, sang four numbers. Mrs. Edgar Fink was the accompanist.

The Degree team of Warren Lodge, I. O. O. F., Baltimore, will visit Taney Lodge, this Friday evening and confer the Third Degree upon a class of 26 candidates. At the same regular meeting of the Lodge there will be an election for Grand Representative to the Sovereign Grand Lodge. All Past Grands are eligible to vote in this election. The Lodge is preparing for a fourth class to receive the degrees in April. Six have been elected, with three applications now on the desk, and four weeks to go before the initiations take place.

DABLER & MUDGE FIRM QUILTS.

The old wholesale paper firm of Dabler & Mudge, Baltimore, is liquidating as rapidly as possible, in order to retire from business. This firm was possibly the oldest in Baltimore, in its line, and always enjoyed a reputation for fair dealing. A good many of its former salesmen are now in the same line of business for themselves.

BIG PIPE CREEK PARK

Prospectus Being Issued for the Season of 1938.

The Big Pipe Creek Park Association is sending out a Prospectus for the year 1938, again setting forth its natural advantages and the improvements provided in order to round-out the Park as an ideal spot for pic-nics and out-door gatherings, and for various sports including boating swimming, fishing and baseball.

The promoters are certainly doing a good job toward popularizing this spot; and verification of its claims and advantages are invited, both by organizations and individuals. It would be wise, we think, for all who are contemplating out-door events for coming summer to investigate, and then book their dates. A copy of this prospectus will be supplied to all who are interested.

The Directors of the Association are: Chas. E. H. Shriener, president; Clarence B. Reaver, Vice-President; Robert W. Smith, Secretary and Treasurer; E. Z. Flickinger and Dr. C. D. Dern.

MEN ENTERTAIN LADIES OF SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS.

The tables were turned Tuesday night, when the men of the organized class of Trinity Lutheran Sunday School, who a few weeks ago were entertained with a social and entertainment given by the ladies of the class, took their turn and held a delightful social and entertainment for the ladies.

The program was opened with prayer by Carroll C. Hess, general superintendent of the school, who was in no way responsible for anything that followed. The remainder of the program consisted of a piano solo and encore by Rev. W. O. Ibach, who also played all accompaniments during the evening; a reading by Rev. L. B. Hafner; several selections by a quartet, consisting of Franklin Fair, Oliver Erb, Charles Welk and Merwyn Fuss; a fashion show; a short play; and a comical musical stunt by William Kiser and Byron Stull.

The reading represented a farmer back from a visit to his brother in the city, and telling his wife, Polly, all about it. It was a humorous poem, with some fine common sense into the humor.

In the fashion show, Andrew George Washington Brown (Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe), highly colored, with Prince Albert coat, white pants and vest, red necktie, large glasses, silk hat and cane, was the demonstrator. The models, Cleve LeGore, Preston Smith, Geary Bowers, Mahlon Brown, John Kiser, Russell Eckard, Birnie Staley, Charles Hahn, Byron Stull and William Kiser, appeared in women's garb of many ancient varieties, while the demonstrator talked of the features of each costume. It was highly ludicrous and was greeted with constant laughter and applause.

In the play, Mr. Sharp, (John Skiles), had his colored servant, Mose (Luther Anders), call a doctor for Mrs. Sharp, who was somewhat indisposed. Mose became excited and called several doctors—a homeopath, (Clarence Naill), an allopath (Harry Crouse), Dr. Cutter, a surgeon (Solly Wantz), Dr. Molar, a dentist (Cleve LeGore), Dr. Rub, an osteopath (Lester Cutsail), a veterinarian (Birnie Staley), and Dr. Quack (William Naill), a dispenser of an elixir that cures everything from corns and bunions to heart trouble.

The doctors did not get to see Mrs. Sharp, but they all demanded their fees, and all at the same time, the amounts ranging from $2.00 in the case of the horse doctor to $25.00 demanded by Dr. Cutter. Sharp was in great distress over the financial situation, when Dr. Quack turned lawyer and disposed of the claimants in a skillful manner, but with some of the transactions a little shady. His own fee was nothing more than the price of one bottle of his elixir, which Mose had emptied by taking frequent draughts while the contention was going on. There was little intermission in the hilarity.

The quartet, in their second appearance, were dressed as workmen, in overalls, straw hats and bandannas. The demonstrator of fashion conducted these numbers, with cane for baton, but it was a little too much for the singers, who mixed much laughter with the attempts at song.

As interesting as anything was a clarinet solo by William Kiser, in swallow-tail coat, white pants and vest, top hat and spats, who played, accompanied by the piano. The music was fine, but great mystery was created when the instrument got away from the player's mouth, without interrupting the music. It all became plain when Byron Stull stepped from behind the curtain with another clarinet. Then he played another number in front of the curtain, with Kiser continuing the sham.

Some of the ladies said that the men excelled the women, though the men made no such claim. The committee on refreshments, George I. Harman, D. J. Hesson, Harry Anders, Frank Houck, Tolbert Shorb and their helpers observed Shrove-Tuesday by serving fastnachts, ice cream and coffee. Of course it was all over before Lent began—two hours before.

WM. S. GORDY FILES.

State Comptroller, Wm. S. Gordy, Jr., has filed his candidacy for nomination for Governor (Democratic) at the office of Secretary of State, E. Ray Jones. He had announced his intention of doing so, some time ago.

DEDUCTIONS MADE IN MOTORISTS TAX.

Claims may be made in Filing Federal Returns.

In response to demand for specific information on the character and extent of deductions motorists may claim in filing Federal income tax returns, the Keystone Automobile Club made public today a statement covering every phase of the problem.

The statement, prepared by Harrison G. Kildare, attorney for the Club, follows:

"Owners and operators of motor vehicles may, subject to restriction and possible review by the Collector of Internal Revenue, deduct taxes paid, uncompensated losses to their vehicles, interest on financed loans and expenses incident to the actual business use of vehicles.

"Specifically, full deductions may be made for:

"(a) Registration fees paid by the taxpayer. (Under "Taxes Paid," which is Item 8, Schedule E, on form 1040A.)

"(b) Operators' License fees paid by the taxpayer, both for himself and members of his family if he foots the bill (Item 8.)

"(c) Gasoline and oil taxes. Deduction may be made for State fuel taxes paid in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland but the Federal tax of 1 cent a gallon on gasoline cannot be credited.

"(d) Loss by accident is deductible, except when the owner has been compensated for the loss. Deduct under "Losses" (Item 9, Schedule F.)

"(e) Interest paid on personal indebtedness, including finance company loans. Consult your finance company for the exact rate of interest. Deduct under "Interest."

"No other deductions are allowed to a taxpayer who uses his car for pleasure purpose only. No allowance is made for the amount of fines or court costs paid for violations of motor laws, nor for money paid to others in settlement of damage claims. No credit may be taken for operating expenses unless the car is used in business.

"Vehicles operated entirely or in part in the business of the owner entitle him to certain additional credits. These deductions may be grouped under one head as "Expenses Paid" (Schedule B-3, 4) and titled, "Automobile-business use." If any income has been received from an expense account, it should be added to the amount of income declared. (Schedule B-1, 2.)

"If the vehicle is used partly for pleasure, the taxpayer may deduct as "business use" the proper proportion of his total operating expense. Thus, if the car is used for business 80% of the time, he may take credit for 80% of the total operating expense for 1937. Proper items for consideration under this head include:

"(1) Operating cost, covering (a) full cost of fuel, (b) maintenance and repair costs, (c) garage rent, (d) insurance premiums (net), and (e) automobile club dues.

"(2) Depreciation is allowed on some reasonable basis. On the theory that the average motor vehicle has a usable life of four years, a deduction of 25% of the list price is considered reasonable for pleasure cars. Allowances of ten to thirty per cent may be accepted on trucks.

"(3) Loss in trade on a new car, if any.

"Acquiring title to a motor vehicle by purchase, gift or inheritance does not constitute income. But if title is received in consideration of services rendered or as a prize in a competition or in a lottery, it must be declared under "Income."

"Federal manufacturer's taxes are levied on the manufacturer and may not be deducted by the purchaser of a new vehicle, even though he pays for them in the price of his car."

FROM THE CUNNINGHAMS IN CALIFORNIA.

A letter to the Editor from Mrs. Frank E. Cunningham, Pasadena, Cal., says that they (Mr. and Mrs.) arrived in California last Saturday, (Feb. 19) after a delightful sea voyage. That "both Atlantic and Pacific were as quiet as could be, but the Caribbean Sea put on a few stunts, but as both are good sailors neither were sea sick."

They were delighted with the trip through the Panama Canal; but had some very warm and moist weather at Panama and in Mexico. They are delightedly located with an English family. "Quite near are mountains 7000 feet high and our garden is full of beautiful flowers—roses, carnations, pansies, violets, poppies, hyacinths, jasmine, calla lilies, etc."

It is such a joy to see one's family every day, as Motter (their son) is quite near. We also have other relatives whom we often see. Am sending renewal of subscription to The Carroll Record, as we do want the news it contains."

MR. and MRS. F. E. C. 2463 Cray Ave.

CARROLL CHAPTER RED CROSS.

The annual meeting of the Carroll County Chapter of the Red Cross will be held in the Library Room of The Times Building, in Westminster, on Monday, March 28th., 1938, at 8:15 P. M.

There will be an election of officers at that time as well as a general business meeting. Mrs. Margaret Lewis, General Field Representative of the American Red Cross will be present.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Regular Monthly Meeting held Feb. 28th., 1938.

The Taneytown Chamber of Commerce met in regular monthly session in the Firemen's Building in Taneytown, on Monday evening, February 28th., 1938, at 7:30 P. M., Merwyn C. Fuss, presiding. There were 19 members present. In the absence of the secretary, C. M. LeFevre acted as secretary.

The minutes of the January meeting were read and approved as read. Truman Bowers was elected to membership.

Mr. Russell Feeser reported that a meeting will be held concerning Fairfield-Western Maryland Dairy Company, in its relation to the farmers of the vicinity.

Thirty members of the Chamber of Commerce met with the County Commissioners in the interest of the completion of the Middleburg Road.

The State Roads Commission agreed to grant permission that a light be erected at the Square in Taneytown, but that our town would have to pay the cost.

It was reported that a new business organization is negotiating to locate in Taneytown.

The Treasurer reported that $22.50 has been collected on balance due for advertising the Christmas party, leaving a balance of $2.50. It was moved that a check be drawn for the printing bill. Carried.

The committee on decorations moved that the Chamber lay aside $50.00 per year for decorations for the Christmas season, seconded, carried.

The Rubber Company reported improved business. A $100.00 Rubber Co. certificate was taken over by the Company to favor a needy investor.

Our new member, Mr. Haines, in a few words expressed appreciation and interest in what the Chamber is trying to do for the community.

The desired marker on the Littlestown Road commemorating the sojourn of General Meade in this vicinity was discussed by Dr. Benner.

It was moved that a committee be appointed to contact other organizations with a view toward securing more money for roads for this section out of the road monies. Motion carried. Adjourned at 9:00 P. M.

MERWYN C. FUSS, Pres. C. M. LeFevre, Acting Secretary.

STOCKING STREAMS WITH FISH.

Approximately 75,000 trout from the State Fish Hatchery, at Lewis-town, Frederick County, will be used during the next few weeks for the restocking of Western Maryland, according to an announcement the other day by Albert M. Powell, superintendent of the hatchery. The number to be liberated this Spring is slightly in excess of the total last year, and the number to be released in streams of this county was not estimated.

