YOUNG MAN KILLED

In a Tractor Accident on Miss Virgie Dutterra's Farm.

Clarence B. Ambrose, a young man was killed by a tractor, Tuesday afternoon, when he was struck by the tractor on the Miss Virgie Dutterra farm along the Taneytown and Keyville road. He died a few minutes after being struck.

Miss Dutterra thinks that the inexperience of Ambrose in driving the tractor in reverse gear was the cause of the accident.

No one witnessed the accident, but Charles Ohler, a former tenant on the farm discovered the body of Ambrose back of the tractor. Dr. James T. Marsh, New Windsor, Carroll County Medical Examiner, viewed the body and declared death due to accidental causes.

The Ambrose family formerly resided in Frederick County in the vicinity of Lantz, Miss Dutterra declared. She said they had been living on a farm near Detour and became tenants on her property about two months ago.

Young Ambrose was a son of Clarence and Grace Brown Ambrose and was aged 17 years, 11 months. He is survived by his parents, four brothers, Paul, Ira, Earl and Wesley Ambrose, and one sister, Mary Grace Ambrose, all at home.

The funeral was held this Friday afternoon at the late home, conducted by Rev. Ivan G. Naugle, pastor of Thurmont U. B. Church; interment was made in Thurmont cemetery.

TANEYTOWN NOW HAS A STOP AND GO SYSTEM

At last, a regulation "stop and go" signal is being installed at the square, in Taneytown. The City Council has been working for some time for permission to install such a system, and has at last succeeded.

The State Roads Commission has also repaired some bad spots on the street and with this signal, and its observance by motor drivers and pedestrians, all danger should be avoided.

QUAKER ANNUAL MEETING.

REV. WM. E. ROOP ON WAY TO LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Left home, May 15, on way to our General Church Conference, as a delegate for Meadow Branch congregation. This annual meeting of the Church of the Brethren, will be held in Los Angeles, California, in June. Am now travelling in a new automobile, my son Earl bought in Detroit, Mich.

Expect to spend a while with him, in his home in Seattle, Wash. The Pacific Coast trip will then be about one thousand miles. Took breakfast in Bucanon dinner here in Chicago. Had planned for supper in St. Paul, Minn.—may not reach it, since the day is hot, and it is getting late.

Expect to be in North Dakota, over next Sunday, where I held a revival meeting a few years ago. Other evangelistic need is calling for our further steps, passing through Spokane, and Winathee, before we reach Seattle.

Have already assisted in some of our church meetings, along the way, over last Sunday. So much to see and do, in our large cities. But this time, we must hasten on. With kind regards, Sincerely, Rev. Wm. E. Roop, 843 E. 86th St., Seattle, Wash.

"You may depend upon it that there are as good hearts to serve men in palaces as in cottages.—Robert Owen.

Little showers, like little gifts, are always better than none—they help.

ANNUAL FIELD MEET OF COUNTY SCHOOLS.

Rain Interferes with the usual long Program.

The attendance at the athletic meet of Carroll County schools, last Saturday, was very largely attended at the customary place, the Carroll County Fair Ground. On account of a heavy, brief rain, the elementary schools division, closed all track events at about 2:30 P. M.

There were four classes; Class A and B schools included Taneytown, Charles Carroll, Sykesville, Manchester, Hampstead, Westminster, Union Bridge, New Windsor and Mt. Airy.

Class C was made up of the large graded schools, Westminster, Taneytown, Union Bridge, Sykesville, Mt. Airy, Hampstead, and New Windsor. Class D included the smaller schools, Uniontown, Charles Carroll, Mechanicsville, Sandy Mount, West End and Winfield.

The E-F two-teacher schools were, Harney, Woodbine, Oakland Mills, and one-teacher schools, Otter Dale, Blacks, Pleasant Valley, Morgan, Deep Run, and Hooper.

Medals were awarded to winners of contests in each classification of games and track events, who will participate in the Western Shore meet June 7 at the Western Maryland College grounds.

Due to the meet having been interrupted by rain it will be concluded Friday, May 23, starting at 12:30 P. M., on the municipal playgrounds in Westminster, it was announced. All the games had been completed. There remain all the high school track events for boys and girls, the elementary boys' track events and one elementary girls' track event.

WARNING CONCERNING THE UNEMPLOYMENT LAW.

Baltimore, May—Changes made in the unemployment law by the recent session of the Legislature include increased maximum penalties for workers who ignore regulations and restrictions in regard to qualifications for benefits, it is emphasized by Director S. C. Cromwell, in charge of the State Unemployment Board's compensation division, which handles the claims and determines the benefits to be paid.

The Board has had, from its beginning, authority to withhold payment of benefits to claimants who quit their jobs without justification; to those who refuse to accept proffered employment, and to those who have been discharged by reason of bad conduct. In the first two groups the maximum delay imposed on benefit payments has been five weeks. As this maximum has been found, in the experience of the Board, inadequate, the Legislature has increased it to nine weeks. Regarding those who have lost employment through unsatisfactory conduct the disqualification has always been left unchanged. This maximum has been left unchanged.

There are other changes in the law, as revised, strengthening the authority of the Board in the interest of efficient administration.

LESS AUTO FATALITIES IN APRIL.

For the first time in eleven months, traffic fatalities have shown an all-around reduction. During the month of April there were 35 persons killed on the streets and highways of the State. This was a 22.2% reduction under April 1940 and a 14.6% reduction under last month.

The entire reduction was experienced by the counties, Baltimore City having a 33.3% increase over last year and no change over or under the preceding month.

Eleven of the counties, Calvert, Caroline, Carroll, Dorchester, Garrett, Kent, Montgomery, Queen Anne, St. Mary's, Talbot and Wicomico did not experience a fatality which is an exceptionally good record.

During the month of April there were 1729 accidents reported, with 35 persons killed and 814 persons injured. While these cases are scattered throughout the State they represent approximately the number of casualties experienced in a massed European bombing raid on civilian population.

While we have experienced a very favorable reduction during the past month there still is much to be desired in traffic safety.

STATE BANK DEPOSITS AT ALL-TIME HIGH.

John W. Downing, State Bank Commissioner reports deposits in state banks at an all-time high of $604,688,000. The report ending Feb. 10 discloses the fact that on this date, state banks held government securities now held by these institutions, totals $403,337,000 or more than two-thirds of their total deposits, and are in position to increase their loan value.

ROOSEVELT CHANGES THANKSGIVING DAY DATE.

President Roosevelt has announced that, after this year, "Thanksgiving Day" will be returned to its former date, as he says that changing the date has not had the good effect on business that was expected. It is supposed that the change was not made to apply to this year on account of date being on some printed calendars.

THE MANIFOLD COST OF WAR Should be Considered Before Making it "Ours."

We approve heartily the Administration plan to impose heavy taxes, both to curb inflation and to remind us all of the costliness of war. We are not at war and yet an arms program that will cost us $39,177,800,000 has been approved by our Government. The figures are those of the Federal Office of Production Management. They include our $7,000,000,000 for "Aid to Great Britain and other Democracies" roughly $16,000,000,000 allocated specifically to our War Department, $12,000,000,000 allocated to our Navy Department and $4,000,000,000 to other Government agencies.

Since these vast expenditures will have to be paid from taxes, the sooner we start paying them, the better. Great Britain in its fiscal year which ended March 31 spent $14,500,000,000 for war and normal government purposes. Britain's war budget for the present fiscal year is $16,828,000,000. The British "normal" tax rate is to be raised from 42½ percent to 50 percent. Our Treasury Department proposes adding $3,600,000,000 to our tax bill for the next fiscal year.

Concretely, this will mean, if the Treasury Department's plan is approved by Congress, that a married person without dependents, who is paying now $11.00 on a net income before personal exemption of $2,500 will pay next year $72.00. A person who is paying $31.00 on a net income of $3,000 will pay $152.00. The present tax of $70.00 on an income of $4,000 will be raised to $312.00. For surtaxes, the Treasury Department recommends a surtax of 11 per cent on the first $2,000 of taxable income 14 per cent on taxable incomes up to $4,000, and so on up to 75 per cent.

Experts of the joint Congressional committee propose lower income taxes, substituting "consumption" taxes in wide variety ranging from automobiles and insurance premiums to electric light bulbs, sugar, coffee and tea. Comparison of our taxes with those of Canada and Great Britain reveals in a startling manner that participation in war involves. This year in the United States a married person with two children and an income of $5,000 is paying $75.00 tax. The Treasury Department would impose next year a tax of approximately four times as much. In Canada he would pay $391.00 tax; in Great Britain $1,196.

