It is our opinion that during the past January and February there has been more cases of sickness and death than for any period of two months for a good many years in the past. Doctors have been busy day and night; and now many of our dirt roads are in a very bad condition. "Good old Summer time" will be a welcome visitor.

Bernard Britt, son of the late Rev. Charles A. Britt, a former pastor of Taneytown Lutheran Church, visited friends in town, last Sunday. His mother is living in Chicago. This family, including Percy and Miriam—all now married—were very popular here. Bernard Britt and wife, now in Baltimore, are engaged in the trailer camp business. While in town he was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Harry I. Reindollar.

CENSUS INFORMATION

Should be given, or Fine May be Imposed.

The House of Representatives, this week, passed a bill providing for the taking of the census, which included heavy penalties on those failing to give the information asked for.

In addition to a census of the population, what is called a "housing" census will be taken that includes some questions folks may not want to answer; for instance, mortgages, bath tub and toilet facilities, and other things that we think none of the government's business.

But the only right thing to do is fill out the blanks and send them in, promptly after their receipt.

The population end of the census will be taken care of by individual enumerators, who will call in person in the near future.

There appears to be sound argument against some of the questions, on the ground that they conflict with individual rights and argument has been made along this line this week before a special committee of Congress. No doubt the whole matter will soon be clarified, and the census officials should not be hasty in levying fines, especially as there seems to be no necessity for haste.

A CHINESE MISSIONARY VISITS TANEYTOWN.

A fair-sized congregation greeted Rev. George R. Snyder, for twenty years a missionary of the Reformed Church to China at a service in Grace Reformed Church on Wednesday evening. Mr. Snyder described the work of a missionary, paying special attention to the problems confronting a Christian worker in China occasioned by present war conditions.

He stressed the fact that, although in the particular part of China in which his work is located, there is constant interruption due to air-raid alarms, and although the city of Yuanling in which his mission is located, has been bombed by the Japanese four times, the work of the mission has gone on as usual.

He reported a larger enrollment in the schools under the care of the Mission, and in the evangelistic work there has been a distinct advance, to the effect that within the last year, five new preaching points have been established, and membership in the Christian Church has increased by more than twenty percent.

Mr. Snyder went through the harrowing experience of having bombs drop within a hundred and fifty yards of his residence, and of seeing a large part of the city of Yuanling destroyed by fire, occasioned by bombs.

In the afternoon at 2:40 Mr. Snyder addressed the pupils of the High School, and at six o'clock in the evening, he was the guest of the local Kiwanis Club at Sauble's Inn. Mr. Snyder expects to return to his mission station at Yuanling the latter part of the present year.

NOVEL SOCIAL ENJOYED BY C. E. MEMBERS.

A novel "Birthday Social" which was held in the Reformed Church on last Friday evening, Feb. 23 was greatly enjoyed by all who attended. The affair was sponsored by the C. E. Society and was attended by the members and many of their friends. Twelve tables had been decorated by different members, each representing a month of the year. Many different ideas and beautiful displays were used, making the tables look very beautiful. All the guests were given a small envelope which they filled with pennies, one for each year of their age. These were placed upon the table representing the month in which they were born.

The social began with the singing of many familiar songs. Many new and fascinating games were played during the evening. The table containing the most money was presented with a large birthday cake. It so happened that those at the April table won the cake. They were: Mrs. Edgar Essig, Mrs. Amos Hilbert, Mrs. Ruth Sulzer, Mrs. Albert Clutz, Mrs. Wm. Erb and Mary Lou Essig. As they did not know what to do with the cake, they decided to give it to the Firemen for their supper which was held on the following evening.

Refreshments of cup cakes, potato chips, mints and tea were served. The evening ended with devotions led by Edward Reid. At the close of the devotions, taps were played on the exterior of the church by Glenn Smith.

UNIONTOWN LUTH. CHARGE ELECTS PASTOR.

The Uniontown Lutheran Church, consisting of Uniontown, Baust, Mt. Union and Winters churches, at congregational meetings held after the services last Sunday elected Rev. George E. Bowersox, Jr., as pastor of the charge. It is believed that he will accept the call.

The pastor-elect is a graduate of Gettysburg College and of the Theological Seminary of the same place, being a member of the class of 1939. He is the son of Rev. George E. Bowersox, D. D., of Leechburg, Pa., whose boyhood home was Silver Run Carroll County, and who has been a prominent minister in York County and at Leechburg.

The young man has been doing ministerial work as assistant pastor at Appollo, Pa.

The Uniontown Charge was formerly served by Rev. M. L. Kroh, who moved to Seven Valleys, York County, Pa., February 1st.

THE INCOME TAX LAW NOW IN COURT.

Bitter Opposition brings out equally Strong Defense.

The constitutionality of the Income Tax law passed by the last legislature, was ably argued, for and against, by prominent attorneys, on Wednesday and Thursday, before Judge O'Dunne in the Circuit Court, Baltimore.

This law has raised several important questions aside from its constitutionality; that it was in substance defeated by the people as an amendment to the constitution in 1938.

That higher rates are placed on some items than on others; that it deprives taxpayers of the property without due process of law; that public officials are exempt from its provisions, that not one in ten of the members of the legislature know what the income tax bill was when they voted for it.

Right or wrong, public sentiment seems to be strongly opposed to the law; but the answer to this is made by asserting that no matter what laws are enacted, that increases taxation, they are always opposed by many.

It is claimed that members of the legislature begged to have the law explained to them before voting, but were told to vote for the law as a whole. The assertion was also made to some that unless the bill was voted for, the legislature would be detained for thirty days.

The testimony showed quite a bit of illfeeling concerning the manner in which the bill was passed, but every claim made by the one side was met by argument from the other side.

The Harney school held its P. T. A. meeting, Wednesday evening, February 28, in the school building, at Harney. A large crowd enjoyed the splendid program which was as follows:

UNLAWFUL TO USE DIPNETS.

I have had numerous inquiries about use of dip net in the waters of Carroll County.

Chapter 209 of the Acts of 1939 of the General Assembly of Maryland, provides as follows:

It shall be unlawful to fish with seines or nets of any description, except for the purpose of catching minnows in any of the waters of Carroll County. Therefore, it will be unlawful to use seines or nets of any description in the waters of Carroll County.

It shall be lawful to fish with rod, hook and line, not to exceed two in number when in the immediate control of the angler.

The season for catching suckers, catfish, carp, eels, gudgeon, Feb. 1 to Nov. 30th.

J. G. DIFFENDAL, Dist. Deputy Game Warden for Carroll County.

Every man has at times in his mind the ideal of what he should be, but is not. This ideal may be high and complete, or it may be quite low and insufficient; yet in all men that really seek to improve, it is better to seek for higher ideals so that if he falls, is may not be the whole way.

Last year, payments by life insurance companies to beneficiaries and policy holders totaled $2,600,000, or nearly the total amount in force 50 years ago.

QUARTERLY MEETING HELD.

Methodist Churches Conference in Strawbridge Church.

At a joint quarterly conference of the two Methodist churches of Union Bridge, the two Methodist churches of Johnsville and the Methodist church of Middleburg, held in the Strawbridge Methodist church and presided over by the District Superintendent, Rev. Dr. E. G. Williams, of Washington, it was voted to unite the two groups in Union Bridge into one congregation, and the two groups in Johnsville into another congregation, the one in Union Bridge to be served by one pastor and the others in Johnsville and Middleburg by another. Both pastors will reside in Union Bridge until the Johnsville-Middleburg charge can make other arrangements.

The resolution was passed without dissenting vote and becomes effective from the date of the adjourned annual conference to be held in June at Westminster.

Following the union of the various Methodist bodies last year, the pastors were authorized to appoint committees to work out plans for uniting the churches. The committees met January 26 and discussed the matter. Last Monday afternoon, the district superintendent met with the committees and their recommendations were approved.

All the congregations were represented. About fifty members were present. Dr. Williams conducted a short devotional service at the opening and at the closing of the meeting.—Frederick Post.

WESTMINSTER CONSUMER CO-OPERATORS MEET.

The Westminster Consumers Cooperative Club, organized seven months ago, by a group of farmers and towns people, held a dinner recently in Westminster.

Among the 125 cooperators present were 19 members of the Westminster Farm Bureau Planning Group No. 1. Nine of these are active, fully paid-up members of the local cooperative club. Two Farm Bureau members are on the Board of Directors which is composed of three people from the town and three from the country.

The women prepared the meal which was largely Co-op food. On the menu was Co-op fruit juice, Co-op buttered peas, Co-op butter, Co-op apricots and plums, Co-op coffee and Co-op coconut cake.

The meal was truly co-operative from beginning to end—the cooperative food was cooperatively prepared by the women, cooperatively served by the daughters; the dishes were cooperatively washed by members and others.

The program was cooperative too. It included group singing, the reading of letters from the secretaries of the Cooperative League of U. S. A. and the Eastern Cooperative League, greetings from the York, Lancaster, Harrisburg and Columbia clubs. The film "The Lord Helps Those" proved to be very interesting. The photography was excellent. The movie gives the story of the beginning of the co-operatives in Nova Scotia, showing vividly how the poor fisherman "lifted" themselves by their own bootstraps" by working together.

Dr. Linden S. Dodson, Rural Sociologist of the University of Maryland, concluded the program with a clear challenge for both rural and urban people to participate in the cooperative movement.—Md. Farm Bureau.

KIWANIS CLUB MEETING.

The weekly meeting of the Taneytown Kiwanis Club was held Wednesday evening.

The President of the Club was very well pleased with the splendid attendance. He stated, if the attendance was continued, he felt sure they would be able to receive the attendance honors of Capital District.

The guest speaker of the evening was Rev. Snyder, a missionary of the Reformed Churches in China. In his most interesting talk, he described the different types of warfare of both China and Japan. He also told of some of the bombing raids stressing mostly the one in the city in which he was located.

Rev. Bready had as his guests Rev. Snyder and Milton Koons. Harry Mohney had as his guest Merwyn C. Fuss. The Club enjoyed having all the guests.

The meeting for next week will be in charge of the boys and girls committee with Jack Crapster, chairman.

TANEYTOWN SCHOOL NEWS.

POLITICAL STRAWS ARE BEGINNING TO FLY.

Bearing on the Result of the November Election.

Political straws are beginning to fly throughout the country, looking forward to the coming November general election, and must be considered as important news of the day interesting to both political parties and individuals.

It is assumed that as the President has permitted his name to be entered in the Illinois presidential primary, this means that he will be a candidate for a third term, though he has not said so, and his close friends and appointed officials are taking that view.

