HUNTING IS A BIG BUSINESS

Condensed Report Made by State Department.

The largest amount was paid by Baltimore County $6,365; Allegany next with $4976.10, and Frederick county third with $4346.25. The total was $30,241.10 more than last year.

POLITICAL ADVERTISING.

The Carroll Record is carrying more political advertising this week than ever before in a single issue. We ask that it be given a reading, as we believe that the candidates mean what they say, and are not solely boasting their own self interests, or the interests of their party.

Unquestionably, they want the voters to come out, full force, and cast their ballots next Tuesday, and to do so voluntarily and show one of the best signs that they believe in majority rule.

ONE OR THE OTHER, IS "OFF."

In Thursday's Baltimore Sun the chairman of Herbert R. O'Connor's campaign committee stated that Mr. O'Connor would receive a majority in the state of not less than 50,000.

In the same issue, side by side with the other, Governor Nice announced that he would be re-elected by a majority anywhere between 28,000 and 48,000—quite a wide gap between low and high.

The chances that both are "guessing" for the sake of effect on voters who always want to be on the winning side.

O'Connor figures on 50,000 majority in Baltimore, while Nice concedes to have only 10,000, neither claim is supported by any individual bets. Nice also claims a majority of about 16,000 in the five western counties, Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Montgomery and Frederick.

Both claim that "rifts exist in both parties, which is likely—but which will get the most out of the 'rifts'?"

SIDE LIGHTS ON THE COMING ELECTION.

The Solution to the Big Puzzle on the way.

By another week the tears of the left-at-homes should have all been shed, and "how it happened" will be on its way to becoming an old story, and in two years we can play the game all over again.

Of course, the first interest of readers of The Carroll Record centres on who will be chosen to fill the county offices? All we can tell about it is that all of the candidates are busy circulating around, handing out cards and looking pleasant, and there has been an absence of "mud slinging" on both sides.

This can not be said of all of the candidates for state office but we will not be any more definite than that. Some of the literature being circulated is not the kind used in Sunday Schools, to say the least, and it is not credible enough to be used anywhere.

What will happen at Annapolis early in 1939 will be of vast interest, and we are then likely to get some light on how promises made now, will be fulfilled then. Sometimes our campaign promises are about like peace pacts being made in Europe—affairs of the moment, easy to find excuses for forgetting them.

Two of the proposed amendments stand out prominently—the one that would legalize lotteries, and the one that provides a referendum on the Local Option question. Both should be very carefully considered before making the X mark for "yes," or "no." If indications are worth anything it now appears as though the lottery proposal is pretty sure to be defeated.

As to the Local Option question, there is a disposition on the part of some to become angry over it, and to place blame for its appearance on the ballot. This should not be the case. Voters should mark their ballots as they desire, and let it go at that.

As long as the present law provides that whenever at a general election, more than one-third of the voters petition for the question to be submitted, only the law itself should be attacked, and not individuals, the "fors" having as much right to express their opinion as has the "agains."

In 1934 the question "shall licenses be issued for the sale of wines and distilled liquor" was voted on. It carried in a close vote by districts was as follows:

District.	For	Against
Taneytown	298	519
Uniontown	170	335
Myers	220	219
Wooley's	362	359
Freedom	356	582
Manchester	425	340
Westminster	1448	1179
Hampstead	33	486
Franklin	145	163
Middleburg	112	154
New Windsor	201	372
Union Bridge	297	223
Mt. Airy	228	339
Berrett	229	241
	4754	5502

But, right here we will review the five special questions to be voted on. They begin about midway down the third column of the ballot, and in order are presented as follows:

(1) A Constitutional Amendment that would permit the General Assembly to authorize lotteries. The vote on this should be "against."

(2) An act that would require a forty-hour wait between the issue of a marriage license and the performance of a wedding ceremony. We think an X mark should be made "for" such a law.

(3) An amendment relating to taxes. It covers numerous cases. The general purpose of this proposal seems to be worthy, and entitled to a "yes" vote.

(4) Provides for the Second Judicial Circuit. Carroll County is not interested in this, but appears to be entitled to a "for" vote.

(5) This is the Sale of Liquor Amendment. It provides for six propositions.

(1) Shall beer be sold in Carroll County in sealed packages for consumption off the premises where sold. For or against.

(2) Shall beer be sold within Carroll County for consumption at hotels and restaurants. For, or against.

(3) Shall beer be sold within Carroll County for consumption on the premises of Clubs which are not operated for profit. For, or against.

(4) Shall beer and light wine be sold within Carroll County in sealed packages for consumption on the premises. For, or against.

(5) Shall beer or light wine be sold in Carroll county for consumption on the premises, at hotels or restaurants. For or against.

(6) Shall beer and light wine be sold within Carroll county for consumption on the premises in Clubs, which are not operated for profit. Vote for or against. All of these represent matters for very careful study. As it is largely a matter for individual conscience to decide, we make no attempt to advise. The wets will vote "for," and the dries will vote "against."

There are six candidates for Governor, given in the order in which their names will appear on the ballot.

PARCEL POST 25 YEARS OLD

Has Grown to Second Place in Postal Revenues.

Parcel Post was inaugurated, by the U. S. Postoffice Department, January 1st, 1913 and the Department is fittingly celebrating the Silver Anniversary of this useful and profitable undertaking by setting aside the month of November to celebrate "Silver Jubilee of Parcel Post."

Parcel Post has leaped to second place in U. S. Postal Revenues and in number of pieces handled annually it exceeds the total mail of all classes of certain foreign countries; proof of the service it renders and the public's growing demand for this service.

Mr. Robert S. McKinney was the postmaster for Taneytown and it was he who handled the first Parcel Post package that came to and left Taneytown in 1913.

We are all familiar with the fact that it was inaugurated after persistent public demand for a transportation system for merchandise between rural areas and congested centers. It was the hope of its proponents that it would prove attractive to the agrarian population for the shipment of small farm products direct to the kitchen table. While the farmer has shown more or less indifference to its obvious advantages for the forwarding of his commodities, its early success was nevertheless assured because of its extensive patronage in the centers of industry.

Persistent demands for more and better service has resulted in raising the limits of weight and bulk; modification of rates; general expansion of facilities; new buildings; more trucks. The Postoffice Department has ever kept abreast of the needs of the time and today is equipped to handle twice the volume now mailed. While the mailings are 30 per cent greater than even five years ago, still it is incumbent to continually promote the service so that the gigantic machine may be used to full capacity.

While a Jubilee Celebration would be barren without commemorating the history, magnitude and progress of Parcel Post, no more fitting observance of the occasion could be undertaken than by carrying the story of its usefulness to all the people, to the end that Parcel Post may be patronized more extensively, thus ultimately realizing to the full measure the objectives for which it was established.

An attractive feature is the insurance by the Postal Service of parcels for a small fee. Indemnity is provided up to $200., a mailing receipt is issued and a delivery receipt obtained; senders return receipts may be had at a small additional cost, and the delivery of such mail may be restricted by the sender.

Practically every business concern can utilize C. O. D. Service to some extent. The fact that C. O. D. shipments may be sent to any Postoffice in the United States, that C. O. D. fees are comparatively low, and that the charges are promptly remitted by money orders, are excellent features.

WHEN A TIRE BLOWS OUT.

What is the best thing to do when a tire blows out?

Recent highway fatalities in which tire blow-outs were a factor raise a question as to the competency of the average driver to deal successfully with this type of emergency. The Keystone Club declares. To help the motorist avoid trouble under such circumstances the Club advises:

Don't slam on the brakes.

Don't release the clutch.

"The natural tendency of the driver when a blow-out occurs is to press hard on the brakes," said George E. Keneipp, Manager of the Club. "Driving experts agree this is the wrong thing to do. Instead, the driver should concentrate his attention on keeping the car on the road and allowing the decelerated motor to act as a brake in slowing down the vehicle."

"Quick application of the brakes may result in the car overturning. Releasing the clutch may throw the car into a skid. The big job of the driver when blow-out occurs is to steer. If he can keep the car on the road and prevent skidding he will avoid the horrors which often are the accompaniment to blow-out accidents."

