ANOTHER DRAFT TO BE DECIDED ON NEXT WEEK Even Christmas Week Must Give Way to War Plans.

The draft quota from Maryland has been increased up to 716, or 432 more than so far called. This number will be required within about three week's time. This announcement comes from Gov. O'Conor's office. Likely all states will be required to supply like percentage increases, as the war situation is said to be more acute than ever, so far as the U. S. is concerned.

It is becoming more certain that financial and moral support alone will not help England win the war, which has all along been the attitude of this country. The fact that England has been required to use a large portion of its defense equipment to maintain the Suez Canal and Egypt, has resulted in heavy losses in England proper. It is estimated that Frederick County will be called on to furnish 22 or 23 in this second draft, and perhaps 10 to 15 from Carroll. The exact number will be alloted the first of next week.

From Pennsylvania the quota is apt to be from 2000 to 3500 for Pennsylvania. Northern Virginia and the District of Columbia will furnish their quota. The latest on the subject is, that rapid calls for a Maryland draft will be made early in January and continue for the next six months or as long as needed. -11-

THE WAR IN EUROPE.

England has urgently asked for financial aid from the United States, but for what specific purpose has not been stated. The U. S. War Department and the President and Congress as well, have been urged to make all possible speed toward preparations for war, by close students of the situation in Europe.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

The Salvation Army is a worthy institution. It does for the poor and needy, mostly in the cities, what the Red Cross does in its world-wide field. The Carroll Record bales the most of its scrap waste and turns it over to the S. A. truck when it comes around;

It seems to us that that housedwellers might also give to the same cause a wide variety of waste paper, rags and metal scrap. that is now carted to some out-of-the-way junk pile, where the owner of the land does not want it.

The S. A. organization equipped with the necessary help and machinery to make junk in-to a marketable condition, and is sold for cash income. Besides. so doing gives work to many of the almost down and out classes. We believe that most of the junk that is gathered up once or twice a year, in Taneytown and other towns and is carted away would be gladly taken by the S. A. truck, if notified. And this would at the same time be a saving to the town authorities. We believe this would be a good prac-tice, and we intend to investigate the thought, and find out P. B. E. about it.

"THE CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS."

(We are reproducing the first Christmas editorial that appeared in The Carroll Record (1884) written by Church. He used the same heading as that given; and that subject matter is as appropriate now, as then,-Ed)

This is after all the day we celebrate, the birth day of the "Son of man."

The Christmas holidays are being recognized more and more in the Christian festival sense by all Christian denominations and sects. Sections of Christendom which, especially in the United States did not celebrate the day in congregations some years ago, are now advancing to the front in the way of holding bright entertainments.

-------GOD OVER ALL.

The Sages of Antiquity And scholars of the present day— Aye, thinking men of every age— Warrior, statesman, poet, sage, Have at some time within their life Asked the question "What is Life?"

Can mankind tell the primal cause? Or what produces Natures Laws? If at beginning all was Chaos What impulse turned it into Cosmos? And when Chaos, dismal drear, Stepped back and let Cosmos appear Was there an Unseen guiding hand That formed the seas and built the land? Who made the stars that we do see-

A billion in our galaxy? Who built the Planets one by one That round and round the Sun do run? Who built far beyond stellar space The million Nebula man can trace?

Some call it Nature—the First Cause That has produced all Nature's Laws. We call it God, Our Sovereign Lord Who has to man given His word, And what is God? vain man would ask.

That man can never do. Or why is God?

The question is as old as man. The answer is not one of creed, The answer is the Soul's great need; The answer cannot to man be taught Or by his wealth by money bought; The answer is the soul's surcease-Found in Love, Hope, Joy and Peace.

To dwell much on the social and other mere worldly joys and pleasures afforded by this season, is to Christmas, rather than the true note.

Man Spends Nightly Vigil To Scare Away Deer.

CANON CITY, COLO. - Every night in the year, Ed W. Coryell, equipped with flashlight, pistol and shotgun, will go on patrol to frighten deer away from the gardens of Canon City.

For the lack of a better title, the time off to think state game and fish department has listed Coryell as a "deer herder." There are other deer herders in about Christmas. Edith heard the bell ring downthe state but their duties are to feed stairs and she and protect the herds in the winter. skipped to her Coryell protects the city's vegetadoor, opening it bles from the deer.

> How many thousand deer he has driven out of Canon City gardens in the last eight years Coryell doesn't know. Once he saw more than 100 deer in one hour. One herd numbered 67 deer before he drove them away

Coryell has developed his own system to frighten the deer. First he aims at their feet with his .22-caliber revolver. If that doesn't work, he uses a small caliber shotgun loaded with bird shot. The shot does not penetrate the hide, merely stinging them enough to start the herd running.

Coryell's job was created when a law was enacted providing a gardener can sue the state if his property is damaged by a protected animal. So far no gardener near Canon City has sued.

Coryell drives an average of 100 miles each night, examining each garden hourly. His "deer patrol" mileage in the last eight years approximates 130,000 miles.