Another straw that made first page news in the leading papers of this week, was the election of two Republicans to Congress, in Ohio, one of which displaces a Democrat. The Republican campaign argument was for a return to sane business methods, instead of dependence on theories.

Also a straw of this week was a brief address in the House by representative E. E. Cox, of Georgia, in which he urged the repeal of N. L. R. B.—National Labor Relations Board—and replace it with an amended act that would not, as he said, destroy business. His speech was applauded by both parties in the House.

A special representative of President Roosevelt, Myron C. Taylor, is at present in Italy and Germany in the interest of trying to effect a basis of peace in Europe. Any success in this direction would be considered good argument for a third term.

RABBITS FOR FREDERICK CO.

The first shipment of rabbits purchased by the State from Missouri breeders, which were ordered some weeks ago, arrived Monday and were distributed throughout the county. The consignment consisted of 240 cottontails all of which arrived in excellent condition, it was said. They were released in every section of the county with no more than four turned out on any one farm.

Approximately 300 additional rabbits are expected to arrive later in the week for distribution throughout the county. Of the initial shipment, 60 of the rabbits were consigned to the Brunswick Chapter, Izaak Walton League, and were released Monday on farms in this section of the county. The remainder of the shipment was allotted to sportsmen's organizations at Frederick and Emmitsburg.

All rabbits purchased by the State are guaranteed to be free of disease and the county is said to be well stocked with rabbits.

THREE EMMITSBURG CHICKEN THIEVES CAUGHT.

Three men, Freeman D. Eyler, Geo. B. Wills and James A. Wills, Emmitsburg, pleaded guilty, to theft of chickens from Edgar Stansbury, in Emmitsburg Police Court hearing, on Monday night. James Wills was given a sentence of 6 months in Frederick jail; Freeman Eyler, was given a 90 day term, and George Wills a suspended sentence of 30 days. All admitted that they had been drinking, but deputy sheriff Adelsberger said they were not drunk when he arrested them.

The Roman Emperor Diocletian priced wool dyed with Tyrian purple at $350 a pound. Modern chemical manufacturers produce a far better job for only a few cents.

AUTO CLUB FOR VARIOUS SPEED LIMITS.

The Maryland motor vehicle titling tax is declared "a moral, if not a legal, form of diversion" in a statement issued today by the Keystone Automobile Club.

Commenting on the increase in the tax from 1 to 2 percent, approved at the last session of the legislature, the Club asserts that "there was no attempt to earmark this revenue for highway purposes; rather, it was allocated to relief. If this is not legally diversion of motor tax revenue it is morally so. Further, this high tax has retarded new car sales all over the State."

George E. Keneipp, Manager of the Club, said that Keystone favors elimination of the titling tax entirely; and if that cannot be done, "it should not go above 1 percent."

In the same statement the Club also took a rap at speed law enforcement. With regard to the recent increases in speed limits, the Club spokesman said that while this is a progressive trend, two bad situations have developed. First, there has not been a sufficiently rigid enforcement of the new 50 and 55 mile limits, and, second, it has been difficult for authorities to determine whether some open highways should be posted for 30 or 50 miles an hour.

"Our State and county police must correct the first," he said. "We hope the legislature will correct the second by granting the State Roads Commission authority to set various speed limits up to the maximum permitted by the State law based on engineering studies which would reveal the maximum possible for safe travel. We believe that the present jump from 30 to 50 miles an hour leaves too great a gap."

EUROPEAN WAR NOTES.

War activities thicken, and Tuesday, the British shot down 2 Nazi planes, a German air raid was made on the outskirts of Paris; British capture a Nazi ship; Finns made a further retreat to a second position.

A French war ship is reported to have rammed and sunk a German submarine, northwest of Spain.

Another report says that two British battleships were damaged by Nazi vessels, and are now in Navy Yards for repairs.

Early in the week, Finland was compelled to give up island strongholds that are said to have cost the Russian invaders 100,000 men. The Finns claim that the second position to which the army retreated is much stronger than the one lost.

Kermit Roosevelt, 60 year-old son of the late Theodore Roosevelt, and a Major in the British army, is reported to be heading a volunteer army of internationalists to go to the relief of the Finnish forces.

He will likely resign his post with the British army. This will be the second time for him to oppose Germany, as he was with American forces during the World War.

A battle seems to be going on in the North Sea, possibly indicating that Holland has joined the Allies; or at least is defending itself against sea raids by Nazi vessels.

A German drive against Paris is predicted for March or April—and again, on Flanders' field.

The latest reports are that the Finns are being forced back, but are resisting as best they can, the pressure of superior numbers.

The latest from Finland, is that the Russians are bombing every Finnish city and many villages. It represents destruction and terrorism, rather than warfare.

Random Thoughts

This week, we give thoughts of others, as an improvement of the feature.

Sir Wm. Temple said "Man is a thinking King, whether he will or no; all he can properly do is turn his thoughts the best way."

Dr. Watts said "Acquire a government over your ideas that they may come down when they are called; and depart when hidden."

Shakespeare said "Thoughts are but dreams, till their effect be tried."

Byron said "Constant thought will overflow in words, unconsciously."

Bishop Portens said, "Bad thoughts quickly ripen into bad actions."

FRIDAY, MARCH 1, 1940.

WHETHER WE LIKE IT, OR NOT IT'S ON THE WAY.

If a newspaper wants to publish the news, it can not overlook what is going in our states, getting ready for the big American quadrennial event, the nomination and election of a candidate for President, for the coming four years.

We may be a "third term" or an anti; for the continuance of New Deals or for deals without capital letters, but we will have a deal of a time with some sort of deal, before it is all over.

We may not be taking serious account of "polls" being taken, but the big job is coming right along, just the same, getting ready for the greatest poll of all in November, and no getting around it.

Wisconsin is talking over a big G.
O. P. fight in that state, mainly between Vandenberg, Taft and Dewey.
Down in Texas, Democrats are saying that unless Garner wins, a number of southern states will go Republican; and so on, and so on.

There are many who say that President Roosevelt will surely be a candidate again, or he would have said otherwise, long ago. As yet, "dark horses" are not being talked about, but the supply is unlimited. There is some talk of a coalition of Republicans and Democrats—a new party.
And so, we will just wait and see what happens.

FINLAND, BY COMPARISON WITH OTHER NATIONS.

One gets a better idea of the odds against which the Finns are fighting
when we know from authorities that Russia means one-sixth of the whole world—including the Siberian portion. Finland, one authority says, is about the size of California—and nearly one-third of its area is covered with water and marshes.

We have no authoritative figures covering populations, but mere size shows how unequal the chances are between the two nations; and the size is very important. With Norway and Sweden, practically the only neighbors of Finland, and these holding off at present, trying to maintain the friendship of Germany and its dependencies; and the friends of Finland—England and France—finding difficulty in extending man-powes help, leaves Finland in a desperate situation.

What aid might normally be expected in the way of aid from Rou-mania, Turkey and what are called the several Balkan states have Japan and China in between at war; and to some extent the future course of Italy is in doubt as affecting the larger picture.

Unless there is soon a change, as between Russia and Finland, it is easy to see that this brave hard-fighting country, is in a desperate situation, and must ultimately be crushed.

As Nations now stand, the California-sized nation appears to have about the same chance to defeat the whole United States, as Finland has to save herself.

OUR WORLD OF TODAY.

There are crop failures somewhere,
every year, in one or more things—except one. We do not depend on natural ice any more—but make it.

Fruit crops, locally, may be short,
but the canneries, somewhere, supply
our needs with little or no loss to us.
Lumber would have failed to supply
us with building material long ago,
was it not for the substitution of concrete, metal, rubber and clay.

The widely developed use of wood pulp, glass and electricity have largely displaced old materials and methods.

Instead of depending on wood for heat, we now have coal, electricity and oil. Horse power and steam for power and locomotion, have given away to gas, oils and gasoline. The railroads are fighting for life for carrying purposes. We have airplanes instead of depending on old slower methods.

The radio has seemingly driven out of existence the impossibles of hundreds of years. The "movies" and "talkies" along with the telephone of the present, would have been considered a good joke had they been seriously predicted less than sixty years ago. And so might the story of present wonders be continued almost indefinitely.

"TRAVEL AMERICA" IN 1940.

"Travel America Year" has been officially endorsed in a proclamation
by President Roosevelt, who modernizes and streamlines the old slogan of "See America First" in an official declaration from the White House which urges that "we in America further consolidate our unity by a better knowledge of our own and each others countries through the instru-mentality of travel."

At the front of the movement is the United States Travel Bureau, a setup of the Department of Interior.
There have been several meetings of officials to get the travel idea in motion, and to pep up the leaders of travel industry of the United States and Canada. Many of the representatives of interested groups gathered a few days ago in Washington. Among them were the Governors of Alaska, Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands,
the Chief of the Canadian Travel Bureau and various officials and leaders of the automobile and bus industries, railroads, the American steamship lines, travel agencies and airways.

It is not too safe to travel abroad this year. Because of this fact the "Travel America Year" proclamation during 1940 is most timely. With the best highways in the world, and incomparable networks of railroads
ready to meet all situations, the officials of the United States Travel Bureau have gone to bat on this proposition. The American public is told to cherish the thought and cultivate the hope of using the family bus and the commercial vehicles for travel to see our own country during the year 1940. Senator Bailey, of North Carolina describes "the economic culture and recreational advantages of travel"
as an asset that cannot be overestimated. Mr. Bailey is the author of a travel bill in the Senate, and Representative Lee of California has a similar bill in the House. Congressman Lee told the House that American travelers have spent over 4 hundred million dollars in a single year in traveling in Europe. Apparently those magnificent millions are to be added to the 1940 travel business of the United States. It is a sum not to be sniffed at since it is a substantial need to the domestic situation.

A summary of possibilities issued by the National Park Service indicates that the Federal and State Government will cooperate in promoting national travel this year. In 1939
the railroads inaugurated "circular tours" to the New York and San Francisco World's Fairs. And while that promoted travel by rail it also added to the volume of vacationists and tourists on the highways going East, West, North and South.

Under the theory that dark war clouds have silver linings, with gold trimmings, this travel movement, bedecked as it will be with official approval and encouragement, should make it easy to see more of our own country during the coming months.

SOME PREDICTIONS.

"All's quiet on the Western front"
has been the word for months now,
but there is likely to be a change in a few months. The Alphonos-Gas-ten attitude, once either side strikes, will "The hell of war" loose on the world, and we too shall feel its impact.

As things now look, the chances are 99 out of a hundred that April or May will see death, destruction and devastation all over Europe, and maybe Asia and Africa as well.