TRY TO KEEP COOL.

Here is a home remedy prescribed by a Washington journalist, which seems to be good for men, women and juniors. It reads:

When the weather gets hot try to avoid too much heat from the sun. Just think about how to do it—and do it, easily. When the war talk gets hot among your friends and associates try to get them to do more reasoning and less shouting; more thinking for themselves and less goose stepping for know-it-alls.

These are the best kinds of home remedies because they promote health comfort and better understanding of national defense. It also helps the blood pressure.

A TUBERCULOSIS CLINIC.

The tuberculosis clinic for Carroll County will be held on June 18, at 9 A. M. This month the clinic will take place at Albion Building, 3 E. Main St., in Westminster. This is one of the clinics that are held every month in all the counties of Maryland by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association. All of these clinics are free. Dr. Victor F. Cullen, the clinician, will be in charge of the examinations.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

As Friday, May 30 is Decoration Day and a national holiday, we are asking our correspondents to let us have their news items, either on Wednesday, or at very latest, Thursday morning, as the Record must be in the mails very early Friday morning. No "copy" can be used then.

GOVERNOR O'CONOR THE MAIN SPEAKER

On Decoration Day as observed in Taneytown.

Governor O'Conor will be the first Governor of Maryland to deliver a Decoration Day address in Taneytown and a large attendance is sure to be present to hear him from the rostrum in the High School building.

The parade is expected to start at 1:30 P. M. and will follow a planned route. Forming at the High School, proceeding across the railroad bridge to Fairview Avenue, to York Street, to Square, to Lutheran cemetery, to Reformed cemetery, to Square, to St. Joseph's cemetery, to Square, to Soldiers' Memorial back to High School Building. It will be made up of Five Bands—Ringgold Post Band, of York; K. of P. Band, of Hanover; the William F. Myers & Con Band, of Westminster; the Westminster City Band; the Taneytown Jr. I. O. O. F. Band, and Harold Bair Post Drum Corps, of Hanover; Military Units, Civic Organizations, School Children and Boy Scouts.

We are hoping to have the Governor's address for publication in The Record, either on Friday, 30th., or the week following. Again, we have a national holiday interfering with our publication day.

WBAL TO OPEN WASHINGTON BUREAU.

On Monday evening, May 26th, at 6:15 P. M. WBAL will inaugurate a new service for its listeners from its newly established news bureau in Washington, D. C. Three times a week a fifteen minute program entitled "This is Washington" will be broadcast direct from the House Radio Gallery of the United States Capitol.

Hardy Burt, experienced radio and newspaper commentator and Capital public relations specialist, whose programs have been broadcast, with few exceptions, by every station in the United States, will head the WBAL Washington bureau. He will attend government conferences in Washington and will broadcast news and color on developments and personalities in the nation's capital, now the number one news spot of the world.

Mr. Burt in describing his program stated "Behind every news story from Washington there is another story that you seldom hear on your radio or read in your newspaper.

"It is a colorful story of the personalities who create the news and of the places where the news is made. It is the story of the characters and the scenes that the WBAL Washington observer sees daily on the great stage that is Washington. This story within a story is by all odds the most exciting and human that the nation's capital has to offer."

WBAL will be the first individual station—outside the capital—in the entire country to offer exclusive coverage of Washington affairs and activities.

GOV. HERBERT R. O'CONOR IS A VERY BUSY MAN.

Annapolis, May 20: Reprint of editorial from "Howdy"! Column, conducted by Orrie Vaughn in the Southern Maryland Times of Friday, May 16th., 1941.

"I used to think that being Governor of the State was an easy job. It might be that once it was, but anybody seeing our present Governor, Herbert R. O'Conor, in action would never believe it.

"I first noticed this when, one day last month, I attended the public hearings held by the Governor on bills which he had been asked to veto. From 10:30 in the morning until near 11 at night, with recesses only for meals, Governor O'Conor sat in the speakers chair in the House of Delegates room, hearing speaker after speaker on the entire list of protested bills.

"He stayed until the last speaker had finished and, to his credit, never once displayed impatience even when some of the speakers did what seemed to be a waste of time. Of course, to expedite the presentation of arguments, he sometimes suggested to the speakers what particular points he wanted to hear about, but at the end of the long and tiresome day, Governor O'Conor was still the energetic and forceful character that he was when the day began.

"So I looked into the general manner of his working on other days, and found, much to my surprise, that he invariably works more than a full day, and when time demands it, he works until midnight or later, until the job at hand is done.

"Governor O'Conor neither drinks or smokes, and his pace for working is much more than some of his several secretaries can stand. By direction he can, therefore, keep several of them occupied while he, far ahead of them, makes ready the next matter for them to start on.

"Under these circumstances, it is hardly a surprise to learn that his record is such that his re-election already looms as a distant possibility next year, provided he is a candidate for re-election.

"It does me good to find out that Maryland has such a notable example of public servant in the State's highest office. For after all, the natural inclination of every officeholder is to follow the example of his superior, and the example set by Governor O'Conor in the conduct of his office is thus of immeasurable benefit to every other office in the State."

THE SMALL TOWN.

A small town is a place where there is not much to see, but the things you hear makes up for that.

The small town is where everybody isn't three months behind with installment payments and where the wild life that stays up all night belongs to the cat family.

The small town is where you get the social status of the new family next door when you see the family wash on the line.

The small town is where the editor of the weekly paper gets results when he announces through his columns that he is out of potatoes.

I am not here to ridicule the small town. I live in one myself, have spent 39 years in the retail business in them, and I like them. I have never envied any of you fellows who live in steel and concrete.

I have wondered what you would do for your bank presidents, the chairman of your board of directors, and your corporation executives if we did not send them to you from the small towns.

Most of the factories in this country would have to close down if the small town and rural buyers went on a strike. They are the real quantity and quality buyers of the country.

The small town made America what it is today, the envy of every other nation on the face of the globe—and the small town retailer has played his part.—Veach C. Redd in the Minnesota Press.

Random Thoughts

CORRECTNESS IN DETAILS.

Small errors are aggravating, whether printed, spoken, or made in some other way. We tell of a coming event, but make a mistake in a date; or we give the name of a visitor to our home, and forget to mention another one.

Publishers slip-up in reading a proof—or maybe the "copy" was bad. Trivial mishaps, but they may make enemies. Wrong dates may easily be given, as a 3 and 5 are much alike, and the writer, instead of the printer, may be wrong.

Striking a wrong key on the typewriter changes Tuesday the 14th. that was right for a printer, but the typist makes it the 13th, or maybe says Wednesday the 13th.

Wrong spelling is also unfortunate, especially in addressing an envelope, when there is a Mrs. Myers a Miss Mayers, or Meier in the neighborhood all with a "i" in the first name of her husband.

The proof reader in a newspaper office may cause a subscriber to be lost, because of a poor pencil being used in writing the copy for a local on yellow paper. Yes, we know considerable about "correctness in details." P. B. E.

THE GREATER EVIL.

We are all apt to argue the war question without fully considering that, so far as the American public is concerned, this is a case of emergency; that good sense requires it to be handled from the viewpoint of favoring the lesser evil.

We are right up against the question of whether we want Germany, or England, to win, and for the winning to last a long while. No matter whether or not we like England in every way for its past or present, is not the pith and point of the question at all.

There are hundreds of thousands naturalized German citizens in this country—as far back as four or five generations. A small percentage of these may be "Hitlerites" in secret; but we mean the present followers of Hitler when we speak of Germany in connection with the present war.

Everybody knows the difference—and what the war means—our choice is now of the lesser evil.

Argument, debate, quibbling, and much longer delaying, are gradually wearing down England's defense and offense strength. If the U. S. wants England to win, it must help—and very soon.

TRYING TO KEEP COOL.

Silence means consent—sometimes. It is like trying to keep cool by avoiding exposure to the Sun, and by working at slower speed. Sometimes, our temper makes us hot.

And so it is with war talk, when we figuratively run about among our associates to try to get them to do more "reckoning".

Less shouting and more thinking, helps to keep us cool, and to maintain a lower blood pressure, but not too low; and these are among the best of home remedies.

We can't avoid all of the know-it-alls, but we can at least stay out of the class ourselves and that in itself is one good job—if we have the honesty to admit it.

If possible, while we should talk too much "war," we can remember that all that we hear is not exact truth. Newspaper correspondents appear to be bound to send to their employers something every day, but they are not even well informed themselves, at all times.

The war is not our job to settle—nor is it a case of "letting John" do it. We do not grow our crops by wishing for rain, nor can grumbling increase the price of what we have to sell, nor lessen the cost of what we must buy. Not only try to keep cool, but do it.