The prettiest sight he has ever seen, Coryell said, was when his spotlight swung down a line of 28 deer standing shoulder-to-shoulder along the bank of a stream. They fled when he fired his revolver at

BELL LAB SCIENTISTS DEVELOP NEW SUPER CALCULATING MACHINE

Arithmetic Made Easy by Device Constructed of Standard Telephone Apparatus

An electrical super calculating maine recently has been developed by the Bell Telephone Laboratories to expedite the extended calculations required in the design of electrical filters and networks, and in the solution of other circuit problems.

An operator sits at the keyboard of the new electric calculating machine, the only one of its kind in the world.

Calculating machines of various kinds are familiar equipment in banks and offices, but the new machine differs radically from them not only in appearance and principles of operation, but also in that it performs complicated calculations and returns the answer in written form without any attention on the part of the operator other than writing out the problem on a set of typewriter keys. It is constructed entirely of standard telephone apparatus, using for its computing elements relays and crossbar switches such as are used to connect subscribers in the most modern type of dial exchange.

There is only one of these calculating machines in existence. It is installed in a small room in the Bell Telephone Laboratories in New York City. One need not go to this room to use the machine, however. Instead, the operator sits at a teletypewriter, which may be located at any convenient place, and presses keys to record the numbers and to indicate what operations are to be performed. This machine recently was demon strated by its inventor, Dr. G. R. Stibitz, before a meeting of the American Mathematical Society at Hanover, N. H.

Cat Airplane Stowaway Flies Just for Fun of It

FORT WORTH.—A high-flying cat whose home is in airports from coast to coast presents a puzzle to air line officials between New York and Los Angeles.

The cat, a furry black and white youngster, appeared at the Fort Worth airport early this summer. Someone said it came from Memphis. Another pilot said he had seen it in Los Angeles.

Animals are regular riders on the commercial air lines, but this kitten has a knack for slipping unnoticed into plane baggage compartments. Shortly after its first visit here the cat showed up in New York.

Three days later it was snoozing peacefully in the airport manager's office here.

Ken did not arrive. And Edith was getting hungry.

Three o'clock passed, and Edith frowned.

"What could have happened to him?" she asked herself.

At four o'clock she cried. It was too much! First her family had forgotten, and now Ken had chosen Christmas day to tell her in this painful fashion that he didn't care!

At 6 p. m. misery began mingling with the pangs of hunger. Edith put on her coat and started to the corner restaurant. But she never got past the door. There she ran into a breathless Ken.

"Edith, dear!" he cried. "Sorry to be so late, but I knew you'd understand when you got my note."

'But-'' Edith was confused, "I didn't receive any note, Ken.'

"What? But I sent a special delivery message when the boss asked me to finish that

A few minutes later a happy Edith sat across the table from her Ken in the little restaurant around the corner.

"And now, dear," he began very carefully. "How about your Christmas present for me?'

"But I gave you the fountain pen, Ken," she protested.

"Yes, silly one, and I appreciated But if you want to make me still happier, listen to this. The boss came in tonight and said I'd done such a fine job on that research project that he was raising my saly. Know what that means?" "Not the faintest idea," Edith lied. ary.

Man Is Hunting for Wife

Who Can Make Applesauce CANDIA, N. H .- Five thousand women-and none of them can make applesauce.

That is part of the complaint of Joseph Cronan, 50-year-old farmer, who has spent the past three years advertising for a wife to keep house for him so he can run his farm.

In response to his ads, Cronan says he has received about 5,000 replies from women eager to share his life on a 180-acre farm—"one of the best in the state." But none of the would-be brides suit him.

Cronan admits his standards may be high, but at the same time he thinks middle-aged women lack ability. "None of them can make applesauce," he moans.

The applesauce question is important because Cronan likes "good eats and I want a woman who can cook while I run the farm." Unable to find his ideal by himself, Cronan now has offered $100 to the person who introduces him to the 'right woman.'

The lads of the village catch a badger, kill and dress it some time before the feast. On Christmas eve it is strung on a spit over a huge fire at the inn and cooked slowly. When it is ready the party attack it with fingers and pen-knives; no cutlery other than this is allowed.

Forecast Rainfall

It is now possible to forecast rainfall eight months ahead, with only a 5 per cent ieeway for inaccuracy if it is done in February. Such was the information given to the American Association for the Advancement of Science on the University of Washington campus. Prof. Fred Merryfield of Oregon State college has found that by measuring rainfall from September (beginning of the scientist's rainfall year) until February, and then comparing it with the compiled previous 40 years rainfall for the rest of the year then can be forecast with reasonable accuracy. He has found that rain falls in the same proportion during the second period as in the first, year after year.

The reason for this does not seem to be clear. but maybe it's just a fish story .-From the National Wildlife Federation.

Q UESTION: We recently looked at a two-story summer house. 23 years old. I would say the walls are plasterboard. Upstairs bedrooms have very narrow boards for a ceiling. Personally, I don't think the house, although small, can be heated in its present condition. Do you think the house could be insulated, and would a pipeless furnace be sufficient?

