COMMUNITY LOCALS

This column is not for use in advertising any money-making program, fair, supper, party or sale. It is intended for news, personals, and such matters as may be of community interest.

Churches, Lodges, Societies, Schools, etc. are requested to use our Special Notice Department for money-making events. Churches are especially given free use of our Church Notice Column, for brief notices concerning regular or special services. Larger events are cared for elsewhere in our columns.

Mrs. Roy Garner and son, Fred, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Zepp, Washington.

Mrs. Edith Mish, of Washington, D. C., spent several days with Mrs. Margaret Stott and Miss Anna Galt.

Miss Betty Fonte, of Baltimore, is spending some time with Mr. Ernest Hyser and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lambert.

Mrs. Emma Cramer, of Walkersville, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Newcomer several days this week.

Mrs. Norman Reindollar is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Baumgardner and family, in Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Anders and son, Leo, of Baltimore, are spending a week with Mrs. Anders parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Hemler.

The Fire Company was called out on Sunday morning about 10 o'clock to a fire field at Stewart King's. The damage done was slight.

Mrs. I. M. Fridinger and Miss Dorothea Fridinger, of Oakland, Md., and William Fridinger, of Cumberland, Md., visited friends in town this week.

Taneytown's two bands have been getting Saturday night calls from Littlestown. First, the Junior Band, and this Saturday night the I. O. O. F. Band.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reindollar, Mr. and Mrs. William Gardiner, sons, William, Marlin and John, of Baltimore, called on Mr. and Mrs. Norman Reindollar, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Shreeve, daughter, Frances and son, Billy, of Cleveland, Ohio, have returned home after spending a week with the former's mother and sister, Mrs. Grace Shreeve and Miss Margaret Shreeve.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Fair, son James, and Mr. and Mrs. M. Ross Fair, spent Sunday afternoon, with Mrs. Charles W. Hess, near Hillsboro, Virginia, and also called on Mr. and Mrs. John D. Belt, Westminster, in the evening.

The assessors commenced work in Taneytown District, in the section that adjoins the Pennsylvania line, no doubt intending to work south and west, and first complete the sections lying between the Littlestown and Emmitsburg roads.

Mrs. Guy Ourand, of Washington, D. C., is the guest of Mrs. Mary Crapster and Mrs. Maurice Waltersdorf at "Lone Oak" cottage near Starmer's Dam. She will also visit her brothers John O. Crapster and B. Walter Crapster, in town.

This week, more well dressed young men than usual called at our office for help toward getting a "cup of coffee and a sandwich." Evidently, they considered themselves "unemployed" but did not ask where they might get work. Maybe they were strikers from WPA Camp.

Mr. Richard Hugh Bready and Miss Margaret Pearl, both of Washington, D. C., were united in marriage on Friday, July 14, at 2:00 P. M., at Taneytown, by Rev. Guy P. Bready, pastor of Grace Reformed Church. After the ceremony, the bridal couple left for a trip to Ohio and Michigan.

A considerable number of the Masonic Fraternity of Taneytown, and their family members, visited the "Bonnie Blink" Masonic Home, Baltimore county, last Sunday, and attended a chapel service. This is an annual event that precedes the corn husking "bee" on the farm connected with the Home.

The Carroll Record has been following Miss Ethel Sauerhammer, one of the members of a quartet leaving Taneytown for California Exposition, the copies having been addressed "General Delivery" San Francisco. A post card received from her this week says "We have been enjoying The Carroll Record. Home doesn't seem so far away."

Mrs. Helen Valentine, Emmitsburg, Mrs. Harry Ohler, Taneytown; Miss Ruth Stambaugh and Miss Freda Stambaugh, near Taneytown, left on Thursday for Miamisburg, Ohio, where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Ohler. They will also visit in the home of Ray Wood and Clarence Ohler. They expect to be gone about a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Arnold entertained a number of invited guests at "Elleside" their summer cottage at Bear Branch, on Monday evening, in honor of their daughter, Miss Mary Angela 11th, birthday. The table was tastefully decorated in green and pink with a birthday cake containing eleven pink candles, with other refreshments. Those present were Mary Angela Arnold, Maud Myers, Betty Hess, Virginia Null, Josephine Hess, Helen Arnold, Julia Arnold, John Myers, George V. Arnold, Joseph Arnold and George Bernard Arnold.

OUR DETROIT CORRESPONDENT

Supplies Record Readers with an Interesting Letter.

The half of 1939 is in the past, and in thinking back over it, I find that only one letter to the Record has been written by me. So now, I will try and send you another, but really do not know how interesting it will be. For after the severe illness of past winter and Spring, I find that it takes more of an effort to produce anything worthwhile reading, than it formerly did. But if your readers will bear with me, I will do the best I can to tell a little part of what is happening out here.

I suppose the most important thing to the working men of Detroit, is always the industrial condition. Well, just now it is not so good from several standpoints.

First, this is the time for changing models in all the automobile shops. After those turned out the past years it is hard for one, not in the secret, to ever imagine what changes will be made. But so it has been from year to year in the past, ever since the first successful auto was turned out. I heard one man say some time ago, that every year some new thing was added, that made it difficult for the owner of a car to repair some little defect, thus making more work for the repair garage. Maybe this was said in fun, but sometimes it looks like it is the truth.

One thing is sure, a large number of gadgets have been added, since the first machines were turned out, and the designs of the bodies have been made more attractive—so much so that a person wonders what will be the next thing that will be put on the car to make it sell better, and get ahead of the other fellow.

Well, we won't have to wait very much longer, for we are told that the men will be called back much sooner than in former years, two weeks instead of two months. If this is so, it will take a big load off of the non-Employment Insurance officer in spite of the fact that the time that elapses between the date the men are laid off and that on which they are called back to work, has been lowered by the last Legislature, from three weeks to two, before any one can draw such insurance. So this looks as if the manufacturers are preparing for a better year than last, which is good news for all of Detroit, as it is a fact, that when the auto shops go good, all Detroit does.

The bad side of the business outlook, is the big number of strikes that seem to be always breaking out. The largest, if not the longest, we have had the past year, was the Briggs strike, which it was said, affected over 70,000 workers, for a number of weeks. And the sad part of it is that the situation is about the same as before. Each faction of the Labor Unions, blames the other for the failure. And that strike was hardly settled, when another broke out in the General Motors Corporation, this time among the tool and die workers and other skilled men.

We heard from pretty credible sources that the main demand this time is to have the Union Label affixed to every part of the manufacture, if made by the main factory or part shops, thus obligating the manufacturers to endorse a closed shop, which is strongly opposed by them. It sure is a long journey from the time a man could get a job without one of John Lewis's subordinates saying so.

These two strikes are the biggest ones we have heard of, but there are dozens of others going on all the time, and from Detroit being one of the most peaceful places to work in, as it was in the past, it is now the most uncertain.

Even the Welfare people, WPA workers, started to strike but when they were told all welfare help would be stopped to strikers, they all went back to work. It certainly did look ridiculous for persons who were given work primarily to help them live, to go on a strike because they had to work 130 hours a month instead of 100 hours. I just want to say that many factory workers, would be glad to get such wages, as, while the rate is usually good the time put in is sometimes low in hours; thus causing a small play check.

We have been having some very hot weather, but just now it is very cool and pleasant. I suppose the weather is the same all over the country, but we notice that tourists to the Northern Peninsula of Michigan have run into frost and very cool nights, making it rather unpleasant. Personally, we hope it will remain cool as we can stand it better than when it is so stifling hot, for then the humidity of the air is such that a great deal of suffering is caused.

In a letter from the Editor, he said he was getting tired of writing obituary notices for old friends. Well, we are sorry to have read them. In the past few weeks, three such friends have passed away, all of which we knew particularly well in the days gone by. Samuel Bishop, Samuel Little and Charles Reaver were all good friends and citizens and they will be surely missed. Their families have our sympathy in their losses.

With the consent of the Editor, I intend to write a letter about the old Taneytown Band, in the near future, so will bring this to a close. (O. K. let it come.—Ed.)

Meeker—Tell me, Jimmie, do you ever peep through the keyhole when your sister and I are sitting here on the davenport alone?

Jimmie—Sometimes, when mother or sister Jane aren't looking.

Do not do as others do, unless others do the right. Imitating others, is something to be seriously considered.

BOARD OF EDUCATION MONTHLY MEETING.

Many items of important business are transacted.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education of Carroll County was called to order in the office of the Board on July 5, 1939, at 9:30 o'clock. All the members were present. Dr. E. C. Bixler, named to succeed Dr. T. H. Legg, was in attendance. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The bills were approved and ordered paid.

The appointments of the following teachers were approved: Kathryn Foltz, Westminster High, French and Latin; Hayden Lewis, elementary; Helen Costley, Union Bridge colored; James Hite, Robert Moton High.

The Board accepted with regret the resignations of the following: Carey K. Sentsz, Westminster High; Alfred Hack, Hampstead High.

The coal bids were submitted and orders were placed with Carroll Co. dealers on the basis of price, type and quality of coal.

The following school buildings were sold at public auction at 11:00 o'clock. Sykesville colored, purchased by Miss Elizabeth M. Hepper, $100.00; Priestland, purchased by The Gospel Spreading Association, $136.00; Hobson Grove, purchased by Otis B. Devilbiss, $730.00.

The following bus contracts were awarded by the Board: Springville-Deep Run route, contractor, Basil Wisner; Snydersburg, Shiloh, Hampstead route, contractor, Carroll C. Graham; Stony Ridge route contractor, Edward Arrington; Smallwood-Finkburg, Westminster route, contractor, Roland Pool.

The Board approved the closing of the Stony Ridge school and these children being transported to Sykesville.

The list of bus contractors was approved as submitted by the superintendent.

The Board declared the scholarship to Blue Ridge College open and the superintendent was authorized to hold an examination on Wednesday, July 19, to fill this vacancy.

Mr. Hyson recommended that the Board of Education continue to sponsor the WPA Recreation Project in Carroll County. This entails no direct outlay by the Board.

The Board accepted the resignation of Boby Gibson as janitor at the Mechanicsville school and the position was given to Ralph Hill.

The summary of the budget for the year 1939-40 is as follows:

General Control, $11,880.00; Instructional Service, $319,698.00; Operation, $24,700.00; Maintenance, $6,878.00; Auxiliary Agencies, $85,450.00; Fixed Charges, $5,350.00; Payments to Adjoining Counties, $400.00; Total Current Expense, $454,356.00; Capital Outlay, $5,800.00; Debt Service, $40,000.00; Grand Total, $500,156.00.

The request of the Woman's Club, of Sykesville to use two class rooms of the Sykesville school one day a week from 9:00 to 11:00 o'clock was approved.

The Board gave the superintendent permission to purchase science equipment, manual arts supplies, etc., for the various schools at the best prices submitted.

The salary schedule for colored teachers was approved and is to be established as set up.

The Board requested Mr. Hyson to write a letter of appreciation to Dr. T. H. Legg, former president, for the services rendered while a member of the Board.

The meeting was adjourned at 3:00 o'clock.

NEW FIRE TRUCK FOR TANEYTOWN.

The local Fire Company received, on Tuesday of this week a new fire truck, that will replace one of the older trucks, leaving two that are up-to-date. The following descriptions are given of the new truck.

Mack 500 gallon, triple combination pumper, equipped with Aluminum ladders, 125 horse-power motor, built by Mack Manufacturing Corporation, Allentown, Pa. Price $6900.00.

The truck was driven here by Mr. A. Newton Christman, of Zionsville, Pa., an Engineer of the Mack Manufacturing Corporation. Mr. Christman made all the factory tests on this truck and will stay in Taneytown until Monday evening, July 24th.

A public demonstration will be held in Taneytown, this Friday, July 21, at 6:30 P. M. The truck will be formally dedicated in September, on a date to be announced later.

The Taneytown Fire Company is to be highly commended on its activities throughout each year, and in its efforts toward maintaining a first-class equipment. In fact, its usefulness and activity covers a wide area in every direction, which makes it much more than a local service to the town.

HESS-BUSHEY REUNION.

The Hess-Bushey families will hold their 15th annual reunion at South Mountain Fair Ground Park, near Arendtsville, Pa., on Wednesday, July 26, 1939. The officers are: President, Harry Bushey, Mt. Airy; Vice-Pres., Wilbert Hess, Taneytown; Secretary, Ella Mae Hess Slagle, Woodbine; Treasurer, Elmer S. Hess, Taneytown; Statistician, Mrs. Effie Hess Belt, Westminster.

Josh Billings wrote: "It's better not to know so much, than to know so many things that 'ain't so."

ANOTHER CENTENNIALITE

Gives Interesting Recollections of a Notable Event.

Our friend Gorsuch, of The Times, also attended the Centennial in Philadelphia in 1876, and in The Times of July 7 quoted liberally from the experiences of the Editor of The Record, following it with some of his own recollections that now also come back to us. We meant to publish the article from The Times, in our last issue, but somehow, so doing, was side-tracked. We do this now, as there are surely others who have recollections of the centennial and we invite them into this field of history.

"We have only a vague recollection of our visit to the Centennial, but Mr. Englar's articles brought back to memory the trip and some of the things that as a boy interested and impressed us.

