ISSUE.

The Record received the latter part f this week, through the Board of Election Supervisors a very lengthy statement concerning the registration of draftees on October 16. In last week's Record there appeared a one column article containing questions and answers on this subject.

This and other articles of considerable length, that would total about three columns, all of more or less local interest, have been received. We regret that we must omit all of the articles; or take a chance on missing our Friday afternoon outgoing mail, and at the time delay the finishing of accumulated orders for job printing.

FATHER LANE TRANSFERED TO MT. SAVAGE.

Father Joseph Lane, for seven years Rector of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, left on Monday for Mt. Savage, Allegeny County, to take charge of the church there. He will be succeeded by Father Murphy, from Baltimore. Father Lane was well liked in Taneytown, by both Catholics and Protestants. Father Murphy has been assistant pastor at St. Andrew

CINCINNATI "REDS" WIN WORLD'S SERIES.

The world's series championship baseball game this year were the hardest fought and most skilfully managed ever played. It was also the most largely attended, and the first contest of the kind to require playing seven games.

The Cincinnati "Reds" and the Detroit "Tigers" were so evenly matched as not to definitely decide which is the strongest team, as the series was a see-saw exhibition from beginning to end in a 2 to 1 victory for the "Reds" in the deciding game. There was a total of 50 runs made

-22 for Cincinnati and 28 for Detroit, which again shows the doubt as to which team is the strongest or most lucky-for there is plenty of "luck" in baseball.

THE WELFARE BOARD HOLDS MONTHLY MEETING

Some of the Activities of the Board are Explained.

The last monthly meeting of the Welfare Board of Carroll County was held in the local office on Wednesday, October 2, beginning at 7:30 P. M. Meeting was in charge of Dr. Chas. R. Foutz, Chairman. Minutes of the September 4 meeting were read by Herbert G. Englar.

Nine applications for Old Age Assistance with complete investigations were presented by William E. Royer, Case Supervisor. Seven were approved as eligible, and two were rejected as ineligible. Three additional applications for Old Age Assistance were discussed, but action was de-

The matter of school clothing needs and the Boards recent plan for meeting the same, was reviewed, and approval given for continuing the plan. A suggestion was made that frequent encouragement should be given to families to plan during summer months for the winter supply of clothing by taking advantage of the Community Exchange which is now in

Mr. Royer reported that intense work has been placed upon the bringing of case records of families receiving assistance, up to date, including recent and frequent reports of relatives who are working and able to assist parents. Ten boys will enroll for CCC on October 3. They will be stationed at

I write to make two special requests of you and I am doing so thus early because of the uncertainty of the mails. Recently it has taken some letters three months to get here and it sometimes takes our letters forty days to get to America. It would be sad for me not to get your letter before Christmas! My first request is that you help me give my little Brownies a nice Christmas treat. They are still refugees and are having a hard time to live and get along. Even in time of peace their lot is indeed hard; but it s ever so much worse in time of war. I want to give them a fine time on Christmas and bring hope and a smile to their faces. Prices are up enormously because of our being war-sur-rounded and because of the fall in value of the Chinese dollar; but we wish to give the wee ones some candy, an apple, a doll and a ball and some other toy. Even little things will make them happy. I am sure it will make your Christmas sweeter because you know you have made some little ones happier on the "underside of the world." Do not feel that you must send a lot. I am asking a number of others. Many littles will make enough to give a little to each of my 1000 Brownies. When Christmas is over I'll try to send to you my little ones' "Zia-zia noong"—Thank, thank

My second request is that you send me a small gift to help pay the expenses of my regular work. My rents have gone up some 140% and some 25% and I have had to increase the salaries of my helpers so any help you can give will be much appreciated. When you write please say how much of your gift is for Christmas and how much for my regular work. Please put five cents on your letter else it will be taxed 50 Chinese cents. Send by presents check or by H.

Send by personal check, or by U. S. Domestic Money Order payable in New York, or by International Money Order payable in Shanghai. Do not send money in your envelopes unless you register your letter.

If it is more convenient to please send your gift to my brother, Rev. G. B. F. Hallock, D. D., 10 Liv-ingston Park, Rochester, N. Y., U. S. A., and tell him it is for me. He will put the amount to my credit in my Bank in Rochester, N. Y., and I can draw it out through my Bank here, so

INCREASE IN MARYLAND MO-TOR VEHICLES.

For the year ending Sept. 30, motor car licenses in Maryland show a gain of 21,400 and an increase in State taxes of $922,000 for the year. The total of motor vehicles in the state amounted to 439,432, the total of passenger vehicles being 360,000. The total valuation of these vehicles has not been ascertained, nor

ANCIENT HISTORY STATE OF MARYLAND.

Map in Colors Dates back to the Year of 1694.

The following valuable history has been issued to press from the news service of the Seaboard Railway Company. The article is lengthy but it is too valuable to pass by, as it will be worth both reading and keeping for reference.

"A beautiful colored may of Maryland, engraved by F. Lamb in London in 1694 was discovered this week in the archives of the Old Bay Line, subsidiary of the Seaboard Railway, according to reports from Norfolk, Virginia.

The map is remarkably true in its delineation of physical features of our State. However, the names of towns and bodies of waters have somewhat different names. For instance, Balti-more is called "Baltimore Town"; the Atlantic Ocean is "The North the Atlantic Ocean is "The North Sea", and New Jersey is written, "New Iarsy." Interesting locations in Maryland include, Indian Towns, Northampton, Goulden Quarters, Arundelron, Wighkawamecq, Worlds' End, Horn Bay, Calverton, Wiglico alias Pocomoake and Dod Darinton. Landmarks known to all today are Cape Charles, Newport News, New Castle, Chesapeake Bay and the James River.

The imprint on the map states "Sold by Thomas Basset in Fleet Street and Richard Chiswell in St. Paul's Church Yard." On the reverse of the map, which is in a fine state of preservation, despite its age, there is the following description of Maryland written in 1694.

It was in the year 1631 that his late Majesty gave a grant to George Lord Baltimore for the possessing and planting the Southern part of New Netherland, now New York-shire, lying toward Virginia; when upon his Embassy to the States of Holland they declared by public writing their dissent to whatever had been acted by any of their subjects in prejudice of his Majesties Right and Title in those parts, as hath been already mentioned. Crescentia was the name first in designation for this country; but it being left to his Majesty at the time of his signing of the Bill, to give it what denomination he judged fittest he was pleased in honour of his Royal Consort Queen Mary, to erect it into a Province by the name of Mary-Land; which Patent, upon the death of his Lordship, before the final ratification thereof, was not long after confirm-ed under the Broad-Seal of England, bearing date June 20, Ann. 1632, to Bank in Rochester, N. Y., and I can draw it out through my Bank here, so it need not go through the doubtful heirs and successors with the Sovereignty, attended with all Royal God bless you richly. Please keep Prerogatives both Military and Civil, as absolute Lords and Proprietors of due to his Majesty, his Heirs and Successors; of whom they were to hold it, as of his Majesties honour of Windsor; for the yearly payment at the Castle of the said honour of Windsor on every Easter Tuesday, of two Indian Arrows of those parts; and the fifth part of all the Gold and Silver Oar which should happen to be found there.

