COMMUNITY LOCALS

This column is not for use in advertising any money-making program, fair, supper, party or sale. It is intended for news, personals, and such matters as may be of community interest.

Churches, Lodges, Societies, Schools, etc, are requested to use our Special Notice Department for money-making events.

Churches are especially given free use of our Church Notice Column, for brief notices concerning regular or special services. Larger events will be cared for elsewhere in our columns.

Miss Pauline Brining, R. N., of Long Island, N. Y., is spending her vacation at her home here.

Miss Idona Mehring, of Baltimore, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Mehring.

Mr. and Mrs. Worley Sheeley, of Frederick, and Mrs. John P. Eyler, of near Ladiesburg, spent Monday with relatives in town.

Charles L. Stonesifer is breaking ground for a dwelling on East Bal-timore St.. and so goes the progress of the town both east and west.

Mr. Milton A. Myers, of Pleasant Valley and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Null and family, of near town, were Sun-day visitors at the home of Mrs. Lizzie W. Zepp and sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Crabbs and two children, of West Friendship, Md. spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Overholtzer and Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Crabbs, of town.

William E. Burke, who has spent several months at the Gettysburg Hospital, due to a fall, is at home now but will not be able to walk for some time, even with improvement.

Not so frequently, but occasionally readers ask us to keep something "out" of The Record. We try to be accommodating, but we do not "make" news—others do that.

SLIVER RUN CHILD KILLED Run in the Path of a Passing Auto.

Darting from behind his father's car which was parked in front of their home, Robert, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. LeGore, Silver Run, ran into the path of a passing auto Saturday evening about 6:50, resulting in his death a few minutes later. The machine which struck the lad was driven by Kenneth Eyler, Silver Run, who is employed at the C. L. Mehring Hardware Store Littlestown. Mr. Eyler was on his way back to his place of employment after eating supper at home.

The boy was rushed to the office of Dr. D. B. Coover, Littlestown physician, but died enroute. The body was then removed to the J. W. Little & Son Funeral Home, where Dr. Jas. T. Marsh, New Windsor, Carroll County medical examiner, who had been notified, issued the death certificate, pronouncing death to have been almost instantaneous as the result of a dislocated vertibrae.

Besides his parents the lad is surand by the maternal grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Smith, Uniontown, Md. He was a member of the first grade of the Charles Carroll grade school.

Funeral services were held from the home Tuesday afternoon. Rev. C. Earl Gardner, pastor of St. Mary's Reformed Church, officiated; burial was made in the union cemetery at Silver Run.

________ THE BRUCEVILLE BRIDGE.

(For The Record).

Dear Mr. Englar: In reply to your letter of April 19, first I want to thank you for printing the letter last summer about the Bruceville bridge. I can tell you it played a big part, that the contract was "let," last September (before the flood).

I am not much of a correspondent but I am glad to write you of the road work and bridge, you can print part or whole of it if you think it is interesting to the readers.

The road grading is almost done except for the "hill' they are blasting a great deal, it seems to be all rock. The bridge is being delayed, because the contractors cannot obtain steel fast enough, because of the defense

The floor is three-fourths laid for the concrete pouring, but it may be several months before it is finished. I hear that the road over the Little Pipe Creek will be built in the near future back of Keymar under the W. M. tracks. These roads when completed will then be called the "Francis Scott Key Highway."

coming down York St., failed to stop at the square and ran into a Dodge car driven by John Campbell, Westminster. John Campell and Miss Helen Smith, daughter of Joseph Smith, near Taneytown, were returning from Baltimore, after taking in the circus, when they met with the accident. Helen Smith was thrown from the car, her face striking road, badly bruising her face. Other injuries were a cut above her lip, right knee cut and leg bruised. John Campbell had a bruised knee and a bump on his head.

Both cars were badly damaged and were towed to Westminster. One day last week, within one hour, three cars bearing New Jersey licenses passed the square never stopping at the stop signs.

C. H. FORREST BOOK DONOR.

The Taneytown Public Library and the Taneytown High School last week were the joint recipients of a donation of 3,500 books. These books were given by Mr. Clarence H. For-rest, age 74, of Baltimore. Mr. For-rest was formerly from Taneytown. He has given us the books in memory of his mother, Mrs. Emma Currens Forrest and of his sister, Mrs. Gertrude May Forrest Fouke. Mrs. Gertrude May Forrest was for many years a teacher in our Taneytown

We are very grateful to Mr. For-rest for his fine gift and take this opportunity to thank him for his generosity.

A RALLY PROGRAM.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Basehoar, Mrs David Mehring and Dr. C. M. Benner attended a combined rally of all the Sunday Schools and eleven Christian Endeavor Societies of Cumberland County, Pa., held May 13, in the First Evangelical Church, Carlisle.

The Rev. Robert Benner, new superintendent, young people of the Co. Sabbath School Association, presided. The program entitled, "Friendly Sing and Rally" was as follows:

Invocation, Rev. F. E. Remaly, Host Pastor; Introduction of Dr. Stover, Rev. Robert Benner; Hymn singing, Dr. Stover, pianist, George Finkey. Council of Homemakers' Clubs, at the annual spring meeting of the group, which convened Tuesday in the Sunday School auditorium of the Grace Lutheran Church, in Westminster. More than 300 women, representing the 22 Homemakers Clubs in the county, and visitors from all sections of the county, were present during the morning and afternoon sessions.