When that happens, what will America do? The Atlantic and the Pacific separate us from old world carnage, and we should keep out, but the chances are we will not.

One thing is pretty certain, and that is America will have to contribute a larger share toward feeding the warring Nations, so it might be a wise thing for farmers in America this spring to increase by 5 or 10% the acreage to be planted, and to add yearlings to the beef herd, and a few more brood sows to the pen.

There may not be need of any of these, but the slight increase will be only enough, anyhow, to properly feed and clothe our own present unemployed, when we get them back to work.

Every indication now seems to say times are getting better. If a lot of people can be made to think so, and a goodly number say so, times will get better, for after all the matter of good times or bad times is largely psychological. That has always been the case. Don't the good book say,
"As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he?"

The inspiration needed now is the one that leads to perspiration. If

America can get up a good sweat this spring, the summer and fall will see good harvests and good times rolling in upon us. Anyhow, no harm to try. W. J. H.

CENSUS QUESTIONS BEING EXAGGERATED.

Much unfavorable and malicious newspaper comment is being given to the 1940 decennial census.

A daily paper of the great city of New York printed a deliberate lie in stating that the information is not required by law. This census of 1940 is the Sixteenth Decennial Census required by the Constitution of the United States.

All of the larger centers of population are left until last in order that inventories and income tax returns
can be out of the way before the various business schedules are filled in for the Census Bureau.

The census of population and agriculture will get under way the second day of April. The agricultural census will cover the scope of farming such as crops, live stock, poultry, dairy activities and the amount of money spent during the year, the gross receipts for the year and, of course, the profit, if any, made.

The population census is the counting of the citizens in order to get our representation in the National Congress and also in the Maryland
House of Delegates.

The population schedule shows the number of persons in a household and their relationship, the place of birth,
the age, the number of years of schooling, how long they have lived at the present address, if the head of the household is a veteran of any war, when each person over 14 years of age has a job, if he is working,
how many hours per week he works,
what his yearly salary is and whether he received money in the amount of $50 over and above his regular salary.

This information, when properly assembled, will give a very complete picture of the economic condition of each county in the nation and each city of more than 10,000.

Of course, there are foolish women who are kicking about giving their correct age. Women have always been foolish about their age, and nobody cares but themselves.

There is a severe penalty of fine
and imprisonment for giving the census taker the wrong information.

Incorrect figures would tell nothing after the work has been completed and the National Government is spending about fifty million of dollars in order to gather statistics that are correct.

It is your patriotic duty, as an American, to help out by giving the correct information when you are asked.—Frederick Citizen.

WHY THE PEACE EFFORTS?

Mostly everybody who listens to the radio news reports share in the belief that the European War will have to be fought to a conclusion.
All the belligerent nations spread that as the official determination of the several nations.

Meantime, the doctrines of peace
are being pushed by increasing numbers of leading educators and level-headed Americans, some of whom declare themselves as individuals and some of whom are engaged with growing groups and organizations of peace societies.

The President of the United States and the Secretary of State decided to send Sumner Welles on a mission to different capitals—and this was a peace mission.

There is nothing wrong about trying to stop a war because there is nothing right about a war in the first place. Therefore missions of peace are trying to do something to improve civilization.

War is plain barbarism and everybody knows it, and it is a very narrow person who would cry down, and aim cruel accusations against an advocate of a peace proposal. Just give pacifist-minded people credit for the fact that they want to do something to stop the killing of human beings!
If you think they aren't "doing any good" you might also ask the question of "what good" anybody is doing who wants to carry on wars of extermination of millions of innocent people who have nothing to say about what a few leaders of their nation
have decreed must be done.

In Germany there are a half dozen persons, and in Russia another small group of human devils who are wholly to blame for the wars in Europe.—N. I. News Service.

Custom of Bridal Veil

Traced to Ancient Rite

The ancient custom of veiling a bride was once a trick to mislead mischievous demons.

Thus Professor Ludwig Deubner,
of the Berlin university, explains
bridal veils, which in ancient times were more enveloping and mysterious than the airy veil of a modern bride.

Fear of demons, it appears,
plagued the ancient Greeks in a fashion reminiscent of the fairy tale fear of the wicked fairy who always turned up for trouble at weddings and christenings.

Describing lengths to which wedding parties would go to foil demons. It is said that brides in Sparta were dressed in men's clothing.
The Sparta maid, dressed like a man and with her hair shorn, was shut up in a dark room to await her bridegroom's arrival and a dramatic rescue.

Professor Deubner finds evidence that Greek marriage customs are related to customs of other Indo-Germanic Aryan peoples, and some can still be found surviving in parts of Greece.

Describing ancient Greek weddings, Professor Deubner stated that as marriages were arranged by the parents, the couple-to-be were not consulted and often became acquainted only after they were wed.

The popular month for weddings corresponded to late January and early February in our calendar. The bride sacrificed her hair, her girdle
and her toys at the altar of Artemis.

Corresponding to a modern church wedding was a sacrifice rite to the goddess Hera. During the wedding banquet the bridegroom removed the bride's veil. Wedding gifts went by a name meaning unveiling, because they were received after the removal of the veil.

Guests accompanied the couple to their home and threw old shoes to ward off evil. The groom lifted his bride from the cart in which they rode, and she—like ancient German brides—walked thrice around the hearth-fire in token of her entrance to a new family.

Bighorn Mountain Sheep Given Federal Protection

Uncle Sam has saved the hereditary home of the bighorn mountain sheep just in time to prevent extinction of the species.

The government has set aside as a game refuge 1,500,000 acres in Arizona, the native habitat of these picturesque sheep that once roamed
the lofty crags of the Rockies in large numbers.

Their number reduced by big game hunters in recent years, the bighorn was in danger of virtual extinction, according to the United States Biological survey. Two new refuges will afford them protection.

With the establishment of the Kofa
and Cabeza Prieta refuges in Arizona by executive order of the President, there seems little doubt that the sheep can be perpetuated, the survey said.

The only other federal refuge area
maintained primarily for bighorns is the 2,000,000-acre desert game range in Nevada, established in 1936. Virtually all the bighorn left —about 2,700—are now under government protection.

Sea-Fish Eyes

The farther down in the sea that fish live, the bigger are their eyes until about 200 fathoms, when eyes become smaller, disappearing entirely at great depths. Fish eyes increase enormously in size proportionately with the depth until the limit of sunshine penetration is reached, which is about 200 fathoms below the surface. The bigger eyes enable the fish to utilize most effectively the smaller concentration of light. Below 200 fathoms the eyes of fish become smaller and finally in the totally dark lower regions many sea creatures have no eyes whatsoever, depending upon feelers to guide them in their activities.

Great French Romances

At the request of the Nonesuch
Press, a committee of leading French writers, headed by Andre Maurois, Andre Gide and Paul Morand, prepared the following list of the 10 great French romances:
"The Princess of Cleves," by Mme.
de Lafayette; "Manon Lescaut," by the Abbe Prevost; "Candide," by Voltaire; "Dangerous Acquaintances," by Choderlos de Laclos;
"The Charterhouse of Parma," by Stendhal; "Pere Goriot," by Bal-zac; "Madame Bovary," by Gustave Flaubert; "Germinal," by Emile Zola; "A Woman's Life," by Guy de Maupassant, and "The Gods
Are Thirsty," by Anatole France.

Baby's Eyesight

If a baby seems to have trouble
in making its eyes move in unison
during the first few months, don't worry too much about it, advises the Better Vision Institute. It takes time for the child to learn to coordinate the eye muscles and for the first few months of its life movements of the eyes may seem rather wobbly. If eye co-ordination does not improve with the passing of the weeks then, of course, the mother
should be concerned about the condition. Eyestrain brought about by neglect to correct visual defects may sometimes throw the eyes out of alignment.

Silting of Reservoirs Buries Big Investment

When a stream is dammed to form a storage reservoir it represents an investment for service in irrigation, power, municipal water supply, flood control, or recreation—or a combination of these. When the gates of the dam are closed the reservoir begins to fill with water—and also with sand or silt that settles and reduces the storage of serviceable water.

The silt deposit is the result of soil erosion. This is where the soil conservation service workers come in. As publicly employed specialists they are interested in both ends of the silt movement—in keeping the silt on the land and keeping it out of the reservoirs.

Since 1934 the staff has been gathering definite information as to the rate at which reservoirs are being silted. They know of examples of completely filled reservoirs in which original investments have been wiped out by silting. By balancing the injury to farms from loss of soil, against damage to reservoirs from silting, these specialists are getting the facts on which to base control policies, to suggest fair apportionment of the expense of keeping the soil in place and so preventing filling of reservoirs.

Carl B. Brown, in charge of the reservoir investigations, points out that as a practical matter the effect of reservoir silting is likely to be even worse than the destruction of the original investment in the storage plant. As a rule such reservoir is located at the most favorable point for economical storage. If the service to the community requires a replacement, the substitute is likely to cost more than the original and the value of preventing silting can fairly be reckoned on the basis of the replacement cost.

Cowbird's Domestic Character
The marital and domestic character of the cowbird is thoroughly bad, it being polygamous and entirely irresponsible for its offspring. The mother skulks about the trees and bushes seeking the nests of smaller birds in which to place her eggs, leaving to them their hatching and general care. Instances have occurred when the cowbird has even removed the eggs of the owners of other nests before placing its own therein.

Natural Gas Supply
An estimated seven trillion cubic feet of natural gas has been used from the Texas Panhandle field since its discovery.

200 Species of Iris
Throughout the north temperate zone may be found about 200 species of iris. North America contains about 20 varieties.

JOHN S. HYDE PRODUCES HIGH GRADE CRUSHED STONE FOR LARGE LOCAL TRADE.

A Carroll County enterprise that is of real importance in this section of the State is the stone quarry owned and operated under the able management of John S. Hyde whose experience in this particular line of endeavor covers a period of twenty years or more. Since taking over the present operation in 1917 this enterprising proprietor has brought the plant and equipment up-to-date and is daily producing large quantities of crushed hard lime stone adaptable for all road work and concrete construction and paving. Vast quantities of the different sizes of stone are on hand for immediate delivery to all points in the trade territory and is sold to individuals for private drive-ways.

This Spring Mr. Hyde enters the manufacture of concrete building blocks for the trade at home and in the surrounding country. At present he is installing the latest and most up-to-date equipment which, by using the best materials, will be in a position to meet all competition in his line for concrete blocks and other building units in the line when quality is considered. The plant, when in full operating, will have a capacity of producing 1,000 blocks daily—adequate to meet the demands of the trade in this section of the state.