A TOUCHING POEM.

Harold K. Alcorn, an American soldier in France, in 1918 while trav-eling one town to another, picked up a piece of paper out of the long grass and found the verses below typewrit-ten in English. The author's name was not on the paper, and the verses were published anonymously. We have never learned who wrote them.

If with pleasure you are viewing Any work a man is doing; If you like him or you love him,

Tell him now!
Don't withhold your approbation
Till the parson makes oration And he lies with snowy lillies O'er his brow.

For no matter how you shout it He won't really care about it, He won't know how many tear-drops You have shed.

If you think some praise is due him Now's the time to slip it to him, For he cannot read his tombstone When he's dead.

More than praise and more than money, Is the comment kind and sunny And the hearty, warm approval Of a friend. For it gives to life a savor Makes a fellow stronger, braver, And it gives him hope and courage

To the end. If you love him, let him know it; If he merits praise, bestow it; Let the words of true encouragement

Do not wait till life is over And he's underneath the clover. For he cannot read his tombstone

When he's dead!

The heavy bomdardment of London still continues to be made by the Nazi forces, while English bombers are retaliating by flying over Holland into Germany and bombing at various war munitions centers, but not with great results.

THE WAR IN EUROPE.

On the whole, the past week seems to have been favorable to German forces, but reports are very conflicting. England evidently needs outside aid, but the scattered areas that make up Great Britain seems not able to co-operate very effectively, but results so far have been comparatively negligent.

-11-Of all the countries in the world, there are only a few where the individual still has the right to vote as his mind and heart tell him. Our land is one of these, and yet there are mil-lions of Americans who fail to use their privilege and duty.

Random Thoughts

CHESTNUT HUNTING.

Seventy-five or more years ago, chestnut hunting was a sort of free for all pastime, along with filberts, or hazel nuts, shellbarks and walnuts. The last two are still fairly plentiful, but not so free nor so plentiful. Chestnuts were not so easy to get from the trees, and climbing was dangerous. Club trimming, or the use of long poles, and bumping the trunks after a frost, were among the best efforts.

Both chestnut and walnut trees have suffered from blights resulting in the loss of good lumber, as well as nuts-and are memories rather than present day facts-considering our Maryland Once in a while the boys were "chased," especially when the tree owners had boys of their

Even should the trees be as plentiful, the chances are that the old-time freedom would not now exist. Now, we advertise against "trespassing" which shows that ownership and values are taken more account of. .P B. E.

APPEALS—AND RESPONSIBILITY

We do not believe there has ever been a time in the history of the world when appeals have been so widely existent or urgent as now; and we do not include in this statement what we commonly call "salesmanship" and every day needs.

These appeals are mostly for money, or for what may be called physical help for the relief of suffering, or to prevent disaster or ruin of some kind -both at home and abroad.

These appeals are mostly of a character that asks for more or less voluntary gifts. They come through our churches for local as well as missionary objects. Through the Red Cross and organized charitable institutions.

Just now, the war in Europe is duplicating their appeals in various ways. We are feeling the same results through increased taxation. They are now calling for our young men by thousands; and, we can predict what the end of all will be?

Of course, there is a varied, far reaching, responsibility for all of this. Of course, there are interests causing all of it. There are situations to be analyzed, and leaderships to be "paid" back" in like kind, if full justice is to be done.

"We, the people," have a big job ahead-bigger than we possibly now estimate. Again, what will we try to do about it?

who are suffering because of war, be saved from conditions for which they are not responsible?

The rulers, the ambitious, the tyrannical, in pursuing their lust for wholesale bloodshed, if need be, are also responsible for the death and suffering to their home-land children, their fathers and mothers.

In the present situation, of course, Germany and its Allies could stop warfare at once, and trying to pacify those countries that they have already subdued, and to settle boundary lines yet disputed.

We do not know what the Red Cross may be doing in a world-wide manner, to relieve suffering among children without discrimination. It may be operating in Germany, Italy, labor. The total in every case has Russia. If so, then it seems to us that this great organization should be more liberally supported, rather last three. How short is the distance than organize a new effort to help to complete disaster? Britain's children alone.

A DOUBLE DECISION BY JUDGE WILLARD.

The positive statement made by Judge Willard, of Frederick County, in the McNair case, that "drunken driving will not be tolerated by the courts" causes some wide speculation.

For instance, the questions of when a driver is drunk, who is responsible for his being so, and what responsibility rests on those who know drivers to be addicted to drinking liquor?

Sobriety all the time is surely a virtue. Drinking intoxicants is not a good habit at any time. This being true, it would seem that our schools-private and public-should add a course of education in opposition to the use of alcohol in any form.

Our newspapers and periodicals are also public educators. If not that, they are worthless, and more than that-dangerous to public morality and sobriety.

ALL HET UP.

We are going to get all het up beween now and November 6th., and a lot of us are going to lose our tempers, and to fear that the country will go to the "demnation bow-wows" if other people do not think, act and vote like we do. Do you know, looking back thru the years, I have seen many such crisal times come and pass, and the strangest thing is that the day after election when the results are finally known, and recorded, the people, you, I and the other "hot heads" settle down to our own business and we don't get riled until the next political campaign comes around. I like to see this hot-head feeling prevail. When people can get real excited, and maybe mad, even fighting mad, there is still hope that the democratic system will endure a spell longer. When the people cease to care or take interest, then demagogues have already made us into a totalitarian state. Don't worry about the excitement. It is a safety valve. The old flag will continue to fly so long as people can get excited about W. J. H.

In the recent years, the people of America have been rushing in a direction that they would never go if they realized where the road leads. Here is the proof of it.

WHERE WILL IT END?

Recently the president, without the knowledge or consent of congress or the general public, and solely on his own say so, gave to Great Britain 50 outmoded (?) Cruisers in exchange for airplane stations at points from New Foundland to Trinidad. Few question the value of the deal. It is to the good, as far as the U.S. is concerned; but the method of the doing IS NOT to the good.