Mrs. John D. Young, Co. President since 1939, presided over the morning session which was concerned mostly with the business of the Council. Invocation was offered by Mrs. Chester Hobbs, Mount Airy. Mrs. Hobbs is the author of the Homemakers Creed, which is used by clubs all over the county. The Council then recited the creed. Mrs. J. Edgar Myers, Chair-man of the committee on local arrangements, welcomed the large gathering to Westminster. Mrs. Myers is president of the Westminster Club, the members of which acted as hostthe members of which acted as host-esses, and were in charge of the reg-istration for the day. Mrs. Moles-worth, Mount Airv, was the secretary for the day. Mrs. Young then brought the President's message. This was followed by a club roll call. THE PLAY GROUND IN TANEYTOWN.

Plans for the coming summer play ground were discussed at a meeting the committee held at the home of Mrs. Francis T. Elliot, on Monday evening. Since aid from the State will not be available this, year, the ladies of the committee have agreed to take charge of the children without pay.
With contributions from the local organizations to defray incidental expenses regarding upkeep of grounds and equipment, it is hoped that the play ground activities will continue as usual, beginning in July. Members of the committee beside Mrs. Francis Elliot are: Mrs. William Hopkins, Mrs. J. B. Elliot, Mrs. Bernard Arnold, Mrs. Sterling Eckard, Mrs. Leo Zentz, Mrs. Howell Royer and Mrs. David Hess.

CLOTHING FOR WAR RELIEF 6000 lbs. have already been sent from Carroll County.

suffering from war conditions. The last appeal early in October met a most enthusiastic and ready response and about 6000 lbs. of clothing, good usable clothing, was sent from Carroll County directly to the Baltimore wharf from whence it was sent to Great Britian and distributed under the direction of the Red Cross in that country. From Washington headquarters it has been learned that 73 out of 75 ship loads of clothing have arrived safely and needy clothing distributed. In addition to this Carroll County has sent about three hundred dollars in cash. F. Kale Mathias, president of the Carroll County British War Relief Society, which was formed in September, has been contacted concerning another drive for clothing. With this request, Mr. Mathias feels it is necessary to call a meeting of this organization to discuss the matter of a second—and perhaps a more needed

He has therefore called a meeting for Thursday evening, May 22, at 7:45 o'clock in the home of the Historical Society of Carroll County, 206 E. Main St., Westminster. It is absolutely necessary that all district workers and representatives of this society in each district attend this meeting.

A drive for clothing—all kinds of clothing-will be conducted along the same plan as that used in October. Since the use of the State Armory is not available, it will be necessary to use the historical home as a collection center. As in October, persons will be requested to bring their clothing donations to this center. Arrange-ments will be made to have this center opened evenings for the accommodations of everyone, for this drive. The from 10 A. M. until 5 P. M., and on Sunday beginning at 1 P. M.

It is essential that there will be cooperation from every one interested in this project, and in order to make it a successful and prompt campaign, Mr. Mathias urges that all interested in giving this aid to Britian to attend this meeting. It will be necessary for as many as possible to volunteer for what service is needed. He feels there can be no time lost in giving this much needed aid and at once.

Mrs. Brown, worker-in-charge, and Mr. Royer, case supervisor, have recently served on committees pointed by the State Department of Public Welfare to study and recommend changes or additions to the present methods of carrying out the Social Security program. The final work of the committees will be presented at a three day State-wide Conference executives and supervisors scheduled for May 15, 16 and 17. Main topics for discussion will be:

Legislative Changes. Services to children in their own homes or in homes of relatives. Measuring the ability of relatives to support parents.

UNSEASONABLE GROWTH OF CROPS.

4. Supervisory controls.

Cool nights and lack of rainfall are responsible for lack of normal growth of vegetation at this season of the year in Maryland. The past April has a record of the hottest one since 1921, according to weather bureau reports.

There is hardly a crop that promises a good yield, which includes corn and tomatoes for canning. The best soil, of course, shows best results, along all lines of growth.

MONSIGNOR TIERNEY DEAD.

Rt. Rev. Monsingor Tierney, dean Emeritus of Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, one of the country's leading Bible scholars, died on Monday, after an illness of months, aged nearly 88 years.

He was born in Ireland in 1853, came to Louisville. Ky, in 1867, and graduated by Mt. St. Mary's in 1880. He was the author of many articles for Catholic publications, and was widely known. Funeral services were held in the College Chapel, Thursday

A GERMAN MAKES FLIGHT TO SCOTLAND.

The Biggest Surprise of the European War

The big news of the week was the flight of Rudolf Hess, head of the Nazi party and close friend of Hitler to a point near Glasgow, Scotland, where he landed by jumping from a parachute, and was slightly injured in the landing.

Hess carried photographs with him identifying himself. He was taken British authorities assert that Hess acted on his own account, aiming to negotiate terms of peace without consulting Hitler. It appears that his landing in Scotland was in order to meet his old acquaintance, the Duke of Hamilton both of whom had been friends as officials in Olympic games, and liked each other. games, and liked each other.

The British are making considerable capital out of the occurrence, some of it in a blustering way. Prime Minister Churchill has not as yet expressed his opinion concerning the very unusual situation.

Berlin is expected to disavow any intimation of seeking peace, and continue to say that Hess was a mental incompetent.

Hess is said to be spending his time in reading and writing, and oc-casionally listening to the radio; but is not talking—as a mental incompetent might be expected to do.

Still another opinion is, that Hess was acting in collusion with Hitler and his visit to Scotland was to try to persuade his school-friend to urge Scotland to break way from England—to secede, in fact.

If there is any one conclusion that has been reached, it is that Hitler originated the flight, but for what exact purpose is not known.

BOARD OF EDUCATION REGU-LAR MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Board of Education was held on Tuesday,

The Board accepted the resignation of Mary E. Mather who has been on leave of absence for further study. The coal specifications, as presented by the superintendent, were approved and the secretary was instructed to advertise for bids. These bids will be accepted at the June meeting.