It is further stated, for the benefit of drivers who never had experience with blow-outs, that a car always swerves in the direction of the blow-out; that is, if a left tire is affected, the swerve will be to the left, and vice versa. Another good thing for drivers to remember is to steer in the direction of the skid; that is, if the skid is to the left, steer that way. The car cannot be brought out of a skid by turning in the opposite direction.

GOD'S NOVEMBER.

(For the Record.)

When Gay November comes at last, Summer seems to have gone so fast; Her past long days with swelting heat,

Have slipped and fallen in defeat. We dread to see those good times go, Because we all did love them so. But when the world doth change her dress,

She blossoms out in loveliness.

For in her gay and colored clothes, From every vein her beauty flows; Like God's trees with colors fair,

Which shakes off everyone's despair. The silvery moon so near to earth, As snow proclaims the winter's birth, Soon lovely leaves from trees will part,

To still the beat of Autumn's Heart. Chicago, Ill. EDITH V. ZENT, WAGES AND PRICES MEETING OPPOSITION.

Various Business Organizations are strongly opposing both.

The wage-fixing law that was expected to meet with but little opposition is nevertheless getting plenty of it. For numerous occupations the minimum of 25 cents per hour seems small, but in many other lines this minimum would considerably increase present retail prices.

In addition to this, it is held that the enforcement law would increase the so-called "unemployed relief" and call for higher taxes on business to pay greatly more into the treasury in order that the government can in turn pay it out.

The ban on cutting advertised prices for many products, means that the shopper can no longer enjoy the savings heretofore possible; and it is held to be an unjustifiable procedure to attempt to fix prices.

The wages and hour law mainly affects southern states, it is said, where climatic conditions cause lower costs of living, and no great necessity for high prices for labor, and this is especially strong as an argument because the present wage scales represent only beginning figures, but gradually increase with succeeding years.

Alfred P. Sloan, head of the General Motors Corporation, assailed the trend toward increased government spending, as follows:

"It just can't be true that the American economy can only be sustained by consuming our national assets. Just as long as so many such circumstances exist, that you and I know about too well, it is foolish to expect a permanent prosperity."

"Sooner or later we must learn that to reduce the rich to the status of the poor is to reduce the poor to a still lower level of poverty."

"And when the day arrives—that there appears a disposition to stop the extravagant spending of public funds, to put taxation on a basis that will encourage private enterprise, to discontinue political reprisal, to relieve the national economy of the things that are essentially wrong and substitute the things that will stand scientific analysis, then there is certain to be a real forward movement in this country and a business activity based upon a real foundation—such as we have never seen before."

CAST ANNOUNCED FOR PLAY.

A three-act farce entitled, "Introducin' Susan" will be presented for the benefit of the Carroll County Children's Aid Society, next Wednesday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 9 and 12, at 8:00 P. M.

The cast is as follows: Dick Heatherby, a young college professor, Murray Roop; Susan, his wife, Ruby K. Lord; Buddy Chalmers, a football player, Edward Reid; Babs Boswell, Buddy's girl-friend, Rose Beall; Diana Mayfield, an old sweetheart of Dick's, Mary E. Shriver; Hillington Ross, an old admirer of Susan's, William E. Sell; Violet, the cook, Ruth E. Stambaugh; Cyclone, Violet's "little" brother, William Waltz; Aunt Cordelia Quackenbush, Dick's wealthy aunt, Freda Stambaugh; Jim Donovan, Susan's quick-tempered father, Walter Hahn; Mike, a hospital attendant, William Copenhaver; Ike, another attendant, Austin Davis.

The action takes place in the living room of the Heatherby home about 7:00 o'clock in the evening. It all happened this way: Dick Heatherby and his wife, Susan, quarreled over a trivial matter. She left the house, threatening to go to Reno, and causing Dick great distress for two reasons. First, because he was really fond of Susan, and second, because his Aunt, who, not only contributes materially to the upkeep of the Heatherby home, but is a well-known lecturer on the evils of divorce is coming to visit. Dick could not let Susan's absence be known.

Buddy Chalmers, one of Dick's pupils, made a deal with Dick where a Susan could be produced. A butler also was needed, so Buddy's girl friend, Babs, was pressed into service and plenty of trouble in the form of Violet, the cook, who thinks Babs is a man, and who has a weakness for butlers. When the Aunt finally showed up not one but three Susans appeared and none of them the real one! When Susan herself returned later to make up with Dick, she ran into a whole house full of Susans sweethearts, Aunt Cordelia, etc.

Dick, getting in deeper and deeper, decided the emergency called for further deception, and told Aunt Cordelia that the real Susan, who had fainted, was a "crazy woman from next door that thinks every man is her dead husband!" You never saw so many mixups on any one stage before. Every character becomes involved in the misunderstandings—Diana and Ross, Dick's and Susan's ex-sweethearts; Cyclone, Violet's prize fighting brother; the asylum attendants, who get hold of Aunt Cordelia by mistake; and the real Susan's hot-headed father—all cause a riot of laughter throughout the entire play.

But finally everything is patched up and the curtain rings down on one of the funniest farces ever written.

The City Council of Cumberland, finally rejected a $113,000 PWA grant for a hospital addition, the argument for rejecting being that the government was building up political machine. The council had earlier accepted the offer.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF PAYMENTS.

Baltimore, November 2, at the end of business on October 31 the Maryland Unemployment Compensation had paid to the unemployed the sum of $9,014,172.80.

Remaining in the Boards reserve fund in the United States Treasury and in banks to be drawn on for future benefit payment was a balance of $9,822,273.08.

Payments from week to week are now about one-half of what they were four months ago. While disputes about claims are constantly arising there have been few cases requiring a hearing on appeal. The law provides plenty of safeguards for the benefit of claimants by nearly all the cases have been settled by the claims deputies without recourse to further proceedings.

The date for payments of quarterly contributions by employers has been advanced by the Board from the last day of the month following the expiration of the calendar quarter to the twentieth day of the same month, so that of the large sum due for the quarter ending on September 30 the greater part was in hand on October 21, a postmark of the 20th, being accepted as covering the due date. Under the regulations an interest charge is added on account not paid on or before the due date.

RACE TRACK RECORD BROKEN.

40,000 persons at Pimlico, on Tuesday, saw Seabiscuit defeat War Admiral in a 1 mile and three-sixteenth race, by three lengths, in 1.56 and three-fifths, beating the record by one-fifth of a second. Seabiscuit has now won $340,000. This was the 84th race of the winner covering a period of four years—and his 32nd victory. His total earnings are given as $340,000. The purse in this race is said to have been for $15,000.

THE PRESIDENT TO SPEAK.

President Roosevelt, who has been unusually quiet during the past two months, will stage a radio broadcast, today, Friday, mainly in the interest of the New York Democratic candidates, but it may overflow into other states where the "New Dealers" seem to have doubt of victory.

He is especially desirous of helping the cause in Michigan, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Ohio and California. New York, however, is the main object of the address.

APPEAL FOR CHILD'S AID.

Dear Carroll Countians:

To those who have always responded to the Annual Financial Campaign of the Children's Aid Society of Carroll County and who have already responded this year, I wish to express my sincere thanks. I am sure you will enjoy the good things that you have a lot more because of your help to those unfortunate little ones that we are trying to help.

To those who have not contributed, may I suggest that you do so promptly, through the chairman in your district. This is a worthy work that you will be proud to be a part of.

T. K. HARRISON,
County Campaign Chairman.

Nebraska will vote on a proposition to pay old-age pensions through legalizing slot machine gambling.

It is becoming a motto—"If it pays, it is right."

Rubber bands and conscience bands operate in the same way—they stretch on being "pulled" and after long use, they are pretty sure to "bust."

Random Thoughts

THE GENEALOGY BUG.

The genealogy bug seems to have bitten a good many persons within the past few years, especially those who have little to do and plenty of money to do it with. Our office during a year receives many letters and visits from those pursuing such quests, and as a rule they take their efforts quite seriously, almost as though they were making up a record to lay claims to a fortune.

Of course, nearly all of these quests are fruitless. People come and go. Families seem to die out, and no community records are kept of such happenings.

There is a certain amount of natural interest in wanting to trace a family name through its various branches in order that a "family tree" may be completed; but many seem to act as though trying to find something of credit or fame in their ancestry, and forget that they might as easily find something they would not want to know about.

Not many families have contained only "white sheep" covering a long period, and most investigators do not find any record higher than that of just common folks, and even some "black sheep."