If the president, or any president, without anybody's consent, and in spite of the express Act of Congress, passed June 1917, and also by specific act passed June 18, 1940, and which the president himself signed and thus made the law, what is to prevent him from trading away any or all of our Navy, all of our army equipments, all of our accumulated airplanes? AMERICAN LEGION OPPOSES CERTAIN TEXT BOOKS.

Agitation by Mountain Lakes (N. J.) Post No. 387, American Legion, recently caused the Board of Education to withdraw four textbooks written by Dr. Harold Rugg, Professor of Education at Columbia Teachers College, from the Mountain Lakes public schools. The texts had been used for almost ten years in seventh and eighth grade social science classes.

The American Legion asked that the books be withdrawn on the tem". A resolution to that effect was passed last June. Harold J. Delchamps, president of the Board of Education, stated the books had been under investigation for some time and were eliminated as text and ref-

MR. WILLKIE AND THE FARMER.

Last week, The Record published an article on how the "Maryland Farmer share in Roosevelt Benefits." This week we give below a large portion of an article on the editorial page of The Blue Ridge Record, published in Purcellville, Va., on "Mr. Willkie and the Farmer" that seems to show at least partial agreement with the views of President Roose-

"Wendell L. Willkie, in his bid for the farm vote made last Friday night before a friendly and enthusiastic audience of some 12,000 persons in Omaha, Nebraska, gave a detailed and documented outline of his farm policies and program. The speech was in keeping with his expressed economic views and endorsed, without apology, the New Deal farm measures which he said should be continued until something better can be

He said he took "no narrow or partisan attitude toward the New Deal farm programs as he saw in them honest purposes, some real values and various points from which to pro-ceed." He proposed therefore "to take over and improve those elements of the present program which are helping the farmer in his battle against the contracting economy that the New Deal has brought about." In effect, his speech took farm policy as such, out of politics and out of the campaign, except in so far as Mr. Willkie links broad national recovery to farm recovery.

Even though Mr. Willkie approves the New Deal farm policy in general, he is not without criticism of its administration. As the owner of seven farms in Indiana which last year produced 25,000 bushels of corn, he has had first hand experience with the 11 the president, or any president, can trade away 50 of our cruisers, the AAA, and advocates numerous

He favors the familytype farm and promised less bureau-cracy, more local control, reduction in the costs of administration and the elimination of unnecessary employees. He also advocated that the farmlending operations of the government be made independent of the Depart-ment of Agriculture and pledged that if he were elected, they would be free from political control.

First and foremost on the list of specific phases of the Administration farm program which Mr. Willkie endorsed was the soil conservation program which, he said, no party had a copyright on and was not a partisan issue. He proposed that the present program be continued and strengthtrary. COW'S 'FUTURE' IS PRICE GUIDE

Animal's Age and Productivity Are Important Items.

By DR. GEORGE TAYLOR

(Extension Dairyman, New Jersey College Of Agriculture, Rutgers University.) When buying cows, farmers should consider not only the purchase price but also the age of the animal and the anticipated future period of usefulness.

From the standpoint of maximum milk production, the dairy cow reaches maturity at about five years of age. From this point on, age exerts little influence on the amount of milk produced until the animal reaches 10 to 12 years of age. However, many cows develop udder and breeding troubles before 10 years of age, which terminates their period of usefulness.

The market price of grade dairy cattle is usually the highest at three to four years of age. At this age the heifer has completed one or two lactation periods, thus making it possible to ascertain her general dairy qualities. At three years, the cow has the best part of her productive period of usefulness ahead. After eight years, her market value begins to decline even though she may be at her best in milk produc-

On the average, in grade herds in the United States, a cow is milked between five and six years. The replacement rate in this country is considerably higher than in many European countries. Cows in Danish dairies, for example, complete approximately seven lactations compared to five for herds in the United States.

As a basis for a decision as to when a cow is no longer profitable, milk production records as well as breeding records should be kept. Inferior producers and diseased animals should be disposed of regardless of age. High producing cows that continue to be regular breeders should be kept in the herd until they are at least 10 to 12 years old.

Inexpensive Confection

Being Made From Whey "Wheyfers" are an inexpensive new chocolate-covered confection to satisfy America's sweet tooth recently developed by the bureau of dairy industry. Wheyfers are a light, brittle, porous candy made from the whey, which is a waste product in the manufacture of cheddar or Swiss cheese. The new candy is not cooked but is dried hard and crisp. Its unusual light porous quality is the result of whipping air into sweetened condensed whev.

To make the new candy, sweet pastuerized whey and sugar are evaporated together under vacuum to a thick smooth consistency, and then whipped until light and fluffy. Chopped nuts and cooked cereal to take away any salty whey taste are added. Then the mixture is rolled out in a thin layer and dried. Cut in small wafers the candy is dipped in chocolate to keep it from absorbing moisture and becoming sticky, or crystallizing.

Sweetened condensed whey, the chief ingredient of this new candy, is cheap and simple to prepare, keeps well, and is easy and con-venient to use. It is excellent for making chocolate fudge, caramels, taffy, and various mixtures for the center of chocolates.

U. S. Farm Families

Are Really 'Well Fed' Farm families are the best fed population group in the country. This statement was made by Dr. Louis Stanley, chief of the bureau of home economics in the department of agriculture, Washington, D. On the other hand, according to the most recent report, village families are the poorest fed, with

The difference lies, it seems in the amount of "protective" foods eaten. Farm families consume an average of about 60 per cent more milk, 15 per cent more butter, and 25 per cent more leafy, green and yellow vegetables than small city families, a diet rich in protein, vita-

city families falling between the min A, iron and calcium. Most farm families owe their excellent diets to home production of generous quantities of protective foods. Every household should learn what foods and how much of each is required to furnish a fully adequate diet, decide what to buy, what to raise, and what to can and store for out-of-season consumption.

Tying Fleeces

Binder twine may be good for hanging up seed corn or pinch-hitting for shoe laces but, use of sisal and heavy jute is a splendid way to get a discount on wool prices when used to tie up shorn fleeces. These twines shed loose fibers into the wool and go through the manufacturing processes as defects in the finished product. Being of vegetable origin, sisal and jute fibers do not take dyes in the same degree as wool, causing trouble in colored fabrics.

Mechanized Equipment Hit by Farm Tenants

For several years there has been a growing complaint from Middle Western tenant farmers that they were being, as they called it, "tractored off the farm."