Hyde's block for dwellings, garages, barns—in fact, all types of structures, fully answer the problem of the builder who feels that permanency, quality and economy are the chief essentials in building. Large, heavy trucks are maintained to deliver the blocks with dispatch to all points in the territory served.

FRANK T. SHAEFFER, PLUMBING, HEATING AND TINNING CONTRACTOR.

There are few, if any, people residing in this section of the country today who would care to live in a house without sanitary plumbing as we now know it and a modern heating. In making new installation or repairing your present equipment no mistake can be made in entrusting the work to Frank T. Shaeffer, of Westminster, Md., who has started in to learn his trade some fifty-six years ago. Shortly after the turn of the twentieth century he engaged in business for himself and has since done a major part of work in his line for people in all sections of Carroll and neighboring counties. He forms the nucleus of a strong organization of thoroughly experienced mechanics and master plumbers and is therefore in a position to handle any job in his line large or small.

The service of this reliable and dependable local concern embraces plumbing, heating, tinning, repairing and jobbing. Mr. Shaeffer handles a complete line of plumbing fixtures and supplies, modern heating plants of all kinds and is agent for Pioneer Oil burners, Stokol Stokers and Gimco Rock Wool House Insulation. There is no job too small to receive his personal attention and none too large for him to handle expeditiously and satisfactorily. He is always pleased to give a careful estimate on any work in his line without obligation.

GUY W. BABYLON & SONS MANUFACTURE BURIAL VAULTS OF HIGHEST QUALITY.

When the occasion arises that we must place our loved ones away permanently it is well to know that they can be placed in a reinforced concrete automatic sealing burial vault such as that manufactured by the firm of Guy W. Babylon & Sons, New Windsor, Md. For more than ten years this local concern has been making these vaults for people at home and in the surrounding territory. They are steel re-inforced, strong and dignified in appearance, are hand polished to a beautiful metal finish are absolutely water-proof and above all, everlasting.

The writer had occasion to visit the plant which is now being enlarged and noted that only the finest materials enter into the manufacture of these vaults are seasoned for seven weeks before delivered. It is the least anyone can do for his or her loved ones to place their mortal remains in a concrete vault safe against the elements and sources of destruction. It is worthy of note that the products of this reputable concern have a 100% rating in the Bureau of Standards. They are recommended and handled by leading funeral directors at home and in the surrounding country. Some fifty or more vaults are on hand for immediate use and deliveries are made by the manufacturer direct to the cemetery and placed in the ground. They co-operate to the fullest with the funeral directors and assure everyone of prompt, dependable service and a vault of lasting durability at the lowest possible cost.

The service embraces wet wash, thrift service, rough dry, finished work and bachelor bundles. A specialty is made of ladies' fine work which is handled in a most careful manner as is all other work entrusted to this local concern. And for this high type service a nominal charge is made. FEESERSBURG.

Monday—an ideal winter day: Bright sunshine, no wind, ground frozen, plenty of ice and some snow sticking along the road-side. Yesterday was so mild we had a spring-day calling, but the air grew colder by night fall.

Last Thursday Harry Snyder, oldest son of Joseph and Birdie Flickinger Snyder, was calling on old neighbors here. Our little Harry boy has met life—in army camp, on the battlefield in France, and hard work at home. He and his wife now live near Hagerstown—out Chewsville way, while he works for the Landis Tool Co., in Waynesboro.

Two Md. State Traffic Police gave a safety lecture, with illustrations in the auditorium of the Elmer A. Wolfe school last Wednesday; which must have been very interesting, and certainly made an impression on some of the pupils, judging by their review of it later.

Miss Frances Crumbacker had a week's vacation from school, while she nursed a badly swollen jaw and gathered gums, from an aching tooth last week. There is still some soreness—but she is making round trips on the school bus again.

Mrs. Alice Cash Delaplane, of Detroit, and her youngest sister, Mrs. Mamie Cash Owings, of Westminster, visited their cousins at Grove Dale, last Thursday evening. Miss Carmen Delaplane calling for them on her return from school work. Mrs. Owings is improved in health, and has spent part of this season with her sisters at Thurmont, Woodsboro and Detour.

The famous novel, "Gone with the Wind" as seen on the screen has been attracting crowds the past week, and many of our citizens have enjoyed it. Regardless of the beautiful scenery how about sitting four hours for amusement, when half hour for a sermon wears one out?

Through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Harbaugh with his sister, Miss Carrie, last Friday afternoon we attended the funeral of Wm. Newman Cover at the C. M. Waltz Funeral Home in Winfield, where Rev. W. DeWitt Dickey of the Methodist Church, conducted the service, speaking from the text: "Thou shalt be missed, because thy seat will be empty" (1st Sam. 2:18). All the immediate family and their personal friends were in attendance, and there were lovely floral tributes. The body was taken via Westminster to the cemetery of the Reformed Church in Taneytown for burial—where his parents repose.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Wolfe attended the funeral of his father's youngest brother, John Utermahlen, on Saturday afternoon. Service was held in the Lutheran Church at Pleasant Valley—with which he united in early life and was also one of the veterans of C. E. in Carroll Co. Rev. W. E. Saltzgriver was in charge of the service and spoke earnestly on the theme "Well Done." Only his wife survives and she was too ill to attend the funeral.

After S. S. at Mt. Union on Sunday morning a congregational vote of the members, concerning Rev. Bowersox who preached a week previous was taken by ballot resulting 41 for and 4 against. The C. E. monthly Missionary service followed and was interesting with singing, prayer, readings, discussion, a liberal offering.

Mrs. Bertha Albaugh and sister, Mrs. E. Scott Koons, of Keymar took dinner with the Birely's on Sunday; and in the afternoon Misses Edna Sauerhammer and Mary Dorothy Hinkel, of near Littlestown visited a few hours. Later Mr. and Mrs. Webb Smith, of Woodsboro called.

Miss Ruth Utermahlen, of Baltimore returned with the C. Wolfe's from their uncle's funeral on Saturday until Sunday evening, and attended S. S. at Mt. Union.

If anything is going to go wrong with one's furnace of course it will be in coldest weather, so we had a 24 hour chilliness last week; but fate was kind to our friends who stayed away until an operator from Baltimore arrived to make adjustments, and warm us up again.

Two men are cleaning out a fence row of bushes and vines; a Hammer Mill is passing to grind some feed for the farmers; and "a sower went forth to sow"—clover seed not broadcasting it in the old-fashioned way, but as he steps briskly across the field, carries a small box before him, and continuously turns a crank just like the organ grinder of our childhood; the seed flies about on the bare and frozen ground and soon he comes in announcing "the seed is sown." There seems nothing more to do but wait in faith for a crop of clover hay for feeding the animals next winter. Well, after a lovely Monday we had a snowy Tuesday. We watched it from the first snow flake, while the air grew fuller and thicker, and a real snow was coming down—fine and dry covering all out doors with pure whiteness—and this is winter.

MANCHESTER.

The talks of Rev. George R. Snyder, missionary of the Reformed Church in China, were well received by the students of the Hampstead and Manchester schools.

Rev. W. E. Saltzgriver, pastor of St. Mary's Lutheran Church, Silver Run, and of the Lutheran congregation at Pleasant Valley, will preach in Trinity Reformed Church, Manchester, Friday, March 1, at 7:30.

Invitations have been extended to lodges, congregations, schools, and other organizations in Manchester, and nearby communities by the consistency and pastor of Trinity Reformed Church, Manchester, to attend a special service of worship on Friday, March 8, when the pastor, Dr. John S. Hollenbach will speak on "Perils of Democracy." This is a subject in which all Christians and Americans should be vitally interested.

In 1880 the glass industry employed about 24 thousand persons. Patented improvements since increased the usefulness of glass so that in 1937 the industry gave employment to about 87 thousand people, with a total payroll of $119,391,493.

FRIZELLBURG.

The outstanding community event in many years took place on Thursday night, Feb. 22, 1940, in the social hall in Frizellburg, when Mr. and Mrs. Lewis D. Wantz celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. This novel affair was quite interesting because the majority present had never witnessed an occasion of this kind, and even men in the eighties intimated it was their first opportunity. The hall was tastefully decorated with colors of gold and white and crepe paper streamers formed a canopy from the ceiling. The many bouquets of flowers were beautiful and added much to the scene. During almost the entire length of the program the bride and groom of fifty years sat under an arch covered with artificial lilies of the valley and with a large golden bell suspended from the center top. Nearby was the large wedding cake iced in white and bore gold lettering of "Mother and Dad, 1890-1940. The toastmaster for the occasion was Dr. Miles Reifsynder, pastor of Baust Reformed Church. With his wit and humor and supplemented by the Brown House Hill Billie Band, of Blue Ridge College the audience was kept in a cheerful mood. At this point the guests seated themselves around two long tables and supper was served consisting of chicken sandwiches, pickles, olives, cake, coffee and vanilla ice cream with a golden 50 on top. The wedding cake was also served. The strains of the wedding march was next heard and while the couple stood under the arch the wedding ceremony of the Reformed church was read by Rev. Dr. Reifsynder. The bride was attired in a black crepe dress trimmed in colored print, and she wore a shoulder corsage of gardenias tied with gold ribbon. All joined in singing, "When You and I were young Maggie," and "Let Me call you Sweetheart." The bride and groom responded gracefully to the shower of congratulations coming from many in the audience. The gifts were numerous, handsome, as well as useful. A unique gift was a miniature ship strung with 50 one dollar bills by the children. Mary Alice Lookingbill daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Peter Lookingbill, of Frederick county and later of Carroll county, was united in marriage to Lewis D. G. Wantz, son of the late Mrs. Margaret Baust, at the home of the bride's parents, Mayberry, on February 22, 1890. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Saxton. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Rodkey. The bride's father was a minister of the Church of God. The groom was born in Carroll County and his early years were given to farming, but during the last 14 years he was engaged in the merchandise business in Frizellburg. There were six children of this union, four of whom are living. Mrs. Clifton Null, Wilbur Wantz, Lloyd Wantz and Miss Luyetta Wantz. There were 211 present.

Mrs. Mattie Myers who visited Mr. Mervin Sanders and family, Cashtown for a week or more has returned home. Miss Louise Myers, a student at a business school in Philadelphia, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Myers.

THE COUNTY AGENT.

He was a useful critter
Who only used to toil
To show poor dumb farmers
How to till the soil.
His job was once quite easy;
No more is this a fact.
Now it is quite complicated
By the Conservation Act.
Some of them are getting bald,
Others are turning gray;
All of this "monkey business"
Without any extra pay.
Here's to the County Agent;
His lot is sad to tell,
He's a princely good fellow
But sure is catching—
P. C. Turner.