Stocking of streams in Frederick county is expected to get under way this week.

Since the opening of the dipnet season a few weeks ago, many fishermen have indulged in the sport, which is confined to the Potomac and Monocacy rivers and to a portion of Middle Creek. The recent rains, which flushed the streams, was accompanied by renewed interest in dipnetting, and some fair catches were reported.

A GROCERY STORE FIRE IN THURMONT.

The grocery store of Gall & Smith, Thurmont, was damaged by fire early Tuesday morning to an extent estimated at $8000, mostly covered by insurance. The fire was discovered by a milk truck driver at 5:15 o'clock. An alarm was given and the Fire Company responded promptly, and broke in a rear door in order to gain entrance.

A portion of the contents was saved. There has been no definite cause for the fire, except possibly defective electric wiring, as there was only a little fire in the store stove at closing time. The store occupied the old Moravian church site which was built over 100 years ago. It is said that the firm expected to remodel the building this spring. As it is located in the closely built up section of the town, near the square, there was great danger of a conflagration.

"WHAT'S IN IT FOR THE FARMER?"

We are giving on our Editorial page of this issue, a lengthy article under the above caption. It is the first comprehensive discussion of the subject we have seen, from the viewpoint of farmer authority that form the bill. What objections the Grange farmer element may have to the bill will be given later, if it becomes available.

We advise all who are interested in the bill—whether for or against it—to read this article.

LASHED FOR WIFE-BEATING.

An unusual penalty was inflicted—that of whipping for wife beating—on Clyde Miller, 37-year-old printer, was administered at the city jail, Baltimore, Tuesday morning. He will in addition, remain in jail for a period of six months. Miller was strapped to the black whipping post, and was lashed cross-wise with welts by a cat-o-nine tails.

A new mirror especially for women motorists is an illuminated vanity mirror for the car. One type is mounted on the rear of the glove compartment and automatically lights when the lid is opened.

CHARGES AGAINST SENATOR PHOEBUS

As Labor Commissioner, being heard by Gov. Nice.

An unusual situation in Maryland politics is presented in the fact that Senator Robert B. Kimble, Republican, Allegany County, has filed charges against State Labor Commissioner, Harry T. Phoebus, Republican, Eastern Shore, and that the trial is being heard before Governor Harry Nice, Republican; all three being candidates for the Republican nomination for Governor.

Over 80 witnesses have been summoned in the case that is for malfeasance, misfeasance and neglect of official duties on the part of Phoebus some of the witnesses being employees in the Labor Commissioner's office.

One of the specific charges has been that Phoebus has used some of the employees to help further his campaign for the nomination, and another for irregular activities in the matter of strikes and Union Labor affairs.

Phoebus makes the claim that the whole affair is for the purpose of discrediting him as a candidate for nomination for Governor; and to cause his dismissal from office. He says "he's booked to lose his job—that it is all signed, sealed, and ready for delivery."

Evidence for the defense testified that their relations when the Labor Commissioner's office were quite satisfactory, and that Phoebus acted fairly in labor disputes in which they were concerned. Employers of the Commissioner also testified that they felt the office was properly conducted.

The charge that he had used members of his force to help conduct his campaign for nomination for the Governorship, was countered by the statement that the same practices had been indulged by other candidates, during past years.

On Wednesday, testimony for Senator Phoebus, some of it of a hearsay character, enlivened the hearing by bringing about an exchange of views between the Senator and Governor Nice, that resulted in the suggestion by the Governor that the case might be sent to the Grand Jury. This grew out of the statement by Phoebus "that" there is a conspiracy against me to remove me from office." A further hearing of the case is being held this Friday.

WILL PRESENT A DRAMA IN NEW WINDSOR.

An invitation to share in a benefit performance of "Lena Rivers," a three act modern drama to be presented by the faculty and students of Blue Ridge College on April 7, was accepted by the Centennial Committee of the New Windsor Presbyterian Church at a recent meeting held at Dielman Inn, New Windsor. The church has enjoyed a close feeling of friendship with the college since the latter's founding almost one hundred years ago. It was the Rev. John Pym Carter pastor of the Presbyterian Church, who, in 1842, chartered a school at New Windsor, which later became a college and now bears the name of Blue Ridge. The church is to observe her 100th anniversary next year.

The committee also adopted the Lenten Coin box plan as a means of helping finance the celebration. The boxes have already been distributed among the members and friends of the church. Approval was also given to a motion to invite the Presbytery of Baltimore to hold its June meeting at New Windsor in 1939. The committee will meet again on March 14 at the same place.

WESTMINSTER FIREMEN TO HOLD SUPPER.

Wednesday evening the Westminster Fire Department decided to hold its annual oyster, chicken and waffle supper, on March 24, 25 and 26 in the firemen's building. The members appeal to all citizens to help make the supper a success as funds are needed to operate the department.

The committees announced by President Norman B. Boyle will call upon the citizens some time between March 21 to 25 for donations, so please be liberal as every little helps. The department makes but one solicitation a year over the territory served by the fire department.

The soliciting committees named are:

The General Supper committee—J. Gloyd Diffendal, Chairman; Edw. B. Orendorff, Leroy H. Brown, Warfield Babylon, William Freyman and Clarence Greenholtz.

Littlestown Pike, Union Mills and Silver Run—Edward O. Diffendal and Leonard Schaeffer.

Bachman's Valley and Sullivan Road—Theodore Shaeffer and John Arbaugh.

Taneytown Road to Frizellburg to Uniontown Road—Robert Dickensheets and Scott Slonaker Jr.

New Windsor Road, Avondale, Medford and Wakefield Valley—Ralph Yingling and Earl Breneman.

Mt. Airy Road to Enterprise Road to Dennings—Ralph Royer and Sterling Eckenrode.

Other committees for other roads and Westminster City.

No news is not always as good news as optimism predicts; and trying not to be interested, has its serious drawbacks.

NATIONAL USED CAR EXCHANGE WEEK.

A national drive to sweep the American automobile industry out of the current recession and stimulate American business generally was announced Sunday by Alvan Macauley, New York, speaking for every American automobile manufacturer and the nation's 46,000 automobile dealers.

The campaign, to be known as "National Used Car Exchange Week" and scheduled for March 5 to 12, is an outgrowth of recent conferences at the White House between President Roosevelt and leaders of the automobile industry, Mr. Macauley said. The President has been advised of plans for the campaign, which is the first co-operative effort ever undertaken in which all American automobile manufacturers have taken part.

The campaign is timed at the outset of the spring selling season when both new and used cars usually begin to move in greatest volume, Mr. Macauley said. It is aimed primarily at stimulating the disposal of used car stocks now in dealer hands. Once this is accomplished, a substantial increase in car manufacturing schedules and employment of wage earners in the automobile factories is anticipated.

To support the campaign, Mr. Macauley announced, the manufacturers will spend $1,250,000 in newspaper, radio and outdoor advertising and in other promotional channels. Two-thirds of the advertising budget will be spent in newspapers.

CANDIDATE FOR PITY.

If figuring out your taxes seems somewhat difficult and troublesome, have a word of pity for the corner grocer or the other businessman who will have to figure theirs under these provisions in the new Federal tax bill:

"If the dividend credit is a percentage of the adjusted net income which is more than 55 and less than 71, the tax shall be a percentage of the adjusted net income equal to the sum of 9, plus three-eighths of the amount by which 71 exceeds the percentage which the dividend credit is of the adjusted net income."

"If the dividend credit is a percentage of the adjusted net income which is more than 71 and less than 86, the tax shall be a percentage of the adjusted net income equal to the sum of 4, plus one-third of the amount by which 86 exceeds the percentage which the dividend credit is of the adjusted net income."

If such things as the above were not of such a serious nature, it would have to be admitted that the author of these provisions should be entitled to the fur-trimmed bicycle.—Press Service.

OBJECT TO ELECTRIC SIGNS.

A petition signed by 96 local persons appeared before the Board of Aldermen, Frederick, asking that some action be taken against electric signs which are objectionable to residents from the standpoint of glare and radio interference. Miss Jane Zimmerman, 341 North Market Street declared that a sign next door to her residence shines through the window at night to such an extent that she has to put a dark cloth over her eyes to sleep. She felt it was damaging her property. Another sign across the street, she said, interferes with radio reception at night.

City Attorney Smith said he believed it lay within the power of the city to regulate by ordinance such objectionable signs. He read an ordinance passed in 1914 in reference to signs and was informally instructed by the board to investigate the matter with the possibility of introducing a further ordinance. City Engineer Maxwell said he would turn over to the city attorney a list of signs which are known to be causing radio trouble for further action against the owners, which may be carried to magistrate's courts.—Frederick Post.

Random Thoughts

WHAT IS THE "BEST?"

Whenever anything is advertised as "the best" made, it is time to begin to ask questions as to just what is meant by "best?" Webster's says it means "The highest degree of goodness."

This must mean that there is no only ONE best of any one product, but that a large number of articles for the same use may be "the best" because made of the best materials available, by the best know-how.

If this is logical, then there may be no one "best" make tooth paste, canned goods, soap, fertilizer, etc., that are better than the same articles made by somebody else, all qualifying under the Webster definition.

Actually, what is best is largely that produced by the imagination, or belief in sales talk. In other words, Brown's products may not be better than those made by Smith or Jones, no matter what attractive propaganda may be produced by professional advertising writers for Brown.

We are creatures of impulse and guess-work, and seem to like it, and may be fooled into adopting unsound conclusions. Patents do shut out a good many competitor's but formulas can neither be patented nor copyrighted; and, this is quite worth considering.

THE COST OF SPEED.

No one outside of a newspaper office knows how much copy of various kinds is available, that gives instructions and warnings about safe driving of autos. The Record has published a great deal along this line, covering causes, carelessness, etc.

We doubt whether much of this advice is being read and remembered, or heeded if remembered. One thing is sure. No amount of advice can help much toward foreseeing situations that are constantly occurring on the road.

Roads and conditions are so various; drivers are so different, and what one or the other of the participants in a wreck is apt to do is never known. Autos themselves get out of trim quickly and fail to respond to the efforts of the person at the wheel. Any one of a dozen causes may develop in an instant, which, with the present legal speed, present unavoidable situations.

Attempts at regulating speed, when the speed is in the auto, are mostly failures in accomplishing safety; and it is not true that speed at from 40 to 50 miles an hour is as safe as at 30 miles an hour.

Widening and straightening roads at great cost, is a surrender to the speeders, the most of whom pay but little in the way of taxes except through the gas tax, and numerous organizations and interests are using all efforts toward reducing even this tax.

The railroads are facing bankruptcy because of swift auto and truck travel. The licensing of the beer and liquor business is helping to multiply the accidents and deaths; but not a single effort is being made to control speed in the auto itself—through its manufacture.

It is true that there are many fines imposed for violation of parking laws, for ignoring the red lights, for making wrong turns, and various other violations, but these are not causing all of the accidents.

It seems true too—that many justices and jurors—themselves auto drivers—are failing to find many convictions, but are favorable to "unavoidable" accidents, so far as drivers are concerned. There is a common, and very wide, surrender to "speed."

And, so long as those conditions prevail, legally, there will be increasing accidents as the number of speed vehicles increase and are licensed to use our roads. All of the good advice published, if doubled in volume, will not make fast speed safe.

TRYING TO BOIL ICE.

"Business Surpluses" is perhaps the most abused phrase in common use today.

Whenever a period of business inactivity, like the present recession, sets in, business critics cry to industrial leaders, "Why don't you dip into your surpluses to pay wages and keep workers on payrolls?"