Usually, one has a pretty big job on hand in trying to keep one's title clear to mansions in the skies, or even to the level of average social standing. At any rate, we would hardly be entitled to any reflected glory from a way-back shining light, even if we should be so fortunate as to find one.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES.

A special committee of the U. S. Senate is engaged in trying to find out the sums spent by candidates for nomination by Primary Elections. Our office has received one of these, questionnaires as has no doubt every newspaper in the state. No doubt like forms have been sent to various facilities commonly used by candidates, the object being to check-up on statements already supplied by candidates.

This plan may, or may not, have special significance at the present time. We do not recall it has ever been heretofore used. It is no doubt justifiable, but we are wondering why this check-up is confined only to the candidates for the Senate? Candidates for other offices have used newspaper space very largely this year, and have also had heavy travelling expenses and bills for entertainment.

This questionnaire also asks—who placed the order for advertising or service, and who paid for same? The information was of course given.

Quite aside from this one investigation, it seems very important that law should pretty clearly designate how much may be justifiably spent in an election, at any time, anywhere. And there should be regulations concerning donations for the benefit of certain candidates.

Too much money, is too much, no matter who contributes it. The whole business is importantly worthwhile. We do not want to have a condition existing that makes it practically impossible for a poor man to become a candidate for office.

The ability of men in public office, and their capacity to become our law-makers, is of decidedly more value and concern than how much money they can command toward bettering their chances for election.

Campaign committees receive a great deal of money from willing and enthusiastic contributors. Perhaps some expect their generosity to be repaid at some future time, but such expenditures can hardly be charged to candidates, as the "organization" itself is expensive. However, even an "organization" might use its funds in local campaigns, where there seems the best field for spending.

On the whole, campaign expenditures is a complicated business, and as far as it is humanly possible, wealthy candidates should not, on account of their wealth be enabled to practically "buy" an election.

OLD-TIME VOTE BUYING.

In the old days some voters were bought at so much cash per vote, or for some other consideration. Voting was done from the outside of voting room, through a window. There was no "official ballot," but each party used a single slip ballot with an emblem of some sort at the head of the ballot. The Democrats commonly used Jackson and a hickory tree while the Republicans mostly used the head of Lincoln.

Votes were bought surreptitiously; and as "vest pocket" tickets were used, precautions were taken by buyers that the agreed upon prepared ticket was used by the voter. It was also reported that sometimes each party had someone among the officials on "the inside" of the voting room who could check-up on whether bought votes were delivered.

Both cash and whiskey were used in the business, as well as other promised considerations. Experts knew how to work the whiskey plan. Sometimes voters were "filled-up" the night before, and were not in condition to vote on election day. Others, were supplied with "pints" as a consideration, and a chance taken that "honor" would stand in the way of not breaking the agreements. This being the case, a number of "pints" were filled and ready for election day or the day before, or day after, depending on the bargain made.

Then as now, no liquors could be legally sold on Election Day; but temporary private supplies were kept for the use of those "in" on the secret. Sometimes it was a stable, or a back room in some building. In some cases, votes were made sure of not being cast, by "filling up" the voter so that he was unable to navigate successfully and could not vote.

There was also voting in blocs. Someone in authority would make a deal for the delivery of a specified number of votes—possibly near relatives—and only this "chief" was contracted with. It was common too, for voters expenses to be paid—perhaps from Baltimore to the polling place, and in the case of a tight contest, from a greater distance. This was considered by many as legitimate, and not in violation of law. This class of dickering was usually in charge of some one financially responsible, and he received the cash from contributions and party "Chests."

And it is perhaps an open question as to whether votes are not purchased today, through promises and jobs. There seems to be good evidence that vote buying has not been discontinued, but has merely changed its style of operating. Indeed, it is near being a "racket" so well understood as to be openly talked about, and that some of the "pay" costs come from public treasuries after having been paid in through taxation in one form or another—payments for benefits received.

PENNSYLVANIA BALLOT.

Next to the result of the election in our own State, comes the election in Pennsylvania. As one of the largest states, it first general election since that of President Roosevelt's second term it will naturally be country-wide in its interest. There is no question of doubt that both parties will put up a desperate fight. The more especially because Governor Earle, a strong admirer of the New Deal, is candidate for United States Senator.

The Democratic organization is reported to have distributed a great deal of money throughout the State during the past year is expected to result in "persuasion" for votes, while the Republicans are no doubt liberally supplied from private contributions.

Voting in Pennsylvania is much easier than in Maryland. With one X mark one may vote for all of the candidates of his party, or he has the option, something like in Maryland, to vote a mixed ticket. The ballot itself throughout is a much easier one to mark than the Maryland ballot, that is supposedly an "intelligence" test in voting it.

It is the product of the time, some twenty years ago, to make the ballot hard to vote by Negroes who at that time voted pretty solidly Republican. Since then, times have changed. Possibly as many Negroes vote Democratic as Republican, as the latter party has been catering for their vote through liberal spending for their benefit. The following is the plan in Pennsylvania for "straight" voting. There are seven parties represented on the ballot.

DEMOCRATIC
SOCIALIST
COMMUNIST
PATHFINDERS

For Governor there are six candidates, for U. S. Senator, seven, and the usual number for smaller Congress offices. On the whole, the ballot is a good job of printing—a credit to any state.

EVERY CITIZEN SHOULD VOTE.

It is not my business how you should vote. That is your business. But it is my abiding conviction that every citizen owes it to himself and his country to vote in all elections; and it is my further belief that where people (all of them) do vote, we get better government from those we elect, than we do when only a few take the time to vote.

The people are now doing a lot of talking along political lines—perhaps as much as at any time during the history of our country. If they crystallize their thoughts into their votes, no matter what the outcome, the country will be the better for it.

We deserve whatever kind of government we have, for we by our vote—or maybe by one failure to vote, get what we deserve.

So miss a meal, if necessary; miss a half day from work if you must, but vote! The destiny of the state and the nation rests in your keeping and mine, and will be determined by our VOTE.

ON THE HONOR ROLL.

Six of the twenty-three counties of Maryland had an entirely clean slate with respect to diphtheria, during the first nine months of the current year, with neither sickness nor deaths from this arch enemy of childhood, up to the end of September. Nineteen counties reported some sickness from diphtheria, but no deaths from the disease, between January 1, and September 30 of this year. The counties on this honor roll are:

Allegany, Calvert, Kent, Queen Anne's, Talbot, Worcester, Caroline, Carroll, Cecil, Charles, Frederick, Harford, Howard, Montgomery, Prince George's, Saint Mary's, Talbot, Washington, and Wicomico.

The first six on the list have had neither sickness nor deaths from the disease, so far in 1938.

There is an honor list for typhoid as well as for diphtheria. Thirteen counties have had no deaths from typhoid charged against them, so far, this year.

The quarterly reports of the State Department of Health show that 236 cases and 8 deaths from diphtheria, occurred in the State, during the nine months, ending September 30, in comparison with 303 cases and 17 deaths during the corresponding period in 1937. Of the total in 1938, 103 cases and 2 deaths were reported to the Department from Baltimore City and 133 cases and 6 deaths, from the counties. Four counties were represented in these six deaths.

There were 196 cases and 21 deaths from typhoid reported to the Department during the first nine months of this year in comparison with 259 cases and 24 deaths during the corresponding period of 1937. Of the total this year, 37 cases and 6 deaths were reported from Baltimore City; 159 cases and 15 deaths from the counties. Every county had some sickness from typhoid.

UNREMEMBERED?

"That best portion of a good man's life,—His little, nameless, unremembered acts Of kindness and of love."

So Wordsworth wrote years ago. We thought of these lines as we read in a New York paper of the policemen of Butler Station, Brooklyn. It was a brief item tucked on an inside page. "This is good for about two sticks of human interest inside," a harassed city editor must have told the cub that brought the item in.

But for John Weibel and his wife that item, we suspect, just about marks the horizon of their present world. For some days John and his wife walked the streets. The other night they wandered into the Butler police station. It was an act of despair and they expected nothing, we gathered, but warmth and rest. They found the warmth and rest—and much more. They found blue coats who, seeing their hunger and pitifulness, reached deep into their pockets and fed them. Next day several of the officers went out to help John find a job.