Answer: Make certain there is a wood sheathing and sheathing paper underneath the outside wall covering. Many summer houses have been built without it. Sheathing helps keep the weather out. Insulation will help make any type house more comfortable. At a slightly higher cost, a hot air furnace with ducts connected to each room would be preferable to the pipeless type.

Creaking Floor Boards.

Question: Occasionally at regular intervals there is a tapping noise. which we discovered is a creaking of the floor boards. The same thing has happened in another room. How can this noise be stopped?

Answer: The tapping noise may be caused by the expansion and contraction of floor boards due to the absorption of moisture and to drying out. Nothing much can be done to stop this, except to maintain a uniform amount of humidity in the air. Creaking of floor boards caused by loosening from the beams may be stopped by driving finishing nails through both thicknesses of the flooring into the beam. Nails should be driven in pairs at opposite angles. The heads of nails are driven below the surface of the floor boards with a nailset. Plug the nail holes with plastic wood. Talcum powder worked in between the floor boards may also correct this condition.

Inherited House.

Question: The house, which we re-cently inherited, has five rooms up-stairs and four rooms downstairs. We plan to alter it. Can the root be taken off and a bungalow type made of the building, with all rooms on one floor? We haven't much money, and wonder if the FHA would give us a loan for remodeling. Can plans be had on modernizing a house?

Answer: The roof can be taken off and the upper story removed. I strongly recommend that you employ the services of an architect. He will be able to plan all of the necessary structural changes to be made, as well as rearranging the rooms, and specifying the proper materials to be used in making these alterations. Loans on this type of work are made through local banks, after the local FHA office has approved the arrangements.

Tourist Cabins.

Question: Where can I secure plans for tourist cabins?

Answer: All of the larger manufacturers of insulating boards issue pamphlets on this subject; so do several of the lumber as

-11--IN WORKING ORDER

The office telephone was out of order, and a workman was sent to carry out repairs.

After a time, the workman suggested that the occupier of the office should call up an acquaintance in order to test the working of the instrument. The man obligingly called for the telephone number of his own home.

When the connection was made. he spoke into the transmitter:

"Maria!" There followed a few seconds of waiting, and he repeated his call in a peremptory tone: "Maria!"

The storm that had been gathering broke at this moment. The telephone wires were struck by lightning and the man was hurled violently under his desk. Presently he crawled forth in a dazed condition, and regarded the repair man plaintively.

"That was her!" he declared. "The telephone works fine.'

Wall Coverings.

Question: Is it advisable to use oilcloth on the ceilings and wall-paper on the side walls? Answer: You may find it more practical to use wall-cloth or washable wall-paper for the walls and ordinary wallpaper on the ceilings. Soiling is more apt to occur on the walls than the ceilings.

Stuck Doors.

Question: In two garages that I know the hinge-type doors have stuck at the bottom on the concrete drive in cold weather, although entirely free in warm weather. Can of nieces and nephews. you explain?

Answer: That is not due to expansion, as you suggest, but to the heaving of the concrete apron by the freezing of water underneath. The condition is quite common. To get away from it, drainage should be provided under the apron. In many cases a deep bed of cinders is sufficient.

Fumigation.

fumigation of a house that we have just bought.

Answer: Within city limits fumigation is generally only done by a concern licensed to do such a job. Even where there are no regulations, it is most advisable to have the job done by an expert, both for sureness of results and for safety.

Wooden Steps.

Question: The wooden steps of my old house are in need of rebuilding. The side boards are buried in earth the dampness rots the boards very quickly. My carpenter claims the quality of the wood is poor, nowadays, and advises brick. Brick or stone would not look well with the house. Could you suggest something?

Answer: Lumber nowadays, if it is of good quality, is just as good as it ever was. You can now get treated lumber which will retard the rotting. One of the woods suitable for your purpose is a good grade of cypress.

Noxious-Weed Seed Destroyed in Silage

Put weedy hay crops in the silo instead of the stack or mow, to stop the spread of weeds.

This is the substance of advice to farmers which T. E. Woodward, of the bureau of dairy industry, offers on the basis of experiments with seeds of noxious weeds buried in ensilage when silos were filled at the Beltsville research center.

Of 26 varieties of weed crop seeds that went into the silo, 23 were killed outright, and the germination of the other three-bindweed, Lespedeza sericea, and American dragonhead mint-was greatly reduced.

pings from weedy pastures and hay from weedy meadows because they were unwilling to take a chance on fouling cultivated fields with the weeds in the manure hauled from the feed lot. When weedy material goes through the fermentation in the silo and then through the digestive process of animals there is no likelihood that weed seeds will be troublesome. The silo and the live stock will safeguard the cultivated fields, and the farmer can safely get out of the weedy material any feed values that exist.

Johnson grass seed was one of the varieties killed completely in the silo, and this suggests that making silage instead of hay may provide a new and safe way of making use of the good feed values of Johnson grass without the danger of spreading the seed to cultivated fields through manure.