The Board approved the purchase of the land at the Taneytown school from Ernest Bankard for the sum of $1,700.00. On account of the low enrollments and the completion of the hard road to the Lowe and Morgan Run schools, the Board authorized the closing of these two schools, transporting the pupils to Westminster. The Board approved selling the Snydersburg, Cherry Grove, Lowe and Morgan Run school properties in July.

The superintendent was authorized

WOMEN AND INDUSTRY

Why they are Much Interested Citizens. "I think after all the American way of life means more to us home making women than it does to any other group of people," said the woman. "Not more than it does to the men and women in Industry," answered the man, fully aware of the impor-tance of our kind of democracy to the free functioning of Industry.

"But it gives us a chance to realize all our basic aspirations," the woman

"And what are these aspirations?"

-to create happy, comfortable

-to bring up children who will be able to build for themselves in freedom a still better world tomorrow -to contribute to community and social betterment through individual action and group participation to defend, particularly in these dark days, the cherished tradi-tions of the American way of life, and -to insure a life of freedom for ourselves and our families." "Now let me see if I can sum up Industry's ambitions which can only be realized in a country like this. "First of all, at this time Industry's objective is:

-to build swiftly the sinews of national defense so that our institutions of freedom may be preserved. "After that its objectives are: -to build an ever higher standard of living for Americans. -to keep open the door of oppor-tunity and through science and research, to create ever wider horizons

-to provide more jobs with higher purchasing power." By this time the woman had put down her knitting and was leaning forward eagerly. "But don't you see" she asked, "that it's the same thing we're after? In the long run what we both want is the welfare of the individual. That is the real reason you are seeking for a higher standard of living, and the real reason we want to build happier homes."

"I see," he nodded. "So after all, shall we say that we are partners-you women at home and we people in industry?" "Yes," said the women, "with preservation of the American way of life —which means everything to the in-dividual—our one objective!"

OUR "FREE" COUNTRY.

Important events have a way now, of lasting a long time, and to be more contentious than we have ever in the past been accustomed to. The recent session of the legislature was an occasion of this kind.

Perhaps our institutions of learning-colleges and high schools-may be encouraging the art of debate, and specimens of win at any cost politics. Surely, our radio reports from Berlin and London are hardly worth listening to as recording exact facts. Individual interests have become class interests and our democratic form of government is far from that voiced by Lincoln, at Gettysburg in his famous address. The election of a President every four years, has been changed to a possibility of a fourth term following a third-not because, we people want it so, but because we think we can get more, individually, out of such a plan. In business, there is no longer friendship but a system of cutting and dickering that changes about as fast as advertisements can be pub-

INCREASED MILK PRODUCTION NEEDED.

Prospective export needs for dairy products, particularly cheese, evaporated milk, and dried swim milk, plus increasing consumer demand for dairy products in this country, make it desirable that milk production in the United States be increased by 6

Most of the increase, he says, should be made in production areas which have access to milk evaporating and cheese-making plants. He points out also that a somewhat larger than normal proportion of the milk available for manufacture of dairy products should be used for cheese and evaporated milk.

Borrowed Time Club

A strange organization entitled "Borrowed Timers" exists in Ellenburg, Wash. Every one of its members has been marked for death by his doctor. Not one has reached the obituary column since the start of the organization in 1936.

They are a nonsectarian, self-governing and self-supporting group of young and middle-aged people living beyond the life spans predicted for them by their physicians.

As the club grew, it imposed a few limitations on membership. One is that 90 days must elapse, after a physician has predicted the time of death before a candidate can become eligible. This is to: "1. Soften the blow of a physician's tragic words. 2. To offer encouragement to the newly doomed. 3. To create a desire to live in the condemned and incite a mental and physical effort to remain among the living.'

The hardest obstacle the club had to overcome was a periodic lagging of spirits and a tendency to "give up." But this, too, was conquered by courage.

New Milk Bottle

A lighter milk bottle is gaining wide popularity. It is one inch shorter and five ounces lighter than the old-fashioned kind and proves a handy quart for little hands. Above, two-year-old Brenda Talbot, daughter of writer Gayle Talbot, is pic-tured just after she had poured herself a glass of milk from the new bottle. Since its invention more than half-a-century ago, the glass milk bottle has been considered most sanitary and economical container for the family's milk.

A few drops of ammonia in water will aid in keeping car windows sparkling. Tires may be kept clean by using ordinary water and a and tar, in which case a mechanic's soap, containing a mild abrasive, will do the trick. Or a cloth dampened with kerosene will take off tar and oil. If you use kerosene, though, be sure to wash all traces of it off the rubber.

A good whisk broom will clean upholstery and carpets and a damp cloth will take off mud spots. A vacuum cleaning occasionally is also advisable. Chewing gum may be moistened with a fabric cleaner and scraped off with a dull knife.

The principal factor is to keep at it constantly and don't neglect your car. Don't let stains remain. Get after spots. Fight dust and dirt and learn to have that pride in ownership which will prompt you to keep your car looking well groomed.

DINOSAURS ON THE LAND

A friend of ours has a pet question he likes to spring on a group when conversation lags. Out of a clear sky he will say: "What do you read a newspaper with?"

Dead silence will ensue. One wag is then likely to say, "with my glasses." Another will say, "with curiosity" and still another-"with forebod-The aning." swer my friend always hopes to, and seldom does, get is - "with thoughtfulness. He has the idea that most of us do not consciously try to measure the effect of great events upon our own lives, and that we do not plan as well as we should, accordingly. It's something like the rockingchair idea we've talked about in this column before.

Would you be surprised to hear that the newspapers of the nation have been devoting columns and columns, every day, to the idea that the family farm is the hope of the country? To be sure, those actual words have not been used. The headlined topic of all those articles was the production problem of the national defense program. And always the refrain was labor, labor, labor.