That a good many tenants are annually pushed off the farm and that the tendency to farm more land with mechanized equipment is a contributing cause is verified in a report by the Farm Security administration on tenant conditions in Iowa. Nearly 5,000 tenant families, this report said, were unable to find farms to rent this year. But other factors are involved. For instance, a bigger crop of young farmers is coming to maturity and seeking opportunity each year than the number of old farmers displaced by death or voluntary retirement. Since the land to be farmed is rigidly limited, the result is a body of farmers without farms. The tendency to farm larger units with power equipment does not seem to represent any real trend toward making a factory out of the farm, although imagination sometimes suggests this.

It has been found that the farmer who has been accustomed to farming 160 acres, the ordinary conception of the "family-sized farm," can, with power equipment, handle 240 or 320 acres as easily. So he rents or buys this additional land. But the farm still remains a familyoperated institution.

What the tractor has displaced in greater volume than the farm tenant is the hired hand. But the farm laborer is a voiceless fellow who looks for a job somewhere else if he can't find it on the farm. and not much is heard from him.

Oboe Built of Wood

In 3 Separate Parts

Often called the hautboy, the oboe is a wooden instrument of a conical bore played with a double reed. Built in three sections-"top joint," "lower joint" and "bell"—the instrument contains many keys and bores. The chief improvements are due to research conducted by Barre and Triebert. Like the bassoon, it evolved from that group called pommers, schalmeys and bombards. The tone, peculiarly distinctive without being powerful or obtrusive, is penetrating. Cambert first used it in the score for his opera "Pomone," produced in Paris in 1671.

The cor anglais, not a horn, differs in build from the oboe in that the tube is longer and ends in a globular or pear-shaped bell, and the crook which holds the reed is bent back at an angle, writes a correspondent to the Chicago Daily News. Its tone quality is melancholy and good examples may be heard in Act III of "Tristan" or in the slow movement of Dvorak's "From the New World." Gluck wrote for it in "Alceste" and "Orfeo," but these parts were played by the clarinet because the cor anglais was not yet a member in good standing of the orchestra. Although Mozart, Haydn and Beethoven composed for it occasionally, it did not become a part of the symphonic group until Wagner demanded it.

Consisting of a single beating reed, the clarinet is constructed with a tube pierced with many side holes terminating in a bell. The alto and bass clarinets, however, have kevs instead of holes.

'Terrible Mouse' of Peru

An extremely rare animal whose scientific name, Dinomys, translates from the Greek into "terrible mouse" has made its debut among the mammal exhibits at the Field Museum of Natural History in Chi-

Known to the Indians in its native Peru by still another name, rukupi, this animal is a large rodent. "Terrible mouse" is not so terrible, actually, according to Colin C. Sanborn, curator of mammals. A report from Edmund Heller, who found it, indicates that it is not a real fighter, but merely fights as a last resort to save its life. It is slow in motion and cannot turn quickly, in consequence of which it is lacking in protection from attacks in the rear by alert enemies such as ocelots, taras, coatis and others, which prey upon

Because of this danger, the "terrible mouse" usually lives in rocky cliffs or holes in the ground, where it can back up and secure rear protection. It has large teeth with which it can fight any ordinary enemy. Because of its rarity the animal is of special interest to zoologists. The museum specimen was prepared for exhibition by W. E. Eigsti, the staff taxidermist.

Eyes Prevent Circle Walking

People walk in straight lines because their eyes, by watching trees, buildings and other objects, guide their course, says the Better Vision institute, A blind-folded person, unable to obtain his directions with his eyes, tends to walk in circles. In deserts and snow fields persons who are lost ordinarily travel in circles or spirals because of lack of directional aids.

Experiments with blind-folded pedestrians and automobile drivers show that some persons tend to turn to the right, and others to the left. The direction taken does not seem to have anything to do with right-nandedness or left-handedness. However, some persons move in much wider circles than do others. Also, there is great variation in the regularity of the circles.

Lets 300,000 Mosquitoes Bite Him To Find Perfect Insect Repellent

Young Research Worker on University Staff Real "Iron" Man

WHILE other people try to keep away from mosquitoes during the summer months, Philip Granett, young "iron" man at Rutgers University, goes to a great deal of trouble to get them to bite him. He has endured more than 300,000 bites to help make it possible for other folks to escape insect annoyance.

Granett is one of a group of scientists at Rutgers who, under a grant from the National Carbon Company, are studying insect reactions to various chemicals. They have been working on this one problem for five years. As a result, they have already succeeded in making a repellent lotion that not only pre vents mosquitoes from biting but keeps them at a distance.

Granett's job in this research has been that of a human guinea pig. He has tried out on himself the hundreds of chemical combinations

THIS FLAG OF OURS.

In these present days of universal chaos, an ever-increasing number of Americans cling to the flag of this country in the belief that it is the only guarantee of human welfare and human dignity in a world beset by dark and evil forces. At such a time, it is particularly appropriate to envision what the flag parsonage, the Rev. Geo. E. Bowermight say to the citizens of the Unit- sox, Jr., officiating. The single ring eed States if it were suddenly gifted with a voice. A W. Hawkes, President of Conogleum-Nairn, Inc., did just that recently in the following Elsie Glass. ANCIENT HISTORY STATE OF MARYLAND.

The next year after this Patent had past, viz. in the year 1633, a Colony of about 200 in all, Servants and Planters, (whereof some persons of quality) was sent over by the Lord and in whose name issue forth whom was made Governor of the of the general Assembly, which is Province for his Lordship, and from thence forward this Plantation hath prospered, and by the several supolies since sent, very much increased; to which good success, the good Government of the said Mr. Leonard, and his strict observance of his Lordship's prudent instructions, very much conduced. The first place they pitch'd upon to plant themselves in was Yacomaco, now St. Maries, which the Governor purchased of the natives: (for never hath any forcible or violent invasion of any mans right been made here by any of his Lordships Ministers) with such commodities as they brought from England, though at so much the more easy safest course to remove farther off from their too potent and valiant Neighbours the Sesquehanocks. After the happy restauration of his present Majesty, viz. in the year 1661, the Lord Proprietors only Son, Mr. Charles Calvert went over into these parts, his Fathers Lieutenant; in which charge he hath continued ever since in great tranquility and prosand satisfaction by his obliging carriage to all that live under his Government, or have any interests or concerns in the Province. This Province, according as it is bounded and set out by the forementioned Patent, extends one way from altogether wanting, as well of

of the River Patowmeck Westward. The Climate here in Summer time inclines to an extraordinary heat, and in Winter is very cold; but both the heat of the Summer is very much allayed by cool Breezes, and the cold of the Winter is of short continuance; so that the Countrey is accounted sufficiently healthful, and of ate agrees well enough with English bodies, since the abatement and almost extinction, through the regulation of diet, felling of the woods, etc, of that distemper called the Seasoning, which used to be very fatal to the English at their first landing.