Panama Canal Fortifications

TAKES PLANNING TO PRODUCE MEATLESS MEALS

See Recipes Below.

Favorite Foods in Lent

It takes a bit of planning to produce meatless meals that please the family because we're so accustomed to the meal that's built around substantial roasts, or chops, or steaks. But fish, eggs, milk, cheese, beans, peas and nuts, are excellent protein or body-building foods that should be substituted now and then for meat. Their uses are many and with judicious planning they add interest and variety to meals.

Fish and eggs occupy an important place in meatless meals; less commonly used, but inexpensive and good, are cheese, nuts, peas and beans.

Cheese is a concentrated food which gives good returns for the money spent on it; because it is an excellent body-building food and is rich in mineral salts, and because its flavor combines well with that of other foods, it should be more widely used. A little cheese goes a long way when combined with cereal products such as rice or macaroni.

Nuts are apt to be considered a mere accompaniment to a meal, or something to be nibbled on "between meals," but wisely used, they're an acceptable substitute for meat.

Vegetable plates are popular for meatless meals. Where they include peas or beans or eggs (which might be hard cooked, sliced and creamed) they provide a satisfying and "balanced" meal. Banana Scallops are an unusual addition to a vegetable dinner—hearty and delicious, and easy to prepare.

Lenten Feast.
Mix together 8 cups soft bread crumbs, ½ cup fat (melted), 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons onion (minced), 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 4 eggs (slightly beaten), ¼ cup milk and 1 cup peanuts (chopped). Pack into a well-greased ring mold and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for about 30 minutes.

Baked Eggs.
12 slices bread
¼ cup butter
6 eggs
Salt, pepper, paprika

Cut crusts from whole slices of bread and spread six of the slices with butter which has been thoroughly creamed using a small biscuit cutter, cut the center from the six unbuttered slices. Butter these and place one centerless slice on each of the buttered whole slices of bread. Break an egg in the center, and place on baking sheet. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika, and bake in a slow oven (325 degrees Fahrenheit) until the eggs are set. Serve at once.

Baked Tapioca Cheese.
1 pint milk
1 egg (well beaten)
3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 cup American cheese (grated)

Mix all ingredients in order given. Place in baking casserole and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) approximately 15 minutes—or until mixture thickens. Stir occasionally while baking. Serve on hot buttered toast.

Rice au Gratin.
Part I.—1 cup rice
3 quarts water
1 teaspoon salt

Wash rice and drop into boiling salted water. Boil rapidly (uncovered) until rice is tender. Drain and place in a buttered baking dish. Cover with Cream Sauce.

Cream Sauce.
Part II.—3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk (scalded)
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
½ cup cheese (grated)
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
Melt butter and add flour. Mix thoroughly and add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Remove from fire, add seasonings, cheese and prepared mustard. Pour over the rice, dot with butter and sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a moderate oven

(350 degrees Fahrenheit) for approximately 20 minutes.

Banana Scallops.
(Serves 6)
6 firm bananas
1 egg (beaten)
1½ teaspoons salt
¾ cup fine crumbs (cracker or bread crumbs or crumbled corn flakes)
Peel bananas. Cut in slices (crosswise) ¾ to 1 inch thick. Dip in the beaten egg. Drain, and roll in crumbs. Fry in deep fat at (375 degrees Fahrenheit) for 1½ to 2 minutes, or until the scallops are brown.

Tuna Fish Scallop.
(Serves 6)
1½ cups milk
3 cups soft bread crumbs
½ teaspoon onion salt
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups tuna fish (flaked)
3 hard-cooked eggs (sliced)
½ cup cracker crumbs (buttered)
Scald milk, remove from flame, and soak crumbs in it for 15 minutes. Add seasonings. Add tuna fish. Arrange this mixture in layers in a buttered baking dish, alternating with the sliced hard-cooked eggs. Top with the buttered cracker crumbs. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) for 20 to 25 minutes.

Swiss Eggs.
(Serves 6)
¼ pound sharp cheese
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup coffee cream
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash cayenne pepper
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
6 eggs (beaten slightly)
Sliver the cheese and spread evenly over bottom of a shallow buttered baking dish. Dot with butter. Mix together the cream, salt, pepper, and mustard and pour one half of this mixture over the cheese. Beat eggs slightly and add. Last of all, add the remaining half of the cream mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees Fahrenheit) approximately 25-30 minutes, or until eggs are set, but not dry.

This is the season for piping hot soups—thick, substantial cream soups and chowders to "take the chill out of one's bones," and serve as the mainstay of a noonday meal; or steaming, perfectly seasoned, clear soups to serve as an appetizer before a hearty dinner.

Watch for this column next week. In it you'll find some of Eleanor Howe's own tested recipes for soups that are bound to be family favorites.

Parchment Paper Keeps Fish in Shape in Pan

Broiled fish is difficult to remove from the broiler without breaking—just as it is in a frying pan. A piece of parchment paper cut just the shape of the fish, may be greased and placed under each slice of fish. It will not be necessary to turn the fish, as it will broil all the way through. Then the parchment may be removed upon serving.

Time Saver

Put snap fasteners on cushion tops instead of sewing openings together. It will save much time. When soiled, unclasp the snaps, slip tops off and launder.

Building Strike Records Of 99 Years Ago Found

ST. LOUIS.—Records of a strike called 99 years ago by construction workers on St. Louis' old courthouse have been found at the city hall. The workers were represented by the Journeymen Mechanics' societies which obtained a 10-hour day for its members. They had been working 12 and 14 hours a day prior to the strike.

The records were referred to the national park service, which has asked for all available historical information concerning buildings which are to be preserved in the Jefferson Riverfront memorial.

Britain Pushes Drive For Private Gardens

LONDON.—The ministry of agriculture, backed by various societies, is planning a big food production campaign.

By public meetings and lectures, by committees, by every means possible, householders are being urged to make use of their gardens and to increase their work on allotments.

At present it is estimated that there are roughly 3,500,000 private gardens in England and Wales, and to increase some 1,500,000 allotments which will be under cultivation in the spring, and the campaign is still forging ahead.

'Can Opener' Technique Developed by the Finns

HELSINGFORS.—The Finns have developed a new "can opener" attack on Russian tanks.

Two Finns armed with crowbars lay in wait for a tank in the woods. They jumped out as it passed, climbed aboard and started to pry open the turret top. The tank crew, unable to fire on the Finns, tried to dislodge them by careening the tank over obstacles. The Finns managed to stay on, it was said, and, succeeding in prying open the top, dropped in a hand grenade which killed the tank crew.

BOB AND BEE, DEBTORS

By ALICE DUANE
(McClure Syndicate-WNU Service.)

"T ELL you how I dope it out, Bee," said Bob, reasonably. "Things can't be worse than they are."

They're bound to get better. We haven't either of us jobs now—we will have sometime, of course. So when on earth could we find a better time to get married than now?" Bee hugged his arm affectionately as they walked along briskly in the cool spring dusk.

"Bob, you're a good deal of a peach," she said. "Honestly, I'm so tired of running down leads for new jobs, and trying to act cheerful when people ask me how things are coming along that I don't know what to do. It would be swell to be married and to feel, anyway, that somebody needed you."

"But, Bee—that isn't why we are marrying?" "No," she said, soberly. "We'd marry if we were both millionaires—if we both had the best jobs in the world. We are marrying because we love each other, aren't we?"

"Well, that's my idea," said Bob, with a contented chuckle. "So they were married."

"I can certainly cook food for two of us for a great deal less than we spend now for our meals," said Bee. And, "We'll be a lot happier, too," said Bob.

They went to live in a little suburban cottage. A little, old-fashioned house, rather, at the edge of a rather new suburb.

It still had a country look, with old lilac bushes and a tumble-down white picket fence, strawberry shrubs, and day-lilies planted along the uneven flag walk to the front door.

"You see," Bob explained, "Uncle Robert gave it to me. He was born here, I guess. Always held on to it, though he hasn't lived here for years. Never married, you know, and has lived at third-rate hotels where his third-rate income would support him. Nice old boy, Uncle Robert, but not much of a money maker."

"It's sweet," decided Bee. It was the day before they were to be married, and they had driven out with a lot of their things.

"And when the furniture Aunt Beatrice gave me gets here, we can make it look quite lovely. There's a highboy that'll go there, right beside that window. And nice old iron fire dogs for that hearth. She didn't really give me the furniture, you know. Only when I told her yesterday we'd decided to be married she sent for it where she's had it in storage ever since Uncle Watkins died and she went to boarding—told me I might as well use it; she'd not want it again."

"Well, of course, Uncle Robert hasn't exactly given me the house. He pays the taxes and the house is his. But he's going to leave it to me and he calls it mine."

Bob looked around affectionately—at the little clumps of grass already green, at the swelling buds on the lilacs, at the little white and green shoots thrusting upward in the border of the path.

"Nice little place, what?" "Lovely, just lovely," agreed Bee, and they hurried on with their unloading, putting to rights and planning.

That was in April. In May, with lilacs just coming into bloom, Aunt Beatrice came to visit them. Bee had invited her, and she had accepted, quite to Bee's surprise.

"I didn't think she'd come," said Bee to Bob, a little apologetically. "But she writes that she's so anxious to see her old things in place again that she will come for just a few days. I'm sorry, Bob; it seems wrong to let anything spoil or even interrupt our perfect life."

Bob looked up from his work at the edge of the vegetable garden.

"That's all right, Bee, I feel that way, too. But look here—"

And he hauled a letter from a pocket.

"Here's one from Uncle Robert. Says he'll come for just a few days—be here tomorrow. Wants to see how the old place looks with some of us actually living here again."

Bee giggled. Bob chortled.

And when Bee's Aunt Beatrice and Bob's Uncle Robert arrived they found two very happy young people waiting for them with a very warm welcome. Aunt Beatrice was a plump, pretty, comfortable, middle-aged woman, who wore pink gingham dresses in the morning. And, without seeming to push Bee aside, she took charge of the kitchen. There wasn't a doubt about the fact that she could cook better than Bee. Robert praised her pies and cakes—and so did Bee and Bob.

"I'll do the salads," said Bee, with relief. "It's silly, I suppose, for me to cook when you're here and can do it so much better."

"Well," said Uncle Robert, "I always held that salads were a waste of time and appetite anyway. Sliced tomatoes—yes." And he forked some off a generous platterful that Aunt Beatrice had prepared to serve with the pot roast and green corn and mashed potatoes. "But fancy salad, or just green leaves and oil?"