On every hand there are efforts to convince people that industry has large accumulations of cash and securities that could be turned into payrolls. This is not the case.

Let us suppose, however, that industry decided to liquidate its reserves and surpluses and turn them into wages. According to the latest figures of the Bureau of Internal Revenue manufacturing industries now have surpluses aggregating $14,000,000,000. Their annual payrolls aggregate $13,500,000,000. In other words manufacturers would have to dispose of their entire surpluses lock stock and barrel to carry payrolls for only one year. If they decided to use only their cash and Government Bonds for such a purpose, it would last about four months.

Many noted economists have long since predicted certain bankruptcy for American industry if either course was followed. Who would want to see that happen? Certainly not the men, women and children with savings accounts, whose savings are re-invested in private enterprise, nor the holder of a few bonds or shares of stock in private industry, nor the millions of Americans whose life-insurance policies are backed by securities in private enterprise. In fact such a course is abhorrent to all except politicians and others who seek to undermine industry by capitalizing on misleading catch-phrases.

All too often the self-appointed leaders of American workers—the union chiefs—think and orate of plans that are not economically sound.

It is refreshing, then, to note that the American Federation of Labor leaders have finally concluded that what hurts business hurts labor also. Therefore, the Federation has asked that Congress do something about the undivided profits and capital gains tax, pointing out that because the earnings of industry have been curtailed by such taxation, labor suffers because of resulting unemployment.

No development could show more clearly how overwhelming the sentiment now is for action on this strangling tax law.—Industrial Press Service.

DRIVERS ABOVE THE LAW.

Washington, D. C., March, 1938—Congressman Rich of Pennsylvania told his fellow members of the House of Representatives the other day that they were "no better than anyone else," and that even though they did carry Congressional tags on their cars that there was no reason why they should demand exemption from arrest, or ticketing, for violations of the traffic ordinances in the District of Columbia.

"None of you want to be fined for traffic-law violations back home, but some just do not care what they do here in Washington," His remarks were directed against a small number of Congressmen who are being severely criticized by Washington newspapers for abusing their special privileges. The Representative was warmly applauded for speaking his mind and calling spades by their right name.

Of course this is a very delicate subject, and somebody who reads this article may get mad at the editor who prints the item, even though it was written for him by his Washington correspondent—who leaves most of the burden of proof on the Congressmen. He quotes them:

Mr. Rich: "If you do not respect the laws, how can you expect the other fellow to respect them?"

Mr. White: "Does the gentleman believe it is good business for men sent here to transact Government business, which is the most important business transacted in the District, to be hunting around for a parking place?"

Mr. Rich: "The $23 a day paid to Members of Congress is money that is mighty hard for the people back home to pay under some of the legislation we have passed during the last couple of sessions of Congress. I am speaking about the Congressman who follows this practice (unlawful parking) when he is only going to the theatre and is not on official business"

The flare-up in Congress illustrates the lapses of privileged officials who rise above the law—because they have pull and influence and get away with it. These same evasions are practiced by other prominent citizens everywhere, who take advantage of their privileged standings—while their poor neighbors get soaked.

Why should an outstanding citizen of any town or city consider himself a driver, above the law? Yet, we see them on all highways, taking advantage of their elegance, their personal appearances of respectability, their standing in the community or county. The traffic officers are afraid of their jobs—just as Congressman Rich said the police were in the National Capital, if they arrest these drivers-above-the-law.

There should be no such distinctions that break down the laws of regulating traffic and improving public safety conditions.—Nat. Indust. News Service.

WHAT'S IN IT FOR THE FARMER?

The following paragraphs are clipped from "The Nation's Agriculture" Magazine, omitting that portion applying to cotton and tobacco with which our up-state Maryland farmers are not interested. We give the large amount of space, believing it is justified by the importance of the Bill from the farmers points of view. It will also give information to consumers.

"On February 9, 1937, a national conference of farm leaders agreed on a set of fundamental principles which they considered essential to provide an effective and permanent program for American agriculture. One year later, on February 9, 1938, the House of Representatives passed the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, by a vote of 263 to 135. A few days later, on February 14, the Senate passed the bill by a vote of 56 to 31. What's in it for the farmer?

There is a difference of opinion as to how completely the AAA of 1938 embodies the principles set forth by the farm leaders. It is of necessity a compromise. But even so, it should be recognized as an outstanding achievement for farm people. It is the most effective step yet taken for controlling surpluses and stabilizing farm prices. For this reason the American Farm Bureau Federation has endorsed it, and has stood in the forefront of the battle to secure its enactment.

The law is the second of two national farm laws passed as a result of the Farm Conference in February, 1937. The first was the Marketing Agreements Act of 1937, to control surpluses and to provide for orderly marketing of milk, fruits and vegetables and other non-basic crops. This bill was particularly requested by the dairy interests of the nation, and the American Farm Bureau Federation threw its full strength into the battle to secure its enactment. That law is in operation now, and the producers of non-basic crops may expect much of it.

The AAA of 1938 deals with the basic crops of corn, cotton, wheat, rice and tobacco. It differs from the original draft sponsored by the A. F. B. F. It does not provide for contracts between farmers and the Secretary of Agriculture. It does make provision for parity payments, if and when the money is made available, but there is no prospect of securing an appropriation for this purpose in the near future. Other features of the bill should operate to keep market prices within striking distance of parity, but still this part of the farmer's price problem has been only half solved. The American Farm Bureau Federation will continue in the lead for its final and complete solution.

The new law is based on the present Soil Conservation Act, with its annual appropriation of $500,000,000, out of which payments are made to farmers as a partial offset to tariff benefits enjoyed by other groups. It simplifies and improves the Soil Conservation Act in the light of two years of practical experience in the field. It adds to the present law commodity loans and marketing quotas to control surpluses and stabilize prices.

An outstanding improvement over the present program was made in the allotment of base acreages. In the future, base acreages allotted to wheat and corn farmers will be made by the local committee on the basis of (1) tillable acres, (2) type of soil, (3) topography, and (4) crop-rotation practices. That means that the old historical base, which caused so much dissatisfaction in the past, has been eliminated as far as the individual farmer is concerned. The national, state and county allotments will be made on the basis of 10-year history, but the individual farmer will receive a base that is consistent with good farming practice. The value of this improvement can hardly be overestimated, as anyone with experience in the field can testify.

The new program is well safeguarded against the possibility of political or bureaucratic control in the provision for election of county and township committees by farmers, and in the provision that makes the County Agent a member, ex-officio, of the county committee and the state Director of Extension a member, ex-officio, of the state committee. I believe that these provisions will positively assure the farmers of fair and impartial administration. Important regulations are written into the law, insuring that administration on a national basis must be in accord with the principles set forth in the legislation.

About $50,000,000 is set aside to increase payments to producers who would otherwise be paid less than $200 annually for compliance. Corresponding deductions are made from payments to large producers. Other provisions are included to favor the small grower and to encourage the development of self-sustaining family size and family-operated farms. Fair provisions have been made for new growers and for the adjustment of inequitable bases of small growers.

The commodity loan provisions are designed to stabilize prices. The Commodity Credit Corporation is authorized to make loans on all commodities, including dairy products to stabilize prices during periods of seasonal surpluses.

Loans to co-operators on corn are mandatory at all times whenever the November crop estimate for corn is in excess of the normal year's domestic consumption and exports, or whenever the market price on November 15 is below 75 per cent of parity. The loan rate would be at 75 per cent of parity when supply is normal; 70 per cent when supply is not more than 10 per cent of normal; 65 per cent when the excess is between 10 and 15 per cent; 60 per cent when the excess is between 15 and 20 per cent; 55 per cent when the excess is between 20 and 25 per cent, and 52 per cent of parity when the excess is more than 25 per cent.

With the present parity price of corn and the present market price of corn, the loan would be at approximately 63 cents when supplies are in balance. Assuming that the loan would stabilize the market price of 63 cents, and assuming that the payment to co-operators under the Soil Conservation Act would be around nine cents, the corn-belt farmer could reasonably expect a gross return of 72 cents a bushel for corn.

Wheat loans do not become mandatory until the market prices drop below 52 per cent of parity. At other times they are discretionary with the Secretary of Agriculture. On tobacco and rice, loans are discretionary with the Secretary, with the approval of the President.

Control of surpluses is provided through marketing quotas, which will permit each farmer, whether or not a co-operator, to sell in the market an amount of the commodity equivalent to his fair share of the total volume needed for domestic and foreign consumption. Any excess above this share would be sealed up on the farm. Quotas can be invoked only when price-wrecking surpluses are produced and then only upon a favorable referendum vote by producers of the commodity. When quotas are invoked, loans will be available to non-co-operators at 60 per cent of the rate available to co-operators.

The McNary-Boileau Amendment, which would have prevented the use of diverted acres for producing dairy and livestock products for market, and which was almost unanimously considered unworkable and non-enforceable, was modified in the final bill so that it will be workable and will still give the dairy and livestock farmers all the protection to which they are entitled. In the old amendment, benefit payments were withheld from any farmer who used the crop of any diverted acre for production of dairy and livestock products for market. It was modified to provide that crops on diverted acres may be used to feed a normal number of cows without penalty, and even then, benefit payments will be paid unless the county as a whole is out of compliance. In the case of livestock other than dairy livestock, no action on cases involving the use of diverted acres would be taken unless the Secretary should find upon investigation, that the income of producers of livestock and poultry products was being adversely affected by increases in supply as a result of the operation of the program. In that contingency, appropriate action could be taken."

THE DEVELOPMENT OF THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Small, lean and scrawny, eyes weak and dim,
That is the way we first learned of him;

Firmly resolved his misfortune to master,
Nothing he does improves him the faster.

Off to Groton and Harvard as well
Here deep in study his story he'll tell;
Here from the college proudly wearing degree

He resolves on one thing—the country to see;
Off to the West where the life lived is free

Herder of cattle his life work shall be.
Here mid the wilds of Dakota's broad plain,

Builds he a physique to stand every strain;
Here finds he pleasure in work and in strife

Here finds he honesty that stands him thru life;
Here mid his books, his guns and big game,

Carves he a destiny, makes he a name
Hunts he the bob-tail bear and caribou
Finds he excitement to carry him thru—

Thru to the end with purpose well fixt,
Mental health, physical health, vigor are mixt;

Out from the Plains, robust and strong
Ready to tackle the world and its wrong;

Sits as Commissioner of New York Police,
Acts always square, does things that will please.

He is no fault finder, he does not complain
If he in an instant his point does not gain.

Wars desolation spreads over the land,
In it at once he takes a firm hand,
Raises a regiment of Rough Riders sure

Goes forth to Cuba privations to endure;
Comes back to his home, a hero well known,

Is selected as Governor with Albany his home;
Takes up the problems of his native state.

Fights for the things politicians berate;
Firmly resolved to do and to dare.

Ever resolved to act on the square;
Higher things for him the people demand.

Politicians instantly take him in hand
Bury him deep as the Vice-President,
Where he may fret and fume and relent.

Out of this misery that struck the Nation dumb
The beloved McKinley to the assassin succumb;

Thus to the presidency by automatic succession
He has the presidency in his possession;

Stands by the problems McKinley laid down,
Firmly convinced the people won't frown;

Runs on his record for his own election—
Always and ever he stands for protection—

Protection for wealth and protection for labor,
Never for once does he show any favor.

Thus coined he a name that will stand thruout Time—
A square deal for all—a dictum sublime.

Ever and always he stood for the right,
Nor Capital nor Labor could him affright.