The Countrey is for the most part champain, the Soil fruitful, and abounding with many sorts of fruits and other commodities which are common in our parts of the world; and for those that are peculiar, it cannot be imagined that in so small a distance, and even in the same Countrey as it hath been formerly accounted, they should differ much from those of Virginia. Yet there is a sort of fruit called a Persimon mentioned as most especially belonging to Mary-Land: and among Birds, one named the Mock-bird, from its imitation of all other Singing-birds, which differing among themselves in the mixture of their colours; that which is black and yellow is called the Baltemore-bird, from the colours of his Lordships Coat of Arms, which are Or and Sable, excelling in beauty all the other sorts.

The same is to be said of the complexions, customes, dispositions, gov-ernment, etc., of the natives of this Province as of those of Virginia and other adjacent parts; that is in brief, that they are somewhat tawny, their hair long, black and uncurled, but cut into fantastical forms; more ingenious and docile than industrious; each Town a distinct Nation, and govern'd by its several Weroance or King, only the Sasquhanocks are a Republick.

As the Province is now inhabited by the English, it is divided into ten Districts or Counties, five on Eastern Shore of the Bay of Chesa-peack, namely Dorchester, Somerset, Kent, Caecil, and Talbot; and five on the West side of the Bay, St. Maries, (where the Provincial Court, or chief Court of Judicature consisting of Governor and Counsiliar Judges, is held every quarter of a year) Anne Arundel, Baltemore, Charles and

The chief Rivers of this Countrey are Patowmec, Patuxent, Ann Arundel alias Severn, Sasquesahanough, Choptank, Nantecoke, Poco-moke, besides others of less note: of those mentioned, the first four on the West side, the other three to the East fall into Chesapeack Bay, which is navigable for 200 miles, and which between two Capes, Cape Charles to the North, and Cape Henry to the South, being seven or eight leagues distant, receives all the ships that come for Virginia or Mary-Land and passeth Northernly through the midst of Mary-Land. On the East-ern shore of this Bay are divers convienient Harbours, Creeks and Islands; and Northward thereof is the entrance of Delaware Bay. The original Seat, and principal

City of this Province where the Provincial Courts, the general As-sembly, the Secretaries Office, and other publick Officers are held; and where the seat of Trade is fixt, is St. Maries, situate in St. Maries County, on the East side of St. Georges River. Here formerly at the Palace of St. Johns, the Governor Mr. Charles Calvert used to reside: but he hath now a very pleasant and commodious habitation at a place called Mattapany upon the River Patuxent, about eight miles from St. Maries; here is also another fair house where the Chancellor usually resides.

There were also some years since in all the rest of the Counties the foundations of Towns laid, which no doubt by this time are very near, if not altogether compleated, particularly in Calvert County near the River Patuxent; 1, Calverton in Battelcreek; 2, Harvy Town over against Point Patience; 3, Herington upon

As for the present Government of Mary-Land by the English, the Lord Proprietor in the first place is invested, as hath been mentioned, with an absolute power and dominion; by whose sole command all things re-lating to Peace or War are crdered; Proprietor, under the conduct of his publick Instruments, Patents, War-Lordships two Brothers, Mr. Leonard, and Mr. George Calvert: the first of Laws he hath the consent and advice made up of two Estates; the first consisting of his Lordships Privy Council, (of which the Chancellor and Secretary alwaies are) and such Lords of Manors as are called by his Lordships special Writ, the other of the Deputies of each Province, elected by the free of voice of the Freeholders of the respective Province for which each Deputy is chosen.

The names of the present Governor the prime Officers of State, and the rest of his Lordships Privy Council are as followeth: The Governor Mr. Charles Calvert, his Lordships and Heir: the Chancellor Mr. Philip Calvert, his Lordships Brother: the Secretary Sir William Talbot: rate, in regard of their pre-intentions to leave this place, as thinking it their Calvert: Mr Baker Brook, all three his Lordships Nephews: the Surveyor General Mr Jerome White, Mr. Edw. Lloyd, Mr. Henry Coursy, Mr. Thomas Trueman, Major Edward Fitz-Herbert, Mr. Samuel Chew.

Vast quantities of Tobacco, grand trade of this Province of Mary-Land are yearly vended from hence, not only in England, but likewise in several of the other English Plantaperity, and with general contentment tions: besides the importation also of some other commodities, to the great improvement of his Majesties Revenue by Custom and Excise. The common way of traffick here is by barter of trucking of commodities one for another; though money is not the most Northernly part which coin of England and other parts, as bounds it to the South, and from of his Lordships own coin, being which it is parted by the Southernly stampt on the one side with his Lord-bank of the River Patowmeck to New-York, or the most Southernly part of New-England which bounds it North amini; and on the other side with his New-England which bounds it North amini; and on the other side that ward; and from the Atlantick Ocean and Delaware-Bay Eastward to the Caecilius Dominus Terrae Mariae SA-178

Senator Tydings Makes Powerful Plea For The People's Court Amendment

As the men and women of Maryland prepared to participate in what promises to be one of the most important elections in the history of the United States, Senator Millard E. Tydings this week issued the following statement:

"Even with our problems of National Defense, and in a Presidential election, voters should not permit themselves to forget issues of vital local and State importance which they will be called upon to decide at the polls in November.

"One such question that the men and women of Maryland must answer is this: 'Shall the poor people's court of Baltimore be taken out of politics?" While the Court has no jurisdiction outside of Baltimore, and in the future, as in the past, will be paid for entirely by the taxpayers of Baltimore, every citizen of Maryland has the opportunity to vote on the Constitutional Amendment required to bring about this important reorganization.

"The People's Court Amendment, if adopted, will remove the largest civil court in the State of Maryland from the influence of politics. The amendment will give the court real judges, serving terms of eight years each, to take the place of Justices of the Peace now serving in the court and named for only two year periods.

"Because I know the vital need for the reorganization of the People's Court of Baltimore City, I trust that the voters of Maryland will see fit to vote for the amendment in Novempreparing drastic action against the money-making racket of "jackal breeders," it is stated in Capetown. It has been discovered that in parts of the province professional hunters, who destroy jackals for bounties have been capturing only the cubs, allowing adult animals to escape, and thus providing for the next season's "crop." It is suspected that in certain districts there are secret jackal breeding establishments, the owners of which make big profits by constantly turning in very young jackals. Last year the record number of 36,000 were destroyed at the standard rate of $2.50 an animal. In some districts $3.75 is paid.

South African Racket Cape Providence, South Africa, is

Profits in Modernization

More than 1,000 grocery store owners, members of the Independent Grocers alliance, recently studied a survey on increased profits resulting from storefront modernization with structural glass. It was revealed that average profits increased 300 per cent the first year after modernization and that the average gross receipts rose from $21,050 to $28,628.