Perhaps these deeds were not quite "nameless" since some reporter did record them. Certainly they will not be "unremembered"—by John and his wife. And countless others, after reading about the police of Butler Station, must also have felt a little of that warmth and nourishment that comes from seeing one's fellow man in so kind a light.—Christian Science Monitor.

THE BEST SELLER.

The government, being in the printing and publishing business, too, has just surveyed its bookshelf to determine its "best seller." What the count revealed brought expressions of surprise to the faces of some government "brain busters."

Instead of finding that the reading public is clamoring for a new education from theorist authors on planned economy and such, they found a simply written little book about American industries leading the field. The expressions of pained surprise were caused by the fact that the book praises rather than condemns the American business man.

We quote one paragraph from the book:

"Alexander the Great, so it has been recorded, wept when he found there were no more worlds to conquer. But modern man knows no such limitations. The attitude today is that there is no limit to the worlds which remain to be conquered. So, a salute to our men of science, to our inventors, and to our industrialists, for under their leadership, the dreams of today will continue to become the realities of tomorrow."

Entitled "Stories of American Industries," the 10-cent book is selling, at the rate of 1,000 copies a day at the Government Printing Office in Washington. That is a best seller in the eyes of any publisher or author.—James Preston, publicist.

WAGE AND HOUR LAW.

The new Wage-Hour Law is now in operation. It guarantees a minimum of 25 cents per hour and a maximum work week of 44 hours to all persons coming under the Interstate Commerce clause of the Constitution. Washington at this date is still being deluged with requests for information concerning who is in interstate commerce and who is not. Time only can answer many questions and that will be after certain points are decided by the courts.

But the significant thing is the manifest desire of business, large and small to co-operate with Administrator Andrews. But now that the nation is trying to set a minimum pay for its workers some are suggesting and the number will grow that immigration should be stopped until all Americans are taken care of. Also, as suggested by Martin Dies, chairman of the House committee investigating Communism, Nazism, Fascism and the other Isms, it is time that people here thought only of Americanism. And Dies adds that those who advocate the overthrow of Americanism should be deported at once.—I. P. S.

To my friends, both Democrats and Republicans:

It being impossible for me to meet all of you personally, I take this means to ask you for your support in my candidacy for Judge of the Orphans' Court for Carroll County.

Westminster, Md., October 21, 1938.

To the Voters of Carroll County:

Recently I announced my candidacy for the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court for Carroll County. It will be my earnest effort to call on as many of the voters as I possibly can, consistent with the due discharge of the duties of my office.

Following the death of Mr. Mellor, I was appointed Clerk of the Circuit Court to fill the unexpired term. The manner in which I have conducted the office is well-known to most of the residents of the County, and, particularly, to those who have had business with the office, and it is needless for me to say more concerning my record, of which I am justly proud.

It is my intention, if elected, to continue to conduct the office impartially, efficiently and economically and in the interest of the people whose public servant I am.

I have never held an elective office and will be grateful for your support at the coming election.

Sincerely,

LEVI D. MAUS

To the voters of Carroll County: Why make a change in the Board of County Commissioners when the present board has paid off the debt of the County and reduced your taxes? They further pledge a substantial reduction in your taxes for 1939 and more improved hard roads!

C. RAY BARNES

Republican candidate for the Maryland House of Delegates, is one of the men responsible for the constructive type of legislation enacted for Carroll County.

A representative farmer in Franklin district, he has made a success in his chosen vocation. He understands the problems which are now confronting agriculturalists and for that reason is in a position to deal most intelligently with them in matters of legislation.

Mr. Barnes, a Carroll man whose ancestors have for generations been included among the most progressive and successful farmers in one of the garden spots of the county, favors the return of local roads to the jurisdiction where they rightly belong, the County Commissioners.

A member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, a director of the First National Bank, of Mount Airy, and a Director of the Mount Airy Building and Loan Association, C. Ray Barnes is a typical countian who understands the problems of Carroll and who can be counted upon to favor that which is for the best interest of his constituents.

In view of his excellent past record there could be no mistake made in returning him for another term.

The Fords Tell Their Plans for 1939

IF WE KNEW anything better we could do for the country than make good motor cars, we would do it.

By every one doing his best in the job he thinks most useful, this country is going to regain its momentum. We have tried to do our best in our job.

When business was suddenly halted in its recovery more than a year ago, we determined that we should keep going anyway, if not at full-volume motor car production, then at getting ready for greater motor car values that would help future production.

EXPANDING FOR THE FUTURE

We began to build 34 million dollars' worth of new plants and equipment. We felt that if we could not employ all our men building motor cars, we would employ as many as we could building better production facilities.

We were told, of course, that this was no time for expansion, that a wiser business policy would be to "hold everything"—which means, stop everything. But no one ever got anywhere standing still.

Besides, we are not defeatists. We do not believe this country has seen its best days. We believe this country is yet in the infancy of its growth. We believe that every atom of faith invested in our Country and our People will be amply justified by the future. We believe America is just beginning. Never yet have our People seen real Prosperity. Never yet have we seen adequate Production. But we shall see it! That is the assurance in which we have built.

Business is not just coming back. It will have to be brought back. That is now becoming well understood in this country; for that reason 1939 will be a co-operative year. Manufacturers, sellers and buyers will co-operate to bring back the business that is waiting to be brought back.

This construction program is almost completed. It has increased activity and payrolls in a number of related industries. It has given us better facilities for building better cars and trucks, and eventually our new tractor which is being perfected.

THIS MEANS MORE VALUE

The current program has provided a new tire plant, which will turn out a part of our tire requirements . . . a new tool and die plant that will help us cut the cost of dies . . . and a steel-press plant that will enable us to make more of our own automobile bodies. These are in addition to the plants we already had for producing glass, iron, steel, plastics, and many other things.

We don't supply all our own needs, of course, and never expect to. The Ford engine is one thing that no one's hand touches but ours. Of nearly everything else we use we build some quantity ourselves, to find, if possible, better and more economical ways of doing it. The experience and knowledge we gain are freely shared with our suppliers, and with other industries.

Henry and Edsel Ford, on the occasion of the 35th anniversary of the founding of the Ford Motor Company, June 16, 1938

We take no profit on anything we make for ourselves and sell to ourselves. Every operation, from the Ford ships which first bring iron ore to the Rouge, is figured at accurate cost. The only profit is on the finished result—the car or truck as it comes off the line. Some years, there is no profit for us. But we see to it that our customers always profit. A basic article of our business creed is that no sale is economically constructive unless it profits the buyer as much as or more than the seller.

Our new plants have helped us build more value into all our cars for 1939. That means more profit on the purchase to the purchaser.

We have not cut quality to reduce costs.

We simply will not build anything inferior.

NEW TESTING EQUIPMENT

While we were putting up new plants to produce cars, we constructed new equipment to test them. The first weather tunnel of its kind ever built for automobile research went into operation at our laboratories this year.

It makes any kind of weather to order. The weather it delivers every day would take months to find in Nature. Our cars are weather-tested to give you good service in any climate anywhere.

In other tests, every part of the car is punished unmercifully. Then our engineers tear it down to see if they can find abnormal wear or any sign of weakness.

The money we spend on tests saves you money on repairs. And your family car is safer and more dependable when we put it in your hands.

THE NEW CARS

We have two new Ford cars for 1939—better cars and better looking—but we also have an entirely new car.

It's called the Mercury 8. It fits into our line between the De Luxe Ford and the Lincoln-Zephyr. It is larger than the Ford, with 116-inch wheelbase, hydraulic brakes, and a new 95-horsepower V-type 8-cylinder engine.

We know that our 1939 cars are cars of good quality. We think they're fine values in their price classes.

With new cars, new plants, new equipment, the whole Ford organization is geared to go forward.

By Our Regular Staff of Writers

We desire correspondence to reach our office on Thursday, if at all possible. It will be necessary therefore, for most letters to be mailed on Wednesday, or by Fast Mail, sent on W. M. R. K., Thursday morning. Letters mailed on Thursday evening may not reach us in time.

All communications for this department must be signed by the author; not for publication, but as an evidence that the items contributed are legitimate and correct. Items based on mere rumor, or such as are likely to give offense, are not wanted.

FEESERSBURG.