THE LOVE OF GOD.

"Could we with ink the ocean fill,
Where every blade of grass a quill,
Where the whole earth of parchment made
And every man a scribe by trade,
To write the Love of GOD above
Would drain the Ocean dry,
Nor could that scroll contain the whole

Though stretched from sky to sky."
That little poem was quoted by a minister in a sermon I heard when a boy, and so profound was the impression made that I found myself repeat it immediately thereafter, and I have been rehearsing it since many times before many audiences I have addressed in various parts of the country.

I have tried repeatedly to learn who the author was but have not yet succeeded in doing so. Maybe some reader knows and will tell me. The rhythm and conception intrigue me, and I would like to know who wrote the piece.

The story the minister told in introducing the poem is also interesting. In substance he said: Many years ago there lived a man who was devoutly religious, so much so that in time he became obsessed, and it became necessary to incarcerate him in an asylum where he lingered a long time in a cell that had to be padded to keep him from doing himself bodily harm. When he died and the padding was removed from the walls of the cell beneath them they found the poem at the head of this article. That was all he said, that was enough.

Looking at the simple poem I should say the time was a long time ago for men have not spoken of writing with quill for a long time for that custom went out of practice before any one now living was born, so the story must be very old. Perhaps it is its antiquity that makes it so hard to trace.

I have not, anywhere, in any reading I have done, ever found such a BIG conception of THE LOVE OF GOD, and that is why I tell it now because I think it should be passed on that others too might enjoy it and profit by it.

WM. JAMES HEAPS.
COSTS LESS TO FLY THAN TO DRIVE.

People who fly their own planes are not extravagant. In fact they are traveling for less money than it costs them to drive their automobiles, according to actual cost records, states William A. Mara, Sales Manager of Stinson Aircraft, Division of Vultee Aircraft, Inc.

"In spite of the general belief on the part of the public that it costs a great deal in the way of power and fuel to operate a plane, the contrary is the case," states Mara. "On an actual comparative trip made both by air and automobile from Detroit to Dallas, Texas, then to Los Angeles, Seattle, Denver returning to Dallas and then to Detroit, it costs $30 less to operate the airplane.

"One of the factors in the great difference was the fact that the distance by air was 7,590 miles whereas by automobile it was 9,230 miles. However, even with this differential the airplane did better on miles per gallon than the automobile.

"The flight was made with a Stinson Voyager which used $93.72 worth of gasoline and $4.56 worth of oil for a total of $98.28 on the trip. The automobile, a standard model, consumed $109.61 worth of gas and $10.00 worth of oil for a total of $119.61.

"From the standpoint of time saved of course there was no comparison at all as the plane averaged 98 miles an hour whereas the automobile averaged 40. It took the airplane only 78 hours to make the trip whereas in the automobile it took 237.5, and"—adds Mr. Mara "A man's time is worth something too!"

Statistically, here is the way the comparisons work out: Distance by air, 7,590 miles; by automobile, 9,230 miles; hours on route, air, 78; motor 237; average speed per hour, air, 98; motor 40; costs, gasoline, air, $93; motor, $109; oil, air, $4.56; motor, $10.00.

NEGRO WORKERS IN DEFENSE.

How much in earnest are Americans about their avowals of belief in freedom of opportunity? While they criticize authoritarian nations for inculcating a doctrine of subject races, how far are they prepared to go in removing racial discriminations in employment in a democracy?

Officials in Washington, according to reports, are becoming acutely conscious of the existence of barriers against the full use of talents and energies of the American Negro in defense industries. The subject is brought into the open in a statement issued last week by sixty citizens of North and South appealing for greater justice to the aspiring Negro worker.

There is no doubt that widespread preferences exist in favor of white labor over Negro applicants of equal or greater ability. The committee asserts that "some corporations have shown themselves unwilling to employ skilled Negro workers" or have taken on very few, and that "leading industrial plants in different parts of the country do not approve the training of Negroes in defense classes." Opportunities for training are restricted while at the same time employment is being limited to mental labor because of alleged lack of training.

The effect of such a situation must be to cause many Negroes to ask what reason they as individuals have to support democracy against its enemies—though it seems agreed that the situation is better than it was a few years ago.

It is natural, and in some measure fitting, that protests against unfair discrimination in hiring policies should be directed primarily to employers. But it is only fair and factual to recognize that in many instances the hiring policy is based on racial exclusion rules by skilled craft workers' unions or on race prejudice among unskilled, unorganized workers—Christian Science Monitor.

THIS WEEK IN DEFENSE.

Maj. Gen. Hershey, Selective Service Deputy Director, speaking in Lafayette, Ind., said that misguided patriotism of employers was allowing many men to be drafted who are more useful in industry. Employers and registrants should not hesitate to appeal classifications, he said.

"All of us should carefully consider where we are best fitted to serve," Gen. Hershey said. "It is certainly neither desirable or necessary that each man dedicate himself to a future in the armed forces."

Selective Service Headquarters directed immediate classification of the 10,000,000 remaining registrants in order to obtain complete data on skilled workers and potential soldiers, and amended its regulations to permit induction of some of the registrants previously barred because of comparatively minor criminal records.

Gen. Hershey proposed amendment of the Selective Service Act to Congress to allow deferment by age groups so that those selected are of an age that will permit them to serve effectively in the reserve forces for ten years, as now required. He said only 11 percent of the men inducted before March 1 were from 31 to 36 years and the greatest number were from 18 to 27.

Labor Training: President Roosevelt asked Congress for $158,000,000 to train 3,000,000 additional defense workers, of which 268,000 would be trained in engineering, 10,000 in chemistry, physics, and production supervision, and 500,000 in courses teaching rural youths industrial skills.

Defense Plants: OPM announced the Government, up to March 30, committed itself to pay for 331 new defense factories, costing an average of $5,750,000 each, and estimated the number of new privately financed defense plants reached 904, costing an average of $729,000 each.

Sub-Contracting: Francis J. Trecker of the Defense Contract Service, speaking in San Francisco, said that not more than 50 per cent of the nation's machines are being used in defense production. He said if contractors do not voluntarily farm out their orders, sub-contracting would be made mandatory because there is so much work to be done all machines must be used.

Labor Disputes: The Defense Mediation Board announced settlement of 5 strikes, including controversies involving 61 plants and 160,000 employees of the General Motors Corporation and 8,100 employees of the Bendix Aviation Corporation. The U. S. Conciliation Service reported settlement of 33 strikes.

Agriculture: The Department of Agriculture, in a general crop report, said conditions indicated: (1) a winter-wheat crop of about 653,000,000 bushels, larger than 25 of the last 30 years; (2) a good, but not exceptional, rye crop, about 12 per cent above last year; (3) a hay crop, probably larger than last year; (4) better pasture conditions in 43 of the 48 States; and (5) milk production and egg production per animal at new high records as a result of higher prices, an early spring, new grass and liberal feeding.

The Commodity Exchange Administration requested exchanges to study additional curbs on speculation in all agricultural commodities. Price control Administrator Henderson asked for commodity exchanges to confer with him regarding prevention of undesirable speculation in cocoa, pepper, rubber and coffee.

Air Progress: Maj. Gen. Arnold, Chief of the Army Air Corps, speaking in Washington, said the air force "is well on its way and will be ready when called on." The War Department announced the first 21 of a larger number of "flying fortresses" had flown to Hawaii to strengthen the island defenses.

The Navy asked Congress to enact legislation permitting training of Reserve enlisted men as pilots. The President asked Congress for $61,800,000 to expand the Civil Aeronautics Administration landing field program from 250 to 399 projects.

Army: The War Department announced that it has selected the location of camp sites needed for "possible expansion of the Army" and is ready to start work on the new camps immediately if necessary. The Army announced its anti-craft strength had been more than tripled in the past year and a large portion of anti-aircraft regiments are equipped to transport every gun and every man in one movement.

The Army announced it will construct five new recreational camps in the South Atlantic States. WPA announced nearly 1,100 WPA library employees are assisting in the operation of libraries serving the army.

Ships: Maritime Commission launched six new cargo ships and asked operators of America inter-coastal vessels for 40 of their 108 ships for the 2,000,000-ton shipping pool for national defense and aid to Britain. The Commission also conferred with Great Lakes shipbuilding companies regarding the construction inland of sea-going vessels which could be moved to the Atlantic via the Mississippi.

The Senate passed and returned to the House for concurrence in amendments a bill authorizing the President to take over foreign ships in U. S. ports.