When Congress recalcitrant his wish would not heed
To the country he took all the problems instead;

Not even once thru his entire career,
Did he ever attempt Courts or Congress to steer.

He was Chief Executive, that was his station,
He did his task well as he thus ruled the nation.

He aimed to make progress by slow evolution,
Nor ever for once countenanced he revolution.

He did his work well, that is well understood.
He left a glad memory, he worked for the good.

In the great distant future, 'twill be history's decree
That he lived for the people THEIR glory to see.

When the roll of presidents both great and small
Unprejudiced history shall on each one call.

It will then be found, there is no doubt at all
That Theodore Roosevelt will rank well with them all.

We desire correspondence to reach our office on Thursday, if at all possible. It will be necessary therefore, for most letters to be mailed on Wednesday, or by Fast Mail, west on W. M. R. R., Thursday morning. Letters mailed on Thursday evening may not reach us in time.

All communications for this department must be signed by the author; not for publication, but as an evidence that the items contributed are legitimate and correct. Items based on mere rumor, or such as are likely to give offense, are not wanted.

FRIZELLBURG.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James Fox, who located here a few months ago, and occupied part of the Zile's dwelling, was the scene of a very pleasant surprise party last Sunday. The occasion was nicely planned by their children and grand-children and was given in honor of Mr. Fox's 82nd birthday. The event as expressed by the host and hostess, was a most enjoyable one, and all seemed to enjoy themselves beyond measure. It was a day to be long remembered. The recipients received many handsome as well as useful presents for which they feel very grateful. Refreshments were served at 4:00 P. M.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. James Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fox, daughter Annabelle and friend, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. William Fox and family, Rockville, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. George Cameron, daughter, Pauline and friend, of Windsor Mill Road, Baltimore Co.; Mr. and Mrs. George Mitchell, of Baltimore; Mr. Eli Fox, of York; Mrs. Bettie Plowman, Baltimore. Those who called later were: Mr. and Mrs. Stanhour, of Seven Stars, Pa.; Albert Fox, of Gettysburg; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sell and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brooks, Taneytown.

Sabbath School will be conducted here next Sunday at 10:00 A. M. Regular Preaching Service in the evening at 7:30 P. M. Rev. J. H. Hoch, pastor.

Mrs. Emma Romsper, of Union Bridge, after spending several weeks with Mrs. Mora Gilbert, returned home on Tuesday.

Bessye Zile who has been ill for some time, is somewhat improved, but is still confined to her bed.

Mrs. Pearl Segafosse has sold all her farming land and the set of buildings at the west end of town to Walter L. Rentzel.

FEESERSBURG.

February passed out with a strong wind to introduce March like a lion—and didn't it roar! Pisces—(fishes) is the sign—the ancient symbol of life after death; now resumption of labor. Hergen-blood stone, the flower—violet a kind trustful, sympathetic nature belongs to persons born before March 20th. They love music, scenery and animals; a good inheritance.

Mrs. Reese Hooper—living with her daughter, Mrs. Lulu Grindler, has been suffering with shortness of breath and weakness, with sometimes a tantalizing cough.

Mrs. Myrtle K. Sentz who was on the sick list last week, was back in her place at S. S., on Sunday morning. Her aunt, Mrs. Mary W. Starnar was with her for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Plaine, of Frederick, spent Sunday with their uncle, Washington Shaffer.

Mrs. W. Lincoln Birely, of Boston, has been cruising in Southern waters on the S. S. "Normandy" and was at some Islands off the coast of South America when last heard from, viewing unusual scenes.

Charles Geiman with two of his sisters, and a friend from N. Y., took dinner with the Bucher John family, one day last week.

Lenten services in the Uniontown Lutheran pastorate began at Mt. Union on Wednesday evening, with members from all four churches of the charge in attendance.

The District Rally of Christian Endeavor, met at Mt. Union Church on Sunday evening, and was well attended, the Vice-Pres., R. W. Sentz, presiding. After the Devotional service a Junior chorus of the M. P. Church of Union Bridge sang "Jesus is a friend of Mine." The Lutheran topic, "Why does our church maintain Colleges?" was freely discussed with readings and remarks by Pres. Mitten, of Wakefield and Rev. G. H. Stocksdale, of Union Bridge. Four ladies from Wakefield sang two selections, "I am with you always," and "The Christ;" a trio of Union Bridge, sang "I Choose Jesus," and three violinists of Mt. Union played "I'm Praying for You." The County President, F. P. Bohn commended the cooperation of all, and made announcements of coming events in C. E. affairs.

Work on the Parish House at Mt. Union was completed last week, and all looks good. Fine white stone chips, the gift of a friend, have been spread at the entrance; and a piano purchased for the hall. The building will be dedicated this Sunday evening (March 6th.), by the pastor, Rev. M. L. Kroh.

Walter Ecker is building a good-sized new chicken house on the west side of his home; and young chicks is our "theme song" at present.

A salesman of 16 years travel, says people may not want snow, but the fields need it—that the wheat is looking unusually poor.

The ladies of Middleburg were out delivering hot doughnuts, at the close of last week. They usually sell many dozens—delicious ones—for benefit of M. E. Church fund.

These are the days for doughnuts, and one of our generous neighbors remembered us generously. No wonder the American soldiers liked them, and they were nick-named "dough boys."

Sounds as if Hugh James thinks he's a "Missionary," because he does good work selling Blue Sunoco—and says he's happy doing it. Now why can't everybody tackle their work in the same spirit?

LITTLESTOWN.

Mrs. Catherine D. Bair, wife of Albert J. Bair, Union Township, died from infirmities incident to her advanced age. She was 79 years of age. She is survived by her husband to whom she was married July 22, 1877, and six children, one sister, and one brother. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at Christ Church, Rev. D. S. Krammer, officiated. Burial was made in Christ church cemetery.

Rev. T. J. Schneider, pastor of the Reformed Church is holding special services during Lent. A guest speaker each evening. The services are held every Wednesday.

The annual World Day of Prayer will be observed by the Missionary Societies of town and vicinity, on Friday afternoon.

Within the past several months Police Roberts has been receiving complaints about persons under 21 years of age smoking cigarettes. No one has a right to sell and buy for any one. If any person is found with cigarettes on his person, he has to tell where, or who bought them. This does not mean the young people of town only. Now be careful and don't get into trouble.

Here is another law that few people know, and that is if you hear a signal of an ambulance or fire engine you must pull to the right side of the road and stop, and shall not go till the ambulance or fire truck is five hundred feet ahead. I am writing the two laws so no one gets into trouble when you come to our town.

Robert Crowmer, R. D. 2, reported that about 50 chickens had been taken from his unlocked chicken house, on Thursday night. The loss is about $75.00. Officer Buckley has begun investigation of footprints, and a brown glove that was dropped by one of the thieves.

Business in our factory is getting better; while no new hands are put on at present. Two shoe factories are going to put more hands on soon.

Miss Edna Basehoar has returned to her school as teacher.

February has left us, but not before she left us know what February weather is like. Maybe after this changeable month of March, why Spring will be here.

B. R. LAMBERTON, JR.

Benjamin Paulding Lamberton, Jr., aged 60 years, a retired electrical engineer prominent in naval affairs, died Sunday afternoon, of a heart attack at his home, 2435 Kalamazoo road N. W., Washington. He had been ill for two weeks.

He was a son-in-law of Mrs. H. M. Clabaugh, and spent considerable time with the family in Taneytown during the summer months. Last summer, under his supervision, a building was remodeled and enlarged, containing all modern improvements, that was intended for a summer home, in connection with the main mansion always occupied by Mrs. Clabaugh; and also built a house nearby for the use of the caretaker of the property. He became well known and popular with many citizens of Taneytown.

Mr. Lamberton was born in Kittery, Me., and attended Western High School in Washington. He graduated from Lehigh University, where he was a member of Sigma Phi Society. Son of the late Admiral B. P. Lamberton, Mr. Lamberton served during the Spanish-American War as a commissioned officer in the Navy. He was associated with the General Electric Co. as an engineer and liaison officer with the Navy from 1903 to 1931 when he retired from active business.

He served on the board of Garfield Hospital and was a member of the Army and Navy Club. He attended St. John's Church. Active in veterans' affairs, he was past commander of the Washington Chapter of the Naval and Military Order of the Spanish-American War. He also was a member of the Military Order of the Carabao and the Loyal Legion.

He was a member of the American Institute of Electric Engineers and past president of the Washington Society of Engineering. His engineering affiliations also included the American Society of Naval Engineers and he was a past vice-president of the Washington Academy of Sciences.

Mr. Lamberton is survived by his widow, Mrs. Helen Clabaugh Lamberton; a son, Harry C. Lamberton; a daughter, Mrs. Jennings Bailey, Jr.; two sisters, Mrs. Richard D. La Garde of this city and Mrs. Merkle Landis of Carlisle, Pa., and three grand-children.

Funeral services were held at the Lamberton residence at 2:00 P. M., Tuesday. The Rev. Oliver J. Hart, of St. John's Church, officiated. Burial was in Arlington National Cemetery.

ARKANSAS C. FINK.

Arkansas C. Fink, farmer, living near the former Walnut Grove School, died at an early hour last Sunday morning, aged 69 years. He had not been ill, but was in Taneytown on Saturday afternoon. In the evening while at the supper table he spoke of not being able to feed himself right, and on going from the table to lie down, fell to the floor, and death followed in a few hours.

He is survived by his wife, who before marriage was Miss Laura Reid; and by the following children: Reid Fink, Gettysburg; Donald, at home; Mrs. Charles Routson; Union Bridge; Mrs. Joseph Cartzendorf, Glen Burnie; Mrs. Roy Sanders, Baltimore; and by two brothers, William, New Oxford, Pa., and Claude, in Ohio; also by three sisters, Mrs. Harry Hawk, of Hanover; Mrs. George Stover, Littlestown, and Mrs. Jesse Frock, Taneytown.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning, in Grace Reformed Church, Taneytown, followed by burial in the Reformed cemetery.

MRS. HARRY E. KEEFER.

Mrs. Susan V. Keefe, wife of Harry E. Keefe, died from complications, on Thursday evening, at her home near Fairview. She had been ill from last Sunday, and was 56 years old.

Mrs. Keefe was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bare and is survived by her husband, one son, Herman, at home, two daughters, Mrs. Jennings Frock, of Mt. Union, and Mrs. Clyde Sell, of Taneytown, one brother, Samuel Bare, of near Westminster, two sisters, Mrs. Guy Formwalt, of Uniontown, and Miss Irene Bare, of New Windsor; she is also survived by eight grand-children.

The body was prepared at the C. O. Fuss & Son Funeral Home and may be viewed at her late home after 12 o'clock, noon, Saturday.

Funeral services Sunday at 1:00 o'clock, at her late home, with further services at Pipe Creek Church of the Brethren. The services will be in charge of her pastor, Rev. J. J. John. Burial in the adjoining cemetery.

THOMAS S. CHIPLEY.

Thomas S. Chipley, a farmer near Harney, died at the Frederick City Hospital, last Friday night. He was 59 years of age. He was a son of the late William and Sarah Chipley. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Ida E. Chipley; two sons, Howard and Erman, Gettysburg R. D. 1; and four daughters, Mrs. John Stottlemeyer, LeGore; Mrs. Charles Bowers, Gettysburg; the Misses Catherine and Ida Belle, at home; also seven grand-children, and a sister, Mrs. James Denn, Parkersville.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday morning with services in Oak Hill Church of God, at Woodsboro, in charge of Elder Charles A. Stover, assisted by Rev. William A. Herpich, pastor of the Church of God; burial in the adjoining cemetery.