We had bright and beautiful October days and nights for the witches and goblins to be out; and another month gone. Every hour was filled, yet it seems to have flown away, and only two months left in this year. November the time of falling leaves and fading flowers—also the season of Thanksgiving is here!

Hallowe'en—which really belongs to the church—gets more commemoration than in our earlier life; so we had parties, plays and pranks galore, but less damage done to personal property than sometimes. Of course there were masqueraders in fancy costumes. Some small ghosts tried to frighten us but we're recovered and we did enjoy the Barn Dance on Saturday evening.

On Tuesday we celebrated master Rodney Bostian's birthday with a group of small friends, gifts and good things to eat including a cake with five candles on it.

Mrs. Addie Crumbacker and daughter, Frances, with the Chas. Crumbacker family, of Clear Ridge attended a party in Baltimore, on Saturday evening, at the home of Mrs. H. McKervin; where they enjoyed the Hallowe'en decoration and favors, games, and fancy refreshments until a late—no early hour.

Master Leverage Bohn and sister, Charlotte, with Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Wolfe enjoyed a long train ride on Friday to Little Orleans beyond Hancock, interesting scenery en route, a picnic lunch, and safe return in evening.

The Jennings Frock family, moved from the Edw. Dayhoff property at Mt. Union to a home near Wiley's Mill, Keyman, last week. Five little boys and girls will be missed in S. S. at Mt. Union.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wolfe and L. K. Birely attended the Home-coming Service at St. James Lutheran church, Union Bridge, on Sunday morning and heard a fine sermon delivered by Dr. A. A. Kelly, of Gettysburg, and good music too. Rev. W. O. Bach, a former pastor assisted Rev. P. H. Williams the present pastor in the service. The walls have been renewed on the interior during the past season, and a new furnace installed, most of which has been paid for, as there was no begging. We've been told the church was well filled for the evening service, and another good sermon given by Rev. Robert Benner, of Gettysburg Seminary, we've appreciated the printed program for the day containing a pen sketch of the church done by a neighboring pastor, Rev. F. Ankrum, of Linwood. "Little deeds of Kindness"—congratulations to all.

The ingathering service at Mt. Union on Sunday evening was very good and well attended. Everybody came bringing jarred fruit and vegetables, which were placed around the chancel until it was well filled and looked fine. The C. E. lesson was dwelt upon first—F. P. Bohn, presiding, then H. B. Fogle, of Uniontown—as guest speaker; gave an inspiring review of the convention of the United Lutheran Church recently held in Baltimore—especially of the Deaconess work. Rev. Kroh delivered a good message on the theme: "For Others." Miss June Brunner at the piano played variations of "Home Sweet Home" while the Missionary offering was received. Earl Wilhide assisted the music with violin. 122 quarts of fruit was donated besides nuts, potatoes, apples, turnips, etc., to be sent to the Deaconess Mother House, Baltimore, where there is a large family to feed daily.

Frances Crumbacker with the Grider children had a good time at the holiday social in the M. P. Church, Union Bridge, on Monday evening. After a program of readings and songs, there was a potato race, a bean guess, and some Hallowe'en stunts; then ginger bread and sweet juice for refreshment. Prizes were awarded the one wearing the prettiest costume, and the funniest one, and for some of the games. Happy days.

The children will have no doubts about Santa Claus this year, for he's been around already in the guise of kind neighbors and brought us turnips tomatoes, kale, the finest onions, and armful of Autumn flowers, another good neighbor kept us in freshly cut flowers all the past season; and another responds to every call for help. Yes we are on a friendly road.

For many persons that was a genuine Radio scare on Sunday evening, rather dreadful for timid, or nervous mortals—so unnecessary, and on the Lord's Day too! What weird fancies some beings have—but why impose them on others, we sometimes get a queer notion ourselves, but do not force it upon the general public, only how there are still a few things too sacred to be turned into sport.

MANCHESTER.

There will be a special musical program at Synnersburg Sunday evening at 7:30. Visiting choirs and soloists will take part.

Dr. George W. Richards, of Lancaster Theological Seminary, was a guest of Rev. John S. Hollenbach and family, Manchester, Sunday evening. He delivered the address at the Reformation Rally, Manchester.

Leone Frock was a guest of Alice and Katherine Hollenbach, Manchester, Monday night.

LITTLESTOWN.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Reindollar, quietly celebrated their 56th. wedding anniversary on Saturday at their home on E. King St. They were the recipients of many presents and cards from the members of their family and friends. They were married on October 29, 1882, at the home of Mr. Reindollar's brother, the late Isaiah Reindollar, in Mt. Joy Township, by Rev. Asper who was the pastor of the Mt. Joy Lutheran Church. They spent their married life in the vicinity of Littlestown and Taneytown, having been engaged in farming, up until 12 years ago when they moved to town. They are the parents of six children; Mrs. Jesse Bair, R. D. 1, Clayton, Maurice, Ray, of town; Charles Hanover; Irvin, York. They have 30 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren and all living, with the exception of one great-grand-child. Mr. and Mrs. Reindollar are enjoying good health and we wish them many more happy anniversaries.

About one hundred men from the Redeemer's Reformed Church, and the Christ Reformed Church, attended the annual Men's Rally, Sunday afternoon in Trinity Reformed Church, Hanover. There was a large turnout at the Christ Reformed Church, Sunday evening, to hear the concert given by the Sunday School Orchestra of St. Bartholomew's Church. It was a fine program.

The real estate of Mary Null and the late David Null, containing about one and half acres, located in Ulrichtown, about two miles from town, improved with an eight room bungalow, was sold to Preston Crabbs for $1310.

Many Hallowe'en parties were held. Too many to give a write up.

The letter by W. J. H. and printed in this paper last week, ought to be read by all the people. It was headed "Some Isms Discussed."

I am indeed glad that this is the last week of this election. Have seen many a one but none that was as dirty, doing anything to get a vote. It is a disgrace to any State. I was always in for a "hot" election, but with respect to all men.

With all the expense that was made by putting up new signs, about speeding, and stop signs, the auto drivers must think they can do as they please, but our Policeman don't think so, and got 9 drivers for passing stop signs, and 11 for speeding in September. Auto drivers just keep it up, as we are having a lot of expense fixing up the 27 street.

The annual drive for foodstuffs for the Anna M. Warner Hospital, Gettysburg was held this week.

Abbie S. Harner, Kingside, died Tuesday morning at his home after a four weeks illness. He was aged 65 years.

He is survived by his wife, one son, two brothers and three sisters. Funeral was held Friday morning in St. John's Lutheran Church of which he was a member. Rev. A. M. Longenecker, officiated. Burial was made in Mt. Carmel cemetery.

WOODBINE.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Condon have moved from the Cunningham house into Mrs. George Chaney's apartment.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hess, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ohler, Taneytown.

Those who called on Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Baker, Sunday, were: Mr. and Mrs. George Hess, J. E. Flohr, Mr. and Mrs. William Feeser and Mr. Claudius Long, all of Taneytown.

Friendly Railroad Runs

Errands for Hill Folks

BOONE, N. C.—The mountain folk swear by "Tweetsie," a little narrow gauge railway winding along among the coves and crags on a 66-mile route between Boone, N. C., and Johnson City, Tenn.

The engineer has been on the job 35 years; the conductor, 32. They think nothing of stopping the train in front of a mile high cabin, picking up the children, and delivering them safely to the home of a relative down the track, while the conductor often shops in town for an isolated housewife or farmer. Then the train stops in front of a farm home for the specific purpose of delivering a spool of thread or a length of wire.

The little train, with its huff-puff locomotive, will stop anywhere, any time. Its whistle, ringing shrilly through the mountains, is more for greeting than warning.

The formal name of this folksy railroad is the Eastern Tennessee and Western North Carolina railway, but you could not tell the mountain people it is anything but "Tweetsie," the title they gave it 52 years ago.

Johnny—There wouldn't be any left. You know arithmetic, but you don't know sheep.—Montana Star.

(The Amendments follow in 3rd and 4th. columns.)

In order to vote the full Republican or Democratic ticket it will be necessary to make 23 X marks in the square directly following the word "Democratic", or "Republican." In voting, one need not vote for every candidate of his party.