Labor has to come from somewhere. Putting all the unemployed to work isn't going to be enough. The call will go out; the wages will be attractive. And the farmers who have built their programs around hired labor will be left either without any help at all, or will be under the necessity of paying for it at a rate that will be back-breaking.

The thoughtful man does not find it hard to see that the properly equipped family farm is in sweet position when compared to the so-called commercial farm. Let the man with the family *rm be as cold-blooded about his methods as the commercial farmer has been, and we'll lay our bets on the family farm every time.

The family unit is the natural farm unit. It is made up of people that are of the land, and not just on the land. It can have all the strengths of commercial farming without the inherent weaknesses that show up when there is a real shortage of labor in the country

Isn't it time to ask ourselves whether we have been missing the point when we have concluded that the apparent strength of commercial farming was bigness. The dinosaurs were big, too, but they were very vulnerable, and they didn't last. They dominated the prehistoric scene just so long as conditions were right. But other kinds of animal life had what it took to adjust themselves to major changes. They not only lived through, but thrived.

The family farm is the kind of unit that can quickly adjust itself to changing conditions, and it can thrive if it will adopt methods to meet the conditions. In other words, the emphasis now should be on methods. The dinosaur was a one-idea animal. He was inflexible. He couldn't be bothered to change his ways. In plain words, he didn't want to be modern, so he became extinct.

No, the family unit is impregnable, if . . . ! It contains within itself the capacity both to manage and to operate, to sustain itself and also to provide a real surplus of produce for the national need; to profit and also to get substantial and lasting enjoyment from the fruits of its labors. The familly unit is impregnable, if—if it will make itself efficient in the managements of its acres. That is the one thing it can learn from the commercial farm operation.

Sow that efficiency in the warm soil of a man's own land; cultivate at with family solidarity, and the harvest will be as certain as sunshine after rain.

Invention of Reaper Not Disclosed for Ten Years

Cyrus Hall McCormick invented a reaper and started an agricultural revolution.

Until the invention of the reaper, agriculture had advanced little beyond the implements of Biblical times. Man could not harvest as much as he could sow, nor as much as land would produce. A strong man could cut two acres of wheat a day with a scythe. Four of every five people in the United States were employed on farms.

McCormick's father, an iron-worker, had tried unsuccessfully to invent a machine for cutting standing wheat. At 22, Cyrus began work on the idea and in six weeks produced the first reaper. The essentials of that first machine are found in modern binders and combines.

The reaper was given its initial test in 1831, cut 10 acres in a day. But McCormick did not offer his machine for sale until 1840.

A colored preacher was trying to explain the fury of Hades to his con-

"You all has seen molten iron runnin' out from a furnace, ain't you?' he asked.

The congregation said it had. "Well," the preacher continued, "dey uses dat stuff fo' ice cream in de place I'm talkin' 'bout."

the family with a garden in the back yard, or on a very small plot, can largely overcome the handicap of limited size by planting companion and succession crops. In companion cropping, two crops occupy the soil at the same time—one a quickly matur-ing crop, the other a crop that requires longer time to develop and, when grown, more space. The earlier crop is harvested before the later crop matures. In succession cropping, one crop is harvested, then the ground is again prepared and planted to a second crop. A letter to most any state agricultural college will bring a pamphlet telling in detail to buy only from some thoroughly reliable house. Seedling plants started in boxes or cold frames in cellar or base-ment should be transplanted when they are 1 to 2 inches high. At this size they transplant more readily, develop better roots and make stockier plants. Seedlings should be well watered 12 hours before being transplanted. Use care in keeping as much earth around the roots as possible and planting in freshly made holes.

Of first importance is the use

Most home gardeners plant seed too thickly. Thinning to proper distances will hasten maturity, increase yields and insure higher quality. The best time to thin out seedlings is soon after they are up. When watering, either with hose or other means, soak the soil thoroughly. During drought, watering in evenings is most

FEESERSBURG.

Mothers' Day in this community was observed with many nice gifts, beautiful cards and letters, sermons and songs. Some wore flowers in their lapels, but we've noticed that persons are more inclined to wear a white bloom in memory of departed mothers than the colored ones for the living. Just another American custom of showing honor too late. Pvt. Fred Crouse from Fort Story, was home from Thursday night to Monday, and glad for a leave of absence. He looks well, and is as content as a successful soldier-boy can be; and his friends were pleased to see him.

The latter part of last week was given to talk of the 900 soldiers who passed through out town on Thursday enroute from Edgewood Arsenal bevond Baltimore to Camp Ritchie at Blue Ridge Summit. It was interesting to see them, but they left sad hearts along the way. Some of them were limping, and all seemed so tired; and the poor donkeys with their heavy packs must have had sore backs and and white. In the center of the table been weary too. They encamped for the night at Detour along the creek, where a mob of people visited them. About 78 years ago the soldiers of the Civil War—both blue and gray passed by, and the women were all busy baking pies, bread and rolls for them; while the men were just as busy trying to secure their possessions

THAT CRAZY TOAD.

A toad hopped out and sat on a log And that chump of a toad thought himself a bull frog. He sat there and croaked in his own toad way Till other toads came to see what he'd say. He wanted to swim, and he wanted to dive,

But above all things else he wanted to live, So he sat there all night, and he sat there all day

And he wondered and wondered how long he should stay; His troubles soon ended for along came in view
A big wide-winged hawk that away with him flew; So the toad made a meal for the hawk on that day When he hopped on the log just to sit there and play.

WBAL STUDIOS AID RECRE-ATION AT FORT MEADE.