SAGAS OF THE SKIES
by R. C. Oertel

It was a good catch that Earl Johnson and Hugo Lindquist expected when they dropped their nets through a hole in the ice off Portage Point in Green Bay, an arm of Lake Michigan. So they cheerfully set about the task of hauling their heavy nets out of the water. In the midst of their work came a crack, a rumble and with a snap the huge floe on which they were standing broke away and started to drift out into the bay. The floating island of ice was two miles long and about a mile wide and comparatively safe by day. But in the fierce wintry night on the bay, without food, fire and warmer clothing, freezing to death before morning might well be the fate of the fishermen.

To the Army Air Corps went the job of rescuing the men, and Lieut. Walter Arntzen of Escanaba, took off in a special ski-equipped plane to handle the job. It was no trick at all to locate the two black spots in the midst of the icy white expanse of bay. But Arntzen faced the difficult task of putting his plane down on a moving landing field, and a landing field that might have treacherous bumps of ice.

Carefully, he calculated the rate of drift of the ice floe, the direction of the wind and he made his decision. He put his plane into a glide, eyes flashing in all directions, and slid smoothly to a stop almost beside the fishermen. Calmly, he loaded them into the plane and took off the drifting, temporary airport.

"I once tried to stop her."

Bad Shape

"Is her figure that bad?"
"Well, she once played Lady Godiva in a film and the horse stole the scene."

Army Inspects Plane Engine Model

DEARBORN, Mich.—A model of the 1,500-horsepower experimental airplane engine being built by the Ford Motor Company was inspected recently by Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold (left), deputy chief of staff, and other high army officers during a tour of Ford defense work. Gen. Arnold is shown with Henry Ford (center) near the engine model. This new super-charged Ford aircraft engine, a V-type, 12-cylinder, liquid-cooled design, is expected to deliver more power for its weight than any engine now on the market.

Alimony a Racket
Alimony has become quite a racket, according to a psychologist, because of the combination of antiquated laws, shyster lawyers and neurotic women. Divorced women who jail their husbands, do it partly for spite, but most of them do it because they are psychopaths, according to a recent investigation. One ex-wife had a private fortune of $200,000 and still jailed her husband for failure to pay her $60 a week. Another divorced woman had her husband jailed because he failed to pay her $50 a week although he was making but $45 a week. This psychologist blames crooked lawyers for this dilemma, stating that divorced women are persuaded to jail their husbands by these crooks.

The Legal A.
A young lawyer attended the funeral of a millionaire financier. A friend, arriving at the funeral a little late, took a seat beside the lawyer, and whispered, "How far has the service gone?" The lawyer nodded toward the clergyman and whispered back, tersely: "Just opened for the defense."

Wood and Wood
Maybe you've always thought that wood is, after all, just wood—so long as it burns, but your dealer has anywhere from 10 to 20 kinds of wood in his yard and each log has its own characteristics. Here are a few of them. Ironwood; hard as iron, heavy as lead, burns hotter than coal, burns very slowly and completely leaving few ashes. Desert Juniper; peculiar to Southwest, it is one of the few hard, long-burning fire-place woods. Olive Root; used mainly for heat and popular for its economy. Gives as much heat as coal but is awkward to handle because it is bulky and chunky. Oak; main advantage of oak is that it can stand for years and lose none of its weight, and Fragrant Woods that is a group of hardwood.

Tactful
"In your opinion, who are the three greatest sailors in British history?" an admiral who was conducting an examination for the British navy asked one of the candidates. The reply came pat. "I'm sorry, sir, I didn't catch your name when I entered the room, but the other two are Nelson and Drake."

Busy Beaverbrook

A small group of distinguished men were standing around the duke of Windsor's swimming pool at Cap D'Antibes, French Riviera. They all were admiring the gleaming gold cuff links which the duchess had given the duke.

Then they began comparing each other's cuff links—all but a round little man with scanty wisps of hair. He hung back, tugging down his coat sleeves. Finally, the others turned to him:

"What've you got on, Beaver?" Sheepishly the little man displayed his cuffs.

They were held together by paper clips!

That is just one of the many stories about Lord Beaverbrook, who at 30 had made millions and who, now at 61, has the supremely important job of getting Britain's warplanes made. He doesn't care how he looks; he hasn't time for that—and he's always been that way.

Vagaries of Style Never

Effect Old Silverware

Silver is easy to buy because of the marking which is stamped on every genuine piece of silver plate, the term for solid silver. These marks or punches carry documentary evidence of its place of manufacture, its quality, the date and name of the maker. This system of marking has been in effect in England since 1300, when the Goldsmiths' guild was first established to protect the public against fraud by stamping with a steel punch all gold and silver plate.

Before a piece of silver is offered for sale by a silversmith it must be assayed by the Wardens' guild. If the quality is satisfactory it is stamped with the symbol of the town where assayed. In London this is the leopard's head. Other assay offices were established toward the end of the Fourteenth century at Edinburgh of which the mark is a thistle. The anchor stands for Birmingham and the crown for Sheffield. In addition to the mark of quality there must be the initials or private mark of the maker.

The quality, the place of manufacture being given, the next mark added is a date letter. Beginning in 1660, on May 30 of each year, a new punch was, and still is, made for the 12 months following. Every piece of silver assayed bears one letter of the alphabet which tells the date when it was made. In London a cycle of 20 letters is used, beginning with A and ending with U, the letter J being omitted. The style of the letter and the shape of the shield surrounding the letter is changed with each cycle.

SO HE WON'T EAT HIS CARROTS!

Fresh vegetables are not apt to be prime favorites with men. Practically every man has a little black list of his own—vegetables which he just will not accept graciously. But before dropping those vegetables from your own list of menu possibilities, make sure that it's the vegetables themselves your menfolk dislike—and not just the way they have always had them cooked, heretofore. Perhaps a new method of serving, or some unusual trick of seasoning—are all you need, from a masculine point of view, to add appetite-appeal. Or, maybe it's the method of cooking that needs revision.

Vegetables, today, are of such fine quality that they deserve the finest treatment in the kitchen. There's a right method of cooking vegetables to conserve the food value, and do the most for flavor and texture.

The certainty of measured heat for top-range cooking makes it possible to cook vegetables in very little water when you cook electrically. All the good flavor, color, and food value are retained. Just put the prepared vegetables in a saucepan, add salt and water (1/2-1 1/3 cups) and cover tightly. Cook in high heat until steam appears. Then turn switch to 4th. position and continue cooking. If you like, you can turn off the current for the last 10 minutes, and finish cooking on free heat.

Here's an unusual combination of two every-day vegetables, particularly good to serve with steak, or liver and bacon.

Smothered onions and peppers: 2 teaspoons butter; 1 1/2 c. green pepper (sliced); 3 c. onions (sliced); 1 teaspoon salt. Melt butter in a heavy skillet. Add onions and peppers. Cover. Turn switch of surface unit to 3rd. position, and cook slowly for 30 minutes. Add salt, and serve.

Bake halves of tomatoes in a hot oven, with the electric thermostat set at 400°, until the tomatoes are tender (10-15 minutes). Top with cooked asparagus tips, and sprinkle with grated American cheese. Place in pre-heated broiler, about 5 inches below the broiling unit, and broil until the cheese melts and is brown and crusty.

Add a teaspoon of sugar when cooking carrots, tomatoes, or peas, to bring out the flavor of the vegetables. Bacon fat or butter rubbed over potatoes before baking prevents cracking and adds to the flavor and appearance of the potatoes.

Remove parsley from the stems, straight on cutting board, and with a single edge knife cut through the parsley repeatedly until it is as fine as desired.

A little fresh garden mint, minced, is a tasty addition to buttered carrots or peas.

An old percolator is an excellent vessel in which to cook asparagus. Stand the asparagus in the percolator with the tips up. Add boiling water, cover, and cook. The asparagus tips will be steamed beautifully, while the stems cook to just the right stage of tenderness.

Cook spinach with only the water that clings to the leaves after washing. Do not over-cook!

To make lettuce cups for salad, take 2 leaves of lettuce and cut a V-shaped piece out of the stem end of each. Then fit one V into the other, and place on salad plate to form a cup.

CHEVROLET CAR TRAVEL

Various estimates have established the importance of the motor car to the American economy, but none has so strikingly demonstrated the reliance of the American public upon passenger car transport as a figure just released by the Automobile Manufacturers Association showing that more than 85 per cent of the travel in this country is by motor car.

And of the 495 billion miles traveled by American motorists last year 55 per cent, approximately 250 billion miles, was travel on business, more miles than by all other forms of transportation combined, whether on land or in the air, between cities or within the community, on trips or merely between home and office.