Annual damage to business and property of $1,601,527,000 can be blamed on at least 10,000 different kinds of insects and crawling things inhabiting the United States, the department of agriculture estimates. The rat population alone, which is double the human population, accounts for $500,000,000 of this yearly toll.

Federal Homestead Grants Since President Lincoln signed the homestead act, about 275,000,000 acres of federal land have been transferred to settlers.

PROPRIETY IN PURPLE

By THAYER WALDO (McClure Syndicate-WNU Service.)

LARENCE PUCKINGSTONE JESSUP had a passionate fondness for purple. Had you been in the front hall of Ken Rossiter's home at four-fifteen on a recent morning you would have observed this; for into that hall as a car purred up the driveway, came Jessup literally wrapped in his weakness. Over luscious orchid pajamas he wore a dressing gown of violet-colored silk, while slippers of some subtle in between shade completed the ensemble.

Now to be sure, you weren't there, nor was anyone else. Peing Mr. Rossiter's man entailed with Jessup a serious and sacred trust. Not for him the sly practice, so common among Hollywood servants, of having one's friends in when the master was out. Jessup believed fervently in concerning himself with his employer's welfare to the exclusion of all else.

It was this that had him up, purple-clad and hurrying, as Ken Rossiter's limousine rolled home. Mr. Rossiter had been away since nine in the evening, and Jessup knew, as all good valets should, just what to expect. Normally, of course, that wouldn't have mattered; if Mr. Rossiter required steerage, the chauffeur could give it. But tonight there were unusual circumstances.

Jessup opened the front door and stepped briskly down the short walk to the drive. The car had stopped and from its rear compartment Mr. Rossiter was just emerging. silk hat on that gentleman's head sat at a rakish angle and his foot approached the ground in no very certain fashion.

"Here, sir-let me help you," urged Jessup, moving forward; but with a sudden unique slither the actor was out and standing.

"H'lo, Jess, ol' boy," he said. The tone was mellow but far from thick. Jessup allowed himself a breath of relief.

"Good morning, sir. Shall I-" The query died on his lips as Rossiter, turning, reached an arm into the car and said: "Come along, Babe.

Agitation smote Jessup's breast again like a boomerang come home. He swallowed a groan and took his master quickly by the sleeve.

"No, no, sir; just a moment, please," he whispered. Rossiter glanced around scowling impatient-

"Huh? Say, what th'-" "You-you can't, sir. There's a reason. Now the actor faced him, anger narrowing the dark eyes. "Well, I'll-! Can't what? Are you drunk, Jessup? Leggo my arm!"

"Very well, sir." Jessup obeyed, his jaw set doggedly. "But you mustn't bring her in, sir; you really musn't. There's-"

"Jessup!" It was a furious roar. "Jessup, you're through-fired! I'll things and scram! Now get away from here-get out of my sight!"

Slowly the valet stiffened, made a brief bow. "Very good, sir," he said, pivoted, and stalked back up the path. Forty minutes later Jessup left that house, belongings in hand. Against the front stairs newel post at the last moment he propped a note. It was addressed in Jessup's full round hand to Mr. Kenneth L. Rossiter, and the message read:

'Dear Sir: "Despite your discharge of me for my first attempt, I still feel it my duty to explain that Mrs. Rossiter's secretary telephoned from San Francisco at ten last evening, to say that she and your wife would arrive home some time before morning. I told her you were out.

"I feel sure that by now you will understand the rest. "R'sp'fully,

"C. P. Jessup."

Six years in one routine is long enough to give any man definite hab-When the man chances to be so calmly precise as Clarence Puckingstone Jessup, half that time makes an automaton of him. Thus it was less than positively odd that Jessup should arise from the couch in his brother's front room at eleven that same day, robe himself, and get half-way to the kitchen before discovering his error.

On some twenty-two hundred previous mornings, you see, it had been his wont at this hour to prepare for Mr. Rossiter that squire's favorite eye-opener-a glass of ice water with two ounces of rye whiskey in it. The thing had become a ritual, as much a part of Jessup's life as purple pajamas or an after-dinner pipe. So now he stood for a moment, nonplussed, gazing somewhat incredulously at a framed sampler on his brother's wall. The woven letters spelled out GODLINESS, TEMPER-ANCE, AND LOVE.

Then in a flash it all came back to him. Slowly Jessup retraced his steps, dressed carefully, went out for breakfast and at length repaired to the Westside Chess & Social club. It was there, bent over a board, impassively eyeing a bishop, that Ken Rossiter found him at one-thirty. Rossiter came into the place alone, wearing only dark glasses to avoid recognition. "Good gosh, you've run me a chase, Jess!" he said. "Been looking all over town for you since nine.

Come on out to the car." In silence Jessup followed. Rossiter bundled him into the tonneau and had the driver start on. Then he produced a box and handed it to

But this time you were a little hasty, old boy. That was my wife in the car with me! She found me at the club and we drove home together.'

Jessup turned to look at him with a calm which held no hint of strained patience. "Yes, sir; I saw her when you first arrived, sir. That was just it. Mrs. Rossiter's secretary had come in alone an hour before, sir, and gone up to your room. She put on Mrs. Rossiter's negligee and turned down the lights. I thought there might be trouble, sir."

Unit-Reorganization Of Farms Undertaken

Big farms to fit land of low production—is building a permanent agriculture in the southern great plains, an area attracting nationwide attention in the recent drouth years. In these years-the United States department of agriculture finds almost without exception-the few farmers able to survive operated farms of 2,000 or more acres, most of which were in grass, with cultivated acres producing supplemental feed.

This pointed the way to "unit-reorganization," begun last year by the Farm Security administration. The objective is operating units of 2,000 to 4,000 acres, in contrast to farms of about 500 acres or less, which were common when the land was broken up in the wet years immediately following the World war. Dry years have shown that wheat is not dependable as a major source of income in the western part of the southern plains and have increased absentee ownership. Thousands of acres have been abandoned or returned to the state through tax delinquencies.

The reorganized unit of Fred Bosley in Baca county, Colo., shows how the idea works. In 1935 he had 320 acres. Nearly 2,100 acres could be added to his unit, consisting of 1,060 acres of land to be restored to grass, 90 acres for cultivated crops, and 930 acres of grassland. Negotiations with eight landowners were necessary before the acreage was acquired. Serious wind erosion had been a menace on land now being restored to native grasses.