Refurnishing of Radio Station WBAL's studios is proving the good fortune of the men in the 175th. Infantry, now in training at Fort George G. Meade.

In keeping with the enlarging of its station to 50,000 watts, making it one of the most powerful in the country, WBAL is buying new furniture for its reception room and studios.

The station has given the furnishings now in use to the former "Dandy Fifth" to help equip the regiment's 18 company recreational rooms. The furniture, all of which is excellent condition, includes three davenports, two wing chairs, four arm chairs, three floor lamps, a table lamp and a long reading table.

An army truck called for the articles and delivered them to the men, who are welcoming the household furnishings many people have been contributing toward their fixing up a "den" similar to perhaps a favorite room they left behind, when they joined Uncle Sam's military forces.

At noon, the models, and those participating on the program, with Miss Hoffman, had luncheon at the Kara-Bel Inn. The Dorcas Class of Grace Lutheran Church served ice cream and coffee to many of the women who had brought box lunches.

The afternoon session was opened by the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner". Mrs. Randall G. Spoerlein, New Windsor, led the music, which was accompanied by Mrs. Curvin M, Seitz, County Music Chairman. Mrs. Marie Thompson, New Windsor, soprano, sang a group of beautiful selections, among which were, "In the Meadow," and "I've done by Work", by Carrie Jacobs Bond, and "Lift up Thine Eyes", by Frederick Logan. More for Liquor Than Defense

During the development of the present national emergency, the country has heard the phrase "all out" used with increasing frequency. Appeals are heard for "all out" aid for European democracies, and for "all out" efforts to strengthen national defense. The national W.C.T.U., which gave "all out" support to the government during the war effort of 1917-1918, is wondering how the nation hopes to go "all out" in the present crisis as long as it continues to squander more money on booze than it appropriated for the initial lendlease program.

The President asked for $7,000, 000,000 to finance the lend-lease program of "all out" aid to the democracies.

And the direct expenditures for intoxicating liquor by the American people, constantly encouraged by government sanction and the trade's unlimited promotion program, is daily diverting nearly $9,000,000 from retail merchants to the coffers of brewer, distiller, winemaker and their distributors.

This adds up to well over $3,000,-000,000 a year, and to this must be added the indirect cost which is greater yet, the economic drain resulting from liquor lawlessness, crime, diseases, inefficiency, and premature deaths.

In an address entitled "The Special Cost of Alcoholism" delivered last December before the American Society for the Advancement of Science by Dr. Horatio M. Pollack of the department of mental hygiene of the State of New York, this indirect annual cost of liquor to the nation was placed at $5,000,000,000.

How, they are asking at National W.C.T.U. headquarters, can any nation gird itself for an "all out" effort toward anything when it permits itself to suffer such a huge drain on its resources? And how can it expect to maintain efficiency in its mines and factories and armed forces when liquor in prodigious quantities is flaunted attractively before those to whom we are entrusting our defense ef-

Before we really make an "all out" effort, we must deliver a "knock out" blow to the liquor industry which stands between us and the combination of strength and efficiency which will be needed to carry us through the crisis ahead, the W.C.T.U. believes.

Liverpool Rummy

Something new to pass the evenings away-Liverpool Rummy-is now on the market, and in many organizations and afternoon gatherings, this game is replacing bridge. Any number may play this game, having the usual tables of four players and progressing just as you would at bridge. It is far more exciting than the simpler games of rummy and is very easy to learn, say those who have played the Liverpool Rummy may be played at home, also, with any number of players from two to seven taking part. Two decks of cards are used, with each player getting 10 cards and the remainder being placed in the center of the table and turning up one card beside it. Ace is high and counts ten. King, Queen and Jack also count ten.

Ceiling Heights Affect Heating Ceiling heights in houses are not solely matters of taste but also involve the important factors of heating and ventilating, FHA officials Homes built during the Victorian period usually had elevations of 10 or 12 feet. These heights were thought to be of aid in keeping the rooms cool during hot weather. Actually, unless the warm air was carried off properly it only served to increase the temperatures by storing up masses of warm air.

Any sensation of coolness noted was due mainly to the mental reaction of the residents, it is believed. Most experts now agree that any space more than 12 inches above the heads of windows, unless ventilated thoroughly, is of no value in cooling the room.

Church Copies Bible Members of the Bethany Lutheran church in Cleveland have just completed a hand-written copy of the New Testament. Almost every member of the church wrote at least a page of the document.

"Our Bible may not compare with the beautiful work of the medieval artists," said the Rev. J. H. L. Trout, minister of the church, "but it means a great deal to us."

More than 450 members contributed to the making of the book. The only machine-made part is the elaborate Lutheran seal which is stamped on the hand-tooled leather cover. The first chapter of each book was written by some person selected for his or her penmanship, and the subsequent chapters by those less

ANTED: Young man with $500 to invest to manage motion picture business.' "

The young man with the glasses, who said his name was Melvin Byers, looked up questioningly into Mr. Rance Ackert's eyes.

Mr. Ackert nodded impatiently. "Yes, yes. That's the advertisement I inserted in the newspaper. But, as I've already told you, I've decided upon one of the fifty odd men who applied earlier in the week. You can't expect to answer an ad in a week-old newspaper and find the job still vacant, young man."

"But I didn't have the money a week ago, Mr. Ackert. I've just succeeded in raising it. Moreover, I'm sure I'm the man you want. All I ask is a trial. I'll prove my worth to you."