One can vote for a Democratic U. S. Senator and a Republican Governor; or a Democratic candidate for Sheriff and a Republican candidate for Clerk of the Court. But, care must be taken not to make too many X marks. For instance, do not mark for four candidates for Judges of the Orphans' Court, when only three are to be elected.

Do not open the ballot more than necessary, and see that it is folded and handed in to the polling clerk just as it was received. If the ballot is not properly creased, do so yourself, and it will almost fold itself up without the voter trying to do it.

New voters, especially, should very carefully examine a sample ballot, or have some one explain it to him, before going into the polling booth. All voters, who have trouble with their eyesight should be especially careful.

And, use the pencil found in the polling booth, and not one of your own. An indelible pencil is required, and care should be taken to get the X wholly inside of the square.

Always make your mark in the square to the right of the candidates name and party, and do not place it by mistake in a square before the candidate's name, to the left.

If you should happen to spoil a ballot, do not try to fix it up. You are entitled to have two more ballots in case of spoilage.

Twenty-three X marks are required to vote for all of the Republican, or Democratic candidates. Ten more are required to vote on all of the amendments.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Dates: What with an escort service for lonely women visitors to New York and a more recent similar service for lonely New York male visitors, now comes an "introduction service" for young men and young women. The announcements state: "introductions so correct your grandmother would approve . . . which make your life in New York as vivid and exciting as a Disney cartoon." Applicants for membership must give references which are "tactfully but carefully" investigated. They must also submit to an interview in which their backgrounds and hobbies are learned. Character sketches and photographs are filed and those wishing company merely have to thumb through the files until a suitable candidate is found. Membership costs $3 and thereafter, a charge of a buck for each introduction. Thus a boy or a girl with only a small cash capital need no longer be lonely in the great city.

Aid: Loneliness is not the only New York enemy against which an organized campaign is being waged. A new institution is designed to minimize the handicaps of bachelorhood. For a fee, buttons will be sewed on, socks mended and other chores usually performed by wives, mothers and sisters will be done. Not only that but apartments will be looked after, beds made, clothes sent out to be pressed and if desired, arrangements made for parties. Withal bachelors may have many of the benefits of matrimony without being called on to make explanations when they come home showing the effects of foolish water or if they happen to stay out extra late.

City Life: On Fiftieth street, near Sixth avenue, a dancing Negro . . . His clothing covered with ribbons and artificial flowers . . . Safety pins stuck in his bare feet . . . As he shuffles about, he accompanies himself on a more or less musical instrument fashioned from a tin can . . . His reward, an occasional penny . . . A self-absorbed sailor walking along Forty-eighth street playing a tune on a toy piccolo . . . At Times square and Forty-fifth street, a young man hurrying to the assistance of a drunk who isn't doing a good job of escorting a blind man across the street . . . On Forty-second street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, bootblacks grabbing their chairs and shine boxes at sight of a cop, running into a subway entrance to hide and emerging and resuming business when the coast is clear.

Dark: The object of most sun-starved New Yorkers, especially feminine ones, is to acquire as much tan as possible during the summer months. Early in the season, boiled lobster complexions are common because of a Sunday at Coney. But as the Sundays pass, with perhaps two weeks' vacation up in the Catskills or down at the shore, the little stenographer achieves the shade of an aborigine, the cost of suntan oil and various sunburn soothing ointments merely being regarded as overhead. In the past, I was diverted by tracing suntan patterns on the bodies of chorus girls when they resumed work in the fall. Such pastime is impossible now. They wear more on the stage than they do on the beaches.

Sights: These old eyes have become more or less accustomed to the various spectacles witnessed daily on the streets of New York. But the other afternoon while strolling along Park avenue and wishing that paragraphs would write themselves, I stopped and rubbed my eyes. Advancing toward me was an exceedingly fine lady, glittering with precious stones and clinking with gold circlets on wrists and ankles while in her hand was a pink ribbon. At the end of the ribbon was a pompous goose wearing a gold collar and gold anklets. By the time I had recovered enough to ask questions, the lady and the goose were gone.

Luck: When a man bought some smokes in a Times square cigar store, the clerk shoved back a $10 bill he offered. Said Uncle Sam hadn't made it. So the customer, heaving a sigh, shoved the counterfeit into his coat pocket, produced another bill, paid, and went out. On Forty-second street, a young man bumped into him, apologized and was gone. So was the bum bill. And the man is wondering what the pickpocket will do with it.

Missionaries in Liberia

Make Long Jungle Treks
WASHINGTON.—In the performance of their duties, American missionaries in Liberia travel hundreds of miles each year through the steaming jungles in hammocks borne by natives, according to the Right Reverend Leopold Krull, Protestant Episcopal bishop to the African republic.

For six months of the year the bishop and his assistants explore the jungle or travel up and down 450 miles of coastline in the bishop's launch, seeking to convert the natives. In the other six months, Bishop Krull said, torrential rains make missionary work impossible except along a small strip of coast.

ONE ON THE BOSS

The boss was passing through the packing room when he saw a boy leaning against a box, cheerfully whistling.

"What is your salary?" he barked at the boy.

"Ten dollars a week, sir," was the reply.

"Here's two weeks' pay. In other words, you're fired!"

Later, says Stray Stories Magazine, he met the foreman and asked him when they had hired that boy.

"Why, we never had him working here," was the astonishing answer. "He came over with an order from another firm."

Village Takes Historic

Tree as Name of Place

PITTSBURGH—An oak tree that now exists only in the pages of the nation's colonial history has given its name to the Pittsburgh district's new community.

Charter Oak, a settlement in Scott township, has been named after the rugged landmark that once helped settle an argument between the domain of Pennsylvania and Virginia.

After the French and Indian war, when a community at the junction of the Allegheny, Monongahela and Ohio rivers grew to mark the site of present-day Pittsburgh, Virginia claimed the town. Pennsylvania argued that the village was within the grant given to William Penn by Charles II, more than a hundred years before.

For the first time, colonists discovered that nobody had taken the trouble to define the limits of Penn's grant.

As surveyors marked the line between the land claimed by Pennsylvania and Virginia, they blazed the large black oak with an ax. A few years ago, the tree, dead and weather-beaten, still showed traces of the blaze. Since then the storms have destroyed the natural marker.

Recently, when residents of the Heidelberg - Glendale - Carnegie-Greentree area decided to organize a new community, they remembered the tree that helped give lasting outline to the tri-state area. Charter Oak now is a modern community.

SHARPS AND FLATS

"You never see that flaxy musician with any small change."

"No; he thinks it wouldn't do for him to produce anything but the big notes."

Son Put One Over

"I wish you'd help me with this problem, Dad," said a small boy struggling with his homework.

"Can't, Son," said Dad from behind his paper; "it wouldn't be right."

"I don't suppose it would," said the boy, "but you might have tried."

Shelter Belt Aids Quail

MANGUM, OKLA.—A 50 per cent increase in quail in this area can be attributed, believes Sam Byars, federal nurseryman, to the government's "shelter belt" program of tree planting. Quail are massing in the tree strips, Byars said.

Curing Phil

By RAY SAPERSTEIN
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate,
WNU Service.

IT WAS snowing hard when Mr. and Mrs. Culver and their daughter Anna saw the machine approaching and went on the porch to meet their guests. But the greetings were scarcely over before it became apparent that something was wrong. Phil Marley was pale and thin, while the face of Edna Marley, nee Culver, wore a harassed and anxious expression.

"What's wrong, darling?" asked Mrs. Culver, a few minutes later. It was the first time she had seen her daughter since her marriage.

"It's Phil, mother. He's been sick for a long time, and he won't take any medicine, or see a doctor, or anything. And I'm worried to death."

Anna, who had been listening to her sister's tale of woe, went to the medicine chest, and returned with a spoon and an awe-inspiring bottle containing a greenish liquid.

"This is the best cough medicine in the world," said she. "A single dose will relieve him."

Phil Marley eyed her with suspicion, and sat up with a jerk as she brought the spoon near. "Is that for me?" he demanded.

"For no one else. Drink it like a man, and not like a foolish child. It will make you well."

It didn't make Phil well at all, for the simple reason that he pushed the spoon away, and the health-giving liquid made a dark stain on the rug.

"I'm going upstairs for some rest," he declared, grimly. "If there's a thing like that to be found in this house."

Edna began to cry. She hadn't thought Phil's illness serious, but if other people did — "What — what shall I do?" she asked, quite overcome.