First the attractive grounds in beautiful Fairmount Park, and we doubt if any of many World's Expositions held since have had as an attractive setting. The Main Building, Machinery Hall, Art Gallery, Horticultural and other buildings were wonderful to a country or even a city boy. The great Corliss Engine in Machinery Hall that furnished power for all the machinery and beside it a little model of the big engine, not larger than a 25-cent tin toy engine was running and said to be an exact and working model, were of special interest and we spent some time at the convention of Volunteer Firemen of the State last week at Ocean City.

Speaking before a crowded session of the Convention, Mr. Gontrum outlined his plan to cooperate with the Volunteer Firemen of Maryland in carrying out the provisions of the law. He reviewed the law, setting forth the powers of the Insurance Commissioner to make and promulgate uniform regulations for the keeping, storage, use, manufacture, sale, handling, transportation or other disposition of highly flammable materials, and to prescribe the materials and construction of receptacles and buildings to be used for any of the said purposes.

GOV. O'CONNOR VISITS GOLDEN GATE EXPOSITION.

Annapolis, July 18.—Governor Herbert R. O'Connor will be back at his desk in the State House by the end of this week, after a three-weeks' vacation trip, which included a quick journey to San Francisco, by way of Los Angeles, for the annual convention of the Interstate Commission on Crime and the American Bar Association, followed by a more leisurely journey homeward by way of British Columbia and the Canadian Rockies. With Mrs. O'Connor and an accompanying party, he left Annapolis on Sunday, July 2nd.

California "went Maryland" in a big way for Governor O'Connor's visit to the Golden Gate International Exposition. The day was designated "Maryland Day" and the Governor was accorded full Military Honors, from the moment his foot touched the soil of Treasure Island. A Guard and Escort of Honor, furnished by the Treasure Island Company and Band of the 30th United States Infantry, was on hand to greet the Governor's party, and as they left their automobiles, a roaring nineteen-gun salute was fired by the Exposition Company of the Thirtieth Infantry.

Governor O'Connor then was greeted by Colonel Rapp Bush, representing Major General Albert J. Bowley, commander of the Ninth Corps area, and with him inspected the troops. The party then was conducted to the Federal Building, to be welcomed officially to the Exposition by United States Commissioner George Creel. Later, at luncheon in the California Building, the Governor and his party were guests of the Exposition officials, the California State Commission and the city of San Francisco. The afternoon was spent in visiting the various buildings and exhibits of the Fair.

COOPERATIVE MEETING TO BE HELD IN TANEYTOWN.

The annual Southern States Patrons' Meeting for the Taneytown community will be held at the I. O. O. F. Hall, Taneytown, Thursday evening, July 27, 1939, at 8:00 P. M., according to G. L. Leitze, Woodlawn, Maryland District Manager of Southern States Cooperative.

One of the highlights of the meeting will be presentation of a movie—"Southern States news reel in technicolor." A discussion, "What Farmers expect of their Cooperative and its Value of them," will be lead by Mr. Frank Alexander. The annual report will be given by a representative of Southern States and contests with prizes and refreshments will follow the meeting.

Those cooperating with the local Board of Southern States as Chairman of patron committees in planning the meeting are Walter Hiltbricker, Harry Welk, Wesley Shoemaker, John Harner, R. T. Harner and Clarence Derr.

Plans have been made to present the most interesting, instructive and entertaining patrons' meeting ever held in the Taneytown area, declared Wilbert Hess who will preside over the meeting. All farmers of this community their wives and children are invited and a large attendance is expected.

This meeting is one of the 250 being held by the organization's 100,000 patron members this season, according to L. E. Raper, Director Membership Relations, Southern States Cooperative, Richmond, Virginia.

A STATE-WIDE FIRE CONTROL SYSTEM.

Will be enforced by State Insurance Commissioner.

Plans for a concerted State-wide movement towards the abatement of fire hazards, and for an educational campaign to reduce fire losses and deaths from accidental burns, are now definitely under way, following the appearance of State Insurance Commissioner John B. Gontrum before each day watching the huge and miniature engines, in operation.

Another attraction in Machinery Hall was an innocent looking machine, but when passing in front of it there was a blast of air that blew off men's hats and made the women grab their skirts to keep them from blowing up above their ankles and it took some wind to blow the heavy skirts and petticoats worn in 1876. In 1939 would not require a strong blast to blow the zephyr skirts, but would cause no alarm unless above the knee or waist line.

An attraction that was popular with us was a steam railroad with small open cars that carried you all around the grounds for a nickel. There were many stations, you paid the fare to the gate keeper and boarded the train. There was no tab as to station you started from and instead of one round trip could make two or more for the one nickel and confess with shame we did not always get off when reached station started from and got more ride than paid for which was not an honest thing for a good little boy to do.

Have a hazy recollection of the statuary and pictures in the Art Gallery, which was still standing the last time visited Fairmount Park 20 or more years ago, and recall the large tropical plants and beautiful flowers in the Horticultural building and also our visit to Independence Hall, Carpenters Hall, where the first American Congress met, the Mint and Girard College.

Unlike Mr. Englar did not travel alone, but there were five in our party, father, Andrew Haines, a neighbor, two cousins, Charles E. and H. Price Goodwin.

Believe we stopped at a hotel on Vine street, perhaps the same one Mr. Englar speaks of. At the exposition would separate and have a certain place and hour to meet.

It was a great experience and while have attended, with one or two exceptions, all the World Fairs held in the United States since 1876 that were larger and more elaborate, none have given us the lasting joy and thrills of the Centennial in 1876.

RODKEY REUNION.

The 10th annual reunion of the Rodkey clan was held, Sunday, at Pine-Ran camp, with an attendance of 80 relatives and friends. There was a Sunday School and Church session in the morning with Rev. A. W. Garvin in charge. A basket lunch was enjoyed at noon. Vice-President E. R. Bowers presided at the afternoon program.

The program opened with the singing of "I Need Jesus" with Mrs. Denton Wantz as the pianist. Several guitar selections by David Warehime, duet by Ruth and Edna Rodkey accompanied by Miss Mary Rodkey; piano solo, Elizabeth Caylor; Musical selection by Mrs. Wm. Keefer, Mary Elizabeth Leppo and Alice Logue; Guitar selections, by David Warehime; piano solo by Truth Rodkey; Address by Rev. A. W. Garvin and Rev. M. S. Reifsnnyder; Prizes were awarded to youngest present, Robert Garvin; oldest lady, Mrs. Annie Wantz; oldest man, Cyrus Leppo; coming farthest distance, Mrs. Cora Hoff, Hagerstown.

The election of officers were as follows: President, Ira A. Rodkey; Vice-Pres., Earl Bowers; Secretary, Mrs. Alice Morelock; Treasurer, Raymond Rodkey; Historian, Mrs. Harry Fowler; Assistant, Mrs. Cora Hoff. The minutes were read by Miss Edna Rodkey. The program closed with a musical selection by Mrs. Keefer, Mrs. Elizabeth Leppo and Alice Logue.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Alvin R. Dell and Gladys L. Zile, Westminster, Md.

Melvin Raublich and Luella Dix, Millers, Md.

Samuel Warde and Ida M. Mack, Baltimore, Md.

Dale E. Walker and Ruth Wisner, Upperoo, Md.

Richard A. Bready and Margaret E. Pearl, Washington, D. C.

Lester Leader and Thelma Stine, Logansville, Pa.

Earl E. Myers and Mildred A. Frazier, Jacobus, Pa.

C. Richard Baker and Dorothy M. Walker, East Berlin, Pa.

FAMILY ACCOUNTING.

Mrs. Jones talked her husband, a bookkeeper and accountant, into staying home with the children on Saturday afternoon so she could go down town.

When she returned from town in the evening her husband handed her a paper on which she read the following: Noses blown—4 times; shoes tied—3 times per child; ice cream cones purchased—2 per child at 5c each; children told not to cross street—21 times; children crossed street—21 times. Number of Saturday afternoons I will take care of children again—0.—Ford's Almanac.

LITTLE SALT IN WATER

Good for Exhaustion in very Hot Weather.

Here is a bit of hot weather advice from Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health: "On these hot muggy days", he said, "when you perspire a lot and begin to feel exhausted, drop a pinch of table salt into a glass of cool water—cool, not ice-cold, and drink it slowly. You can repeat this as often as you please. It is a reliable pick-up against heat exhaustion.

"There is good scientific basis for the use of salt—ordinary table salt—both as a corrective and preventive of heat exhaustion. When we perspire profusely—as we usually do in intense heat—the system loses a great deal of salt. The salt solution helps to replace it.

"Physiologists have always known that excessive perspiration drains the system of some of the salt that is so necessary to comfort and well-being. The dizziness, prostration, muscular cramps, and other systemic disturbances associated with heat exhaustion, frequently suffered by workers employed in industries under conditions of intense heat, have long been matters of concern to employers and health authorities. The brilliant idea occurred to somebody to try the salt-solution as a first aid measure in some of these cases of heat prostration. It worked. And the next step was to put it into regular use as a preventive.

"Industries in which the salt is supplied, and used as a matter of routine, report a marked decrease in the cases of heat prostration among their employees. The remedy is so simple that it can be readily used in any threatened case of heat exhaustion. The amount of salt in the tablets would just about cover the tip of a spoon—literally just a pinch. Try it, the next time we strike a heat wave."

NOW IS THE TIME TO:

Plant turnips.
Requeen bees.
Set out rhubarb.
Make trench silo.
Repair feed bunk.
Build a septic tank.
Install chutes in granary.
Molt and recondition hens.
Sow cover crop in the orchard.
Tea leaves over cauliflower heads.
Clean up all pieces of boards with nails in.

Put concrete curb and platform on the well.
Start Oriental poppies; stake marigold plants.
Ask the wife if she has her jelly ready to take to the fair.
Put the old stove silo in shape—not just before filling, but now.
Plant quick-maturing sweet corn and snap beans for fall use.—Farm Journal.

COUNTIES PAYING FEWER UNEMPLOYMENT CLAIMS.

Baltimore, July 18.—Figures compiled by the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board for June show that the counties have been making a better comparative showing than Baltimore City.

The number of claims filed for unemployment benefits has been dropping slowly, with Baltimore City claimants going up to 71.28 per cent of the total as compared with 61.78 percent in May.

The total number of claims filed in June was $5,969, while the figure for May was 7,517. Of these there were 2,547 original claims in June, compared with 2,852 in May.

From Jan. 1 last to the end of June the aggregate of claims filed in the State was 651,940, the originals being 26,060.

The latter figure, however, does not include 25,178 who filed for a second benefit year. These are classed as "new" claims, but not originals. Baltimore claims in June were 61,287; in May, 60,245.

Do not envy those who make money through means that are not worthy. Self-respect is at low ebb with some.

So walk that you will not jump, when somebody unexpectedly taps you on the back.

"It's the man who stops learning, whether he is 20 or 80, who is really old."—Henry Ford.

Random Thoughts

NOT UNDEBATABLE.
The most of us are too "set in our ways" and opinions. We should have strong convictions—especially on questions of morality, and when there is a clear line of distinction between right and wrong, and should differentiate between habits, good and bad.

But there is such a condition as being too extreme in the belief that we are always right, especially as "circumstances alter cases."

On the whole, we are apt to do as much good by our life and acts as by our preaching, for the average person has but little influence outside of his own community.

Dictatorship is as dangerous when exercised around our homes, as it is the bigger affairs of government. So, these thoughts of ours—as they appear week after week—are meant to be of the "random" class, and not always undebatably sound.

ENGLAND WANTS HIGHER BIRTH RATE.

The necessities of war strength is claiming the attention of England and France and statistics have been gathered showing that England is considerably behind Germany and Italy in this respect, and that necessarily, armed power rests on greater man power in numbers.

The figures show something like this. England is given an increase in population in 1938, of an increase of less than 190,000 over that of 1937. Italy, with about the same population total, showed a surplus of 376,447; and Germany's increase was 482,000, in a population less than double that of Britain.

An increase of 19 for each 1000 population is considered necessary, but the increase in Britain, or England was but a fraction over 14. Already "baby bonuses" have been tried, chiefly along the line of small pensions that act as a credit to taxpayers.

The fall in birth rate was distinctly in evidence in the years following the late war, when families felt the need of trying to help make up for the losses incident to the war.

Both Germany and Italy have laws which give to young married couples certain reduced taxes for each child born. In Germany, large families of seven or more, are exempt from almost all direct taxation.

All Italian government employees are compelled to be married by the age of 28 to 31 years—depending on the class of work they do—before they can be promoted.

Whether there is any distinction between boy and girl babies, our information does not say; nor is any information given concerning illegitimate children, who also add to population.

This is one side of the question. Evidently, the country with the greatest male population can place the greatest armies in the field, in case of war, land or sea.

But, it is just as evident that over-populated countries have the greatest need for more territory, and are the more apt to go to war to get it. Over-population is therefore a menace to peace, and presents the greatest need for higher taxation.

Simply encouraging marriage and births, in order that the increase may supply young men to shoot others, and to be shot at, is not to be considered a main object of Nations, except on the ground that following the habit of big fish eating the little ones is the handiest and most proper thing to do; but the cold blooded fish tribe is among the very lowest in the scale of created things.