Melvin Byers let his eyes wander about the room, his gaze resting fondly upon the battery of cameras that lined the wall, the sections of scenery stacked neatly in a corner, the large gaudily colored portraits of famous stars that hung from the

Mr. Ackert drummed on his desk and thought rapidly. After all, he told himself, $500 was $500. And this youth acted like a push-over, a much easier push-over than any of the other twenty motion picture managers he had hired during the past six

Mr. Ackert reflected momentarily on his week's receipts. There had been twenty-five applicants as the result of his advertisement. Ten of them had been completely taken inhad planked down their $500 and promised to come to work on the fol-

These latter—the non-paying five—were worthless as far as Mr. Ackert was concerned. For on Sunday preceding the Monday when all twenty "managers" were scheduled to report for duty, Mr. Ackert expected to be winging his way to Mexico, carrying with him the $7,500 which the racket had netted. His total overhead had amounted to less than Which wasn't bad, but was downright poor compared to the old

Melvin Byers was watching Mr. Ackert earnestly. "I'm the man you want, Mr. Ackert. Just let me prove it."

Mr. Ackert sat suddenly forward, as if he had reached an abrupt though perhaps too hasty decision. "Very well, young man, you shall have your chance. I'll briefly outline the plan and you can make your own decision. As you may know, I am the eastern representative of the Acme Films of Hollywood. Recently we decided to establish studios in New England, with Boston as our headquarters, and I was invested with the job of attending to details. I immediately made a survey of conditions, found them to be entirely satisfactory to our requirements and went ahead with plans.

"A month ago the Acme Film people met with reverses and wired me to postpone the opening of the Boston office until further orders were received. However, my plans here had developed to such an extent and conditions were so indicative of the success of the venture, that I decided to go ahead on my own initia-I needed $500 in cash, and a general manager. "You bet it is!" Melvin Byers reached into an inside pocket and produced an envelope which contained five $100 bills. Mr. Ackert glanced at the money with a phlegmatism born of long practice, drew a large book from his desk and scratched off a receipt. Next he produced a contract, filled in the plank spaces, signed it and handed it over to the youth to read. Melvin Byers glanced over the agreement, signed it with his own fountain pen and returned the sheet to Mr. Ackert. Mr. Ackert had meanwhile filled out and signed a second contract which he gave the young man to

The two then shook hands. Mr. Ackert explained that they could go over the details of the work on Monday, and Mr. Byers departed.

Bald-headed, short, fat Mr. Ackert chortled happily as he fingered the five $100 bills. Well, there was the overhead money. Everything that was in the bank could now be considered net profit.

Perhaps it would be better to leave tonight rather than to wait until Sunday. There was a plane scheduled to take off for Chicago at six. Mr. Ackert picked up his telephone, but hesitated as a knock sounded at the door. The expression on his face changed to one of surprise, and askance as Mr. Melvin Byers stepped into the room, followed by a uniformed police officer.

"There he is, officer," said Mr. Byers. "If you don't believe me, search him!"

The officer advanced across the floor and Mr. Ackert stood up. "Did you," said the officer, "just purchase a fountain pen from this young man?

Mr. Ackert's mouth sagged open. Before he could reply, Mr. Melvin Byers picked up a pen that was lying on Mr. Ackert's desk. It was the pen with which the youth had signed the contract.

"Here it is, officer, the very pen. Look, it's brand new!"

The officer looked, and scowled at Mr. Ackert. Mr. Byers was speaking again. "There's some money on the desk now! Take a look at it, officer.' The officer forthwith stretched forth a hand and plucked from under Mr. Ackert's nose the five $100 bills. He examined them, holding each up to the light. Presently he you'll have plenty of talking to do.' Mr. Melvin Byers nodded agreeably and grinned. "A day or two will be plenty. Just keep him until Monday morning. I have an idea there'll be quite a gathering up here Monday morning, and everyone who gathers will want to have a word with Mr. Ackert." He grinned, removing his glasses. "Remember three years ago, Mr. Ackert, and the mining stock racket? You got the jump on us that time, but we knew you'd be back."

Huge Spider in Brazil Catches Birds in Web

In some tropical forests, spiders spin webs of such size that it is hard, or at least unpleasant, for a traveler to pass. No spider webs, however, are strong enough to entrap a human being, whether young or old.

Flies, mosquitoes, and other insects are the victims usually caught by spiders. Their webs are spun with the special purpose of obtaining a food supply.

In the abdomen of a spider are openings known as "spinnerets." Usually there are four or six of them, close together. A liquid is pressed from each opening, and it at once hardens into a silken strand. The strands combine into a single thread.

Dozens of kinds of webs are made by spiders. Among these the web of the common garden spider is noted for its fine pattern.

A framework is made first, the lines being fastened to objects such as branches of a plant. Later the garden spider spins thread to make a spiral figure. The framework may make a person think of the spokes of a wheel.

Although insects are the usual victims, some spiders go after larger game. I am thinking chiefly of 'bird-catching spiders.'

Bird-catching spiders are found in Brazil and certain other lands in the torrid zone. They grow to great size, the body being about two inches long and the legs spreading out two or three inches on each side of the body.

Bird-catching spiders have large, strong fangs. Some natives of the tropics are said to use the fangs as toothpicks. Of course that does not take place until the fangs and the spider have been separated!

Bird-catching spiders spin heavy webs, and there are times when small birds, such as humming birds.

Vitamin Halts Hemorrhages

Great progress in the treatment of spontaneous hemorrhages and hemorrahic states by the use of vitamin K has been reported by a group of Baltimore physicians.

Vitamin K is necessary for blood clotting and can be introduced into the blood stream when it is not absorbed.

At the same time, the physicians reported that the existence of vitamin deficiency states has been found to be the cause of many nervous syndromes. Many cases of neuritis, a study indicates, are due to deficiency of vitamin B.

BROADENING CHRISTIAN HORI-ZONS: SAUL'S CONVERSION

LESSON TEXT—Acts 9:1-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision.—Acts 26:19.