"Telephone Doctor Strong."

"But he doesn't want a doctor."

"Telephone, anyway, and when the doctor comes it will be too late for Phil to object."

Edna hesitated, knowing her husband's temper when crossed. However, for his own good — she gave a reluctant consent, but her conscience troubled her so much that when it was nearly time for the doctor to come she ascended the stairs to her husband's room, sat down beside him, and said: "Phil, dear, I hope you won't mind our sending for the doctor."

He jumped up like a jack-in-the-
box. "You — you sent for the doctor?"

"Yes. You have such a cough, and —"

He tumbled out of bed and began fumbling for his clothes. He found his bathrobe and slippers, muttering, as he put them on, "So you think I'm crazy, do you? A fine wife I've got — a wife who conspires with others to make an idiot of her husband. But you're not going to —"

The clang of the doorbell downstairs shut off further speech. Clad in his slippers, a bathrobe and a silk hat, which, in his excitement, he put on without thinking, he rushed down the back stairs just as the doctor climbed the flight of steps in front.

No patient greeted Doctor Strong. Instead, he found a pretty young woman wringing her hands and weeping.

"Where's the sick man?" he demanded.

"Somewhere downstairs, I guess."

But a search of the house failed to reveal him. Doctor Strong went about his business, leaving a distracted family behind. Where could Phil have gone — in a bathrobe and slippers and a silk hat? After another fruitless search Edna came to the unhappy conclusion that her husband had jumped into the river a few miles away.

Night came, and Mr. Culver went downstairs to replenish the furnace — and discovered his son-in-law stretched on a couple of blankets before its genial glow.

"Well!" said the old gentleman, emphatically, after staring a few seconds to make sure it was indeed the missing man.

Phil Marley opened his eyes, looked around, sheepishly, and said, "It was nice and warm here, and I knew nobody would bother me. The heat from the furnace seemed to warm me clear through, and I feel a whole lot better."

Mr. Culver repressed the retort on his tongue, and said, mildly, "Well, if you feel better, perhaps you'll go upstairs and convince Edna that you're not drowned. We were thinking of dragging the river for you tomorrow."

"I'll go right up. I guess I've been pretty cranky, but I won't be — any more."

Lafayette's Citizens of Maryland

In gratitude for Lafayette's military service in the Revolution, the Maryland general assembly in 1794 passed a law providing that he and his male heirs forever should be citizens of Maryland.

NICE CONFIDENT AS HE CARRIES FIGHT TO CITY

Attacks O'Connor On Impossible Promises.

Governor Harry W. Nice completed his tour of the counties on Monday and returned to Baltimore, where he is nightly being greeted by great throngs of voters anxious to meet him, encourage him and hear the true story of his four years' stewardship.

The Governor and his friends are confident that he will be re-elected by an overwhelming majority. His receptions in the counties proved to him that he will come to Baltimore with a huge majority and the city leaders point out that he will smother under his opponent within the confines of Baltimore.

Governor Nice directed his fire against Herbert R. O'Connor on the grounds that the candidate is making promises that he cannot fulfill and is endeavoring to set himself up as "All things to all sections of the State of Maryland."

He said:

"He pledges economy, and solemnly announces that he will cut $750,000 from the State expenditures, but he cannot be made to tell us from what departments he will make this enormous deduction. That is a general statement made by him, but when he goes into Western Maryland, he proposes to buy up the entire county of Garrett, and make a great State park.

Where's the Money?

"But from where does he expect to get the money? That would cost millions of dollars, deprive people of their homes, increase the State tax rate, and further burden the people of Maryland. In other words, he proposes to save $750,000 and expend millions.

"He goes to the Eastern Shore, and tells the good folks there that he will build a straight dual highway from Elkton to Ocean City. From where does he expect to get the money? That will cost millions, so that a saving of $750,000 is swallowed up in an expenditure of millions.

"He welcomes the Negro and urges him to rest his weary head upon Abraham's bosom, telling him that he is entitled to transportation of his children to and from school and that such transportation is now only furnished by nine counties.

Deep End Jump

"Here he went off the deep end. Twenty-two out of the twenty-three counties already furnish that transportation. He tells the oystermen that he will plant shells and seed oysters and transplant oysters to places where they will have a better chance to grow, all of which he knows we have been doing for four years and which has resulted in more than doubling the yield from the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries, a yield that is now greater than the demand.

"He says that he is opposed to leasing. This I have opposed for the last four years and have during the last four years prevented any enlargement of the leasing law. Is it not possible for Mr. O'Connor to say something original? Why continue to repeat the Sunpapers and use my platform?"

"He tells the crabbars that he will effect a compact with Virginia to protect the Maryland crab. Bless his soul! That compact has already been effected, and was in force before he announced his candidacy for Governor. I effected that compact.

Where Is O'Connor?

"He tells us that he is for a graduated income tax, but the tax amendment has not, as yet, been passed. Last year he was for a cigarette tax, a real estate tax and a sales tax. This year he is for neither, but strong for the income tax, which has not, as yet, passed. Will he go back to his first love or approve lotteries?"

"He simulates great resentment and anger at my suggestion that he and his friends badly treated Mayor Howard W. Jackson. It is not what I said that disturbs him. It is his conscience, for he knows that he and his friends unwarrantedly and viciously made an attack upon the character and personal integrity of Mayor Howard W. Jackson, and having done so, feel that all that is necessary now is for them to issue words of praise of His Honor, and say: 'Let bygones be bygones.'

Mayor Not Deceived

"But the Mayor and his friends will not be deceived by this rather insu-ferable fawning at the feet of him whom Mr. O'Connor's political machine attempted to destroy. Down in Dorchester county there were elected to the Democratic State Central Committee three Jackson and two O'Connor men. The O'Connor men are today freely predicting that, in the event of Mr. O'Connor's election, two will become a majority of five.

"This tells the story more eloquently than any words of mine. If the losers the Greeks bearing gifts but, unfortunately, opens the door of the wooden horse before the animal has been gotten inside of Troy.

Choice of Two

Mrs. X—I do wonder what sort of hats will be worn this fall.

Mr. X—Don't wonder, darling. There are only two sorts—the sort I can't afford to buy you, and the sort you wouldn't be found dead in.

Yes, Mostly!

Sally (at night, by the seashore)—Does the moon affect the tide?

Bob—No! Only the untied!

Vote For Judge Linwood L. Clark On His Record.

Judge Clark's record on the Bench has been so universally approved by the citizens of Anne Arundel County that the most active supporters of his opponent dare not openly question it. Such an attempt would be resented at once by the whole public. He is to have the unsolicited endorsement of the entire Republican Bar of the Circuit and a substantial number of leading members of the Democratic Bar. Although the Bar in this County is 5 to 1 Democratic, there has been no Bar Association endorsement against Judge Clark.

During Judge Clark's three and one-half years on the Bench he has disposed of 3062 cases, besides hundreds of Orders in tax and other proceedings. Many of these cases were settled out of Court and a few were removed, but the bulk of them were tried and disposed of in open Court. In addition, scores of Equity decrees had to be supported by written opinions.

The fairness and soundness of Judge Clark's decisions is shown in the following figures: Out of this great number of cases heard or disposed of by him, as shown above, only a few appeals were taken, 12 in Equity, 6 in Law, 4 Criminal and 3 Divorces; and 14 of these have been affirmed by the Court of Appeals. This is an excellent record for the first three and one-half years of any Judge handling this volume of cases.

It is repeatedly reported in the news columns of the Evening Capital and Maryland Gazette, the editorial policy of which is influenced by Judge Clark's opponent, that Judge Clark has not the written endorsement of a single member of the Bar. What amazing ignorance! Judge Clark would be justly condemned if he personally attempted such a thing.

Judge Clark, as a matter of principle, has not asked the lawyers to declare themselves for or against him, in writing or otherwise. To thus put the Attorneys practicing before the Judge on the spot, would be unfair to the Attorneys, and unethical. Judge Clark would be justly condemned if he personally attempted such a thing.

The "SITTING JUDGE PRINCIPLE" is gaining universal non-partisan support. Both political parties in Maryland have adopted it. You are being urged, regardless of partisanship to elect SITTING JUDGES that have made good.

WHEN THE COURT IS IN SAFE HANDS—WHY CHANGE?