Today, America's 27,300,000 car owners—every fourth citizen—find it virtually impossible to differentiate between the "business" and "recreation" functions of their motor cars, for the same car that takes the wage earner to and from work serves as the family's principle source of recreation during leisure time.

"Assuming for the moment that 55 per cent of the cars sold by Chevrolet the leading producer during the past decade, were used exclusively for business," William E. Holler, general sales manager, pointed out, "then you have more than 5,000,000 privately owned passenger cars operating on business errands alone. Since, however, nearly every driver combines business and recreation with his car, every Chevrolet owner puts many hundreds of business miles on his auto annually.

"Rural buyers bulk large in the Chevrolet sales picture," Mr. Holler added, "for they must have a moderately priced car that is capable of standing up under rigorous usage."

Every Object Has Center

Every object, however irregular it may be, has a center. If it were hung by the center point, the object would not tip lazily, but would balance.

When you stand on the tip of one toe, the rest of your body has to be in such a position as to balance over the toe. A rocking chair tips over when you rock so far back that the center of weight is thrown behind the supporting rockers.

Cut a piece of cardboard in any irregular shape. By resting it horizontally on a pin point, held straight up and down, you can soon find the point where it balances. Now, if you thrust the pin through this point and hold the pin horizontally, you will find that the card will stay in any position that you put it. It is said to be in equilibrium.

Five Simple Rules for Making Good Pictures

Anyone from a 12 year old schoolboy to an octogenarian can make good negatives, reports Hillary G. Bailey, F.R.P.S., in Popular Photography magazine. It is just a matter of following the rules laid down for developing procedure.

FIRST—Read the instructions which the manufacturer supplies with each package. These instructions describe proper manipulation for that particular type of film.

SECOND—Use reasonably fresh developer. Keep track of age and deterioration rate of your solutions. Stay on the conservative side in favor of freshness. Chemicals are cheaper than films.

THIRD—Be fussy about using a thermometer. All solutions should be kept as near as possible to a temperature of 65 degrees Fahrenheit.

FOURTH—Use a clock to time development. Too short development reduces contrast, and too long increases it.

FIFTH—Standardize on a method of agitation. The average worker does this in tray developing by keeping the solution moving with a non-directional rocking motion. But with tank develop, it is easy to shake or jiggle the tank three times during development on one occasion, and on the next, shake it six times. The result is that the contrast and density of the negative agitated six times is greater than the one agitated three times. If consistent results are expected, this factor absolutely must be standardized.

PASTURE GRASSES LIKE SOUP, DAIRY FEED EXPERT SAYS

Water Content So High That Even a Large Amount Goes But Short Way.

"Because pasture grasses contain so little solid matter and so much water, they are something like soup," says D. H. Van Pelt, dairy feeding expert with the Ralston Purina Company.

"When a cow eats 80 pounds of fresh grass, she actually consumes six gallons of water and approximately 11 1/2 pounds of digestible dry matter," he explains. Van Pelt uses 60 pounds of grass as his basis for figuring since this is the amount of grass the average cow gathers and digests on good pasture in 24 hours. "On scanty pasture," he asserts, "it is doubtful whether a cow would be able to graze half of that."

Pasture Alone Not Enough

Research shows that the average milking cow must obtain about 8 pounds of digestible dry matter from her ration daily to maintain her body weight. Obtaining 11 1/2 pounds of digestible dry matter from grass leaves her only 3 1/2 pounds of dry matter for the production of milk. This means that if she is to maintain her body, all she can make from this amount of dry matter is 12 pounds of milk daily—three quarts to a milking.

"So if a cow is producing 35 pounds of 4 percent milk daily, and she is getting grass alone, she must do either one of two things," according to Van Pelt. "If she's inclined to be beefy, she'll favor her body, and milk production will drop. If she's inclined to be a good milker, she'll neglect her body to keep the milk pail full. But no matter how 'willing' she may be, the milking cow can't go on filling the pail many weeks without pasture."

What to Feed With Pasture

Here's Van Pelt's solution. He says that at the Purina Experimental Farm, Gray Summit, Mo., they have developed for the grain raising dairy farmer, a special mixed grain ration formula to be fed to cows on pasture. It consists of 300 pounds of ground ear corn, 200 pounds coarsely ground oats, and 200 pounds of Purina 34% Cow Chow. He says that equally suitable rations for farmers who do not raise corn and oats have also been developed by this farm. To obtain these rations, Van Pelt recommends seeing the local Purina dealer.

"On lush pastures," Van Pelt explains, "these rations are fed at the rate of one pound for every six pounds of milk produced by Jerseys and Guernseys; for Holsteins and Ayrshires, one pound for every eight pounds of milk."

As the season advances and grass loses more and more of its stimulation, Van Pelt recommends that the amount of these rations for cows on pasture be increased just enough to maintain production.

"When pastures become burned and dried up," says Van Pelt, "something succulent must be fed along with these rations to hold up production. For this purpose he recommends the feeding of one gallon of Purina Sulky-Las, morning and evening. He Sulky-Las is very palatable, laxative, inexpensive to feed, and supplies many of the nutrients that dried up pastures lack."

WANTS HIS HORSE

The circus strong man rode out on horseback to challenge a farmer whose great strength had gained him a reputation. He entered the farmyard, tied up his horse, and approached the farmer.

"Hey," he said. "I've heard a lot about you, and have come a long way to see which is the better man."

Without answering, the farmer seized the intruder, hurled him bodily over the fence into the road and returned calmly to his work.

When the loser had recovered his breath the farmer growled, "Have you anything more to say to me?" "No," was the reply, "but perhaps you'll be good enough to throw me my horse."

WHERE TO START?

First Monk—You look worried.

What is the matter? Second Monk—Miss Hippo has asked me to kiss her and I don't know where to start.

Attractive Draperies Depend on Length, Width

Most important to success in making draperies is accuracy in measuring and cutting—care in placing the material—sufficient space in which to work. Extend the dining table to its full length, so that you will have length and width as well, on which to work.

Remember that skimpy draperies are about as bad as none at all. Be as careful with the material allowed in width as that measured for length. If curtains are to be hung under a cornice or valance, no heading is needed. Just allow an inch or two for hem. Otherwise the curtain may be finished with a heading of pleats, pinch or box pleats. Three inch headings are right for the average size window.

As to length, drapery may touch the floor or lie on it for a length of 6 to 12 inches, depending on the effect of luxury you want. Curtains, if not to reach the floor, should cover the window casing, so measure from the top of the window casing to the bottom of the apron below the sill for the finished length.

Unlined curtains there should be a narrow hem, about a quarter inch deep on the outside edges. A 2 1/2 inch hem at the bottom of drapery makes a satisfactory finish.

Many Husbands 'Spoiled' By Wife's Poor Cooking

A good many husbands are utterly spoiled by mismanagement in cooking, and so are not tender and good. Some women go about it as if their husbands were bladders and blow them up in hot water—and others let them freeze by their carelessness and indifference. Some keep them in a stew by irritating ways and words—others waste them. Some keep them in pickle all their lives.

It cannot be supposed that any husband will be tender and good if managed in this way, but they are really extremely delicious when properly managed.

See that the linen in which you wrap him is nicely washed and mended, and has the required number of buttons and strings neatly sewed on. Tie him into the kettle by a strong silken cord called comfort, as the one called duty is apt to be weak. They sometimes fly out of the kettle and so become burnt and crusty on the edges, since, like crabs and lobsters, you have to cook them while alive.

Make a clear, steady fire out of love, neatness and cheerfulness. Set him as near this as seems to agree with him; if he sputters do not be anxious; some husbands do this until they are quite done. Add a little sugar in the form of what confectioners call kisses, but no vinegar or pepper on any account. A little spice improves them.

Do not stick any sharp instrument into him to see if he is becoming tender. Stir him gently, lest he lie too flat and close to the kettle and so become useless. You cannot fail to know when he is done.

If thus heated you will find him very digestible, agreeing perfectly with you, and he will keep as long as you want, unless you become careless and set him in too cold a place.

Antiques of Copper, Brass

Just as pewter is popular in home furnishing, so are old copper and brass. The beautiful hand-polished pieces of copper and brass may occasionally be found in our shops and add a delightful note of color to a room. Copper and brass may be found in a great variety of articles, for their use, came into use early in our history.

In America we find large brass and copper kettles which were hammered out of sheet brass and copper brought here in the early days from Wales. In addition there are old brass candlesticks now hard to find, that is, genuinely old ones. Snuffers and trays may be found in both metals and warming pans which were in use for many, many years. Shovels, tongs and fenders, chafing dishes and ladles are rarities. Brass mortars are very much a collective item at the present time. It is to the Dutch we are indebted for the fine old milk cans, tea and coffee pots, skillets and also for the wash-bowls and pitchers now so much desired for the ranch.