And that was the end of the first day.

the vegetable garden from which Bee and Bob expected to supply much of their table later in the summer.

"And of course he knows more about it than I do," said Bob, one evening, smoking his pipe in the grape arbor with Bee, as they watched Uncle Robert proudly showing off the even green rows of beans and carrots and peas to Aunt Beatrice. They'd been there a month then—the uncle and aunt. "And you see it's his house—and her furniture—" sighed Bee. "There isn't much we can do, is there?"

By the end of July the two younger people were feeling a bit crowded out. "It's darling of Aunt Beatrice to cook us such delicious meals," said Bee one evening, to Bob. "But I don't like huckleberry pie and neither do you, and we've had it twice this week."

"Yeah," acquiesced Bob gloomily. "But Uncle Robert likes it. It's like his planning twice as many eggs plants next summer in the garden. Your aunt likes them. Slimy things!"

Bee laughed. "Bob, do you suppose—"

"Sure," said Bob. "Sure thing." "Well, what'll we do if they want the house—and the furniture—for themselves?"

"What'll we do? Give it to them. It's theirs. That job I start Monday is enough to keep us both going here—but if the old people take this place and we have to go to town, maybe you'll have to take that place you've been considering—until I get a couple of raises."

"Well, that's all right," said Bee. "Only—you fit in here so well. I'd like to be able to keep you here."

It was next day that Beatrice and Robert told Bee and Bob that they were going to be married. And Bob and Bee were sincere in their congratulations, though both their hearts dropped a bit at the prospect of losing their home.

"Well," said Bob, with a smile, "I guess it runs in the family."

"And," added Bee, hugging Aunt Beatrice, "it's been a splendid tide-over letting us live here. We'll be getting on, though, now."

"Getting on?" exclaimed Uncle Robert. "What's the matter with this place for you two? It'll be more comfortable after we go."

"You go?" exclaimed Bob. "Well, you see, Beatrice and I want to see the world. We've had a nice summer vacation here with you two youngsters, and we may come up for a week or two every summer—but we're going to live in a hotel in New York. Back there at the Briesker where I used to live, Bob. Suit you two to stay on here? I've got a little more put by than I need—and I'll deed this place to Bee. You see, if it hadn't been for you two, Beatrice and I wouldn't have known each other."

"Aunt Beatrice smiled happily at her niece. "No, that's a fact. And the furniture goes with the house. You two mustn't say anything about it. It's a little debt we owe you."

Nicknames of States

Wildlife and the out-of-doors seems to have had a decided influence on the nicknaming of states which few apparently appreciate. Several states are named for animals, some for birds, one or two for insects, and reptiles, a number for trees or flowers, and others for inorganic resources and even outdoor phenomena, according to a recent bulletin of the American Wildlife Institute.

Alabama, for example, is referred to as the "Lizard State" or as the "Yallerhammers State." The "Bear State" is Arkansas; Connecticut, the "Nutmeg State," Florida, the "Land of Flowers," and Georgia, though named for King George II of England, is the "Buzzard State."

The "Hawkeye State" is Iowa. Kansas, we call the "Sunflower State," and Kentucky the "Bluegrass State." Louisiana is nicknamed the "Pelican State" and everyone knows Maine as the "Pine Tree State." Michigan and Minnesota took their sobriquets from the wolverine and the gopher respectively, while Mississippi, which comes from the Algonquin words meaning "Fish River," goes to the eagle for her by-name. She is probably best known as the "Magnolia State."

The graceful antelope gave Nebraska her name and the sage brush of Nevada hers. Anyone who has frequented the marshes of New Jersey will appreciate the reason for her being nicknamed the "Mosquito State." North Carolina's pine trees provide the state with its name, the "Turpentine State."

The "Flickertail State" is North Dakota; the "Buckeye State," Ohio; Oregon, the "Beaver State"; and South Carolina is familiarly known as the "Palmetto State." In South Dakota we find the "Coyote State," Utah the "Behive," Washington the "Evergreen" and Wisconsin, the "Badger State."

Natural phenomena and physical features have been used to describe some of the states. Thus in Arizona we have the "Sunset State," and in Illinois, the "Prairie State," Massachusetts is the "Bay State," and Missouri, the "Iron Mountain State."

"Sunshine" designates New Mexico. In addition to the two names previously noted, Mississippi is also known as the "Bayou State." The "Lone Star State" is so well known that it need not be said to be Texas. Vermont as the "Green Mountain State," so named in French ("verd mont") by Samuel de Champlain, is equally well known.

Babies Adopted by Animals Develop Into Weaklings

History Lists Thirty Beast Parent Cases, but No Supermen Result.

DENVER.—"While I was with the baboons," related the youth, "I walked on all fours and slept in a bush, entirely naked."

"I was busy hunting food one day with my baboon companions when two policemen shot at us with revolvers. I was captured by one of the policemen."

Thus in 1920 ended 12 years in the jungles of South Africa for Lucas, 30 odd years old, a Negro, of Johannesburg, now a farm hand. When Lucas was caught, he could make only guttural noises, but now he speaks English and African. His story is related by Dr. Robert M. Zingg, associate professor of anthropology in Denver university, who has studied historical records for years gathering data on the wolf children and wild men of history and legend.

The Tarzan of fiction, reared by apes, became a superman. Romulus and Remus, suckled by a wolf, were mythical founders of Rome.

Doesn't Happen in Nature. "But apparently that just doesn't happen in nature," says Dr. Zingg. "There are 30 cases recorded in world history of children being suckled and raised by wolf mothers, baboons, pigs and other animals; or of children raised in absolute isolation without human contact."

"From these we tentatively concluded: '1. Human personality is awakened only through association with other human beings. Unless an infant, especially during the first year of life, has contact with other human beings he becomes little better than a wild animal.'

"2. In real life the Tarzans fail to become superhuman beings; on the contrary, inadequate diet dooms them to physical inferiority; failure of the human consciousness to unfold limits them, mentally, to the animal level."

Stolen as Mother Worked. The case of Lucas, the baboon child of Johannesburg, is one of the most recent.

Dr. Zingg has corresponded with Dr. Raymond Dart, head of the medical school at Witwatersrand university, Johannesburg, who investigated that case.

"Mounted police one day chased a band of baboons," says Dr. Zingg. "One baboon was much slower than the rest and this aroused the interest of the officers who decided to capture the creature. They were amazed to discover he was a human being."

"They took him to civilization and learned that a native woman had been working in a cornfield, some years before, and baboons ran off with her child."

"Apparently for years then, through childhood, Lucas had been raised by this baboon troop."

"He finally learned to talk but about the only thing he recalls of his life with the baboons is that he ate ostrich eggs, crickets, green corn, wild honey and prickly pears, as they did."

'Seeing Eye' Dog Goes With Bicycling Couple

VICTORIA, B. C.—A "bicycle built for three" carried Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hopkins of Tacoma and their "seeing eye" dog on a tour of Vancouver island.

Mrs. Hopkins is sightless but she has pedaled her way through Pacific Northwest scenic areas with her husband on many trips on their tandem bicycle.

The third party—Mitzi, the dog—either rides in a wicker basket trailer or guides his mistress through crowded thoroughfares or along unfamiliar country roads.

"We think it's just about the best way to travel," said Mrs. Hopkins. "I ride on the rear seat and Carl does the steering. It makes so much difference to be able to get out on the open road and roll along. We have lots of fun traveling this way."

Retired Officer Carries Buckshot for 23 Years

BAY CITY, MICH.—Shotgun pellets 23 years old add color to the reminiscences of 80-year-old Harry ("Cap") Anderson, retired policeman.

The pellets are the remainder of about 300 that Norman Stanley fired into Anderson's chest in July, 1916, after Anderson pursued him following the murder of Stanley's wife. Stanley committed suicide that same night, but not before he had critically wounded Anderson.

Even now, when Anderson talks of his experiences, he can bare his arms or chest and point to a bluish mound under the skin. He has been retired four years.

Bird in Hand, It Seems, Isn't Worth Two in Bush

OROVILLE, CALIF.—Harry Harper now knows that a bird in the hand is not worth two in the bush. Seeing a pheasant's tail protruding from a rice shock, and believing it had been killed by some other hunter, he seized hold of it.

Whereupon the very-much-alive pheasant kicked him in the face and made its getaway minus its tail—before he could pick up his gun.

Baby Chews and Tears Up Sheriff's Papers

EUGENE, ORE.—Serving legal papers on a seven-month-old baby was the unique experience of a deputy sheriff. It was necessary to serve papers on all heirs to an estate and the baby was one of the heirs.

The baby accepted the document willingly and immediately started to chew it and tear it to pieces.

Finds Married Student Secures Higher Grades

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—Being married is a good way to secure better grades, according to Mrs. Elise Fay Ware, a sophomore at Radcliffe college.

Mrs. Ware is one of the five students at the college with a straight A average and she explains it simply.

"You study better when you're married," she said, "if there's any formula for success in studies, that's it."

"When I was a student in New York before my marriage, I didn't do so well. But now it's much easier. The reason is simply that when you're married you spend less time gadding about and being social. You just come home—and study. It's the settled life."

Cats, Heirs to $41,000, Are Put on $9 Allowance

MILWAUKEE.—Sarah B. Hathaway's cats, which once shared her $41,000 estate, will have to get along on monthly allowances of $9 each.

The will of Miss Hathaway, who died in 1934, provided that her estate be used to support the cats. After their deaths, the will said, the remainder of her estate was to be divided among 11 nieces and nephews.

Thirteen of the cats died and $16,500 was divided among the heirs. Yesterday County Judge Charles Hansen ordered distribution of $9,900 more of the estate among the heirs and ordered the executor to place each of the five remaining cats on a $9 monthly allowance.

Young Seaman Is Honored But He Doesn't Know It

LONDON.—Unaware that he has been honored for gallantry, Dennis Bird, 19, is somewhere at sea with the navy.

His parents have been informed that their son, formerly an officer on the steamer Bosnie, which was sunk by a submarine, has been awarded the Liverpool Shipwreck and Humane society medal and certificate for his "gallant attempt" to rescue a seaman.

50-Year Mine Fire Checked at Last

May Smoulder for Some Time But Can't Spread Far.

NEW STRAITSVILLE, OHIO.—The "world's greatest mine fire," which has been burning here for more than 50 years, has been checked at last. The million-dollar project of barriers on which the Works Projects administration and the United States bureau of mines have been working since October 1, 1936, has been completed, according to Dr. Carl Watson, WPA administrator for Ohio, and the project headquarters has been closed.