Fostering the increase in child-birth may also encourage illegitimate birth; certainly not a trend to be encouraged among the most civilized Nations, for any cause or purpose whatever.

"YOU CAN'T STRIKE AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT."

President Roosevelt's first public statement concerning the W. P. A. (Works Progress Administration) strike for the replacement of the cut recently made in wages for members in W. P. A. Camps, was "You can't strike against the Government"—meaning, of course, that all wages fixed by the government are definitely exempted, and not to be considered on the same basis of wages fixed by non-government controlled industries.

At the same time, a high official of the American Federation of Labor said—"Any member of the House of Representatives who is not definitely known to be in favor of legislation restoring the prevailing rate of pay before the end of the current session obviously need cherish no fond hopes of winning another term." Labor will reward its friends and punish its enemies and no legislator will be classed as a friend who is unable to show that he voted with labor."

Another expression—this time from an official of the U. S. Legal Department—"There ought to be a strike against the United States. There is no person nor agency that has the power to compel a worker to labor at a job against his will as an American citizen, for whatever reason may refuse to work for his employer at any time."

The President's use of the word "strike," no doubt meant such strikes as are commonly known to be connected with wages or working conditions. But, there are plenty of persons who strike when they disagree. The use of the word may stand for hostility, or for absolute lack of confidence.

We "strike" verbally when we become antagonistic; when we vote, nay—even when we oppose party platforms and policies, or attempt to repeal laws.

In fact, the outlook is for a flock of strikers within the next twelve months, within the shadow of the 1940 election, which does not look to us now as likely to be a two candidate affair, or a two-party contest. And the President's—"You can't strike against the Government," expression may be repeated many times and with many a variation of purpose, far away from the present W. P. A. question and his "can't" is likely to be connected with many a "can" demonstration.

SAVE US FROM THE "SURGERY" OF HOMES.

The "style" in what is called "modern" Architecture, is to tear away porches, reduce the number of windows, and to cut down near-by large shade trees and replace them with small ornamental cone, umbrella shaped and round closely cropped evergreens.

The result—in our opinion—is the sacrifice of comfort for a glaring bareness, the representation of modern art, and an appearance of sternness rather than of comfortable home life.

Large porches are special objects for destruction, replaced only by a broad step or two, letting the fierce sunlight or storm have a better chance to get in their work the more surely, make homes colder in the winter and hotter in the summer.

Besides, the modern home must have an "Oddness" about it. If it can be made look as though built during the revolutionary war, so much the better. It must look ancient to be modern.

And yet, when the modernists go away for a summer vacation, they invariably select the big tree places, the wide verandas, shade trees instead of ornamental stunted specimens.

CONGRESSIONAL SANITY.

The action of Congress at the close of the fiscal year on June 30, is heartening. The founding fathers intended that this government should have three coordinating branches—the legislative to make the laws, the judicial to interpret them, and the Executive to enforce them.

With the surrender of its functions in 1933 the Congress became a mere rubber stamp, and the Executive thru distribution of large appropriations made the Congress purchase the fealty of some, and forced it from others, until we had become in fact, if not in name, a dictatorship, or at least an oligarchy—in which a few "brat stormers" directed our destiny.

The President became supreme, and used his power, and the taxpayers money ruthlessly to carry out his aims.

The present Congress seems to possess a number of men who take their job seriously, and these few seem to be the outstanding members of Congress.

The President, without doubt, has had good intentions but they have been misdirected, and largely because the President has lacked, before attaining the high office, either training or experience in business, hence knew, and knows nothing of business men's problems.

In his zeal to help the "forgotten men," he has caused the pendulum to swing to the opposite and has pulled down more self-respecting self-sustaining thrifty saving souls than he has built up. And by his philosophy of "hand outs" to the needy, while at the same time he has abused business, he has made it impossible to do business under the capitalistic system, hence business contraction, employment shrinkage and a tumbling of the National income to at least 20 billion dollars below the 1929 level.

In the conduct of National affairs the President and his advisers have not seemed to realize that it is poor policy to burn down the chicken house merely to get rid of the lice.

We are glad to see the Congressmen show they have minds and backbone. W. J. H.

ILLINOIS PASSES STATE SUPERVISED LOTTERY.

The Legislature of Illinois has put its stamp of approval on a law which is intended to create a state supervised lottery. The bill sponsored in the House of Rep. by Carmen Vacco (Democrat, Chicago) and Roland V. Libonati, attorney and former member of the House, passed that body by 89 votes and the Senate by a vote of 27 to 11. Strange and as anomalous as it must appear to those who know the degrading effect of the lottery, the law is to aid in raising funds for Chicago slum clearance.

According to a press statement, one of the sponsors in support of the measure said, "Washington built the National Capitol with a lottery, Lincoln paid the Civil War debt with a national lottery and Harvard was saved four times by lotteries. We can clear Chicago slums with a lottery."

As one reads the first two assertions he must wonder if a member in either of the two Houses of the Illinois Legislature rose in defense of the truth. As to the third, it is true that Harvard was saved on two or three occasions by the use of the lottery. Yes, Harvard was "saved" but what of the victims of the lottery? The lottery was so corrupting of morals and decency that it has been outlawed in every state in the Union. Did the sponsors say anything about that?

If Henry Horner, Governor of Illinois, signs the bill, that state will be the first to break through the moral judgment of many years against this form of gambling under government control, a judgment based upon practical experience with the lottery.

According to reports, the legislature of Massachusetts has proposed a referendum on a state conducted lottery on the grounds that the state is hard pressed to find tax sources to balance its huge biennial budget.

The fear is that the people, ignorant of the debauching effect of the lottery when it once thrived in that state, may succumb to the appeals of the lottery advocates just as they did for pari-mutuel race track betting a few years ago. If these two great rich states fall for the lottery as a source of revenue, in the face of its historically degrading influences on the people, other states will likely follow suit until the nation may be engrossed in the maddest folly of over 100 years. There will be no more pathetic figure in the world than Uncle Sam.—Scottish Rite Service.

NEUTRALITY.

Washington, D. C., July—The word "Neutrality" has different meanings for different people and defining it is a puzzle like the old quip: "Constantinople is a very hard word and you can't spell it."

Neutrality, according to the dictionary is a quality of "being neutral."

The main trouble with American neutrality is that there is nothing very neutral about it. The existing neutrality law is based on an embargo and it prohibits the President from issuing any proclamation that shall permit "the shipment of arms, ammunition, and implements of war directly or indirectly to belligerent countries."

The President asked to have this authority removed but the House of Representatives declined by a narrow vote to do away with the embargo. The Senate refused to change the embargo restrictions, despite the insistence of the President and the Secretary of State.

Besides, the President wants Congress to grant him extraordinary broad powers that would make it possible for him to exercise his own judgment in naming aggressor nations in case of an European war, and to furnish cooperation, munitions, credit and other aid and assistance to the "democracies." Inasmuch as the United States is partial to England and France it might be expected that the President would side with them and close the gates against Germany and Italy.

That kind of neutrality is objectionable to many sound thinking Senators and citizens, but it is defended very vigorously by the ardent New Dealers, who seem to believe that the President should be trusted not to make any mistakes. The opposite view was expressed by Senator Johnson, California, who said that he was unwilling to be a party to grant any such authority to any President, no matter who he might be.

When the Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 12 to 11 to postpone consideration of neutrality legislation until the next session of Congress the issue flamed into wide-open conflict between the White House and Capitol Hill. Undoubtedly they all think they are right in this common desire to "keep us out of war."—J. T. Jones in N. I. News Service.

EXPRESSING THEIR OWN VIEWS.

Probably not in these exact words—but certainly at least on three occasions, The New Citizen has tried to make itself clear on the articles signed by various columnists.

Whether you like or dislike the article—the views or wishes of The New Citizen are not considered.

In the past several weeks, one article in particular has won universal praise and one universal condemnation. The New Citizen lays no claim to credit for the one article or the responsibility for the other.

When an article appears in this paper under the signature of any writer, that article does not express the views of this paper. True, we may agree—but then again, the views expressed may be opposing the principles of this publication.

But whether the paper agrees or not—makes no difference. These men write articles for The New Citizen and in many instances the only recompense received is the knowledge of knowing that whatever they write, will be printed.

If the reading public would only realize and recognize the fact that a writer of a column is free to express his own viewpoint and the paper cannot change the article, unless to correct an error in English or spelling, they would then know that everyone cannot agree with everything everyone writes.

Probably the column you condemn this week—you will praise next, but the paper must publish both. Even newspapers are criticized by these writers, but the article must be printed.—Frederick New Citizen.

MIND OVER MATTER.

Oh foolish man, why lose thy head? Why pile upon thyself more dread? Why let the little things of life Mount up to an eternal strife?

What if thy plans go all askew? What if dire terror creeps in view? Canst thou not then if so inclined Keep out such ruin from thy mind?

Do you not know while thus you stew That you but in your poison brew, That you can on your features paint Image of demon or of saint?

Do you not know your features show The things you are—the things you do That if thoughts are of high degree And pure, you always will be free?

Then banish all thoughts from the mind That are to any one unkind; Then you will image as you go, That you're a friend and not a foe.

What is this thing we call the mind? Can any one its features know? Has it a substance of a kind Envisioned to us here below?

Three billion cells, each one complete Make up the body that I own And as these cells their power evate Mind, matter, energy, is out-thrown

This energy, men call it thought, But what it is man cannot tell; 'Tis out from his internals brought, Forth into light, and there to dwell.

Can any one tell what it is That makes the world spin round the Sun? And all the planets in their turn Go whirling in their paths alone?

Is it because the world's alive And hot within its central core? The moon is dead—too cold to strive—And yet it revolves as of yore.

The mind of man is of a plan Akin to a great dynamo, Which active and invigorates, Powerful currents outward throw.

Back of this mystic mind of man There is no doubt the First Great Cause Creator of the Universe Promoter of ALL Divine Laws.

W. J. H. 4-27-38.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Novellette: She's not unattractive, yet no heads turn as she passes. Three years ago, she came here from a well-known woman's college with an ambition to make journalism her career. Though she made a diligent search, she couldn't find a job. Being broke, she turned to writing love stories. Though in all her life she had never had the slightest heart flutter, in fact not so much as one man friend, she succeeded in putting into her work that for which pulp paper magazine editors pray. Not only did she sell her first story but her success continued, the demand for her work being greater than she could supply. A year ago, she met a young artist. A few months later they were married. They are still supremely happy, in fact, quite mad about each other. There is just one drawback. Ever since she met the man she married, she hasn't been able to write one love story an editor would accept.

Illegal: Beggars, vendors, musicians and bootblacks have found the subways a fertile field of endeavor for quite some time. Rush hours they did not work for the simple reason that they could not pass among the loosely packed passengers. But at other times they have proffered their wares, solicited alms, shined shoes and even put on concerts and collected, the collection in each instance of course being important. And passengers locked in speeding cars simply couldn't escape. Various efforts were made to root them out but nothing much happened save an occasional disorderly conduct arrest which brought only a conduct reprimand. Recently a new state law, which makes it a misdemeanor to sell, beg, sing, dance or shine shoes in subways went into effect and now passengers have to endure only usual underground discomforts.

New York Mysteries: How taxi drivers continually quarrel yet seldom, if ever, fight. . . How people can stand all day watching an excavation. . . How New Yorkers can be squeezed to a pulp in subways yet never complain to the authorities. . . How thousands of small retail merchants can eke out an existence. . . What one night's electric bill on Broadway amounts to. . . How police officers escape injury in the midst of the traffic maelstrom. . . How movie theater doormen bark raucously all day long above the roar of the passing traffic through without getting a sore throat. . . The stillness of a Sunday morning on Broadway. . . All of which puzzle Joan Edwards no end.

Showmen: George Jessel figures that during the last 20 years he has played more than 1,500 benefits and has served as toastmaster at 300 banquets. He recalls the time when having played his fourth benefit in one night he was on his way to play his fifth along with Eddie Cantor. Naturally it was pretty late and when Cantor and Jessel arrived at the theater, they found that everybody had left. But they had a great routine prepared and didn't want to waste it. So they called in the door man and went through the entire sketch for him. Both claim that though he was their smallest audience never had they had one more appreciative.

Don't Stop Me: The story is making the rounds concerning the actor who was reading a new book about Lincoln. Lucille Manners, the soprano, had read the book and to make conversation, during an idle few minutes in a rehearsal, started to talk to the actor about it. "It's a swell book, isn't it?" remarked Miss Manners. "Have you come to the part yet where Lincoln was assassinated?" "Don't tell me!" shouted the actor. "Do you want to spoil the story?"

End Piece: When Milt Herth moved to his present apartment, neighbors seeing his electric organ being carried in and knowing his reputation as a swing organist, believed themselves in for a lot of sleepless nights. So imagine their surprise when they learned that Milt, when home, plays only the softest and sweetest church hymns. He used to be a church organist back in Kenosha, Wis., and likes the hymns because they remind him of old days.