Culling Cows

Probably any time is culling time when a poor cow is being thought But now as cows come from of. pasture their owner should ask a few questions before he turns Bossy loose on a winter's free board and lodging. Diseased-udder cows, shy breeders, and low producers should all be asked what returns they can be expected to make. Maybe an empty stanchon and a full feed bin would mean more profit than a filled and an empty feed bin.

Grain Storage

Once every two weeks isn't too often to inspect stored grain, warns M. D. Farrar, entomologist work-ing with the University of Illinois. Infested grain may be quickly recognized by its firm surface, musty odor, and warmth at a depth of 12-18 inches. A careful examination will show damaged kernels and other conditions which may be associated with infested grain. Killing of grain insects can be done at a cost of less than a half cent a bushel.

The farm population of the United States totals more than 32,000,000 persons, an increase of approximately 2,000,000 since 1930, according to the latest census figures.

nesses of an inherited nature.

Of Pasture Legume

The very fact that it does not form sod, which formerly was regarded as a disadvantage, is causing renewed interest in orchard grass as a pasture plant.

The bunchy growth of orchard grass, says E. Marion Brown of the bureau of plant industry, U. S. department of agriculture, allows for free development of the lespedeza between the clumps of orchard grass. This favors the always desirable partnership of a grass and a legume, with the grass benefiting from the nitro-gen which the legume draws from the air. Thus the orchard grasslespedeza combination has one of the qualities that has made bluegrass and white clover a favored partnership wherever they will

OLD MARIE didn't quite understand about Santa Claus, but her little Pierre did. Pierre went to school with the other boys while Old Marie sewed dresses in the sweat shop. It had been that way ever since Jacques died, two years after they left sunny France and came to New York. "Mamma!" little Pierre would ask her at night, "Please, Mamma, will Santa Claus bring me the violin from Rubens' pawn shop this Christmas?

Then he would stare expectantly while Marie tried to find an answer. She usually promised him Santa would, for little Pierre wanted the violin so badly. But as Christmas grew nearer the groceries and coal Marie was usually stolid, but she felt sad when she left the sweat shop Christmas eve. Little Pierre would be home waiting for Santa Claus and the violin. Pierre had seen it in the window at Sam Rubens' pawn shop only yesterday, a big five-dollar price tag tied around its neck. How sad he would be if this Santa Claus fellow forgot him!

Marie was swept along in the Christmas Eve traffic, downhearted. But despair gave way to triumph, for a plan suddenly came to her amid this confusion: She would beg for alms like her gran'pere had done back in Paris! These Americansthey seemed happy enough to help her on Christmas eve!

"Pleez, m'sieur, a penny!" she cried to the passers-by on Broadway, "A penny for my leetle Pi-erre's violin!"

Marie had collected seventy-eight cents before the big Irish policeman saw her.

"Here now, old gurrul!" he protested. "Don't yez know ye can't Here Comes The Bride 88

IRLS, it was absolutely wonderful! Marcella's dress was a dream-white satin, a lace veil with orange blossoms and an exquisite shower bouquet, and guess what?" Rosalind paused, then added solemn-ly: "I caught the bride's bouquet! You know what that means.'

"It doesn't mean anything," commented Miss Blake, the president's secretary. "I caught one once. But if I ever do marry," she added thoughtfully, "I shan't have a big, elaborate ceremony. I'd rather be married quietly without any fuss or feathers.

"Oh, applesauce!" cried little Gladys Murphy, the switchboard girl, "every girl wants to have a swell wedding with bridesmaids and Lohengrin and 'Oh, Promise Me' 'n' everything!"

"Well," said Rosalind complacently; "I have decided that Gerald and I are going to have a church wed-

Miss Blake's insinuating comment stuck irritatingly in Rosalind's mind as she began typing letters. She had a feeling that Gerald was not entirely in sympathy with her elaborate plans but she felt sure she could talk him over. She would bring up the subject again that evening and when he saw how her heart was set on it, he would not oppose her

But, surprisingly enough, Gerald did oppose her. "Rosalind, dear," he said, holding her hand in his and stroking it softly, "You know I've had to work hard for everything I've got. I've felt happy because I've saved enough to furnish a home for saved enough to further bank. If we were to have this big wedding it would cost a good deal. I can't afford it, darling, and," he added soberly, 'neither can your father."

"Oh, Gerald," cried Rosalind, her blue eyes filling with tears, "you don't understand. All my girl friends have had big weddings with writeups in the papers and won-derful presents and I'd be ashamed if we just got married quietly." She saw him frown slightly and added quickly: "Of course that's not the real reason, honey. It's because I want every one to see what a splendid man I've got."

But Gerald did not soften to her flattery as she hoped and she went on pleadingly: "Don't worry about daddy. He always gives me what I want and the money comes somehow.'

Rosalind's mind was a chaos of emotions. Gerald was silent and she stole a glance at his face to meet a look so full of love and longing that she could not refrain from giving assent. At her nod, the solemn, fantastic old man bent his beplumed head and began to read the service. He had to stop once to hush the dog who had begun an excited barking at seeing a cat through the window. Then she was aware that Gerald was slipping a gleaming circlet

"Well, Gerald," she laughed softly, happily; "it wasn't a church ceremony, but, then, neither was it a quiet, home wedding."