Published by authority of the Clark Judicial Election Committee. (Voluntary and non-partisan citizens Committee.) F. B. Heckrotte, Treas.

Tornado Blows Marriage Certificate 37 Miles

BLOOMINGTON, ILL.—When the tornado which whipped across central Illinois March 30 struck the Dent Bell farm near Deer Creek, it carried away everything—house, barn, corncrib, and furnishings. Listed among the missing articles was the marriage certificate of Mr. and Mrs. Bell. It had been kept in a bookcase in the home. Six months later they learned that Harold Yunge, who lives near Benson, had found the certificate on a field 37 miles away.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

The Democratic Party and its candidates in Carroll County advocates:

1. A new general re-assessment of all real estate and personal property in Carroll County to the end that the burden of taxation may rest upon our citizens as evenly, as lightly and as equally as possible.

2. Reduction of the cost of the county government to such an extent, consistent with the welfare and best interests of the County and its people, that our taxes may be reduced not only in election years but in other years as well.

3. The utmost effort to secure for Carroll County, to be devoted exclusively to road purposes, its full equitable share of the gasoline tax funds so that our County roads may be returned to the jurisdiction of the County Commissioners without increasing the tax rate in this County. No diversion whatsoever of the gasoline tax from road purposes, so that the State of Maryland and Carroll County in particular may have more hard roads at less cost to the taxpayers.

4. Fair wages, increased employment and improved conditions for our WORKERS, a better and larger return to the FARMER for the products of his labor, and a higher standard of living for all the people of Carroll County.

5. Full and earnest co-operation with the duly constituted School Authorities so that Carroll County may have a School System and schools second to none in this State.

6. The building and improving of roads in those places in Carroll County where they will give the best service and the most benefit to the greater number of our people; a better road system not only in election years but also in all other years; non-political treatment and solution of the road problems of Carroll County, for the best interests of all the citizens of the County.

7. In general, the type of sound economical and efficient administration of the governmental affairs of Carroll County to which by tradition and heritage it is so richly entitled, to the end that the farm and the market place may be more happily and conveniently brought together and there may be more real prosperity and joy of living for all our people.

8. Faithful devotion to the doctrine of local self-government and to the principle that "a public office is a public trust."

Lesson for November 6

HONORING OUR PARENTS

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:12; Luke 2:46-52; John 19:26, 27; Ephesians 6:1-4.
GOLDEN TEXT—Honor thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.—Exodus 20:12.

The splendid obedience of parents to their children has been pointed out as one of the remarkable developments of modern life. No, we have not made a mistake in writing or in typesetting. We mean just what we say—the obedience of parents to their children. In all too many homes God's order has been reversed and instead of honoring and obeying their parents, children (both young and old) have taken the place of "boss," and mother and father must obey if they want peace and rest.

The need for our lesson of today is both great and acute. The future happiness of hundreds of thousands of children (Eph. 6:3) and the present welfare of thousands of neglected and boss-ridden parents will depend on the intelligence and faithfulness with which this lesson is taught in our churches, and the honesty of heart with which men and women study and receive its truth.

I. The Command of God (Exod. 20:12).

The first and most important consideration to come before us is—what is the mind and will of the Maker of us all regarding this matter of the relation between parents and children? His words are plain—we are to "honor" our fathers and our mothers.

The word "honor" carries with it a great many things, but perhaps the three outstanding elements are respect, obedience, and affection. We should look up to them with high regard, obey them as long as they have the authority over us, and show true affection for them.

II. The Example of Jesus (Luke 2:46-52).

The fact that Jesus was God manifest in the flesh only enhances the glory of His conduct. He who is divine presents an example of obedience and consideration both as boy and man which we do well to emulate.

1. As a boy (Luke 2:46-52). The boy Jesus, increasing "in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man," (v. 52) had come to His twelfth year and with His parents had gone up to Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover. There moved in His heart the conviction that He must now be about His Father's business—an altogether proper and commendable purpose but one which resulted for the moment in separation from His parents. This was far more serious than a physical separation, for we read that they did not understand Him (v. 50). Tragic indeed are the consequences of our failure to understand our children. Notice, however, that Jesus did not withdraw Himself from their watch care, nor refuse to obey them even though they failed to understand Him. Equally tragic are the results of hasty and bitter separations brought about by the disobedience of children.

2. As a man (John 19:26, 27). The value of our lesson will be greatly reduced if we see only the responsibility of children while they are young. We are the children of our parents as long as we and they live. Being grown up and having a family of one's own does not relieve one of the precious responsibility of care for one's parents. Jesus was dying on the cross, His brethren apparently still regarded Him in unbelief, and His mother now needed a son to care for her. Even in His dying agony Jesus remembers to commit her to the care of His beloved disciple, John. One marvels at the carelessness and hardness of heart that will permit men and women who have time and money for everything else and yet will neglect their aged parents and even shunt them off into a public institution for care. Notice the promise that accompanies the command of God (Exod. 20:12; Eph. 6:3). If that is the reward of those who do right, what do you think will be the punishment of those who disobey God?

III. The Admonition of Paul (Eph. 6:1-4).

This matter of honoring and obeying parents "is right," says Paul. It is the Lord's way. Only if parents command their children to do wickedness would there be ground for disobedience to parents. Apart from such circumstances every parent has the right to expect the child's obedience.

There is tremendously important truth on the other side of the picture. Parents are not to provoke their children to anger, to disrespect or disobedience. How much we need God's grace at that point. It is so easy to say and do things that needlessly irritate our children. It is so convenient to nag at a careless child. Often we expect more of them than their age will justify. We are apt to punish them in a spirit of anger or revenge and thus to destroy the value of discipline. May God help us, who are parents, that we may take to heart this part of our lesson. Our children are our most valuable possession.

Plans Radio-Telephone

Stations for Hudson Bay

MOOSEHAWK, ONT.—A chain of radio-telephone stations is to be set up along the bleak coast of Hudson Bay by Father Schulte, German "Flying Priest of the Arctic."

The new stations, which will be paid from the proceeds of lectures given by Father Schulte in Canada and the United States, will be at Fort Albany, Attawapiskat, East Main, Fort George, Churchill and Igloo Inlet.

The "flying priest" serves 1,500,000 square miles in the Arctic and sub-Arctic, and the stations will aid him considerably in his work.

Even the Stork Travels

By Auto in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS.—The stork travels by motor in New Orleans. Tomorrow, a private hospital, has two stork cars to take maternity care to mothers who would not otherwise be able to afford it.

When a family notifies the child welfare department that the stork is expected, a nurse with a well-stocked medical kit goes to the home. She calls the hospital if more help is necessary and a stork car speeds to the scene.

Girl's Pet Skunk Puts on Its Best Airs for Public

CORUNNA, MICH.—Delia Muzzy, 18 years old, has a pet skunk that follows her or her brother Lester wherever they go.

The skunk, named "Stinky," was captured when its mother was killed six weeks ago. It has been fed from a bottle and coddled so much that it behaves like a kitten.

At first when the little black animal with white stripes down its back was seen following Delia and her brother down the street, they were given a wide berth by everyone. But "Stinky" behaved himself so well that children now have no fear of him.

But when a strange dog comes too close, "Stinky" gives a vivid demonstration of the reason for his name.

Shallow Trays in a Shed Farmed in Electric Show

CARDIFF, WALES.—A Welshman peep into the future of farming was afforded visitors to the Royal agricultural show here in a display of electrical machinery which some day may turn farming into an arm-chair industry.

Laboratory wizards have perfected electrical gadgets which do almost everything but eliminate the hen in egg laying and poultry raising. And in a low-roofed shed the same magical force grows enough food for 10 milk cows—which increases their yield continuously.

One of the features of the show was an "all-electric farm," staged by the British Electrical Development association.

The miracle of the food-growing shed is accomplished by tiers of shallow trays over which are spread grains of corn or any other cereal, although corn has been found to respond better than the others. Electric heat applied to the trays acts so quickly and efficiently that 10 inches of growth can be brought about in 8 days.

Just the Man

"May I ask your profession?" said one of the older residents of the boarding house.
"Sculptor," said the newcomer.
"Good!" exclaimed the other. "You're just the man we want. Would you mind carving this roast of beef?" — Whitewright (Texas) Sun.