Horses Pass Speed Limit And Law Bars Pursuit

PACIFIC GROVE, CALIF.—This city, which has many antiquated "taboo" laws, ranging from prohibition against the tango to pulling down the curtains, had another one violated for the first time in many years. It fixes the speed of horses in the city limits at six miles an hour. All the peace officer was able to ascertain was that the horses were driven "like mad" by a movie company on location, but he could not overtake them without violating the law himself.

HALSEY, ORE.—Eighteen years ago Mrs. Herman Koch started sewing on a fancy bed spread. She sewed in more than a mile of thread a year until this year the spread has 26 miles.

Greet Strawberry Shortcake's Return

Two Ways of Preparing It Are Fully Explained

By EDITH M. BARBER
NOTHING is better than luscious juicy, bright-colored berries served with thick cream. This has been the case ever since cultivated berries were introduced to Europe. Nowadays in this large country the strawberry season begins early as the southern crops mature, and goes on with but a short lapse when the second-crop berries arrive in August. To show our appreciation we have invented shortcake which, although it may be made with other fruits, is generally associated with strawberries. Of course, I am talking about old-fashioned strawberry shortcake, made with rich biscuit dough. I like to pat out two rounds of dough, to put one into the pan and spread it with softened butter before I put it with the other round.

Another favorite strawberry dessert is of English origin. This "Devonshire shortcake" must be made 24 hours before it is served. A bowl is lined with trimmed, buttered bread, and crushed sugared berries are added, covered with more bread and weighted so that the bread will absorb the fruit juice in the 24 hours in the refrigerator. A more modern dessert, which has become so popular recently, is chiffon pie, which is at its best when made with strawberries. The recipe which I am giving you today is easy to make and inexpensive, although not quite so fluffy as when it is made with eggs.

Devonshire Shortcake.
1 quart strawberries
1 cup granulated sugar
6 slices buttered bread
Whipped cream
Crush berries with sugar. Trim crust from bread and line a greased bowl with the slices, cutting corners so that the pieces meet. Pour in the berries, cover with bread, set plate on top of this, press down with a weight, and put in the refrigerator 24 hours. Turn out of mold. Garnish with whipped cream and serve.

Strawberry Chiffon Pie.
1 package strawberry-flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
½ cup sugar
1 pint strawberries
½ cup cream, whipped
Brazil nut or plain pastry.
Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Mix sugar with berries. Crush and let stand 15 minutes. Drain juice from berries and add to gelatin. Chill in refrigerator until mixture begins to thicken. Whip with rotary egg-beater until very fluffy, then fold in berries and cream. Pour mixture into a pie pan which has been lined with pastry and chill in the refrigerator until set. Whipped cream may be used as a garnish.

Old-Fashioned Shortcake.
1-½ quarts strawberries
1 cup sugar
3 cups flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons sugar
½ cup shortening
¾-1 cup milk
Cream, plain or whipped
Wash and stem berries. Reserve a few for garnishing. Crush remaining berries with sugar and let stand in a warm place, until ready to combine with the shortcake. Mix flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in the shortening with two knives or a pastry blender. Add enough milk to make a soft dough. Divide dough in half and roll each half the same shape and size. Place one layer on a greased pan, spread with softened butter, and place the other layer on top of the first. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in a hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit). Split and cover with crushed fruit. Place the upper round on top and cover with the remaining fruit. Serve with cream.

Strawberry Ice Cream.
1 cup condensed milk
½ cup water
1½ cups strawberries
1 cup cream
Mix milk with water thoroughly. Crush strawberries well and add to other mixture. Whip cream and fold into mixture. Turn into freezing trays and freeze three to four hours.

Luncheon Dessert.
1 jar cottage cheese
1 pint strawberries
6 sprigs mint
Arrange cottage cheese in the center of a deep platter. Surround the cheese with strawberries sweetened to taste. Cheese may be garnished with sprigs of mint.

Pineapple Charlotte.
1 package lime-flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
1 cup crushed pineapple, canned
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup cream, whipped
Sliced pineapple.
Empty package of gelatin into a bowl, add boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in salt and sugar. Drain pineapple and add juice. Chill until mixture is quite thick. Beat with a rotary egg beater until light and foamy. Add crushed pineapple and chopped nuts and fold in whipped cream. Pour into a mold and chill several hours. When ready to serve, unmold and garnish with sliced pineapple.

Overcoat Is Stolen

While He's in Jail
VANCOUVER, B. C. — David Patrick, found in a wobbly condition on the street, was taken to the city police station by a constable when he appeared unable to take care of himself. Patrick, however, doesn't think much of the way the police took care of him. Freed in the morning, he found someone had stolen his overcoat.

PARKING PLACE FOR SNAKES IS PROBLEM

British Consul's Wife Finds Pets Not in Demand.

DETROIT.—If you've ever been faced with the problem of disposing of your pet dog or cat while you are away on a vacation, then you will understand the dilemma which Mrs. L. C. Hughes Hallett, wife of the British consul at Detroit, met and conquered. When Mr. Hughes Hallett was notified recently of his transfer to the consulate at Copenhagen, one of the most pressing problems for Mrs. Hughes Hallett was the disposition of her pet snakes, Pythagoras and Snookie.

Pythagoras, so named because he is "sagacious and has lots of character like his namesake, the Greek inventor," and Snookie, "gentle and timid and—well, he just looks like a snookie," will live with Miss Ruth Hegener, biology teacher and one of the founders of the Michigan Herpetological (snakes) society, of which Mrs. Hughes Hallett is vice president.

Pythagoras, a pilot black snake, was presented to Mrs. Hughes Hallett a year before by the Detroit police after he terrorized neighbors by escaping from the basement of his former owner. Snookie, a Says bull snake, was presented to her by a teacher at the Starr Commonwealth when she and her husband visited the Albion Boys' school.

"I was quite distressed when I learned I couldn't take Pythagoras and Snookie to Copenhagen," Mrs. Hughes Hallett explained. "It seems we needed some special sort of permit to bring them over, and the matter couldn't be arranged over long distance.

"When we get to London, we'll make a special trip to Copenhagen to arrange the permit. Until then I'm sure Miss Hegener will give Snookie and Pythagoras good care." Mrs. Hughes Hallett explained that her predilection for snakes and rat breeding is traceable to her early life in India, where she was born. Her father, a British army officer, taught her to love all animals, especially those other people despise and fear.

Common Sense
Manager—What! You want another week off? You've just returned from your vacation.
Clerk—But I want to get married, sir.
Manager—Couldn't you get married during your vacation?
Clerk—I didn't want to spoil my vacation, sir.

Poses as an Heir; Wins

Bride; Pawn Her Gems
SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—Margaretta Davis, 26 years old, considered herself a lucky young woman when she was courted by a man who told her he was Claus A. Spreckels, heir to the $30,000,000 Spreckels sugar fortune. They were married a short time ago after a whirlwind courtship.

During the honeymoon the bridegroom pawned his bride's jewels and other possessions, saying the proceeds would tide them over until he took her home to his wealthy relatives. He repeatedly postponed the trip, however. Finally the bride realized she had been duped when he suggested they pawn their trunks because they were not going to travel any more.

Today Margaretta was in a hospital suffering from a nervous breakdown. The bridegroom, known to police as Nathan Desmond and George Bell, was in jail as an imposter awaiting sentence after Judge Thomas Prendergast found him guilty of vagrancy and denounced his act as a contemptible, malicious fraud.

Heavy Sentences Given

To Guilty Spies in France
METZ.—Continuing the policy of dealing out stiff sentences for persons found guilty of spying in France, a military tribunal recently handed down a sentence of 15 years banishment from France to two men.

Roger Schneider, 25, a French subject born at Luxembourg and Jean N. Beverding, a 20-year-old German youth, received the sentences with a sigh of relief. Because they were arrested in March, three months before the July decree law calling for death as the maximum penalty for espionage, they did not face a firing squad.

They were arrested in the Merlebach military zones and were reported to have secret French military information in their possession.

Cousins Mustn't Marry,

Girl Says; He Kills Her
LYNCHBURG, VA.—Lloyd Maddox, 27 years old, killed his cousin, Mae Napier, 23, with five revolver shots because she said their close relationship would prevent their marriage.

The slaying occurred as the young couple sat at a table in Lynchburg's largest restaurant after a dance. The couple had been "keeping company" for several months. Friends of the girl said she had refused his offers of marriage because they were first cousins.

Asking Too Much

Customer—Listen, when I buy a traveling bag, I want to see some cowhide in it.
Dealer—Cowhide in it! You think I am Houdini?

Ready for More

Proprietor—Didn't the waiter give you a menu, sir?
Diner—Oh, yes, and a very nice menu. I ate it nearly an hour ago.

Nibbling Bandits

Taste All the Pies
HOUSTON, TEXAS.—J. B. Elkins would like to get his hands on the thief who broke into the hamburger stand Elkins manages. In addition to stealing 24 knives, 36 forks and 36 spoons, the thief also "sampled" eight different kinds of pies. He took a big bite out of each one and what remained he left on the counter.

A Disappointment

Radio Dealer—So you want to return the radio set, Mrs. McLeod? What's the matter with it? Can't you get the programs?
Mrs. McLeod—Ay, it brings in the programs, all right, but Sandy finds the wee light too hard to read by.

The Disbeliever

Policeman—Now, then, come on. What's your name?
Speed Fiend—Demetrius Aloysius Fortescue.
Policeman—None o' that now. It's your name I want, not the family motto.

POOR PUN

"Oh, look at the sea gull! Why does it leave the water and play about in the sun?"
"For sundry reasons, I think."

Childish Wisdom

Little Jim—Daddy, a man's wife is his better half, isn't she?
Father—"Well, son, they are frequently referred to as such."
Little Jim—Then if a man married twice, there wouldn't be much of him left, would there?

Well, There's Mud

Guide—This is the old castle drawbridge and portcullis, and down below is the moat.
Tourist—What! That a moat? Listen, brother, how could anybody get a ditch like that in his eye?

Final Analysis

"Doctor," said the sick man, "the other doctors seem to differ from you in their diagnosis of the case."
"I know," replied the physician cheerfully, "but the post-mortem will show that I am right."

The Garlic Breath

Once upon a time a German scientist fed garlic to one group of rabbits and injected the oil of garlic into the veins of another group. He found that those that ate the plant carried the odor on their breath but the other group showed none. He also tried feeding garlic in capsules and that also failed to leave trace of odor. So, evidently, the odor comes from particles caught in teeth or throat.

KIWANIS NEWS.

Although rain interfered with the scheduled picnic, a most interesting meeting of the Westminster and Taneytown Kiwanis Clubs was held at the Forest and Stream Club last Tuesday evening. There were about 75 or 80 present. The speaker for the occasion was Dr. "Curly" Byrd, the president of the University of Maryland. He brought a most informative message on the relationship between farmer and government and business man.

The next meeting of the local club will be held at Sauble's Inn, Wednesday 26, at 6:00 P. M. At that time the speaker will be Dr. Walter Nathan, of Blue Ridge College, who will speak to us on "Germany Today." Dr. Nathan has recently come to this country from Germany, and so is a first-hand informer of the situation over there.

Emogene—I'll bet we have something at our house you don't have. We have a new baby.

Hughberta—Aw, gee; we have more than that at our house. We have a new Daddy.

FEESERSBURG.

Writing to the tune of the gently falling rain, the kind needed for a good soaking. Strange how much water we need for almost everything, and how soon we cry for rain—but the strong, warm breezes soon dry out the soil, and plants were wilting.

The Fred Littlefields were in town on Saturday and opened "Green Gates" for the season, preparatory to spending the latter part of this week in the country.

Mrs. John Crumbacker, Mrs. Oscar Crumbacker and daughter, with Mr. and Mrs. Guy Crumbacker and son, all of Baltimore, made a brief call at the Crouse-Crumbacker's on Sunday evening.

Miss Vivian Grinder, who spent several days last week in Baltimore, with her sister, is home again, but likes the city so well that she wants to return to its lights and noise.

Through the courtesy of her cousin Franklin Koons, Miss Sue Birely, is attending the Gospel Tent meetings at Key-mar, staying over Tuesday to visit friends in the town.

On Sunday, the Maurice Grinder family entertained Elmer Gordon and Miss Edna Strawsburg, of Hagers-town; Mrs. Lucilla Lightner and Miss Jane Clark, of Baltimore.

Miss Ruth Utermahlen was with the C. Wolfe's for the week-end, attended Sunday School at Mt. Union, and visited her niece at the Hospital, returning to Baltimore in the evening.

Mrs. C. S. Wolfe, spent most of last week at the Hospital in Frederick with her niece, Mrs. Carroll Rowe (nee Dorothy Utermahlen) who underwent an operation on Wednesday, and on Friday received a transfusion of blood from her aunt, Clara. Weakness resulted, but both are improving nicely.

We are pleased to note Mrs. Edw. Crumbacker (nee Lottie Campbell), a very kind neighbor, is able to be out again after a long and severe siege with arthritis. She cannot walk as spry as once, but is hopeful of complete recovery—and Faith can do it.

On Wednesday of last week, Mrs. G. S. LaForge entered the Frederick Hospital as a patient, suffering with an infected ear.