Ambiguous

"Do Englishmen use American slang?"

"Some of them do. Why?"

"My daughter is being married in London, and the duke just cabled me to come across."

Why He Drinks

The crux of the whole liquor question is "Why do people drink?" A great deal of thought is being given to the various answers to this query at National W.C.T.U. headquarters, where the fight against alcohol has never slackened.

It is realized that a few persons drink because they think it is smart, because they do not wish to be conspicuous among drinking friends, or because they lack the strength of character to say "No." In other words social pressure makes up their minds for them.

But many drinkers look upon alcohol as a means of temporary escape from reality. They mistakenly think drinking makes them feel better, whereas it really only anesthetizes their mental perceptions and makes them less able to feel anything.

As Dr. A. C. Ivy of the Northwestern University Medical School has pointed out, "Alcohol gives temporary relief from worry; abolishes mental tension; relieves a feeling of inferiority; makes a weak person feel strong, an ignorant person feel smart, a poor person feel rich, an oppressed person feel free, a bad person feel good, and makes one imagine himself a good driver who may be potentially a motor car murderer."

All these sensations are directly traceable to the narcotic effect of alcohol, which deadens the power to feel pain or care or responsibility and deceives the drinker.

"Alcohol depresses the critical and most sensitive faculties of the brain," says Dr. Ivy. "Alcohol disturbs motor control. Alcohol affects memory and learning."

There would be much less drinking, scientists and psychiatrists believe, if drinkers in their sober moments would submit themselves to searching self-analysis as to the motives impelling them to turn to alcohol.

"Drowning sorrows in alcohol" is an old excuse for drinking, but no sorrows were ever permanently disposed of in a saloon. Back they come, usually in aggravated form, when sobriety returns, and often with a lot of new ones brought on by the "cure."

"It is very poor policy to play with fire or with firewater," says Dr. Ivy.

Deaf Persons Learn to Hear Through Toes, Teeth

Through your toes, your teeth, or even your funny bone, you can learn to hear.

And a score of men and women afflicted with deafness had proved it at the University of Southern California, where they were "guests" at the nation's first class in rehabilitation of the hard of hearing.

Under the direction of Dr. E. V. Morkovin, noted psychologist and scientist, they learned to use a scientific mechanism known as the Phipps unit, which transmits sounds on the principle of bone induction.

"Through development of the other senses we teach the various methods by which the deaf can adjust themselves to their condition and be compensated for their weak hearing," said Dr. Morkovin, inventor of the technique of using motion pictures to aid in teaching lip reading.

As an expert on hearing, the professor noted that 50 per cent of the soldier and civilian casualties in bomb-torn cities suffer either total or partial loss of hearing from the shattering concussion.

"That's why our work even has its national defense side," he explained. "Should a similar situation come to pass here, we would be able to alleviate suffering by teaching the war deaf literally to feel in their mouths what others say to them—even though they cannot hear."

VISIONS

By KARL GRAYSON
 (Associated Newspapers)
 WNU Service.

"THE mind," stated Ahmed Sala in his droning monotone, "is capable of all things. The stars proclaim our destiny."

David Carens, 15, not only believed that the turban-capped Ahmed possessed mystic powers, but he allowed himself to be inveigled into attending a course of special training, with no less a personage for his instructor than Mr. Sala himself. Unbeknownst to his family, David turned over each week his allowance of $3 while Ahmed Sala read the stars and proclaimed great things for the boy's future.

Within a month's time David was convinced that he himself possessed an unusual mind. He went into what he chose to call trances, on which occasions he saw visions which enabled him to predict happenings of the future. Unfortunately, one or two of his predictions turned into actualities, which fact strengthened the boy's belief in his own powers.

Later he began to spend a part of each evening studying the stars. With the aid of his mother's social calendar, he predicted that certain things would happen on certain days, and rather surprised and vaguely alarmed his parents when the things actually did take place.

Driven to it at last by his father's persistent questioning, David admitted that he was psychic.

The elder Carens acted as if a hot potato had suddenly become stuck in his throat, but he kept a straight face. Later he conferred with David's mother, which conference resulted in a unanimous agreement that the subject of discussion must be cured of his ailment.

Unbeknownst to his family, David turned over each week his allowance of $3.

It seemed, however, as if the Carens' resolution might have been made a shade too late. At least for a time they had cause for some vague alarm and not a little concern.

It was while Cousin Anita Banks was visiting at the Carens' home that David made his most astounding prediction. The boy came into the dining room one bright morning and found Cousin Anita holding a one-sided conversation with the canary in its cage. David, who had approached from the opposite side of the cage, suddenly rubbed his eyes, stared, clapped a hand to his head and seemed to swoon.

Some what alarmed, Cousin Anita summoned the elder Carenses. All three of them stood helplessly while David rocked back and forth on the balls of his feet, emitting low and plaintive moans.

Presently, aided by a not too gentle shake at the hands of Mr. Carens, David came out of his swoon and stared dazedly into the faces of his relatives. Abruptly he closed his eyes and put forth a hand.

"Oh, it's horrible! Horrible!" The Carenses looked at Cousin Anita and Cousin Anita looked at them.

"What's horrible?" Mrs. Carens asked anxiously. "Is it your stomach?"

"Horrible! Horrible!" David passed a hand before his eyes and then held the same hand extended before him for silence. "I see it again. A hole. A hole in Cousin Anita's forehead! It means—death!" David's voice trailed away in a gasping whisper.

Mrs. Carens uttered a little frightened scream, and almost collapsed. Mr. Carens swore. Cousin Anita clutched at a table for support. David, peeping through his spread fingers, interpreted correctly the expression on his father's face, and backed out of the room somewhat hurriedly.

That night shortly after supper the telephone rang and Mr. Carens answered it. After a perfunctory conversation he replaced the receiver and hurriedly climbed into his coat. His face, as he went out, was grave and full of concern. Moreover, David felt an odd sensation at the look his father cast in his direction before departing. A half hour later Mr. Carens returned. His face was even more grave, and now contained a look of horror. He came directly to the table where David was sitting, laboring over some homework.

"David, that telephone call was from the police. They have found Cousin Anita lying in a vacant field behind Peabody's barn." He paused and his eyes grew wide. "David, she's dead, and there's a hole in her forehead, exactly as you predicted!" "Dead?" David gulped, swallowed, felt his blood run cold. "Dead?" he whispered hoarsely. "And a hole in her forehead?" Mr. Carens nodded sadly. "I told the police about your prediction. Tomorrow you'll have to go down to headquarters and tell them what you know."

David leaped to his feet, eyes bulging. "But I don't know anything, Dad! I can't help them any! I—I—don't want the police to question me."

Mr. Carens shook his head. "You'll have to go all the same, David. Tell them about your vision. Who knows, you may have another!"

Perspiration began to appear on David's forehead. Cousin Anita dead! Good heavens, did the police think he had anything to do with it? Why in time did Dad have to say anything about his vision anyhow?

David closed up his books and started for his room. The situation demanded private concentration. Deep in thought David had almost gained the top landing at the head of the stairs before he saw the thing that awaited him there, standing directly in his path. She wore a long flowing gown of some gray material, and her whole being seemed to be enshrouded in a sort of mist.

David's heart seemed to stand still. He felt suddenly inert, paralyzed with fear. Vaguely the thought occurred to him that now he was actually seeing a vision that was a vision. For as he stood there the woman slowly raised an arm and pointed to a gaping hole in her forehead. She was, David saw, no one else than Cousin Anita!

David emitted one frightened bleat and toppled over backwards. His mother picked him up at the foot of the stairs and with her welcome assistance the youth managed to reach the sanctity of the lighted living room. The boy was too frightened to notice the suppressed mirth in his father's glance.

"See another vision, son?" David's teeth were chattering, but he managed to blurt out what he'd seen on the stair landing. Mr. Carens expressed polite surprise and went back to his reading, a fact which disturbed David considerably.

"But, Dad, it was real! It's up there now! Oughtn't you to see?"

"Me? Why, son, I must confess I've no such powers. No, I'm afraid visions aren't in my line."

David cast a look of desperation toward his mother. But his mother was en route to the kitchen. Some matter of imminent importance, it seemed, had called her there.

David sat down close to his father, a forlorn, a helpless figure. Twice he started to speak but thought better of it, remembering dimly that visions such as the one he had witnessed on the stairs were supposedly, as far as his folks were concerned, quite common to his superior intelligence.