MRS. LAURA H. ANGELL.

Mrs. Laura H. Angell, widow of William Angell, died at the Fahnrey Memorial Home, Boonsboro, at the age of 68 years. She was a daughter of the late Nathaniel and Sarah Feeder, Taneytown, and is survived by one son, Earl Angell, near Taneytown, and a daughter, Mrs. Roy V. Boone, near Middleburg; also by two brothers and a sister, Edward G. Feeder, Harry N. Feeder, and Mrs. Elmer S. Crebs, all of Taneytown.

Funeral services were held from the C. O. Fuss & Son, on Sunday afternoon, in charge of Rev. Guy P. Bready, and burial in the Reformed cemetery.

ARTHUR SITTIG.

Arthur Sittig, formerly of Uniontown, died at his home in Maryland, Caroline County, Md., last Friday, aged 59 years. He was engaged in farming. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Louise; and by two sisters, Mrs. John Heck and Mrs. Harry Spielman, both of Uniontown. Funeral services were held in the Uniontown Lutheran Church, Tuesday morning, in charge of the pastor, Rev. M.

ACT FIRST—TALK AFTERWARDS.

"Tuberculosis constitutes both a challenge and a threat; a challenge because there has been a cessation in the mortality decline; a threat because our lives are not secure against an invasion from this disease." So spoke Dr. Thomas Parran, U. S. surgeon-general.

Smug confidence of the individual in the belief that he is immune to such disaster, and dogmatic ignorance, are chief allies of tuberculosis. Scientific weapons exist with which to fight it. States, counties and municipalities are equipped to care for those unable to pay for medical care. If in doubt as to your physical condition, act first and talk afterwards. Even if you are lucky enough to have life insurance—don't force your heirs to collect any sooner than is necessary.—Industrial News.

HOW

OCEANS WERE MADE SALTY FROM EARTH'S PRODUCTS.

Some of the ingredients of the surface of the earth have been gradually, but continually, dissolved in the rain waters that have run over, and leached down through the surface. These, writes Dr. H. J. Wheeler in the Rural New-Yorker, have carried into the oceans the vast amounts of salts that have given to them their salty taste and have made them more buoyant, and easier to swim in, than waters that are fresh. Similar materials have been dissolved and carried into lakes, until they have become exceedingly salt, like the Great Salt Lake, in Utah. Searless lake, in California, and the Dead Sea have become so enriched in these salts of various kinds that they are both being drawn upon as sources of the elements, potassium, sodium, magnesium, calcium, boron and iodine, for many of their salts are of great industrial importance.

The great potash deposits of Germany, France, Spain, Russia and such as are found in the southwestern part of the United States, were all deposited as a result of the evaporation of vast quantities of water in inland lakes, or in arms of the sea to which ocean waters only gained access periodically, over long periods of time. The immensity of such possible deposits is revealed by the fact that not far from Berlin, Germany, after boring into the earth to a depth of about 300 feet, a layer of rock salt was struck through which the borers were never able to penetrate, due to breaking their drill, even though the drill went down over a mile.

How Dictaphone Takes

Place of Stenographer

A dictaphone is an adaptation of the phonograph to the needs of business correspondence or other work of a literary character, taking the place of the stenographer.

The machine carries a waxen cylinder, similar in shape to the old cylindrical phonograph records, on which it records the words of the dictator. This cylinder is afterward placed in a transcribing machine at the typist's desk, and the typist writes the letter or other matter directly from the record. After the material has been transcribed, the cylinder is placed on a shaving machine which removes the grooved surface and makes it possible to record a new series of dictations. Each cylinder will thus serve to record from 1,000 to 1,200 average letters. All mechanical movement necessary is supplied by electric motors, controlled by switches.

Why Cats Have Fits

Fits in cats are usually caused by intestinal worms. Brain or heart weaknesses may be the cause, but these attacks are usually fatal.

Why Goats' Milk Is Preferred

The curd from goats' milk in the stomach is very much finer and flakier than that of cow's milk.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

WE REALLY ran across a new idea under the sun the other day so now we're won over to the old bromide about wonders never ceasing. Quite seriously though, here is something. An ingenious manufacturer has evolved the idea of a wall paper for closets that has all the advantages of cedar at much less cost.

Here is how he's worked it out. He's made wall paper from the heart wood of Tennessee aromatic red cedar, which gives the paper the same fragrance as well as the moth repelling qualities of actual cedar lining for a closet. Naturally this paper has a dull red cedar color and he's printed it in a cedar grain design with board ends and nail heads so that when it's on your closet walls it not only smells and protects like real cedar lining, but it looks the same too.

This new closet wall paper is available in rolls, sealed in transparent wrapping, so that when you unfold it for use it is as fresh and clean as the wood itself.

We think this is the best idea we've heard of in some time for bringing a closet up to date without spending much money. It not only looks most attractive but will protect your woollens and blankets and keep all your things sweet and fragrant.

Why wouldn't it be very swell for lining the insides of drawers or covering shelves? And 'twould certainly be fine to use for covering a sturdy box and lining it so it would be the next thing to a cedar chest.

Goodness me, we're getting so many grand things offered to us over the counter these days that we'll be expecting our flowered wall paper to have natural garden fragrance next . . . not to mention buds and blooms in season!

The Practical Appeal.

"My walls have distemper," she wailed. The lady was exaggerating but nevertheless dark walls, the sort that aren't deliberately planned by a smart decorator, can present a difficult problem. Not many years ago many English type homes were built with darkish rough plaster walls. We don't think the builders had the esthetic values so much in mind as the fact that such walls are extremely practical, never showing dirt or children's finger marks. But what to do about them if the budget doesn't allow a complete change of wall-view?

But what if our furniture bought to last a lifetime does not exactly fit in a background like that? With the dark tan rough plaster, the ideal type of furniture is Jacobean—heavy, sturdy oak that dignifies the dark walls. But with a heterogeneous group of furniture, it is still possible to achieve a pleasant, warm room, even if the walls are darkly forbidding.

The rug should have brilliance. Use a bright Turkish type oriental, a modern rug or a twist weave broadloom in a warm vibrant color. Or polish the floor to shining splendor and use bright throw rugs. The sombre walls won't matter if the floor is gleaming. Windows should be treated simply, yet colorfully. Try stripes—clear greens with pale rust, bright blues with deep dubonet—in simply tailored draw-type draperies and with no glass curtains, of course. Deck your windows with gardens in groups of cacti, and succulents to reflect the hardy strength of the room are nice or pottery pots of less usual varieties of ivy.

Furniture can be pulled together with slip covers; a rough textured tweedy material in neutral-toned stripes might be the thing for the sofa, while incisive tones of the colors used in the draperies could be picked out for upholstered chairs. Season with ceramics and get as many highlights in the rooms as possible. Perhaps a huge green bottle standing in one corner will catch the light from the hall and drag it, by its heels into the room. If one or two pieces of furniture can be added try a long, low oak table in front of the fireplace or a sturdy, straight-backed Jacobean arm chair.

WHY

Some Names on Menus Do Not Mean What You Think.

Contrary to public opinion "au gratin" does not mean "with cheese!" but rather, ice, glazed or frozen. Neither does "glace" mean candied, but rather, ice glazed or frozen. Dishes which appear on menus marked "a la provencale" are not, as is said, "out of the provinces," or "country style," but are made with oil or garlic or both.

That "au gratin" business got started because so many scalloped or dishes "gratinee" are made with cheese, the grated part was originally crumbs, says a writer in the Washington Post.

"Sea Pie" (often mentioned in old stories) is not made of fish at all, but of cooked sliced meat and vegetables. If you order something "Crecy" from a menu, you'll find it's carrot-y—and like it. Grille (from which we get grilled) means "toasted" so call them "marshmallows grille" if it makes you feel high-toned! "Bisque," which we apply to practically every type of cream soup, correctly means only soup made with shell fish. Or just to confuse you, it may be a rich frozen dessert.

Here's a dinner-time piece of show-off: "Demi-tasse" does mean "half cup" all right, but the French from whom we took it never use the word for after-dinner black coffee; they say "cafe noir."

"A la Normandie" doesn't mean it came from Normandy, but calls to mind the old song about apple blossom time because such a dish should contain apples (but may also contain shrimps).

The modernists are bent on still further charming confusion. "Scallops" are not little fish when they're made with bananas, but delicious little morsels of banana crumbed and fried.

Why the Borda Gardens in Mexico Are Beautiful

The famous Borda gardens in Mexico are at Cuernavaca, Mexico's most noted holiday resort. Some historians say they were laid out in 1716 by Joseph de la Borde, who came from France and later changed his name to La Borda. Emperor Maximilian made Cuernavaca the summer capital of his court and occupied the Borda gardens as the official seat of the government. The gardens were planned to reproduce those of Versailles and French landscape gardeners were brought to Mexico to make them as perfect as possible. They abound in tropical plants such as mango trees, poinsettias, bougainvillea. The islands in one of the pools are planted with coffee, banana, and Maicillo trees. Blue morning glories add to the color of the gardens. Tiled seats, fountains, wrought iron gates, pergolas, and arcades are some of the beautiful features.

Why the Radio Stops

The reason a radio ceases to operate under a steel bridge is that the bridge being a good conductor of electric currents acts in a manner identical with a sponge, absorbing all the signals and transmitting them to the ground. An automobile radio does not connect to the ground and therefore near a steel bridge is robbed of the signals. A steel building acts in a similar manner, serving as a more or less effective shield. Radio signals are not deterred by the walls, roof, or windows of an ordinary house because this construction does not absorb and transmit the signals to the ground.

Why It Is Grapefruit

Why is a grapefruit called a grapefruit? Every child at some time in his life asks that question. The answer is that the name originated because of the grape-like clusters or bunches in which this fruit grows. It was introduced into Florida by the Spaniards early in the sixteenth century, but did not become popular until comparatively recently.

Why Moslems and Jews Clash

The wailing wall in Jerusalem is near the Mosque of Omar and it has been necessary for Jews to traverse narrow winding Arab streets to reach the wall. A new road will give easy access even by automobile. Its cost is provided by Jewish taxpayers.

Why Plants Are Called Kalmia

The genus of plants to which mountain laurel belongs is called Kalmia. It is named for Peter Kalm, Swedish scientist, who traveled in America and described many of the native plants.

Why Whales Has Blubber

Blubber keeps the whale warm and takes the place of fur or feathers.

Why Men Love Dumb Animals

Jud Tunkins says many a man is tempted to love dumb animals simply because they can't talk back.

HEADACHES MAY BE DUE TO DIET

Doctor Explains His Theory About Food Allergy.

By EDITH M. BARBER
PERHAPS the most common ailment to which mankind is subject is headache. Most persons who are subject to headaches simply resign themselves to the fact unless they occur in an acute and chronic form. It has recently been found, however, that the cause may often be due to what is known as a food allergy.

If headaches are recurrent, an analysis of the diet for the past few days is advisable. After this has been done several times, it may be found that some one food has been to blame. Elimination of this particular food may be all that is needed for headache prevention. This statement was made by Dr. W. T. Vaughan of Richmond when he discussed allergies before the American Dietetic association not long ago.

Sometimes, however, it is merely overeating which is to be blamed, especially if many rich foods have been included in the diet. When this is the case, headache is merely a symptom which the digestive system sends out as a signal that it is being overloaded. All of us sin occasionally in this respect and it is a wise precaution to eat lightly after special indulgence in food or drink. It may be wise to use only liquids for the next two or three meals. Old fashioned proverbs are likely to be based on truth. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

TESTED RECIPES

Frozen Crab-Meat Cocktail.