John Ecker, the dependable assistant of G. Bucher John, has been indisposed—but worries more about the work when he's away from it, than when he's with it; and often we wonder why it seems so hard to rest—even when it is for our good.

Cleon S. Wolfe attended the funeral of John E. Heck at the Lutheran Church and cemetery at Uniontown on Saturday where many friends assembled.

Mrs. Sterling Lescallest passed her 23rd birthday on Sunday, July 16th. On Saturday she received a "shower" of seventeen aprons—a very pleasant surprise.

Frank T. Shriver has a heart seizure about ten days ago, was found unconscious at breakfast time; an illness followed, but he is able to be up, and step out in the air again.

Grayson Shank, Principal of the Elementary Department of the Elmer A. Wolfe School, and his wife, also a teacher, left for New York on Monday morning to see the wonders of the World's Fair—expecting to be away one week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Bostian, their two children, sister Mary Bostian, and cousin, Shirley Echelberger, of Cumberland, left our town at an early hour on Tuesday morning for the New York Fair, where they will spend a few days; then go to Atlantic City and watch the waves roll in and the tide go out, and won't the little folks love to wade on the beach!

Our active neighbors, the Maurice Late family plan to be off to the World's Fair, on Thursday, also. "Rest is not quitting the busy career"—but it will be recreation by sights and scenes for all these friends who deserve a change.

The Firemen's carnival in Union Bridge drew crowds of people each evening last week, and many of our citizens were in attendance. One young man spent a whole evening at the monkey show; and the next enjoyed the Ferris wheel, so it was a great success—even if the rain did interfere with the parade on Thursday evening.

Thrashing machines were busy at the farms around us last week, and the straw packer did some work too.

We sometimes say Sunday School picnics are out-of-date, but it was fun to see the little hands go up when the Superintendent asked if anyone wanted a picnic this year; so Mt. Union will plan for one in the near future, and for C. E. day at Pine-Mar Camp, on Sunday, July 30. There are so many festivals, carnivals, picnics and family reunions scheduled for the next few weeks, that it's hard to get them in order and not mix things up; but there seems to be crowds of people everywhere one goes.

EMMITSBURG.

Clarence Seabrook and wife, of Hazleton, Pa., were week-end guests of Mrs. S's parents, Harry Baker and wife.

Wm. Frailey, returned to Washington, D. C., after spending two weeks here.

THE TOWERING TREES.

The breezes blow the towering trees,
We see them swaying in the breeze
We feel the moving stirring air
That comes from whence—we know not where.

Towering giants everywhere
Rear their heads up in the air,
Scattering shadows all around
O'er the friendly, fertile ground.

Growing slowly year by year
Every year the leaves appear
To raise up from the moistened ground
Moisture that they scatter round.

Which in rain drops soon will fall—
Blessings bring to one and all—
They never rest, they never sleep,
'Tis only in the rain they weep.

W. J. H. 6-24-39.

"Men show their characters in nothing more clearly than that by which they are incited to laughter."—Goethe.

No man ought to derive any benefit from his own wrong.

PLAYGROUND NEWS.

A Wave-Stride is being erected at the Playground through the kindness of Mr. A. J. Ohler and James Elliot, and will be ready for use next week. This apparatus was purchased from The American Playground Device Co., Anderson, Indiana, and is constructed entirely of metal.

The Wave-Stride promotes a circular up and down and in and out motion which makes it very popular with the children and at the same time every part of the youngsters body is receiving the greatest possible amount of beneficial exercise.

The children grasp the handrail and propel the device by kicking their feet against the ground. One of the safest devices that can be placed on a playground. Folks are always welcome at the playground and we appreciate their interest.

DIED.

Obituaries, poetry and resolutions, charged at the rate of five cents per line. The regular death notices published free.

MRS. EMILY CHENOWETH.

Mrs. Emily Jane Chenoweth, widow of Richard M. Chenoweth, died at her home, 339 North Franklin St., Hanover, on Sunday evening, at the age of 89 years. Death was due to arteriosclerosis and followed an illness of nine days.

Mrs. Chenoweth was a daughter of the late Lewis N. Baile, a prominent citizen of Carroll County, Md., and his wife, Sarah Ann Nicodemus Baile, and was born in Wakefield Valley, Md., August 8, 1849. She was a woman of splendid character and was a devoted mother.

Her husband, who was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, was also from Carroll County. He preceded her in death on October 25, 1883. Surviving are three children, Baxter B. Chenoweth, Taneytown; Emory S. Chenoweth, Baltimore; and Mrs. Bess Chenoweth Henderson, at home; eleven grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; one sister, Margaret V. Baile, Westminster, and a half-sister, Miss Della A. Baile, of Westminster. Mrs. Chenoweth was a life-long member of the Methodist Church.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning with private services conducted at her late residence. The Rev. Charles F. Catherman, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiated. Burial was made in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

MRS. CHARLES O. HESSON.

Mary Ellen Baumgardner, wife of Charles O. Hesson, Baltimore, died at the home of her brother, Dr. Geo. M. Baumgardner, Rosedale Baltimore Co., early Thursday morning, following an illness of six months.

She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Baumgardner, Taneytown, who survive her. She is also survived by her husband and one son, Charles M.; also by the following brothers and one sister, Mrs. Russell Ohler, near Emmitsburg; Dr. George M. Baumgardner, Baltimore; John and Raymond Baumgardner, Emmitsburg; Kenneth Baumgardner, Baltimore; and Murray Baumgardner, Taneytown.

She was a graduate of Brubaker's Secretarial School, Baltimore, and had been in the employ of The Fidelity & Deposit Co., Baltimore.

Funeral services will be conducted on Saturday, at 1:00 o'clock at the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hesson, in charge of Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe, her pastor, and Rev. Paul Emenheiser, Baltimore. Burial will be in the Lutheran cemetery.

MRS. CLARA L. BRICKER.

Mrs. Clara L. Bricker, died at her home on Baltimore St., Taneytown, Thursday morning, following a week's illness. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Vaughn, and the widow of the late Samuel Bricker.

She is survived by one son William F. Bricker, who served two terms as Register of Wills, and has since been engaged with The Birnie Trust Co., and is also survived by a grandson and grand-daughter, John and Miss Clara Bricker, both at home at present.

She was a charter member of the Mite Society of Trinity Lutheran Church, and a member of the Woman's Missionary Society and Senior Bible Class. Her husband died 32 years ago.

Funeral services in charge of her pastor, Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe, will be held this Saturday morning at her home, at 10 o'clock. Burial will follow in the Lutheran cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of
O. EDWARD DODDER,
who departed this life one year ago,
July 21, 1939.

The chair you sat in, and the place you filled
Still hold your memory, though your voice be still;
And we who knew you, know you still,
and share
The peace you know, who have passed over there.

Upright and faithful in all his ways,
A wonderful character to the end of his days:
A loving husband and father, true and
kind,
What a beautiful memory he left behind.
By his WIFE AND FAMILY.

In Sad but Loving Remembrance of our
dear father,
WILLIAM F. KEHN,
who passed away June 10, 1939.

They say that he is dead; cold words betray
The truth. He is not dead; he is away,
But comes back in the memory of his
kind
Life is a space in time that never ends;
Death to the restless welcome respite gives.
But who lives and is loved, forever lives,
So he passed over, and all the trumpets
sounded
For him, on the other side.

By his loving daughters,
MRS. LEALA B. STAHL.

We do not forget him, we love him too
dearly,
For his memory to fade from our lives like
a dream;
Our lips need not speak when our hearts
speak
For grief often dwells where it seldom is seen.

MRS. GEO. I. HARMAN.

Sunday evening callers at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Ohler and Delmont E. Koons and family, were: Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Koons and son, Billy; Mr. and Mrs. D. S. SOME RIFLE RANGE SCORES.

From dawn to dusk the rattle of rifle fire echoed at Camp Ritchie on July 8th and 9th. As the men of the Maryland National Guard competed in the Annual State Rifle Matches, and for a possible berth on the National Guard Team that will be sent to Camp Perry, Ohio, next month for the National Rifle Matches.

The First Regiment, Maryland National Guard, made up of companies scattered throughout the counties of Maryland, maintained its record of the "straightest shooting" outfit in the State.

The six man team of the First duplicated its sensational feat of 1938 by coming from behind to win the Maryland State Team Match after trailing both the Fifth Regiment and the Headquarters Company of the 58th. Brigade in the first two stages of the match.

The winning team scored 775 out of a possible 900; Headquarters Co. 58th. Brigade was second with 762 and the Fifth Infantry third, with 751. It was the steadiness of the First Infantry Team on the difficult 1,000 yard range that swayed the scales in their favor.

Three teams from the First Infantry ran one, two, three in the American Legion—Walters' Team Match. Company E, from Elkton, won the match with a score of 331. Members of the team were Lt. Geo. R. Ash, Private Millard H. Gifford, Sgt. William T. Warburton, and Sgt. John C. Rhoades.

Company "A" of Frederick was second, two points behind the winners. Members of this team were Corporal Floyd T. Kreh, Lieutenant James E. Bartgis, Jr., Sergeant Alton P. Shaff and Sergeant Francis Van Fossen.

Company "F" from Hyattsville, was in third place with a score of 309. Members of the "F" Company team were Private S. E. Cleveland, Private Edmund J. Barker, Lieutenant Wm. L. Spicknall and Private Joseph Kuntz.

WRONG PARTY

Four good fellows, old friends, met after long years in an Irish provincial town. They visited an inn and had several drinks. Then all four left for the railway station. On arrival at the train, three of the four got in and the train pulled out, leaving the fourth fellow standing on the platform, laughing until he was weak.

Station Master—What the devil are you laughing at?
 Fourth Fellow—Shure, they were supposed to be seeing me off.

Belgium Opens Up New Canal

Waterway Is Expected to Stimulate Economic Life of Country.

WASHINGTON. — The Albert canal, magnificent manufactured waterway connecting the port of Antwerp with the industrial city of Liege, has been completed. To celebrate this event, King Leopold recently opened an International exhibition at Liege, often called the "Birmingham of the Low Countries."

"The canal, which was 10 years under construction, will stimulate the economic life of Belgium," says the National Geographic society. "It will extend industrialization in the Flemish countryside, and will make Liege one of the most important inland ports of Europe."

"Liege, with a population of over 160,000, is the center of Belgian coal-mining and armament industries. Many other plants producing iron, glass, automobiles, and bicycles cast their smoky pall over the city. The first locomotive used on the continent of Europe was built in a suburb of Liege."

Liege Is Chief City.

"Capital of a province of the same name, Liege is the chief city of the Walloon country, the French-speaking southern section of Belgium. Even with its hurly-burly of factories and business houses, it still bears the picturesque imprint of the Middle Ages. It is a curious combination of historic charm and progressive industrialism. The town is old, having been founded about the middle of the Sixth century. It is on the Maas river, an international stream which traverses a large part of northeastern France as the Meuse, and finally comes to an end in the Netherlands, after picking up a considerable share of the waters of the Rhine."

"For years the city was ruled by a long line of prince bishops who lived regally and maintained large armies. More than once the Walloon people surrounding Liege rebelled against their rulers. The city has been laid waste many times. Charles the Bold, last of the Burgundian dukes, made it the scene of a bloody massacre, described in Scott's "Quentin Durward."

Heroic Defenders.

"About the middle of the Seventeenth century, the Liegeois built a citadel for defense. Before the city became a part of united Belgium in 1830 it belonged successively to Austria, France, and the Netherlands. During the World War its defenders held off the German forces for more than a week. To the stout resistance of Liege, Paris owes much of her safety from capture during the first months of the war. The French government recognized the city's valor with the Cross of the Legion of Honor."

"In the Middle Ages Liege was a great cultural center. This tradition of culture is still in evidence. Home of a Royal Conservatory of Art, it fosters interest in contemporary art by annual exhibitions, and protects carefully its art treasures of the past. Liege is the birthplace of Cesar Franck, famous composer and organist, and of Eugene Ysaye, the great Belgian violinist, who taught in its Conservatory of Music."

"In this strange mixture of the smoke of industry and the dust of antiquity, lamp-posts decorated with baskets of flowering plants flaunt patches of brilliant color in the summer."

Oldest Foreign Mission Is Nearing 130th Year

ST. LOUIS.—The oldest foreign missionary society in America, the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, will hold its 130th annual meeting here this fall.

The board, founded in 1810, will meet October 24-26 in conjunction with the Midwest Regional Conference of Congregational and Christian Churches. General theme will be "The World Christian Community at Work," and the program will feature nationally and internationally known church leaders as well as business and professional men. Official delegates are expected to number 500.

The Midwest regional area includes churches in 19 states—Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, and Texas.

Children Think Fast, Save Smothering Cat

ALAMEDA, CALIF. — Bobby Nelson, 12, and his eight-year-old brother, Ronnie, knew how to diagnose a patient and apply the proper remedy as fast as the most skilled physician. The patient was a cat. It had its head fast in an empty salmon can.

It was apparent that the cat was going to die of suffocation before even they could get its head out. They promptly punched holes with an icepick in the bottom of the can and, with air restored, proceeded to extract the cat's head.

USE STRANGE DRUG IN INDIAN RITES

Cactus Bud Integral Part of Odd Ceremony.