Later that evening, after several hours during which David sat in fear-stricken silence, Mr. Carens and his son got together on a confidential deal. David agreed to discontinue entirely his activities as a spiritualist and to devote his entire time to homework and sane conduct. Mr. Carens relieved the youth's feelings by admitting the death of Cousin Anita was a put-up job, and supported his argument by summoning the lady herself, who appeared with a forehead free from holes.

And thereafter David Carens admitted only to himself, and then in rare and extremely imaginative moments, that he was at all psychic.

Malnutrition, Microbes Blamed for Mental Ills

Malnutrition and microbes were given the major blame for mental defectiveness in reports made at the second annual meeting of the American Association of Mental Deficiency, Pacific States section.

For a highlight, the good word was spoken that:

"There are ample reasons to believe that new cases of cretinism (a form of idiocy prevalent among children in certain localities) should be well on the road to eradication within the span of a generation or two."

In making that prediction, Dr. Emiliano O. Houda of Tacoma, Wash. (the state which has the highest per capita rate of goiter incidence in the United States) stated:

"That is, if the teachings which recognize the true causes are accepted."

These causes, according to the doctor, are "a long train of events which start in normal thyroid glands," with "goiters primary factors incriminated as the ultimate cause" of cretinic mental deficiency.

"The congenital form of cretinism is due, ultimately, to the specific activators of thyroid disease," the speaker stated.

Both, when acquired from the goitrous glands of expectant mothers or after birth, the factor of long neglected thyroid disease or of surgical removal of a grossly degenerated gland is present, he declared.

"The goiter is of microbic origin and, therefore, the primary factor of cretinism lies in the science of microbiology," he explained. Fortunately, he said, the prophylactic is universally applicable and is predicated on introducing thyroid products to supply a deficiency caused by impairment of the glandular functions. For dwarfism, pituitary extract is a specific, and, for simple goiter, immunizing injections are effective, he reported.

Fortunes Spent on Works Never to Be Produced

Hollywood is supposed to have spent $1,739,000 in 1939 for new stage hits and top novels, yet its greatest activity these days seems to be remakes.

Why does Hollywood spend such fortunes on new material, particularly when a good deal of it, for one reason or another, never reaches the screen?

A part explanation, Hollywood buys up literary works occasionally as a protection against plagiarism suits, or possible competing pictures.

Last season Cecil B. de Mille bought the stage play, "A Family Portrait." He then announced that the only reason he had acquired it was its similarity to a story of his own. He had bought "A Family Portrait" merely to shelve it, so that there would be no conflict.

And two other stories which will never reach the screen were bought for similar reasons. Walt Disney bought Felix Salten's "Bambi's Children," a sequel to "Bambi," because he feared that another producer might buy the sequel and make a film to conflict with Disney's almost completed "Bambi."

And Sam Goldwyn bought Martin Berkeley's unproduced play, "The Wall Between," because it was similar to his "City Without Men." Sam announced he would incorporate part of the purchased play in his own film.

BLUFF

Two trucks met on a country road just wide enough for one. Truck Driver No. 1, a scrawny frail little man, leaned out of his cab.

"Turn out, you," he shouted, "if ya don't, I'll do to you what I did to the last guy who wouldn't turn out for me."

Two hundred-pound muscular Driver No. 2, not caring to have trouble, pulled out. But as the other truck rumbled by, he yelled:

"What'd ya do to that other guy?"

"Turned out for him," said Truck Driver No. 1.

When Jefferson took over Benjamin Franklin's duties as U. S. minister to France, he was asked if he "replaced" Franklin. Replying with the above words, he showed clearly how highly he honored the brilliant diplomatic work of his colleague, Franklin.

BROADENING CHRISTIAN HORIZONS: PETER'S VISION

LESSON TEXT—Acts 11:5-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons.—Acts 10:34.

"The best argument for Christianity is a Christian" (Henry Drummond). Peter presented just such an argument when, early in the history of Christianity, there arose a difference of opinion regarding his ministry to a Gentile and his family. The stumbling stone of offense became a stepping stone to higher things, leading to the place of broader horizons. Peter, instead of appealing to his apostolic authority or asserting his position, simply related what God had done. He presented the best proof that God had actually been at work; namely, a redeemed soul.

We may learn from this lesson that the way to broadened horizons and greater usefulness for the church is by

I. A Vision of God's Plan (vv. 5-10).

All men are equally precious in God's sight. God taught Peter very effectively that, whether Gentile or Jew, the Lord is "not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance" (II Pet. 3:9).

When God speaks we do well to give heed to His message, even though it cuts across our ideas and prejudices, as it often does. It is not our plan that is important; it is God's plan and purpose. As we walk in that way we shall have

II. An Experience of God's Power (vv. 11-15).

The Holy Spirit had fallen on the Gentiles and they actually had been saved. Is it not singular that in the early church they could hardly believe that a Gentile could be saved? Now we are astonished if a Jew is saved! Why will we in our unbelief limit the Holy One of Israel?

The all-powerful gospel of the grace of God is still saving men and women, Jews and Gentiles, from their sins. Have you seen it happen? It is a great inspiration to faith and service. God is ready so to encourage us—He is the same today as He was when He sent Peter to Cornelius. Are we willing to run His errands, proclaim His message? To do so we need

III. An Appreciation of God's Word (v. 16).

The best way to learn the meaning of God's Word is to use it, live it, obey it. "If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God" (John 7:17). Peter had learned anew that God's Word meant just what it said. We who are God's servants should believe His Word and act on it in faith.

Observe that Cornelius had gathered a group in his household to hear the Word of God (Acts 10:27, 33). Could we not do the same? "Cannot each calculate with exactness some time and place where the gospel is to be preached, and is it not possible to bring thither one's relatives and friends? Secondly, when present in a place of worship, cannot each be prepared to say, 'We are all here present'—all, family and friends, mind as well as body; 'in the sight of God'—not to be seen by others, not conscious so much of others as of the presence of God; 'to hear all things'—not to be amused or to sleep; 'that have been commanded thee of the Lord'—not to listen to human conjecture or the exploiting of doubts, but to receive a positive message which is delivered in a reverent spirit and with the prophetic formula: 'Thus saith the Lord.' What would happen were all Christian churches filled with such audiences?" (Charles R. Erdman).

This brings us to what is most important of all in broadening our spiritual horizons.

IV. An Understanding of God's Love (vv. 17, 18).

God's love is for all people. Since He has not raised any barriers of race, creed, color, class, or social position, it is not for His followers, and assuredly not for His servants, to set up hindering restrictions which He does not countenance. If God intended to save Gentiles, Peter wanted to be an instrument in His hand, not a hindrance in His way. One of the needs of our day is that those doing God's work should not withstand Him and His love. He who is the same yesterday, today, and forever, is ready to work as powerfully today as He did in the days of Peter and Paul, or of Finney and Moody. Let us give Him liberty to work in and through us, not as we may wish, but as He desires. Who are we that we should withstand God?

Goal of Life

Oh, yet we trust that, somehow, Good will be the final goal of ill, That nothing walks with aimless feet,
That not one life shall be devoid,
Or cast as rubbish to the void,
When God has made the pile complete.—Tennyson.

SUPPLY & DEMAND

Many would-be economists of recent vintage would have us believe that basic economic theories found to be correct in light of history are no longer of any practical value. For example, if we are to believe some of the college boys, fresh from their books, the old theory of supply and demand is no longer effective and therefore should be scrapped. They accept the economic theory that supply should go on and, in fact, should be increased regardless of demand. They also believe that what cannot be absorbed by natural demand should be paid for by the government. Such ideas are labelled "progressive" or "modern." The very practical idea of interplay of supply and demand, as a phenomenon of progress, is called "conservative."

Most of us old-fashioned folks can remember when grandmother had to have a Skinner satin dress. Grandmother's demand built a great industry which flourished for many years. However, grandmother suddenly decided she was tired of Skinner satin and wanted something different. As a result of grandmother's decision, the great mills producing that brand of satin have stood idle as landmarks of a community no longer in demand.

This didn't mean, however, that grandmother ran around in her petticoat. It meant that she had chosen a new material for making her dresses. Silk, cotton, and other materials have taken the place of Skinner satin. New mills have flourished and new fortunes have been built. This new group quickly grasped the fact that grandmother's ideas about material had changed. They took advantage of this opportunity and prospered.

Mills that made Skinner satin became a thing of the past. In their place came great new mills, adding to the progress in dress materials. This sort of thing is going on in every industry and every walk of economic life.