1 teaspoon gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
1 cup flaked crab meat
4 tablespoons ketchup
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon seasoning sauce
1/4 cup French dressing
1/2 teaspoon salt
Soak the gelatin in cold water for five minutes and dissolve over hot water. Add the other ingredients and turn into refrigerator tray to freeze two to three hours. Serve in chilled cups and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Bavarian Cream.

1 1/4 cups milk
2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons sugar
Salt
1 1/4 tablespoons granulated gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
2 egg whites
1/2 pint cream
3 tablespoons powdered sugar
3/4 teaspoon vanilla
Scald milk and add gradually to egg yolks, slightly beaten and mixed with sugar and salt. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens, then add gelatin which has been soaked in the cold water. Strain and add the egg whites, beaten until stiff. Cool and when mixture begins to thicken, fold in whipped cream, sugar and vanilla. Mold and chill. Serve with crushed fruit, cream or chocolate sauce.

Creamed Cabbage With Ham.

1 medium head cabbage
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
Nutmeg
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups milk
1 cup minced ham
Shred cabbage and boil in salted water five to eight minutes. Melt butter, stir in flour and seasonings and when well blended stir in milk. Stir over a low fire until smooth and thick. Add ham and combine with drained cabbage. Place in greased casserole and set under broiling flame for a few moments, until light brown.

Fried Clams.

1 pint clams
2 eggs
1/2 cup milk
1 1/2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
Salt, pepper
Clean clams. Drain and chop. Beat eggs until light, stir in milk alternately with the flour which has been mixed and sifted with the baking powder. Stir in clams and seasonings. Drop by spoonfuls into deep hot fat, 360 degrees Fahrenheit and cook until golden brown. Drain on soft paper and serve at once.

A New Tea Sandwich.

1/2 cupful of coconut
1/2 cupful of minced pimento
1/4 cupful of horseradish
Salt
Pepper
Mayonnaise
Put the coconut through the meat grinder and mix it with the other ingredients. Spread between slices of buttered whole-wheat bread.

HARTFORD SAUCE

(For Cold Lobster or Crab)

1/2 cupful of chili sauce
1 cupful of mayonnaise
2 teaspoonfuls, or more, of curry powder
Mix the chili sauce with the mayonnaise and beat in the curry powder, using as much as is acceptable to you. A larger rather than a smaller amount of curry powder gives the sauce its special savor for cold-fish dishes.

I Pick 'em Up

TRUE STORIES OF HITCH HIKERS
by L. ELLISEVONS

The Fire Chief

Politics and political contributions by office holders are subjects that are continually under discussion in every political campaign. It was in the heat of a hot political fight in a large city that I gave a ride to the chief of the metropolitan fire department. This small, but snappy and good-natured man had ideas of his own on this subject.

"Don't you think it is asking too much, for a man with a family to have to come across with a percentage of his salary, just because he is working for the city? The firemen are not paid high salaries, they must be on duty for long hours at a time, must buy their own uniforms and many times risk their life and limb in the performance of their duty."

"That sounds very good," replied the Chief, "but look at it another way. Most of the men have the best job they have ever held. They know their money is waiting for them every two weeks, Winter and Summer. They have the benefit of medical attendance, and can look forward to retirement on a pension. They are protected by civil service, which assures them of a permanent job as long as they behave themselves. Some of them don't seem to know how well off they are, because every month the civil service commission has to pass on Smith, who failed to report for duty because he went on a 'bust.' Jones is up for failing to give his wife enough to set the table and clothe the kids. Wilson has a habit of getting drunk on his day off and beating up the missis. There is always a waiting list for any vacancy, so a lot of men must want to be firemen."

The Chief looked thoughtful for a moment and then let loose this gem.

"When you take a man who never earned more than $3.00 a day at hard work and put him in the department at $5.00 why should he not be grateful, and come across with a campaign contribution?"

Well, the Chief had many years' experience dealing with thousands of firemen and he had his ideas.

As a small boy, I remember having a very great ambition to be a fireman. The next Christmas my parents bought among other presents a fireman's uniform for me. It was mounted on a heavy piece of cardboard, hat, coat, belt and everything. When I put it on I thought I was some pumpkins. My ambition along that line must have gotten side-tracked for I never was a fireman, but I will run to see the trucks go, and get a thrill out of the sound of siren and bell every time I hear them.

THE NEW SCRUB WOMAN

Tartan Is Usual Costume

of Children in Scotland
It is only at the Highland games that visitors will see many Scots in tartans, although the tartan is the usual costume of Scottish children and is worn even by the younger princes and sometimes the older ones of the British royal family, writes a correspondent in the Los Angeles Times.

Highland costume is made up of two parts, the plaid, a piece of cloth four to six yards long and two yards wide unfolded, one end of which is caught up over the left shoulder with a brooch or pin, and the kilt. The Sporrans, one of the most conspicuous parts of the costume, is the shield-like piece usually covered with white horse hair and black tassels which hangs in front of the kilt. It is both novel and useful, for it is in reality a large purse.

Tracing the ancestry of a Scot in Highland costume is an easy matter for one with a knowledge of tartans, for all Highlanders once belonged to clans and each clan had its own pattern for its tartan. Descendants of the old Scots determine what tartan they will wear in one of three ways: they may wear that of their mother's clan, that of their father's clan, or if they have served in a Highland regiment, that of the regiment. No Scot would think of wearing the tartan of another's clan, and in the old days the clans regarded their particular tartan so highly that they considered anyone who assumed it to be under their special protection.

How to Apply Size

In using plastic paint, unpainted plaster is usually given a coat of size if it is new and absorptive. Otherwise the plastic paint may be applied direct. Cracks and holes should be filled with plaster of paris or crack filler before the size is applied. Painted walls require no surface preparation for plastic paint unless the finish is glossy, in which case the gloss should be toned down by washing the surface with a weak solution of warm water and sal soda. Calcimine or wall paper should be removed. Wall board requires sizing.

Another effective way, providing it is done properly, says Pathfinder Magazine, is to raise the hood on the driver's side of the car and place a strip of rubber, soft wood, folded piece of cloth or folded cardboard under the back edge to stop the hood from closing down tightly. When the motor is running the fan will drive the warm air from the engine back through the resulting opening. The forward motion of the car will keep this stream of warm air playing on the windshield and keep it free from ice. Try it.

"OR ELSE—"

By VIC YARDMAN
© Associated Newspapers.
WNU Service.

"I RECKON," said old Nate Hurst, "that you two are a couple of these gangster fellers I bin hearin' so much about. You," he added, nodding toward the chubby-faced young man, "must be Boris Picato. An' you little jigger, must be Sammy, Picato's bodyguard."

The chubby-faced man grinned, but said nothing.

Sammy sneered:

"Now ain't he smart, though? What else do you know about us, gramp?"

Old Nate ran a hand through his tousled gray hair.

"You're bad-uns," he continued placidly, "I reckon right now you're hidin' out after stickin' up the Fenmore bank an' shootin' a couple o' clerks. You're awaitin' out here till things quiet down, an' while you're awaitin' you figure mebbe you can pick up a little extra change by makin' me tell where 'tis I got my gold mine an' my little pile o' dust hid away."

Sammy opened his mouth in mild astonishment.

"Well, by jingo," he began, but the chubby-faced man cut in on him.

"Shut up, Sammy!"

He turned to old Nate.

"Mister, either you're a plumb damn fool or you're plenty smart. Anyway you guessed right. We heard you struck it rich and we aim to relieve you of some of that dough. It'll make our stop in this stinking desert less irksome, more profitable."

The chubby-faced man was no longer grinning.

His right hand was thrust in the pocket of his jacket.

Sammy's hand was likewise concealed, and there wasn't any doubt in old Nate's mind what those pockets contained.

He scratched his head again and looked dubious.

It was part of his plan to look dubious and plenty dumb. Otherwise he wouldn't stand a chance.

He was thinking already that that remark the chubby-faced man had made about him being plenty smart showed that already they might be on to him, and that was bad.

After a moment, he said:

"I guess you jiggers got ways to make a feller talk. Leastwise I heard tell, an' I'm an old man an' ain't hankerin' to have my ears shot off."

He looked worried and seemed to consider.

"Tell you what I'll do, boys. I'll agree to show you the mine if you'll promise to leave me a share fer to grub-stake myself. Ain't no use in me wantin' to live 'less you do, so—"

"Sure," the chubby-faced man cut in.

He was grinning again.

"We'll leave you your share, Pop. Where's the cache?"

Old Nate nodded and squinted toward the mountains that reared their naked peaks out of the desert to the north.

Sammy and the chubby-faced man took advantage of the moment to exchange winks.

"She's over there in the mountains," Nate said.

He glanced at the shiny, black coupe in which the gangsters had overtaken him and shook his head.

"You'll have to leave that there automobile here an' follow after me an' Lop-ears," he told them. "There ain't no road."

"No road?"

The chubby-faced man looked serious, but Sammy said: "Why, hell, them mountains ain't more'n five miles away, Boris. Reckon we can walk it if this old coot can."

Nate didn't wait to hear Boris' reply, but picked up a pebble and shied it at Lop-ears.

The burro tossed its head, brayed once and then started off at a shambling gait toward the mountains.

Old Nate plodded along behind, occasionally shying a pebble at the animal.

Behind him the chubby-faced man and Sammy hesitated for a doubtful minute.

"It looks," said Boris, "as though we've either got to follow, or shoot him down for nothing. And shootin' now won't do any good at all. Come on, Sammy."

It was early morning when the strange cavalcade began its trek across the desert.

Before two hours had passed the rising sun had burned away the last trace of the previous night's coolness.

The air was like the inside of an oven, mercilessly hot.

The two men in store clothes and low-cut shoes were suffering.

They had discarded their coats and loosened their collars.

They staggered rather than walked, and their mouths were open.

No sweat poured from their faces, because the sun absorbed any excess moisture as soon as it appeared.

Their skins, pasty-looking to start with, were burned a brilliant red. Blisters were on their feet.

Every movement of face or body was agony.

Presently Sammy, lagging several feet behind the chubby-faced man, sank to his knees.

Picato turned at the sound, and then swung back toward Old Nate and his burro, now some distance ahead.

"Hey you!" he called huskily. "Come back here!"

It was the fifth time he had demanded a halt, and now he held a blue automatic in his hand, and there was threat in his eyes.

Old Nate turned with a questioning look on his tanned and wrinkled face.

He took in the tableau behind him, and came shambling back.

"Shucks," he said mildly. "The little feller looks plumb tuckered."

"We're both tuckered, you danged old chiseler!"

Boris thrust the nose of his automatic into Old Nate's stomach.

"Now get this: Either you turn up at this mine of yours within the next ten minutes, or else—"

Old Nate cackled.

"Or else—" He repeated the words to himself.

He grinned, remembering that once a city chap had explained that "or else—" meant something pretty bad in gangland.

But presently he stopped grinning and turned to look at the mountains.

They appeared to be as far away as they had back on the automobile road. Ten minutes, he reflected. Ten minutes wasn't very long, but—He looked critically at Picato, then at Sammy. The latter was babbling incoherently, asking for water.

Nate said, indicating the gun:

"You'd better put that thing away, son. It won't do you no good to shoot me. You can't find the mine yourself, an' without water you couldn't get back, so I reckon I got you about where I want yuh."

Picato snarled in as ugly a manner as he could without causing too much pain to his face.