SALT LAKE CITY.—A cactus bud that looks like a dried apricot and tastes like quinine is an integral part of a strange Indian religious ceremony witnessed by a white man on the Uintah-Urury reservation.

James A. Wilson, WPA adult education leader, spent six months among the 300 Indians on the reservation before he was invited to witness the all-night ceremony.

The peyote, or cactus bud, which is found in Mexico, is eaten by the Indians in a ceremony that has many resemblances to a Christian communion. Peyote has an effect similar to that of marijuana and brings on vivid hallucinations and final unconsciousness.

Wilson described the ceremony as very religious, in which about 25 Indians usually take part. "Inside a one-room building a crescent-shaped mound of mud had been placed at the front of the room like an altar with the peyote on top. The chief or priest sat near the mound and the Indians formed a square around it," he reported.

"The chief began the ritual with a blessing of the cactus bud and then passed a drum down the line of Indians. Each Ute, as the drum reached him, rose and sang four songs. These were interspersed with prayers on behalf of the sick, in which the word 'Jesus' and other Christian references occurred many times.

"After each Indian finished his prayers he was given peyote by the chief. Sometimes a tea brewed from the cactus also is passed, corresponding to the Christian communion cup, while the peyote itself represents the bread.

"The peyote and drum are passed many times during the ritual and often by morning the entire group is unconscious."

Indian agents frown on the use of the powerful drug, but Wilson reported that the Indians seemed sincere in their strange blending of pagan and Christian rites. About half the members of the reservation believe in the peyote religious meetings, which occur infrequently, he reported.

Fair Warning

The Negro family were just moving into a house with electric lights. Ten-year-old Jefferson Lee kept experimenting with the switch, turning it on and off till his mammy warned: "Heah, you Jefferson Lee; doan yo' all know bettah than to tahn that 'lectricity on when there's no bulb to catch it! It'll done drip on the floah and somebody'll step in it and done get 'lectromacuted!'"

Go On Forever

"There are songs," said the musician, "that have never, never died. They go ringing down the ages."

"That is true, sir," Brown replied. "For the past six months and upward I have heard my daughter try to kill two or three each evening, but they never, never die."

Nodders

Deacon—Well, Dr. Jones, I hope by this time you are making many new friends in the church?

Reverend Jones — I think so, thanks, though as I was preaching last Sunday I thought I had more nodding acquaintances than friends.

THAT MR. SMITH

By SYDNEY FELL
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Service.

"NOW—you've got it all straight?" Ann Barrington leaned from the opened window of the car, her hands already on the wheel preparatory to starting.

Susie looked at her with admiring eyes.
"Yes, ma'am," she said. "Let me say it to you. When Mr. Smith comes I'm to show him into the par—living room. And give him his lunch on a little table in front of the fire. And make him comfortable till you come home."

"That's right, Susie," said Ann, as she started the engine. "And I'll be back about four."
And off she went, the loud purring of her engine falling away to a blur, and then to silence, as Susie watched her wind up the road and over the hill.

Susie was almost completely happy. She had come to work for Ann Barrington straight from the orphan asylum that had always been her home. She had been with Ann two weeks, the two most interesting weeks, by all means, that she had ever passed.

Her life at the orphan home had not been unhappy. Indeed, it had been definitely happy. But it had been institutional. The freedom she enjoyed in Ann's kitchen and in the small, cheerful third-floor bedroom which she called hers at Ann's house was heaven to Susie.

Just one thing sometimes bothered Susie. John Barrington, Ann's husband, was Susie's ideal of perfect manhood. To be sure, Susie's acquaintance with men at the home had been limited. Old Peter, the handy man—and occasional visits of inspection by members of the board of directors.

Susie's acquaintance was certainly limited.

Her idea of the perfect man had been formed largely from the heroes and villains she had seen on the once-a-week visit to the home children made to the movies. And John Barrington certainly was nothing like those heroes or those villains.

At eighteen Susie had become acquainted, for the first time, with a real man. John was not good-looking, not glamorous in any way. About thirty, hard-working, rather solemn; but kind and considerate. He was devoted to his pretty young wife. And to Susie it seemed as if his devotion, his considerateness, his loyalty and attention must be enough to make the world a perfect place for Ann.

Yet sometimes Susie thought Ann was not quite as appreciative of her husband as she might be.

Today Mr. Smith was coming, at Ann's invitation, to lunch.

Ann had invited him by telephone. Susie had heard her.

"Do come for lunch," she had said. "My husband won't be home till dinner time. If you come for lunch that will give us five or six hours."

Then, at half-past eleven, there had been a telephone call for Ann. And a few minutes later Ann had come into the kitchen, dressed in her smart tweed coat and skirt, all excited and upset.

"Susie," she said, "I've just had a telephone call—my sister's little boy is ill, and she's got to go away this afternoon. She has to go to court—some sort of suit she and her husband are involved in about his father's estate. So I've got to stay with the boy. And you'll just have to take care of Mr. Smith till I get back."

She had left the lunch all ready for Susie to serve, and had told Susie just what to do. And now, as Susie heard the last of Ann's motor as her car went up the hill, she was planning to do a little missionary work on Mr. Smith—work for Mr. Barrington.

Perhaps she'd tell Mr. Smith Ann had gone to lunch with another man—get rid of him before Ann came home.

So engrossed was she in her thoughts that she did not hear the car coming from the opposite direction.

Suddenly she was startled by a voice right at her side.

She looked up. There stood a young man—hatless, coatless, grinning.

"Oh," she said, startled. "Are you Mr. Smith?"
"Sure!" said the young man. "That's me. You Miss Barrington?"

"Mrs. Barrington's been called away. She couldn't help it. It's her sister's little boy—he's ill, and she has to stay with him. But she told me to tell you to come right in."
And Susie smiled, a smile that made her plain face radiant, and led the way to the house. She liked Mr. Smith—and she couldn't lie about Ann, when the chance really came.

"You go right in there and sit down," she said at the door of the living room. "And I'll bring your lunch right in. Mrs. Barrington said you'd be hungry."
"Well, sure, I'm hungry. Haven't had a thing since seven. Mrs. Barrington's swell, isn't she? But say, if I'm going to have some lunch, I'd a heap rather eat with you. You eat in here?"

"Oh, no," said Susie. "I eat in the kitchen. You see, I'm Susie." And before she knew it she had told the strange Mr. Smith of her life at the home and of her present blissful existence as Mrs. Barrington's maid. A real home—real money—and the kindest people in the world to work for.

Mr. Smith gave Susie flattering attention. And in the kitchen he helped her set the oilcloth-covered table for two and, when she had the coffee ready to serve, and the salad and sandwiches, the cup cakes and shredded pineapple all daintily spread out—she tried to follow Ann's good taste in setting the table—he stood and held Susie's chair while she was seated.

Susie was thrilled. Never in her quiet life had she been so thrilled. She didn't blame Ann for being a bit interested in this jolly and very courteous Mr. Smith. He passed things to Susie, insisting that she help herself first. He said, "One or two—or maybe three—lumps?" and dropped them into her cup. He jumped up and went to the stove for more coffee. And he talked of the things that interested her.

"You look pretty in that pink dress," he said, as they ate their dessert.

Susie blushed with pleasure. "Like it?" she murmured. "I put on a white dress every afternoon—sort of a stiff one, like linen. And a cute little apron."

"Well," said Mr. Smith, through a mouthful of cake, "you'd look good to me even if your dress was mud-colored."

And they both laughed, as if at a great joke.

Then the doorbell rang and Susie went to the door.

A good-looking man, about Mr. Barrington's age, stood there. "Is Mrs. Barrington home?" he asked.

"No," said Susie, "she isn't."

"Not home?" said the man. "When will she be home?"

"I don't think that's any of your business," said Susie, and slammed the door. "Fresh thing," she said, explaining to Mr. Smith in the kitchen. "Thinks just because I'm young I'll tell him all our affairs. Probably he's a burglar, come to pry around. I'm sort of glad you're here to protect—"

Mr. Smith beamed. "Sure, I'll protect you—always," he said. That was a swell feed you gave me. Sure Mrs. Barrington won't care?"
And then Mrs. Barrington herself burst in at the kitchen door.

"Oh, hello Sam," she said. "Come to fix that leaky faucet upstairs? You're the only plumber I ever knew that could be depended on. Susie, wasn't it nice I didn't have to stay? The trial has been postponed—and anyway the baby's better. Mr. Smith come?"

And then between tearful apologies on Susie's part and half-exasperated explanation on the part of Ann, the thing was untangled, while Sam Smith, the young plumber, stood by very red of face and uncomfortable, ready to defend Susie if need be.

Mr. Smith—the Mr. Smith who should have eaten lunch in the living room—was an old friend of John's, a college classmate, stopping at the house for a visit with Ann before he went on to town for dinner with John.

"And," said Ann, "I suppose he's the 'burglar' you slammed the door on! Oh, well—"

Another ring at the door.
Sam and Susie heard her laughing, explaining. In a minute she came back to the kitchen.

"Hurry up, Susie," she said. "Let's scrape up some lunch for Mr. Smith—the other Mr. Smith—and me. Sam, you run upstairs and fix that leak. And—oh, Sam! Busy this evening? Well, why don't you invite Susie to go to the movies? I'm going to town to have dinner with my husband and the other Mr. Smith, and I don't want to leave Susie to a lonely evening. Have her home by eleven."

And as Sam's quick and cheerful acquiescence came down the back stairs as his noisy footsteps went up, Ann said: "He's a nice young man, Susie. You'll like him, lots."

"I do," said Susie, "already."

Sauces Give New Tang to Ice Cream

Various Fruits and Juices Are Recommended

By EDITH M. BARBER

WHILE there is no closed season for ice cream, the return of warm weather always sees an increased use of this favorite dessert. We seldom find anyone who complains about repetition of this dish.

The use of various sauces will allow us to have a different dessert every time we use ice cream. At this time of the year, fresh strawberries and finely shredded pineapple, which have been allowed to stand sometime after the sugar has been added, are appropriate. These two fruits, when combined, make a particularly good sauce. Ever popular are chocolate and butterscotch sauces which are generally served hot. Toasted nuts or shredded coconut may be added to either. A good quick chocolate sauce may be prepared by simply melting sweet chocolate over hot water and serving it while still warm with vanilla or coffee ice cream.

Chocolate Sauce.
2 squares chocolate
1 cup water
2 cups sugar
Salt

2 teaspoons vanilla or 1 teaspoon essence of mint
2 tablespoons butter

Cut chocolate into five or six pieces and stir over direct heat with the water until smooth and thick. Add sugar and salt and stir until dissolved. Boil three minutes, add vanilla or mint and butter and serve hot with ice cream, cottage pudding or shortcake.

Butterscotch Sauce.
2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup cream

Put sugar in heavy frying pan and stir with wooden spoon over a low heat until melted. Add cream gradually. Stir until smooth and serve hot over ice cream or cottage pudding.

Chocolate Ice Cream.
2 squares chocolate, cut in pieces
2 cups cold milk
3 tablespoons granulated tapioca
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
¼ cup light corn syrup
2 tablespoons sugar
2 egg whites
1 cup cream, whipped
2 teaspoons vanilla

Add chocolate to milk in double boiler and cook until it is melted and beat with egg beater until blended. Add tapioca and salt and cook 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear and mixture thickened, stirring frequently. Add one-half cup sugar and syrup and stir until sugar is dissolved. Strain mixture by stirring (not rubbing) through fine sieve. Chill. Add two tablespoons sugar to egg whites and beat until stiff. Fold into tapioca mixture. Fold in cream and vanilla. Turn into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and freeze three to four hours until set, or pack in mold in equal parts ice and salt two to three hours.

French Ice Cream.
1 tablespoon flour
¾ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 egg or 2 egg yolks
2 cups milk
3 cups thin cream
1½ tablespoons vanilla

Mix flour, sugar and salt, add the egg, slightly beaten, and the milk gradually. Cook over hot water 20 minutes, stirring constantly at first until it thickens. Cool, add the cream and flavoring, and freeze.

Pineapple Sherbet.
20 marshmallows
1 cup unsweetened pineapple juice
½ cup water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons sugar
Salt
2 egg whites, beaten stiff

Combine marshmallows, pineapple juice and water in top of double boiler and heat until marshmallows are melted. Cool, stir in lemon juice and one teaspoon of sugar. Pour into freezing tray and freeze to a mush. Combine remaining sugar, salt and stiffly beaten egg whites. Stir in partly frozen sherbet into this mixture and return to freezing tray. Stir when mixture has frozen to a mush.

Vanilla Ice Cream.
1 cup condensed milk
¾ cup water
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1 cup cream
Salt

Mix milk with water, add vanilla and fold in whipped cream and salt. Turn into freezing trays of automatic refrigerator and freeze three to four hours.

Maple Sauce.
1½ cups maple sugar
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons butter

Mix sugar and milk and stir over the fire until the sugar is dissolved. Boil seven minutes. Add butter and serve hot on ice cream or cottage pudding.

Hard Sauce.
½ cup butter
1 cup powdered sugar
3 tablespoons milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually. Add the milk and beat mixture until very light. Add flavoring and serve with the carnations.