The fire, which is estimated to have destroyed $50,000,000 worth of coal, may burn for another 50 years, but the barriers will prevent the flames from progressing farther toward the south, according to William J. Fene and J. H. Forbes, engineers of the bureau of mines. Nearly a billion dollars worth of coal, oil and other property between New Straitsville and the Ohio river, 65 miles away, were menaced by the fire before the barriers were built.

Workers formed these barriers by cutting three tunnels, totaling nearly three miles in length, in strategic points just outside the fire area. The tunnels followed the coal veins, which were emptied of coal and filled with dirt and mud.

The fire is said to have been started during the coal strike of 1884. It spread through an area of some 24 square miles in the vicinity of New Straitsville, and an additional 30 miles of crop lands.

In addition to the destruction of coal, oil wells have been ruined and the surface part of the region made uninhabited.

Copper Town Chuckles Over Joke on Easterner

BUTTE, MONT.—Roy Beadle still thinks he has the "prize" tourist story.

It concerns a woman tourist from the East, who stopped him on the street, said she was interested in the copper mines around Butte, but that one thing puzzled her.

"I heard a man say he worked on the night shift," she said. "Now what I want to ask is this—how in the world can they see to work in the mines at night when it gets dark?"

Beadle observed the woman closely, perceived that she was serious, and said: "Have you ever been down in a mine?"

When the woman shook her head, Beadle added: "Well, I advise you to take a trip through one, just to see how dark it gets, even in the daytime."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

IN THE UPPER ROOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 26:17-30.
GOLDEN TEXT—This do in remembrance of me.—I Corinthians 11:24.

Men sometimes stand at the crossroads of destiny quite unaware of how much hinges upon their choices and actions. One wonders whether the disciples realized that as the Passover drew to its end and the great memorial feast of the new covenant was established, they were witnessing the end of the old and the beginning of the new. It is certain that Jesus did realize the high import of that hour. He knew He was about to go to the cross, toward which the Passover had pointed throughout the centuries and back to which cross we in the Lord's Supper continue to point as we remember His death until He comes.

We are indeed on holy ground as we go with Him then as He meets His disciples alone in that upper room for a time of fellowship with them as He observes.

I. The Last Passover (vv. 17-20).

"Here we see the perfecting and the passing of the old economy and the beginning of the new. The Passover was observed, the feast of deliverance from slavery, the feast of the exodus, the feast of hope. Men had kept it fitfully through the long centuries, regularly at first and then occasionally through the age of decadence. The King sat down to keep it as one of the nation and the people. That was its last keeping in the economy of God, because all that it had foreshadowed was fulfilled as He sat at the board, and all that it had pointed to found the ultimate fulfillment in Him. He completed that of which the exodus had been the preparation. The final exodus came by the way of that cross to which He was going" (Dr. G. Campbell Morgan).

II. The Betrayal Predicted (vv. 21-25).

What precious fellowship the twelve and their Lord must have had around that table in the upper room as they celebrated the great feast of their people. Think what a shock came to them as in the midst of this fellowship Jesus quietly and solemnly made the astonishing prediction, "Verily, I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me."

Their joy was changed to exceedingly great sorrow as they asked, "Lord, is it I?" Apparently Judas had maintained such outward conduct as to turn no suspicion in his direction, even though all along he had in his heart the blackest of treachery against his Lord. It is a sad and soul-searching fact which is here revealed, that it is possible for one to make a high profession of faith in Christ and even so to live as to give no cause for criticism, and yet to be unregenerate and in fact the enemy of Christ.

Observe (v. 24) that while Jesus was betrayed and went to the cross in fulfillment of prophecy, that fact did not in the slightest justify His enemies who brought it about (see Acts 2:23, R. V.).

III. The First Communion (vv. 26-30).

Taking the unleavened bread and the unforgotten wine of the Passover, which had just been observed by Him for the last time, Jesus established a new feast, the Christian feast of remembrance, which we commonly call "communion" or "the Lord's table."

As we have already suggested, it is a feast of remembrance. "For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup ye do show the Lord's death till He come" (I Cor. 11:26). At the Lord's table His followers find spiritual strength in remembering His death for them, and they also find joy as they remember that He is to come again. In doing so they testify to the world that they believe in and cherish these truths.

This feast is also rightly called "communion," for down through the ages and until He does come the saints of God have at His table sweet communion, first of all with Him, and then with one another.

We also note that our Lord spoke of the cup as "my blood of the new testament." The word "testament" means "covenant." The Lord's table therefore speaks of our allegiance to Him, of our loyalty to our Lord, and our devotion to His service. The Christian church therefore speaks of the communion service as a sacrament, a word taken from the Latin sacramentum, meaning "oath," and essentially an oath of allegiance.

His body was broken for us, His blood was shed for the remission of our sins. We are bought with a price, we are not our own. Therefore we are to glorify God with all that we have and are.

Examples Wanted

Whether in the home or in the church, exhortation to goodness is about the most idle waste of breath. People do not want exhortations. They want examples.—Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick.

Highway Building Costs Not Limited to 'Surface'

What is a road? Motorists, despite their constant use of highways, might have a difficult time answering that question.

Evidence indicates that the average motorist considers a road, from the standpoint of construction cost, as a slab of surfacing material over which he drives his car. He ignores the elements represented in the right-of-way and the establishment of grades and laying of base materials.

The fundamental factors are fairly permanent; in other words, not subject to destruction nor to maintenance and replacement costs. The right-of-way, for instance, is paid for once and then may be forgotten. If the grade is established to conform to official standards—and it must be if it is partially financed by federal aid funds—then it, too, is subject to but a single initial cost.

With road experts making enormous progress in their efforts to salvage base materials, about the only factor which is subject to deterioration and wear is the actual surface. If the motorist thinks of this feature as the entire road, he may get a false impression of the longevity of the highway which he builds, although modern expensive surfaces do show vastly improved durability.

In connection with their advocacy of a better comprehension of what actually constitutes a road, highway officials would have another aspect of highway life more thoroughly understood. It is that relating to the effect of traffic upon surface destruction. The most searching of all investigations conducted by federal scientists reveal that it is not the service it is called upon to render so much as the climatic conditions which it must resist that determines the degree of maintenance that a given highway will require.

Famed Wild-West Bandit Was Born in New York

Billy the Kid, one of the most famous outlaws of the Southwest, was born in New York city November 23, 1859. His real name was William H. Bonney and he was the son of William H. and Kathleen Bonney. In 1862 the family moved to Coffeyville, Kan., where the father died. The mother, with her two children, moved to Colorado, where she married a man named Arntim. About 1865 the family moved to Santa Fe, N. M., and in 1868 to Silver City, N. M.

The boy had some schooling, but by the time he was 12 years old he had become a frequenter of saloons and gambling places and an adept at cards. When 15 years old he quarreled with his stepfather and left home. Almost at once he embarked on a criminal career and when he was 21 years old he had slain more than a score of men and had shot his way out of jail repeatedly. In July, 1881, Sheriff Pat Garrett, of Lincoln county, in New Mexico, beat Billy to the draw and ended his career. Garrett, who had been elected for the sole purpose of ridding New Mexico of Billy, had captured him once and lost him when the Kid, under sentence of death, slew two guards and fled the jail.

Garrett traced him to the vicinity of Fort Sumner. The two men met with pistols in a darkened room. Garrett fired first.

Panama City

Panama City on the Pacific is filled with fine old churches of the Spanish Colonial era, moss-covered forts and battlements and historic buildings. The hotels, however, are new and modern. In addition to the canal, with its ever changing scene of water-borne traffic, the gay life and round of parties with the military and the navy crowd when ships are in and the excitement of the carnival season, there is plenty of time for peaceful repose along the miles of beaches. Then there is fishing, both near the mainland and out among the Cocos islands in the Pacific. Planes and fast modern ships have brought Panama almost to the back door of the United States and its natural advantages have made of it one of our most popular tropical recreation resorts.

Dripping Pipes

The sound of waste water gurgling through the soil pipes between the partitions is objectionable to most home owners and need not be tolerated. The noise is overcome by insulating the soil pipes with a pipe covering. Sweating pipes in the basement sometimes prevent use of that space as recreation room, workshop or laundry. Cold-water lines covered with non-sweat insulation will not drip. Soil pipe insulation has to be done before walls are closed and plastered, but dripping pipes are easily reached and can be corrected.

Auto Clutch Adjustments

The clutch pedal should move an inch in any car before it begins to take effect. As the facings wear, however, this margin of clearance assured by the factory adjustment begins to diminish. Eventually it will reach the vanishing point and the pedal will rest tightly against the toeboard with the result that the clutch springs are always compressed. All manner of clutch trouble may follow failure to see that proper clearance is maintained.

Sailor, In Grip Of "Ol' Debbil Sea", Breaks Hold And Saves Two Lives

Neil Wanamaker, the man who came up from Davy Jones' locker and "ragged" U. S. Coast Guard.

Caught in wreckage when his barge, loaded with stone, turned over and sank in a night storm at sea, Neil Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, was dragged down for fifty feet before he could free himself and fight his way back to the surface.

When he took his involuntary plunge with the barge, Wanamaker had in his hand a flashlight. Despite his struggle to free himself, he hung on to this light and as he came up from the depths it was still working. It was the bright, bobbing pin point it made in the black expanse of the Atlantic that later enabled a Coast Guard crew to come to the rescue, saving Wanamaker and two other men who were aboard the barge.

The craft on which Wanamaker took his dive toward Davy Jones' locker was the last one of a string of barges in the tow of a tug bound for New York. Heavily loaded and racked by the storm and rough seas, the big scow sprang a leak and at once began to sink.

To avoid involving the rest of the "tow," the men cut the 300-foot hawser linking them to the next barge and prepared to take their chance with the life preservers when their craft went down. In turn, the tug captain, unable to stop or turn around because of the danger of getting the barges tangled, did all he could to aid the abandoned ones. He radioed the Coast Guard, giving the position of the drifting men.

"We started to sink at midnight," Wanamaker said, "and went down fast. Just before the final crack-up a wave knocked me flat on deck. The next thing I knew the barge was under water. I was pulled down with it, caught against the wreckage of the cabin. The oil lamps on the boat had been out for some time, of course, and I had been using my flashlight. It was still clutched in my hand, and lit, too. Feeling around above my head, I found what was holding me, and managed to free myself.

"When I came to the surface, I picked out the other fellows floating nearby. It was mighty cold as we bobbed around on those waves. We didn't know the Coast Guard was coming, but I kept the light burning all that time, hoping someone would spot us. It was the only thing we had to signal with, but the batteries were fresh and the light remained strong. If it had gone out, the Coast Guard might not have found us in time when they did arrive."