In a New Haven, Conn., cold storage plant, where the thermometer never goes higher than 15 degrees above zero, Dr. Max Demorest, a geologist at Yale University, is studying the crystalline structure and "flow" of glacial ice with the aid of a telephone.

Last summer, Dr. Demorest carried on his research in a hut beside a glacier on Mount Rainier, Washington. He returned east with 350 pounds of the glacier and found the cold storage plant an almost ideal laboratory. However, when he tried to make notes in his frigid workshop, his fingers quickly became numb. A telephone was the solution. At the other end of the line, in the comfort of her home, Mrs. Demorest records her husband's dictated observations, while he keeps his gloves on.

"Pleez, m'sieur!" she cried. "You mus' not buy it. The violin, she is for my petit Pierre. See? I have five dollars!"

"Postpone our wedding, Gerald?" Rosalind faltered, her eyes widening in dismay. "Why, I've made all my plans for this fall. I've told Mr. Raine I was leaving the fifteenth and he's engaged another stenographer in my place."

"Perhaps I can get some night work," said Gerald. "I won't be able to spend as much time with you, but in that way I can save enough extra money by spring. I think I'll go over and see Tom McArdle about it now."

Before Rosalind could realize it she was alone, rather puzzled and forlorn at the turn her affairs had taken. As she was kissing Gerald good-by, she had murmured something to the effect that they might live with her parents for a while. "Nothing doing, honey," Gerald had answered. "When we're married we're going to live in our own home by ourselves."

Time lay rather heavy on Rosalind's hands after that. The only evening Gerald was able to spend with her was Sunday, and Sunday evenings seemed far apart. She was delighted when Gerald phoned one Saturday afternoon saying he had to drive out to Hixton and asking if she would like to go along.

"Isn't it a gorgeous day, Gerald?" she bubbled happily, snuggling up to him in the roadster.

"This was to have been our wedding day, dear," said Gerald sober-"do you remember?" ly;

Did she remember? Could she forget? A sudden pain clutched her heart with a sense of tragic loss. But Gerald was talking now of some business deal and she listened absently, enjoying the heady autumn weather. Suddenly Gerald stopped before a small, dingy house. 'You are now in Hixton, Rosalind," he announced, smiling. "The man I came to see lives here. Come, dear."

He knocked at the low door. An old man opened it and peered out. "Oh, it's you, Gerald, my boy," he quavered. "Come in, the both of you.

A hound came up and sniffed casu ally at Rosalind's hand and the old rand. I wish there were some quiet way in which we could come to an understanding. You see, Kent is my only boy, and I have great hopes that he will marry the daughter of one of my old friends. I say this frankly because I feel you will see my position - such a marriage means happiness for a circle of us. In addition, his world is quite different than-than yours.'

She smiled, although her heart was hurt. "Just what do you mean?"

He smiled in turn and said mildly: "Well, his is a world of wealth, and all it means."

"Mine, please. is a happy one even without wealth," she said as mildly as he had spoken. "There are some worlds of wealth I do not care to enter-even-even with Kent; if yours is that kind, then you need have no fear. But as I know him, his is a world of friendliness, appreciation of others, regard for men and women no matter whether they are wealthy or not. Is yours different than his?"

He cleared his throat. "You do not see my point. I-"

He paused and half turned toward the door.

"Mother is preparing dinner. You have a long drive back to the city. Won't you stay with us?" she said, eagerly, the thought in her mind that Kent might be along in time to rescue her.

He started when he saw her mother and seemed pleased when he found himself at the attractive dining table.

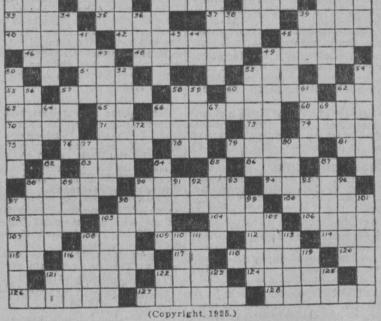

Anne was soon out of the conversation, for her mother with her quick mind was a match for the lawyer. The minutes passed, and in the midst of them, the bell rang, and without ceremony, as was his way, Kent came in, his black eyes dancing. "Why, hello, Dad, you here?" he exclaimed.

The older man looked up. "Certainly, and let me tell you something, I suppose you think you are to have a share of this potato. You're not. I'm to have yours!" His gray eyes twinkled. "By the way, what is the idea of forcing me to come out here alone to get acquainted with your bride-to-be?"

Anne gasped and looked at Kent. He blinked. "Say-say that again, will you, father?"

His father turned to Anne's mother. "You see, I was just saying this younger generation is a bit dumb!'

SHARING THE SHEPHERDS' JOY (Christmas Lesson)

LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:3-20. GOLDEN TEXT—Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will to-ward men.—Luke 2:14.