ASA: A LIFE OF TRUST

LESSON TEXT—II Chronicles 14:2-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Help us, O Lord our God: for we rest on thee.—II Chronicles 14:11.

"In God we trust."
These are the words which appear on many of our United States coins. Do we believe them? The lesson for today reveals how real trust in God operates in the life of a nation. The divine principles which were in effect 900 B.C. are just as valid in A.D. 1900. A prayerful consideration of them in the Bible schools of our land today and the application of them to our national life may mean more for our country's welfare than the deliberation of statesmen or the operation of governmental agencies.

The story of the reign of Asa (one of the few godly sovereigns of the nation of Judah) reveals that trust in God calls for an upright life, for intelligent preparation, prayer, and faith. If we trust God we shall

I. Make the Life Right (vv. 2-5).
Asa "did that which was good and right in the eyes of the Lord." Only such a man or such a nation can really trust God and count on Him for guidance and blessing. Asa destroyed the idols and places of heathen worship (vv. 3, 5), but he also turned his people to the true God (v. 4).

Many are praying that America may have such a revival, which will result in the putting away of sin, which is becoming such a blatant commonplace in our land, and a turning to the true God in repentant and righteous living.

II. Prepare With Care (vv. 6-10).
Asa trusted God but he also made every possible preparation for that which his nation might face. In time of peace he fortified cities and trained his army. This was intelligent faith.

We need not pray that God will keep us warm, if we do not gather and conserve the fuel which He has provided. We must plant, harvest, and store the grain if we are to eat when winter comes. A proper preparation for the defense of our country should precede our prayers for God's protection.

In and through all it is God that works, but at the same time He expects us to do what we can as He enables us to serve Him. The work of the Church of Christ would make great strides forward if His followers would recognize that fact. "We have no right to look for divine co-operation until we have done our best; we are not to sit with folded hands and expect a complete salvation to be wrought for us, and then to continue as idle spectators of God's redemption of mankind. We are to tax our resources to the utmost, gather our hundreds of soldiers; we are to work out our own salvation with fear and trembling, for it is God which worketh in us both to will and to do of his good pleasure" (W. H. Bennett).

III. Pray With Assurance (v. 11).
The Ethiopian host facing Asa's army was so great that humanly speaking his distinction was hopeless, but "one man with God at his back is always a majority." Take courage, Christian friends, trust God. Only be certain that you are on His side and that your life is right, and then be assured that He will give the victory.

The secret of Asa's victorious prayer was that he put no trust in himself, but did believe in God. Says Alexander MacLaren: "My consciousness of need is my opening the door for God to come in. Just as you always find the lakes in the hollows, so you will always find the grace of God coming into men's hearts to strengthen them and make them victorious when there has been the preparation of the lowered estimate of one's self. Hollow out your heart by self-distrust, and God will fill it with the flashing waters of His strength bestowed."

IV. Act in Faith (v. 12).
Asa went out to meet the Ethiopians, but he knew that God went before him, and therefore he saw God smite them.

Right living, proper preparation, and the prayer of faith must culminate in an act of faith. If we believe that God is for us, let us act as though we believed it and step out with confidence to do His will, come what may. God honors that kind of faith, whether it be on the part of a king, leading his nation into battle, or on the part of the humblest believer, seeking to bear testimony for Him.

Consecration
Consecration is not wrapping one's self in a holy web in the sanctuary; it is going into the world and using every power for God's glory.—Henry Ward Beecher.

A God of Justice
No one can exaggerate the goodness of God, save when he robs God of His justice and might, and paints Him as a benevolent but weak grandfather.

Banana Tree Dwarfed to Facilitate Harvesting

A banana "tree" will grow to a height of 30 feet, and with leaves 10 feet long, but on plantations it is kept much shorter to facilitate harvesting. Bananas are a commercial proposition to grow, for on the land required to grow a hundred pounds of potatoes you can grow as much as four thousand pounds of bananas, notes a writer in London Answers Magazine.

Apart from this, the plants need very little attention and little effort is necessary to cultivate further trunks.

The fruit we know can either be eaten fresh or in a dried state; beverages are also made from bananas, and the dried fruit can be ground into an excellent flour. In the tropical countries where the plant is cultivated, the ten-foot leaves are used for thatching roofs.

The common banana we eat grows on a tree which is only one of a family. In East Africa, one variety grows fruit to the tremendous size of two feet long and about nine or ten inches round, but it only grows one to every bunch of the other tree, and the fruit has to be cooked.

Another member of the same family gives us the famous Manila hemp, which is made from the fibers in the leaves.

After only a short history, the banana has become Britain's most popular fruit food, imports jumping about 70 per cent even in the last nine years. Unlike apples, lemons, and oranges, which are often consumed in cooked and liquid forms, the banana is mostly eaten in its natural state.

By the way, no banana trees have been grown from seed in living memory. It has been so scientifically cultivated that seeds aren't necessary.

Name Sylvester of Latin Origin, Authority Says

The name Sylvester, sometimes spelled with an i for the second letter, is of Latin origin and means "forest dweller," "of the woods," or, in a general sense, "country bred."

This name has been borne by two popes, in the Fourth and Tenth centuries, and by two anti-popes (elected in opposition to those regularly chosen) in the Eleventh and Twelfth centuries, according to Florence A. Cowles in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Dr. Sylvester Gardiner (1707-86) helped to colonize a part of Maine and the city of Gardiner, Maine, is named for him. He was a loyalist during the Revolutionary war and removed to Halifax and later to England, being one of those who were proscribed in 1778. But he returned to America about a year before his death. To him goes credit for introducing inoculation for smallpox.

Sylvester Graham (1794-1851) was a New England Presbyterian minister, a temperance lecturer and an advocate of vegetarianism. His theory was that a diet of vegetables prevented a craving for liquor, and he recommended using an unbolted wheat flour for bread. Graham flour and bread perpetuate his name.

Use of the 'Chile Wheel'

The only "Chile Wheel" south of Sonora is on the Nelson mining claim in the Greenhorn mountains, 36 miles east of Bakersfield and two miles east of the Oak Flat Ranger station, says the Los Angeles Times.

It was used to crush gold-bearing quartz and was introduced into California by Chilean miners, hence the name. An upright was fitted into a square hole and atop this was a beam with a wheel on one end. To the other end was hitched a horse or mule, which moved the wheel around in a rock-lined circular trench with a sort of rocker movement. This "wheel" is of granite and is six feet in diameter, nine inches in thickness at the rim and 14 inches in thickness at the hub. It weighs approximately 3,500 pounds.

The Lurcher Dog

According to Webster, a lurcher is a poacher. Consequently any dog that aids his master in bagging game on land where hunting is forbidden is called a lurcher. Lurchers are frequently found near estates in England where game is plentiful and hunting forbidden except for the owner and his guests. The favorite dog with the poacher is usually a cross between a collie and a greyhound because a speedy and silent retrieve of the game is essential to the poacher if he is to stay out of jail. Lurchers work in peril since, while they are faithful to lawbreaking masters, they are apt to be shot on sight by gamekeepers of the estates they poach on.

Jitterbug Bees

If you see a honeybee doing the hula-hula, prick up your ears and maybe you'll hear some gossip hot from the hive, says Country Home Magazine. Scientists have discovered that bees don't talk with the buzz of their wings, but with the movements of their bodies. According to Dr. J. E. Eckert, bee specialist at the University of California, there's a word for every wiggle. Most of the bees' undulations, performed in the air, tell other bees where to locate a new supply of food.

The Saga of a Home-Made Trailer; Texas to the New York World's Fair

A Texas journalist built himself a trailer, loaded in his wife and 11-year-old son and started on a 2,000 mile trek for the New York World's Fair with $50.00 in his pockets. His experiences are recounted in the following story:

By TOM CAUFIELD
(who covers police, fire alarms, boll weevils and all news in and about the Brazos Bottoms of Central Texas for the Waco Times-Herald.)

WORLD'S FAIR, New York—Frances and the eleven-year-old and I have seen the Fair and all the folks back in Waco told us it couldn't be done on the Caufield bankroll. The speedometer on Ancient History II reads 2,000 miles from Fifth and Austin; the wallet is out $50, and we've got $10 left. I've just wired the boss for the $25 he promised me to get home on, and if the chewing gum and jalopy don't relax their holds during the homeward 2,000 miles, we shall have made the whole junket on $85.

We spent a little over $1.50 each per day on the Fair itself, counting admission at the gates. Thomas, the eleven-year-old and Frances, the woman who tells me how to drive, and I walked and walked and looked and stared, finally becoming convinced that the best parts of the Fair are free. We could while away two weeks here looking at the free shows, and never repeat and never suffer from what the slick paper writers call ennui. We are leaving only because a wolf is howling at a door bearing the coat of arms of a certain small town newspaperman in Texas.

Nothing Like the Brazos
We stood and gulped when we saw the illumination at the lagoon of nations last night. Nothing like that along the Brazos, nor anywhere else.

A lightning bolt hit a telephone post as our car-trailer combination passed it on the road to Knoxville, coming up. It smashed the post, splattered our car with splinters, made an outrageous noise, scared us stiff. We saw it all over again, free, at the General Electric show here. They made 10 million volts for us—BANG! and we thought we were back on the Tennessee highway in the storm.

We fought good roads and bad coming up. General Motors showed us all good in a panorama that 27,000 people a day look at. GM parked us in upholstered chairs, started a public address explanation from the chair arms, and showed us the highway system of 1960.

If it hadn't been for that roads system display, we might have thought, in the aviation building, that man was fixing to leave the ground for good; but GM gave us hope for the highways. We could hardly get the boy away from the aviation display. Instead of wanting to ride on the carnival gadgets, he wanted to go back and look at the model wind tunnels, the cross section of the Yankee clipper, and things like that.

Here is Tom Caufield's homemade trailer in which he, his wife and son traveled all the way from Waco, Texas, to see the New York World's Fair.

Need for Adjectives

We heard the Voder. That's a contraction we had read about, a sort of talking typewriter. Pretty girl punches keys and make a combination of hisses and grunts that sounds like Charlie McCarthy at his worst, but is understandable.

I never was much on adjectives. The one adjective needed around here is "marvelous." Give me enough synonyms for that, insert them as needed, and that's the Fair.

There's a moving mural in the Ford building. Pistons, cogs, things like that fixed in the wall, all moving. Time for one of the synonyms. In the same building, walls hung all round with a one-piece yellow curtain made of spun and woven glass.

More free stuff; the City of Light, with 100,000 individual bulbs; the Forward March of America, showing how lighting has changed. They've got a fountain running over the exit of that building, and when I lost Frances and Thomas, by getting mixed up on a rendezvous, they waited an hour for me there, perfectly satisfied, while the fountain splashed outside.

They've got a real ship parked in a pond by the New England building.

Canada Fed Up On Alien Plots

Agents and Propagandists For Foreign Powers Face Sharp Check.

OTTAWA.—Canada is planning a far-reaching campaign to purge its shores of spies and subversive propagandists.

As one step in such a drive, the dominion government threatens to cancel the naturalization certificates of many foreign-born who are alleged to have taken Canadian citizenship as a means of masking their activities. This will make it possible to deport them as undesirable aliens.

Consuls Warned

As a second step, the government has sounded a warning to consular representatives of foreign nations not to engage in propaganda here, or to attempt any interference with former nationals of their countries who have since become naturalized Canadians. Violation of this warning, it is strongly hinted, may lead to the expulsion of the offending official.

Strengthening the government's hand in its campaign is the official secrets law, passed at the recent parliament session. This measure provides greater secrecy for national defense plans, and also provides for protection of munition plants and other strategic government premises against sabotage and espionage. The bill provides that any person found loitering on or near such premises shall be liable to arrest, unless able to give a satisfactory reason for his presence.

German Agents Active

German agencies in Canada are still carrying on "activities dangerous to the state," despite periodic reproofs from the dominion government, it was charged in the house of commons by A. A. Heaps, C. C. F. member from Winnipeg. He quoted published articles by a United States government agent to the effect that an active German spy had escaped from the United States last year through Montreal, where he was assisted by the German consul.

Heaps declared himself convinced that 95 per cent of Canada's foreign-born population were loyal to this country, but added that some were being influenced by propagandists from their native lands.

Rancher Snares Coyote To End Four-Year Feud

KILLDEER, N. D.—A strange four-year feud between a huge calf-killing coyote and a Killdeer stock rancher is over. The coyote is dead, his maraudings ended by a steel-jacketed rifle bullet.

"Two Toes," leader of a pack of killers, began attacking calves and colts four years ago when the drought reduced the coyote's chief source of food—the jackrabbit.

The rancher, Anton J. Fettig, opened war on the pack. For four years Fettig set his traps, occasionally nabbing one of the pack, but never "Two Toes."

It was one morning that the rancher discovered the vicious prairie killer caught in the jaws of the wolf trap. One rifle shot and the feud was ended.

'Lost' Mountain Climbers Ahead of Searching Party

HOOD RIVER, ORE.—If they hadn't been so tired from spending the night lost on Mount Hood amid a howling blizzard, Bob Fuller and Blanche Baldwin, youthful mountain climbers, would have joined the searching party looking for them.