The conversion of Saul is recognized as one of the outstanding events in Bible history. When two brilliant English lawyers, Lord Lyttleton and Sir Gilbert West, set out to disprove the truth of Christianity, they selected the resurrection of Christ and the story of Paul's conversion as the focal points of their proof. Working independently, they then came together to compare notes, and found that they had both become Christians as they had become convinced of the truth of the Scriptures.

The two events may well stand together as mighty evidence for Christianity, for only on the ground of regeneration can the change in Saul be accounted for, and only on the assurance that he met the risen Christ on the Damascus road can we account for his conversion. This is a great lesson, let us make the very most of it.

I. Saul, a Bold Persecutor (vv. 1, 2).

As our lesson opens we find the brilliant and zealous young Jew, Saul, "yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord." The persecutions in Jerusalem had practically wiped out the church in that city, but had scattered the disciples abroad, and thus the witness had been spread. The death of the godly Stephen, to which Saul had given his approval, had only increased his determination to destroy those who were "of the way" of Jesus. Looking for new fields to conquer, he carried with him to Damascus letters from the high priest at Jerusalem, giving him authority to imprison the followers of Christ. But on the way he met Christ Himself, and was stricken to the earth.

II. Saul, a Convicted Sinner (vv.

Stricken down by a brilliant heavenly light, he finds himself talking to the Lord Jesus. He hears from His holy lips the solemn indictment of those who persecute God's people—"Why persecutest thou me?" He who lays unkind hands upon, or brings untrue accusation against, God's children had best beware, for so closely is our Lord identified with His people that when they suffer, it is He who bears the hurt.

In a single sentence the Lord disposes of the persecuting zeal and the sinful skepticism of this proud young Pharisee, and Saul enters into Damascus not as the haughty persecutor, but as a man trembling and astonished. He spends three days shut in with his own soul and God, not seeing, not caring to eat, but entering into communion with God. By God's grace the old life is pulled up by the roots as it is displaced by the new life in Christ Jesus.

III. Aganias, an Obedient Disciple (vv. 10-12).

Ananias was the "I am here, Lord" type of Christian to whom the Lord could confidently commit His important business. All we know of him is what is contained in this chapter, but it is a very beautiful and enviable record. God is able to work directly on any human soul and accomplish His end (as He did with Saul on the Damascus road), but His usual manner of working is through faithful human agencies.

One wonders how much would be accomplished for God if every Christian were as willing and ready as was Ananias to do the Lord's bidding in seeking out and helping a struggling soul.

The greatest of all Christian leaders, the apostle Paul, was led out into his life of loyalty and service to Christ by a humble layman. Repeatedly God's Word by precept and example stresses the vital importance of personal work on the part of laymen and women. The leaders of Christian work during the coming generation are now in the Sunday school classes of our churches, perhaps in a little wayside chapel in the country, in the village church, in the mission or settlement house, or in the great city church.

IV. Saul, a Chosen Witness (vv. 15, 16).

The fears of Ananias that Saul might still be a worker of evil (v. 13) were soon overcome by God's assurance that in the praying Saul He had prepared for Himself chosen vessel" (v. 15) to bear the gospel to the Gentiles and to kings, as well as to Israel.

The great witness of Saul was to be accompanied by great suffering. How often the two go together, and both may be (as they were in Paul's life) for God's glory. Saul knew nothing of that subtle hypocrisy known as being "a secret believer," for at once he made open confession of his faith in baptism, and "straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues that he is the Son of God" (v. 20).

CHECK THE THIEVES THAT TRY TO STEAL POULTRY PROFITS

Lice and Worms Greatly Reduce Chances of Laying Flock Producing on a Profitable Basis.

Seldom does it occur to the poultry raiser that lice and worms are chicken thieves. And they should be treated as such, maintains Grafton Lothrop, head of the sanitation department, Purina Mills.

"If pullets or hens are infested with lice and worms when housed for the winter, the chances of their returning a profit are burt tremendously,' he claims. "Infested birds cannot give the poultryman maximum production during the months of October, November, and December when prices are at their peak, no matter how good their feed

Compared with the value of the extra eggs the hens will produce, the cost of cleaning up an infested flock is very small, Lothrop asserts. Only one or two more eggs per hen during the fall will pay for the entire cost of a strict sanitation program.

"A poultryman can follow one of two methods for ridding his flock of worms," he says. "One is to give each bird a gelatin capsule containing tetra-chlorethylene, called a Purina Tetsule. Tetrachlorenthylene is the drug most frequently recommended by poultry authorities for the removal of large roundworms, known as ascarids, from "The other method is to use Purina Chek-R-Ton in the mash. Experimental results show that either of these methods is 90 to 95 percent effici-

Also, according to Lothrop, there are two popularly accepted methods for ridding flocks of lice. One is to treat each bird with an approved louse powder that will stick to the skin and kill the lice, like Purina Lice Powder. An easier way of applying this powder is to mix it with road dust or wood ashes placed in a box where the birds will dust, thereby treating

The second method for controlling lice suggested by Lothrop is to paint the roost poles with an efficient roost paint. This method is commonly used by large flock owners. It is easy and quick, as well as inexpensive. He warns, however, against using a roost paint that blisters the feet, stains the feathers, or that will suffocate the birds.

"The efficiency of a roost paint for killing lice depends upon the volitization of the product, permitting fumes to permeate through the feathers and reach the lice in sufficient volume to kill them," he explains.

Booing Schools

A campaign to discourage the practice of "booing" by Geneva, Ill., school children has been started by Harry M. Coultrap, superintendent of Geneva schools.