"Listen, you shriveled up little desert rat, I'd just as soon shoot you as—"

But Old Nate was plodding back toward the burro.

His attitude was disinterested, confident.

Picato raised the automatic, and lowered it again. An oath escaped his lips.

An hour later Old Nate's attention was attracted by a shot.

He stopped and turned.

Two hundred yards behind, the chubby-faced man was on his knees in the desert sand.

As the old man watched, Picato half lifted the automatic, swayed, straightened again and then plunged forward on his face.

He moved once, half dragged himself to a sitting posture, but the hand which held the automatic was needed to brace his body.

A minute passed, and then the gangster slowly sank back, curled up on the blistering hot sand as one does who is terribly tired and has at last found a restful place to sleep.

Far, far behind another speck on the desert floor indicated the prone, almost lifeless figure of Sammy, the bodyguard.

Old Nate sighed.

"Now wouldn't yuh think," he muttered, "thet two smart jiggers like them woulda known better? Wouldn't yuh think so, though?"

He sighed again, picked up a pebble and lifted it at Lop-ears. "Git along with yuh, yuh good-fer-nothin' bag o' bones. We gotta reach them there mountains by sundown today, or else—" He chuckled, plodding contentedly along after the old burro.

Edward VIII One of Few

Kings Not on the Coins

As is customary for new rulers, Edward VIII contemplated new designs for the coins of England and her colonies.

It was planned to have the new coins ready at the time of his coronation, but his sudden abdication made these and other plans quite futile. Edward VIII is one of the few kings of England who is not portrayed on its coins, writes Stuart Mosher in Avocations.

It was thought for a time that no coins would bear even his name, but four of the colonies issued such coins, quite disregarding the happenings in England.

The first was the penny of New Guinea. It is an odd-looking piece, strongly influenced by conventional native art. The obverse shows two birds, a crown and the initials E. R. I., meaning Edward Rex imperator. The reverse shows a native Papuan god in a squatting position.

West Africa soon followed with three denominations in nickel. These pieces are very similar in design to the previous issue of George V.

Another one, and probably the last, is the nickel one penny of Fiji. It is the simplest in all designs and, like all the others, it is center-holed so that it may be carried on a string by the pocketless natives.

None of these coins are outstanding examples of art nor of important denominations. But to collectors they will remain as imperishable relics of a great romance as well as a tragedy.

In centuries to come they will tell the story as simply and clearly as coins issued 2,000 years ago reveal to us the outstanding happenings of the ancient world.

Lesson for March 6

SERVING WITH WHAT WE HAVE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 6:1-13.
GOLDEN TEXT—Such as I have give I them.—Acts 3:6.
PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Went Home to Nazareth.
JUNIOR TOPIC—On a Journey for Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—
Serving With What We Have.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—
Serving With What We Have.

One of the difficulties we mortals face in dealing with spiritual things is that we interpret things in the realm of the spirit according to the principles and measurements of the physical world. We are quick to say "We cannot" on the basis of logical human reasoning, when an appreciation of the power of God operative on our behalf would enable us to say "We can," and having left God out of our thinking we find that indeed we cannot.

The lesson before us presents two pictures from our Lord's second visit to his home country, Nazareth. On His first visit they had tried to thrust Him over the precipice, and He in all the glory and poise of the Son of God had walked through their midst and gone His way. Now He comes again with His disciples. We then see how His home folk virtually made the power of the omnipotent God impotent because of their unbelief. On the other hand we see the weakness of men made mighty because of obedience to the command of God.

I. The Paralysis of Unbelief (vv. 1-6).

The world, the flesh, and the devil have brought forth a dark list of wicked things, but perhaps the most destructive and distressing of all is the foundation sin of unbelief. When we think back to the underlying reason for any sin or weakness in man it will be found that there is a failure to believe God. Men do not believe what He says about sin and its penalty, nor do they believe Him when He offers them grace and strength for victory.

At Nazareth the unbelief which limited the Son of God revealed itself in two questions—

1. "Whence hath this man these things?" (v. 2).

They could not deny His mighty works so they turn their attack on His person. "Is not this the carpenter?" (v. 3). Essentially this was envy, "the difficulty of acknowledging the superiority over themselves of one of their own number" . . . (Morgan).

We are ashamed of the attitude of the men of Nazareth, but we follow in their footsteps. Heavy among the burdens a Christian worker must bear is the unbelief and ridicule of his own people. Because a man has sold us groceries, or painted our house or driven a taxi in our town we cannot see how he could ever be a preacher or a missionary. Well, he can, and it is such folk that God often calls.

2. "What is this wisdom?" (v. 2).

The wisdom of Jesus was the wisdom of God (John 7:16). But how could they know that? How can we know? In John 7:17 Jesus gave the answer: "If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself." We see then that the reason for their unbelief was really an unwillingness to do the will of God. The controlling motive of their life was wrong. Had they been moved by a desire to do God's will, and a purpose to live in accordance therewith (even though there might have been failure in that earnest effort), they would have known that Jesus had His wisdom from God.

II. The Power of Divine Commission (vv. 7-13).

Just as unbelief hinders even the Son of God, so faith in God and obedience to His command makes of weak and poorly equipped men the mighty servants of God. In fact, their very dependence on Him for all things sets them free to devote themselves fully to the ministry of preaching and healing.

Note that they went "two by two." We have forgotten that divine plan, and often send men into remote and dangerous pioneer work—alone. Man needs fellowship; he needs counsel and control.

Consider also how they were to learn to trust God for their daily sustenance (vv. 8,9). They suffered no lack (see Luke 22:35). These rules for the life of religious workers were modified later (Luke 22:36), but the principle remains the same—the man or woman who is not ready to depend on God for everything had better not set out to follow Him. It is a blessed and delightful life!

Resisting Interference

It is sometimes pretty hard to do something you feel is right against the interference of all the world and her little brother. Sometimes it's a good thing to say "right or wrong, that's my story, and I'm going to stick to it," no matter how many well-meaning friends may advise otherwise.—Ouse Vapel.

Popular "Irish Potato"

Traced to 15th Century

Why is it that the potato invariably is associated with Ireland? Is it native to the country; and, if not, where did it come from? These questions are discussed in the Dublin journal of the department of agriculture.

The potato is well known in most countries of the world, and yet when there is occasion to mention it in print it is commonly referred to as the "Irish potato," and in conversation on the subject the invariable tendency is to associate Ireland with it. This is probably because Ireland was the first country to make any considerable use of the potato as food.

As to origin of the tuber, the fact appears to be that it came originally from North or South America. Peru and Chile are mentioned as the source from which Ireland derived it.

The potato is known to have reached Europe in 1588, but when and how it reached Ireland is not known. The theory had long been accepted in Dublin that it was brought from Virginia by Sir Walter Raleigh and first planted in County Waterford.

Records show that the potato was grown there earlier than elsewhere, but investigators have failed to identify Raleigh with introduction of it from Virginia. They say there is no evidence that Raleigh ever was in Virginia.

From whatever source the potato was derived or by what means, there is no doubt, it is asserted, that Ireland was the first country to develop it and make use of it as food for human beings. The climate and the soil of Ireland favored production, and soon it became the staple food.

Giant Clam Is Queerest Man-Killer in the World

The giant clam, nightmare bivalve of the Australian seas, is one of the queerest man-killers in the world.

The clam is a huge hinged shell, in two parts like an oyster, and museum specimens reveal that it attains a length of anything up to eight feet. Native divers, operating on the sea floor in quest of pearl shells, have often described monsters fourteen feet long. Half the shell of a medium-sized clam, about five feet long, would make a comfortable bath for a baby, notes a correspondent in the New York Times.

The weight of an ordinary-sized shell is so great it takes two men to lift its 500 or 600 pounds. Often the shells are shipped away; they are popular with preachers who use them as ornamental holy-water basins because of their striking colors.

The giant clam does not fasten itself to coral reef or rocks, but remains, ponderous and immovable, in one of the coral pools, where it waits, hinge side down. Day and night it feeds with its great shell open, devouring the tiniest organisms in the water despite its great size.

And at the least sign of danger the clam exerts its immensely powerful muscle controlling the hinge and swirls shut. This snapping has caused the deaths of many natives and divers who have been caught by the foot and found themselves unable to wrench free.

Flying Fish Build Nests

Flying fish emulate birds not only in taking to the air; they also build nests. To be sure, their nests are no more like birds' nests than their "flight" is like the flight of birds. Nevertheless they are nests, with the eggs of flying fish in them. Dr. E. W. Guder of the American Museum of Natural History, in a report prepared for the American Naturalist, summarized all the information available about these fish-nests. They are made in clumps of floating gulfweed or sargassum, and the stringy masses of eggs are not only sheltered in the nests, but serve to tie the structure together. For a long time it had been thought that these gulfweed nests were the work of the little sargassumfish, a fantastic little "finger-finned" creature that lurks in the masses of floating seaweed.

Incunabula Defined

Incunabula are books of the cradle days of printing, books printed in the Fifteenth century. The known incunabula represent about 35,000 editions and include products of such famous early printers as Gutenberg, Jenson, Caxton and Aldus Manutius. Notable collections in the United States are in the library of congress, Pierpont Morgan library, New York; John Carter Brown library and Annmary Brown memorial, Providence, and the Huntington library at San Marino, Calif.

Arizona Crater a Wonder

Near Winslow, Ariz., the great meteor crater is an object of unflagging interest. This tremendous hole, a mile in diameter, was formed by the impact of the head of a small comet that plunged into the earth ages ago and now lies buried more than a thousand feet beneath the surface. The bottom of the crater is about 50 stories deep, and around the rim is an even hill as white as snow, that indicates the intense heat that scorched the earth all around as the flaming comet struck.

HOW

TO TELL LARGE COYOTE FROM THE COMMON WOLF.—Ask a hunter how to tell the difference between a large coyote and a small wolf and chances are he will be at a loss to name the distinguishing characteristics. The two species are so close together that even expert mammalogists are unable to differentiate the two at times. There are a few rules which may help, Adolph Stebler of the Michigan conservation department says. Here they are:

A coyote has a black mark on the top of the tail, about a third of the way from the base. The wolf's black mark on his tail is continuous with the black mark going down his spine.

A coyote has a narrow nose patch like a fox. A wolf has a wide nose patch. You need the hides side by side to discover this.

A wolf has a black line going back from the eye toward the ear. A coyote may have his also, but it occurs only occasionally.

A coyote's ear is high and pointed. In a live animal, you will be impressed by the height of the ear. A wolf's ear is short and blunt.

A coyote's muzzle comes to quite a sharp point—usually sharper than the muzzle of a wolf.

How to Shut Outside View

The national bureau of standards says that the only principle it knows of to prepare glass so that one can look out of a window, but people cannot see in is that of the "half-silvered mirror." The glass is given a light coat of silver. When viewed from outside, one sees only the reflecting surface. When viewed from the inside, the glass appears transparent.

How to Remove Shine From Goods

To remove the shine in a garment board and put a dry cloth over it. Take a second piece of cloth, wet it thoroughly and wring out. Place the damp cloth over the dry one and pass a hot iron lightly over the area covering the shiny spot. Brush with a stiff brush if the material has a nap.

How to End Thieving

There is practically no thieving in Tibet, one of the reasons being that an entire village can be fined for the theft as well as the thief himself.

How Zoo Animals Enjoy or Dislike Snow and Ice

Zoo animals are affected by winter weather in surprising ways. Monkeys, for example, greatly appreciate ice and snow and cannot resist tasting a piece of ice.