Wanamaker and his two companions were taken to a hospital in New York, where they underwent treatment for their long exposure to the icy seas. They recovered at once and seemed none the worse for their experience.

ON ST. PATRICK'S DAY IN THE MORNIN'
(See Recipes Below)

Some Ideas for a Party

Shur-re an' in the mer'ry month o' Mar-ry, it's St. Patrick's day we're thinkin' of when we pass along these ideas for a party.

Parties seem to move along more smoothly after a bit of fun—and fun it is to find an Irish Paddy's Pig at your place at the table! Small Irish potatoes, scrubbed until they shine, make the fat bodies of the pigs. For the head, fasten a large round gum drop to one end of each potato, with a toothpick. Make the snout from a small gum drop pinched to the proper shape, and fasten it to the head with a toothpick. Insert whole cloves for "facial features." Cut ears and a curly tail from jelly strings and fasten these in position with toothpicks too. Small gum drops, fastened to the body with toothpicks, make the legs.

Nut cups which look like Paddy's clay pipe, can be made from marshmallows, green cellophane soda straws, and a bit of green ribbon. With a pair of sharp-pointed scissors, hollow out the center of the marshmallow slightly, to form the bowl of the pipe. Tie a green ribbon (with a jaunty bow) around the pipe bowl, and insert a cellophane soda sipper low in one side, for the stem.

These two party menus are planned for St. Patrick's day. You'll find other suggestions for parties of every kind, in my cook book, "Easy Entertaining."

Green and White Mints Salted Nuts

Refrigerator Cloverleaf Rolls.

(Makes 3 dozen)

2 cups water (boiling)
1/2 cup and 1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon salt
6 tablespoons shortening (part butter for flavor)
2 cakes yeast
1/4 cup water (lukewarm)
2 eggs (beaten)
8 cups flour

Mix together the boiling water, 1/2 cup sugar, the salt, and shortening. Cool slightly. Dissolve yeast and 1 teaspoon sugar in the lukewarm water, and add to the first mixture. Add eggs and half of the flour. Beat well. Add remaining flour and mix thoroughly.

Place dough in greased bowl, grease the top lightly and cover the bowl. Store in refrigerator. Before using, let the dough stand at room temperature to warm up, before shaping the rolls. To shape cloverleaf rolls, brush very small balls of the dough with melted butter and place three balls in each section of a greased muffin pan. Let rise until light and bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees) for about 20 minutes.

Cook's Mayonnaise Dressing.

2 tablespoons vinegar
2 eggs (beaten)
1 cup salad oil
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon salt

Add vinegar gradually to the beaten eggs, and continue beating until blended. Cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly until the mixture thickens. Remove from flame and cool. Then slowly add the oil, beating constantly. Combine seasonings and fold into the dressing.

Fruit Salad Dressing.

While making your favorite boiled salad dressing recipe you'll undoubtedly want to reserve half of the dressing "as is" for use on vegetable salads. However, to the remaining half—which should be hot—

Are "left-overs" a problem in your household? They needn't be! There are clever, unusual ways of using them. Next week Eleanor Howe will give you some of her own favorite recipes and suggestions for using odds and ends of vegetables and meats, and even a hint or two for using stale cake and pie.

add a few quartered marshmallows and fold until melted. This dressing will be sweeter and fluffier than the original and is perfectly delightful to keep on hand for fruit salads of all kinds.

Angel Food Snowballs. (Makes 16)

1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup sugar
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
4 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Heat milk and butter to scalding point. Add sugar and dissolve. Sift flour, baking powder and salt, and combine with the milk and sugar mixture. Beat well. Beat egg whites until frothy, add cream of tartar, and beat until the egg whites stand up in points. Fold into the batter and add vanilla. Pour into greased muffin pans and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 20 minutes.

St. Patrick's Lime Pie. (Serves 6)

4 eggs (separated)
3/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1/4 cup lime juice
Pastry cut in shamrock shapes and baked
Rind of one lime (grated)
Green vegetable coloring
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 baked pie shell

Beat the egg yolks until thick and light-colored. Mix 1/2 cup of the sugar and the flour, add lime juice and grated rind, and combine with the egg yolks. Cook until thick, over very low heat, stirring constantly. Cool. Add just enough green coloring to tint the filling slightly. Add salt to egg whites and beat until stiff; gradually add the remaining 1/4 cup of sugar, and beat until very stiff. Fold into the yolk mixture and pour into baked pie shell. Place pastry shamrocks on top. Bake in a moderately hot oven (415 degrees) for 5 to 7 minutes, or until the filling is set. Cool.

St. Pat's 'Hats.'

Using a large round slice of bread (buttered) for a brim, build up a hat crown with a layer each of tunafish salad and sliced tomato, placed between 3 smaller bread circles. Stick a toothpick down through center. Spread entire sandwich with green-tinted cream cheese. Add green pepper hat band. Chill. Serve on shredded lettuce.

U. S. Gallery of Art Under Way

Building, Gift to Nation of Late Andrew Mellon, Done by August.

WASHINGTON.—Work on the National Gallery of Art is progressing through the interior and the $15,000,000 building, gift to the United States of the late Andrew W. Mellon, will be completed by August, it was announced. It will be several months after completion of the building, however, before the galleries are decorated and the collections arranged for inspection by the public.

The last section of the heavy wire-woven glass in the two-acre skylight roof has been laid in place and the glass ceilings of the individual gallery rooms are now being laid. The exterior of the building has been completed with the exception of the pediment on the Mall side and the steps leading up to the main entrance.

Rockwood stone, forming the walls of the rotunda, main sculpture galleries and the entrance lobbies, is being set. The rotunda will be surrounded by an Ionic order of 24 columns of dark green marble. The rotunda's floor will be of Nero Nube, a black marble.

To House Sculpture.

Large pieces of sculpture will be housed in the two central galleries. Paintings and smaller pieces of sculpture will be displayed in the exhibition galleries which open off the central galleries and surround the garden courts. The paintings will be shown in rooms especially designed for their schools and periods.

Galleries accommodating Italian paintings and sculpture will be finished with travertine or plaster walls. Doors and wainscot will be trimmed with travertine and the floors will be of wood. Dutch paintings will be shown in rooms paneled with oak. French, British and American oils of the Eighteenth century will be hung in rooms paneled with painted wood.

The gallery has acquired two fountains executed in 1672 for Louis XIV of France, for the Theater d'Eau at the Palace of Versailles. One will be placed in each of the garden courts of the main gallery floor.

Fountains a Feature.

Each of these courts, 106 feet long and 76 feet wide, contains 16 monolithic columns and leads into wide central galleries opening off the rotunda. There will be gardens in the courts and benches for the visitors.

The fountains, modeled of lead, are comparable in size and general motif. One, executed by Pierre Legros, represents two winged cherubs playing with a lyre. The other, by Jean Baptiste Tubi, portrays two cherubs playing with a swan.

The gallery will house Mr. Mellon's collection of 111 paintings and 21 pieces of sculpture and Samuel H. Kress' collection of 375 paintings and 18 pieces of sculpture. The Mellon collection includes three Raphaels and four Botticellis as well as canvases by Duccio, Fra Angelico, Jan van Eyck, Titian, Rubens, Vandyke, Rembrandt, Vermeer, Franz Hals, Goya, El Greco and Valazquez.

Miami to Be Torn Down

MIAMI, FLA.—Last relic of Miami's early history will be torn down. This ancient coral rock wall is closely associated with the early history of Miami, being the boundary of the original city then known as Fort Dallas.

Early settlers of the region established Fort Dallas as a barricade against the Seminole Indians. The fortress, surrounded by the eight-foot wall, was named after Commodore Dallas, at that time commandant of the United States fleet in the Gulf of Mexico. The site remained Fort Dallas from the year 1835 until July 28, 1896, when it was incorporated as the city of Miami.

In the wall can be found the flattened bullets of the Indians, for the coral rock helped withstand more than one attack of the everglade red men.

One of the last relics of Miami's early days, the wall will be removed to make space for a garage where 1940 automobiles will be sold.

Method for Producing

Man-Made Oil Revealed

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—A method of producing synthetic oil from decayed organic material was disclosed at the closing session of the American geological society's annual convention.

Clark Goodman, Massachusetts Institute of Technology geophysicist, said man-made oil has become a scientific fact, but its production is not yet feasible commercially. In laboratory experiments, Goodman said, Dean S. D. Lind, of the University of Minnesota, developed a process whereby decayed organic material could be converted into petroleum by radioactive elements.

Hold High Jinks

At Church Building

BOSTON.—Liquor drinking during church construction was an elaborate procedure in early New England days. According to records brought to light by the WPA historical records survey, when the new Congregational Center meeting house in Charlton was built in 1789, they had two committees, one to provide the liquor and another to pass it out. The carpenters were delegated to decide when refreshments should be served.

Washington's Birthday

Washington's birthday is more observed in the northeastern states than in any other part of the country, but even there, not so fully as in previous generations. Back in the eighties it was the custom of many New Yorkers to dress up in Colonial uniforms and parade the streets, each section under a leader. The boys used to gather around Fourteenth street, march down to the Battery, and take a boat for Staten island, where they enjoyed the day drinking beer and playing games, provided the weather permitted.

Exquisite Hummingbird

The ruby-throated hummingbird is the smallest, most exquisite, and unabashed of our bird neighbors, and its flight ranges from Yucatan to Hudson bay. It is also a desperate duelist and will lunge its deadly blade into the breast of an enemy at the slightest provocation. All the color of its glowing throat seems transferred to its head when a fight occurs, which sometimes continues even to the death of the participants.

Shark Business Boom

The University of Florida reports the common shark is now the basis of a $100,000-a-year business conducted by 11 companies. The prime shark product is the liver, which contains oil rich in vitamin A. Last year, 10,000 sharks yielded 9,000 gallons of oil, in addition to fins for soup and skins for leather; this year's catch may double that number.

68-Degree Temperature

CLEVELAND, OHIO.—The most comfortable temperature for human beings is 72 degrees, but the best for mental activity is 68, believes Dr. W. A. Sommerfeld, Cleveland physician.

"The four major weather factors significant in health are temperature, humidity, motion of the air and air pressure," Dr. Sommerfeld said. "Cold, moist air is 'chilling to the bone,' as one says, and gives the impression of penetration. This is good weather for catching pneumonia."

Honesty

A saint's life in one man may be less than common honesty in another. From us, whose conscience He has reached and enlightened, God may look for a martyr's truth, a Christian's unworshiped simplicity, before He will place us on a level even with the average of the exposed classes.—J. H. Thom.