He distributed bulletins to teachers, urging them to address their pupils a few minutes each day on the un-American habit of "booing," which reached a new high during the last election. He said:

"Teachers will be asked to encourage our children to be polite, respectful and tolerant of all persons and their opinions. A chaotic state will result and mob rule may develop if 'booing' is not stopped. The foundation of our democracy is tolerance, and we must practice it in all things. The children must be taught to forget the 'booing,' by grown persons they heard over the radio in the recent election cam-

DAIRY CATTLE NEED ROUGHAGE

Constitute Important Part in Balanced Ration.

By DR. W. B. NEVENS

(Chief in Dairy Cattle Feeding, University of Illinois College of Agriculture.)

One of the new developments in dairy cattle feeding is the discovery, made in recent investigational work, that the roughage portion of the ration is by far the most important part. If dairy cows are supplied with liberal amounts of well-preserved, high-quality legume roughages, the balance of the ration is of little importance from the standpoint of the character of the nutri-

One of the facts which has led to this conclusion is the finding that dairy cattle require vitamins A and D in large amounts and that these are supplied by the roughage or sunlight, the concentrated portion of the ration supplying little or none of either vitamin. As a rule, either the other vitamins are supplied in adequate amounts in the ration or dairy cattle have means of synthetisizing sufficient amounts.

Not only has vitamin A been found to be of tremendous importance in the health of dairy cattle, but dairy cows have the ability to convert a considerable portion of the carotene of the ration into vitamin A and to secrete this vitamin in the milk. In view of these facts, it has become increasingly important to make sure that roughages fed to dairy cattle contain large amounts of green color and that they are in excellent condition-that is, not moldy or musty-so that they can be completely consumed.

Sunlight obtained by dairy cows while at pasture or in their exercising yards or sun-cured hay are ordinarily the sources from which vitamin D is supplied. However, even during early spring, sunlight is very low in its power to impart vitamin D.

Sun-cured hay is probably the best source of vitamin D for dairy cattle large enough to consume at least 21/2 pounds of hay daily. Small calves, as a rule, do not consume this amount of hay and it has been found advantageous to supply them with one teaspoonful of feeding grade of cod-liver oil in the milk

Woodland Makes Poor

Pasture, Foresters Claim "Divorcing" the woods from the pasture and the pasture from the woods, has been recommended by foresters for many years.

One reason is that there's more danger of live stock being poisoned from plants in a woods pasture than in an open pasture.

Woodland offers poor pa cattle. Bluegrass pasture should yield 3,000 pounds of dry matter an acre, while woodland pasture yields only 450 pounds. The productivity of the woodland for wood crops is also impaired, and after several years the area is devoid of trees or contains only undesirable species such as persimmon and hickory. For these reasons, the combined value of both woodland and pasture doesn't approach what the site would have produced either in woods or pasture separately. Grazed woods can be restored to their original productivity by complete removal of live stock, Carroll

The musical part of the program was in charge of Raymond Wright, with Mrs. William 21 the piece.

The program was in charge of the Program Committee, Elwood Baumgardner, Chairman. The following, centering around the theme of Mothers' Day was given to Vesal sale. ers' Day, was given: Vocal solo, "Wonderful Mother of Mine", by Mrs. George Rue, Mrs. Rue sang "Old Refrain" as an encore; Cello solo, "Evening Star," Miss Louise Hess.

The chairman introduced Dr. Henry A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg College, as the speaker of the evening. Dr. Hanson delivered an eloquent and effective address on the "Importance and Meaning of Mothers He traced the growing popularity of the day, from the suggestion its observance by Miss Jarvis in 1915, that a day in each year be observed in honor of American womanmotherhood. He showed that from this first suggestion twenty-six years ago has grown a custom observed in every part of this country in the whole of the British Empire, in Mexico, and in every part of the world where motherhood is appreciated and revered.

Dr. Hanson emphasized the honor in which Christian motherhood is held among civilized peoples by mentioning some of the gestures of respect by which such honor is expressed of-ficially. For instance, he called attention to the fact that no less than eleven stamp issues of the United States Postal Department contained pictures of women, the most popular of which was that one which contained the portrait of Whistler's mother. He derided the idea that mothers give up much of the office of motherhood; they give up nothing, they invest in something worth while. He mentioned two powers which mothers possess and use, powers which cannot be duplicated by any other agency in the world, powers which in their own field surpass anything else: the cura-tive power of a mother's kiss, and the encouraging power of a mother's voice. He predicted that in these present days, mothers would be undergoing a great test. Mothers' Day is not merely a tribute to the mothers who are gone, or to the mothers who are here, but by putting motherhood on a pedestal, the world is praying that Christian motherhood in this crisis shall not lose its head or its heart. All the men who have done anything worth while have been sustained by a good mother or a good wife. May we always prove our-selves worthy of a mother's love.

After Dr. Hanson's address, Mrs. Rue sang "Drink to Me only with Thine Eyes" and "Lilac Trees." Miss Louise Hess favored with another cello solo, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny" Mrs. Yingling was the accompanist for all of Mrs. Rue's and Miss Hess' selections. Miss Hess' selections.

You can have grass so thick it chokes out weeds!

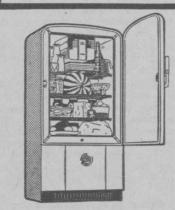

• Grass becomes active earlier in the spring than weeds. If you'll give your grass a square meal, just as soon as frost is out of the ground, it will get such a thriving head start that weeds will find little room to grow. But the kind of dense, heavy turf that chokes out weeds results only from feeding with a complete plant food like Vigoro. Your grass needs eleven different food elements from the soil. Use Vigoro to make sure that all eleven are supplied in balanced proportions. Vigoro is sanitary, odorless, easy to apply. Gives you far more food value for your dollar. Order