Tinsel and toys, snow and sleigh bells, crowded department stores and rushing throngs, gifts and greeting cards, Christmas dinner and fellowship with family and friendsis that all Christmas means to us? All these things are proper in their place-exciting and interesting-but they are not enough.

They have never been enough and certainly they will not do this year, with a world in chaos. We need not lose any of the thrilling enjoyment of Christmas by properly observing the day; in fact, we shall only enhance its meaning and bring out its real glory by keeping Christ at the heart of our Christmas.

X

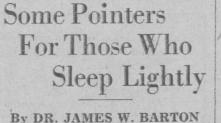

The opening verses of Luke 2 tell us of the coming of Mary with Joseph to God's appointed place at His appointed time for the coming into this world of His Son to be made flesh and dwell among us (John 1: 14). Our lesson tells us of

I. Good Tidings of Great Joy (vv. 8-14)

God had good news for the people of this world and He gave it, as was His custom, to those who were faithfully discharging their humble duties (cf. Judg. 6:11, 12; I Kings 19:19). God is still ready to reveal His glory and grace in the "office, kitchen, mill, barn school-room, and open field—places where people are at work on daily tasks" (Douglas). You need not be in the great church in a large city to meet Him on Christmas day. He will reveal Himself in all His beauty where you are, though you be in the humblest surroundings and at the most menial task. Look for Him!

Jesus came as a Saviour. "The world did not want an adviser. The world had advised itself almost into hell. The world did not ask for a speculator. Everything that man could do had been done, and men sat in the darkness of their own wisdom. The world did not want a reformer, a man who could change his outward and transient relations, an engineer that would continually devote his time (for appropriate remuneration) to the readjustment of the wheels and the pulleys and the various mechanical forces of society. The world wanted a saviour' (Joseph Parker).

Note that the army of heaven came to declare peace, not war; but only to those in "whom He is well eased" (v. 14, R. V.). As long as men serve the devil and displease God, they will have no peace.

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE story has been told for I many years about a member of a household who complained of her inability to sleep. She said she was a very light sleep- TODAY'S er, the slightest HEALTH noise would awaken her, and, COLUMN once awake, it would be hours before she got off to sleep again. It happened one night that there was a large fire directly across the street, so large, indeed, that a "general" alarm was sounded and with it; the usual noises of sirens and shouting. Everybody in the house was awakened and watched the proceedings for hours; everybody except the nonsleeper and she had taken no drugs to make her sleep.

The point is that most of us get more sleep than we think we do.

The minutes that we are awake during the night seem like hours and the hours we sleep seem like minutes.

In searching for the cause of insomnia or sleeplessness, there are certain definite ailments, such as a brain tumor and high blood pressure that should

Dr. Barton be considered. There are also cases of disturbed rest due to poor mattresses or springs, too much light, unusual noises, worries or problems, pain, temperature of room too high or too low, the wrong kind or too much food at evening meal or before retiring.

Most insomnia patients respond well to a hot bath before retiring if they will go to bed in the darkness immediately after the bath. In mental hospitals where there are both the depressed and the excitable types, the hot bath for some minutes is often used to induce and prolong sleep.

and relieve pain placed on the market in the last few years than nearly all other new drugs for other ness, the use of these new drugs is considered justified. Such simple methods as the hot bath, a hot drink, hot water bag to stomach,

Clean Tractor Radiator

Before Putting It Away Before putting the tractor away Chlorates Less Effective in for the winter, it is advisable to clean out the radiator thoroughly with a strong solution of washing soda.

Fill the radiator half full of rain water. Take an equal quantity of the water, heat to boiling and add all the washing soda it will dissolve. Pour this hot saturated solution into the radiator and run the engine for quackgrass with the same amount of chlorates by applying them in the fall instead of in the middle of the 10 to 20 hours at regular farm work. Then drain out completely, flush with clean water and refill as usual. This yearly treatment helps to prevent scale from forming in the coolgroggy next spring, give it the final ing system.

Scale that already is present can be removed by making a weak acid solution consisting of one part of ply to the control of sow thistle, hydrochloric acid and seven parts of rain water. Allow this solution to stand in the radiator for 36 hours without running the tractor. Then cal during early November at the drain and refill with clean water and two or three handfuls of washeach square rod for the worst weeds, ing soda. Run the engine for five or ten minutes, again drain, and fill with clean water. The soda treatment neutralizes any acid that may be left in the system.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE by Roger B. Whitman

Soiled Wallpaper. QUESTION: Wallpaper and ceil-ing hear one of our hot water radiators are darkened by a sootlike deposit. Sometimes there is an odor in the room that resembles that of sediment of a hot water tank. Can these annoyances be remedied?

Answer: The soiling of the wall-paper is due to dust carried up by the current of hot air rising from the radiator. The odor is very likely to be due to the repeated heating of dust and other material in the lower part of the radiator. Both of these troubles can be eliminated by keeping all parts of the radiator thoroughly clean.

Soot Removers.

Question: Would you please advise me the name of the powder that is used in oil burner furnaces to destroy soot and carbon? Where can I purchase this powder?