Bosley's loan of $2,000 from the FSA was used to purchase a used tractor and equipment, a herd of eight dual-purpose cows and 17 range cattle, a pressure cooker for use in the home, for payment of $236 delinquent taxes and $95 cash leases, and $331 for operating expense. His subsistence is provided by sale of produce from the farm. His cash crop is broom corn. His plan of repayment began with $200 in May 1939 and is $300 each spring for the following six years. One hundred and thirty-three reorganizations of the Bosley type have been accomplished since the program was inaugurated last year, the average loan amounting to $1,-740. The average change has been from approximately 600 to 2,500 acres. Approximately 300,000 acres have been brought into better use through this program up to the present time.

About 300 other reorganizations are under way. Although the number of farm families affected is small, the program is new and time is needed to get it in full swing. It is estimated that about 75 per cent of the farms in the southern great plains must be grouped into larger units if they are to survive.

Woman Police Chief

New England's only woman police chief, Mrs. Dorothy M. Clark of Warren, N. H., has just embarked on her second year at the job, having been re-elected to the post by her 600 fellow-townsmen over two male opponents.

Mrs. Clark, mother of four children, believes women make good policemen because they are conscientious and unwavering, though hastening to add that arrests do not occur very often in Warren and that serious crime is almost nonexistent.

But others point out that Mrs. Clark-34 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighing 175 pounds—has powerful muscles and would be capable of subduing an unruly male. Town records show that the 13 arrests she made in her first year were considerably more than were made jointly by two special officers who served the town for a considerably longer period, and that a conviction was obtained in every case. Only one of the 13 was a woman, who was accused of speeding.

Washington An unusual ceremony occurred in Washington, D. C. recently when a father and son were presented at the same time with their certificates of membership in Alexander Graham Bell Chapter of the Telephone Pioneers of America. The father, Herman W. Schrum, a storekeeper in the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company at Washington, only recently became eligible to Pioneer membership because of previous employment in other lines. The son is James H. Schrum, now a senior central office man in one of the large Washington exchanges.

Manchester . . . In the Manchester Royal Infirmary in England, a thirtyyear-old medical student, Hamed Bey Shaker, was so ill that the doctors thought his case hopeless. The young man's last wish was to speak with his father, 2,000 miles away in Egypt. Hospital authorities arranged for the telephone call, and at the sound of his father's voice, Shaker rallied amazingly. The call cost about $40.00, but it saved the young man's life.

New York . . . Another new radiotelephone circuit to South America is planned by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company between its Hialeah, Fla., station and Cartegena, Colombia. This will make the third point to which radiotelephone service is available in Colombia, circuits already reaching Bogota and Barranquilla.

San Francisco . . . There are now over 170 transcontinental telephone circuits on four different routes between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. There were only three circuits available in 1915 when the first transcontinental route was opened.

Hawaii . . . A dial telephone switchboard was recently installed at Wailuku on the island of Maui, the conversion from magneto operation providing common battery dial service to about 1,200 telephones. The new dial exchange serves the Wailuku, Kahului and Puunene districts, and includes equipment for individual, party-line and private branch exchange service. The equipment is housed in a new fireproof structure. Maui is the third largest of five islands; the largest exchange is at Honolulu on the island of

New York . . . Through the nationwide teletypewriter exchange service of the Bell System in 1939 a recordbreaking total of 4,176,000 written messages were handled. Teletypewriters, expediting the written word through exchanges in much the same way as telephones expedite the spoken word, are connected by some 530,000 miles of circuits.

Quaaltagh Celebratea

Quaaltagh is seldom heard of in England, but is one of the oldest English festivals. It is observed in parts of the Isle of Man where customs similar to "first-shooting" in Scotland are kept up.

Men go from house to house singing special festival songs and are invited in for a bite and a drink, says the Rocky Mountain Herald. ways, dark men go first.

But there are one or two customs in connection with Quaaltagh which are observed nowhere else. Before midnight the floor of the kitchen is | swept, always starting at the door and sweeping to the hearth, otherwise good luck will be swept out. Before retiring, the ashes are taken from the fire and smoothed over the hearth with a pair of tongs, and in the morning the housewife looks eagerly at the ashes for tracks of a human foot. If there is one and the toes point to the door, it means death for one in the house; if the footprint is reversed, it means the birth of a child.

THE BOYHOOD OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:40-52.
GOLDEN TEXT—And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man.—Luke 2:52.

One brief but revealing glimpse into the earthly life of our Lord is all we have from His birth to the time when he entered upon His public ministry at His baptism in the Jordan. How appropriate it is that he was permitted to live those years of His life behind the curtain of divine silence.

The incident in our lesson shows Jesus at the age of responsibility, and in His Father's house. This is preceded by one verse which reveals Him as the growing child, and is followed by another verse which tells of his advancement from boyhood into manhood. Luke, who is the only one who presents this story, thus fills out the picture of the divine-human personality of the One whom he purposes to reveal as the perfect and universal Saviour.

I. The Child Grows (v. 40).

Like every other child in the world (apart, of course, from any sin or blemish), Jesus grew during the first 12 years of His life on earth. One rightly regards that growth as the normal, happy development of every child, a time of physical development, or carefree play, of learning obedience in the household at Nazareth. A child should not bear the burdens of life nor be required to make its weighty decisions.

Jesus came into the world to die as the Saviour of sinful men, but for these childhood years we are glad that He just grew, waxed strong in body as well as in spirit, developing mentally, and that in it all "the grace of God was upon him." May our children have a similar opportunity and privilege!

II. The Boy Meets Life's Responsibilities (vv. 41-51).

Soon enough came the day when as a "son of the law" Jesus reached the age of accountability and went with His parents to keep the feast of the Passover. He entered the temple, and there took over the responsibility for his own religious life, which until then had been borne by His parents. Such a day is of vital importance in the life of every boy and girl, and in the case of Jesus was of special significance.

Acting for Himself, He tarried in the temple. As a good learner, He asked and answered questions, at the same time amazing those who heard by His understanding. There His mother (who had shown her conindence that He was to be trusted to be where He ought to be) found Him after she had looked in vain for Him at eventide in their company

To Him it was the natural and expected thing that He would be in His Father's house, going about the business of God. He recognized the special relationship between Himself and the Father-His very own Father—and He began to assume the responsibility of His divine mission

He was about to turn the corner from boyhood and start toward manhood, but there were yet 18 years that He was to show His perfect submission to the will of God by His obedience to His parents. There is a real lesson there for every growing boy and girl.

III. The Youth Goes On to Manhood (v. 52). The curtain is drawn again, and the boy Jesus develops into the man; yes, the man who was to bear on Calvary's tree your sins and mine. What do we know about these years when a boy with the consciousness that He must be about His Father's business went forward to manhood under the loving and watchful eye of the mother who 'kept all these sayings in her heart' (v. 51)? Only what Luke tells us, but that is a great deal.