It is related that one zoo ape not only showed a complete indifference to cold, but on one occasion became so enamored of the keeper's pre-breakfast game of snowballs that he took to making snowballs himself and hurled them at the public, to the general delight.

Zoo polar bears not only detest cold, according to E. G. Boulenger in his recent book, "Zoo Cavalcade," but during the winter months are probably the dirtiest animals, for the snow shows up their sooty coats to great disadvantage. Nothing will induce them to take a bath when the temperature falls below 50 degrees; and if water bears a coat of ice, they gingerly make a circuit of their tanks with their backs toward it, trying the ice with their enormous hind feet.

In winter the elephants are oiled from head to foot. Though an elephant can become acclimatized to winter weather, its tough, non-resilient skin quickly cracks in cold weather, dirt and insects finding their way into the fissures and causing endless discomfort.

Performer—Those that are base, of course.

Preparedness

Smith entered a big London store and made his way to the gardening department. "I want three lawnmowers," he said.

The assistant stared hard at him. "Three, sir?" he echoed. "You must have a very big estate."

"Nothing of the kind," snapped Smith, grimly. "I have two neighbors."

Mysterious Siwa Just an Oasis in Libyan Desert

The inhabitants of Siwa, a mysterious oasis in the Libyan desert, whose beehive dwellings, built of mud bricks, rock salt and stone, and from which ancient temples rise, tier on tier, sometimes reaching a height of almost 200 feet, first came under Egyptian influence in 1600 B. C. The diety, Jupiter Amon, whose predictions were here revealed to the suppliant by the priests of the innermost shrine was a god of oracles. Kings and queens gladly sought his favor.

Alexander the Great, hearing that kings in Egypt were considered divine, besought the oracle at Siwa in 331 B. C. to defy him. He could then by divine right, as son of Zeus, impose his tyrannies on his subjects. With deep mystery the ceremony was carried out in the temple by the priests and Alexander was decorated with the horns of a ram, the sign of Amon the ram-headed, and was invested as a Pharaoh. He returned to Egypt stamped as the authentic son of Zeus. Cleopatra personally sought guidance from the oracle concerning the entangled affairs of her heart and state. She came to Siwa from Rome after the murder of Julius Caesar, seeking an omen of divine aid.

The temple is in ruins, but walls still reveal the bright blue pigments seen in relief work on the monuments of Egypt.

The high, honey-combed, mud-walled town of Siwa is like a fairy castle, built on two great rocks in the center of the oasis.

Instead of spreading out their town, the Siwans have built one house on top of another, and this has been kept up until they reach a dizzy height. It is quite customary for a son to build his house on the top of the house of his father.

A NEED FOR WATER

Staying at a boarding house was a young man not noted for his early rising. One morning about six o'clock he surprised the landlady by walking into the kitchen in his dressing-gown with a small medicine glass in his hand, and asked for some water. She filled the glass and he returned to his room.

Three minutes later he returned with the same glass and same request, still yawning, and five minutes later he again asked her to fill the glass.

"Whatever is the matter? Aren't you well?" asked the landlady.

The young man yawned. "I'm all right, but my—my room's on fire!"

Pain in the Stomach

By

DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

WHEN pain occurs in the stomach—stomach-ache—it is only natural to think that there is something wrong with the stomach itself—inflammation of the lining of the stomach, ulcer of the stomach, and cancer of the stomach. All three do cause pain in the stomach and this should never be forgotten, but the liver and gall bladder are more often to blame.

However, there are a number of causes for pain in the stomach, and the time the pain occurs after eating often tells just what is likely to be the cause of the trouble.

Dr. F. W. Sherman, Owensboro, in the Kentucky Medical Journal, says: "The painful diseases in the upper part of the abdomen—the region of the stomach—belong to three main groups—inflammations, ulcers, and cancer. Stomach pain is nearly always in the pit of the stomach, but occasionally it may be to the left or right."

"In inflamed conditions of the stomach the pain is likely to appear soon after eating. "Ulcer of the stomach gives pain within one or two hours after eating, while duodenal ulcer (ulcer of the duodenum or first part of the small intestine) is somewhat later (three or four hours)."

May Be Gall Bladder.

"One of the commonest causes of pain in the stomach is gall bladder disease. It is responsible for more stomach disturbance, so-called indigestion and flatulence (gas) than anything else. "Disease of the pancreas may resemble gall bladder disease in its persistence but the pain is more often at the back than at the front. "Disease of the spleen may cause pain in the stomach region but the pain is usually to the left side and lower down."

Thus there are many disorders causing pain in the stomach, besides those above mentioned, that are not due to stomach disease. Disease of the oesophagus (tube carrying food from the throat to the stomach) is noticed when food is swallowed, whereas stomach disease—ulcer—is about two hours after eating, ulcer of duodenum three or four hours after eating, and gall bladder, liver and pancreas disease, from four to five hours after eating.

Cancer of the stomach usually causes a constant pain or uneasiness and is often thought to be just chronic indigestion. These points about pain in the stomach and when they occur, should bring relief to many who have pains in the stomach.

Take Big Meal at Noon.

A factory superintendent consulted his physician regarding his weight, which was from 15 to 20 pounds above the usual ideal weight for height, age and body build. His physician, knowing that the patient disliked the idea of dieting, the counting of the calories, the daily exercise when he believed he was getting enough exercise at his work, made this suggestion:

"You are on your feet most of the day with three floors of employees under your supervision; you are thus getting plenty of exercise. However, you eat a fair-sized breakfast, a light lunch, and a big dinner at night. As far as the day's need of food is concerned you are getting the right amount and the right kinds of food. Now, instead of eating a light lunch at noon, go out at noon and eat the big meal—exactly the same foods and amounts as you eat in the evening. If you were doing hard mental work this big meal at noon would not perhaps be wise, but by eating the big meal at noon, your work of covering three floors—walking about the floors and climbing the stairs—will not only use up the big meal eaten at noon, but this work will also use up some of the fat now present on your body. Then eating the small meal at night—enough to supply the body's needs, during a quiet evening and a restful night's sleep—no more weight can go on the body. When you eat a big meal at night, sit around and read the paper, or go out for an evening of bridge with a lunch following the game, there is no possible chance for this large amount of food to be used by the body; and in your particular case fat gets stored in and on your body."

The patient followed this advice faithfully. He lost five pounds the first month, three pounds the second, two the third, and one more each month for three months; eleven pounds in all. This was done with no change in amount or kind of food eaten or no change in amount of exercise; in fact no change in his daily habits whatever except that the big meal was taken at noon instead of in the evening.

STATE COUNCIL OF HOME-MAKERS' CLUBS.

The organization of a Maryland State Council Homemakers' Clubs and the election of four officers to form an official board to head the group was the purpose of a luncheon held February 23 in Baltimore, under the auspices of the University of Maryland Extension Service and the various Homemakers' Clubs throughout the state, according to Adeline M. Hoffman, Home Demonstration Agent for Carroll County. Speakers at the luncheon included Dr. H. C. Byrd, President of the University of Maryland; Dr. Thomas B. Symons, Director of the Extension Service, and Miss Venia M. Kellar, Assistant Director of the Extension Service.

Mrs. Randall Spoerlein, of New Windsor, was elected President of the State Council. The other officers included Mrs. Atlee Armour, of North East, Vice-President; Mrs. Lee W. Warren, of Berlin, Secretary, and Mrs. Virginia D. Ward, Gaithersburg, Treasurer. The four officers will appoint district directors and chairmen of committees for the state later on.

County Homemakers' Clubs have been active in the counties of the state for a number of years and the Baltimore meeting was the result of a definite need for a state organization.

Representatives from the various counties were as follows: Allegany, Mrs. R. N. Wilson; Mrs. J. S. Macdonald, Mrs. James Phillips; Mrs. W. L. Maddocks; Anne Arundel, Mrs. Grace Harrison; Baltimore, Mrs. Margaret Rossing; Calvert, Mrs. John W. Williams, Jr.; Caroline, Mrs. Frank Ziegler; Mrs. Clifton Crouse; Carroll, Mrs. James M. Snyder; Mrs. J. Edgar Myers; Mrs. Chester Hobbs; Mrs. Randall Spoerlein; Cecil, Mrs. Atlee Armour; Mrs. William C. Henry; Dorchester, Mrs. Wallace Wheatley; Frederick, Mrs. E. Earl Remsburg; Mrs. Thomas P. Culler; Mrs. Harry L. Davis; Harford, Mrs. Donald Stubbs; Mrs. W. Earl Gosweiler; Howard, Mrs. Harvey Hill; Garrett, Mrs. Kermit Grotfelty; Montgomery, Mrs. Orville Scoville; Mrs. Virginia Ward; Prince George's, Mrs. Joseph Blandford; Queen Anne's, Mrs. Clifford Harbridge; Mrs. Algernon Carter; Talbot, Mrs. Otis Knotts; Washington, Mrs. Henry C. Foster; Mrs. Joseph A. Siebert; Mrs. Richard Seibert; Mrs. Anna E. Rohrer.

UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION BENEFITS PAID.

Baltimore, March 5—The payments of unemployment compensation benefits by the State of Maryland to persons out of work have now passed the $750,000 mark. The disbursing section of the Unemployment Compensation Board is still working under high pressure in an endeavor to catch up with the claims which are still coming in at the rate of nearly a thousand a day to which must be added many claims filed as far back as January 3rd. It is hoped that in another week or ten days payments will be brought up to date. The clamor for overdue payments is steadily abating. To date the figures assembled by Social Security Board show Maryland near the front in the percentage of benefits paid. The latest available figures put only three States ahead of Maryland.

The Unemployment Compensation Board had been sending out notices to employers who have less than eight employees, calling attention to their possible liability under the amended law. The Maryland act, as originally passed, covered employers of eight or more and those who voluntarily chose to come in under this provision, those found liable for contributions were more than 6,300. Now that the law has been amended to embrace employers of four or more, the aggregate of those liable has been brought up to 8,700. Many are still to be heard from.

It has been found that about seven per cent of the claimants have failed to give a Social Security number as required by law. No claims are paid without a Social Security number.

Why Southern States Chick Mashers are Better

- 1—Milk products are checked by new laboratory methods for flavin content (Vitamin G.)
- 2—Alfalfa meal selected on basis of Vitamin A content. Must contain at least 75,000 units of Vitamin A per pound.
- 3—55% meatcrap used to insure superior protein quality.
- 4—Manganese sulphate added to prevent occurrence of slipped tendon (perosis).
- 5—Calcium and phosphorus content of mash checked regularly.
- 6—In Chick & Broiler Mash dried-molasses-and-yeast assayed (laboratory tested) for flavin content (Vitamin G.).
- 7—Selected fresh ingredients—approved open formulas—abundance of vitamins from A to G—combine to put these chick mashers out in front in results and economy.

"OUR CHECK IS ENCLOSED"

Modern business needs the speed, accuracy, safety and time-saving convenience of checks. It would be seriously handicapped if financial transactions suddenly reverted to the outmoded method of paying with cash.

For the same reasons, you need a checking account to increase your personal efficiency and to give you more time for yourself. You've probably always wanted one... why not actually have one, by starting an account at this bank today?

Review Your Will IN THE LIGHT OF Today

You can't put your Will away and forget it these days. Too many changes are taking place in values, taxes, and laws affecting estates.

With a new year starting, we suggest that you consult your attorney about possible revisions to meet new conditions, or changes within your own family.

Consider, also, the many advantages of naming this experienced organization to act as Executor and Trustee.