For some reason the American farmer has been slow to realize that his position is the same as every business man who takes part in economic life; namely, they are both dependent upon supply and demand.

There is too much wheat, too much corn, and too much cotton for the market. Still, farmer after farmer continues raising one or more of these crops. The result is surplus and low prices. Every time the market hits a new low, there is a hue and a cry for more and bigger government benefit.

Today, the American Farmer is short 3,000,000,000 dollars of needed annual income. The government has been spending a billion each year in subsidy attempting to alleviate this shortage. The cause of this situation is the refusal of farmers to develop products of greater demand.

Business men in the city change their products so that the farmer is sold new things, year after year. The cool waters of the spring have given way to the electric refrigerator; bread comes in wax papers while the oven remains cold; glass jars gather dust while the family goes to town for tin cans containing fruits and vegetables. There is always something new and tantalizing that makes farm money go skipping to town.

It seems strange that having been sold many new things over the year, the American farmer doesn't awaken to the fact that new products must be constantly developed to sell to the folks in the city. This is the only sure method of insuring an adequate farm income over the years. Supply an item that is in great demand and the price is high, as will also be the resulting income from the sale. If one persists in creating surpluses of unwanted goods, then prices will continue to drop. The choice lies with every farmer.

Fitting Name

"Why don't you give your new bungalow a name? Something appropriate like 'Walk Inn,' 'Cozy Inn,' or 'Seldom Inn?'"

"That's an idea. As I've just finished paying for it, I'll name it 'All Inn.'"

Rain Is Better

Husband—Confound it! I've locked the keys inside the car.
Wife—Never mind, dear. It's such a nice night we might as well ride home in the rumble seat.

Still a Bargain

RESPONSIBLE PEOPLE

who value their good name; who realize the cultural and civic advancements made by their families should be preserved for the benefit of succeeding generations.

JOSEPH L. MATHIAS MEMORIALS

WESTMINSTER, MD.

PIKESVILLE, BALTIMORE, MD.

TANEYTOWN KIWANIS CLUB.

The Taneytown Kiwanis Club held its regular weekly meeting on Wednesday evening at six o'clock at Clear Ridge Inn, near Uniontown. There were present twenty-five members; four visitors, Dr. H. E. Cooper, President of Blue Ridge College, of the Westminster Club, L. Durst, of the Cumberland, Md., Club, A. M. Deatruck of the Westminster Club, and Mrs. Deatruck; and three guests, Dr. Walter Slifer, of the Bituminous Coal Commission of the Interior Department, Washington, D. C.; Mr. Lewis Crumpacker, and Dr. Carolyn Waite, Professor of American History at Blue Ridge College.

President Harry M. Mohney presided. Merwyn C. Fuss was in charge of the club singing period, with Mrs. Wallace Yingling at the piano. The program was in charge of the Citizenship Committee, Prof. Milton Terry, Chairman. The theme was "I Am an American". Prof. Terry introduced Dr. Waite as the speaker of the evening, who chose as his subject, "Exposition and Evaluation of Opinions Regarding the Foreign Policy of the American Nation."

Dr. Waite presented four principal points of view on our Foreign Policy as follows.

1. The View of the Isolationists. In support of this view, there are the arguments of

A. The geographical position of America, far from Asia and Europe, and in no danger from aggression or invasion by any foreign nation.

B. Self-interest at home. Why should America worry about what is going on in the rest of the world when we have so many interests at home to hold our attention. America must attend to her own business. This point of view has its origin in the position taken by frontiersmen who were cut off by distance and inaccessibility from the rest of the world and so developed an isolationist point of view.

C. The self-sufficiency of America. America can get along with the products of her own fields, forests, and mines, and has no need to enter into any contest for raw materials or manufactured goods, as must England or Germany.

Dr. Waite answered the arguments of the isolationists by pointing out the fact that on account of improved methods of communication and transportation, America is not isolated now. Holland, Norway, and Denmark also adopted the policy of strict neutrality and of minding their own business with disastrous results. Nor can America plead self-sufficiency in the face of its dependence upon foreign sources for manganese, tin, rubber, and many other articles needed in industry for either peace or war.

2. Strict Neutrality. This view proclaims that America takes no part in the quarrels of other nations, but will undertake to protect its citizens, no matter into what part of the world they choose to go.

The criticism of the view of strict neutrality is that in case of a struggle between nations covering a wide area, the inevitable result is that we must either give up the idea of protecting our citizens outside of our own boundaries or else fight to enforce such protection.

3. Collective Security, such as the recent example of the League of Nations, involving international police activity. If any nation or group of nations become aggressive against peace-loving peoples, let the others combine against such aggressiveness. Dr. Waite pointed out, however, that the League failed, and that other such experiments will probably fail because of national selfishness, the insistence of the doctrine of state sovereignty, the universal endeavor to preserve the "status quo", and the natural abhorrence of violence.

4. The Status of Modified Belligerency, the present position and policy of the present Administration. We believe as a nation that we have broken international law as a result of the violations by the aggressor nations, and that our best procedure is to give all the help possible to England if we can do so without actually entering the War. Dr. Waite expressed the opinion that the matter of America's entering the war depends upon points of contact between the aggressor nations and America. He mentioned as points of contact, Greenpand, Dakar, the Red Sea, or the sinking of American ships in the American neutrality zone.

The meeting next week will be in charge of the Inter-Club Committee and the Attendance Committee. It will be an Inter-Club meeting with the Westminster Club, and will mark the second anniversary of the granting of a charter to the local Kiwanis organization. It will also be ladies' night.

Announcement was made to the effect that the Club has recently provided rubber sport shoes to a number of under-privileged school children in the Club area. It was also announced that the meeting on the evening of June 11 will be held at the Hoffman Orphanage.

PORTRAIT OF A FLYER.

His eyes are brown and piercing
His nose well chiseled, firm,
His eyebrows well extended,
With ears that outward turn.
Upon his well kept tunic
Four buttons do appear,
While o'er his chest
Above his heart
The emblem does appear—
The emblem of an aeronaut
Swift eagle of the air,
What shall he do,
Where shall he go—
On battlefield appear;
With victory e'er be near.

W. J. H. 4-29-41.

Men will pass away—die, die politically and naturally; but the principle democracy will live, and live forever.—Abraham Lincoln.

Snobbery is the pride of those who are not sure of their position.—Berton Braley.

"Pa," asked little Jessica at a circus. "If one of those Arabs fell down and knocked all his teeth out, would he talk gum Arabic?"

Giant 'Human Eye' in Health Drive Museum

A "human eye" larger than a man and a working model of the heart play their part in public health instruction in Cleveland's Museum of Health and Hygiene, the only institution of its kind in America.

Dr. Bruno Gebhard, director of the museum, believes that as a person acquires greater familiarity with his own organic structure, his interest in maintaining health increases.

As a result, the museum's exhibits consist largely of ingenious mechanical reproductions of human organs from which the layman may gain a knowledge of how his body works.

In the new institution people will learn by seeing. The visitor will be able to walk inside a model of a human eye, press a button and see the interior of the museum as it appears to a near-sighted person. By pressing other buttons it will look as it would to one who is farsighted, color blind or aged.

The public may start or stop a model of a heart, see how it is built and nourished, watch food in the process of digestion, or minutely observe the movement of muscles.

The museum will maintain a workshop for the manufacture of models of organs, now available only from Germany and Japan.

Inventors Are the Pioneers

America's future lies in the hands of its inventors, Albert G. Burns of Chicago, president of the I.O.A., told inventors gathered for their annual convention in Los Angeles, recently.

"No matter how the war terminates, it is certain to be followed by a profound disturbance in this nation's economic structure," he said. "Latin America, if properly developed, will present something of a field for new enterprises, but mainly we must seek stabilization of our economic structure in further development of the greatest potential market in the world—our own internal United States."

"Inventors, creating new markets with their new wares, will be the pioneers of this development."

One of the oddities displayed was a child sized chair which by a few simple twists can be converted into a go-cart, a jumper, a walker or a high-chair.

Winter Driving Perils

Two precautionary measures to mitigate the driving hazards of snow, sleet and ice on many dangerous grades were recently advocated by the City of Cincinnati.

One suggestion was that suitable containers holding sand, ashes, or cinders, which could be spread by any citizen when an emergency arises, be placed near such grades. The other suggestion was that every motorist carry in the rear compartment of his car a small box, bag or other container filled with ashes, sand or cinders.

If cities accepted these suggestions, Cincinnati officials feel that it would not only be a means of preventing accidents, but the plans would give work to many unemployed men, who could make the containers and signs to place on them, informing the public of their purpose, and could fill and refill them.