They attempted to climb Mount Hood but were overtaken by a snow storm and compelled to spend the night in the open. Worried friends organized a search party, numbering 100 strong.

Fuller and Baldwin, weary from their night in the open, sought to thumb rides from passing trucks. Several times drivers shouted that they were looking for a pair of lost hikers and were too busy to stop.

The two boys trudged to Government camp and were amazed to learn they were the object of all the activity.

Married Her for Spite, Judge Gives Her Divorce

CHICAGO.—Her husband said he married her to spite another girl who jilted him and that he was leaving her to court his former love. That bit of testimony helped win a divorce for Mrs. Harriet Prchal from James Prchal, a printer. The couple were married in 1931 and separated two years ago. Attorney Victor Frohlich, who represented Prchal, argued that a spite marriage was not grounds for divorce. Judge Rudolph Desort of Chicago ruled with Attorney Joseph Lelivert that Prchal was guilty of desertion. Mrs. Prchal is 27 years old.

Building Rises as Silent Monks Toil

Abandoned Project Taken Up by Cistercians.

LONDON.—Eighty men spend their lives learning how to die at a monastery in Charnwood Forest, Leicestershire.

They rise every morning at two and go to bed at night at seven. No woman has ever set foot in their house. No words pass their lips.

Nearly five years ago Trappist monks from Mount St. Bernard abbey, Leicestershire, vowed to celebrate the centenary of the return of the Cistercians to England by completing their church, begun many years before, but left unfinished through lack of funds.

Today the 100-foot tower rises above the trees. It is now expected to be furnished and decorated in time to be consecrated this summer.

Just over a century ago six monks took possession of a tiny, half-ruined cottage in the depths of the wood. All around was desolate, untilled waste.

Snow and rain beat on them as they lay down each night for five hours sleep, rising at midnight to sing hymns in their wooden chapel, and going out before the dawn to plow and sow.

Today Mount St. Bernard takes its place with the greatest of the Cistercian abbeys—Beaulieu, Fountains, Rievaulx, Kirkstall, Tintern, Margam—and its model farm of 600 acres is one of the most successful in the midlands.

Some of the brothers once were successful men in the world outside. One, still young, held a $5,000 a year job with the London County Council. Now he tailors the monks' long habits and cowls.

A once-famous musician plays the organ when the community troop into their church to worship, seven times a day.

Two of the monks were policemen, one drove a lorry, and one captained a university football team.

England Imports Fleas

FOREST GROVE, ORE.—England has imported 1,000 fleas, including 80 different types, raised by Dr. C. Anderson head of the biological department of the University of Oregon. They were shipped to the Tring branch of the British museum at Hertz, England.

the trailer camp; a few cents for milk and whatever other groceries you need for eating at the camp; 25 cents toll over Whitestone Bridge for your car (leave the trailer at camp) and 25 cents toll back again (or ride a bus, fare ten cents each); 50 cents to park in the parking grounds at the Fair; 75 cents admission for adults, 25 cents for children; 25 cents each for the Perisphere, which is a must because it is the Fair's symbol; 10 cents for the Town of Tomorrow, which also ought to be a must for any householder, and gas and oil.

We ate dinner at one of many restaurants in the Fair grounds. My wife had chicken and mushrooms with coffee for 60 cents. I ate a salisbury steak with coffee for 60 cents, and lamb chops for the boy cost 75 cents. For lunch we had hamburgers and pie, which ran us 20 cents each. It costs a nickel for pop or root beer at any of a dozen stands. We got to the Fair for lunch one day and had dinner there that night. We had breakfast in camp next day, lunch at the Fair and pulled out late that afternoon for home.

Seeing New York

You can see something of New York while you're at the Fair, for the mere cost of gasoline. The night we arrived, we took a 50-mile drive across town, along the Hendrik Hudson Parkway and back from the Battery up Broadway to Times Square, then back to camp. We had a volunteer guide—one of the officials at the camp.

The policemen go out of their way to help a visitor. One of them talked to us for a half hour about things in general while we waited for an open-top bus next morning for a sightseeing trip in Manhattan. In fact, any New Yorker goes out of his way to help a Fair visitor.

We felt so much at home that when we parked our car to catch a bus to the Fair on our first day's visit, we forgot to make a note of where we left it; just walked away from it like we would have done in our own home town. And believe it or not, we found it when we came back in the rain—with the help of some of the passengers on the bus.

Bear in mind that the cost of coming to New York depends on how you are willing to come. We had a camp trailer, slept in it, using a trailer camp once, a cabin one night during a pouring rain, using school grounds twice with the permission of rural neighbors, and parking three times at filling stations. It took us six days to get here.

That $85 is an education worth thousands, for a boy of 11, and worth plenty more for his father and mother. —Reprinted from the New York Herald-Tribune.

Designers Incorporate Music in Latest Dresses

PARIS.—Visitors to the mid-season show at one of the most famous of Paris fashion houses were mystified when they heard snatches of Mendelssohn, the "Blue Danube," and "Little Old Lady" as the mannequins paraded.

There was no orchestra and no radio. But musical boxes were hidden in the crown of hats worn by the mannequins, in their handbags—shaped like concertinas or pianos—and in the buckles of their evening dresses.

With some of the afternoon dresses were worn hats with high wicker-work crowns like bird-cages, and in each cage was a bluebird with outstretched wings. Other hats had wide brims pulled down over the face like a mask—some of them actually reached to the chin. The brims were made of transparent net, and served as a window.

Freedom for Forgetting Or It's Jail for Love

FRESNO, CALIF.—Earl Ostergard, 28, must forget about the girl he loves, or go to jail, Police Judge Melvin K. Gibbs decreed.

On the complaint of his former sweetheart, Miss Elsie Becker, an employee of the state highway department, that he was persisting in his attentions when she no longer were wanted, Ostergard was arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace.

He pleaded guilty and was placed on probation by Judge Gibbs on the condition he forget the love affair.

Bird Works for a Living

When mealtime comes for Oscar, a trained goldfinch, the bird pulls a string, drawing a small truck up a runway to his cage. In the midge truck is the bird's food, seeds at which he may peck when the work is done. The goldfinch seems to have learned that he can eat only when he works. The sight of the toiling bird attracts many sightseers.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Indians Framed Constitution

The Upper Cherokee Indians, believing they were disliked by the white because they were not civilized, decided to form a nation to prove their ability to absorb civilization. In 1827 they framed a constitution and elected John Ross, a Cherokee-Scott, president. This act led to their removal to Oklahoma because they were trying to set up an independent nation.

ANOTHER CENTENNIALITE.

Mr. Gontum further stated that under the law he had power to deputize members of any volunteer fire department duly organized and operating in this State to act as his deputies for the purpose of making such inspections and investigations and carrying out such orders as may be prescribed by him. Under his plan Deputy Marshals would be created from the ranks of Volunteer Firemen, who would be charged with the duty of inspecting all public buildings and recommending measures for the correction of any conditions found to be hazardous to safety. He says:—

"I have held many conferences at the State Insurance Commissioner's office with the representatives and members of the Volunteer Firemen's Association. Present at some of those conferences, in addition to many firemen, were Mr. J. W. Just and Mr. Curtis C. Larrimore, of the College of Engineering, University of Maryland; representatives of the National Board of Fire Underwriters; Mr. P. W. Bowen, a representative insurance man of Baltimore, and other prominent men of Maryland.

"As a result of these conferences, it was determined to organize along four definite lines:

First. A state-wide inspection of public buildings, these buildings to be divided into three classes: Institutions owned and operated by the State; institutions owned and operated by counties, towns and municipalities; and buildings owned and operated by private individuals coming within the terms of the statute.

Second. A State-wide campaign of public education in fire prevention through schools, public organizations and associations.

Third.—Thorough investigation of all fires of suspicious origin, and in cases where arson is indicated, a vigorous prosecution of the guilty parties.

Fourth. Particularly to carry out the terms of the law in respect to the storage, use, manufacture, sale, handling, transportation, or other disposition of flammable materials, rubbish, gun powder, dynamite, crude petroleum or any of its products, explosive or inflammable fluids or compounds, tablets, torpedoes or any explosive of a like nature, or any other explosives, including fireworks and fire crackers.

"Before any definite action, however, can be taken in carrying into effect the general plans as outlined, it is necessary to have prepared a set of regulations. These regulations and rules Mr. Just has kindly consented to prepare. They are as follows:

1. Regulations governing the handling, use and storage of flammable liquids, and handling, storage, sale and use of all explosives, including fire crackers and other fireworks.

2. Regulations pertaining to fire escapes, exits on public buildings, including schools, hospitals, etc., auditoriums, lodges, halls, factories, and all other places of public assembly.

3. Regulations governing instructions and operations of dry-cleaning establishments; There are regulations under this head which apply to existing plants, but the bulk of these regulations apply to new construction.

Maryland has long needed such a protection system instead of letting individuals build as they please, as well as maintain fire hazards on their premises.

JUNIOR BAND TO PLAY AT C. E. LAWN FETE.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Grace Reformed Church, Taneytown, will hold their annual lawn fete, on this Saturday, July 22. Beginning at 4:00 P. M., the following refreshments will be on sale: Chicken, ham-burg, doggie and ham sandwiches; ice cream, rootbeer, chocolate milk, coffee, potato chips, candy and cakes. Also, at this time, there will be a fishpond, which the children will get a great deal of pleasure out of fishing for the hundreds of nice articles, which have been contributed by the members of the church. Tables will be set up for those wishing to have supper on the lawn.

At 7:15 the Junior Band of Taneytown, will assemble at the church, from which they will parade over the town, returning to the church to present a worthwhile concert. This popular band composed of young people, under the direction of Mr. Robert Menchey, is playing at many engagements this season, and is very capable of presenting a fine program of music. It is hoped that a large attendance will be at this occasion, not only for the encouragement of the society, but for this band as well.

During the evening there will be a program presented by the society, consisting of a play, written by Byron B. Boyd, entitled "Mushrooms Coming Up," with the following persons taking part: Mildred Eckard, Reba Waltz, Mrs. William Airing, Madeline Simpson, Rose Beall and Edward Reid, under the direction of Mrs. Norval Davis. There will also be a rube reading entitled "Gosh! I Thought I'd Die" by Edward Reid. Mrs. Walter Bowman will conduct a Quiz contest.

The stands will be in charge of the following persons: Sandwiches and coffee, Mrs. Amos Hilbert, Mrs. Carrie Beall, Mrs. Robert Shriner, Mrs. Emma Rogers, Mrs. Elwood Simpson and Mrs. Laura Fink; ice cream, Mrs. Alvin Study, Mrs. Walter Bowman, Rose Beall and Ruth Waltz; Drinks, Scott Smith, Harold Simpson and Dewey Simpson; Cakes, Mrs. Edgar Essig, Mrs. Harry Essig, Miss Mary Fringer and Mrs. Calvin Fringer; Candy, Mrs. William Simpson and Mrs. Samuel Ott; Potato chips and Balloon, Mary Study, Madeline Simpson and Hazel Sies. Mrs. Paul Hilbert will serve at the tables.

Thus far the congregation have cooperated by their contributions and the committee in charge are looking forward to a very successful evening. In case of rain, it will be held in the Opera House.

If harvest results have not been up to expectations, this is hardly a matter for great worry. "Things can not be cured, must be endured."

POOLESVILLE 25—HARNEY 12.

Poolesville had no trouble downing Harney Sunday in a very loosely played ball game at Poolesville due to several errors and poor pitching. On account of the all star game between the four north teams and the four south teams of the Md. State League at Mt. Airy next Sunday the 23rd, there will be no other games played. Harney has five players in the northern team.

MOONLIGHT ON THE BAY.

The moon beams fall upon the bay,
Far out beyond the white sloop lay,
The water is so smooth and clear—
Not once does a ripple appear.

Far to the East the fleecy cloud
Comes forth the Evening Star to enshroud,
Soon then the wind with increased
power
Rolls over us the thunder shower.

The sloop now dances on the bay,
Twixt us and it the white-caps lay;
The angry waves roll on and on—
We look again, the sloop is gone.

There are 2 main reasons why the SPEED QUEEN washes FASTER and CLEANER

1 The BOWL-SHAPED TUB
Rounded, bowl-shaped bottom eliminates corner "pockets" so that every drop of water is constantly at work. Employs "mixing bowl" principle for maximum water agitation.

2 DOUBLE WALLS
The Speed Queen has double walls which insulate the tub and keep the water piping hot through an entire washing. The last batch of clothes comes out as clean as the first. Outside wall also protects porcelain tub.

Only Speed Queen gives you the exclusive combination of a fast-washing BOWL-SHAPED TUB and DOUBLE WALLS to keep water hot. No other washer has ever been able to surpass the washing ability of this double-feature combination. There is no cleaner, faster washer than Speed Queen!

Then Get the Things You Want

You can't depend on luck or a rich uncle to get you the good things that you want out of life; you must depend on yourself. If there is nothing left each time out of your pay envelope, what is there left to hope for in the future—except food, clothes, and "small-time" spending that never gets you anywhere?

You can break out of this "deadly circle." Build up a bank account. Plan for bigger things. One of the best ways to get ahead is to get money ahead.