Jesus "advanced," the word being entirely different in meaning from the "grew" of verse 40. The child grows without any thought or purpose of doing so, but the boy pressing on to manhood has to beat his way forward, cutting a path through life to his goal.

The fact that Jesus did that should encourage every young man and woman who is doing the same in a difficult and hostile world, and cause them to seek the daily companionship and help of the Son of God and Son of Man who has passed that way before them.

The development here puts the mental first, then the physical. The latter is important, but must be under control of the former. Crowning them both is His growth in grace, fellowship with God and fellowship with men, the latter glorified and made useful by the former. Here again we may learn of Him who, though the Son of God with power, was obedient to the limitations of the humanity He had taken, and yet advanced "in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man" (v. 52).

PART V-A—PEOPLE'S COURTS.

part v-A—PEOPLE'S COURTS.

41-A. There is hereby created a People's Court of Baltimore City. Said Court shall consist originally of a Chief Judge and two Associte Judges; the number of such Judges may thereafter be increased or decreased by the General Assembly by law but no such decrease shall affect the term of any Judge then in office or his right to stand for election for further terms as hereinafter provided. The Judges of said Court shall have the qualifications prescribed by Section 2 of this Article and shall have practiced law in the City of Baltimore for a total period of at least five years; shall hold office subject to the provisions of Sections 3 and 4 of this Article with regard to retirement and removal from office; and shall receive from the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore City such compensation as shall be fixed by law by the General Assembly, which shall not be diminished during continuance in office.

The Governor shall appoint to said Court, to take office on the first Monday of May, 1941, one Associate Judge for a term expiring December 31, 1942; one Associate Judge for a term expiring December 31, 1944, and a Chief Judge for a term expiring December 31, 1946; and, upon the creation of any additional office on said Court by increase in the number of Judges pursuant to this Section, shall appoint an Associate Judge for such term, not exceeding eight years and expiring on the thirty-first day of December immediately following a Congressional election, as the law creating such office shall prescribe. If any vacancy occurs during any such original term, the Governor shall appoint a successor to serve for the remainder of such term. After the expiration of said Court shall be for eight years from the expiration of the preceding term, and shall be filled as follows:

(1) Any incumbent Judge of said Court shall be eligible, at the Congressional election immediately preceding the expiration of his period of appointment or term, for election or re-election to succeed himself (a) for a full term of eight years, except as provided in (b) hereof; or (b) for the unexpired remainder of the current eight year term, if his appointment will expire before the end of such term. No person other than an incumbent Judge shall be eligible for election to said Court.

(2) Whenever a vacancy shall occur on other than an incumbent Judge shall be eligible for election to said Court.

(2) Whenever a vacancy shall occur on said Court from any cause the Governor shall appoint to said Court a Judge who shall hold office under such appointment until the thirty-first day of December immediately following the first Congressional election occurring six months or more after the date of his appointment. No Judge of said Court, who has stood for election to succeed himself and not been elected, shall thereafter be appointed to said Court, and no Judge of said Court, who has failed to stand for election when eligible, shall be appointed to succeed himself.

(3) In order to qualify for election or re-election an incumbent Judge shall file with the Supervisors of Election of Baltimore City not later than thirty days before the date of the applicable election a certificate signed and duly acknowledged, stating the basis of his eligibility and the term or remainder of term for which he is eligible for election. Thereupon, the name of such Judge, together with a statement of the term or remainder of term for which he is eligible, shall be placed upon the ballot to be used in said City in such election, with no party designation whatever and with no opposing candidate, with space provided to permit any voter to cast his vote for or against the continuance in office of such Judge spresent a majority of all the votes cast for the continuance in office for the unexpired remainder of the term or for the full term of eight years, as the case may be.

Unless his office shall have been abolished full term of eight years, as the case may be.

Unless his office shall have been abolished pursuant to this Section, each Judge of said Court shall continue to hold office after the expiration of his period of appointment or term until a successor shall qualify. As used in this Section "Congressional election" means any of the biennial elections at which members of the House of Representatives are regularly chosen.

Said Court shall have such jurisdiction (which may be made exclusive as to any class or classes of civil cases in Baltimore City), with such right of appeal, therefrom, and the Chief Judge and Associate Judges thereof shall have such powers and duties, as the General Assembly shall prescribe from time to time by law. The Judges of said Court shall have full power to regulate by rules the administration, procedure and practice of said Court; such rules shall have the force of law until rescinded or modified by said Judges or the General Assembly. Unless otherwise provided by law, (1) all powers granted by this Section or by law to said Court or the Judges thereof as a body may be exercised by a majority of the Judges thereof, and (2) said Court shall not be a Court of Record.

There shall be a Chief Constable of said Court, who shall perform therein the dur-thereof as a body may be exercised by a majority of the Judges thereof, and (2) said Court shall not be a Court of Record.

There shall be a Chief Constable of said Court, who shall perform therein the duties prescribed for Clerks of Court by Section 10 of this Article and such other duties as shall be prescribed by law or by rule of said Court. Such Chief Constable shall be appointed, in the manner hereinafter prescribed, by the Judges of said Court; and such Chief Constable shall original, subsequent and additional constables and clerks employed pursuant to this Section, and shall supervise and direct the work of all such constables and clerks. There shall be appointed originally fourteen such constables and sixteen such clerks; the number of either may, on the joint recommendation of said Court and said Chief Constable, be increased by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore City; no vacancy in the position of any constable or clerk, however arising, shall be filled by said Chief Constable unless the Judges of said Court and said Chief Constable shall expressly find that the filling of such vacancy is necessary for the efficient operation of said Court. The positions of said City with respect to said City Service of Baltimore and the provisions of the Charter of said City with respect to said City Service are hereby expressly made applicable thereto, provided that, the Chief Constable at the time this amendment becomes effective shall continue and remain in said position and immediately become a member of said Classified City Service of Baltimore; all such positions shall be classified by the City Service Commission and all appointments, promotions, transfers, reinstatements, and removals with respect to such positions shall be made only in accordance with the provisions, rules and regulations of said Classified City Service in force from time to time. Such Chief Constables and all such clerks shall receive from the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore such compensation as said Mayor and City Council shall pe law or rule of Court.

After adoption of this Section no constable shall be appointed by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore City pursuant to Section 42 or Section 43 of this Article IV, but constables in office upon the adoption of this Section shall hold office for the remainder of their terms, and the constables first appointed under this Section shall take office at the expiration of such terms.

Section shall take office at the expiration of such terms.