Answer: There are various makes of powder sold as soot removers. They can usually be had from any of the oil burner dealers. The best way to get rid of a deposit of soot is with brushes or a vacuum cleaner. Heavy and frequent depositing of soot in a boiler is an indication of faulty adjustment in the oil burner, which should be corrected.

Stuck Stopper.

Question: The glass stopper of a large cut-glass bottle is stuck fast. How can I loosen it?

Answer: One thing to try is to put a drop or two of glycerine at the joint; in a day or two the glycerine may work down enough to loosen the stopper. Another idea is to expand the neck of the bottle by heating without expanding the stopper. For this hold the bottle horizontally and dribble some hot water over the neck. This must be carefully done, for otherwise there is a chance that sudden expansion would break the bottle.

Oily Wallpaper.

Question: A small lamp was placed so close to a wall that oil from the lamp shade ran into the wallpaper. How can I remove it?

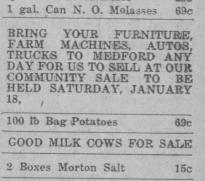

Answer: Cover the oil spots with a paste made of a non-burning spot removing liquid and fuller's earth, powdered chalk, or some similar powder. Allow to remain until dry and then remove by brushing. If the wallpaper is soiled, this will leave a noticeable clean spot, in which case you should go over all of the wallpaper with a wallpaper cleaner to be had at a hardware store.

Noisy Water Pipes.

Question: Whenever a faucet is opened or closed, there are unpleasant noises from the air in the pipes. How can this be overcome?

Answer: If the noise is a rattle that occurs when a faucet is opened, the cause is a worn or loose washer. Replacing the washer will stop the noise. If the noise occurs when the faucet is being closed and is worse when the faucet is closed abruptly than when the closing is slow, the trouble is from lack of an air cushion to take up the momentum of the water. This is something that can be corrected by any plumber.

II. Great Faith and Consistent Action (vv. 15, 16).

The shepherds did not say, "Let us now go and see if this thing has come to pass," or "which we expect or hope will come to pass," but said, "which is come to pass." They went not to test God's word, but in the assurance that they would "see" what had come to pass. Blessed faith! Let us too believe God's word to us.

But "faith without works is dead' (James 2:17). The shepherds might have made many excuses for not going but "they came" and "found" the Saviour. Perhaps you who read these words have failed at that point; you have not come to Jesus as your Saviour. No more appropriate time could be found to come than right now. Believe, then act on your faith.

Some of us who are Christians need also to learn of the shepherds. We talk a great deal about our devotion to Christ. Especially at this Christmas season we render much 'lip service'' to Him. Let us make it real, and our lives virile and active for Him.

III, Good News for Meditation and Proclamation (vv. 17-20).

The gospel is literally "good What a blessed privilege it news." is to have such good news in a day of evil tidings, of darkness and despair.

There are two things we ought to do with the gospel of God's redeeming grace. We should make it known to the ends of the earth, but we should also do as Mary, "who kept all these things and pondered them in her heart." We know she had special reasons for doing so, but may we not suggest that you too make this Christmas a time when you will ponder in your own heart what God has done for you in Christ?

The shepherds also set us a Christmas example, for they "made known abroad" the coming of the Saviour. Will you tell someone else today? Will you, like the shepherds, be "glorifying and praising God" this Christmas? You will if you, like them, go to the manger and meet Jesus. If you go to this world's empty show of celebration, you will return empty (see v. 20).

May the blessed peace of Christ be yours this Christmas. That is my wish from the heart to you.

light exercise before retiring, should also be tried before the use of the sleeping tablet should be permitted. . . .

Pollen Now Used in Cure of Hay Fever

THE fall weed hay fever season 1 begins toward the end of July in southern districts and from the middle to the end of August in the northern, and ends with the first frost.

In addition to the above mentioned symptoms, there may be headaches, weakness and tiredness, and slight asthmatic symptoms.

To detect the particular pollen causing the hay fever, skin tests and also tests by eating suspected foods or inhaling (breathing in) other substances are used. This, in most cases, locates the pollen or other substances to which the individual is sensitive or allergic.

Injections of Pollen Extract.

The treatment now generally used is to try to make the patient less sensitive or allergic to the substance -ragweed pollen in most cases-to which he is sensitive. This is done by injecting small quantities of pollen extract under the skin once or twice a week for six to eight weeks before the hay fever symptoms usu-ally appear. Most physicians prefer to start the injections not less than three to four months before the hay fever season as it allows much more pollen extract to be given and thus a betfer chance to get the system desensitized to the ragweed pollen.

With the arrival of the hay fever season, the injections are continued but the dose is reduced to one-half. If you are subject to nay fever you should consult your physician at once about the use of the pollan extract. Most family physicians now give these injections regularly. . . .

QUESTION BOX

Q.-What would be helpful in healing and preventing recurrence of a varicose ulcer of the leg?

A .-- Usual treatment is to remove, by injection or surgery, any varicose veins near the ulcer.

Q .- Are there any injections to render one immune from ivy, oak and sumac poisoning?

A.-Your own physician can use these injections. Ask him about them in your case.

university show that two or three pounds of chlorate applied for each square rod in early November are just as effective in killing quackgrass and some other weeds as 8 or 10 pounds a square rod in the middle of the summer growing season. The experiments also indicate that calcium chlorate is about two-thirds to three-fourths as effective as sodium chlorate.

The cost of two applications is about $80 an acre when the chlorate is used at the rate of 31/2 pounds to the square rod for each application. Chlorates are dangerous as fire hazards, but if the directions are read carefully and common sense precautions are taken in handling them this danger will be avoided.

Swine Fatten Faster

If they Aren't 'Piggish'

Believe it or not, pigs will make hogs of themselves much faster if they do not have to be "piggish." Elbow room while eating and the right kind of service help swine to make rapid gains on a smaller amount of feed than when they have to eat like "greedy pigs" to get their share of whatever grub is available.

Hog-lot mannerisms of this kind are worthy of the attention of farmers as well as of students of swine psychology, Drs. R. C. Miller and B. Keith, of the Pennsylvania State college agricultural experiment station, believe, because of the feed cost involved.

When pigs are fed in groups and allowed to act "natural," they usually require 400 or more pounds of feed in order to gain 100 pounds in body weight, the Penn State experimenters found. In a recent test in which they were fed separately, however, certain pigs gained 100 pounds on as little as 229 pounds of a ration analyzing 17 per cent protein.

Factors other than uninterrupted meals doubtless had a bearing on the economy of gains, Miller and Keith freely admit, but they also are of the opinion that plenty of room at the trough is important. Their tests indicate that a ration of corn, tankage, soybean oilmeal, alfalfa meal and salt is about right for fattening pigs after they weigh 100 pounds if the mixture analyzes around 17 per cent protein. From weaning to 100 pounds, somewhat more protein me --cessary.

Many weed seeds are destroyed when they are put in the silo.

Of the moisture that falls on the soil, only about 50 per cent is available for plant growth, approximately 50 per cent being lost through evaporation and run-off.

Poison ivy may be killed out by applying sodium chlorate to the patch at the rate of three pounds per square rod, preferably in the dry form if distributed in the fall. Handle with care to avoid fire danger. . . .

A properly placed rat trap is more important than a properly baited one.

* * * Essentially the same methods of feeding dairy heifers can be used for bulls under six months of age.

Containing 80 to 85 per cent cream and milk products, ice cream requires the milk of nearly 1,000,000 cows—over 1½ billion quarts of milk a year. About 10,000 manufacturing plants produce 280,000,000 gallons of ice cream annually.

Old, Used Wood

Is Good as New

Wood taken from old buildings can be safely used for other purposes, according to the U.S. forest products laboratory at Madison, Wis.

Age in itself does not cause wood to deteriorate in strength. If the material is free from decay, insect attack, checks, splits, or other defects, it should be good for re-use for any purpose for which the lumber was originally suitable, the forest products laboratory points out.

The principal cause of damage to wood in buildings is decay and decay cannot occur unless a certain amount of water is present, says the laboratory. In old buildings in which the sheathing, roof boards, floors, and other wooden parts have been well protected from the weather the wood will, in practically all cases, be as sound as when first erected. Wood may darken with age, but it has lost none of its original strength characteristics.

There can be no objection to reuse of lumber simply because it has been in use.

Sound-Proofing Ceilings.

Question: In my apartment the ceiling plaster was replaced by in-sulating board. What can I do to make it more sound-proof?

Answer: Sound-proofing an apartment ceiling is a difficult thing to do, because much of the sound travels through the framework of the building. It will help to put on an extra ceiling of the same kind of board that is now used, supported on furring strips one inch thick. Heavy felt should be laid on both sides of the furring strips to give additional sound-proofing.

Poplar Stumps.

Question: How can I get rid of poplar stumps?

Answer: Saw the stumps off close to the ground, bore as many and as deep holes into them as possible, fill and refill with kerosene until the wood is well soaked; then build a fire on each stump to ignite the pil-soaked wood. Do not do this if there is anything nearby that might be harmed, for the heat will be intense. For an alternative, dig out a stump for as far below the ground as convenient, and cover with earth; poplar is a soft wood that rots quickly.

Beach Cottage Walls.

Question: What would you recom-mend for the inside walls of a beach cottage? Outside walls are pine boards, shingled.

Answer: You should use a kind of stiff insulating board that is moisture proof and that will not shrink and swell in the damp air near the shore. Some makes of these boards can be had with a protective treatment of asphalt. Follow the manufacturer's directions in filling the joints. For a finish, put on a first coat of aluminum paint, which can be followed by painting or papering.

Cats.

Question: How can I keep cats from digging up and destroying my yard?

Answer: Spray the yard with a solution of nicotine sulphate, which can be had at any seed or hardware store. This is an insecticide, and will not harm vegetation; but cats and dogs hate the odor. (© Roger B. Whitman-WNU Service.)
